TROPHY-WINNER Loretta Young was named Pan-American Girl of 1942 as token of her popularity among Pan-American countries friends their third child is due in August.

Jean Ames has announced her intention of marrying oilman Paul Ellis, now serving in Uncle Sam's signal corps, while the Victor Matures and the Clark Andrews (she's Claire Trevor) are still living apart. Ditto the Ann Sothern-Roger Pryors, and it looks permanent, as Ann is knitting sweaters for Bob Sterling and Pryor is giving the rush to Mona Maris.

Rom-Antics of the screen folk during the fortnight included Nancy Kelly being beamed again by Irving Cummings, Jr., a romance that almost jelled to marriage before Nancy and Edmond O'Brien eloped . . . Ginny Simms is getting about with the aid of both Bruce Gear and Bill Lundigan, and Anne Shirley, who recently divorced John Payne, is seeing New York on the arm of wealthy Alexis Thompson . . . Dorothy Lamour's ex-boy friend and the ex-B. F. of Lana Turner, Margaret Roach and others, meaning Greg Bautzer, has found the dancing of Carol Bruce to his liking, and Eddie Norris has taken up steadily with Eleanor Lawson.

Odds and Ends: We told you how good "What's Cookin'?" is—and Universal agreed, it seems; result—five people have won contracts because of their work in it. They are Grace MacDonald, Peggy Ryan, Bob Shearer, Donald O'Connor, and the funny little girl known as Tag-A-Long . . . Deanna Durbin is back home from her Army camp entertainment swing and ready to work again . . . Seven Chinese actors are helping Warner Bros. to make "Across the Pacific"; six of them play Jap spies, and the seventh, the technical director, Warner Bros. will first learn when they read this, is partly of Japanese blood—with Chinese predominating, however! . . .

RAY MILLAND and Paulette Goddard in a scene from "Reap the Wild Wind," a picture portraying piratical days in Florida

MOVIE REVIEWS

"Reap the Wild Wind"

Cast: Ray Milland, John Wayne, Paulette Goddard, Raymond Massey, Robert Preston, Susan Hayward, Lynne Overman, Walter Hampden, et al. A Paramount Technicolor production, directed and produced by Cecil B. DeMille, from magazine story by Thelma Strabel.

Type of Picture: "Reap the Wild Wind" is a colorful adventure-and-fight-saturated historic drama of America's fight to rid the Florida Keys of piratical wreckers who preyed on a principal U. S. merchant-marine trade route a century ago, before the railroad era, when only sailing-ship lanes linked the commercial Atlantic Coast port towns with the rich, fertile Mississippi Valley.

This Is the Story: Steve Tolliver (Ray Milland) and Captain Jack Martin (John Wayne) vie for the hand of Paulette Goddard, while Dan Cutler (Bob Preston), in league with the wreckers headed by his brother, King (Raymond Massey), courts Drusilla Alston (Susan Hayward), whose loss on a wrecked ship, as indicated by a shawl found in the wreckage, causes Dan to turn on King and put an end to the wrecking-ring. But it is not alone the romantic threads of this tight and fast-moving action story, but the unusual color photography, the seascapes, under-water scenes, the costumes and parties, that make this lavish picture one of the best—perhaps the climax of Cecil B. DeMille's thirty years in pictures. (See photograph, page 2.)

Verdict: A five-V picture. Family.

"Rio Rita"

Cast: Abbott and Costello, Kathryn Grayson, John Carroll, Patricia Dane and support. An M-G-M picture produced by Pandro Berman and directed by S. Sylvan Simon. A revised version of "Rio Rita" with accent on comedy.

The Story: After all, the plot of any picture isn't important with Abbott and Costello around to make you forget it. Kathryn Grayson is wooed by the female-pursued Ricardo Montera (Carroll), she spurns him, then wins him. (Plot A.) The while A & C are gumming up Nazi spy efforts to misuse Ricardo's broadcast program for the communication of information.

Verdict: One of Abbott and Costello's best. Take the family.

WASHINGTON

By LT. COL. CURTIS MITCHELL

They are telling an amusing story about Washington which indicates how difficult it is to get living-quarters here. A newly arrived gentleman was walking along the Potomac River bank when he heard a loud splash. He ran to the water and saw a widening circle of ripples. Presently a wet and sputtering head emerged.

"What is your name?" the man on the bank screamed.

"Joe Atkins," the fellow in the river replied, and he went under the second time.

The man on the bank waited until the drowning man came up again. "Where do you live?" he cried.

"At 1616 Sixteenth Street," was the answer.

The newcomer ran down to the street and caught a cab to that address. "Does Joe Atkins live here?" he demanded on arrival.

"Yes."

"I want his apartment," he cried. "He has just drowned."

"Sorry," said the clerk, "I've just rented it to the fellow who pushed him in" . . .

Conditions are almost that bad. I know of one Army officer who bought a trailer and set it up at the edge of town. Others are joining him and soon there may be an Army colony.

Speaking of trailers always reminds me of Cornelius Vanderbilt, Jr., who probably has the most luxurious trailer in America. That trailer originally toured England at the time of the coronation of George VI. Since then it has been stored here in Washington. Vanderbilt came to town the other day to look it over. He has been a major in the Reserve Corps for years and will shortly come into the Army. He found that his former home is now a little seedy and cobwebby, but in it, of all things, was a brand-new, unused tire. The Vanderbilt trailer is still in storage. The tire isn't . . .

Despite some Congressional criticism, Walter Winchell's support of the Navy relief benefit in Madison Square Garden brought in about $200,000. Now that the benefit is over, he is continuing his work for another worthy cause. This time it is Army emergency relief. Last week, I sat in Mike Jacobs' office and saw a check Walter had given to Joe Louis. It was to purchase seats for soldiers so that they might watch Joe defend his championship against Abe Simon on March 27. The check was for $5,000 . . .

