SAMMY KAYE Gives Up Skating

SAMMY KAYE gets first skating-lesson from expert Sonja Henie

KING of Sway and Swing, and conceded authority on the sort of music women like, Sammy Kaye, whose orchestra is making its feature-picture debut with Sonja Henie in the 20th Century-Fox film "Iceland," had a tough time trying to skate, finally gave it up as a bad job. Fact of the matter was, Sammy continued to fall—notwithstanding! Even the incomparable Henie, who offered to teach him the art, despaired. After that Jack Oakie and Osa Massen, also featured in the movie, attempted to give Sammy a whirl around the "Iceland" carnival rink set. But they failed, too. Said Sammy dolefully, "I'm giving up skating. From now on, I'll take my downbeats in swing and leave the skating in 'Iceland' to Sonja Henie."

WHEN La Henie gives up, chorines take over with the aid of a pillow

WORN out later, Sammy is soothed by music served to him in de luxe style

Editorially Speaking . . .

THIS week we pause in the round of concerns and duties of a world at war to pay tribute to a great player who possessed the priceless gift of bringing laughter to the airlines when it was most needed—John Barrymore. For on May 29, America's foremost actor took his last curtain call with these simple words to his brother Lionel: "It's a wonderful place, this world I'm leaving."

Veteran theatergoers who remember Barrymore in his prime as the greatest Shakespearian actor of his day, those who heard this prince of the American theater's royal family in unforgettable parts of Hamlet and Richard III, may have winced at his burlesque of former roles; yet we believe that it filled a definite need—a need for laughter in a sorely troubled world. Many actors of stage, screen and radio have the talent to make an audience cry; comparatively few have had the genius to make them laugh. Barrymore had both.

To those who felt so keenly the idea of Barrymore's being the butt of jokes on the Rudy Vallee radio show, where he was in rehearsal at the time he was stricken, we would quote: "Best men are molded out of faults, and, for the most, become much more the better for being a little bad."

Genius of the theater that he was, no actor ever excelled his ability to reflect the words of Shakespeare that "All the world's a stage, and all the men and women merely players. They have their exits and their entrances; and one man in his turn plays many parts."

That he never lost his great gift for serious drama was shown in the way he delivered scenes from Hamlet with Orson Welles on the Vallee program last year.

Everyone who listened to him as he and Welles rehearsed, sat spellbound at the beauty of his diction, the marvelous voice which had stirred the hearts of thousands of theatergoers in his 101 performances of "Hamlet" on the New York stage, and in such smash hits as "The Jest," "Peter Ibbetson" and "The Copperhead."

That was an experience and a privilege we shall never forget. For it left us with the thought that, perchance, should the shade of the Bard of Avon have wandered into the studio then, he would have said: "Here is one place where I find no old abusing of my patience and the King's English."—Ed.

John Barrymore, who answered his last curtain call in Hollywood on May 29

RED SKELTON HOPES DOOLITTLE DOOD IT AGAIN!

A JAP spy forwarding the paper shown above might report: "Not comprehend. Doolittle great hero. 'Dood it,' tag line of famous clown, Red Skelton. Maybe insult to General, I hope."

No, little man, that's no insult. The headline writer knew America, knew that the laughs that Red Skelton launches are part of the same American spirit that accounts for men like Doolittle and MacArthur. Red Skelton, the clown, wields a weapon that makes Americans fiercer fighters for freedom.

Red and his script-writing wife, Edna, are continually searching out lonely military posts that need entertainment. They dodge the big camps where the stars come often. You'll find the Skeltons out in the hills with the isolated anti-aircraft batteries and the tiny guard-camps far from towns.

Stages are often sand piles. Audiences may number less than twenty. Camp food is rough, and the back roads are rougher. But the Skeltons gladly give up comfort to carry laughter to far-flung outposts.

BOB HOPE

THE real truth about Bob Hope at home is that he isn't home enough!

