The Profit Squeeze

In the midst of general sales increases for major industry labels, there is, unfortunately, a profit crunch to go along with more volume. In recent financial statements from parent companies of CBS Records and RCA Records, the showings of their recording entities over the past nine months and third quarter of this year were assessed in terms of "cost pressures" (CBS) and "overall domestic industry conditions" (RCA), the latter in general explanation of a profit loss for the third quarter of 1973. The president of RCA, Rocco Laginestra, stated in a major policy statement in last week's issue of Cash Box that "with costs up and industry volume down, I predict that in the immediate future, there is going to be a shaking out of a lot of companies." To compound these unhappy prospects, we have been witness to off-the-record-comments by other leading label executives declaring that increased volume on their part has failed to generate a proportional increase in profits.

With full realization that the industry has moved into its "best" quarter of the year, we or the industry itself should not bury our heads in the sands of false euphoria and make rosy, all-is-well commentary. Yet, it is important to stress that for many companies there is, indeed, a posture of better volume for many—indicating strong consumer demand for the industry's wares—as weighed, sadly, against a profit squeeze.

Where does the business go from here? It can (and should) we feel command a better price from the consumer for recordings within guidelines set by the Government in its attempts to curtail inflation. It can (and must) assess internal procedures in the marketing of product, especially in the area of "returns," where, it was made evident through the NARM-sponsored study on the subject released earlier this year, labels can do much to ease the pressure on profits. The industry must be made aware that the "return" problem really doesn't start at the wholesale level, but has its origins in "overkill" allocations and in the sales-promotion philosophy that saturation of new product in the marketplace is the strongest guarantee of a heady sales tally on the consumer level.

Some say the often outlandish guarantees given to established or "hot" newcomers is fading; we hope so. The industry has passed the stage where it can dole out millions on contracts, and take a "long-term" view of eventual profit margins. If a few examples of such ultimate success are available, the industry has made them the rule not the exception.

Once again we return to the phrase "profitless prosperity." Never before, in our view, has that phrase had more devastating meaning. We must note that in view of the fact that companies and individuals—generally reluctant to spell out "tougher times" in public—are now speaking out indicates that candid recognition of the profit squeeze can realize aggressive attempts to defeat it.

Col. Branch Aids Drive To Enact Mich. Pirate Law

NEW YORK—A drive to outlaw the bootleg tape business in the state of Michigan picked up steam this month as representatives from record companies, distributors and retailers met in Hazel Park, Michigan, with State Representative Philip O. Mastin, with an eye toward final passing of a definite anti-bootleg bill in that state.

The discussion, which was chaired by Columbia Records Detroit sales manager John Kotecki, focused on ways to facilitate action on a bill already sponsored by Rep. Mastin and presently pending in the House Judiciary Committee in Lansing. The attendees resolved to communicate directly with members of this group in addition to stimulating interest among civic organizations, retail associations, unions, lobbyists, etc.

Another meeting on the subject—this one to be attended by members of the House Judiciary Committee—will be held in the near future.

FRONT COVER:

Sly Stone, who for the past five years has probably been the most influential star in pop music, is marking a new and productive phase of his career with his twin appearances this week on NBC-TV's "Midnight Special" (Oct. 26) and Don Kirshner's celebrated "Rock Concert" (Oct. 27), both of which he will star in and host.

His recent LP "Fresh" has been certified gold by the RIAA and there is every reason to believe that his brand new single, "Frisky", will receive the same honor. With public demand for Sly at an all-time high, the music industry is faced with an inescapable conclusion: the next big star of the 70's has been here for years. His name is Sly Stone.

U.A. Acquires Big 3 Music (R-F & M)

NEW YORK — Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer has agreed to sell to United Artists Corporation its music publishing company, Robbins-Feist & Miller, together with its half ownership of Quality Records of Canada.

Announcement of the agreement was made by James T. Aubrey, Jr., president and chief executive officer of Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, and Arthur B. Krim, chairman of the board of United Artists, a wholly owned subsidiary of Transamerica Corporation.

The sale of the old line publishing company has been under rumor for over a year with a reported acquisition price of approximately $14 million.

Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer and United Artists Corporation have also concluded an agreement under which the films of Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer will be distributed theatrically and in television syndication in the U.S. and Canada for a ten year period by United Artists Corporation.

ment was made by John Rosica, vp sales and marketing, and Jack Slater, newly-appointed vp and general manager.

"We're very excited about the possibilities independent distribution makes available to us," Rosica stated. "In addition to enabling us to retain our individuality and the image we now have in the industry and with the consumers, it will lend new marketing capabilities to our product line which, because of its uniqueness, needs a great deal more attention than conventional product."

The management of the company consists of Creed Taylor, president of CTI Records, Rosica, and Slater. Jack Slater comes from Rowe International, manufacturer and distributor of vending machines and jukeboxes, where he held the position of executive vice-president. Previous to that, he was chief financial officer at the parent company, Triangle Industries (N.Y.S.E.).

Kicking off CTI's new fall line will be the Don Sebesky album, "Giant Box," and Esther Phillips' "Black-Eyed Blues." The Sebesky LP, which will be released on CTI, is a new two-record set featuring many of the CTI and Kudu artists, including Jackie Cain and Roy Kral, Freddie Hubbard, Ron Carter, George Benson, Airto, Paul Desmond, Joe Farrell, Milt Jackson, Hubert Laws, and Grover Washington, Jr.

The Esther Phillips album will be released on Kudu. It was arranged and conducted by Pee Wee Ellis, with string arrangements by Bob James. Both "Giant Box" and "Black-Eyed Blues" were produced by Creed Taylor.

Lower Court Decision Stands:

Supreme Court Upholds FCC Censor. Directive On Lyrics

NEW YORK—The Supreme Court has, by letting a lower court decision stand, denied appeals to keep the Federal Communications Commission from requiring radio stations to censor themselves in the area of song lyrics.

The FCC directive was challenged by a group of broadcasters and listeners, chiefly the Yale Broadcasting Company. They had sought to reverse the lower court decision under the first amendment guaranteeing freedom of the press.

The FCC ruling was related to song lyrics that in the FCC's view, "tended to promote or glorify the use of illegal drugs." The courts action was strongly objected to by Justice

William O. Douglas. Douglas said, "For now the restriction is applied to song lyrics, next year it may apply to comedy program, and the following year to news broadcasts." Without concurring in Douglas's dissent, Justice William J. Brennan Jr. argued that the court should review the case.

At this time the RIAA was unavailable for comment, and the NMPA did not have adequate time to scrutinize the ruling for comment.

Gene Krupa Dies At 64

NEW YORK — Gene Krupa, whose style demanded that the drummer become a soloist as well as timekeeper died Oct. 17 at his Yonkers home. He was 64 years old.

The cause of death was not announced, but Krupa had been suffering from benign leukemia for the past ten years. He had entered a hospital in Yonkers two weeks ago for treatment of a heart problem connected with the leukemia.

Krupa, who was born in Chicago on Jan. 15, 1909, came into jazz as part of a group that included Benny Goodman, Eddie Condon, and others. He was drumming on a summer job with a band called the Frivolians when he was 12. At 16 he entered St. Joseph's College in Indiana to study for the priesthood, but dropped out a year later.

He made his first record Dec. 9, 1927, with the McKenzie-Condon Chicagoans and during the next eight years played in Chicago and New York, sometimes with jazz friends in Red Nichols' or Mal Hallett's bands. He was playing in Buddy Roger's dance band in Chicago when Benny Goodman asked him to join his new band in 1935.

A few months after joining the Goodman band, Krupa took part in the first recording by the Goodman trio. Originally an experiment, the records did so well that they made the small group format feasible.

After a feud with Goodman in 1938, Krupa left to form his own band, which quickly became an established favorite. He was voted the country's outstanding drummer in Jan., 1944, and after a six month stint with Tommy Dorsey, he formed a new big band that included a large string section.

He led his band till 1951, when he began three years of touring with the Jazz at the Philharmonic troupe. From then on, he led trios or quartets.

In 1960 he suffered a stroke that cut his performing time down to six months a year, and in 1967 he announced his retirement. Three years later he resumed playing and his last gig was with Goodman, Lionel Hampton, and Teddy Wilson in Aug. at Saratoga Springs, N.Y.

Krupa is survived by two adopted children and a brother Jules of Chicago. A requiem mass was held Oct. 18 at St. Denis Roman Catholic Church in Yonkers after which the body was flown to Chicago for burial.

Cap Adds EMI To Moniker; Firm Sales Up

HOLLYWOOD — The shareholders of Capitol Industries, Inc., at the annual meeting last week (16), approved an amendment to the by-laws of the company changing the name of the company, effective January 1, 1974, to Capitol Industries-EMI, Inc. to reflect the company's corporate association with EMI Limited.

At the same meeting, held in the Capitol Tower, the company reported net income of $1,295,000 or $.28 per share, on sales of $35,244,000 for the first quarter of fiscal 1974. This compares to net income of $183,000, or $.04 per share, on sales of $30,101,000 during the same period in fiscal 1973. There were 4,580,000 average shares outstanding this year as against 4,579,000 last year.

Reporting on first quarter results, Bhaskar Menon, Capitol's president and chief executive officer, said:

"Sales were up 17% over the same period last year, resulting in an increase in net income of 608%. This marks the seventh consecutive quarter in which Capitol's earnings have improved over the comparable quarter of the prior fiscal year.

"The company demonstrated exceptional product success during the quarter when Capitol and Capitol-distributed artists achieved six top-10 singles and seven top-10 albums, of which eleven received Gold Record awards by the Recording Industry Association of America, five of them during this quarter. Most notably, six records reached the no. 1 position on national best-seller charts. Artists represented in these achievements, whose recordings continue to enjoy significant sales, are the Beatles, Grand Funk Railroad, Paul McCartney & Wings, Pink Floyd, Helen Reddy and Leon Russell."

Reviewing prospects for the second quarter ending December 31, 1973, Menon said:

"New album releases scheduled for October and November by such established artists as the Band, Glen Campbell, John Lennon, Paul McCartney & Wings, Steve Miller, Pink Floyd, Ringo Starr and Traffic encourage us to expect excellent sales volume at a time of maximum retail activity

"However, Capitol shares in full measure the current industry-wide anxiety over growing shortages of essential raw materials—especially vinyl and paper."

In addition to the announcement of these first-quarter sales results, seven incumbent members and two new members were elected to the board of directors for one-year terms. Tom B. Coughran, banker and financial consultant, previously vice chairman and chief executive officer of Bank of

Empire Files Suit Against Famous

NEW YORK—Empire State Record Sales Corp. (N.Y. record distributor), last week (Oct. 16) filed suit in U.S. District Court for the southern district of N.Y. against Famous Music Corp., a division of Gulf & Western Industries.

The suit charges that Famous violated the anti-trust laws by forcing Empire to buy and pay for records it did not want to order. The complaint also charges that Famous cancelled Empire as a distributor when Empire protested these practices.

Empire's complaint further charges Famous with discriminatory practices of selling current catalogue merchandise at cut out prices to various wholesalers. Seymour Barash, located at 2 Penn Plaza in N.Y.C. is the attorney representing Empire State Records.

Little David New Campaign

HOLLYWOOD—Little David Records' national director of marketing and distribution, Lenny Sachs, announced a co-ordinated program of promotion to coincide with the release of Little David's new product. The independent, which is distributed by Atlantic Records, shipped three new comedy LPs Oct. 15, including Burns and Schreiber's "Pure B.S.," George Carlin's "Occupation: Foole," and the Committee's "The Wide Wide World of War."

A single by Kenny Rankin, currently the label's only non-comedy artist, will be released shortly. It will contain the rock standard, "Why Do Fools Fall in Love" and an original song, "Brimbau," a Latin-jazz-rock composition.

The campaign, whose slogan "Laugh Your Ass Off," has already been launched and will be multi-faceted. Aside from radio and T.V. spots, advertising in trade and consumer publications and a billboard on Sunset Blvd., plans have been made for store displays, "Laugh Your Ass Off" pants patches and a specially produced EP recording. The EP has already been shipped and will be used as a record store giveaway for customers buying Little David releases as well as for air play, as the recording has been carefully prepared to contain no material that might be objectional to the general public.

Television has always played an important role in the promotion of Little David Records and T.V. appearances have been scheduled to coincide with this new release. George Carlin is already slated for an Oct. 25 showing on NBC's Tonight Show and Burns and Schreiber, who recently completed a summer-long T.V. series, will be doing guest spots on a number of shows this fall. The Committee have embarked on a schedule of club engagements that will take them to major cities across the country. A campus promotion is also under way and all three artists will be making college appearances.

A special audio-visual program was presented to Atlantic sales and promotional personnel in the latter part of Sept. to introduce the comedy LP's. The presentation, held at an Inglewood hotel, was a great success, according to Sachs, and subsequently, orders from dealers and rack jobbers were solicited in excess of 250,000. That figure does not represent speculation but the number of albums shipped in response to actual orders.

The last few months have shown a resurgence of sales of Kenny Rankin's LP, despite the absence of a hit single release. This has been attributed to a public awareness of the artist achieved through his T.V. appearances. New LPs by Rankin and Flip Wilson are tentatively scheduled for a Jan. release.

CBS Laboratories To Market Sony's SQ Quad Encoder

NEW YORK—CBS Laboratories, a Division of Columbia Broadcasting System, Inc., and Sony Corporation, announce an arrangement for CBS Laboratories' Professional Products Department to distribute the Sony SQ Encoder/Mixer Model SQE-2000 exclusively in the United States and Canada.

The new encoder was designed by CBS and Sony to enable FM broadcast stations to originate local "surround sound" quadrasonic broadcasts, and to produce quadrasonic commercial announcements.

While an encoder is not needed to broadcast SQ quadrasonic records in ordinary two-channel stereo, the SQE-2000 greatly expands the broadcaster's quadrasonic capability by allowing him to transmit 4-channel tapes, and to produce local 4-channel live programs. Employing the CBS SQ™ encoding techniques invented by CBS Laboratories and adapted by the world's major record labels, the SQE-2000 produces signals completely compatible with all stereo and mono receivers. These signals are exactly matched to the SQ decoders now offered in virtually every brand line of quadrasonic home receivers.

The major features of the SQE-2000 are: accurate phase characteristics and frequency for professional broadcasting applications; basic SQ encoding plus exterior-, forward-, and back-oriented encoding for special quadrasonic effect; four line inputs for broadcasting 4-channel tapes and other existing 4-channel programs; four microphone jacks for low-impedance microphone inputs; stereo mixing through double 4-channel linear potentiometers; stereo headphone monitoring of front, back, or mixed front-and-back sound; it can be operated from 117V electric lines or 12V battery power for remote pickup. The SQE-2000 response extends to 15kHz, thus meeting all broadcast standards. The SQE-2000 Encoder is priced at $695.

With the SQE-2000 Encoder it is possible to test SQ decoders rapidly and conveniently in service centers and on production lines by generating test tones which correspond to various directions of sound arrival.

GETTING THE POINT—John Hammond of Columbia Records and a NARAS Trustee, drives home an important point during the "Honest Music vs. Technology" meeting held recently by the New York Chapter of the Record Company. 1st Buddah Gold For Gladys & Pips

NEW YORK — Gladys Knight & The Pips single, "Midnight Train To Georgia" has been certified gold by the RIAA for sales exceeding one million copies. It marks the first certified gold single the group has been awarded since they signed with the Buddah label a few months ago.

"Midnight Train To Georgia" is the group's second single on Buddah, following "Where Peaceful Waters Flow". Both songs are included on Gladys Knight & The Pips' debut Buddah album "Imagination." Lewis Merenstein, vice president and director of creative services and marketing, said, "As was announced a week ago, Imagination shipped 350,000 copies on the first day of its release. The gold status of "Midnight Train To Georgia" confirms the strength of the album and we are awaiting formal certification for the first $1 million in sales, making "Imagination a gold album."

About the LP Merenstein added, "We are in the final preparatory stages of an intense promotional campaign. This will center around a 60-second TV spot showing Gladys Knight & The Pips in performance. The spot will be aired nationally in major markets and, where possible, timed to the group's many television appearances. In addition, an in-depth print ad campaign that reflects the theme and the visuals of the TV spot, will be used to reinforce our television promotion." At present Gladys Knight & The Pips are engaged in a heavy schedule of concerts and television appearances.

