PURPOSE. Antique Radio Classified is published for people involved in the radio collecting hobby. Its purpose is to stimulate growth of the hobby through the buying, selling and trading of radios and related items, and to provide a monthly forum for the interchange of ideas and information.

CONTACTING ANTIQUE RADIO CLASSIFIED.

All correspondence should be sent to:

A.R.C., P.O. Box 2, Carlisle, MA 01741.

Send only UPS, Federal, etc. items to 498 Cross St.

Telephone: (508) 371-0512; Fax: (508) 371-7129

Please no ads by telephone; thanks.

Your ads, renewals, letters, etc. can be handled faster and more efficiently if (1) each is on a separate piece of paper, and (2) your name, address and SUB# is written on each.

Unfortunately, A.R.C. is not staffed to answer letters with questions about antique radios or requests for advice. However, A.R.C. does solicit letters of interest to its readers and publishes them as space permits. A.R.C. assumes that permission is given to edit and to publish all correspondence and articles received unless otherwise indicated.

GUARANTEE. You may cancel your subscription at any time and receive a pro rata refund for issues not yet mailed. If errors to ads are made by A.R.C., upon request a free correction will be run in the next available issue.

PAYMENT. Please send in full payment with your order or ad. A.R.C. does not carry accounts; all subscriptions, ads, etc. must be prepaid. Pay in U.S. funds. Checks drawn on a U.S. bank, money orders, VISA or MasterCard charges are preferred. Make check out to "A.R.C." U.S. stamps or cash are OK for small amounts. Canadian payers may send a Canadian check in U.S. funds, but please add $1.00 (U.S.) for conversion costs. On request, subscriptions will be prorated to amount sent; minimum term is one year.

CHANGE OF ADDRESS. Please notify us 4 weeks in advance of a change of address. Send both your new and old address, and include your SUB# and effective date of your new address. Temporary address changes can be made also.

SUBMISSION OF MATERIAL. Antique Radio Classified welcomes and solicits information that pertains or relates to radio history or collecting. This may include articles, book reviews, photos, information on upcoming radio events, meetings, antique radio organizations, radio auctions and price reports, sources of old radio and restoration supplies, and other related and interesting material. All material submitted should be neat and verified for accuracy. Unless prior arrangements are made, all submitted materials may be edited, become the property of Antique Radio Classified and will not be returned.

MAILING OF ISSUES. U.S. subscribers can receive A.R.C. by First or Second Class mail (Second Class is the way most magazines are mailed). The mailing of First Class copies is staggered over one to four days with faraway copies mailed before local copies. Non-U.S. copies are mailed on the first day. Second Class copies are mailed on the last day. Mailing dates change each month, but mailing is usually completed by the 26th of the month. First Class copies usually are received by the fifth of the month; copies by Second Class mail, by the tenth.

ETHICS. No person involved in the production of A.R.C. is to act on any information in the magazine until the day after local copies are mailed.

DISCLAIMER. The publisher is not responsible for any buying and selling transactions incurred, or for any other use of the contents of this publication.

Antique Radio Classified subscription rates, frequency of publication, content, policies, size and ad details, and rates are subject to change at any time by A.R.C.

DISPLAY AND BUSINESS CARD ADS - DETAILS AND RATES

The deadline is the first of the month for display and business card ad artwork, payment and repeat requests.

Advertising is accepted only for early items related to radio, communication, electricity, etc. All items must be described fairly; reproductions, reprints and not-original items must be so identified. Advertisers agree to respond promptly to inquiries and orders, and to resolve problems promptly if the buyer is not satisfied.

All advertising must be prepaid; see "Payment" paragraph above. Late ads will be run only if space and time permit. Since artwork is reduced to 63% in the printing process, originals must be the artwork size listed below. Do not send in artwork on art board or send negatives. Ads should be typeset or typed neatly with a carbon ribbon, black printing on white. If you want us to prepare your ad, include the one-time cost below for A.R.C. to make up the ad.

Photos should be at an 85 line screen; otherwise, add $8.00 per photo for screening. (Do not cut or trim photos or glue photos to artwork; submit separately.)

If you are confused by these requirements and terms, please contact A.R.C. before beginning to prepare your ad.

Page	Artwork Size (send in this size)		As Printed (size in magazine)		Cost for 1-month	Cost for 3-months	Cost for 6-months	One-time Cost for A.R.C. to make up Ad (if requested)

Business Card	2	x 3 3/4	1 1/4	x 2 3/8	not avail.	27.00	48.00	5.00

We will be happy to advise you on your ad ideas, estimate how much the ad will cost, recommend an ad size, etc.

We assume that advertisers want all ads which are submitted to run without delay; therefore, we will run the ad and bill for any additional work required for the ad to meet these specifications. A late ad will be run beginning with the next month.

"Tear sheets" will be sent only for 1/2 and full page ads, and if requested when the ad is submitted.

Business card ads are limited to one per advertiser.

The 3-month rates represent about a 10% discount, the 6-month rates, 20%. Placement requests for display ads: add 15% but call first. Clubs: write for discount rates for meets.

EDITOR'S COMMENTS

For the third month in a row, A.R.C. contains over 600 classified ads. A quick perusal of only two pages shows something for nearly everyone: Crosley XJ and AK Model 32 battery sets, Pilot and Predicta TVs, a Philmore crystal set, a Continental piano radio, books, broadcast transcriptions, test equipment and more.

Articles this month lead off with Ron Ramirez' "The Philco Model 20 — The Original Baby Grand." Philco offered this 1930 set, also featured on the cover, in several styles; two cathedral styles and a console are shown in Ron's article. He also includes specifications for the set along with a number of variant circuit styles.

Tim Verthein introduces a new, but related, topic to A.R.C. — disk recording equipment. Wilcox-Gay introduced its Recordio in 1939. Tim illustrates his article with four different models.

An interesting amplifier for early crystal sets is described by Ian Sanders. In the early 1920s, S. G. Brown Limited of London, England, linked a headphone diaphragm to a microphone and created the microphone amplifier.

Additional information on rejuvenating tuning eye tubes is given this month by Jim Farago. This article is a follow-up to Paul Bourbin's article in A.R.C. of August 1990.

Part 4 of the Olde Tyme Radio Services Directory is included in this issue. Not all 45 restoration and repair services could be listed this month; the rest of these will appear in a future issue.

Stan Dryer continues the adventure "The Antique Radio Boys and the Garrulous Grebe" in this issue. Many thanks also go to Dave Crocker for creating another illustration for this serial.

Photo Review features a number of unique items including an Abbotwares horse radio, an advertising doll with a radio-tube hat and a wood-front Crosley Model 51 battery set.

We also have items from Charles Mooney on his solution for "radio widows," Dan Steele on the restoration of dial bezels, and Charles Ahr on the inventor of the facsimile machine.

Horn Speaker Orchestration Study. Please send a postcard to Floyd Paul, the author of the Radio Horn Speaker Encyclopedia, if you own a Radio Cabinet Company Orchestration horn speaker. Some of these beautiful, large wooden horns have a leaf or flower decal in the mouth of the bell, a cloth cover in the throat and different colors of wooden ribs in the bell. Floyd will send you a one-page questionnaire inquiring about the various characteristics of your horn. The results will be sent to A.R.C. for future publication. Floyd's address is 1545 Raymond Ave., Glendale, CA 91201.

