THE YEAR IN REVIEW

BY WILLIAM J. QUIGLEY

THE INDUSTRY

Consumers now can view their entertainment from an amazing array of options: traditional TV at home on the couch, "time-shifting" via DVRs, buying or renting on-demand programs or "physical product" like DVDs and Blu-Rays, low-cost streaming services and an array of digital applications among other devices and services. "Appointment television" is a thing of the past and people consume their programming when they want it, how they want it and more often - wherever they want to see it. "Binge viewing" has entered the vernacular as people watch a season's worth of "Breaking Bad," "Walking Dead" or "Game of Thrones" in one sitting. Evidence is growing - a decline in overall pay-TV subscribers in 2013 - that "cord cutting" is increasing as viewers disconnect their cable-TV service and find what they want to see on Netflix, YouTube, Amazon or other services. Consumers would like all media companies to provide more customized and cheaper programming choices. Senator John McCain even introduced legislation this year aimed at breaking up cable "bundles."

With the media industry in such a state of flux, companies must revisit their business models and the way they organize themselves. The ultimate corporate winners will be those that offer custom services or content in the most consumer-friendly, price competitive ways and have staffed and created proper company divisions to serve those needs. Evidence of this new reality is in the changing operational structure at many of the Studios. There were wholesale shifts in the executive suites this year that seem to reflect the realization that an understanding of digital distribution and a knowledge of the international marketplace are the key qualifications for top Studio jobs now and in the future. These jobs are being given to those well versed in digital distribution, like Kevin Tsujihara at Warner Bros., or digital marketing, like Sony's Dwight Caines or with extensive international experience, like Jeff Shell, a longtime Comcast executive who Steve Burke, CEO of NBC Universal, named to replace Adam Fogelson. Today, the Studios are increasingly being run by executives who see and understand the dramatic changes happening in the industry as our viewing habits shift from theatres to the home and home to mobile. Studios need people who are willing to experiment and make big changes in how content is distributed.

So far the television industry has resisted big disruption, but that has not stopped doomsayers predicting a flight of advertising and viewers. Spending on digital advertising approached $5.7 billion in 2013 and is expected to increase by more than 40% per year for the next few years. Much of this was probably redirected from TV advertising. While this does not necessarily mean that TV ad spending will decline, it certainly implies that it will slow. This shift explains why big technology firms are vying to distribute TV over the Internet. Maybe Internet will become the new TV.

However, after years of wreaking havoc on bottom lines of content companies, the Internet is actually helping media companies grow. PricewaterhouseCoopers estimates revenues for online media and entertainment will increase by around 13% a year for the next five years. Other competing services have transformed from foe to ally or even financier. Netflix, Amazon, Intel, Hulu and many others are all creating content. YouTube was once despised and sued often by media firms for hosting copyrighted content that viewers could watch free. Recently, it has started to pay royalties. Revenues from Home Entertainment are also stabilising thanks to downloads, rentals and streaming services. Netflix and Redbox were once scorned for undermining DVD sales. Now those sites—and others, including Hulu and Amazon—are boosting profits at media firms by buying the rights to stream content online. Netflix, Hulu and Amazon are paying around $3 billion to license content, a figure that is sure to rise. Television and film companies are selling rights to broadcast content after it debuts, but before it is repeated on TV. Early Electronic Sell-through (EST) is becoming increasingly important. Tinkering with windows and delivery systems will continue.

BROADCAST

Walt Disney reported in November it earned 77 cents per share on revenue of $11.6 billion, in its fiscal fourth quarter, up from 68 cents a year earlier, on a 6 percent rise in revenue to $11.4 billion. Revenue at the media networks segment was up just 1 percent to $4.9 billion, though operating income sunk due to a reduction of $172 million in recognition of previously deferred ESPN affiliate fee revenues related to annual programming commitments.

The ABC network finished fourth in the key 18-49 demographic for the 2012-13 season, down 8% from the previous season. While last year saw drops at most of the big broadcast networks, ABC's ratings were dragged down by big declines of "Dancing with the Stars." The reality show plummeted 26% in the 18-49 demographic on its Monday night show and 23% on Tuesday. Nevertheless, Sales Head, Geri Wang, held the line on ad prices, citing the appeal of such shows as "Grey's Anatomy" and "Scandal" to 18-to-49 females. ABC also heralded new shows in "Marvel's Agents of SHIELD," a spinoff from the "Avengers" film franchise and a few broad comedies, and managed to generate $2.35 billion in sales for 2013 vs. $2.5 billion in 2012.

ABC had a lot riding on "Marvel's Agents of SHIELD," and it delivered with a 4.7 demo rating - the best for any new drama on any network in four years - and the biggest for a show to lead off a night since "Lost" in 2004. ABC's fortunes on its all-new Tuesday slid from there, although "SHIELD" did provide a good lead-in for new comedies "The Goldbergs" and "Trophy Wife," their ratings declined throughout the Fall. Odds look bad for "Lucky 7," whose 1.3 rating made it the lowest-rated of the Big Four new shows this year and "Super Fun Night" and "Betrayal" are likely to be casualties as well. Among returning shows, "Dancing With the Stars" looks a little stronger this year than last, but Wednesday's "Modern Family" was off 24% in starting its fifth season. Sophomore drama "Nashville" opened OK relative to where it left off last season, and "Grey's Anatomy" outperformed most of last season's episodes."

CBS Corp. grew earnings 26 percent in the third quarter, benefiting from higher ad revenue, sales of reruns of shows like "NCIS: Los Angeles" and pay-per-view boxing. Despite strong operating results, the CBS network has lost some ground in the ratings at the start of the Fall TV season. After finishing in first place last season among viewers 18 to 49 years old, CBS is down 4.8% so far this year in key segments and is in third place behind NBC and Fox. CBS is still in first place in total prime-time viewers with an average of 11.7 million, though it is slightly down compared with last year. CBS won this year's carriage fee dispute with Time Warner Cable, which reported increased subscriber losses for the third quarter. However, the one-month blackout of CBS properties on TWC systems, served as a local advertising headwind for CBS. CEO Les Moonves said the standoff helped pave the way for "dramatic gains" in the fees it is paid by distributors for the right to retransmit local TV station signals to its subscribers.

In the upfront market CBS was the only network to improve its ratings last season and was rewarded with the biggest cpm increases. CBS finished 2012-13 with the most total viewers and highest average 18-to-49 rating for the first time since 1991-92. However, the network did not get off to a great start for the 2013-2014 season, though Robin Williams in "The Crazy Ones" had a strong debut, with 15.6mm viewers overall - thanks in part to its sizable lead-in from the monster hit, "The Big Bang Theory," which regularly draws 19mm. "How I Met Your Mother" opened well, but "2 Broke Girls" came back lower than expected and newcomer "Mom" performed slightly better than Jerry Bruckheimer's "Hostages" which ran third in its hour. On the plus side, CBS can still count on fans to tune in for long running shows like "NCIS" and "Criminal Minds." Because of the strength of its core lineup, CBS has the luxury of trying to boost series that have been around for years and improve already strong timeslots in the Fall, rather than doing wholesale programming changes. Nina Tassler said of her Fall schedule, "launching new shows is always a priority, but we want to promote our returning hits."

Comcast completed the $30 billion deal to buy GE's share of NBCUniversal in March 2013 and the company is betting that its distribution business, combined with a content company, can create outside benefits. To that end Steve Burke has spent the past two years pouring money into the broadcast and cable television, films and Universal theme park businesses. Two and a half years into his tenure, progress at NBCU is mixed. Mega hits like the singing competition "The Voice" have helped restore some lustre to NBC, but the network suffered an embarrassing blow when "Today" lost its 15-year reign as the top morning show to ABC's "Good Morning America."

Overall, NBCU's profits have grown since the take-over—in 2Q2013, operating cash flow rose 21%. But the company's cable-networks cash cow, which accounts for 80% of profits, have also suffered some ratings stumbles. On Aug. 16, Comcast extended Mr. Burke's employment agreement through 2018 and awarded him a $5 million bonus, citing his "outstanding work" in integrating NBCU and Comcast.

NBC had a 7-% increase in cpm in the upfronts this year with "The Voice" and "Sunday Night Football" boosting revenue. The network's performance is the main reason for the broadcasters' overall gains, with the net up vs. last year on each of the first four nights. "The Voice" returned stronger than expected, getting a 5.1 in 18-49 with its premiere and a 4.7 for its next night. It provided strong lead-ins for "The Blacklist" and the second season of "Chicago Fire." Both of these shows won their hour in 18-49, as did "Law & Order: SVU." "Michael J. Fox Show," came in below expectations. For the first four nights of the season, NBC was the clear leader in the 10 o'clock hour, with a 2.8 average in 18-49.

In June of 2013, Rupert Murdoch split the News Corporation's assets into 21st Century Fox, which retains the broadcasting and film assets and serves as the legal successor of the former parent and News Corp which was spun off with all the publishing assets. Fox Entertainment Group is the division of 21st Century Fox which contains 20th Century Fox film studio, Fox television and various other TV, cable and satellite properties including BSkyB.

Fox's profit fell sharply in the quarter ended Sept. 30, 2013, compared with a year earlier, when one-time gains from an asset sale boosted results. The company's fiscal first-quarter earnings also were hurt by startup costs in recent months for two cable-television channels, including the new sports network Fox Sports 1. Film profits dropped, while broadcast-TV earnings rose. The Fox network has shown positive signs lately after its viewership slid 21% last season. This season Fox is the most improved of any major network. Among 18- to 49-year-olds, its audience is up 6.7% from last year, according to Nielsen, though it remains in second place in that category behind NBC.

"The X Factor" returned for the 2013-2014 season with series lows, but "Sleepy Hollow" had a very positive start earning a 3.5 demo rating and becoming Fox's biggest Fall drama launch in seven years. They are looking for big things from the Tuesday night comedy block, but that did not happen: "Dads" averaged 1.9 in its first two weeks, and "Brooklyn Nine-Nine" was only a little better.

With double digit ratings growth this year and a 45% increase in the number of Hispanic Americans residing in the US since the 2000 census, Spanish language broadcaster Univision is well on its way to becoming the biggest broadcast network. While the English-language broadcast and cable nets sought to up their games this Summer, Univision delivered a ratings milestone that underscores the increasingly multicultural makeup of the U.S. population. Univision ranked No. 1 among all networks in the adults 18-49 and adults 18-34 demographics during the July sweep period, a first for the Spanish-language network in any sweep period.

Univision has grown more aggressive about publicizing its performance against the Big Four under the direction of CEO Randy Falco, who aims to claim a larger share of the overall TV advertising pie for Spanish-language television. Univision, along with its rival, No. 2-rated Spanish-language network Telemundo, typically draw a significantly younger audience than the Big Four networks. Univision crowed that all the summer series "Amores Verdaderos" topped the 18-34 demo, beating a list that includes ABC's "The Bachelorette," Fox's "So You Think You Can Dance" and CBS' "Big Brother." Buoyed by strong ratings, Univision saw a 17.6% year-over-year jump in operating income in the quarter. Net revenue grew 10.4% to $676.5 million. With its programming mix of telenovelas, variety, news and sports programming there is plenty of room for more growth ahead: results of the 2010 census underscored that Latinos make up the fastest-growing segment of the population. Within thirty years, one in three Americans will be Hispanic.

When Mark Pedowitz took the top job at The CW, his goal was to launch a measurement system that would account for all the ways the network's target 18-34 audience watches television. His attempts to create a rating system that would consistently and reliably track VOD and online streaming of the network's younger-skewing series is in the CW's self interest as more than 20 percent of the network's viewing is done digitally - online and via tablets and mobile. While The CW does lose money on a stand-alone basis, The CW's co-ownership structure (it is a partnership between CBS and Warner Bros. TV) brings in enough revenue to make up for those losses. Some of that revenue comes from streaming pacts between CBS Studios and Warner Bros. and Netflix and Hulu. As Pedowitz noted in 2013, "As more viewers use streaming services to binge on series, those series are becoming increasingly viable for networks, which can realize a second significant revenue stream via SVOD deals."

CABLE

Ad-supported cable networks generated a record $10.2 billion in 2013-14 upfront commitments, marking a 4% increase to last year. While the national cable TV networks continue to take upfront dollars from the broadcasters, the days of double-digit increases appear to be a thing of the past. 4% is the smallest year-to-year increase for cable in five years, although cable upfront sales have been on the rise for the last four years. Ad-supported cable nets have out-earned the English-language broadcasters three years running - this Summer, ABC, CBS, NBC, Fox and the CW gathered $9.15 billion in upfront sales.

The competitive balance between broadcast and cable has been upset by the sheer amount of quality programming available on cable, as well as the inherent inefficiencies of the business. On a cpm basis, prime-time inventory on a top 20 cable net costs about one-third as much as that on the broadcast nets. However, TV's top-rated scripted series, "The Walking Dead," and ESPN's "Monday Night Football," do not conform to that trend. The strongest scripted shows on cable like FX's "Sons of Anarchy," and "American Horror Story," HBO's "Game of Thrones" and AMC's "Breaking Bad" and "Walking Dead" are causing all the "water cooler" conversation in the office and online chatter and make the best broadcast shows this Fall seem insipid by comparison. It is no coincidence that the most acclaimed television programs are on cable as a subscription model has proved to be the best way to pay for high quality television and is likely to continue to be so. Eventually, ad rates for cable will approach those for broadcast.

In a brave new world of widely available broadband and rapidly growing Internet video choices in 2013 and beyond, traditional pay TV revenues should be taking a hit, but that has not yet happened. Cable operators have suffered steady erosion of video customers over the past few years as some share has shifted to satellite and telco providers and some "cord cutters" have left to pursue alternative digital means of receiving content. But subscriber losses have been offset by upgrading customers to higher-priced services and options, such as HD DVRs and digital video and with continual price increases subscription revenues have kept growing. Cable operators have been raising rates for the same collection of channels and "bundles" their subscribers got the year before to account for higher programming costs that they must pay to cable and broadcast network after each round of contract and retransmission negotiations. The increase in monthly pay TV bills has been much higher than the rate of inflation for years. Also, MSOs have managed to diversify their businesses, with broadband growth and solid gains in Internet and voice services, particularly among their business customers.

As monthly pay TV rates head toward $100 and beyond, Internet rivals see an opportunity to break through on price point. Amazon, Hulu and Netflix have libraries of thousands of TV shows and movies, available for one-tenth the cost of cable. Meanwhile, YouTube is making a foray into subscription video and Intel is assembling Internet-delivered video packages. Netflix is in talks with several U.S. pay-TV providers to put a Netflix app on their set-top boxes. But the fact that cable companies are considering inviting it in suggests they no longer view it as a threat. Broadband, not video, is the likely source of cable's future growth. Netflix is one of the top sources of U.S. Internet traffic and a primary reason that consumers pay up for faster speeds. An app on the cable box will make it easier for existing pay-TV customers, many of whom already subscribe to Netflix, to watch while keeping them on cable. In August, Cablevision's James Dolan said "there could come a day" when his company stops offering television service, making broadband its primary offering. If cable owners drop TV service, charging only for broadband, channel owners might have to sell directly to the public or through web outlets.

Nevertheless these alternatives are not really a replacement for regular TV, which provides a mix of live sports, news, broadcast primetime programming and more. In addition to scripted shows, sports remains key content that is difficult to obtain without pay-TV, as major events like Monday or Thursday Night Football are not available on broadcast channels. The cable industry's main weapon for fighting Internet-delivered video has been what it terms "TV Everywhere," which are services that let subscribers watch on a range of devices, either inside or outside the home. To date it has not yet reached critical mass and it doesn't do anything to address consumers' increasing resistance to continual price increases.

Unfortunately, providers are hamstrung by existing programming contracts. To give everything consumers expect, distributors must accede to the demands of large media companies to take an entire slate of linear channels. Cablevision and Viacom are sparring over the channel-bundling issue in federal court and John McCain introduced a bill that would require pay TV services to offer their subscribers a la carte pricing. If that survives legal challenges, such a law would dramatically shake up the industry's economics. Programming costs cannot continue to escalate indefinitely.

SATELLITE & TELCOS

Dish Network hopes to offset a lack of subscriber growth by using wireless airwaves it has amassed to team up with a national phone carrier. But after failing to buy Sprint out from under SoftBank in June, Dish is left with dwindling options. Subscribers at the end of 2013 are projected to be about 14.03 million, or roughly flat against the prior year. In August Dish reported earnings per share of 53 cents on revenue of $3.65 billion, compared with 50 cents and $3.57 billion a year ago. What Charlie Ergen and others are focusing on are the prospects for Dish's spectrum. This has only grown more valuable as the race by wireless carriers to snap up limited airwaves accelerates. Perhaps a deal with T-Mobile or even a merger with DirecTV might be in the cards.

