DISPLAY AND BUSINESS CARD ADS - DETAILS AND RATES

The deadline is the first of the month for display and business card ad artwork, payment and repeat requests.

Advertising is accepted only for early items related to radio, communication, electricity, etc. All items must be described fairly; reproductions, reprints and not-original items must be so identified. Advertisers agree to respond promptly to inquiries and orders, and to resolve problems promptly if the buyer is not satisfied.

All advertising must be prepaid; see "Payment" paragraph above. Late ads will be run only if space and time permit. Since artwork is reduced to 63% in the printing process, originals should be the artwork size listed below. Do not send in artwork on art board or send negatives. Ads should be typeset or typed neatly with a carbon ribbon. If you want us to prepare your ad, include the one-time cost listed below for A.R.C. to make up the ad.

Photos should be at an 85 line screen; otherwise, add $8.00 per photo for screening. (Do not glue photos to artwork; submit separately.)

If you are confused by these requirements and terms, please contact A.R.C. before beginning to prepare your ad.

ANTIQUE RADIO CLASSIFIED

EDITOR'S COMMENTS

Another incredible year has gone by — a year of meets, collecting and growth. This 90-page issue, with 24 more pages than a year ago, is indicative of the increased interest in radio collecting and history. The number of classified ads exceeds 650 — another new high, and over nineteen article pages appear. Although there are fewer radio events during the holiday season, we now follow over three-dozen clubs and have announced over 170 meets this past year.

A.R.C.'s circulation growth is shown in the Statement of Ownership, Management and Circulation, shown at the bottom of this page (the U.S. Postal Service requires this of all magazines). This statement reports that A.R.C.'s paid circulation for the September 1990 issue was 6,354 subscribers, which is an increase of 1,519 over September 1989. And, A.R.C. is still growing at over 100 new subscribers each month. You — our subscribers — are the driving force for this continued growth! Thanks.

The lead article is our third photo feature on the Atlantic Radio Company. Contributor Ron Boucher escorts us through its exhibits at the May 1922 radio show in Boston, Mass.

George Potter covered the October Vintage Radio and Phonograph Society meet and auction near Dallas, Texas, where the auction totaled over $35,000! Murray Shapiro reports on another radio auction in Binghamton, New York.

The prototype of a 1939 RCA portable radio is described by Kurt Nauck. Also in these pages, Clint Springer relates his approach to crystal set construction and experimenting.

This issue includes the third chapter of Stan Dryer's "The Antique Radio Boys and the Garrulous Grebe." In real life Stan Dryer is Frank Bequaert of Rainy Day Books. In addition, Part Three of the Olde Tyme Radio Services Directory appears along with the popular Photo Review.

Over this past year, we at A.R.C. have gotten to know many of you — either in person, by phone or through the mail; we look forward to meeting more of you in 1991.

I join the A.R.C. staff — Betsy, Bobby, Chris, Dave, Dick, Dorothy, Scott and Shirley — in wishing all of you a happy holiday season and a prosperous new year,

John V. Terrey

PRINTED WITHOUT COMMENT

During 1989, A.R.C. received complaints from over 36 individuals who never received paid-for items that had been ordered from Mike Kirby of Panama City, Fla.

We just received documentation of Mr. Kirby responding to a recent wanted ad and receiving payment for the quoted items; after almost three months, the purchaser has received nothing.

ON THE COVER

The cover illustration is from a 1920's vintage postcard in the editor's collection.

Santa is working on his list while listening to an RCA Radiola Model V playing through an RCA Model FH horn speaker. The card reads: "A Merry Christmas. You're in my Christmas circuit, and on the waves of thought. A happy Christmas and New Year to you is gladly brought."

WITH THE COLLECTORS

The Atlantic Radio Company – Part III

CONTRIBUTED BY RON BOUCHER

This is the third in a series of articles featuring photographs and information about the Atlantic Radio Company. These articles are made possible through the courtesy of Ron Boucher, who discovered an extensive collection of photographs, original correspondence and advertising materials at an estate sale near Goffstown, N. H.

Part I, in the May 1990 A.R.C., showed photographs of the Atlantic Radio Co. dealership on Boylston Street as it existed in the early 1920s. Part II, in the August 1990 A.R.C., showed more photos of the interior and exterior views of the Boylston Street headquarters.

Here, in Part III, Ron takes us on a whimsical flashback to various radio trade shows, including one held May 3 to 6, 1922, in Mechanics Hall in Boston. Although Mechanics Hall has long since been replaced by the Prudential Center, it lives on in these photographs of Atlantic Radio's trade show setups. (Editor)

This is not your typical article giving technical information on a specific radio or test instrument, nor is it a history of a radio manufacturer or dealer. It is, rather, an invitation to join me on a whimsical, wistful journey to various radio trade shows attended by the Atlantic Radio Co. during the period 1922-1924. The accompanying trade show photos were carefully chosen to stimulate your imagination as we travel back in time to an antique radio fantasy land!

