AGFA XT® Film Receives ★★★★★ Reviews

MICHAEL NORMAN
Director - Emerald Films

"Recently I find myself choosing Agfa XT again and again! With its precise color reproduction and high degree of exposure latitude, Agfa XT delivers my point of view accurately."

HIRO NARITA
Director of Photography

"As a Director of Photography, I must know that what I see in front of the camera is what I'll get on the screen. Agfa XT320 with its improved color reproduction and sharpness assures me of that."

Director of Photography

"Agfa XT color negative; it's a film stock for shooting everything! There is no guess work; if you see it, so does the film. Don't take my word for it, try it yourself."

They reflect the best of you: AGFA XT125® & XT320®
COLOR NEGATIVE FILMS.

Foreword

Recognizing the enormous growth of the video industry, this year the International Television and Video Almanac has extensively redesigned and expanded its coverage of and its data on the video market, while retaining the Almanac's easy-to-use, classic format. Additional international correspondents offer timely first-hand analysis of the television and video world market. Moreover, more than 400 new biographies have been added to the Almanac's near 5000 annually updated career profiles. I am proud to assume the editorship of this 34th edition of the Television and Video Almanac—the who, what, where and when of the Television and Video industries—and wish to thank the following friends who generously shared their expert knowledge, archival resources and loyal support: Alvin Marill, John Cocchi, Larry Cohn, David Bartholomew, Ernest Cunningham, Lloyd Ibert, Alan Barbour, Michael Schau, and Stephen Klain as well as Robert McDonald, Michelle Mart and Susan Gutterman for their tireless assistance. Most especially, I thank long-time Almanac editor Richard Gertner for his inestimable contributions and invaluable advice.

The Year in Review

1 988 will long be remembered in the U.S. television industry as the Year of the Big Strike. Effects of the 22-week walkout by members of the Writers Guild of America are expected to reverberate for some time to come.

The major sticking point in reaching a settlement came from the writers' demands for a larger piece of the booming foreign market. The writers pointed to the fact that an hour-long drama once sold abroad for about $50,000 now goes for $300,000 and sometimes more. Members of the Alliance of Motion Picture & Television Producers countered by claiming that the foreign bonanza did not make up for the increasing losses producers have suffered in the domestic market (the demand for hour-long dramas in syndication by U.S. TV stations has slowed tremendously; game shows, costing much less to produce, are now much more popular).

What the writers settled for early in August was virtually what they had been offered in June: 1.2 per cent of a show's gross earnings overseas after the program has earned a certain amount of money for its producers. (The writers had sought 1.9 per cent.)

For the three major networks—ABC, CBS, and NBC—the strike was a hard blow, forcing a delay in the start of the fall season by a month to the end of October. Viewers, on the other hand, did not seem to notice, since the Summer Olympics played on NBC from September 15 to October 2 and prime time hours were filled with baseball on ABC and by the World Series on NBC (after October 15). CBS, unfortunately, had no "specials" to fill its prime time and could not start its new shows until late October.

Given this situation NBC was viewed by industry dopesters as certain to win the 1988–89 ratings race, just as it had in 1987–88, which would give it a third straight season at the top. NBC's margin of victory for 1987–88 had been the biggest for any network since the 1963–64 season when CBS was Number One. ABC was second for 1987–88, and CBS slipped to third for the first time in U.S. TV history.

Final averages, as tallied by the A.C. Nielsen Company, were a 16 rating (percentage of the nation's 88.6 million TV homes) and 26 share (percentage of sets in use) for NBC; a 13.7 rating/22 share for ABC; and a 13.5 rating/22 share for CBS. Ratings covered the period from September 21, 1987 to April 17, 1988.

NBC, which had never won a season before 1985–86, had the top four shows of the year: "The Cosby Show," "A Different World," "Cheers," and "Golden Girls." Number Five was ABC's "Growing Pains" followed by "Who's the Boss?" (ABC); "Night Court" (NBC); "60 Minutes" (CBS); "Murder, She Wrote" (CBS); and "The Wonder Years" (ABC).

For "60 Minutes" it was the 11th consecutive Top 10 finish, giving it the third-longest run for CBS behind "I Love Lucy" and "Gunsmoke" (13 seasons each).

The latest Nielsen ratings were based on its controversial new people meter methodology which had gone into effect at the start of the season in September. Detractors assert that the new method shows a loss in overall viewing that is at least twice the lost indicated from local tallies compiled all around the country. These latter results show a 3 per cent decline in viewership, compared with a 7 per cent loss when the national Nielsen results are applied.

Still Nielsen is now the only TV ratings company in the country. AGB Television Research, after a costly one-year attempt to set up an alternative service, suspended operations in August. CBS had been the only network subscriber to the system of AGB, which is owned by a British company called Mediamark Research, Inc. The U.S. experiment cost the company over $50 million.

That drop in overall viewing of the network shows is blamed by observers not so much on the WGA strike as on the continued growth of competition from cable and pay TV and home video cassettes. According to the Cabletelevision Advertising Bureau cable subscribers spend nearly as much time (33 per cent) watching cable programs as they do watching the three commercial networks (35 per cent). And in pay cable households, cable viewership outscores the three webs by 40 to 32 per cent. (For further recent statistics on the cable and home video industries, see those sections in this book).

The network created by Rupert Murdoch's Twentieth Century Fox in 1986 to compete with ABC, CBS and NBC—thus to form a "fourth network"—did not fare well in 1988. Projections showed that Fox Broadcasting Company, Inc. would probably lose $80 million for the year, and its future outlook was shaky.

Failure of the new project to catch on is blamed primarily on a soft market for television advertising. Fox had to depend a great deal on spillover from the big three webs of advertisers seeking national audiences who find that the ad time on the top-rated networks is sold out. When sales are weak, as is currently the case, overflow is small or non-existent.

On a more optimistic note the Turner Broadcasting System introduced a new cable entertainment network in October with nearly 10 million TV households signed up—well above an initial projection of seven million. The new network's programming will consist of movies drawn largely from the MGM library that TBS acquired in 1986.

This comes, however, after the failure of Home Box Office's Festival pay cable service introduced in June of 1987. The family-oriented program service had been able to attract subscribers at a rate of only 3.4 per cent from the 100 systems on which it was carried. (Less than 5 per cent is not considered viable.) Failure of Festival is attributed to lack of support from cable operators "who did not believe in it" or preferred to concentrate on promoting pay-per-view and basic cable rather than a service targeted for older viewers who usually shun pay TV or cable itself altogether. The service was discontinued at the end of 1988.

Finally, 1988 was the year in which the F.C.C. at last announced guidelines for high-definition TV which is expected to provide pictures twice as clear as those now available. Under the guidelines broadcasters must transmit high-definition signals at frequencies currently used in broadcasts, thus allowing viewers to continue to use their current sets. Only new sets will be able to provide a high-definition picture. The new standards are different from Japanese and European specifications for high-definition TV.

Statistics & History

Freedom of choice—the control of one's own viewing habits—has been the major impact of home video on the leisure-time industry in America. Owners of videocassette recorders can view what they want when they want and are no longer subject to the programming schedules of the television networks and cable stations. The VCR owner is able to watch yesterday's motion pictures today (by renting or owning vintage Hollywood films, foreign features and television product, as well as films released theatrically as recently as six months ago) and today's television programming tomorrow—along with how-to tapes, music videos and home movies.

Time shifting, the ability of the viewer to tape a show for later viewing (as well as eliminating commercials—by editing them out or fast forwarding past them), is the most common usage of VCRs. One can watch one program while taping another, or tape with the tv set off and nobody home. One can select entertainment or instruction from the more than 50,000 prerecorded tapes now available from the more than 30,000 video specialty stores, supermarkets, hardware stores and libraries. There are more than 40 brands of VCRs with 150 models now available, offering electronic tuner-timers and such special effects as freeze-frame and forward-reverse picture scan as basic features and such extra options as wireless remote control, variable slow and fast motion and full stereo sound. Home video has had a revolutionary effect on the entertainment habits of the nation.

Video History

1923: Though the patent for a video-camera-like device was filed in Germany one hundred years ago, the first practical product was devised by Vladimir Zworykin, a Russian/American immigrant in 1923.

1938: A primitive video disk was on sale at Selfridges of London.

Post World War II: With the development in the early 1930s of an electronic television signal and the audio tape recorder, and their coming into broadcast use in the mid-1940s, it was not long before experiments (by Ampex and RCA in the US, and BBC and Decca in Great Britain) in recording television shows and playing them back were made in earnest. Freeing directors to edit or re-shoot, and attempting to loosen the stranglehold live television broadcasting imposed on the medium, the first recorders were longitudinal machines that looked like audio recorders and used large reels of tape at high speeds.

Early 1955: BBC went on the air with its VERA (Vision Electronic Recording Apparatus) with a head gap of 20 microns and a tape speed of 200 inches per second. A reel about 5 feet in diameter was needed for taping a half-hour program.

April 1956: An American company, Ampex, produced the first working video recorders for broadcast use, using four (quad) recording heads on a rotating drum, and two-inch wide magnetic tape which was reusable. They were first used over the air at CBS's Hollywood studios in November, 1956. (A more portable system using narrower tape and a helical scan system had been patented in Germany in 1953, but the prototypes were far too expensive and difficult to use; a tape could be used only once, and each time it was used the machine had to be cleaned of tape particles.)

1967: A Japanese company, Sony, introduced the first transportable video system which used reel-to-reel tape and recorded in black and white only.

1970: Home video arrived when the first video cassette systems were produced, in the Philips Video Cassette Recorder or VCR. (Philips had also developed and licensed the compact audio cassette.) Sony introduced its 3/4-inch U-Matic format intended for professional use in the film and television industries.

1972: Philips launched its N1500, the first video recorder with a tuner-timer, making domestic video recording a reality.

The simple video game, the first interactive use of the television, was introduced into viewing households, altering perception of the TV screen from one of passive reception of broadcast programs to participation.

Late 1975: Sony introduced the Betamax system, utilizing narrower 1/2-inch tape (the narrower tape size resulted in lowered costs of recording and recorders). An optional timer was included to enable a viewer to tape even when he was not at home and offered the capability of recording one program while watching another. The cost was approximately $2,200 for a recorder with TV set. Blank tape cost $20.

1976: Cartrivision, V-Cord, and VHS (Video Home System) introduced systems incompatible with Betamax machines. The first two fell by the wayside while VHS (backed by Matsushita Electronics Corporation) emerged as the challenger to Sony's Betamax by making it possible to record up to 2 hours of broadcast material for the first time. Magnavox came out with a videodisc machine, strictly a playback system which used a disc similar in size and substance to a record album that is "read" by a laser beam. RCA manufactured a rival, incompatible videodisc system.

1977: The video software market was born when a small midwestern company called Magnetic Video Corporation licensed 50 feature-length films from 20th Century-Fox and released them for sale on Beta and VHS formats at retail prices of $49.95 to $79.95.

1983: Paramount Pictures paved the way for burgeoning cassette sales when it lowered the price of some of its strongest titles to $39.95 from $79.95. Other prerecorded cassette distributors soon followed suit.

Jan. 1984: United States Supreme Court, after lengthy consideration of a suit brought by MCA Inc. and Walt Disney Productions against Sony, ruled that home taping of broadcast programming is not a violation of copyright laws, in effect legitimizing what viewers were already doing.

1984: The FCC approved the start of Multi-Channel TV Sound Broadcasting, adding stereo sound to the home video experience.

May 1987: Super-VHS or S-VHS (with an expanded band width of up to 5.5 megahertz thus increasing the sharpness of picture image, and 400 lines of horizontal resolution as opposed to conventional VCR's 240) made its debut at the Consumer Electronics Show in Chicago, with anticipated production scheduled for fall of 1987. Another innovation was the introduction of 5-inch CD Video singles at a $7-8 list price, that can hold up to 20 minutes of recorded music videos.

Trends: 1988

- In 1986 the media coined a new term, "couch potato," to describe those who enjoy staying at home and watching TV or a VCR as their pastime of choice. This trend is borne out in the fact that in 1987, while theatrical exhibition grossed $4.2 billion, the home video market (including the sale and rental of videocassettes) generated $7.46 billion.
- A continuing trend from 1987 into 1988 was the commercial sponsorship of videocassettes, with ads for Diet Pepsi prefacing the top-selling Top Gun videotape as the groundbreaker.

- To counter the stagnant growth rate of video recorder sales, novel technology introduced to peek consumer interest included P.I.P. (Picture-in-Picture), a system what when hooked up to a television and videocassette receiver allows the viewer to watch two channels on one screen simultaneously.
- Toshiba displayed a three-dimensional video camera that requires viewers to wear special glasses attached to an electronic adapter. OVC marketed its "3-D Hawaiian Swimsuit Spectacular," reputedly the first 3-D video.
- Go-Video, manufacturer of the prototype VCR-2, a two-deck videocassette player with the ability to duplicate tapes, encountered further legal difficulties that prevented its marketing the machine.
- Bar coding (like that used in supermarkets for inventory control) was introduced to eliminate the pushing of buttons and reduce the chance of errors in VCR programming. A hand-held wireless LED (light emitting diode) code scanner reads and transmits the time, date, and channel information directly to the VCR.
- Three feature films ("Julia and Julia," "Crack in the Mirror" and "Do It Up") as well as a made-for-television movie ("Innocent Victims") were shot using HDV, high definition video, then converted to 35mm using a tape-to-film transfer process which converts the tape's thirty pictures per second to twenty-four frames per second on film. Though unwieldy (HDV must be hooked up to a video tape recorder by means of cables) and with a lower ASA rating than film, this new technology is a step in breaking down the traditional barriers between film and video.
- Though many "A" videos were priced at $89.95, up from $79.95, they dropped in price to an average $29.95 after their first exposure on cable TV (usually in six months).

- While the glut of "B" films made by smaller independent companies to fill the voracious needs of the expanding video industry bottomed out (proving that limited theatrical release of middle level small films did not translate into video sales and rentals) other films bypassed theatrical distribution altogether, resulting in an increase of direct-to-video-features.

Facts and Statistics

- While the Japanese and Koreans dominate the hardware market of the video industry, American producers, distributors, and marketers and retailers fill the programming needs of the ever expanding industry.
- Estimates regarding the number of United States TV households that currently own a VCR vary from 52% (E.I.A.) to 53.3% (Nielsen Station Index) (with New York VCR penetration estimated at 62%; L.A. 64% and Chicago 62%). Media analyst Paul Kagan anticipates that by the early 1990s, 70% of U.S. homes will have a VCR. Moreover an estimated 1 out of every 5 VCR households also owns a second VCR.
- Electronic Industries Association (E.I.A.) figures show that 13.306 million VCRs were sold in to dealers 1987, while 13.174 million were sold in 1986. The E.I.A. calculates that an estimated 110 million prerecorded videocassettes were sold to dealers in 1987.
- Estimated sales of prerecorded videocassettes increased in dollar sales to $2.77 billion and unit sales to 110 million in 1987 and were expected to rise again in 1988 to 135 million units worth $2.97 billion; blank videocassette sales rose to an estimated 280 million units sent to dealers.
- While table model and portable VCR sales declined, camcorder sales (increasing 25% annually since their introduction) were expected to rise to 2 million units in 1988 while sales of color video cameras fell to 113,000 units in 1986 and are expected to continued falling in 1988. (E.I.A.)

- A.C. Nielsen's annual VCR Tracking Report dated May, 1987 showed that prime-time TV shows accounted for 42% of VCR recording time. Daytime programs earned a 23% share.
- Nielsen's report also revealed that 46% of off-TV recording was done while sets were off, and 72% of all recordings was of programs broadcast by network affiliates. 21% of VCR recording occurred on Sunday evening while playback was strongest on Saturday evening (20%) the survey showed.
- While film companies are enjoying healthy growth from selling videocassettes, they are prohibited by law from garnering any of the rental revenues. The First Sale Doctrine states that once the cassette is sold to the retailer, the merchant can rent the cassette as many times as he can without giving back any royalties to the producers.
- A 1987 membership survey by the Video Software Dealers Association revealed that in 1986 a videocassette of "A" theatrical quality rented 80 times on the average while copies of "B" pictures were rented 42 times and "C" pictures 31 times.
- Price per prerecorded tape sold on the average for $17.41 in 1987 as compared to $29 in 1986 and $37.23 in 1985. Rental price average dropped to $2.12 in 1987 from $2.40 in 1986 at video stores and to $1.91 at other rental outlets (video stores account for 67% of rental transactions).
- Cambridge Associates' president Dick Kelly at the Intl. Tape/Disc Assn. estimated that total video revenues for programmers (about 80% of which go to Hollywood majors) would reach $3.7 billion in 1988 and $4.4 billion in 1990, up from the $2.95 billion figure of 1987.
- Six billion hours of prerecorded video was watched per year as compared to 221 billion hours of broadcast TV watched per year (Fairfield Group).
- An AGB research study from April, 1988 indicated that children under 18 spend an average of 50% more viewing time than adults watching prerecorded and home-recorded video tapes in VCR households. Those under 18 watch 3.4 hours per week while adults average 2.3 hours/week.

- An American Video Association survey of member video stores showed that in 1987 stores rented an average of 1,258 tapes per week (up 4% from 1986); sold 21.7 new tapes per month (up 1%) and sold 22.4 used tapes per month (up 87%). The average number of titles was up 44% to 2,563 per store, but the number of new titles purchased per month was down by 21% to 31.5. Average number of copies per "A" title was 5.2 and 1.4 per "B" title. 75% of the stores surveyed no longer carried any Beta tapes (compared to 68% in 1986).
- VCRs are used an average of 7 hours/week per household with 2.4 hours devoted to recording programs and 4.7 hours used playing prerecorded and home-recorded tapes. Some 49% of the 7 hours per week of VCR usage are spent playing rented or purchased tapes, 17% playing home recorded material. Twenty-three percent is spent recording when the television set is off or tuned to another channel while 10% is spent recording the same program the viewer is watching. The AGB Television Research study (released March, 1988) showed VCRs are more prevalent in pay-cable households (64%) than basic cable and non-cable homes (48% each). Of families with children under 18, 65% have VCRs while 48% of households without children do.
- The same study found 40% of all home recordings are made in primetime, 31% in daytime. Sunday night has more recording (26%) than any other night, while Saturday is the preferred night for playback (23%).
- A Fairfield Group survey found that in 1987, 54% of the country's VCRs were at least three years old, 22% of them two years old, and 24% under a year old. Machines tended to be used less as the novelty wore off and they got older. Also rentals of videotapes fell off as the machines aged.

Retail Data

At its seventh annual convention, held August, 1988, the Video Software Dealers Association reported that video software dollar volume derived from sales (as opposed to rentals) increased 4.3% in 1987 over 1986. Rentals still accounted for 81.1% of total dollar volume but that was down from 85.4% in 1986. The VSDA commissioned survey revealed that the average prerecorded video software sales transaction was $24.51 per tape, with 1.1 the average number of titles sold (compared to 2.3 titles rented in 1987 at $2.45 per tape rental). The survey estimated that the average number of titles per store was 2832, with the average store owner operating 6.8 stores. The average number of fulltime employees was 2.6 and parttime 3.9. More than 66% of video store owners responded that business was up in 1987.

Another VSDA study showed that as the day progressed video store traffic increased, with the average time spent in the store 4–8 minutes in the morning, 5–12 minutes during the afternoon, and 12–15 minutes in the evening. There are twice as many browsers in the new release section as in the comedy section, but 2–3 times as many in the comedy section as in horror. The percentage of “walkaways” in the video stores is particularly high, often with 30% of the potential customers leaving without a sale or rental.

World Market

The Home Video World Market

ARGENTINA

Number of VCRs: 300,000-350,000
Format Share: About 78% VHS, 22% Beta
TV System: PAL N
TV Distributors: AVH, Gati-Video, LK-TEL., Video Espagna, Legal Video, Transeuropa Video Entertainment, Transmundo Homevideo and some 20 smaller ones
Number of Retail Video Outlets or Video Clubs: About 800
Sell-In Price to Retailer: $60-$80
Average Rental: Two cassettes for one day, three over weekend
Best Seller: About 3,000 units
Piracy: 35%
Hardware: $1,800-$2,000 for a VCR
Product: Almost entirely feature films; some miniseries. Small percentage of adult films

Videodisks: Negligible
Subtitles: Argentines prefer electronically subtitled films to dubbed versions. Subtitling is done locally.
Price Argentines pay for average cassette rental: $2.00-$4.00.
 The extraordinary expansion in Argentina's home video industry in 1986 experienced a shakeout in 1987 as the market became saturated with product and the numerous videoclubs shuttered. Of the more than 100 videocassette traders operating in 1986, only 30 distributors remained by the end of 1987. Estimates of the number of VCRs in the country vary widely from 300,000 to 800,000 because of the large number smuggled into the country.

