THE YEAR IN REVIEW

BY PATRICIA KEEGAN NICOLESCU AND TRACY STEVENS

The competition from relatively new networks, the introduction of digital TV and the pressure on the networks to win back viewers who have defected to cable have the broadcast networks chasing their tails. Television as it was known, has been shaken up; more precisely, the old networks have continued to feel the pressure build.

NBC managed to stay in first place, but with the end of "Seinfeld" and the rising cost of its star programs ("ER," at $13 million per episode, and "Mad About You," at $1 million apiece per episode to its stars, Helen Hunt and Paul Reiser), the network's long term future is more uncertain. The cost of staying in first place has been a steady diet of lower priced news magazines, with Dateline airing five nights per week and considerable belt tightening elsewhere. Warner Bros. will continue to receive $13 million per episode, 22 episodes per season for the next three years. Per annum, that represents $286,000,000 for one show — which is more than double NBC's profits for 1996-1997. Most executives agree that NBC had little choice without either "Seinfeld" or Monday Night Football to guarantee ratings and advertising revenue.

The networks continue to promote themselves relentlessly with NBC touting its "Must See TV" and ABC covering America with its high concept, low art, yellow and black ads promoting the essential goodness of television. Of the 'Big Three', ABC came in last in the ratings in spite of (or perhaps because of) their advertising campaign. Slogans such as "TV is good" and "Without a TV, how would you know where to put the sofa" did little to help the network's sagging ratings.

Keeping the stars around by meeting their salary demands seemed easier to do than winning back the viewers who have turned to the more diverse and original entertainment found on cable. With programming that includes more movies, more news shows and specialty channels devoted to music and children's programming, basic cable ratings hit a combined 28.9 in the first quarter of 1998 — an all time high. In the third quarter, the top 35 basic cable networks averaged a 23.8 rating/44 share. This was an intimidating figure by anyone's measure, but especially for the six networks, which experienced a 10% decrease in their ratings from the third quarter of 1997 and a 9% decrease in primetime viewership for the past quarter.

The networks also managed to pit themselves against their affiliates over the issue of compensation and program exclusivity. In May of 1998, the big three proposed to cut down on the $600 million program carriage payments to affiliates as a way of lowering costs. But, with stations having to bare the costs of building digital facilities, the idea was not well received by the affiliates.

For the 1998-99 season, the majority of the networks have invested more in their primetime programming. CBS has equity stakes in more than half its shows, NBC owns a stake in 40% of its shows and UPN invested in 46% of its fall shows. With the exception of ABC who will own just 29% down from 44% in the 1997-1998 season, all major networks will continue to attempt to collect more of the revenues created by network hits.

Lowell "Bud" Paxson's switch from infomercial to broadcast television, was met with both skepticism and excitement. In late 1997, the founder of the Home Shopping Network announced a unique kind of network, the seventh, that would develop programming with Focus On the Family, a conservative Christian group. And, from 1 to 6 A.M., the network was scheduled to broadcast five uninterrupted hours of Christian programming. In May of 1998, Paxson paid Tele-Communications Inc. $27 million to carry Pax Net in small town and rural "white areas." This allows Paxson to broadcast without having to purchase additional stations. A week before launching, in August of 1998, the network announced a name change from Pax Net to Pax TV. Pax TV premiered August 31, 1998, with 20% original programming and the unique ability to be seen on both broadcast and cable. According to Mr. Paxson, the new network which will show "family friendly" programming such as "Touched By An Angel," "Dr. Quinn, Medicine Woman" and "Diagnosis Murder," that will reach more than 80% of U.S. TV households in the near future.

Although Pax TV's design to show only "wholesome" fare may have been influenced by the publicly stated, personal beliefs of Mr. Paxson, a born-again Christian, the trend to create "family-friendly" fare in order to increase ratings was visible on all the networks. WB was especially hungry for the attention of teens and young adults. For the 1998 Fall Season, the network added "Felicity," a one hour drama about the life of a female college freshman to its popular slate of teen oriented shows such as "Dawson's Creek," and "Buffy the Vampire Slayer". The strategy proved successful, as WB was the only network to experience ratings growth for the 1997-98 season.

The FCC's approval of the V-chip, in March of 1998 was a reminder of the important role young viewers play for the networks and the advertisers. The technology will allow parents to block out programming they deem unsuitable for their children. Although broadcasters have been slow to add the letter rating system that's been in use since the fall of 1997, and have only done so when pressured by lawmakers, parent groups and the White House, the V-chip may prove an excellent device in winning young viewers. Giving parents a simple ratings system and dispelling any doubt as to the appropriateness of a program allows the parent to let youngsters view a program from start to finish. Family or child friendly television may not necessarily attract more viewers, but may instead guarantee more hours of viewing.

The link between television and other communication mediums may have been accelerated or at least exposed by the White House sex scandal involving President Clinton and intern, Monica Lewinsky. Although newspapers and television were abuzz with speculations and analysis, the independent counsel Kenneth Starr's report containing the findings from his investigation and including testimony from both Ms. Lewinsky and President Clinton, appeared in its entirety on the internet. Sites and servers were set up to deal solely with developments in the Clinton-Lewinsky case.

and CNN's site and Fox News online had their capacity limits challenged. The story's dominance on the broadcast networks and the cable news channels brought to the fore the American public's fascination with sex. The proof was in the ratings, the news executives claimed, and greenlighted endless hours of news programming devoted to dissecting the minutiae of the scandal. When ABC, CBS, NBC, CNN, MSNBC, CNBC, Fox News, C-SPAN, and Court TV aired the President's testimony in late September, the executives explained the airing of all 4 hours of the testimony not as news, but as an historical event that needed to be brought to the public. Television history was indeed made when the words "oral sex" could be heard repeated on the evening news. Surprisingly, the numerous polls conducted showed that the majority of Americans, as well as media critics, considered the coverage of the Clinton-Lewinsky story excessive and trashy.

All of this has further served to highlight the public's simultaneous attraction to and revulsion for the media reminiscent of the reaction to coverage of the Princess of Wales in life and in death. This conflict will likely continue as the public's appetite for scandal equals its ensuing moral outrage at those who work to satiate that appetite. Programmers find themselves in a quandary, trying to satisfy a group of viewers who clamor for the V-chip while sending the "Jerry Springer Show" to ratings heaven.

DTV or Digital TV, was scheduled to premiere in November of 1998. Although in March of 1998, the FCC approved a second channel for every TV station that would broadcast digital TV, there was still no consensus between ABC, CBS, NBC and Fox as to what kind of format to use for digital broadcasting. The format is composed of the number of scanning lines of 480, 720 or 1080 and the lines presented on the screen, interlaced or progressive. The higher number of scanning lines, interlaced or progressive, are defined as high-standard definition, or HDTV, the lowest number offers a standard-definition SDTV format. On November 1st, ABC became the first commercial network to deliver a national HDTV broadcast, "101 Dalmations," using a 720-line progressive version, and on the 8th of the month, CBS broadcast the NFL in HDTV using the 1080 interlace picture format.

Digital technology also had an effect on cable broadcasters. In 1997, the number of new cable networks was 94; by January 1998, the number reached 100. In April, Disney/ABC Cable Network launched Toon Disney, featuring Disney animated programming. Designed for a digital tier, the new network also has analogue carriage and is offered to those operators that already carry The Disney Channel. Disney also talked of at least four digital networks. Lifetime Television was also aiming for the digital tier, recognizing that this technology would allow viewers to choose when they want to see a program.

Satellite operators failed to win legislation in 1998 that would have allowed them to transmit local broadcast signals. The Congress did authorize local-into-local service and thwarted the must-carry requirements that would have forced satellite operators to carry all the stations in the markets they were serving. It is widely believed that local-into-local will become law in 1999. Although local-into-local service allows satellite TV to compete with cable by giving satellite operators local broadcast signals, the cable industry considers this development less dangerous than the extension of rate regulations, which are supposed to expire in the Spring of 1999.

Polls conducted throughout 1998 indicated that the majority of the viewing public had little understanding and even less interest in television's digital revolution. Set-top converters and other hardware that will require any capital outlay will likely take some time to catch on as there is currently insufficient programming in the digital medium to warrant the investment for the public.