There's not much time left after radio takes its share—rehearsal and preview on Sunday, rehearsal and broadcast on Tuesday—and Paramount getting its portion. Trips to Army camps account for more of Bob's time, and golf takes up his spare daylight hours.

Even when he has a few hours to himself, Bob can't get away from work. There are scripts to think about, writers and producers and directors to discuss details with, and thousands of letters to consider.

But when he isn't working, Bob is just like every other American father at home. His big interests are the children, Linda, who will be three in July, and Tony, who is going on two; his dogs, and me (I fondly hope). Not necessarily in the order named.

Not long ago Bob took Linda and Tony to the zoo and told them tall stories about the animals in the cages. When they came home, Tony and Linda were dead-tired and totally uninterested in animals, but Bob was grinning like a kid. Now he wants to take Linda to the circus. He won't believe me when I tell him she is too young to enjoy the show. I suspect he really is dying to go himself, and is using Linda as an excuse. I guess when Tony is a year or two older, you will find them both at the ball game every time Bob has a day off.

There are stories about comedians who are glum, mournful individuals at home. Not Bob. All his wisecracks aren't used up on the air, because he keeps his sense of humor warmed up twenty-four hours a day. It's just natural for Bob to be funny.

Although he is by nature very sociable and he loves to have people around him, Bob doesn't go out often. Again because there is so little time. Only on rare occasions, before and after his golf games, does he have much opportunity to get together with groups of friends.

Bob is not, I must confess, the soul of neatness. Fortunately he doesn't, like some men I have read about, empty his pockets of keys, coins and miscellaneous possessions on a convenient bookcase or cocktail table. Quite the contrary, he never empties his pockets at all. And he never puts accessories away. His favorite cuff-links have survived several trips to the laundry. If he carries a watch today, he won't have it tomorrow. It will be ticking away (if it hasn't run down) somewhere in his room in the pocket of the suit he wore to the studio. If he had only one set of keys he would never be able to open a door or start his car, because the keys probably would be in a suit in his studio dressing-room.

Everything in our home is designed to please both Bob and me. He has definite likes and dislikes, and he is not slow about making them known. We have discussed the decoration and furnishing of every room in the house. His tastes are conservative, and his favorite room is furnished in comfortable English-style furniture, deep, comfortable lounging-chairs and sturdy tables.

Summarized, the truth about Bob Hope at home is that he is a very busy man who still has time for fun, who thinks his children are the smartest children in the world, who plays a good game of golf, who likes to sing while his wife plays the piano, and who has lots of work he'd like to do in the garden, if he ever finds time.

NO longer a roly-poly little girl but a streamlined youngster who's as modern as tomorrow in her ability to accomplish a great deal in a wholly efficient manner, Jane Withers has discovered a multitude of things that every kid of her age can do in the nation's all-out war effort. Selling War Bonds and Stamps is one. Above: Freddie Bartholomew, Jackie Moran, Jane and Virginia Weidler sing "America" at Victory House, sales headquarters for War Bonds and Stamps in Los Angeles

STILL a little girl when it comes to dolls, Jane's a smooth knitter. When she makes a sweater it's really wearable, not a subject for jokes, cartoons

WHAT A KID CAN DO to HELP WIN THE WAR

Jane Withers, Sixteen-Year-Old Movie
Star, Offers Some Practical Answers!

DEFINITELY the leader type of American youngster, Jane Withers has found any number of things that every kid of her age can do as the nation faces the grim business of war.

For one thing, Jane has a thriving victory garden in which she raises a wide variety of vegetables for use in her own family. What's more, she gets right out and does the planting and weeding herself.

Knitting, too, is something that Jane has learned to do especially well. The socks, sweaters and helmets she makes are wearable, really fit. Not content on this score of single effort, Jane has also organized a group of girl friends who get together regularly for knitting-bees, setting themselves a definite stint at each meeting.

For every American youngster who gets a weekly allowance, here's a swell tip from Jane—she contributes a good share of hers toward buying music records for the boys in barracks, has interested her close friends in the same idea. And records are just one of the things that kids can contribute toward making America's fighting men happier and more comfortable.