Look at the eyes of the radio salesmen in the first photo in Figure 1. The salesmen were just staring into the camera, trying to look right for the photograph – a memento of a special event. They seem proud of what they were doing and wanted a record of it. It never occurred to them that in a distant, unimaginable future, countless people would be staring back at them – people who would look at all their latest technical marvels and consider them primitive antiques, people who would collect the very things with which they made their living – radios!

I've often taken a magnifying glass and looked for details in these photos. The fabulous lives I see were simply part of the everyday items of these salesmen. Their displays and booths were the result of hard work, using hand tools, wood, paper and cloth. As noted in Figures 2 and 3, their booths do not look much fancier than what you would see at one of today's local bazaars.

self going back to that time? 1922 is really a long time ago! The end of World War II is 45 years in our past. World War I was only four years into the past of our radio salesmen! They had not even given the war a number because they did not expect a second one.

What if it were actually possible to travel back to 1922? Imagine that time travel was possible, and you had the opportunity to go back to that trade show – only once and for one day! Is your imagination good enough? Let's get ready for the trip!

Those times were much less tolerant than today, so we have to be careful. Our appearance, speech and behavior have to be right. We don't want someone telling the policeman at the door to keep an eye on those "suspicious looking characters." People went to these things in suit coats and ties, so we have to get the right clothing. An antique clothing dealer? No – that stuff would probably fall apart and smell like a basement; we'll have to have a costume made to look and fit right.

With an opportunity like this we're going to want to buy something, so we need money. Remember, our modern money would be counterfeit in 1922. We'll have to go to a dealer who sells old currency; this is getting expensive! Remember, bring nothing modern, no digital watch, no modern eyeglasses, no Vintage Radio reference books.

Let's go...

OK, we've arrived. What do we do first? There's so much to see. Do we go to look at the Grebes? the DeForests? Amrads? Wireless Specialty? Clapp-Easthams? Do we concentrate on the rare ones? Do we go to talk to the designers? There's Charles Leutz at the Atlantic Radio booth! What a chance to ask some questions for a historical article! Let's go see if we can find any rare prototypes on display. How about picking up a case of new WD-11 tubes?

Let's have some fun and go look outside; the world of 1922 is out there. It looks like a Charlie Chaplin movie, only in color, drab colors but still not black and white, and the people walk at normal speed! Is this air really less polluted than in 1990? Look into the restaurants, offices, stores. People are using antiques for everyday work. If we could stick around longer, we could "invent" some things and become famous.

But let's go back in and see some more of what we came here for. Listen to those old radio stations! Horn speakers sound pretty bad on modern stations, but they are much worse with these old stations and their primitive mikes and transmitters. How can these people stand for this? It must really still be a novelty! Let's load up on free brochures; these are great. But calm down, that cop has been keeping an eye on us!

Are you having fun in 1922? Did you notice the prices? The everyday stuff in the stores seems cheap enough, but the radio prices are right up there. But you have to realize that this is still all new technology; remember what computers cost not too long ago?

You have to look at how many work hours it took to buy something then. The actual dollar figure doesn't mean much. You almost have to consider these prices as though they were in a different currency. And besides, these people accomplished less with one hour's work. For example, they worked longer for a loaf of bread than we do in 1990. But, considering how many average work hours it took to pay for one of these radios, they cost a fortune. We're no better off either; we're here spending antique money on these things.

But then again, all this stuff is new and unused with all manuals and original shipping boxes.

Figure 6. The Radiola Grand is framed by a trellis, while several Crosleys are prominently displayed on the right. Among the Crosley sets are the Models Ace Type V, Model XJ atop its battery box, Ace 2-step amplifier and Ace Type 3B receiver.

Wouldn't that improve your collection? We could stand to spend some of this money for that.

People at the show are marveling at how advanced this equipment is. This is the leading edge of technology. But it seems so primitive to us. Are you tempted to tell them about jet planes, computers, TVs? Better hold it in; they'll put you away. Merely running a radio from an electrical outlet would be way ahead of this time. A Type 6A8 tube would stop the show.

Well, I guess we'll leave you now, so you can spend the rest of the day where you want. But before we go, how about some advice?

