The ADI Market Atlas

The Area of Dominant Influence is a geographic market design that defines each television market exclusive of the others, based on measurable viewing patterns. Each market's ADI consists of all counties in which the home market stations receive a preponderance of viewing, and every county in the U.S. (excluding Hawaii and part of Alaska) is allocated exclusively to only one ADI—there is no overlap. The estimated television households are therefore additive, and the total of all ADI's represents the total television households in the U.S.

The ADI is a standard market definition. As a television buying tool it is a geographic and demographic means for maximum efficiency. As a station tool it has numerous applications for more effective sales efforts, and for programming and promotion planning.

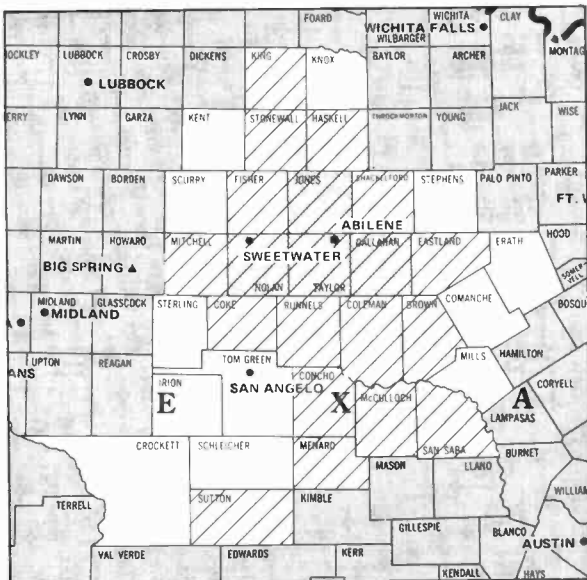

Following, in alphabetical order, are Arbitron Television's 212 ADI markets for 1979, with coverage maps for each; county-by-county breakdowns of TV households; and totals of women, men, teens and children in the ADI audience. Other data include the market's stations, and their cities of license, channel numbers and network affiliations. (Networks in parentheses indicate secondary affiliations.)

Coverage maps show total survey areas in white, the ADI's themselves in light crosshatching, and Arbitron Metro Rating Areas in heavier cross-hatching. The survey areas consist of all counties in which the home market stations are viewed to any significant extent, including via cable. The Metro Areas, save for an occasional deviation caused by geographical or historical factors, conform to the U.S. Census Standard Metropolitan Statistical Areas.

Arbitron has also designated several "supplementary markets"—TV-station home counties where the stations of a different market receive the preponderance of viewing. Supplementary markets therefore do not meet Arbitron's criteria for having an ADI of their own; they are listed in this atlas next to the ADI of which they are a part. (Note—The survey area of a supplementary market usually differs from that of the neighboring ADI market.)

A complete list of the supplementary markets appears on page B-29, and a cross-reference list for cities in a multi-city ADI on B-78.

Forty-four Emmys in three years

It's a record we're proud of. You see, for the last seven years we've been establishing a tradition here in New England... it's one of quality local programming. We'll carry that tradition with us right into the 1980's producing more local programming than any other TV station in New England... we call it the New Tradition.

RUT!

A New Term For The Media Buyer's Glossary

Now, the familiar acronym HUT (Homes Using Television) has a partner. RUT (Rooms Using Television) is an estimate of the percentage of hotel and motel rooms with persons viewing television. The measurement may become an important new tool for advertisers and agencies.

Last fall, the A.C. Nielsen Company completed A Pilot Study of Television Viewing in Hotels/Motels in the Orlando-Daytona Beach Designated Market Area. The study was conducted during the week of August 9 through August 16, 1979. During the average* ¼-hour in the survey week, it is estimated that 19,000 guests were viewing television in 14% of the rooms (RUT). Estimated hotel/motel viewing in the August pilot study averaged 9% as much as in-home viewing reported by the regular July Nielsen for Orlando-Daytona Beach.

