(1) Channel, power and antenna. WOF-TV operates with 200 kilowatts (effective radiated power) visual and 20 kilowatts aural. Its antenna is 500 feet above average terrain and 300 feet above the ground; it holds a construction permit for a height increase.

(2) Date station first went on air (regardless of subsequent ownership changes).

(3) Address and zip code, telephone, Teletype Writer Exchange number.

(4) Licensee name and date of acquisition (if not original owner).

(5) Ownership. Acme Stations owns WOF-TV and several other broadcast properties, all detailed in the Group Ownership directory in section A. The station additionally has print media connections, explained in the Newspaper directory (also in section A). Principal stockholders are listed for independently owned stations.

(6) Network, foreign language, rep and Washington attorney. The primary WOF-TV national affiliate is CBS, the secondary is NBC. The station broadcasts two hours of Spanish a week. Sales representatives are listed with national rep first, then regional.

(7) Personnel.

(8) Cable and translators. WOF-TV is carried on six cable TV systems with a total of 20,000 subscribers, and on 10 rebroadcasting translators.

(9) Co-owned radio. WOF-TV has the same licensee as WOF-AM-FM.

(10) Advertising rates. The prices the station charges national advertisers for a 30-second spot are shown for each of three day-parts:

Prime time; early fringe; daytime in that order. If a day-part is inapplicable a dash (—) replaces the rate.

* An asterisk indicates noncommercial stations.

TV Assignments

Note—UHF and VHF TV assignments have been made by the FCC to the following cities. A plus or minus after a channel indicates that a station occupying the channel must operate with its carrier frequencies offset 10 kilohertz above or below, respectively, the normal carrier frequencies.

Asterisks (*) indicate channels reserved for non-commercial use. Footnotes: 1) Following the decision in Docket 18261 (amendment of rules regarding geographic reallocation of channels 1-20 to land mobile radio in the 25 largest urbanized areas of the U.S.) channels so indicated will not be available for use until further action by the FCC. 2) This channel is not available for Elgin, Ill., unless FCC determines it is not needed at Joliet, Ill. 3) This channel is not available for Asbury Park, N.J., unless FCC determines it is not needed at New Brunswick, N.J. 4) Channel 15 will not be available for television use until further action by the FCC. 5) Stations using these assignments shall limit radiation toward stations on the same channel in Puerto Rico. 6) Operation on this channel is subject to the conditions, terms, and requirements set out in the report and order in docket 19075, RM-1645, adopted Jan. 5, 1972, released Jan. 76, 1972, FCC-72-19. (As of August, 1983).

Note: The dollar volume figures represent total considerations reported for all transactions with the exception of minority interest transfers in which control of the stations did not change hands and stations sold as part of larger company transactions, such as Capcities buy of ABC. All sales have been approved by the FCC. Also, prior to 1978, a combined AM-FM facility (now groups) was counted as one station in computing the total number of stations traded.

*Prior to 1971, figures represent total number of deals involving both radio and television stations. Beginning in 1971, when the FCC's one-to-a-customer rule, prohibiting the sale of co-located TV and radio stations, became effective, figures represent the total number of separately located TV and radio stations that were sold in packages. In 1985, the mergers of large groups with interests other than broadcast stations could not be evaluated, since individual station values were not broken out of the larger sales. Group sales totals are now limited to compilations of "pure" stations sale—those only concerning TV and radio stations.

Television Marketplace

The ADI Market Atlas

The Area of Dominant Influence is a geographic market design that defines each television market exclusive of the others, based on measurable viewing patterns. Each market's ADI consists of all counties in which the home market stations receive a preponderance of viewing, and every county in the U.S. (excluding Hawaii and Alaska) is allocated exclusively to only one ADI—there is no overlap. The total of all ADI's represents the total television households in the U.S.

The ADI is a standard market definition. As a television buying tool it is a geographic and demographic means for maximum efficiency. As a station tool it has applications for sales, programming and promotion planning.

Following, in alphabetical order, are Arbitron Television's 214 ADI markets for 1985-86, with coverage maps for each; and county-by-county breakouts of TV households. Other data include the market's stations, and their cities of license, channel numbers and network affiliations.