THINGS TO AVOID

- Don't ask for beer at the restaurant (prohibition).
- Don't say, "Boston sure is quiet without Logan Airport."
- Don't laugh too loud when you hear someone talk about the stock market.
- Don't ask, "Are those the original knobs?"
- Don't let your eyes bug out whenever someone gives you some change, and all you see are these great antique coins. And don't exclaim, "They must spend this stuff!"
- Don't ask, "Is there an outlet handy so I can plug this radio in, to try it out?"
- Don't say, "Is that what they looked like when they were new? My refinishing jobs are pretty authentic after all!"

THINGS TO DO

- Warn them about making gears and other parts out of pot metal which was later found to deteriorate rapidly.
- Ask them to put model numbers and manufacturing dates on the radios.
- Have them make a time capsule with radios in it, to be opened in 1990 by Ron Boucher.

Obviously there will never be time machines; someone from the future would have returned to tell us about it! But how can someone collect old radios – or anything else old – and never think about the possibilities?

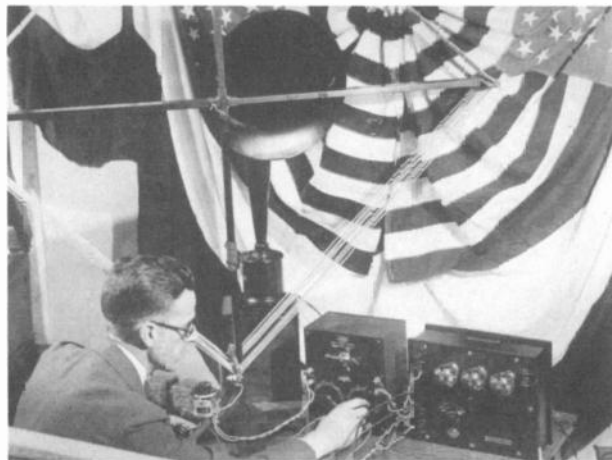

Figure 8. Note the antenna loop used in this working display, to bring in stations on the Radiola crystal set and 7A amplifier.

MEET & AUCTION REPORT

VRPS/AWA Convention and Auction October 19, 1990 - Duncanville, Texas

CONTRIBUTED BY GEORGE POTTER

The Vintage Radio & Phonograph Society (VRPS) and the Antique Wireless Association (AWA) held their Convention '90 on October 19-21, 1990, at the Holiday Inn, Dallas Southwest in Duncanville, Texas. Nearly 300 attended.

Two auctions were held again this year. At Friday's auction, 160 collectors attended and 422 items sold for a total of $7,527. At Saturday's auction, 210 collectors attended and bought 546 items for a total of $27,540! The grand totals, new highs, were $35,067 and 968 items — that's one item every 57 seconds!

Programs on early color TV and one on radio and phonograph values drew crowds. The latter program had all the audience participating, including a number of spouses.

Sunday morning's flea market started early with a packed crowd indoors. An Atwater Kent breadboard 10C, an early Radio Craft Interpanel and several early Moorhead tubes appeared.

The following is a selection of auction items. Some of the high bids were a Pilot 3" TV with original case at $325, an RCA 621TS TV at $400, a Philco 70 cathedral at $325, a DeForest Interpanel at $850, a Tower ship speaker at $220, and a Silver-Marshall cathedral at $200.

The RCA 1939 Portable Prototype

BY KURT NAUCK

The RCA portable radio pictured in Figure 1 is owned by Joyce Bates, whose father was employed by RCA from 1930 to 1940. According to Joyce, RCA developed this prototype radio to meet the steady demand for smaller, lighter portable radios.

This radio was formally introduced at the 1939 World's Fair, held in Flushing Meadows, New York. Because her father worked in research and development, Joyce had the privilege of demonstrating the prototype at the RCA display. She reports that the set enthralled the public. However, before production could actually begin, America entered World War II, and the project was shelved.

IDENTIFICATION

Although no model number appears on or inside the radio, the number 20 is written on several parts of the chassis, which could indicate that at least twenty were produced. In Figures 2 and 3, you can see the number 20 on the variable gang condenser and on the chassis frame.

Scribe marks are also located around screw holes and joints.

These marks obviously indicate that this is a prototype radio and not a production set.

In Figure 4, the lid is up and the lid cover is off, showing the otherwise covered loop antenna.

I appeal to A.R.C. readers for more information on this historically significant prewar portable receiver.

(Kurt Nauck, 1940 E. Allegro, Houston, TX 77080)

The RCA Model BP-10 Portable

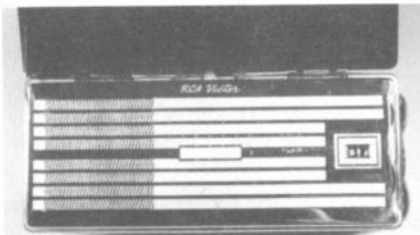

The RCA Model BP-10 seems to be the production version of the prototype set in the accompanying article. The RCA Victor Service Data "Red Book," Volume II, 1938-1942, pages 297-C and 298-C, indicates that, during its production, several significant changes were made in Model BP-10, shown below. These changes included power switch assemblies, speaker designs and mountings, as well as moulded lid and loop antenna assemblies.

