8 Celebrating Artist Development At Retail

The CMJ Retail department takes a closer look at Retail's role in developing new artists' careers, as well as how a store can manage to stay afloat during these trying times. Standing out as a shining example is Virgin Megastores, which recently celebrated its 10th anniversary. Its breakthrough programs, such as the Virgin Recommends compilations, not only help artists, but also help the stores advertise the great music it offers consumers every day. CMJ talks with Virgin Entertainment Group's North American CEO Glen Ward to get the full scoop.

RIAA WINS COURT CASE, LOSES ROSEN

Continuing its quest to rid the world of online piracy, the Recording Industry Association of America (RIAA) won another victory as U.S. District Court Judge John Bates ruled that Internet service provider Verizon must surrender the name of a subscriber who is accused of sharing over 600 songs online through a peer-to-peer service to the trade organization. The decision is considered a landmark interpretation of 1998's Digital Millennium

Copyright Act, which requires the removal of copyrighted material once notice is received that the use is not authorized. "We appreciate the court's decision, which validates our interpretation of the law," stated RIAA President Cary Sherman. "Now that the court has ordered Verizon to live up to its obligation under the law, we look forward to contacting the account holder whose identity we were seeking so we can let them know that what they are doing is illegal." • In other RIAA happenings, Hilary Rosen has announced she will step down from her position as Chairman/CEO of the RIAA at the end of 2003, after 17 years with the music business organization. "I have young children and I want to devote more of my time to them," she said in a statement. "This has been an extremely difficult decision, but I know it is the right one for my family." Rosen has acted as the music industry's biggest activist and spokesperson, leading the trade group to victorious copyright infringement lawsuits over file-sharing services such as Napster and Aimster, establishing a legitimate marketplace for digital music and cracking down on the sale of pirated music. She is also a founding member of Rock The Vote and a board member of the Musicians Assistance Program. "During my tenure here, the recording industry has undergone dramatic challenges and it is well positioned for future success," she said. "I have been extremely proud to be a part of this industry transition." RIAA President Cary Sherman will remain in his current position and will assist the Board of Directors on a search committee for Rosen's replacement.

MICROSOFT OFFERS FILE PROTECTION

In response to the music industry and movie studios' push to curb online piracy, Microsoft Corp. announced at the Midem music conference that it had developed a technology that can limit unauthorized copying and sharing of compact discs and movies. The new software is designed to be used with other companies' software that prevents songs from being copied onto a PC, but allows them to be played in conventional stereos. The new software allows record labels to add another set of songs and digital files to CDs that PC users will be allowed to download. These files, called "second session" songs, can be programmed so users can store and play the files on their PCs, but are prevented from recording the files onto a blank CD or sharing MP3s on file-swapping services. The service also allows users to E-mail songs, but only with degraded sound quality or expiration dates that make the songs unplayable after a certain date. Both Vivendi Universal and EMI are currently experimenting with the new technology for possible use on their CDs.

LISTENERS WANT DJs TO BACKSELL MUSIC

Results from a study by Paragon Media Strategies conclude that on-air talent is not back-selling music as often as listeners would like. Most radio listeners (55 percent) want to hear artist and title I.D.s after music is played, preferably from the DJ. Additionally, 82 percent of radio listeners think artist and song title information is important.

INDUSTRY SHUFFLE

There were lots of changes in the CMJ office this week, as David Ross exits his VP Music Sales position, former Editor-In-Chief Mike Boyle takes on the new roles of Vice President and General Manager, and Kevin Boyce leaves his Managing Editor position to become the new Editor-In-Chief. Brad Maybe also joins our ranks as a new Associate Editor from industry trade magazine FMQB. Congratulations to all!

THE WEEK IN MUSIC NEWS

Compiled and written by Doug Levy • dougl@cmj.com

After 10 years of making music, the Dismemberment Plan is calling it quits. Of course, anyone who took the band's name literally would say they've been scheming to do this since the day they formed, thereby just making this one of those, "I love it when a plan comes together" (or falls apart) moments. But for less literal-minded fans, it came as a surprise when the band's bassist, Eric Axelson, broke the news on its official Web site, www.dismembermentplan.com. Along with the bombshell, he also revealed that frontman Travis Morrison will be working on a solo album, that the group will honor its remaining touring in the throes of a pretty sizeable depression — even by my high standards," Schwarzenbach wrote on the official Jets site, www.jetstobrazilonline.com. "I'd like to apologize to the friends and fans of the band for the media blackout and cancelled tour in October/November. I've been healing up in Canada for the past six weeks, enjoying the slightly saner perspective of the CBC, the comfort of family and the restorative air of well-preserved forest." He goes on to announce Daly's reportedly amicable resignation, adding, "This untimely departure leaves the Jets with a pretty sizeable hull breach. In short, we need a drummer!" Opting for a general call, Schwarzenbach says he

the group's official Web site, www.alkalinetrio.com. "We are very sorry for any inconvenience and disappointment this may cause." On the bright side, it notes that the album looks set for a May release, with a rescheduled tour to support it. Meanwhile, Jayhawks singer Gary Louris was frighteningly diagnosed with a heart infection called pericarditis, causing his group to drop its upcoming live performances. "While pericarditis is life-threatening, Louris is expected to make a full recovery and may be able to return home within a week," read a statement from the band's label, Lost Highway. "Doctors have advised him that under no circumstances can he travel or work for at least three weeks." The Jayhawks's new album, Rainy Day Music, is due for an April 1 release. • Fans of the Flaming Lips know that the best thing to expect when it comes to everyone's favorite unpredictable band is, of course, the unexpected. However, during their recent U.K. tour, the Lips decided to offer the surprises in the form of musical special guests, as opposed to (or in addition to) the usual people running around in animal costumes, confetti cannons, smoke machine chaos and gratuitous fake blood. Each of the shows was preceded by a brief unannounced performance from one of the Lips' many musical friends, beginning with a three-song set from Badly Drawn Boy in his hometown of Manchester. Next up was Super Furry Animals frontman Gruff Rhys, who turned up at the band's Bristol gig and took the stage dressed as a red Power Ranger to play a trio of songs, followed by Ash frontman Tim Wheeler at the Lips' first of two nights in London. The final surprise came on the last night of the tour, when Beth Orton opened the proceedings by playing two songs of her own, before being joined by the Lips for a variation on their infamous live cover of Kylie Minogue's "Can't Get You Out Of My Head."

Jets To Brazil

commitments (possibly adding more dates before winding things down for good this summer) and that its promised remix album is still on the way. As for the reason behind the split, Axelson wrote, "The best answer we can come up with is that we felt like we'd accomplished all we could as a songwriting and record-making unit, and that we wanted — as individuals — to try things that can be precluded by living the lifestyle of the touring musician." There is also mention of the possibility of the occasional show after the breakup, for which the band will presumably rename itself the Retirement Plan. • Jets To Brazil leader Blake Schwarzenbach has finally broken the silence surrounding the band's cancellation of its entire tour last fall in an online post that blamed it on a poor mental state, as well as revealing that drummer Chris Daly has left the group. "I spent the Fall hopes to find a good candidate in the NYC area. "I would hope that you are a fan of the band first and a good drummer second, but a good drummer nonetheless," he says. "I guess what I'm asking for is a liberated artisan type." Interested parties can reach the band at distantwizard@hotmail.com. • The early 2003 tour circuit is seeing a little less action than planned, with both Alkaline Trio and the Jayhawks calling off scheduled January/February outings. For the Trio, the cancellation is the result of singer Matt Skiba suffering strained vocal chords during the December recording of the band's new album, Good Mourning. "Even with the downtime around the holidays, the band thought it was best to concentrate on finishing the album and not putting Matt in a position to cause permanent damage by pushing himself," reads a posting on