Mike Kirby Arrested. A report on the arrest of Mike Kirby, most recently mentioned in our December 1990 issue as reportedly never sending merchandise after accepting payment from A.R.C. subscribers, appears in this issue. Please remember when you read the report that this occurrence is rare within the antique radio collecting community. Although it is wise to assure yourself of the integrity of an unfamiliar buyer or seller, thousands of transactions take place annually as a result of A.R.C. without any problems.

A.R.C. Mentioned in Woman's Day. Some of you, or your spouses, may have seen the short item in the January 15, 1991, issue of Woman's Day magazine titled "Cheap Radios, Valuable Antiques." A.R.C. subscriber Michael Warshaw wrote in Woman's Day that even Grandma's old radio, which may have been a Catalin model, could be worth several thousand dollars today. As a result of his mentioning Antique Radio Classified in the article, we have received over 2,000 requests for sample copies. Perhaps as a result of his article and our free sample policy, a few more radios will be saved from the dump and will find their way into readers' collections.

Ad Deadlines. Remember that unless we receive your classified ad by the tenth of the month, no later than noon, it cannot make the current issue, but is held for the following month's issue. This month, eighteen ads arrived on the 11th and another ten on the 12th, and thus missed inclusion in this issue. Please mail early enough to ensure that your ad arrives here by the deadline. For complete details on classified and other ads, see the inside rear and front covers. Note that photo ads, boxed classified ads, business card ads and display ads have earlier deadlines.

That's all for this month. I hope that you enjoy this issue and have a successful collecting year.

John V. Terrey

ON THE COVER

Our cover features the Philco Model 20 Baby Grand which sports vertical columns and curly maple wood trim. Philco also sold a plain front version of this cathedral.

Ron Ramirez wrote the article for this issue on this milestone in radio development. Ron also furnished the photographs for the cover and article.

This seven-tube TRF (Tuned Radio Frequency) cathedral became the largest selling radio in the world and was the receiver that made Philco the number one radio manufacturer in the early 1930s.

The Philco Model 20 The Original Baby Grand

BY RON RAMIREZ

Imagine, if you will, the state of radio in 1930. In just ten years, radio had advanced from an unreliable, battery-operated curiosity to a faithful workhorse that could be powered from the light socket. The design of radio was also changing — a few manufacturers were introducing compact sets with built-in speakers in wooden cabinets with round tops.

Radio circuits were also changing — RCA was beginning to license other manufacturers to use their Superheterodyne patents. Besides RCA in 1930, other manufacturers offering Superheterodyne radios included Fada, Grigsby-Grunow (with their Majestic Model 50), Lincoln, Ozarka, E.H. Scott, Sears, Silver-Marshall, Victoreen and Westinghouse (which had resumed making radios under its own name that year after making sets for RCA since the early twenties).

But one rapidly-growing radio manufacturer, which had only been making radios since late 1927, was absent from the growing list of manufacturers offering Superheterodyne sets — the Philadelphia Storage Battery Company or Philco.

In 1930, Philco was offering a line of radios in lowboy and highboy console cabinets, table models, and radio-phonograph combinations — all utilizing the Tuned Radio Frequency, or TRF, circuitry. Philco had developed TRF to a "state of the art" by 1930, even utilizing Automatic Volume Control (AVC) in its Models 95, 96, and, of course, its top-of-the-line set — the 296 "Concert Grand" radio-phonograph, which Philco advertising called the "greatest of all receivers" and sold for $350, less tubes.

However, it was not Philco's large consoles,

the heavy chassis of the larger models, or even AVC that made Philco a household word; it was the introduction of the first "Baby Grand" set for the 1930 model year, as shown in Figure 1. The Model 20 used seven tubes and a smaller, lighter chassis than other Philco models. The set's performance was very impressive also, despite the fact that this was a TRF set and did not have AVC.

A Philco advertisement of the time read: "For the first time, big radio performance has been built into compact cabinets." It did not need a separate speaker, which many table model radios still required; an eight-inch electro-dynamic speaker was mounted behind the attractive grillwork of the Baby Grand's cabinet. And, of course, the price was bound to make the set a little attractive to buyers at a time when the Great Depression was settling in on America — $49.50, less tubes.

Except for the grillwork, the Model 20 is a somewhat plain-looking set, so Philco dressed up the cabinet a little, adding a curly maple front arch and columns on either side of the front panel, resulting in what may be (arguably) Philco's prettiest cathedral radio, shown in Figure 2.

For those wanting a console radio for their home, without paying hundreds of dollars, Philco offered its "Baby Grand Console" (See Figure 3).

This version of the Model 20 is actually a console, standing only 33 3/4 inches high. It sold for $69.50, less tubes.

The Philco Baby Grand Model 20 was introduced in the fall of 1929 for the 1930 model year. Its runaway success was pointed out in a pre-Christmas Philco advertisement which referred to it as "The compact set which in its first two months became the largest-selling radio in the world."

During the first few weeks of production, the Model 20 was made with only one or two trimmer condensers (which are used to align the set). This design makes it difficult, if not impossible, to align the set properly. After the first few weeks of production, Philco corrected this problem by adding a third trimmer condenser. The rest of the Model 20 production run have three trimmer condensers.

My Model 20, in Figure 1, is one of the early production models, with two trimmer condensers. My Model 20 "Deluxe" and 20 console have the more common chassis with three trimmers. With three trimmers, you can usually align the set to agree with the dial over most of its scale. I was unable to align my early Model 20 to the dial scale without having my efforts result in broad tuning.

Philco also used this chassis in its Model 21 set and in its Model 220 radio-phonograph. Two DC versions of this set were also offered in 1931 — the Model 46 (110 volt DC) and 46-E (220 volt DC). I have never seen any of these models.

Due largely to the huge success of the Baby Grand, Philco sold 600,000 radios in 1930, over 300,000 of which were Baby Grands. The Model 20 also helped propel the thirty-eight year old company, which had been making radios for just over two years, from twenty-sixth in the nation when they began radio manufacturing to number one by the end of 1930.

The following year (1931), Philco brought out their first Superheterodyne radios, including its now classic seven-tube Model 70 and nine-tube Model 90.

At age fourteen, Ron Ramirez began to build a varied collection of 1920's battery sets, cathedrals, tombstones, and consoles. He is now concentrating on repairing Philco radios made between 1928 and 1937. Ron would like to hear from anyone interested in forming an antique radio club in his area.

One Collector's Answer to "Radio Widows"

BY CHARLES T. MOONEY

The following is a response to the article "Radio Widows — A New Breed" in A.R.C. January 1991, page 17.

I have been "playing," etc. with vintage radios and TVs for more than fifty years and collecting for ten-plus years.

My wife and I built a new home and moved to Hanover, Pa., in February 1990, to live in retirement. We found the area while hunting for "ole radios" during the last several years.

I rented a storage space close to our new homesite and moved all 250-plus radios and TVs prior to moving from our home in Bowie, Md., about seventy miles away. Our home in Bowie had radios in every room in the house, the same as Randy and Tammy Smith's home in Ohio.

I told my wife Betty that all my antique radios would be out of sight in our new home. She looked at me in disbelief, "How!"