A 1941 model of the BP-10 is shown in Flick of the Switch, page 157, and a 1940 version, with no model number, appears in A Blast from the Past, page 280. In both models, the dials are on one end, instead of on top of the set, as noted in the prototype. Interestingly, the 1940 model has the carrying strap located at the speaker end, while the 1941 model BP-10 has the carrying strap on the end where the dials are located. In each case, it is probable that the sets may have been produced in the fall of the year prior to the advertised "model year."

Are there A.R.C. readers "out there," who know of any other production versions of Joyce Bates's prototype? We would appreciate receiving information and photographs, preferably in black and white, showing the same angles that appear in the above article, for effective comparisons.

If reader response warrants, we will feature additional production designs in an RCA portable prototype sequel. (Editor)

The Demonstrator Crystal Set and Laws of Tinkering

BY CLINT SPRINGER

"The difference between a man and a boy is the price of his toy," my wife has said more than once. She may be about right. Others suggest that most senior citizens get to a stage of second childhood, but some of us never left the first one!

Whatever category you may fit, chances are you're interested in crystal set radios or you would not have even seen this article. So much has been said lately about the lowly mineral detector used in crystal sets, why shouldn't I add my nickel's worth to the commentary?

Carl Ferdinand Braum, a German physicist, discovered in 1874 that certain crystal substances have the very peculiar phenomenon of rectification. Evidently General Henry Harrison Chase Dunwoodie in 1906 was the first to obtain a patent on such a detector. This device used carbondum (a trade name for a compound of carbon and silicon). This compound was used by the De-Forest Company in 1913, after the "Responder" was determined to be an infringement on the patent Fessenden had been granted for his electrolytic detector. Most crystal detectors were too unstable for commercial use at that time.

THE DEMONSTRATOR

Now that we know the when and who, a little dab of how seems expedient. I have built an arrangement called "The Demonstrator," (see Figure 1), which allows jumper changes to demonstrate the different crystal set circuits. The schematic of the Demonstrator is shown in Figure 2.

The unit will tune a ways on either side of the standard broadcast band. A few possibilities are listed:

1. Fundamental: 1 to 11; 2 to 7.
2. Improved: 1 to 10; 2 to 9.
3. Link Coupled: 1 to 4; 2 to 3; 5 to 9; 6 to 10.
4. Direct Coupled: 1 to 4; 3 to 8; 2 to 7.
5. You can think up a number of others.

After building and testing the apparatus, my "Laws of Tinkering" were observed. For your benefit and instruction these laws, although not found in any other radio book, are now printed for the benefit of all mankind.

SPRINGER'S LAWS OF TINKERING WITH CRYSTAL SET RADIOS

1. A crystal set radio works, but not too well.
2. Some circuits work better than others, but not very much better.
3. You can probably tune in several stations, usually two at a time.
4. Your spouse will keep insisting that your time could be better spent. She/he is probably correct.
5. Regardless of the preceding, periodically you'll get the urge to build and/or test another set.

I, therefore, wish you good health and happy tinkering for many years to come. Who knows, one of you may find a circuit that breaks one of the above laws. If so, please let me know.

Construction Tips

For those readers who may wish to construct the Demonstrator, I have provided the following guidelines. However, I should stress that most of the parts are arbitrary, both physical and electrical. But, as "Springer's Laws of Tinkering with Crystal Set Radios" indicates, if you are somewhere in the ball park, it probably won't make a lot of difference anyway.

The cabinet I designed is 10.5-inches wide, 8-inches tall, and 8-inches deep. The construction is of one-inch oak board at the top and bottom, oak posts at each corner, and quarter-inch oak plywood for the front and sides. The solid top, bottom and posts are decoratively routed, but the coil-tap knobs are fashioned from round cabinet knobs. The tap contacts are cut from tin, the knobs having springs inside the cabinet to make them rigid enough to stay in place. In this design, some parts are constructed directly into the cabinet. However, a slide-in chassis might be more advantageous.

The tuning capacitors are single gang, 365 pfd. The ones used in my set are rather small physically, and were bought from Radio Shack, but I don't think they are available now. Those taken from an old junked-out TRF radio are ideal, but usually physically larger.