MASSIVE ATTACK

Blue Lines (Virgin)

In the early-1990s, Bristol, England's music scene was just as vital (if not more forward-thinking) than Seattle's. The leader in that innovation was Massive Attack, the group that grew out of the Wild Bunch DJ crew, mixing up Hip-Hop, reggae, punk and more at local hot spot the Dug Out club. That same stylistic blend found its way onto Massive Attack's debut, Blue Lines, which saw founding members 3-D, Daddy G and Mushroom collaborating with pals Tricky and Neneh Cherry, singer Shara Nelson and reggae vocalist Horace Andy to create mesmerizing "trip-hop" before anyone knew what to call it. The influence of this album became so wide-reaching that today, from DJ Shadow to Portishead, from Thievery Corporation to Björk, you can trace a blue line through it all. — Steve Ciabattoni

MASSIVE ATTACK

100th Window (Virgin)

Massive Attack is down to just one of its core members on its fourth album, 100th Window, but Robert "3-D" Del Naja was hardly alone in creating this dense suite of beats and moods. Past collaborators, including producer Neil Davidge and reggae legend

Horace Andy, enable 3-D to craft exceedingly haunting tracks laden with decidedly Eastern-influenced strings and, in contrast, beats that seem to come from another world altogether. For most of the tracks, it's the pulse of the bass that carries the beat more than anything else; rhythmic samples skitter and echo across the album's lush landscape. The resulting sound is as much metaphysical dub as it is the trip-hop that the Bristol group birthed years ago. Sinéad O'Connor's appearance on three songs only deepens the profound nature of the work. On the vulnerable and moving "What Your Soul Sings" and the defiant and powerful "A Prayer For England," she sings as if the world were at stake — wonder what gave her that idea?

DATSUNS

The Datsuns (V2)

With the staggering success of the garage rock revival around the globe, ears have been turned in just about every direction that a new sound could possibly come from; down in Oceania, the Datsuns became the first New Zealanders to stir up a racket loud enough to cross the continental divides. Already having rocketed to fame in Europe last year, the Kiwi rockers (who, as Rock 101 dictates, all took the last name "Datsun" when forming their band — with lead singer Dolf going so far as to appropriate "De Datsun" for himself) sent folks into a frenzy, winning over legions of riff-starved fans with this, their self-titled debut album. Finally ready to explode in the States, The Datsuns mixes a classic no-frills rock approach with just enough late '80s guitar excess to keep things sufficiently over-the-top. Balancing guitar solo-riddled scream-fests like "MF From Hell" with retro-groovers like "Harmonic Generator" and "In Love," the Datsuns, joined by their also-on-the-verge compatriots in the D4, are looking likely indeed to slay the U.S. market with their lethal rock injections. — Doug Levy

KINGS OF LEON

Holy Roller Novocaine EP (RCA)

The history of families in music is a long and distinguished one; from the Carter Family and the Louvin Brothers to the Allman Brothers and the Jackson 5, the country and rock realms have long been filled with families that make music together. Kings Of Leon, comprised of three brothers and a cousin, are the latest band to follow in the tradition. A potent mix of rock and country that proves that music that sounds good in roughneck bars and music that's good are not mutually exclusive, the Kings' debut EP is both twangy enough to put a tear in your beer and rocking enough to make you pull on your vintage AC/DC shirt. Considering that the boys grew up on the road between Memphis and Oklahoma City with their United Pentecostal evangelist father, it's little wonder that both schools of music would have equal influence on the boys' sonic psyche.

What it means is that the country blues bluster of the title track and "Wasted Time" will definitely cheer up anyone who misses the Black Crowes.

THE SUN

Love And Death EP (Warner Bros.)

An audible letter penned by frontman Chris Burney, The Sun's debut disc is an entanglement of raw garage rock, nimble acoustic folk and sleek electronic grooves. Love And Death also marks the culmination of years of dedication; Burney began his love affair with music as a teen, playing in St. Louis band Ashtray before supporting Tim Easton on stand-up bass and accompanying Mark Olson, Victoria Williams and Lou Reed on tour. The birth of The Sun, however, can be traced to Burney's collaboration with Jay Bennett (formerly of Wilco) on Easton's The Truth About Us. Fond of his songwriting, Bennett fostered the recording of Burney's work and it wasn't long before the Flotation Walls' Brad Forsblom (bass) and Bryan Arendt (guitar) and Sam Brown of Gaunt and the New Bomb Turks (drums) were snatched up to fill out the band. Notable tracks include the Vines-meet-the-Beatles opener "Fell So Hard" and the Jack White-esque "Back In The Summer Of '72." No one, of course, can stop The Sun from rising.

LOU REED

The Raven (Sire/Reprise)
From fronting the legendary Velvet Underground to the success of his sometimes-glammy, always-uncompromising solo career, Lou Reed has always remained a challenging, vital artist. His latest endeavor is one of his most ambitious works to date; based on the writings of Edgar Allen Poe, The Raven began as a theatrical collaboration between Reed and Robert Wilson called POetry, which saw well-received runs in Hamburg, Amsterdam, Paris and Brooklyn. Following the success of the stage production, Reed decided to rework the production as an album. With help from performers as diverse as David Bowie, Ornette Coleman, Steve Buscemi and Laurie Anderson, Poe's infamously macabre work is passionately reinterpreted through a combination of readings and songs, including a few re-recordings of Reed favorites. Willem Dafoe's spoken-word take on "The Raven" alone will send chills down your spine, but the remake of Reed's "Perfect Day," with vocals by young singer Antony, is haunting enough to play on Halloween to creep out trick-or-treaters. This is a meeting of rock and literature in a very dark place.

GO-BETWEENS

Bright Yellow, Bright Orange (Jetset)

What's yellow, orange and bright all over? The flag of the Buddhist Himalayan country of Bhutan may come to mind, but Australia's Go-Betweens are flying their own banner a bit higher with their new Bright Yellow, Bright Orange album, which sees band mainstays Robert Forster and Grant McLennan following up their 2000 comeback disc, Friends Of Rachel Worth, with 10 new euphonious tracks. The duo's talent for crafting catchy pop remains enviable, especially considering they completely bypassed the '90s as a group. Plus, there's nothing lacking in the way of diversity here: "In Her Diary" softly soothes with cello and violin, while "Unfinished Business" plunks happily along, courtesy of piano and upright bass, while genre-jumper "Too Much Of One Thing" slaps out with a country/bluegrass twang. The overall finished product is fine-tuned with a subtle backing chorus — just one more touch that guarantees that once you give this disc a few spins, it won't be long before you're flying the Bright Yellow, Bright Orange flag yourself. — Greg Winter

JOAN OF ARC

So Much Staying Alive And Lovelessness (Jade Tree)

This is not the Joan Of Arc record you were expecting. Gone are the digitized beat-loops, post-breakup meditations and jarring, avant-garde electronicart that distinguished previous albums. Instead, So Much Staying Alive And Lovelessness finds frontman Tim Kinsella delivering a much warmer and more intimate collection of acoustic guitar twangs and slurred poetics recorded with complete analog tenderness. You won't find many big hooks or anthems here; this album's beauty lies in its ambient textures and innovative approach to songwriting. Warbled vocals sleepwalk their way through waves of soft instrumentation on tracks like the arpeggio-heavy "Olivia Lost," which delicately teeters between guitar spasms and piano pounding while Kinsella keenly observes how "everyone looks funny half-asleep." Meanwhile, "Hello Goodnight Good Morning Goodbye" is a vindictive stab of dark 'n' jangled rифery and floor toms that bleeds with vengeance and spite. Now that Joan Of Arc has stepped out from behind the wall of Pro-Tools and blip-beats, the band's inner beauty is finally allowed to shine.