During 1987 almost 70 legal actions were taken throughout Argentina against video piracy resulting in an estimate that while pirated copies accounted for 40-45% of all tapes previously, the figure is currently down to about 35%.

Videoclubs have set up an association to represent their interests, the Argentine Federation of Video Clubs (FAVIC).

High governmental taxes have also slowed the industry's previous rapid growth. A 100% levy on foreign goods including videocassette recorders, plus an import tax has actually raised the price of a VCR to about $2,000, therefore resulting in maintaining the number of VCRs in the country at about a constant 300,000 to 325,000.

AUSTRALIA

Estimates indicate that approximately 58% of the households with television sets also have video cassette recorders (90% VHS; 10% Beta.)

The following figures showing the number of VCRs sold here each year since 1979 reveal the rapid penetration of the market:

1979	26,000
1980	72,000
1981	150,000
1982	350,000
1983	500,000
1984	685,000
1985	600,000

The average time spent viewing VCRs is 1 hour 52 minutes per week, and is divided equally between pre-recorded and recorded off-air material. VCRs cost between A$399 to more than A$1000, and cassette rentals average A$3 per night. There are currently approximately 2800 active retail outlets.

VCR imports dropped from a 1984 high of AUS $295.25 million to AUS $153.94 in 1987.

Major video distributors total nine, while there are some 20 smaller outlets. Nearly all the majors have links to other Australian media groups as well as to leading world-wide film distributors.

For example, the major VCR wholesalers include CBS-Fox, Warner Video, and RCA/Columbia/Hoyts (latter is a leading theatre circuit) as well as CIC Video (film distributor with links to Paramount), Syme Video (media conglomerate with ties to Disney), and PBV (TV station owners with ties to MGM and United Artists). Other distributors are Thorn-EMI Video, Video Classics and Roadshow.

A Joint Federal Parliamentary Select Committee on video material (which also includes film material) was established in 1985 and is expected to make a report affecting the label and rating of videos for violence and sexual violence and to address the issue of establishing uniform national standards on video classification and availability.

AUSTRIA

VCR Penetration: 43% of Austria's 1,800,000 households.
Number of Retail Stores: 900 (rentals account for 90% of market)
Industry Income: 300,000,000 schillings ($28,700,000)
Product: Adventure films top the rental list
Format: VHS recorders predominate

A recent bill in parliament called for the federal government to start a study of violence and pornography in video software, a major concern in Austria. Currently federal laws differ from state laws, and state laws vary state to state. Youths may enter video stores but must show identity cards, meeting the local age limits.

The Austrian government imposed a levy of 3 schillings per tape hour in 1982 to offset losses from home taping and has collected 50,000,000 schillings ($5,000,000 to date) paid by the dealers. 51% of the blank tape tax goes into a special fund for cultural and social purposes (old age pension, health insurance, aid to film schools and producers).

BRAZIL

Population (1988): 144,000,000
Inflation (February 1988): 18% month
Exchange rate (Feb. 23, 1988): $1=94.80 cruzados
TV sets: 40,000,000
Viewers reached: 130,000,000
VCRs: 2.5-3 million
Sealed titles: 3,200; Sealed tapes: 6,000,000
Total revenues in 1987: $60,000,000 (official), $20-25,000,000 (pirated)

Retail Outlets: 5-6,000
Average whole price per copy: $40
Average rental per day: $0.90

Principal markets: São Paulo, Rio Grande do Sul, Rio de Janeiro
 Home video distribution was the fastest growing segment of Brazil's entertainment industry in 1987, despite the inhibiting factors of government regulation and piracy. Resolution 136 of Concine, Brazil's film and video regulatory agency imposed a 25% quota for Brazilian product in number of titles and tapes in every distributor's catalog and mandated that all mastering and duplicating work be performed in local labs. It defined legal tapes as only those carrying a seal issued by Embráfime after proof of copyright ownership and local lab work. Nearly 500 dealers have joined Abecv, one of several retailer organizations to remove illegal product from their shelves.

Although technically there are 120 home video distributors registered by Concine, only half of them are operational and only 30-35% operate at significant levels.

In the past two years there has been a 400% rise in the number of VCRs (up to 2.5-3 million) in Brazil. Sony, Mitsubishi, Philco, Sanyo, Sharp, CCE and Gradiente all assemble 12 different types of VCRs here and the retail price has dropped from $1,200 in 1986 to an average of $850 in 1987. Preference, however is for smuggled Panasonic and JVC models available for $550.

90% of the market is in VHS format and Brazilian system is the unique PAL-M (PAL 525 lines) however, conversion from NTSC can be easily done for $50. All tapes are manufactured in NTSC system.

Approximately 3,200 titles (6 million tapes) are available and rental is dominant. Wholesale price (for stores) is $40 and 24-hour rental average $1. Rental stores (almost 5,000) have overtaken videoclubs (in which tapes were exchanged among members). Due to high taxes (the 17% ICM or municipal tax, the 15% IPI or federal tax, and a 10% import tax for blank tape) 50% of the wholesale price for a tape goes for taxes, resulting in piracy. However, because of strict regulation, piracy has declined from an 80% level to 40%. An organization of pirates called "Pool" has circumvented the new law by printing new films over sealed tapes containing legitimate films already having the seal of control on their boxes.

CANADA

VCRs were in 45% of all households in Canada as of May 1987, compared to 35% in 1986 (as reported by Statistics Canada, a federal government agency). As of November 1987, A.C. Nielsen Co. of Canada reported that 51% of all households with TV also had a VCR, a 4% climb since March, 1987. As of January 1988, Canada's population was 24,823,000.

It is estimated VCR sales (in units) will decrease from 950,000 in 1987 to 930,000 in 1988. The rental-sales ratio is 80-20. 90% of all English-language cassettes (VHS & Beta) are manufactured in Toronto and 10% in Montréal; 95% of the English market in Canada is serviced by two companies, Video I and Bellevue Video. Canadian sales of cassette are estimated at about 10% of the U.S. market.

Other data recently compiled by A.C. Nielsen of Canada:
 About 72% of VCRs are VHS format.

Films are the most frequently recorded programs. More than 50% of the usage occurs while the TV set is off, and the same percentage eliminates commercials while recording. More than 20% of households watch more TV since purchase of a VCR. Nearly 75% of households sampled cited recording of programs that would otherwise be missed as the chief reason for use.

CHILE

By the end of 1987 the number of VCRs in Chile is estimated at 150,000, and a substantial number of VCPs (videocassette players) were imported and sold at a lower price in Beta format.

Video industry gained legal status in 1986 and as of January 1, 1987 Law No. 18,443 established penalties for piracy protecting legitimate videocassette distributors which at that time numbered only three: Video Chile, CCN Video and Videoman. Piracy is currently estimated to be 45%. By the end of 1987 import duties on VCRs were slashed by 40% encouraging sales.

EGYPT

Number of production companies for recording and distributing tapes: 1988—217.

Number of fully registered video clubs selling and renting video tapes: 1988—1980. In addition, more than 2000 small shops and magazines also sell and rent video tapes to viewers.

Number of VCR owners: Near 7 million up from 5 million in 1987 (still growing).

The Censorship Dept., which is headed by Mrs. Naïema Hamdy, and connected to the Ministry of Culture, is in charge of viewing, rating and granting the approval on general release to all and any local and/or foreign production on tapes.

Now in Egypt there is available a wireless video sender manufactured in Japan that can transmit from any VCR set to any number of TV sets within a range of 300 meters.

General: There's no doubt that video is spreading rapidly in Egypt and is beginning to have a serious effect on theatrical film business. The Indian public enjoys watching films in its own homes at inexpensive prices with all members of the family on hand and the ability to invite friends and neighbors if they wish. Going to a movie theatre is annoying to them for many reasons, including crowded streets, the cost of transportation, and the lack of parking areas.

FRANCE

After years of being stymied by heavy taxes, piracy and restrictive windowing, France's video companies are scrambling back on their feet. Producers are hopeful that the VAT on recorders will be slashed from 18.6% to 7% in the coming year. A total of 4.9 million recorders (mostly VHS) sold by 1987. 27.5 million non-recorded cassettes sold in 1987. 3 million pre-recorded cassettes sold in 1987. 85% of the market is in rentals, with a total of some 4,000 video clubs.

Trends: The European Economic Community's executive branch has levied a provisional tax on Korean and Japanese imports which undercut European prices, skimming off 30% of the market in 1987. Aside from the anti-dumping measures, Europe hardly presents a common front in regard to recorder prices which are 40% higher in France than in the United Kingdom.

GREAT BRITAIN

With an annual income to distributors exceeding £200 million and a weekly audience of over 25 million, the home video business in the UK remains a thriving one. Films on cassettes have helped the industry achieve a £500 million turnover, probably the biggest market in Europe. Some 11 million people have video recorders in their home (55% of TV households), and it is probably the second most popular home leisure pastime after television itself. Another encouraging statistic is that 31% of these households rent videotapes as frequently as once a week. Viewers bought 2,155,000 VCRs in 1987—an 11% increase over 1986, while sales to the trade (2,200,000) increased only 2%. The average price for VCRs were estimated to be £350 ($650) in 1987, a drop from £440 in 1984. There are some 7-8000 outlets in the UK and the average charge for a cassette rental has increased to £1.31 a night. Leading distributors include Warner Home Video, CIC, RCA/Columbia, CBS/FOX, Entertainment in Video, Virgin, Vestron Home Video (UK), MGM/UA, Guild and New World. As with the theatrical market, the majority of the product screened at home hails from America.

Commenting on the state of the industry, Steward Till, chairman of the British Video Association (BVA), stressed that the "long term health of the video market depends on the ability to persuade the majority of VCR owners to rent pre-recorded cassettes more often." Answering attacks on the video trade by politicians and the media, to counter its early reputation for showing violent and sleazy product, the BVA moved towards self-regulating of trade advertising and cassette jacket designs, with the result that it received an assurance from the government that the proposed Broadcasting Standards Council will not change the status or integrity of the British Board of Film Classification to which the industry conforms.

The Rank Organisation, with a view to the world market, acquired the American company BHCP Video, now called Rank Video Services America, and currently operates the leading video duplication business in the world. Prior to the takeover Rank was already Europe's leader in this field.

As has been stated previously, like cinemas and 'free' television, the video business is dependent on quality entertainment. Given that, there is no reason why home viewing should not continue to expand despite the development of cable, Pay-TV and Satellite broadcasting.

GREECE

Home video invaded Greek homes, cafes, and other places in 1983. More and more videocassettes are produced every year to supply the numerous video clubs operating in the country.

Number of Videocassettes: It is estimated that more than 3000 titles are produced legally locally at the rate of 500 every year. They are rented at the rate of drs. 70 per day.

Price of a Videocassette: The price to wholesalers of a videocassette by its producer is about drs. 6,000-8,000. Each copy is rented by video clubs for drs. 250-300 per day, but the competition is so keen that some minor dealers are renting them for drs. 50, especially those from pirated sources.

Videocassette Piracy: There is an extensive traffic of illegal video cassette operators who import masters illegally and/or duplicate imported titles or local ones and sell their inferior copies cheaper to regional places. Even good pictures which have not as yet been released theatrically in Athens are out in the market as videocassettes. As there is not a law against this piracy, an organization was established by several producers to protect their interests. It is called Protection Society of Videocassette Producers (EPPVE), which acts according to a decision of the Supreme Court by which the illegal reproduction of a videocassette is considered a forgery and the culprits are sentenced to imprisonment and/or heavy fines.

Hardware and Software Dealers: There are many dealers selling hardware and software equipment in Athens, operating or acting as agents of Akai, Asa, Blaupunkt, Grundig, Hitachi, Lowe, Panasonic, Magnasonic, Philips, Siemens, Telefunken, Salora, etc.

Producers, Wholesalers, Agents: There are more than one hundred videocassette producers in Greece, but it is expected that only the important ones will survive after the video boom subsides. Some of the most important ones are: Home Video Hellas S.A., 275, Messogion Str., Athens 162 31; Audiovisual Enterprises, 7 Sochou Str., Athens 115 25; Key Video, 16-18 Skalidi Str., Athens 115-25; Nea Kinissi Video, 13 Gravia Str., Athens 106 78; Video Ehti, 41-43 Kifissias Str. 151 23; Spentzos Films Video, 49 Themistocleous Str., Athens 106 85; Liberty Video, 292 Messogion Str., Athens, 155 62; Mediterranean Trading Company (MTC), 5 Aristotelous Str., Callithea Athens 175 71; EMGEE Home Video, 70 Homerou Str., Nea Smyrni Athens 171 21; VideoSonic I Evrydamantos Str. HOLLAND

Number of VCRs: 2,000,000. This means that some 35% of Dutch families own VCRs.

Number of Distributors: some 40 of which only 23 are active. The most important are Esselte-CIC (Paramount, Universal), Warner Home Video (WB and UA), RCA-Columbia, CBS-Fox, RCV (Orion), CNR (MGM) Cannon (Cannon and Touchstone).

Number of Rental Shops: around 1000.

Rental Price: from Dfl. 3.50 to Dfl. 10. per day. Estimated number of rentals per year: 39,000,000.

Video Sales: A growing market (1987: some Dfl. 11,000,000) at this moment mainly dealing in B-pictures, soft pornography and documentaries.

Sales Prices: Some Dfl. 40-80. for soft pornography and B-pix. For documentaries between Dfl. 27.50 and Dfl. 40. Blank tapes sell for around Dfl. 10. (3 hours)

Total Video Turnover: Dfl. 211,000,000. generated by some 3,000 titles.

Window: 6 months from first theatrical release.

Video Systems: 73% VHS, 15% V2000, 12% Betamax. The purchase price of a VHS recorder starts at some Dfl. 800.

Philips, Blaupunkt and Grundig (West Germany), Sharp, Japanese video recorders (Sony, Akai, Hitachi), practically all VHS systems, are sold here.

Trade Associations: Producers & Importers: Nederlandse Vereniging van Producenten en Importeurs van Beeld en Geluidsdragers (NVPI), Albertus Perkrast 36, 1217 NT Hilversum. Rental Shops: Nederlandse Vereniging van Detail Ondernemingen (NVDO) Twijnstraat 46, 3511 ZL Utrecht.

Piracy: Still important, but slowly going down. Now estimated at some Dfl. 55,000,000 per year. Last year some 26,000 illegal video tapes were seized. The government has still not prepared new legislation which would enable more severe punishment for copyright-infringement. VIDEO VELLIG (Video Safe) is the venture which is constantly alert on copyright-infringement. Members are the NVPI (Video distributors), Stema-Buma (Mechanical Copyright Organization), NBB (Filmdistributors, Exhibitors and Producers Organization), NOS (Television Organization) and the MPA.

Top 10 of 1987: 1) Back To The Future; 2) Police Academy III; 3) Commando; 4) Indiana Jones and the Temple of Doom; 5) Iron Eagle; 6) Jewel of the Nile; 7) Cobra; 8) Deathwish III; 9) Weird Science; 10) The Hitcher.

General: Video is obviously hurting the cinema trade. For a family of 4 it is obviously much cheaper to rent a film for Dfl. 10 than to go to a cinema which would cost Dfl. 45.

Purchase of a recorder is relatively high by those with a good income, mostly by those living in the west of the Netherlands (the most prosperous provinces), those who look often to TV, and by members of the most important TV organizations: A.V.R.O., T.R.O.S. and V.O.O. 70% of the owners of a recorder rent a print of pictures for instance with video companies. There are many stores in many cities and villages. TV programs are often copied (recorded) by 86% of the owners of a recorder. —PAUL SILVIUS

INDIA

With the expansion of TV networks throughout the country an increasing number of VCRs have made their appearance in Indian homes. A rough estimate puts the total number of VCRs in the country around 2,500,000. There are well over 75,000 video libraries renting out cassettes. Besides, there are about 100,000 video parlours in the country. The number is still growing as video is making its appearance in the small towns and villages. In the absence of legitimate cassettes, they have been screening only pirated prints, thus depriving the national exchequer and the film industry of millions of rupees. In addition, there are over 5,000 video coaches and 30,000 hotel rooms having closed circuit TV. Many metropolitan cities have now started having closed circuit TV in buildings and housing societies and the numbers are growing. Clubs, schools, hospitals and other institutions also have regular screenings of films on video.

Widespread video piracy has undoubtedly affected the film industry's export earnings. For example, UK, which had nearly a hundred cinema halls showing Indian films, now practically has none. Similar is the case in Canada and U.S.A. In India, however, the situation is different. The number of feature films produced in 1987 though less than the previous year is still fairly high. But box office receipts have registered a decline. In Bombay alone there are nearly 5,000 illegal video parlours—as against 150 cinema houses—which screen Hindi films openly, thus depriving the film industry of a sizeable revenue.

Through the film industry's concerted efforts the government has now passed a law against video piracy. Any person who exhibits or permits the exhibition of a video film in any place without proper certification is liable for imprisonment for a period of three years and a fine which may extend to Rs. 100,000. Taking advantage of the stringent laws the producers are now selling the video rights of their films; thus a new source of revenue has been opened to them.

Most Hindi and regional films, old and new are available fairly cheaply on video cassettes. The entire work—18 films of the late Raj Kapoor—is now available in a package deal for Rs. 2,500/- (about 180 US Dollars).

The proliferation of video libraries and the vast improvements in video exhibition technology through anti-glare enlarged screens, has opened up exciting possibilities for cheap entertainment through video. A defense organization in Bombay organizes free video shows for defense personnel and their families, which are open to civilians for a dime.

ITALY

Gross Revenue: for video distributors belonging to Univideo (an association of 21 major video producers and distributors which controls 70% of the video cassette market): $77,000,000 on 1,669,000 videocassettes sold (up from $61,000,000 in 1986); with an additional gross revenue for non-member legitimate (non-porno, non-pirate) distributors of $20,000,000. Revenue for porno and pirate tapes is estimated to be $100,000,000 resulting in a total of $200,000,000 for the software business.

VCR Price: lowest cost of owning a VCR continued to drop from $900 in 1986 to $600 in 1987. Prices are elevated by a 12% custom duty, an 18% value added tax and a 16% luxury tax. High taxes also hurt the sales of videocassettes which often cost $75 or more at the retail level.

VCR Penetration: 13.8% (up from 10% in 1986) with an anticipated 3 million VCRs in Italian households by the end of 1989 and 4 million in 1990 (with a penetration rate of 20%) but still one of the lowest in Europe partly due to the fact that Italy has the largest free television transmission of any country—national networks and over 600 local stations. Only 50% of VCR owners rent videocassettes. Most use their machines only for home taping.

Video titles: approximately 5,000 non-rent.

Retail outlets: an estimated 2,000 which rent or sell (a special license is needed to sell). Retailers must report each title they buy from a distributor to the local police. Sell through is put at 15–20% of the total.

Sales of blank tape: 8,000,000 units, mostly used for taping from TV or making pirated copies of video cassettes.

Piracy: It is estimated that piracy has fallen from 50% or more in 1986 to 35% in 1987. Video pirates face prison terms ranging from 3 months to 3 years and $5,000 in fines. Polar-proof stamps (with Polaroid tamper-proof images of the SIAE logo) placed on legitimate tapes makes it easier to catch violators.

In January, 1988, members of Italy's motion picture association joined the home video industry and the MPA to form the Federation Against Audiovisual Piracy to cooperate with SIAE, the Italian copyright association in investigating and prosecuting copyright infringements by pirates.

Top Videocassettes in Italy—1987 (Sold by distributors to dealers.) 1) Pinocchio; 2) Platoon; 3) The Name of the Rose; 4) Top Gun; 5) Rocky IV; 6) Over the Top; 7) Cobra; 8) Out of Africa; 9) Crocodile Dundee; 10) Back to the Future.

JAPAN

The Latin word video, to see, has been adopted for use in our modern world as a term which covers a rather large field in the electronics sector including videocassette recorders (VCRs) or video tape recorders (VTRs), and the compact disks (CDs) using laser beam technology. The Japanese, who are the most skillful people in the world in adapting ideas and improving on them, are the world leaders in video manufacturing. At present they make 90% of the world VCRs or VTRs produced, have close to 90% of the most lucrative American market, and perhaps 99% of the Japanese market, which includes 38.5 million households.