Dish won another legal victory in August of 2013 as a federal judge denied ABC's request to shut down features of its "Hopper" digital-video recorder. That ruling was Dish's third federal court victory over broadcasters. Broadcasters including ABC say the Hopper infringes on their copyrights. The service has a feature that automatically records all primetime broadcast programming and another that allows users to automatically skip over ads during that programming. Normal DVRs already pose a problem for TV programmers: many viewers fast-forward through commercials, threatening to reduce the value of that ad inventory for marketers. The Hopper makes it even easier for viewers to skip ads.

Smartphones, tablets and computers all pull data from the Internet, but people still pay two different bills: the high-speed connection they get at home and the wireless connection they get outside. Dish tried to bridge that gap by making a $25.5 billion bid for Sprint Nextel in April saying a merger between the two companies could roll television, high-speed Internet and cellphone services into a single package that would be faster and more affordable for consumers. When that deal proved untenable Ergen launched a bid for Clearwire Communications and $2.2 billion bid LightSquared, which filed for bankruptcy last year and was also being pursued by Sprint. They did announce that they were closing the remaining U.S. Blockbuster stores. It looks like there will be plenty of drama for Dish in 2014.

DirecTV's third-quarter profit grew 24% as the satellite-television provider continued to boost its subscriber rolls in the U.S. and Latin America. Net subscriber gains in DirecTV's U.S. business totaled 139,000, compared with 67,000 a year earlier. The total subscriber base was about 20.2 million by the end of the quarter, up from about 20 million a year earlier. Revenue rose 7% to $6.17 billion. DirecTV has had to adjust its U.S. strategy, as its cable rivals have been able to make up for softness in the mature video business with growth in broadband and other services that satellite operators can't provide as well. The company increasingly has looked to Latin America as a source of growth.

During 2013 DirecTV stuck their toes into the film financing business by partnering with a very successful startup production, distribution company, A24, to acquire independent films for an exclusive window on its video-on-demand services, 30 days before they hit theaters. DirecTV is making an initial commitment of about $40 million to co-finance and market independent movies under the initiative. The first picture it acquired alongside A24 is "Enemy," a thriller with Jake Gyllenhaal. They have previously obtained rights to films for VOD before their theatrical release, but this is the first time they have invested in film production.

Ten years after Verizon and AT&T Inc. began delivering TV service, they are nearing the market share of cable operators in areas where they operate, according to third-quarter results released by cable and phone companies in recent days. Comcast Corp. shed 435,000 video customers in the quarter, while AT&T and Verizon added 400,000.

The growth of telecom's share of the TV business could have a significant impact on the television industry. Both phone companies have shown a greater willingness than their cable rivals to experiment with delivering movies and TV programming over the Internet outside the traditional pay-TV bundle. AT&T and Verizon are now the fifth and sixth biggest pay-TV providers in the U.S. after Comcast and Time Warner Cable and the two satellite-TV companies, DirecTV and Dish Network Corp. The phone companies account for only about 10% of the pay-TV market, compared with 55% for cable, but that is largely because phone companies do not offer service everywhere cable does.

HOME ENTERTAINMENT

This section needed to be re-titled from last year's "DVD and Home Video" to "Home Entertainment," but that change may be temporary as well. Home entertainment was the term for the division of media companies that distributed content to one's home, generally by physical media. Now it has become a term for changing Distribution channels that are so much broader and now include "early electronic sell-through" (EST) of digital content. We will have to come up with a better term to acknowledge how the business is transforming itself into a new, digital future.

The traditional windows are changing so rapidly. Last year Fox sold all of its films slated for DVD and Blu-Ray release two to four weeks before the street date under their "Digital HD" banner. All the other Studios quickly followed with their own versions of that strategy. "The Great Gatsby," "Star Trek Into Darkness" and most other films were available on select digital platforms weeks before the release of the discs. Walmart was selling EST pre-orders for "Despicable Me 2" bundled with merchandise prior to the theatrical opening of the film. The EST for "Fast and Furious 6" was marketed heavily as the film was released in theatres. Even theatre circuits such as CineplexOdeon, which usually howl with any tinkering with release windows, were selling pre-orders for ESTs in their theatres, as the films were playing. Both where and when films are offered to consumers is being tested outside the home on mobile devices, in retail stores and movie theaters and all different price points.

The incredible increase in smartphones, tablets and broadband speeds have encouraged more people to pay for content they can carry around with them. The most obvious change in the past few years is the decline of "physical" products, such as CDs, DVDs and anything in print. It is estimated that half of entertainment spending will be for digital product by 2017. This year consumers will spend more time online or using computerised media than watching television and much of that will be done on mobile devices. "All-access" services such as Netflix, Amazon and Hulu, which give unlimited content on mobile devices for a monthly fee, are prompting people to spend more on digital products.

Although purchases of physical media are declining and digital download sales are increasing, physical media sales are still formidable. Growth in kiosk usage and bumps in digital sales and rentals for the homevideo business generated 2% increases in revenue for the first half of the year to $8.6 billion, according to the Digital Entertainment Group. Although electronic sell through - which includes video-on-demand and subscription-based streaming services - grew 78% to $2.4 billion, 80% percent of the total revenue number comes from the sale and rental of physical discs. However, the margin on EST is so much greater than on its digital counterparts that studios can not ignore it.

In any event, the barriers that once existed between physical and digital distribution are falling away rapidly. As theatre owners found out when they converted from celluloid to digital - customers do not care what technology delivers their entertainment. They care about the product, not the device or delivery system.

TELEVISION STATIONS

Stations are presented alphabetically by state, city and call letters. Stations are listed within their assigned DMA (Designated Market Areas), as defined by Nielsen Media Research. DMA rankings are for the 2012-2013 television season that began September 11, 2013, and cover the 210 DMA's throughout the U.S. The switch from analog to all-digital TV broadcasts occurred mid-year 2009. Digital television promises greater channel capacity, higher quality picture and sound such as high-definition television (HDTV), and advanced programming like video-on-demand. Digital television also provides for the possibility of multiple channels, improved program guides and interactive capabilities. Viewers should check local listings for multicast channels in their viewing area.

Coverage is the percentage of U.S. homes reached, based on total coverage in Designated Market Areas. If a station owns additional stations in a market area, the additional coverage is not counted. Holdings may include part ownerships, local marketing agreements, and time brokerage agreements.

CORPORATE HISTORIES OF THE NETWORKS

(AMERICAN BROADCASTING SYSTEM, INC.)

ABC's predecessor, the Radio Corporation of America (RCA) owned two radio networks, the Blue and the Red. In 1941, the FCC decreed that the same company could not own two networks, so RCA incorporated the Blue under the name of American Broadcasting System and established it as an independent subsidiary. RCA then sold this network to Edward J. Noble, and in 1944, the name was changed to the American Broadcasting Company. ABC's first television broadcast was on April 19, 1948 with "On the Corner." Later in the year, ABC scored two "firsts": the live broadcast of an opera (Verdi's "Othello") from the Metropolitan Opera House in New York and a TV documentary, "The Marshall Plan." ABC merged with United Paramount Theatres in 1952. This merger was engineered by Leonard H. Goldenson, then the President of UPT. The new company was called American Broadcasting-Paramount Theatres, Inc. During the 1950s, ABC began to operate at a profit although it had to struggle fiercely to acquire new affiliates. In 1954, ABC made a deal with Walt Disney to acquire a 35% interest in Disneyland and all TV programs produced by Disney. The following year, ABC signed an exclusive rights contract with Warner Bros. for TV programming.

In the Fall of 1962, ABC introduced color programming for the fall season which was expanded in 1966 to include full color broadcasting. In 1965, AB-PT's name was changed to American Broadcasting Companies, Inc. The 1960s also introduced blockbuster theatrical movies to TV with spectacular ratings results when "The Bridge on the River Kwai" was viewed (in 1966) by 60 million Americans. In 1967, the ABC evening news was expanded from 15 minutes to a half-hour, and Joey Bishop inaugurated ABC's late-night talk show programming.

In 1972, ABC was able to operate at a profit for the first time in ten years. In the 1976-77 season, ABC had its first win in the ratings race. In 1976, Barbara Walters joined ABC, becoming the first anchorwoman in television history. The mini-series "Roots" appeared on ABC in 1977 and became the highest-rated program of all time. This helped immensely in the ratings race, and credit must go in large part to Fred Silverman who, two years before, had joined the company as President of ABC International. He left in 1978 to go to NBC.

The decade of the Eighties was a turbulent one for the networks as cable and home video began whittling away their audiences. In 1985, ABC agreed to be purchased by Capital Cities Communications. The merged company's name was changed to Capital Cities/ABC, Inc. ABC held second place in the ratings from 1979 to 1983, when it dropped to third position. It was unable to rise from third until 1987-88 when it displaced CBS in second place, primarily because of the World Series and the Superbowl. It remained second in 1988-89 and 1989-90. In the latter season, ABC had the distinction of broadcasting the most talked-about new series of the period, "Twin Peaks," and the highest-rated new series, "America's Funniest Home Videos."

Daniel B. Burke replaced Frederick J. Pierce as President and COO. There were also sweeping reductions in personnel in the interests of economy and streamlining. Budget cuts notwithstanding, Capital Cities/ABC chairman Thomas Murphy pledged ABC would not scrimp on programming.

Profits at the end of 1990 rose about $70 million. Of the three networks, ABC won the ratings battle in news coverage of the war in the Persian Gulf. For two seasons in a row the network could boast having the only new series in the top ten: "America's Funniest People" (1990-91) and "Home Improvement" (1991-92). Capital Cities/ABC is a partner in ESPN, the highly successful cable TV sports channel, and two other cable TV services — Arts & Entertainment and Lifetime. ABC was the only network in the 1992-93 season to gain ground, moving into second place behind CBS, from its previous third place standing. During the season, Robert A. Iger became the new network President. The network was the first to sign a deal with a cable operator (in this case Continental Cablevision) allowing its stations to be carried on cable without paying a fee. In 1994, the company signed an affiliation deal with E.W. Scripps Company to switch several of their stations over to ABC.

The big event of 1995 was the $19 billion acquisition of Capital Cities/ABC by the Walt Disney Company, said to be the second largest corporate takeover in history. In 1997, Ted Harbert resigned as entertainment chairman of ABC after 20 years with the network. At the end of the 1996-97 season, "Roseanne," one of ABC's sitcom staples, was discontinued after nine years on the air. The producers of ABC's "Home Improvement" sued the program's distributor, Walt Disney, alleging that a $3 million-per-episode renewal was in essence a sweetheart deal benefitting Disney. A lawsuit against the ABC news program Prime Time Live by the supermarket chain Food Lion for trespass, fraud and breach of fiduciary duty was decided in favor of the supermarket by a North Carolina jury. Producers for the evening news magazine got themselves hired undercover as clerks by the chain in order to expose the sales of spoiled food and unsanitary food handling practices by Food Lion, which did not dispute the findings of the investigative report, but instead claimed that the practice of sending in undercover reporters constituted fraud.

ABC's ratings soared when it broke the news in January 1998 that sex allegations were made by intern Monica Lewinsky against President Clinton. Apparently continuing a trend started by the O.J. Simpson trial and elevated by the death of Princess Diana in September 1997, news proved very successful in attracting viewers. Despite its brief victory in the ratings war, the network was scheduled to go through a complete transformation for the 1998-99 season, after losing its number two slot among 18- to 49-year-olds to Fox. For the new season, the network introduced remakes of old shows such as "The Mary Tyler Moore Show" and "Fantasy Island," had "Sports Night" for male viewers, and aired about 20 made-for-TV movies and mini-series.

ABC finished third in the 1998-1999 ratings war, despite their relentless self-promotion and critical acclaim for new shows like "Sports Night." With the 1999 departure of the embattled Jamie Tarses, it remained to be seen whether ABC's next programmer would be able to resurrect the network's ratings.

ABC's only blue-chip program was Monday Night Football, for which Disney paid the NFL $9.2 billion through the year 2005. In July, 1999, in an effort to reduce programming expenses, Disney combined ABC with Disney's television-production studio in order to slot more shows made by Disney onto ABC's prime-time schedule.

In the 1999-2000 season, ABC hit the jackpot with its American spin-off of the British "Who Wants to Be a Millionaire." For the season ending May 24, "Millionaire" took the top three spots in the ratings with its Tuesday, Thursday and Sunday programs, garnering a 29-, 26- and 25-share respectively.

In the 2000-2001 season, "Millionaire's" popularity waned somewhat. Through Nov. 5, 2000, the show was averaging a 20 share, a significant drop. ABC depended on the show to anchor its programming and generate revenue. With spring upfront ad sales estimated at $1.2 billion, about half of ABC's revenue, ABC executives and advertisers had their fingers crossed.

After surging to number 1 in the 1999-2000 season with "Who Wants To Be A Millionaire," ABC saw its audience drop off, causing the network to fall to number 4 (behind NBC, CBS, and FOX) in overall ratings for the 2001-02 season.

Adding to the network's woes in 2001, ABC was reeling from the worst ad market in years. Buffeted by the Sept. 11 attacks, ABC, CBS and NBC collectively suffered a record loss of $880 million in advertising revenues for the third quarter, a slide of 28.6% from the same period in 2000.

ABC was stung by a number of high-profile disappointments in the fall 2001 season, including the not-so-funny comedies "Bob Patterson" and "What About Joan" which were cancelled. ABC then reallocated budget resources to develop about a dozen comedies aimed at helping the network recover its viewership in the spring of 2002. Also cancelled after only two weeks on the air was "America.01," the ABC News magazine devoted to covering the changes in the country after Sept. 11. The newsmagazine, which premiered on Nov. 2, was created in order to fill the gap left by reality show "The Mole," which was put on hiatus because of low ratings.

ABC Television Network ranked behind NBC and CBS for the 2001-02 season, and almost lost its third place spot in a ratings battle with FOX. In 2002-03, ABC expected to woo younger audiences with its new season of "The Bachelor."

The network had a few more programming building blocks in 2003-04, including the building "According to Jim" and "8 Simple Rules for Dating My Teenage Daughter," which generated a lot of interest and ratings due to the untimely death of beloved actor John Ritter. ABC sold $2.3 billion of prime-time advertising up-front, which was 15% higher than 2002. Thanks to improvement at ABC, Disney's media operations, which include ESPN and the Disney Channel, brought in $841 million in operating profit for the period ending June 30th. Ratings for the first part of the new television season were flat to the previous year.

ABC overhauled its executive ranks during 2004. Ironically, the biggest hits of the new schedule including, "Desperate Housewives," "Lost" and "Boston Legal" were picked by the very executives who were sacked, Lloyd Braun and Susan Lyne. Part of the network's problem had been the inability to find a scripted megahit on the order of "CSI" or "Law & Order." It looked like they have them. The opening week of November sweeps brought good news for ABC and broadcast television overall. "Lost" captured Wednesday and helped ABC be one of only two networks to show a ratings increase in key demos vs. 2003's opening week. (CBS was the other net showing improvement). According to reports in "Variety," the combined six network 18-49 averages in the first week of the November sweep (19.0 rating/50 share) ranked ahead of the previous year (18.3/49), which was good news considering the steady flight of viewers to off-network programming.

On the primetime front, ABC earned the label for "big success story of the 2004-2005 season." Ratings for ABC shows moved the net into second behind CBS. Leading the turnaround were the Emmy-winning hits "Lost," "Desperate Housewives" and "Boston Legal," and surprise ratings hits from new offerings like "Grey's Anatomy." The network saw its advertising upfront take increase 30 percent to $2.1 billion for the 2005-2006 season, which was roughly a 3-5% increase over the previous season.

After more than 20 years of journalistic excellence and stability at its primetime news anchor desk, the ABC news division suffered a terrible loss Aug. 7, 2005, with the death of veteran newsmen and ABC World News Tonight anchor Peter Jennings. Jennings died from lung cancer at the age of 67. Jennings joined ABC news in Aug. 1964 and became the network's primetime news anchor and senior editor of "World News Tonight" in 1983. In more than 20 years in the position he was honored with almost every major award given to television journalists. Elizabeth Vargas and Bob Woodruff were named co-anchors of the broadcast in December 2005. In June 2006, ABC veteran journalist Charles Gibson replaced both Woodruff and Vargas, after Woodruff was critically injured in January while on assignment in Iraq, and Vargas chose to step down to take maternity leave and later return to co-anchor "20/20" and ABC News specials.

