KING, GRAHAM

Producer. b. England, Dec. 19, 1961. Raised in London, King came to the U.S. in 1981 on a student visa to study at the Univ. of California in Los Angeles. He landed a summer job in the international TV distribution wing of Twentieth Century Fox. King promoted foreign sales of B-pictures during a time when the American film and TV industry was opening up to the foreign market. In 1987, he left Fox for the international sales company Cori Films, where he worked for five years. King then transferred to the Beverly Hills Producers Group, where he met future business partner Cindy Cowan. The two formed Initial Entertainment Group (IEG) in 1995, and began producing such films as Robert Altman's Dr. T & the Women. King soon purchased Cowan's share of the company and began taking chances on pricier films. King currently is pres. & CEO of IEG. The independent finance, production, and distribution company, with King at the helm, was the force that brought Steven Soderbergh's Academy Award-winning Traffic to the big screen; he bought the foreign film rights to Michael Mann's Ali and underwrote Martin Scorsese's Gangs of New York for $65 million. All were critical and box office successes. His willingness to gamble and ability to deliver at the box office put him among today's most successful producers.

KLEIN, JONATHAN

Executive. e. Brown Univ., history degree, magna cum laude, 1980. Klein began his TV career in 1980 as a news producer at WLNE in Providence, R.I., and the following year moved to a similar position at WPIX-TV/Independent Network News in New York. In 1982, he joined CBS News as a writer and news editor on the overnight broadcast, Nightwatch. He subsequently served as broadcast producer on CBS Morning News and then CBS Evening News Weekend Edition, where he won an Emmy Award for live coverage of the 1986 Reagan/Gorbachev summit in Reykjavik, Iceland. In 1988, Klein joined prime-time magazine series 48 Hours as a field producer, and won an Emmy Award for coverage of Hurricane Hugo and a Peabody Award for an hour he produced on the anti-abortion movement. Klein served as sr. producer for CBS's 1990 late-night series America Tonight with Charles Kuralt and Lesley Stahl, as sr. producer for 1991 coverage of Gulf War and later for the documentary Back to Baghdad. In 1993, Klein launched a prime-time documentary series, Before Your Eyes, whose format was a two-hour movie-of-the-week that explored social issues such as child abuse, AIDS and juvenile delinquency through the eyes of real people living through dramatic moments with the cameras rolling. The series, for which Jon served as exec. prod. and dir., was acclaimed for pioneering new forms of storytelling and received numerous national awards. In 1997, Klein conceived and executive produced the CBS documentary, Inside the Jury Room, in which network TV cameras were permitted for the first time to observe deliberations in a criminal trial. The documentary won a Columbia-DuPont Silver Baton. Klein also wrote the story for the TNT Original film, Buffalo Soldiers, a 1997 historical drama starring Danny Glover.

In 1999, Klein became the pres. & CEO of The FeedRoom, a broadband video company he founded. Under his direction, The FeedRoom became one of the leading online broadcasters in the world, delivering more than 1 million video clips each day to customers including CBS, NBC, ESPN, Reuters, Tribune television stations and newspapers, USA Today, Business Week, General Motors, Cisco Systems, Sun Microsystems, General Mills and the U.S. Department of Defense. In Nov. 2004 Klein assumed his current position of pres. CNN/U.S. and is responsible for management oversight of all programming, editorial tone and strategic direction of the network. He reports to Jim Walton, president of The CNN News Group.

Graduate School of Business, M.B.A. Before entering entertainment industry, worked with Wasserstein, Perella & Co., a NY-based investment-banking firm. Joined Sony Pictures Entertainment in 1991. During his tenure, he served in many positions including exec. v.p. of corporate development and strategic planning. Landau formed Sony Pictures Digital in 1999, bringing together all of Sony Pictures' digital artists and software engineers from Sony Pictures Imageworks, Sony Online Entertainment and Columbia Tristar Interactive into one division. Today, he is vice chairman of Sony Pictures Entertainment and also pres. of Sony Pictures Digital Entertainment, where he guides a group committed to creatively using technology to develop and deliver the next generation of entertainment. Sony Pictures Imageworks has grown into a leading digital animation and visual effects company creating computer-generated imaging (CGI) for motion pictures. Landau supervised production of Imageworks' first animated short, The Chubbchubbs!, which won an Academy Award for Best Short Film (animated) in 2003. Building on this success, he established Sony Pictures Animation to develop and produce all-CGI animated features for SPE. Sony Online Entertainment has grown into the worldwide leader in massively multiplayer online (MMO) gaming, building upon EverQuest, with Star Wars Galaxies launched in partnership with Lucas Arts in 2003. Through Sony Pictures Digital, Landau developed the technology and formed the five-studio Movielink partnership, the first major studio internet movie download service, launched in 2002. Most recently, he reorganized Sony Pictures Digital Networks to focus on emerging mobile entertainment, broadband video delivery and media software. Today this group includes Sony Pictures Mobile, SoapCity, and Sony Pictures Integrated Network (SPIN), the studio's online promotional presence.