As we move toward the millennium, the original three broadcast networks and their newer counterparts are experiencing a rate of viewer attrition that neither technology nor programming can forestall. The networks face increasing competition from satellite and cable. Cable networks can produce more original programming designed to target a narrower, niche audience for a lower price. The cost of entry into the television market has been dropping steadily as programming can be locally produced and distributed on low-overhead cable channels nationwide. While that programming may not attract a wide audience, it does serve to further fragment the viewership that once pledged its allegiance to the the networks. Soon, broadcast television will face an additional challenge from video-on-demand and improved internet connections that will provide adequate bandwidth for computer users to watch movies over the internet.

Television, a medium that was once hailed as a unifying force, has become ever more fractionalized. Long gone are the days when a weekly program could reliably command a 40 share. Even "Seinfeld", which was undoubtedly the most popular show of the 1990's, had ratings that would have barely cracked the top 20 in the 1970's.

While opinions differ as to the cause of the decline, all agree that cable television plays a part. However, to attribute the Networks' demise to cable is to overlook the fact that a major cause for the decline has been the choice of programming. CBS, ABC, NBC and even the new networks have pursued the 18-49 demographic, long considered advertising gold, to the exclusion of all else. By marginalizing viewers over 50 and under 18, they have lost most of America's largest demographic - the baby-boomers. The networks have also lost their young viewers to Nickelodeon, MTV and the Disney Channel. And, in chasing the same demographic, the Big Three have largely lost their individual identities.

So, the Networks are faced with a choice as we enter the second century of television: adopt the successful formula of cable, producing lower cost entertainment that caters to a niche audience or return to programming that has broader appeal than the white, 18-49 demographic. Whether they can win back their audience from cable or whether they can attract a broad base of viewers in a multilingual, multicultural America is a question that will be answered in the coming millennium as television is invented anew.

TELEVISION STATIONS

Stations are presented alphabetically by state, city and call letters. Stations are listed in the state and city in which they are licensed to broadcast. While most broadcasters maintain offices in the market the service, many stations are operated by corporations headquartered in other locales. In such cases, broadcast markets are indicated within the parenthesis. Satellite stations' listings will refer the reader to the parent station's listing. Where applicable, station manager's names can be found at the end of each entry.

DIGITAL TELEVISION STATIONS

In April 1998, ABC, CBS, FOX and NBC announced their format choices for digital transmission. The format is identified by the number of scanning lines (480, 720 or 1080) and by how the lines are presented on the screen (interlaced or progressive). Digital television stations broadcast the first digital signal in November 1998 with the NFL.

ABC, INC.

ABC's predecessor, the Radio Corporation of America (RCA) owned two radio networks, the Blue and the Red. In 1941, the FCC decreed that the same company could not own two networks, so RCA incorporated the Blue under the name of American Broadcasting System and established it as an independent subsidiary. RCA then sold this network to Edward J. Noble, and in 1944, the name was changed to the American Broadcasting Company. ABC's first television broadcast was on April 19, 1948 with "On the Corner". Later in the year, ABC scored two "firsts": the live broadcast of an opera (Verdi's "Otello") from the Metropolitan Opera House in New York and a TV documentary, "The Marshall Plan." ABC merged with United Paramount Theatres in 1952. This merger was engineered by Leonard H. Goldenson, then the president of UPT. The new company was called American Broadcasting-Paramount Theatres, Inc. During the 1950's, ABC began to operate at a profit although it had to struggle fiercely to acquire new affiliates. In 1954, ABC made a deal with Walt Disney to acquire a 35% interest in Disneyland and all TV programs produced by Disney. The following year, ABC signed an exclusive rights contract with Warner Bros. for TV programming.

In the Fall of 1962, ABC introduced color programming for the fall season which was expanded in 1966 to include full color broadcasting. In 1965, AB-PT's name was changed to American Broadcasting Companies, Inc. The 1960's also introduced blockbuster theatrical movies to TV with spectacular rating results when "The Bridge on the River Kwai" was viewed (in 1966) by 60 million Americans. In 1967, the ABC evening news was expanded from 15 minutes to a half-hour, and Joey Bishop inaugurated ABC's late-night talk show programming.

In 1972, ABC was able to operate at a profit for the first time in ten years. In the 1976-77 season, ABC took first place in the ratings race for the first time. In 1976, Barbara Walters joined ABC, becoming the first anchorwoman in television history. The mini-series "Roots" appeared on ABC in 1977 and became the highest-rated program of all time. This helped immensely in the ratings race, and credit must go in large part to Fred Silverman who, two years before, had joined the company as president of ABC International. He left in 1978 to go to NBC.

The decade of the Eighties was a turbulent one for the networks as cable and home video began whittling away their audiences. In 1985, ABC agreed to be purchased by Capital Cities Communications. The merged company's name was changed to Capital Cities/ABC, Inc. ABC held second place in the ratings from 1979 to 1983 when it dropped to third position. It was unable to rise from third until 1987-88 when it displaced CBS in second place, primarily because of the World Series and the Superbowl. It remained second in 1988-89 and 1989-90. In the latter season, ABC had the distinction of broadcasting the most talked-about new series of the period, "Twin Peaks," and the highest-rated new series, "America's Funniest Home Videos." Daniel B

Burke replaced Frederick J. Pierce as president and chief operating officer. There were also sweeping reductions in personnel in the interests of economy and streamlining. Budget cuts notwithstanding, Capital Cities/ABC chairman Thomas Murphy pledged ABC would not scrimp on programming.

Profits at the end of 1990 rose about $70 million. Of the three networks, ABC won the ratings battle in news coverage of the war in the Persian Gulf. For two seasons in a row the network could boast having the only new series in the top ten: "America's Funniest People" (1990-91) and "Home Improvement" (1991-92). Capital Cities/ABC is a partner in ESPN, the highly successful cable TV sports channel and two other cable TV services—Arts & Entertainment and Lifetime. ABC was the only network in the 1992-93 season to gain ground, moving into second place behind CBS, from its previous third place standing. During the season, Robert A. Iger became the new network president. The network was the first to sign a deal with a cable operator (in this case Continental Cablevision) allowing its stations to be carried on cable without paying a fee. In 1994, the company signed an affiliation deal with E.W.Scripps Company to switch several of their stations over to ABC.

The big event of 1995 was the $19 billion acquisition of Capital Cities/ABC by the Walt Disney Company, said to be the second largest corporate takeover in history. In 1997, Ted Harbert resigned as entertainment chairman of ABC after 20 years with the network. At the end of the 1996-97 season, "Roseanne", one of ABC's sitcom staples, was discontinued after nine years on the air. The producers of ABC's "Home Improvement" sued the program's distributor, Walt Disney, alleging that a $3 million per episode renewal was in essence a sweetheart deal benefiting Disney. A lawsuit against the ABC news program Prime Time Live by the supermarket chain Food Lion for trespass, fraud and breach of fiduciary duty was decided in favor of the supermarket by a North Carolina jury. Producers for the evening news magazine were hired undercover as clerks by the chain in order to expose the sales of spoiled food and unsanitary food handling practices by Food Lion, which did not dispute the findings of the investigative report, but instead claimed that the practice of sending in undercover reporters constituted fraud.

ABC's ratings soared when it broke the news in January 1998, that sex-allegations were made by intern Monica Lewinsky involving President Clinton. Apparently continuing a trend started by the O.J. Simpson trial & elevated by the death of Princess Diana in September 1997, news proved very successful in attracting viewers. Despite its brief victory in the ratings war, the network was scheduled to go through a complete transformation for the 1998-99 season, after losing its number two slot among 18-49 year olds, to Fox. For the new season, the network was to introduce remakes of old shows such as "The Mary Tyler Moore Show" and "Fantasy Island," have "Sports Night" for male viewers, and air about 20 made for tv movies and miniseries.

CBS (COLUMBIA BROADCASTING SYSTEM, INC.)