Frank Capra, now a major in the Special Services Branch of the War Department, has a new job. It is to make pictures which will tell our soldiers, both old and new, how the totalitarian march of aggression finally engulfed America and what our stake is in this war. It all started several months ago when an orientation course for soldiers was started by Chief of Staff General George C. Marshall. Fifteen lectures were written which were sent to officers throughout the Army. Those lectures were then used as the basis for dis-

lectures into celluloid, with Hollywood stars reading the lines and genuine documentary film to show the events discussed. When he is through, every American soldier will understand clearly how we were forced into war and how our personal and national security depends upon the

much lately. Are we drifting into a critical back-biting era wherein our whole national energy is devoted to finding fault? Supporting evidence is to be found in newspaper columns and on some radio programs. Turn where you will, it is easy to find advocates of the "everything is wrong" school.

Perhaps Washington, D. C., is more sensitive to such criticism than other cities, or perhaps my being here makes me more keenly aware of criticism directed at our Commander in Chief, at our cabinet officers, at our military officers. Of all the people in the news today, only valorous General MacArthur is without censure.

Surely in our vast war effort, we have accomplished some small miracles. Some of our planes must be superb, some of our governmental activities must be laudable, and certain of our citizenry must be honorable and able.

Criticism serves a noble purpose. We must have it at all times and it must etch out whatever rottenness there is; but let not all of our energy be so expended. We are a great people with accomplishments so huge that only men living beyond the oceans can properly measure their size. Let us speak of our good deeds and our merit also. Let us give credit to those leaders who are worthy.

NEW YORK

Cecil Brown should be setting his weary feet on United States soil about this time. Undoubtedly our number one radio reporter, Mr. Brown threatens to make his fellow CBS newsman, William Shirer, look to his laurels. Brown already has been commissioned by a publisher to write an account of his harrowing experiences. The book may be another "Berlin Diary" . . .

This would have been the fifth year of the annual WOR-Mutual broadcast by Dave Driscoll and celebrities of the stage and radio fields from atop a coach and four on Easter Sunday. But the custom has been suspended "until the job has been done" . . .

Before the Jap war on us, Yoichi Hiraoka was a favorite NBC xylophonist. Then he was denied broadcast facilities. It was a matter of policy. Since then, many of Mr. Hiraoka's friends—influential and respected persons—including New York's Mayor LaGuardia, have tried to have him reinstated. But the network officials will not relent . . .

An easy way for Hollywood's greatest Thespians to make some quick money is to take a trip to New York—and line up some broadcasts. This isn't so difficult. Presently, there are as many programs using guests who are popular with cinema followers as there ever have been. And New York has more than its share . . .

cussions. The plan was a success but certain problems cropped up. In some camps, the lectures were delivered by radio; in others, to small groups of soldiers. Some units heard one thing and some another.

Major Capra has an answer to all those problems. He will turn those

This thought has been in my mind

TENDERFOOT Kay Kyser is welcomed by Lorraine Miller, one of Valley of the Sun hostesses, when Kay visited Luke Field, Arizona

At a reception on the sixty-seventh floor of the RCA Building in New York a week before the "Ontario Show" premiere, Nancy Douglas, the featured singer of the program, was introduced by—yes, we'll say it too—lovely Madeleine Carroll. Miss Carroll's protegee, a well-poised, charming young lady of eighteen, sang for those present. She made quite an impression. Listen to her on the "Ontario Show" Friday night on the Blue Network . . .

It was a Thursday night when New York's "Mad Dog Killers," the Espo-sito brothers, were executed. The following evening, "Gang Busters" was devoted to the despicable careers of these killers. Writers and producers of the dramatizations are deserving of much acclaim for doing a hurry-up, absorbing job . . .

Could it have been someone's sense of humor that prompted him to address a letter to President Roosevelt as follows: "President Roosevelt, care of Station WABC, New York. Speech Department"? In our opinion it just about tops the one which is regarded as a classic in radio: "To the Station to Which You Are Listening, New York."

HOLLYWOOD

By GLEN ANDERSON

Kay Kyser, now in the East for a turn of the nation's Army camps, is scheduled for broadcasts from New York City until April 22, when he goes on the air from Chicago, and April 29 from Raleigh, N. C., his home state, and accompanying the "Professor" is a new girl singer—Julie Sherwin, ex-Northwestern University co-ed. Kay "discovered" Julie singing in the cast of the Hollywood stage musical comedy "They Can't Get You Down" and added her to his femme contingent, which already boasts Trudy Erwin and Dorothy Dunn. The latter brunette beauty, by the way, will celebrate her birthday (don't ask me which!) on May 2, right along with Bing Crosby. Speaking of Kyser, word comes from Ginny Simms' new San Fernando Valley ranch that Ginny, an equestrienne of three months' schooling, is now taking up trick riding—so you may expect to see her as a female Cisco Kid most any minute! . . .

vice boys agree, and the Army is not now fighting the Japs but is staging an intramural imbroglio for tickets to "Your Blind Date." Sample line-up of talent on the show series, which will be heard transcontinentally soon, was that of March 12, which included Connie Haines, ex-soloist with Tommy Dorsey, music by Eudice and her femme Melodates, guests Lucille Ball and Tizzie Lish, and Miss Scully as mistress of ceremonies . . .

The Hollywood girls are remembering the service lads in another way, too. With character actress Verna Felton (remember her on the Benny 1940 fall series as Dennis Day's "mother"?) as their chief, they have formed the Radio Women's War Relief for the express purpose of "taking care of their own" men, the radio lads now in uniform. The group, now numbering sixty-five, meets each Friday evening and, in response to postcard queries and answers to the soldiers and sailors as to their specific needs, prepare and pack boxes to be shipped the next day. Lurene Tuttle (the niece Marjorie on "The Great Gildersleeve"), stepmother of an air cadet, already has packed a dozen gift boxes off to former radio men at war. Her boxes each contain a sweater, several pairs of socks, a tin of homemade cookies, three candy bars, seven packages of cigarettes of assorted brands, stationery and two decks of cards . . .