ANTIPOP CONSORTIUM

Antipop Vs. Matthew Shipp (Thirsty Ear)

The spontaneity and art-mean-derings of free-jazz? The static beats and rhymes of Hip-Hop? Somewhere, Wynton Marsalis is having a coronary over this shit. The final album by angular, stream-of-consciousness avant-rhymers Antipop Consortium is a P.B.-meets-chocolate collab with angular, stream-of-consciousness avant-jazzer Matthew Shipp and is very much the delicious sum of its perplexing parts. The oblique rhyming of the lower-Manhattan trio ("Door-to-door conspired Avon calamity cosmetic [unintelligible], get the sibilance imported from Soft Skull/ The empty birdcage with the thorn in its side/ Lovely scapegoats seduced by the promise of roasting[?] tongues") is always chased by an equally oblique piano solo. On "Staph," the inventive ride-cymbal work of drummer Guillermo E. Brown blurs the lines between where his spastic jazz-electro fusion begins and APC's syncopated glitch ends. "A Knot In Your Bop" romps like Vince Guaraldi's Charlie Brown matching wits with the Leaders Of The New School's Charlie Brown. Add some glitch-blip, austere ivory blasts and coffee-house shards and you've got Antipop pirates plundering one snaky, weaving Shipp. — Christopher R. Weingarten

CELEBRATING ARTIST DEVELOPMENT AT RETAIL

Virgin Megastore's recent celebration of its 10 year anniversary stands as a testament to the strength of retailers who have made artist development their cause.

Story and interview by Gerry Hart

This Cover Story is the first in a series of several to come in 2003 where CMJ puts the industry under the microscope and takes a hard look at how Retail fits into the overall challenges confronting the music business today.

Faced with an increasing surge in illegal downloading and CD burning, record labels at large must deal with the hard reality that nearly 100 million fewer albums were sold in 2002 than in the previous year. Regrettably, when prompted to step up and offer a solution to combat the significant changes in consumer buying habits, the same record labels have been able to offer little more than a geriatric shrug.

What to do? As a result of decreased sales, many large record companies and Retail chains are abandoning the field, slashing staffs and cutting losses (for example, Wherehouse Music recently filed for Chapter 11 and there have been extensive layoffs and budget cuts at Virgin, RCA, Interscope, Atlantic, MCA and more). With uncertainty looming, large companies tend to become more conservative and "stick with what they know." But, so far, what these companies know is turning out to be very little.

There are, however, innovators within the industry that aren't relying on old formulas to secure future success. Coalitions like the Music Monitor Network, CIMS, LINCS, AIMS and DMRC are actually growing. College Radio, independent labels, distributors and retailers are all finding ways to work together outside of Clear Channel's reach and find not just hope or survival, but also success. The spirit of independence that these companies share is carrying them through hard times. That same spirit is an inseparable ingredient to successful artist development.

Virgin Megastores, one of the industry's shining examples of how a retailer can be an instrumental part of artist development, recently celebrated its 10th anniversary. It's a milestone for the company, a landmark in this day and age, that's a symbol of the torch carried by so many independently minded stores who remain committed to breaking new artists.

"We're very proud of the fact that, over the years, Virgin has developed a reputation for launching new bands and supporting up-and-coming artists," Virgin Entertainment Group Founder/CEO Richard Branson tells CMJ. "We support emerging artists in several ways — from inviting them into our Megastores to do live performanc-Virgin Entertainment Group Founder/CEO Richard Branson with CEO/North America Glen Ward for our customers, to selecting them to be a part of our Virgin Recommends compilation CD. As a retailer and a music aficionado, I love the fact that when I hear a new great sound, or a new singer, I have the opportunity to introduce the artist to music lovers. That's one of the best parts of my job."

Recently, CMJ sat down with Virgin Entertainment Group's CEO/North America, Glen Ward, to talk about the chain's recent 10th anniversary and the mark Virgin Megastores have made — and still hope to make — on new artist development in the United States. At 10-years-old, Virgin is still one of the youngest kids on the music chain block, but at a time when record sales are at record lows, "Double-digit growth in this business," as Ward points out, "is miraculous."

Double-digit growth is not the only thing that is miraculous; Virgin out-performed the market in 2002 and, as most industry-related businesses are shrinking, is continuing to expand in 2003.

When it comes to helping develop new artists, how do Virgin Megastores differ from other chains? Do you operate more like a major, or do you feel more akin to independent Retail?

Despite the fact that we're seen as a big store, we're definitely of the mindset that we're simply a big independent. Helping develop and launch new artists is really what we're all about. I think most people in the industry pay lip service to this, but for Virgin it's our lifeblood. Moby, Dido and Sigur Rós are classic examples of artists we believed in and championed first — before it was popular to do so. In the case of Sigur Rós, we held nearly 99 percent of the market for some time. We try to put our money where our ears are. We believe in the significance of new talent, and I'd like to think — and this is me getting on my soap box — that the industry needs to have that sort of faith as well. Programs like our Virgin Recommends disc that labels can't pay money to get on or influence [see CMJ NMR, Issue 760], or our new kiosks, which hold 250,000 titles — can you believe it, customers want to listen before they buy. Who'd have thought? — are a few good examples of how we expose new artists we believe in.

From your perspective as a retailer, what trends within the music industry are stunting the growth of new artists today?

There's a formula that I think is dangerous. What happened to good, old-fashioned gut feeling? The formulaic approach that goes on now does not work. It's often quoted to me that the major record companies will have one act in 10 that makes the grade, "therefore, it's a tough business to be in." If I open one successful store in 10, I'd be out of business! Sure, we all have to be mindful of the market and consumers. We have to listen to them, because if we ignore them, it's at our peril. They've been telling us things, not just about pricing, but about the quality of what's being released. We can't keep fooling them by putting just one or two good tracks on a whole album. Yes, there's an issue around CD burning, but it's only one of many issues. There are a lot of efficiencies being built into formulas by men in pinstripe suits that the industry has been relying on for far too long. We have to start being creative and show some spirit and do what we should be doing as an industry — it's what we all got into this business in the first place to do.

With labels spending extraordinary amounts of money on promotion and marketing, how can retailers make a difference?

It's the notion that you have to allow music fans to be inspired. For us the word is "experience," and the task is to convey our experience with what we recommend to them in our stores. We've taken a lot of care in how our stores appear — and really it's because we respect our customers and their experience. Many of us go into record stores and don't know what we want to buy. In fact, we believe the majority of people going into music stores go in not knowing what to buy. It's our job, as good retailers, to put good temptation in their way. I still get inspired when I go into some of our independent Retail competitors' stores — like Hear Music, Waterloo or Amoeba — they're just fantastic. I come alive. I think, "I've just come into the competition and I'm spending money here... but I can't help it!" For me, that's what Retail is all about. I think record companies should be thinking the same way. It can't just be: "do we have the video on MTV or have we got radio covered on this one?" They need to go back to retailers and say, "Here's a great venue." With Virgin, we've got 30 million people a year going through our stores, and if we can put temptation in their way, then it's as good as having a hit on a strong local radio station.

Now that Virgin Megastores have turned 10, what do you see for the future?