CBS began in 1927 as a radio network with 16 stations, United Independent Broadcasters, Inc., founded by Arthur Judson, a concert tour manager and backed by Louis Sterling, president of the Columbia Phonograph Company. Later other investors were invited in, the most prominent of whom was William S. Paley. On September 26, 1928, at the age of 27, Paley became president of the firm whose name was changed to the Columbia Broadcasting System. Paley introduced many innovations to radio broadcasting, the most significant of which was the signing of an agreement in 1931 with Paramount Pictures whereby film stars were heard on radio for the first time. This laid the groundwork for the CBS policy in television from the outset to feature shows built around stars (Ed Sullivan, Lucille Ball, Arthur Godfrey, Jack Benny, Burns & Allen, Garry Moore, etc.).

CBS was in TV as early as 1931 when it began regularly scheduled TV programming over experimental station W2XAB in New York City. In 1941, CBS began weekly broadcasts of black-and-white TV programming over WCBS-TV in New York. By 1948, it had 30 affiliated stations.

In 1951, CBS broadcast the first live coast-to-coast TV transmission between New York and San Francisco. 1951 was also the year that Bill Gordon designed the CBS Eye which was destined to become one of the most famous logos in the world.

In 1952, CBS opened Television City in Hollywood—the industry's first self-contained TV production facility. "Playhouse 90" made its debut in 1956, but the big event of the decade was the 1951 debut of "I Love Lucy", a series regarded as the progenitor of the situation-comedy. In the field of soap operas, CBS was both leader and winner, virtually monopolizing that market from 1951 to 1956. In 1951, it introduced "Search for Tomorrow," which was to become the longest-running show in that genre. This was followed by "Love of Life" (1951) and "The Guiding Light" (1952), both overnight hits.

In the late '50s and through the 60's and 70's, CBS reigned as king of prime time ratings, maintaining its long-running lead with such successes as "Gunsmoke" (1957), "The Defenders" (1961), "The Beverly Hillbillies" (1962), "All in the Family" (1972) and "Dallas" (1978). Also helping was "60 Minutes" the news-oriented show which, by 1995, had remained in the Top Ten prime time shows for 18 consecutive seasons.

CBS began the turbulent Eighties with a new president, Thomas Wyman (replacing John D. Backe). In 1985, Ted Turner made an unfriendly bid for CBS, forcing the network to buy up 21% of its own stock to thwart the takeover. Laurence A. Tisch, a former theatre chain executive, had become the major stockholder in CBS when, in 1986, he instigated sweeping changes in the interests of cost-cutting and efficiency. 700 jobs were eliminated at the CBS Broadcast Group. Tisch also removed Wyman as president, named himself chief executive officer and induced founder William Paley to return to active duty as acting chairman of the board. It was quite a jolt to the company when, in 1985-86, it slipped to second place and stayed there through the following season. In 1987-88, CBS came in third for the first time in TV history. In 1988, Tisch shuffled executive ranks again, naming Howard Stringer, previously president of CBS News, president of the Broadcasting Group. The network's new management team sought to devise a strategy to pull the network out of its decline in the prime-time ratings. Jeff Sagansky, former head of Tri-Star Pictures, was brought in as president of the entertainment division in 1990.

Starting in 1991-92, CBS became the number one network for three years in a row based on the success of such shows as "60 Minutes" (the number one show for both '91-'92 and '92-'93), "Murphy Brown," "Murder She Wrote," and "Northern Exposure." CBS was hit hard by Fox's 1994 purchase of twelve stations from New World Communications, losing eight affiliates.

However, the following summer, Westinghouse Electric Corp. acquired the final independent network for $5.4 billion creating the largest collection of tv and radio stations in America. The 1994-95 season was a low point for the network as it plunged from number one to number three. By season's end, CBS had the dubious distinction of being the first of the three majors to fall into 4th place, coming in below Fox for the last week before the debut of the 1995-96 season. In late 1995, the venerable news program "60 Minutes" and CBS came under fire for refusing to air a controversial segment on the tobacco industry. Critics of CBS alleged that the network capitulated to the threat of legal action, rather than actual litigation. During this season the network placed third again. In 1997 CBS station group president Peter Lund was replaced by CBS radio president, Mel Karmazin.

Continuing the unpleasant trend of the last several years, CBS continued to lose viewers in all the age groups but the 60+. In the middle of 1998, Mel Karmazin made public the restructuring of CBS. Because of the network's failure to turn a profit, the radio and billboard companies which account for 60% of CBS' profits, were to be transferred into Infinity, thereby making the TV operations easier to sell, if need be. Infinity Broadcasting was sold by Karmazin to CBS in 1996 after trying to buy the Eye's radio stations himself. Two years later, the company is several times its former size, and it will have the cash to grow even more as a result of the CBS deal. Although the CBS president denied considering a TV sale, others have admitted that the sale has not been ruled out. Because of the network's questionable future, president & CEO of CBS TV, Leslie Moonves, was pressured to deliver successful primetime programming for the 1998-99 season. With the end of expensive shows such as "Cybill" and "Murphy Brown," Karmazin announced that the fall's lineup was considerably less costly than the previous year's. And, with shows such as "King of Queens" and "L.A. Docs" scheduled for the fall, analysts foresaw the possible resurrection of CBS.

FOX BROADCASTING COMPANY

Fox Broadcasting, a subsidiary of Rupert Murdoch's News Company and owner of Twentieth Century-Fox, began broadcasting with the late night "Late Show with Joan Rivers" on October 9, 1986. The next year, on April 5, 1987, the fledgling network began prime-time broadcasts on Sunday nights only. The initial line-up consisted of "Married With Children" and "The Tracey Ullman Show", which featured animated interludes of a dysfunctional cartoon family named the Simpsons. Three new shows were added in the following weeks, including "21 Jump Street", which helped launch the career of actor Johnny Depp. In July of that year, Fox launched a Saturday night prime time line up. From 1989 to 1993, the network steadily added programming and expanded its prime time coverage to a full seven nights a week. Originally the network aimed its programming at a young urban demographic. Particular attention was given to African-American oriented programming, with comedy series such as "Roc", Martin", "Living Single" and "In Living Color" (a weekly comedy-variety show which showcased not only the talents of Keenan Ivory Wayans and his brother Damon Wayans, but also comedian Jim Carrey). The youth market was provided with its first soap opera with "Beverly Hills 90210", and its successful spin-off "Melrose Place". Fox consistently programmed "risky" shows, even in the face of boycotts, most notably aimed at "Married With Children" and "Beverly Hills 90210". The network, feeling strong about its programming, slotted "The Simpsons" against NBC's top-rated sitcom "The Cosby Show" in 1991.

The network was also actively pursuing sports programming. In 1993, Fox won the rights to NFL football for four years, including the rights to 1997's Super Bowl XXXI. In 1994, Fox acquired the rights to broadcast NHL hockey and in 1995, Fox signed an agreement with Major League Baseball to broadcast weekly games, the 1996, 1998 and 2000 World Series, and 1997 and 1999 All Star Games.

1994 saw the creation of FX Networks. In June, FX, a general entertainment basic cable network was launched, featuring marquee sports events, series and films. In October, fXM (Movies From Fox) was initiated to show Twentieth Century Fox films unedited and commercial free.

Also in 1994, Fox premiered "The X-Files", a fiction series dedicated to exploring the bizarre, the unusual and the paranormal, all with a slant aimed at conspiracy buffs. It took a season to achieve ratings success, but "The X-Files" has become one of the most popular series on Fox and is fast becoming the most imitated series on television. All of these programming decisions and experiments have paid off. In the 1994-95 broadcast season Nielsen ratings, Fox finished ahead of pioneer network CBS. Fox beat CBS yet again in November 1995. On October 7, 1996, Fox launched the new Fox News Channel on cable.

With the appointment of Richard Cronin as president and CEO of the Fox Kids Broadcast network and Fox Family Channel, Fox will be targeting young viewers with "quirky" programs. In its effort to increase its viewership by attracting young people, Fox hopes to also increase the number of older adults, watching along with the children. For the 1998-99 season, Fox moved up its primetime slot on the Fox Family channel, to begin at 6:00 p.m. instead of 8:00 p.m., and introduced four new dramas and two comedies, catering to the age group Fox is relying on to push its ratings up.