The upfront ad sales for the primetime 2006-2007 season dispelled any doubt ABC's slump of the past several seasons was over. For the second consecutive year, ABC generated cost-per-thousand increases of 4-6 percent and overall sales growth of more than 30 percent, to $2.3 billion (excluding sports). Advertiser confidence was attributed to the net's returning hits "Desperate Housewives," "Lost" and "Grey's Anatomy" anchoring ABC's nine new shows on the fall schedule. "Anatomy" moved from Sunday at 10 to Thursday at 9 to compete on a night that attracts top-ticket advertisers. The balanced programming blend of popular alternative series like "Dancing With The Stars" and "Extreme Makeover: Home Edition," fused with its comedy and drama offerings enabled ABC to nip at the heels of number one CBS.

In 2007 Disney reported higher operating earnings, driven by double digit growth in Media Networks, benefit from the acquisition of Pixar and the spin-off of the ABC Radio business. Anne Sweeney, Co-Chairman of Disney Media Networks and President of Disney-ABC Television Group since 2004 is responsible for all the company's entertainment and news television properties worldwide. During her tenure, ABC Studios has grown its product from 11 series three years ago to over 22 today on broadcast and cable. These series also appear on a variety of other new media platforms including, Internet, VOD, broadband and mobile. ABC has moved into first place among nightly newscasts with Charlie Gibson, and news content is available on ABCNews.com. The Disney Channel is cable's number one network among Kids 6-11 and Tweens 9-14. "Hannah Montana" and "High School Musical" have been big hits.

Revenue and operating income of ABC parent, Disney, declined across all segments of the company in 2009 as tourism, advertising spending and other key segments of the economy continued to sputter. In January 2009, ABC merged ABC Entertainment and ABC Studios and put both under the control of Stephen McPherson who who has been in charge of programming since 2004 and has steered a recent ratings turnaround. During the year, Disney-ABC Television Group cut 5% of its workforce. Diane Sawyer will take over the network's early-evening newscast from Charles Gibson in January 2010.

In 2010 Bob Iger marked his fifth anniversary as CEO of the Walt Disney Co. with a slew of executive changes in an attempt to save the network from falling into last place among the Big Four broadcasters. Stephen McPherson, ABC's top programming executive, was ousted in July. The success this year of shows like "Modern Family," "Castle," "The Bachelor," and "Dancing With the Stars" underlined deeper problems at the network. ABC lost more total viewers than any other broadcast network from 2006 to 2009, and the network ranked dead last in 2010 among the four broadcast networks in ratings, with a massive decline of 10% for the 18-49-year-old demographic.

At the start of the year, advertising sales head Mike Shaw quit after 10 years with the network and ABC News head Dave Westin and marketing chief Mike Benson also left. Iger has tasked Disney/ABC Television Group chief Anne Sweeney and Paul Lee, President, to get ABC back on track quickly and reverse the ratings erosion in 2011.

In 2011 the Walt Disney Company reported earnings for its third fiscal quarter and nine months ended July 2, 2011. Earnings per Share for the third quarter increased 15% to $0.77, compared to $0.67 in the prior-year quarter. Operating income at Broadcasting increased $41 million to $250 million, driven by lower programming and production costs and higher advertising revenue at the ABC Television Network. These increases were partially offset by a decrease in the cost charged to ESPN for programming aired on the ABC Television Network and lower advertising revenue at the owned television stations. Decreased programming and production costs reflected a lower cost mix of programming in primetime due to a shift in hours from original scripted programming to reality programming and the benefit of cost saving initiatives at news and daytime.

Higher advertising revenues at the ABC Television Network reflected higher rates, partially offset by lower ratings, while decreased advertising revenue at the owned television stations was due to lower political advertising.

Unfortunately, the downward trend in ratings of the last few years has continued. ABC is down 8.3% for the 2010-2011 broadcast primetime season in adults 18-49 to last season.

The Walt Disney Co. reported in November 2012 that net income rose 14 percent in its fiscal fourth quarter to $1.24 billion on revenue of $10.78 billion. Operating income rose 11 percent to $2.3 billion, with growth at four of the five company segments, the laggard being studio entertainment, which fell 32 percent to $80 million. Revenue at media networks rose 2 percent to $4.9 billion. Operating income at the media networks rose 7 percent to $1.6 billion.

ABC remained third among networks last season - tied with NBC in 18-49 and ahead in total viewers - and saw "Dancing With The Stars" take a heavy ratings tumble. "Dancing With The Stars" does not seem to be able to stem the aging franchise's steep ratings declines, especially in competition with "The Voice." Fridays are working well for ABC with "Malibu Country," "Last Man Standing" and the sleeper hit, "Shark Tank."

Disney's 3Q 2013 revenue and operating profit was up 6%, including earnings of $0.76 per share, up from $0.68 cents last year, and revenue of $11.38 billion. Shares are up 40% year to date, but not as much as its competitors, because of the writedown and operating losses from "Lone Ranger" - as much as $190mm - combined with home entertainment headwinds. Network advertising revenue was down 2.6 percent in a seasonally weak quarter, and syndication revenue faced tough comparisons to last year's sales of "Castle" and "Wipeout" versus this year's "Scandal."

Bob Iger will step down in 2015 and it looks like Anne Sweeney, who oversees ABC TV, ABC Studios, and Disney Channels worldwide, will become Head. Revenue and operating income in her division has been strong, up 4% and 8%, respectively in 2013, and the network celebrated an entire year as the No. 1 morning show after GMA ended the "Today" show's 16-year reign. Fears for ESPN, the biggest profit center for Disney each year, related to the launch of Fox's Fox Sports 1, were allayed. The most around ESPN is deeper than it seems. ESPN recently signed long-term renewal agreements with eight of its 10 largest distributors. Fees from pay-TV providers, which represent 70% of ESPN's revenue and 20% of Disney's revenue, are largely unaffected by Fox's entrance. Also, the vast majority of ESPN's sports rights are locked in through the next decade.

CBS

(COLUMBIA BROADCASTING SYSTEM, INC.)

CBS began in 1927 as a radio network with 16 stations, United Independent Broadcasters, Inc., founded by Arthur Judson, a concert tour manager and backed by Louis Sterling, President of the Columbia Phonograph Company. Later other investors were invited in, the most prominent of whom was William S. Paley. On September 26, 1928, at the age of 27, Paley became President of the firm whose name was changed to the Columbia Broadcasting System. Paley introduced many innovations to radio broadcasting, the most significant of which was the signing of an agreement in 1931 with Paramount Pictures whereby film stars were heard on radio for the first time. This laid the groundwork for the CBS policy in television from the outset to feature shows built around stars (Ed Sullivan, Lucille Ball, Arthur Godfrey, Jack Benny, Burns & Allen, Garry Moore, etc.).

CBS was in TV as early as 1931 when it began regularly scheduled TV programming over experimental station W2XAB in New York City. In 1941, CBS began weekly broadcasts of black-and-white TV programming over WCBS-TV in New York. By 1948, it had 30 affiliated stations. In 1951, CBS broadcast the first live coast-to-coast TV transmission between New York and San Francisco. The year 1951 also marked the birth of the CBS Eye logo, designed by William Golden. It would stand the test of time and become one of the most famous logos in the world.

In 1952 CBS opened Television City in Hollywood — the industry's first self-contained TV production facility. "Playhouse 90" made its debut in 1956, but the big event of the decade was the 1951 debut of "I Love Lucy," a series regarded as the progenitor of the situation comedy. In the field of soap operas, CBS was both leader and winner, virtually monopolizing that market from 1951 to 1956. In 1951, it introduced "Search for Tomorrow," which was to become the longest-running show in that genre. This was followed by "Love of Life" (1951) and "The Guiding Light" (1952), both overnight hits.

In the late '50s and through the '60s and '70s, CBS reigned as king of prime-time ratings, maintaining its long-running lead with such successes as "Gunsmoke" (1957), "The Defenders" (1961), "The Beverly Hillbillies" (1962), "All in the Family" (1972) and "Dallas" (1978). Also helping was "60 Minutes," the news-oriented show which, by 1995, had remained in the Top 10 prime time shows for 18 consecutive seasons.

CBS began the turbulent '80s with a new President, Thomas Wyman (replacing John D. Backe).

In 1985, Ted Turner made an unfriendly bid for CBS, forcing the network to buy up 21% of its own stock to thwart the takeover. Laurence A. Tisch, a former theatre chain executive, had become the major stockholder in CBS when, in 1986, he instigated sweeping changes in the interests of cost-cutting and efficiency. Eliminated were 700 jobs at the CBS Broadcast Group. Tisch also removed Wyman as President, named himself CEO and induced founder William Paley to return to active duty as acting chairman of the board. It was quite a jolt to the company when, in 1985-'86, it slipped to second place and stayed there through the following season.

In 1987-'88, CBS came in third for the first time in TV history. In 1988, Tisch shuffled executive ranks again, naming Howard Stringer, previously President of CBS News, President of the Broadcasting Group. The networks new management team sought to devise a strategy to pull the network out of its decline in the prime-time ratings. Jeff Sagansky, former head of Tri-Star Pictures, was brought in as President of the entertainment division in 1990. Starting in 1991-92, CBS became the number one network for three years in a row based on the success of such shows as "60 Minutes" (the number one show for both 1991-'92 and 1992-'93), "Murphy Brown," "Murder She Wrote," and "Northern Exposure." CBS was hit hard by FOX's 1994 purchase of 12 stations from New World Communications, losing eight affiliates.

However, the following summer, Westinghouse Electric Corp. acquired the final independent network for $5.4 billion, creating the largest collection of TV and radio stations in America. The 1994-'95 season was a low point for the network as it plunged from number one to number three. By season's end, CBS had the dubious distinction of being the first of the three majors to fall into 4th place, coming in below FOX for the last week before the debut of the 1995-'96 season. In late 1995, the venerable news program "60 Minutes" and CBS came under fire for refusing to air a controversial segment on the tobacco industry. Critics of CBS alleged that the network capitulated to the threat of legal action, rather than actual litigation. During this season the network placed third again. In 1997 CBS station group President Peter Lund was replaced by CBS radio President, Mel Karmazin. Continuing the unpleasant trend of the previous several years, CBS continued to lose viewers in all age groups except the 60+. In the middle of 1998, Mel Karmazin made public the restructuring of CBS. Because of the network's failure to turn a profit, the radio and billboard companies which accounted for 60% of CBS' profits at the time, were to be transferred to Infinity, thereby making the TV operations easier to sell, if need be. Infinity Broadcasting was sold by Karmazin to CBS in 1996 after trying to buy the Eye's radio stations himself. Two years later, the company was several times its former size, and had the cash to grow even more as a result of the CBS deal. Although the CBS President denied considering a TV sale, others admitted that a sale was not ruled out. Because of the network's questionable future, President & CEO of CBS TV, Leslie Moonves, was pressured to deliver successful prime-time programming for the 1998-'99 season. With the end of expensive shows such as "Cybill" and "Murphy Brown," Karmazin announced that the fall's lineup was considerably less costly than the previous year's. And, with shows such as "King of Queens" and "L.A. Docs" scheduled for the fall, analysts foresaw the possible resurrection of CBS.

In 1999, CBS merged with Viacom. Viacom paid $37 billion in stock for the network, making the combined company the third largest media group in the U.S. Mel Karmazin became the President & COO of Viacom under Chairman Sumner Redstone.

CBS came in first in the 1998-'99 ratings war, but still had a viewing demographic older than the 18-49-year-old group prized by advertisers. Many of its new shows, however, did attract a younger audience.

CBS renewed its contract for men's NCAA basketball, securing the lucrative franchise through 2013.

In the 1999-2000 season, CBS edged out NBC for second place in the ratings war.

CBS was number one in overall ratings for the 2000-2001 season and was ahead in November sweeps for 2001-2002. However, like the rest of the networks, CBS was affected by the September 11th terrorist attacks. Without placing an exact number on advertising losses, Viacom President and COO Mel Karmazin said that the attacks resulted in a "considerable increase in costs at CBS News." He also said the network would lose additional revenue from the cancellation of NFL games, rescheduling the Emmy Awards twice, and the delay of the fall season.

CBS continued to have the oldest demographic of the networks but attracted younger viewers and the all-important advertising dollars that come with them by way of "Survivor," its very popular reality show.

CBS placed second behind NBC in the 2001-02 TV ratings race after winning the rank of top-rated network for the 2000-01 season (barely edging the previous year's winner ABC).

The Tiffany network turned 75 in 2003 and was usually the leader in total viewers. In spite of CBS' reputation, series such as Jerry Bruckheimer's two "CSI" series, "The Amazing Race," and "Cold Case" brought more young viewers, but dependables like "60 Minutes" and "Everybody Loves Raymond" continued to make CBS the most traditional of the broadcast networks. Les Moonves pulled a Ronald Reagan miniseries in November after public outcry and a conservative backlash and used repeats of the two "CSI" series and "Without a Trace" to fill the holes. CBS only launched five new shows for the Fall 2004 Season including "CSI: NY," reflecting their ratings strength during 2004. All of these five benefitted from strong lead-ins, with the exception of the "CSI: NY," brand extension, which faced and did extremely well against "Law & Order" on Wednesday nights. CBS opened the November sweep with a record shattering performance, winning Thursday by its largest margin in viewers, adults 18-49 and adults 25-54 since 1987, according to Nielsen preliminary affiliate-based ratings for Nov. 4.

Also during 2004, CBS' parent, Viacom, Inc., saw the departure of pres. and COO Mel Karmazin and the promotion of CBS chief Les Moonves, to co-Pres. and co-COO of Viacom, alongside Tom Freston. Moonves still oversaw the network which continued to deliver solid revenues. At this time Viacom's TV operations included: CBS & UPN television networks and stations; television production and syndication. During the third quarter of 2004, these operations saw revenues increase 5 percent to $2.0 billion from $1.9 billion, and operating income increase 7 percent to $389 million from $362 million. Growth was attributed to advertising revenue increasing by approximately 4 percent. Solid programming, increasing revenues and a stable management team allowed CBS to continue its winning ways with viewers, advertisers and corporate shareholders.

Although lasting longer than many celebrity marriages, the 1999 union of CBS and Viacom amicably ended by 2006. Viacom Chairman and CEO Sumner Redstone initiated in June 2006 a break-up of the company into two separately traded entities to be known as Viacom, Inc. and CBS Corporation. Citing the demise of the corporate conglomerate, Redstone introduced the split to unlock value to shareholders, with the new companies split along lines strikingly similar to those before the 1999 merger. The new CBS Corporation included the CBS and UPN networks, the Viacom TV station group (soon renamed CBS TV Stations Group), the Infinity Broadcasting radio unit, Viacom Outdoor, the CBS, Paramount and King World TV production operations as well as Showtime, book publisher Simon & Schuster and Paramount Parks. Post-split, CBS Corporation continued to be run by Leslie Moonves. Company execs forecast the new CBS would generate a strong cash flow and would return capital to stockholders through dividend payments and stock repurchases.

CBS Broadcasting placed first in the 2004-05 TV ratings race and negotiated ad revenues for 2005-2006 from a position of power. CBS Sales President JoAnn Ross indicated CBS would sell just under 80 percent of its total prime-time ad inventory, about the same as for the 2004-2005 season, at cost-per-thousand increases of 4-5 percent. She anticipated the network would take in between $2.5 and $2.6 billion when all ad sales for the season were completed. CBS, fighting for younger viewers after years of being viewed as the network watched by an older audience, made strides in the youth market. It saw more ad dollars targeted to younger viewers in the 2005-2006 season, with agencies pumping ad dollars into shows like the Emmy-winning reality hit "The Amazing Race." Freshman shows already renewed for a full second season in 2006 included "How I Met Your Mother," "Criminal Minds" and "Ghost Whisperer." Among returning staples were "CSI," which had been a runaway hit since its introduction, and its spinoffs "CSI: Miami" and "CSI: NY"; "NCIS"; "The King of Queens," for a sixth season; "Two And A Half Men"; and "Survivor." Altogether, CBS programming strategy lured more viewers to CBS than any of the broadcast networks.

Dan Rather retired his post as evening news anchor after 24 years in the job, and after much speculation about his replacement, CBS secured the services of the ever-popular Katie Couric of NBC "Today Show" fame. She left the peacock network to join CBS in September 2006. According to reports, Couric drew more than 10 million viewers to "CBS Evening News" in her first week. Since then, ratings have fallen behind NBC and ABC, though compared with last year CBS has gained while the others are down. For the week of Oct. 16, Evening News drew 7.6 million viewers; NBC, 8.7 million; ABC, 8.5 million.

On the advertising front, CBS, and all the broadcast networks, faced a negative upfront market for the second straight year. Ad spending was down with clients moving money to other media. Yet, media reports showed CBS escaping the spring upfront market as the leader in overall sales, with $2.4 billion — even with its total last season. The network achieved low single-digit CPM increases.