In the Explorer series "Tibetan Buddhism/Tantras Of Gyuto: Mahakala" by David Lewiston offers a part of a 12-hour rite, a feature of which is a vocal technique where each monk chants a chord. Lewiston recorded the chants in the foothills of the Himalayas and his annotations and photos accompany the LP.

"Animals Of Africa: Sounds of the Jungle, Plain & Bush" is a novel LP taped and produced in Nairobi, Kenya which captures the various African animals in their native habitat. Notes are by composer William Bolcom.

Sly Stone: 20th Century Beethoven; Broader Scope Ahead For Innovator

Sly Stone, the dynamic singer/songwriter/musician who leads one of the most explosive, innovative groups in music (Sly and the Family Stone), may well turn out to be the biggest influence on pop music since the Beatles. Stephen Paley, Sly's a&r man, says, "More rock and rhythm and blues players listen to Sly than any other performer. The Temptations' song Superstar was written about him and Miles Davis and Herbie Hancock, among others, have asked Sly to produce them."

Sly (real name: Sylvester Stewart), has travelled a long and sometimes tortuous route to the top, but at age 29, and undeniably one of the gods of the pop pantheon, he is rededicating himself to the cause of making music and bringing it to the millions who have followed him faithfully since the meteoric rise of his 1968 hit, "Dance To The Music," to the number one spot on the national charts. Though in the midst of a hectic touring schedule, Sly has finally consented to star in two of television's most important shows, NBC-TV's Midnight Special, airing Oct. 26, and Don Kirshner's Rock Concert, to be seen Oct. 27.

"I decided to do the TV shows," said Sly, lounging comfortably on a sofa in the living room of his plush Central Park West apartment, "because they wanted me. The Good Vibes From Central Park special [aired on ABC-TV, Aug. 21] was the first show I'd done in over a year, and I did it because I had to recognize the demand. If people want to see me that badly, I'm not going to disappoint them."

EARLY CAREER

Like so many of the stars that have struggled to reach a lofty plateau, Sly's success stems from a long and productive career that reaches back to his high school days in California when he was lead singer with a group called the Viscanes. He continued his study of musical theory at Vallejo Jr. College for three years before becoming a producer for Autumn Records, where he produced Bobby Freeman ("The Swim"), The Mojo Men ("Mojo Man"), and The Beau Brummels.

Prior to his stint at Autumn, Sly had been a disk jockey at KSOL, one of California's premiere soul stations, and it was during this period that the seed which would eventually blossom into Sly and the Family Stone was planted. Originally called The Stoners, the group became Sly's vehicle to success when he decided to leave the airways and become a performer in 1966.

With eight gold records to his credit, Sly could very easily have become complacent, but the vast reservoir of burning creative energy that so characterises him allows him no respite. "I keep going out on the road," said Sly, "because I like it. The audiences are getting better all the time and keep me involved. When that stops happening I guess I'll hang it up."

HOME STUDIOS

But if the glamour of the road still holds excitement for the entertainer whose resplendent clothes are outshone only by his own individual brilliance as a showman, the thrill of cutting albums in the studio is no longer there. Sly maintains sixteen track equipment in both his New York and California residences because he says, "It's a lot more comfortable. I can relax at home without all the pressures that usually exist in a studio situation. It also frees me from the time hassles. You know, like sometimes I might get inspired by a particular song at three in the morning and want to record it. If I didn't have the facilities right there I'd have to go through a whole trip booking time and whatnot, and chances are those hassles would get in the way of the song."

MORE ENTHUSIASM

But if anything, Sly's enthusiasm for writing and playing has increased, not diminished, as his latest LP "Fresh" so aptly testifies to. "I'm pleased with the album on all levels," he said, a broad grin reflecting the truth of his statement. Though mixing "Fresh" took longer than the actual recording, Sly has still found enough time to put together enough material "for at least two more albums."

What does the new Sly sound like? "It's more of me, more of what I like and what my fans like." We can interpret that to mean that Sly is ready to explode another package of musical dynamite at any time now. Stephen Paley, who works with the Hollies, Laura Nyro, and Jeff Beck, in addition to Sly, said, "Hopefully we'll have something new out by Christmas. We try and make Sly's life as comfortable as possible and provide him with all the tools he needs to help him do his thing." Obviously, Paley has been very successful in his attempts because Sly is entering a new period of creativity that may very well find him expanding beyond the performing limits he has already set for himself.

We may be witness to the emergence of Sly Stone, movie star, if all the details can be worked out. "I don't want to write a movie score until it's my movie. I want to write it and star in it," said Sly who has turned down several offers because, "they weren't good enough." If current discussions Sly has been having with director Melvin Van Peebles prove fruitful, we can look forward to seeing Sly in his first feature film maybe as early as next fall.

NEW PROJECTS

In the meantime, Sly continues his furious pace without abatement. With his new single "Frisky" just released, he is busily engrossed in new projects including he said, "A new LP by my 10 year old niece Lisa." If you think that Sly's intense schedule is too much for a man to handle, you ought to weigh it against his unique genius that has consistently drawn not only the plaudits of his fans, but also his peers. Paley said, "I believe Sly influences his contemporaries more than they influence him. Stephen Stills said "Family Affair" was the best single he ever heard and other record companies have been trying to sneak spies into his sessions for years to find out his special techniques."

As much at home reading the Walter Piston text on musical theory as he is driving audiences of 20,000 to frenzied peaks of exultation, Sly Stone is truly one of the most influential musical geniuses of this or any time. With the two TV specials, a Christmas LP, and possible movie ventures in the offing, he may become more than just a superstar—he may become an entire galaxy. David Budge

Correction

The headline in last week's story concerning the formation of My Managers Ltd. by Bob Aiss had an incorrect spelling of Aiss' name.

New Ampex Product

Ampex Music Division (AMD) announced the availability of a point-of-purchase counter top display for 20 quadraphonic open reel recorded tapes.

According to Jules Cohen, AMD marketing manager, the low-profile unit was designed to introduce the format to the software buyer while necessitating only a minimal space commitment from the retailer.

"The display unit is ideal for use by hardware dealers or tape and record retailers where space is at a premium," Cohen said. "The small size (7½" x 16" x 7½") of the gold, blue and white display makes it easy for the retailer to place it among his hardware or at a check-out counter. Retailers may choose their own product mix from Ampex's wide selection of 30 open reel quadraphonic albums," he said.

In addition to the display unit, Ampex also offers retailers posters, banners, header cards, larger display racks and other support materials. Ampex's Q-8 catalog now contains 78 titles and is also offered with similar support materials and racks.

Joyce Credit Omitted On LP

NEW YORK — A great event in a songwriter's life is to have one of his tunes recorded by the country's number one male vocalist. Such was the case when Frank Sinatra did "You're So Right For What's Wrong In My Life," on his latest album, "Ol' Blue Eyes Is Back."

The song was written by Roger Joyce, Teddy Randazzo, and Victoria Pike, but by mistake, Joyce's credit was left off the label copy of the LP. Although the mistake will be corrected on future pressings of the product, approximately 150,000 units have already gone out with the copy omission.

ROLLING STONE

Barry Goldberg, remembered as part of Electric Flag and for his group, the Barry Goldberg Reunion ("Sittin' In Circles") is back after a long lull, and he's got Atlantic Records and Bob Dylan with him. Atlantic's Jerry Wexler and Dylan, a long-time friend of Goldberg's, have produced Barry's new album. The sessions began three months ago in Muscle Shoals, and, according to one friend who was there, "Dylan put the band together—mostly Muscle Shoals people that he knew, he played on it and he sings on it." The album is due out in two weeks.

RCA Sets 6 New Classical LP's

NEW YORK—Pianist Peter Serkin, in collaboration with Alexander Schneider and the English Chamber Orchestra, has recorded the six Mozart concertos from 1784 for RCA Records in a stereo sound.

Announcement was made by R. Peter Munn, director of classical music, RCA Records, who said: "Young Serkin certainly is one of the most exciting pianists now before the public, and there are many who consider him the finest Mozart interpreter in the world today. We are extremely pleased to have this multi-record documentation of his Mozart at this point in his career."

Munn said the six concertos will be released as a single package in May under title, "Mozart/1784—The Six Piano Concertos."

1784 was one of the composer's finest years in the piano field. The six concertos of that period are #14 in B-Flat (K. 449), #15 in B-Flat (K. 450), #16 in D major (K. 451), #17 in

G major (K. 453), #18 in B-Flat (K. 456) and #19 in F (K. 459).

The recordings were produced in London by Max Wilcox, RCA Red Seal producer, and their release as Quadradsiks will mark the first Mozart piano music to appear in four-channel sound.

Thimble Releases Three Singles

NEW YORK — Thimble Records, the Audiofidelity Enterprises contemporary label, has released three singles in a major effort toward establishing the line with distributors, dealers, radio personnel and consumers to pave the way for forthcoming album releases.

Thimble has retained Morton Wax Promotions to work the record in several Eastern, Midwestern and West Coast cities. Neal Whitton of the Wax office will coordinate efforts with Thimble's press representatives, Martin Hoffman Associates.

The new records are: "I'm Goin' Home" and "Little Maggie" by Mt. Airy whose recent debut LP marked Thimble's entry into the contemporary field. It featured the Chapin Brothers and Eric Weissberg of "Dueling Banjos" fame. Both sides of the Mt. Airy single are from the album. "Neck and Neck" b/w "When Starlings Fly," two original tunes by Irish artists, Turner & Kirwan of Wexford, and the novelty "Social Security" and "Can She" introducing vocalist Marva Josie, a protege of pianist Earl Fatha Hines. Ms. Josie penned both sides of her single which was produced by Fred Miller and Fatha Hines.

In addition to the efforts of the Wax office and Hoffman Associates, Audiofidelity sales executives will be visiting key markets over the next few weeks. Harold Drayson, Bill Singer and Sid Hess each will make the three new Thimble singles a major part of their on-the-road efforts.

Phonogram To Release 5 LP's

CHICAGO — Sparked by debut LP by Micki Grant and Heartsfield, as well as new LP's by Chuck Mangione, Mike Seeger, and The Markkettts, the Mercury label of Phonogram Inc. has released five albums for Oct.

The Mangione album is "Land of Makebelieve," recorded with the Hamilton (Can.) Philharmonica Orchestra during the summer. The edited single of the title track has been released with the album. The Quartet recently left for a tour of England and will return to the U.S. for six days at the Bitter End in New York, Nov. 14-19.

Micki Grant's album, "Lovin' Kind of Woman," marks the solo debut of the composer/star of the multi-award winning Broadway musical, "Don't Bother Me, I Can't Cope." Ms. Grant wrote all 11 songs on the album. "Lovin' Kind of Woman" was arranged, produced, and conducted by Tom Camillo.

Mike Seeger has been one of the leading names in traditional music for several years, and his second Mercury album, "The second annual Farewell Reunion," features Mike along with half brother Pete Seeger, Maria Muldaur, Ry Cooder, Ewan MacColl, and many others.

The Heartsfield album is entitled "Heartsfield" and features all original compositions by the group that has been touring the midwest for the past year. The album was recorded at Criteria Sound Studios in Miami with the group and Tom Geving co-producing. A booking agency affiliation is being set with a national tour to follow soon.

"AM-FM ETC." marks the return of the Markkettts to the recording scene. The group had hits in the 1960's including "Out of Limits," "Balboa Blue," and "Surfer's Stomp." A single has been released from the album, "Mystery Movie Theme," based on the music from the NBC television series.

Goldberg Inks Atl. Pact; Dylan, Wexler To Prod. Debut LP

NEW YORK — Atlantic Records executive vice president Jerry Wexler announced the company's signing of Barry Goldberg to a long-term recording contract. His first Atco single ("I've Got To Use My) Imagination" was rush-released by the firm. Tune was penned by Goldberg and Gerry Goffin.

The LP, "Spotlight," was produced by Jerry Wexler and Bob Dylan. It marks the first time that Dylan has produced a studio album. Dylan sings background vocals on the disk. The album was produced in Muscle Shoals over a three month period.

Goldberg grew up in Chicago and had his early musical experiences playing with Mike Bloomfield, Paul Butterfield, Charlie Musselwhite, Steve Miller, Jerry Lee Lewis, and learning from blues great like Otis Spann and Buddy Guy. Before forming the Electric Flag with Bloomfield, Goldberg performed with Dylan at his Newport Festival appearance in 1965.

He also played on Dylan's "Highway 61 Revisited," and "Blonde On Blonde" albums, as well as the original "Super Session" album with Al Kooper and Steve Stills, and three albums of his own on Buddah Records.

MARY IS SHELTERED—Leon Russell has started producing Mary McCreary's second album for Shelter Records. In the picture that's Mary on piano, while Leon is helping out on bass. Most of the album is being recorded in Tulsa, although two tracks were just cut by Denny Cordell and Mary McCreary in Kingston, Jamaica.

Hudson

In an era when supergroups are discovered on practically a daily basis, a brand new trio of rock and rollers hardly lends too much enthusiasm.

Except if your name is HUDSON.

Except if Bernie Taupin decides to put his producing talents and energies behind you.

Except if you really ARE talented musicians and composers.

Except if you're part of Rocket Records' exclusive roster.

Except if you're also part of the MCA family.

Except if you've just released your first single in the States and already creating havoc.

Now you can understand MCA's pride in presenting HUDSON.

Picks of the Week

MARVIN GAYE (Tamla 54241 F)

Come Get To This (2:40) (Jobete, ASCAP—M. Gaye)

Marvin really got it on with his last super smash and this one is going to keep his career moving up just as fast. The easy flow here and super rhythm section hugging Marvin's vocals will delight his fans, who in turn will give him his next Top Five monster. Flip: no info. available.

HELEN REDDY (Capitol P-3768)

Leave Me Alone (Ruby Red Dress) (3:26) (Brooklyn/Anne-Rachel, ASCAP—L. Laurie)

Out a week, culled from her great "Long Hard Climb" LP and already charted. That's not only due to the strength of Helen as artist, but that's also due to the fact that this song is pure magic. Bright, bouncy and vibrant is the performance and close your eyes and visualize the production number that goes along with the tune. Let's call this one a certain Number One record. Flip: The Old Fashion Way (2:56) (Chappell, ASCAP—G. Garvarentz, A. Kasha, J. Hirschhorn).

WAR (United Artists XW 350-W)

Me And Baby Brother (3:30) (Far Out, ASCAP—S. Allen, H. Brown, M. Dickerson, L. Jordan, C. Miller, L. Oskar, H. Scott)

From the group that has most definitely got their hit kit together, this latest War single, culled from their recent "Deliver The Word" LP, is certain to be their next Top Ten smash. A little more up tempo than its single predecessors, there's no doubt that this one will impress most everyone upon first spin. Flip: no info. available.

SLY & THE FAMILY STONE (Epic 5-11060)

Frisky (3:10) (Stoneflower, BMI—S. Stewart)

Culled from the groups "Fresh" album, this follow up to "If You Want Me To Stay" should make considerable noise on both AM and FM dials. Hot and cool rhythms combined in almost pop jazz unison, coupled with Sly's unique vocals make this one a Top Ten certainty. Flip: If It Were Left Up To Me (Stoneflower, BMI—S. Stewart)

JOE SIMON (Spring 141)

River (3:10) (Lonport, BMI—E. McDaniels)

By far his strongest effort in some time, Joe delivers a most entertaining, and different, pop powerhouse that should have no difficulty finding its way into the Top 20. An easy, yet soulful rocker with a great hook, set up the flood gates, "River" is coming on. Flip: no info. available.

SUZI QUATRO (Bell 416)

Can The Can (3:34) (Chinnichap/RAK, ???—Chinn, Chapman)

It's no wonder that this record was a Number One smash in Britain or that Suzi is one of the hottest artists to come across the Atlantic in years. This high energy rocker, her second single release in a couple of months is definitely the one to break her in America and get her career really going. Hooks abound as do super lead guitar, bass drums and keyboards, all in making for a great record. Flip: no info. available.

ELECTRIC LIGHT ORCHESTRA (United Artists XW 337-W)

Showdown (3:49) (Anne-Rachel/Yellow Dog, ASCAP—J. Lynne)

The ELO is back to finish what "Roll Over Beethoven" started, and that's exactly what this one is going to do—with one exception. Not as feverish, this one can almost be termed "classical blues" and sheds a new light on the group that most folks will immediately be attracted to. That one exception? This one should be a Top 10 item whereas the group's last wasn't. Flip: no info. available.