And don't get the idea, you boys and girls who read this article, that just because Jane is a movie star her work is all easy and glamorous, for it isn't. As chairwoman of the junior division in American Women's Voluntary Service in Westwood where she lives, Jane takes her station wagon every Saturday morning and picks up dirty coffee jugs from eighteen different Army camps, takes them to the AWVS headquarters and helps wash them. Another duty is collecting old papers and magazines, turning them in to the proper office for distribution. Which is something kids in all American towns and villages can do.

Another duty in which Jane is tireless is in her effort to sell War Bonds and Stamps. Certainly every kid in the country can do likewise, even though they haven't as many contacts through which to promote sales as Jane. Through her contacts she has sold $1,000 War Bonds; but she's every bit as enthusiastic about the sale of a ten-cent stamp. Main thing in her opinion is the sale, that every one—big or small—counts toward ultimate victory.

In addition, Jane devotes almost every Sunday to entertaining service men stationed in the neighborhood of her home, and as often during weekday afternoons as her duties permit. Her swimming-pool is used constantly by soldiers. Of course comparatively few kids have soda fountains and pools to offer for entertaining, but there isn't one who can't save his pennies and have one or two boys to lunch or dinner if they live in a community where service men are stationed.

For, never forget, each and every-one of you teen-age kids, it isn't what you give so much as the generous spirit in which you offer it. A cool drink and a home-made cookie or piece of cake, a juicy hot-dog in a bun can do wonders. Try it and see!

OPEN house for service men is another duty for Jane. Above: She prepares sodas for Sergeant Harold Fatt, Private George K. Noble and Sergeant F. Kessler at fountain in playroom of her own home. Nice thing about this, dispenser Jane is always generous with second helpings

AFTER sodas party adjourns to Withers kitchen for hamburgers. Above: Private Noble helps Jane get the job done right

IN playroom Jane entertains boys who drop in for afternoon. Small piano is autographed by every guest star invites to her home

ON serious side, Jane learns, too, how the huge listening devices work at an Army post in southern California (above). It is through these devices that enemy planes can be detected at great distance. From here the energetic little star hops to canteen duties for AWVS in Westwood

Jinx Falkenburg had just finished a long day at Columbia Studios, where she is currently at work on "Cover Girls"... when she was asked to taste the nation's best-known colas in paper cups and choose the one that tasted best to her.

Her choice for best-tasting turned out to be Royal Crown Cola. "It was so much better than now, when I feel like a 'quick-up,'" says Miss Falkenburg, "I always insist on a frosty bottle of Royal Crown Cola." Try a one that tasted best to her.

JOYCE JORDAN

In This Third Instalment a Series of Heart - Breaking Events Test Both Wits and Courage of Dr. Joyce Jordan

The thrilling story of the radio program "Joyce Jordan," fictionized by Wiley Maloney, is broadcast Monday through Friday over CBS at 2:15 p.m. EWT, 1:15 p.m. CWT, 1:30 p.m. MWT, 12:30 p.m. PWT, under the sponsorship of General Foods Corp. for Satina, La France and Postum. In the preceding instalments a very tragic situation develops when Dr. Joyce Jordan and her husband, Paul Sherwood, bring his neurotic sister home with them from the sanitarium. Margot Sherwood, victim of an accident that disfigured her face, hates her brother's beautiful wife, continues to live a secluded, bitter life. Then, for some strange reason, the ne'er-do-well son of Dr. Molly Hedgerow, Joyce's office associate, shows interest in Margot and encourages her to go out with him. Joyce fears the consequences, but her attempts to interfere fail. Even Paul, feeling that it is harmless, asks Joyce not to meddle in Margot's affairs.

The tragedy Joyce foresaw breaks suddenly one evening when Chester Hedgerow, after a bitter quarrel with Margot, chides her for thinking he'd marry a girl who had spent six years in a sanitarium. Joyce tries to console Margot, but is accused of stealing Chester's affections. Margot just laughs when Joyce confides that she and Paul are going to have a baby. But suddenly her laughter changes to sobbing. With horror Joyce recognizes the symptoms. The shock has been too great. Margot's mind had snapped under the strain and she attempts to kill Joyce with a paper-knife. After a hard struggle, Joyce manages to wrest the knife from her.

