THE YEAR IN REVIEW

In early 1995, the three major networks and the by-now firmly established fourth, Fox, were joined by two more young hopefuls, Paramount's UPN and Warner Bros., both of which offered a handful of programming, UPN on Monday and Tuesday, WB on Wednesday. Aside from UPN's "Star Trek: Voyager" which had the advantage of being a spin-off of the eternally popular "Star Trek" franchise, none of the new shows presented much of a threat to the other primetime players. If anything, the syndication market suffered the most as yet more independent tv stations were snatched away by the new networks.

CBS, however, did have a good reason to feel nervous where Fox Broadcasting was concerned. Following a year of increasingly poor ratings the network had the dubious distinction of becoming the first of the Big Three to wind up in fourth place when, during the week prior to the start of the '95-'96 Fall Season, CBS ranked lower than Fox's 15 hour weekly schedule of programming.

A month before, in August, CBS was purchased by Westinghouse Electric Corp. for $5.4 billion bringing to an end its status as the last independent network. The announcement was somewhat overshadowed by the Walt Disney Company's $19 billion acquisition of Capital Cities/ABC earlier that same week, the second largest corporate takeover in history, creating the world's largest publicly held entertainment company. Although Creative Artists Agency co-founder Michael Ovitz was appointed the new Disney president, other major corporate changes were forthcoming.

Although the Nielsen ratings gave the '94-'95 top spot to NBC's long running sitcom "Seinfeld" (20.5 rating/31 share), ABC made it known that last season's winner, "Home Improvement," was still the leader when one tabulated the actual number of viewer households. "Seinfeld," however, came out in first place on the Nielsen's basis of rank according to viewership. By that estimation, "Home Improvement" was placed third with a 19.9 rating/29 share. Sandwiched in between the two comedies was the most popular new offering of the '94-'95 season, NBC's medical drama "ER" (20.0/33) which had emerged the victor in battling CBS's own hospital offering, "Chicago Hope." The latter also came up with decent figures landing at number 25 for the year.

NBC was also responsible for the only other new series in the top ten, the sitcom "Friends" (16.1/25; ranked at Number 8) which spent many weeks in the latter half of the season in the number one position. ABC, on the other hand, dominated the list with 5 shows. In addition to "Home Improvement" there were Brett Butler's comedy vehicle "Grace Under Fire" (18.8/29; Number 4), "NFL Monday Night Football" (17.8/30; Number 5), the Emmy Award winning police drama "NYPD Blue" (16.5/27; Number 7) which made an impressive jump from the Number 21 spot the previous year, and "Roseanne" still going strong in its 7th season (15.6/24) at Number 9.

The 27 year-old "60 Minutes" was still a ratings champ for CBS marking its 18th consecutive appearance in the Nielsen top ten, coming in at Number 6 (17.1/28).

Clearly, scheduling was everything as far as some shows were concerned. The 10 year-old "Murder, She Wrote" (primetime's oldest currently running drama) rounded out the top ten, appearing in the tenth spot for the '94-'95 season. Since its September 1984 premiere, the Angela Lansbury mystery drama had always landed in the top ten or just underneath. However, when CBS executives decided to shift it from its Sunday 8-9 P.M. slot for the first time, opting for the same hour on Thursday for the Fall 1995 season, the show plummeted in the first week's ratings down to Number 55.

NBC declared a war of sorts on the Fox Network, asking the Federal Communications Commission to issue a ruling on whether Fox was in violation of FCC rules. NBC insisted that a majority of Fox's stations were under foreign ownership. Fox responded by reminding NBC that Fox owner, Australian-born Rupert Murdoch, had become a U.S. citizen in order not to upset FCC rules and maintain ownership. To Fox this was nothing more than NBC trying to make trouble in light of the fourth network's increasing competition. In the past few years, Fox has snatched away several affiliates from NBC and the other networks. Although the battle went to such extremes as NBC issuing anti-Fox bumper stickers the FCC dismissed the charges.

A survey by A.C. Nielsen revealed that some 23 million adults were watching television at "out of home" locations including bars, hotels, college facilities, etc., and were therefore not tracked by the ratings system. This accounted for a surprising 21% of adults' overall tv time, or an additional 4% increase in viewership for each figure reported. As an example, ABC noted that some 930,000 viewers over the age of 18 watched "NFL Monday Night Football" away from their homes which would increase the program's ratings by a full point.

The never ending debate against tv violence received a higher profile than usual in 1995 with President Clinton's endorsement of the Congressional proposal for a "V Chip" to screen programs with violent content. The chip, a device which could be installed for as little as $5 by parents not able to play watchdog around the clock, would block programs which would be transmitted with a signal signifying that they contained violence and were inappropriate for children. The efficacy of the device would depend on the broadcasters transmitting the code for each program deemed inappropriate, be it in violent or sexual content. The problem lay in designating who would decide exactly what was objectionable material, the networks complaining that the decision of what to watch was being taken from the viewer and put in the hands of the government.

In July of 1995 the FCC gave approval for Pacific Bell, California's dominant telephone system, to construct "an integrated hybrid fiber-coaxial system" which would offer video and interactive services to some 1.3 million homes in Orange County, Los Angeles, San Diego, and parts of San Francisco.

Fearful of the increasing tendency of tv viewers to switch off during commercials advertisers have struck on an idea to bring commercials to the consumers outside their homes. Turner Broadcasting and ABC among others have been setting up monitors in subway stations, airline terminals, theme parks and supermarkets.

1994-95 was saddened by the deaths of such stalwart TV personalities as Elizabeth Montgomery, Howard Cosell, Gale Gordon, Doug McClure, Harry Guardino, Ida Lupino, Lionel Stander, Harriet Nelson, and John Cameron Swayze. Late September of 1995 also saw the passing of former General Manager and Vice President of Quigley Publishing, Robert McDonald. # CABLE TELEVISION

STATISTICS

HISTORICAL DATES

- FIRST OVER-THE-AIR TOLL-TV EXPERIMENTS: 1950, Skiatron system tested over WOR-TV in New York City. 1951, Telemeter system tested over KTLA-TV, Los Angeles; Zenith tested its system over its own experimental station in Chicago.
- FEBRUARY 10, 1955: Federal Communications Commission started proceedings to determine whether it should authorize TV stations to transmit programs paid for on a subscription basis. Study involved 92 docket volumes reflecting the views of over 25,000 persons on legal, technical and policy questions.
- MAY 23, 1957: FCC concluded it had authority to authorize use of TV broadcast frequencies for subscription operations if it found it were in the public interest to do so. Did not define whether this service should be classified as "broadcasting" or some other.
- OCTOBER 17, 1957: FCC adopted its first report on the proceedings and declared it would consider applications to conduct trial pay-TV operations over TV stations provided certain conditions were met.
- MARCH 24, 1959: FCC issued third report saying it was ready to consider any pay-TV application by a commercial TV station conforming with requirements, among which were limitation of three-year trial authorizations to markets where there were at least four commercial TV stations (including the pay-TV one), and one trial system allowed per market.
- JUNE 22, 1960: Hartford Phonevision Co. (later RKO General Phonevision Co.), a licensee of WHCT (Channel 18), Hartford, CT, applied for authority to conduct a three-year trial subscription-TV operation. Application granted February 23, 1961. Operations began June 29, 1962, and concluded in January, 1969.
- JULY 3, 1967: FCC's subscription TV committee submitted a fourth report proposing an over-the-air subscription TV service. Rules were designed to integrate subscription TV into the total TV system so good programming would continue to be available over regular TV stations.
- DECEMBER 12, 1968: FCC formally established over-the-air subscription TV as a regular broadcast service.
- 1975: Home Box Office became the first in the television industry to use a satellite for regular transmission of programming.
- 1984: The FCC officially deregulated the cable industry, permitting pricing flexibility and enabling operators to raise charges for basic cable services by adding new channels while reducing service charges for premium channels.
- 1985: The Court of Appeals struck down the "must carry" rules which required cable operators to carry all local broadcast stations.

By the close of the holiday period Walt Disney had once again broken records. The 1937 groundbreaker, "Snow White and the 7 Dwarfs," Disney's first animated feature, made its long delayed debut on video and promptly became the best-selling video of all-time with approximately 24-25 million units sold. However by March of 1995, the studio's all-time box office champ, "The Lion King," dethroned "Snow White" with sales of more than 26 million units. "The Lion King" is expected to further increase its numbers with Holiday '95 sales.

All-Time Top Selling Videos in the U.S. in Number of Units

1. The Lion King (Disney)	26.0 million
2. Snow White and the 7 Dwarfs (Disney)	25.0 million*
3. Aladdin (Disney)	24.0 million
4. Beauty and the Beast (Disney)	22.0 million
5. Jurassic Park (MCA/Universal)	16.5 million

Not to be outdone in the rental market, Buena Vista Home Video set records for number of retail orders for a tape with 715,000 units for the 1994 hit "Pulp Fiction" which was released in theatres by the Disney owned Miramax. The previous record for a rental had been 1991's "Terminator 2: Judgement Day" (LIVE Home Video) with 690,000 units.

Piracy continues to be a major problem for motion picture companies, costing them approximately $250 million in lost revenue in 1994. A study of the first quarter of 1995 showed an increase in piracy from the same period in 1994. In early 1995, there were more than 133,000 pirated videos seized and 1,865 VCRs used to produce them. The previous year there were 72,000 videos and 440 VCRs seized.

Video chains were outraged when Barbra Streisand signed a deal to release "Barbra Streisand in Concert" with an additional song on the video not included on the regular version to Blockbuster Entertainment, excluding other video dealers. Other retailers feared a dangerous precedent being set, one dealer going so far as to bring a lawsuit against Blockbuster.