In 2007 CBS operated the broadcast network, 200 owned and/or affiliated television stations, 144 radio stations and Simon & Schuster. After the split from Viacom, primetime programming is the heart of the company, driving profits at the TV station group. Programming accounted for $400 million of the company's $2.6 billion in operating income, but declined 1% in the first six months of 2007. CBS' television division, including stations and syndication, generated $1.8 billion of that number. Despite repeated stock buybacks and increases in the company's dividends, which have kept the stock price strong, Wall Street has been questioning whether Les Moonves will be able to continue in first place given that some of the hits such as "CSI" will keep losing the key 18-49 demographic. Moonves remains optimistic and cites the huge growth in international program sales as being the "lifeblood" of the network. Expanded distribution in new media channels by CBS' hot primetime shows will generate significant and increasing earnings in the years to come.

Leslie Moonves says the purchase of CNET, on June 30, 2008, instantly made CBS a "major player" in the digital realm. CBS aims to leverage its purchase of the technology network to shift the company away from being an "old media company": From entertainment, news and sports to technology, games and business, the combination of CBS and CNET Networks gives the company the content and scale to be leaders on a platform that is gaining audience share faster than any other. In addition to greatly expanding its size, CBS Interactive is now a top five premium content ad supported network; the number one technology network, led by CNET.com; and the number two entertainment and sports network for men 18-34. Its unparalleled collection of sites will be an extremely powerful vehicle for advertisers to reach highly attractive demographics. Since the split with Viacom, CBS has spent $2.6 billion on acquisitions (including CNET) and $2.3 billion on divestitures, including theme parks and radio. In July 2008, CBS announced it was selling 50 radio stations representing roughly $300 million in annual revenue or about 15 percent of the radio division's revenue. Following the divestitures, CBS will own about 90 radio stations.

The continued economic slowdown in 2008 in the United States has adversely affected advertising revenues across CBS' businesses, primarily at the local level, and the effects of the current financial crisis are likely to cause further declines in advertising spending. As a result of these market conditions, the Company revised its 2008 full year business outlook for both adjusted operating income before depreciation and amortization ("OIBDA") and adjusted operating income to a decline of mid-teens versus 2007.

In 2009, National Amusements, the Redstone family movie theatre company that also serves as a vehicle to control Viacom and CBS, announced it would sell nearly $1 billion worth of shares in the two media companies to pay down its large debt load, $500 million of which was due at the end of October 2009. Summer Redstone's debt problems came to light last year when the company was forced to sell more than $200 million worth of stock after it breached the terms of loans that were tied to the value of CBS and Viacom shares, both of which fell sharply amid the general decline in the market. After the sale Redstone will retain control of CBS and Viacom with 75 percent of the voting stock in each company, although his total ownership of the entities is down to the single digits.

CBS was the most watched broadcast network during the 2009-2010 season and the only one whose audience increased - up 12% from the year before, compared to an average 7% decline for the other major networks. To this date CBS still does not stream its primetime content on Hulu as the other networks do but does stream on its own site, TV.com. Ironically, the scandal surrounding David Letterman that erupted in the Fall of 2009 cinched his largest ratings victory ever over the "Late Show."

In late 2010 CBS Corp. CEO Leslie Moonves said ad growth trends were strong in the fourth quarter and looking very good going into 2011. Scatter market ad prices for the CBS network were up more than 35% over upfront levels. The TV station group is up by more than 20% with strong political ad spending and radio advertising revenue is up by the double digits. As part of its effort to become less dependent on ads, CBS has been ramping up its efforts to make more money from its cable networks, including Showtime. Cable revenue climbed 12 percent from last year to $370 million in the third quarter. CBS also unveiled a $1.5 billion share buyback program, beginning in early 2011.

In 2011, CBS reported higher second-quarter profit as TV advertising and other revenue streams continued to grow. Leslie Moonves has added new revenue streams, such as retransmission consent fees and money from digital distributors like Netflix, to diversify its business, which has traditionally been more advertising dependent. CBS also recorded a 21 percent gain in content licensing and distribution revenue, which benefited from a recent licensing agreement with Netflix for the digital streaming of select library titles.

The entertainment segment, which includes the CBS broadcast network and the TV studio, CBS Films, CBS Interactive and other operations, saw revenue increase 10 percent during the same period. The company said it was "driven by the new licensing agreement for the digital streaming of select library titles, the third-cycle domestic syndication sale of "Frasier," higher retransmission revenues and growth in network primetime advertising." The gains were partially offset by the impact of the new programming agreement for the NCAA tournament, which resulted in lower revenue but higher profits. In primetime, CBS is down 8.3% vs. last season's 18-49 average. CBS had the Super Bowl last season.

CBS Corporation announced its revenue and earnings increased in the third quarter, reflecting sturdy growth in licensing fees for television shows and subscription fees for stations that more than offset a slight drop in advertising revenue. The expected political advertising bump will be seen in the fourth quarter as ad buys were pushed closer to the election date in early November. CBS's total revenue was $3.42 billion, up from $3.37 billion in the same quarter last year. Its net income rose 16 percent, to $391 million from $338 million last year. Its earnings per share were 60 cents, compared with 50 cents a share last year. Les Moonves attributed the results to a continuing "transformation" of the company into one that relies less on advertising revenue and more on distribution revenue, including retransmission fees, than it has in the past.

CBS earnings in 3Q 2013 increased 26%, highlighting how it has indeed become less reliant on traditional advertising revenues as it turned to other sources of growth, such as content licensing and carriage agreements for its TV stations. The company reported net income of $494 million, or 80 cents a share, up from a profit of $391 million, or 60 cents a share, a year ago. Licensing, distribution and carriage revenues contributed to 11% revenue growth. Advertising revenues increased 4%, while subscription and affiliate fee revenue rose 23%. Advertising revenue made up 51% of total revenues, down from 57% in the June quarter and 61% in the March quarter. The company said it could get an even greater share of revenue from non-advertising sources after it completes the separation of its Americas outdoor ad business next year.

Despite the strong operating results, the CBS network has lost some ground in the ratings at the start of the fall TV season. After finishing in first place last season among viewers 18 to 49 years old, CBS is down 4.8% so far this year in key segments and is in third place behind NBC and Fox. CBS is still in first place in total prime-time viewers with an average of 11.7 million, though it is slightly down compared with last year. CBS won this year's carriage fee dispute with Time Warner Cable, which reported increased subscriber losses for the third quarter. However, the one-month blackout of CBS properties on TWC systems, served as a local advertising headwind for CBS.

THE CW

Warner Bros. and CBS Corporation stunned the TV world when it announced in Jan. 2006 it would replace the WB and UPN networks in the fall with a combined network dubbed "The CW." Maybe stunned is too strong a word. Both UPN and the WB had struggled to deliver the kind of results coveted by corporate investors. Joining forces seemed the logical course for CBS Corporation, UPN's owner, and for Time Warner, The WB's parent co. With a 50 percent stake each in the new network, The CW ("C" for CBS and "W" for Warner Bros.) would cull the best programs from its old networks, trim overhead and reinvigorate programming for the 18-34 age group. John Maatta, former COO of the WB, became COO of The CW, and Dawn Ostroff, former UPN chief, became The CW's president of entertainment. The new network hit the airwaves in September 2006 with a lineup of shows that included UPN's "America's Next Top Model," "Veronica Mars," its ever-popular World Wrestling Entertainment's "Smackdown" on Friday nights and WB programs "7th Heaven," "Smallville" and "The Gilmore Girls," among others. The programming strength of the combined networks was a major draw to station owners seeking affiliation with The CW.

Media reports from the spring advertising upfronts, revealed The CW booked about $625 million in upfront commitments for its inaugural season. The network began operations in September 2006 with programming from UPN and The WB and premiered "America's Next Top Model."

After the 2007 upfronts, CW tried to build anticipation for the new fall shows but did not schedule any original content except "Hidden Palms," during the summer. The lack of summer originals lost the modest momentum from the regular season. Unfortunately, the fall shows did not do as well as expected. Advertisers were excited by CW's 18-34 target demo, but after the fall premieres that audience went down 23% to last year. Dawn Ostroff, president of entertainment, was encouraged by the new "C3" rating system that includes DVR viewers for up to three days after the initial broadcast and which show that many of their shows are gaining 20% using this measure. Another reminder that the CW's young audience is more likely to watch their shows in non-traditional ways is that "Gossip Girl" ranked among the top shows sold on iTunes during the year.

The laggard in the upfront market among the big broadcasters was The CW. After it suffered the largest ratings decline of the five networks in the 2007-2008 season, its upfront sales for 2008-2009 fell to an estimated $350 million to $380 million, from as much as $625 million in the upfront market last spring. It should be noted, however, that the CW upfront market for 2007-2008 included Sunday and the market for 2008-2009 did not, which shrank the CW schedule to 10 hours a week, from 15 hours. (CW is on from 5 to 10 p.m. on Sunday and from 8 to 10 p.m. Monday through Friday.)

The two-hour premiere of "90210" in the Fall of 2008 gave the struggling CW some of its best ratings ever, with a total of 4.9 million total viewers."90210," which follows new characters alongside such regulars from the old series as Jennie Garth and Shannen Doherty, gave the CW its highest-rated night ever for a scripted series in the key demographic of adults aged 18 to 49, with a 2.6 rating/7 share. The second season debut of "Gossip Girl" gave the CW a major ratings boost, helping the network earn its best Monday numbers in its two-year history in its target demographic of adults 18 to 34. In total viewers, "Gossip Girl" drew 3.4 million at 8 p.m., nearly matching the series' record of 3.5 million viewers set last year with the show's very first episode. At 9 p.m., the CW garnered 3.1 million viewers for "One Tree Hill."

The CW's focus on 18-to-34-year-old women continued to show some signs of success last season and in the Fall of 2009 with the growth of "Gossip Girl," the resurgence of "One Tree Hill," and the success of "90210" and "The Vampire Diaries." However, the CW has struggled in the ratings since its inception, leading to speculation that its owners, CBS and Warner Bros., might abandon the venture. Back in May 2009, the network announced that it was giving back five hours of time on Sundays to the affiliates, becoming a weeknight-only network. A majority of the affiliates are airing the MGM movie replacement package on Sundays.

In early 2010, the CW network, known for female-targeted shows such as "Gossip Girl" and "90210," commissioned a nation-wide study into what women in their 20's and 30's want to see on television, especially regarding tolerance for action and violence. More than 60% of the CW network's viewers are women, mostly between the ages 18 to 34. The findings surprised network executives. "We weren't sure what level of violence our viewers would find acceptable," said Dawn Ostroff. The research showed that "it's an easy pill for them to swallow." This understanding definitely impacted the Fall schedule. The CW made several strategic scheduling moves, including adding two action-oriented new series, "Hellcats" and "Nikita."

Mark Pedowitz, who replaced Dawn Ostroff as President of CW last year, has been trying to skew to a young demo and while the ratings have been disappointing, the digital streaming numbers combined with Hulu, Netflix and CWTV.com have been a pleasant surprise. "Breaking Pointe" and "L.A. Complex" did not do well "live" but the streaming numbers are large. The loss this year of "Smallville" hurt but "Arrow" and "Beauty and the Beast" look promising. "Emily Owens, M.D." looks sketchy. "Supernatural" and the "Vampire Diaries" returned in October and "The Carrie Diaries" will launch in January. The season finale of "Gossip Girl" takes place in December.

When Pedowitz took the top job at The CW, his goal was to launch a measurement system that would account for all the ways the network's target 18-34 audience watches television. His attempts to create a rating system that would consistently and reliably track VOD and online streaming of the network's younger-skewing series is in the CW's self interest as more than 20 percent of the network's viewing is done digitally - online and via tablets and mobile. While The CW does lose money on a stand-alone basis, The CW's co-ownership structure (it is a partnership between CBS and Warner Bros. TV) brings in enough revenue to make up for those losses. Some of that revenue comes from streaming pacts between CBS Studios and Warner Bros. and Netflix and Hulu. As Pedowitz noted in 2013, "As more viewers use streaming services to binge on series, those series are becoming increasingly viable for networks, which can realize a second significant revenue stream via SVOD deals."

21ST CENTURY FOX - FOX TELEVISION

Fox Broadcasting, a subsidiary of Rupert Murdoch's News Corp. and owner of Twentieth Century Fox, began broadcasting with the late night "Late Show with Joan Rivers" on October 9, 1986. The next year, on April 5, 1987, the fledgling network began prime-time broadcasts on Sunday nights only. The initial line-up consisted of "Married With Children" and "The Tracey Ullman Show," which featured animated interludes of a dysfunctional cartoon family named "The Simpsons." Three new shows were added in the following weeks, including "21 Jump Street," which helped launch the career of actor Johnny Depp. In July of that year, Fox launched a Saturday night prime-time line-up. From 1989 to 1993, the network steadily added programming and expanded its prime time coverage to a full seven nights a week. Originally the network aimed its programming at a young urban demographic. Particular attention was given to African American oriented programming, with comedy series such as "Roc," "Martin," "Living Single" and "In Living Color" (a weekly comedy-variety show which showcased not only the talents of Keenan Ivory Wayans and his brother Damon Wayans, but also comedian Jim Carrey). The youth market got its first soap opera with "Beverly Hills 90210", and its successful spin-off "Melrose Place." Fox consistently programmed "risky" shows, even in the face of boycotts, most notably aimed at "Married With Children" and "Beverly Hills 90210." The network, feeling strong about its programming, slotted "The Simpsons" against NBC's top-rated sitcom "The Cosby Show" in 1991.

The network was also actively pursuing sports programming. In 1993, Fox won the rights to NFL football for four years, including the rights to 1997's Super Bowl XXXI. In 1994, Fox acquired the rights to broadcast NHL hockey and in 1995, Fox signed an agreement with Major League Baseball to broadcast weekly games, the 1996, 1998 and 2000 World Series, and 1997 and 1999 All Star Games.

1994 saw the creation of FX Networks. In June, FX, a general entertainment basic cable network was launched, featuring marquee sports events, series and films. In October, FXM (Movies From Fox) was initiated to show Twentieth Century Fox films unedited and commercial free.

Also in 1994, Fox premiered "The X-Files," a fiction series dedicated to exploring the bizarre, the unusual and the paranormal, all with a slant aimed at conspiracy buffs. It took a season to achieve ratings success, but "The X-Files" became one of the most popular series on Fox and garnered a cult-like following. All of Fox's gutsy programming decisions and experiments paid off. In the 1994-'95 broadcast season Nielsen ratings, Fox finished ahead of pioneer network CBS. Fox beat CBS yet again in November 1995. On October 7, 1996, Fox launched the new Fox News Channel on cable.

With the appointment of Richard Cronin as President and CEO of the Fox Kids Broadcast network and Fox Family Channel, Fox began targeting young viewers with "quirky" programs. In its effort to increase its viewership by attracting young people, Fox hoped to also increase the number of older adults watching along with children. For the 1998-'99 season, Fox moved up its prime-time slot on the Fox Family channel to begin at 6:00 p.m. instead of 8:00 p.m., and introduced four new dramas and two comedies, catering to the age group Fox relied upon to push up its ratings. Fox continued to be the only network showing any real growth. Youth-oriented programming — the recipe for its past success—made up most of the 1999-2000 season. In 2000, Doug Herzog resigned as Fox entertainment President and his duties were assumed by Sandy Grushow. Fox cancelled the aging show "Beverly Hills 90210" for the 2000-2001 season, and pinned its hopes for a successful season on David E. Kelley's "Boston Public" and a slate of new shows aimed at the key 18-35 demographic. It also put a lock on Major League baseball for $2.5 billion, starting with the 2001 season. News Corp. agreed to buy the Chris-Craft station group by squeezing out UPN. Rupert Murdoch also said that the company would consider a Fox 2 network.

In the 2001 season, Fox placed in the top three, edging out ABC for the first time. Fox TV Chairman, Brian Mulligan, resigned unexpectedly in November. For 2001-2002, Fox continued to cater to its young demographic with returning shows and new programs aimed at hooking the teen and twenty-something audience. Fox also chose to pick up the controversial "Temptation Island" for a second season, drawing unfavorable reviews from media watchdogs and critics alike.

News Corp.'s TV revenue in 2003 was about flat to 2002 coming in at just over $1 billion. Higher profit at Fox's TV stations was offset by a ratings fall by Fox Broadcasting as it struggled to make up for the previous year's hit, "American Idol." The fall baseball series with a potential Red Sox-Cubs matchup and the Yankees, Marlins World Series led to strong ratings. "The Simpsons," "The Bernie Mac Show," "Malcolm In The Middle" and "Wanda At Large" continued to be stalwart performers.

