Stop, Look and Listen Before You Vote

LISTENERS know Candidate Wendell Willkie and his views from his campaign before microphones

THREE days crowded with words and facts and figures lie between us and the election of a President. Our wisest men tell us that the world is at a crossroads today and that our ballots can send it down the avenue marked Peace, or up that other one named Perdition.

No time in history has seen our citizens so completely informed of world events. For this, they can thank radio. No campaign between political candidates has ever been waged in so many interested homes. For that, radio also is responsible. As an informed and enlightened people we are about to make a choice of tremendous importance. The words we hear these next three days may do much to settle our minds and guide our decisions.

Listeners should pay especial attention to the following periods:

Saturday, November 2—President Roosevelt from 9:00 to 10:00 p.m. EST, over NBC.

Saturday, November 2—Wendell Willkie Rally from 10:15 to 11:00 p.m. EST, over CBS.

Monday, November 4—Democratic Rally from 10:00 p.m. to 12:00 midnight, EST, over the NBC-Red and Blue nets, and Mutual, and on CBS from 11:00 p.m. to 12:00 mid. EST.

Monday, November 4—Republican Rally from 10:15 to 11:00 p.m. EST, on CBS.

Monday, November 4—Republican Rally from 12:00 midnight to 1:00 a.m. EST, on NBC, CBS and Mutual.

Election returns are of special importance to every listener and every voter this year. The networks have taken great pains to speed the news to an audience which will surely reach 70,000,000 persons. Your commentators, analysts and news reporters will include the ablest men on the networks. Among them: CBS—Bob Trout will be in New York, Elmer Davis will be in New York, Albert Warner will talk from Washington, and Elmo Roper, director of the "Fortune" magazine survey, will examine results from the viewpoint of his and other polls of opinion-research groups.

A TWENTIETH CENTURY-FOX PICTURE

jagged mark of his sword striking terror into every heart but hers!*

BETTY BREWER'S performance as "Squib" Clayborn in "Rangers of Fortune" was so completely honest and sincere that she stole the picture from such performers as Fred MacMurray, Patricia Morison, Albert Dekker. Now she's set for bigger roles

She's OKIE — DOKIE

Here's the heart-warming story of Betty Brewer, a great-hearted child, a real-life Okie who's making good!

By Gordon Swarthout

BETTY BREWER, the thirteen-year-old, honest-to-goodness Okie from Joplin, Mo., is one of those things that just happens. She is snub-nosed, cavern-eyed, plain as bread and butter, and the public is going to make her the next big-name child star. There isn't a person that knows her who isn't rooting for that to happen. If ever a kid deserved a break, she does. Betty was singing for pennies in front of the Vine Street Brown Derby with her sister Ilene, age eleven, and her brother Monte, age seven, when Opportunity in the shape of Sam Wood, the director, touched her on the shoulder. Without hesitating, or stopping to inquire why Opportunity had been so long in coming, she took a test for the role of the little frontier waif in "Rangers of Fortune." Surprisingly enough, she got the part. That amazed Betty, who had never had anything nice happen to her before. Her performance confounded Paramount officials, who suddenly found themselves with a budding child star on their hands. Working sincerely and honestly, without publicity build-up, experience or training, she stole the picture.

She doesn't know how she did it. Paramount doesn't know why she did it. Betty's bewildered, simply says "she did the best she knew how." And that's probably the answer.

Betty Brewer is plain, honest, sincere, unspoiled and unpolished. There isn't a thing in her family background to give her an iota of acting ability. She has been shoved around, kicked, mauled and beaten by circumstances. She is a child of poverty-stricken parents born in the Dust Bowl, a section of the country even Mother Nature has forgotten.

Now she is in Hollywood. She has a picture contract. She has finished a second film, "The Roundup," with Preston Foster, Richard Dix and Patricia Morison. She's getting an education. She has a great future. But all of those things aren't as important to Betty as the fact that her family has a house to live in. That they're all getting three square meals a day.

Betty Brewer was born in Joplin,

Mo., January 17, 1927. She is the second of four children, having an older sister, Violet (now married), and a younger sister and brother, Ilene and Monte. Mr. Brewer is a carpenter by trade, who worked in the lead mines near Joplin until his health failed. The family's migration from Missouri to Sacramento, Calif., in 1938 is the story of "Grapes of Wrath."

But this family's arrival in Sacramento was the end of their "Grapes of Wrath" hegira and the beginning of the story of Betty Brewer. With her father still ill, unable to get work, Betty, Ilene and Monte (called Sunny) organized a trio. They organized it because Betty figured out people were paid for entertaining others, and decided that if money could be made by singing, she, Ilene and Monte could make some too.

How the youngsters sang at banquets and entertainments for five dollars per performance and sometimes less and the entire family lived on what they made, how they came to Hollywood when bookings in Sacramento ran out, got a job on a radio station for a few dollars a week, sang anywhere and everywhere for whatever they could earn—all these things have been faithfully reported by the press since Betty became a movie personality. Other things have not been told.

There's the time, just before they left Sacramento for Hollywood, that Betty, her mother, Ilene and Sunny applied for relief. All they asked for was enough food for a week. They promised to pay for it as soon as they were able. The official to whom they were referred was pretty unkind. When she learned they were from Missouri, she called them "low-down trash" and refused to give them a thing. That hurt Betty more than anything that has ever happened to her, especially since the remarks were leveled at her mother, whom she adores. There's one experience she isn't going to forget in a hurry.

Then there was the time they sang at their first banquet. Betty, Ilene and Sunny had organized their trio with, as Betty describes it, "Ilene doing the lead, Sunny the hot licks, and me the harmony," and had obtained work singing at a banquet being held in honor of Governor Merriam. In addition to five dollars in cash, they were to receive their dinner. And were they hungry! They dreamed of that dinner!

All went well, as far as the singing was concerned, but the Governor didn't speak as long as he had been expected to. Waiters started to rush the meal, serving one course after the other with such rapidity that the kids didn't have a chance to eat one before the plate was whisked away and the next course served. This was not only a waste of good food, as they looked at it, but they weren't getting enough to eat. They slipped away from the table, found the kitchen and ate there with the waiters. They got second helpings, too!

Betty has seen and done a great deal since she completed "Rangers of Fortune," but she hasn't changed a bit, according to those who know her best. In company with Rachael Smith, representative of the Board of Education in charge of minors at Paramount, she made a plane trip to New York, Boston, Chicago and Kansas City in connection with that picture.

Naturally, Betty was impressed with what she saw—and there wasn't much that missed those deep, brown eyes of hers, you can bet on that—but what she enjoyed most about the trip, of all things, was an afternoon she spent at the Delano School for Crippled Children in Kansas City. The best thing about it, she explains, is that it wasn't a "charity" school, or a "pity" school—that it was a regular public school. She believes if every kid who says "I hate school" could see that one, and if they saw what pride those crippled youngsters took in being able to do even the most ordinary things, they'd never object to going to school again. They'd be thankful they were able to go.

BETTY was invited to meet President Roosevelt during this same trip, and it will always be the regret of her life that she wasn't able to take advantage of the invitation. You see, President Roosevelt is a sort of a special idol to Betty. She believes he is responsible for giving poor children a chance to amount to something. Having been so poor herself, that calls for a very extraordinary kind of respect on her part.

It happened while she was flying to New York from Hollywood. Miss Smith had cautioned her not to say anything about being in pictures, feeling it would draw undue attention to both of them ("Rangers of Fortune" hadn't been released yet, so she'd never been seen on the screen). Betty, however, got to talking about her favorite person, the President, to a very nice man on the plane. The man turned out to be Mr. Oswald Ryan, vice chairman of the Civil Aeronautics Authority. He extended the invitation and, to her dying day, Betty will always bewail the fact she and Miss Smith were not able to stop over in Washington and take advantage of his kindness.

The first thing a person notices upon meeting Betty Brewer is that she is smaller than she appears on the screen. The second is her plainness. The third is her deeply set brown eyes, by far her most expressive feature. Those eyes are hard, yet soft; they're pain-touched and brave, compassionate and understanding. They're the passage-way her soul peeks through.

Betty is essentially a young-old person. Fighting for survival and shouldering responsibilities has given her the ability to size up persons and situations quickly. Impulsive by nature, she's wary and cautious about everything she does. Living has been a tough enough business with her to cause her to peer behind the surface of things to see that they're as they're represented. She isn't easy to fool, and while she isn't constantly on the defensive with people, she keeps her guard up.

Once she has decided a person is a "right guy," however, Betty goes all the way. Her thirst for friendship is as violent as a drunkard's for liquor, and she can become literally intoxicated with happiness if she thinks a person she admires likes her. She covers this craving for friendship with a kidding attitude. Everyone she works

BETTY (above, right) with Ilene and Monte (Sunny), her brother and sister. They still practise their singing nightly, are now heard on radio broadcasts from time to time

During the making of "Rangers of Fortune," she called Sam Wood "Li'l Abner." Patricia Morison was "Butch." Y. Frank Freeman, Jr., son of the head of Paramount, is "Pistol Pete." She's called "Ski Jump" around the studio herself, but Wood has a special name for her. He calls her his "Oomph girl." She likes that.

She lives with her family in a small house close to the studio, and pays the rent from her earnings of one hundred dollars a week. Her gang consists of her sister Ilene, her brother Sunny, and "Pootsie" and "Dink."

"Pootsie" is a beautiful blonde, a little older than Betty; "Dink" is a genius. "Pootsie's" only failing is that she thinks about boys and all that mushy stuff, but "Dink" is just about perfect. He knows whole acts of Shakespeare and can go to a movie

MOVIE-RADIO GUIDE Award FOR DISTINGUISHED ACTING

CAROLE LOMBARD, Thomas Mitchell and Charles Laughton have been selected by Jimmie Fidler to receive this month's MOVIE-RADIO GUIDE AWARD FOR DISTINGUISHED ACTING, Miss Lombard and Mr. Laughton for their sterling performances in "They Knew What They Wanted," and Thomas Mitchell for his work in "Angels Over Broadway."

Jimmie Fidler, in making the awards, explained:

"It would take a Solomon to judge between the respective claims of Charles Laughton and Thomas Mitchell to this month's acting award for men. Being no Solomon, I'm doing the next best thing—giving an equal rating to each candidate.

"In 'Angels Over Broadway' Thomas Mitchell achieves one of the greatest characterizations in screen history. Laughton equals it with his portrayal of the illiterate Italian grape-grower in 'They Knew What They Wanted.' Both assignments were exacting—far beyond the abilities of average skill. Both portrayals pack a maximum load of emotional TNT.

"Without wishing to detract in the least from Laughton, who never fails to make the most of his roles, I want to take time out for tribute to Thomas Mitchell's consistency by noting the fact that his other performance of this month, in 'The Long Voyage Home,' is also worthy of top rating. His name on a film's cast is becoming a guarantee of excellence."

Mitchell wavered between journalism and the stage for a long period in his early years, working as a newspaperman in Newark, N. J., at one time, and later appearing with a Shakespearian troupe in New York. Later, he compromised between the two by writing plays ("Little Accident," "Cloudy With Showers" and others) and appearing as an actor as well. His work in Hollywood has been largely in featured character roles up to now.

Laughton's theatrical experience was gained in England where, as a hotel clerk, he found plenty of time to study people and dream of a theatrical career. The war put an end to his dreaming for a while, but when he was mustered out of the army he enrolled in the Royal Academy of Dramatic Art. It was not until 1928, however, that he got his first stage role in "The Government Inspector." During this interval he had made his living by working at various jobs.

Although slow in getting started, Laughton made up for lost time, was soon in the front ranks of London stage players. While playing in "Mr. Prohack" on the London stage he met a young actress, Elsa Lanchester, also in the cast, and before the play's run was over they were married. His first American appearance was in "Payment Deferred," on Broadway. As a result of this performance he was given a Hollywood contract.

Aside from being a consistently fine performer, Laughton is something of a star-maker, Vivien Leigh and Maureen O'Hara being among his finds.

The award for the best feminine performance of the month is made to Carole Lombard.