MURRAY, JONATHAN

Producer. b. New York, 1955. e. Univ. of Missouri, journalism degree. Murray got his start in local television, spending six years at WLWK-TV, WXIA-TV and WKYC-TV in news, station management (WOKR-TV) and programming. He then worked with the TV rep firm HRP, Inc., helping local stations buy and schedule their syndicated programming. In 1991, Murray and Mary Ellis Bunim pitched their idea for an unscripted drama series to MTV executives over breakfast. MTV bought the show before lunch time, and the landmark success of Bunim-Murray Productions was underway. Bunim's experience in scripted dramas with Murray's documentary and news expertise broke all the rules of TV production. The result - The Real World - quickly dominated the youth market and continues to thrive after 15 seasons in production. From the Real World's 1992 launch, Murray has created and exec. produced more than 50 seasons and close to 2000 hours of unscripted TV. Despite the loss of Bunim to cancer in early in 2004, Murray continues to lead the company they founded together as its chmn. and pres.

SMULYAN, JEFFREY, H.

Executive. e. Univ. of Southern California, cum laude graduate, B.A. in History and Telecommunications. Juris Doctor degree from USC School of Law. After operating two radio stations - WNTS in Indianapolis and KCRO in Omaha - Smulyan formed and became principal shareholder of Emmis Communications Corporation, an Indianapolis-based corporation, in 1980. Among its media holdings, Emmis owned a TV station group comprised of 16 stations until Aug. 2005 when company executives announced plans to sell 9 of its 16 TV stations for a total of $681 million. The planned sale is part of Emmis' plan to put all its stations up for sale to improve the company's financial position. Today, Smulyan is chairman of the board of Emmis and also a director of the National Association of Broadcasters. He is a former chmn. of the bd. of dir. of the Radio Advertising Bureau and is a past chair of the Central Indiana Corporate Partnership, a consortium of CEOs from central Indiana's largest corporations. He sits on the bd. of trustees of Ball State Univ. and the Univ. of Southern California. He is on the bd. of dir. of Finish Line, Inc., an athletic apparel company. Additionally, he is a member of the American, Indiana and Federal Communications bar associations, and has served on numerous civic boards and committees. As principal shareholder, he led a group that purchased the Seattle Mariners baseball team in 1989, selling the club three years later. During that time, Smulyan served on the Major League Baseball owner's Ownership and Television committees. In 2000, Smulyan was honored with the American Women in Radio and Television's Silver Satellite Award, the National Association of Broadcasters' National Radio Award, and as Radio Ink's "Radio Executive of the Year." In 1995, the radio industry newspaper, R & R, voted Smulyan one of the 10 most influential radio executives of the past two decades. He received the American Women in Radio and Television's Star Award in 1994 and the Entrepreneur of the Year Award from Ernst & Young the following year. Other honors include the Cystic Fibrosis Foundation's Breath of Life Award; the Jewish National Fund's Tree of Life Award; the Indianapolis Business Journal's Entrepreneur of the Year Award; the Leukemia Society Diamond of Hope Award; the State of Indiana's "Sagamore of the Wabash"; and he has been inducted into the Indiana Business Hall of Fame. In 1994, Smulyan was named by The White House to head the U.S. Delegation to the Plenipotentiary Conference of the International Telecommunications Union. As a United States Ambassador, he represented the U.S. in various bilateral meetings, negotiating a landmark agreement between Israel and the PLO.

The View premiered in August 1997 and is broadcast live from New York City. Walters' numerous and timely interviews read like a "Who's Who" of newsmakers. She did the first interview for American television with Russia's President Vladimir Putin and through the years has interviewed such world figures as China's Premier Jiang Zemin, Great Britain's former Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher, Libya's Moammar Quadaffi and Iraq's President Sadaam Hussein. She has interviewed every American President and First Lady since Richard Nixon. She made journalism history by arranging the first joint interview with Egypt's President Anwar Sadat and Israel's Prime Minister Menachem Begin in November, 1977. Another of her "firsts" was an hour-long primetime conversation with Cuban President Fidel Castro -- an interview shown all over the world. She has received national recognition for her work, including: The Overseas Press Club's highest award, the President's Award, 1988; induction into the Academy of Television Arts and Sciences' Hall of Fame "for being acknowledged worldwide as one of television's most respected interviewers and journalists," 1990; the Lowell Thomas Award for a career in journalism excellence by Marist College, 1990; Lifetime Achievement Award, International Women's Media Foundation, 1991; Salute by the American Museum of the Moving Image, 1992; Lifetime Achievement Award, Women's Project and Productions, 1993; Honored by the Museum of Television & Radio for her contributions to broadcast journalism, 1996; The Muse Award from NY Women in Film and Television, 1997; Lifetime Achievement Award, National Academy of Television Arts and Sciences, 2000. Walters is the recipient of honorary doctoral degrees from Sarah Lawrence, her alma mater, as well as Ohio State University, Temple University, Marymount College, Wheaton College, Hofstra University and Ben-Gurion University in Jerusalem.