Fox again tried something innovative and in 2004 launched a very ambitious summer schedule: two sitcoms, two dramas and two reality shows. Fox did this to introduce shows and build an audience before October baseball playoffs precluded the traditional September launch followed by all the broadcast nets for new fallshows. In all, Fox launched 15 new programs during the year. Fox headed into the fall with audiences happy with "Method & Red," "North Shore," "Trading Spouses" and "Quintuplets."

On November 12, 2004, Fox parent, News Corporation, completed its reincorporation from Australia to the United States. News Corporation, now a Delaware corporation, is the parent company of the News Corporation group of companies. News Corporation's primary share listing is on the New York Stock Exchange, under the ticker symbols NWS for Class B (Voting) Common Stock and NWS.A for Class A (Non-voting) Common Stock, and the shares trade on a regular-way basis. The News Corporation Limited had total assets as of June 30, 2004, of approximately US$52 billion and total annual revenues of approximately US$20 billion. News Corporation remains a diversified international media and entertainment company.

The network's move into the top three slot in the 2004-2005 season was led by the creative instincts of Fox Entertainment President Gail Berman. At the helm of Fox Ent. since 2000, Berman exited the network in March 2005 over stalled contract negotiations and became President of Paramount Motion Pictures Group. Fox brought in a strong replacement by immediately hiring Peter Liguori, who was pres. & CEO of News Corp.'s FX Networks since 1998. On his watch, Liguori grew cable's FX into one of the top five basic cable networks with critically acclaimed programs like "Nip/Tuck," "The Shield" and "Rescue Me." Liguori stepped into his new position on solid ground. Respectable ratings for such hits as "American Idol," "House" and "24" and in the 2004-2005 season provided the momentum for the network to continue garnering stable ad revenues even when the broadcast networks overall had seen more ad dollars go to cable programming. In the 2005-2006 season advertising upfront sales, Fox said sales would be $1.6 billion, the same as the previous year. Leading its ad revenues, Fox's enormously popular "American Idol" talent show brought in upwards of $700,000 for a 30-second spot — believed to be a new record for a regularly scheduled prime-time show. And the show didn't disappoint — viewers or advertisers. "Idol" regularly won its time slot and helped Fox take first place in the 18-49 age demo.

With The World Series on its programming docket again in Fall 2004, Fox continued to premiere shows off a traditional Fall TV calendar, a strategy it continues today. The network also has been bolstered by acquiring strong sports properties. Its broadcast of Super Bowl XXXIX in Feb. 2005 (New England Patriots 24 / Philadelphia Eagles 21) had the largest total audience in Fox history and the fifth largest in TV history—133.7 million Americans tuned in to the broadcast. The World Series, with the historic Boston Red Sox victory, averaged 25.4 million viewers across its four games, making it the most watched World Series on any network since 1995 and the most watched on Fox ever.

Although both Fox mega hits "American Idol" and a sixth season of real-time drama "24" weren't scheduled to air new seasons until January 2007, Fox Entertainment Pres. Peter Liguori's entertainment team marched into the fall 2006 season with a strong line-up. Animated Sundays on Fox continued with the 18th season of America's favorite dysfunctional family, "The Simpsons," along with "American Dad" and "Family Guy." Liguori joked in the press that the "The Simpsons" would outlast him at the network. So far, both remain firmly entrenched on the Fox landscape.

Remaining programming at the network included liberal doses of grit and reality. Hospital drama "House" received its life line into the 2007 season by continuing to provide life and death cases solved each week by an abrasive yet brilliant doctor whose lack of bedside manner gets overlooked because of his extraordinary life-saving abilities. The always popular crime and punishment shows also found a home at Fox. Fictional crime/legal dramas "Prison Break," "Standoff," "Bones" and "Justice" provided ample opportunity for viewers to find a favorite in the genre. Tracing the lineage of reality shows may bring you home to Fox. "Cops" entered its 19th season on the air and "America's Most Wanted" also neared the two decade mark and could boast on its website the arrest of more than 900 fugitives as a result of leads generated from the show. Additional reality fare at the net included the successful "Nanny 911," "Skating With The Stars" and "So You Think You Can Dance."

Fox was the first network to finish its upfront advertising deals and reported $1.8 billion in business and secured 2%-3% increases on cost per thousand (CPM) pricing, up from last year's $1.55 billion.

During 2007 Rupert Murdoch announced several major deals on behalf of News Corporation including: the intended purchase of Dow Jones, publisher of the Wall Street Journal, launch of the Fox Business Channel, acquisition of Liberty Media Corporation's 16.3% interest in News Corporation in exchange for the Company's interest in DirecTV, three regional sports networks and cash and also repurchased $1.3 billion of stock. During 2007 Peter Chernin restructured Fox Broadcasting, naming Peter Liguori Entertainment Chairman and appointing Kevin Reilly to NBC, as president, entertainment. Currently Fox ranks first among 18-49 year old viewers.

News Corp. chief executive Rupert Murdoch told an investor conference in late 2008 that his media giant is making healthy gains in its cable-network and international operations, but Fox-owned TV stations are forecast to experience a 15% drop in revenue for the current fiscal year. He said, "Local TV [advertising] in this country is bad." He blamed a 40% drop in spending in the automotive category for TV stations. While the local ad economy is in the tank, Murdoch said broadcast-network advertising is holding up "incredibly" well, adding, "We've had almost no cancellations" of upfront ads. He said scatter prices advertisers pay now are higher than rates in the buoyant upfront market. He also predicted that Fox would win its fifth straight primetime-ratings crown, saying that the now-settled Hollywood writers' strike delayed scripted shows on rivals.

As for basic-cable networks, Murdoch said the startup Big Ten Network college-sports joint venture lost $83 million in the prior fiscal year, but it will make a small profit in the current fiscal year after gaining wide carriage on cable systems. "That's a turnaround this year," he added. Murdoch also predicted that the nascent Fox Business Network will emerge as a success in three years. "We're very confident," he added.

In terms of future investment, News Corp. will focus on new digital media and emerging international countries and avoid traditional U.S. media supported by consumer advertising. As for why, he noted that the home-page ad spot on MySpace — which is owned by News Corp. and brokered by Google — sells for $500,000-$1 million per day.

Peter Chernin, who spent 13 years as COO of Fox, left in 2009. During his tenure, Rupert Murdoch used the cash flow from newspapers to get into television and film. Now the pattern has reversed with television and film providing the cash to get into print, most notably the $5.7 billion spent to acquire Dow Jones. It had been reported that Chernin disagreed with the Dow Jones deal. Murdoch picked Fox Searchlight head, Peter Rice, to run Fox Broadcasting, which displaced Peter Liguori. Fox has been number one in adults 18-49 throughout most of Liguori's four-year tenure which made his firing unexpected. Tony Vinciguerra, chairman of Fox Networks Group, now has operating control of Fox's TV network business. While other conglomerates have been consolidating network and studio units, Fox's restructuring underlined their desire to keep these units separate. Ironically, Peter Chernin is advising Comcast on their takeover bid for NBC.

During 2010 News Corporation reported revenue in its fiscal first quarter of $7.43 billion, up from $7.2 billion in the previous year's first quarter. Major contributors were the steady flow of revenue and profits from big cable channels, a source that could slow down in the future as consumers begin to bypass their cable boxes. On the film side, the unprecedented success of "Avatar," will bear fruit for years to come and James Cameron has agreed to produce two sequels. However, the film unit, during 2010 and post "Avatar," reported declines in both revenue and operating income. Meanwhile, MySpace, the social networking site, continues to be a drag on News Corporation's earnings. Mr. Carey said the unit's losses were not "sustainable" and suggested the unit's management was under pressure to turn it around quickly.

In 2011 the irony was rich - if the phone hacking scandal in Britain did not involve Rupert Murdoch, his sensation-obsessed headline writers likely would have had a field day with his growing misfortunes. What initially began with allegations that Murdoch's British News of the World had illegally hacked scores of phone messages has widened from a sordid tabloid tale involving a murdered British teen to a burgeoning scandal with broad political, criminal, ethical and business ramifications for Murdoch's far-flung News Corp.

While defending his company against the accusations accompanying the scandal, Mr. Murdoch insisted that he had the backing of News Corporation's board and would stay on as its chief executive for the foreseeable future. In spite of the public distractions, News Corporation reported a drop in fourth-quarter profit but a robust gain overall for the fiscal year 2011.

News Corp. reported fiscal first-quarter earnings in November of $2.23 billion, compared with $738 million a year ago. Revenue was $8.14 billion, compared with $7.96 billion last year. The results include a $67 million charge associated with the ongoing investigation into a phone-hacking scandal last year in the UK, as well as $5 million spent on a proposal to split News Corp. into two separate, publicly traded companies. Television was up 4 percent to $959 million, benefiting from a doubling of retransmission consent revenue and increased local advertising and driven by record first-quarter political advertising revenues.

Following the recent promotion of Peter Rice to Chairman and CEO of Fox Networks Group, Fox entertainment president Kevin Reilly has been elevated to the post once occupied by Rice, Chairman of Entertainment. Since joining Fox in 2007, Reilly has presided over the lineup, which has finished as No. 1 network among Adults 18-49 for a record eight consecutive seasons. The series Reilly has put on the air include "Glee," "New Girl" and "The X Factor." That eight year reign may well come to an end next season when CBS has the Super Bowl.

In June of 2013, Murdoch split the News Corporation's assets into 21st Century Fox, which retains the broadcasting and film assets and serves as the legal successor of the former parent and News Corp which was spun off with all the publishing assets. Fox Entertainment Group is the division of 21st Century Fox which contains 20th Century Fox film studio, Fox television and various other TV, cable and satellite properties including BSKyB.

Fox's profit fell sharply in the quarter ended Sept. 30, 2013, compared with a year earlier, when one-time gains from an asset sale boosted results. The company's fiscal first-quarter earnings also were hurt by startup costs in recent months for two cable-television channels, including the new sports network Fox Sports 1. Film profits dropped, while broadcast-TV earnings rose. The Fox network has shown positive signs lately after its viewership slid 21% last season. This season Fox is the most improved of any major network. Among 18- to 49-year-olds, its audience is up 6.7% from last year, according to Nielsen, though it remains in second place in that category behind.

Revenue at 21st Century Fox's cable-network unit grew 12% to $2.8 billion, largely because of increases in the fees it gets from pay-TV operators. Ad revenue at the domestic cable channels grew 6%. Double-digit gains at FX Networks and the company's regional sports networks, were partially offset by lower ad revenue at the Fox News Channel.

ION TELEVISION (FORMERLY I & PAX TV)

August 31st, 1998 marked the debut of PAX TV, the nation's seventh and newest broadcast network committed to airing family-friendly programming that included original live-action series, daily entertainment and information shows, children's programming, as well as popular movies and off-network shows with proven audience appeal. PAX TV is a wholly-owned service of Paxson Communications Corp., a broadcasting company whose principal business is the ownership and operation of the largest broadcast television station group in the United States. Paxson Communications Corp. was an outgrowth of Paxson Broadcasting founded in 1991 by Lowell W. "Bud" Paxson, the co-founder and past President of the Home Shopping Network, Inc., who had been involved in the radio and electronic retailing business for nearly 40 years. Paxson Broadcasting, a Florida-based radio group, initially purchased four radio stations in the fourth quarter of 1991 which were AM/FM combos in Jacksonville and Tampa. Over the course of several years, the Company assembled a substantial statewide radio broadcasting group, and as a result of agreements it had in place on radio stations prior to the 1993 FCC rule change permitting radio duopolies, the Company was among the first to exercise its options and expand its duopoly holdings.

By 1994, the company sought to replicate in television its success in radio. Paxson looked to acquire two types of television properties: underperforming, undermanaged network affiliates and independent stations in major markets which broadcast long-form paid programming. In April, 1994, the company purchased the equipment and acquired an option to buy its first television property, an independent TV station in Miami. Paxson took his company public in November, 1994, through a reverse merger with the American Network Group, Inc., and subsequently moved the new company, Paxson Communications Corp., to the American Stock Exchange. By December of that same year, Paxson had owned or operated four stations, airing a variety of infomercial and long-form programming which by January 1995, became known as the Informal TV Network ("IN TV"). By purchasing independent television stations, entering into time-brokerage agreements, affiliating with stations and extending its broadcast reach on cable via "must carry" requirements, Paxson created a national television broadcasting distribution infrastructure providing long-form programming.

In March, 1997, the Supreme Court upheld the "must carry" legislation, and as a result, all of the company's broadcast stations were suddenly viable as a network and would remain accessible to cable television audiences. In June 1997, the company sold its entire radio interest to Clear Channel Communications in a tax-advantaged transaction. Also in June, the company acquired The Travel Channel, an interest in which was in turn sold to Discovery Communications, Inc. later that year.

The company announced in November, 1997 that it would launch the seventh broadcast television network, at that time branded as PAX NET, on August 31st the following year. The network would feature off-network runs of popular shows including the CBS hit series, "Touched By An Angel," "Dr. Quinn, Medicine Woman," and "Diagnosis Murder," in addition to a number of original programs and theatrical and made-for-television movies.

Between the November announcement of PAX NET and the August 31st launch of PAX TV, the company acquired additional television stations and expanded its distribution through cable agreements. The company also added popular off-network and original shows, and hired a number of executives and hundreds of new employees. In May, 1998, the company announced the appointment of former CBS President, Jeff Sagansky, to the post of President and CEO and the election of William E. Simon, Jr. to the position of vice chairman for Paxson Communications Corp. Paxson also announced that the Simon family would make an equity investment in the company, and one month later, announced the completion of its offering of $275 million of Preferred Stock.

With PAX TV maintaining positive ratings, Paxson Communications Corp. continued to focus on enhancing the distribution of its network and the quality of PAX TV's programming.

In 1999, NBC bought a 32% stake in Paxson's stations, with an option to acquire control in 2002 for an additional $1.2 billion. Paxson stations, then without any news programming, became a likely candidate to carry NBC news as well as NBC programming in secondary timeslots.

In 2000, Paxson continued to do well with its off-network programming, including "Touched By An Angel," "Dr. Quinn, Medicine Woman" and other family-friendly fare. Paxson reported a 25% increase in viewership in the first three weeks of the 2000-2001 season, and planned to continue with its slate of family-friendly programming augmented with made-for-tv movies.

Pax continued to enjoy growth in 2001, with its 2001-02 season off to a good start, showing a 57% increase in viewership over the previous year.

2002 was not so lucky, however. After NBC completed its acquisition of Telemundo, Paxson sued the network that holds a 32% stake of its company and then lost the subsequent arbitration action. Paxson's viewers also slipped with only one program, "Sue Thomas F.B. Eye" showing growth while its broadcast operations, as a whole, continued to post losses every quarter. In late 2002, Pax decided to close its Hollywood production and promotion offices, but with its significant station holdings remained on-air, despite its financial problems.

During 2003, Paxson owned and operated 61 broadcast TV stations, which reached all of the top 20 U.S. markets and 41 of the top 50. The company also owned family-oriented Pax Network, which reached roughly 94 million homes through its TV stations and distribution arrangements with cable and satellite systems and broadcast station affiliates. The company continued to struggle with a hefty debt load and ratings challenges at its program network.

Paxson's net revenues for the third quarter of 2004 (ending Sept. 30) increased 2.6% to $65.9 million, compared to $64.2 million for the third quarter of 2003. This increase was primarily due to increased revenues from long form paid programming. Still struggling to reduce debt and stay out of bankruptcy court, Lowell "Bud" Paxson, chairman and CEO, indicated the network continued to search for a program mix more appealing to advertisers. In that vein, Pax TV jumped on the reality series bandwagon and added two reality shows in Fall 2004: "Model Citizens" and "Cold Turkey." It also introduced two games shows, "Balderdash" (hosted by comic Elaine Bosler) and "On the Cover" (hosted by Mark Walberg).

Throughout 2005, Paxson Communications continued to explore ways to lower operating costs and improve financial liquidity. In presentations to investors early in 2005 it identified its strategic alternatives: find a third party to acquire the company or change control; find a partner to program its network and use the company's existing distribution system; sell assets; or consider a combination of these options. In March 2005, Paxson notified its joint sales agreement partners other than NBC Universal, Inc. ("NBC") that it would exercise its right to terminate the JSAs, effective June 30, 2005.

On June 28, 2005, Paxson announced the re-branding of PAX TV to i. The i brand reflected a network programming strategy to provide an independent broadcast platform for producers and syndicators who want to reach a national audience. Chairman and CEO Lowell "Bud" Paxson refuted rumors the network would switch to all long form paid programming and reiterated the network's plans to continue entertainment programming with shows like "Sue Thomas FB Eye," "Young Blades" and "Palmetto Pointe."