NBC (NATIONAL BROADCASTING COMPANY)

NBC was an outgrowth of Radio Corp. of America, General Electric and Westinghouse. These three companies jointly launched a network in 1926 with 31 stations: 25 in a network called Red and 6 in a network called Blue. A year later, it was forced to sell the Blue network to ABC, keeping for itself the one known as Red. Television began for NBC in 1928, when on April 4, it acquired from the Federal Communications Commission a permit to operate an experimental station, W2XBS. Actual transmission from the Empire State Building did not begin until October 30, 1931. Eight years later, the network began broadcasting on a regular basis, beginning with the opening of the New York World's Fair on April 30, 1939.

NBC became a TV network on January 12, 1940, when two stations, WNBC-TV, New York, and WRGB-TV, Schenectady, New York, carried the first network programming. In June, 1941, the FCC granted NBC the first commercial TV license and a month later it had four advertisers signed up. After World War II, NBC scored two big "firsts." On June 19, 1946, Gillette became the first advertiser to sponsor a TV network show, the Joe Louis-Billy Conn boxing match. That same year, Bristol-Myers became the first sponsor of a network TV series, "Geographically Speaking." NBC can also claim to be the first to introduce coast-to-coast network TV coverage. On September 4, 1951, when the U.S.—Japanese peace treaty was signed in San Francisco, NBC cameras were on hand. In 1952, NBC pioneered early morning programming when it introduced "The Today Show." NBC can also claim the first regularly scheduled network color series "The Marriage," launched in 1954. That same year it achieved the first west-to-east TV transmission with the telecast of the Tournament of Roses Parade in color.

At the start of the 1965-66 season, NBC declared it was the "only all-color network." In 1968, NBC introduced new forms of TV programming with "The Name of the Game," a series that incorporated feature-film elements into a 90-minute show. This then spawned the "NBC Mystery Movie."

In 1972, NBC broke new ground again when it introduced "The Tomorrow Show" shown from 1:00 a.m. to 2:00 a.m. This was a talk program and it demonstrated that in the early hours of the morning something more than re-runs and old movies could be shown. In 1974, another late-night show called "Weekend" was begun. The 1976 NBC telecast of "Gone with the Wind" drew the largest audience to that date for an entertainment program. In 1978, "Holocaust" attracted 107 million viewers and won 21 major awards. Such programs helped NBC in the ratings, but in 1976-77 it fell to third place, where it stayed until 1983-84.

Along with the other networks, NBC moved into a period of turmoil during the decade of the Eighties, fighting off rising costs and competition from cable TV and home video. In 1986, General Electric Corporation purchased RCA (NBC's parent) for $6.28 billion; GE, it will be remembered, helped launch the radio network in 1926 which led to the development of NBC-TV. This brought personnel changes led by the replacement of Grant A. Tinker as NBC chief executive officer by Robert Wright, although Wright was not given Tinker's chairman title, that being taken by John F. Welch of GE. Instead, Wright was named president as well as chief executive officer. Along with its competition, NBC started cutting staff and budgets in 1986. In 1984-85, NBC edged up to second place, and the following year it was ranked number one in prime-time viewing for the first time in the three decades of Nielsen ratings.

NBC held on to its first place standing for the following five seasons, through 1990-91. Long-time hit series in the five-year period included "The Golden Girls," "Cheers," and "The Cosby Show." Despite the network's number one standing, figures showed a steady decline in viewers. In May of 1991, Brandon Tartikoff, credited with pulling the network up from third place 11 years earlier, departed from NBC to become head of Paramount Pictures. When "The Cosby Show" ran its final first run episode on April 30, 1992, it became NBC's highest-rated series finale episode ever. The 1992 Summer Olympics also gave the network its widest ratings margin of all time. The 1994-95 season found NBC on top with its popular sitcom "Seinfeld" and the two most highly rated new series, "ER" and "Friends", both placing in the top ten. During the 1995-96 season, NBC was again ranked the number one network, with four of its Thursday night shows ranking in the overall top five. In the summer of 1996, NBC, in association with software giant Microsoft, launched a 24 hour cable and Internet news channel.

In October 1997 the networks adopted an updated "voluntary" ratings system that uses the letters S, V, D, L, SV, which stand for sex, violence, suggestive dialogue, strong language and non-comedic fantasy violence in addition to the age rating. Only NBC and Black Entertainment Television refused to use the new system. Despite pressure from the White House, Congress and advocacy groups, the network had said that the ratings tread on its First Amendment right, and that there was no public outcry for the new system.

With its star show "Seinfeld" going off the air, NBC was faced in 1999 with the seemingly impossible task of finding a replacement. The network did manage to keep "ER" its other highly successful show, albeit at a draining cost of $13 million per episode. Keeping in line with the demand for news television, NBC's Dateline showed 6 1/2 hrs. of programming about Princess Diana and her fatal accident.

PAX TV

August 31st, 1998 marked the debut of PAX TV, the nation's seventh and newest broadcast network committed to airing family-friendly programming that includes original live-action series, daily entertainment and information shows, children's programming, as well as popular movies and off-network shows with proven audience appeal. PAX TV is a wholly-owned service of Paxson Communications Corp., a broadcasting company whose principal business is the ownership and operation of the largest broadcast television station group in the United States. Paxson Communications Corp. was an outgrowth of Paxson Broadcasting founded in 1991 by Lowell W. "Bud" Paxson, the co-founder and past president of the Home Shopping Network, Inc., who had been involved in the radio and electronic retailing business for nearly 40 years. Paxson Broadcasting, a Florida-based radio group, initially purchased four radio stations in the fourth quarter of 1991-AM/FM combos in Jacksonville and Tampa. Over the course of several years, the Company assembled a substantial statewide radio broadcasting group, and as a result of agreements it had in place on radio stations prior to 1993's FCC rule change permitting radio duopolies, the Company was among the first to exercise its options and expand its duopoly holdings.

By 1994, the company sought to replicate in television its success in radio. Paxson looked to acquire two types of television properties: underperforming, under-managed network affiliates and independent stations in major markets which broadcast long-form paid programming. In April 1994, the company purchased the equipment and acquired an option to buy its first television property, an independent TV station in Miami. Paxson took his company public in November 1994, through a reverse merger with the American Network Group, Inc., and subsequently moved the new company, Paxson Communications Corp. to the American Stock Exchange. By December of that same year, Paxson had owned or operated four stations, airing a variety of infomercial and long form programming which by January 1995, became known as the Infomall TV Network ("IN TV"). By purchasing independent television stations, entering into time brokerage agreements, affiliating with stations and extending its broadcast reach on cable via "must carry" requirements, Paxson created a national television broadcasting distribution infrastructure providing long form programming.

In March 1997, the Supreme Court upheld the "must carry" legislation, and as a result, all of the company's broadcast stations were suddenly viable as a network and would remain accessible to cable television audiences. In June 1997, the company sold its entire radio interest to Clear Channel Communications in a tax-advantaged transaction, and also during that month, acquired The Trave Channel of which it in turn sold an interest to Discovery Communications, Inc. later that year. The company announced in November 1997 that it would launch the seventh broadcast television network, at that time branded as PAX NET, on August 31st the following year. The network would feature off-network runs of popular shows including the CBS hit series, "Touched By An Angel," "Dr. Quinn, Medicine Woman," and "Diagnosis Murder," in addition to a number of original programs and theatrical and made-for-television movies.

Between the November announcement of PAX NET and August 31st launch of PAX TV, the company acquired additional television stations and expanded its distribution through cable agreements. The company also added popular off-network and original shows, and hired a number of executives and hundreds of new employees. In May 1998, the company announced the appointment of former CBS president, Jeff Sagansky, to the post of president & CEO and the election of William E. Simon, Jr. to the position of vice chairman for Paxson Communications Corp. Paxson also announced that the Simon family would make an equity investment in the company, and one month later, announced the completion of its offering of $275 million of Preferred Stock.

With PAX TV maintaining positive ratings, Paxson Communications Corp. will continue to focus on enhancing the distribution of its network and the quality of PAX TV's programming.

RECENT PAX TV PROGRAMS

1998-99: Little Men, Flipper: The New Adventures, Neon Rider, It's a Miracle.