At present, American production of videocassette recorders is negligible, as is production of CD systems, thus leaving 90 percent of sales to Japanese makers and the remainder mostly to South Korean or European makers. The report that Tandy Corp. (USA) had developed a new type of erasable CD system caught the Japanese by surprise and they were very skeptical that it could be done by the American company at the low price of $500 as claimed. Last year Japanese VTR production was down 12.2 percent (27.5 million units) to $20,159 billion of which $8 billion worth was exported (down 30.9 percent) while imports increased 288.6 percent to $90 million due mostly to cheap imports from South Korea. VTR production reached its peak in 1986 at 33,879,000 units, 27,689,000 of which were exported, decreasing to 30,544,000 of which 22,801,000 were exported.

Video has an important relationship with television as well as with the movie industry in the past decade in two ways: from legal sales of cassettes or solid discs of movies, and the adverse factor, illegal pirating of copyrighted material or sale to the public, which hurts both producers and exhibitors and is rampant in many countries.

Consumer use in Japan is considerable as one can see from these figures: the 53 video software-related industries in the past year reported total revenues of yen 205,017,000,000 (about $1.55 billion at the exchange rate of yen 132 to $1 as this is written), a 25.2 percent gain over the previous year comprising compact disc production of yen 96,867 million, cassettes yen 68,695 million, and other software production yen 9,612 million. Copyright income was yen 488 million according to Japan Video Association which admits this does not include producers who are not associated members. Cassette rentals given by them were yen, 19,044 million. Taken on an item basis disk sales were 15,739,947, up 5 percent; cassette sales 7,625,177, up 80 percent; and cassette rentals 1,901,186, up 20 percent. Of course, these figures do not include exports.

Foreign feature films are most popular with sales of yen 32,096 million (up 47.2 percent) and overshadow Japanese movies (Yen 12,180 million, up 17.9 percent), followed by Japanese music and soft porn movies on tapes or disks. Videocassette rental indicated a slight preference for foreign films with yen 7,656 million (up 40.2 percent) compared to yen 7,225 (up 37.9 percent) for domestic feature films.

Part of sales of compact disks are due to the opening up in 1985 of a number of one-man-operated video theatres usually with seats for around 100 customers willing to pay from $4 to $10. These may have contributed to the admissions figure for regular movie-goers dropping from over 160 million to about 144 million but the fault is really that of VTRs or CDs shown in 53 percent of Japanese Homes.

Although film attendance in Japan has dropped, there have been attributes by cinema importers, distributors, producers and exhibitors complaining of lost revenues due to black market or legal cassettes or compact discs. The Motion Picture Assoc. of America has set up teams to patrol video rental stores to warn them to refrain from sales of pirated tapes or discs of American films. Since there are over 8,000 regulated shops and an estimated 4,000–7,000 not regulated and selling pirated tapes, this is quite a task. What action has been taken by the authorities was limited to piracies of domestic Japanese software. At present 50% of tapes sold are pirated, resulting in losses of up to $1 billion to copyright holders. The Ministry of Education has submitted an amendment to the present copyright law which imposes a penalty on "display of pirated cassettes," including heavier fines and prison sentences (usually suspended).

While Japan has flooded the world with video exports, the public's use has been nowhere near the enthusiasm engendered in America, and to a lesser extent, Europe. The answer to this lies in the Japanese character and customs. It is true that increasing numbers of Japanese have been resorting to setting a timer to tape TV shows they are liable to miss and want to view later, and there are smaller numbers who tape the shows to send to family members working outside Japan and wish to keep up with what goes on in their homeland.

Going to the movies in Japan is either a habit or compulsion for youngsters, a "ceremony" for others and a chance to get out of the home. In general, the average Japanese would hesitate to pay out a goodly sum to purchase a cassette or solid disc for showing at home for his family, though admittedly the male members of the household might invest in soft pornography. A Japanese home is not meant for entertaining outsiders so there is no question of inviting neighbors or friends to a viewing. Entertaining is done outside the home and in no way consists of running a VTR for outsiders.

Of course, one cannot say with certainty that in the future these customs may not change and there may be a revolution in the use of VTRs or CDs such as took place in America or Europe. Thus, if there is blame to be handed out regarding competition with movies it still goes to TV.

What then will be done by the cinema industry, especially the exhibitors, if there is an explosive spread of video theatres in the future? Will they fight them or come to some sort of compromise, or even join them? Thus far there appears to be no opposition to them but that could change if box office profits fall and they begin to hurt the movie theatres or any other branch of the industry. Since they normally use imported features, producers and importers from abroad seem not worried.

Japan is foremost in the world in production and export of video tape recorders (VTRs) which now have a diffusion rate in households in the world's major market countries reaching 30% (compared to 40% in Japan's urban areas and 31% nationwide), a phenomenon which took only 20 years since introduction of black-and-white in 1964 by Sony and development of a color model in 1966, followed by introduction of its Betamax in 1975 for home use.

Here again is the example of how the Japanese lifted the technological know how and research of foreign companies such as RCA and Zenith in America, and Philips of Holland, estimated at costing as much as a billion dollars, and developed them to the advantage of Japanese business in the case of the CDs. The history of VTRs shows the same trends.

What Philips and the Japanese companies are working on now includes an erasable disc, a further improvement—which may control the future.

Both Matsushita and Hitachi have begun production of VTRs in America and expect to increase production 5 times within 3 years. The appreciated yen means lower production costs in the USA and defuses American criticisms of the Japanese trade surplus as well as the American charges of dumping. Sony is making VTRs in France. CDs for use in automobiles have now reached over 114,000 units and the trend is accelerating, and is expected to reach 300,000 this year.

In the past year video software industries rose from 38 to 50 with billings rising to yen 130 billion.

When any discussion of VTRs is made, it is necessary to mention the battle between Sony's Betamax system and the rival VHS systems which are incompatible in that the cassettes are not interchangeable on the other equipment. That battle has resulted in defeat by Sony with only an estimated 12% of the market with 88% for VHS (Video Home System) developed by Victor of Japan.

Sony replied to this by introducing the 8mm single-unit video system, whose recording time is 120 minutes, with VTR makers are already copying. It was also Sony who, when the large American companies decided against putting CDs in production because of the huge capital outlay despite the fact that they had paid for research, went into CD production, along with, on a much smaller scale, Philips of Holland.

In 1970 Sony discovered that Philips of Holland, as well as RCA and Zenith, both American, had spent hundreds of millions of dollars on research and development of a laser diode disc to record, and spent four years unsuccessfully trying to develop a system. In 1978 Philips, after the American companies had written off videocassettes as risky because of the expense, came to them with their technological data in order to prevent a second Betamax-VHS video tape problem by producing two incompatible competing systems.

This move was regarded by some as foolish since Sony then picked the ball up and carried it from there, in 1982 producing their first CD system with picture for $800. Other firms followed and now Japan has gone on to dominate not only the American market but also a lion's share of the world market to such an extent that the average person thinks it was Sony and not Philips who invented it. Sony still dominates the US market for CDs with Matsushita Electronics second. Philips has a good piece of the European market, and a very small bit of the Japanese market with Zenith dropping out before production, while RCA only produces some esoteric disk systems for the US government. A third American company MCA sold its factories to Pioneer Electronics of Japan. Apparently few American companies are interested in trying to buck the Japanese.

A random sampling by the Video Software Promotion Council indicated 27.9% of Japanese households used VTRs daily, 32% once in 2-3 days, and 25.4% once a week. Over 50% of units used were rental cassettes or discs, with 64.1% of foreign origin.

The Economic Planning Agency say 53 percent of Japan's 38.5 million households now have VTRs or CDs and diffusion in the Tokyo and Osaka regions is at a 40% rate and in rural districts 31%, terming it "the video revolution in Japan."

New Zealand

Population: 3,500,000
VCR penetration: 50% (up from 30% in 1986)
Number of video titles: 7,800 (up from 6,200 in 1986)
Wholesale value of market: NZ$31-32,000,000 (up from NZ$ 27,000,000 previous year)
Retail dealers: 400
Retail value of market: NZ$120-150,000,000
Rental cost: Overnight rental NZ$4-5

New Zealand home video has experienced continued growth in 1987. Contributing factors are the limited viewing choice offered by the monopolistic 2-channel TV broadcasting and the isolation of the rural population.

Responding to pressure from public interest groups and the video industry itself, a new Video Recordings Act has set up two rating authorities (the industry-based Labelling Body and the government-appointed Video Recording Authority) to determine video censorship and penalties for breaching the new regulations. All tapes now released must be labeled with a colored rating sticker indicating content. A green label indicates G for general viewing; yellow is PG, PG-13 and PG-16 and red stickers indicate R, videotapes restricted to those 18 and over. The penalty for making, copying, selling, renting or exhibiting indecent videos is up to 3 months in jail for a fine of up to NZ$3,000 for individuals and NZ$10,000 for companies.

PAKISTAN

The sub-Divisional Magistrate, Karachi East and many parts of Pakistan have prohibited the exhibition of films on videocassette recorders in hotels, restaurants, and other public places and public shows (by charging any amount) in shops, houses or any other places in their jurisdictions. The decision was taken as unauthorized public shows of uncensored foreign and Pakistani films on VCRs were causing adverse effects on the minds of the general public, especially the young and children, and was diverting them into immoral activity which was creating annoyance to the people of those areas and disturbing public tranquility.

It was also in response to demands from people connected with the film industry and trade, as the unrestricted exhibition of illegally imported films was depriving them of their clientele. They have welcomed the step and demanded the imposition of such a ban throughout the country in the absence of any law against the business of video films. However the government has not yet accepted any such proposal to ban the video business to protect the national film industry.

Video has reached almost all well-to-do houses in the country. The young generation and cinemas are the most affected by video because there is no censorship of video films which are smuggled in from abroad in large quantities. Indian films have the biggest viewership, as their language, customs, costumes, songs, etc. are very similar to those of Pakistani films and the official import of Indian films has been banned for the last 30 years. Of movie fans, hardly 1 per cent goes to cinemas, the remaining 99 per cent watching video films, including Pakistani features. There are about 50,000 videocassette shops in the country. Each of these shops has an average of 10 VCRs or VCPs for renting out to viewers who pay between Rs.30 and Rs.50 for 24 hours. Every shop has about 500 copies of Indian and foreign films. Almost the same number of VCRs (500,000) are privately owned. The number of video copies in the country is about 2 million, if not more. About half a million prints are added each year. The leaders of the domestic film industry trade have demanded the destruction of all of these copies, following the directive of President Zia-ul-Haq to burn all smuggled goods, except for currency notes and gold, in mid-1988.

There are license fees of Rs.200 and Rs.400 for the domestic and commercial use, respectively, of a VCR/VCP. The custom duty on the import of a VCR/VCP is Rs.3,000 per piece. The government's decision to extend legal cover to the VCR and its manufacture and assembly in the country followed the permission for the assembly of 80,000 VCRs a year against the official estimates for 40,000 to 60,000 sets. The Industrial Investment Schedule for the sixth Five Year Plan has earmarked an investment of Rs.24 million for the establishment of new plants to manufacture and assemble VCRs. However, for one or the other reason, not a single VCR set (manufactured/assembled in Pakistan) has come on the market so far, in spite of strong protests by the manufacturers.

For the last seven years, the illegal exhibition of the latest uncensored foreign films, mainly Indian, on VCRs remained the biggest opposition to Pakistan cinema for a number of reasons, including the high cost of cinema tickets (Rs.12/- and Rs.10/- for a balcony seat) strict censorship, poor maintenance of cinema houses, transportation problems, disturbances, etc., whereas video copies of the latest Indian and foreign films are freely available for Rs.5 for 24 hours.

In affluent localities like Clifton, Defence Society, Bahadurabad, PSCH Society (in Karachi), Gulberg, Iqbal Town, Muslim Town (in Lahore), a home delivery scheme has been introduced. In response to a telephone call, the video dealer sends the requested tape to the door-step of subscribers. In thickly populated poor areas of cities like Karachi, Hyderabad, Lahore, Peshawar, Quetta, Sukkur, etc., leads are supplied to houses for a monthly subscription of Rs.50 or so for one picture a day and two on holidays. Elderly people prefer to enjoy Indian films produced in the 1950s and 1960s and censored pictures made in Pakistan as they can be seen with family members. Films produced in India in the 1970s and 1980s are self-censored with a remote controller by the head of the family, as they have lots of vulgar and sexy scenes.

Video prints of Pakistani feature films are also made available the next day of their release, without the permission of their makers. In the absence of law, producers are helpless to take legal action against piracy. The National Film Development Corporation exports video prints of Pakistani pictures throughout the world, particularly to those countries where large populations from Pakistan and India live. We earn about Rs.3 million in foreign exchange a year through the export of these films. We also export popular TV plays in video to a number of countries, including India (unofficially).

A Pakistani firm in Rawalpindi claims to have built a 30-foot dish antenna "giant radio telescope" to scan and receive signals from different satellites. The radiotelescope is said to have gain of 50 decibels at 4 gigahertz frequency and be able to track all kinds of satellites viewable on the Pakistan horizon.

SPAIN

With a population of 38 million, there are 2.7-3.0 million VCRs in Spanish households; 21% of homes now have a VCR. About 70% of those are VHS format while the remaining 30% includes Beta and the Philips 2000 systems.

There are 3,000 retail video outlets and the average rental is approximately $3 for one or two nights. VCRs cost between $800 and $1200. Legal sales and rentals are estimated at $100 million a year. The current price for an "A" film ranges from $70-$80 per tape to video clubs who rent it to customers for $3 per night. Cassettes are also sold in department stores and through video clubs and the average price is $26.

All the major American distributors are in the Spanish market and American videos dominate about 80% of the market. Virtually all home video films are released in Spanish-dubbed versions and feature films dominate the market with a small percentage for pornography and music videos.

A major impediment to video growth is piracy and the local Anti-Piracy Federation, back by the MPEA spent $700,000 to combat piracy in Spain. Another problem is "community video" where apartment houses are wired and a master VCR shows 4-5 rented videos daily throughout the building. The legal status of community video has yet to be defined.

SRI LANKA

Sri Lanka has hit the world headlines as one of the centers in the East for pirating Western TV videos. The government of Sri Lanka on several occasions threatened to legislate laws to curb pirating of video tapes but so far nothing has happened or effective measures taken. The latest ploy is the pirating of video tapes of Western films in Sri Lanka and smuggling to the Middle East. There are more than 800,000 Sri Lankan workers in the Middle East employed in various projects, who smuggle them from Sri Lanka when they return after their holiday vacation.

At present there are more than 1500 video lending libraries in the city of Colombo and in the immediate suburbs; now it is booming business to have a video lending library or a video parlour. There are about 4,000 video libraries on the island and about 750 video parlours or mini video cinemas, compared to 370 permanent 35mm film exhibition theatres in the country. Many video cinemas show mainstream films, while some video parlours are engaged in the lucrative business of showing sex videos: blue films. The Film Corporation of Sri Lanka, which is state-owned under the President J.R. Jayawardhena, has not been able to take any steps to curb the video cinema. The State Film Corporation's income has fallen very badly due to the video cinemas competing with cinema theatres. Films that are banned or not imported to the country come in video cassette form, are duplicated and publicly exhibited in video cinemas.

Weak laws and widespread corruption allow these to proliferate. The Police turn deaf and blind to raid these cinemas as the law is weak. Local tele-drams are also pirated by home video makers and smuggled to the Sri Lankan communities abroad especially in the Middle East. Last year, the Presidential Committee's recommendation to curb the video cinema menace and save the National Film Industry has not been implemented to date. The intelligentsia lobby to stop them, but without any success.

There are more than 400 video rental outlets in the city of Colombo alone. An ad hoc survey into the home video business shows that there are more than 2,500 video outlets in the country's main cities. There are about ten bona fide importers of video films on the island and most of them have their main centers of business in the city of Colombo from where they rent and distribute. The average rental system calls for an initial deposit of Rs.500 (U.S. $18.00) to Rs.1,000 ($36.00) and a daily charge of Rs.25 to Rs.50 ($1.00 to $2.00) Many of the small video rental centers which deal in pirated copies of Western (European and American), Eastern (Hong Kong, Japanese, Singaporean and Taiwan) and Indian films, rent the tapes for almost 50% below the rental charged by legitimate shops.

SWITZERLAND

In Switzerland in 1987, there were some 750 videoshops which mostly work on a rental basis, while the outright sale of videocassettes is mainly done by the major distributors and by mail order. As Switzerland is trilingual, the turnover of videocassettes is divided: 60% German, 26% French and 6% Italian; only 6% are spoken in English. By genre, 58% of the hired or sold movies on cassettes are action dramas or thrillers (2-3% horror), 28% are family programs and 14% erotic films. Among the evergreens is the whole Disney family catalogue. Still selling and renting at a steady clip are film musicals.

According to estimated statistics of the Swiss Videogram Association, by the end of 1988 nearly 700,000 VCRs are in Swiss homes, this corresponds to a VCR penetration of 22% of the Swiss German part of the country, 36% in French part and 19% of the Italian speaking part of Switzerland. The gross turnover of the official importers is estimated to amount to 40,000,000 SFr, while 5,000,000 SFr. is grossed by "pirates" operating on the gray market, concentrating mainly on porno films.

So far piracy has been used on basis of the copyright law only, which has been proved to be inefficient. Now, a revision of this law is under way. The revised copyright law will introduce the application of penal law in case of great abuses: disregard of copyrights will be severely punished, in extreme cases with up to three years in jail. Now, the top fine is 5,000 SFr.

New laws would also provide a legal basis for prohibiting violent tv-movies (the so called "Brutalots") and a revised one would put limits on the spread of pornography. All these new propositions have yet to undergo discussion in the Federal Parliament.

Almost 100% of the recorders sold are the Japanese type Video Home System (VHS). The European device, Video 2000, a co-production of Philips and Grundig, has completely vanished, as well as Sony's Beta-System.

Governmental subsidy: January 1, 1986, the Federal Department of Culture, Federal Bureau of Cultural Promotion decided to extend subsidies on video productions, too, i.e. this authority grants contributions not only for national film productions but also for VHS- and U-matic video films which have artistic qualities.

Government Departments: Bundesamt fuer Kulturpflege, Sektion Film, Thunstrasse 20, 3000 BERNE 6.

USSR

While there are no published official statistics on the USSR's video industry, it is estimated there are approximately 500,000 videocassette records in the country, all in VHS format. The Soviet Union exports about 300 video features to 80 countries but restricts the import of videos to about 10-12 per year. Video trade organizations include: VNITIK (All-Union Institute Theory and History of Cinema); NIKFI (Research Institute for Film Equipment & Technology); VGIK (All-Union Institute of Cinematography) and LIKI (Leningrad Institute of Film Engineers).

VENEZUELA

Number of VCRs: Estimated to be 850,000 of which 65% are still in Beta format and 35% in VHS.

Retail outlets: about 780 throughout the country.

Price of tapes: legal price ranges from 500-700 bolivares ($16-$23).

Income: estimated billings from legal video operations $10,000,000.

Video cassettes: 120 titles are released each month, usually with 750 cassettes per title.

Piracy: Venezuela has one of the lowest piracy rates in Latin America, reportedly between 15-25%.

Leading distributors include: Blancic Video; Videos de Venezuela; Videovision; Videorama; Rodven. Rodven and Videorama also own retail shops.

WEST GERMANY

Returns and sales volume: Market worth 420,000,000 marks ($250,000,000).

VCR Sales: A record 2,150,000 sold in 1987, (up from the previous record of 1,750,000 in 1986); 97% of the country's VCRs utilize VHS format. Betamax and Video 2000 share the remaining 3%.

Household VCR Penetration: 34% of 26,000,000 households (up from 29% in 1986; 38% predicted by the end of 1988).

Blank Cassette Sales: 70,000,000 in 1987 (up from 63,000,000 in 1986).

Pre-recorded Videocassettes: A record 4,200,000 cassettes were shipped to the trade in 1987 (up from 3,300,000 in 1986).

Video Premiers: Out of the 1,175 films released on videocassette in 1987, features without previous theatrical release soared to 808 last year from 316 in 1986.

Piracy: Despite better detection and stricter legislation with stiffer penalties, loss to the trade is still an estimated 300,000,000 marks ($175,000,000) annually.

Retail Outlets: Somewhere between 5-7,000 vidshops, 4,000 dealers, with rentals over 90% of volume. Sell-through handled by mail order houses, department stores and supermarkets.

While VCR sales climbed once again in West Germany in 1987, video rentals fell off sharply with deliveries to dealers down 30-50%. While VCR users increased to 14,900,000 in 1987 (up nearly 2 million) the number of video renters dropped from 6,500,000 to 6,400,000. According to the Assn. of Video Distributors (BVV) video rentals grossed 1.2 billion marks ($2 billion) in 1987, down from 1.615 billion in 1986. The Bundesverband Video, however reported a 1987 retailer gross of $706 million for the 7,800 German video shops and a $309 million gross of video distributors, but other sources find these figures overly optimistic.