"A good many critics," Fidler went on, "snickered when Carole, the zaniest comedienne in Hollywood, was given the somber role of the tragic mail-order bride in 'They Knew What They Wanted.' But those same scoffers came out of the theater with wet eyes. Particularly notable is this fact: Carole put over her most tragic scenes without once resorting to 'hamming.' She made her audience respond because she felt the emotions of the girl she played. And that is the secret of all good acting.

"Carole's triumph in a new field leaves only one thing to be desired—and that is assurance that she won't desert the many fans who like her clowning, too."

Carole Lombard grew up with Hollywood. This despite the fact she was born Jane Alice Peters in Fort Wayne, Indiana, thirty-two years ago. When she was seven years old, her family went to Hollywood on a visit, liked the film capital, decided to stay. Carole started her career in comedy—the slapstick comedy of Mack Sennett—and comedy has remained her first love ever since. She has appeared in many laugh-films.

Her specialty has been zany, non-sensical stuff of the "Nothing Sacred" type, which makes her conversion into the serious Lombard of "They Knew What They Wanted" a striking achievement. Nearest approach to a role so serious yet attempted by Carole was her part as the nurse in "Vigil in the Night," a role which brought her her first MOVIE-RADIO GUIDE AWARD FOR DISTINGUISHED ACTING.

Not only on the screen has Carole essayed the zany comedienne role, but in private life as well she has earned a reputation as a practical joker of notable stature. What goes on between her and hubby Clark Gable would be grounds for divorce in any other family. The Gables take it all in stride.

On the more serious side, Carole is a top-notch businesswoman and, although she has one of the best agents in the business, she generally makes her own deals. Studio executives have every respect for her judgment, often consult her on writers and directors to be used on her films.

As Judged by Jimmie Fidler

Event OF THE WEEK

Sabu

ORIENTAL opulence was recreated Thursday, October 17, at the Carthay Circle Theater in Hollywood, for the premiere of Alexander Korda's "Thief of Bagdad," which stars Sabu, with proceeds going to the Motion Picture Relief Fund and the British Ambulance Corps. At the Wilshire Boulevard end of the Carthay parkway was an Arabian tower, through which, and continuing up to the theater entrance, ran a large reproduction of the thief's magic carpet. At the end was a pool, into which a flood-lighted life-figure of June Duprez, heroine of the picture, looked. In the tower of the theater itself were four colored trumpeters, and the stars who walked the magic carpet to the door carried out the dreamlike illusion of oriental elegance.

Alexander Korda and his wife, Merle Oberon, played host and hostess to a large party attending the affair, including his brothers, Zoltan and Vincent; Darryl Zanuck, Mervyn Leroy, William Wyler, William Goetz, Claudette Colbert, Hans Rameau, Mrs. Conrad Veidt, Norma Shearer, Mr. and Mrs. Ernst Lubitsch, Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Goldwyn.

Every star of renown was there—Shirley Temple, the Ronald Colmans, the Laurence Oliviers, Dorothy Lamour, Deanna Durbin, Edgar Bergen, the Charles Boyers, Mary Pickford and Charles Rogers, Jean Hersholt, to name a few.

Hollywood HEARTBEAT

Mrs. Charlie Chaplin

OFFICIAL confirmation of what Hollywood already knew came October 16, when Charlie Chaplin introduced Paulette Goddard as his wife at the New York premiere of "The Great Dictator" . . . Olivia de Havilland and James Stewart are at it again; he is teaching her to fly . . . Dennis O'Keefe and Steffi Duna staged their expected elopement

October 18 to Phoenix, Arizona . . . Helen Mack, brunette film and radio actress, announced that she and Tom McAvity, radio advertising executive, will wed within the next week or two; she will quit her career . . . Ruby Keeler and Pasadena-scion John Lowe are inseparable . . . June Storey and John ("Gateway to Hollywood") Archer are planning their nuptials, as are Brenda-Joyce and Owen Ward, and F. D. R.'s movie-making son and his nurse Romelle Schneider . . . Lupe Velez and "Big Boy" Williams have announced their engagement to wed this month, if they are still speaking when the time comes, and while maybe they "can't afford" to wed, Ilona Massey and Alan Curtis were pricing wedding cakes last week! . . . Tony Martin courts Lana Turner, but they won't do anything for a year. (They can't until her decree is final.) . . . Claudette Colbert scoffed at those separation rumors; she is showing off hubby's fifth-wedding-anniversary present, a diamond clip fashioned like a modernistic flower.

This Week IN HOLLYWOOD

Ann Sheridan goes a-yachting while studio stews; conscription bares actors' real ages

WHEN it was announced that the broadcast program which has been doing so much for orphan and underprivileged children, Walter White's "Nobody's Children," would of necessity be leaving the air because no sponsors were interested and its expense was too great for the network to carry, a mysterious donor, acting through a third party—the "Voice of Experience"—made it possible for the broadcast series to be continued for another thirteen weeks. The donor's contribution amounted to $1,500, but "he or she" did not want "his or her" name revealed for fear the gift would be construed as a publicity stunt . . . Well, this is to let you know that the lady who gave the money is none other than Hedy Lamarr, a Viennese, who thought enough of the plight of American children to give her money to support the radio show. While hundreds of Hollywood actors and actresses are donating their services nearly every night to relieve the plight of foreign war refugees and children, and of course their work is for a worthy cause, it still is unique and very thoughtful of a foreign-born actress who has been in the United States so short a time to give her money secretly to support an American charity! Incidentally, Miss Lamarr's work in Metro's "Comrade X" is slapstick and swell. Now 20th Century-Fox is dickering to borrow Hedy to co-star with Tyrone Power as the menace when that lot remakes "Blood and Sand."

True Ages Revealed

Conscription day, October 16, revealed the true, unglilded ages of all the handsome screen leading men, and brought speculation as to who of those eligible for the draft first would be called to serve. Clark Gable, Spencer Tracy, Cary Grant, Ronald Colman and Gary Cooper were over age; did not have to register. Kay Kyser and his entire band of sixteen men were in the bracket and marched en masse to a registration place. Married actors who registered (but some of whom would have difficulty in showing that their wives are dependent upon them) included Robert Taylor, Don Ameche, Henry Fonda, John Payne, Tyrone Power, Robert Young, Andy Devine, Robert Cummings, Richard Carlson, John Garfield and Errol Flynn. Army "bait" among the unmarried idols were James Stewart, Bob Stack, Bill Orr, William Lundigan, Wayne Morris, Eddie Albert, Jeffrey Lynn, Alan Curtis, Orson Welles, Cesar Romero, Broderick Crawford, Bill Holden, John Howard, Dick Foran and Franchot Tone. Besides Kyser, other picture-making bandleaders who registered included Orrin Tucker, Artie Shaw, Garwood Van, Bob Crosby and Skinnay Ennis, with only the last two married.

Ann Sheridan on Strike

Ann Sheridan walked out on the Warner Bros. lot last week when she failed to appear for wardrobe sittings for her role in "Strawberry Blonde," and as a result is on suspension—and on George Brent's yacht or with him in Mexico having fun. Ann, who has been built up as the "oomph" girl, thinks she's worth one thousand dollars a week, and while executive-producer Hal Willis has said that he is perfectly willing to double her salary, she has not gotten in touch with him. So Rita Hayworth, shapely young Columbia star, will go into the part in "Strawberry Blonde" originally intended for Miss Sheridan, and unless Warner Bros. hear soon from the red-headed "oomph" girl, they'll be singing "Annie Doesn't Live Here Any More."

Big Night at Earl Carroll's

With Paramount's "A Night at Earl Carroll's" all set for public release, Earl Carroll really had a night for himself October 17, when a hundred of his Theater-Restaurant waiters walked out, after an unsuccessful demand for a dollar-a-night pay boost per man. Carroll phoned all of his friends to come over, gave his show girls and musicians the night off, and all joined the public in eating the restaurant's pantries bare. Earl even helped to serve and mix the drinks! He vows he will not reopen his restaurant until the waiters surrender . . . Scoop! Word has just been received that Carroll is seriously planning to convert his enterprise to a first-run movie theater and has a deal on for release of Chaplin's "The Great Dictator."

Portentful Potpourri

RKO's head man, George Schaefer, is plenty pleased with the rough-cut version of Orson Welles' first movie, "Citizen Kane," so now it looks as if many Hollywood smarties are due to eat the dirty digs they made at the "boy genius" . . . By charging a dime an autograph, Bette Davis collected $240 this summer for the British War Relief . . . Jeanette MacDonald is starting her third American concert tour November 1 . . . Josephine Dillon Gable, first ex-Mrs. Gable, has legally dropped the Gable from her name to avoid confusion . . . Wayne Morris and Bill Holden, eligible draftees, have signed a pact; the first to go will be paid fifty dollars a week from the other's film salary . . . John Boles made plenty of good will for the United States during his South American tour just ended . . . Jeffrey Lynn's girl friend, Dana Dale, will be Bill (Hop-along Cassidy) Boyd's leading woman in "In Old Colorado" . . . Bill Marshall, another Warner Bros. holdout, is considering dance-band leading, and meantime is shopping for a square-cut diamond for Helen Gilbert . . . Pass up those Connie Moore stork rumors . . . But Jack ("Turnabout") Hubbard and Ronnie Reagan are comparing notes; both expect to be fathers the first of January.

Astaire-Rogers Team Again?

RKO officials are eager to reunite Fred Astaire and Ginger Rogers, with Garson Kanin directing, in a screen play entitled "Together Again," a light comedy of the "Bachelor Mother" stripe. There is some doubt, however, that her lot will be able to talk Miss Rogers into re-teaming with Astaire, and besides, whispers from the family indicate that Ginger may be wearing orange blossoms come Christmastime. The man? Why, Howard Hughes, of course.

On the Future Book

20th Century-Fox, happy with Charles (Buddy) Rogers' work in "Golden Hoofs" with Jane Withers, is eyeing him for the part of glamour-bandleader in "The Great American Broadcast," in which Milton Berle is starred. The film will be another musical, and tunes for it are being written by Leo Robin and Ralph Rainger . . . Brian Donlevy will play the bank bandit, Al Jennings, in Paramount's "American Vagabond," film version of the life of O. Henry, in which Douglas Fairbanks, Jr., will portray the writer . . . Jack Oakie's stock is away up since "The Great Dictator," and now producer Edward Small is seeking a stage background story from Edna Ferber as a starring vehicle for him . . . Merro is inaugurating a new family series entitled "Keeping Company," which, 'tis said, will rival the Hardy Family with its cast of Ann Rutherford, John Shelton and Dan Bailey, Jr., together with Frank Morgan as the father and Irene Rich as the mother. Virginia Grey will play the rival of Ann for Shelton's attentions . . . CHARLES LAUGHTON, William Gargan in the Pulitzer-prize play "They Knew What They Wanted"

CAROLE LOMBARD forsakes comedy to portray the tragic bride of Laughton in same film

DOROTHY LAMOUR, in "Moon Over Burma," has the role of a Brooklyn showgirl stranded in India

PRESTON FOSTER is the hero of "Moon Over Burma," Doris Nolan plays inevitable other woman

"They Knew What They Wanted"

Cast: Carole Lombard, Charles Laughton, William Gargan, Harry Carey, Frank Fay, et al. An RKO picture, produced by Erich Pommer; directed by Garson Kanin, who also directed "My Favorite Wife."

HERE'S a down-to-earth problem drama which will leave a lump in your throat. But it is not for children who have not learned the facts of life.

Strictly speaking, "They Knew What They Wanted" is the story of a plain, hard-working waitress, Amy (Carole Lombard), and a grape-ranch owner and clod, Tony (Charles Laughton), who both knew what they wanted but were somewhat thwarted, for the moment, because inhuman and overpowering emotions blocked them.

Lombard, as the waitress who knew a good man when she saw him, even if he couldn't write or win a beauty prize, and Laughton, as that man, who proved to be the straightest thinker of the lot, stage performances that may win them top-acting awards. William Gargan as Joe, Tony's foreman and Judas, and Frank Fay in his part as Father McKee, conciliator of tangled lives, are right up with the leads, too, in their characterizations, and in several scenes Fay is so good that it is only fair to acknowledge that here is a new Frank Fay on the way up again to the top.