My answer follows:

Our new home has a full basement where I now have all my radios and TVs, my repair and parts shop, a library, and a table and chairs. Now my radio friends may visit without roaming throughout the house — always a problem for my wife, who had grown tired of hearing "radio talk" all the time.

Now I am free to work on my radios and leave them secure in the basement which has proper heat and air conditioning. Things are back to normal as far as my "radio widow" is concerned.

VINTAGE RECORDING

The Wilcox-Gay Recordio

BY TIM VERTHEIN

The Wilcox-Gay Corporation started in Lansing, Michigan, in 1919, under the name of Wilcox Laboratories. Their primary product was amateur radio parts. By 1924, the company was manufacturing complete radio equipment under the name Wilcox Cathedral Grand Radio. In 1926, they moved to Charlotte, Michigan, and in 1927, Paul Gay joined the company as chief engineer.

When the company reorganized after the depression, Mr. Gay joined it as a principal, and the company became known as the Wilcox-Gay Corporation. The company's primary product was radio, but in 1939 the Recordio was introduced, just in time to be put on hold because of the need to convert for the war effort in 1941.

Following the war, efforts were made to rejuvenate the sales force and dealer organization, and most importantly, to produce the unique home recording/radio product called Recordio. This unit would record on acetate discs, which were engraved by a vibrating needle, recording either from the self-contained radio or a microphone. Now, for the first time, a family could actually make their own phonograph records. The company couldn't build the machines fast enough to meet the demands.

Before the company could enjoy its eminent position, along came magnetic recording, first on wire, and then on tape as we know it today. Rather than jumping on the bandwagon, Wilcox-Gay chose to stick with its disc recorder.

When TV entered around 1949, Wilcox-Gay decided to build its own chassis rather than buy the chassis from RCA. By the early 1950s, the Wilcox-Gay

Company was in real trouble and was purchased by Majestic, a Chicago radio and TV company. However, in 1959, Wilcox-Gay closed its doors. Then, the last 219 Wilcox-Gay employees refinanced the company to try to revive it, but there just wasn't enough life left, and the company closed its doors in the early 1960s.

When I was just ten years old or so, we used to travel to Holland, Minnesota, to visit my grandmother. In her upstairs den was a Wilcox-Gay Recordio, a large console model with an AM shortwave radio and big 78 rpm turntable with two tone arms. I never really knew what this wonderful machine was then, but I sure enjoyed listening to Grandma's Spike Jones and Andrew Sisters records on it.

In 1975, when I was eighteen, my grandmother passed away, and I inherited the Recordio. My parents thought I was crazy. The motor buzzed. The radio crackled. It was big and heavy. I persisted, and finally in 1976, I began restoration. I had the motor rewound, replaced the tubes and capacitors, and found a new crystal cutting head and a few needles. Within a year, I had it working perfectly. Quite a novelty in my living room.

Figure 4. Model 1C10 with built-in tape recorder and disc recorder, no radio, 78 speed only. Same tone arm used for both cutting and playing by changing needles.

As time went on, I became more interested in electronics, especially old radios. I started looking for more Recordios. Now, I can't get enough. I have several models, portables, tabletop models, consoles. In addition, I soon started gathering blank discs, needles, parts, books, and accessories. Now my basement looks like a Recordio dealership.

Wilcox-Gay Corporation tried to meet the needs of every home recordist. There were the large console models, such as my A-93, shown in Figures 1, 2, and 3, with AM/SW radio and recording speeds of both 78 and 33 rpm. This unit had an automatic turntable, allowing stacking of discs for playback.

Then, there was the small Recordette, with built-in radio, one recording speed, and one tone arm. The same cartridge was used both to play and to record discs. In the earlier models, there were two tone arms, one with a playback cartridge, and one large, heavy one that would engage the drive system to cut the spiral groove in the disc.

My favorite is the Model 1C10 as seen in Figure 4. This has both disc record and playback, and tape record and playback. One unique feature is that the tape recording heads are under the turntable platter. Simply load the tape spools, run the tape around and under the platter, and you're ready to record. The shaft that the platter spins on is also the pinch roller to drive the tape. You can record tape to disc, or disc to tape. There are also auxiliary inputs and outputs for maximum usage.

The Model 6A20, as shown in Figure 5, offers various inputs and two speed recording, as well as a very heavy but durable unit often used in classrooms. Most of these units also had a provision for use as public address systems.

The 6B30, pictured in Figure 6, is a very nice radio/recorder combination with wood cabinet, decorative speaker and switch panel, and a very good radio.

When the recording unit is in actual use, making a good, clear disc is somewhat of a challenge. The settings for cutting depth and angle of the cutting needle are quite critical. If not set just right, the noise created by the cutting needle will easily overcome the sound to be recorded.

The cutting needles don't last long either. They were generally available in steel, stellite, or sapphire. The steel lasted about thirty minutes, the stellite about sixty, and the sapphire considerably longer. Some needle manufacturers offered resharpening service, especially for the most expensive sapphire types.

Oddly enough, I have consistently gotten the best results with the stellite cutting needles. Recording times are about five minutes, one side of a ten-inch disc at 78 rpm, double for 33, and less for the smaller discs. Recording levels are set with the familiar "tuning eye" tube, usually set so the eye just closes at peak signals. In the later models, levels were set by watching the blink of a neon bulb on the peaks.

Discs are another matter. They have an aluminum, glass, or cardboard base all coated with plastic or acetate. A variety of these discs is shown in Figure 7. Each disc has at least two holes, the center hole for the spindle, and another hole for the pin which keeps the disc from slipping on the turntable while the disc is being cut. I have had great success with all types of discs, but the cardboard discs have a bit more surface noise, due to a lesser quality of smoothness in the coating. The discs almost always sound better at 78 rpm than at 33.

The glass discs are the thickest, the aluminum the thinnest, and quite often, when one or the other is used, depth and angle adjustments must be made. This, of course, meant making several test cuttings to determine the best settings. The needles for cutting are quite perishable. One would never set the cutter on a disc without the platter spinning with signal being fed to it, nor let it fall on the bare platter or motor board, lest the delicate cutting edges be damaged.

All in all, Recordio collecting is fun, challenging, and different from the usual old radio collecting. There were other makers of home-type disc recorders, but Wilcox-Gay has been my niche, ever since I heard the discs my grandparents and my father sent to my uncle and received from him during the Korean conflict. Listening to discs that people made is quite interesting. When they recorded to disc, there was no chance to edit, do a retake, splice out the bad part, or fix up the recording. It was live. It was real. It was people — the way they really were.

Recordio Club Forming

I am attempting to start a club for the owners, users, and collectors of home disc recorders, especially those made by the Wilcox-Gay Company of Charlotte, Michigan, most often known by the name of Recordio. These machines were popular in the 1940s and 1950s.

I have, in my search for discs, parts etc., run across a handful of other enthusiasts. Hopefully I could contact quite a few more for the purpose of starting a club, with perhaps a newsletter to exchange technical information, parts, supplies, etc. I have also discovered a few folks who collect the discs that people recorded years ago, just for the interesting material often contained in them.

I presently own eight Recordios, many of which include radios, PA systems, and even tape recording facilities with them. Finding supplies for these machines, especially the cutting needles and blank discs, is always a challenge, which could be made easier with contacts through club members.