Obviously, the prognosis for this is year is that it's going to be tough, but we're still bullish and have plans to expand. We're never complacent. The size of our operation has given us the opportunity to adapt quickly. We've done very well, for example, with DVD sales this year. Luckily they're not cannibalizing CD sales, since that's our core business. But it's been great in helping subsidize the declining music sales everyone's been experiencing the last couple years. In the end, though, we want to stay true to our brand, have fun, be irreverent and challenge the status quo. To some extent, because of our manageable size, we're able to try and fail, but we're always willing to have a go! That's the spirit that keeps us going. I hope the industry starts being moved by that same spirit as well.

There are many labels, independent and major, that have come to depend on that spirit rather than just looking to budgets, books and buy-ins for developing their new artists.

"For us, Virgin is a shining star, an advocate for Indie labels that's helped us so much with artists like Super Furry Animals and Cornershop," observes Lesley Bleakley, CEO/Beggars Group and Matador Records. "Programs like Virgin Recommends is a perfect example of how innovative they really are and how they try to support and develop Indies and their artists."

For larger companies like BMG, Virgin still stands out in a significant way. "While a lot of chains in this business first look at the economics of a record, Virgin looks at the artistic merits of a record which has led them to be ahead of the curve on many developing artist stories for BMG," says Patrick Jordan, Assistant Director of Marketing/BMG.

For labels like V2, Virgin plays a key role in every one of its releases. "Virgin has been an incredibly important partner with us on all our releases," notes V2's Vice President of Sales, Jim Kelly. "We particularly love that they are a very music intensive company. These people really know and love music. You can see this in their breakthrough program, Virgin Recommends, which doesn't cost us a dime and can't be influenced by labels or distributors in the selection process. They are all extremely cooperative people who try to make it easy to do business, while at the same time running the most successful and exciting music stores on the planet. The artist that comes to mind from us is Moby. They were with V2 at the very start, before any real major momentum had begun, and helped us continually along the way. As a consequence, Virgin has sold more Moby CDs on a per-store basis than any other chain in the country."

The spirit of independence and artist development that Virgin's 10th Anniversary represents can and should transcend Retail's realm. Whether you're on-the-air programming, or on-the-ground retailing, tour managing, or label VP-ing, the key is to create experiences for your target audience that will inspire them to see what you see in the music you champion. NMR

Chart information is based on combined airplay reports from CMJ's panel of college, commercial and non-commercial radio stations. Statistics are compiled from point totals tabulated from positions (1-30) of artists on airplay reports, then multiplied by station code factor (based upon market size, market impact and market reach). 200 Moves

Last week, we sensed a serious dogfight was going to erupt for the top slot on CMJ's Radio 200 chart, and as sure as bombs will be dropping on Baghdad by the end of February, the brawl for No. 1 has officially begun. Just one week after seizing the crown, Joseph Arthur slips from 1-2, clearing the path for Primal Scream's Evil Heat to hop into the driver's seat. The Scottish troop shouldn't get too comfy at the peak of the chart, however, as there are some major contenders traveling up the chart; (International) Noise Conspiracy rocketed from 10-5*, the Delgados soared from 46-6*, Crooked Fingers stepped 13-7* and Nick Cave And The Bad Seeds charged from 150-9*. Also, keep a watchful eye on Calla, as it stealthily moved from 15-4-3* over the past three weeks. Other noteworthy chart action this week includes: Sea And Cake (75-12*), Ted Leo And The Pharmacists (111-16*), Datsuns (33-24*), Bonnie Prince Billy (96-25*), The Clean (38-26*), Brand New (48-31*), Music (126-33*), Open Hand (60-38*), Jeff Hanson (45-39*) and D4 (143-42*). There were also a lot of impressive Radio 200 debuts, including: Unwritten Law (D-37*), Fischerspooner (D-41*), Mean Red Spiders (D-66*), Common (D-67*) and this week's No. 1 Most Added, Rainer Maria (D-70*).

THE WXVU EXECUTIVE BOARD

Station philosophy/

Audience perception:

Free-form, in that most of the artists we play are not well known. Our audience knows what we play and they listen for the variety that they can't get on the Philadelphia stations.

Slogans or position statements:

Our most recent slogan comes to us from Mike of the Ataris: "Radio that doesn't suck!"

How the station is promoted:

Flyers, magnets and stickers supporting the station are all over our campus. We also began hosting concerts last year and are continuing that tradition to help bring great acts and get our name out there.

Image the station projects on the air:

We try to be as professional as possible on the air because many of the students are interested in possible careers in the field. At the same time, however, we always have a great time and enjoy ourselves while we work.

News/Sports programming:

We have a public affairs program where we interview members of the Villanova faculty. We also have a great sports director who broadcasts all the home basketball and football games.

Station marketing/Fund raising:

Selling advertising to local businesses is our primary source of "income." We are still a growing station and hopefully soon we will have a large enough interest to hold a successful fund-raiser. One of our DJs is planning to do a 24-hour broadcast as a fund-raiser in the spring.

Recent remote broadcasts:

In April of 2002 we broadcasted from the Rock and Roll Hall of Fame in Cleveland, Ohio, which was an amazing experience. Our most recent remote was at the campus student center in December.

Music or audience research:

We do some student research within various communication courses on campus.

Current/Recent promotions:

We recently had a promotion with Nokia where we gave away a free trip for two to the Sugar Bowl in New Orleans.

Ties to local music scene:

We hold concerts featuring local artists in order to provide them with exposure to the community and to the university. Some of our DJs also interview local bands and get them played over the air.

Station benchmarks:

We are a rapidly growing station. In the last five years we have moved from a messy, unorganized group to the organized student-broadcasting medium that we are today. We don't have long-time personalities, as we would rather give highly motivated students a chance, rather than have long-running graduates or locals broadcasting.

ARTIST SPOTLIGHT

GO-BETWEENS

The Go-Betweens are a rare example of a band that attained notoriety for delivering top-quality punk-tinged pop songs, took an elongated break, then came back and resumed putting out records as if they had never left the game. Co-frontmen Robert Forster and Grant McLennan released a slew of albums throughout the 1980s, walking the fine pop-line between punk and folk and garnering the support of a fervent fan-base, before they decided to take a hiatus following 1988's 16 Lovers Lane to delve into solo recordings and other creative projects. Twelve years later, Forster and McLennan joined forces once again for a triumphant return-to-form with The Friends Of Rachel Worth, featuring a backing band that included Elliot Smith, Sleater-Kinney and Quasi. Bright Yellow, Bright Orange marks the Go-Betweens's second album since the break, built around what McLennan aptly described as "big, bright noise," while speaking with CMJ about being back, boring American '80s music and putting sticks in the spokes of the music business.

This is your second album since the break. Does this mean you're here to stay?

Well, I don't think we've worn out our welcome yet. Also, it's an obvious thing to say, but I think we've got lots of work to do and, in a way, this is like the difficult second album, but we pulled it off. We all knew that we had to take a few more risks on this record. It's just a great fucking record. We're looking forward to touring, but also going back in and doing another one. It feels really good.

The album art on this record is terrific — it's like a children's book.

Oh, fantastic! In a way, I think we wanted to go against the retro-futurism of a lot of design now, which is clean typeface and enigmatic, abstract photos. But we were also looking at a lot of European art books for children from the end of the 1960s and they all have bright colors and flat surfaces and stuff. And a lot of it is due, of course, to Cameron Bird, the designer. We also knew we didn't want bright yellow and bright orange everywhere. This is also the first Go-Betweens record where we haven't appeared on the cover. And a lot of the record labels were like "Oh, you've got to be on the cover," but we just said, "No, not this one."