From August 2003 through March 2005 the company engaged Citigroup Global Markets Inc. to act as financial advisors to assess Paxson's business plan, capital structure and future capital needs, and to explore strategic alternatives for the company. Because no viable transactions were developed on terms deemed acceptable to shareholders, the engagement with Citigroup ended. The company continued to consider strategic alternatives, which included the sale of all or part of assets, finding a strategic partner to provide the financial resources to enable the company to redeem, restructure or refinance its debt and preferred stock, or find a third party to acquire the company through a merger or other business combination or through a purchase of Paxson equity securities. The company's principal efforts remained focused on improving core business operations and increasing cash flow.

A new logo, a new corporate name and new blood in top management reinvigorated the financially struggling Paxson Communications Corp. during 2006 (corporately known as ION Media Networks). The company tapped R. Brandon Burgess to be its new CEO in November 2005, succeeding company founder, Lowell W. Paxson who resigned as chairman & CEO and was named chairman emeritus. Burgess most recently served as executive v.p., business development & international channels for NBC Universal, which is also a stakeholder ION Media Networks. The corporate name change, effective with its board approval in June, was the beginning of healthy change for a company plagued by financial challenges. Burgess and top management never missed opportunities to remind the financial community and virtually anyone who would listen that the network "is the only broadcaster that reaches over 60 percent of U.S. homes through its own station group and over 83% with additional distribution through its cable and satellite platforms."

Realizing that infomercials and its current programming had not yielded the financial results it needed, change ensued on the content front. In June 2006 ION announced a programming agreement with Warner Bros. Domestic Cable Distribution, providing ION with the rights to broadcast popular movies and classic TV series from Warner Bros.' extensive library. In July, ION inked a similar programming alliance with Sony Pictures Television ("SPT") and rights to broadcast dozens of classic TV series and a large selection of award-winning feature films from the Sony library. Under the terms of the agreement, ION gained access to many of SPT's most popular TV series from the last three decades, including, "Charlie's Angels," "Stargy & Hutch" and "The Partridge Family," among others. In late October, ION further strengthened its content inventory by entering a strategic programming agreement with RHI Entertainment (formerly known as Hallmark Entertainment), for the broadcast of RHI Entertainment's extensive library of award-winning titles and select original programming. Under the terms of the agreement, RHI Entertainment serves as ION's exclusive TV programming supplier on Friday, Saturday and Sunday nights for an initial two-year period beginning

July 1, 2007. RHI will plan and program the 7 p.m. to 11 p.m. time periods, totaling 12 hours of programming per week, utilizing its catalog of over 1,200 titles, which have captured 448 Emmy Nominations, 103 Emmy Awards, 15 Golden Globe Awards and numerous Peabody, SAG, Christopher and Genesis Awards. The agreement also provides for the U.S. broadcast premiere of at least six new RHI productions each year. Company President & COO Dean Goodman resigned in late October. Burgess indicated other members of management would assume his duties and no replacement would be sought.

Currently, ION has 94 VHF and UHF owned and operated affiliate stations in the U.S and covers about 80% of primetime households through the television network and distribution arrangement with cable and satellite operators.

By 2008, ION Media Networks, Inc. owned and operated the nation's largest broadcast television station group and ION Television, which reached over 94 million U.S. television households via its nationwide broadcast television, cable and satellite distribution systems, and features popular TV series and movies from, CBS Television, NBC Universal, Sony Pictures Television, Twentieth Television and Warner Bros., among others. The company has launched several digital TV brands, including Qubo, a channel for children focusing on literacy and values, and ION Life, a channel dedicated to active living and personal growth. It also has launched Open Mobile Ventures Corporation (OMVION), a business unit focused on the research and development of portable, mobile and out-of-home transmission technology using over-the-air digital television spectrum.

ION Television is aimed at the 25-54 demographic. At its 2008 sales presentation, Chairman and CEO Brandon Burgess, along with President of Sales and Marketing Stephen Appel, detailed upcoming programming plans. They introduced ION Television's new "positively entertaining" network slogan, showcased the new primetime lineup and touted the expansion of the network's programming block to 4 p.m.

On May 19, 2009, ION Media Networks, Inc., along with its affiliates, filed a voluntary petition for reorganization under Chapter 11 in the U.S. Bankruptcy Court for the Southern District of New York. In July, United States Bankruptcy Court for the Southern District of New York granted final approval for the company's $150 million debtor-in-possession financing being provided by a majority of its first lien senior secured lenders. The financing is consistent with the company's plan for growing its TV network through general audience appeal based on sustained investment in programming and digital technology. The company has secured the right to convert this financing into equity at its election, as part of an overall plan the company intends to complete in the near term.

In September, Ion Television reached a multiyear agreement with Warner Bros. Television Distribution, which gave the network access to multiple movies. "Criminal Minds" and "Ghost Whisperer" were added to the Ion Television lineup in 2009. In January 2009, the network announced that it had acquired broadcast rights to air the award-winning Canadian cable drama series "Durham County." "Reba" joined the Ion line-up in April. Most Ion programs now come from either 20th Century Fox Television or CBS Television Distribution.

Driven by "Criminal Minds" and "Without a Trace," ION posted growth across all key demos from October 2009 through September 2010 and recorded a 72% increase in total viewers. In 2010, ION Television acquired more than 30 films and TV series as part of its effort to bulk up its programming slate. Titles include such films as "The Godfather" trilogy, "Top Gun," "The Fugitive" and "Goodfellas" as well as TV shows like "Shark" and "Texas Justice." With these films and high-profile network television series, ION Television continues to position itself as the premiere programming destination for the many viewers looking for top feature films," said Kristine Hunsinger, senior vp scheduling and acquisitions at ION.

As of 2011, ION was viewable in 99 million homes in the U.S. through its group of 60 stations, as well as cable and satellite distribution. Its stations reach all of the top 20 U.S. markets and 37 of the top 50 markets.

In July, ION acquired six films from Starz, and also syndication rights to "Psych," "Monk" and "House." In September, they acquired rights to air "Leverage" and "George Lopez."

ION Television has been trying to combine high-quality off-net programming and dependable broadcast distribution with an attitude of innovation and growth normally associated with a cable channel. Its "Positively Entertaining" brand positioning features time-tested series, movies and an attempt to introduce new original programming. Since its launch, ION's reach has grown to 100 million households and has become one of the top-15 TV rated U.S. networks.

In August 2012, ION announced a new long-term partnership for ION Television's nationwide carriage on DIRECTV. The agreement covers the distribution of ION's flagship network, ION Television, on DIRECTV's platform of subscribers for years to come and will now be offered in high-definition.

ION Networks continues its steady rise in the ratings, reporting a year-to-year increase in Q1 2013 in both households (up 3% to 824,000) and total viewers (1,051,000 vs. 1,015,000) during prime viewing hours. Also, in Q1 2013 vs. Q4 2012, ION Television generated double-digit growth in prime, up 12% with adults 25-54 and up 10% with women 25-54. ION Networks delivered content to 260 million Americans in 100 million homes with high-quality programming; Qubo, the award-winning 24/7 kids channel; and ION Life, a network dedicated to the celebration of healthy and active lifestyles.

MY NETWORK TV

A network born from necessity, MyNetwork TV came to life after two fledgling networks, UPN and The WB, decided to fold in an announcement made in Jan. 2006. The networks' owners, CBS Corporation and Time Warner, decided to take the best from each network's programming and staff, combine and start over with a new network: The CW. The scramble to affiliate ensued and quickly left several top TV station groups and numerous programming without a network affiliation and primetime programming.

Fortunately for small, newly unaffiliated stations and station groups, Rupert Murdoch's News Corp. TV Stations

Group was also one of the groups left without a network affiliation for nine of its 35 properties. Luckier still, Murdoch's organization knows how to launch successful networks. Think Fox. Think Fox News Channel...Think F/X on cable and the National Geographic Channel, among Murdoch's other successful network launches. Think that maybe your station has a few options with Murdoch by your side. By February, News Corp. executives laid out a blueprint for a new broadcast channel/network/service — MyNetwork TV. The network would be anchored by the nine News Corp. stations abandoned by UPN's closing, and would welcome independents and other strong stations whose owners didn't like the terms of The CW affiliation agreement. Financially, many station owners found the MyNetwork TV affiliation terms more attractive than The CW's. The biggest advantages to station owners signing with MyNetwork TV were the absence of programming fees and generous air time for advertising — up to nine minutes of ad time per hour.

At launch, MyNetwork TV could boast coverage on stations covering about 96 percent of the country. Its programming consisted of 12 hours of original content per week, airing between 8 and 10 p.m. It introduced two hour-long dramas, "Desire" and "Fashion House" from co-owned Twentieth Television. The short drama series, in essence primetime soap operas, aired five days a week, with Saturday recaps. MyNetwork TV's formula entailed running non-stop originals that concluded every 13 weeks with a high-intensity finale and were based on the telenovela format made popular on Spanish-language networks.

With MyNetwork TV's blueprint, its affiliated stations will have fresh programming 52 weeks a year. Shows in development include reality programs "Catwalk," "Celebrity Love Island," "Transformed," and "America's Brainiest," as well as "On Scene," the last a Fox News-produced magazine. MyNetwork TV plans to succeed where UPN and The WB failed by keeping costs down. Telenovelas cost around $100,000-$120,000 per episode, far less than program development costs reported at other U.S. networks: $2.3 million per episode for non-serialized dramas and roughly $1.3 million per episode for sitcoms. Another key to profitability at the network level is MyNetwork TV's use of strip programming. Strips not only can be cheaper to make but also cheaper to market. MyNetwork TV promoted only two shows, not the 15+ a conventional network must promote. Ratings for "Fashion House" and "Desire" were extremely dismal after their launch. According to Nielsen Media Research, through October, a little more than a million viewers tuned in to watch each episode per night. Yet, MyNetwork TV executives remained optimistic and were convinced the format would work in the U.S. if given sufficient time.

In 2007 the ratings for MyNetwork were still dismal, and the risky strategy of telenovela strip serials programming did not pan out. News Corporation hired Greg Meidel, formerly of Paramount, Fox and Universal TV, in January 2007. He promptly ended the telenovelas and put together reality shows and specials from the Fox archives. The network has already had some success with "Celebrity Expose," "The Academy" and "Jail." The rest of the schedule includes "NFL Total Access" and movies on Thursdays and Fridays.

From the very start, My Network TV has improvised its programming. Its first choice was to rely on serials in the style of Spanish TV's telenovelas. When that did not work, it went to reality series and movies. Its biggest break came when World Wrestling Entertainment's "Smackdown," a UPN staple that had wound up with the CW, moved to My Network TV for the 2008-09 television season.

However, My Network TV announced this year that it will no longer be a network. With the beginning of the 2009-2010 TV season, it embraced a programming-service business model. The new My Network TV will continue to include pro wrestling's "WWE Friday Night Smackdown" and a movie night. It also included two "Law & Order: Criminal Intent" reruns per week from NBC Universal Domestic Television Distribution. Greg Meidel, president of My Network TV, stated "We have blown up that traditional model and come up with an innovative approach that is basically an advertiser-supported model, almost like syndication, where we acquire programs from various suppliers on an advertiser-supported basis." My Network TV has realized considerable audience growth in both households and among advertiser-coveted viewers age 18 to 49. In that demographic. It is now the 10th most-popular network.

WWE announced in October 2010, that SmackDown would be moving to the cable channel Syfy. The move left MyNetworkTV with no first-run programming other than that it is sharing with syndicators.

MyNetworkTV dropped its status of a television network several years ago and transitioned to a syndication programming service, reminiscent of the "Universal Action Pack" and Warner Bros.' "Prime Time Entertainment Network." Despite the lack of first-run programming, MyNetworkTV has been renewed for three more years as of February 2011. The programming service has seen significant percentage growth in viewership since 2006, but the overall numbers remain small.

For 2012-13, MyNetwork TV, added the off-network shows "House," "Numb3rs" and "White Collar" to its schedule. The new shows join a nightly two-hour block in primetime that is mostly filled with police and detective procedural shows. From last season, "Law & Order SVU" returns on Monday nights and "Monk" on Friday with back to back episodes.

The network is overseen by the same group within Fox that runs the Fox News Channel, and the Fox station group under the direction of Roger Ailes.

MyNetworkTV has added Fox's procedural "Bones" to its Fall 2013 Thursday night lineup with back-to-back episodes beginning at 8 PM. "Law & Order: CI" joins the Wednesday night schedule beginning at 8 PM. Returning series "Law & Order: SVU" is set for Monday nights, "House" on Tuesday nights and "Monk" remains on Friday nights, all airing in the 8-to-10 PM block. Currently, MyNetworkTV ranks No. 7 in HHs, No. 7 in A18-49 and No. 7 in 25-54 among all broadcast and cable networks.

NBC UNIVERSAL

NBC was an outgrowth of Radio Corp. of America, General Electric and Westinghouse. These three companies jointly launched a network in 1926 with 31 stations, 25 in a network called Red and 6 in a network called Blue. A year later, it was forced to sell the Blue network to ABC, keeping for itself the one known as Red. Television began for NBC in 1928, when on April 4, it acquired from the FCC a permit to operate an experimental station, W2XBS. Actual transmission from the Empire State Building did not begin until October 30, 1931. Eight years later, the network began broadcasting on a regular basis, beginning with the opening of the New York World's Fair on April 30, 1939.

NBC became a TV network on January 12, 1940, when two stations, WNBC-TV, New York, and WRGB-TV, Schenectady, New York, carried the first network programming. In June, 1941, the FCC granted NBC the first commercial TV license and a month later it had four advertisers signed up. After World War II, NBC scored two big "firsts." On June 19, 1946, Gillette became the first advertiser to sponsor a TV network show, the Joe Louis-Billy Conn boxing match. That same year, Bristol-Myers became the first sponsor of a network TV series, "Geographically Speaking." NBC can also claim to be the first to introduce coast-to-coast network TV coverage. On September 4, 1951, when the U.S.-Japanese peace treaty was signed in San Francisco, NBC cameras were on hand. In 1952, NBC pioneered early-morning programming when it introduced "The Today Show." NBC can also claim the first regularly scheduled network color series "The Marriage," launched in 1954. That same year it achieved the first west-to-east TV transmission with the telecast of the Tournament of Roses Parade in color. At the start of the 1965-66 season, NBC declared it was the "only all-color network." In 1968, NBC introduced new forms of TV programming with "The Name of the Game," a series that incorporated feature-film elements into a 90-minute show. This then spawned the "NBC Mystery Movie."

In 1972, NBC broke new ground again when it introduced "The Tomorrow Show" shown from 1:00 a.m. to 2:00 a.m. This was a talk program and it demonstrated that in the early hours of the morning something more than re-runs and old movies could be shown. In 1974, another late-night show called "Weekend" was begun. The 1976 NBC telecast of "Gone with the Wind" drew the largest audience to that date for an entertainment program. In 1978, "Holoocaust" attracted 107 million viewers and won 21 major awards. Such programs helped NBC in the ratings, but in 1976-77 it fell to third place, where it stayed until 1983-84. Along with the other networks, NBC moved into a period of turmoil during the decade of the 80s, fighting off rising costs and competition from cable TV and home video. In 1986, General Electric Corporation purchased RCA (NBC's parent) for $6.28 billion; GE, it will be remembered, helped launch the radio network in 1926 which led to the development of NBC-TV.

This brought personnel changes led by the replacement of Grant A. Tinker as NBC chief executive officer by Robert Wright, although Wright was not given Tinker's chairman title; that being taken by John F. Welch of GE. Instead, Wright was named President as well as chief executive officer. Along with its competition, NBC started cutting staff and budgets in 1986. In 1984-85, NBC edged up to second place, and the following year it was ranked number one in prime-time viewing for the first time in the three decades of Nielsen ratings.

NBC held on to its first place standing for the following five seasons, through 1990-91. Long-time hit series in the five-year period included "The Golden Girls," "Cheers," and "The Cosby Show." Despite the network's number one standing, figures showed a steady decline in viewers. In May of 1991, Brandon Tartikoff, credited with pulling the network up from third place 11 years earlier, departed from NBC to become head of Paramount Pictures. When "The Cosby Show" ran its final first run episode on April 30, 1992, it became NBC's highest-rated series finale episode ever. The 1992 Summer Olympics also gave the network its widest ratings margin of all time. The 1994-95 season found NBC on top with its popular sitcom "Seinfeld" and the two most highly rated new series, "ER" and "Friends," both placing in the top ten. During the 1995-96 season, NBC was again ranked the number one network, with four of its Thursday night shows ranking in the overall top five. In the summer of 1996, NBC, in association with software giant Microsoft, launched a 24-hour cable and Internet news channel, MSNBC.