Coverage maps show total survey areas in white, the ADI's themselves in light crosshatching, and Arbitron Metro Rating Areas in heavier crosshatching. The survey areas consist of all counties in which the home market stations are viewed to any significant extent, including via cable. The Metro Areas, usually conform to the U.S. Census Standard Metropolitan Statistical Areas.

Non-ADI markets do not meet Arbitron's criteria for having an ADI of their own; they are listed with the ADI of which they are a part.

A complete list of the non-ADI markets appears on page C-151 and a cross-reference list for cities in a multi-city ADI on C-214.

TV Markets by Nielsen Marketing Research Territory

Nielsen Marketing Research territory groupings are another standard way of reporting sales data. The following table ranks TV markets within each Nielsen Territory. This provides a yardstick for determining the number of spot markets needed to achieve a given coverage of a territory. For example, if the national media are not delivering sufficient advertising weight in

New England, the planner will find that three TV markets (Boston, Hartford and Providence) contain almost 80% of the New England territory households. Or, he can use the table to get a better idea of how and what TV markets are needed to cover all of New England. Data is from special Nielsen Station Index tabulation based on a January 1986 estimate.

How Network Delivery Varies by Market

National advertisers use spot television to increase network advertising weight in specific markets to achieve a predetermined level. These market goals are derived from the advertising budget and the market's share of the brand's projected sales. Thus, a spot schedule is usually indicated where a market has an unusually high brand-sales potential, or where the network weight delivered for the brand is below the national average used in planning, or both.

The first factor, market brand potential, varies by product and is difficult to generalize. The second factor, local-market network audiences, must be generalized because planning is based upon next season's anticipated network performance. The prevalence of network package "buys," which tend to deliver average audience levels, supports the use of average data.

The following tabulation, chosen especially for the BROADCASTING/CABLECASTING YEARBOOK, shows Arbitron Television's Areas of Dominant Influence (ADI) in terms of percent of the total number of U.S. TV households. Also given, in like percentage terms, are the network audiences in each ADI market during prime-time hours. It is this market audience figure, when compared to the market's share of the population, that indicate whether the network commitment will perform above or below the national plan average in that market.

The figures are based on Arbitron Television's May 1985 Network Program Group Analysis.

THE FIRST 50 YEARS OF BROADCASTING, by the editors of BROADCASTING Magazine. A year-by-year informal history of the times, people and events that shaped the development of radio, TV and allied fields, compiled from reports in BROADCASTING indexed for easy reference. The work of several hundred writers, editors and photographers, past and present, is condensed into some 300 pages of text and pictures. You'll read the book as contemporary history, refer to it for facts, find in it answers to questions about what happened when, and enjoy it for the memories it evokes. Order it for yourself, your friends, or your library. 297 pages.

MAKING IT IN RADIO, by Dan Blume. A wealth of information for anyone who wants to know more about careers in radio broadcasting either as a professional or for personal knowledge. MAKING IT IN RADIO tells the inside story about the industry, explains the rewarding jobs and careers it offers, and shows how stations and networks operate. The rich traditions of radio, its unlimited future, the wonders of satellite transmission, and much more are covered. And 19 top professionals, including morning man Don Chevrier, and CNN anchorman Bob Cain, provide firsthand advice about careers in radio announcing, programming, sales, engineering, and management. They also discuss how one determines if a career in radio is for him or her, and, if so, how to prepare for the field, break into the business, and advance in the industry. 178 pages, comprehensive glossary, bibliography, index.

COMMUNICATING EFFECTIVELY ON TELEVISION by Evan Blythin and Larry A. Samovar. Anyone interested in becoming a skillful communicator on television will benefit from this practical guide to television appearances. It is the only book with detailed treatment of speech communication in the television context. The text follows a logical six-part organizational scheme (understanding the viewers, gathering material, organizing material, understanding the studio, presenting the message, and television interviewing), presented in a nontechnical and nontheoretical manner. For instance, coverage of equipment and production techniques includes only that information needed for effective use of television as a medium of personal expression. The stress, therefore, is on the skills that will make the reader a successful communicator when he or she is on television. 288 pages.