After the initial split of the band, both you and Robert enjoyed solo success. What made you come back together to record again?

I think it was really just a set of circumstances. Back in 1999, Beggars Banquet put out a record called Bellavista Terrace: Best Of The Go-Betweens. Robert and I selected the songs and we were doing some acoustic shows to promote it. Very early on in that tour, some new songs that Robert had and I had, we started doing them and we kind of cannibalized them and turned them into Go-Betweens songs. They just seemed to fit into what we were doing. Also, I think we'd had enough time apart and done enough different things, so it just felt right again. It wasn't as though Robert and I hadn't kept in touch and it wasn't as though we hadn't talked about other kinds of creative things. The time seemed right. The 21st century was approaching and the Go-Betweens belong in the 21st century.

The band enjoyed a lot of critical praise in the 1980s. How is the whole process of supporting a record now different than it was back then?

Well, I still think we're doing music that causes people to wrinkle their brow at something. I really don't understand what it is, maybe it's the fact that we've got two singers and the band has always been split-genders. Maybe it's what we sing about. It still surprises me that people think that we're outlaws or hillbillies, which I think is cool. I don't have any problems with that. I think, obviously, on a commercial level it would have been better if we had enjoyed more financial success, but at the same time, that's allowed us some freedom to be able to pursue things that we want to, without having to worry about a market. In the long run, that served us well. The thing I noticed is that, in the '80s, a lot of the music coming from America was pretty fuckin' boring on a musical level, except for some obvious bands. But the rise of Nirvana and that Seattle thing seemed to wake a lot of Americans up, which is a good thing. There are a lot of bands now, at the moment, that I had a lot more in common with when we were playing in the early '70s and '80s. Shit, we've been around four decades. We're amazing and we're still young! All these new bands, the Strokes and the Yeah Yeah Yeahs, I have a lot more common with. It's really good at the moment. People are in love with songs and they want to see a band that can play and be exciting. I think that's great.

"Shit, we've been around four decades. We're amazing and we're still young!"

With The Friends Of Rachel Worth, you became one of the few bands to have a successful comeback record. Do you feel as if you're still running an uphill battle?

It doesn't matter at what level you are in the music business — it's still a business. If you're signed to a major label, it doesn't matter if you're Pavement or Madonna. There's an expectation to sell a certain amount of records and be at a certain level. Once again, I don't think people expect that of us, which is a shame. But who knows, I think that this record, along with 16 Lovers Lane, is our most accessible record. I know that a bunch of people from all sorts of age groups and musical inclinations who have heard this record have liked it, which is a good thing. I think it's good that there are bands like us that are still putting a stick in the spokes, if you know what I'm saying.

— Interview by Louis Miller

Pitchshifter has decided to go on indefinite hiatus. Geeeee-niiii-ussss!

- The Deftones, one of the world's greatest bands according to CMJ's Loud Rock Department, is looking to release its next album in May. Rumors suggest this will be a self-titled effort.
- This year's March Metal Meltdown will move locations to the Cricket Club in Irvington, New Jersey. It will be held March 7-8 and the lineup includes: Anal Blast, All That Remains, Bongzilla, Carnal Forge, Divine Empire, Dog Fashion Disco, Goatwhore, God Dethroned, Grave, Nile, Nuclear Assault, Overkill, Withered Earth and Yakuza. It's expected that over 80 bands will play on two stages. More confirmations are in the works. Stay tuned for further updates.
- Discordance Axis is still broken-up, but HydraHead Records has secured the rights to Uterior and Jou Hou and will re-release those titles this year for a nice grindcore resurgence.
- Blood Has Been Shed is working on its new album, titled Spirals, and yes, Howard Jones of Killswitch Engage is still singing for the band.

- Equal Vision has signed Armor For Sleep and will release Dream To Make Believe in the spring. Eager parties can hit www.armorforsleep.com to hear the demos that will eventually be songs on the album. In addition, the label has also signed Michigan's Bear Vs. Shark (Michigan is also the land of The Syndicate's Dave Ciancio, JMA's Ron Platzer and WDBM's Dave Vagasky).
- Iced Earth, quite possibly the biggest band on Century Media over the years, has defected and inked a deal with SPV/Steamhammer.
- God Forbid is tentatively calling its new album A Perfect World.
- You've undoubtedly heard that Glenn Benton of Deicide is now singing for Vital Remains, easily the most frightening death metal band in recent memory. (The band's performances and the menacing stare of its former lead singer at the 1999 March Metal Meltdown and New England Metal Fest were so diabolical and laced with such evil that we in CMJ Loud Rock still have nightmares about the band.) The band's new album, Dechristianize (see what we mean), will be out this spring. Just in time for Easter!

- In Flames is going back into the studio. So is Haste.
- Pantera guitarist Dimebag Darrell and drummer Vinnie Paul have joined forces with ex-Halford guitarist Patrick Lachman in a new band called New Found Power. This new group begs the question: What the hell is up with Pantera's future? Rumors are swirling that Philip Anselmo is more interested in playing with his side bands, Christ Inversion and Superjoint Ritual, than in performing tunes off Far Beyond Driven. Other sources suggest the other members of Pantera are sick of Anselmo's shenanigans. These are just rumors, but nevertheless, what is next for Pantera? Only time can tell.

THE RELAPSE CONTAMINATION FESTIVAL

On January 18-19, Relapse Records, the only name you need when it comes to extreme death, noise and grindcore, hosted the Relapse Contamination Festival at The Trocadero Theatre in Philadelphia. What an event! If you missed it, crap your pants in sorrow, because you missed a helluva show. On Saturday night, Bongzilla, Cephalic Carnage, Alabama Thunderpussy, Mastodon and Neurosis graced the stage. Guitarist Jawsh is no longer with Cephalic Carnage and Soilent Green/Goatwhore swamp rock maestro Ben Falgoust sang a tune with the Cephalics. Falgoust is out of his wheelchair, and walking with a cane, recovering fully from the van accident Soilent Green suffered last year, in which he smashed both his legs. In fact, we chatted it up with Mr. Falgoust and he's a true, animated Southern gent if there ever was one. He talked about the virtues of Killswitch Engage, Solid State Records (he loves Norma Jean and Living Sacrifice), the second Slipknot album (take that, all you naysayers) and how it was hard to get dates in a wheelchair, even though he got free movie passes and handicapped parking. He mused that the Southern girls thought that maybe something other than his legs was broken. The new Goatwhore album is supposedly sick and it's the band's last volley for Rotten Records. It's coming in March. If you've never seen Mastodon and (foolishly) dismissed Remission, then wait to you soak in this band live. It's nothing short of spectacular. Neurosis played its first East Coast show in over three years and the dirge was worth the wait. Sunday night was far superior, as High On Fire joined Pig Destroyer, Burnt By The Sun and Dillinger Escape Plan. Lucky for us, DEP's Greg Puciato didn't take a big shit on stage as he did at a recent NYC show. We guess he's gained control of his bowels. All in all, the venue was sold out in advance, and felt oversold, as the stench of body odor wafted throughout. This was a true metal event, and showed us that Relapse Records is keeping the metal underground alive. Long live metal! Long live Relapse! Thanks to the Relapse team of Matt Jacobsen, Gordon Conrad, the lovely Pellet, Mean Dean The Metal Machine, Carl Schultz (über-publicist), as well as Veronica Vallado (Roadrunner), Suzanna Paradise (Concrete), Derek McNew (WZMB), Matt Fedorko (WVVU), Adrian Bromley (Unrestrained) Liz Ciavarella and Dave (Metal Maniacs) for coming out to enjoy the fun.

