STANDING THE TEST OF TIME

Bury this book in a time capsule, and 1,000 years from now a broadcaster will see proof that despite a rough patch for the business of broadcasting, the men and women of radio continue to persevere and adapt. New titles are everywhere in the industry. Who would have put “Client Engagement Director” on their business card in 1970? It’s an industry that has survived and thrived despite “radio-killers” like television, MTV, CDs, satellite radio and the iPod. It’s a safe bet that ability to adapt will continue. The broadcaster-of-the-future may wonder how we ever survived without FM in our jetpacks.

Since 1984 we and our predecessors at the M Street Journal have been tracking station contact information, key personnel and format trends. And you will find that data in this edition as well. But there are changes too. Back then a web site meant you may’ve needed an exterminator. Today, the majority of station listings include what’s become as critical as a phone number: the URL address. In a sign of the digital age, The Radio Book also now exists online as well.

The Radio Book is also a snapshot in time of what formats are hot, such as the growth of spoken word programming on the FM dial or the explosion of Spanish-language radio over the past decade. In a sign of how difficult recent times have been, there are more stations listed as “silent” than in our previous edition. But they’ll be back soon enough. As we’ve seen from pirates to low-power FM operators, the ability to crack open a microphone and speak to a community is too strong an attraction to keep those stations dark for long.

The staff at Inside Radio and The Radio Journal spends thousands of hours each year following the industry. Research director Cathy Devine leads a team that knows this information is more than just trivia. It gives users powerful information that saves time, and we hope, helps them make a bit of money as well. Lee Anne Hebert and Christy Macaulay track formats, owners and personnel by phone, fax, email and the web. The end product is radio’s most thorough industry guide.

Also in this 19-th edition of The Radio Book you can find –

- Information on more than 14,000 U.S. and Canadian radio stations, including call letters, frequency and contact information. They’re listed by state and city of license.
- Listings of stations by market – including both commercial and noncommercial stations, all listed by frequency.
- Formats, researched by the staff of the Radio Journal and Inside Radio. We don’t merely accept what a station may tell us. We continue to take the time to research playlists and listen to the station’s air product to make our determinations.

Our thanks and continued appreciation goes out to our advertisers and other supporters – including our many radio friends across the country who alert us to the smallest changes throughout the year. This book couldn’t be published without their help.

The M Street Database Format Codes

As the broadcast industry itself evolves, so do radio station formats. Classifications and definitions are amended from time to time to reflect current trends. Here is the current set of format classifications.

AAA	Adult Alternative An eclectic playlist based on rock music but with some other forms of music such as blues, folk and jazz included. The target audience is generally from ages 25 to 54.	CWO	Classic Country This station plays no country music that's currently on the country charts in music industry trade publications. Exactly how old the music played on the Classic Country station is can vary. Some stations could reach back to the 30's while others might play only selections from the 70's and on.
ACW	AC & Country Just what it says. A near 50/50 blend of music from the two formats.	CWT	Traditional Country The Traditional Country station aims for a sound that reflects country music before it was made contemporary" through the addition of drums and non-stringed instruments in the 70's. Traditional Country stations play music that's in current release that has this "traditional" sound along with older music with a "traditional" sound.
ADC	Adult Contemporary An adult oriented pop/rock station. The Adult Contemporary station will play many of the same records as are currently heard on mainstream CHR stations or were part of mainstream CHR in the 80's and 90's but will leave out those that are at the extremes of rock, rhythmic and rap. The target audience runs from 25 to 54 and may skew	DNC	Rhythmic-CHR A contemporary hit radio station that focuses on rhythmic music.
ADH	Adult Hits Promoted as "We Play What We Want" with playlists that draw from music from the 70's forward, and commonly branded as "Jack," "Bob," et al.	DNX	Dance Closely related to Rhythmic-CHR but focused more on pure dance club music.

ABOUT RATINGS

Estimates of audience share labeled Arbitron represent 12+ AQH Shares, Mon-Sun, 6 am to midnight and may not be quoted or reproduced without prior written permission of The Arbitron Company - Copyright 2010, The Arbitron Company.

The Radio Book contains estimates of average-quarter-hour-audience size and market audience share from surveys taken by the above ratings companies. The figures we show are taken from the latest survey published before our deadlines. The particular survey used in each market is shown in The M Street RADIO MARKETS section, but not in the individual station listings. Ratings are not shown for stations that did not meet minimum reporting requirements or for stations that show up with ratings in markets outside of their primary market area.

The term "ratings" is used to describe the audience figures published in The Radio Book. However, "audience share" and "audience estimate" are more accurate terms. The published numbers express the size of a station's audience in a theoretical "average-quarter-hour" (AQH) between 6:00am and 12:00 midnight in two ways: 1) As a percentage of all radio listeners twelve years old or older (12+) and 2) as a number of persons 12+ listening.

These figures highlight some relative strengths and weaknesses of the stations competing in a market but tell only a small portion of the story of competition in a market.

These 12+ Monday-Sunday 6:00am to 12:00 midnight AQH estimates are not the only audience data that ratings firms provide. Far more specific estimates that report the size of a station's AQH audience at different times of the day and detail how radio listening differs by age and gender are available directly from the ratings firms. Also available are cumulative audience estimates which report how many people listen to a radio station over time periods longer than a quarter-hour. These more specific figures are not included because of their volume and because the ratings firms would have little to sell if they were published. For more information contact the ratings company directly.

Precision means that you avoid the time consuming errors resulting from unfounded data such as these listed below...

- ✗ Called a person who no longer holds that position at the station
- ✗ Emailed someone at a station and had it bounce back
- ✗ Called the desired contact and the number didn't work
- ✗ Placed a buy on a station with good intentions, but the format had changed
- ✗ Were frustrated that you were using data that was out of date!