Anyone interested in becoming a member of a new Recordio Club may contact: Tim Verthein, 310 3rd Ave., SE, Grand Rapids, MN 55744.

This column presents in pictorial form many of the more unusual radios, speakers, tubes, advertising, and other radio-related items (covering the years 1900-1950's) from our readers' collections. The photos are meant to help increase awareness of what's available in the radio collecting hobby. Send in any size photos from your collection. Photos must be sharp in detail, contain a single item, and preferably have a light-colored background. A short description must be included with each submitted item. Please note that receipt of photos is not acknowledged, publishing is not guaranteed, and photos are not returned.

ABBOTWARES MODEL Z477 HORSE RADIO - This is an unusual "desk" radio. The horse is two-toned, bronze and black, on a black pedestal which contains the speaker. The set uses miniature tubes, which most likely dates it in the early 1950s. (Alexandria Nelson - Albuquerque, NM)

ZENITH CONSOLTONE MODEL H511 - Another of Zenith's avant garde Art Deco designs, this model's oval cabinet lines are offset by triangular feet, where the control knobs are located. This 1954 model was produced in black, brown, green, ivory and gray. (Alexandria Nelson - Albuquerque, NM)

MOTOROLA MODEL 68L11 - CHASSIS HS119 - This Art Deco AC/DC portable is unique in that the dial is located in the handle. This particular 1948 model has a colorful cabinet, with orange background and interlaced brown woven fibers. (Russell Schoen - Clintonville, WI)

AMRAD MODEL 81 - This beautifully veneered 1929 floor model may have been one of the last models manufactured by Amrad (American Radio Research Company). By 1930, the Amrad plant closed down, and the factory equipment and many personnel moved to Cincinnati, Ohio, to become part of the Crosley Corporation. (Dave Bertinot - Baton Rouge, LA)

CROSLY MODEL 66TC "VICTORY" - This 1946 table model has a red, white and blue "victory" ribbon with stars on the dial face, commemorating the end of World War II. Features of this set include two side speaker grilles and a very easy-to-read dial for foreign and American stations. (Bob Piekarz - La Grange Park, IL)

---

UNIQUE CROSLY - This Crosley Model 51 has a front panel made of wood! The lettering is stamped in the same configuration as the standard later version Model 51. Like most Crosleys of this era, it is regenerative with two tubes. It was bought at an auction in the original box and was never used! (Augie Walackas - Whitman, MA)

---

GE & RCA ADVERTISING DOLLS - These dolls were produced by Joseph Kallus of the Cameo Doll Products Co. On the right is "The Selling Fool," a fifteen-inch doll designed by Maxfield Parrish for RCA in 1926. On the left is "Bandy," General Electric's 1929 doll. Both dolls had a moulded composition body with jointed wood arms and legs. The hands had slits to hold advertising cards, and the RCA doll had a wooden Radiotron tube for a hat. (Doug Heimstead - Fridley, MN)

---

STROMBURG CATHEDRAL - This is a receiver I bought at a flea market. The name on the escutcheon is spelled "Stromburg" (not to be confused with Stromberg-Carlson). A "Phono Home Broadcast" plug is mounted on the rear. There is no visible model number or other information about the manufacturer on the set. This five-tube TRF receiver uses tube Types 80, 47, 57 and two 58s. (Richard L. Bednarcik - Lincoln Park, NJ)

The Brown Microphone Amplifier

BY IAN L. SANDERS

"For perfect amplification without distortion there is no better method than using a Brown Microphone Amplifier..." So ran an advertisement in the early 1920s for the ingenious amplifying device produced by S. G. Brown Limited of North Acton, London, and shown in Figure 1.

The manufacturer modestly promised "reproduction entirely without equal for purity and volume" with a performance matching that obtained from a two-valve (tube), two-transformer amplifier, but at a considerable cost savings, since there were no valves to replace and no accumulators (storage batteries) to be continuously recharged.

The microphone amplifier was a clever way of achieving a useful degree of amplification without resorting to the use of thermionic valves...

The microphone amplifier was designed to boost signals from a crystal set so that either several pairs of headphones could be operated simultaneously, or — if the incoming signals were of "fair" strength — a loudspeaker could be used. The amplifier was powered by a single, six-volt dry battery which, the manufacturer claimed, would last for several months on the assumption that the set was to be used a few evenings each week! The actual current consumption was a modest 50 milliamperes [mA].

The microphone amplifier was essentially a magnetic, moving-iron headphone transducer which, under the influence of an input signal, acted mechanically via a reed on a differential carbon granule microphone assembly. (The unit was actually based on the well known and highly regarded Brown A-Type Headphones.)

The carbon microphone was powered by the dry cell and coupled to the headphones or loudspeaker by means of a transformer. It was, therefore, a true electromechanical device capable of amplifying weak electrical signals.

An adjusting screw moved a magnet assembly so that it was as close as possible (without actually touching) to the reed which operated on the microphone. The smaller the space between magnet and reed, the greater the amplification, according to Gordon Bussey in Vintage Crystal Sets. The resonant frequency of the reed was specified to be about 1 kHz.

A compact unit, the microphone amplifier measures only 6.25 x 4.25 x 3.5 inches, and was neatly built in a mahogany case with a lid enclosing the mechanical assembly. A circuit diagram of the device was provided inside the lid and is shown in Figure 2. After initial setup, little further adjustment was necessary so that the amplifier would have normally been operated with the lid closed.

In 1923, the price of the amplifier was six pounds, or about $11 at today's exchange rates. This was substantially less than many two-valve amplifiers of the period — for example, the Western Electric Loud Speaking Amplifier which sold, also in 1923, for twenty-four pounds, about $45.

In 1924, the microphone amplifier was offered in four versions, consisting of different combinations of input and output impedances. The earliest model was intended for use with crystal sets and was designated the Type C. This was followed by three variations primarily for use in conjunction with valve sets and known as Type V. The details are given below:

	Input Impedance	Output Impedance
Type C	4000 ohms	2000 ohms
Type V	120 ohms	120 ohms
	2000 ohms	120 ohms
	2000 ohms	2000 ohms

One of the more unusual applications of an early version of Brown's microphone amplifier was in aircraft during, or shortly after, World War I. According to British wireless pioneer Alan Douglas writing in Radio Bygones, it provided "...an amplified, if somewhat noisy output...", but the fact that the unit was rugged enough to withstand the rigors of flying at that time is testimony in itself.

A combined microphone amplifier and loudspeaker unit called the Crystovox was introduced in 1923. The brown enamelled speaker was priced at seven pounds, or $13, and promised "...undistorted sound over the whole of an average-sized room..." at least for BBC stations not more than ten miles distant! A knob on the cover of the amplifier section allowed the same adjustment as for the microphone amplifier.

In 1926, the S. G. Brown Company offered the Crystal Amplifier, a two-stage adaptation of the Type C microphone amplifier, which allowed loudspeaker operation from a crystal set at an increased range of fifteen miles from the local station! The price of the crystal amplifier was less than its predecessor at three pounds ten shillings, or $6.50.