LOUD ROCK DIRECTOR PROFILE WSHL'S HARDCORE MIDGET

T.J. Farrell — we know what the T.J. stands for, but we're not sharing — is known in industry metal circles as "The Hardcore Midget." Although he's not Jolly Green Giant-sized, he's not exactly vertically challenged, either. Nevertheless, the Midget has a reputation as both a ladies man and a metal fan, so we decided to give him a chance to sound off in this month's Loud Rock Director Profile. He's graduating from Stonehill College in Northeaston, Massachusetts in May, so if you don't know him already, you should get to know him before he's gone.

The Hardcore Midget, huh? Can you tell us about the Hardcore Midget's show on WSHL?

My show is on Wednesday nights, from 10 p.m. to 1 a.m. You can listen online at: www.stonehill.edu/wshl. Tune in to hear lots of crazy dirty metal and my sexy Boston accent!

What's the toughest thing that you have to teach, or instill into, the metal DJs you oversee, other than getting them to not play songs with cuss words in them?

No rap-metal allowed! I try to steer my DJs away from any of the nü metal that is out there. Not that all of it is bad, but if you want to listen to nü metal, turn on commercial radio. WSHL is all about helping the little guys, like 12 Cent, this awesome local band everyone should check out, because they are friends with the Midget. Check 'em out at: www.12cent.com.

Can you give us a general description of metal programming at WSHL?

The school itself is tiny, with only about 2,300 students, so there aren't tons of metalheads here. It's a very Dave Matthews Band and Nelly crowd. But the ones that we have are intense; these kids know their stuff. There is lots of underground stuff, with a major focus on grindcore, death metal and some metalcore.

You're quite the ladies man. Is your audience primarily females who love that sexy Massachusetts accent?

The Midget's days as a ladies man are over! I got a wonderful little girly named Ashley now, so the Midget swings no more. But no one listens to my show for the music; they listen to hear my "wicked pissah" Boston accent.

This is your final semester at WSHL. What are your post-graduation plans?

Not to be homeless and to make enough money a week to pay for my ungodly alcohol intake. Oh, and find another way to get lots of free metal CDs.

Who is your favorite promotions person? Hurry up! Think fast.

That's not a fair question, because everyone in this industry kicks ass. But if I had to pick one, it would be Ben Markese from The Syndicate. He's been an awesome guy to deal with for the past three years and hanging out with the DLH rules.

LOUD ROCK INDUSTRY NEWS

Metal Blade Records promotions queen Jen Graham is throwing a metal party on Sunday, March 30 at a bar/club in L.A. called The Joint. She is going to spin the metal and hopes to give away swag as a part of the event. Graham is requesting swag such as posters, stickers and condoms (basically, whatever you got) and, if you contribute, your company's name will be on flyers/advertising as a sponsor. If it's successful, this could be a monthly event. For more info, hit her up at: radio@metalblade.com. • Manic PR and Distribution is moving, effective January 29. The company's new digs are at: 4026 School House Lane; Whitmarsh Township, PA 19462. The new phone digits are: 610.828.8339. The new fax line is: 610.828.3770. Please update your records accordingly. Manic represents Candlelight, Peaceville and Hammerheart Records, among others. Congrats on the move! • Another day, another semester, another Loud Rock Director. It's that time of year again, and Loud Rock Directors are changing hands. Longtime LRD Joel McElree has left Crucial Spinner WSUP/Platteville, WI. His replacement is Mark Bubb (markbubb43@hotmail.com). KTRM/Kirksville, MO Loud Rock Director Sarah Yancey has left her post. Her replacement is James Ginns. SIX FEET UNDER

Double Dead Redux (Metal Blade)

Before we say anything else, we must ask: Why was "Warpath," Six Feet Under's best song, excluded from this glorious live album? Sure, we're disappointed, but we're over it, because the rest of the track listing is pretty damn impressive. Double Dead Redux captures the flesh-eating live element of Six Feet Under. The retail piece will feature bonus DVD footage, while the promotional Loud Rock Radio disc is audio only. Surprisingly, SFU live is not much different than SFU on record, and the production of Double Dead is rather crisp and clean, which isn't to be expected from a live death metal album! If you've ever thought that Chris Barnes's pig squeals were studio-treated and fake, then you'll be proven wrong here. On "The Day The Dead Walked," "Impulse To Disembowel" and "Hacked To Pieces," Barnes pulls off those questionable, utterly frightening yelps as though they were normal sounds heard in everyday English language. Recorded on June 7, 2002 at The Pound in San Francisco, Double Dead Redux is death, death and more death, and is sure to inspire you to dig up a corpse and feast on the rotting remains.

SYSTEMATIC

Metal Radio Sampler (Elektra)

Systematic's 2001 debut, Somewhere In Between, didn't exactly set the Loud Rock world ablaze. Even though the band had Metallica's Lars Ulrich in its A&R corner, Systematic didn't take off the way many had hoped. If you don't remember details about Somewhere In Between, don't worry. This special Metal Radio Sampler, which culls three cuts from the band's forthcoming sophomore disc, Pleasure To Burn, doesn't adhere too closely to the band's past. Rather, it sounds like this Bay Area band spent a lot of time with Metallica's "Black" album when writing and recording. As a result, "Not Like You," "Breakable" and "Shine" are huge, arena-filling rock songs with plenty of riff machismo, confident clean vocals and, most importantly, hooks so memorable that Systematic is ready to go fishing. If you listen to this in your car, it'll have you revving the engine in three seconds flat. This isn't your traditional Loud Rock Radio band, but like Godsmack, Taproot and KoRn before it, we can certainly say we're giving Systematic its liftoff to the Active Rock stratosphere.

RAPTURE

Songs For The Withering (Century Media)

You must have no self-respect and must be living in a cave underneath the bottom of the ocean if you're a metalhead who hasn't been touched by Opeth's sphere of influence. Pick up any metal mag from here to Helsinki and it's bound to heap praise on Opeth frontman Mikael Åkerfeldt's breathing, much less his music. But beyond critical praise and commercial awareness, Opeth is influencing other artists. Rapture is one such band. Songs For The Withering reminds us of Still Life-era Opeth, thanks to the growled-and-sung vocal style and somewhat complicated riff patterns. Vocalist Petri Eskelinen is a dead-ringer for Åkerfeldt and, in this metal day and age, that's the best compliment you can pay to a metal musician. This Finnish band traffics in progressive death metal and long songs and will eat most mook rock bands for breakfast. Grab a blanket, a girl and a stereo, blare "Gallows" and "Enveloped," and head to the nearest Blackwater Park.

SINAI BEACH

When Breath Escapes (Facedown)

Sinai Beach's brain-throttling When Breath Escapes marks Facedown Records' first leap into Loud Rock radio servicing and what a helluva an introduction it is, kids. When Breath Escapes sprints to the head of the metal-core pack with its Eighteen Visions going mano-e-mano with Throwdown-style breakdowns and frenzied pockets of moshable riffing. We're left guessing about the post-show, pit carnage factor at Sinai Beach shows. Each song is more thunder-throated than the next. Vocalist Courtney Alderson (he's a dude) inserts a few cleanly sung melodies, but for the most part, this is full service metalcore. The lyrics on When Breath Escapes touch upon Christianity in such a tasteful, intelligent way that even the staunchest Satanist will be lured to Sinai Beach's lair. Beat the piss out of thy neighbor with "Never Say Never," "...Of A Man" and "My Gun, Your Bullets."