WRITING FOR TELEVISION AND RADIO, FOURTH EDITION. by Robert L. Hilliard. Written for students who plan to become professional, wage-earning writers in the field of television and radio, this highly successful text stresses the practical, bread-and-butter aspects of broadcast writing—with-out neglecting the artistic, ethical, and social responsibilities of the writer. In contrast to most texts, which concentrate on specialized topics (such as radio newswriting or TV drama), this book offers comprehensive coverage of all areas in broadcast writing where career opportunities exist: radio, television, cable, educational and industrial communications. Hilliard is also unique in emphasizing how the principles and techniques of writing relate to the potentials (and limitations) of each of these media. The book takes a systematic approach to each type of writing, consistently considering principles form, techniques, and practical examples. This organizational scheme helps students understand the media and develop themselves as 'whole writers.' This Fourth Edition is completely updated to reflect technological changes and current practices (e.g., minidocs) that relate to writing. Discussion of special programming for children, women, and minorities (decreasing in opportunities for writers) has been telescoped into one chapter, while material on the increasingly important areas of industrial and instructional TV has been expanded. Numerous scripts used as examples are new, and a Glossary has been added, along with exercises that give students a chance to practice writing in each particular form. 385 pages.

TELEVISION PRODUCTION HANDBOOK, FOURTH EDITION. by Herbert Zettl. This best-selling handbook provides a practical guide to all major elements of today's television production. Zettl takes a systems approach that considers TV production as an interactive process among people, equipment, and procedures. He also integrates discussion of ENG/ EFP techniques and equipment (along with the studio mode) into all appropriate chapters to make students comfortable working in all production modes. In this Fourth Edition, Zettl follows a two-part chapter organization that divides each chapter into the basic information (Section One) and then into more advanced or detailed discussion (Section Two). This format keeps information manageable and flexible enough to suit individual course plans. This edition includes up-to-date information on all aspects of color production; studio and ENG/ EFP cameras; developments in EFP lighting, such as the use of HMI and bubble lights; digital production equipment and its use, such as frame store synchronizers, TBC, computer-assisted graphics, digital video effects; single-camera production techniques and the use of iso-cameras in various productions; special ENG/ EFP production methods and systems; and the various methods of postproduction: ENG/ EFP, and the more complex remixing processes. In addition, Zettl goes beyond presentation of technical information—with emphasis on the aesthetic elements that explain the 'whys' of production values. The handbook includes over 900 illustrations (mostly photographs), a glossary, and selected references. 524 pages.

ADVERTISING IN THE BROADCAST AND CABLE MEDIA, SECOND EDITION. by Elizabeth J. Heighton and Don R. Cunningham. The technological advances that are changing the electronic media are reflected in the title change of this text for broadcast advertising and sales course. (The first, highly successful edition was titled ADVERTISING IN THE BROADCAST MEDIA.) And much more that the title has changed! The entire book has been carefully revised to make this the most comprehensive and up-to-date survey of broadcast and cable advertising that students can use. Written primarily from the viewpoint of the creators of advertising campaigns (advertisers and their agencies), the text fully covers the development of both creative and media strategies, evaluation of advertising effectiveness, timebuying problems, and social responsibility (including current regulatory practices). Among the changes that make this unique text even wider in scope than before are: an important new chapter on direct response, dealing with the increased use of direct marketing; the growth of cable, and videotex; coverage of actual, modern-day audience research methods (including discussion of RAM Research, Birch Report, and RADAR); and greatly expanded examination of the regulatory authority of the FTC and FCC. In addition, extensive updating—in every chapter—provides students with completely accurate information on research methodologies, creative concepts, and production techniques, as actually practiced in the radio, television, and cable industries today. (The first edition was a Broadcast Preceptor Award winner!) 368 pages.

SIGHT-SOUND-MOTION: APPLIED MEDIA AESTHETICS by Herbert Zettl. A versatile guide to the how and why of media aesthetics, emphasizing television and film. Analyzes media in terms of light, space, time-motion, and sound, and synthesizes the elements into workable principles. In a down-to-earth approach, this book shows how to use lights and shadows to present a story with clarity and impact; to use the small space of the television screen or the large movie screen to show images in motion with the greatest effectiveness; and to use sound to complement, dominate, or merge with the visual image. It also extends these elements to other media, including photography, painting, writing, and radio. Serves as a guide for both media producer and media consumer, helping each to make aesthetic choices and responses a matter of feeling and thought. Contains over 1,000 illustrations. 401 pages.