While price-breakers and the import of new low-priced VCRs from South Korea selling from as little as 600 marks (a little over $400) to 2,000 marks ($1,250), stimulated the sale of VCRs, only 40% of VCR owners rented in 1987. One factor was the strong competition from West Germany's two national public television networks and cable services which often air popular films before their release to video stores.

The major video distributors in West Germany are: CBS/Fox; C.I.C. Video; Constantin Video; Euro Video; RCA/Columbia Pictures Video; Taurus Video; VCL/Virgin Communications; Vestron Video; Video Medien Pool; Warner Home Video.

Corporate Histories of the Networks

Corporate Histories of the Networks

Capital Cities/ABC, Inc.

Like the other major U.S. television networks, ABC had its origins in radio. In the beginning Radio Corporation of America (RCA) owned two radio networks: the Blue and the Red. In 1941 the FCC decreed that the same company could not own two networks, so RCA incorporated the Blue under the name of American Broadcasting System and established it as an independent subsidiary with 116 stations. RCA then sold this network to Edward J. Noble, founder and chairman of the Life Savers Corporation, for $8 million. The name was changed to the American Broadcasting Company in 1944, at which time the network had 197 radio affiliates.

Television arrived for ABC in 1948 when, on April 19, ABC carried its first TV program: "On the Corner," with Henry Morgan, which was sponsored by the Admiral Radio Corp. Later in the year ABC scored two "firsts": the live broadcast of an opera (Verdi's "Otello") from the Metropolitan Opera House in New York and a TV documentary, "The Marshall Plan."

The next big step for ABC came in 1952 with its merger with United Paramount Theatres, the motion picture theatre circuit founded when Paramount Pictures was required under the Sherman Anti-Trust Act to separate its film production unit from its theatres. This merger was engineered by Leonard H. Goldenson, then the president of UPT. The new company was called American Broadcasting-Paramount Theatres, Inc.

During the 1950's ABC began operation at a profit although it had to struggle fiercely to acquire new affiliates. In 1954 ABC made a deal with Walt Disney to acquire a 35 per cent interest in Disneyland and all TV programs produced by Disney. The following year ABC signed an exclusive rights contract with Warner Bros. for TV programming.

The 1960's brought many changes to ABC beginning with the introduction of color programming for the fall season of 1962; this was expanded in 1966 to include full color broadcasting. In 1965 AB-PT's name was changed to American Broadcasting Companies, Inc. and the company's corporate headquarters were moved from West 66th Street in New York to 1330 Avenue of the Americas, where they have remained.

High points in the decade of the '60s also included the introduction of the blockbuster theatrical movie to TV with spectacular rating results when "The Bridge on the River Kwai" was viewed (in 1966) by 60 million Americans.

In 1967 the ABC evening news was expanded from 15 minutes to a half hour, and Joey Bishop inaugurated ABC's late-night programming with his talk show.

An attempt to gain control of ABC by Howard Hughes was circumvented by Goldenson in 1968. Hughes said publicly that he abandoned his efforts to acquire the network because of the strong resistance of Goldenson; however, it was speculated elsewhere that he gave up because as new owner of ABC he would have had to attend a public hearing under the auspices of the FCC. The fanatically reclusive Hughes, it was assumed, would never have agreed to come out of seclusion for such an event.

The decade of the Seventies was an eventful one for ABC, too, not the least because in 1972 it was able to operate at a profit for the first time in ten years. Also in the 1976-77 season ABC moved for the first time into first place in the ratings race. It held the lead for the next two years and then dropped back into second place in 1979-80, a position it held until 1983-84 when it dropped to third position. It was unable to rise above that until 1987-88 when it displaced CBS in second place, primarily because of special sports programming, such as the World Series and the Superbowl.

In 1976 Barbara Walters joined ABC, becoming the first anchorwoman in television history. Her almost $1 million a year salary caused lifted eyebrows among her fellow anchor persons, including Harry Reasoner and Howard K. Smith.

In 1977 the mini-series "Roots" appeared on ABC and became the all-time highest-rated program. This helped immensely in the ratings race, and credit must go in large part to Fred Silverman who two years before had joined the company as president of ABC international. He left in 1978 to go to NBC.

The decade of the Eighties was a turbulent one for the television industry as cable TV and home video began whittling away at their audiences. ABC was no exception. Halfway through the period—in 1985—ABC agreed to be purchased by Capital Cities Communications at a cost of $3.5 billion. 1986 saw formal completion of the takeover and the merged company's name was changed to Capital Cities/ABC, Inc.

With the departure of Goldenson, that year also brought other important changes in management. Daniel B. Burke replaced Frederick J. Pierce as president and chief operating officer. There were also sweeping reductions in personnel in the interests of economy and streamlining. (At least 1,000 employees were fired.)

Budget cuts notwithstanding Capital Cities/AAC chairman Thomas Murphy pledged ABC would not scrimp on programming. Instead the focus was to be on the network's non-programming expenses which accounted for about 30 per cent of the budget. One result was to cut out internally-generated research which was to be contracted for on an ad hoc basis as needed.

Capital Cities/ABC owns eight television stations and is a partner in ESPN, the highly successful cable TV sports channel. It also owns publishing operations which include nine daily newspapers, several weeklies and a variety of trade and consumer magazines.

Columbia Broadcasting System, Inc.

CBS first saw the light of day in 1927 as a radio network with 16 stations—United Independent Broadcasters, Inc.—founded by Arthur Judson, a concert tour manager. In need of money, Judson secured backing from Louis Sterling, president of the Columbia Phonograph Company, and changed the network name to Columbia Phonograph Broadcasting System. Later other investors were invited in, the most prominent of whom was William S. Paley, who, on September 26, 1928, at the age of 27, became president of the firm whose name was changed again. Now it was called the Columbia Broadcasting System.

Paley introduced many innovations to radio broadcasting, most significant of which was the signing of an agreement in 1931 with Paramount Pictures whereby film stars were heard on radio for the first time. This laid the groundwork for the CBS policy in television from the outset to feature shows built around stars (Ed Sullivan, Lucille Ball, Arthur Godfrey, Jack Benny, Burns & Allen, Garry Moore, etc.).

Actually CBS was in TV as early as 1931 when it began regularly scheduled TV programming over experimental station W2XAB in New York City. In 1941 CBS began weekly broadcast of black-and-white TV programming over WCBS-TV in New York. By 1948 it had 30 affiliated stations.

The decade of the 1950's brought many important advances. In 1951 CBS broadcast the first live coast-to-coast TV transmission between New York and San Francisco. In 1952 there came opening of Television City in Hollywood—the industry's first self-contained TV production facility. In 1956 "Playhouse 90" made its debut and set new high standards for drama originated on TV.

But the big event of the decade came along early—in 1951—with the debut of “I Love Lucy.” The road to creating that phenomenal success was a rocky one. For one thing CBS did not want Desi Arnaz, and signed him only on the insistence of Lucille Ball. Second, the couple wanted to work before a live audience—a practice also anathema to the CBS powers-that-be. Ball and Arnaz persisted, and their efforts led to what is regarded as the invention of the situation-comedy format.

1951 was also the year that Bill Gordon designed the CBS Eye—destined to become one of the most famous logos in the world.

In the field of soap operas CBS was both leader and winner, virtually monopolizing that market from 1951 to 1956. In 1951 it introduced “Search for Tomorrow,” which was to become the longest-running show ever in that genre. This was followed by “Love of Life” (1951) “The Guiding Light” (1952)—both overnight hits. “Guiding Light” was still on the air in 1988, as was the fourth soap CBS introduced, “As the World Turns” (1956).

In the late '50s and through the '60s and '70s CBS reigned as king of prime time ratings as tallied by the Nielsen Company. It had tied with NBC in 1969–70 and 1970–71 and ABC led in three seasons; but the rest of the time CBS was Number One. Thus it was quite a jolt to the company when in 1985–86 it slipped to second place and stayed there through the following season. Then came the worst blow of all: in 1987–88 CBS came in third for the first time in TV history.

CBS maintained its long-running lead with such successes as “Gunsmoke” (1957), “The Defenders” (1961), “The Beverly Hillbillies” (1962), “All in the Family” (1972) and “Dallas” (1978). Also helping was “60 Minutes,” the news-oriented show, which in 1988 had remained in the Top Ten prime time shows for 11 consecutive seasons.

CBS began the turbulent Eighties with a new president, Thomas Wyman (replacing John D. Backe). Worst year for the company so far in that decade was surely 1985 when the company was sent reeling under three major assaults.

First, Gen. William C. Westmoreland filed a $120 million law suit, charging he had been libeled during a 1982 “CBS Reports” documentary. The subsequent trial ended 18 weeks after it began in New York Federal Court after the general heard some of his closest advisers during the Vietnam War testify they supported the CBS documentary contention in that he had deliberately underestimated the enemy troop strength on the field. Fearing he would lose, Westmoreland dropped the action before it could go to a jury.

Second, Senator Jesse Helms (Rep., N.C.) and his Fairness in Media committee launched an unfriendly takeover bid to “become Dan Rafter’s boss.” (Rafter had replaced Walter Cronkite as chief news anchor in 1981.)

Third, Atlanta broadcast entrepreneur Ted Turner made an unfriendly junk-bond bid for CBS. In a clever move the network bought up 21 per cent of its own stock for $956 million and thwarted the takeover. Turner went after MGM/UA instead.

Meanwhile Laurence A. Tisch, a former theatre chain executive, had become the major stockholder in CBS and in 1986 he instigated some sweeping changes in the interests of cost-cutting and efficiency. Some 700 jobs were eliminated at the CBS Broadcast Group. Tisch also removed Wyman as president, named himself chief executive officer and induced founder William Paley to return to active duty as acting chairman of the board.

In 1988, stung by CBS’ worst prime time rating performance ever, Tisch shuffled executive ranks again, naming Howard Stringer, previously president of CBS News, as president of the Broadcasting Group. He replaced Gene F. Jankowski, who was named to the newly created position of chairman of the Broadcast Group. At the same time Tisch reported the CBS second-quarter income for 1988 rose 40 per cent to a new quarterly record. He attributed this to higher sales achieved despite a slow advertising market and to improvement of operating margin through reduction of costs and making operations more efficient.

It was all, said Tisch, the beginning of “a new era” for CBS.

National Broadcasting Company

Television began for NBC in 1928, when on April 4, it acquired from the Federal Communications Commission a permit to operate an experimental station, W2XBS. Actual transmission from the Empire State Building did not begin, however, until October 30, 1931. Some eight years later the network began broadcasting on a regular basis, beginning with the opening of the New York World’s Fair on April 30, 1939.

NBC, like the other networks, was an outgrowth of radio operations. Radio Corp. of America, General Electric and Westinghouse jointly launched a network in 1926 which had 31 stations; 25 in a network called Red and 6 in one called Blue. A year later it was forced to sell the Blue network to ABC (see history of that network), keeping for itself the one known as Red.

In 1930 RCA bought out its partners, GE and Westinghouse, and NBC became its wholly owned subsidiary.

NBC became a TV network on January 12, 1940, when two stations, WNBC-TV, New York, and WRGB-TV, Schenectady, New York, carried the first network programming. In June, 1941, the FCC granted NBC the first commercial TV license and a month later it had four advertisers signed up: Procter & Gamble, Lever Brothers, Sun Oil and Bulova.

After World War II NBC scored two big “firsts.” On June 19, 1946, Gillette became the first advertiser to sponsor a TV network show, the Joe Louis-Billy Conn boxing match. That same year Bristol-Myers became the first sponsor of a network TV series, “Geographically Speaking.”

NBC can also claim to be the first to introduce coast-to-coast network TV coverage. On September 4, 1951, when the U.S.-Japanese peace treaty was signed in San Francisco, its cameras were on hand.

In 1952 NBC pioneered early morning programming when it introduced “The Today Show.”

NBC can also claim the first regularly scheduled network color series: “The Marriage,” launched in 1954. That same year it achieved the first west-to-east TV transmission with the television of the Tournament of Roses Parade in color. At the start of the 1965–66 season it could declare it was the “only all-color network.”

In 1968 NBC introduced new forms of TV programming with “The Name of the Game,” a series that incorporated feature-film elements into a 90-minute show. This then spawned the “NBC Mystery Movie”—a series of programs composed of “Colombo,” “Hec Ramsey,” “McMillan and Wife,” “McCloud,” “Amy Prentiss,” “McCoy,” and “Quincy, M.E.”

In 1972 NBC broke new ground again when it introduced “The Tomorrow Show” shown from 1:00 a.m. to 2:00 a.m. This was a talk program and it demonstrated that in the wee small hours of the morning something more than re-runs and old movies could be shown. In 1974 another late-night show called “Weekend” was begun.

In 1976 NBC’s telecast of “Gone with the Wind” drew the largest audience to that date for an entertainment program. In 1978 its “Holocaust” mini-series attracted 107 million viewers and won 21 major awards.

Such programs helped NBC in the ratings, but in 1976–77 it fell to third place, where it stayed until 1983–84. (Ironically 1976 was the year in which NBC celebrated its 50th anniversary in broadcasting with a four-hour, star-filled special.) In 1984–85 it edged up to second place, and the following year it was ranked Number One in prime-time viewing for the first time in the three decades of such tallying by Nielsen. (For the record NBC did tie for first place with CBS in 1969-70 and 1970-71.)

NBC held on solidly to its first place standing for 1986-87 and 1987-88.

Along with the other networks NBC moved into a period of turmoil during the decade of the Eighties, fighting off rising costs and competition from cable TV and home video. In 1986 General Electric Corporation purchased RCA (NBC's parent) for $6.28 billion; GE, it will be remembered, helped launch the radio network in 1926 which led to the development of NBC-TV. This brought personnel changes led by the replacement of Grant A. Tinker as NBC chief executive officer by Robert Wright, although Wright was not given Tinker's chairman title, that being taken by John F. Welch of GE. Instead Wright was named president as well as chief executive officer. Along with its competition NBC started cutting staff and budgets in 1986.

NBC owns television stations located in Chicago, Cleveland, Los Angeles, New York City and Washington, D.C. GE, the parent company, also owns TV station subsidiaries in Denver and Miami, which are operated under the aegis of NBC.

In 1987 NBC owned eight radio stations in various cities, but it is reconfiguring these operations and plans to sell some of them and also to acquire other stations in different cities.

In 1987 NBC released some interesting figures about costs of television production. It revealed the average prime time half-hour series program for the 1986-87 season cost about $500,000 for two showings; that the average hour program costs $1 million or more; and that a feature film made for TV runs to about $3 million.

STATISTICS

HISTORICAL DATES

FIRST OVER-THE-AIR TOLL-TV EXPERIMENTS: 1950, Skiatron system tested over WOR-TV in New York City. 1951, Telemeter system tested over KTLA-TV, Los Angeles; Zenith tested its system over its own experimental station in Chicago.

FEBRUARY 10, 1955: Federal Communications Commission started proceedings to determine whether it should authorize TV stations to transmit programs paid for on a subscription basis. Study involved 92 docket volumes reflecting the views of over 25,000 persons on legal, technical and policy questions.

MAY 23, 1957: FCC concluded it had authority to authorize use of TV broadcast frequencies for subscription operations if it found it were in the public interest to do so. Did not define whether this service should be classified as "broadcasting" or some other.

OCTOBER 17, 1957: FCC adopted its first report on the proceedings and declared it would consider applications to conduct trial pay-TV operations over TV stations provided certain conditions were met.

MARCH 24, 1959: FCC issued third report saying it was ready to consider any pay-TV application by a commercial TV station conforming with requirements, among which were limitation of three-year trial authorizations to markets where there were at least four commercial TV stations (including the pay-TV one), and one trial system allowed per market.

JUNE 22, 1960: Hartford Phonevision Co. (later RKO General Phonevision Co.), a licensee of WHCT (Channel 18), Hartford, CT, applied for authority to conduct a three-year trial subscription-TV operation. Application granted February 23, 1961. Operations began June 29, 1962, and concluded in January, 1969.

JULY 3, 1967: FCC's subscription TV committee submitted a fourth report proposing an over-the-air subscription TV service. Rules were designed to integrate subscription TV into the total TV system so good programming would continue to be available over regular TV stations.

DECEMBER 12, 1968: FCC formally established over-the-air subscription TV as a regular broadcast service.

1975: Home Box Office became the first in the television industry to use a satellite for regular transmission of programming.

1984: The FCC officially deregulated the cable industry, permitting pricing flexibility and enabling operators to raise charges for basic cable services by adding new channels while reducing service charges for premium channels.

1985: The Court of Appeals struck down the "must carry" rules which required cable operators to carry all local broadcast stations.

Statistics for 1987

In 1987 there were 23,000 communities being served by cable television with over 43.2 million subscribers. This represents over 49 percent of U.S. TV households.

Cable systems reached a total of 8,000 with another 500 franchises approved but not yet built. Texas has the most systems with 552 and California has the most subscribers at 4.2 million.

Industry revenues in 1987 were estimated at about $11.4 billion.

The national average monthly subscriber rate for basic services rose to $13 by 1988, compared to $11 the year before and less than $8 in 1981.

Over 1600 systems accept advertising on the local origination channels (excluding automated channels) with rates from $2 to $300 per 30-second spot. Most cable systems derive less than 5 percent of their gross revenues from advertising, but cable revenues from advertising continue to grow and had reached $41 billion in 1987. Projections were that the figure would reach $1.5 billion in 1988.

Cable systems are required by law to offer a minimum 20-channel capacity which is the average; however many systems offer more.

Pay cable (Home Box Office, Showtime, etc.) now operates on about 7200 systems, reaching 32 million subscribers in all 50 states.

Almost 32 percent of all cable systems have ties with broadcast interests; over 20 percent with program producers; and about 18 percent with newspapers. Many systems have multiple cross-ownership ties.

Tele-Communications, based in Denver, is the nation's largest developer and operator of cable systems. It has more than 5 million subscribers. Second largest is American Television, also based in Colorado, which has 3.6 million subscribers.

United Artists Communications, also based in Colorado, has 800,000 subscribers. In 1988 it announced plans to acquire the United Cable TV Corporation of Denver to form United Artists Entertainment which would become the country's third-largest cable TV operation with some 2.4 million subscribers. Since Tele-Communications owns 65.5 percent of United Artists Communications and 23.7 percent of United Cable it will have a majority interest in the new company—some 52 percent.

The Turner Broadcasting System, operators of the Cable News Network and "Superstation" WTBS, planned to begin operation of a new cable entertainment network late in 1988. The company said it has signed up nearly 10 million TV households through local cable systems for its commencement date.

Catholic Conference (U.S.), Department of Communication

Suite #1300, 1011 First Ave., New York, NY 10022; (212) 644-1898.

SECRETARY OF COMMUNICATION

Richard H. Hirsch

The Department of Communication of the U.S. Catholic Conference (the public policy agency of the Catholic Bishops of America) addresses the Church's apostolate in and through the print and electronic media. It provides advice and technical assistance on more than 100 radio and 50 network television programs a year.

The Department also publishes a weekly guide to current films and television programs that appear in 100 plus papers of the Catholic Press in the United States. In this activity the Department reviews all current nationally-released 35mm films, and provides information about resources for film utilization and education (16mm films, books, magazines, festivals). The critical reviews are addressed to the moral, as well as the aesthetic, dimensions of motion pictures, and are the result of a consensus based on the reactions of the Department's professional staff and Board of Consultants. All films reviewed are also classified according to the Department's rating system. In addition, this weekly service carries information and evaluative studies on trends and issues pertinent to television, with an emphasis on educational material.

The Department also plays a liaison role for the USCC with the film and broadcasting industries, national media, and religious agencies and organizations. It is a member of OCIC and UNDA, the international Catholic organizations for film and broadcasting, respectively. Consultation and information services are also provided for the Pontifical Commission for Social Communications and the communication offices of national episcopal offices throughout the world.

With staff assistance, the episcopal members of the Communication Committee administer funds raised through the Catholic Communication Campaign, an annual collection. These funds are used to support a variety of media programs, projects, and studies in this country and the Third World.

British Year in Review

THE WINDS OF CHANGE dominated the television scene in Britain during 1988. The BBC (British Broadcasting Corporation) which is funded by the government-imposed licence fee on owners of TV sets faces a situation whereby the government might introduce legislation ending this system (estimated at £1,000 million annually), moving towards some form of subscription payment. It would be a revolutionary move with the BBC having to earn its keep. On the other hand, the commercial contractors, due to re-negotiate their contracts in 1992, have the IBA (Independent Broadcasting Authority) considering the possibility of offering their franchises to the highest bidder.