EARTH, WIND & FIRE (Columbia 4-45953)

Keep Your Head To The Sky (3:25) (Hummit, BMI—M. White)

The title track of their highly successful LP has finally been released and is ready to take its place prominently on the charts. In creating a smooth blend of music and vocal harmony, the group succeeds in creating their most powerful single release to date. Both r&b and pop markets will pick up here, with both areas making this one a definite monster. Flip: Build Your Nest (3:16) (Hummit, BMI—M. White, V. White).

THE PERSUADERS (Atco 6943)

Some Guys Have All The Luck (3:29) (KEC, ASCAP—J. Fortgang)

From the sweet opening strings to lead vocal to top harmony, this one's got smash marked all over it. Not only have the Persuaders become one of the biggest pop r&b groups around today, but their material has improved to this fine point. Easy flowing, smooth performance makes this their best to date. Chart and air action will prove that point. Flip: no info. available.

JACKIE MOORE (Atlantic 2989)

Both End Against The Middle (2:30) (Cotillion/Cookie Box, BMI—P. Hurtt, A. Bell)

Sweet Jackie is back to follow her "Sweet Charlie Babe" hit with this powerhouse that's going to easily cross r&b and pop markets as it flows up the charts. Strong, up front vocal by Jackie makes this easy driver even more inviting. Flip: no info. available.

THE HUES CORPORATION (RCA APBO 0139)

Miracle Maker (Sweet Soul Shaker) (3:16) (Screen Gems-Columbia/Summerhill Songs, BMI—B. Mann, C. Weil)

The stallion's been freed and this group is definitely into high gear. In following up their recent hit, the Corporation treats this sweet Barry Mann-Cynthia Weil tune to a most tender performance, complete with a strong string section to tie everything together. No miracle here, just a certain smash. Flip: no info. available.

DAVID CASSIDY (Bell 413)

The Puppy Song (2:44) (Dunbar, BMI—H. Nilsson)

It's been a rocky road of late for David, hit wise, but this cute, honky-tonking Harry Nilsson tune should do much to change things for the better. Captures a laid-back "Sweet Gypsy Rose" quality that folks seem to be picking up on these days. Couple that with David's vocals and it powerfully spells "hit." Flip: no info. available.

ROY WOOD (United Artists XW 320-W)

Songs Of Praise (3:25) (Anne Rachel/Yellow Dog, ASCAP—R. Wood)

From the Roy Wood rock and roll bag of tricks comes this Top 40 natural complete with top flight lead vocal and hooks (with chorus). Everything works here and works well at that in making what is certain to be Roy's first solo hit in the U.S. since his move from the Move. Flip: no info. available.

THE NEWBEATS (Buddah 390)

The Way You Do The Things You Do (2:43) (Jobete, BMI—W. Robinson, B. Rogers)

It's been a while since these "Bread and Butter" guys have been on the charts, but this classic Temptations tune is gonna do it. Arranged a la "Get Ready" and the beats great "Run Baby Run," this is a rock and roll delight that both AM and FM markets will run to. Looks like another great rebirth of another great sixties group. Flip: no info. available.

CHUCK JACKSON (ABC 11398)

I Can't Break Away (3:36) (Colgems/Gary Zekley, ASCAP—G. Zekley, M. Bottler)

Chuck is back and stronger than ever with this heavy r&b track that's going to re-establish the man on both r&b and pop charts. It's got a Four Tops feel, but the drive is all Chuck's. Should give stations playlists some genuine life. Flip: no info. available.

LIVINGSTON TAYLOR (Capricorn 0032)

Somewhere Over The Rainbow (2:41) (Leo Fiest, ASCAP—H. Arlen, E. Y. Harbug)

This is one of those records that's almost impossible to dislike or not listen to. Liv's performance of the classic tune is simply mesmerizing and most folks will feel the same way upon first listening. Look for this one to be an absolute smash. Flip: no info. available.

ANDY WILLIAMS (Columbia 4-45936)

Solitaire (4:20) (Don Kirshner/Kec, ASCAP & BMI—N. Sedaka, P. Cody)

Andy hasn't been a chart item for quite some time, but this absolutely gorgeous ballad is going to be the one to get him back. His usually tender vocals seem more so this time around and with background musicians the likes of Nicky Hopkins and Klaus Voorman, it seems that this one just can't miss. Flip: no info. available.

THE MARKETTS (Mercury 73433)

Mystery Movie Theme (2:14) (Leeds, ASCAP—H. Mancini)

Considering the popularity of the NBC Sunday Night Mystery Movie Series (McCloud, McMillan & Wife, Columbo and Hec Ramsey), this theme right about now is one of the most relatable themes around today. The Marketts work the Mancini theme perfectly and the result is a tune that's going to enchant pop and MOR's. A left field hit, maybe, but a hit nonetheless. Flip: Sister Candy (3:11) (Antigua/Unichappell, BMI—B. Benay).

Newcomer Picks

ELLIOTT MURPHY (Polydor 14203)

Last Of The Rock Stars (3:12) (Elliott Murphy, ???—E. Murphy)

Hopefully not the last of the rock stars, Elliott Murphy makes this amazingly impressive debut where he will definitely become the next major rock star. Highly reminiscent of Bruce Springsteen with an ability to structure lyrics like early Bob Dylan, Elliott is definitely chartbound. His future is stronger than most other "rock stars." Truly a genuine talent. Flip: no info. available.

HUDSON (MCA/Rocket 40141)

If You Really Need Me (1:53) (Lornhole, BMI—Hudson)

A totally impressive debut by this super fine British trio demonstrates solid rock, tight harmonies and strong lead performances. To top it all off, Bernie Taupin produced. Definitely a hit and from the sounds of things, the sky is the limit. Flip: no info. available.

ERIC & THE VIKINGS (Gordy 7132)

I'm Truly Yours (2:59) (Jobete, ASCAP—G. Gordy, L. Brown, E. Stover)

Hard driving debut from a top flight Motor City group, reminiscent of the O'Jays with a tune to match. Tune has obvious r&b appeal, but pop markets should be banging the drum on this one in no time. With a label push, this one should be Top Ten. Flip: no info. available.

ULTRA HIGH FREQUENCY (Wand 11262)

Incompatible (2:41) (Nickel Shoe—Steal Bros., BMI—M. Steals, M. Steals)

Another debut and another totally impressive one from this label which recently gave the world the Independents. This group is definitely named properly as their music, especially this track, takes to the heights in no time and stays there from start to finish. A hard driving r&b piece with a great future on the charts. Flip: no info. available.

SENATOR SAM ERVIN (Columbia 4-45956)

Bridge Over Troubled Water (2:32) (Paul Simon, BMI—P. Simon)

Watergate is many things to many people, but if those now infamous hearings have done nothing else yet, they have most definitely brought the name of Sam Ervin into prominence. The Senator debuts here on record with this Paul Simon classic, dramatically read to give added meaning to the song and to the times it was written about. Here's one case where lyrics will most certainly be heard. Flip: Zeke And The Snake (1:40) (Mayoham, ASCAP—S. Ervin).

Newcomer Picks

NANA MOUSKOURI (Bell 411)

Early On The Home (A Town Near Montreal) (3:29) (Senor, ASCAP—A. Tucker, B. Lobb, A. Hawkins)

Great soprano finally comes through with what should be her first major Stateside success. Sweet, pop narrative highlighted by Ms. Mouskouri's powerful voice should be attractive to those same folks who went all out over Vicki Lawrence. Watch this one climb, and the rise should be rapid. Flip: no info. available.

KEISA BROWN (United Artists XW338-W)

Five On The Black Hand Side (2:42) (Unart, BMI—H. B. Barnum, M. Marlowe, J. Cobbin, J. Wilson, R. Murray)

From the forthcoming motion picture of the same name comes this outrageously good and funky title track as performed by a certainly outrageously funky young lady, Keisa Brown. Starts slow, but builds to a fever pitch in no time. If the film's as good as its song, watch out! Flip: no info. available.

THE SUNDANCE KIDS featuring BUTCH CASSIDY (Romar/MGM 713)

Blue (2:34) (Low-Sal, BMI—R. Nix, D. Daugherty, P. Goddard)

More T.V. rock from the younger set that's music for anyone's ears. A good strong pop rocker with tight harmonies and lead vocals, this one's going to definitely establish this group as a force in Top 40. "Blue" is the color of a true hit record. Flip: Little Miss Magic (2:05) (Low-Sal, BMI—B. Buie, J. Cobb, R. Nix).

DARREN GREEN (RCA APBO 0154)

Peek-A-Boo (3:00) (Van McCoy/Interior, BMI—McCoy, Cobb)

This one's not gonna be playing hide and seek for long because this is one lady that's making some real r&b noise. With a top flight song to work with, Ms. Green really gets down to do and delivers her vocals with that finesse that's got "Hit" marked in bold letters. Flip: no info. available.

GENTLEHOOD (Columbia 4-45930)

He Said She Said (2:56) (Eitneg/Gentle, ASCAP—T. Russo, S. Khanzadian, T. Fiegel)

Soft, unique rocker from this strong new harmony oriented band should impress many programmers and listeners with its soft-to-up-tempo hooks. From the group's debut album, the track is the natural single choice and should do well on its own. Flip: no info. available.

TUNNIE SMITH (Fame XW 329-W)

Finders Aren't Always Keepers (3:17) (Fame, BMI—G. Jackson, R. Townsend)

Another young rocker from the Donny Osmond/Michael Jackson school of pop, Tunnie (pronounced Toon-ie) comes forth with a solid rocker that should have no difficulty finding its way to the charts. Flip: no info. available.

Foghat
Strawbs

ACADEMY OF MUSIC, NYC — Foghat, one of the hardest rocking bands in rock, booked a packed audience at the Academy of their feet with a dazzling display of musical pyrotechnics and showmanship. Singer David Peeverett was at his best wailing and shouting alternately behind the tight unit of Rod Price on slide guitar, Tony Stevens on bass, and Roger Earl on drums.

Starting with the powerful rocker "Road Fever," the group proceeded to whip the crowd up into a frenzy with numbers like "Trouble, Trouble," "Fly By Night," "Wild Cherry," "Maybeline," and "I Just Wanna Make Love To You" going over extremely well.

In fact, the response to the band's set was so positive, they were called back for two encores the first of which was highlighted by "Honey Hush," the second by "What A Shame" and "Step Outside." One of the most explosive groups ever to appear in New York, their next gig here is awaited anxiously.

The Strawbs managed to get as much mileage out of their forty minute set as any band we've ever seen. Relentlessly pursuing their audience's interest, they were stunning with "Lay Down," "New World," "Invictus," and "Heavy Disguise." "Tears/Pavon," from their LP, "Bursting At The Seams" was so compelling, the group was called back for an encore that can best be described as a radical departure from traditional Strawb bill of fare.

"And Wherefore," their encore, was a rousing boogie woogie rocker featuring superb keyboard by John Hawken who was complimented by a driving rhythm section of Chas Cronk on bass and Rod Coombs on drums. Dave Lambert on lead guitar played some of the tastiest licks of his performing career and guitarist/lead singer David Cousins was his usual effective self. Amazingly, Strawbs get tighter with each gig, a fact which drew a five minute ovation from the audience at the end of the energy-paced set. d.b.

Mahavishnu
Orchestra
John Fahey

QUEENS COLLEGE, FLUSHING, N.Y. — Colden Auditorium, one of the finest concert halls on the East Coast, was the scene of the best performances ever presented by Columbia's Mahavishnu Orchestra. Both visually and ecoustically superb, the hall's packed crowd watched in awe as John McLaughlin on guitar, Billy Cobham behind the drums, Jan Hammer at the moog synthesizer and keyboards, Rick Laird on bass, and Jerry Goodman on electric violin, played for a solid 2½ hours. Opening with the title track from their Columbia album "Birds of Fire," the group was unbelievably excellent. Just watching McLaughlin play guitar is a thrill and an experience but was even more so on this night. Billy Cobham played like no one I've seen in a long long time. He was amazingly quick especially on his last solo some two hours into the show. Goodman was in perfect balance but Laird's bass and Hammer's keyboards could have been louder. You had to be there to hear Jan's solo; it was unreal. For those of you unacquainted with the group, their music is jazz, rock, classical, and a variety of other terms that can only give an inkling. Each piece is an instrumental; any words would be inappropriate. An eclectic exchange between McLaughlin and Cobham highlighted the encore "One Word." The group also presented some new material during the set, their first since returning from Japan.

Opening the show was Warner/Reprise guitarist extraordinaire John Fahey. p.x.

Climax Blues Band
Good Rats

MY FATHER'S PLACE, ROSLYN, NY — In their only NY club appearance, Sire recording artists, the Climax Blues Band had an attentive audience for their last of six sets this weekend. Opening with "All The Time In The World" from the "Rich Man" album, Climax had a well balanced sound for the club and the music flowed smoothly all night. From Peter Haycock's very fine guitar work and Colin Cooper's saxophones sounding like organs (probably plugged into Leslie speakers), the music had the people singing and stomping throughout. This was most evident on "Shake Your Love" and the encore of "Going to New York." Combining blues, rock, country, the English group put on an excellent set that had everyone calling for more well after the lights came on, I await their next studio release eagerly.

Opening the show was a local group, the Good Rats. Although on the scene several years now, only two original members remain; Peppi and Micky Marchello. Peppi writes all of the group's material and is the lead singer while brother Micky plays rhythm guitar. Rounding out the band is Lenny Kutke on bass, Joe Franco behind the drums and Mike Raff (inello) on lead guitar. The group is extremely tight and play some very gutsy rock and roll but also do ballads, excellently. All material is original and the second tune of the set "Back To My Music" was particularly good. The Good Rats have a very well balanced sound with Peppi's vocals powerfully out front. Aside from jumping around the stage, and throwing out rubber rats, he looks a lot like Ian Anderson of Jethro Tull and sounds a bit like Burton Cummings of the Guess Who. p.s.

Leo Kottke

HOFSTRA UNIV., HEMPSTEAD, N.Y. — Leo Kottke's two shows here brought out the guitar freaks and they weren't disappointed. At the late show, he just played and played and played on his two amplified acoustic guitars. "Tiny Island," "Hear The Wind Howl," "Eight Miles High," "Guess I Owe It All To Pamela Brown," "Watermelon," and "Louise" are only a small sampling of the compositions he performed. Many of the instrumentals you had to see to believe. The Capitol recording artist had the crowd so mesmerized that you could hear a pin drop. Not bad! The intimacy of the club proved perfect for the audience and its star, Leo Kottke. p.s.

Book Review:
'Starring Fred Astaire'

Stanley Green writes the most entertaining and informative textbooks on the American musical theatre/films. "Starring Fred Astaire" (Dodd, Mead & Co., $22.50) is no exception. His words and Burt Goldblatt's generous photo layouts provide a definitive pictorial/statistical rundown of Astaire's career plus many interesting points of view and little known facts about Astaire and his associations in Broadway, London and Hollywood productions. The giants of American composers wrote songs for the singer/dancer, including the Gershwins, Cole Porter, Irving Berlin, Frank Loesser, Harold Arlen, Burton Lane, Harry Warren, Johnny Mercer, among others. All their contributions to Astaire efforts are thoroughly documented, as is practically everything else the student of Astaire and his art could hope for. Detailed data, yes. But copy, including dialog from Astaire shows and movies, that puts the genius of Astaire into sharp, enlightening focus. p.s.

Cleo Laine
John Dankworth

CARNEGIE HALL, NYC — The stage of Carnegie Hall was graced last week by the return of Cleo Laine and John Dankworth. The technique of cascading rhythms created a hypnotic effect as the vocal wealth of Ms. Laine poured forth to our eager ears.

Displaying virtuosic flexibility, Cleo's richness of the lower register was complimented by her dynamic jumps into the upper register. Her controlled ability in casual scat singing has been compared to the likes of Sarah Vaughn and Ella Fitzgerald. Cleo's instrumental accompaniment featured John Dankworth on alto saxophone and B flat clarinet, Anthony Hymas on piano and electric piano, Daryl Runswick on bass and guitar, and Graham Morgan on drums, and was an extremely tight knit group giving solid backing to Cleo's animated vocals.

An incredibly diverse format the program included liquid transitions from the jazz standard "Perdido" done with the new grace and developed scat singing of Cleo, to the musical verse instrumentation by Dankworth being set to the works of Rupert Brooke, T. S. Eliot, and Alun Owen.

During a short interlude from Cleo, the finesse shown on the bebop version of Gershwin's "I Got Rhythm" featured outstanding solo spots by Dankworth, Runswick, and Morgan.