News flashes: Gracie Allen was rumored dead to the news services last fortnight, but a check-up revealed the comedienne merely in a repose from glandular injections, and not even seriously ill. Her comment was "Me dead? I should say not! Or am I?" . . . Poor Bill Gargan. He became Captain Flagg in "Captain Flagg and Sergeant Quirt," and then the Navy wanted the captain made into a more serious, sober gent, as no Marine officer would conduct himself in such mien. Result: Flagg goes to active duty, and Bill loses his radio job!

Speaking of trips, the Jack Benny company is busy at the task of touring the Army and Navy bases, too, and will swing east also before long. How the Benny troupe tours is an interesting sidelight. Each member, almost, has his or her favorite vehicle. Jack and Mary go by train, their writers Bill Morrow and Eddie Beloin fly and write as they soar, Phil Harris and his musicians go by special bus, and Rochester follows in his de luxe station wagon—no old Maxwell, please note . . . All of which reminds that Jack's next screen effort will be "George Washington Slept Here," to be made on the Warner lot . . .

It was to purchase seats for soldiers so that they might watch Joe defend his championship against Abe Simon on March 27. The check was for $5,000 . . .

Frank Capra, now a major in the Special Services Branch of the War Department, has a new job. It is to make pictures which will tell our soldiers, both old and new, how the totalitarian march of aggression finally engulfed America and what our stake is in this war. It all started several months ago when an orientation course for soldiers was started by Chief of Staff General George C. Marshall. Fifteen lectures were written which were sent to officers throughout the Army. Those lectures were then used as the basis for dis-

lectures into celluloid, with Hollywood stars reading the lines and genuine documentary film to show the events discussed. When he is through, every American soldier will understand clearly how we were forced into war and how our personal and national security depends upon the

much lately. Are we drifting into a critical back-biting era wherein our whole national energy is devoted to finding fault? Supporting evidence is to be found in newspaper columns and on some radio programs. Turn where you will, it is easy to find advocates of the "everything is wrong" school.

Perhaps Washington, D. C., is more sensitive to such criticism than other cities, or perhaps my being here makes me more keenly aware of criticism directed at our Commander in Chief, at our cabinet officers, at our military officers. Of all the people in the news today, only valorous General MacArthur is without censure.

Surely in our vast war effort, we have accomplished some small miracles. Some of our planes must be superb, some of our governmental activities must be laudable, and certain of our citizenry must be honorable and able.

Criticism serves a noble purpose. We must have it at all times and it must etch out whatever rottenness there is; but let not all of our energy be so expended. We are a great people with accomplishments so huge that only men living beyond the oceans can properly measure their size. Let us speak of our good deeds and our merit also. Let us give credit to those leaders who are worthy.

Cecil Brown should be setting his weary feet on United States soil about this time. Undoubtedly our number one radio reporter, Mr. Brown threatens to make his fellow CBS newsmen, William Shirer, look to his laurels. Brown already has been commissioned by a publisher to write an account of his harrowing experiences. The book may be another "Berlin Diary" . . .

This would have been the fifth year of the annual WOR-Mutual broadcast by Dave Driscoll and celebrities of the stage and radio fields from atop a coach and four on Easter Sunday. But the custom has been suspended "until the job has been done" . . .

Before the Jap war on us, Yoichi Hiraoka was a favorite NBC xylophonist. Then he was denied broadcast facilities. It was a matter of policy. Since then, many of Mr. Hiraoka's friends—influential and respected persons—including New York's Mayor LaGuardia, have tried to have him reinstated. But the network officials will not relent . . .

An easy way for Hollywood's greatest Thespians to make some quick money is to take a trip to New York—and line up some broadcasts. This isn't so difficult. Presently, there are as many programs using guests who are popular with cinema followers as there ever have been. And New York has more than its share . . .

Major Capra has an answer to all those problems. He will turn those

At a reception on the sixty-seventh floor of the RCA Building in New York a week before the "Ontario Show" premiere, Nancy Douglas, the featured singer of the program, was introduced by—yes, we'll say it too—lovely Madeleine Carroll. Miss Carroll's protegee, a well-poised, charming young lady of eighteen, sang for those present. She made quite an impression. Listen to her on the "Ontario Show" Friday night on the Blue Network . . .

It was a Thursday night when New York's "Mad Dog Killers," the Espo-sito brothers, were executed. The following evening, "Gang Busters" was devoted to the despicable careers of these killers. Could it have been someone's sense of humor that prompted him to address a letter to President Roosevelt as follows: "President Roosevelt, care of Station WABC, New York. Speech Department"? In our opinion it just about tops the one which is regarded as a classic in radio: "To the Station to Which You Are Listening, New York."

Kay Kyser, now in the East for a turn of the nation's Army camps, is scheduled for broadcasts from New York City until April 22, when he goes on the air from Chicago, and April 29 from Raleigh, N. C., his home state, and accompanying the "Professor" is a new girl singer—Julie Sherwin, ex-Northwestern University co-ed. Kay "discovered" Julie singing in the cast of the Hollywood stage musical-comedy "They Can't Get You Down" and added her to his femme contingent, which already boasts Trudy Erwin and Dorothy Dunn. The latter brunette beauty, by the way, will celebrate her birthday (don't ask me which!) on May 2, right along with Bing Crosby. Speaking of Kyser, word comes from Ginny Simms' new San Fernando Valley ranch that Ginny, an equestrienne of three months' schooling, is now taking up trick riding—so you may expect to see her as a female Cisco Kid most any minute! . . .

What promises to be the real thing so far as service men and radio programs are concerned is Frances ("Speaking of Glamour") Scully's new Blue Network "Your Blind Date" all-girl program, which she, as m.c., launched over Pacific Coast stations March 5. That, in the words of one sawed-off little sergeant, is "for me!" The rest of the service boys agree, and the Army is now fighting the Japs but is staging an intramural imbroglio for tickets to "Your Blind Date." Sample line-up of talent on the show series, which will be heard transcontinentally soon, was that of March 12, which included Connie Haines, ex-soloist with Tommy Dorsey, music by Eudice and her femme Melodates, guests Lucille Ball and Tizzie Lish, and Miss Scully as mistress of ceremonies . . .