Alongside all this debate, the UK and indeed European industry is about to be hit by the PAY-TV invasion. However, the government has received a warning from an all-party group report expressing the need to preserve the best of British television, including its tradition for making high quality programmes. It recommends the BBC, funded by a licence fee of 'remarkable value' continue virtually unchanged in the medium-term but with all advertising-support television, Cable and Satellite regulated by a new Commercial Television Authority replacing the present IBA. Public service broadcasting would remain at the centre of a re-cast British service, with the interests of viewers rather than advertisers at the forefront. Other recommendations are that a fifth channel based on a network of local stations be established as soon as possible; Channel 4 would remain substantially as it is at present; British Satellite Broadcasting would be given a fair trial, at least until 1992, to establish its film subscription channel and franchises on two remaining DBS channels to be awarded as soon as possible after 1992.

Next year, instead of the current four channels, British viewers will be able to receive some twenty channels. Rupert Murdoch's News International plans an extensive involvement in satellite presentation with his SKY TV broadcasting a service of news, entertainment and free films. The Amstrad electronics company and others will be offering low-priced receivers to receive the new services. But that is very much for the future. At this reporting, there is very much a fluid situation with the cable market still relatively small in the UK and satellite yet to be launched. In the meantime, despite some fall-off in viewers, the industry here remains a very lucrative one.

Although a commercial television contract is no longer 'a licence to print money,' advertising revenue remains buoyant (estimated at £1,500 million in 1988) and has permitted the majority of contractors to earn good profits, thereby enabling them to expand into other areas such as investments in the Super Channel project which provides a satellite-to-cable service outside the IBA's jurisdiction, aimed at cable services in Western Europe.

A significant development has been the need to improve the quality and variety of programming. It is a trend that has led to increased access for independent producers to the schedules of both BBC and ITV, the commercial channel. ITV hopes to commission up to 175-225 hours of new networked material and 200-400 hours of new regionally-shown material, per calendar year. Currently, 15 regionally-based ITV companies each present on average some 107 hours of programming each week and an additional 24 hours of break-fast-time programmes. A few companies have extended their schedules and are now broadcasting through the night. Over 70% of the programmes shown on ITV are made by ITV companies themselves. The five major companies—Central, Granada, LWT, Thames and Yorkshire—take the prime responsibility for the provision of network programming for the rest of ITV.

The BBC's programme budget, reaching £20 million a year by the summer of 1990, would be earmarked for the independent sector, with such production accounting for 600 hours of the BBC's output in 1991-2.

All this, together with the proposed new PAY-TV outlets, certainly augurs well for the British, and other, production industries.

The vast majority of overseas material on the networks here still originates in the USA. ITV's and Channel 4's quota of overseas material is 14 percent of total programme output. This comprises theatrical motion pictures, TV films and series. Estimates of the prices paid by local contractors and the BBC for American shows are around $13,000 for half-hour episodes to between $50,000 and $3 million for a feature film.

The CEA (Cinematograph Exhibitors Association) continues to maintain its three-year holdback for theatrical films released in UK cinemas although it has conceded that there will be an automatic exclusion (in addition to that for short and foreign films) for any cinema film made for an audited production cost not exceeding £1.25 million. It has been a decision that led to a boost for Channel 4's Film on Four (two of its early successes were "My Beautiful Laundrette" and "Wish You Were Here") as more and more companies made both films and television programmes. However, this TV holdback by the exhibitors is again under threat by producers who claim it is now redundant. They maintain that video distributors can negotiate the early video release of a film and Satellite broadcasting makes the holdback outdated.

It is a move that will be strongly opposed by the CEA which states in its annual report that 'the implications to the whole of the film industry of a material reduction in the revenues which at present accrue from cinema exhibition would be extremely serious. At present, the initial audience for a film in the cinema pays a very high proportion of the total revenues accruing to film production. Later, films are acquired for showing on television, which is a secondary market and which plays a far less important role in recouping the original production costs. Apart from other markets, such as video, there are at present two quite separate box-offices for films, one derived from the cinema and one, albeit much smaller derived from television.'

Also, continues the report, 'any further reduction in the cinema-going audience will have serious social implications. Fewer cinemas, particularly in suburban and smaller town situations, would seriously reduce the already very limited number of places of entertainment and leisure available to the cinema audiences who are the least likely members of society to stay at home to watch any form of television.'

Although under threat by the plans for cable and satellite, home video remains a thriving business with the annual income to distributors exceeding £200 million with weekly audiences of over 25 million receiving their entertainment on cassettes. Both BBC Enterprises and the commercial contractors report increasing sales overseas. Two recent significant indications of the international nature of the business were the Rank Organisation's acquisition of the American company BHCP Video, now called Rank Video Services America, giving them the leading video duplication business in the world; and Television South's decision to takeover the American MTM group. So, on the threshold of its PAY-TV revolution, home entertainment via the TV set—whether transmitted by film, tape or laser—remains big business, for television is now a virtually universal feature of people's lives in the UK, with 97% of the population having access to it in their homes.

INDEPENDENT BROADCASTING AUTHORITY

70 Brompton Road, London, SW3 1EY. Tel: 01-584 7011.

The Authority was created by Parliament in 1954 as the Independent Television Authority, to provide a comprehensive television service additional to that of the BBC. Under the terms of the Sound Broadcasting Act, 1972, the Authority was renamed the Independent Broadcasting Authority and its functions were extended to cover the provision of Independent Local Radio.

The Broadcasting Act 1980 provided for the setting up of the Channel Four Television Company as a subsidiary of the IBA; it started broadcasting in England, Scotland and Northern Ireland on November 2, 1982. A separate Welsh Fourth Channel Authority was also established by this Act; broadcasting on November 1, 1982. The Broadcasting Act 1981 has consolidated a number of Acts relating to the IBA.

The Authority selects and appoints the ITV & ILR programme companies; supervises the programmes provided by the contractors—and the Channel Four Television Company—and their scheduling; controls advertising, and builds, owns and operates transmitting stations. Fifteen ITV programme companies provide programmes in 14 regions of the United Kingdom (two companies operate in London). As a part of its review of the ITV system, the Authority, in December 1980, offered a contract to broadcast a new national breakfast-time television service, which started in February 1983, to TV-AM. In addition, changes were made to some ITV companies.

Some 46 Independent Local Radio stations now provide a programme service in areas of the United Kingdom (two companies operating in London).

Both ITV and ILR are financed mainly by the sale of advertising time.

The Members of the Authority are appointed by the Home Secretary and consist of a Chairman and Deputy Chairman and ten other members, of whom three make the interests of Scotland, Wales and Northern Ireland, respectively, their special care.

AFGHANISTAN

People's Radio & Television Afghanistan, Post Office Box 544, Kabul; 8 stations, 19,000 sets.

ALBANIA

Radiodiffusion TV Shqiptar, Tirana, government-owned experimental station, broadcasts sixteen hours weekly to some 210,000 sets, many of them located in public places so that segments of the populace not owning sets can view the programs.

ANGOLA

Television Popular de Angola, C.P. 2604, Luanda; 30,000 sets.

ARGENTINA

Television had its debut in this country in 1951 with only one channel (7) in Buenos Aires. Since then it has been joined by Channels 9, 11 and 13 (in 1960-61), all of which are state-owned and operated while channel 9 (under state control since 1974) was licensed back to Alejandro Romay in 1984. There are now 36 channels in the provinces, which have 191 repeating stations.

Of the 36 provincial stations 30 are privately owned. The PAL-N color system has been used since 1980.

Cable outlets now total 150, three of which operate in the northern and western suburbs of Buenos Aires within the metropolitan area.

AUSTRALIA

1986-87 witnessed a major shakeup of Australian commercial television. Partly as a result of the Hawke government's strict cross-ownership rules covering print media and television, the three original network owners, after more than 30 years, sold to relative newcomers to electronic media. The longtime owners, Kerry Packer, Rupert Murdoch and the Fairfax family sold Network Seven (recently renamed Australian Television Network) to Christopher Skase of Qintex/Universal Telecasters, Nine Network to Alan Bond (Bond Media) and Network Ten to Frank Lowy (Westfield Capital Corp/Northern Star Holdings), respectively.

The Australian television industry, which first began broadcasts in 1956 and color transmission in the mid 1970s, consists of a mixture of government and private enterprise with three commercial networks and two government-owned (Australian Broadcasting Corp, or ABC, and Special Broadcasting Service, SBS), each with a distinctive programming identity. ABC's program mix is Australian and British with a majority of its product from the BBC, Thames and Granada with whom it has exclusive agreements. Since it began broadcasting via Ausat satellite in 1986, ABC now has a national saturation of almost 100% of the population including the most remote areas of the Outback. Australia's other cultural public broadcaster, SBS which broadcasts in more than 40 languages, (with an audience of less than 2% in most Australian capital cities) is currently embroiled in a public debate over its funding future. Funded totally by the government for the eight years of its existence, SBS has reached a point where its budgets are stretched and it faces threats of amalgamation with the ABC. SBS is also handicapped in that it has recently been pushed onto the UHF band and cannot be tuned in by a large portion of the audience in the cities where it is transmitted.

Predominantly U.S. and European programming dominates the three commercial networks (each of which has an audience share of 25-30%) and each network has exclusive agreements for programming. Nine Network (the number one network), has agreements with Warner Bros. and Columbia, CBS and ABC networks, MTV, ESPN and WTN. Its new owner Bond Media also operates the country's only private satellite broadcaster, Sky Channel. The Australian Television Network (formerly Seven Network) has established a predominantly Australian image for the network. ATN has a station in each of the five major mainland state capitals with a potential audience reach of almost 70% of the national total. ATN has an ongoing relationship with Paramount, Disney, Lorimar and recently it signed an exclusive agreement with MGM/UA for theatrical and TV product. It also has a long-standing relationship with London Weekend Television, BBC and ITV.

Network Ten recently has attempted to break an unwritten agreement between the three networks over exclusive agreements with American distributors by not waiting until end-of-year for buying agreements.

A recent survey by the Australian Broadcasting Tribunal shows that over the past 10 years, the percentage of households watching TV during the evening dropped from a high of 54.5% in 1979 to the current 51.9%. The fall-offs have been in the daily prime-time area, children's afternoon TV and Friday and Saturday nights. Australian production companies include: Beyond International Group, Revcom (French), McElroy and McElroy, Taft-Hardie's Hanna-Barbera Australia, Crawford Prods., Grundy Organisation, Kennedy-Meller Group.

Viewing Patterns: Total TV households: 4,914,000; families viewing (aggregate): 4,792,000; families viewing (percentage): 98%. Average viewing time per week of all age groups is 18 hours, 26 minutes.

National Top-Ten Programs, 1987-88: (in order) 60 Minutes; Alf; The Cosby Show; Neighbours; News and Weather; Mike Willesee; The Flying Doctors; Family Ties; Sale of the Century; Who's the Boss.

AUSTRIA

Austria's only TV and radio network, the Austrian Broadcasting Corp (ORF), an independent public corporation, operates two TV channels FS1, which broadcasts from 9 a.m. until midnight, and FS 2, which broadcasts from the afternoon to midnight.

Of Austria's 2,760,000 households, 95% have at least one TV set. On an average, ORF TV reaches approximately 72% of the country's 7,500,000 people daily with primetime viewership roughly 55% of the population. Additionally, in each of Austria's nine provinces, ORF has regional studios for local broadcasting of nine hours daily. Approximately 60% of ORF's revenue comes from radio and TV license fees, while 40% comes from radio and TV advertising.

A 35-member board of trustees, the Kuratorium, a 35-member committee of representatives from the radio and TV audience and a commission monitoring ORF compliance with the provisions of the Austrian broadcasting Act, is responsible for supervising ORF.

BAHRAIN

Bahrain TV, P.O. Box 1075, Manama, Bahrain, operates 1 channel and 1 relay for some 176,000 color sets.

BANGLADESH

Pilot station established in 1964 by government. Now includes originating station at Dacca with relay stations at Chittagong, Natore, Khulna, Sylhet, and Rangpur plus two under construction. Address Bangladesh TV, Television Bhaban, Rampura P.O. Box 456, Dacca. 450,000 sets.

BOLIVIA

Television broadcasting began here in 1969. The two networks are government-controlled. Channel 7 is national and the other is via eight university channels (Channel 13 in La Paz). Bolivia has about 450,000 TV sets. There is also a small cable operation, Channel 3. NTSC is the TV system, and there has been color since 1980. As no copyright laws exist in Bolivia, much product is pirated and many producers have stopped supplying product since there are no dollars available.

BRAZIL

Television was introduced in 1951. Brazil now has some 24,000,000 sets using PAL-M system. The audience is estimated at about 100,000,000, which makes this country the highest selling and fastest growing market in Latin America with TV Globo earning 70% of the revenue.

Brazilian law requires that all owners of radio or TV stations be of Brazilian nationality. A further law stipulates that all foreign films shown on TV be dubbed, and that no station may transmit more than 22 half hours of foreign films for each 72 hours of weekly transmission time. Stations which transmit less than 12 hours per day have a corresponding lower quota. Seven sound studios, four in Rio de Janeiro and three in São Paulo take care of the dubbing of all American and some Italian, Argentine and Mexican films that come into the country.

Professional Association of Radio and TV Station Owners: Sindicato dos Proprietarios de Imprensa de Rádio Difusao a Televisao, Avenida Presidente Churchill 97 Sala 606, Rio de Janeiro.

BRUNEI

Established 1975 by governmental Radio TV Brunei, Bander Seri Begawan, Brunei. Two channels; 238,000 sets.

BULGARIA

Bulgarian Television, San Stefano Str 29, 1504 Sofia serves 2.6 million sets using 625-line Secam color.

BURMA

Burma Broadcasting Service, Prom Road, Kamayut Post Office, Rangoon. One station, 74,000 sets.

CAMBODIA (Kampuchea)

Radio Kampuchea Television, 28 Ave Preah Mohaksatryany Kossonak, Phnom Penh City, broadcasts daily on Channel 8 with relay to Bokor. Sets are estimated at 43,000.

CANADA

Number of TV Sets: In 1987, 94% of 9,556,000 households had at least one color TV set, a significant increase from a decade ago when the figure was 35% of households in 1977 (as reported by Statistics Canada, a federal government agency).

CHILE

The spectacular surge in the television industry in Chile since 1973 reflects the profound transformation of Chilean society itself.

The Census of 1970 revealed that only 19% of Chilean households possessed a TV set. However by 1982 the Census showed that 78% of households had at least one TV set. By the end of 1987, more than 2 million households had TV sets, which represents 81% coverage. It is estimated that within a few years more than 95% of households will have TV.

The impulse for this boom in television has been what the economists have called "Chile's Quiet Revolution" since 1973 when the Marxist government was ruled illegal and unconstitutional by the Congress and the Supreme Court and the economy was returned to private hands. The freedom to invest and to create produced immediate dividends.

In 1973, almost 2 million people in Santiago lived in subhuman conditions in shacks which had no electricity and no running water. By 1987 however, every home had electricity and running water. Consequently, the younger generation is far better educated and much healthier than their parents. Therefore the youth market for television advertisers is now the most important. The average 10-year-old child has already spent 7,300 hrs. of his life watching TV, and the average 15-year-old has watched 10,000 hrs.

The Structure of Chilean Television: As of July 19, 1988, there are three networks in Chile: Television Nacional de Chile (state-owned); Universidad Católica de Chile Television and Universidad de Chile Television. There is also a channel in Valparaiso operated by the Universidad Católica de Valparaiso. The three networks (TVN, U. Cat. & U. de Ch.) each have regional channel-outlets, and therefore all regions of the country (including the Antarctic Zone and Easter Island) are served by at least one network.

A new Law of Television in preparation will end the monopoly of VHF television and permit an unlimited number of channels and networks. The new Law of Television will also allow an unlimited number of UHF channels (only to be restricted by technical factors).

Under existing law (and as contemplated in the new law) there is no limit on the number of hours of transmissions per day. In 1970, the networks transmitted only an average of 6.5 hrs. per day. In 1987, the networks transmit 15-17 hrs. per day. The networks began transmitting regularly in color in April 1978.

Television Programming: According to a survey by the Consejo Nacional de Televisión (the body which regulates Chilean television, similar to the FCC), foreign-produced programming accounts for 58% of transmission-hrs. per day, with 42% produced in Chile.

Foreign programs include "Miami Vice," "The A-Team," "L.A. Law," "The Cosby Show," "Golden Girls," "Alf," "Moonlighting," "Dynasty," "Dallas," "Falcon Crest," etc., as well as specials such as Miss Universe, Miss World and the Oscars ceremony, and at least one mini-series per week. All foreign programming is dubbed into Spanish.

The Chilean-produced programming consists of news, sports, cultural-educational, children's and "teleseries" (a prime-time "soap" of about 75 mins per day). TVN and U. Cat. each produce one teleseries per year of about 130 episodes. Existing law also requires about 4 hrs. per week in prime-time of "cultural" programs.

The survey by the Consejo Nacional de Televisión shows the following breakdown of a typical day's programming by category: General Entertainment: 50.24%; Journalism: 22.98%; Cultural-Educational: 14.06%; Children's: 12.72%; Total: 100.00%

TVN has a second channel which exclusively broadcasts cultural programming.

Trends in Television Advertising: Existing law calculates the maximum number of commercial-minutes per day on the following basis: six minutes of commercials for every hour of transmission, but if time is not sold in a particular time-slot it can be added on to any other hour during the day. The new law under discussion contemplates total abolition of commercial-time regulations.

According to an exhaustive study by Megatec S.A., the total investment in television advertising time in 1987 was about US$150 million. In comparison to advertising in newspapers and magazines, television advertising represented 58.6% of the total invested in these media.

The breakdown by network is as follows: U. Cat.: 53.8%; TVN: 41.3%; U. de Ch.: 4.2%; U. Cat. de V.: 0.7%; Total: 100.00%

The ranking of the 10 most-advertised types of products on television is as follows: 1) Magazines, 2) Dept. stores, 3) Drinks, 4) Toys, 5) Cinemas, 6) Clothing, 7) Banks, 8) Toothpastes, 9) Newspapers, 10) Yogurt.

In terms of advertising in all media, the largest advertiser in 1987 was Lever Chile, followed by Nestlé Chile.

Cable TV: Cable TV service began in late 1987 in Santiago. By early 1988, there were 4,200 homes with cable, and is growing by leaps and bounds. There are four cable channels in operation in Santiago at present. Their programming includes news, entertainment and sports reports, movies, specials, etc.

CHINA (People's Republic)

Peking TV, opened in 1969, consists of three networks, one purely local and the other two broadcasting by micro-wave to the rest of the country. Color broadcasts began in 1973. Shanghai, China's largest city, has two channels on the air for about 9 hours daily with some 50% of the programs listed as entertainment, 20% movies, news or documentaries, and 20% sports or children's programs, in addition to educational and foreign language-instruction programs. Chinese officials blame the Cultural Revolution for the slow growth of TV and say that after the Gang of Four was ousted in the following decade TV stations were opened in all 29 of China's provinces and private set ownership rose to 81 million tuned to 70 stations and 130 relays. With some 7 million sets being added annually, China is producing 800 TV dramas a year. Twenty percent of all households now have TV sets and by 1990 this number will be doubled.

The biggest impact on Chinese audiences was the Walt Disney Company release of a 2-year cycle of films to be shown weekly under an agreement to share revenues from commercials.

In the past 5 years China has sold 10,000 hours of TV programs to 24 countries. Last year Shanghai TV alone imported 200 programs from 24 countries and exported 400 hours of programming.

CCTV began use of International Telecommunications Satellite Organization facilities to reach parts of China where reception is poor to non-existent but only until they set up their own satellite service for which they are setting up 50 ground stations. Some 62% of the country is covered already as far as reception is concerned.

Some 93.3% of city homes have TV sets but the figure is only 11.5% for rural homes, due to poor reception. CTV broadcasts 30 hours weekly, programming news, instruction, cartoons, variety and drama. Audience estimated at 800 million.

China now manufactures some 8.2 million sets annually and it is estimated that the number of sets will soon reach 80 million, including sets open to the public audience. Total number of nation-wide stations (including micro-wave relay stations) is over 40. Black-and-white sets sell for the equivalent of $370 and color sets for about $1,335 and there is a waiting list for the former. Domestic and imported films are broadcast from time to time, including American feature films occasionally.