The play, of course, is Robert Ardrey's adaptation of the late Sidney Howard's Pulitzer-prize drama, with Erich Pommer producing and Garson Kanin directing. To young Kanin must go large credit for the success of the film. He first read the script to the entire cast from stars to prop-men. He acted all parts. Then he asked for suggestions—and got plenty. The meeting lasted until 3 a.m. Next day he asked RKO-Radio Pictures for two weeks of rehearsal with the company before a camera would turn. This revolutionary request was granted on his promise that resultant performances would be smoother, actual shooting of the film faster. So well did his plan work that it may be adopted for all future important pictures.

"They Knew What They Wanted" is strong, earthy stuff and fine acting. (For their performances in this film, Carole Lombard and Charles Laughton receive this month's MOVIE-RADIO GUIDE acting awards. See page 5.)

WHAT THEY THOUGHT OF IT: Variety: "Valid, powerful and enticing drama of loneliness and strange mating." Hollywood Reporter: "... virtual perfection in the production of the picture."

This Week ON THE SCREEN

Lombard and Laughton file claims on Academy Award in great film

"Hit Parade of 1941"

Cast: Kenny Baker, Frances Langford, Hugh Herbert, Mary Boland, Ann Miller, Patsy Kelly, Sterling Holloway, Borrah Minevitch and His Harmonica Rascals, and Six Hits and a Miss. A Republic picture; associate producer, Sol C. Siegel; directed by John H. Auer, who also directed "Women in War."

WHEN "Hit Parade of 1941" was made the producers took a lot of talented people and put them all together doing what they could do best, and the result is a lively, entertaining piece of musical comedy built around a flimsy story, with gag situations and well-delivered songs to put it over.

HUGH HERBERT'S zany carryings-on highlight the "Hit Parade of 1941"

When Kenny Baker and Frances Langford get together, something good is certain to come of it, and their singing in "Hit Parade of 1941" is tops. Baker appears to better advantage in this picture than he has before on the screen, probably because he is cast as an ordinary guy, a part which he enacts with ease. Hugh Herbert is highly amusing in his zany fashion and Patsy Kelly provides many laughs. Ann Miller comes through with some very fancy lap-dancing which is swell. She's funny as a dumb man-chaser.

Borrah Minevitch and his Harmonica Rascals provide some very amusing sequences with their pantomime, as well as their music. Songs by Frances Langford and Kenny Baker include "Who Am I?" and "Swing Low, Sweet Rhythm," with "Who Am I?" a shade the best.

WHAT THEY THOUGHT OF IT: Los Angeles Examiner: "Tuneful, well acted, cleverly written." Variety: "For those who want light-hearted diversion to offset gloom elsewhere, it should prove a tonic." Hollywood Reporter: "... a creditable effort, well produced."

CAREER girls who must block their bosses' forward passes, and all married folks, by and large, will get a big load of chuckles out of Metro's new Myrna Loy-Melvyn Douglas romantic comedy, "Third Finger, Left Hand."

In this variation of the story of the couple who are married but not really married, Lionel Houser, the author, has skillfully provided several new twists and much smart and hilarious dialog. Miss Loy, magazine editor, prevents her boss' wife from gunning for her by inventing a mythical husband who supposedly is a globe-trotting newspaperman. Miss Loy and Melvyn Douglas meet in a funny situation, and Douglas quickly falls for her, only to be jilted by the lady when he discovers her to be "married." Undaunted, Douglas checks up on her "husband," learns she really has none, and next turns up at her parents' home and introduces himself as her long-lost hubby. From there on in, the story is a riot.

All characters are reasonably human and believable, and the result is that "Third Finger, Left Hand" has that spontaneous humorous quality so much to be desired.

WHAT THEY THOUGHT OF IT: "Hollywood Reporter: "One of the comedy joys of the season..." Variety: "Pleasantly and hilariously mad entertainment." Los Angeles Times: "Third Finger, Left Hand" will do nicely."

MYRNA LOY, in "Third Finger, Left Hand," teams with Melvyn Douglas

"Moon Over Burma"

Cast: Dorothy Lamour, Robert Preston, Preston Foster, Doris Nolan, Albert Basserman, Frederic Worlock, Addison Richards, et al. A Paramount picture, produced by A. M. Botzford; directed by Louis King, who also directed "Typhoon."

CUT off Dorothy Lamour's hair, hide her sarongs, and locate her as a stranded Brooklyn showgirl in the teak-lumbering country of Burma, with Robert Preston and Preston Foster both seeking her favors—and you have "Moon Over Burma."

Bob Preston (who in the pre-Greg Bautzer days was "Lamour-Toujour-Lamour") and Dorothy gave some rapid-fire repartee that delighted the Hollywood-wise preview audience. As the love-em-all Romeo of Burma who is held down by his stronger pal, Foster, this would have been Preston's picture if the acting competition hadn't been so strong. The cutting of the Lamour locks not only changed her personality to a softer, less exotic and more beautiful girl but seemed to lend more sureness to her acting. Albert Basserman, as a blind co-owner of the teak plantation, enacts one unforgettable scene when he allows a cigarette to burn itself completely out in his hand to keep from dropping the hot ashes on a ready-to-strike cobra. Doris Nolan, as the menace turned good angel, enacts her role favorably.

Two songs, "Moon Over Burma" and "Mexican Magic," both sung by Miss Lamour, together with the musical score by Victor Young, lighten the film and have a good chance to achieve popularity.

Filled with cobras, lizards, forest-fires and log jams, excitement reaches a peak when the jam is exploded and Robert Preston and Preston Foster have to rescue each other. Most difficult scene to photograph was one in which an elephant lies down to permit Preston and Miss Lamour to dismount from the howdah. The elephant had to lie down on cue at a certain spot. After fifteen rehearsals and a dozen takes, Miss Lamour was exceedingly uncomfortable and the pachyderm was sick of the whole thing. An exciting Lamour-full picture, this will keep any audience awake, if only to mutter at finish, "I knew how it would end all the time." In case you don't know, see it to find out which Preston gets the girl.

WHAT THEY THOUGHT OF IT: Variety: "Competent playing and skillful direction rate 'Moon Over Burma' above its rather humdrum story material." Los Angeles Times: "Colorful in setting and fairly diverting as to story, with a finish including log jam and dynamiting."

The Private Papers of Detective McGinnis

Sent to Hollywood to shadow the stars, here is what one detective found out!

E. P. Detective Agency,
Chicago, Ill.
Gentlemen:

If you are familiar with MOVIE-RADIO GUIDE, you know it is the speediest, most accurate weekly publication devoted to movies and radio. Because that is our reputation and we want to maintain it, we wish to clear up any number of misconceptions about movie stars, their habits and Hollywood life in general.

We have evolved the plan of sending to Hollywood a trained investigator. We want that man to shadow several important movie personalities without their being aware of his doing so. We want him to make a complete, incident-by-incident report of a full day's activities of these persons. He must be able to trail them for a full day and make an accurate, unbiased report of everything he sees them do.

Do you have a man you can recommend for such an assignment? We will pay his expenses to Hollywood and back, plus a flat fee for each report.

Sincerely yours,
Curtis Mitchell, Editor,
Movie-Radio Guide.

Curtis Mitchell, Editor,
Movie-Radio Guide,
Chicago, Ill.

Dear Sir:

I have exactly the man for the assignment you outline. He is resourceful, tactful, accurate and handsome enough to make that quality useful in worming information from domestic help (his specialty is ladies' maids). His name is Tim McGinnis. He has never been in Hollywood. I cannot guarantee that his reports will be literary masterpieces, but they will be thorough and accurate.

Whom do you want investigated?

Sincerely yours,
J. Carlson, Pres.,
E. P. Detective Agency.

Dear Sir:

We have selected Alice Faye as the ideal glamour girl, Cesar Romero as a typical bachelor and Cecil B. DeMille as an outstanding producer. Please give us reports on these three.

Sincerely yours,
Curtis Mitchell, Editor,
Movie-Radio Guide.

Curtis Mitchell, Editor,

Dear Sir:

Herewith a letter just received from Tim McGinnis, our operative No. 9, currently on assignment for you in Hollywood, California. He seems to have been having a little trouble and you may gain the impression that he is a trifle confused (I did). However, don't despair. McGinnis always gets his man.

Dear Boss:

Enclosed find expense account for one trip to Hollywood. Please send check c/o Ye Home for the Weary, Santa Monica, California. If the cost of the investigation so far gives you the jitters, think of me. After all, with MOVIE-RADIO GUIDE it's only money, and it's MY sanity.

Sitting back there in your swivel chair in Chicago, you're maybe going to think I've been wasting my time and the client's money in trailing these movie stars like I was ordered. I'll admit I've been slow but I got a detailed report on a glamour girl (Miss Alice Faye) which I will complete tomorrow, and even if I am laid up in a home for nervous cases, when you see it you'll have to admit a McGinnis never misses. The dope I got on that dame!

The reason I am writing you in detail like this before sending the report is that you could never understand it unless you understand this place called Hollywood.

Then, when I tell you right off there isn't any town by that name (it's a suburb of Los Angeles), you begin to get an idea.

As near as I can describe Hollywood, it's a state of mind bounded by Las Vegas, Nevada; Tia Juana, Mexico; the Pacific Ocean, and entirely surrounded by signs reading "Los Angeles City Limits."

The place is full of "natives"—screwballs from every state in the Union who have been here from two weeks to two months—and a bunch of hard-working people known as stars, directors, producers and technicians, who take their jobs of creating entertainment for the public seriously.

You start getting the feel of Hollywood when you hit Las Vegas, Nevada, where most of the stars elope to. You can get a license, two witnesses, a corsage for the bride and a ceremony in five minutes for five bucks, but it usually costs more because most of the stars fly over and back in a plane. Quite a good many of them are sorry they were in such a hurry afterwards, but they can get good, legal divorces in Los Angeles without missing more than a few hours' work, so it ain't so bad as it might be.

There's no regular procedure the stars follow in getting married, but the Apache Hotel can be considered the headquarters for newly married movie stars, if there is such a thing. (I got the above information from a roulette-dealer, and the "Las Vegas—$122" item on the expense account is because double zero never did come up on the darn wheel all the time I was talking to him.)

After you leave Las Vegas, you cross a desert and some mountains, all of which are pretty monotonous, except for signs reading "Los Angeles City Limits" which pop up miles from nowhere and are always good for a laugh the first time you see them.

Then you hit Los Angeles and you drive and drive and pretty soon you are in Hollywood. Then, before you know it you're in Beverly Hills or Westwood Village, or the Pacific Ocean if you try to keep up with the Hollywood drivers.

Unless you know some landmarks, the best thing to do is to watch for Earl Carroll's Theater-Restaurant, which is located on Sunset Boulevard near Vine Street; the Hollywood Brown Derby, which is near Hollywood Boulevard on Vine, or the Hollywood Plaza Hotel, which is across the street from the Derby. Find any of those places and you're in the center of Hollywood, although most of the movie studios aren't in Hollywood anyway, being located in such places as Burbank, Culver City, etc.

But if the races are running, you don't have to worry about anything. Just find the race-track and everybody'll be there!

I got that tip from a guy on the corner of Hollywood and Vine whose face looked familiar. In fact, every-

LIL' ABNER

TAKEN from the popular cartoon strip of the same name, "Li'l Abner" comes to the screen with such laugh-provoking characters as Pansy Yokum, Lucifer Yokum, Daisy Mae, Hairless Joe, Lonesome Polecat, Li'l Abner himself, the entire screwball crew of Dogpatch and Skunk Hollow—names and places familiar to the 21,000,000 people who regularly read the comics in their newspaper. Slaphappy slapstick comedy, the film features such events as "Sadie Hawkins Day," in which all eligible males of Dogpatch are chased by unmarried girls and are forced to marry the one who catches them. Proving how completely these Dogpatchers have captured the imagination of the public, six hundred colleges will have their own "Sadie Hawkins Day" Nov. 2. The picture will be released Nov. 1.

RADIO CAN DREAMS

By
Lorraine Thomas

MOST of us, at one time or another, have wished on "star light, star bright." In childhood most of us waited for the day when we would meet Aladdin with his magic lamp.