Motion pictures being made expressly for video sell-through were becoming the norm among major companies. Disney's "Aladdin" sequel, "The Return of Jafar," released in 1994 sold over 10,000 units by year end, generating revenues of $120 million. Another follow-up was already being planned by 1995. A future TV mini-series, "Texas," debuted on video in late 1994 prior to its 1995 television showing. Disney planned its second sequel to the 1989 fantasy hit "Honey, I Shrank the Kids" as a direct-to-video title, and quickly produced animated features from Sony with titles closely resembling Disney's "Jungle King" and "Snow White," were snatched up by video consumers impatient for the genuine items to hit the market.

CORPORATE HISTORIES OF THE NETWORKS

Capital Cities/ABC, Inc.

Like the other major U.S. television networks, ABC had its origins in radio. In the beginning Radio Corporation of America (RCA) owned two radio networks: the Blue and the Red. In 1941 the FCC decreed that the same company could not own two networks, so RCA incorporated the Blue under the name of American Broadcasting System and established it as an independent subsidiary with 116 stations. RCA then sold this network to Edward J. Noble, founder and chairman of the Life Savers Corporation, for $8 million. The name was changed to the American Broadcasting Company in 1944, at which time the network had 197 radio affiliates.

Television arrived for ABC in 1948 when, on April 19, ABC carried its first TV program: "On the Corner," with Henry Morgan, which was sponsored by the Admiral Radio Corp. Later in the year ABC scored two "firsts": the live broadcast of an opera (Verdi's "Otello") from the Metropolitan Opera House in New York and a TV documentary, "The Marshall Plan."

The next big step for ABC came in 1952 with its merger with United Paramount Theatres, the motion picture theatre circuit founded when Paramount Pictures was required under the Sherman Anti-Trust Act to separate its film production unit from its theatres. This merger was engineered by Leonard H. Goldenson, then the president of UPT. The new company was called American Broadcasting-Paramount Theatres, Inc.

During the 1950's ABC began operation at a profit although it had to struggle fiercely to acquire new affiliates. In 1954 ABC made a deal with Walt Disney to acquire a 35 per cent interest in Disneyland and all TV programs produced by Disney. The following year ABC signed an exclusive rights contract with Warner Bros. for TV programming.

The 1960's brought many changes to ABC beginning with the introduction of color programming for the fall season of 1962; this was expanded in 1966 to include full color broadcasting. In 1965 AB-PT's name was changed to American Broadcasting Companies, Inc. and the company's corporate headquarters were moved from West 66th Street in New York to 1330 Avenue of the Americas, where they remained until 1989.

High points in the decade of the '60s also included the introduction of the blockbuster theatrical movie to TV with spectacular rating results when "The Bridge on the River Kwai" was viewed (in 1966) by 60 million Americans.

In 1967 the ABC evening news was expanded from 15 minutes to a half hour, and Joey Bishop inaugurated ABC's late-night programming with his talk show.

An attempt to gain control of ABC by Howard Hughes was circumvented by Goldenson in 1968. Hughes said publicly that he abandoned his efforts to acquire the network because of the strong resistance of Goldenson; however, it was speculated elsewhere that he gave up because as new owner of ABC he would have had to attend a public hearing under the auspices of the FCC. The fanatically reclusive Hughes, it was assumed, would never have agreed to come out of seclusion for such an event.

The decade of the Seventies was an eventful one for ABC, too, not the least because in 1972 it was able to operate at a profit for the first time in ten years. Also in the 1976-77 season ABC moved for the first time into first place in the ratings race.

In 1976 Barbara Walters joined ABC, becoming the first anchorwoman in television history. Her almost $1 million a year salary caused lifted eyebrows among her fellow anchor persons, including Harry Reasoner and Howard K. Smith.

In 1977 the mini-series "Roots" appeared on ABC and became the all-time highest-rated program. This helped immensely in the ratings race, and credit must go in large part to Fred Silverman who two years before had joined the company as president of ABC International. He left in 1978 to go to NBC.

The decade of the Eighties was a turbulent one for the television industry as cable TV and home video began whittling away at their audiences. ABC was no exception. Halfway through the period—in 1985—ABC agreed to be purchased by Capital Cities Communications at a cost of $3.5 billion. 1986 saw formal completion of the takeover and the merged company's name was changed to Capital Cities/ABC, Inc.

ABC dropped into second place in 1979-80, a position it held until 1983-84 when it dropped to third position. It was unable to rise above that until 1987-88 when it displaced CBS in second place, primarily because of special sports programming, such as the World Series and the Superbowl. It remained second in 1988-89 and 1989-90. In the latter season ABC had the distinctions of having the most talked-about new series of the period, "Twin Peaks," and the highest-rated new series, "America's Funniest Home Videos."

With the departure of Goldenson, that year also brought other important changes in management. Daniel B. Burke replaced Frederick J. Pierce as president and chief operating officer. There were also sweeping reductions in personnel in the interests of economy and streamlining. (At least 1,000 employees were fired.)

Budget cuts notwithstanding Capital Cities/ABC chairman Thomas Murphy pledged ABC would not scrimp on programming. Instead the focus was to be on the network's non-programming expenses which accounted for about 30 per cent of the budget. One result was to cut out internally-generated research which was to be contracted for on an ad hoc basis as needed.

Profits at the end of 1990 rose about $70 million. Of the three networks ABC won the ratings battle in news coverage of the war in the Persian Gulf. For two seasons in a row the network could boast having the only new series in the top ten: "America's Funniest People" (1990-91) and "Home Improvement" (1991-92).

Capital Cities/ABC owns eight television stations and 21 radio stations and is a partner in ESPN, the highly successful cable TV sports channel and two other cable TV services—Arts & Entertainment and Lifetime. It also owns publishing operations which include nine daily newspapers, several weeklies and a variety of trade and consumer magazines.

ABC was the only network of the 1992-93 season to gain ground, moving into second place behind CBS, from its previous third place standing. During the season Robert A. Iger became the new network president.

The network became the first to sign a deal with a cable operator (in this case Continental Cablevision) allowing their stations to be carried on cable without paying a fee.

In 1994 the company signed an affiliation deal with E.W.Scripps Company to switch several of their stations over to ABC.

The big event of 1995 was the $19 billion acquisition of Capital Cities/ABC by the Walt Disney Company, said to be the second largest corporate takeover in history.

Columbia Broadcasting System, Inc.

CBS first saw the light of day in 1927 as a radio network with 16 stations—United Independent Broadcasters, Inc.—founded by Arthur Judson, a concert tour manager. In need of money, Judson secured backing from Louis Sterling, president of the Columbia Phonograph Company, and changed the network name to Columbia Phonograph Broadcasting System. Later other investors were invited in, the most prominent of whom was William S. Paley, who, on September 26, 1928, at the age of 27, became president of the firm whose name was changed again. Now it was called the Columbia Broadcasting System.

Paley introduced many innovations to radio broadcasting, most significant of which was the signing of an agreement in 1931 with Paramount Pictures whereby film stars were heard on radio for the first time. This laid the groundwork for the CBS policy in television from the outset to feature shows built around stars (Ed Sullivan, Lucille Ball, Arthur Godfrey, Jack Benny, Burns & Allen, Garry Moore, etc.).

Actually CBS was in TV as early as 1931 when it began regularly scheduled TV programming over experimental station W2XAB in New York City. In 1941 CBS began weekly broadcast of black-and-white TV programming over WCBS-TV in New York. By 1948 it had 30 affiliated stations.

The decade of the 1950's brought many important advances. In 1951 CBS broadcast the first live coast-to-coast TV transmission between New York and San Francisco. In 1952 there came opening of Television City in Hollywood—the industry's first self-contained TV production facility. In 1956 "Playhouse 90" made its debut and set new high standards for drama originated on TV.

But the big event of the decade came along in 1951 with the debut of "I Love Lucy." The road to creating that phenomenal success was a rocky one. For one thing CBS did not want Desi Arnaz, and signed him only on the insistence of Lucille Ball. Second, the couple wanted to work before a live audience—a practice also anathema to the CBS powers-that-be. Ball and Arnaz persisted, and their efforts led to what is regarded as the invention of the situation-comedy format.

1951 was also the year that Bill Gordon designed the CBS Eye—destined to become one of the most famous logos in the world.

In the field of soap operas CBS was both leader and winner, virtually monopolizing that market from 1951 to 1956. In 1951 it introduced "Search for Tomorrow," which was to become the longest-running show ever in that genre. This was followed by "Love of Life" (1951), "The Guiding Light" (1952), both overnight hits. "Guiding Light" was still on the air in 1995, as was the fourth soap CBS introduced, "As the World Turns" (1956).

In the late '50s and through the '60s and '70s CBS reigned as king of prime time ratings as tallied by the Nielsen Company. It had tied with NBC in 1969-70 and 1970-71 and ABC led in three seasons; but the rest of the time CBS was Number One.

CBS had maintained its long-running lead with such successes as "Gunsmoke" (1957), "The Defenders" (1961), "The Beverly Hillbillies" (1962), "All in the Family" (1972) and "Dallas" (1978). Also helping was "60 Minutes," the news-oriented show, which in 1995 had remained in the Top Ten prime time shows for 18 consecutive seasons. Thus it was quite a jolt to the company when in 1985-86 it slipped to second place and stayed there through the following season. Then came the worst blow of all: in 1987-88 CBS came in third for the first time in TV history.

CBS began the turbulent Eighties with a new president, Thomas Wyman (replacing John D. Backe). In 1985 Atlanta broadcast entrepreneur Ted Turner made an unfriendly junk-bond bid for CBS. In a clever move the network bought up 21 per cent of its own stock for $956 million and thwarted the takeover. Turner went after MGM/UA instead.

Meanwhile Laurence A. Tisch, a former theatre chain executive, had become the major stockholder in CBS and in 1986 he instigated some sweeping changes in the interests of cost-cutting and efficiency. Some 700 jobs were eliminated at the CBS Broadcast Group. Tisch also removed Wyman as president, named himself chief executive officer and induced founder William Paley to return to active duty as acting chairman of the board.