In October 1997 the networks adopted an updated "voluntary" ratings system that uses the letters S, V, D, L, SV, which stand for sex, violence, suggestive dialogue, strong language and non-comedic fantasy violence in addition to the age rating. Only NBC and Black Entertainment Television refused to use the new system. Despite pressure from the White House, Congress and advocacy groups, the network had said that the ratings tread on its First Amendment right, and that there was no public outcry for the new system.

With its star show "Seinfeld" going off the air, NBC was faced in 1999 with the seemingly impossible task of finding a replacement. The network did manage to keep "ER," its other highly successful show, albeit at a draining cost of $13 million per episode. Keeping in line with the demand for news television, NBC's Dateline showed 6½ hrs. of programming about Princess Diana and her fatal accident.

In mid-1999, NBC had to ante up again to keep a hit show. The contract for "Friends" was renewed through 2002 at a cost of approximately $5 million per episode. In spite of NBC's attempts to rally after the loss of "Seinfeld," the network slipped to second place behind CBS in 1999. Ratings for its new prime-time shows did not look promising and the network needed another hit of the magnitude of "Seinfeld" to bring "Must See TV" back into American homes.

NBC had a tough year in 1999-2000, coming in third for the season. Perhaps worse than the ratings tumble were the embarrassing numbers during the Sydney Olympics. Various reasons for the poor viewership were cited, including the tape-delay that made it possible to get real-time Olympic results everywhere but NBC. In an effort to boost ratings, NBC executives demanded that Nielsen exclude the first half-hour of the Olympics' prime-time broadcast (7:00-7:30) from its calculations. That gambit did bring up numbers somewhat, but it's unlikely that the same tack will work during the primetime season which, with a few exceptions, looked dry.

In 2001-02, NBC faced the prospect of the Winter Olympics and the effect they would have on ratings. Elsewhere, NBC expanded the successful "Law and Order" franchise to include a third program, "Law and Order: Criminal Intent." Even with longtime hits like the original "Law and Order," "Friends," and "ER," NBC placed third in the 2000-01 ratings war. 2001 also saw the failure of NBC's attempt to become a force on the Internet with its NBC Internet (NBCi) venture. The company bought the 61% of NBCi it didn't already own and folded its operations. NBC now plans to court Hispanic viewers through its agreement to purchase Telemundo for $1.98 billion.

NBC took the top spot over CBS in the 2001-02 season ratings. The network improved its ratings in the 2001-02 season, after placing third in the 2000-01 season.

NBC remained the top network in adults 18-49 with the start of the 2003 fall season, as they have in eight of the last nine years. However, there is some concern about the future. Powerhouse programs "Friends" and "Frasier" ended in 2004 and NBC might have become overly dependent on the "Law and Order" franchise with its spin-offs; "Special Victims Unit" and "Criminal Intent." With a third spin-off on the way and reruns of the other three running non-stop on TNT and USA, it is hard not to think that NBC may be making the same mistake ABC did with "Millionaire." The big financial news of 2003 for NBC happened when parent General Electric Co. announced a deal to acquire the entertainment assets of Vivendi Universal SA, which includes Universal Studios and Universal Television, where Dick Wolf, the "Law and Order" creator is based.

Formed in May 2004 through the combining of NBC and Vivendi Universal Entertainment, NBC Universal is 80%-owned by General Electric, with 20% controlled by Vivendi Universal. The new NBC Universal hoped for the best when filling its 2004 fall lineup. Gone were perennial favorites "Friends" and "Frasier." The network relied heavily on the strength of returning dramas, reality programming and "Friends" spinoff, "Joey," to make it through November sweeps. During Nov. (primetime ratings week of Nov. 8-14) NBC finished a strong number two among adults 18-49 as "Fear Factor," "Las Vegas," "The Biggest Loser," "The West Wing," Friday's "Dateline NBC," "American Dreams" and "Law & Order: Criminal Intent" all set or equaled their season highs in 18-49, according to in-home viewing figures from Nielsen Media Research. Also in 2004, NBC news anchor Tom Brokaw announced he would retire from the network after 38 years on the job.

NBC was caught with the cupboard bare in the 2004-2005 season after losing "Friends," and program fare which included aging program leftovers from seasons past. The once fresh "Will and Grace" saw waning viewer interest as did "ER" and "The West Wing." And new shows did not live up to expectations. "Friends" spin-off "Joey" couldn't match the ratings of its parent, and the program barely got renewed for a second season. A poor showing for other new shows "LAX," "Father of the Pride" and "Hawaii" only added to the troubles which landed NBC in a dismal fourth place — both in total viewers and in the coveted 18-49 age demo — behind CBS, ABC and FOX.

NBC Universal saw its revenue fall 26 percent from a year earlier, when it benefited from advertising from the summer Olympics in Athens. Going into advertising upfront sales in mid-2005, NBC sales execs braced themselves for a tough sell. NBC Universal parent, General Electric, forecast earnings at NBC Universal to be flat in 2006, hurt by soft ratings from its network prime-time TV line-up. To secure commitments from major advertisers for the Fall season, NBC found itself cutting prices by at least 2% and in some cases more. The industry forecast advertisers would shift between $500 million and $700 million away from NBC in the 2005-2006 season, slashing its ad take to $2.2 billion. NBC Universal Television Group President Jeff Zucker acknowledged a long climb ahead. Yet, NBC's new programming, with the promising hit "My Name Is Earl," along with "Surface" and "Three Wishes" wasn't likely to fuel the kind of surprise revival ABC experienced last season with "Desperate Housewives," "Lost" and "Grey's Anatomy."

After seeing operating profit fall 10 percent in each of the past three quarters, NBC Universal announced in October 2006 plans to cut costs at the network by $750 million by the end of 2007. NBC Universal's parent, General Electric, saw the TV unit's slumping results dip into GE earnings. Network cuts will take the form of a 5 percent staff reduction, a reduction of scripted shows and a move toward cheaper reality programming and substantial cuts to its news budget.

Despite financial woes at the peacock network, NBC's early fall ratings illuminated a couple shining stars. "Heroes" was a big hit on Monday nights. Tuning in to the recent popularity of movies based on comic book heroes, NBC's "Heroes" showcases characters with super powers, a formula successful in attracting coveted viewers in the 18-49 demo. Through mid-October, "Heroes" pulled in about 13.5 million viewers a week. Another "new" hit show bolstering the network is Sunday Night Football. The fall telecast, which aired on ESPN last year and which delivered to NBC an average of 17.7 million viewers, made the prime-time football telecast the sixth most-watched show. NBC finished even in the ad upfronts with $1.9 billion, but to get there had to slash cost per thousand about 5% and increase volume. Thanks to Sunday Night Football, NBC got a much-needed cash infusion taking in between $200 and $300 million in the upfronts for the sports franchise. Viewers should stay tuned to see how $750 million in cuts will affect the quality of shows airing on NBC throughout the year.

Jeff Zucker was promoted to President and CEO of NBC Universal in February 2007, replacing Bob Wright, who held that position for 21 years. During Zucker's previous job, NBC tumbled from first place to fourth in primetime. Profits fell 6% and NBC Universal was the only GE unit posting a decline. However, ratings are up 36% at MSNBC and 76% at CNBC and NBC acquired female-focused Oxygen for $925 million in October. Fortunately, the network can still rely on the NFL games on Sunday and the surprise hit of last year, "Heroes." Surprisingly, NBC did not change its Thursday night lineup and although "The Office" and "30 Rock" are favored by the critics, they have not enjoyed much ratings success. This is important because movie studios and other consumer product companies are heavy advertisers on Thursday night to make strong impressions before the weekend. Much of the rest of the NBC schedule relied heavily on reality shows that have not been particularly well received.

The 2008 Beijing Olympic Games were far beyond NBC's expectations. The Games drew an average audience of about 30 million a night on NBC itself, millions more on NBC's cable channels, 30 million unique visitors to NBC's Olympics Web site, 6.3 million shared videos from the coverage streamed on the site and an ultimate profit that network executives project will surpass $100 million.

When GE reported third-quarter earnings on Oct. 10, NBC Universal was one of the few bright spots, with revenue up 35% from a year earlier to $5.07 billion and profit that increased 10% to $645 million. The results were driven largely by the unit's cable channels, theatrical films and the Olympics. It was the first double-digit profit growth at NBC Universal in three years.

The signs that the national advertising market is weakening were apparent in the Fall of 2008. Apart from the strong performance of its news and live-event programming, NBC has had a disappointing autumn. It is averaging 14.5% fewer same-night primetime viewers between 18 and 49 years old compared with this point last season, and the network has failed so far to generate any new primetime hits. The network has finished in fourth place among the top-five English-language broadcasters for the last four seasons.

NBC Universal's cable portfolio is a bright spot, with strong performance across the board, including from Bravo and recent acquisition Oxygen. Through Sept. 28, for instance, USA Network has averaged 6% more primetime viewers than at that point in 2007, and Sci Fi is up 8%, according to Nielsen Media Research.

Respected and beloved NBC anchor, Tim Russert, died during the year.

NBC Universal is looking to shave $500 million from next year's budget, in a new sign that the broader economic crisis is likely to exact a stiff toll on the media sector. The General Electric Co. unit, which includes broadcast and cable-TV networks, local television stations and a movie studio, says the cuts will amount to 3% of its 2009 budget.

However, NBC has remained in fourth place, ahead of the CW. In 2008-2009, no new primetime hits emerged (despite NBC's rare good fortune to have both the Super Bowl and the Olympic Games in which to promote their new offerings), while Heroes and Deal or No Deal both collapsed in the ratings.

In 2009, five years after Comcast's failed bid for the Walt Disney Company, Brian L. Roberts is looking to NBC Universal to fulfill his dream of turning his cable company into a major media conglomerate. Comcast is in negotiations with General Electric to merge Comcast's programming assets with NBC Universal. The broad outline of the deal would give Comcast 51 percent of NBC Universal. Comcast would contribute its own programming assets, which include several sports networks, and cash, in the $6 billion to $7 billion range, to the new venture. G.E. would contribute about $12 billion of debt, and would own 49 percent of the company. G.E. owns 80 percent of NBC Universal; Vivendi, the French conglomerate, owns the other 20 percent. G.E. is in negotiations with Vivendi to buy its 20 percent stake, a remnant of a 2004 deal between Vivendi and G.E.

During the Summer Ben Silverman stepped down as co-chairman of NBC Entertainment and Universal media Studios and was replaced by Jeff Gaspin, who was named chairman of the combined new division, NBC Universal Entertainment.

When Conan O'Brien replaced Jay Leno as host of The Tonight Show in 2009, the network gave the former host a new talk show, committing to air it every weeknight at 10:00 p.m., as an inexpensive alternative to the procedurals and other one-hour dramas that typically air during that time slot. In doing so, NBC became the first large United States network in decades to broadcast the same show every weekday during prime time hours. Its executives called the decision "a transformational moment in the history of broadcasting" and "in effect, launching five new shows." The early results are mixed with displaced shows like "Law & Order SVU" suffering, local newscasts declining and the late-night programs suffering.

Comcast Corp., the nation's largest cable provider, posted an 8.2% decline in third-quarter earnings as a summer slowdown in subscriber growth and costs related to the company's deal for NBC Universal weighed on performance. Steve Burke, Comcast's COO, who will run NBCU when the transaction is completed, said the impending merger could help speed up adoption of Comcast's so-called "TV Everywhere" offering, which makes cable programming available online behind a subscription wall that can be accessed by its TV subscribers at no additional charge. This concept has been touted as a way for the pay-TV industry to fend off the threat of "cord-cutting:" the prospect of customers dropping their TV service and using lower-cost online video services, like Netflix Inc. and Hulu.

As a harbinger of things to come, Burke dismissed Jeff Zucker former head of NBC Universal in 2010. NBC network went from first place to last among the four biggest networks during Zucker's tenure. Also of interest, Conan O'Brien left NBC with a $45 million dollar settlement for himself and his staff, after refusing to move his timeslot back 30 minutes for Jay Leno's return to latenight.

At an investor conference in September 2011, Burke said, "most of the things (at NBC's broadcast network) that have changed have changed for the better." He says that the national ad business remains "very strong" - with spots for the 2012 Super Bowl nearly sold out. Burke added that NBC is still a year or two away from where it needs to be. The network has struggled in the ratings for several years and this season is premiering twelve new shows it hopes will give its numbers a boost including, "Smash," "The Playboy Club," "Up All Night," "Whitney," "Prime Suspect" and "Grimm." "No network has ever been as far behind financially as NBC is," Burke said. The rate for commercials is 20% less than its rivals are getting. Results to date show that NBC has a chance to edge out ABC for third place among the networks for 2011 - 2012 season.

For more than a decade at Comcast, Burke did all he could to stop the cable operator from paying cash to broadcast networks in return for carrying their programming. Now as CEO of NBCUniversal, he is thrilled at getting millions from multichannel distributors in retransmission fees for NBC.

At an investor conference last year, Burke said, "most of the things at NBC's broadcast network that have changed have changed for the better." The turnaround has been swift. The Olympics were successful and with the addition of Howard Stern to the Summer reality series, "America's Got Talent," NBC had the number one show for that period. Top-rated "Sunday Night Football" and the first airing of "The Voice" helped put NBC in first place in the 18-49 demo for the first two weeks of the Fall season. Bringing "The Voice" to September, where it is beating "The X Factor," was a great move. This is the first time that NBC has been in first place since 2003, when "Frasier," "Friends" and "Will and Grace" were all on air.

Since NBC is trying to reverse a long ratings slide, they need to debut many more shows than the other networks. Burke brought in Bob Greenblatt, former creative chief of Showtime, to help manage the attempted turnaround and much of his focus has been on development for the 2012-2013 season. "Animal Practice," "Go On," "Guys With Kids" and "The New Normal" were new shows this year. There were also two new dramas: J.J. Abrams' "Revolution" and Dick Wolf's "Chicago Fire." Unfortunately, "Revolution" is already sliding and "Animal Practice" has been cancelled, leaving a spot for the beleaguered "Whitney." Part of NBC's problem continues to be that its biggest hits such as "The Office," "Law & Order: SVU" and "The Biggest Loser" are aging and the ratings declines across the board make it harder to launch new shows.

Comcast completed the $30 billion deal to buy GE's share of NBCUniversal in March 2013 and the company is betting that its distribution business, combined with a content company, can create outside benefits. To that end Steve Burke has spent the past two years pouring money into the broadcast and cable television, films and Universal theme park businesses. Two and a half years into his tenure, progress at NBCU is mixed. Mega hits like the singing competition "The Voice" have helped restore some lustre to NBC, but the network suffered an embarrassing blow when "Today" lost its 15-year reign as the top morning show to ABC's "Good Morning America."

Overall, NBCU's profits have grown since the takeover—in 2Q2013, operating cash flow rose 21%. But the company's cable-networks cash cow, which accounts for 80% of profits, have also suffered some ratings stumbles. On Aug. 16, Comcast extended Mr. Burke's employment agreement through 2018 and awarded him a $5 million bonus, citing his "outstanding work" in integrating NBCU and Comcast.

PUBLIC BROADCASTING SERVICE

In 1948, the FCC stopped issuing new television station licenses. American educators, fearful of the impact of unrestricted commercial broadcasting, pushed for the Commission to hold open channel slots for non-commercial, educational television broadcasts. In 1952, when the FCC freeze was lifted, 242 channels were reserved for educational television. America's first non-commercial educational television station was KUHT in Houston, started in 1953.

By 1962, 75 educational stations were broadcasting around the country. As these stations shared roughly the same programming interests, a loose distribution network evolved, allowing locally-produced programs like "Children's Corner" to be circulated among these stations. Most of the programming was produced on a shoestring budget. In 1962, the federal government authorized $32 million in matching funds for the construction of new educational television broadcasting facilities. In 1967, a blue ribbon panel urged local and state governments to increase their financial support of "public television" and recommended that the federal government participate in the production of programming. To this end, the first Public Broadcasting Act was passed. This law also created the Corporation for Public Broadcasting, a non-profit "steward" of the public funds committed to public broadcasting, and, not incidentally, a barrier against government interference in programming decisions. In 1969, the Public Broadcasting Service's charter was signed, with its main intent the establishment of a nationwide program distribution service. 1969 saw the premiere of an hour-long, daily children's variety show, called "Sesame Street," which targeted preschoolers with fast-paced educational programming and featured live performers, cartoons and Muppets developed exclusively for the show by Jim Henson. In 1970, PBS' first year as a "network," its programming included series as widely varied as "Washington Week in Review," "Civilisation," "The French Chef" and "Soul!" By 1973, PBS had more than 1 million individual subscribers. PBS and its member stations were responsible for bringing to U.S. audiences critically acclaimed BBC programming under the flag of "Masterpiece Theatre," which included such classics of television as "Upstairs Downstairs" and "I, Claudius." In 1976, PBS began broadcasting closed-captioned programming for the hearing impaired. In 1978, PBS became the first American network to distribute its programs by satellite.