The RCA recording artist's rendition of Richard Rodney Bennets "Soliloquy" and the musical adaptation by Dankworth of Shakespeare's Songs added to the unique spectrum of this musical extravaganza.

The elasticity of Cleo's style was amply demonstrated in a number of novelty cuts including "Peel Me a Grape," "Big Best Shoes," and "Control Yourself."

The captivating and alluring Ms. Laine will do much to reestablish the internationalism of jazz. m.d.

Harry Chapin
Lori Jacobs

BITTER END, NYC — The master of happenstance storytelling was at his prime on his closing night at the Bitter End. The episodic folk life gives Chapin's inimitable storytelling prowess a slice of life flavor tinged with folksy realism. The evocative sound the band had with John Wallace on bass, Ron Palmer on lead guitar, and Michael Masters on cello, made the music come alive.

The set crossed from folk to choir-like instrumentation, to semi-rock and back to folk again. The excellent range of Wallace's vocal backing took the listener from the fragile delicacy of a well controlled falsetto, to the broad full bodied tone of baritone.

Chapin, appearing on acoustic guitar, banjo, and harmonica, integrated his powerful vocals with some very interesting asides. His spontaneous comedic remarks added zest to the overall performance.

A tight group, the controlled instrumentation allowed for tempo variations par excellence. The lullaby-like quality of Michael's cello gave the rhythms a particularly animated quality. A true crowd pleaser, the Elektra recording artist was called back for an encore, and to the delight of all he wound up the set with the powerfully frenetic "Sniper."

Capitol recording artist Lori Jacobs did the opening set of the show. Clad in riding cap and decked with acoustic guitar Ms. Jacobs did more than merely "warm-up" the audience. With a refined and polished Joplin-like quality to her voice and adroit guitar work, she comes across vibrantly. Doubling on piano, this talented young lady's stylization is most unique. d.b.

Taj Mahal
Linda Lewis

TROUBADOR L.A. — He can whistle, whisper or even sneeze and music is the result. He can sing songs that everybody and their grandmother has heard a million times and they become fresh and new. He can play the banjo, the mandolin, the guitar or the piano, solo on the "thumb piano," call out for sidemen or go it alone. He can demand audience participation, inviting cacaphony and it remains, somehow, musical. Everything that Taj Mahal did on the Troubador stage became another note in an engaging evening of wit and music.

Opening the set without accompaniment, he was eventually joined by guitarist Oshal Wright and bassist Eric Ajaye on songs such as "Little Red Hen," a cut from the recent Columbia Records LP, "Oooh So Good 'n Blues." Most of the songs were traditional blues standards, material that requires not just a faithful rendition of music and lyrics, but an intuition and insight that finds its way to the essential musical perception of the audience.

Highlighting the set was a reggae piece, "Johnny You're Too Bad" that featured a howling chorus and funky syncopation that left the audience pounding tables for an encore.

Linda Lewis is a pretty romanticist from England who rivets a crowds attention with charm and songs that bring to mind the lyrical talent of Carole King. Performing both unaccompanied and, later, with a very tight backing, she played a variety of songs from a forthcoming Reprise LP, including "Fork-A-Doodle-Do," a successful single release. e.s.

Peter Yarrow Band
Rod McDonald

MAX'S KANSAS CITY, NYC — Many of our folk heroes of the '50's and '60's have gradually formed bands and gone back out on the road to excellent response. Examples include Judy Collins, Buffy Ste. Marie, and now, Peter Yarrow. Formerly one third of Peter, Paul and Mary, he now has an outstanding group of musicians backing him. Peter gets very involved in his songs emotionally; they are not just words set to music. They don't all necessarily have deep significance but there is always something there. At his first show on opening night, he overwhelmed the packed club with a magnificent set that included compositions such as "Isn't That So," a Jesse Winchester tune, "Questions Follow Questions, Answers Follow Answers," a very pretty ballad, "I Shall Be Released" which he sang with Noel (Paul Stookey, and "Way-faring Stranger," a song most notably performed several years ago electrically by H. P. Lovecraft. The title track of his latest Warner Brothers album "That's Enough For Me" was beautiful.

You haven't heard "Oh Happy Day" 'til you hear the Peter Yarrow Band do it complete with do-wops. Reaching back into the past, "Stewball" was an excellent choice. For an encore Peter performed "Puff the Magic Dragon" and "This Land Is Your Land." He still insists that "Puff" was not about a giant smoke-in! Peter has a very fine voice and uses it extremely well. Watching him is a show in itself as the man puts so much into the song. Many times you can envision him actually crying on a sad song. You certainly don't see many performers do that. The band is comprised of Brian Cuomo on keyboards, David Scance on guitar and piano, Brother Peter Scance on bass, and Paul Marchetti behind the drums. The group uses a mellotron which adds much to their sound. To now hear them without it would be disappointing. The Peter Yarrow Band offered folk, rock, blues, and sing-alongs. It was an absolute pleasure to see them. p.s.

Famous Inks Tara; Bets On Euro-Pop

Several months ago Famous Music Corporation got Sire Records' Dutch group Focus on the U.S. charts demonstrating that continental European rock can sustain itself with American audiences. Now Famous moves further into the distribution of European pop by signing the newly-created Tara Records a label designed to bring top ten European hits to this country. The announcement of the recent Tara contract has been announced by Tony Martelli president of Famous Music and Dick Broderick Tara International president.

Tara Records an offshoot of Tara International is releasing European chart hit singles as recorded by the original artists. The company's first single "Eres Tu" (released September 12, 1973) is recorded by Spain's six-member group, Mocedades; the tune is a winner in this year's Eurovision song contest held in Luxemburg. Contestants from all over the continent entered the annual competition, sponsored by European TV stations and broadcast throughout Europe. Mocedades' Tara single has double-sided interest, "Touch The Wind" in English and "Eres Tu," the Spanish flip side. The song, which was Number One in Spain, is a Bill Gavin pick and is receiving air play over local FM stations.

Following Mocedades' record Tara plans to release "School Girl Notion," sung by Janey Marlow an English vocalist. "School Girl Notion" was produced by Tony Evers at Young Blood, the company that produced Apollo 100's "Joy."

Other European pop stars in Tara are Austria's Ben Thomas, Canada's Joshua, and Ireland's Larry Hogan.

NEWLY WED—Cash Box publisher George Albert and his wife Edna, were among some 250 guests at a wedding reception honoring the first of the performing Osmonds to marry, Merrill and his new bride, Mary. The reception was held at the Beverly Hills home of former MGM Records president Mike Curb and co-hosted by Mr. and Mrs. Tony Scotti, both MGM Records executives and Mr. and Mrs. Ed Leffler. Leffler is the Osmonds' personal manager. The newlyweds along with other members of the family are now on a major concert tour of Britain and the continent.

20th Growth Adds Madara Firms To Pubbery Division

HOLLYWOOD — Herb Eiseman, president of 20th Century Music, and John Madara have signed agreements making Madara's companies, Double Diamond Music and Young Ideas, new members of the publishing organization run by Eiseman.

Madara, to date, has published, produced or written 39 chart records, reflecting some 40 million units in record sales. Chart-toppers have included "1,2,3," "Expressway to Your Heart" and "Western Union Man."

Also, as the discoverer of the singing/producing duo of Gamble and Huff, Madara owns over 80 of their songs. He presently is producing the Rowan Brothers and Hal Blain for Columbia Records, and Kyle for MGM.

Growth In Year

Under the year-old Eiseman aegis, 20th Century Music Group has since acquired and administers 26 companies, in addition to the three owned-outright companies; 20th Century Music Corp., Fox fan fare Music Inc., and Bregman, Vocco, & Conn. Of the 30 recording acts on 20th Century Records, 17 have recorded songs whose copyrights are either owned or administered by 20th Century Music. Copyrights include "Raindrops Keep Falling on My Head," "Jean," "Misty" and "Fools Rush In."

Upon leaving Jobete Music to helm the company, Eiseman's first order of business was to increase the contemporary inventory, which he did with the multiple company administrative acquisitions. These companies published the works of some 40 active writers and artists. From the outset, one of his chief goals was to incorporate a stronger interinvolvement and interest between the publishing and record wings, as well as with the parent film company.

Consequently, within the last 12 months the results have produced two gold records, "The Morning After" and "Bright Side of Darkness," with a third expected with the late Jim Croce's release of "I Got a Name" from the film "The Last American Hero."

GRC Inks Group

ATLANTA, Ga. — General Recording Corp. (GRC) has signed Steve Ball Band to the firm's GRC label, according to Michael Thevis, president of GRC.

The five-member rock and roll band from Chapel Hill, N.C., composed of Steve Ball, Guthrie Kennard, Scott Davison, Keith Bridges and Mike Deep, have just completed cutting a mixing their first LP at Mega Sound Studio's in Wilson, N.C.

Michael Collins and Lou Childre, of Mega Sound Studio, a Michael Thevis Enterprise, will bring Steve Ball Band's recording to the Sound Pit studio in Atlanta next week for final mix and overdubs.

According to GRC president Thevis, the song "Chain of Fools" will be cut from the LP and released as a single in late Nov. The group's album will be released in Jan.

Kay's appointment as vice president comes at a time when the Welk firms are implementing several programs designed to move them out of their "old-line" image and into positions as major music publishing houses in the industry as it exists today.

"We're into some truly exciting projects involving record production, new print concepts, stage productions, motion pictures, radio, television, and writer and artist development are sculptured to add contemporary copyrights to our catalogs as well as open up new avenues of approach for the exploitation of our great standards," stated Kay. KROQ Dispute Over; Bookasta To Mgmt.

BURBANK — The partners of Burbank Broadcasting, in their role as stockholders and directors of George E. Cameron Jr. Communications Inc. (owner/operator of KROQ am Burbank), have settled a philosophical dispute that has been raging for some time within the ownership and management structure. The difficulties surfaced publicly with rounds of resignations, firings and hirings during the past two weeks, threatening the future direction of the "ROQ."

At a specially called shareholders meeting, the partners, stockholders and directors voted overwhelmingly to confirm their support of the direction and station philosophy as outlined by company founder Gary Bookasta.

A new slate of directors was elected, and they immediately voted to urge Bookasta, who had previously been acting in a liaison role between ownership and management, to assume active management of the station and to see that KROQ's progress in the area as a progressive station is fully carried forth.

After determining that the views of certain previous board and management personnel were irreconcilable with the majority, Bookasta agreed to accept the active management role on the basis that he would act as general manager until such time as the company has reached high gear in its chosen direction and until the appropriate permanent manager can be retained. Bookasta will be replacing previous general manager Gary Price. Other key figures departing as a result of the board decision are sales manager Lee Larsen and program director Jim Taber.

Bookasta, taking the reins of day-to-day management, signaled the return to the fold of air personalities Jimmie "rabbitt," Sam Riddle and Shadoo Stevens, all of whom had previously exited, when management and direction appeared in doubt.

In addition to resuming his deejay chores, Stevens will also assume duties as program director. Stevens had turned a successful stint as PD of KRLA before resigning to join the "ROQ." He immediately announced that Michael J. Schweinsburg, long time administrative assistant to Bookasta, has been named music director.

R & B INGREDIENTS—Fans and blues aficionados, who did manage to catch Willie Dixon during a limited engagement recently at Kenny's Castaways in Manhattan, certainly did not go away disappointed in having had the opportunity to catch this legendary bluesman. The artists who have performed his material reads not unlike that of a who's who. "Spoonful," "Back Door Man," "Bring It On Home" and "I Can't Quit You Baby" are some of the scores of tunes from this master storyteller. Willie, a native of Vicksburg, took up permanent residence in Chicago when he was 17. His first big selling tune was, "Signifying Monkey" and then in the early 50's Muddy Waters brought home "I'm Your Hoochie Coochie Man." Willie Dixon was in on the early Chuck Berry and Bo Diddley sessions. The Rolling Stones recorded "The Little Red Rooster" which was originally written for bluesman Howlin' Wolf. Willie still handles the standup bass with perfection. Whether it's down home shuffle, slow walkin' or struttin', Willie and his back up band put it together. "Soul Wrinkles" a new tune is outstanding. "Willie Dixon—Catalyst" is available on Ovation Records. . . . Pop jazz organist Seleno Clarke goes into Buddy's Supper Club at 1812 Rhode Island Ave., N.E. in Wash., D.C., Friday the 26th of Oct. James Stemley is owner host of the popular spot. Seleno is now completing new LP product. . . . "In order to be a real blues singer—speaking from my own experience—you have to go through some of the things that you sing about," says Bobby 'Blue' Bland. The ABC-Dunhill Records veteran, who plays Nov. 7-11 at the Whisky a Go Go in Hollywood with the Dixie Hummingbirds, has had over 30 single records on the music magazine charts, and more than that on the Harlem, race, r&b and soul charts. His current single, "This Time I'm Gone For Good" is #32 bulleted on CB R&B chart. His name is a legend, even to those who have never heard him sing, and he is considered one of the greatest pop-blues singers of our times. "It's not what you say," Bland says, "but how you say it. I try to do songs in a ballad-type way, where it won't be strictly blues. Now what I have basically to rely on is the blues, but I educate myself through a spectrum of records, and people that I think have something to offer me. "For instance," he admits, "I've always admired Tony Bennett, Perry Como and Andy Williams. This is the thing that I based my blues on, and I have quite a few of their records that I listen to, and learn from."

CHECK IT OUT DEPT.—"Do You Have The Time," The Younghearts on 20th Cent. Also, 20th Cent. has signed Patti & The Love Lights, "Love So Strong" sounds like a winner. . . . The "Roar of '74," the title of Rich's debut album for the label, served as the theme of the party which was introduced via six souped up racing cars roaring thru West 52nd Street to a screeching halt at the front door of Jimmy's where the Rich band is appearing. Buddy Rich, a racing car enthusiast himself, then took the wheel of one of the souped up racers, much to the delight of the large lunch time crowd that had gathered in front of the restaurant.

Half Note Celebrates Uptown Anni

NEW YORK — For fifteen years jazz aficionados beat their way downtown to Spring and Hudson Streets to the Half Note to groove to the music of Dizzy and Mingus and Zoot and Carmen and Anita and other jazz giants presented nightly by the Half Note proprietors, the Canterino family. Came the rock revolution and jazz and jazz emporiums virtually disappeared into the never land of other declassé art forms—except for diehard faithfuls, like the Half Note, which kept going even though customers now trickled instead of streamed in.

By the late 1960's the neighborhood around Spring and Hudson fell into decline, but it wasn't until last October 19 that the Canterinos finally packed their reservations book, moved uptown to 149 West 54th Street (the building was once Texas Guinan's carriage house). Not only did the regulars find the new Half Note but so did a new and younger crop of fans. And it looks like the beat will go on. Coincidental with the Half Note's move uptown, jazz began its big comeback all over town (even Horn & Hardardth's doing it) and people are once again coming out to dig the sounds of Dizzy and Zoot not to mention the Modern Jazz Quartet, another jazz establishment celebrating some 21 years of top-notch music which is currently playing a two week engagement at the Half Note through October 27.

NEW YORK—JIMMY IENNER: EYE-NEAR THE TOP

During the "golden era" of rock and roll, i.e. somewhere between spit curls and puddin' basin haircuts, there were a lot of producers and arrangers who were taking advantage of their acts. These producers were assuming all the credit and the groups were exploited and simply getting "ripped off." For example, these producers, and I use the term loosely, would go in with any particular group putting their names on the records without even showing up for the sessions. Ienner said, "They would take a cab and I walked. I was freezing and these cats were warm." Then all of a sudden logic hit him in the face. That was the start because he wanted more return, both monetarily and otherwise, and a bigger reputation. This "door-opener" increased his sense of objectivity, and to counteract this dilemma Ienner made the transition into producing to protect himself.

Jimmy Ienner, is producer of Raspberries, Lighthouse, J. F. Murphy and Salt, and most recently the Chambers Brothers. He goes into the studio this month to begin laying down tracks with the Brothers on their new album.

During the aforementioned "golden era" Jimmy was part of The Five Satins. Consequently, because of the unscrupulous antics of the producers he began producing his own material. It was not an easy transition to make as Jimmy said, "We didn't know what was happening. We started taking chances and then spending our own bread." Things started to click, but Jimmy's tenacity motivated him into learning production techniques inside and out. With the avid curiosity of the dilettante he spent three and a years at Southern Music which would evolve into his solid based professionalism in the business.