The Hollywood girls are remembering the service lads in another way, too. With character actress Verna Felton (remember her on the Benny 1940 fall series as Dennis Day's "mother"?) as their chief, they have formed the Radio Women's War Relief for the express purpose of "taking care of their own" men, the radio lads now in uniform. The group, now numbering sixty-five, meets each Friday evening and, in response to postcard queries and answers to the soldiers and sailors as to their specific needs, prepare and pack boxes to be shipped the next day. Lurene Tuttle (the niece Marjorie on "The Great Gildersleeve"), stepmother of an air cadet, already has packed a dozen gift boxes off to former radio men at war. Her boxes each contain a sweater, several pairs of socks, a tin of homemade cookies, three candy bars, seven packages of cigarettes of assorted brands, stationery and two decks of cards . . .

News flashes: Gracie Allen was rumored dead to the news services last fortnight, but a check-up revealed the comedienne merely in a repose from glandular injections, and not even seriously ill. Her comment was "Me dead? I should say not! Or am I?" . . . Poor Bill Gargan. He became Captain Flagg in "Captain Flagg and Sergeant Quirt," and then the Navy wanted the captain made into a more serious, sober gent, as no Marine officer would conduct himself in such mien. Result: Flagg goes to active duty, and Bill loses his radio job!

"Columbia Workshop" to Present Randall Thompson's One-Act Opera, "Solomon and Balkis," Sunday; Philharmonic to Air All-Tschaikowsky Program Sunday

By ROBERT BAGAR

New York World-Telegram Music Expert and Associate Program Annotator for New York Philharmonic Society

INCREASINGLY, composers are becoming aware of the power and the importance of radio as an agency for the furtherance of new music, and specifically American music or, if you like, music by Americans. Undoubtedly the radio's magnificent scope, its intimate connection with the lives of countless listeners, will some day prove a potent factor in the molding of musical idioms and forms, and the experimental ventures going on now may well prove to be the foundations for entirely new art ideologies.

Under the joint sponsorship of the League of Composers and the Columbia Broadcasting System, a chamber opera, "Solomon and Balkis," by Randall Thompson, is given its premiere this week. The libretto is based on one of the tales, "The Butterfly That Stamped," from Rudyard Kipling's "Just So" stories. The text, of course, is in English, employing the Kipling lines for the most part. The work was commissioned with the specific idea of enlarging the repertory of brief operas for performances by colleges and other amateur groups.

Already many such organizations have declared their interest in the "Composers' Theater" plan, and, since many of these possess excellent producing units for the presentation of chamber opera, it can readily be seen that a major cultural project is well under way.

"Solomon and Balkis" has four dramatis personae in all, and it is reputedly easy to stage and produce. Mr. Thompson believes that the radio will bring about the end of the "precious school of composers." He feels that "music must now have a wide general appeal," which practically sounds the death knell of cultism. Moreover, he believes that if a composer is a good enough craftsman, he will write as well on order as he might under any other compulsion, inspiration or what.

Randall Thompson has pursued the callings of composer and pedagogue for a goodly number of years, achieving success in both. He has been an assistant professor of music at Wellesley College, a lecturer at Harvard, a professor of music and director of the University Chorus at the University of California, director of the Curtis Institute of Philadelphia, and he is now a member of the faculty at the University of Virginia. And as a composer he is known through two tone-poems, "Pierrot and Cothurnus" and "The Piper at the Gates of Dawn," a "Jazz Poem" for orchestra with piano solo, and two Symphonies. He has also put to his credit much choral music, which includes "The Peaceable Kingdom," "Rosemary," "Americana" and others. Most of the music written by him in the last ten years was commissioned.

The performance of "Solomon and Balkis" is under the direction of Howard Barlow, whose last association with Mr. Thompson took place in 1926, when Mr. Barlow was conducting at the Neighborhood Playhouse in New York City and Mr. Thompson orchestrated the music for the "Grand Street Follies," playing one of the two pianos in the pit, besides.

Incidentally, the first stage performances of "Solomon and Balkis" will be given at Lowell House, Harvard University, on April 14 and 15. The cast calls for a soprano, a contralto, a tenor and a bass, as well as a women's chorus and chamber orchestra.

(Randall Thompson's one-act opera, "Solomon and Balkis," with Howard Barlow conducting, will be broadcast by the "Columbia Workshop" over CBS Sunday.)

All-Tschaikowsky

Worlds can go awry, but the popularity of Tschaikowsky's music grows and grows amazingly. The Philharmonic-Symphony Society is scarcely the type of organization not to have its fingers on the public pulse. In fact, in its long history it has even done a good bit to create musical fads and fancies, so that serving Tschaikowsky's music when Tschaikowsky is riding high is right in line with its policy.

The concert-master of the orchestra, Mishel Piastro, is scheduled to play a solo part in the Violin Concerto, a role which is not exactly new to him. The work is now known and loved by most of us, that is, it will be until some fox-trot or boogie-woogie version of it gets in our hair, but history tells us that it didn't do well at all when it had its world premiere. Adolf Brodsky was the soloist at that performance, which took place in Vienna sixty-one years ago.

One critic, the vehement Hanslick, whose name was anathema to Wagner, wrote a vituperative notice that "rankled in Tschaikowsky's mind till the day of his death." The article was lengthy and venomous, and the late Philip Hale translated some of its salient features thus:

"For a while the concerto has proportion, is musical, and is not without genius, but soon savagery gains the upper hand and lords it to the end of the first movement. The violin is no longer played; it is yanked about, torn asunder, it is beaten black and blue. I do not know whether it is possible for anyone to conquer these hair-raising difficulties, but I do know that Mr. Brodsky martyred his hearers as well as himself. The Adagio, with its tender melody, almost conciliates, almost wins us. But it breaks off abruptly to make way for a finale that puts us in the midst of the brutal and wretched jollity of a Russian kermess. We see wild and vulgar faces, we hear curses, we smell bad brandy. Friedrich Vischer once asserted in reference to lascivious paintings that there are pictures which 'stink in the eye.' Tschaikowsky's violin concerto brings to us for the first time the horrid idea that there may be music that stinks in the ear."