Today our waiting is over. Broadcasting tells us to wish, and our dreams will come true.

It is a new program called "Your Dream Has Come True" broadcast over NBC each Sunday afternoon at 5:30 EST. It offers a Cyclopean ear into which all of us, whether Dead End Kids or Buster Browns, may pour our desires and wishes.

Some of us will find those wishes coming true—while the whole world listens. Thereby hangs the story of radio's newest and most entertaining experiment in programming.

Perhaps you heard the premiere last Sunday. If you did you know that there is a Board of Well Wishers headed by Doctor Samuel Stevens, president of Grinnell College, Grinnell, Iowa. This board selects those wishes which they have found to be most deserving and worthy. The wishee is informed. Do you begin to see the evolution of an uncommonly stimulating story?

On the opening broadcast the story of twenty-two-year-old Mildred Denison was dramatized.

Mildred, who dreamed of becoming a famous actress, performed in Milne's "Romantic Age" in her senior year in the Mount Vernon, Ohio, High School. Her mother and father glowed with pride as the audience applauded. The scene then changed to the meeting between the parents and daughter after the play was over. Mildred was in tears, her young heart near to breaking, for she realized that it probably was the last time she ever would have a chance to act. She knew her parents did not have money enough to send her to a dramatic school; that they could not afford even to let her go to Chicago, where she might find an opportunity to follow her career as an actress.

But, filled with the hope and ambition of youth, she went to Chicago and worked to help pay for dramatic and music courses at the Chicago Musical College. She was working as a hostess in the English Tea Room in Marshall Field's store when she wrote her letter to the "Wishing Well," telling of her ambition to be an actress.

Her wish was one of the first selected to be fulfilled on the "Your Dream Has Come True" program.

Blond, blue-eyed Mildred was sent to Hollywood. There she was given a screen test by Paramount Pictures.

Another dream that came true was that of fourteen-year-old Lillian Seregos of Chicago, whose letter revealed that her life was dark and gloomy because she had lost one of her front teeth while swimming last summer. Her family could not afford at the time to have the precious tooth restored.

The sincerity and honest appeal in the little girl's letter won the sympathy of the Board of Well Wishers, and now Lillian is flashing a nice new tooth at the little boys in school.

Jackie Lane, eleven-year-old lad from Fort Madison, Iowa, had one burning ambition, and that was to ride in the cab of the Super Chief, crack train on the Sante Fe Railroad. Jackie longed to enjoy the thrill that comes of guiding a huge engine through the night, feeling the surge of power in the wheels, feeling the mass of iron and steel respond to his very touch. He had inherited his love of engines from his father and grandfather, both of whom had been locomotive engineers on the Sante Fe.

"I want to drive the new Super Chief," Jackie pleaded. "I'd like to ride up there in the cab and feel the wind in my face and see the trees and houses go speeding by."

WHEN the Super Chief pulled out of Chicago the following Thursday, Jackie Lane was aboard the cab and was allowed to hold the throttle for part of the run. The engineer in the cab was one of Jackie's father's oldest friends, and he got a tremendous thrill himself out of seeing the dream come true for a youngster who took such pride in the work his father had done.

Robert Fischer worked for a public-utility company in Hammond, Indiana, to help support his mother, two sisters and a young brother.

"I'll tell you what I wish," he wrote. "Ever since I was a kid I've been singing. I've taken lessons whenever I could get enough money together for them. The last time I saw my music teacher he told me to work hard and try to get somebody who knows music to listen to me sing. So

MAKE YOUR DREAMS COME TRUE

There's a real-life wishing-well on the airlines and here's how it may fulfill your fondest wish my one wish is for a chance to sing on a big radio program."

The Board of Well Wishers investigated Robert's appeal, visited his home and talked with his mother and the other members of his family. They visited his employers, too, and found his wish to be a deserving one.

So on the first broadcast of "Your Dream Has Come True" Robert Fischer sang on a Coast-to-Coast network. Singing "Will You Remember?" from Sigmund Romberg's "Maytime," he was heard in a duet with Miss Mary McCormic, noted operatic soprano, who graciously consented to appear on the program with the young singer. Thus Robert Fischer was given his big chance to realize a long-cherished dream.

Another wish granted on the first "Your Dream Has Come True" program came from a girl who wanted to be an airline hostess and was subsequently given a position with American Airlines.

Letters are pouring into the Quaker Oats Company, which sponsors this program. Some dream of fame and fortune, some of great things, some of small.

As an example of the great variance in the wishes that have been sent in for consideration by the Board of Well Wishers is one from an old man who has been an invalid for many years. He occupies a small room in a tenement district. His only son, employed at a low-paying job in a distant city, sends the father just enough money to pay the rent and keep him alive. Before he was bedridden, the man had lived an active outdoor life and always had enjoyed the sun and the sight of the sky. His dream is to have a skylight in his tiny room so that he once again can see the blue sky and sunlight.

Another wish comes from a widow who is fighting desperately to earn a living for herself and her child. She has been unable to obtain employment because prospective employers will not allow her to bring her child to work with her and she cannot leave him at home alone. The woman has no particular training, but feels that she would make a good housekeeper or companion. Her unostentatious wish is to obtain a position of that sort in a home where she may earn her living and may be allowed to keep her child with her.

A young girl dreams of a career as a concert pianist. She works in a store in a large city and part of her meager earnings go toward the support of her father and mother. For years the girl has spent on music lessons every available cent she could save. She had been awarded a scholarship in a music conservatory, but after completing the course she found it impossible to obtain employment in her chosen field. She believes that if the right people could hear her play she might be given an opportunity she desires—to follow a career as a concert pianist.

A YOUNG man who went out west some years ago dreamed of sending for his father and mother. The boy works as a cowhand and does not have much money, but he wants to bring his parents out west so that they can enjoy their old age far away from the dismal home which had been theirs in a crowded city.

Each of the dreams will, in turn, be passed on by the Board of Well Wishers and then some will be fulfilled at radio's "Wishing Well."

Entirely new in the realm of audience-participation shows, "Your Dream Has Come True" is a fantasy played around a wishing well to which anyone—you or me or the fellow next door—may come with his heart's desire. Deep in the well lives the oracle whose magic power it is to grant wishes and make dreams come true. But there the fantasy ends.

Unlike the wishing wells of Grimm, the wisher does not awaken in the cold light of day to the realization that what he has been dreaming is a fairy-tale, nicely fashioned as an escape from the rigors and heartbreak of life. What he has been undergoing is real, concrete wish-fulfillment. The program itself is a dream come true with unlimited opportunity for honest-to-goodness well-doing from week to week. Perhaps the fantasy doesn't end. Perhaps—well, the very idea is fantastic.

What was that old saying? "Wish long enough . . . wish strong enough" and whatever you wish will be yours.

"Your Dream Has Come True" may be heard Sunday over an NBC network at:

EST 5:30 p.m. — CST 4:30 p.m.
MST 3:30 p.m. — PST 2:30 p.m.

First Families of Radio

DAVID HARUM is a Will Rogerish sort of person. Really, it should be put the other way around, because Will Rogers brought this hero of an Edward Noyes Westcott novel to life through his portrayal in films years ago, and David Harum of radio (heard Monday through Friday over NBC) is merely a continuation of his David Harum of the movies. As might be expected of a Rogers character, David Harum (Wilmer Walter) is a kindly, horse-sense philosopher—banker in the New England town of Homeville.

He has never married, occupying himself rather with a multitudinous number of schemes for helping neighbors who are the victims of other less scrupulous neighbors. He is the shrewdest trader in the state. David lives with his sister, Polly Benson (Charmo Allen), known to all Homeville as Aunt Polly. Polly's husband, James Benson (Bennett Kilpack), runs the local hotel. Romance of the piece is provided by

"David Harum"

Susan Price (Peggy Allenby), the village belle, and Brian Wells (Philip Reed), who came to Homeville recently as owner and publisher of the Homeville Bugle. When Tessa Terwillinger (Florence Lake), an ex-vaudeville player, arrives in Homeville to sell encyclopedias, Aunt Polly takes her under her wing and gets her a job as society columnist of The Bugle. Tessa lives with Aunt Polly and David. Because she is flighty and irresponsible, she continually upsets everybody's applecart and David becomes her long-suffering apologist. Although the domestic life of Homeville takes up most of David Harum's spare time, he is also interested in horses—trotting horses. He buys them, breeds them, trains them and sells them. His horse-trades are one of the commonest reasons for frequent legal and extralegal tangles with his one enemy, Zeke Swinney (Arthur Maitland), who is recognized as the local villain.

BERGEN — the man with a heart! Throwing off his bashful reserve, McCarthy's famous master makes friends of Chinatown's lads and lassies with greatest of ease

the BERGEN nobody knows

Everybody knows that Bergen has brains — here's the evidence that the great showman has a heart, too!

SOME Sunday night within the next few months—perhaps about Christmas-time, if the radio grapevine whispers correctly—twelve-year-old Thelma Jean Graham will throw her voice out on the air and prove whether Edgar Bergen was right in calling her the greatest natural ventriloquist he ever saw. Her great test may also offer gripping conclusiveness of another gratifying truth—that the man whose voice belongs to a dummy on his knee has a heart that beats solidly under his own shirt. Charlie McCarthy the air personality is so vividly alive that listeners must find it hard to see Edgar Bergen as a definite individual apart from his lifelike but lifeless chum. Especially is this true because Bergen, naturally reserved and a shrewd showman, deliberately keeps Charlie's personality in front of his own on the air. Therefore it's easy to think of Bergen as a detached, automatic individual, or to just not think of him much in any sense. But Edgar Bergen the man is very much alive. He has a fine home and plenty of friends, a reputable name and public renown. He has traveled widely, now flies his own airplane. The world's greatest double-voiced entertainer is a man with everything. But how about a heart? Has that, like Bergen's voice, been thrown into the wooden body and colorful career of Charlie McCarthy completely and irretrievably? Or is there a heart left to go out to a real child with warm blood of life and aspiration and triumph over misfortune pulsing through her veins? A child like Thelma Jean Graham. Listeners who tuned in the first broadcast of this season's "Chase and Sanborn Program" heard McCarthy razz Bergen about almost cracking up but had scarcely dared hope for. After his arrival at Nashville, Bergen was test-hopping his new ship at the airport when he was approached by a wistfully pretty little girl carrying a ragged Charlie McCarthy doll. The meeting had been arranged by a Nashville radio announcer who knew Thelma Jean Graham as a bright little ward of the juvenile court—a child who entertained her little pals in the Children's Home and occasionally the public with her amateur ventriloquism. "I'm a great admirer of Charlie, Mr. Bergen," said the little girl. Then she added, guilelessly, "I'm a ventriloquist, too." Bergen gave her a friendly, tolerant smile, thinking, he later confessed, "Sweet girl. Guess I'll have to listen to her." He lapsed into a McCarthy cackle and said, "Let's see what you can do.