Gaining rapid prominence in the music industry because of his hustling nature, Jimmy fell under the watchful eye of Victor Benedetto, the principal of C.A.M.-U.S.A. An international publisher, C.A.M.-U.S.A.'s primary interest was movies, but has since made the move into the music business. Ienner then became partners with Benedetto, and has been with C.A.M.-U.S.A. for the last two and a half years.

Ienner doesn't want to back one label in particular, because he wants more independence and to do the best for his act. "I don't want to be dependent on one company he said, I don't want to have to worry about billing or priorities. I just want what is the best for my act." Ienner defines limitations for his act but gives latitude. In other words he may appear restrictive, but never to the point where it would have an adverse effect upon his act, as stifling creativity or injuring productivity.

In reality he is more of a coordinator than a producer. His involvement with an act is more profound than viewing the act as a mere business commodity, for he looks for a group's welfare and deplores misdirection. Having been on the receiving end of the garbage that went down in the past, Ienner touches on everything that the group does. From the restructuring of songs, to management, liner notes, itineraries, and a thousand other details of which Ienner is cognizant of all.

Ienner's down to earth attitude is exemplified by the importance he places upon the relationship he has with an act. "My first commitment is to their music, but once I believe in them I'll stay. I like to relate first as a friend and second as a business venture."

Jimmy has been good friends with the Chambers Brothers for quite a while. They hang out together, eat together and generally spend a great deal of time with each other. Jimmy was uptight about the abuse and ripoffs they suffered through mismanagement. One night over a pool game they turned to Jimmy and asked him if he would take them on. Jimmy got it together to produce them and the title of their new album "Relieved" is indicative of the feeling Jimmy elicited from them.

When asked how he discovered The Raspberries he retorted, "Well I get about forty tapes a week that I listen to. I got this tape from a group of kids that sounded really good to me. They sent me another tape and I flew out to Cleveland to see them. There they were, a group of crazy kids yelling back and forth between riffs. I realized their potential, became attached to them, and well you know the rest."

Yes, we do know the rest. A hard-hitting group like "The Raspberries" tells it all. Yet, even in his jocularly brazen way Ienner lets you know that it was a friendship and a feeling of gratification for the Raspberries' success more than just clicking with a hot act.

Lighthouse goes back into the studio in January. Their recently released album "Can You Feel It?" features a new type of vocal and different arrangements then

HOLLYWOOD—TAJ MAHAL—COWS, BLUES AND THE TAO

The success of Taj Mahal is one of those enigmas born of the 1960's when anti-commercialism became a viable commercial quality. But unlike many performers who emerged from that era with a fashionably anti-establishment pose, Taj Mahal's thoughts on music and the society in which he is a musician are well articulated, lucid and sincere. "Here's an alternative," the blues singer told Cash Box. "If you want to listen to it, listen to it, but its going to make you work. You're not going to be able to just sit there and turn on your box while it jumps all over you. You've got to do something about this and if you don't like it, don't come to my concert." His club engagement at the Troubador was completely sold out at the time of this interview, and a road schedule finds him solidly booked on a national tour of campuses, clubs and concert halls. Apparently, a sizeable audience is willing to work at listening to the alternative of Taj Mahal's music.

Taj started to perform the country blues at a time when most young black musicians were involved with either r&b or the avant-garde jazz movement that was then flourishing. Roots were already being defined by them as African, and many were exploring the rhythm and instrumentation of Nigerian and black South African music. "They jumped over a whole area of music," said Taj. "There's a lot of good stuff cut there that nobody ever gets to hear, and a lot of black musicians were just unfamiliar with it. I had some friends from down south, and I got to hear some funky blues records that they brought up with them. It interested me because it took dexterity to play it, to get back to simplicity. I felt that if you could get the blues together, you could play any kind of music."

Taj Mahal's repertoire does not consist entirely of blues. In the past few years, he has appeared with a ten-piece band with four tubas, played solo pieces on the African karimba, or thumb piano, and experimented with Jamaican reggae. His father, a Jamaican, was a jazz arranger and pianist until he "gave it up to raise a family," and Taj's background included an extensive acquaintance with be-bop and big band jazz. Originally from Brooklyn, he didn't really take to the city and at an early age developed an interest in farming. "I liked anything that made me relaxed. Farming did that and music, too, so I got into both." At college, he majored in animal husbandry and eventually was graduated from the University of Massachusetts School of Agriculture.

While Taj Mahal's public has primarily consisted of white college students and "the people who read Rolling Stone," he is beginning to gain attention with many young blacks as well. His appearance in the movie "Sounder," in which he acted, sang and played five-string banjo provided a great deal of exposure to many who were previously unfamiliar with his music. "Black people are just starting to realize that there's all kinds of things that make black, just as there's all kinds of things that make white. They don't have much money, though, and they have to really know that something is good before they'll buy it. By next year, I think, more and more black people will know about us." A future film project might be a black cowboy comedy, if he could get "the right people involved in it."

The name Taj Mahal, he claims, was culled from dreams. "Also," he said, "I figured that that place is the gateway for Eastern thought, which I think Westerners have a dire need for at this time." He himself has practiced yoga and maintains an interest in astrology and the Chinese Tao.

Taj's latest LP, "Oooh So Good 'n Blues," is his seventh from Columbia and the third to be self-produced. The entire recording, including some choruses by the Pointer Sisters, took only four days to produce and cost the amazingly low sum of $5000. ("It would have cost only $2500 if I had been more together.") He will continue to produce himself but could not elaborate on the direction his music might take; "I could commercialize it some, but there isn't any challenge in it. You just have to know what it is that you want. I don't want some random piece of music to follow me for the rest of my life because that music is who I am." eliot sekuler

Lighthouse Records is catered to hearing. Their new arrangements are more a part of the overall melody to serve in an augmenting capacity for the ears, which is the only thing that has seen the vascillation of the tongues of the group. The new effort has run the gamut of mixed emotions. Although there is the least solid criterion, as of this point the new Lighthouse album is emotionally controversial. Attempting to classify Lighthouse, because everyone has to pigeon hole acts to feel more at ease, is quite difficult. Classical, but not classical, commercial but not commercial, jazzy, but not jazzy, this group's imbrication makes it an interesting sound.

J. F. Murphy and Salt have no ethnic sound left. Often termed as an Irish sounding band, Jenner said, "The only thing ethnic that is left is the cat's last name. Their new album "The Last Illusion," departs from the old lush sounds and has a more raw feel to it. Nobody sounds like an Jenner production, because all of his "babies" are so diversified.

For the future Jenner would like to see the company grow, to expand but not over extend itself. In other words he would like to see more of an overall strength, i.e. to see the publishing and production strength even out. He hadn't planned on the amount of success he has achieved to be realized so rapidly, and he's looking for a dynamic equilibrium to operate within for the added success of the company. michael david

FOR THE RECORD

PASSING REMARKS — When they played the University of Mississippi, in Oxford, Miss., the touring company of National Lampoon's Lemmings was forced to add a critical caveat to their posters and other advertising by the Ole Miss administration who were "shocked" by the rock revue. The disclaimer read as follows: "Sponsored before we realized what a perverted, scandalous, uncouth and distasteful production it is. Our apologies." Naturally, following the "critique," the show drew an audience of 3,000, nearly twice as many as Johnny Cash had drawn when he broke the attendance record with a crowd of 1,800 at the school. The touring company of the show is so pleased with the administration's quote that they are keeping it on all their posters for the rest of the tour. The parent company is currently in residence at the Village Gate, in New York . . . Jan Akkerman has come out on top in the guitarist category in the Melody Maker poll, beating out Eric Clapton who finished second and Steve Howe (of Yes) who came in third. Akkerman is the first Continental European to win the poll (in any category). In the group category, Yes was voted the world's top group, with Focus finishing second. Other groups in the top ten included Emerson, Lake & Palmer, Pink Floyd, Led Zeppelin, Alice Cooper, and the Rolling Stones. As groups, Yes and Focus both showed up a dozen times out of a possible fourteen categories . . . Bette Midler broke all box office records for opening day sales of tickets for her two week engagement at the Palace, December 3 through the 15th. The line, which began forming Sunday night, attracted local TV news crews as well as major network coverage. The engagement will conclude Miss M's concert tour . . .

EYES ON ALBUMS — As reported here last week, Bruce Springsteen has been in the studio recording his second Columbia LP. Well, this week you get the title (and a goodie it is, too). "The Wild, The Innocent and the E Street Shuffle" is that title. A couple of interesting notes about the Springsteen sessions deserve mentions here, too. During the recording of the album, the singer-songwriter decided to put in his best effort. He did this by living in the recording studio until completion. The project was completed with a bang—a 60 hour marathon of non-stop recording (Blinded by the light????) . . . Columbia has changed the title of the new Johnny Mathis album, produced by Thom Bell, from "Life Is A Song Worth Singing" to "I'm Coming Home," based on the single of the same name . . . A very worthwhile time will be had checking out a new U.A. release entitled "Hourglass." The disk includes some early work by both Duane and Gregg Allman, and boy is it ever tasty . . . Other early Allman stuff can be found on Mercury's "Allman Joys" from the duo's first group some time ago. It's also worth a healthy listen . . . As a result of their tour, the Moody Blues won't be able to get themselves into a studio to record a new LP until sometime during late Spring. That means we won't be seeing, or hearing it until, say, next July or August or September . . . arty goodman

The American premiere featured pianist Daniel Epstein who also appears in the recording.

TIME FADES AWAY—Neil Young—Warner Bros. MS 2151

Neil's latest LP, eight tunes recorded live at various locations is ample proof that the artist maintains one of the most enthusiastic followings in all of music. The title track is an impressive tour de force both for Neil and pianist Jack Nitzche and "Yonder Stands The Sinner" is a strong uptempo number with a guest appearance by David Crosby on guitar and vocals. The lengthy epic "Last Dance" finds Graham Nash joining Neil on guitar and vocals with Crosby adding a third harmony part that fits perfectly as always. New songs and a strong group of performances make Neil's new LP a sure winner.

TRAFFIC—ON THE ROAD—Traffic—Island SMAS-9336

One of the most influential bands in all of rock, Traffic has always been at least one step ahead of the pack. This live LP recorded on tour in Germany highlights four of the compositions that have become acknowledged cornerstones of the group's sound. In addition to charter members Winwood, Capaldi, and Wood, Muscle Shoals musicians Roger Hawkins, Barry Beckett, and David Hood played along with percussionist Reebop giving the songs a much richer, deep feel. "Low Spark Of High Heeled Boys" is an incredible 15 minute miracle. "Uninspired," "Shoot Out At The Fantasy Factory," and "Light Up Or Leave Me Alone" round out this work of energy and determination. Listen closely.

EVERYBODY LOVES SOME KIND OF MUSIC—Billy Preston—A&M SP-3526

Highlighted by the smash hit "Space Race," Billy's latest self-produced LP proves just what an incredible talent he has been for years. The man whose solo career blossomed after he had worked with the Beatles and Leon Russell, now finds himself watched closely by taste-makers everywhere. "You're So Unique," "My Soul Is A Witness," "Do You Love Me?," and "I'm So Tired" are dynamite funky cuts and perfectly compliment the ballads "You've Got Me For Company," "Minuet For Me," and Dylan's "It's Alright Ma (I'm Only Bleeding)." This LP is well put together and is a tribute to Billy's genius and hard work.

WAKE OF THE FLOOD—Grateful Dead—Grateful Dead GD-01

As usual, the millions of Grateful Dead fans around the U.S. will have no difficulty getting into this fine debut album on the group's own new label. All the ingredients the band has made regular features of its music in the past are found here in abundance ranging from the traditional laid back beauty of "Let Me Sing Your Blues Away," "Row Jimmy," and "Stella Blue" to the interesting medium-cook feel of "Mississippi Half-Step Uptown Toodleoo." The Huter-Garcia tune "Eyes Of The World" features some excellent guitar work and part 2 of "Weather Report Suite" is diverse and compelling.

JONATHAN LIVINGSTON SEAGULL ORIGINAL MOTION PICTURE SOUNDTRACK—Neil Diamond—Columbia KS 32550

It seems that Neil was destined to write the score for this captivating film by Hall Bartlett, because he has always been an artist whose scope is as broad as his imagination. Musical director Tom Catalano must be extremely pleased with Neil's rendering of this marvelous album, from the hauntingly majestic "Prologue" to the powerfully touching recapitulation "Be," "Anthem," "The Odyssey," and "Skybird" are profoundly moving in keeping with the theme of the movie. The entire production sparkles with the flavor of a mid-summer afternoon's dream and should provide a lasting memory for the long winter.

PLAYIN' FAVORITES—Don McLean—United Artists UA-LA161-F

It may seem strange for master composer/singer/musician McLean to stray from his own inimitable compositions, but when you listen to his selection of songs written by other giants you'll applaud the wisdom of his decision. "Fool's Paradise" (Linsley-Petty), "Sitting On Top Of The World" (Carter-Jacobs), "Living With The Blues" (Brownie McGhee), "Everyday" (Hardin-Petty), and "Mule Skinner Blues" (Vaughn-Rodgers) all receive distinctive treatment from Don and a host of accomplished studio musicians such as Tony Levin, Rick Marotta, and David Bromberg. But Don drives this LP and it looks to be headed to the top.

FOR EVERYMAN—Jackson Browne—Asylum SD 5067

Super writer/singer/musician Browne continues to be one of the brightest lights in the musical sky and this album is further proof that his star is still ascending. Featuring the smashing hit, "Red Neck Friend," this new LP is an exercise in beauty and precision. Jackson's version of his own "Take It Easy" (Eagles' big hit) is sheer perfection, from his vocal to Sneaky Pete's pedal steel work. "The Times You've Come" is one of the prettiest ballads Jackson's ever written, but then again all the compositions seem to indicate new heights for the artist. "Ready Or Not," "These Days," and "Sing My Songs To Me" are timeless gems.

FAREWELL TO PARADISE—Emitt Rhodes—ABC/Dunhill DSX-50122

It's rare but always delightful to listen to a consummate artist at work, which is what makes this new LP by Emitt such a treat. The entire effort is his—the composition, arrangement, production, engineering, and vocal and instrumental performances. He never spreads himself too thin, however, and consequently maintains fantastic control of each of the twelve tunes. "See No Evil" is a full uptempo creation as are "Shoot The Moon," "Nights Are Lonely," "Bad Man," and "Those That Die" (from "Tame The Lion"). The title track and the lovely ballad "Only Lovers Decide" are also excellent. So is this album.

REUNION IN CENTRAL PARK—The Original Blues Project—MCA MCA2-8003

Memories are treasures and this stunning two record reunion LP by one of the most popular bands of the mid 1960's has to be one of the most valuable to come along in some time. Listening to the smooth blend of Al Kooper, Steve Katz, Danny Kalb, Roy Blumenfeld, and Andy Kulberg is like a time trip back to those good old days at New York's Cafe Au Go Go. Some of their finest tunes are featured on the LP including "Steve's Song," and the three rousers "Wake Me, Shake Me" and "Two Trains Running," and "I Can't Keep From Cryin' Sometimes." Whether you were in N.Y., L.A., or somewhere in between in 1965, you'll love this get together.

LOVING ARMS—Dobie Gray—MCA MCA-371

Dobie just gets more and more mellow as his fine new album points out so freely. Highlighted by the hit title track, the entire LP is alternately cool and smokin' as Dobie moves about from texture to texture weaving in and out of different moods from the incredibly funky "Mississippi Rolling Stone" to the swinging country-flavored "Reachin' For The Feeling," then back to the soft ballads "Rose" and "There's A Honky Tonk Angel." Dobie's roots are now firmly in Nashville and the LP is loaded with the distinctive touches of the area's finest musicians such as Troy Seals and Charlie McCoy. Pat on the back for prod. Mentor Williams.

TAKIN MY TIME—Bonnie Raitt—Warner Bros. BS 2729

The beautiful Boston redhead has a way of grabbing an audience's attention and her new LP is an insight into how she does it. Her version of the Paul-Stevenson-Hunter r&b standard, "You've Been In Love Too Long" is one of the funkiest we've ever heard, but only partially displays Bonnie's incredible voice. On Joel Zoss' "I Gave My Love A Candle," she demonstrates the warmth and tenderness with which she treats a moving ballad. "Let Me In" and "I Feel The Same" are two of the finer cuts on the LP the former featuring Taj Mahal on acoustic bass. This release is sure to increase Bonnie's popularity immensely.