PUBLIC BROADCASTING SERVICE

In 1948, the FCC stopped issuing new television station licenses. American educators, fearful of the impact of unrestricted commercial broadcasting, pushed for the Commission to hold open channel slots for non-commercial, educational television broadcasts. In 1952, when the FCC freeze was lifted, 242 channels were reserved for educational television. America's first non-commercial educational television station was KUHT in Houston, started in 1953. By 1962, 75 educational stations were broadcasting around the country. As these stations shared roughly the same programming interests, a loose distribution network evolved, allowing locally-produced programs like "Children's Corner" to be circulated among these stations. Most of the programming was produced on a shoestring budget. In 1962, the federal government authorized $32 million in matching funds for the construction of new educational television broadcasting facilities. In 1967, a blue ribbon panel urged local and state governments to increase their financial support of "public television" and recommended that the federal government participate in the production of programming. To this end, the first Public Broadcasting Act was enacted. This law also created the Corporation for Public Broadcasting, a non-profit "steward" of the public funds committed to public broadcasting, and, not incidentally, a barrier against government interference in programming decisions. In 1969, the Public Broadcasting Service's charter was signed, with its main intent the establishment of a nation-wide program distribution service. 1969 saw the premiere of an hour long, daily children's variety show, named "Sesame Street", which targeted pre-schoolers with fast-paced educational programming and featured live performers, cartoons and Muppets developed exclusively for the show by Jim Henson.

In 1970, PBS' first year as a "network", its programming included series as widely varied as "Washington Week in Review", "Civilisation", "The French Chef" and "Soul!" By 1973, PBS had more than 1 million individual subscribers. PBS and its member stations were responsible for bringing to U.S. audiences critically acclaimed BBC programming under the flag of "Masterpiece Theatre", which included such classics of television as "Upstairs Downstairs" and "I, Claudius". In 1976, PBS began broadcasting closed-captioned programming for the hearing impaired. In 1978, PBS became the first American network to distribute its programs by satellite.

Although some portion of PBS and its member stations' budgets are provided by federal and state government funding and corporate gifts, PBS and its member stations have continued to rely upon the contributions of individual viewers to stay afloat. In the late 1980's and early 1990's, PBS and the CPB suffered an enormous amount of criticism by government officials for an alleged "liberal" bias, and later in the 90's, for not being "self sufficient". Although a notable few PBS series have achieved some financial success in other areas (primarily children's programming in the home video and product licensing fields), it is important to note that the production of most of the all-important local educational and public affairs programming never breaks even. In the face of continuing cuts in government funding, PBS programmers have accepted what may have been inevitable, the inclusion of commercial sponsorship (and actual commercials) in programming.

In the wake of the government threat of fund cuts, PBS increased its effort to achieve financial independence. In 1997, PBS president Ervin Duggan announced that the network would use its recognizable brand to market products and services, such as educational videos and distance learning programs. With this approach as well as using the internet to sell its products and investing in new programming, PBS experienced a total revenue for the 1997 fiscal year of $239 million; $15 million more than its target.

UPN (UNITED PARAMOUNT NETWORKS)

UPN began broadcasting on January 16, 1995 as a joint venture between United Television/Chris Craft Industries, Inc. and Paramount Television/ Viacom Inc. The fledgling network's first official hit was the newest entry in the long-lived Star Trek franchise, "Star Trek: Voyager." Paramount TV executive Lucy Salhany was named president of the network. UPN currently broadcasts two nights of prime-time programming weekly, a Saturday afternoon movie, and plans to add an afternoon children's programming block. In the 1995-96 season, UPN debuted 8 new prime time series. Lucy Salhany, president and CEO of the fledgling UPN network, announced that she would not renew her contract when it expired in September of 1997.

Led by the newly appointed CEO, Dean Valentine, UPN's management team had the difficult task of giving the sagging network a face-lift. Not unlike the other networks, UPN had to struggle to keep its viewers in 1998.

The network's audience, consisting largely of black viewers, was angered when in an effort to attract a broad Middle American audience, UPN cancelled most of the shows that appealed to black viewers. And, in what seemed like a second slap, the network premiered the sitcom "The Secret Diary of Desmond Pfeiffer," despite protests from black activists claiming that the show trivialized slavery. As explained by Mr. Valentine, it appeared that UPN's problem was with its specific programming, which does not attract the female or suburban viewer.

RECENT UPN SERIES

- 1994-95: Star Trek: Voyager.
- 1995-96: Moesha, Nowhere Man, Paranormal Borderline.
- 1996-97: Good Behavior, An American Family, Homeboys in Outer Space.
- 1997-98: Seventh Heaven, Dawson's Creek, Three Buffy the Vampire Slayer.
- 1998-99: Guys Like Us, Love Boat: The Next Wave.

WARNER BROTHERS TELEVISION

In the 1950's when other studios were setting their eyes on television, Jack Warner was not interested in doing the same. But in 1955, the television network ABC managed to make a deal with Warner and create the studio's first pact. The agreement entailed a Tuesday night one-hour drama program on ABC, called "Warner Brothers Presents." Three rotating series were featured: "King's Row," "Casablanca," and the TV Western that lasted for eight seasons, "Cheyenne." "Maverick" starring James Garner, was introduced in 1957. The western proved popular with both viewers and critics, finishing sixth in the 1958-59 season ratings and being awarded the Best Western Series for the 1958-59 season, giving Warner Bros. TV its first Emmy award.

Although WB produced and created its share of shows in the 1960s, such as "Room for One More" (the first situation comedy produced by the studio),

"The Bugs Bunny Show" (TV's first animated series), and "The F.B.I." (WB's most popular primetime show of the late 1960s), TV production began drying up. With the appointment in 1969 of Gerald Leider as president of WB TV, the studio went through a revival with such shows as "Alice," "Kung Fu," and "The Dukes of Hazzard." The studio also acquired the rights to "Chico and the Man" and "Welcome Back, Kotter" already successful sitcoms, and the dramatic miniseries depicting the lives of African slaves, "Roots."

In 1988 WB acquired Lorimar Television absorbing the series "Dallas," "Knots Landing," "Falcon Crest," "Full House," "I'll Fly Away" and others. By 1989, Lorimar Television & Warner Bros. TV represented the biggest supplier of primetime TV programming to the networks. With the start of a new decade, the Warner Bros. studio appeared to be in good shape. But, the end of the Financial Interest rules, which limited the broadcast networks' ownership in programming and their ability to also produce, put WB in a less than perfect position as supplier. With the fear of falling victim to the networks, newly empowered by the FCC decision, WB began considering a network of its own. The first effort resulted in PTEN, which presented series as a syndicated block offered to stations. In January 1995 and in partnership with Tribune Broadcasting, the WB network took off.

The budding network will be reaching 90% of the country in the 1998-99 season, with five nights of primetime programming. While CBS and ABC have lost audience members in the 18-49 demographic group, and Fox and NBC have experienced only slight growth, WB has continued on its upward swing and increased its viewership by this (most desirable) demographic group, by 60%.

WARNER BROS. NETWORK SERIES

- 1995-96: Kirk, The Parent 'Hood, The Wayans Bros, Unhappily Ever After.
- 1997-98: Dawson's Creek.
- 1998-99: Felicity, The Army Show.

BRITISH TELEVISION & VIDEO YEAR IN REVIEW

Digital television has arrived in Britain at a time when Britons are beginning to switch off. According to polls conducted in the early summer, average daily viewing has dropped by 18 minutes a day in the past six years. Tuning in time has fallen from 4.13 to 3.84 hours per person. Longer working hours, other leisure options and boredom with the standard TV fare could be the factors responsible for the decline in viewership.

This is particularly bad news for the non BBC channels which make their revenue by advertising. In that respect, digital television could help boost flagging interest by offering audiences more choice and more control over the programs that they watch. But digital television is an expensive option. The costs for the hardware alone - set-top decoder boxes, satellite dishes, widescreen TV - start at around 200 pounds, and the subscriptions anywhere from 7.99 to thirty pounds per channel. The hardware for Ondigital and Skydigital, the two digital companies so far, is not compatible so there are added costs for viewers to gain access to both.