WINFREY, OPRAH

Executive, TV Talk Show Hostess, Actress, Producer, Philanthropist. b. Kosciusko, MS, Jan. 29, 1954. e. Tennessee State U. Started as radio reporter, then TV news reporter-anchor in Nashville. Moved to Baltimore in same capacity, later co-hosting successful morning talk show. Left for Chicago to host own show AM Chicago which became top-rated in only a month; expanded to national syndication in 1986. In 1988, she established Harpo Studios, a production facility in Chicago, making her the third woman in the American entertainment industry, after Mary Pickford and Lucille Ball, to own a studio. Subsequently, Winfrey assumed ownership and production of The Oprah Winfrey Show, and it has been ranked as the number one talk show for 18 consecutive seasons, according to the Nielsen Cassandra Ranking Report (primary telecasts only). The show is seen by an estimated 30 million viewers a week in the U.S. and is broadcast internationally in 109 countries. In 1990, Winfrey established Harpo Films, and struck a long-term deal with ABC Television to produce "Oprah Winfrey Presents" TV movies. Harpo Films' 2005 production was "Their Eyes Were Watching God," based on the Zora Neale Hurston novel and starred Oscar winner Halle Berry. In addition to on-camera interview skills, Winfrey debuted her acting acumen in 1985 in Steven Spielberg's The Color Purple; for which she received both Golden Globe and Academy Award nominations. In 1998, Winfrey co-founded Oxygen Media, a 24-hour cable television network for women. In 2000, Winfrey and Hearst Magazines introduced "O, the Oprah Magazine," a monthly women's lifestyle magazine and has more than 2 million readers each month, making "O" one of the most successful new magazines in recent history. (A follow-up to "O" launched in 2004 is "O at Home," with publication in May and October.) In Sept. 2002 she debuted "Oprah After the Show," an original uncensored half-hour show taped immediately following "The Oprah Winfrey Show." The series airs on the Oxygen Network. Extending her reach beyond television, Winfrey also operates Oprah.com, a women's lifestyle website that offers comprehensive advice to women; in 2003 she launched an interactive multimedia workshop online, which was based on her "Live Your Best Life" sold-out national speaking tour.

PHILANTHROPY Formed The Oprah Winfrey Foundation in 1987, to support the education & empowerment of women, children and families in the U.S. and around the world. Winfrey has awarded hundreds of grants to organizations that carry out this vision. In 1997, Winfrey established "Oprah's Angel Network," a public charity to encourage people to use their lives to make a difference in the lives of others. One hundred percent of audience donations go to non-profit organizations around the world. Winfrey initiated the National Child Protection Act in 1991, which culminated in the establishment of a national database of convicted child abusers. On Dec. 20, 1993, Pres. Bill Clinton signed the national "Oprah Bill" into law. For all her efforts to enrich, enlighten, educate and entertain others, Winfrey has been the recipient of numerous awards and recognitions.

AWARDS/RECOGNITION: George Foster Peabody Awards, Individual Achievement, 1995; International Radio & Television Society Foundation, Gold Medal Award, 1996; TV Guide, Television Performer of the Year, 1997; Newsweek, Most Important Person in Books and Media, 1997; Time Magazine, 100 Most Influential People of the 20th Century, 1998; National Academy of Television Arts & Sciences, Lifetime Achievement Award, 1998. (The following year, after accepting the lifetime achievement honor, Winfrey removed herself from future Emmy consideration and the show followed suit in 2000. Oprah and "The Oprah Winfrey Show" received nearly 40 Daytime Emmy Awards, seven for outstanding host; nine for Outstanding Talk Show; 21 in the Creative Arts categories, and one for Oprah's work as supervising producer of the ABC After School Special, "Shades of Single Protein"); the National Book Foundation, 50th Anniversary Gold Medal, 1999; the "Broadcasting & Cable" Hall of Fame, 2002; the 54th Annual Primetime Emmy Awards, Bob Hope Humanitarian Award, 2002; Association of American Publishers, AAP Honors Award, 2003; Time Magazine, 100 Most Influential People in the World, 2004; National Assoc. of Broadcasters, Distinguished Service Award, 2004; Hall of Fame Honoree at the 36th NAACP Image Awards, 2005.