Central Broadcasting Administration, Hsin Men, Peking, now offers nation-wide TV commercials at rates ranging from about $625 for a 15-second spot to a full minute for $1,800.

CHINA (Taiwan)

Television began in 1962 by the Educational Television Station which later became the private China Television Service in 1971. There are now three networks: Taiwan Television Enterprise (1962), China Television Company (1969) and China Television Service. All three act as private corporations deriving revenues from commercials. These three stations have 24 transmitters with total broadcasts of about 265 hours weekly for some 5.9 million set owners (1.25 sets per family) who pay about $1.50 annually for a license. About 80% of the programs are domestic, with most of the imports from the U.S.A. Over half of the sets are color. Taiwan has two communication satellite stations. A new rule states that commercials must not exceed 15% total broadcast time. Movie theatre owners complain that the three imported feature films shown weekly on television hurt their box office.

All three networks broadcast in color. TTV and CTV 6 hours 25 minutes weekdays and 12 hours weekends and holidays while CTS broadcasts 10.15 hours weekdays, 15 hours on Saturday and 17 hours Sunday or holidays. News takes an average of 21%, public service over 10%, culture and education 20%, entertainment 48%. TTV has 10 transmitters, CTV 6, and CTS 8, plus an equal number of relay stations. Sets number 5,900,000. Of the 20.4 billion yuan spent for advertising 29.07% went to television.

New rules call for no commercials during programs of less than 30 minutes and all commercials to secure government approval. In the future, 80% of all programs must originate in Taiwan with entertainment programs taking up no more than 55% of broadcast time and 45% or more devoted to educational, cultural or news types.

With relay stations it is estimated that 100% of the island's population of 18 million receives TV reception. About 12% of programs are imports, mostly from America, and these are broadcast in the original English with Chinese captions, which has served to develop knowledge of the English language among the populace.

TV showings of full-length Chinese-language, feature films imported from Hong Kong were stopped following retaliatory action by local cinema interests but the government may step in later and permit such showings, except on Sundays and holidays when the theatres reap their largest harvest. Inquiries should be addressed: Ministry of Communications, Taipei, Taiwan, Republic of China, or to: China Radio/TV Assoc. 6-144 Hsin Shen (South) Rd., Section 1, Taipei, Taiwan, Republic of China.

CONGO

Radio-TV de Congo, B.P. 2241, Brazzaville. One station; 8,000 sets.

EGYPT

Television broadcasting in Egypt was launched in the early sixties, beaming programs in the European Technical Transmission with an image of 825 Scansions known as Middle East SECAM.

The two main channels now cover large areas of the Middle East including Saudi Arabia, thus boosting advertising rates continuously.

Both channels transmit over 200 hours weekly covering all spheres and are hooked to international satellite for new up-dates and major world events. The capital, Cairo, has one more local channel broadcasting over 28 hours weekly. Similar local channels are expected to start operating in 1988-1989 to cover all major cities in Egypt.

The TV receivers in use are well over 20 million, watched by double that number of viewers in a country where television is the major, and sometimes the sole, source of entertainment and information.

Television in Egypt is attached to the Ministry of Information headed by Safwat El Sherif. Mrs. Samia Sadek is the president of Egyptian TV.

FINLAND

Finland has a three-channel television system that differs considerably from the other countries. There is at present in Finland one radio and television operation licence which has been granted to the Finnish Broadcasting Company, Oy Yleisradio Ab. The existence of MTV, Oy Mainova-TV-Reklam Ab, which is a private commercial TV company, is acknowledged in the same licence.

Launched in Sept., 1986 semi-public Kolmoskanava (TV-3 Finland) owned by pubcaster YLE, commercial MTV and Nokia Industries, reaches 800,000 Finnish households (50%). Its programming balances foreign and domestic fare, news, documentaries, and feature films, series and soap operas. It now airs 7 hours a day—more on weekends.

The basis for official relations between the companies were laid down in more detail in the basic agreement concluded in 1976. Television broadcasting in Finland is under parliamentary control. The Administrative Council of the Finnish Broadcasting Company appointed by Parliament is the highest organ exercising program policy. It has two functions. The Administrative Council exercises program policy control over both companies. In addition, as its name implies, it is the highest administrative organ in the Finnish Broadcasting Company.

MTV has its own corresponding administrative council.

As a bilingual country Finland also has programs in Swedish on all TV-channels.

Some 19 hours per week—out of the total of 75—are sold by Oy Yleisradio Ab to MTV. At the end of 1981 a one-year price agreement was signed, according to which MTV's levy to the Finnish Broadcasting Company is at least 191.2 million marks in 1982. MTV produces nearly 43% of its programs.

Helsinki TV, owned by Sanoma Publishing is a cable operator with a combination service of free and pay TV reaching 183,000 of Finland's cable households. In 1987 Sanoma set up Eurocable which owns Norway's Janco Cable, 31% of Ireland's Cork Communications and 10% of London's Westminster Cable.

Numbers of color sets is today about 0.9 million (57% of all sets).

FRANCE

TV Households: 19,400,000

Networks: 4 private-held, 2 publiccasters.

Cable Penetration: less than 1%.

Regulatory Body: CNCL (National Commission of Communication and Liberties). Could be replaced or modified per outcome of May 8 presidential election.

Privately-held Networks: TF-1 (Francis Bouygues, Robert Maxwell, others—50%, traded stock—50%), 99% penetration. Audience share: 39-45%.

La Cinq 19-21 rue Jean Goujon 75008 Paris; tel. 42 89 60 00; Jerome Seydoux, president; Robert Hersant, vice pres.: Silvio Berlusconi. 68% penetration. Share: 12-14%.

Metropole-6 (Compagnie Luxembourgeoise de Telediffusion, Lyonnaise de Eaux, others) 16 Cours Albert 1er, 75008 Paris; Tel. 42 56 66 66 and 45 63 17 17; president: Jean Drucker. 50% penetration. Share: 40%.

Canal Plus (pay-TV and unscrambled broadcast). (Havas, Compagnie Generale des Eaux, others). 2,200,000 subscribers, over-air penetration: 40%. Audience share: 4%.

La Sept 35 quai Andre Citroen, 75015 Paris tel. 40 59 77; president: Georges Duby.

Public Broadcasters: Antenne-2: 60% revenues from ads, rest user tax. 99% penetration. Shares: 25-29%.

FR-3: 15% ad revenues. 90%+ penetration. Share: 9-12%. (Shares based on Mediometric, Monday-Sunday, highest and lowest scores since Jan.)

Networks: France's audiovisual landscape changed with the privatization of TF-1, controlled by Francis Bouygues and Robert Maxwell, and the addition of a fifth (La Cinq) and sixth channel (M-6). The end of the government monopoly in TV was begun in 1982 by Socialist President Francois Mitterand, and continued by the majority government of Prime Minister Jacques Chirac. The last five years have seen France go from three to six national networks—two public, three private and one pay TV—and from strict state control to a comparatively wide diversity.

TF-1 still dominates the field, scoring ratings of 46% despite the success of the fourth channel (Canal-Plus, a pay-TV movie channel). Antenne 2, and the regional FR-3 are still state-operated, funded by the annual TV tax, and commercials. A new cultural channel, La Sept, is slated for satellite broadcast on TDF 1; meanwhile, it is programming on FR-3. La Sept also has a vocation in funding TV and theatrical films. The originality of this station is that it will program European creations, cinemas, festivals, and spotlight events and auteurs.

GHANA

Ghana Broadcasting Corporation, Broadcast House, Post Office Broad Box 1633, Accra. Five stations, 147,000 sets.

GREECE

TV is nationwide and one of the most popular entertainments of the Greek public, harming all other kinds of recreation, especially movies.

There are two Channels in Athens operated by the Helleniki Radio-Phonia Tileorassi ERT merged into one unit now. Its Television Stations ET 1 and ET 2 as well as the Radio Broadcasting ERA (Helleniki Radiophonia) are all under the above mentioned unit, the ERT.

ERT is controlled by the State and responsibility of all its services is invested to its General Director, presently Mr. Antonis Koveos. It operates as an enterprise of Public Benefit open to all trends of the media.

Both TV channels operate in color. ET 1 has one relay station in Thessaloniki telecasting news from Northern Greece and another one in Patras covering the news from Southern Greece. Both Channels ET 1 and ET 2 have many relay towers all over the country. Discussions are underway for the establishment of a 3rd Channel in Thessaloniki.

Privatization of Radio Broadcasting—Radio broadcasting is no more a state monopoly. As of 1987, the year of "Free Radio," it is permitted to municipalities and other individuals to establish and operate radio stations.

The first private Radio Station, which started operating in 1987, is "Radio-Athens" FM 9.84 by the Municipality of Athens. During 1988 more private Radio Stations started the: "Top FM Stereo," "Antenna FM, Stereo," Channel 1 of Pireaus, "Channel 10," "Radio FM Stereo," Radio Thessaloniki, Radio Chalkidiki, Bolygyros, Free Radio of Zante. There are 30 other applications for private Radio Stations by several municipalities which will start operating shortly.

Supervision of Mass Media: A special service of the Mass Communication media was established recently and its Secretary is responsible for the supervision of all Mass Communication Media.

TV Programs: Both Channels ET 1 and ET 2 put on the air eight to ten hours of programs on weekdays and 10-12 on Sundays and Holidays, which are mostly video-taped. About 60% of this program is covered by news, educational subjects, discussion panels, local movies and serials and the rest by foreign films and movies.

ERT is a full member of E.B.U. and transmits all important international events through satellite.

It is estimated that more than one million B/W sets were sold in this country and the number of color ones is equally high.

The ET 1 offices are located at 16 Mirouzi Str. Athens, and the main offices and Studio are located at 436 Messogion Str. Agades Paraskevi, Athens. The ET 2 Channel's headquarters are located at 136 Messogion and Katehaki Str. Athens.

TV Commercials: A great number of spots are sold daily by both channels to several advertising agencies. The price per minute varies according to the popularity of the program.

Agencies: There are several agencies acting on behalf of various foreign TV companies: Hellas Television International, 96 Academias Str. Athens. representing MGM, Screen Gems, Warner Bros., Sacis, RAI, Paramount, Rank, Titonus, Egyptian TV, Aussu TV, Spanish TV, Brazilian TV, World Vision, Rumulus, World Fair Communications and Thames TV; Apollon International Enterprises 46 King Constantinou Avenue, Athens representing Anthony Morris, Children TV Workshop, Embassy Telecommunications, Four Star Enterprise, Hanson International, John Pearson International, Lassis Television, London Films, Marvin Gooform Associates, Metromedia Productions, NBC International, Orion, P.S.O., Samuel Goldwyn, TriStar, Toho, Mexican TV, Strengthhold Television etc. Yannis Triantafyllis, 9 Kiloisov Str. Athens agent of ITC TV etc. Dennis Petropoulos agent of N.T.A., 11 Lycavittou Str. Athens. Constantinos Tricoupis II, Halkokondyli Str. Athens. Georgiades Electroniki s.a., 20 Lagoumitzi Callithea, Athens.

Local TV production: Both Channels ET 1 and ET 2 produce several films and series for local use and exportation to foreign TV stations. ET 1 is in addition subsidizing some Greek pictures which are shot as serials also. According to the provisions of the new law, an affiliated company of ERT 1 will be established to undertake local TV production.

Independent TV producers: Hellas TV Productions, 96 Academias Str., Athens, Manager Andreas Lappas. Dennis Petropoulos, 11 Licavittou Str. Athens. Panos Spyropoulos, 46 King Constantinou Avenue, Athens. Andromeda Dyas Epe, 47 Lemnou Str. Athens. Kinetografiki Epe 4 Tim. Filimond Str. Athens. Basil Maros, 26 Democritou Str. Athens, N. Samaras 14 Strat. Syndesmou Str. Athens. TVEM, 52 Skoufa Str. Athens. Aris Triantafyllis 5-7 Kapodistriou Str. Athens. Astyr Film, Finos Film 53 Hiou Str. Athens. Georgiades Electroniki, 20 Lagoumitzi Str., Athens.

TV studios: Television Enterprises S.A. Head office 28, Kapodistriou Str. Athens. Manager Christos Elmatzoglou. ATA Studios head office Omerou 8 Str. Athens., Fin Films Spata Attikas, Sklavis Studio 59 Zoodochou Peyes Athens. Roussopoulos Bros. Studio. Cinemagic Studio, etc.

Cable TV: A new law will be drafted to cover cable TV and until then cable TV is out of the question legally in Greece. However the Mayor of Pireaus expressed his intention to establish a cable TV service in Pireaus. Greek authorities are considering this possibility.

Satellite: ERT, is open to all trends of mass media and will start transmitting foreign programs through 6-7, and later more European Satellite Stations until a new law covering cable and satellite TV is drafted. Only the TV receivers in Athens, Pireaus, Thessaloniki, Ioannina, Patras, Corfu, Herakleon, Komotini, Florina and Rhodes will receive the foreign satellite programs. Negotiations are under way with the foreign satellite stations SKY, PREMIERE, CHILDREN, CHANNEL, CNN, LIFE STYLE, MUSIC BOX, SUPER ART of Great Britain, TV 3, La CINQ, MC of France, SAT 1 and SAT 3 of West Germany, FILMNET of Holland, RAI UNO of Italy and HORIZON SAT of the Soviet Union.

The above experimental stage of satellite transmission will not require costly antennas. However, many such antennas are already installed on top of several buildings in Athens, Thessaloniki and other key cities.

GUAM (U.S. Possession)

Guam Television operates one station with two channels for 17 hours daily, servicing an estimated 15,000 sets in the hands of Americans and natives. Owner is Pacific Broadcasting Corp., Agana. Some color is broadcast. The Department of Education, Agana, operates Channel 12, some 14 hours daily.

GUINEA

Radio-Diffusion Guinienne, B.P. 391, Conraky, 11,500 sets.

HOLLAND

The number of TV sets as of December 31, 1987 was some 4,703,000 which, with a population of 14,700,000, means that the market is practically saturated and that 98% of the Dutch families have a set. This obviously means strong competition for motion picture business. Young people, however, still like to go to the cinemas on weekends rather than stay at home to watch TV with their parents.

Holland is very widely cabled, and cable systems reach some 76% of the population. This means in many instances a good reception of the 2 Dutch channels, 3 German, 2 Belgian, 2 English, 1-2 French stations, plus the commercial stations, Sky Channel and Super Channel.

On top of this, the Pay TV station Filmnet is operational and has some 80,000 subscribers in Holland. Filmnet is operated by Esselte Pay TV, division of the Swedish Esselte Group. Their programs are distributed via the ECS-one Satellite and a subscription costs from Dfl. 22.75 to Dfl. 34.50 (for 24 hours a day) per month, depending on the number of features chosen (plus Dfl. 10. per month for the decoder). The address is: Esselte PayTV, PO Box 132, 3440 AC Woerden.

The NOS (Nederlandse Omroep Stichting) in Hilversum is the central TV and Radio Organization and there are 8 main subdivision stations: a Roman Catholic one: KRO, 2 political (left) ones: VARA and VPRO, 2 Protestant: NCRV and EO and 3 neutrals: AVRO, TROS and VERONICA. These three have the largest number of subscribers.

The 8 major companies are completely independent in their activities and buy a lot of product on the international market. There are also some minor TV organizations like TELEAC, which broadcast educational programs such as mathematical, languages and computer courses.

The yearly contribution for TV and Radio combined is Dfl. 158. Commercial stations are not allowed in Holland. There are commercials shown on both channels by STER, but programs are never interrupted by these commercials. Sky and Super Channels are only allowed on Dutch cable without Dutch subtitled programs and publicity specifically aimed at Dutch audiences is prohibited.

Radio and TV fall under the Ministry of Welfare, Social Health and Culture (WVC) which is particularly severe on the subject of "hidden" advertising.

As an average, feature films are shown 2-3 nights per week and also regularly in the afternoons. There is a window of 40 months, but it is possible to obtain exceptions to this rule. The decision lies with the Dutch Cinema Organization (NBB). Many American and English films are shown as well as TV series. Popular in 1987 were: St. Elsewhere, Miami Vice, The Cosby Show, Golden Girls, Family Ties. A popular German series is Derek. 2 Dutch series were: Zeg 'ns AAA (Say A) and Medisch Centrum West (Medical Centre West).

The quality of Dutch programs is good, and there are some excellent talkshows.

Prices of colour TV sets start at Dfl. 500. Price is obviously dependant on size of screens, remote control and Teletext.

Philips is the most important manufacturer in Holland. Import of Japan and German sets is also significant.

HONG KONG

Established 1957 by Rediffusion (HK) as closed circuit, converted to conventional TV in 1974. Asia Television (ATV) Central P.O. Box 1414, Kowloon, Hong Kong. Additional outlets: Television Broadcast (HK-TVB), 77 Broadcast Drive, P.O. Box 70100, Kowloon, Hong Kong; and, Radio TV Hong Kong, Kowloon Central P.O. Box 200, Hong Kong (governmental unit acting as producer for above). Sets number 1,402,000.

HUNGARY

Magyar Televizio, 1810 Budapest serves 3.4 million sets nationwide using 625-line Secam color, currently with two nationwide programs plus local station specials.

INDIA

At present, there are 14 full fledged TV stations which have independent production facilities. These are located at Delhi, Bombay, Calcutta, Madras, Jullundhur, Srinagar, Lucknow, Cuttack, Hyderabad, UDK Delhi, Bangalore, Ahmedabad, Trivandrum and Gauhati. To augment program production, 10 more centers have been planned.

Apart from these, there are seven relay stations which were set up for the SITE (Satellite Instructional Television Experiment) program which ran for one year, from August 1975. They are in Jaipur, Hyderabad, Gulbarga, Muzaffarpur, Sambalpur, Raipur and Pij, situated near Ahmedabad. At present, programs for Hyderabad and Gulbarga in Telugu and Kannada are recorded at Hyderabad. Cuttack records programs in Oriya and feeds Sambalpur, Jaipur, Muzaffarpur and Raipur are supplied with pre-recorded tapes in Hindi by Delhi. At Pij recording is done at the SAC (Space Application Centre) studios and telecast for one hour daily. Altogether, these terrestrial stations cover 40% of the viewers formerly covered by the SITE program.

The launching of the Indian National Satellite System (INSAT-1B) in 1984 has completely changed the electronic media scene, opening up new possibilities in mass communication. With the addition of 36 low power and very low power transmitters in 1987, Doordarshan now puts out its programs over 220 transmitters.

The launching of INSAT-1C this year will not only augment these facilities but also take the load off the orbiting INSAT-1B. It will also make it possible to cover about 97 percent of the area and 70 percent of the population.

There are an well over 10,000,000 TV sets in the country, with an estimated audience of nearly 80 million, in comparison to 30 million viewers that go to the cinema daily. About half the TV sets are concentrated in metro towns but with LPTs now beaming out to cover over half the country's population, the growth rate of TV sets is expected to go up to 30 million by 1990. While Doordarshan has been quick in stepping up hardware, software development in terms of programmes has not received the attention it deserves. It is still very largely dependent on the mainstream cinema.

Doordarshan has started a weekly telecast of national and international film classics for its late night viewers. In addition it also purchases unreleased "art" films which may otherwise remain in the cans. This has given a fillip to low budget "art" filmmakers.

INDONESIA

The government-owned RRI-TV, on the air since 1962 as the first developing nation to have complete TV coverage, in 1988 gave permission for one station, Rajawari Citra Televisi Indonesia, Jakarta, to carry commercials which had been banned since 1981. Since 1985 they have banned American or other imported TV shows on the grounds that the public preferred domestic fare, though the last showing of American TV fare indicated an average audience of 24 million viewers.

At present stations are operated on 2 channels in Jakarta, Bandung, Jogjakarta, Semarang and Tjiribon, with some 203 relays. Broadcasting hours average above 40 hours weekly with some programs in color to sets estimated to number over 2 million. Programs are 50% entertainment, 25% educational, 25% public service, live 60% of the time, and 40% video-taped. With the departure of imported shows, the government will increase educational shows based on national culture. Indonesia is building 50 relays under its fourth 5-year plan since its 203 relays now reach only 27% of its population of 114 million. Inquiries to TV Republik Indonesia (TVRI), Yayasan Televisi, Senayan Jakarta. 10 stations; 4,950,000 sets.

IRAN

Islamic Republic of Iran Broadcasting, Post Office Box 98-200, Tehran. Sixteen stations, 2.2 million sets.

IRAQ

Iraq Broadcasting & Television, Broadcasting House, Salihiya, Baghdad. Six stations, 725,000 sets.