Ho, ho, ho!" An impromptu duel ensued which left the veteran ventriloquist nothing less than astonished. That noon he was going on the air over WSM at a radio-press luncheon in the Andrew Jackson Hotel. He invited Thelma Jean to go on the air with him. JACK HARRIS, WSM announcer who handled the broadcast, admits he crossed his fingers when he presented the little girl to Bergen at the mike. He knew the comedian was tired, that he might have become a bit callous to the frequent presenting to him of prodigies; and the announcer, knowing Thelma Jean's miserable past, didn't want her to be hurt further by indifference. Thelma Jean picked up her cue from Bergen and started to tell her life-story, but her dummy, which she calls Elmer, kept interrupting to tell his—which he said was more important and much more interesting. The little showgirl tossed cue after cue to Bergen, who caught them and entered heartily into a spontaneous act which had the spectators on the edges of their chairs rocking with laughter. The broadcast finished, Thelma Jean, bright-eyed but inwardly tremulous, waited her idol's comment. The tired look had gone from Bergen's eyes, and they too were bright. He had found something fresh, wholesome, exhilarating—something he had not found in Hollywood or all of the show world. Bergen said later, "I know there are thousands of 'home problem' children, and it wasn't sympathy for her that won me to her but the way she walked up to the microphone that day. She's a regular little showman, and has a natural talent that I think should be developed." But it's hard to believe reticent Mr. Bergen's implication that it was just objective appreciation of talent that stirred his interest. Most people will choose to believe there was something of sentiment mixed up in Bergen's suggestion that the valiant little artist have a further trial. They went to the WSM studios, and the master showman listened with a critical ear while Thelma Jean did some of her little skits. Then he faced her at the microphone and engaged her in ad-lib banter. Like a veteran trouper the youngster seized the occasion. Without freezing, without faltering she cracked back. The radio comedy ace found himself laughing at, laughing with Thelma Jean—found himself part of the audience, and loved it. No one could listen with coldly analytical ears to such whip-cracking wit as Thelma Jean displayed once when Elmer's pants fell down and she put this impromptu scolding in his mouth: "This would never have happened if you'd stuck to the old-fashioned safety pin. You and your bobby-pins. Phooey!" Finally Bergen asked Thelma Jean to tell him something of her life-story. Fear must have clutched at the child's heart then. For her new-found friend didn't know she had no mother and daddy, legally. Maybe that would make a difference. Maybe Mr. Bergen would frown on her pathetic past. But neither did Thelma Jean know that Mr. Bergen himself had been through some pretty tough professional struggles. She didn't suspect—but others do—that he must have been thinking of those struggles and how puny they seemed as Thelma Jean told her story. The girl's parents separated when she was hardly more than a year old. She has no early recollection of her mother. Her father was a one-man medicine show, to whose credit might be marked up service as an army flier in World War I. On the other side of the ledger was his treatment of his tiny daughter. From her babyhood she was carried with her father from town to town. Never in the same place long enough to call it home. EVER since she can remember, her father had forced her to perform in his medicine show. She danced, recited verses, told jokes, gamely—for hadn't Daddy said they'd starve unless she helped him make money? When there were no customers Thelma Jean had to take her father's battered hat and beg on street corners, courthouse lawns, in beer parlors and dance halls. She remembers her humiliation—but she remembers also that she was often hungry. Until she was eleven the child was an undernourished waif, a weary little hoofer, an embarrassed beggar. And during all this time she never saw or heard from her mother. Her vagrant father was her only companion. It was a lonely life for a little girl—until she found a friend. His name: Charlie McCarthy. Thelma Jean had saved a few pennies and bought a ticket to a cheap theater. It was the bargain of her life, for she was entranced by Charlie McCarthy, appearing with W. C. Fields in "You Can't Cheat an Honest Man." She had heard only vaguely of Charlie, but she identified him clearly with the dolls on sale at the drug stores. She held back pennies till she could buy one of those McCarthy dolls. Charlie was her first—and only—boy friend, her inseparable pal. She talked to him. And Charlie talked back to her! Thelma Jean doesn't know just how she gave the doll a voice of his own. It just happened (Bergen calls her a rarity—a "natural" ventriloquist). Her little friend became more alive to her, and Thelma Jean, too, became sunnier, happier. This was her first real friend and she began to think of the future—hers and Charlie's. But hers were not make-believe plans, like those of most girls with dolls and doll-houses. Her life hadn't been play. She was serious. Some kind-hearted person who heard of her plight directed her to the juvenile court. There Thelma Jean found a real-life friend in Judge Sam Tatum. After checking her case thoroughly, he made her a ward of the court. She was put in the Nashville Children's Municipal Home, where finally she and Charlie found warm beds, good food, pretty clothes, playmates and an opportunity to go to school—security and happiness to Thelma Jean.

Now the clouds of her past showed a little silver lining. She retained her trouper instinct. She practised her ventriloquism diligently, creating for herself a new dummy named Elmer, because she realized for professional purposes Charlie belonged to Mr. Bergen. But she keeps a big place in her heart for her Charlie-doll, her first love. Thelma Jean entertained her playmates, appeared in amateur shows and now and then on the radio. And she dreamed of a big chance for herself and Elmer. As it should to anyone as worthy, it happened. Came Bergen, the meeting, the tryout, her fear-haunted story. She told it all the way through. Bergen asked her simply, "How would you like to go to Hollywood?" So Thelma Jean has gone to Hollywood, with a matron-companion, at Bergen's expense. She has become a ward of the juvenile court, in Los Angeles, she has been placed in a private home, and sent to a good professional school (not one of the snooty places), where she is learning, in addition to ordinary studies, dancing and dramatics. All at Bergen's expense. He himself will spend much time coaching her in ventriloquism and showmanship. Says Bergen of his plans for her: "I'll get her one or two new dummies, and some stage clothes. If she continues to show signs of progress I think

ON THE BANDWAGON

Griff Williams honored this week; "Sing for Your Money," new show over Mutual Monday nights; Marion Hutton weds band-manager

By MARTIN LEWIS

OUT of the great Golden West in the year 1936 came one Griff Williams plus an orchestra of talented young musicians and a style of music that "sings as it swings." It was both the pleasing personality of the man and the intriguing quality of his band's music which succeeded in obtaining the liking of hotel supper-room patrons in cities such as Chicago, Cleveland and Cincinnati. Today the Williams music is the choice of listeners and dancers alike, due to the frequent airings via the Mutual Broadcasting System, and to Varsity recordings. The Williams music, while in line with the demand for the new rhythm, does not entirely forsake the smoother and more soothing measures which many prefer. Williams' early classical-music training probably has something to do with this. Featured in the Williams band are Walter King and Bob Kirk, who, in addition to their instrumental chores, take over during the vocal interludes. The Williams band lines up for your inspection above as follows (front row, left to right): Joe Poretta, sax; Bob Lipsky, sax; Ron Conrad, sax and violin; Bruce Yantis, violin; Walter King, drums and vocalist (high tenor voice); Griff Williams, piano, et al.; Bob Kirk, sax and baritone vocalist. Back row (left to right): Ernie Gibbs, trombone; John Ouse, trumpet; Jules Herman, trumpet; "Joe" Rigdon, piano; Les Weidhold, string bass.

The theme song of the Williams band is "Dream Music," which the orchestra-leader composed while attending Stanford University. It was the hit song of the campus show. For his tenacity of purpose which was displayed many times during the early part of his music career when the breaks went against him, and for his consistently pleasing arrangements, Movie-Radio Guide nominates the Griff Williams orchestra as the BAND OF THE WEEK! Next week: Gene Krupa.

Three issues ago we told about bandleader Eddie Oliver's new idea, started at the Stevens Hotel in Chicago, of inviting dancers up to the mike to sing with the band. Frankie Masters apparently thinks it's a good idea too, for word reaches us that Mr. Masters has a new feature at the hotel where he plays in New York. He calls it "Sing a Song with Masters." I hope he thanks this department for writing about it and Mr. Oliver for thinking of it. . . . Fred Waring's very novel "Push-Button Tuning" comedy feature is now broadcast during his Wednesday night sessions. If you haven't heard it, give a listen. . . . Terry Shand has signed a song-writing contract with Warner Bros. Only a few hours after he put his name on the dotted line he completed his first tune for them, which was "Am I Talking Out of Turn?" . . . Sammy Kaye's opening at the Commodore Hotel was attended by most of the big bandleaders that are in the big city. Ditto for Abe Lyman's Hotel New Yorker opening. Lyman is one of the best-liked bandleaders in the country and draws crowds wherever he plays. . . . Bonnie King, vocalist with the Crosby outfit, has had a lot of "double-trouble" because a girl has been making the rounds of Los Angeles department stores buying merchandise, including a complete wardrobe, fur coats and gowns, charging them to Bonnie. The police haven't caught up with the gal yet and the real Bonnie has had an awful lot of trouble because of it.

Debut

The Blackhawk in Chicago has a reputation for giving bandleaders the needed lift to start them on the road to fame. It was in this spot that Kay Kyser inaugurated his "College of Musical Knowledge" idea. From the Blackhawk the other Monday night a new idea was started which should click with the listeners. It's called "Sing for Your Money," and the contestants, selected from the patrons in the place, pick a card on which the title of a song is printed. If they can sing the song they get a cash prize. It's heard over the Mutual network late Monday nights, with Pierre Andre as emcee, along with the exceedingly excellent music of Raymond Scott and his band. Incidentally, watch this band go places. Ray has a lot of new men and their music and arrangements are worth caring.

Purely Personal

Those who know them well weren't surprised at the announcement that Orrin Tucker and his vocalist, Bonnie Baker, would wed. They've been singing love songs to each other for months. Now you know why Bonnie turned down that movie offer last year when it didn't include her boss-man. . . . Glenn Miller's vocalist, Marion Hutton, upped and married Jack Philbin, Johnny Long's band manager. For the time being, Marion is spending her honeymoon in between vocals at the Pennsylvania Hotel in New York. . . . Mrs. Jimmy Grier has filed suit for divorce from her bandleader husband, charging cruelty. She used to sing with his band before they tied the knot. . . . Jimmy Blake, of the Tommy Dorsey band, and Mary Ann McCall, vocalist with Tommy Reynolds' band, will say "I do," if they haven't already. . . . The Enric Madrigueras are expecting a stork visit. She used to be Patricia Gilmore and also sang with her husband's band. . . . It's a seven-and-a-half-pound boy for the Muzzy Marcellinos.

BAND OF THE WEEK is Griff Williams', whose smart aggregation is heard frequently over Mutual wires from the Continental Room at Chicago's Stevens Hotel. Bandmen are identified column one, below

Discussions

GLENN MILLER—"A Handful of Stars" (Bluebird B-10893)—Glenn records a movie tune (from M-G-M's "Hullabaloo"), a number with which he has had much success in playing at dance engagements. Waxing is in slow tempo, with singer Ray Eberle telling all about it. Interesting piece of instrumental work is tenor saxing of Tex Benecke. Reverse: "Yester-thoughts" (Miller and orchestra, Ray Eberle, vocalist).

EDDY HOWARD—"Stardust" and "Old Fashioned Love" (Columbia 35771)—Eddy takes time out from his radio work to wax a couple of jazz tunes that were outstanding in their time. "Stardust," one of the greatest jazz numbers ever to be written, is sung by Howard in slow time, with both the singer and the orchestra injecting lots of rhythmic feeling. "Old Fashioned Love" is an example of perfected jazz technique.

RAYMOND SCOTT—"I Don't Want to Cry Any More" (Columbia 35773)—This number from the Bing Crosby film, "Rhythm on the River," is an entertaining, highly danceable arrangement, with the vocals being handled by Clyde Burke, whom Scott recently hired. Reverse: "Half Way Down the Street" (Scott and orchestra; vocal chorus by Clyde Burke).

Recordmended

Deanna Durbin's sweet singing of "When April Rings" (Decca 3414); Dolly Dawn's waxing of "Hep-Tee-Hootie" (Okeh 5842); Eddy Duchin's "Two Dreams Met" (Columbia 35774); Tony Martin's and Frances Langford's dueting of "Our Love Affair" (Decca 3415), and Bob Chester's "You're Breaking My Heart All Over Again" (Bluebird B-10890).

THE METROPOLITAN OPERA returns to the air Dec. 7, sponsored by Texaco. Rumor is that Texaco bought the opera as a good-will program to counteract newspaper stories that the recently resigned Texaco president had been chumming around with a Nazi agent.

THE Democrats, as reported last week, bought up all the time up to 12 midnight EST November 4 to make sure of getting in the last word before voters go to the polls. But the Republicans are having the last laugh. They bought up all networks from 12 midnight to 1 a.m. EST the same night, assuring them of the last word. . . . Bill Adams, actor called upon whenever Roosevelt is to be impersonated, is wearing a Willkie button. . . . When the government made Elliott Roosevelt a captain, the Texas State Network gave its presidency, which Elliott resigned, to his wife. . . . Thanks to radio and the difference in time, California voters can know the trend of New York voting even before they go to the polls, there being three hours difference in poll-closing time. We're reminded that, to be technical, we can add that some parts of the world, because of this time difference, will know the November 5 results on November 4. . . . Mutual has found a sponsor for ten five-minute-election-returns periods the evening of November 5—the first time America's voting has been placed on a commercial basis. . . . The Gallup poll, which in 1936 predicted a fraction of a point the outcome of the election, says that it found thirty-one percent of the nation favors giving the Communists some free time on the air, sixty-nine percent were opposed, fifteen percent undecided. . . . The Communists are again complaining to the FCC, charging that WHK, Cleveland; WREN, Kansas City; WMPS, Memphis; WAGA, Atlanta; KFDM, Beaumont, Texas; WEAN, Providence; WSYR, Syracuse, and WTCN, Minneapolis, refused to carry their broadcasts.