The microphone amplifier was a clever way of achieving a useful degree of amplification without resorting to the use of thermionic valves at a time when their cost in Britain was high and their reliability less than ideal. This author is not aware of these, or similar, devices ever being sold in the U. S., and it is doubtful whether they would have been popular given the availability of lower-priced tubes in this country. Here is what would seem to be a classic case of necessity being the mother of a rather ingenious invention.

Crosley Reado Update

William G. H. Finch — Fax Pioneer

BY CHARLES AHR

In the November 1990 issue of A.R.C., Charles Ahr wrote about an early facsimile (Fax) machine called the Crosley Reado. The article also presented a few facts about the development of Fax as far back as pre-World War I days.

Through the following notice, Ahr informs us of the passing of an inventor who was instrumental in the development of facsimile communications. (Editor)

Mr. William G. H. Finch, longtime inventor and pioneer in the development of facsimile communication and holder of over 200 patents, died on November 13, 1990. He was ninety-three years old.

Finch was born on June 28, 1897, in Birmingham, England, and came to Cincinnati, Ohio, in the early 1900s. He entered the University of Cincinnati's Cooperative Engineering program in 1914. Eventually, he switched to Columbia University in New York City, where he completed his studies in 1923.

Although Finch served in the U.S. Army during World War I, he was recruited by the Navy in 1929, after his engineering skills became known. During World War II, he was placed in charge of the Navy's electronic warfare operation. He retired from the Navy as a captain in 1959.

Finch originally envisioned facsimile for use by police or government officials. He sold licensing rights to his machines to William Randolph Hearst, Powel Crosley, and the International Telephone and Telegraph Corp., which displayed one of his machines at the 1939 World's Fair in New York City.

Olde Tyme Radio Services Directory

1991 A.R.C. Edition, Part 4

COMPILED BY ANDREW MOORADIAN, 5 PRISCILLA LANE, WINCHESTER, MA 01890

Antique Radio Classified has obtained permission from Andrew Mooradian to serialize the latest edition of his "Olde Tyme Radio Services Directory," with a few additions entered by A.R.C. Every month or so, another excerpt will be printed in A.R.C.

With the help of readers, A.R.C. hopes to make this directory the most comprehensive list of radio services available. Write to A.R.C. if you have a service you can provide, if you know of one that you can suggest, if you wish to change or delete your listing, or if you have any other suggestions. The 1990 edition of his directory contains 74 service categories with 249 entries, plus a list of radio clubs (some suppliers appear in several categories). A copy of the directory can be obtained by sending $2.50 to Andrew Mooradian at the above address. © 1989 by Andrew Mooradian.

When writing to a service listed, please include a long SASE for reply and tell them that you saw their listing in the Olde Tyme Radio Services Directory in A.R.C.!
Within each category, the listings are alphabetical by two-letter state code.

More on Rejuvenating Tuning Eye Tubes

BY JIM FARAGO

Upon reading Paul Bourbin's article in the August 1990 issue of A.R.C., Jim Farago responded with the following additional information on rejuvenating tuning eye tubes. (Editor)

I read the article on "Rejuvenating Tuning Eye Tubes" by Paul Bourbin with great interest. I would like to build on Paul's article by elaborating on which of the two eye tube elements need rejuvenating and how to build a wiring harness to connect the tuning eye tube to the CRT tube tester-rejuvenator.

Essentially, a tuning eye tube contains two triodes: one is a diminutive cathode-ray tube with a tiny fluorescent screen known as a "target" and the second, an amplifier to drive the cathode-ray tube section. Figure 1 shows the base diagram of a Type 6E5, a typical tuning eye tube; the cathode-ray tube section is on the right and the amplifier section is on the left.

The cathode-ray screen, or target, is labeled TA (pin 4.) The control electrode (RC, pin 2) is arranged inside the tube to cast an angular or fan-shaped shadow on the target; the shadow varies in width according to the DC potential applied to the control element. The second triode in the tube envelope functions as an amplifier direct-coupled to the control electrode of the cathode-ray tube section. The grid (GT, pin 3) of this amplifier is intended to be directly connected to a receiver's diode detection circuit. (For more information, see John W. Stokes, 70 Years of Radio Tubes and Valves, Vestal Press Ltd., 1982, Chapter 16.)

To draw rejuvenation current for brightness

increase, you want to make sure that you connect to the triode grid, GT, and not to the cathode surface at the "eye" of the tube. The cathode surface controlling emission is at the face of the tube. It is very small. The RCA tube manual contains an in-depth description of tuning eye construction and theory.

REJUVENATION PROCEDURE

Refer to the tube base diagram in Figure 1 as you proceed with the following steps:

1. Connect the CRT tester-rejuvenator heater wires, usually brown or black, to the heater pins of the eye tube (pins 1 and 6 for Types 6AB5, 6N5, 6E5, 6U5, 6T5).
2. Connect the CRT tester-rejuvenator cathode wire, usually yellow, to pin 5 of the eye

TUNING EYE TUBE HISTORY

Visual tuning indicators first came into use in 1933 following the advent of receivers incorporating automatic volume control (AVC) circuits. Due to the AVC action such receivers exhibited an apparent broadening of tuning making it more difficult for a non-skilled user to tune-in correctly. Initially a specialized form of neon lamp was often used as a tuning indicator while in the case of receivers in the deluxe class or in communications receivers a milliammeter was used. As meters were costly items a need arose for a cheaper though equally effective device.

In 1935 RCA introduced the first electron tuning indicator, Type 6E5, which was dubbed a "Magic Eye" though formally identified as an electron ray tube. Physically the 6E5 resembled a contemporary glass radio tube as it was fitted with an ST-12 bulb.

tube.

3. Connect the CRT tester-rejuvenator control grid (grid 1) wire, usually green, to pin 2 of the eye tube (the ray control electrode.)
4. Connect the CRT tester-rejuvenator screen grid (grid 2) wire, usually red, to eye tube target, pin 4.
5. Try a new, bright eye tube for emission test first to see how your tester reads a good tube.
6. If you are using a B&K Model 300 through 440 CRT tester-rejuvenator (the most common and most popular type) is being used, you should see a pattern on the "eye" (target) when testing emission.
7. Compare reading and brightness with some weak eye tubes. Use High G2 setting (on tester having G2 switch).
8. Then try the rejuvenation procedure, following directions with your tester.

Additional Testing Notes:

With B&K models, a varying voltage (0-50v) is applied to the control grid.

The emission meter monitors G2 current (0-1mA is typical, at 200 volts or more).

When rejuvenating, about 600 volts is applied between grid 1 and cathode (through a limiting resistance).

HIGH VOLTAGE WARNING: Some models apply 1kV — so NO bare connections, please. Use an enclosed "eye tube" socket from a junked radio.

Bear in mind that tube testers for radio tubes, whether emission or mutual conductance types, do not test the target area for emission — only the triode section gets an emission test!

Mutual conductance testers, such as the popular Hickocks, test the "eye" in operation.

Emission testers do not make the "eye" glow.

My circuit information will now allow you, if you are lucky, to test and to rejuvenate the cathode surface of your eye tube where it counts — in the "eye" itself. B&K testers work as I have described.