NEW HORN SERIES FROM MAXJAZZ

The MaxJazz label will launch a new horn series in May with a yet-to-be-named effort from alto saxophonist Steve Wilson. The album will feature contributions from Rene Marie, Mulgrew Miller, Adam Cruz, Carla Cook and others. Wilson has released four albums for Criss Cross and two for Concord subsidiary Stretch and has now signed on for a multi-album deal with MaxJazz. Other horn players brought into the fold for this series are young up-and-comers Terrell Stafford and Jeremy Pelt, both trumpeters.

Launched by Richard McDonnell in 1997, the label signed an impressive array of female vocalists (including Carla Cook, Rene Marie and Laverne Butler). As the first efforts came out in 1999, MaxJazz quickly gained a strong reputation, thanks to the quality of their signings (Cook's debut scored a Grammy nomination), superb recording quality, as well as the beauty of the packaging, which featured Jimmy Katz's monochromatic photographs. In 2001, the St. Louis-based label added pianists to its stable, bringing in the talents of Bruce Barth, Mulgrew Miller, Jessica Williams and Peter Martin.

FANTASY SIGNS WITH MUSICNET

Fantasy has licensed its digital music catalog of over 2,500 classic Jazz, blues, R&B and rock albums to MusicNet, which, beginning in March, will provide digital music services to distribution partners including RealNetworks and AOL. Jazz labels that fall under Fantasy's umbrella are Milestone, Riverside, Pablo, Contemporary, Debut, Good Time Jazz, Original Jazz Classics and Prestige. The agreement includes the rights to stream, download, burn and transfer music to secure devices.

ROLLINS HONORED

Saxophonist Sonny Rollins was honored Jan. 27 at the First Annual Nightlife Awards in New York as a "Living Legend of Jazz." Although the tenor saxophonist generally prefers the quiet life of his upstate New York home to doing the Awards scene, he was on hand at the Town Hall event to receive this accolade from fellow saxophonist David Sanborn.

Critics and entertainment insiders chose winners of the Nightlife Awards in 19 categories. One of the event's co-producers was noted Jazz journalist and author Howard Mandel. He and an esteemed panel including Gary Giddins, Gene Santoro, Steve Futterman, Ben Ratliff, K. Leander Williams, Ira Gitler and Gene Seymour were the voters for the Jazz component of the awards.

There were three "Living Legend" awards given, with the Cabaret one going to Julie Wilson and the Comedy one going to Robert Klein. Although Rollins did not perform, most of the winners and presenters did. The evening was co-hosted by Dee Dee Bridgewater, Lea Delaria and Andrea Marcovicci.

MATTHEW SHIPP
It took all of two weeks for the talented Mr. Shipp to make it to No. 1, a feat he also did last year with Nu Bop. As artistic director, producer and player in the Blue Series, Shipp has been a busy boy. Upcoming are collaborations with Anti-Pop Consortium and Def Jux kingpin El-P. We caught up with the pianist at his East Village apartment late last year.

How will the new album be different?

Nu Bop was a Jazz album, but Equilibrium was even more of a Jazz album. I can't really compete with beat people because I'm a Jazz musician first and foremost. Now that I know I can do something with beats, I really wanted to do something with the same compositional subtleties as a Jazz suite, but also with modern beat elements. Now I don't feel the need to bang it over everybody's head.

You take great pains to change up your albums' lineups and general aesthetic.
There's a lot to be said for getting into a general area and refining it:

that's what Monk did with his Columbia releases; that's what Bill Evans did. That's cool. But the idea of Jazz artists recording has almost been around for a century now and I'm just trying to approach things a little differently in ways that are valid for my era and my time.

Why leave the acoustic sound behind?

I just think the way that Jazz albums are still being made is very tired and I think its time to do something about it. I don't mind being the guinea pig who establishes a new way of going about this, because a new way is desperately needed.

Tell us about the Anti-Pop Consortium collaboration.

When I listen to the Anti-Pop CD, I can't figure out if it's a Hip-Hop CD or a Jazz CD. The languages morph in and out, and in between each without even trying. Nothing was prearranged.

DAVID MURRAY LATIN BIG BAND

Now Is Another Time (Justin Time)

As a member of the World Saxophone Quartet, David Murray knows something about innovative horn arrangements. This amazing album fuses avant-garde ferocity with big band bombast and kicks it into overdrive with a slammin'

Latin Jazz band, the majority of whose members come from Cuba. Latin Jazz often shoots for the high-octane, but does so safely within the confines of the tradition; here, Murray, WSQ's Hamiet Bluiett, trumpeter Craig Harris and their Cuban counterparts turn that construct on its head, using the high-octane rhythms as a launching pad for blasting themselves off in unexpected directions. Sometimes Murray can sell his audiences short, playing it so straight that he almost sounds pedestrian, but this album, like his Coltrane Octet effort from a few years back, is a true standout in his catalog.

STEFON HARRIS

The Grand Unification Theory (Blue Note)

It's doubtful that vibist Stefon Harris will ever be accused of not being ambitious, with the title of this release setting such a lofty tone. Trying to make it happen, Harris is all over the place here, leading his 11-piece Jazz band through orchestral, Latin, bebop, African-influenced and avant-garde territory. For those familiar with the small group bebop fire of his past three Blue Note efforts (and much of his side-work), this is a whole new side of Harris as bandleader, writer and arranger. For that, he is to be applauded. But the goals are sometimes impossibly high, particularly for a still maturing — though acclaimed — artist. There are highlights, however, and the last part of the album is particularly strong.

FRED HESS

Extended Family (Tapestry)

Like Joe Lovano, Colorado-based tenor saxophonist Fred Hess's versatility is impressive and his slippery avant-garde leanings lead to many different looks, but none of them are too referential to other players, past or present. Also featuring trumpeter Paul Smoker, bassist Ken Filiano and drummer Damon Short, this quartet balances nuanced post-bop arrangements with some truly out playing. Smoker's style is often staccato and compliments Hess's cool lyrical playing, providing a nice tension up front. Filiano's arco work, particularly on "Kyudo For Ken," is exceptional. Hess also has an excellent new duo album with Marc Sabatella that is also worth checking.

HART OF THE MATTER

Virgin Megastore's recent 10 year anniversary (commemorated by this issue's cover story) is really a symbol and a tribute to the torch carried by so many independent stores who remain committed to breaking new artists. Virgin's is certainly an interesting story, but it is by no means the only successful tale of retail at its best that can be told to our children at bedtime. Moral of the story? You can be profitable and care about music that hasn't yet numbed the masses.

In conducting the interviews with Virgin Entertainment Group for this piece, CMJ Retail had the chance to talk to several label and distro folks (you all know so well), who were genuinely enthusiastic about going on record with their thoughts on Virgin's way of putting their money where their ears are. These people are "music people" who care beyond the business about the records they release and the artists whose lives are affected by their efforts.

Joy Feuer (Capitol Records): Virgin Retail has always been a haven for artist development. The reason is simple... the environment created in their stores and unique programs such as "Virgin Recommends." Unlike some music retailers they are not internally focused on trying to fill slots for their ad programs. The diverse selection of genres and titles available to listen to, or featured on end-caps, are focused on the music consumer. The stores are an invitation for those who truly want to discover new music or re-discover the legends.

Lesley Bleakley, CEO, Beggars Group and Matador Records, "For us, Virgin is a shining star, an advocate for indie labels that's helped us so much with artists like Super Furry Animals and Cornershop. Programs like "Virgin Recommends" are a perfect examples of how innovative they really are and how they try to support and develop indies and their artists.

Patrick Jordan (BMG): While a lot of chains in this business first look at the economics of a record, Virgin looks at the artistic merits of a record which has led them to be ahead of the curve on many developing artist stories for BMG.