The best headphones in early days were rated at 3,000 ohms, and that was their actual DC resistance. For modern low-impedance headphones, any output transformer designed for a single-ended vacuum tube will work, the secondary of which should have an eight-ohm tap. One designed to load a type 6V6 tube at about 5,000 ohms would be ideal.

The coils are wound on 1.5-inch outside diameter pvc plastic pipe, and the wire is 22 gauge or smaller, standard enameled. At the rear of the set, I placed a setscrew terminal strip, and spadelug jumpers are used to choose (demonstrate) the different circuit arrangements. At the front you will notice the galena crystal and cat whisker, homemade, and the switch below that selects either the cat whisker or the small diode inside the cabinet.

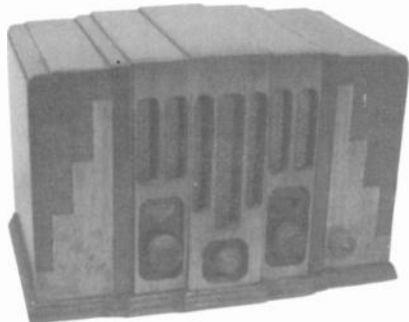

As a rule of thumb, an outside antenna as long and as high as you can construct is desirable, although the optimum length would be about one hundred feet, including the lead-in wire. An antenna longer than that tends to become directional off the end, and would reflect a gain only to stations in that direction. A good earth ground is necessary. Your antenna should be from twelve or fourteen gauge wire, although whether it is stranded or solid is of little consequence. (Bear in mind that all my statements relate to the standard broadcast band.)

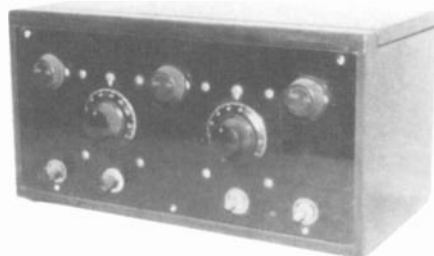

PHOTO REVIEW

This column presents in pictorial form many of the more unusual radios, speakers, tubes, advertising, and other radio-related items (covering the years 1900-1950's) from our readers' collections. The photos are meant to help increase awareness of what's available in the radio collecting hobby. Send in any size photos from your collection. Photos must be sharp in detail, contain a single item, and preferably have a light-colored background. A short description must be included with each submitted item. Please note that receipt of photos is not acknowledged, publishing is not guaranteed, and photos are not returned.

RCA 115 - The unique off-set knob is an application of an Art Deco rule - expect the unexpected. The 1934 Model 115 represents one of the true Deco designs put out by the usually conservative RCA Victor Co. (Fred Geer - Jacksonville, FL 32210)

KODEL MODEL C13 - In 1924, Kodel produced this three-tube reflex set with two compression condensers for tuning. It has a well marked panel and terminal connection tags, a trademark of Kodel. (Walter Worth - Wollaston, MA)

WIRE RECORDER - This is a Silvertone wire recorder sold by Sears & Roebuck Co. in the late 40s. The wire take-up spool also functions as a 78 rpm turntable. (Mike Adams - Scotts Valley, CA)

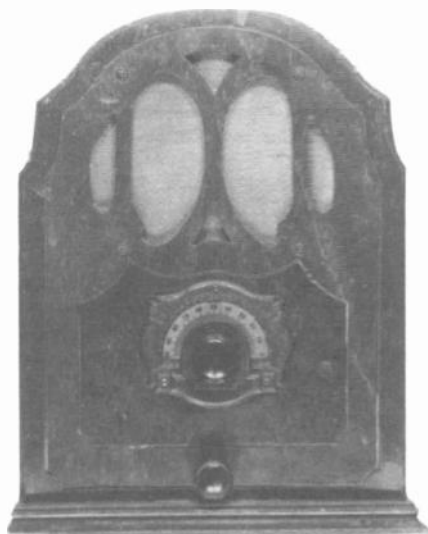

PARIS CRYSTAL RADIO - This crystal set was made in the 1920s by the Paris Radio Products Company of Philadelphia, Pa. The radio is in a metal can painted green. Its original box is covered in red paper with the original label. It is about 4-1/4 inches in diameter and four inches high. (Erich E. Brueschke - Hinsdale, IL)

THREE-WAY PORTABLE - The Stewart Warner Mocol A61P1 is a six-tube, three-way portable with built-in battery charger. Manufactured in 1947, this radio has a black leatherette-covered case and a handle that looks like that of a Zenith Trans-Oceanic. (Walter Worth - Wollaston, MA)