Although some portion of PBS and its member stations' budgets are provided by federal and state government funding and corporate gifts, PBS and its member stations have continued to rely upon the contributions of individual viewers to stay afloat. In the late 1980s and early 1990s, PBS and the CPB suffered an enormous amount of criticism by government officials for an alleged "liberal" bias, and later in the 90s, for not being "self-sufficient." Although a notable few PBS series have achieved some financial success in other areas (primarily children's programming in the home video and product licensing fields), it is important to note that the production of most of the all-important local educational and public affairs programming never breaks even. In the face of continuing cuts in government funding, PBS programmers have accepted what may have been inevitable, the inclusion of commercial sponsorship (and actual commercials) in programming.

In the wake of the government threat of fund cuts, PBS increased its effort to achieve financial independence. In 1997, PBS President Ervin Duggan announced that the network would use its recognizable brand to market products and services, such as educational videos and distance-learning programs. With this approach as well as using the internet to sell its products and investing in new programming, PBS had a total revenue for the 1997 fiscal year of $239 million, $15 million more than its target.

PBS got caught in a scandal in 1999 involving the sharing of its donor lists with partisan political groups. The GOP complained about the practice, which primarily involved list-sharing with the Democratic Party. PBS admitted that it called into question the independence and impartiality of the public network.

In 1999, Frank Cruz was appointed Chairman of the Corporation for Public Broadcasting.

PBS continues to be a target of Republicans who are opposed to government funding of educational, informational, and cultural programming. Nonetheless, CPB's funding has been approved at $340 million for 2001, $350 million for 2002, and $365 million for 2003.

PBS' operating revenue grew from $262 million in 1998 to approximately $324 million during 2003, largely from non-member revenue sources. This revenue growth has enabled PBS to invest more in three key areas: national programming, advertising and promotion, and PBS.org. Interestingly, PBS.org is the most visited dot-org Web site in the world, and the home of comprehensive companion Web sites for more than 500 PBS television programs and specials. The National Programming Service provided by PBS is the major package of programs PBS distributes to its member stations. It features children's, cultural, educational, history, nature, news, public affairs, science and skills programs. In a survey completed in Jan. 2004 by non-partisan, international research company RoperASW, the American public called PBS the most trusted institution on a list of nationally known organizations in the country and the best use of tax dollars, second only to military defense. The opinion study, which included 1,000 randomly selected participants across the country, also found Americans are more satisfied with programming on PBS compared with commercial broadcasting or cable networks and consider PBS news and public affairs series the most trustworthy. PBS plans to conduct this survey annually to keep a pulse on its perceived performance with the viewing public.

On the heels of this positive report, Pres. and CEO Pat Mitchell testified before the House Appropriations Committee during the year to underscore how PBS uses its federal funding to educate and enrich American lives. During her testimony she highlighted PBS' early education, "Ready To Learn" service through local stations, in which PBS distributes over one million free books and sponsors literacy workshops for 900,000 caregivers and 7.4 million children. PBS has even found support in a Republican White House, with First Lady Laura Bush serving as honorary chairwoman of PBS' initiative to build children's literacy skills. The struggle to maintain public funding levels remains constant, although Mitchell cited an uptick in corporate sponsorships. By the end of 2003, PBS had 11 new underwriters all above the $1 million mark and three or four above $2.5 million. PBS also forged ahead with digital delivery of its programming signal. In 2004, PBS reaches 80 percent of the country via digital signal.

A PBS staple, "Clifford the Big Red Dog," visited Capitol Hill in 2005. Clifford's host on the Hill was Representative Nita Lowey, Democrat of New York. She and other PBS advocates were "barking" about a proposed $100 million cut in the GOP-led House's budget, which some believe was meant to punish public television for a perceived liberal bias. At the center of this discussion were proposed cuts to the Corporation for Public Broadcasting (CPB), which oversees the Public Broadcasting Service. Ultimately, the House restored the $100 million and the CPB appointed long-time Republican loyalist, and former Republican National Committee Chairman Pat Harrison for its President. Whether this has a chilling effect on what content makes the public TV airwaves will likely be debated for months and years to come.

The issue about programming content has already had a chilling effect on the PBS organization itself. The NY Times reported: "Late last year, when she heard that the PBS children's series "Postcards From Buster" would include an episode with a lesbian couple, Education Secretary Margaret Spellings asked the network to yank the episode. PBS supporters and gay rights advocates cried foul, noting that the couple was on screen for mere moments; conservative critics said Spellings had shown that PBS has a liberal agenda and called for a boycott."

PBS did not distribute the episode to its PBS affiliates and the incident ultimately led Patricia Mitchell to resign as PBS President at the end of her contract in June 2006. Under Mitchell's leadership, prime-time ratings rose to the highest ever in its 36 year history and PBS stations extended their reach for digital broadcasting to over 89 percent of the country. Mitchell also added diversity to the schedule, including the "American Family," an Emmy-nominated series featuring a Latino family, and "American Mystery!" a special featuring Indians living in the Southwest. Mitchell's work has been recognized with 37 Emmys and five Peabody Awards and she received two Academy Award nominations. Most recently, she received the Sandra Day O'Connor Award for Leadership. Her leadership award is not surprising. She has run PBS efficiently: only 4% of PBS's annual budget goes to management and general expenses, with 75% of total revenues going to noncommercial programming and promotions.

Perhaps a healthy result of appropriate "content" discussions is the creation of an ombudsman post at PBS. Following a nationwide search, PBS has appointed veteran journalist Michael Getler as Ombudsman. As an independent internal critic, Getler will seek to ensure that PBS upholds its own rigorous standards of journalistic ethics for both online and on-air content. His reports and commentary will be published on pbs.org. Getler was previously The Washington Post's Ombudsman. He has complete authority to determine what issues are examined and full independence in assessing them. The decision to appoint an Ombudsman, first considered by PBS management more than one year ago, was fully supported by the panel of expert journalists PBS convened in February to review the organization's Editorial Standards and Policies.

PBS continues to be a private, nonprofit media enterprise that serves the nation's 348 public noncommercial television stations, reaching nearly 90 million people each week. It brings diverse viewpoints to television and the Internet and provides high-quality documentary and dramatic entertainment.

Paula Kerger joined the Public Broadcasting Service (PBS) as its sixth President and chief executive officer in March 2006. Kerger came to PBS from the Educational Broadcasting Corporation (EBC), the parent company of Thirteen/WNET and WLIW New York-two of the nation's largest public television stations; where since 2004 she was the executive V.P. & COO and a member of the office of the President, a position carrying both internal and external responsibilities.

First up for Kerger and her team: an aggressive health programming initiative targeting America's greatest health challenges. In Jan. 2007 special primetime PBS programs began addressing four urgent health issues which threaten the lives of millions of people: heart disease, obesity, cancer and depression. The PBS Health Initiative was designed as a wake-up call for action, offering programs that cut through the clutter of medical information to provide realistic and concrete guidance on how individuals and families can take control of their health. These 90-minute programs entail compelling stories of individuals and families facing these medical conditions, providing insight into the latest groundbreaking medical research to provide a full picture of the complex physiological, psychological and social factors that are driving the alarming prevalence of heart disease and obesity in America. Each special has a follow-up half-hour program with medical experts to answer questions from a studio audience and to provide specific strategies for prevention and treatment. An extensive Web component will be available to direct viewers to information and resources that provide help and support.

On the technology front, PBS announced in late October PBS content would be available on the iTunes Store — www.itunes.com. PBS joined the growing list of broadcasters making programming available for download to mobile media.

In recent years, PBS has had to struggle with attempts to reduce part of its budget from the federal government, probably due to a perceived liberal bias in its programming. Although the majority of funding comes from viewers and sponsors, it is estimated that federal funding dropped 23% in 2007 to $380 million. In spite of this, PBS won eight Emmy Awards this year for shows such as, "Nova," "Frontline," "Nature" and "American Experience." The crowning achievement of the year was Ken Burn's 15-hour, 7-part historical documentary, "The War," broadcast in September, chronicling World War II through the experiences of men and women on the battlefield and at home from four American cities: Mobile, Sacramento, Luverne, Minnesota and Waterbury, Connecticut.

In 2008, the Bush administration proposed lowering the federal subsidy for public broadcasting for the eighth straight year. The cuts would slice in half the money that public television gets from the government. Lately the audience for PBS has been shrinking even faster than the audience for the commercial networks. The average PBS show on prime time now scores about a 1.4 Nielsen rating. The major problems seem to be increased competition from the cable networks — the stunning BBC documentary "Planet Earth," for example, which in the old days would have been a natural for PBS, was instead broadcast on the Discovery Channel — and the inability to develop new programming that attracts new audiences and sponsors.

Except for "Antiques Roadshow," all the prime-time stalwarts — "The News Hour," "Nova," "Nature," "Masterpiece" — are into their third or fourth decade. Infrequently, a program like "The War," Ken Burns and Lynn Novick's World War II documentary, the most-watched PBS series in 10 years, comes along and makes a huge splash. The broadcast of the first episode was watched by some 7.3 million people. But such projects are few and far between.

In a speech in 2009, CEO Paula Kerger said the hope of nonprofit organizations is to make the world a slightly better place everyday. With educational content spanning multiple platforms, PBS is attempting to change the way their audience can access content. Kerger said the corporation has historically been a pioneer, being the first to utilize closed captioning and a national satellite. Today, the corporation does multicasting, and distributes much of their content in high definition. In addition, PBS allows some users to publish their own content and uses mediums like Xbox and Hulu to distribute programming.

For the 2009-2010 season, PBS programs were honored with 31 Emmys; 15 Daytime Emmys, seven Primetime Emmys, six News and Documentary Emmys, two Emmys for Business and Financial Reporting and a Technology & Engineering Emmy; six George Foster Peabody awards; three IDA Documentary awards; three Writers Guild of America awards; two Academy Award nominations (for documentary features); and 21 Parents' Choice awards. Since taking over as president and CEO at PBS in 2006, Paula Kerger has been positioning PBS for the digital age. In 2010 PBS revamped its national website to include more content from affiliate stations like Houston's Channel 8 and has been in discussions with NPR to share content. One potential cloud on the horizon for PBS in 2011 are the changes in Congress and the statements by Senator Jim DeMint who plans to introduce a bill to abolish funding for public broadcasting.

That battle was decided in 2011 - at least for a while - When some politicians called public broadcasting a luxury that America could not afford - the American people said in a major lobbying effort, more than 350,000 supporters of PBS sent nearly a half million emails and rang the phones off the hook on Capitol Hill. They told lawmakers that public broadcasting was not a luxury and it was not expendable and Congress voted to continue funding. It is estimated that politicians received more phone calls in support of public broadcasting than they did during the health care debate.

In 2011, PBS averaged a monthly come of 124 million viewers versus 118 million a month last year – the first increase (5%) in five years. PBS also won nine Peabody Awards this year, three more than last year and more than anyone else this year. Interestingly, PBS is the number one source of children's video online

Jim Lehrer retired in 2011. In his thirty six years at the NewsHour he achieved what none of the giants of commercial broadcast journalism ever did - he created the only 60-minute national newscast on broadcast television.

Under Paula Kerger's leadership, PBS was nominated for 58 primetime Emmy awards this year and also received seven Peabody Awards. Shows like "Downton Abbey" and "Sherlock" have attracted fans to other stalwarts like "Frontline" and "American Experience." This Fall "Broadway or Bust," "Call the Midwife," Ken Burn's

"The Dust Bowl" will debut and "Upstairs Downstairs" returns. Even Big Bird had a moment in the Presidential debates when Mitt Romney declared to Jim Lehrer that "I like PBS, I like Big Bird, I actually like you too," but he would cut funding. PBS now reaches over 236 million viewers.

Since last Fall, the major networks are all down in the key 18-49 demographic, and all but CBS are down in total viewers. PBS is the only broadcast network in 2013 that is steady in the key 18-49 demographic, up in total viewers and up dramatically in viewers 18-34. PBS ratings are up with a mix of Shakespeare, one of Emmy voters' favorite period dramas –"Downton Abbey," and various educational programming. Ironically, it may be due to Mitt Romney, whose call to end PBS's funding last year made that made the audience rally around the network.

INTERACTIVE TELEVISION

Interactive television (generally known as iTV) describes a number of techniques that allow viewers to interact with television content as they view it. This section focuses more on the hardware, software and applications, and services related to the interactive television experience than content creators and distributors. Increasingly, "mainstream" content creator and television distribution companies now retain the capability to produce & distribute an interactive television product. See TV producers and distributors section of the almanac for comprehensive content and distribution coverage. Content companies listed here focus primarily on the interactive television experience.

INTERNET PROTOCOL TELEVISION AND INTERNET TELEVISION

IPTV is a system where the delivery of television or "rich media" content to a customer's home is accomplished via Internet Protocol broadband networks. Instead of being delivered through traditional broadcast and cable formats, the content is received through the technologies used by computer networks. In traditional television delivery, all programming is broadcast simultaneously. The viewer selects which program he wants to watch by changing the channel. IPTV, by contrast, sends only one program at a time. Content remains on the service provider's network and only the program the customer selects is sent to the home. When a viewer changes the channel, a new stream is transmitted from the provider's server directly to the viewer. Like cable TV, IPTV requires a set-top box. Two of the newer distribution channels are Internet television, which operates on the world wide web and Internet Protocol Television, or IPTV, which is offered via broadband networks that are private. Google, Joost and similar services are examples of Internet television, while phone and satellite companies like Verizon, AT&T and EchoStar offer the private networks that are IPTV.

ABOUT TELEFILM CANADA

Created in 1967 and reporting to the Department of Canadian Heritage, Telefilm Canada is a federal cultural agency dedicated to the development and promotion of the Canadian audiovisual industry. Telefilm provides financial support to the private sector to create distinctively Canadian productions that appeal to domestic and international audiences.

In 2006-2007, Telefilm managed nearly $400 million in financial resources; $261 million was administered on behalf of the Canadian Television Fund. The resources managed by Telefilm are committed through the Canada Feature Film Fund and the Canada New Media Fund enabling Telefilm to act as key financing, strategic and promotional partner on both the international and national scenes.

Consult the website for additional information concerning regional offices, funds and programs, co-production certification, festivals and markets, catalogs and current developments.

INTERNATIONAL COPRODUCTIONS

International co-productions are a key component of Canadian film and television production. They are a favored method of penetrating new markets and facilitating project financing.

Canadians are quite active in the international co-production area. They promote quality and demonstrate remarkable energy and understanding of markets, making them sought-after partners.

On behalf of the Canadian government, Telefilm administers official international co-production agreements. These partnerships enable Canadian producers and their foreign counterparts to pool their creative, artistic, technical and financial resources to co-produce films and television programs that enjoy the status of national productions in each of the countries concerned.

At present, Canadian producers may create joint works with their counterparts in more than 50 countries.

Telefilm Canada is a federal cultural agency dedicated to the development and promotion of the Canadian audiovisual industry. With the objective of building larger audiences for Canadian cultural products, the Corporation acts as a partner to the private sector through investments in diverse productions that speak to Canadians and that resonate with audiences around the world. From screenwriting to international markets, Telefilm provides support for all industry activities.

The Corporation oversees a number of funds and programs, including the Canada Feature Film Fund and the Canada New Media Fund. Telefilm is also the administrator of the Canadian Television Fund.

From promoting Canadian films at major festivals and markets to stimulating new international coproduction partnerships, Telefilm Canada is also an innovative and entrepreneurial player on the worldwide market.

OFFICE OF COMMUNICATIONS (OFCOM)

OFCOM was designed to be a 'super regulator', required in an age where many media platforms are converging. OFCOM was initially established in the Office of Communications Act 2002 [1], but received its full authority from the Communications Act 2003. On December 29, 2003, OFCOM inherited the duties that had previously been the responsibility of five regulatory bodies:

The Broadcasting Standards Commission

The Independent Television Commission

The Office of Telecommunications (OfTel)

The Radio Authority

The Radiocommunications Agency

SATELLITE AND CABLE SYSTEMS OPERATORS

British television broadcasting has a range of different broadcasters, broadcasting multiple channels over a variety of distribution media. Before the advent of digital television in the UK, five main television channels dominated (BBC, ITV, Channel 4, Five, S4C and Teletext) British television. With the increasing popularity of digital television, all are expanding and offering a portfolio of digital-only channels to viewers. Starting in 2008 and ending in 2012, television services in the UK will go completely digital, region by region. Digital UK is the independent, not for profit, organization set up by the broadcasters to lead the UK's switch to digital television.