CURTIS IN CHICAGO—Curtis Mayfield, Jerry Butler, Others—Curton CRS 8018

Recorded live at WTTW-TV in the windy city, this fabulous LP explodes with innovation and nostalgia simultaneously. The event is a reunion of Chicago's biggest soul personalities featuring the amazing Curtis Mayfield and his band with Jerry Butler, Brenda Lee Eager, both the original and the new Impressions, Gene Chandler, and Leroy Hutson. A great version of "Superfly" sets the stage for the memorable classics "For Your Precious Love," "I'm So Proud," "Duke of Earl," and "Amen." The whole feel of this album is almost palpable, its fervent intensity and it has to rate as one of the brightest live recordings ever.

COMEDY PICK

BURNS' & SCHREIBER'S PURE B.S.—Burns & Schreiber—Little David LD 1006

The most successful progressive hip comedy team currently in record companies has another great LP on his hands. Recorded live at the Star Theatre in Calif., the album is a amusing collection of humorous bits ranging from "Welcome To My Job" and the title track to the more far out stuff like "White Harlem," "New York Voices," and "Filthy Words." Maybe the most influential comedian since Lenny Bruce, George has a way of making everyday life seem funny. This is his major strength and each cut of the album is loaded with brilliance. "Childhood Cliches" and "Raising Rhetoric" are sheer magic. We love this LP.

BURNS' & SCHREIBER'S PURE B.S.—Burns & Schreiber—Little David LD 1006

One of comedy's best loved teams has a sparkling new album, their first on Little David, which is loaded with the rapid fire exchanges that have made them so popular. "Dial-A-Friend," "Youth Wants To Know," and "The Faith Healer" are intricate bits featuring some of the funniest one-liners the duo has ever come up with. Recorded at a live session, the LP is punctuated by the raucous laughter of the invited guests who seemed particularly amused by "The Man From P.R.O.D.," "Family Reunion," "Booze," and "The Cab Driver." If your in the mood for some unrestrained belly laughs, get this LP immediately.

POP PICKS

SPRING SUITE—McKendree Spring—MCA MCA-370

The multi-talented quartet from New York State has done another superb job on this new LP which definitely marks a giant step into the future for them. Starting with the splendid "Equinox (Instrumental)," the album soars like a majestic eagle through crisp spring breezes. Each of the nine cuts on the LP is an original except the compelling "Today's The Day" by Peter Hodgson, and spotlight the various capabilities of the group which has always striven to advance beyond cliché into natural creativity. The quest has been successful as you'll hear on "Winter," "The Storm," "The Madman," "Spring," and "The Girl."

WITNESS—Spooky Tooth—Island SW-9337

The British powerhouse has things well in hand on their latest LP, their first on Island. The group's strengths, both vocal and instrumental come to the fore on this self-produced package. "Ocean Of Power," "All Sewn Up," and "Dream Me A Mountain" are heavy rockers featuring some punchy vocals by Gary Wright. "Sunlight Of My Mind" shows off the fine guitar work of Mick Jones as it changes pace several times in an awesome display of dynamic control. "Pyramids" is an evocative dramatic mood song which is a good index of the band's versatility. The popular quintet just keeps getting better.

IT ALL COMES BACK—Paul Butterfield's Better Days—Bearsville/Warner Bros. BR 2170

Blues master Butterfield is at his finest on this new LP, his second for Bearsville. Always attempting to bring creativity to an established musical form, Paul and his great band have come up with some overwhelming driving blues tunes such as "Take Your Pleasure Where You Find It," "It's Getting Harder To Survive," and "Too Many Drivers." A very funky version of Mose Allison's "If You Live" compliments steam-rolin' rockers like "Win Or Lose" and "Louisiana Flood" beautifully and ballads "Poor Boy" and "Small Town Talk" capture the essence of the blues authentically. This is a good album to get to know.

SONGS FOR AGEING CHILDREN—Dave Van Ronk—Cadet CA 50044

Traditional stylist Van Ronk has put together a very compelling collection of tunes on his new LP. Led by the barrelhouse boogie rockers, "Work With Me Annie," and "Duncan & Brady," Dave puts his powerful voice behind each of the eleven cuts, sometimes shouting, sometimes plaintively wailing. "Song For Joni" and "Last Call" show the deft and tender touch he can create when the mood fits and his version of Randy Newman's "Sail Away" is great. "Teddy Bear's Picnic" and "My Little Grass Shack (In Kealahakua, Hawaii)" are the kind of tongue-in-cheek songs that help make this LP such a refreshing package.

KRACKER BRAND SUPER CHARGED FLASH KRACKERS—Krackers—ABC/Dunhill DSX-50154

As the title implies, this debut LP by the American quintet, whom the Rolling Stones asked to tour with them, is quite explosive. Stones' producer Jimmy Miller liked the band enough to produce the hard driving original songs which highlight the LP. "For A Little Love," "I'm So Glad I Found You," and "Funky, Funky Living" are rough and ready rockers and blend nicely with the eerie laid back songs like "Travel Agent" and "Mary Cool" which cook smoothly. "I Got To Move On," "Memories," and "A Song For Polly" are distinctive mixtures combining a touch of Latin soul with a pinch of jazz.

THE HOUR GLASS—Hour Glass—United Artists UA-LA013-G2

This smashing LP is like a ride in a time machine taking you back to the days when Duane and Gregg Allman were building the foundations of their incredible family music house. This powerhouse disk is strictly r&b as only the Allman's can do it. Along with Johnny Sandlin, Mabron McKinney, Paul Hornsby, and Jesse Carr, Duane and Gregg cook from the opening bars of "Out Of The Night" on side one of the two record set to "Now Is The Time" on side four. One listen to this LP and you'll know just where the Allman's roots are. Duane plays some amazing licks and Gregg's vocals are outstanding as is the whole package.

MARY STUART—Mary Stuart—Bell 1133

The star of CBS-TV's "Search For Tomorrow" has uncovered an exciting new career marked by the release of this fine debut LP which features seven of her own compositions in additions to songs by John Denver ("Take Me Home, Country Roads"), Don McLean ("And I Love You So"), and Paul Williams & Roger Nichols ("Let Me Be The One"). Mary's vocals are pure and unaffected, often very moving with a peaceful intensity. Her version of the Maureen McGovern "The Morning After" hit is superb and her own tunes "Don't Look Back," "Cherry Blossom Spring," and "Lonely There" are well conceived and nicely executed pieces of music.

THREE MAN ARMY—Three Man Army—Warner Bros. MS 2150

An impressive debut by the trio combining a wealth of vocal talent with some incredible musical virtuosity. "My Yiddish Mama" kicks the LP off on an interesting instrumental note, but the success of the work is spotlighted in the flaming red fire of the hard rock material that at times is quite reminiscent of the early Led Zeppelin. "Hold On," "Come On Down To Earth," "Mahesha," and "Can't Leave The Summer" are truly reflective of the best in gutsy rock and messrs. Newman, Curtis, and Gurvitz have reason to be proud of their co-production effort with Lou Riezner. We especially like "The Trip."

FRIENDS—Friends—MGM SE-4901

As the old saying goes, "You got to have friends," and you couldn't pick three nicer buddies than Steve, Darryl, and Michael whose debut LP is very easy to get close to. All eleven compositions by the experienced trio are original and reflect a wide range of musical tastes and interests. Highlighted by the strong up-tempo single "Gonna Have A Good Time" the album bounces briskly from the rockers "She Knows" and "Applecart" to the campy gay nineties sound of "Deep River Blues" and the fine ballads "Catch Me, I'm Falling" and "I've Known You So Long." Invite these friends in and you won't be sorry.

THE SINGER SANG THE SONG—Chris Sedgwick—RCA LPL1-5001

An accomplished singer/musician/composer whose experiences in life are the substance of his songs, Chris should be proud of his debut album on RCA. Introspective in nature, the eleven original compositions on this LP reflect a variety of musical and lyric styles and a sense of adventure one might expect from a troubadour. The title track as well as "Mexico Gold," "The Pain Of Life," "Three For The Man," "Every Day Of My Life," and "Down She Goes" are songs of the highest caliber and indicate that Sedgwick will be writing and singing for a long time.

SESAC 'Youth' Awards Banquet More Than 75 Country Trophies

NASHVILLE — With an emphasis on youth, the 1973 SESAC Awards Banquet was held at the Woodmont Country Club in Nashville last Thursday evening, (18).

An unannounced "surprise" was the appearance of the McGavock High School Jazz Rock Ensemble, under the direction of Bobby Jean Frost, set the mood for the black tie event that each year honors some of the industry's foremost artists, writers and publishers. The 1973 "invitation only" affair was hosted by SESAC's president, A. H. Prager, and was attended by some 500 country music dignitaries from all over the world. More than 75 trophies were awarded for musical excellence during the evening's ceremonies.

Thompson Comments

Hosting the awards presentations was the firm's exec director of Nashville operations, Bob Thompson, who welcomed the guests and spoke briefly about SESAC's "emphasis on youth" and its "phenomenal success with its comparatively new writer's program." Reminding the audience that less than two years ago, SESAC was known primarily as a publisher-oriented organization, he pointed out that "since changing our policy in 1972 regarding direct affiliations for writers, SESAC has signed agreements with some of the industry's top professional writers as well as with many of the new, young talents who are currently making their mark on today's changing music scene. We offer not only an outstanding incentive program but worldwide representation and promotion of their works as well as personalized service and attention unequalled in the industry," he said.

Smith Top Composer

Recognition of writer-affiliates played a major role at the Awards Banquet. Top honors went to Raymond A. Smith, composer of the #1 hit tune, "She Needs Someone to Hold Her (When She Cries)," who was named "County Music Writer of the Year." Ted Harris, long one of country music's top writers, and recipient of SESAC's "Writer of the Year" award for four consecutive years, this year walked away with five individual trophies for his latest hits, "A Handful of Stars," "The Fool I've Been Today," and "You and Me Against the World," plus his perennial favorites, "Crystal Chandeliers" and "Paper Mansions." Another big winner in the writer category was Ricci Mareno, who received four individual writers' trophies as well as the "International Award" for his hit tune, "Send Me No Roses," recorded by Tommy Overstreet and published and released in dozens of countries throughout the world. Other Mareno songs honored included, "I'll Never Break These Chains," "That's Enough," and "You Put Love Back in My Heart."

Also receiving writer honors during the evening were Skippy Barrett, Charlie Black, John Earl Clift, Bobby Fischer, Jerry Gillespie, Warner McPherson, Glenn Ray, Hugh King, Darrell Statler, Jeremiah Stone and John Virgin, as well as 12-year-old Michael White for his song, "You Make It Hard (To Take the Easy Way Out)".

Waugh Heineke Citation

For the third time in the history of the licensing organization, the "Paul Heineke Citation of Merit" was awarded. The citation, named for the founding president of SESAC, was presented to Irving C. Waugh, president of WSM, Inc., and inscribed: "In recognition of his invaluable and longstanding support for the music industry. The creation of Opryland, U.S.A. as a musical theme park has preserved for the youth of America their musical heritage. Creative individual leadership such as his has helped to make American music an international institution."

Other Awards

SESAC's "Ambassador of Music" award, designed to be presented to the person or organization who contributed the most during that year to the promotion and furtherance of country music as a musical art form, was awarded to the world-renowned concert duo-pianists, Arthur Whittmore and Jack Lowe. Since their appearance in Nashville last year, Whittmore and Lowe have included country music in each of their concerts in more than 100 cities coast-to-coast, plus on numerous radio and television programs all over the nation. In awarding the duplicate trophies to these artists, Thompson said, "Certainly no individual or group could have done more to promote country music than these two superb artists in an area where it had been either unknown or unaccepted just a few short months ago."

In the category of publisher awards, trophies were presented to Bronze Music, Cherry Tree Publications, Contention Music, Harbot Music, Hello Darlin' Music, Jackknife

Music, Ricci Mareno Music and Page Boy Publications. For excellence in the A & R category, Decca's Owen Bradley and Metromedia Country's Dick Heard, were the recipients of top honors.

Artist awards were presented to: Jack Barlow, Floyd Cramer, Jack Greene and Jeannie Seely, Dickey Lee, Loretta Lynn, O. B. McClinton, Warner Mack, Tommy Overstreet, Johnny Russell, Cal Smith, Sammi Smith, Mel Street, Nat Stuckey, Bobby Lee Trammell, Ernest Tubb, Conway Twitty, Dottie West and Faron Young.

In addition to Prager and Thompson, other SESAC executives in attendance at the Awards Banquet were: S. B. Candilora, executive vice president; W. F. Myers, vice president and director of international relations; Norman Odum, vice president and director of copyright administration; Sidney Guber, vice president and director of marketing services; Albert F. Ciancimino, house counsel; Charles Scully, director of information services; Nicholas Arcomano, operations administrator; and Vincent Candilora, production coordinator. From the SESAC Nashville office were Aleene Jackson, public relations coordinator; and Francine Anderson, administrative assistant.

"Our Ninth Annual Awards Banquet and Presentation Ceremony was a far cry from our first one held in 1963 when the creation of our Nashville office was in the formative stage," Prager noted. "At that banquet we had some 20 participants, and tonight we have almost 500. We are proud of this growth but, perhaps most of all, we are proud of SESAC's role in the growth of country music, made possible by the creative talent of our writers and publishers."

Hall of Fame

RCA's vice president Chet Atkins, was officially installed into the Country Music Hall of Fame. Chet Atkins, Mr. Guitar, is one of the primary "Nashville sound creators". Also elected to the Hall of Fame (Posthumously) was the late Patsy Cline, MCA's "I Fall To Pieces" girl.

The Entertainment for the show was provided by Eddy Arnold, Johnny Cash, (who also hosted the show), Glen Campbell, Merle Haggard, Charley Pride, Loretta Lynn, Jeanne Pruett, Barbara Mandrell, Tanya Tucker, Barbara Fairchild, and Roy Clark.

Country Artist of the Week:

Roy Clark

"THE ENTERTAINER"—Take a lively banjo, add the fullness of a twelve string guitar, and blend in the sweetness of a classic guitar. Mix well with an accordion, piano, trumpet, trombone, and drums and you've got the makings of a great all-around band. Add a topnotch vocalist with a high caliber wit and you've got a sure-fire formula for CMA's 1973 "Entertainer of The Year".

Multi-talented Roy Clark does it all. He's all those talents rolled into one, and he's worked the Glen Campbell Show, the Johnny Carson Show, the Johnny Cash Show, Hollywood Palace, the Jackie Gleason Show, the Merv Griffin Show, The Beverly Hillbillies, Shindig, Dick Clark's American Bandstand, Joey Bishop Show, and the Bing Crosby Christmas Show, plus others like The Tom Jones Show, a Jim Nabors Special, and the Flip Wilson Show. Add his co-hosting on CBS TV's Hee Haw, and that's an outstanding pickin' and grinnin' record for one whose teachers said he would "never amount to anything because he doesn't take anything seriously."

This "one man variety show" was born in Meherrin, Virginia, and got his start by winning the country music banjo championship twice.

Following a three-year stint as a regular on Jimmy Dean's show and a spell of co-hosting his own show, Roy's endless talents took on a new dimension when he played the dual role of "Cousin Roy" and "mother Myrtle" on the Beverly Hillbillies. Now his co-hosting job on Hee-Haw allows Roy the opportunity to apply his variety of "country corn to master instrumentalist" abilities.

On signing a long term contract with Dot Records, Roy recorded a beautiful ballad entitled "Yesterday When I Was Young", followed by various instrumental and vocal singles such as "September Song", "I Never Picked Cotton", "Thank God and Greyhound," and "Come Live With Me".

His latest release on Dot Records "Somewhere Between Love and Tomorrow," was produced by Dot Records president Jim Fogelsong. Exclusive management is by the Jim Halsey Co. Inc.

Chet Atkins: (Mr. Guitar) Elected To CMA Hall Of Fame

from WNOX in Knoxville with Bill Carlisle and with a group billed as the Dixieland Swingers. He later did radio stints at WLW, Cincinnati, WPTF; Raleigh; WRVA, Richmond; and KDA, Denver. Finally, he landed at WSM in Nashville. It was while there he was signed by mail by the late Steve Sholes, who had discovered and developed many major artists during his long career at RCA. Sholes contacted the guitarist immediately after hearing an electrical transcription by Chet of a tune called "Canned Heat."

In 1950, Chet Atkins became a regular member of the world-renowned Grand Ole Opry, about the time country fans were humming and buying "Galloping Guitar."