CONVERSION HARNESS

It is best to construct your conversion harness which connects your tuning eye tube to your tube tester-rejuvenator from a "standard" picture tube booster. It will even have the color-coded wires you need. (You can make one up yourself from a "duodecal" twelve-pin base from a cannibalized CRT but, this is not advisable as the resulting harness often is not as safe to handle as one made from a picture tube booster.)

The wiring for the conversion harness using a duodecal CRT base (10BP4, etc.) to the tuning eye tube (6E5, etc.) is as follows:

CRT Function	CRT	Wire Color	Eye Tube
Heater	1-12	brown or black	1-6
Cathode	11	yellow	5
Grid 1	2	green	2
Grid 2	10	red	4

Dial Bezel Restoration

BY DAN STEELE

The restoration of simulated antique bronze dial bezels is a snap.

First, examine the bezel to determine if a clear coat will restore and give a satisfactory result. If not, the process below will need to be performed.

1. Clean all pieces with lacquer thinner. If the bezel or trim pieces have bad dents or scratches, sand or fill as needed. "Bondo" brand filler works great on large dents. For small scratches use a spot putty which should be used on any areas which were repaired with Bondo. Use a fine wet or dry type of sandpaper for sanding, preferably 400 grit. Now clean the surface with lacquer thinner again and let dry. Be careful not to dissolve any filler you may have used on the dial bezel; a fast wipe with a damp cloth is all that is needed.

2. It is now time to apply the finish. First, mask as needed with a safe release type of tape. Then use a good gloss black lacquer and give every piece an even coat — recoat if necessary. After the lacquer has dried, use a spray stain, holding the can 10" to 12" from the work. Apply an even coat of fog but do not completely cover the black — you will now notice that it resembles bronze!

3. If you are satisfied with the results, you can now let it dry; then coat it with a clear satin lacquer.

Do not forget to refinish all your screws using the same process. Hint: push screws into a piece of cardboard for easy handling.

The following list of materials is what I use for this process:

1. Zynolyte gloss black lacquer
2. Deft spray stain and sealer (mahogany or walnut)
3. Pratt & Lambert WZ-3 satin lacquer
4. Bondo body filler
5. Auto-Pak spot putty (made by 3M)

Tips: Please feel free to experiment as different brands and colors will produce varied effects, some good, some bad.

This process works wonders on embossed foil dials such as ones found on Arvin and Silvertone radios.

Use all sprays and chemicals in a well ventilated area.

(Dan Steele, 205 High St., San Luis Obispo, CA 93401)

RADIO ADVENTURES

The Antique Radio Boys and the Garrulous Grebe — Chapter 4

BY STAN DRYER

The story so far: Terry, Jimmy and Gary, the Antique Radio Boys, have saved lovely Lucinda Beaucart from a fire set by a thief who stole a Grebe CR-4 from her father, the millionaire Frank Beaucart. In searching for the missing Grebe, they narrowly escape death from a disk scanning TV pushed down a staircase in the barn belonging to the bully Barton Sneer. The boys consult with Dick Wood, the secret agent who thinks that the evil Dr. Krull may be behind a rash of thefts of CR-4s. To check on this suspicion, Terry visits Karmella Krull at Krull Castle and barely escapes with his life when the evil Dr. Krull attempts to feed him to his alligators. On leaving the castle, Terry finds his bicycle wired to an arc transmitter. He rewires it to give a nasty shock to Krull's henchmen. The next day at a lecture by Douglas Allenby, the antique radio historian, the boys are surprised by his strange behavior. They suspect that he has come under Dr. Krull's power and will be forced to award the prize for the Old Tyme Radio Performance Competition to Karmella Krull. On leaving school, they meet Lucinda who asks Terry what he was doing at Krull Castle. Unable to tell Lucinda the true reason for his visit, he says that he was paying a social call on Karmella. Shocked, Lucinda turns away so Terry cannot see the tears in her eyes.

The next morning after the Antique Radio Boys had finished their Saturday chores, they gathered at Agent Wood's barn. The secret agent was busy repairing an old Atwater Kent. "You see, boys," he said pointing to the interior of the chassis, "here is a radio that has been seriously abused by a previous repairman."

"I can see that there are several cold solder joints," said Jimmy.

"Worse than that," said Terry, "the original metal can electrolytic capacitor has been replaced with a cardboard one that is not mechanically supported."

"It looks like it has been installed by that French poster painter," said Gary with a grin that told the others he was up to one of humorous sallies.

"I know I'm going to regret this," said Jimmy, "but just who do you mean?"

"Too Loose Lautrec," said Gary as he ducked away from Jim's playful punch.

"You boys are to be commended on your understanding of the fundamentals of good antique radio repair," said Wood, "but there is another important point to note. This cardboard electrolytic has a value of forty microfarads where the original one was a thirty microfarads."

"So what's wrong with that?" said Terry. "As long as you have one that's bigger, it should do a better job of getting rid of AC hum."

"Wrong," said the agent. "A filter circuit is a tuned circuit, and that big a difference in the capacitance could cause serious problems down the line. Always make sure that a capacitor has a value as close as possible to the old one."

"That is an important point to remember," said Terry.

"Now," said Agent Wood, putting down his soldering iron, "how are you boys coming along in your search for the missing Grebes?"

The boys filled him in on the events of the previous day and on Douglas Allenby's strange behavior.

"Your surmise may well be true," said Wood, "but we have no hard facts to go on. Is it possible that Dr. Krull has dug up something from Allenby's past, information that, if made public, might seriously discredit him as an antique radio historian?"

"I doubt it," said Gary. "Douglas is so straight that the Bureau of Standards wants to rent him for making rulers."

"You never can tell," said Agent Wood. "Even Marconi had a few blots on his copy book."

"I can't believe Douglas has ever done anything to be ashamed of," said Jimmy. "We must think of some way to find out exactly what Dr. Krull is up to."

"And I think I know how," said Terry. He quickly outlined a plan which met with immediate acceptance. That afternoon, Terry took a stroll down Maple Street towards Barton Sneer's barn, making no attempt to hide himself. Suddenly, the bushes along the sidewalk parted, and Sneer and two of his cronies jumped out to block his way. Terry recognized them as two young men given to hanging around street corners, smoking cigarettes and making off-color remarks about any young ladies who passed.

"I told you to stay away from our property," snarled Sneer.

"This is a public street, and I have every right to walk here," said Terry.

"And we say different," sneered Sneer. "I think it's time you had a beating. What do you say boys?"

With the odds three to one, even Sneer's cowardly companions could agree. They stepped forward menacingly. Terry backed against a tree and raised his dukes. "Which of you wants his punishment first?" he said in a loud voice. With snarls of rage, the three bullies rushed Terry to be met by some well placed blows. But skilled as he was at fisticuffs, Terry would have soon been overpowered had not Jimmy and Gary, hearing Terry's signal, come up at a run to join in the fray.

With the odds evened up, Sneer's companions turned and ran for their lives. Sneer would have followed, but Terry grabbed him by the belt and threw him to the ground.

"It's just like you guys to pick on me three to one," Sneer sniveled.

"They aren't going to touch you," said Terry. "I'll handle you all by myself. Do you want to stand up and fight like a man?" Terry raised his fists, but the bully cowered on the ground, covering his face with his hands.

"We need some information from you," said Terry.

"I don't know nothing," whined Sneer through his hands.