In 1988, stung by CBS' worst prime time rating performance ever, Tisch shuffled executive ranks again, naming Howard Stringer, previously president of CBS News, as president of the Broadcasting Group. He replaced Gene F. Jankowski, who was named to the newly created position of chairman of the Broadcast Group. He also brought in Jay L. Kriegel, a lawyer, one-time political aide and former executive for the Tisch family's Loews Corporation. Kriegel, who had no background in television, was named CBS senior vice president and became part of a triumvirate with Tisch and Stringer to devise strategy to pull the network out of its decline in the prime-time ratings competition which had begun with its drop to second place in 1986-87 and to third in 1987-88, 1988-89 and 1989-90. Their plans are essentially twofold: 1) to improve programming and 2) to streamline operations so they can concentrate on broadcasting. (Tisch has sold parts of the company, including records and publishing divisions.)

Kriegel was instrumental in bringing to CBS in 1990 Jeff Sagansky, former head of Tri-Star Pictures, as president of the entertainment division. Sagansky has said his goals are to be different; to attract star performers; and to broaden the base of CBS viewers, which has grown older and less desirable to advertisers.

Starting in 1991-92 CBS became the number one network for three years in a row based on the success of such shows as "60 Minutes" (the number one show for both '91-'92 and '92-'93), "Murphy Brown," "Murder She Wrote," and "Northern Exposure."

CBS was hit hardest by Fox Inc.'s 1994 purchase of twelve stations from New World Communications, losing eight affiliates. An announced merger with QVC Network came to naught. However the following summer Westinghouse Electric Corp. acquired the final independent network for $5.4 billion creating the largest collection of tv and radio stations in America.

The 1994-95 season was a low point for the network as it plunged from number one to number three. By season's end it had the dubious distinction of being the first of the three majors to fall into 4th place, coming in below Fox for the last week before the debut of the 1995-96 season.

National Broadcasting Company

Television began for NBC in 1928, when on April 4, it acquired from the Federal Communications Commission a permit to operate an experimental station, W2XBS. Actual transmission from the Empire State Building did not begin, however, until October 30, 1931. Some eight years later the network began broadcasting on a regular basis, beginning with the opening of the New York World's Fair on April 30, 1939. NBC, like the other networks, was an outgrowth of radio operations. Radio Corp. of America, General Electric and Westinghouse jointly launched a network in 1926 which had 31 stations; 25 in a network called Red and 6 in one called Blue. A year later it was forced to sell the Blue network to ABC (see history of that network), keeping for itself the one known as Red.

In 1930 RCA bought out its partners, GE and Westinghouse, and NBC became its wholly owned subsidiary.

NBC became a TV network on January 12, 1940, when two stations, WNBC-TV, New York, and WRGB-TV, Schenectady, New York, carried the first network programming. In June, 1941, the FCC granted NBC the first commercial TV license and a month later it had four advertisers signed up: Procter & Gamble, Lever Brothers, Sun Oil and Bulova.

After World War II NBC scored two big "firsts." On June 19, 1946, Gillette became the first advertiser to sponsor a TV network show, the Joe Louis-Billy Conn boxing match. That same year Bristol-Myers became the first sponsor of a network TV series, "Geographically Speaking."

NBC can also claim to be the first to introduce coast-to-coast network TV coverage. On September 4, 1951, when the U.S.-Japanese peace treaty was signed in San Francisco, its cameras were on hand.

In 1952 NBC pioneered early morning programming when it introduced "The Today Show."

NBC can also claim the first regularly scheduled network color series "The Marriage," launched in 1954. That same year it achieved the first west-to-east TV transmission with the telecast of the Tournament of Roses Parade in color. At the start of the 1965-66 season it could declare it was the "only all-color network."

In 1968 NBC introduced new forms of TV programming with "The Name of the Game," a series that incorporated feature-film elements into a 90-minute show. This then spawned the "NBC Mystery Movie"—a series of programs composed of "Columbo," "Hec Ramsey," "McMillan and Wife," "McCloud," "Amy Prentiss," "McCoy," and "Quincy, M.E."

In 1972 NBC broke new ground again when it introduced "The Tomorrow Show" shown from 1:00 a.m. to 2:00 a.m. This was a talk program and it demonstrated that in the wee small hours of the morning something more than re-runs and old movies could be shown. In 1974 another late-night show called "Weekend" was begun.

In 1976 NBC's telecast of "Gone with the Wind" drew the largest audience to that date for an entertainment program. In 1978 its "Holocaust" mini-series attracted 107 million viewers and won 21 major awards.

Such programs helped NBC in the ratings, but in 1976-77 it fell to third place, where it stayed until 1983-84. (Ironically 1976 was the year in which NBC celebrated its 50th anniversary in broadcasting with a four-hour, star-filled special.) Along with the other networks NBC moved into a period of turmoil during the decade of the Eighties, fighting off rising costs and competition from cable TV and home video. In 1986 General Electric Corporation purchased RCA (NBC's parent) for $6.28 billion; GE, it will be remembered, helped launch the radio network in 1926 which led to the development of NBC-TV. This brought personnel changes led by the replacement of Grant A. Tinker as NBC chief executive officer by Robert Wright, although Wright was not given Tinker's chairman title, that being taken by John F. Welch of GE. Instead Wright was named president as well as chief executive officer. Along with its competition NBC started cutting staff and budgets in 1986.

In 1984-85 NBC edged up to second place, and the following year it was ranked Number One in prime-time viewing for the first time in the three decades of such tallying by Nielsen. (For the record NBC did tie for first place with CBS in 1969-70 and 1970-71.)

NBC held on to its first place standing for the following five seasons, through 1990-91. Long-time hit series in the five-year period included "The Golden Girls," "Cheers," and "The Cosby Show." Despite the network's number one standing figures showed a steady decline in viewers, even for the tried and true successes. In May of 1991 Brandon Tartikoff, credited for pulling the network up from third place 11 years earlier, departed from NBC to become head of Paramount Pictures. When "The Cosby Show" ran its final first run episode on April 30, 1992 it became NBC's highest-rated series finale episode ever with a 28.0 rating/45 share. The 1992 Summer Olympics also gave the network its widest ratings margin of all time, 12 points over 2nd place CBS. The May 1993 season finale of the long running "Cheers" gave NBC a smashing 15.1 average rating, a figure usually reserved for major sports events.

The 1994-95 season found NBC on top with its popular sitcom "Seinfeld" and the two most highly rated new series, "ER" and "Friends" both placing in the top ten.

The Department of Communication of the U.S. Catholic Conference (the public policy agency of the Catholic Bishops of America) addresses the Church's apostolate in and through the print and electronic media. It provides advice and technical assistance on more than 40 radio and network television programs a year.

The Department also publishes a weekly guide to current films and television programs that appear in 100 plus papers of the Catholic Press in the United States. In this activity the Department reviews all current nationally-released theatrical films, and provides information about resources for film utilization and education (16mm films, books, magazines, festivals). The critical reviews are addressed to the moral, as well as the aesthetic, dimensions of motion pictures, and are the result of a consensus based on the reactions of the Department's professional staff and Board of Consultants. All films reviewed are also classified according to the Department's rating system. In addition, this weekly service carries information and evaluative studies on trends and issues pertinent to television, with an emphasis on educational material. The Department also plays a liaison role for the USCC with the film and broadcasting industries, national media, and religious agencies and organizations. It is a member of OCIC and UNDA, the international Catholic organizations for film and broadcasting, respectively. Consultation and information services are also provided for the Pontifical Commission for Social Communications and the communication offices of national episcopal offices throughout the world.

With staff assistance, the episcopal members of the Communication Committee administer funds raised through the Catholic Communication Campaign, an annual collection. These funds are used to support a variety of media programs, projects, and studies in this country and the Third World.

NEW TECHNOLOGIES

At the end of 1995, some developers of interactive technologies fear that their products may go the way of quadrophonic sound and the Beta format videocassette. Indeed, many of the early CD-ROM products (1991-94) are now selling in software stores by the foot. But there is no better measure of how the interactive revolution has taken hold than the big-screen success of "Mortal Kombat", the most successful movie yet to be based on a video game.

In the arena of proprietary technologies, the newly released Sony PlayStation gained an early sales lead over the competition, although the holiday gift season has not started yet. The Sega platform is outperforming Nintendo in the marketplace, with Nintendo having not yet released their 64-bit Ultra system (due April 1996). Many games are available for both Nintendo and Sega platforms. Some of the better selling interactive game titles on CD-ROM are for use on standard computer platforms. More and more interactive products utilize fully filmed and/or stop-motion videos of actors, and in this new environment, SAG and AFTRA already have established model contracts for interactive work by actors in games and other ventures. Record labels are exploring the "enhanced" CD, also known as CD Plus, which function as traditional music CDs in CD players, and display multimedia applications when used in CD-ROM players. Philips has released product for standard CD-ROM usage, along with titles for its proprietary CD-I format, and are marketing MPEG approved videos for CD-ROM.

Sony, Warner and Toshiba have agreed on a standard for the DVD (Digital Video Disc) CD-movie format, an impressive achievement in an industry that is rumored to utilize 23 separate standards for the delivery of video to the small screen.

Senator James Exon proposed a bill that would restrict the transmission of "adult" materials transmitted over the Internet, and punish those who offered these materials. This bill relies on the "community standards" measure as a test for indecency, an arbitrary standard and one that could possibly cause trouble for the entertainment community in the future. Alternative bills have been introduced.

One the most popular uses that the entertainment industry has found for the advertising and promotion of entertainment products is the WorldWideWeb (WWW) and other commercial services (America OnLine, Compuserve, etc.). Initially, the Internet "community" frowned on advertising within their "areas". However, commercial services began to provide areas for advertisers to display their products and services. Now it is a standard promotional practice for major motion pictures and network television series to use and promote a Website within the body of their advertising. As an example of how powerful a promotion tool this can be, it was reported that there were a record 2 millions "hits" (requests for data) on the Fall film "Showgirls" Website within the first 24 hours of its establishment... an incredible 83,000 "hits" per hour.