The launch of digital television was not coordinated properly with the sale of the hardware in the market and there is still very little knowledge about digital television in general and how it will change the way we watch TV. Not enough information has been passed on to the public to enable them to make a complete switch from analogue to digital. The government believes that it will take a maximum of seven to eight years for people to upgrade their televisions to digital and for the analogue spectrum to be sold off but BBC figures suggest a more realistic time span of fourteen to fifteen years. The National Consumer Council (NCC) has also called upon the government to protect consumers from making expensive mistakes in a rush to get hooked on to a system which they might not even want; the NCC stated that there was no proof that people wanted to switch to digital TV. It said that there were real doubts about the cost and accessibility of the new system and there was no guarantee that the new service would deliver quality programmes. The government has proposed to make the analogue switch off by 2012 but the NCC says that that must only be done only if digital tv is reaching 99 per cent of the public by that time.

Polls suggest that viewing habits are becoming increasingly fickle and programmes and personalities fall out of favour rather quickly. Even so some programmes stand the test of time - "Only Fools and Horses", for example has been rated the best comedy year after year and the veteran "This is Your Life" has risen by a third in ratings. By the end of 1997, one-third of Britain was buying non-terrestrial TV but very few had installed the whole gamut of satellite channels. According to Broadcast magazine, only half of television owners are tuned in to Channel 5 let alone satellite. Last year Channel 4 and BBC2 had more viewers than all the satellite channels put together. In BARB Weekly Network Report's Autumn 1997 compilation of top 50 programmes it emerged that drama serials had doubled in popularity rising from three to six entries while game and quiz shows had dropped from 12 to eight entries having lost their audience to documentary productions.

The funeral of Diana Princess of Wales on 6th September 1997 became the most watched special transmission on television with a single-channel record of 19.3 million viewers. Animal programmes, like "Animal Hospital" and "Vets in Practice" rate very highly among factual programmes so every channel has its own version of the rescued animal programme.

Despite the onslaught of sex on television and the channels trying to outdo each other in squeezing nudity into their transmissions, it does not seem to be a reliable audience-puller. The BBC's "Teletubbies" have spawned a mega industry since the first Teletubby dolls came out and have perhaps become Britain's most popular export since the royal family but BBC is still struggling to compete with channels such as Nickleodeon, Cartoon Network and Fox Kids Network. The BBC is planning to invest eight million pounds a year on a separate public service channel for children on digital television. BBC One is planning to meet the digital challenge by dishing out an extra 20 million pounds. The channel controller for Channel One claimed that in a multi-channel environment, BBC One would remain the channel to bring people together. He cited Princess Diana's funeral, "Eurovision Song Contest", "Ballykissangel" and "Eastenders" as examples of programmes that had viewers across the cross-section of society. BBC America has also proved a popular export for the BBC with cable and satellite subscribers adding up to over two million.

Sports has become an expensive proposition on British television since the arrival of Sky. The professional bodies that demand huge fees usually get it and it is very difficult for BBC with its limited license fee revenue to compete with other channels for sports coverage. Its credibility as a primary public broadcaster is threatened by its failure to provide some of the major sporting events for its license-fee paying audience.

INDEPENDENT TELEVISION COMMISSION (ITC)

Founded in 1991, the ITC was created by Parliament under the terms of the Broadcasting Act 1990 to license and regulate all commercially-funded television in the United Kingdom, whether delivered terrestrially (i.e. ITV, Channel 4 and Channel 5) or by cable or satellite, public teletext and certain other text and data services. The ITC regulates these services through license conditions and through its various codes on program content, advertising, sponsorship and technical standards.

In spite of efforts by the local production industry to raise quotas, Australia's government will continue to support an enforceable code requiring 10% of pay television programming to contain local content. Local fare is dominant in Australia with current affairs, lifestyle, infotainment, sports and drama programs outrating their foreign counterparts. Only "ER", "The Simpsons", "Friends" and "Veronica's Closet" are regularly in the Top 15.

The Federal government announced that it will allocate a digital spectrum at no cost to free television providers for eight years after the introduction of digital television on January 1, 2001. The government also promised to bar entry to any new free-to-air networks until December, 2008. In order to protect the pay television sector, the networks will not be permitted to introduce subscription services for multichanneling.

SportsVision Australia, a provider of four channels to Optus Vision, will shut down the company with the aid of a court provided liquidator. The company had incurred substantial losses and had run out of funding.

Pay television in general is still operating at a loss in Australia. That said, it has one of the world's fastest take-up rates of 15% and has signed up almost a million subscribers since its inception in 1995.

TV Record, a Sao Paulo based network may be taking over the number two spot long held by SBT. Record attributes its ratings surge to a reduction of religious programming, an increase in American products and family-oriented telenovelas. While SBT and TV Record wrangle for second place, Globo is still the top ranked network, leading by a wide margin.

TV REVENUES

The total revenue of the broadcasting industry (television and radio) in 1995, including the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation (CBC), was $C2.67 billion. The television operating revenues of the CBC were $363.364 million in 1995, and its program expenses increased by 1.8% from $968.5 million in 1994 to $985.8 million in 1995. These figures represent 276.5% and 270.2% of total CBC revenue. The net cost of CBC operations decreased 0.8% from $1,122 million in 1994 to $1,112 million in 1995. CBC expenses increased 2.3% in 1995, and were 417.8% of its revenue for 1995 compared to 425.5% in 1994.

For the year ended August 31, 1995, total operating revenue of $2.31 billion was received by the private broadcasters, up 2.2% from the $2.26 billion for the same period in 1994. In 1995, total program expenses of private television broadcasters totalled $825 million. Total expenses for private stations which include departmental expenses, depreciation and interest expense increased 0.6% from $2.19 billion in 1994 to $2.20 billion in 1995, and represented 95.3% of total 1995 revenue compared to 97.0% in 1994. Net profit after tax for private stations increased with a profit of $39.9 million in 1995 compared to $7.1 million in 1994.

Excluding the CBC, there were 100 licensed TV stations, with 99 in operation in 1995.

NUMBER OF TV SETS

In 1996 colour televisions were in 11,246 million households. 5,873 million homes had two or more colour sets - 51.5%, a big jump from 23.8% a decade ago. In 1996 the province of Ontario again led with estimates of 1,978 million households owning one television and 2,169 million owning two or more (compared to 2,023 million with one and 2,060 million with two or more in 1995). The province of Québec followed with estimates of 1,419 million owning one television and 1,540 million with two or more (compared to 1,398 million owning one television and 1,505 million with two or more in 1995).

TELEVISION VIEWING

Recent television viewing data showed that, while average viewing time increased 30 mins. per week between 1994 and 1995, it was still an hour less than a decade ago. This increase in 1995 viewing time was attributed to the introduction of cable speciality channels.

The net cost of the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation (CBC) operations increased 10.9% from $1,112 million in 1995 to $1,234 million in 1996, and its expenses decreased 1.6% in this year. CBC expenses were 326.0% of its revenue for 1996 compared to 417.8% in 1995. Program expenses decreased by 2.4% from $985.8 million in 1995 to $962.2 million in 1996. These figures represent 270.2% and 209.2% of total CBC revenue

The total air time sales for the broadcasting industry (television and radio) reached $2.6 billion for the year ended August 31/96 (a 5.8% increase from 1995) and air time sales for television increased 5.7%. The CBC had an increase of 19.6% in 1996 for air time sales over 1995 and accounted for 13.0% of industry air time sales. Air time sales represented 91.8% of revenues received by broadcasting systems. For the same period, a total operating revenue of $2.39 billion was received by the private broadcasters, up 3.4% from the $2.31 billion for the same period in 1995.

In 1996 total program expenses of private television broadcasters totalled $861.9 million. Of this amount 90.7% or $782 million was accounted for by programs telecast which were 56.2% Canadian and 34.5% non Canadian. Total expenses for private stations, which include departmental expenses, depreciation and interest expense increased 2.6% from $2.20 billion in 1995 to $2.26 billion in 1996, and represented 94.5% of total 1996 revenue compared to 95.3% in 1995. Net profit after tax for private stations decreased to $27.1 million in 1996 from $39.9 million in 1995.

Excluding the CBC, there were 102 licensed and operating TV stations in 1996.

In 1982 almost 85% of homes had a colour television, but only 12% had two or more colour sets. By 1997 virtually every home had a colour set and 51.9% of households had two or more. The proportion for black and white sets had tumbled to 12.4% in 1997 from 42.7% in 1982.