MIDGET CATHEDRAL - This Steinite is thirteen inches tall. It has a two-tone effect finish on the cabinet. It is a five-tube TRF receiver. The dial escutcheon is identical to that of the Avalon cathedral that appeared on the October 1987 cover of A.R.C. Steinite was made by the Warwick Mfg. Co. which produced some 40 trade names including Beverly, Clarion, Steinite and possibly Avalon. (Curtis P. Schreiber - Rochester, MN)

MCMURDO CONVERTIBLE - This classic console was manufactured by McMurdo-Silver as the 1935 Masterpiece VI. It can be played with the speaker doors wide open, or closed with the center panels partially open, with or without the top chassis cabinet, with the chassis cabinet doors retracted, with the top cover lid open, or with the chrome-plated chassis fully exposed atop the massive speaker cabinet. (Robert Gates - Mendham, NJ)

RADIO ADVENTURES

The Antique Radio Boys and the Garrulous Grebe – Chapter 3

BY STAN DRYER

The story so far: The Antique Radio Boys – Terry Johnson, Jimmy Carver and Gary Staunton – rescue Lucinda Beaucart from a fire and save the radio collection belonging to her millionaire father, Frank Beaucart. A Grebe CR-4 is missing and their search for the suspected thief, Verton Gridelek, takes them to the barn of the bully, Barton Sneer, where they barely escape when a disk-scanning television set is pushed down the stairs they are ascending. Consulting with the government agent, Dick Wood, they discover that the evil Dr. Krull may be trying to corner the market on CR-4's. With the excuse of helping Krull's daughter Karmella with her act for the Old Tyme Radio Performance Competition, Terry visits Krull Castle. While searching for the missing CR-4's, he is discovered by Dr. Krull. One of Krull's goons grabs him and forces him to the edge of a pool full of alligators.

"You'll never get away with this," cried Terry defiantly. "My friends know exactly where I am." Krull laughed, a sound as ugly as a motorboating amplifier. "I just hope your friends come looking for you," he said. "More tasty morsels for my pets."

With an impatient nod of his head, he indicated that his henchman should push Terry into the pool. But before the man could act, the door to the room burst open and Karmella rushed in. A quick glance at Terry told her the situation.

"Daddy!" she cried. "You stop that this minute!"

Krull raised his hand, and the goon pulled Terry a couple of inches back from the pool.

"Now Karmella," said Krull, "this is none of your affair."

"It is too," Karmella screamed at her father. "You promised me you wouldn't feed any more of my dates to your alligators."

"Oh," said Krull, his voice full of slimy unction, "I never realized he was your friend." And to the goon, he barked, "Release him!"

Reluctantly, the goon let go of Terry.

"Terry came over to help me practice for the Old Tyme Radio Performance Competition," said Karmella.

"But I've explained to you," said Krull with an evil smile, "you do not need to practice. I guarantee you will win."

"I don't need your help," Karmella sneered at her father. She grabbed Terry by the hand. "Come on," she said, "let's finish my rehearsing."

"Daddy can be a real naughty at times," said Karmella, as she led the way back to the Music Room. She sat down on the couch and patted the seat beside her. "Come sit and let's chat."

Reluctantly, Terry seated himself. "Your father does show a lot of disrespect for our radio heritage," he said. "He shouldn't have fed those radios to the alligators."

"Oh, those are just old Catalins and stuff," said Karmella. "Daddy wouldn't destroy a really good old radio."

"You mean like a Grebe CR-4?" asked Terry.

Karmella, who had been leaning close to him, jerked away as if she had stuck her finger on a B+ supply terminal. "What do you mean by that?" she demanded.

"Oh nothing," Terry replied. "I mean a CR-4 is a typical, valuable old radio."

"I don't know anything about any CR-4's," said Karmella. The obvious deceit in her voice confirmed Terry's suspicions. This young lady knew plenty about the missing Grebes.

Terry was faced with a dilemma. He knew he should put his arm around Karmella, kiss her once or twice, and after vowing his love for her, try to wheedle from her the location of the radios.

But that kind of prevarication was not in the nature of this straightforward lad. He would no more tell a girl untruthfully that he loved her than misrepresent the pedigree of an antique radio to a customer.

He glanced at his watch. "I'm awfully sorry, Karmella," he said, "but I've got to get home. I have to get my notes together for the Carlisle High Antique Radio Club meeting tomorrow."

"Can't you forget your old radios for just a few minutes?" Karmella pouted.

But at the door, she smiled up at him. "Hope you can come again sometime," she said, her voice filled with promise."

Terry hurried to the spot where he had concealed his bicycle. A cloud obscured the moon, but he saw the dim shape of his bicycle in the woods. As he was about to grasp the handlebars, the moon came out from behind the cloud, and he saw that the bicycle was suspended from a tree by what looked like insulated wires!