Piracy of copyrighted materials on the Internet is a serious problem already. Copyrighted materials from major developers are being found at FTP (File Transfer Protocol) areas on Internet. The Federal Government's attitude towards encryption technologies, and their insistence on a "back door" code, accessible to law enforcement, in any licenced encrypting technology causes developers of commercial software (which at some point in the future may include movies and programming), and those interested in conducting financial transactions over the Internet a great deal of trepidation.

BRITISH YEAR IN REVIEW

Following the re-structuring and changes of operators of commercial TV and the British Broadcasting Corporation (BBC) - the public broadcaster funded by the government imposed license fee on owners of TV sets - both networks maintain their popularity with British viewers. Advertising revenue has risen, subscriptions to satellite services have increased and more homes have been connected to cable entertainment and telephone services. Nevertheless, for 84 percent of the population, watching television still means ITV, Channel 4 and BBC 1 and 2. However, average daily hours of viewing are declining. In this multi-media age the competition for viewers' attention has become ever more intense. The industry has achieved some notable successes. Moreover, the overall quality of UK production and the advantages of the English language indicates the potential for further growth.

The annual report of the ITC (Independent Television Commission) stated that BSKyB was the largest earner of subscription income with around 90 percent of the subscription market. The disclosure by the group that 83 percent of its turnover was from subscriptions and just 14 percent from advertising underscores the importance of this income to BSKyB. The other cable and satellite programme licensees were relatively small by comparison with only 11 reporting subscriptions in excess of £2 million ($3.2 million). Programme sales are predominantly an ITV and Channel 4 activity. Sales, including those for the terrestrial sector, were £442 million ($707 million), or 18 percent of total income. Of this, £48 million ($76 million) was represented by overseas sales.

Over 51 percent of income for commercial television is devoted to production, commission and acquisition of programmes. The figures are broadly similar for ITV and Channel 4, but the percentage is somewhat lower for BSKyB. The cost of the programmes shown on ITV in 1994 was £844 million ($1.4 billion). Excluding acquired programmes, the total cost was £787 million ($1.3 billion), and within this, £490 million ($784 million) - 62 percent - was related to network programmes excluding news, with drama being the most expensive and daytime the least expensive.

On the BBC front, the Corporation retained a hold on the attention of the public with 96 percent of all households watching and listening to BBC for at least two hours a week. The average household watches or listens for 48 hours a week. Commenting on this trend, John Brit, Director-General, said "I have no doubt that the sheer scale of the current expansion will lead all the established broadcasters to lose share over time. There have been ten further satellite TV channels, and the number of homes subscribing to cable or satellite has risen to over 3.4 million. Sensing the challenge, ITV has put the emphasis on entertainment, and Channel 4 has developed a more commercial schedule. These are natural courses for commercial broadcasters but neither will work for the BBC. We will concentrate on the kind of broadcasting most at risk in a commercial market place, original entertainment, intelligent news and current affairs, a comprehensive service of education and the full reflection of our national culture". Following an alliance with Pearson Plc, one of Britain's most respected media companies, the BBC, brought its international television activities including programme sales and broadcast services into a new grouping, BBC Worldwide, alongside its publishing business.

Channel 5, Britain's third commercial terrestrial station after Channel 4 and ITV, is expected to be 'on air' by early 1997. Currently, the ITC is considering the four bids for the channel. The highest bid under consideration was the UKTV consortium for £36 million ($57 million), but the ITC insists that while the license will go to the highest bidder, it needs to be satisfied with the bidder's business plan and programming. A decision is expected before the end of 1995.

British cable television is fully financed by the private sector and is providing a local service with over 130 franchises. At this reporting, 70 are active. Its networks will cover 75 percent of the countries' population within ten years. Over £3 billion ($4.8 billion) has been invested to build the network's installation in 4.5 million homes, part of a projected £10 billion ($16 billion) investment. The dominant player is BSKyB which has made substantial progress in establishing the UK's first major satellite company with its subscription movie channels. Since its flotation on the stock market, operating profits have soared and subscribers have reached a record 4.05 million.

The majority of overseas material on the networks still originates in the USA although, in recent years, Australian series and feature films have made their impact. As a consequence, Britain continues to be a lucrative market. And as television becomes the main leisure activity for people and ninety-nine percent watch the small screen, tuning in for an average of 28 hours a week, the business can only become more lucrative.

The ITC's annual survey of public attitudes to television has been run almost every year since 1970. In 1980, almost every home had a TV set, a majority had a colour set, and a sizable minority had a second set. The video cassette recorder had only just come on the market, and only a handful of sets could receive teletext. The 80's, however, was the decade which saw the VCR and teletext take-off, together with home computers, satellite dishes, video games and cable. The 1994 survey showed that only 11 percent of homes overall and only 2 percent with children had none of those. The following table shows Home Entertainment Equipment in UK homes.

THE BRITISH video retail market is the most developed in Europe being about twice the volume of any other country and expanding every year since its inception. The BVA (British Video Association) estimates that 66 million pre-recorded videos were sold in 1994, an increase of ten percent over the previous year. In recent years, this growth has been fuelled by the expansion of distribution into new areas such as supermarkets and general multiples stores. Average price paid by consumers is £10.80 ($17.28). This values the market at £698 million ($1.1 billion).

For the second consecutive year, Buena Vista had the three best selling videos with "Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs" taking the top spot ahead of "Aladdin" and "Bambi". All three are now among the six best sellers of all time, as are "The Park" and "Mrs. Doubtfire". Twelve of the Top 20 originated in the cinema. The Top 5 sold substantially more than a million copies and all the Top 20 sold at least 200,000 units.

On the rental side, "Jurassic Park" just failed to emulate its cinema success and had to settle for 2nd place behind "The Fugitive" with both being hired over 4.3 million times. The last quarter of 1994 saw the rental market enjoy healthy growth with 14 films rented more than two million times in the year and a further 34 more than one million times.

As in the cinema, American films continue to dominate the British market. In addition to Buena Vista, CIC, FoxVideo, Warner and Columbia Tristar together with PolyGram and BBC Video regularly feature in the Top 20 companies.

In fact, after several years of losing share as new genres developed, feature films recovered spectacularly in 1994 helped by the availability of family-orientated blockbusters. Between them, the film and children's sectors accounted for two thirds of the market. Over 500 films were released on rental, nearly half of which fell into the Drama/Thriller category. Led by "The Fugitive," these accounted for 40 percent of transactions while Comedy took over a quarter of rentals thanks to the films like of "Four Weddings And A Funeral" and "Mrs. Doubtfire".

The Rank Organization's video duplication volumes increased by almost a half and the business experienced strong demand from its customers in America and Europe, especially when Rank's customers released a number of popular sell-through video titles. Rank plans to increase its production capacity in 1995 with the construction of a new facility at North Little Rock, Arkansas.

TV ad spending has more than doubled since 1991 and is expected to reach $2 billion this year. Since the National Institute for Film & Audiovisual Arts will receive 25% of COM-FEF'S income, they will invest some new money in TV-movies and made-for-video movies. U.S. cable company TCI has committed to an 80% purchase of the major Argentine cable company MSO CableVision, which has more than 450,000 subscribers, despite the weakening Argentine peso. TCI is considering long-term growth potential in the Latin American market.

A new law was passed, levying a 10% tax on video sales and rentals. As Argentina's video industry is in a battle against piracy, this law will help solve problems with the six-month window between theatrical and video release.

AUSTRALIA

Population: 7.8 million.

VCR Homes: 6 million.

Satellite penetration: 6,000.

Cable penetration: 415.

Economic growth in 1994 - 6.4%, up 2.4%.

TV Networks: Seven, Nine, and Ten - commercial.

ABC and SBS-publicly-funded.

35 regional, independent stations.

Satellite Service: SKY Channel DBS sports service [subscriptions at bars and clubs].

U.S. cable company.

Australian TV's (ATV) nascent Asian satellite service was in need of funding and received $AU25 million ($18 million) in aid from the Public Broadcasters board. Three commercial networks could receive $AU6 million ($4 million) each per year for the next three years in order to acquire and commission new local programming under proposals being put forward by Australian Broadcasting Authority (ABA).

Nine won ratings war with a 32.6% share, followed by Seven with 28.8%, Ten, 22.2%, Public Broadcasters ABC, 13.7% and Special Broadcasting Service, 2.7%. The same order as in the first half of this year. Australian television programming is trending towards lighter entertainment, clip shows and local drama, and away from current affairs. Budgets have gone up due to the high quality of local drama. License fees for drama series from three commercial networks is $AU150,000 ($110,000) per hour, and will require overseas sales to augment their funding. Seven Network bought 80% of Hong Kong based Waverly Inc. for $7.3 million. They also paid $75 million for the rights to broadcast the 1996 Atlanta Olympic Games and the Sydney 2000 Olympics. Pay-TV was launched in late January after many delays. It's having a slow start, with 3 rivals in pay-TV - Australis Media (Galaxy multichannel service), Foxtel (News Corp/Telstra), and Optus Vision (Continental Cablevision, telephone company Optus and Kerry Packer's Publishing & Broadcasting Ltd.). Galaxy was the first to go national with 10,000 plus subscribers, hoping for 200,000 within 12 months. Seven Network announced that it has signed a joint venture with Optus Vision, despite threats of legal action from its major shareholder, Kerry Stokes. The broadcast networks are spending more money at MIP for programming, and are not concerned with competition from pay TV. Galaxy was only offering $A4,000 ($3,000) an hour for independent series and $1,500 for documentaries.

Top selling videos: Aladdin, Bambi. Also, Australia Broadcasting's Bananas in Pyjamas did well.

Top 10 rentals: The Firm, Cliffhanger, A Few Good Men, The Fugitive, Made in America, Malice, Sleepless in Seattle, The Pelican Brief, Striking Distance, Tombstone.