In 1997 a total of 11.58 households owned television sets, with one colour television in 4,920 households, and 6,562 million homes had two or more colour sets (contrasting with 1,334 million owning one black-and-white television, and 107,000 owning two). In 1997 the province of Ontario again led with estimates of 1,738 million households owning one television and 2,459 million owning two or more (compared to 1,978 million with one and 2,169 million with two or more in 1996). The province of Québec followed with estimates of 1,374 million owning one television and 1,675 million with two or more (compared to 1,419 million owning one television and 1,540 million with two or more in 1996).

CABLE

Revenues for the entire cable television industry totalled $2,679.0 million in 1996, an increase of 5.8% over 1995. Basic tier cable television revenues in 1996 were $1,903.6 million. Discretionary and other services earned revenue of $775.4 million in 1996, an increase of 13.0% from 1995. Expenses for the industry were $1,999.8 million in 1996, a 5.3% increase over 1995. Net profit after income taxes for the cable television industry was $148.9 million in 1996, an increase of 54.3% over 1995.

There were 7,346,725 subscribers and 520,115 indirect subscribers in 1996 compared to 7,231,028 and 560,078 in 1995, representing an overall increase of 1.0% in subscribers over the previous year.

Cable television penetration increased steadily between 1982 and 1997, from 59.1% to 73.7%. In 1997, the proportion of households with cable is highest in British Columbia (83.9%) and lowest in Saskatchewan (61.0%)

In 1997 there were 2,076 cable television systems licensed by the Canadian Radio-Television and Telecommunications Commission (CRTC) broken down by province as follows: Alberta 199, British Columbia 159, Manitoba 103, New Brunswick 118, Newfoundland 276, Nova Scotia 81, North West Territories 43, Ontario 376, Prince Edward Island 17, Québec 435, Saskatchewan 263, Yukon Territory 6

VIDEO

Out of 11.58 million households sampled in 1997, 7.456 million owned one VCR, and 2.352 million owned two or more. The province of Ontario led with an estimated 2.758 million households owning one VCR and 899,000 households with two or more, out of 4.227 million reponding. Québec followed with an estimated 1.932 million households owning one VCR and 530,000 households with two or more, out of 3.062 million reponding. Since 1983, when data were first collected, the percentage of households with a VCR has soared from 6.4% to 84.7%, and one in five homes report having two or more VCRs in 1997.

HONG KONG

Population: 6.3 million.
TV sets: 1.75 million.
Cable Homes: 340,000.
Satellite dish homes: 360,000.
VCR Homes: 1.25 million.

Chinese national broadcaster, Beijing Television, will include cartoon programs from Germany's EMTV & Merchandising group in its lineup. The "Kid's TV Clube", "Tabaluga", "Flipper" and "Lapitch" will air on Chinese TV in 1999.

Hong Kong is still relatively healthy when compared with other economies in Asia, however TVB and ATV both say that they will be financially conservative throughout 1998. Both will benefit from Asia's economic downturn to the extent that there will be a decrease in competition for programming, as other countries find themselves without means to bid for product.

ATV has had success with "surprise" programming of feature films while TVB is having some success with U.S. series such as "Friends" and "NYPD Blue".

With the launch of the world's first video-on-demand system, competition for first-run movies will increase. Both networks are experimenting with series in their daily 9:30 p.m. slots as replacements for primetime features.

New deregulation in Hong Kong has benefited Rupert Murdoch's STAR TV. The digital satellite platform has been granted full ownership of its uplink license as well as a reduction in annual license fees from $600,000 to $6,666. The government has also announced that STAR TV will be allowed to rollout pay tv services. All of this means that Hong Kong's Wharf Cable TV is for the first time facing competition for its 400,000 subscribers. In an effort to meet the video-on-demand challenge, Wharf TV has added 24 hour channels such as Discovery, TNT, The Cartoon Network and MGM Gold. Wharf also offers a package to Cineplex pay-per-view channels which will offer considerable competition for video-on-demand.

Start-up private TV networks from Caracol and RCN have been plagued by technical problems resulting in transmission difficulties to over half their target households. The Colombian government set a $95 million license fee for the two start-up private TV companies. While both networks are backed by industrial groups who have pledged to invest over $300 million in the first year, profits will be a long time coming. TV in Colombia has a disproportionately small share of advertising revenue and, as of yet, advertisers have not augmented their television budgets to include the new networks.

Herve Berger, the Conseil Superieur de l'Audiovisuel gave some indication that the current quota restricting non-European productions to 40% of films aired on French TV will be eased by the year 2000.

CanalSatellite, the digital arm of Canal Plus, began broadcasting its new sports channel L'Equipe TV in September. The channel is also carried by NumeriCable (a Canal Plus subsidiary) and ReseauX Cables de France. Digital provider TPS began broadcasting its sports channel, Infosports, in July.

The number of subscribers to cable, pay television and satellite reached the 6 million mark in 1998. Most of the subscriber growth is attributed to new subscriptions to the Canal Satellite platform.

Canal Plus and Info games Entertainment are launching Europe's first video game channel that will be broadcast all over Europe by Canal Satellite.

France counted its largest ever television audience for the World Cup soccer final. More than 23 million viewers tuned in for the July sporting event.

In March of 1998, the EEC blocked the proposed merger of two pay TV powerhouses, Kirch Group and the Bertelsmann affiliated CLT-UFA.

Investment in domestic programming has risen in the past year. ZDF produced over 90 original movies in 1998 and ARD increased it's local investment by more than $30 million. Not to be outdone, ProSieben and Sat 1 have announced that they too will invest more money German productions. ZDF has set up a new production arm, Network Movie Film-und-Ferseherproduktion, to produce programming for the German market with production set to begin in 1999.

CLT-UFA production arm, UFA Film and TV, is expanding its international TV co-production by creating deals with HBO, Warner Bros. and Paramount.

Helmut Thoma, the managing director of RTL, retired at the end of 1997. He is largely redited with the success of RTL whose advertising revenues were a record $1.27 billion in 1997, yielding $96 million in profit. RTL broadcasts "Gute Zeiten, Schlechte Zeiten", the most popular soap opera on German television.

German public television network, ARD, has changed its programming on its member stations to compete more directly with the commercial British TV producer, Granada Prods., is setting up a subsidiary in Germany on the strength of its deal with RTL to produce one miniseries and two series locally.

A commission designed to evaluate regulations for digital pay tv has mandated that sporting events such as the Olympics, the Tour de France and World Cup Soccer, must first be shown on free television before being aired on pay TV

Further evidence that the German pay TV market is tough to penetrate came in May when Viacom's Nickelodeon channel in Germany closed its doors. Viacom had invested more than $66 million in the failed venture. As a result, other pay tv providers are re-evaluating the risks of entering the German market. Another failed venture was Landmark Communications Weather Channel. It is estimated that by the end of 1998, total start-up losses for German TV channels will be $4.2 billion. Since private television was legalized in Germany 12 years ago, total profits are only $643 million. Based on these figures, it is likely that several more channels will flounder in the near future.

German music channel Viva is proucding foreign-language programming for international broadcast. Beginning in 1999, Viva will add a Polish language, Polish music and Polish VJ broadcast.

Shock television is alive and well in Germany with the ProSieben channel daytime talk show "Arabella". The DLM, a conference of Germany's 11 regional media authorities and MABB, the Berlin based media authority have received and are considering acting upon the numerous complaints about the sexual nature of Arabella's programming. There are several similar shows on German television, but Arabella has been singled out, perhaps because it is a youth-oriented talk show.

The number of TV viewers dropped again this year in favour of the movies as a result of the low quality of local TV production. By order of the National Audiovisual Council, many illegal channels stationed across the country ceased operation. The Council also imposed fines on legal channels for violations including exceeding the lawful time allowed for commercials and programming the included violent and/or hocking scenes. A draft of a new law covering the above mentioned violations as well as programming containing "insulting scenes" or segments that endanger human rights in "reality shows" will be debated by Parliament.

Though the income from commercials was over $23 billion this year, all channels are in the red. Besides the State channels ET 1 and Net stationed in Athens and ET 3 which broadcasts from Thessaloniki, there are more than 300 other legal and illegal private channels operating across the country.

It is likely that digital broadcasts will begin in 1999.

Due to the steps taken by the Society for Protection of Audiovisual Works, the piracy level dropped in 1998. Many regional TV channels were prosecuted for airing and distributing illegal video cassettes.