IRELAND

Telefis Eireann is the official name of the television service in Ireland. Television, like sound broadcasting, is run as an independent State Statuary body and responsibility for both services is vested in Radio Eireann, the Broadcasting Authority. This Authority, appointed by the Government, consists of nine members serving on a part-time basis under a chairman selected by the Government. The present chairman is T. Andrews.

The Minister for Posts and Telegraphs, who is responsible for the autonomously operated Authority, reserves to himself the duties of fixing and collecting license fees from domestic viewers, licenses transmitting stations, and has a veto on the appointment and conditions of the Authority's top executive. The Director-General, Kevin McCourt, is employed full-time.

The Television service began in 1962. It has five main high power transmitters and thirteen satellite "transposers," serving areas outside the range of the main transmitters. Its national coverage is estimated at 98 per cent of the population. The national technical standard is a 625 line one, but programs are also broadcast on a 405 line in the Eastern and North-western parts of the country.

The Authority, which has the responsibility of providing programs of suitable cultural and national content, transmits 44 hours per week, with occasional additional programs. In addition, educational programs for schools, two and a half hours per week, are broadcast for 33 weeks of the year on behalf of the Department of Education.

Of the 44 hours of weekly programs, 22 are of home origin. The balance are imported mainly from Great Britain and America.

There are about 350,000 receiving sets in operation, of which about 200,000 are able to receive programs from Great Britain's BBC-TV and Independent TV stations as well as Radio Telefis Eireann.

ISRAEL

Israel television broadcasts daily in Arabic and Hebrew. Arabic programs start at 6:00 p.m. and continue to 8:00 p.m. Programs include documentaries, round-ups, news, films, variety shows, discussions, games, etc. These programs include, as well, weekly interviews with individuals of the Arab Israeli population who can convey regards to their relatives in neighboring countries, such as Egypt, Syria, Lebanon, Jordan, through this medium.

At 8:00 the Hebrew programs begin, offering the same variety of broadcast as the Arabic programs. Hebrew broadcasts continue up to 11:30 or midnight. The majority of Hebrew programs are subtitled in Arabic; and foreign language broadcasts, including films, are subtitled in both Hebrew and Arabic. Similarly, most of the Arabic programs have Hebrew subtitles.

Besides the above mentioned programs, television broadcasts every morning (except Saturday) educational programs beginning at 8:00 and continuing to 4:00. This is followed by children's programs which continue to 6:30 and include films, puzzles, games, cartoons, etc.

ITALY

From its inception the Italian television industry was dominated by a public network agency, RAI, but toward the end of the 1970's its dominance was finally challenged by private broadcasting. Prime networks are Canale-5, Italia-1 and Rete 4. The first two are part of the Silvio Berlusconi conglomerate while the third is owned by the Mondadori publishing group.

Overseeing RAI is a parliamentary commission which elects 10 of its 16 directors. The others are elected by IRI (Institute for Reconstruction of Industry) which owns 99.55% of RAI, the rest being held by a publishing association. RAI gets its operating authority from the Ministry of Post and Telecommunications; its finances are reviewed by the Ministry of Finance. RAI is funded by license fees and advertising. (Ads are limited to 5% of airtime.)

RAI operates three TV networks: RAI-1, its main and most successful outlet; RAI-2, an alternate network; and RAI-3, whose viewers are few although it is the only one which does not carry advertising.

RAI has transmitters all over Italy and uses 21 regional offices. It has five production centers and provides the majority of its own programming, including that for a worldwide news service it operates.

Private TV companies are not subject to the same rule as RAI. For instance they carry up to 14-18% advertising in airtime.

Trends: TV in Italy has made tremendous advances in acquiring programming the last several years. It is reported public and private broadcasters have invested close to $500,000,000 in foreign films and TV programs to attract TV viewers.

1988 saw the birth of three syndicated networks that plan to debut in 1989. Competing for the 10% audience share unclaimed by the RAI and Silvio Berlusconi's networks are Italia Network, Cierreti Network (formed by the Cierreti Group Advertising Association) and Five Star which will get programming from SACIS.

IVORY COAST

TV Ivorienne, Television House, Latriile, BP 8883, Abidjan. Operates 11 stations. Sets estimated at 450,000.

JAPAN

Non-commercial TV broadcasting began in Tokyo Feb. 1, 1953, by the quasi-governmental Nippon Hoso Kyokai (NHK) followed seven months later by the first commercial TV broadcast of Nippon Television Network (NTV). Broadcast time for NHK, which began with only 866 set-owners paying a fee of Yen 200 monthly, was 4 hours a day compared to 6 hours by NTV, which was affiliated with the Yomiuri newspapers. By 1960 NHK possessed 60 stations and there were 47 commercial stations broadcasting, while the number of sets had increased to about 7 million, topping the 10 million mark two years later.

Although commercial networks as they are established in the U.S. are legally forbidden, there came about a nationwide grouping of commercial stations with the Tokyo stations acting as pivotal points and providing tieups and programs. Thus in 1959, 16 commercial stations formed Japan News Network which soon spread to other programming areas, with JOKR in Tokyo, followed by three other such groupings centering on NTV, Nippon Educational Television (renamed Asahi National Broadcasting in 1977), and the Fuji TV key stations in Tokyo. It was then apparent that several newspapers with national sales systems, through capital tieups, were virtually in control of the national commercial networks.

Educational broadcasts were begun by NHK in 1959, followed three weeks later by Nippon Educational Television, which later dropped the "educational" pretense and became a regular broadcaster, as TV Tokyo (JOTX) did later, when it was found impossible to operate a private educational TV station in Japan for financial reasons.

The Tokyo Metropolitan area, which comprises almost 30% of Japan's population of 122.4 million, is served by Channel 1 NHK general network station, Channel 3 NHK educational network station, Channels 4, 6, 8 and 10 operated by NTV, TBS, Fuji, TV Asahi commercial network stations, respectively, and semi-independent TV Tokyo (JOTX) on channel 12 and TVK (UHF) 42 in Yokohama.

NHK's general programming lists 16 regional stations throughout the nation, 54 local stations and numerous relay stations in the VHF range to bring general programming to 3,493 outlets (2,851 UHF outlets). NHK educational facilities comprise 9 regional stations, 39 local stations, 2,207 relay stations for a total of 3,417 outlets of which 2,778 are UHF, including use of mini-satellite relays. It must be emphasized that in most cases (but not all) the general and educational services make use of the same facilities.

There are 42 companies operating both radio and TV stations and 63 operating only TV stations. In the VHF sector some 48 companies operate 486 stations; in UHF 55 companies operate 5,841 stations, plus 9 SHF stations.

These four "networks" operate in the 8 key areas of Japan—Tokyo, Osaka, Nagoya, Fukuoka, Sapporo, Hiroshima, Sendai, and Hokkaido—which are 4 commercial-station areas (plus NHK). Other stations located in less populous areas use a cross network arrangement by which programs from plural key stations are received. There is Asahi National Broadcasting with 18 stations, Fuji Telecasting with 27, Tokyo Broadcasting System with 25, and Nippon Television with 29 stations. In addition several independent stations have ties and non-commercial NHK covers 30 million of Japan's 37 million households.

While NHK collects monthly fees from 32,133,475 registered sets, the Home Ministry estimates the total number is 62,495,000 (including households with more than one), of which 9,423,000 are black and white and 53,072,000 are color. Some 98.5% of registered households possess one or more color sets for which they are assessed a flat $7.73 a month versus $4.60 for black-and-white sets. Thus, it is no surprise that NHK is by far the wealthiest broadcasting corporation in the world with 16,000 employees, which it has promised to reduce to 15,000, and a 23-story headquarters in Tokyo.

With 29.8% of the national advertising budget, TV is the leading advertising medium with designated prime time from 7:00 to 11:00 p.m. and ad spot buying rates determined on the gross rating point though, with a seller's market, card rates are often disregarded. Top rate for a 60-second network spot is $48,000 and a 54-minute program for a month about $1.4 million; generally contracts are for 6 months but recently 3-month contracts became available, there being waiting lists for sponsors. Sporting events, especially baseball, in non-prime time bring top prices due to good results. Though rules call for not more than 18% of broadcast time be devoted to commercials, this rule is only loosely followed. In addition some stations persist in intensifying audio volume for favored commercials.

Although an agreement was once reached to restrict broadcasting hours to 16.5 a day to conserve energy, commercial stations are broadcasting past the midnight deadline practically 24 hours a day and even NHK now broadcasts past the deadline. While TV is undoubtedly the most influential medium for both young and old, various polls disagree when attempts are made to determine the average daily time a Japanese watches the tube. NHK says the average Japanese spends 2 hours 53 minutes daily (another poll says 3 hours 18 minutes) viewing TV. Nielsen gives the Tokyo viewing time as 8 hours 12 minutes daily, taking into consideration the viewing by each household member. Favorite shows have veered from soap operas to various kinds of emceed shows, especially quiz shows. Men prefer sports shows, including baseball, sumo wrestling, golf, and, recently, American-style football, though old-time samurai dramas are still popular with both sexes. The younger audience spends much time watching cartoons before graduating to teen-age singing shows, contests or quizzes. These imports, especially those from the U.S. tend to be grade B films or films made in America especially for TV. These are almost always dubbed into Japanese but a few are available in the original language on a different wavelength for the benefit of TV sets equipped with multiplex receivers.

Cable TV is still in its infancy, serving only hotels, high class apartment houses and some people with poor TV reception. The Motion Picture Producers Association contracted with CATV operators obligating them to pay $143 per showing of feature films, later to increase as CATV expands. Satellite dish reception began in 1987 when NHK, after previous satellite failure, finally opened a 24-hour service. Twelve CATV operators charge $540 for installation and monthly fees of $25. Thus far NHK's satellite subscribers number 645,000 with 65 percent representing joint reception in apartment buildings. Antenna and tuner for individuals runs $800 for individuals and joint reception $8,000. Japan Satellite Broadcasting, a private firm, says it will offer DBS service in 1990 when it puts its own satellite in orbit.

As for national advertising expenditures, Japanese TV took 29.8% of the total compared to 25.1% by newspapers. The TV share came to some $88.9 billion, up over last year. Food and beverage advertisers comprised 27% of the total followed by autos, 15.4%, cosmetics, 10.3%, pharmaceuticals, 8.5%, service-entertainment, 7.4%, and department stores, 7%.

A survey indicated imported feature films shown on TV cost more than domestic movies but are shown more often so tend to dominate the medium, so it must be assumed their frequency on TV reflects a response to demand, even taking into consideration the reluctance of Japanese movie studios to contribute to the prosperity of what they consider a dangerous competitor to their own industry.

As with the old TV programs purchased from abroad, Japanese buyers insist on rock bottom prices, the result being a formidable collection of full length feature films which, due to their age and caliber, are mostly trash. With few exceptions, they can only be characterized as mixed second- and third-rate. Despite that films are repeated year after year. Once dubbed into Japanese, some Japanese say, it does not make much difference if the film is good or not. Sellers abroad are advised when contracting to provide a special clause on re-runs without compensation.

Last year a total of 449 Japanese feature films were shown on TV 460 times compared with 1,017 imports from abroad which were shown 1,067 times. Fewer imports are shown on prime time since most are used to fill the late night and early morning hours, being cheaper than ordinary programming. Of imports, NHK showed only 34 compared with 142 for NTV, 165 for TBS, 124 for Fuji, 101 for Asahi TV and 501 for the local station TV Tokyo.

"Sesame Street" returned to NHK after an absence of 7 years. NHK features very few late movies, specializing in a few movie classics and rare imported family dramas. The commercial stations now rarely feature imported TV shows on prime time, screening a few during daylight hours, and more during late night or very early morning hours when this comparatively cheap filler can be used. "Alfred Hitchcock Presents" is used by Tokyo TV in prime time, while another network does the same for the "Colombo" series. Picked at random, sitcoms from abroad include: "A-Team," "Surfside 6," "Combat," "Hunter," "Star Trek," "Family Ties," "60 Minutes," "CBS Evening News," "That's Hollywood," "Mike Hammer," and "Twilight Zone." Since these are in both Japanese and English (via multiplex attachment) it would seem that their foreign audience was well served, but alas, 90 percent are shown from midnight on, with only 6% audience viewing.

NHK general stations average 19 hours daily, 37.3% devoted to news and commentaries, 21% to entertainment, 27% to culture, and 14% to education. Commercial stations average 23 hours with entertainment 40.6%, cultural 23.9%, news 16.4%, education 12.1%, sports 5.6% and announcements 2.6%. Of this broadcasting average, over 23 hours consisted of sponsored programs and 3 hr. of sustaining programs. Although broadcasters claimed that advertising commercials (including a daily average of 241 spot announcements) took only 6% of total broadcasting time of each station on the average, anyone with a stop watch knows that this is not true. Over 60% of Japanese polled indicated an opinion that there were far too many commercials, while 50% objected to the ads shown in conjunction with kiddies' programs and thought such programs should carry no ads.

NHK claims the average viewer watches TV on an average of 173 minutes daily, of which 49 minutes are devoted to NHK programs and with 124 minutes devoted to commercial stations, a slight decrease from the year before but these figures are ridiculed by commercial broadcasters.

Sponsors of a 30-minute prime time show pay about $10,000 on a Tokyo station with other spots going for $4,500 per sponsor.

Production cost for a one-hour program is only $90,000, about one-fifth of the cost in the U.S. Payments for authoring a 30-minute script is $500 at NHK and as low as $200 at commercial stations. However, writers with a national reputation get much more.

A study of 107 commercial TV stations reveals that although the UHF outlets located in the periphery of the large cities are doing only moderately well as regards operating profits, the older-established VHF stations, particularly those affiliated with networks and in Tokyo or Osaka, enjoyed a good year.

Japan exports very few TV programs of its own but it is the world's largest exporter of TV sets and in addition sells TV equipment, complete broadcasting studios and nationwide setups abroad.

While a critic would rate Japanese TV in general as somewhat below the not very high American standard, and take umbrage at the great percentage of time taken by commercials on all stations except those of NHK, the average Japanese is satisfied with it. Lately, the government tried steps to prevent further intensification by stations of audio volume for commercials and limited them to 18% of total program time.

Only 15% of viewers said they were satisfied fully with Japanese TV, says an NHK poll.

Quiz games have the highest average ratings followed by prime time cinema feature films. Then comes sports, samurai or home dramas, action dramas, kiddie and cartoon shows, musical, news, imported TV shows, and finally educational broadcasts.

The baseball craze is such that even high school championship games rate prime time coverage and get a huge audience.

There are no national cable TV systems but cable TV stations feed to 4.3 million households where TV reception is poor or non-existent. In the cities, cable TV is piped to hotels (usually in English) and to some high-class apartment houses, and to a few private subscribers. In the suburbs some multi-storied housing complexes have their own cable TV. Very few dishes used for satellite reception now exist though the first private satellite broadcasting company promises it will be in full operation by 1990. Since 1985 NHK and private telecasters have had contracts to use Intelsat and a European satellite on a 24-hour basis but ordinarily they take only a few extra bits daily for inclusion on news broadcasts since they are not too interested in outside world news unless it affects Japan. In fact, this is also true as regards imported TV shows; they prefer their own, and imports are shown only on non-prime time and the late night hours.

Addresses of the commercial networks can be found in the World TV Broadcasters list in this volume and additional information can be obtained from National Association of Commercial Broadcasters in Japan, Bungei Shunjusha Building, 3 Kioi-cho, Chiyoda-ku, Tokyo, All Japan TV Production Companies Assoc., Akasaka White House, 4-1-6 Akasaka, Minato-ku, Tokyo 107, or from Advertising Association of Broadcasters in Japan, 8-10 Nishi Ginza, Tokyo. For non-commercial TV information one should address Nippon Hoso Kyokai (NHK), 2-2-1 Jinnan, Shibuya-ku, Tokyo 150.

OMAN

Oman Color TV, Ministry of Information & Culture, P.O. Box 600, Muscat, Oman. Three stations and 1 relay for 151,000 sets.

PAKISTAN

Television came to Pakistan in 1964, when its first black-and-white station opened on November 26 at Lahore. Since then it has emerged as an important audiovisual medium and a significant national institution. In the beginning, hardly 9.32% of the population of Pakistan (including the East, which is now Bangladesh) could view its programs. Now PTV is a public limited company registered under the Companies Ordinance 1984, with authorized capital of Rs 690,781 million. All shares of the corporation are held by the government of Pakistan.

Progress: From its modest beginning, PTV quickly became one of the leading TV organizations of Southeast Asia. Today in its 25th year, PTV has a national network covering the five main program producing and transmitting centers at Karachi, Lahore, Islamabad, Quetta, and Peshawar. They are linked with 27 high-powered broadcasting centers (boosters) to form the PTV hook-up known as the National Network.

About 82.20% of the population of Pakistan (103 million) views PTV color programs in all four provinces and parts of Azad Kashmir. Millions more are expected to be brought under the viewing range with the establishment of additional proposed broadcasting centers over the next two years. The area under the umbrella of PTV signals has steadily risen from 8,029 sq. km in 1964 to 280,588 sq. km in 1987.

There are at present approximately 1,485,785 licensed TV sets, with the number of unlicensed sets believed to be about 30% or 445,000 more. The average viewership per TV set is estimated to be 8 persons. PTV has increased its programming up to 66.40 hours per week during the last fiscal year through its five centers, excluding special morning transmissions. "Aaj," which started in early 1988 with 75 minutes, has increased to 120 minutes in September. Transmission via satellite, which commenced as early as 1972 is now a regular feature and covers important international events, including sports, Haj, visits abroad of the head of state, U.N. special meetings, reports from war fronts, etc., which are broadcast in cooperation with various news agencies.

PTV's income from all sources, which reached a new height of Rs.690 million during 1985-86 and even higher in 1986-87, is likely to go down during the current financial year. Because of the Islamic Shariat Ordinance, 1988, dozens of ads were declared unsuitable, causing great loss to the PTV. A number of other restrictions, including women's appearance in ads only where they are very much necessary, the curtailing of musical programs and the discontinuation of Pakistani feature films, a strict check on foreign films and requiring fully dressed women in plays and other TV programs, etc., may further reduce the business of PTV. The main sources of income for PTV are commercials and license fees of Rs.200 per year for domestic sets and Rs.400 per year for commercial sets.

Color Era: Color television came to Pakistan in 1976. Since then PTV productions have been entered in international competitions and festivals and have won a number of awards. There are approximately 600,000 color sets in Pakistan.

PTV has also instituted the PTV Annual Awards to acknowledge and honor excellence in the various professions concerned with television. PTV Awards were first given in 1980. One additional award was introduced in 1988, by organizing a competition, Jashn-e-Tamseel, between the five centers, based on viewers' opinions. PTV has also given awards to advertising agencies since 1971 to improve the standard of TV commercials.

PTV exports a good number of its programs to other countries, particularly those where Pakistani and Indian nationals live in large quantities. Lahore, which produces programs in Arabic, exports programs on child care, economics, population, education, IQballyat, general science, electrical wiring, food and nutrition, Pakistani studies, poultry farming, vegetable growing, etc. In addition to private viewing, these programs are shown in about 500 community centers all over Pakistan.

Training Institute: A Central Training Institute was set up at Islamabad to train program producers and engineering personnel. This institution has been elevated to a full-fledged PTV academy, training in all fields—news, engineering, management, finance, current affairs, program production, etc. Another institute is likely to begin operation in Quetta this year.

PTV presents its viewers with a number of imported programs, including canned feature films every week. The greatest coverage was given to sports and festivals, with 21.46 hours per week; whereas poetry was given shortest duration, 0.14 hours a week during the last year. Religious programs received 4.53 hours of air time; news, 8.34 hours; current affairs, 5.28 hours; children, 1.48 hours; women, 0.19 hours; features, 3.28 hours; dramas, 4.58 hours; commercials, 2.44 hours; and announcements, 5.28 hours.

Pakistan manufactured over 248,000 TV sets in 1987. Apart from this, a considerable number of sets are brought into the country each year as personal baggage and through barrier. Customs duty on a set is 80% of its value. However, there is no duty on locally manufactured TV sets. At present, PTV extends technical cooperation to a number of countries, including Uganda, United Arab Emirates and other neighboring countries.

The Federal TV Complex was opened in March 1987 at Islamabad. Built at a cost of Rs.230 million, it includes PTV headquarters, with the most modern studios and machinery, and an audience participation hall, the PTV Academy and the National News Bureau.

Six new booster-broadcasting centers are scheduled to be installed within the next two years. A sum of Rs.182 million has been allocated for starting a second RV Channel, developing a transmitter and broadcasting house at Faisalabad and Loralai during 1988-89. Besides ongoing projects of mass media agencies, Rs.64 million will go to the second channel of PTV for education and extension of TV coverage to Azad Kashmir.