Jim Kelly (V2): Virgin has been an incredibly important partner with us on all our releases. These people really know and love music. You can see this in their breakthrough program "Virgin Recommends" which doesn't cost us a dime and can't be influenced by labels or distributors in the selection process. They are all extremely cooperative people who try to make it easy to do business. The artist that comes to mind from us is Moby. They were there with V2 at the very start before any real major momentum had begun and helped us continually along the way. As a consequence Virgin has sold more Moby CDs on a per store basis than any other store in the country.

Faced with nearly 100 million fewer album sales in 2002 than in 2001 and the realities of an illegal downloading and CD burning bonanza, the music biz in general has been able to offer little more than a geriatric shrug to the coming tides of change. Independent and independently minded retailers like Virgin, who are committed to developing vital new music, are the only ones truly in a position to turn the tides.

SPEAK OUT

Mike Fratt
Homer's Music And Gifts
Omaha, NE

Mike's on a roll. We wanted to share some of his latest thoughts on current pricing-logic—something to think about.

Looking back over sales activity for 2002, I see a disturbing trend. Billboard tells us that catalog sales were not as far down as new CD sales end up with "Greatest Hits" as our top sellers rather than the classic albums cut by said artists. Some labels have begun to solve this problem by lowering list price to $13.98. What about all of that deep, deep catalog that generates about 500 to 2000 units annually? The bean counters say lowering the price will negatively impact gross profit dollars. The logic behind this is that the title is going to sell

"The consumer has decided $18.98 is too high and would rather pass than purchase."

this past year - which may be true in sheer unit volume, but is actually only half true. The Top 200 catalog, which almost everyone stocks and which is often on sale at mass merchants and other stores, is performing very well—better even than 10 years ago. Often the labels provide ongoing discounts or rebates on this stock—this is skewing the info. Sales on $18.98-list deep catalog have slowed dramatically and midlines are hanging in there. So, the increased activity on top catalog is making up for the severe loss in sales on deeper $18.98 catalog that are not as well represented at retailers anymore and rarely ever go on sale. Since midlines are still performing, we can only draw the conclusion that the consumer has decided $18.98 is too high and would rather pass than purchase. So we 1000 units at $18.98 or $11.98, so get the extra gross dollars. How about lowering the price to $9.98 and letting the consumer decide. (Yes, Sony has a large line of this product, but what about everyone else? And how good are the titles?). At that point they can be discounted to around $6, look competitive with DVDs, allow for retailers to stock without eating up open-to-buy dollars, make for enticing "bargin bin" promotions and possibly even cause customers to pick up deep catalog by an artist they like, love or are curious about. How many units could be moved then? How positive would the impact be on consumers' perception of pricing issues? How many careers would it help sustain? What's the real loss-vs.-gain in this scenario? Something to think about.

CMJ Retail's New Music Mobile: Reach 50,000 active music consumers through our new in-store play disc.

Deadline: February 14. Contact: Gerry at CMJ Retail (917.606.1908 ext. 254 or ghart@cmj.com)

4156 Hamilton Avenue • Cincinnati, OH 45223
p. 513.591.0123 • f. 513.591.0323
www.shakeitrecords.com

In 1992, Darren Blase bought Shake It! Records (the label) and continued its then-13-year history of releasing punk 'n' garage records (more recently, it has released records by the Greenhornes and Mr. Dibbs). For a while, Darren worked in the book business, running the label as a hobby. As he burned out on bibliophilism, he realized he was often annoyed that he could never find the records he wanted to buy. Armed with a strong retail background, the answer seemed obvious: grow the label into a store as well. And in April 1999, Shake It! Records (the store) was born.

In order to open the store (where Darren and his brother Jim are now partners), Darren sold 30,000 records from his personal collection. Known in his part of Cincinnati as "the guy who always got all the good stuff," word quickly spread about Darren's store-opening vinyl sacrifice. On Shake It!'s first day, they sold almost $17,000 in used records (!), which Darren and Jim reinvested into CDs. Before long, they had outgrown their original 1,000-square-foot location and moved into their current 3,600-square-foot Hamilton Avenue home.

A proud new member of A.I.M.S, Shake It! carries over 40,000 titles on CD and between 8-10,000 titles on vinyl (and these numbers don't include used product) – not to mention magazines, books and DVDs. Darren describes the store as a "joke that went spiraling out of control." But this store, its selection and its dedication to a healthy independent music community is certainly no joke!

Q&A with Darren Blase, president/owner Shake It! Records

What local press affects sales most?
Cincinnati CityBeat, the weekly alternative arts and entertainment paper.

What radio stations affect sales most?
WOXY for alternative rock and WNKU for Triple A.

Shake It! fast. But watch yourself.

Do you have in-stores?
We do have in-stores and we have an 8-channel PA. In-store highlights include Jurassic 5, Super Furry Animals, John Doe, the Black Keys, the Greenhornes and Apples In Stereo.

What is your most effective program?
The most effective thing we offer is a combination package where you get six weeks with a listening post, a window display and other P&P. When you hit people multiple times like that, you see much more success.

What other programs do you offer? Are any of them discretionary?
We have 70 listening stations, 10 of which we give away for free each month. We also have P&P options and window displays.

What types of non-traditional promotions have worked best?

We work with a local promoter called Thigmotrope to set up shows at the Southgate House. We have hosted shows by Shellac, the Strokes, Interpol, Guided By Voices, the Shins, and Modest Mouse to name a few. Shake It! pays for the wristband tickets, which double 10 percent off coupons for the next time you're in the store. Our return on those is about 75 percent, so it's a really great promotion.

What display materials work best for you?

Most of our wall space is covered with things we sell. When we've been sent enough posters to make a substantial display, those have been effective. Tapestries work really well for us too.

What records are your current and all-time favorites?

Phil Alvin's Un "Sung" Stories and Peanut Butter Wolf's Jukebox 45's.

What's the first record you bought? Where?
Grand Funk Railroad's We're An American Band on yellow vinyl.

What's the best concert you've attended?
Sun Ra in Louisville, Kentucky in 1989 or 1990, when he played a three-and-a-half hour version of "Nuclear War."

NEWSWORTHY

Wherehouse Files Chapter 11

On Tuesday, January 21, music retailer Wherehouse Entertainment Inc. announced that it had filed for bankruptcy protection. Wherehouse President and Chief Executive Officer Jerry Comstock (a member of a new management team established in June 2002) cited illegal downloading, CD burning and competition from major discount retailers for the decline in Wherehouse's sales.

Wherehouse recently closed 30 stores and is expected to close 120 more in the next several months. This is the second time the retailer has filed for Chapter 11, the first in 1995 from which it emerged three years later.

Wherehouse plans to reinvest in its remaining 250 stores by remodeling, increasing listening availability and installing interactive kiosks.

On January 21, Joseph Arthur stood absolutely transfixed by his microphone after learning that the vibrations of air caused by "sound waves" were moving a coil of wire near a magnet and transforming them into electrical vibrations! Arthur—the abstract, adventurous and oft-brooding singer-songwriter discovered by Mr. Peter Gabriel—was performing an in-store at Denver's Twist And Shout when his epiphany struck. Many fans showed up for Arthur, who is promoting his latest album Redemption's Son. Arthur, who (prior to the whole wide-eyed transfixed thing) had just put in an exhausting day of skiing, played a 40-minute set and treated fans to personalized drawings and autographs. And he literally freaked when he heard how the speakers turned the electrical currents back into sound—but we can't show that picture, it's just too much.