Nazi Kick CBS Out

Nazi-dominated Roumania has kicked Winston Burdett, CBS commentator, out of that country—the first time in history that an American radio representative has been thus expelled. Despite the fact that Burdett's broadcasts were always censored at the source, the Roumanians (at Nazi urging) were irritated and gave him five days to clear out. While Burdett holds the distinction of being the first to rouse the Hitler ire with this result, he has lots of company in Hitler's anti-commentator society, H. V. Kaltenborn and Wythe Williams both have a price on their heads should they ever set foot on Nazi soil.

The Duchess Reconsiders

The Duchess of Windsor has reconsidered radio and has indicated she would appear on a twenty-six-week series for $500,000 with everything above expenses going to the British War Relief Fund. The same agency that handles the "Ford Sunday Evening Hour" is offering the Duchess for sale at this figure with the understanding that the program must originate in the Bahamas. It is reported some cosmetic firms are interested.

Oscar Levant Stumped

Oscar Levant's mental capers might be all right for the radio audience but they didn't mean a thing when it came time to register for the November 5 election. The Board of Elections made him take the literacy test given to all first voters—to prove that he could read and write. Then on conscription day, Oscar reported for registration and got along swell until the clerk asked, "What is your complexion?" "Swarthy," replied the musician. "It is not!" shot back the clerk. "It's sallow." "It is not sallow," he retorted. The registration cards have no "swarthy" classification, so Oscar was reported as "sallow," much to his disappointment. Incidentally, when the Levants' baby girl was born, Eddie Cantor wired: "Ha, ha. That's how we started."

Myrt Is Married

Myrtle Vail (Myrt of "Myrt and Marge") and Eddle Lambert, song-agent, flew to North Carolina last week and were married. Myrtle's script and real-life daughter, Marge (Mrs. Peter Fick), is expecting a blessed event this fall—her third. . . . Radio celebrates its twentieth birthday November 11. . . . "Court of Missing Heirs" on CBS has turned up heirs to more than $244,800 since last December. . . . The minimum pay for all radio artists was boosted from ten to thirty percent under a new agreement signed by the networks and the American Federation of Radio Artists.

Tune In Your Lights

The day is coming when you'll tune in your lights instead of turning them on. Sounds a bit fantastic, but it can be done right now. Westinghouse demonstrated on October 18 just how electric power can be transmitted by radio. A group of professors were handed flashlight bulbs, which they held aloft. Then engineers turned on the new radio generator. The bulbs lighted. When the generator was turned off the lights faded out. Wonderful thing—this radio!

Because Robert Ripley's broadcast last week was canceled for a political talk, three persons get two trips each to New York. One from California, one from Canada and one from Massachusetts came for the show. Ripley couldn't hold them over for the November 1 program, because that program is about Navy Day and they wouldn't fit into the theme. So all were sent home to return again to New York on November 8.

Miscellany

Fred Allen, entertaining the president of the League for Less Noise on his show, saluted him with ten seconds of complete silence, a new idea in comedy. . . . Col. Schwarzkopf has been called for military service, so "Gang Busters" is looking for a new head man. . . . James Caesar Petrillo, the czar of the musicians union, got mad at CBS again and jerked off all the late dance bands. . . . Katharine Cornell of the stage will bow to radio November 10, when all three networks salute the Red Cross. . . . Jean Holloway, only twenty-one years old, is writing the scripts for the "Kate Smith Hour" and "My Son and I". . . . November 22 will be "Mary Margaret McBride Day" in Missouri. She will go out by plane after her November 21 broadcast, putting aside the pleasure of a Thanksgiving dinner so she can broadcast from Mexico, Missouri, where she held her first job after graduating in journalism. MOVIE-RADIO GUIDE's editor, Curtis Mitchell, will be master of ceremonies of the Missouri program.

VIVIEN LEIGH, absorbed in her role, rehearses "Screen Guild Theater" appearance October 13

LAST WEEK NBC closed a deal with the Tournament of Roses whereby that network will have the exclusive air rights to the January first Rose Bowl football game. Pact marks the first time other nets have been shut out from this famous East-West tilt.

EDDIE BRACKEN, he who used to be Henry Aldrich's "Dizzy," is working out so well on the "Chase and Sanborn Program" that he may continue as a regular foil of Charlie McCarthy and Edgar Bergen. . . . The Ritz Brothers auditioned October 18 for sponsorship by Royal Crown Cola. . . . What's all this about Bing Crosby buying the Boston Reds? That would take a lot of beans, but Bing has 'em. . . . Paramount is talking about premiering the Jack Benny-Fred Allen "Love Thy Neighbor" film at Miami Beach on Christmas with both stars on hand. . . . Which reminds that Kate Smith heads west this month for several broadcasts, will do one at Tucson, Arizona, to accent the month premiere there of the picture "Arizona". . . . Joan Blondell resumed the "I Want a Divorce" aircastrs October 18 over MBS stations from the old (yet new) Melrose Avenue NBC Hollywood studios which on December 1, after redecoration and remodeling, will become the West Coast center for Mutual and Don Lee programs. . . . Jimmie Fidler has several hot radio deals on. . . . and Fred Stone and daughters Paula and Dorothy are polishing an airstart series to be tagged "The Stone Family Boarding-House". . . . This will let Betty Winkler, in Chicago, know who sent her that "floral" piece of vegetables when she starred as the "Cat Wife." The guilty one: Gale Page!

Scripters In Conscription

Hollywood microphone idols who signed for Uncle Sam's new lottery army October 16 included bandleaders Kay Kyser, Bob Crosby, Artie Shaw, John Scott Trotter, Charles Dant, Gordon Jenkins and Skinnay Ennis; cowboy Gene Autry; singers Dick

Personally Speaking

The Don (mikeman) Wilson tryst with Peggy Kent may have blown up, but that blonde he was lurching at the Brown Derby October 19 resembled her very much! . . . Penny ("Blondie") Singleton and her film producer Bob Sparks have an office at the CBS studios—and a date with the preacher January 1 . . . Nan Grey, Kathy Marshall of CBS' "Those We Love," wife of jockey Jack Westrope, will be placing all her bets on a hobbyhorse next year; the order is in . . . Johnny Burke, Bing Crosby's ace lyricist, is all on edge to know if he's to be a daddy . . . Harvey Helms, of the Al Pearce joke-writing staff, is divorcing . . . Mrs. Agnes Austin, wife of Gene "My Blue Heaven" Austin (not Autry), was granted a Las Vegas, Nevada, divorce October 11 on grounds of non-support.

Singers Benny-Allen Feud Pivots

The 1940 version of the Jack Benny-Fred Allen feud is based on a rivalry between tenors Dennis Day and Kenny Baker of their respective broadcasts. Day complains one Sunday because he "doesn't get dialog like Kenny Baker on Fred Allen's show," and next Wednesday Baker pops out with, "Gee, wait'll Dennis Day hears me tonight! Will he be jealous!" So it goes. Now Wednesday, November 20, has been set by Baker's fan clubs as "Kenny Baker Day." Which means that the Jell-O tenor will probably be putting the heat on Benny to proclaim a "Dennis Day Day." Or is that funny?

Metro Comes to Radio

Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, movie-makers long known not to be particularly enthusiastic about radio's competition, are using it now to sell M-G-M pictures. Special transcriptions plugging Metro stars, pictures and musicals are being sent to radio stations, and on October 28 all "Lux Theater" fans heard Mickey Rooney and Judy Garland stage "Strike Up the Band," their current musical film hit . . . Which reminds that at rehearsals for the broadcast, Lou Silvers' musicians hid their instruments whenever Rooney was in the vicinity, because Mickey has a habit of playing (and getting out of tune) every instrument in sight!

Barrymore Spurns Phony Kisses

John Barrymore really wowed even the natives when he guested on Rudy Vallee's first broadcast this fall from Hollywood. One special Barrymore touch was applied during the show's enactment of the life of Vallee. Sound-effects were supposed to indicate Rudy's kissing of his first sweetheart—but Barrymore couldn't resist that impulse to kiss in person the leading lady, Lurene Tuttle. Result: He came out of the scene with lipstick smeared all over his face and left it there for the duration of the program.

Bob "I Need Rest" Hope Hopeless

Greeted, upon his return from the South Bend premiere of "Knutie Rockne—All American" where he acted as master of ceremonies, with an offer of a guaranteed $20,000-plus for one week's appearance at the Los Angeles Paramount Theater. Bob Hope turned down the bid with the excuse that he wanted to rest. He had just flown to Fort Worth for "The Westerner" premiere and done a Red Cross benefit at Seattle, he explained. So Hope, "resting," proceeded to fly to Memphis for another Red Cross benefit, did a week of free appearances here at the war-relief-aiding "Charlot's Revue," and last week flew to San Francisco for a week of fun-making at the auto show. During all this time he had his weekly broadcast to do, and he always found time for his golf, his one relaxation. No rest for Hope—or no Hope for rest.

Talines . . .

Lum and Abner are cast on a vaudeville tour . . . Jell-O's Rochester is learning to fly; will buy a plane to add to his purple station-wagon with purple trailer, race horses, two-way-radio-equipped car, yacht and Colonial home. He must keep up with his job as mayor of Central Avenue, the L. A. Negro district! . . . Charlie (Andy) Correll is pasting snapshots of his eight-months-old daughter Dorothy Alyce on his personal letters.

Chicago

DON MOORE

A HAND for Fran Allison, singer, comedienne, trouper. Her Aunt Fanny character was as snappy as ever on a recent "Uncle Ezra" show, and her comedy song was a knockout—in spite of the fact she had just returned from her father's funeral in LaPorte, Iowa.

THE new Mutual sketch, "Lew Loyal" (Friday night), features a double bait—one patriotic, one pecuniary. Youngsters are invited to join the Lew Loyal Patriots of America and wear patriotic badges. Listeners also are offered the opportunity of competing in a money-prize contest to find the most typical Lew Loyal and Betsy True among American boys and girls . . . Jane Gilbert (Kathleen Carney in "Bachelor's Children") has an unwelcome thirty-dollar bump on her head. On a half-block trip from home to drug store the other night a thug slugged her and made off with her purse . . . William Targ of Chicago has published a signed limited edition of several of the best plays of Arch Oboler.

Ellstrom Leads Double Life

Sid Ellstrom, one of the most versatile of character actors, is currently doing a Jekyll-and-Hyde on "Tom Mix." He's both Amos Q. Snood, a squeaky-voiced, stinging shyster, and Bill Curtis, crusading newspaper editor . . . Bob Nolan, leader of the Sons of the Pioneers, cowboy singers now heard regularly on the "Uncle Ezra" program, has written more than fifty western songs, including the ever-popular "Tumblin' Tumbleweeds" . . . Wayne Van Dyne's new theme song, "Let's Build a Dream," was composed by Van Dyne, with lyrics by poetry-reader Franklyn MacCormack, and has attracted enthusiastic offers from several publishers.

Joe Kelly, quizmaster of "Quiz Kids," is scratching his head a good deal off duty these days, because the kids in his neighborhood are aiming their toughest school questions at him, thinking he must know all the answers . . . It's gratifying to see the fellows at the bottom get the breaks. It happens quite consistently among the network page-boys, ambitious youngsters who have chosen the long but safe way up. The regularity with which the NBC boys get promotions here or at other stations is due in large measure to the page-school coaching of Lynn Brandt, himself one of the most completely equipped announcers. A tip-off to ambitious neophytes elsewhere is that these boys are trained specifically with the idea of beginning at a small station for the most solid foundation . . . At CBS a singing page-boy, Lloyd Webb, has clicked as a regular on WBBM's "Saturday Open House."