It seems almost sacrilegious to propagate even in irony such abusive, incomparably wrong judgments, but one can't help bringing them in, occasionally, for comparison with present-day attitudes. In any event, the case of the Tchaikowsky Violin Concerto has been decided by time and the generations. Nothing can harm it now but poor performance or, as sometimes happens, too many popularized performances.

(Mishel Piastro, concert-master of the New York Philharmonic Orchestra, will be heard playing a solo part in Tchaikowsky's Violin Concerto when that orchestra broadcasts Sunday over CBS.)

The National Anthem

In the spring of 1940, Frank Black, irritated no end by the hundred-and-one versions of "The Star-Spangled Banner," decided to make an orchestration of it himself. These fly-by-night, casual performances seemed almost disrespectful to a man who had been born in the shadow of Independence Hall, Philadelphia. When he did construct his orchestration, it turned out to be not a literal elaboration of the original music, or another text-book commentary on the piece, but as "the people have learned to sing it."

Arturo Toscanini liked the arrangement so much that he took it with him on the South American tour of the NBC Symphony. And not long ago, at a Treasury Hour Concert over the Blue Network, Mr. Toscanini opened his program with the Black arrangement of "The Star-Spangled Banner."

The New Recordings

One of the finest sets released by Victor in some time is that containing the performance of the Chausson Concerto in D Major for Violin, Piano and String Quartet. The artists concerned are Jascha Heifetz, Jesus Maria Sanroma and the Musical Art Quartet.

Victor offers another stellar attraction, to use a phrase, in the recording of Charles Martin Loeffler's "A Pagan Poem," which happens to be a "first" on Victor disks. The Eastman-Rochester Symphony, Irene Gedney, pianist, and Richard Swingly, English horn, all under the direction of Howard Hanson, combine to give this moody, mercurial composition a musicianly reading.

Les Hite's reflections on the subject of bandstands (major problems in the life of a busy bandleader) are printed herewith sans editing, they're that funny. Says Les: "My boys and I have divided bandstands into three classes. There's the Western Union bandstand, where the rhythm section is spread so far apart that they have to beat off the tempo by telegraph. Then there's the slave-ship bandstand, where you get five sax players into five square feet of space and the guitarist has to sit inside the bass fiddle, the trombone slides hit the back of the trumpeters' necks and they put the drums on top of the piano. And there's the echo-in-the-valley bandstand, where the acoustics are so bad that while you're playing the second chorus you can still hear what went on in the first."

"Of course," Hite concludes, "there's a fourth class—the custom-made bandstand, where everybody has room to sit and read the music in comfort and the sound quality is perfect and even the piano is in tune. But such bandstands are about as common as a hot chorus by Guy Lombardo!"

And we like what Walter Gross, one of our favorite pianists, has to say about boogie woogie: "Progress in jazz stopped for a whole year while false-alarms went wild about the ivory god, boogie woogie. Why, boogie woogie is nothing more than a mechanical trick with the left hand. Its relationship to music," he says, "is the same as the relationship between acrobatics and artistic dancing."

The Better Pop Records

We like immensely Victor album P-109, which features "Fats" Waller at the piano. His playing is magical, particularly in such items as "Rockin' Chair," "Georgia on My Mind" and "Tea for Two." The combination of Harry James' trumpet, the singing of Helen Forrest and the all-together playing of the musicians in the band makes "Skylark"—on Columbia 36533—one of the worth-while disks. Coupled with it is a jump item, "The Clipper," which calls for and gets the hot treatment, you can wager.

Don't miss Artie Shaw's performance of "Sometimes I Feel Like a Motherless Child," on Victor 27806, in an arrangement by Lennie Hayton.

Surprises for Our Yanks in Ulster; Transmissions of "Radio Kuibyshev"

By CHARLES A. MORRISON

President, International DX'ers Alliance

United We Stand

MORE than anything else, the Axis powers fear a United Front, for in union is strength, in disunion is weakness and defeat. Following this policy, the Nazi propagandists seek continually to sow the seeds of discord; to make us mistrust our allies; to make our allies suspicious of us. A good example of this Axis ambition was Goebbels' recent speech entitled, "Internal and External Disintegration of the British Empire," in which he tried to show that the British Empire is today only the dying embers of a once mighty union of nations; is a candle-stub whose flame is flickering low. To America the Nazi propagandists say, "Why don't you cut yourself off from this water-logged British craft before you sink with it?" But to Britain the story is entirely different, "You are not being defeated so much by the Axis as you are by Franklin Delano Roosevelt," but to the United States, Berlin says, "The Lease-Lend Bill is just another way to dig money out of the American people." To South Africa the Nazi broadcasters scream, "Your only hope to save yourself from the collapse of the British Empire is to withdraw now." Japan openly threatens Australia as Togo states that Australia must be convinced that it is impossible for it to save itself from Japan. To resist means a fate such as befell Singapore, Hong Kong and the Dutch East Indies.

Do not be surprised at anything the Axis broadcasters may say; rather ask yourself WHY they are saying these things. If the Axis propagandists can make us fight among ourselves, can split the impregnable moral front of the United Nations, we are defeated. United we stand. Divided we fall.

The WRUL Radio Code School is now being heard Monday nights from 7:00 to 8:00 p.m. EWT on 6.04, 9.70 and 11.73 megs. A brand-new course for beginners has just started, and those wishing to enroll may do so if they send $1.50 at once to instructor Bill Chamberlain, World Wide Broadcasting Foundation, 133 Commonwealth Ave., Boston, Mass. This fee includes booklets and text-books to accompany the air course. This Radio Code School of the Air has been responsible for training thousands of students in code instruction, and with radio operators as greatly in demand for military and civilian defense as they are today it is a vital service.

Counter-Propaganda Offensive

The offensive of the airwaves by America and the United Nations, directed specifically against the Axis, was launched on March 15 by NBC cooperating with the U. S. Office of the Coordinator of Information. The program "United America Speaks" features a series of speeches by representatives of the ten American nations which form part of the United Nations front in the struggle against the Axis. It is broadcast in Spanish to Latin America on Sundays and Wednesdays from 8:00 to 8:15 p.m. EWT over WRCA (9.67) and WBOS (11.87). In the program "United Nations Speak," representatives of all the twenty-six United Nations will speak on solidarity. This program will be broadcast in English on Mondays from 10:15 to 10:30 a.m. EWT over WRCA (15.15) and WBOS (15.15).