PTV has added new techniques Electronics News Gathering (ENG). It was adopted for action news and location coverage. Lately, teleprompters, frame synchronizers and character generators with Arabic and English fonts have been added to the Islamabad center for news and subtitling of programs in Arabic.

Till June 1988, there were a total of about 5,200 full-time employees with PTV. In addition, there are hundreds of writers, artists and other talents who are usually engaged on contract fees. They are paid wages according to their work on the programs. The highest and lowest remunerations paid to a performer are Rs.36 and Rs.6 per minute.

The government of Pakistan has approved a project for Rs.100 million for a ground receiving station to receive satellite pictures directly. Accepting the space age concept of viewing TV programs directly from satellite, official clearance has been given for a plan to manufacture special sets for that purpose. A Pakistani firm claims to have built a dish-antenna, 30-foot diameter giant radio telescope to scan and receive signals from different satellites. This radiotelescope is said to have a gain of 50 decibels at 4 gigahertz frequency with the ability to track all kinds of satellites viewable on the Pakistan horizon. Weighing more than two tons and built of steel and aluminum, it can be rotated to the full 360 degrees of horizon and zero to 90 degrees.

PHILIPPINES

Broadcasts began in 1953 by DZAQ-TV then owned by Alto Broadcasting. At present 40 stations are on the air for commercial broadcasting and one government station, most are located in Manila. The number of sets is estimated at over 4,000,000. ABS-CBN was replaced by KBS. Others are Associated Broadcasting, Inter-Island Broadcasting, Metropolitan Broadcasting, Philippines Broadcasting, Radio Mindanao Network, Republic Broadcasting and Southern Broadcasting. More provincial outlets are planned.

Commercial ad revenues have averaged 30.8% gains over the past 10 years and now 46% of all advertising money spent is for TV compared to 29% for newspaper ads.

POLAND

Some 9 million TV receivers are registered in Poland tuned in to one of two channels which broadcast in color on the SECAM system. Householders pay a license fee of 2,400 zlotys a year, which is the main source of revenue for the networks.

Poland has seven regional studios and 30% of the schedule is broadcast locally with the balance going out nationally. Most popular shows are news and current affairs, followed by features, documentaries, TV theatre, and music. (Theatrical feature films can be transmitted one year after original release.)

Foreign programs make up some 19% of the scheduling; they are acquired either through cash or barter deals. Advertising is permitted and foreign companies can buy time. There is no official censorship, but each station is responsible for what goes over the airways, both in programs and advertising.

As of yet there are no cable or pay-TV systems in Poland.

PUERTO RICO

Television started in 1954, and there are about 750,000 sets using the NTSC system in Puerto Rico. Most public places, such as restaurants and clubs, have television sets for their patrons; the medium is available in local hotels upon request.

Even though most Puerto Ricans know English, and the number of persons who will acquire a working knowledge of English will increase considerably through intensification of English instruction in public schools and the migration of Puerto Rican families to the United States, and workers who come back from the States with more knowledge of English, television programming is in English and Spanish. WKAQ-Telemundo owned Reliance, on channel 4, has 30% of its programming in English of which 10% have Spanish sub-titles. There are 10 private stations in all.

Kinescope versions of top North American television shows are shown on both stations.

Cable television is on the rise here. The largest operator is Cable TV of Puerto Rico. It is owned by Harris Cable of Los Angeles, which bought the San Juan franchise in 1976, starting with some 8,000 customers. Total subscribers now on the island are about 150,000.

Cable programming is also being expanded. At first the cable company offered only HBO and Virgin Islands stations. Receiving stations were built to bring in programs by satellite and by 1980 programs were being funneled from the states. Puerto Ricans now have a choice of 21 cable channels.

Cable TV charges its subscribers $11 a month for a basic package of 12 channels. HBO and Galavisión cost $9.95 each additionally. Cable currently reaches greater San Juan, Bayamon, Carolina, Trujillo Alto and Guaynabo, which have an estimated 300,000 homes.

QATAR

Qatar TV Service (governmental), Ministry of Information, P.O. Box 1836 Doha, Qatar. Color since 1973. One station and relay; 122,000 sets.

SAMOA (AMERICAN)

Three TV stations serve some 42,000 sets on the American part of this Pacific island as well as a number of sets on the part administered by New Zealand. The station is also used daily for educational instructions to local schools. Address: Television of Samoa, Pago Pago. There are six channels.

SAUDI ARABIA

Established 1957, now 56 stations and 2 networks. General Directorate of TV, Ministry of Information, P.O. Box 570, Riyadh, Saudi Arabia; ARAMCO-TV, Box 96, Dhahran, Saudi Arabia. 4 million sets.

SIERRA LEONE

Sierra Leone TV Service, New England, Private Mail Bag, Freetown. One station, 32,000 sets.

SINGAPORE

TV Singapore went on the air in 1963 and now serves an estimated 750,000 sets on four channels in four languages. One channel broadcasts 66 hours weekly the others 40 hours; of this total about 146 hours weekly are in color. Inquiries to Radio-TV Singapore, P.O. Box 1902, Singapore 11. For the fourth consecutive year Singapore Broadcasting Corp. profits dropped—from U.S. $4.36 million to $720,000 most recently.

SOUTH AFRICA

South African Broadcasting Corp., P.O. Box 8606, Johannesburg 2000, started broadcasts in 1976 and now has over 80 stations with four services broadcasting 7 languages over 3 channels to over 3 million sets. From 1978 advertising was accepted.

Associated South West African Broadcasting, P.O. Box 321, Windhoek, Namibia, South West Africa, an autonomous statutory body, broadcasts 6 hours daily from Windhoek.

SOUTH KOREA

Commercial TV broadcasting began in 1956, but the station burned three years later and it was not until 1961 when the government established the Korea Broadcasting Service (KBS-TV) network. The commercial network of Tongyang Broadcasting Co. (TBC) began in 1964 and was followed by the commercial Munwha Broadcasting Co. (MBC) in 1969. The American Forces Korea Network (AFKN-TV) was also established to serve American troops, and now comprises 6 stations.

KBS, which is entirely government-owned and collects a monthly fee from each household with a TV set, is somewhat unique since it takes commercial advertising, unlike most governmental networks. Political opponents of the regime are rarely mentioned on broadcasts; this one-sided coverage had led to a boycott by some of the public who refuse to pay fees. KBS also holds a controlling 65% interest in the only other commercial broadcaster, Munwha Broadcasting. Under the present regime, other stations were compelled by the government to merge with KBS, except for the Christian Broadcasting System which has been restricted since 1980 to broadcasting only religious programs. The government uses KBS profits from advertising revenues for education scholarships and expenses of newsmen traveling abroad.

KBS-TV has its key station in Seoul and 21 local stations, with other local stations, making a total of 33 TV stations, including those operated by MBC and the former TBC. Color broadcasting started in 1980. Almost 10 million sets are in operation, covering almost every household. If armed forces of USA are counted, the total stations number 33.

Korean broadcasts are limited to 6.5 hours of evening time and 4 hours mornings on weekdays, 11 hours on Saturday and 17 on Sunday. Monthly fees of about $1.00 are collected and advertisements are accepted.

On Saturdays and Sundays between 8 and 9 p.m. it is estimated that 60% or more of the population gathers before their sets to view commercial stations' soap operas, far beyond the average 30% viewing for most shows.

In 1981 the Republic of Korea "consolidated" all news media and took over the private stations, so daily listings read: KBS-TV (7 cities), KBS-2 TV (2), KBS-3 TV-UHF (6), MBC-TV (6). Korean Broadcasting Advertisement Corporation handles all TV and radio advertising.

SPAIN

The first time Televisión Española—(now Radio-Televisión Española, RTVE)—transmitted on a regular basis was October 29, 1956, on a scan system of 625 lines at 25 frames per second. That program lasted three hours with a range of 70 kilometres, broadcasting for about 400 sets. The First Channel (VHF) was followed by a Second Channel (UHF) in 1967, complementary at first, but then somewhat competitive and with a clearer trend towards "culture." Channel 1 now covers all of Spain, including the Balearic and Canary Islands. Channel 2 reaches 80% of national territory. According to the Director of Television, Channel 2 has a ceiling of 85% of territory, since the investment costs double when the 70% level of coverage is reached. A PAL System in color, RTVE reaches approx. 14,500,000 homes on the mainland and Canary Islands.

RTVE is now an autonomous agency under the Ministry of Culture, Paseo de la Castellana 109, Madrid 16. All programs are controlled by a Censorship Board. Drama, films and episodes of series are classified according to ratings: "general" (no sign on the screen), "older than 14" (a small lozenge), "older than 18" (two small lozenges).

The production of programs is entirely financed by advertising and tie-in merchandising, since the government withdrew its annual subsidy. Both channels carry ad spots. Due to nocturnal habits of Spaniards, the costliest time comes around 10:30 p.m. The ad spots appear on the screen at regular half-hour or one hour intervals, till 7 p.m. Later the spots rhythm accelerates, mainly during feature films in spite of audience and film directors' protests.

Regional TV networks also exist in the Basque provinces, Cataluña and Galicia. The Basque's Euskal Telebista (ETB) has two channels (one in Castilian, with Basque subtitles; one in Basque) headquartered in Durango and San Sebastián. In Cataluña with a 6 million population, Televisió de Catalunya (TV 3) is the most successful of the regional networks. Broadcasting from the outskirts of Barcelona, its programs are in the Catalan language without subtitles. TBG (Televisión de Galicia) is the newest network, and regional channels are anticipated in Valencia in 1989 and Andalucía by 1990.

In May, 1987, Spanish legislators passed a law approving three private TV channels in Spain and in April, 1988 the Spanish Parliament approved a further law regulating private TV. Modified from the original bill, now allowing ownership by Spanish media companies of up to 25% as compared to an earlier 15%, the law was received with great political opposition. Although the new Transport, Tourism and Communications minister set fall of 1989 as a target date for private TV operation, a National Technical Plan, defining the specific technical requirements the new networks would have to comply with, has yet to first be approved.

Staff and Studios: Director General RTVE (officially called "Ente," Italian style) is Pilar Miro. Director of TVE is Jesus Martin.

RTVE built in Madrid a 210 meter high tower ("Torrespaña") for news and live broadcasts. This "Towerspain" is now one of the landmarks of the capital.

TVE has ten news broadcasting stations in provinces. The Canary Islands set up their own programming. National Headquarters are at Prado del Rey, Madrid 24, with general offices and nine studios with total area of 3,000 square meters. Additional studios are in Barcelona.

Televisión de Catalunya (TV-3): started broadcasting 1984. Offices and studios in San Juan Despí, outside Barcelona. Director: Enric Canals.

Euskal Telebista (ETB): Basque regional TV, began broadcasting, 1983. Offices in Durango and San Sebastián. Director general: Josie Oruondo.

Televisión de Galicia (TVG): Started 1985. Broadcasts from Santiago de Compostela. Director general: Abilio Bernaldo de Quiros.

Programming Schedule and Contents: Channel 1 broadcasts 76 h 45' weekly, with accent on week-ends. Same happens with Channel 2, which broadcasts 46 h 45' weekly. Total of weekly broadcasting time: 123 h 30'. Special programs such as prize boxing bouts, sports championships, bullfights, royal and political messages, etc., move or remove normal programming.

Many broadcasting hours consist in theater movies (about seven features weekly) and filmed foreign production, including American series as "Flamingo Road," "Winds of War," "Masada," "The Martian Chronicles," etc. TVE broadcasts too many debate and panel shows, too many heavy music meetings, but lacks comedy fare. From 1982 the Ente has invested in prestige Spanish features, which first are being shown in theaters and then will be adapted to television as miniseries. Many of them have won awards at international film festivals.

Price range for half hour of screening time is $1,500–$2,000. One-hour series generally brings twice the half-hour price. Price range for feature films is $7,800–$17,000, dubbed into Spanish at Madrid studios. Only "Film Society" screenings (Channel 2) accept foreign prints with Spanish subtitles.

SRI LANKA

Indian Television System, "Door Dharshan" which is state-owned, had requested Sri Lanka government, through Indian government, permission to establish a television relay transmission station in the city of Jaffna in the north of Sri Lanka, where the Indian government maintains about 100,000 Indian military troops (occupied forces) under the 1987 Indo-Sri Lanka Peace Accord.

According to the official request, by establishing a TV relay Transmission Centre in Jaffna with a 1,000 kilowatt transmitter, the Indian Door-dharshan (TV) will be able to telecast all Indian programs to Pidurutalagala, where the Sri Lankan TV Rupavahini has its main Television Transmitter Antenna. This proposal is now being studied by officials of the Ministry of State and Rupavahini Corporation. If this proposal is accepted, the entire island will be able to see all programs telecast in India. The cost of establishing the relay transmission centre and maintenance will be borne by the Government of India. It is interesting to note that India opposed Sri Lanka giving facilities to the establishment of a Voice Of America transmission center on Sri Lankan soil. This was one of the demands made by Indian Prime Minister and the Indian Government before signing the Indo Sri Lanka Peace Accord.

"Marcos' Dangerous Life" was shot in Colombo, produced by Australian filmmaker Terry Sands and directed by Robert Marcovitz, re-enacting the last days of the reign of Ferdinand Marcos, as seen through the eyes of a journalist, played by Gary Busey. The Australian company was on location for nearly three weeks, mainly in Colombo.

The Radiotevisao Portuguesa (The National Television of Portugal) produced a film on Sri Lanka—one of a series of films the Portuguese TV Network hopes to produce. John Bush and Murray Boland were in Sri Lanka recently to film the British adventure program "Survival."

Productions Audiosuvelles in Paris has decided to invest US $1,700,000 producing a TV series titled "Pedro De Gasconne," an historical series re-creating the adventures of a French nobleman at the Court of Sri Lanka in the 18th Century. (The total production is estimated to cost $2,000,000 approximately.)

Tele-dramas are becoming very popular and many commercial firms have come forward to finance and sponsor tele-dramas in the Sinhala language so that they could advertise and promote their products. At least two tele-dramas are being shown weekly, each running into twenty to twenty-five episodes. The most popular English TV series is "Knight Rider" which has caught on very well. Generally, almost all British and American TV series are popular among all communities irrespective of whether they know the English language or not.

ITN (Independent Television Network) recently opened its new transmitting center which provides its range to 75 miles from the city of Colombo. Rupavahini Corporation and I.T.N.—Independent Television Network Ltd. is under the Ministry of State and Information. Minister Dr. Ananda Tissa de Alwis, Secretary Minister of State—B.I. SWITZERLAND

As of July 30, 1988, the Federal Post Office registered nearly 2,300,000 households in which at least one TV set (mostly color) is operating. As most of the households keep more than one set, the estimated number of TV-sets in operation is about 5 million. The number of transmitters and boosters has increased from 1,318 (1987) to 1,330.

Commercial TV was introduced on a limited basis on February 1, 1965. From November 1, 1985, 23 minutes weekly, only on weekdays, were allowed; the cost per minute as of January 1, 1987, was 20,600 Swiss francs. On October 1, 1987, the cost of annual licenses was fixed at 184,80 Swiss francs for private sets. As of December, 1987, 95% of all Swiss households had color TV sets.

Swiss TV viewers have recently shown a certain tiredness, diminishing the daily TV-sessions: Swiss Italians dedicated an average 2 hours and 13 minutes a day to TV-watching; French language watchers 2 hours 4 minutes a day and Swiss Germans 1 hour 32 minutes a day.

National channels (in German, French and Italian language) are tuned in only 46 minutes a day by Swiss Germans, who prefer foreign channels for the remaining 54 minutes; French-language watchers tune in a national channel for an average 48 minutes a day and select foreign channels for 73 minutes; Swiss Italians watch national channels for 42 minutes a day (mainly the news) and switch to foreign channels for some 85 minutes of the daily TV-session. Cable TV is expanding steadily and is now the second highest in Europe: as of January 1988, there were nearly 2,000,000 subscribers; 68% of them are Swiss Germans, 64% French lingo watchers, 54% Swiss Italians.

Local TV Stations: So far, in Switzerland 7 local TV stations are active; they need a special governmental authorization which allows them to finance themselves partially by commercials. Their reach is limited to a radius of about a dozen miles and the daily time dedicated to TV commercials is restricted.

TAHITI

Office of Radiodiff-Télévision Française, Papeete, operates four channels 34 hours weekly to serve the estimated 24,000 sets of this French possession. It is owned by the government and buys canned programs in Paris.

THAILAND

Thai Television Company (government-owned) opened its first station in 1955 and there are four stations (two using color) and 8 relays on a commercial basis. Stations are also operated under names of Bangkok Broadcasting & TV, Bangkok Entertainment Co. and Mass Communication Organization of Thailand, all located in Bangkok. Sets are estimated at 4 million, some color.

In 1980 a ban on broadcasts from 6:30 to 8:00 p.m., as a power-saving measure, allegedly improved "family relationships," so at present broadcasts are limited to 8 hours on weekdays, and 16 hours on weekends and holidays.

TURKEY

Turkish Radio Television Corp., P.O. Box 98, Kizilay-Ankara serves 5.8 million TV sets via 37 stations.

UNITED ARAB EMIRATES

Established 1969 by Thompson TV International and Abu Dhabi TV Service. In 1971 United Arab Emirates TV Service, P.O. Box 637 Abu Dhabi established separate facilities which now consist of three stations and three relays. Dubai Radio and Color TV, P.O. Box 1695, Dubai, now broadcasts on two channels from 1 station and 1 relay in Arabic, French and English. 147,000 sets.

U.S.S.R.

Soviet Television, TV Center, 12 Korolyov Street, Moscow, originating all TV programs direct and via satellite. Sets number 272,500,000.

VIETNAM

Since 1968 the Government Information Department of the Democratic Republic of Vietnam has operated one non-commercial station in Hanoi. Number of sets is about 2 million.

A second station was added in Saigon (now known as Ho Chi-Minh City) when South Vietnam was "liberated" and the divided country became one.

Hanoi has initiated use of a Russian satellite and 7 hours of color telecasts on weekdays and all day Saturday and Sunday, compared with the previous 4 hours a day in black and white.

WEST GERMANY

TV Households: Out of approximately 25,800,000 German households, 23,364,322 households have television sets with 47,456,000 viewers. Of these, about 16,000,000 have at least one color set. Some 23,000,000 households have at least one radio. Total TV set sales per year: about $2.2 billion.

TV Networks: West Germany has two state-owned networks, ARD and ZDF. Recently two privately owned networks were established: SAT 1 and RTL Plus. ARD is the national hookup of nine regional stations; and ZDF or second channel, a single nationally-beamed station based in Mainz near Frankfurt. ARD's nine stations each contribute to one joint national broadcasting operation, five regional channels and several radio channels. ARD has a budget of about $1,640-billion; ZDF, $556,000,000. Commercials are aired on both stations in sharply limited timeslots. Stations are supported largely by $6.50 monthly license fees paid by TV set owners.

Cable penetration in Germany was as of 1987 30% with 2.7 million homes hooked up to cable and 2.3 able to receive satellite. There are 5 national, ad-supported-only private satellite to cable services: Eureka, RTL Plus, SAT 1 (latter two also receive terrestrially), Tele 5, and Unser Kleines Theater—all in German. Sky Channel and Super Channel satellite to cable services broadcast programming in English while TV 5 broadcasts in French.

The Federal Office of Post and Communications in Bonn is responsible for the technical side of the TV medium, while the nation's 11 states, which under the constitution are allowed to formulate their own media policy, have supervisory TV and cable boards.

YEMEN (Arab Republic)

San'a Television, Ministry of Information, San'a, established in 1977, currently broadcasts on 3 channels to some 120,000 sets.

YEMEN (People's Republic)

Established in 1964, People's Democratic Republic of Yemen, P.O. Box 1264, Aden, broadcasts on 3 channels to an estimated 55,000 sets.

ZIMBABWE

Established in 1960 as Rhodesia TV, and now named Zimbabwe Broadcasting Corp., P.O. Box H.G. 200, Highlands, Harare, its 6 stations serve some 560,000 sets.

The Gift of Caring

"I never met a man I didn't like!"

Words which typify the tradition upon which the Will Rogers Institute has prided itself for over 50 years.

Since 1936, the Institute has been caring for employees of the entertainment/communications industry by providing them with health services.

Our representatives can put you in touch with expert medical care and your first consultation with one of our nationwide pulmonary specialists is absolutely free.

Write or call - to learn more about the benefits we offer and you will see just how we embody the spirit of that great humanitarian and entertainer, Will Rogers.