The Australian home video market is very successful, with children's animated movies topping video rental & sell-through for the second year in a row in 1994. Sales of rental videos increased to $AU195 million ($149.4 million) from $AU177 million ($135.6 million). Units rented were up from 2.3 million to 2.6 million. Blockbuster plans to add 200 superstores costing $AU100 million ($74 million) by 1998. But Blockbuster has competition from several video chains, Civic Video and Video Ezy.

Austria's only TV and radio network, the Austrian Broadcasting Corp (ORF), an independent public corporation, operates two TV channels, FS 1, which broadcasts from 9 a.m. until midnight, and FS 2, which broadcasts from the afternoon to midnight. Of Austria's 2,760,000 households, over 95% have at least one TV set. On an average, ORF TV reaches approximately 72% of the country's 7,600,000 people daily with primetime viewership roughly 55% of the population. Additionally, in each of Austria's nine provinces, ORF has regional studios for local broadcasting of nine hours daily. Approximately 60% of ORF's revenue comes from radio and TV license fees, while 40% comes from radio and TV advertising. ORF-Zentrum Wien, A-1136 Wien, Wurzburggasse 30. Tel: 0222 878780.

Satellite Penetration: 0.4%.

Flemish commercial market leader VTM launched its 2nd channel, Kanal 2. Two days later UK-based V4 followed, its only commercial competitor in VTM's 6 year history. Kanal 2 has a 50% market share, VTM's 1st channel 46%. V4's share is only 3%, but a deal with the Paramount Television Group could help it compete and VTM's virtual monopoly could fall. Belgium's television industry relies heavily on American programming.

BRAZIL

Population: 155.3 million.

TV Homes: 32 million.

Pay TV Homes: 500,000.

System: PAL-M, an adaptation of the German system PAL (phase alternate line) to American system NTSC.

Number of Networks: 4 (private) plus an official network of State-owned broadcasters.

Main Networks: Globo (No. of stations: 64), (Audience %: 64%), (Coverage percentage: 99.93%), SBT (No. of stations: 48), (Audience %: 21%), (Coverage percentage: 89.00%), Bandeirantes (No. of stations: 44), (Audience %: 3%), (Coverage percentage: 87.98%), Manchete (No. of stations: 29), (Audience %: 6%), (Coverage percentage: 70.00%), Sinred (state-owned channels) (No. of stations: 21).

Foreign investment in Brazil's growing pay TV market is expected due to new regulations. The government will resume the issuing of licenses for cable TV operators and the distribution of licenses for MMDS (microwave delivery or wireless cable). The Brazilian government had stopped issuing these licenses in 1991 when Congress began discussing regulations for the sector. These new regulations were approved Feb. and took effect July 6.

The Lion King has broken all video records in Brazil, selling more than 70,000 copies in a single month. Abril Video, which distributes Disney animated product in Brazil projected selling 800,000 copies by the end of 1995. The film is also breaking records for video store rentals, changing the video market strategy. In the past, video rental stores were the biggest buyers, now direct sales to consumers are topping the market for children's titles. The country's top three best sellers are all from Disney - The Lion King, Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs, and Aladdin.

CANADA

Latest information published by Statistics Canada (StatsCan), a federal government agency:

TV revenues: The total revenue of the broadcasting industry for the year ended August 31, 1994, including the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation, was $C2,606.2 million. Expenses were $C3,679.8 million, which left the industry with a net operating loss of $C1,073.7 million. Revenues for privately-owned television stations increased 1.7% to $C1,490.1 million. Operational expenses represented 94.8% of total revenue compared to 96.6% in 1993. The net operating income revenue ratio of privately-owned television operations before income taxes and other adjustments decreased to 5.1% compared to 5.3% in 1993. Total revenue of the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation (CBC) in 1994 (including NewsWorld) increased to $C350.3 million from $C332.2 million in 1993, and the net cost of CBC operations increased from $C1,069.1 million to $C1,121.8 million.

Number of TV sets: In 1944 colour televisions were in 98.2% of homes. 48.5% of households had two or more colour sets, a substantial increase from 18.0% ten years ago. In 1994 the province of Ontario again led with estimates of 1,634 million households owning one television and 2,153 million with two or more, followed by the province of Québec with estimates of 1,178 million owning one television and 1,518 million with two or more.

Television viewing: In 1993 an average of 22.8 hours weekly was spent watching TV, down slightly from 23.0 hours in 1992, and continuing a downward trend from 24.2 hours in 1986. This drop is due in part to declining viewing by teenagers (12-17) and young children (2-11). Since 1986 the average weekly viewing of these two groups has dropped by about three hours each. Young adults (18-24) also showed some declines, but viewing by the remainder of the population has been much more stable. Young men (18-24) watched less television (16.0 hours) than any other group, followed by teenagers and children. The average for young females (19.8 hours) was almost four hours greater than the viewing by male counterparts, and this high level of viewing by females in relationship to males occurs in all ages groups and provinces. In Québec, francophones tend to watch more television than anglophones (26.1 hours vs. 22.2 hours), and more than citizens of all other provinces. Pay TV and specialty channels continue to receive over 10% of total viewing.

Cable TV revenues/subscribers: In 1994 the cable television industry, including discretionary and other services, reported revenues of $C2.3 billion, a 10.1% increase over 1993. Total revenue from basic cable television operations increased by 4.6% to $C1,759.1 million from $C1,681.0 million. Total revenue from discretionary and other services increased by 21.1% to $C570.3 million from $C470.9 million. Net operating income, before other adjustments and income tax, for the cable television industry increased 30.3% to $C329.6 million from $253.0 million in the previous year, and the total number of subscribers (direct and indirect) increased by 2.3% to 7.8 million from 7.7 million. The number of pay-TV subscribers in relation to the total number of subscribers increased to 69.4% in 1994 from 69.1% in 1993. Cable television now allows 74.1% of homes to expand viewing choice, and cable is most common in the province of British Columbia (83.9%) and least prevalent in the province of Saskatchewan.

Cable Companies: Up to March 31, 1995, the Canadian Radio-Television and Telecommunications Commission (CRTC) reported that there were 2,001 cable systems licensed across all the provinces.

CANADIAN RADIO-TELEVISION AND TELECOMMUNICATIONS COMMISSION (CRTC), Ottawa, Ont. K1A 0N2 (819) 997-0313, Chairman: Keith Spicer, Vice-Chairman: Fernand Belsise, Vice-Chairman: Louis R. Sherman

The CRTC is an independent authority responsible for regulating (under the Broadcasting Act) all broadcasting in Canada, including AM and FM radio, television, cable television, specialty services and pay-television.

The CRTC is also responsible for the regulation, mainly with respect to rates and terms of service, of Canada's federally-regulated telecommunications carriers.

CHILE

Population: 13.5 million. Santiago: 4.8 million.

Megavisión, the first privately-owned network in Chile, is now competing head-to-head with the traditional leaders, televisión Nacional and Universidad Católica television. Megavisión is actually the leader in ratings among the lower income groups, while U. Cat. seems to be gradually isolating itself in the ABC1 strata. TVN is now the consistent leader in Chilean produced telenovelas. The "light comedy" format of all of the recent U. Cat. telenovelas has not caught on among the middle-to-lower classes. Megavisión's telenovelas are from Mexico, produced by its parent company, Televisa. U. Cat.'s nightly news is still the leader, although Megavisión's innovative investigative journalism approach is closing ground.

The smaller networks, Chilevisión (owned by Venesvisión) and La Red (Global/Can-West), are losing ground. Both have suffered severe management crises, and have lost some of their best talent to the larger networks. The trend is: the rich will get richer and the poor will get poorer.

The typical nightly weekday programming format is as follows: 8 p.m. - 9 p.m.: Telenovels; 9 p.m. - 10 p.m.: News. After 10 p.m.: Variety shows, movies or journalistic programs. Liquor and cigarette advtg. cannot be shown until after 10 p.m. All programming is classified as being either "Family" entertainment, "Shared Responsibility" or "Adult."

Among the 50 highest-rated programs during the 1st-qr. of 1995, 16 were soccer matches and 25 were movies. U. Cat. accounted for 27 of the top-50; TVN: 18; Megavisión: 4, and La Red: 1.

Cable & Pay-TV

Cablexpress and TVN paid a reported US$15 million to buy the rights to transmit 168 soccer matches in Chile. Cable TV has taken note of the aforementioned public preference for soccer and movies. At present, there are 300,000 cable subscribers, representing 10% of all households. Within five years, it is expected that there will be 1 million, thus reaching one out of every three homes.

Video

As real wages increase and the middle class has more and more access to consumer credit, the rate of VCR ownership will continue to increase, particularly in the Regions. Renting a video cassette is the cheapest and easiest form of entertainment. Video stores are in every barrio, no matter how poor the district may be. The duty rate on the importation of VCRs is a 20% surtax on top of the basic duty rate of 11% on all imported goods. Piracy is estimated at 30% of legitimate sales. The Association of Video Distributors has been very successful in exposing piracy.

CHINA (People's Republic)

Population: 1.2 billion.

Number of TV Sets: 185 million.

System: PAL.

Cable penetration: 7 million TV sets linked to nearly 9,000 cable systems.

Cable: CGTV Beijing.

A vigorous television market is emerging in China. Broadcasters are now paying cash or trading commercial time for shows they once picked up without paying. China's Central Television Station (CCTV), a national network on which producers once considered an honor to have their programs shown without payment, is now also paying cash for providing commercial time for popular epic series. This new marketing strategy has changed the way local television stations acquire their programs, as they no longer exchange self-produced programs with each other on a barter basis.

Although an earlier intellectual rights copyright dispute with the MPAA regarding video piracy has apparently been settled, video piracy remains a problem.

Satellite Penetration: 350,000.

Cable Penetration: 1.6 million.