Two Easter programs, originating in New York's St. Patrick's Cathedral, will be short-waved for Latin-American listeners by NBC International. Maundy Thursday Mass is to be heard in entirety on April 2 at 9:30 p.m. EWT over WRCA (9.67) and WBOS (11.87). On Good Friday, the Tre Ore service will be recorded and broadcast by the International Division on Friday, April 3, over WRCA (9.67) and WBOS (11.87) at 8:00 p.m. EWT.

Surprises for Yanks in Ulster

"London Calling" says these things will surprise our troops in Ulster most. First of all, the number of donkeys; secondly, the shawls worn by the girls as well as the older women; thirdly, the delightful smell of peat. Then after that will come references to umbrellas, the lack of iced water, the lack of orange juice, the temporary lack of steaks, the English cigarettes (which they won't like), Irish stout, and Irish whisky (which they will like pretty soon if not immediately), the right-hand drive of motor cars and the left-side rule of the road and, of course, the blackout. If and when they come to London they will be surprised at the way people hurry up and down the escalators, the number of night-clubs, the inefficiency of barber shops and beauty parlors compared with New York and other big American cities, the number of buses, the superiority of our underground system compared with that of New York and, of course, the number of girls in attractive uniforms. . . . Incidentally, according to Axis propagandists our troops in Ireland are not to be considered of much importance; they are recruits, not seasoned soldiers. Too bad, isn't it! I reckon Goebbels has never heard of MacArthur and his "recruits."

A. E. F. to Hear From U. S.

American soldiers in the four corners of the earth and our sailors and marines on the high seas soon will hear their favorite radio programs, just as their folks at home do. Official Washington has given enthusiastic support to the plan whereby the programs of Al Pearce, Fibber McGee and Molly, "National Barn Dance," Tallulah Bankhead, Milton Berle, Jack Benny, the "Aldrich Family," Burns and Allen, Ellery Queen, Bill Stern and a number of others will be beamed to five continents. These programs will be transmitted over the three powerful 50,000-watt transmitters of the National Broadcasting Company and Westinghouse, namely WRCA and WNBI and WBOS.

News About the Stations

FROM THE PACIFIC AREA—VLW2 (9.615), Perth, is one of the best Australian outlets these mornings. It operates daily from 7:00 to 11:00 a.m. EWT, with news in English at 7:00 and 10:30 a.m. EWT. From 9:15 to 11:00 a.m. VLW2 joins with VLG2 (9.54) for the program to southeast Asia, broadcast in Dutch, French and English. The program for western North America, broadcast daily from 12:55 to 1:40 a.m. EWT, is now being carried by VLQ2 (11.87) and VLG3 (11.71) . . . India is looming ever more important on the war horizon. News bulletins in English are broadcast daily at 8:30 a.m. over VUD3 (9.59) and VUD4 (11.83), and at 10:30 p.m. EWT over the same Delhi stations . . . According to Hal Newell of Philadelphia, HSP5 (11.715), Bangkok, Thailand (Siam), is now broadcasting an additional daily transmission from 7:45 to 8:25 p.m. EWT. News in Japanese is given at 7:45; news in native Thai at 8:15 p.m. Just before close-down, six chime notes are sounded . . . Only the southern third of the Island of Sumatra has been occupied by the Japanese, according to the Dutch Purchasing Commission in New York. Since Medan lies near the eastern coast in the northern section of Sumatra there is a good chance that YDX (7.22), Medan, Sumatra, is still on the air. Watch for it between 7:00 a.m. and 12 noon EWT, also 11:30 p.m. to 3:00 a.m. EWT. After a four-day silence RCA Communications, Inc., re-established direct communications between the U. S. A. and the Dutch East Indies via Medan . . . KZRH (9.64), Manila, is being heard with fair signal strength but very poor modulation, making intelligibility very limited. An English news commentary is put on daily near 9:15 a.m., then follows a short musical interlude and more news bulletins at 9:35 a.m. The John Philip Sousa selection "Stars and Stripes Forever" ushers in the English period. Four chime notes are used occasionally as an identification signal . . . August Balbi of our Los Angeles, California, listening-post reports that XGRI (9.66), Shanghai, China, is still heard daily from 7:00 to 11:00 a.m., with news bulletins broadcast in English at 8:10 and 10:10 a.m. EWT.

EVERY FRIDAY NIGHT
10 O'CLOCK E. W. T.
THE BLUE NETWORK

The Radio Front

Fox, stopped long enough in Chicago to give six thousand-plus Miller-music fans a break. That's as many as could be crowded into the Civic Opera House for the two commercial broadcasts of March 12 and 13, though about five times that many requests for tickets came in. The broadcasts being only fifteen minutes in length, Glenn favored the clamorous, fidgety-footed spectators with an additional half-hour of the most-requested Miller offerings. The Friday the 13th broadcast marked Glenn's thirteenth anniversary in network broadcasting as trombonist and arranger with top orchestras. But he should worry about superstition. His own orchestra, only five years old, was virtually born with a gold trophy in its mouth, has won honors right and left, continues to do so . . .

Comedian Garry Moore, who travels over the country with his "Service With a Smile" program, was in Palm Beach, Fla., during a recent week-end. He thought he'd try his hand at landing a kingfish, so he rented rod and reel and went to work. One of his first casts brought results, but not the kind he expected. As the fly bait hit the water, a pelican dived for it, grabbed the hook and took off skyward. Garry knew, of course, it wasn't a fish. He knew also the poor pelican wouldn't get very far in life with a fishing-rod hanging from his under-slung lip. So he reeled. A little later he walked into his hotel and said to his wife, "Look, honey, what I caught! (Exhibiting the thirty-pound bird.) But you should have seen the U-boat and the four-motored bomber that got away!" Knowing some of the "incidents" that Garry has been connected with in the past, we've no cause to doubt the story . . .