"Just what do you know about Douglas Alenby?" said Terry.

Sneer's hands dropped, and a look of terror came over his face. "I don't know nothing," he repeated. "I never heard of no one called Alenby."

The trembling of Sneer's hands told Terry that Sneer knew plenty. But it was obvious that Dr. Krull had made clear what punishment awaited anyone who divulged any of his secrets.

"I think you're in this pretty deep," said Terry. "When the law finally catches up with Krull and his gang, you'll be in serious trouble. If you cooperate with us now, we'll be able to put in a good word for you then."

"No one ain't ever going to catch Krull," said Sneer defiantly. "And he'll take care of you all right."

Terry smiled to himself. Sneer had as much admitted that he was part of Krull's gang. "And you still claim that you don't know Allenby?" he said.

"Sure, I know who Allenby is," said Sneer. "Some kind of a hot shot expert on radio stuff. But I don't know nothing more about him or his sister."

His sister! Here was the clue that Terry had been looking for. Could it be that Krull had Allenby's sister in his power?

"Why not come clean?" said Terry. "Just where is Krull keeping Allenby's sister?"

The shock that passed over Sneer's face told Terry he had guessed correctly. "I tell you I don't know nothing about his sister," cried Sneer. "I ain't got no idea where she is."

"Get up," said Terry. "And get out of our sight before I change my mind about thrashing you. I don't need to tell you to keep quiet to Krull about our little conversation."

The bully took to his heels, and Terry turned to his companions. "I think we've found out what we wanted," he said.

"I think you could have squeezed more out of him," said Gary. "That yellow canary was about to sing."

"I doubt it," said Terry. "Krull would not be so foolish as to tell the likes of Sneer where he is hiding Allenby's sister."

"So what is our next move?" asked Jimmy.

"I think we should bicycle over to Douglas Allenby's house and confront him with what we know," said Terry.

Allenby lived in a big white Victorian house on the edge of town. The antenna wires that were strung from his roof to adjacent trees gave notice of his interest in radio. Allenby answered their ring. "Please come in," he said. He escorted them into his library.

"Wow," said Gary, "look at all the books!"

It was indeed an impressive collection. All four walls were lined from floor to ceiling with bookcases. The shelves were lined from floor to ceiling with books. Books by Fleming, Lodge, Hertz, and DeForest sat side by side with the more popular writers such as Morgan, Ghirardi and Rider.

"Where did you get all the books?" asked Jimmy.

"From just about everywhere," said the radio scholar, "but I'm sure you didn't come here to talk about my books."

"You are right," said Terry. "We've come to offer our help."

A look of wary caution came over Allenby's features. "What makes you think I need your help?" he said.

"We suspect that your sister is being held captive by the evil Dr. Krull," said Terry.

At these words, Douglas Allenby collapsed into a chair with a sob. "Yes," he cried, "it is true.

My young sister, Alicia, the pride of our family, was boldly kidnapped from her college dormitory room by Krull's henchmen. Krull says he will do her no harm if I agree to award the first prize in the Old Tyme Radio Performance Competition to his daughter."

"We have surmised as much," said Terry.

"You say you can help," said Allenby. "Does that mean you know where she is being imprisoned?"

"Not yet," said Terry, "but I have a plan that may lead us to her."

Allenby's face brightened for the first time. "If you could find and rescue her, I would be eternally in your debt. What can I do to assist you?"

"You must tell no one that we have spoken, and go ahead with your judging of the contest. Unless you hear otherwise from us, you must award first prize to Karmella Krull.

"I shall do exactly as you say," said Allenby as he escorted them to the door. "You don't know what a weight has been lifted from my heart, knowing you are on the track of that evil Krull."

The boys jumped on their bicycles and headed for Agent Wood's barn. They found that gentleman outside, halfway up his one-hundred-foot steel radio tower checking on the guy wires. At the sight of the boys, he tightened one final clamp and made his way down to the ground.

"This tower makes it possible for me to keep in touch with our headquarters through a specially encrypted radio relay network. It is important that we keep it in tiptop operating condition" said Wood. "Why don't you come inside, and I'll see if I can rustle up some cider and cookies."

"Great," said Gary, "of course if your tower was leaning, I'd expect to get some pizza."

Over refreshments, the boys told him about the events of the day.

"And if Terry's plan works," said Gary through a mouthful of cookies, "we can kiss off Krull."

The secret agent did not smile. "Your plan had better work," he said. "For I know the evil Dr. Krull too well. Once he achieves his nefarious ends, there is no way he will let Alicia return alive to her brother."

At that moment, the alarm bell mounted over Wood's workbench began to ring. "Quick, outside!" shouted the agent over the strident sound of the bell. "Someone is tampering with the radio tower!"

The four of them rushed outside. Looking up, they saw the heavy metal tower falling directly towards them.

PROBLEM LOG REPORT

Mike Kirby Arrested for Fraud

BY JOHN V. TERREY, EDITOR

Fortunately, the problem reported here is a rare one; virtually thousands of transactions occur each year through A.R.C. ads with very few complaints. However in 1989, we received reports from fifty-seven readers saying that they had been offered items for sale by Mike Kirby of Panama City, Fla. Thirty-six had sent him payment, but only one received any merchandise. Beginning in the April 1989 issue, A.R.C. acted as a clearinghouse and reported monthly on readers' problems with Mr. Kirby. We also forwarded information to the U.S. Postal Service.

The Postal Service followed up on the numerous complaints, and on October 18, 1989, Mr. Kirby, in writing, consented to (1) cease representing that persons sending him money for merchandise would receive the merchandise in a reasonable time, (2) make refunds to all persons not receiving merchandise, and (3) return any new orders received. Over the next several months, Mr. Kirby returned most of the payments he had received.

However, in July and August of 1990, Mike Kirby allegedly again began responding to ads, receiving payments and not shipping merchandise. At this time, the authorities decided to charge and arrest Mr. Kirby. He has since been released pending trial.

The postal inspector assigned to this case,

Paul Feltman, asks that any individuals who have had problems with Mr. Kirby and who have not already notified the Postal Service, to do so by writing: Postal Inspector, P.O. Box 2707, Mobile, AL 36652.

Although A.R.C. cannot be responsible for buying and selling through ads in A.R.C., when there are problems, we try to help the individuals involved resolve them. Although we have grown to nearly 7,000 subscribers and print 600 ads monthly, we receive very few reports of problems. On these, however, A.R.C.'s staff expends considerable time by phone and mail with the individuals, encouraging and assisting them in resolving their problems. Fortunately, most problems are a result of misunderstandings, slow shipping, shipping damage, etc. and can be resolved quickly. If several complaints accumulate for one individual, however, we refuse his advertising until the complaints are resolved. Your subscription dollars make possible these "behind the scenes" activities which help keep radio collecting honest.

We suggest that if you have problems with a purchase, first try to resolve it yourself. But don't fail to notify us promptly if you are unable to resolve it in a reasonable period of time.

Teacher Arrested for Fraud

BY PHIL DAVIS AND JENNIFER HAMILTON, STAFF WRITERS

(Excerpted with permission from THE NEWS HERALD, Panama City, Fla., January 4, 1991)

A Jinks Middle School science teacher was arrested Thursday evening by Panama City police investigators on a felony charge of scheming to defraud a ham radio operator of $600.