French television producers realized that fiction series were easier and more profitable to co-produce than talk shows, so sitcoms and dramas are taking over programming. Public Broadcasters French 1 and French 2 are using fiction to attract younger viewers, though TF1 is most popular among adolescents with a string of simply plotted sitcoms with roughly the same characters and storylines. The newest addition to French broadcasting is the Knowledge Channel, an educational network run during the day on the same channel used by Franco-German culture channel Arte at night. The Knowledge Channel, also known as La Cinquieme (the fifth), began in December 1994 and has a PBS style mix of documentaries, children's science, social studies, literary magazine shows and also job-hunting programs. This new network is already becoming very competitive.

Satellite Homes: (Astra only) 7.7 million.

German TV, long considered Europe's most dynamic television market, has 11 broadcast licenses. However, all advancement in the market has stopped recently, with new broadcast license applications on hold for two main reasons: Regulators believe that the broadcast market is already too crowded, so that no new licenses will be issued until some of current broadcasters cease operation. Also, a reform of media law (Federal Broadcast Agreement) is needed. The new charter will eliminate the current limit on number of channels that any one entity can own and set a cap on market share instead (between 25% & 35%). The current 11 are dominated by 3 major competitors: CLT (Compagnie Luxembourgeoise de Telediffusion), the Leo & Thomas Kirsch family, and the global media conglomerate Bertelsmann. Hopefully, these new reforms will help new players enter the market and at the same time keep outside players from becoming dominant. Germany has become wary of foreign investors. One reason is the investment in Vox by Rupert Murdoch. The infotainment network Vox, launched in 1993, was in liquidation by 1994 and was considered by many to be a resounding failure. On July 1, 1994 Rupert Murdoch acquired half of Vox with no money down, with Canal Plus becoming a third partner. Germany's commercial TV sector is growing rapidly, but overall ad budgets are down. There is a predicted ad revenue growth of only 3% for 1995 as compared to the double figure increases of the 1980's. Commercial TV in Germany once provided American exporters with an enormous market, but it now seems that American series are losing their appeal due to Germany's own market diversifying. Since the market is so crowded, there is concern that it can no longer support the growth. (Channel capacity is limited to about 2 million homes). Two areas of tremendous growth are children's programming and music TV. Two public networks, ARD and ZDF are in trouble because of revenue losses. Despite these problems, Germany is still the world's third largest advertising market, with sales over the $4 billion mark in 1994.

Theatre owners were angry about the early video release of True Lies - 3 1/2 months after its theatrical release. This violated the "gentleman's agreement" of a six-month window between theatrical and video release. The Association of Video Distribution (BVV) said it was an isolated incident and that this early release had no effect on True Lies' theatrical revenues. Russian and Eastern European video pirates have been flooding the German market with illegal cassettes of box office hits, such as The Lion King and Forrest Gump. The Hamburg-based Gesellschaft zur Verfolgung von Urheberrechtsverletzungen (GUV), an association set up to assist police in the pursuit and prosecution of copyright law offenders report that 1994 losses due to piracy amounted to approximately DM200 million ($143 million), an increase of 4% over 1993. The GUV conducted 260 searches in 1994 and prosecuted 380 offenders compared to the 223 searches and 370 prosecutions in 1993. A total of 64,000 pirate videotapes were confiscated in 1994, up from 49,000 in 1993. Court cases that ended in convictions totalled 361 in 1994, up from 235 in 1993. Without the GUV's assistance, piracy would have been well above the 4% increase reported.

TV Channels

Besides the State Channels of "Helleniki Rathiophonia Teleorassi" ET 1 and ET 2 stationed in Athens and ET 3 stationed in Thessaloniki, there are 14 private channels in Athens operating legally nationwide. About five others in Athens are telecasting without a legal license as well as more than 800 TV stations in regional cities. All major networks broadcast 20-24 hours of programming comprised of news bulletins, talk shows, discussion panels, local films and serials, and a few foreign films and serials.

National Broadcasters

ET 1 is stationed at 431 Messouguon Str., Athens 153 42. It is downlinked with Satellite EUROSTAT and occasionally transmits terrestrially subtitled foreign programs from several European networks. It is also a member of the Memory Audiovisual Archives. ET 2 is stationed at Messouguon and Katechaki Str. Athens, 116 28 and is linked with the English Channel MTV transmitting occasional musical programs.

ET 3 is stationed in Thessaloniki at 28 Evangalaki Str., 652 28 telecasting 14-15 hours daily.

Private Networks

Antenna 1, 10-12 Kifissias Str., Athens 151 29; telecasts 24 hours nationwide. The Antenna Satellite also transmits a four hour program daily to Greek Communities in America, Canada, Australia, etc.

Mega Channel, Alamanas and Delphi Str., Athens 151 25; telecasts 24 hours a day.

New Channel, 9-11 Pireus Str., Athens 105 52; telecasts 15-16 hours a day.

Sky Channel, Philelion Str. Athens; telecasts 24 hours a day.

Star Channel, 27 Demetros Str., Tavros Athens, telecasts 22-24 hours a day.

Seven X, 64 Kifissias Str., Athens 161 25; telecasts mostly classical old films 16-18 hours a day.

FilmNet, a new pay-TV channel telecasts mostly sports news and old films.

Satellite Channels

There were about 15 satellite channels three years ago telecasting their programs in this territory but now only a few are reaching Greek TV screens, namely CNN, Deuronews, MTV, TV 5 and Rai Uno. There are more than 2000 satellite antennas on Greek roofs, the cost of which reaches from drs. 90,000-1,000,000 (US$ 400-4,440). The Communication and Press Departments are building the National Satellite Hellas Satellite the budget of which is estimated to reach drs. fifty billion (US$ 210,000,000).

Advertising

The total advertising revenue of the private channels is estimated to reach drs 200 billion yearly (US$ 125,000,000). The advertising time must not exceed 15% of the program, with no interruptions during news bulletins, athletic events, documentaries, religious events or childrens programs. Ad spots must not exceed twelve minutes per hour and no ads are allowed in programs of less than twenty minutes. several other clauses provide protection of youth, privacy, etc. Any Greek citizen is entitled to get a license for private channel provided he has capital of one billion drachmas and deposits a letter guaranteeing drs. 5,000,000,000 (US$ 2,250,000,000) along with his application. Foreign investment must not exceed 25% of the capital of each channel. Operation licenses are issued by the National Audiovisual Council provided that there are open frequencies.

INDIA

Population: 911 million.

Radio and television in India are state controlled. Indian television or Doordarshan is as it is commonly known has been in business for more than three decades and India has had a national TV hook-up for over ten years. Until 1983 television covered a mere 19% of the population. Within a year, with the setting up of 180 transmitters and networking them to Indian satellite INSAT-1B and microwave terrestrial links, the coverage leaped to 70%. INSAT-1B and INSAT-2A provided the bulk of the satellite links for the country. India's second multi purpose satellite INSAT-2B was launched in July 1993.

Doordarshan with a present network of 34 programme production centres and as many as 656 TV transmitters of varying powers covering 85.1 percent of the population, is among the premier TV organizations in the world. With well over 50 million sets in the country (according to the electronic industry over 10 million sets are sold every year), it has outpaced the print media as a disseminator of information and mass communication. Regional stations transmit programmes of local interest. Doordarshan at present telecasts 860 hours of programming per week on its primary, metro, regional, satellite and international channels which reach 20 cities and 247 million people.

Viewership surveys have shown that feature films, film-based programmes (composed of song sequences culled from popular films) and sponsored serials are popular all over the country cutting across regional linguistic barriers. This brings in a sizeable revenue to Doordarshan by way of TV commercials. During the year 1995 its gross revenue totalled Rs. 3.73 billion.

On June 30, 1995, CNN and Doordarshan in a landmark agreement have agreed to share the Indian satellite INSAT-2B making CNN available around the clock. The agreement also allows for free exchange between the two. CNN was particularly interested in India because it has the largest English speaking population outside of the United States.

Video

With the expansion of TV networks throughout the country, an increasing number of VCRs have made their way into Indian homes. Although no precise figures are available a considerable number of sets continue to be smuggled into the country. The growth rate is about 25% per annum. Before the cable and satellite proliferation, there were nearly 45,000 video libraries in the country profitably trading in pirated prints. That number has now come down to 25,000 but they have quality video cassettes, now available in India through legitimate outlets.

For the film industry too, video is good business. Since it is protected by an anti-piracy law video and cable viewing rights for an 'A' grade film can fetch as much as Rs. 20 million and about half of that for a 'B' movie. Competition for the video rights is fierce among distributors, among them the major ones are - Gold, Bambino, Magnum, Time, Indus and Shemaroo.

Cinema International Corporation (CIC), a Paramount-Universal subsidiary has been operating profitably in India for the last year. Other global majors like Columbia Tristar, 20th Century Fox, Warner Bros. and Walt Disney are all setting up shop to storm the market with American blockbusters. Cable TV operators have mushroomed in most cities and smaller towns. According to estimates made by major cable TV equipment manufacturer, General Instrument Corporation, India is expected to surpass the United States market and have nearly 100 million cable television sets before the end of the decade.

Hindujas, a London based non-resident Indian industrial house has set up a Rs. 5 billion project for a modern integrated cable system in 26 cities across India to distribute high quality multi-channel TV signals.

Indonesian TV is benefitting from the nation's faltering film industry. Some major film producers are switching to TV production. Although the popularity of Western programs is fading and the quality of Asian shows is increasing, Indonesian television programming is below 70% local programming. PT Matahari Lintas Cakrawala is distributing six foreign channels - Discovery, ESPN, HBO, TNT, CNN & Cartoon Network.

ISRAEL

Population: 5.4 million.

Cable homes: 1.2 million.

The Israeli government is levelling charges against cable companies, claiming that they haven't met the requirements demanded of them in return for the franchises they were granted. Cable companies have been charged with ignoring peripheral areas of the country and providing services only to the central regions, which are more populated and profitable. In response, the Cable TV Council has announced it will introduce a Middle East channel which would broadcast movies and programs from Israel and neighboring Middle Eastern nations to all areas of the country. Other cable channels to be launched include an Arabic channel and an Israeli version of MTV.

ITALY

Population: 57.2 million.