In the hospital isn't the place to keep on working when you're sent there to rest. That's what commentator Clifton Utley's doctor told him—whereupon several hundred patients had to go back to their newspapers and the word-of-mouth grapevine for their news and analyses. Utley, who has been for some time getting up every morning at four o'clock for thirteen radio commentaries a week over NBC and WGN, was ordered into a Chicago hospital by his doctor for an urgent rest. No sooner done than the doc caught the commentator in bathrobe and slippers in the central control room of the hospital about to broadcast a news commentary over the P. A. system to the patients. So Utley took his rest in Key West, along with Mrs. Utley, who also has radio broadcasts as well as two sons and three French refugee children to keep her busy . . .

During World War I, Harold Townsend was one of a group of children from Manchester, England, chosen to sing before George V of Britain. The other day tenor Townsend of the "Contented Program" chorus folded up his music and signed with the U. S. Naval Reserve to serve in World War II. He came to America in 1920. His place is being filled by Dean Reed . . .

Charles Penman, British-born actor and production director (now being heard as Gerald on the "Dog House" show), follows the crucial fight in Burma with keen interest. He's a former officer in the Royal Navy and was reared in Rangoon . . . The "National Barn Dance" is entering its second decade with a record of over a million fans who have paid some $660,000 to witness the frolics in the Old Hayloft, which is in reality the Eighth Street Theater in downtown Chicago. A cross-section survey of a thousand visitors at two recent shows revealed fans present from 447 towns in thirty-four states, Canada and England . . . Owen Vinson, producer of "That Brewster Boy," is looking for an understudy for star Eddie Firestone, Jr.

GENERAL ENTERTAINMENT

By ARTHUR MILLER

This spring and coming summer—the first such seasons to be faced by an America at war—present a challenge to those who seek outdoor recreations.

Very few golf balls are being produced. Rubber bathing-suits may be a collector's item. So many accessories vital to the pursuance of the more common warm-weather pastimes have been placed on the priorities list that the future actions of sports enthusiasts will be watched keenly.

Attempts to substitute rubber tires with wood and other materials are regarded most skeptically. Pleasure trips in your car will of necessity be drastically limited—perhaps curtailed. Week-end jaunts to the sheltered lake, or mountains, or beach, may be considered well-nigh impossible by car.

This is war. Entertainment is important but nobody questions the urgency of doing everything to win the war. Card games, parlor games, walking, reading, listening to the radio and making interesting conversation appear to be the most practical methods of passing one's spare time. This is not the extent of avenues for spring and summer entertainment. There'll still be swimming and boating and baseball—and golf too—but wartime conditions have placed restrictions on them to some degree . . .

Paul Muni's lengthy absence from the screen is destined to continue if the new play, "Yesterday's Magic," in which he is starred, gets hit reviews when it comes to New York shortly after playing in New Haven, Conn., and Washington, D. C. . . .

Not for several years has any book about harness-racing been written in such masterful fashion as George Agnew Chamberlain's novel, "The Phantom Filly" (Bobbs-Merrill, $2). Mr. Chamberlain's characterization of Sparke Thornton, a lad who experiences the thrills of driving the horse he bred, merits much literary praise. "The Phantom Filly" is recommended as an introduction to a grand sport, or, if you already are familiar with the fundamentals of harness-racing, the book should be satisfying for the story itself.

VICTORY GARDENS are mighty worth-while projects—but they require much more thought and toil than "The Great Gildersleeve" (in real life Hal Peary) puts into his, as evidenced in

DON'T get the idea glasses are something to hide, to make inconspicuous. Too often this results in light-hidden-under-a-bushel effect as picture above illustrates

DO regard glasses as a part of yourself, personality and charm. Above: Same model as at left shows delightful change achieved by switching to "correct" glasses

Lasses and Glasses

IF YOU wear glasses and have been feeling sorry for yourself and your appearance, you can stop it right now. You don't have to feel that this is a very personal problem singular unto you. A recent survey has disclosed that six out of every ten women in the country wear glasses and five of these wear them all the time! "We are not alone!" This being the case, it's high time some attention be given to the problems of beauty which confront the ladies with lenses.

First, we must get over the idea that glasses are something to hide, to make as inconspicuous as possible, for too often this results in making the whole person inconspicuous, a light hidden under a bushel. Glasses should be regarded as a part of oneself, one's personality, one's charm. If you will just adopt this point of view, you can do a lot to make your whole self more attractive, glasses and all. You need never feel that you are faced with a handicap to beauty, but rather that you have one more accessory with which to work in planning your own beauty routine and rules.

There are special rules for make-up with glasses of which you should be aware and follow, just as there are special rules for every type of face. First, always wear mascara and eye-shadow, carefully applied and blended. It would even be smarter to stick to water-proof mascara, because on occasions when glasses steam up and become moist you need have no worry about smudging your lashes.

In choosing the shade of eye-shadow to use, you can be sure of a good effect with one that matches your eyes. Also, a neutral shade of gray is a safe choice for daytime, since it looks the most natural.

Keep your eyebrows plucked and well shaped. Whether or not you should define them with a pencil depends upon the heaviness of your brows and their length. Just remember that they should neither extend beyond the ends of your glasses' frames nor stop half-way. Frames which follow the general shape of your brows are the most flattering, for they avoid the "double line" impression.

ROUGE is a matter of personal preference. Like eye-shadow, it must be carefully blended, never blotchy. Where you place the rouge is governed by the shape of your face, not the fact that you wear glasses. If your face is long and narrow, place the rouge high and away from your nose. If your face is short, round, or wide, keep the rouge well centered under the cheek-bones. Be careful, however, not to have any sharp edges of color apparent, especially at the bottom of the frames.

By all means, wear lipstick! Paleness becomes pastiness when glasses are a part of your facial picture. Keep the lines of your mouth clear and un-

"Middle-Age" Women (38-52) YEARS OLD

HEED THIS ADVICE!