India's state controlled television known as Doordarshan is among the premier TV organizations in the world, with 34 programme production centres and as many as 656 TV transmitters of varying power covering over 85 percent of the population. Viewership surveys have shown that feature films, film based programmes and sponsored serials are popular all over the country, cutting across regional and linguistic barriers. India is the most desired satellite 'footprint' among international media moguls. The result of so many contenders in the Indian television industry has been the cutting into each others profit margin.

In an odd development, Indian court issued a warrant for the arrest of Rupert Murdoch in July. Murdoch's STAR-TV Network is accused of showing obscene films in India.

In 1997, Indonesia, with one of the most robust economies in Asia, had $302 million in television advertising revenues. With the economic woes of 1998, advertising revenues have decreased substantially and SCTV, one of the country's five private networks, has begun large scale layoffs. The production of sinetrons (local telepictures) has been curtailed and transmission hours of the networks have been cut.

Iraq welcomed its first satellite TV channel that will broadcast for three hours daily. The programming will be sent to various Middle Eastern countries as part of the celebrations surrounding 30 years of Baath Party rule. Hummam Abdul-Khalig, the nation's Minister of Culture, said that the service will reflect the negative impact of UN imposed sanctions on Iraq. Whether he was referring to the quality of the programming or the use of the channel as a medium for disseminating propaganda is unclear.

While Iraq is broadcasting to other Arab nations, the penalty for possessing a satellite dish in Iraq is an indefinite term of imprisonment.

Stream, a company established by Telecom Italia to exploit the cable industry with pay-per-view and video-on-demand services, has accumulated a $220 million loss since 1993, while reaching only 56,000 subscribers. Stream has decided to focus on satellite, providing new decoders that offer access to the basic TV package as well as interactive services.

Mediaset and public broadcaster RAI took a combined 90% of the Italian tv audience. RAI's audience share for its three channels was 47.3% while Mediaset brought in a healthy 42.6% for its three channels. Mediaset's Canale-5 beat rival RAI-1 in television ratings for the first time in two years.

RAI and Telecom Italia plan to launch a pay TV platform by early 1999 in which Cecchi Gori will have a stake in exchange for providing content.

Italian television viewers have begun to express more enthusiasm for local product. While U.S. movies still garner healthy ratings, Italian and European miniseries, serials and soaps have attracted considerable primetime viewership. This change is attributed to the improved quality of European production.

Mediaset and RAI have budgeted more funds for production than ever before, and have entered into international production partnerships. Mediaset has a three year deal with U.S. Hallmark Entertainment while RAI has secured a commitment from Polygram.

Direct-to-home digital service is off to a slow start in Japan, with SkyPerfectTV attaining 800,000 subscribers and DirecTV Japan enrolling 140,000 subscribers. In an attempt to increase sales, DirecTV plans to add 25 new channels including 5 movie channels, four animation pay-per-view channels and new sports offerings.

Japan's Education Ministry has set up a committee designed to evaluate and potentially restrict the exposure of youths to sexual and violent material on television, in video games and publications.

Cable Subscribers: 80,000.
Dish Homes: 400,000.
VCR Homes: 2.6 million.
Video Standard: NTSC.

Advertising revenues have dropped by over 30% in 1998, largely due to the country's economic woes and the fact that the Korea Broadcasting Advertising Corporation, the government agency authorized to sell airtime, has not dropped rates.

Foreign programming is limited to 20%, although the terrestrial networks usually show about 10% foreign product.

Mexico's basic cable market is led by Multivision, USA and Antena 3, the most watched networks.

In June, 1998, the president of the Mexican Association of Hotels and Motels admitted that as many as 30% of hotels were pirating the multichannel cable TV services in guest rooms. They are in talks with the cable industry to reach an "economic agreement" that will presumably compensate the cable providers for lost revenue.

A2000, the only cable operator in Amsterdam, has alienated CNN International, MTV Europe, Eurosport and the Discovery Channel. All of these providers have elected to withdraw their feeds to Amsterdam due to unreasonable renewal conditions imposed by A2000. The cable operator was charging $360,000 in carriage fees per year. Accordingly, Amsterdam will be the only major capital in Western Europe without CNN.

New Zealand's newest and fifth free network, Prime TV, premiered in September.

Telecom Corp. has decided to close its First Media pay TV unit and will instead concentrate on Internet services. In spite of an investment of $36 million, Telecom has reached only 3,000 of its targeted 75,000 homes. New Zealand has two remaining pay TV providers, Sky TV and Saturn Communications.

All of the five centers of Pakistan Television Corporation Ltd. (PTV), Lahore, Karachi, Islamabad, Peshawar and Quetta, produce and transmit color programs, including foreign films about 20 hours per day. Three centers of Shalimar Television Co., (which is also a state-controlled network) are leased out to a private company, NTM, for five hours from 7 to 12 pm. The remaining time is fed by CNN live. One more channel, PTV World, is likely to go on satellite feed in 1998. Shalimar TV may be closed down before the end of 1998.

The main source of income for PTV are commercials, license fees and export of programmes to those countries where large numbers of Pakistanis live. The license fee is Rs 250 for domestic and Rs 500 for commercial sets per year. Due to ongoing heavy losses, PTV now sells play time to private parties. All PTV programs are now telecast via satellite and can be seen in 38 neighboring countries. The second channel, described as ETC or PTV2, went on the air in 1995 and is likely to be leased out to private parties. There is an Academy for the training of artistes and technicians within Pakistan and neighboring countries.

Cable operators have strongly affected the VCR/VCP and dish business, as the price of cable technology has gone down considerably. Monthly rent is between Rs 50 and Rs 300 while a registration fee of Rs 2,000 is imposed on dish antennas by the government, although few pay.

There are two kinds of video shops—one deals in sales, the other in rentals only. The number of video distributors is countless, but there are about a dozen big ones, who 'import' video films from all countries except India. Their primary business comes from Indian films pictures with highly sexual content. Because of strict censorship, moviegoers cannot see such films in cinemas. Therefore, pirated uncensored videos are popular.

MTV is launching a customized service for the Russian market that will feature Russian hosts and local artists. The new channel is the first western network channel to be tailored to the Russian market and will be supported by advertiser revenue.

Russia's national TV channels, ORT and NTV did not carry Boris Yeltsin's annual address to the nation in 1998, electing to air sports and a game show, respectively. Only state-owned Radio Television Russia carried the address.

Video Standard: PAL.

Spain's two private television networks, Antena 3 and Tele 5 have joined to create the Union of Free Commercial TV designed to pressure the government to regulate public spending on public channels and helping private channels improve their access to the marketplace

In 1997, TVE-1 held 25.1% of market share, followed by Antena 3 with 22.7%, Tele 5 with 21.5%, regional (FORTA) with 17.4%, TVE-2 with 8.9% and Canal Plus Spain (pay) with 2.5%.

Antena 3 Internacional and the state-owned Radio Television Espanol (RTVE) plan to strengthen their position in the Latin American market. With 100 million television homes, 15.2 million of which are pay tv homes, both are tailoring programming to Latin American viewers.

Antena 3 is currently seen in 18 Latin American countries where it claims some 5 million subscribers. Its most popular programs are "Sopresa, Sopresa" and "La Paroldia Nacional".

RTVE has traditionally broadcast one channel, TVE America, to 9 million people through cable packages offered by local carriers. Recently, RTVE has signed new territory agreements that will increase its penetration in the Latin American market. By changing its signal on the Hispasat satellite to digital, RTVE has been able to multiplex, adding three new channels: 24 Horas, Euronews and Hispanavision. RTVE has also signed a deal with US MSO Tele-Communications Inc. to broadcast its channels to 1 million South Florida homes as part of local basic cable.

Thailand's two major cable companies, International Broadcasting Corp. and United Television, merged in February of 1998. In response to this merger in an effort to gain more leverage with the government and foreign program distributors, 90 small cable TV operators have joined together as the Thailand Cable TV Association. The Association plans to license programs from HBO, STAR TV and Discovery. Currently, only IBC and UTV have access to this programming.

Subscription fees for cable television are low in Thailand, about $3.75 per month, although IBC and UTV charge about $20 per month for their metropolitan Bangkok subscriber base.