The Italian Constitutional Court threw out a law which allows a single entity to hold three national television broadcasting licenses which will take effect in 1996 and by doing so has begun the breakup of Prime Minister Silvio Berlusconi's private television empire. Fininvest, Berlusconi currently has a virtual monopoly of Italian commercial tv with three national networks: Canale 5, Italia 1 and Rete 4. The three networks have a joint audience share of over 45%. Berlusconi announced he is restructuring and selling between 30% and 35% of Mediaset, his entertainment unit, to his international partners. Italian voters will eventually decide if Fininvest will have to sell two of its three tv stations. They will also decide if Public Broadcaster RAI, the main competitor to Fininvest, should be partly privatized. There will be new stations for Italian TV. Vittorio Cecchi Gori bought Videomusic, an MTV clone which has become Italy's fourth-largest private channel, and plans to transform it into a more mainstream channel and a vehicle for his library of 1,800 movies so that it can compete with RAI and Fininvest. Many other companies, large and small, are also trying to put together new channels for Italian viewers, such as the proposed Dream Channel (Tele Sogno), which is being proposed by a group of Italian TV veterans trying to create an "intelligent" alternative to RAI and Fininvest. Along with Portugal & Greece, Italy is one of the few European countries that still lacks cable services. Alliances are being formed among Italian and international communications companies in the anticipation of cable service. The Italian Senate Public Works is expected to create cable guidelines by mid 1995.

The home video market showed a 9.8% increase in 1994, with sales at 399 billion lire ($240 million). Rentals were down 6.7% from 89.6 billion lire ($53 million) in 1993. Piracy is still a major problem in Italy, and pirated product is believed to make up 40% of total national home video market. Annual income from illegal activities is believed to exceed 500 billion lire.

JAPAN

Population: 123 million.

The Japanese Ministry of Posts and Telecommunications has eased off its ban on communications satellites offering international services. Japan Satellite Systems (JSAT), a Tokyo-based satellite operator, announced it will move into the international areas. Its main competitor, Space Communications Corp., is moving quickly to start its own international services. Previously, satellite-carried international transfer services were provided exclusively by the Japanese government-run international telecommunications service, KDD. The Ministry also relaxed anti-monopoly rules that have restricted centralized ownership of broadcast channels and raised permissible investment share in additional broadcast properties from 10% to less than 20%. Five major TV broadcasters each maintain groups of partially owned local stations connected by personnel and program exchanges and are now able to strengthen these networks. Satellite broadcasting, currently limited to ownership of a single channel per investor has changed. Now each investor can utilize an entire transponder, comprising 8 channels. Satellite and cable are taking off in Asia and Japan has found interested buyers there for animation and drama series, the main staple of Japanese TV production, programming that they have traditionally been unable to sell to the West. Their business in the United States and Europe is slow, but over the past two years program sales in the Asian region are booming.

The Malay television market is increasing rapidly. A fourth TV network, the country's second private one, called Metrovision, Channel 8, is geared toward younger audiences. The country's first cable station, Cableview Services, is set to debut at the end of 1995 and will feature 24 hour programming schedule with four channels of news, documentaries, sports and entertainment. A fifth channel will be a vernacular service specializing in Bahasa Malay and Chinese programs. Locally produced shows have high ratings with not much competition from imported shows.

The devaluation of the peso, which reached 50% by the end of 1994, is also hitting TV industry. Broadcasters have lower budgets in dollar terms for buying new product at MIP. U.S. distributors are offering to sell their product in pesos, then buy high interest Mexican treasury bonds with the cash, rather than converting it back into dollars at the new low rate. Princeton-based C-TEC announced an $84 million investment in Mexican Megacable. They had been ready to pay $120 million for 40% stake, but renegotiated after the devaluation.

The devaluation of the peso has also hit the video market, but industry giant VideoVisa, which has a 65% share of distribution market and a 48% share of retail, is taking advantage of this to gain a greater market share. In January, Mexico's Blockbuster franchise only bought half of their normal buy, and bought no new products in February leaving major market opportunities open for VideoVisa. VideoVisa has raised prices 20% but the major studios are receptive to contract renegotiations. The Mexican government is trying to control video piracy, which accounts for about half of the Mexican video market this year (1995). Piracy worsened with the drop of peso with legitimate small video clubs turning to pirated editions because of the increased price of cassettes. The MPAA completely withdrew financial aid to Mexico in 1994 because of dissatisfaction with the way PGR (Procuraduria General de Justicia), Mexico's FBI, was spending this aid, leaving Mexico in a worse piracy situation than ever and needing funding to combat this widespread problem.

The leading Dutch music company, Arcade Entertainment Group, launched 2 new commercial TV channels on May 1 in an already booming Dutch market. These two additions are Arcade TV, a 24 hour music channel aimed at adolescents and TV 10 Gold, which broadcasts 12 hours per day, aimed at an older audience with reruns like "Lou Grant" and "Dr. Kildare". TeleSelect Europe, a U.S.-Dutch pay channel joint venture, will launch a seven-channel startup project in the Netherlands in Sept. American-backed Scandinavian broadcaster SBS planned to launch its commercial channel (SBS6) in the Netherlands on Aug. 28. SBS6 will try to commit 40%-50% of its programming to local product, although at least 40% of programming will come from America. The Netherlands is about to pass a law which permits sponsorship on the Dutch public broadcasting system for the first time and allows sponsorship for all programs except news and children's shows. This will permit advertiser messages to appear for up to five seconds. Product placement is still against the law. This new law can be linked to the fear of revenue losses from the start-up of so many commercial channels in the Netherlands this year. Dutch broadcasting is undergoing restructuring with the formation of a new group backed by some of the biggest TV companies in Benelux region. CLT, VNU, RTL 4 S.A. and Veronica/ENDEMOL will establish a new company called Holland Media Group (HMG) through which they will form an alliance for broadcasting and program production. This joint venture will control three private channels in Netherlands - RTL 4, RTL 5 and Veronica, the former public broadcaster and the largest in the Dutch public TV system. Veronica will be slanted to a younger audience, ages 15-35. The three channels will compete but will also work together. Their common goal is to export Dutch product to other parts of the world.

The Norwegian Supreme Court has ruled that there is no current law forbidding the use and sale of private decoders, overturning a lower-court ruling that found a man guilty of selling decoders to pay-TV channel TV 1000 viewers. The Court ruled TV 1000's programs aren't legally covered under Article 145 which protects "data, information or programs stored or transmitted by electronic means or other technical equipment." This will hurt pay channels, Norway is the fastest growing TV market in Europe, and the main target group driving the buying at MIP is Norwegian women. TV4 and TV2 were launched in March, backed by powerful Schibsted group. TV4 is considered female oriented with many day-time dramas. Kinnevik-backed women's channel TV6 was also launched in March in Norway and Denmark after a year of operations in Sweden. Since July 1994, U.S. originated 24-hour home shopping channel QVC has been broadcasting to approximately 23,000 Norwegian homes.

OMAN

Oman Television, P.O. Box 600, Muscat, Oman. Three stations and 1 relay, 1,000,033 tv sets. System: PAL-B & G.

PAKISTAN

Population: 126.4 million plus 1.2 million Afghan refugees.

TV sets: There are approximately over 2.3 million TV sets in the entire country, out of which only 40% are licensed.

Number of TV Stations: There are presently eight TV stations - 5 of Pakistan Television Corporation Ltd., at Karachi, Lahore, Quetta, Peshawar and Islamabad, and 3 of Shalimar Television Network at Karachi, Lahore, and Islamabad. PTV is operated by the Government, while Shalimar (STN) is leased out to a private concern, NTM.

Television came to Pakistan in 1964. In May 1967 a public limited company was formed, all shares of which are held by the Government of Pakistan. All the PTV centers produce and transmit color programs, including foreign films for twenty hours daily.

Shalimar Recording Co., a semi-government Company operates 24 - Hour transmission by the name of Shalimar Television Network (STN). Its first station was opened at Islamabad in July 1990, the second went on the air in November 1990 at Karachi, the third in June 1991 at Lahore. All three stations transmit CNN live, 24 hours daily from 00.01 to 19.00 via satellite and from 19.00 to 12.00 midnight, Pakistani programmes and canned foreign films are transmitted. This channel is run by a private concern Network Television Marketing (NTM) for about five years. They buy programmes and also record their own at their own and other studios. Two more stations - one each at Quetta and Peshawar are likely to begin their transmission soon. Their main source of income will be commercials.

Besides five full-fledged production centers, PTC owns 35 transmitters (Boosters) which cater to the needs of over 100 million people or 90% of the population. Transmission, which commenced via satellite in 1972, covers important international events, including Sports. Haj (pilgrimage to Mecca) visit abroad of the heads of the State, UN special meeting, commonwealth and SAARC meetings, reports on various War fronts, etc.

Colour came to Pakistan in 1976 and now all programs are in colour. The PTVc exports a good number of its programs to other countries, particularly to those countries where large numbers of Pakistani and Indian nationals live.

The PTV Academy is situated in Islamabad. It has regular courses in a variety of related fields of broadcasting and telecasting for domestic officials and engineers of foreign TV networks. PTV's trained staff are often loaned out to various foreign TV networks. The PTV Academy has offered its services to the National Film Industry for training artists and technicians in modern technology but without much success.

The PTV telecasts a number of Imported programs. Some of these are shown to viewers dubbed in Urdu and other regional languages. The second highest share of program time after news and current affair programs is given to foreign feature films, plays, serials and sport events. Foreign feature films are shown twice a week. Pakistani feature films are shown every week.

The main sources of income for PTV are commercials and license fees of Rs. 250 per year for domestic and Rs. 500., per year for commercial sets. Pakistan manufactures black and white and colour TV sets. Pakistanis coming from abroad also bring with them colour TV sets on a payment of 10% custom duty. These imported sets can be purchased in open markets.