On-the-Spot Pick-Ups

Willard Farnum, juvenile character actor, appearing in a recent "Dog House" skit, spoke his piece, backed away from the mike, and sat down—plunk in a sound-effects tub of water, providing the "ad lib" laugh of the show for all those in the studio except Willard . . . No, dear readers, "Louisiana Lark" Jack Baker is not the dumbbell that his "Breakfast Club" skits and "poems" seem to indicate. He's a college grad, and he's smart enough to play simple in some of his radio stunts . . . Whether by premeditation or coincidence, "Uncle Walter's Dog House" played on the Oriental Theater stage at the same time that the movie, "I Love You Again," was showing. Strikingly apparent was the often-remarked resemblance between Myrna Loy, who played in the picture, and "Dog House" songstress Virginia Verrill, whose singing, acting and vivacious stage personality was a big hit.

Crossroads Court of Honor

It has been eight years and more than a million fan letters since the birth of one of radio's best-loved babies, the "Breakfast Club." Born with a gag in its mouth, it has still managed to laugh, sing and chatter its way through some 3,000 radio hours, and it has been a real blessed event to millions of listeners whose daily outlook just wouldn't be the same without it. Just past its eighth birthday, "Breakfast Club" has been heard for more air minutes than any network show except the "Farm and Home Hour." Once more, gang, a breakfast toast to Don McNeill, Jack Baker, Evelyn Lynne, Nancy Martin, the novelty groups, Walter Blaufuss and the orchestra for radio's most popular program: Long may it live and laugh!

WLWO—THE INTER-NATION STATION

THE forging of a powerful cultural link between the United States and its Latin-American neighbors was completed when the new 50,000-watt transmitter of WLWO—The Inter-Nation Station owned by the Crosley Corporation at Cincinnati, Ohio—was dedicated with an elaborate Pan-American program on Saturday, October 12.

The station's transmitter is located at Mason, Ohio. Here also is the rhombic-beam aerial which radiates an effective power of 600,000 watts in the Latin Americas, towards which the programs of WLWO are directed. WLWO has six assigned frequencies, namely, 6.08, 6.59, 11.71, 15.25, 17.80 and 21.65 mcs.

The first experimental broadcasts over the new station were sent out last April. Programs on a regular scheduled basis are now being broadcast daily over WLWO. These include selected offerings of the NBC-Red and Blue networks; English programs from the studios of WLW—the mother station at Cincinnati—and English, Spanish and Portuguese programs produced by WLWO's own staff at its Cincinnati studios. Eugene Patterson is the program director. Wilfred Guenther is the general manager. On the station's staff are also several well-qualified Spanish and Portuguese announcers.

In the following listings we present a brief resume of the main programs to be heard regularly over WLWO (all time is Eastern Standard):

GENERAL NOTES: A new El Salvadorian station, YSPB (6.575), "La Voz de Cuscatlan," at San Salvador, may be heard relating broadcast station YSP nightly to 12 mid. EST, with excellent signals. . . Robert Acton of Clinton, Indiana, writes that PZH (11.383), the new Paramaribo, Dutch Guiana, station, is being heard occasionally from 6:41 to 8:15 p.m. EST. A six-note melody is sometimes used as a sign-on signal. . . "Radio Congo Belge" (10.14), located at Leopoldville, Belgian Congo, is being heard daily from 2 to 2:45 p.m. EST, with fair signal strength in an all-French program, which includes some very interesting native music. For about five minutes preceding the opening of the broadcast, a four-note interval signal, followed by repeated chords of native music, is sounded. . . BULLS & BONERS

Bulls and boners are a part of broadcasting. No matter how experienced the performer or how famous the star, chances are that he will make an occasional slip or a statement with twisted meaning which is extremely funny. See how good your ears are. Try to catch broadcasters in some error—the funnier the better—and send your entry to MOVIE-RADIO GUIDE, 731 Plymouth Court, Chicago. The most humorous entries will be printed in this column. Watch for your contribution!

Jim Doyle, sports commentator: "Johnnie Weissmuller's wife, Beryl Scott, presented him with an eight-pound baby boy—and now for other sporting events."—D. R. Fulton, P. O. Box G, Daggett, Calif. (September 24 over Station KHJ.)

Michael on "Bachelor's Children": "That's the best news I've heard since Kathleen was hurt."—Cecilia Boland, Chillicothe, Mo. (October 3 over CBS.)

Allan Kent, announcer, on "The O'Neills": "Don't miss this opportunity to help needy people go by unnoticed."—Virginia Montayne, P. O. Box 70, Oneonta, N. Y. (September 26 over NBC.)

I'll show her off at a few nice club dates and parties of my friends to strengthen her stage presence. She couldn't act at any of the big night-clubs where they sell liquor. It's against the law for a minor to do so in California. I wouldn't want her to, anyway.

"My radio plans for her? They're rather vague now. A lot depends on Thelma Jean. I may put her on my program to give her a start."

Thelma Jean is going to get a dream deal that will compensate for those years of childish heart-hunger, greater even than physical want. Bergen isn't adopting her, just directing and financing her at present, while she is still a ward of the juvenile courts. But Bergen does love children. He isn't an oldster, but he's well into the age when a man thinks of settling down to home, fireside and family. He has confided to friends that if he were not so busy he'd like to marry and have a family.

Thelma Jean will succeed. Not simply because she's a natural ventriloquist and an honor graduate of the hard-knocks school. Not just because she's getting a real opportunity. Not only because she's deserving. But also because a kind fate and that mighty little microphone brought together an unknown child and a famous man, both with double voices and hearts that matched.

Edgar Bergen may be heard Sundays on "The Chase and Sanborn Program" over an NBC network at:

8:00 p.m. EST — 7:00 p.m. CST
6:00 p.m. MST — 5:00 p.m. PST

STARLIGHT on Your Dressing Table

By
Betsy
Alden

DINAH SHORE'S EYES have been called the most expressive in radio. She's songstress with Eddie Cantor (Wed. on NBC)

NOW that the movies as well as the fashion trends in every-day life are sponsoring what I might term the gesture of coquetry and pompadour bonnets, forehead curls and frou-frou touches are framing feminine faces more coyly than they have been framed since the Watteau era, it is obvious that the eyes—the normal focus (or should I say foci?) of attention—should be played up as dramatically as possible.

With that thought in mind we finally tracked down the popular Miss Dinah Shore, slim, eager-faced young southern girl who has what have been rightfully called "the most expressive eyes in radio" and asked her if she would mind telling us (for the benefit of our readers) how she manages to retain such eye beauty and brilliancy and lead such a busy, exciting life at the same time!

(We could see that Miss Dinah had been fairly-blessed in a number of other directions, aside from her eyes. She has a twenty-one-inch waistline and a hauntingly lovely voice.)

She told us with the most charming frankness that the appeal of her eyes is the result of design as much as accident, or more specifically, that proper care and make-up had a great deal to do with achieving their large and luminous appearance.

"Since fatigue and strain show up immediately in eyes, it's important to rest and refresh them occasionally with an eye lotion or with a mild solution of boric acid," she informed us. "This solution can be used with an eye-cup or medicine-dropper, and the business girl who values her eyesight should make a practise of doing it every night, particularly," she added with an understanding twinkle, "if she has a date where she wants to look as decorative as possible."

Clever girl that she is, Dinah avoids eye-shadow during the sunlight hours, using instead a bit of cream or oil on the lids to give them the dull gleam of waxed petals. But she makes no such reservations for evening.

"I love eye-shadow after dark," she confessed youthfully, "particularly the new iridescent shades that give the eyes such fascinating highlights. But I always remember to choose a shade that will blend with my natural eye color," she added, practically. "If one's eyes are hazel or brown, a harmonizing bronze shadow will be most becoming. If they are gray or blue, the bluish-gray or violet shades of shadow will make them appear deep and mysterious, a very good thing for evening."

I asked Miss Dinah for some pointers on applying eye-shadow and this is what she told me:

"Unless your eyes are widely spaced, don't apply eye-shadow too near the bridge of your nose. Keep it deepest in tone at the very rim of the lid and shade it up toward the brow. Then with a very fine pencil outline the edge of the upper lid, carrying the line past the eye, and smudge it with your finger-tip. This is a trick all the movie stars use to make their eyes appear larger. It makes small, deep-set eyes look much bigger than they really are.

"MASCARA," she continued, "is another potential eye-magic. I say potential because like any other enchantment it can be used wrongly. I love mascara on my eyes because it makes them look brilliant and nicely groomed at the same time, but I am always careful not to use too much. I like a dramatic effect but not a burlesque, and thick, spiked lashes are not pretty at all.

"When applying mascara, the safest rule is not to let the brush get too wet. Curl the lashes backward as you darken them, and if you want to look doubly alluring, add a second coat from the center of the eye outward, thus keeping the mascara heaviest toward the temples. This gives an illusion of length and is especially effective under artificial lights.

"Eye make-up of any kind is taboo on the lower lashes," concluded the girl who is said to have the most expressive eyes in radio.

(Listening to Dinah talk, I couldn't help feeling that what came smiling through her lovely, shining eyes was neither accident nor design, but personality, the same vital, splendid quality that has made her voice so memorable!)

The Answer Shop

The newest trend in cleanliness is milk bathing, but for your face rather than for your body. (If you're an heiress, you'll probably demand it for the latter!) Milk, pasteurized so that it will stay fresh indefinitely, has somehow been incorporated into a cleansing cream and also into an emulsion to keep your surfaces as silky smooth as a gardenia petal. Milk forms eighty percent of the ingredients and the rest may be sheer magic, but it's magic that brings lovely results!

For ladybirds or week-enders, the new "fly-away" kit, latest offering of the house that has given us such fine and lasting tooth-brushes, is a boon. It's equipped with eight grooming items, a hair-brush, complexion-brush (and tube of complexion-soap), a hand-brush, tooth-brush and tooth-powder, a clothes-brush and a neat little comb. The plaid outer covering is in red, blue and yellow tones; the lining is bright red and there's plenty of room to include your own cosmetics, your Pullman apparel and a gift for your hostess. Who could possibly want more?

A romantic, zooming pink and a brilliant, clear "flagship" red are the latest offering of a well-known nail-grooming maison. The pink goes smartly with the fall's blues, violet and wine shades; the red is for your browns, grays and bronze-toned greens. Both are beautiful!

A new idea in rouge is a tone for your cheeks that is so natural-looking you could undoubtedly fool your family physician. This new cheek-tone gives a delicate, lasting glow that brings unexpected life to your countenance and is unusually lasting. For career girls it is particularly appropriate and is most considerably priced.

Miss Viola Gleason, Des Moines, Iowa—MARY MARTIN was born in Weatherford, Texas, December 1, 1914. She stands five feet four inches tall, weighs 112 pounds. Mary has light-brown hair and brown eyes. Mary Martin made two attempts to crash Hollywood gates—but owes her fame to Broadway, where she brought down the house with her appearance in the stage production "Leave It to Me," when she won national prominence through her warbling of "My Heart Belongs to Daddy." She attended grade and high school in Weatherford, and then went to the Ward-Belmont School in Nashville, Tennessee. She climaxed her educational career by opening a singing and dancing school. Each summer she went to Hollywood, studied new routines at the film city schools, and in time she was conducting schools in Weatherford and two neighboring towns. Finally, Mary took a job at the Trocadero night-club, then left for New York where she finally won a role in "Leave It to Me." Her Broadway success led to Hollywood offers. But Mary refused to leave her role on the stage until Arthur Jacobson, Paramount talent scout, came along. Shortly afterwards Mary played in "The Great Victor Herbert" as the holder of a long-term contract. Her hobbies are fortune-telling and tennis. Mary is married to Richard Halliday. She has an eight-year-old son, Larry. His father is Ben J. Hageman, whom Miss Martin married when she was in her early teens.

Mrs. W. P. Bourden, Sr., Baton Rouge, La.—The cast of "Young Doctor Malone" follows: Dr. Jerry Malone, ALAN BUNCE; Ann Malone, ELIZABETH RELLER; Alice Hughes, NANCY COLEMAN; Robert Hughes, RICHARD COOGAN; Mrs. Jessie Hughes, ISABEL ELSON; Bun Dawson, TOMMY HUGHES; Mrs. Dawson, FRAN HALE; Bun's friend, FRANK BEALIN; Dr. Copp, RAY APPLEBY; Mira Dunham, JEAN COLBERT; Dr. Dunham, JAMES VAN DYKE; Veronica Ferral, HELENE DUMAS; Mr. Wright, M. MACALLISTER; Eddie Blomfield, BERNARD ZANVILLE; Doc Harrison, RICHARD BARROWS; Miss Burns, KATHARINE RAHT; Mrs. Hughes' lawyer, Wm. PODMORE. . . In real life Ann (Elizabeth Reller) and Jerry (Alan Bunce) are not man and wife.