Chet's own RCA albums, now numbering more than thirty, and his singles began carrying to a receptive public a new and intimate conception of guitar, and he was to become an important influence in the growth of Nashville as a primary music center. When RCA's burgeoning recording complex was completed there in 1957, Chet was chosen to pilot the operation, and eleven years later, he moved up to division vice president in Nashville, where he became an enormous part of the phenomenon known as "The Nashville Sound."

More than three dozen recording artists from around the world now depend on Chet's taste, musical knowledge, ambition and executive ability. They know they have a tireless worker in their behalf in the control room when they cut a record.

Chet Atkins himself, has made innumerable guest appearances in a variety of musical settings. Among them: guest soloist spots with a number of Symphony Orchestras; a jazz date at the 1960 Newport Jazz Festival; before President Kennedy at the White House when Chet played for the Press Photographers' Ball in March, 1961; and with the Boston Pops (with whom he later cut two Red Seal albums).

With Boots Randolph and Floyd Cramer (and occasionally Jerry Reed), Chet currently tours on the Masters Festival of Music roadshow—originally scheduled as an occasional weekend date, it is now a weekly affair year-round. The Festival of Music did the Kraft Music Hall early in 1971 and has one of the highest repeat booking ratios in show business.

Chet Atkins is warmly received as a guitar virtuoso wherever he appears and draws from a repertoire ranging from Bach to Spanish music to pop, country and contemporary. He has been chosen Outstanding Instrumentalist for thirteen consecutive years by Cash Box and has twice won the Playboy poll as Best Guitarist and received the Humanitarian Award of the National Council of Christians and Jews in 1972. To Chet's other honors were added Grammy Awards for "Chet Atkins Picks the Best," which was selected Best Contemporary Instrumental Performance of 1967; "Me and Jerry," the duet album he made with Jerry Reed, chosen Best Country Instrumental Performance in 1970; and "Snowbird," Best Country Instrumental Performance of 1971. His "Solid Gold '69" was nominated in the same category in 1969.

"Mr. Guitar" and his wife, Leona, live in Nashville.

Mac Wiseman Has Tribute

WAYNESBORO, VIRGINIA — Residents of Mac Wiseman's home town, Waynesboro, Virginia, have proclaimed Sunday, October 21, as Mac Wiseman Day. They have made the day-long tribute part of the community's Fall Foliage Festival.

Wiseman was born eight miles away and lived there through his high school years. He developed his interest in music there and then attended Shenandoah Conservatory of Music in Dayton, Virginia, about 25 miles away.

Although Wiseman frequently visits his parents in Waynesboro, it's been over twenty years since he performed in his home town. But that pattern will be broken when he will do two complete concerts for the home folks.

Local officials have been placing "Welcome Home, Mac" banners all over town, and the local chamber of commerce is preparing to host a special hospitality hour for Mac in a local hotel.

Mac stated, "I'm really very flattered that they want to have this kind of day in my honor, but I think I'm most interested in seeing a lot of my school friends that I haven't seen a long time."

Johnny Russell's new single got its on-the-air christening from these radio stations. Forced from its parent album by tremendous d.j. response, "Jesse" is a sure-fire follow-up to its smash big brother "Rednecks, White Socks & Blue Ribbon Beer" (title cut from the LP and a single giant on its own).

"The Baptism of Jesse Taylor" — the birth of Johnny Russell's newest hit!

Our thanks and apologies to all those stations playing this great new hit record who may have been omitted because of publication deadlines.

Top Stars Spur MGM Country Action

HOLLYWOOD — In the article titled "MGM Splurge in Country Sales" (Cash Box, Oct. 13), the super stars who built the country division of MGM figure just as prominently in any continuing story of the label as the latest signings. The latter, including Eddy Arnold, Marie Osmond and Jud Strunk, who were mentioned in that recent story, may loom large in an account of remarkably increased sales, along with new marketing methods and chart action details.

The stars who have proved to be the backbone of the MGM country division, however, tell the rest of the story. They include Hank Williams Sr., Mel Tillis, Hank Williams Jr., Billy Walker, Jeannie C. Riley, Tom-pall and the Glaser Bros., Sheb Wooley, Lois Johnson, Sherry Bryce, Lamar Morris, Ronnie Sessions, plus recent additions like Stonewall Jackson, George Wallace, Jr., Kenny Serratt and the star of the syndicated radio program "Continental Story," Jerry Naylor.

The director of MGM's country division, Don Owens, stressed last week that "all of the ingredients, artists, campaigns and an accelerated sales thrust, have brought the division to its new-found super success."

U.A. Records Inks Louvin

NASHVILLE — United Artists Records has signed Charlie Louvin to an exclusive long-term recording contract. Previous to his UA pact Louvin had been associated with Capitol Records for over a decade first as half of the Louvin Brothers team until the untimely death of his brother Ira and more recently as a solo artist.

Among his past recordings are "See The Big Man Cry," "What Are Those Things," "Will You Visit Me On Sunday," and "I Think I'll Go Somewhere" (And Cry Myself To Sleep).

Louvin will shortly be recording in Nashville, under the supervision of Kelso Herston, UA's country a&r topper with whom he had worked on many of his latest Capitol successes.

United Artists country division under the new team of Herston and director of sales and promotion Lynn Shults has achieved progress in 1973. The label reached the number one spot on the bestseller lists via the first recording from new UA artist Jean Shepard recording "Slippin' Away" and the Del Reeves single of "Lay A Little Lovin' On Me." Also, in addition to the signing of Louvin, Slim Whitman has renewed his UA deal.

Congratulations.

Country LP Reviews

SWEET HONKY TONK—Ferlin Husky—ABC ABCX-803

The gentle voice of Ferlin, marks this as one of the greatest easy listenin' albums to date. Featuring his recent pick "Rosie Cries A Lot," the album is stocked with other past hits as "Baby's Blue," and "Between Me And Blue." The steel guitar of Weldon Myrick which appears in a majority of the cuts gives the album an overall grace of guitar dexterity. "Sweet Honky Tonk Music" is a sweeping up-tempo country tune featuring the excellent fiddles of Buddy Spicher, Vassar Clements, and Shorty Lavender. This new album by Ferlin has some very sweet country sounds.

REDNECKS, WHITE SOCKS, AND BLUE RIBBON BEER—Johnny Russell—RCA-APL 1-0345

Since storming the charts with the title cut "Rednecks, White Socks, and Blue Ribbon Beer" Johnny's future as a country performer is pretty well established. Involved in all the other aspects of the music business for quite some time, Johnny finally decided to get into the performing end of it, and are we glad he did! The "big" sound of Johnny is augmented by the vocal accompaniment of The Jordanaires. The moving "The Baptism of Jesse Taylor" is certainly an excellent effort of Johnny's wide spread professionalism. The smooth moving ballad "Remembering" has got us realizing that Johnny's switch to performing is certainly much welcomed.

SOULED OUT COUNTRY—Souled Out Country Triune—TLP-0001

A most interesting album Souled Out Country features many diverse vocals and a wide range of instrumentation. Described as a "big slice of Americana" this album caters to a variety of country tastes and handles each one with facile and excellent musicianship. Linda K. Lance's rendition of the ballad "I've Just Gotta Feel Like A Woman Tonight" is complimented with the up-tempo "God's Gift To Me." Grapplin Guitars" an excitingly paced instrumental by The Nashville Crass is a wonder of guitar and instrumental dexterity. The vocal backing is accomplished by the Jordanaires and adds that particular professional touch to any record they appear on. Souled Out Country is a most interesting compilation.

SING ABOUT JESUS—Ernie Ford—Capitol-ST-11232

Ernie Ford's adaptation of these traditional hymns is a welcome interpretation of these moving ballads which have always been a comfort and a strength to people. Ernie hope is to have Jesus a part of everybody's life and his excellent adaption brings the import of this music to the ears of his fans. The keyboards of Clare Fischer, and the guitars of David Cohen and Tommy Tedesco give the subtle instrumentation which is necessary in songs of this type. The voice of Ernie is rich and gives to this album the personal touch which makes it something very special.

NSA Elects Seven Members To Hall Of Fame

NASHVILLE — The Nashville Songwriters Association held its Fourth Annual banquet at the Sheraton Motor Inn and named seven songwriters to its Hall of Fame.

NSA president Clarence Selman introduced master of ceremonies, Biff Collie, Capitol Records, executive, who cited the basis of election to the Hall of Fame: "Each of the seven electees to be honored here were elected unanimously, and it was agreed beforehand that they should be people who were engaged in the business of writing songs prior to 1955."

Memory, sentiment, happiness and loyalty brought many tears while the 500 members and guests gave standing ovations to Steve and Ed Nelson, Jack Clement, Willie Nelson, Harlan Howard, and Don Gibson and Roger Miller. The evening's guest speaker, Joe Allison, head of Capitol Record's Nashville operation, and himself writer of such giant songs as "He'll Have to Go," referred to the music industry as, "it cannot mesh one gear without the writers."

During the presentations medleys of the most popular songs created by the inductees were played. Those making the presentations were Eddy Arnold, Merle Kilgore, Knox Phillips, Frances Preston, Ralph Emory and Chet Atkins.

The Nashville Songwriters Association has seen much growth since its formation in 1967 and has attained a present membership of 550. Looking forward to many goals, the primary one is for increased major recognition of the songwriter.

New Wurlitzer Bows

'Americana' Model 3800 Phonograph Greets Trade During Wurlitzer Week

NORTH TONAWANDA — A new "Americana" phonograph was introduced by the Wurlitzer Company at corporate meetings in Bermuda and Niagara Falls and is now being publicly unveiled at Wurlitzer Distributing Corp. branches and independent distributorships across the country. The Wurlitzer Model 3800 retains the popular sweeping profile of the Model 3700 and offers new colors, new graphics and appointments, a new bottom grille treatment, a new button arrangement, additional chrome and woodgrain, and a miniaturized Electronic Bonus Accumulator with "improved reliability" and the capacity to accumulate up to 63 plays prior to first selection.

Amile Addy, vice-president and manager of Wurlitzer's North Tonawanda Division, said, "the changes are dramatic, but they dare not interrupt the favorable attention we've nurtured for our product this past year." He indicated that the Americana 3800 is the seventh model in five years to feature the familiar Wurlitzer mechanism. "Once again, Wurlitzer is the only manufacturer utilizing louvre-controlled lighting in the title strip area. This feature was developed by the 3M Company and has been a Wurlitzer exclusive in the industry for the past three years," Addy declared.

From a purely visual viewpoint, Americana 3800 appears distinctly different from its forerunner. Although it is similarly sculpted, a new treatment of color, chrome and graphics affords the Model 3800 a completely new character. Color may be the key to understanding the difference. While the 3700 seemed somewhat monochromatic and definitely blue, the 3800 is richer, deeper, elusive in color and obviously more attentive to individual features on the phonograph. The buttons are more noticeable, graphics more striking, and the shape less pronounced visually so that important parts of the machine are accented. Wurlitzer is calling the colors of its new Americana, Plum Bold and Lavender Smooth. The phonograph actually has a very dark purple cast.

Technically Wurlitzer has built new capabilities into the Americana 3800 without changing any of its major service procedures. The new miniaturized BO/AC is the greatest advance. Large Scale Integrated (LSI chip) circuitry is employed. Reduced to one-fourth its original size, the Electronic Bonus All-Coin Accumulator has double the capacity or the ability to accept deposits up to $4.24 at standard two for a quarter play, a total of 63 plays previous to first selection. Wurlitzer indicates that miniaturization has afforded the BO/AC improved reliability against environmental changes. A six-month on-location test program proved the BO/AC 100% dependable under various field conditions.

Americana 3800 is available in 200, 160 and 100 selection configuration phonographs. Americana plays 33 and 45 rpm records intermixed in the true turntable method. It can also play both sides of a record consecutively. The 3800 features the same Wurlitzer stereo amplification system which has proved dependable over the years. The Wurlitzer amplifier produces 40 watts of music power per channel. Full treble and bass speakers produce excellent phonograph stereo.

From an operating standpoint,

AMERICANA MODEL 3800

Americana 3800 is easy to program and has simple serviceability and complete component accessibility. A turn of the key opens the entire front of the cabinet and allows full access to all components. Counter balanced compression springs secure the dome in place above and away from where servicemen and programmers must work. The record changer tilts upward at a 45 degree angle for accessibility. A front panel at the bottom of the phonograph is easily removed.

Americana 3800 has a three position program holder. It can be secured to the dome of the phonograph, swing free on the latches which hold it, or be completely removed for mass loading. The horizontal record magazine makes it easy to change records. Each record holder has its own clearly visible popularity meter at the point where records are placed. A Run-Load-Scan switch prevents programmers from leaving the phonograph in the "Off" position.

Wurlitzer options and accessories support the standard Americana 3800 features. "Operators can accommodate every possible location re-

EDITORIAL: The Big Capacity

Just like the record industry, the music and games business is a HIT business. Sure, the operators will absorb a certain amount of marginal (earnings-wise) merchandise but once they get their fingers into a sensational new item, well, it makes one dizzy to see the numbers of units they can put out on location.

The factory people, by their nature, do not like to discuss production figures. But it's no secret that video games, a sterling example, have sold far in excess of 45,000 pieces by now (at home and overseas). That's a fantastic success, by any standard, and quite a compliment to the route operator, we think. Why do we think that? Because many folks in the trade like to cry poverty when it comes to tooling up the route with new goods. And if that's their excuse, okay, but deep down there is still plenty of interest and capital to expend when those "sure things" come along (isn't there!).

Therefore, to titillate the operator's fancy is a challenge. Standards in this field are sky high and the trade will brook no junk (as many a would-be factory has found out). And you know, that's good, because the best way to coax additional quarters out of Joe customer's pocket is to hit him with super machinery, everywhere and often.

The 1973 running of the MOA Expo is coming up in a couple of weeks. While this year represents their 25th anniversary as the national group, the exhibit show itself is still what many tradesters find most gratifying and fruitful. And perhaps because of the hallmark 25th anniversary flag that flies over the event, the exhibiting factories are going to be debuting brand new merchandise the likes and the quantity of which haven't been seen in a dog's age.

We hate to say it, but any operator who won't be at the Chicago Hilton Nov. 9-11 is kidding (and cheating) himself. Besides all the hoopla attached to a silver jubilee, tons of new goods will be out there on the trade show floor for all the inspect and, if found favorable, to order up when back home.

Arizona Automation Opens Lavish New H.Q. Complex

PHOENIX — Arizona Automation, Inc., one of the trade's largest manufacturers of table soccer games, has opened a new, 15,000 square foot office and plant facility at 1960 W. North Lane, Phoenix, Arizona.

The luxurious, $250,000 building, provides ample space for executive offices, factory facilities, regional and national sales offices, parts warehousing, and complete manufacturing and shipping facilities.

The corporation outgrew its previous factory on Central Avenue due to "incredible demand for our Champion Soccer game," according to Dick Raymond, president of Arizona Automation.

"Champion Soccer is really catching on throughout the country," said Raymond. "And, although ours is the largest manufacturing plant dealing exclusively in table soccer, we still couldn't supply the market. Now, in our new facility, we can produce up to 300 units per week."

Viewing the building, respect for aesthetic appearance is obvious, as the entire complex is surrounded by a garden-like atmosphere of trees and foliage.

Executive offices feature ceilings which slope from seven to 14-feet. Abundant use of glass provides an "indoor-outdoor" look. The employees' lounge was provided "to give our people a chance to get completely away from the work routine," said Raymond.

Architect for the attractive facility was Howard Madole of Phoenix. He is known for designs which reflect the natural ecology of surroundings.

New ChiCoin 'TV Tennis' Video Game Features Four-Player Capability at 50¢

ChiCoin TV TENNIS

CHICAGO — TV Tennis, the new electronic video game introduced by

Chicago Coin, appeals to tennis and sports fans. "The fastest growing sport in the country is tennis and that's what we're offering in an electric format," says Chuck Arnold, marketing director at Chicago Coin. "We've designed this game with fast moving competition for fast-moving profits."

TV Tennis is engineered for two partners to compete against two partners. An electronic tennis ball is served as in real tennis. Each team has a forward man and a back court man. The first team to score 15 points wins the game. TV Tennis, according to Arnold, is set for 2/25¢ or 4/50¢ play.

Sturdy construction and advanced mechanics are features of TV Tennis. A 23" Solid State TV is protected with clear, tough plexiglass to eliminate breakage. Among the new additions are an interior vent system designed for effective cooling and a special filter network which minimizes external interference. TV Tennis is housed in a wood grain console and has large, sturdy knobs with built-in stops.

The new TV game can be inspected at all ChiCoin distributors beginning this week.