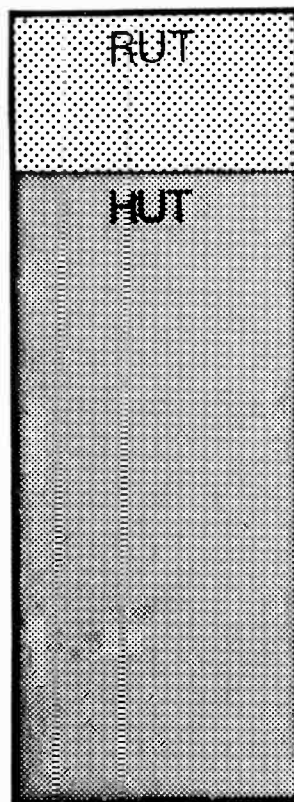

The A.C. Nielsen Company is exploring the feasibility of conducting such surveys in other markets with significant transient populations. A full explanation of methodology and summary findings of the Orlando-Daytona Beach hotel/motel viewing study are available to research professionals. ## TV Markets by Nielsen Marketing Research Territory

Nielsen Marketing Research territory groupings are another standard way of reporting sales data. The following table ranks TV markets within each Nielsen Territory. This provides a yardstick for determining the number of spot markets needed to achieve a given coverage of a territory. For example, if the national media are not delivering sufficient advertising weight in New England, the planner will find that three TV markets

(Boston, Hartford and Providence) contain more than 80% of the New England territory households. Or, he can use the table to get a better idea of how and what TV markets are needed to cover all of New England. Data is from special Nielsen Station Index tabulation based on a September 1979 estimate.

How Network Delivery Varies by Market

National advertisers use spot television to increase network advertising weight in specific markets to achieve a predetermined level. These market goals are derived from the advertising budget and the market's share of the brand's projected sales. Thus, a spot schedule is usually indicated where a market has an unusually high brand-sales potential, or where the network weight delivered for the brand is below the national average used in planning, or both.

The first factor, market brand potential, varies by product and is difficult to generalize. The second factor, local-market network audiences, must be generalized because planning is based upon next season's anticipated network performance. The prevalence of network "package" buys, which tend to deliver average audience levels, supports the use of average data.

The following tabulation, chosen especially for the BROADCASTING Yearbook, shows Arbitron Television's Areas of Dominant Influence (ADI) in terms of percent of the total number of U.S. TV households. Also given, in like percentage terms, are the network audiences in each ADI market during prime-time hours. It is this market audience figure, when compared to the market's share of population, that indicates whether the network commitment will perform above or below the national plan average in that market.

The figures are based on Arbitron Television's May 1979 Network Program Group Analysis.

THE STATION WITH A STUDER HAS A REPUTATION TO MAINTAIN.

Like Chicago's superstation WFMT, whose demand for uncompromised excellence led them to specify Studer decks for all their broadcast and syndication operations. People who know what quality is worth know they can't afford less than a Studer.

Broadcasters will find the Studer B67 of special interest. Portable enough to take on remotes, it's built to the Studer standard for chassis integrity: plugging in a new headblock requires no mechanical realignment. Three-speed operation, with quartz-crystal servo-locked capstan, and continuously adjusted tape tension servo-control reel motors are standard. So is a digital tape timer that reads positive or negative real time at all speeds and in all operating modes to an accuracy of 0.5%.

Naturally, the B67 uses Cannon-type connectors, and ASA ballistic VU meters (augmented by IEC peak-reading LED's). And it gives you built-in editing facilities with a monitor speaker. Both mechanical and electrical construction is modular throughout, for rapid service and adjustment. Full remote control is available. And when you say that the record and playback heads are made by Studer, that's all that needs to be said. The B67 is available in 19" rack-mount, console and portable formats.

If your station is good enough to warrant a B67, call us.