It took him but a moment to discover that a wire led from the bicycle frame to the high tension end of a large arc transmitter coil hidden in the bushes nearby. Terry quickly found and opened the knife switch controlling the power to the primary coil. He freed his bicycle and detached the high tension wire from its frame. He then ran this wire back and wrapped it around the handle of the knife switch. When Krull's henchman discovered he had escaped, they would most likely turn on the switch to see if the coil was working properly!

Terry was right. He had gone barely a hundred yards down the drive, when the woods behind him were lit with the glow of an electric arc. A sizzling sound and a cry of pain informed him that his rewiring had achieved its purpose.

Terry pedaled furiously to Agent Wood's barn where Gary and Jim were waiting. He quickly filled them all in on the events of the evening, including the rewiring of the transmitter coil.

"I guess that henchman of Krull's was really burned up when he found you had escaped," said Gary.

"I'm afraid that I've failed in my quest," said Terry, too down to respond to the pun.

"Not a bit," said Dick Wood. "The events at Krull Castle this evening have erased any doubts in my mind that Krull is the man behind the disappearance of the CR-4's."

"I agree," said Jim to Terry. "You've performed a risky assignment and come away with valuable information."

"But he missed his chance to kiss Karmella Krull," said Gary.

"That's too much," cried Terry. "Come on, Jim." The two Antique Radio Boys grabbed the protesting Gary and tumbled him onto the floor where they sat on his back until he cried "Uncle" and promised to mend his ways.

"Now we must get serious," said Agent Wood. "Krull and his associates are dangerous men who will stop at nothing to achieve their nefarious ends. I want you boys to say nothing to anyone of the events of this evening, nor of what we have learned or what we suspect."

The three lads gave their solemn promises before they headed home to bed.

Terry had the honor of introducing the guest speaker at the Carlisle High School Antique Radio Club the next afternoon.

"We are pleased," he said, "to have as a speaker a renowned authority on the history of radio. He is well known for his erudition and integrity in the field. Today he will be speaking to us on Lee DeForest's development of the triode vacuum tube, which can truly be said to be the foundation of modern radio. It gives me great pleasure to introduce Douglas Allenby."

As those of you who have read The Antique Radio Boys at Canandaigua know, our three chums had heard Douglas Allenby lecture on a previous occasion. They were looking forward to a clear and articulate presentation of a most interesting subject.

They were sadly disappointed. Allenby seemed distracted during his talk. He hesitated a great deal and lost his train of thought several times. The applause when he finished was less than resounding.

"A most interesting talk," said Terry. "Now are there any questions?"

When no one else came forward, Gary raised his hand. "Wouldn't you say," he asked, pointing to the diagram of a triode tube on the blackboard, "that this was DeForest's prime evil?"

The audience groaned at this bit of humor, but no smile crossed Douglas Allenby's features.

The three Antique Radio Boys escorted Allenby out to his car. "I understand that you are going to be judging the Old Tyme Radio Performance Competition," said Terry by way of light conversation.

"Who told you that?" exclaimed Allenby. His face took on a wary expression.

"I think I read it in the paper," replied Terry, surprised by this reaction. "Is it true?"

"Yes," said Allenby. "I wish it were not, but it is true."

Suddenly, Terry remembered what Dr. Krull had said about guaranteeing that Karmella would win the competition.

"Are you," Terry asked, "by any chance acquainted with Dr. Krull?"

At the mention of the evil doctor's name, a look of abject terror passed across Allenby's features. "I have to go now," he cried. Without so much as a handshake, he jumped into his car and sped out of the parking lot.

"Did you see the look on his face when you mentioned Dr. Krull?" asked Jim.

"Yes," said Terry. "There is no doubt in my mind that Krull has Douglas Allenby in his power. He is threatening an action of dire consequences unless our friend votes Karmella Krull the winner of the competition."

"We must discover how he has ensnared Allenby," said Jim.

"Right," said Gary. "I think we should head right over to Terry's house and discuss this matter over some apple pie."

As the three boys started for home, they met Lucinda Beaucart crossing the parking lot. But she showed no sign of recognition and would have walked past them without a greeting if Terry had not spoken up. "Good afternoon," he said and smiled.

Lucinda did not return his smile. "Good afternoon," she said curtly.

"How are you coming along with your piece for the Old Tyme Radio Performance Competition?" asked Terry.

"Well," said Lucinda, "I'm surprised you're even interested."

"Just what does that mean?" Terry replied.

"I understand from Karmella Krull that you've been spending a lot of time helping with her performance," said Lucinda. "Now, Karmella's prone to falsehoods at times, so just tell me it isn't true."

"Well, it is true," Terry said, "but..."