10,000 Converge On 1973 NAMA Convention

CHICAGO — At press time, some 10,000 representatives of the vending, food service and music/games industries were converging upon McCormick Place, site of the 1973 NAMA Convention and Trade Show (Oct. 18-21).

Foreign manufacturers were exhibiting their coin-operated goods for the first time this year. Another first was a working foodservice commissary operating right on the exhibit floor itself.

Thursday (opening day) meeting included the association's annual general membership conference, plus keynote addresses by Chicago Mayor Richard Daley and U. S. Drug Administration Food and Nutrition Service Administrator Edward Hekman. Friday's business meetings covered location security, industry trends and the outlook for foodservice management.

IOTA Promotion

NEW YORK — Fred M. Dolin has been appointed treasurer of Iota Industries, Inc., formerly Commonwealth United Corp., Louis J. Nicastro, Iota's president, announced. Dolin was previously director of research for I.M.A. Capital, Inc. in Cleveland, Ohio.

Iota Industries is involved in motion picture distribution and recently acquired Fiancee Rings & Jewelry Mfg. Corp., a privately owned company, for $14,150,000 in cash and notes.

Keynoter of that day was Tenn. Senator Howard Baker.

Saturday's Activities covered refund policies, a new look at coinage (delivered by Mrs. Mary T. Brooks of the U. S. Mint) and Facts and Fallacies of Consumerism. Sunday meetings discuss odd-cent pricing, and trends in cigarette vending.

Numerous representatives of the "music and games industry" were in attendance, inspecting new vending machines which might be used back home on the route.

Ole Doc Sal To Speak at MOA

CHICAGO — Dr. Salvatore Bella, professor of management, chairman of the department of management and director of the supervisory development program at Notre Dame University will be keynote speaker in the first segment of the two part MOA Seminar held on Friday, November 9, opening day of the Expo Convention. His subject will be "Communication: A Key To Profitable Operations." Described as a dynamic speaker, Dr. Bella has gained popularity among coin machine people as a result of his presentations during the MOA Notre Dame seminars.

Part II of the program will be a panel seminar on the very timely subject "What Is The Future Of Electronic Games And How Will Operators Be Able To Service Them." Panel members will be Bally-Midway's Ross Scheer; Nutting Associates' William Nutting; Robert Jones of Williams Electronics Inc. and Jack Pearson of Allied Leisure Industries.

EASTERN FLASHES

AROUND TOWN—Plenty of donation pledges are being logged by our division's UJA executive committee these days. Ben Chicofsky alone, up at the MONY office, says he secured over $6,000 in a couple of days last week. One contributor to UJA, Ben info's, pledged $2,000. That's the spirit! There'll be a board of governors meeting for MONY officers and governors on the 30th (Tuesday) up at MONY headquarters. The eleven officers and governors will be discussing trade problems as they currently exist, most notably location and machine security. Letters on the meeting went out Friday. . . . Business around town was pretty quiet last week, especially with the series going Tues., Wed. and Thurs. nights in Big Town's watering holes. Woe to the gent who dared to play the jukebox while the TV was going, but woe to the ops who missed out on expected earnings. . . . Howard Kaye, sales director at the Irving Kaye Sales Corp., absolutely delighted with the immediate acceptance of their new 'Texas Ranger' soccer table. Crammed with operator-features, the soccer item is the latest in Kay's fine lineuo of equipment. Howard also info's a new pool table just might be unveiled at the Nov. MOA Expo.

U.S. Billiards' 'TV Tennis' (2 or 4 player) video paddle game has arrived at the showrooms of Albert Simon, Inc. and sales chief Al D'Inzillo is tickled pink with the appearance and play appeal of the item. "This is top quality goods and just terrific fun to play," said Al. "There's no need to point out the collection-power of video games . . . they're established. Point with this item is either two or four can play, so it makes for a great couples games, in addition to the traditional 'I'll bet you a beer' thing between two guys at a bar." . . . Out at the U.S. Billiards factory in Amityville, sales director Len Schneller celebrated first shipments of U.S. Billiards TV Tennis last Thursday by wearing his tennis outfit to work (you think you got funny looking legs?). Socially, the great Schneller is still trying to set up that court tennis match with American Shuffleboard's sales chief Sol Lipkin. The Lip is known for his searing service, but Schneller contends his curving return can nip that quick. There's only one way to find out guys! . . . At American, Lipkin told us production and shipping of shuffleboard tables is still at peak. Many, many coin operators are using shuffleboards today, he says, especially since American has provided a "full line" of such tables in sizes measuring from 9' and 12' (cushion shot models) to the traditional 22' longboard that we all know and love. Play pricing on all American shuffleboards has swung to 25¢ play, so there's plenty to earn in the cash pan. "A great majority of tavern locations in this country are now enjoying the patronage of couples out on a date," says Lipkin, "and in my opinion, there's no better game for a guy and his gal than shuffleboard." By the way, Sol and his charming wife Marge just returned from a 5-week vacation (and you know what he does on vacations—visits every American Shuffleboard distributor in his path). Their trip South took them to Tennessee and visits with Wilson Bracey (Wurlitzer) and Bob Goad (Game Sales), to North Little Rock and Les Godwin, to Tom Hughes at S&H in Schreveport and to Orlando and Ron Rood at Southern Music. While in the Sunshine State, the Lipkins joined Ron and Stub Thomas at the FAMA Show, and also to the Allied Leisure factory in Hialeah to see son Gene and the guys there.

Allied's 'Tennis Tourney,' by the way, has achieved even more success than their previous Paddle Battle (and insiders know the thousands they shipped at home and via Mondial overseas). The production number to date is staggering and is testimony not only to the quality and earning power of the Allied games but to the operating industry in general, especially its ability to absorb vast quantities of machines when they find those machines profitable on location. This is, and always will be, a big business. On Allied again, we're tricked that genial Jack Mitnick has returned to the fold as their national sales consultant. Jack will be working closely with Gene and with firm prexy Bob Braun in the sales effort. No doubt Jack's numerous friends in the amusement industry will find the news heartening.

Enjoyed chatting with cutie-pie Sandy Mazzuka of Mr. Venda-Matic of Long Island, a Flushing-based music operation. Sandy's really up on her music and info's they've got a big call for Irish singles. Learned Interesting Music Co. on 23rd St. in Manhattan is good source of foreign singles, in case you're "interested." Also learned that Sandy and Gloria of Dolene Industries (Westbury route) are good pals (who says competitors don't cooperate?).

CALIFORNIA CLIPPINGS

Champagne was dispensed at C. A. Robinson recently to celebrate the engagement of Hank Tronick's son, Michael. Congratulations to the Tronick family. . . . The arrival of the Bally single-player flipper game, Hi-Lo Ace is anxiously awaited, as advance reports on the item have been excellent. C. A. Robinson has been enjoying excellent sales with another Bally game, the 4-player Nip-lit with another truckload just in. One surprise item that turned out to be a real sleeper was the Midway Sportsman Rifle. Reports on the performance of the Sportsman have been raves, and demand for the item has pyramided in recent weeks. Another shipment of the successful Pong doubles has arrived from Atari. Four player action is most popular and has been providing higher revenues thanks to the 50-cent play. Joe Aling, Atari field engineer, will be visiting soon. Joe has been extremely helpful in teaching the electronic intricacies of the circuitry in the Pong games and according to Mike Hall, service manager for C. A. Robinson, he has done a great job for several operators as well as for C. A.'s service staff. The new Texas Ranger, from Irving Kaye, is meeting with much operator approval for its handsome cabinet and rugged construction. The Texas Ranger is a new model in the lucrative array of Super Soccer games produced by the Kaye factory. . . . At Portale Automatic Sales., Jim Wilkins reports that Chi-Coin's Riviera Pin game has just arrived along with Air Ball from M.C.I. Business has been moving at its usually rapid pace, with Rock-Ola phonographs receiving a great deal of attention. . . . Leo Simone of See-West is off to Chicago for the N.A.M.A. convention. He'll spend about 5 days there before heading back to L.A. Recent shipments to the company include truckloads of William's 2-player Darling and the Allied 4-player Tennis Tourney. . . . The new 1973-74 lineup of Rowe AMI phonographs has received a most sensational sendoff among Southern California operators, thanks to appeal of the units, and promotion at Circle International. Firm president Dean McMurdie says his order book is brimming over for the new Woodbridge, Caprice and Rhapsody jukes.

CHICAGO CHATTER

A new version of "Air Hockey," the 1974 model to be exact, will be unveiled by Brunswick at this year's MOA Expo in the Conrad Hilton Hotel! As Bob Nixon explained it, the '74 rendition will be slightly different in design but the actual play will be "just as good, just as exciting" as in Air Hockey '73! The '74 model will be available in two sizes, one in 4x8, the other in 3x6—both coin operated, of course. Brunswick engineers have made some changes in the new model that will benefit the operator immensely by minimizing the assembling time so that the model can be put together and moved with much more ease. Air Hockey '74 will be in production very shortly and volume shipments are expected to commence on or before MOA convention time!

TENNIS ANYONE? "T.V. Tennis," that is — ChiCoin's latest electronic game which is being introduced to the trade this week. Chuck Arnold's very excited about it, needless to say, and he's confident ops will be too! Stop in at your nearest ChiCoin distrib showroom and have a look at it.

NEVER HAS THE LOCAL MOA office been as busy as it is right now! Requests for badges, banquet tickets and the like are pouring in and Fred Granger, Bonnie York and the staff are putting in a lot of extra hours tending to the additional chores connected with the association's 25th anniversary celebration! This year's show should be the biggest ever!

BY THE TIME THIS COLUMN makes print Williams distributors will have received samples of the factory's new 4-player "Pro Tennis"! Bill DeSelm said truckload orders are now being filled! Wow! Also on the current delivery schedule out there are shuffles, of course, and the big selling 2-player "Darling"!

AT PRESSTIME. SOME 10,000 vending and food service management reps were assembling at McCormick Place for the huge NAMA convention which opened on Thursday, October 18, for a four-day run.

MIDWAY'S LARRY BERKE has been on the go quite a bit lately attending the various distrib open house galas in the midwest. He's hearing lots of praise for the "Winner IV" and "Sportsman" gun, which are pretty much top priority at the Midway plant right now.

RECEIVED NOTIFICATION FROM Coin Operated Industries of Nebraska (COIN) that their Midwest Coin Machine Show will be coming up December 7, 8 and 9, at the Omaha Hilton. For further information write COIN at 1208 Farnam St. in Omaha.

ON THE SINGLES SCENE: Understand, from Lormar's Joe Ceddia, that area ops are showing interest in the following releases: "Marie" b/w "Sentimental Journey" by Boots Randolph (Monument), "My Blue Heaven" b/w "Somebody Stole My Gal" by the Johnny Mann Singers from the United Artists special series; "The Most Beautiful Girl In The World" by Charlie Rich (Epic) and "Bring Me Sunshine" b/w "My Woman, My Woman My Wife" by vet performer Al Morgan on the Mor-Wright label.

MILWAUKEE MENTIONS

The recent Bally-Midway service school hosted by Empire Dist. at its Green Bay premises was an obvious success with a total of 59 operators and servicemen in attendance. Session was conducted by Bally's Tom Hata and Midway's Andy Ducay, assisted by Empire's Joe Eggener and Dale Johnson. "This was one of the best turnouts for a games school that we have had," said manager Bob Rondeau. "We intend to continue the policy of offering service schools whenever the opportunity presents itself, since we strongly feel it is to our advantage, as one of the world's largest distributors, to have informed and qualified operators and servicemen as customers" he added. "Their enthusiasm and appreciation of what we are trying to accomplish by hosting these sessions more than makes up for the time and expense involved on our part." Since the school lasted most of the day a buffet meal was provided by Empire at noon and again in the evening.

FROM THE LITTLE LP RACKS: Rob Hauber, who heads up the very active LLP's department at Radio Doctors, tells us he's expecting quite a bit of new material from both Goldmor and Little LP's Unlimited. At the present time, he's moving a lot of Dean Martin's "Sittin' On Top Of The World" (Reprise) and "American Beauty" by the Grateful Dead (WB)—both from the new Little LP's Unlimited catalog. Current sellers from the Goldmor lineup include Herbie Mann's "Hoid On I'm Comin'" (Atlantic), Aretha Franklin's "Hey Now Hey" (Atlantic) and Donny Hathaway's "Extension Of A Man" (Atco).

Revolutionary Machine Monitoring System from Rowe

CHICAGO — Rowe International, Inc. introduced a computerized system for monitoring up to a thousand vending machines at last week's NAMA show.

Using this system, one girl, looking at a TV-type display can tell instantly such things as: How much product is in any one of a thousand vending machines; if any machine is malfunctioning; if someone is tampering with a machine, and if the supply of change in the machine is low.

If someone does tamper with any machine, there is an instantaneous visual and audible signal at the central dispatch console. In addition, the phone number of the police station nearest that particular location will instantly flash on the screen.

Any number of other questions can be programmed for instant answer as well.

"It's really a giant step forward for our industry," said Earl C. Ramsey, president of Rowe.

"Through the use of this system, operators will be able to cut costs in accounting, inventory control, and security," said Ramsey.

The computer makes it possible to convert costly, time-consuming manual accounting procedures to automatic reporting. This could include reports in such areas as sales figures . . . tax computations by location . . . payroll computations . . . labor control . . . inventory control . . . sales commission computation by customers . . . equipment depreciation schedules . . . cash collection analysis . . . operating profit and loss statements by machine

. . . location, by route and in total . . . and so on.

Reports which could be available through the computer include individual machine status reports . . . location analysis by machine . . . route analysis by location . . . examination and planning of both route service calls . . . system updating, both machine and location.

In addition to the TV type display, the system includes a silent teleprinter, a dedicated mini computer and a communications system.

The dozens of different types of information which the system can provide are reported instantly whether the machine being monitored is one mile or a thousand miles away.

"Operators will be able to cut losses from machines that are down," Ramsey said, "because they will not have to send service personnel to inspect a thousand machines to find out which ones may not be working properly. They will have this information instantly and know exactly where to dispatch a man.

"They will know exactly which machines need merchandise and how much. This will eliminate the need for estimating product requirements and the possible errors which can result in over buying or under buying.

"It will also assure the customer of always having a fresh supply of merchandise, and the customer will experience fewer incidents of malfunctioning machines.

"Although we are a manufacturer," said Ramsey, "we are constantly concerned with operator profits. That's why we developed this system. (It was developed in conjunction with the Morton Division of the Martin Marietta Corporation.) And the beauty of it is that it is adaptable for use with equipment made by our competitors."

The system could also be adapted to monitor other types of operations besides vending machines.

Counter & Wrapper

ATLANTA — The new GLORY WL-4 Automatic Coin Wrapping and Counting Machine has been announced by Currency Systems, Inc., a division of Amiel Industries. The newly released GLORY WL-4, like its predecessor, the WE-4, is based on the "no transfer point" principle pioneered by GLORY in 1965.

The improvements incorporated in the new GLORY WL-4 have all reportedly been a result of experience gained with the WE-4 under actual business conditions.

The outside design remains unchanged, with the improvements and advanced engineering inside. Those areas normally subjected to wear have been strengthened. As a result, the WL-4 should withstand extraordinary long and tough performance.

It still doesn't look like a jukebox.

When we built the world's first deluxe console jukebox, it didn't look like a jukebox. Neither does our new Model 452 Consóle Deluxe.

And that's the real beauty of it. Its handcrafted cherry-wood finish lets it enter sophisticated clubs and restaurants that wouldn't allow any other jukebox. Its elegant curved fabric grille and original oil painting on the lid let it blend into any decor from traditional to ultra-modern.

And underneath its smooth exterior beats a heart of solid Rock-Ola. Like its predecessors, we've given the 452 The Works, the famous Rock-Ola mechanism that's the envy of the industry.

The 452 Console Deluxe. It doesn't look like a jukebox, but it sure makes money like one.

ROCK-OLA
THE SOUND ONE

Why did Scuffy Shew insist that a blind photographer take his glossies?

To hide his true identity and yet give a little satisfaction to his curious, ever-expanding fan clubs. They want a glimpse of the artist who wrote, produced and performs "Reason To Feel."

The single is not exactly burning up the charts. Yet. Nor does it get regular play on all the Top 40s. Yet. But it is getting more and more airplay. And more and more phone calls. And somehow, it's on the Gavin reports, somewhere or other, every week.

So Scuffy is headed for stardom. And better photos.