Miss Laurette Miller, Philadelphia, Pa.—JIM AMECHE is married to a non-professional; they have a small son. No, Jim is not related to Les Tremayne.

Lucretia in "Against the Storm." Since "Story of Mary Marlin" comes from Chicago, Betty Lou Gerson now has this role. . . BETTY LOU GERSON is also the new Karen Adams Harding on "Woman in White," replacing Betty Ruth Smith. However, Betty Ruth may still be heard as Sylvia Gray in "Painted Dreams" . . . WALTER WICKER is not doing any radio assignments for any of the networks and has not been heard of in some time.

Mrs. L. B. Folk, Columbia, S. C.—The cast of "Man I Married" follows: Evelyn Waring, GERTRUDE WARNER; Adam Waring, CLAYTON COLLYER; Phineas T. Grant, SANTOS ORTEGA; Grandfather Grant, RIKEL KENT; Ella Hunt, FRANCES CARDIN; Mr. Hunt, FRED IRVING LEWIS; Teddy Hunt, JACKIE GRIMES; Florence Weston, BETTY WORTH; Mrs. Hempstead, FANNY MAY BALDRIDGE; Joe Billings, WALTER VAUGHN; Frank Flippin, ARNOLD MOSS; Shelly Martin, SPENCER BENTLEY; Aunt Matt; ETHEL OWEN; Ed Spalding, RAYMOND JOHNSON. . . MICHAEL FITZMAURICE portrays Jimmy Kent in "Myrt and Marge."

Miss Charlotte Mario, Gary, Ind.—HARRY GLENN COOL has been with Dick Jurgens since May, 1940. He has been singing since 1931, doing radio and band work in Minneapolis, St. Louis and Chicago. He does not play any musical instrument. Harry was born June 28, 1913, stands six feet four inches tall, weighs 185 pounds. He has brown eyes and hair. Harry is married, has one small daughter. He likes to play tennis and softball; his favorite dish is broiled steak.

Mr. D. Steck, Chicago, Ill.—ELISSA LANDI was born in Venice, Italy, of Austrian parents (mother, Countess Zanardi-Landi). Today Elissa is an American citizen. During her short lifetime she has lived in such diverse places as Canada, Great Britain, France, Germany, Greece and Turkey, as well as in the United States and Italy. She entered the theater to get material for a book, but landed in a starring role four months after she made her stage debut in London. She did succeed as an author as well as an actress, however, and has written a number of novels as well as a great many poems and short stories. Miss Landi speaks four languages, and has appeared in movies in all of them. She first went in front of the cameras in Paris in 1930. The following year she came to this country, and among her most successful Hollywood pictures have been "The Yellow Ticket," "The Sign of the Cross," "The Masquerader," "By Candlelight," "The Count of Monte Cristo," "Enter Madame," "The Warrior's Husband," "The Amateur Gentleman," and "After the Thin Man." Her first Broadway appearance was late in 1931 as Catherine in Hemingway's "Farewell to Arms." In 1934 she was seen with Melvyn Douglas in "Tapestry in Gray." Three years later she was starred in "The Lady Has a Heart." Miss Landi studied singing and has a mezzo-soprano voice.

VOICE OF THE LISTENER

Express your opinions. Write V. O. L., 731 Plymouth Court, Chicago, Ill.

Hand for "Other" Kids

Dear V. O. L.: Being an ardent fan of the "Quiz Kids" program, I noticed in Reader's Digest an article saying that the newcomers on the program go down one-two-three against such virtuosos as Cynthia, Van and Gerard.

Now I think that this article must be a crushing blow to the pride of Jack Beckman, who took the count after appearances, and Geraldine Hamburg and Jackie Lucal, who have appeared a number of times. Somehow I feel that these children are bucking something other than just plain competition, and I'm asking you to give them a bit of encouragement. Mrs. Frank P. Ishmael, Chicago, Ill.

Facts, Not Fear

Dear V. O. L.: I wish to compliment newscaster Earl Godwin for his sane, cool manner of giving listeners the latest in world happenings.

There is entirely too much hysteria and propaganda being circulated to trap the unwary in various channels of communication, so even if the actual truth of the war is even more terrible than it was twenty-five years ago, we can thank goodness for the lesson we have learned—getting the facts instead, as dictators would have it, of being stampeded by fear and ignorance.

Mary A. Ball, Torrington, Conn.

Long-Note Epidemic

Dear V. O. L.: Can't you do something to stop what seems to be an epidemic? I refer to the practise of vocalists in drawing out the notes of a song and holding them twice as long as the composer intended. This practise certainly does not make more enjoyable the music of Friml, Romberg, Herbert and others. S. R. Leon, San Francisco, Calif.

Complete
Does away with Aerial entirely
Just place an F & H Capacity Aerial Eliminator (size 1 1/2 in. x 4 in.) behind your set. Simple instructions furnished with unit. Really connected by screws to aerial and ground of set. Your radio will then operate and tune in the same manner as if it were connected to an aerial. Operates on both short and long waves.

WHAT USERS SAY
"I received your Radio Aerial Eliminator and it sure works fine. Also works swell on Short Wave band. Wish I had found it long ago." Signed: [Name]

DISCARD YOUR OLD AERIAL
It is Most Likely Corroded and Has Four or Loose Noisy Connections
No MORE BUZZES, CLICKS and shorts from summer rains and winter snow and sleet when using an F & H Capacity Aerial Eliminator. Anyone can connect it in a godden's time to the radio set—occupies only 1 1/2 inch x 4 inch space behind the set, yet enables your radio to operate without an aerial and tune in stations over the entire broadcast band frequencies and short wave channels.
ELIMINATE THE AERIAL FOR GOOD
Attach this unit to your radio—make your set complete in itself—forget aerial wires and troubles—move your set anywhere—no more roof climbing, unsightly lead-in or aerial wires.

NOT NEW—VALUE ALREADY PROVED
On the market five years. 100,000 customers in U.S. and foreign countries. In use from the Arctic Region of Norway to the Tropics of Africa. Each factory tested on actual long distance reception. Covered ham set—Really connected to any radio, including radios having no ground or radio for double aerial. Note: It will not operate on battery or automobile radios.

and come home and recite all the speeches the actors make word for word, although he's only ten years old.

Suzanne Foster, the singing starlet, and Cordell Hickman (the little Negro youngster who appeared in "The Biscuit Eater") are in school with Betty at Paramount. She likes them, too.

Betty's idea of a real good time is to get Ilene and Sunny and "Pootsie" and "Dink" and go down to the corner drug store for a soda. They play the jukebox and listen to that, picking up harmony "breaks" and "hot licks."

They talk politics, too. They're all Democrats per se. If not good party members exactly, at least they're for the President. Betty says she doesn't read much and neither does her gang, outside of "Dink," but they listen to the radio and learn a lot from the speeches. She thinks the radio is more reliable than the newspapers.

Betty's favorite expression is "Okay, pal." She shakes hands with a grip that would be paralyzing if she were stronger. Right now she is highly elated because she's doing better in her arithmetic, because that's her hardest subject. She also likes spelling and English and drawing. She's concentrating on her drawing so that she'd "have that to fall back on in case her option wasn't taken up and she'd have to hunt another job."

At the preview of Deanna Durbin's "Spring Parade," a newspaperman spotted her standing, unrecognized, among the crowd which had gathered to watch the celebrities walk in. She had tickets to the performance, since Mitchell Hamilburg, who also represents Deanna Durbin and Gloria Jean, now handles all of Betty's business affairs.

Asked why she stood in the crowd like that, she replied that she was watching for Deanna Durbin to go in. Then, impulsively:

"Isn't she beautiful?"

She didn't know that had she rolled up in front of the theater in a limousine and walked through the brilliantly lighted foyer that the crowd would have applauded her.

"I thought the picture was swell," said Betty. "Gosh, Deanna sure is beautiful."

Betty's own private cross (although it is one of her most attractive features) is her pug nose. She thinks it's too large, calls it a "Pinocchio" nose.

There isn't a person who has worked with Betty at Paramount who isn't one hundred percent for her. That goes all the way from her co-workers in pictures through Miss Smith, who made a cross-country trip with her, and into the publicity department, where, to a man, they're her devoted slaves.

The publicity boys like to tell about how they talked Betty into having her tonsils removed, although she balked like a steer for a while. And how Claudette Colbert heard about it and persuaded her famous husband, Dr. Joel Pressman, to do the operation. Then Betty thought her best friends had betrayed her, because her throat hurt and she couldn't swallow afterward!

Miss Smith will tell about the first two days they were in New York and the switchboard operator calling them at eight o'clock and saying "Good morning." And how, the third day, Betty awakened and called the operator to say good morning to her!

And about Betty's return from appearing on a "We, the People" broadcast with a bouquet of roses that had been given her (the first bouquet she ever received). How she walked through the lobby, pulling flowers from the bouquet and sticking them in the buttonholes of the bell-boys!

How Betty, who is very frugal with money, emptied her change-purse into a blind man's cup, in spite of a moderate protest on her part, then awakened in the middle of the night to mutter sleepily, "He was really blind, Miss Smith, that man I gave the money to. He had glasses on, but I saw his eyes. It was all right to give him the money. He was really blind, all right."

So now, Miss Betty Brewer, I'm going to answer that question you asked when we lunched together in Hollywood. Remember, you said, "If my option isn't picked up, do you think any of these people who are posing as my friends, would they speak to me?"

They would, child, they would. Because if they didn't, they'd be the losers! From your past experience with the way people are, that sounds reasonable, doesn't it?

Truly the most outstanding offer I have given my customers in years! Only because of an exceptional purchase direct from the Underwood representatives can I sell these late Underwood Rebuilt machines at the sensationally low price of only $34.85 cash or on my easy-term price of only 70c a week. Under my personal supervision every machine has been carefully gone over and refinished so that its luster and bright shiny nickel give it the appearance of a brand new machine costing three times as much. The manufacturer's original selling price on this typewriter was $125.00. Your machine is delivered to you in the Underwood packing box with the Underwood book of instructions on the care and operation of the typewriter.

A NOISELESS MACHINE!

The latest achievement in typewriters! A machine that provides writing perfection with SILENCE. A typewriter for those who appreciate the advantages of a quiet home or office, because this Underwood's Noiseless mechanism eliminates the nerve shattering clatter common to many models. An unquestionable aid to better work because it allows clear thinking, reduces fatigue, and improves accuracy. The Underwood Noiseless disturbs no one, for it is almost impossible to hear it operate a few feet away. You get all the famous features of an Underwood PLUS Noiseless typing.

FIRST CHOICE of TYPISTS

Over 5,000,000 Underwoods are now in use—a typewriter recognized as the finest, strongest built. Think of this value! A world famous office size Underwood with late modern features that give you Silent Typing. Has all standard equipment—84 characters, two colors, back spacer, automatic reverse, tabulator, shift lock, etc. A perfect, all purpose typewriter that will stand hard, long service. Remember it's fully guaranteed and backed by my 30 years of Fair Dealing. THERE IS NO RISK! YOU SEE BEFORE YOU BUY ON MY TEN DAY NO OBLIGATION TRIAL PLAN. If you wish, send the machine back at my expense. If you keep it, send me as little as 70c a week until easy term price is paid.

WIDE 14" CARRIAGE MODELS

If your work calls for a wider carriage machine, used in making government reports, large office forms, billing purposes, etc., don't overlook this tremendous value. I will send you a rebuilt Underwood Noiseless with wide 14" carriage for only $3.00 extra with order. This machine takes paper 14 inches wide and has a 12 inch writing line. The standard carriage takes paper 10 inches wide and has an 8 1/2 inch writing line. (See coupon.)