"But what?" demanded Lucinda.

Terry was about to tell this lovely, open-faced girl how he had only gone to Krull Castle to obtain information about the missing CR-4's, but suddenly he remembered the promise he had made to Agent Wood. "I, er...it was just a social visit to help her with her singing. I mean she asked me if I would..."

His words struck Lucinda as if a 1929 Monroe AC-TR10 Dynamik console receiver had fallen on her. "Well, at least now we know where we stand," she said proudly. She turned and rushed off before Terry could see the tears welling in her eyes.

from sparks to compact disks

Read about the famous investigators whose work unwittingly paved the way for the development of the auto radio, one of the greatest success stories ever witnessed.

The auto receiver helped save the radio industry during the great depression and rose from a hang-on novelty to become a sophisticated accessory that helped shape the styling and engineering of the automobile.

Stories of radio broadcasting's halcyon days featuring big bands, drama and outstanding announcers who kept the listeners in tune with the times.

A definitive reference book in a handsome hardbound 8-1/2" x 11" edition of over 300 pages. Profusely illustrated. Includes a listing of manufacturers, a glossary and an extensive index.

CLASSIFIED ADVERTISING POLICY

ONE FREE 20-WORD AD for subscribers in each issue; additional words are 15¢ each. See details below. Classified ads must be received (not just postmarked!) by noon on the ad deadline. Late ads are held for the following issue. Please enclose correct payment with all ads. Stamps or cash are OK for small amounts. (Canadian and other foreign advertisers, please see "Payment" on page two for methods.) "Free words" cannot be accumulated from month to month; free words must be requested when ad is submitted.

Please write each ad on a separate sheet of paper, especially when included with other A.R.C. correspondence. Include SUB# with ad. Ads may be sent in advance; but, write each ad on a separate piece of paper and indicate the month (or successive two months) you want the ad to run.

Please write legibly and use both capital and small letters. Do not use dashes between words. Some numbers and letters can look alike, for example 1, l and I (the number one, the capital i and the small L.) Write the following characters clearly (especially in model numbers): 1, l and I; 0, O, o, Q and D; r and n; 6, b and G; V, U, u, v and Y; A and R; 5, S and s; 2, Z and z. We try to correct spelling errors, so when using an uncommon word or manufacturer which looks similar to a common word or manufacturer, note it so that we do not "correct" it. Editor's comments are in [brackets].

Advertising is accepted only for early items related to radio, communication, electricity, etc. All items must be described fairly; reproductions, reprints and not-original items must be identified as such. Advertisers agree to respond promptly to inquiries and orders, and to resolve problems promptly if the buyer is not satisfied.

Publisher reserves the right to edit ads without notification to the advertiser and to reject ads for any reason. Publisher is not responsible for errors due to illegibly written ads or for any other reason. Since club activities receive free advertising on the Coming Radio Events page, the free 20 words may not be used for club activity ads. See inside front cover for additional information.

CLASSIFIED AD DETAILS

Deadline: 10th of the month!

Classified ads must have a standard heading such as WANTED, FOR SALE, FOR TRADE, FOR SALE/TRADE, SERVICES, MESSAGE, HELP, etc. This heading is the only bold or all-capitalized words allowed in the ad. Capitalize only manufacturer names, model names, etc. Wanted and For Sale ads are mixed together to encourage the reading of all ads, including the Wanted ads. This standard ad format makes scanning the ads easier.

Before writing your ad, please look over the ads in a recent issue of A.R.C., and try to write your ad in the same style. Full name and address is required in all classified ads; we will add it if you forget.

To encourage varied content of the ads, the same classified ad may be run only once per issue and for only two consecutive months. (To run an ad longer, use a boxed classified or display ad.)

Deadline: 5th of the month for classified and boxed classified ads with drawings or photos!

Drawings and photos are encouraged as the response to your ad is much larger and the reader knows better what you want or are selling. Send in your drawing or photograph, and A.R.C. will reduce it or enlarge it as needed.

$8.00 per month for each photo or drawing (if ad is canceled, this amount cannot be refunded.)

CHANGES & CANCELSATIONS

Please check your ads carefully before sending them in. Once ads are received, it is not always possible to refund the amount sent, pull the ad or make changes.

IMPORTANT — COUNTING WORDS — IMPORTANT

The standard headings: WANTED, FOR SALE, etc., count as one word each time used in an ad. Name, address and (one) telephone number, count as 6 words, regardless of length. Ham call letters and business name can be included in the 6 words and do not count extra. Full name and address is required in all classified ads — it does not cost extra! Each additional word, abbreviation, model number or number group, extra telephone numbers, etc. count as one word. Hyphenated words count as two words.