Michael Truman Kirby, 43, whose address was listed as 1600 W. 10th St., turned himself in Thursday to Panama City police detective Sam Slay. Kirby, who teaches eighth-grade science classes, was being held in the county jail pending a first-appearance hearing today.

Kirby is charged with cashing a $600 money order from an Oakland, Calif., ham radio operator, who believed that Kirby was selling him radio equipment last November, Slay said. But Kirby never had the radio equipment and cashed the check without intending to respond to the man, Slay added. Scheming to defraud is a third-degree felony and carries maximum penalties of 5 years in jail and up to $5,000 in fines.

"He cashes the check and doesn't send (the victim) anything," Slay said. "The (victim) got his money back, but we felt we had to go ahead and charge him due to the number of complaints."

Panama City police detective John Van Etten, Slay and U.S. Postal Inspector Paul Feltman were involved in investigating "several" complaints that Kirby was using the mail to contact people and then falsely representing himself as a purchaser or salesman of radio equipment, police reports said.

The Oakland man believed that Kirby had a ham radio set for sale and agreed to send him a money order for $600. However, Kirby never had a radio set and when the money arrived, reports said, he cashed the money order and never responded to the man.

FIXING UP NICE OLD RADIOS

"Ed Romney has written an important book, one that should encourage many collectors to approach radio repair with knowledge and confidence."—Ted Hannah in a three page review in the July MAARC Bulletin

"My copy of FIXING UP NICE OLD RADIOS arrived promptly and I fell in love with it from the start...I think you have done a great job." —Kenneth Miller

"I've wanted to thank you for the copy of your book—I've had some time to go through it and I am most impressed. Good work!"—Joe Koester

"Received your book, FIXING UP NICE OLD RADIOS and I am more than pleased with it. Your book is clearly written in easily understood language—even when you are explaining some of the more complicated electronic theory. Your experience as an instructor does come through in your publication."— F. V. Bernauer

FIXING UP NICE OLD RADIOS has 185 pages with over 300 schematics and photographs of your favorite radios from crystal sets to the Scott 800—B. Zenith, AK, Radiola, Philco, Grebe, Pilot, National, Hammarlund and Hallicrafters are all in it—and many more! It is spiral bound 8½x11. Due to high printing costs it is now $25 but there is nothing else like it! Order today! Satisfaction guaranteed. Visa/MC OK. Phone orders accepted any time. Autographed if you wish. Add $1.50 shipp.

CLASSIFIED ADVERTISING POLICY

ONE FREE 20-WORD AD for subscribers in each issue; additional words are 15¢ each. See details below. Classified ads must be received (not just postmarked!) by NOON on the ad deadline. Late ads are held for the following issue. Please enclose correct payment with all ads. Stamps or cash are OK for small amounts. (Canadian and other foreign advertisers, please see "Payment" on page two for methods.) "Free words" cannot be accumulated from month to month; free words must be requested when ad is submitted.

Please write each ad on a separate sheet of paper, especially when included with other A.R.C. correspondence. Include SUB# with ad. Ads may be sent in advance; but, write each ad on a separate piece of paper and indicate the month (or successive two months) you want the ad to run.

Please write legibly and use both capital and small letters. Do not use dashes between words. Some numbers and letters can look alike, for example 1, l and I (the number one, the capital i and the small L.) Write the following characters clearly (especially in model numbers): 1, l and I; 0, o, Q and D; r and n; 6, b and G; V, U, u, v and Y; A and R; 5, S and s; 2, Z and z. We try to correct spelling errors, so when using an uncommon word or manufacturer which looks similar to a common word or manufacturer, note it so that we do not "correct" it. Editor's comments are in [brackets].

Advertising is accepted only for early items related to radio, communication, electricity, etc. All items must be described fairly; reproductions, reprints and not-original items must be identified as such. Advertisers agree to respond promptly to inquiries and orders, and to resolve problems promptly if the buyer is not satisfied.

Publisher reserves the right to edit ads without notification to the advertiser and to reject ads for any reason. Publisher is not responsible for errors due to illegibly written ads or for any other reason. Since club activities receive free advertising on the Coming Radio Events page, the free 20 words may not be used for club activity ads. See inside front cover for additional information.

CLASSIFIED AD DETAILS

Deadline: NOON - 10th of the month!

Classified ads must have a standard heading such as WANTED, FOR SALE, FOR TRADE, FOR SALE/TRADE, SERVICES, MESSAGE, HELP, AUCTION, MEET, etc. This heading is the only bold or all-capitalized words allowed in the ad. Capitalize only manufacturer names, model names, etc. Wanted and For Sale ads are mixed together to encourage the reading of all ads, including the Wanted ads. This standard ad format makes scanning the ads easier.

Before writing your ad, please look over the ads in a recent issue of A.R.C., and try to write your ad in the same style. Full name and address is required in all classified ads; we will add it if you forget.

To encourage varied content of the ads, the same classified ad may be run only once per issue and for only two consecutive months. (To run an ad longer, use a boxed classified or display ad.)

Classified Ad Rates per Month

Subscribers:

First 20 words: FREE***

15¢ per word for extra words over 20 plus

10¢ per word for a shaded ad (count all words including free words).

* Subscribers may take 20 free words on only one ad each month.

Non-Subscribers:

30¢ per word plus

10¢ per word for shaded ad.

Please do not forget to send in the extra 15¢ per word when your classified ad runs over the free 20 words; your payment will be appreciated, and it will help to keep A.R.C. healthy.

BOXED CLASSIFIED AD DETAILS

Deadline: 5th of the month!

Boxed classified ads can run unchanged for three months or more. No words are free. Ads may be shaded and may include bold and all-capitalized words freely. The ad need not begin with For Sale, etc. Minimum run is 3 months, prepaid.

Boxed Classified Ad Rates per Month

Nonshaded ads:

25¢ per word for all words,* none free, plus

10¢ per word for each bold word plus

10¢ per word for each all-caps word.

Shaded Ads (All words are bold at no charge):

35¢ per word for all words* plus

10¢ per word for each all-caps word.

Non-Subscribers:

Add 20¢ per word to above costs.

*Three words can be bold-all-caps at no extra charge.

PHOTO & DRAWING DETAILS

Deadline: 5th of the month for classified and boxed classified ads with drawings or photos!

Drawings and photos are encouraged as the response to your ad is much larger and the reader knows better what you want or are selling. Send in your drawing or photograph, and A.R.C. will reduce it or enlarge it as needed.

Photo and Drawing Rates per Month

$8.00 per month for each photo or drawing (If ad is canceled, this amount cannot always be refunded.)

CHANGES & CANCELATIONS

Please check your ads carefully before sending them in. Once ads are received, it is not always possible to refund the amount sent, pull the ad or make changes.

IMPORTANT — COUNTING WORDS — IMPORTANT

The standard headings: WANTED, FOR SALE, etc., count as one word each time used in an ad. Name, address and (one) telephone number, count as 6 words, regardless of length. Ham call letters and business name can be included in the 6 words and do not count extra. Full name and address is required in all classified ads — it does not cost extra! Each additional word, abbreviation, model number or number group, extra telephone numbers, etc. count as one word. Hyphenated words count as two words.