Watch Out For These Symptoms Which May Often Betray Your Age

Do you hate those trying years from 38 to 52—does this period in a woman's life make you get fretful, nervous, so tired, worn out, blue at times, perhaps suffer dizziness, headaches, backaches, hot flashes and distress of "irregularities"?

Then start at once, try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound—famous for helping relieve distress—due to this functional disturbance. Taken regularly, this remarkable medicine helps build up resistance against such annoying symptoms.

Pinkham's Compound has thus helped thousands upon thousands of women to go smiling thru trying "middle age". It's the best known medicine you can buy today—made especially for women. WELL WORTH TRYING!

Younger Women, Too!

Girls in their 'teens, 20's and 30's should also find Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound very beneficial to relieve pain and tired, weak, cranky, nervous feelings—due to functional monthly disturbances. Follow label directions.

Lydia E. Pinkham's VEGETABLE COMPOUND

smeared, carefully shaped with bright color. If you wear glasses with colored rims you can be extra smart with lipstick shades that blend with them. You can take your color cues from those prescribed for combination with colors in your wardrobes. For example, the makers of Pond's Lipstick give us an outline of just what shades go best with colors in your wardrobes. Carry this scheme a step further and consider your glasses' rims in choosing your lipstick. We give you some of the combinations suggested by Pond's. The names of the shades refer, of course, to Pond's own lipsticks.

Costume and Rim Color	Pond's "Lips" Color
Gold to Tomato	Honey
Ruby Red	Dark Secret
Coffee Brown	Honey
Emerald Green	Honey
Black	Rascal Red
Evening Pastels	Heart Throb

Because you want your glasses to stand out as an accessory and not blend in as part of you to blur the impression you yourself make, keep them from seeming to nestle in your hair. In other words, wear your coiffure away from your face, up and off your forehead, and keep your hair absolutely neat. Place those handy Grip-tuth Hair Retainers at strategic spots in your coiffure to keep every wisp exactly in place and steer clear of low bangs and flurries of side curls. Keep to the off-the-face principle in selecting your hats. Hats with dipping brims give you a "roofed" appearance which is very uncomely and hides your charm. Come right out and attract attention with your smile, the light in your eyes, and a "smart" face that everyone can see if you wear an off-the-face bonnet!

COOKING!

By GEORGIA SCOTT

Sugar-Coated Iron

← "VICTORY begins at home" is what Arthur Godfrey talks about on his CBS show designed to keep consumers informed on priorities, prices

LITTLE Joan Carroll, now to be seen in RKO's "Obliging Young Lady," has fun making peanut butter and molasses cookies. See recipe below

YOU don't have to use sugar from the bowl to satisfy your family's sweet tooth. And when I talk about things like molasses and honey and corn syrup, I don't mean that they should necessarily be considered as substitutes. Molasses, for instance, is a rich, iron-filled food in its own right and can do double duty in many recipes which call for sugar.

Sugar proper, as you know only too well by this time, is needed in the manufacture of alcohol, and alcohol, in turn, is used in making high explosives to be directed at you know whom. Besides that, imports from the Philippines and Hawaii have been curtailed. And finally, many women with the best intentions in the world—being selfish for their families—have hoarded sugar unnecessarily.

Arthur Godfrey's new program heard Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays on CBS, called "Victory Begins at Home," should be interesting to a lot of women these days, because Mr. Godfrey gets first-hand information from Mr. Leon Henderson's office in Washington on what's happening on the consumer front. In his first Victory broadcast, Mr. Godfrey had this to say on sugar hoarding: "Don't hoard it for any purpose. Not even for canning. The War Production Board says you'll be able to get what you need for canning when the canning season arrives. So don't hoard. Hoarding helps Hitler and Hirohito."

When you can get a mineral like iron, which builds red blood cells plus bone-building calcium in addition to sweetness, you've got more than plain sugar can give you. Do you remember that old-fashioned custom of serving molasses and sulphur in the spring-time? Fortunately, we don't have to take that combination now in order to get our iron, but that was the reason for it in the past—a person just didn't get enough mineral foods during the winter months in the old days.

Experiment with molasses in cakes and puddings and cookies; most recipes with molasses call for some sugar but you can proportion the amount according to your taste. The molasses snaps which Mary Lee Taylor of CBS' "Experimental Kitchen" recommends are very good and use the following ingredients (if you want more molasses, take it off the sugar side):

- 2½ cups all-purpose flour
- ½ cup sugar
- 2 teaspoons ginger
- ½ teaspoon salt
- ½ cup cold shortening
- ½ cup molasses
- ¼ cup irradiated milk

Sift the flour before measuring; re-sift with ginger, sugar and salt. Work shortening into the flour and mix it with the molasses and milk until the whole looks like pie-dough. Roll out on a lightly floured board to one-eighth-inch thickness. Cut the dough to whatever shape you desire and place on a greased baking-sheet, baking for twelve minutes in a 350-degree oven. This makes about six dozen cookies.

Another good old-fashioned cookie recipe with molasses, and one which a little girl like Joan Carroll can make with almost assured success, is as follows: Mix together in a large mixing-bowl one-fourth cup of soft butter with one-half cup of peanut butter. When well mixed add one-fourth cup of sugar, beating as you add. Next beat in one-fourth cup of molasses and then one egg. Now sift together onto a sheet of waxed paper three-fourths cup of flour, one-fourth teaspoon salt and the same of baking soda. Mix well. With your hands shape the dough into little balls. Place these balls on a greased cookie sheet about two inches apart. Flatten each ball with a fork, first dipped in cold water. Bake in a hot oven (400 degrees F.) six to eight minutes. This recipe makes about three dozen small patties.

Molasses, of course, is only one of the many foods that can serve us in two ways—as a source of sugar and as a source of mineral foods. Honey, which is delicious in tea, incidentally, has some iron in it and can be used to enhance many a pudding. Dried fruits like raisins, figs, apricots and prunes are rich in iron and make delightful desserts.

If you like, you can stick a nail in an apple and leave it overnight, which is the suggestion of one doctor for your daily iron ration, but we'd rather get our iron in another way.