Parallel transmission by STN, PTV-2, latest video films, cable and above all the craze for dish antennas has reduced the income of PTV. The 2nd channel project went on air last year. It is being used mostly for educational purposes and as such, it is being described as ETC or PTV-2. Regular PTV programs are switched on simultaneously on this channel at 7:00 p.m. and continue till midnight and are seen through satellite in 38 neighboring countries.

At present the ETC/PTV-2 has two studios at Islamabad for recording purposes. With the help of the Japanese Government, some rebroadcasting centers have already been set up and over a dozen are likely to be installed in near future.

Video

There are approximately 2 million VCRs and VCPs in the country. Of these about a million are in households. A license fee of Rs. 200, and Rs. 400, for domestic and commercial, respectively is levied by the Government. On these sets the custom duty on the import of VCRs is 10% on the value of the VCR/VCP.

The dish antenna has strongly affected the VCR/VCP business, as the price of both are almost equal - about Rs. 8,000.- The former covers much larger areas. A registration fee of Rs. 2,000 and Rs. 1,000 is imposed annually on dish antennas.

There are thousands of video distributors, over a dozen of whom import so-called master prints of banned films (mostly Indian) from Dubai, duplicate them in hundreds or thousands and sell them to smaller distributors and video shops throughout Pakistan. Some of these distributors deal in blue and X-rated video films.

There are two kinds of video shops - one dealing in sales, the other in rentals only. The number of these shops is about 125,000, half of which are in Karachi. Competition from 24 hour cable transmission by STN and from dish antennas has seriously hurt rental shops. In certain localities there is a monthly subscription system - between Rs. 30 and Rs. 5 by cable suppliers. They show two Indian and Pakistani feature films daily. On Fridays and holidays, these films are shown to subscribers. Libraries in posh localities like Clifton, Defence Authority, PECH Society, etc., have a home delivery system on a subscription of Rs. 100 to Rs. 150 per month. Subscribers have only to dial and place their orders.

The Average price of tape is flexible according to the currency value and the international market. The present price of a blank video cassette is between Rs. 110 and Rs. 130. Pre-recorded (slightly lower grade) tapes are also available at the same rate. Sales of blank video tapes tops a million every month. They are mostly used for copying foreign (mainly Indian) films, brought in from various neighbouring countries and released simultaneously throughout the country. This impacts the business of cinemas and retail video shops.

Because of the video industry includes so many illegal shops the figures of its revenue are not available. However, according to the Video Dealers Association, it runs into billions of rupees every year. As unregulated video shops do not pay taxes, the business is growing rapidly.

In spite of the Copyright Act bill passed by the National Assembly which imposed a strict penalty of three years imprisonment and a fine of Rs. 100,000, the shops continue to prosper. In some cases pirated videos are released even before the theatrical release of Indian films in India. However, piracy of Pakistani films has come to an end since the passage of the Copyright Bill in June 1992.

The video houses and tea shops continue to show the latest pirated Indian and foreign feature films for Rs. 3 and Rs. 5 per person on huge colour TV sets on their premises.

Video viewers love to see sets full of sex, violence and thrills. Because of strict censorship, moviegoers cannot see such films in cinemas. Therefore pirated uncensored videos are popular.

Top Videos: Interview with a Vampire, Demolition Man, The Package, Police Academy, Heart Break Ridge, Mad Maxi, Man of Respect, Killing Box, Reality Bites, The Big Hurt. Both Indian, and foreign films are popular among Pakistani viewers of video. However, films of Indian superstars like Shahrukh Khan, Juhi Chawla, Salman Khan, Pooja Bhat etc., are the most popular with the masses. The upper class prefers foreign movies.

RUSSIAN FEDERATION

Population: 147.8 million.

A temporary ban was placed on all commercials in 1995. Russian TV is state-controlled, with the three national TV stations and some smaller stations all depending on state-run Ostankino, which has broadcast towers and other transmission equipment. The ban was lifted in September. Public Russian TV (ORT) was launched April 1, 1995. The Russian government holds a 51% stake in ORT. This situation became complex when Vladislav Listyev, a well-known and highly respected news anchor, was assassinated March 1. He was one of the architects of the transformation of Russian TV into a privatized entity. It became clear that he was the only one able to unite all of the conflicting interests in a transition of this scale - carving ORT out of old state-run Cstankino. Sources fear the launch will be anything but smooth and probably won't happen on schedule. Grace Under Fire was the first U.S. situation comedy to run on Russian TV and began running April 10 on the Russian independent station TV6. Early ratings gave Grace 14% of the estimated 45 million viewers in TV6 area. Other U.S. shows are airing, such as local versions of Name That Tune and Wheel of Fortune. Through the newly formed Academy of Russian Television (ART) in association with the Russian Television Development Foundation (RTDF), the Russian television industry will begin the Russian Television Awards known as Teflis Awards with the American Emmys as a model.

Video piracy is a major problem in Russia. Pirate copies of Warner Bros.' "The Specialist" appeared on Moscow streets a week before its U.S. premiere. "Mary Shelley's Frankenstein" was in Russian video kiosks simultaneously with its U.S. release. The Russian government is making it pricier for legal distributors, with Directive 701 from the Russian Ministry of Finance, issued Oct. 4, 1994 requiring every new foreign film released in the Russian market to be registered for $3,000 per title. Before, this was free. Taxes on profits on videos are running as high as 70% making it more difficult on legal distributors and easier on pirates.

SPAIN

Population: 39.2 million.

Five years after private television began broadcasting in Spain, two of the top private channels are in debt due to fierce competition, inferior programming and rising operational costs. Two state-owned channels are losing identity and quality in attempts to keep up with competitors, with state-owned Television Espanola expecting to experience losses of almost 130 billion pesetas ($983.3 million) in 1995, even though it receives state subsidies and advertising income. The Spanish government fined private networks Telecinco & Antena 3 each 10 million pesetas ($77,000) for exceeding the European Unions (EU) directive on advertising limits. The EU directives were enacted July 1994 and call for a limit of 12 minutes of advertising per hour - 20% of a day's programming. Both networks have appealed the action. This is the first time the Spanish government has imposed sanctions on a TV network for violations of the Television Without Frontiers directive.

SWEDEN

Population: 8.8 million.

Sweden (in fact all of Scandinavia) is one of the fastest growing TV markets in Western Europe. Commercial television is booming in Sweden, one of the last territories in West Europe to deregulate. Major international advertising is coming in and the Swedish networks have increased their ad rates, forcing advertisers to fight for slots on schedules. TV4 introduced late-night programming in the fall of 1994 and plans 24-hour programming in 1995. Negotiations are under way for the 24-hour home shopping network QVC to be broadcast in Sweden beginning in mid-1995. Pan-Scandinavian channel TV3 announced it will introduce children's programming "safe zones", beginning April 1, 1995, when only programs guaranteed not to contain violence will be shown from 7:00-8:00 am and 5:30-6:30 pm, extended to 9:30 am on holidays.

TAIWAN

Population: 21.1 million.

Taiwan's active cable industry has brought in hundreds of new programs, gaining access to the Discovery Channel, HBO, ESPN, TNT, the Cartoon Channel, and new Mandarin-language channels from Hong Kong's StarTV and TVB1. Cable covers an estimated 59% of all households. The first-ever law governing cable passed in July 1993 and took effect in Nov. 1994, which was the deadline for cable operators to apply for formal license. Over 200 companies applied. The Taiwanese government ban on Japanese programming was lifted, making this an easy market for Japanese programmers to penetrate, considering the geographic proximity of the two nations. Despite rapid changes, the government has no plans to lift the current ceiling of 30% foreign programming on terrestrial channels. Some of the most popular American shows are McGyver, Murphy Brown, NYPD Blue, Beverly Hills 90210.

THAILAND

Population: 59.4 million.

Number of TV Homes: 11.9 million (92%).

Cable Homes: 120,000 - 150,000.

Satellite Homes: 11,000.

VCR Homes: 2.3 million.

The Thai government has allowed some privatization of the local TV industry. Many corporations are fighting for shares in new pay-TV ventures. Existing cable companies IBC and Thai Sky extended services in late 1994 to locales outside of Bangkok, intending to cover 10 to 15 of the kingdom's 76 provinces within 12 months. Thai Cable Vision Co. received their license in 1994, beginning services early in 1995 through fiber-optic lines. Thai TV consists of 65% to 80% local production, with the remainder being foreign movies and specials.

VENEZUELA

Population: 21.3 million.

TV Homes: 3.9 million.

Cable Penetration: 150,000.

Venezuela, South America's third largest TV market, is worth about $400 million, even under the country's credit crunch and depressed ad sales. Two broadcast giants, Venevision and Radio Caracas TV were affected as TV advertising declined. A 38% devaluation in Venezuela's national currency and the imposition of exchange controls are causing more problems. Both broadcasters have good relations with foreign equipment providers and programmers have kept supply channels open (Venezuela imports approximately 50% of its TV programming, mostly from the U.S. & Mexico), but getting dollars released for foreign purchases is difficult. Cable companies and the smaller networks were more affected by the currency crisis than the larger companies. No. 3 network Televen, Caracas' second largest wireless cable provider Cablevision, and niche broadcaster Channel 51 are all in financial trouble. The government has taken over banks, introduced a 30% sales tax on all luxury goods, including cable subscriptions. Venezuela's leading pay-TV service Omnivision found that half of its subscribers credit cards were being cancelled as the state took over banks. Omnivision's biggest troubles started when they missed a payment on the $33 million owed to a local bank. The government responded by freezing

Omnivision's assets, giving the company 60 days to come up with the cash.

The Will Rogers Institute

Your Partner In Good Health.

"I never met a man I didn't like."

Words which typify the tradition upon which the Will Rogers Institute has prided itself for over 50 years.

Since 1936, the Institute has been caring for employees of the entertainment/communications industry by providing them with health services.

Our representatives can put you in touch with expert medical care and your first consultation with one of our nationwide pulmonary specialists is absolutely free.

Write or call - to learn more about the benefits we offer and you will see just how we embody the spirit of that great humanitarian and entertainer, Will Rogers.