Paul is annoyed when he learns what happened and blames Joyce for the whole affair. Not wanting to play on his sympathy, Joyce refuses to tell Paul that they are about to have a baby. The situation becomes intensified when Margot has to return to the sanitarium. Paul refuses to return home to live, goes instead to the city. Here his success as a columnist attracts the attention of Sheila Brand, who encourages him to help her with a book she is writing. When Paul learns that Joyce is going to have a baby, he attempts a reconciliation, but she refuses to have him return.

Long hours of hard work, under the strain of his worries, bring back to Paul the dreaded tropical fever he contracted while covering the war in Ethiopia. He falls sick at Sheila's apartment, and her physician, Dr. Andrews, baffled at the symptoms, calls Dr. Joyce in to handle the case. Paul responds to her treatment at once, but stubbornly refuses further attention.

Joyce returns home heartsick only to receive a call from Dr. Andrews that Paul, ignoring her orders, has had a relapse. She prescribes emergency treatment and advises that she will return at once. Frantically for a means of transportation in the face of a raging storm in the middle of the night, Joyce gets a friend to fly her back to the city. Attempting to land on an ice-bound field, at Joyce's insistence, the plane noses over and Joyce is injured. She regains consciousness before getting to the hospital, learning upon arrival that Paul has responded to her telephoned treatment. But the intern at the hospital urges that Dr. Molly Hedgerow be summoned at once. Under normal circumstances the accident wouldn't have been a serious one, but there is a possibility that Joyce's baby was injured. Paul was now out of danger, but had something happened to their unborn child? Now go on with the story.

—The Editors.

THE operation to save Joyce Jordan's baby failed. While she slowly gathered strength, her friends drew around her, made life once more worth living. For Dr. Joyce Jordan had not been told the truth.

Handsome Paul Sherwood, her husband, had recovered from his illness. He left Sheila Brand to complete her book without his help and was one of the first to come to Joyce's bedside. Their past differences were forgiven and forgotten. Joyce was happy to have Paul with her again and encouraged him to keep trying for the radio news commentator's position he wanted.

Gray-haired Dr. Molly and Joyce's other friends at Heights Hospital managed to keep the truth of her baby from her. But over all of them hung the knowledge that some day soon she must know the truth. Meanwhile, they hoped to give her a chance to recover her strength before subjecting her to the shock of learning about her loss.

But the inevitable happened. And it was the misfortune of young Dr. Alan Webster to blurt out the truth. Helplessly, hopelessly, frantically the sensitive young intern poured out his heart to Joyce and suddenly she realized how tragically he viewed his mistake. In her desire to help him, she forgot her own sorrow, forgot that her baby had died . . .

"Please," she begged, "don't feel so bad about it."

"But what am I going to—tell your husband? What are Dr. Molly and Dr. Simons going to say when they find out? The whole hospital managed to keep it a secret, but I couldn't keep my fool mouth shut."

Joyce tried to tell him that she'd known all the time and would have learned about it, in any case, sooner or later. She told him it really wasn't his fault.

"On top of everything else," said the uncomfited Dr. Webster, "my father is coming back to the hospital. What will he say about me? How will he take this thing and also my recent transfer from surgery to the medical department? He always wanted me to be a surgeon. I've failed him again. I'll have to resign—it's the only way out."

Joyce noticed the note of fear in Dr. Webster's voice when he talked of his father. She asked him why he was afraid of the older man. The young intern evaded her questions, but some days later when she had won his confidence, he told her the truth.

"Every time I met a new prof at medical school," he said, "he gave me the same line. 'We expect great things of the son of Dr. Thomas Webster,' they said. Every time I tackled a new problem I was told how brilliantly my father had handled the same problem when he was a student. And here at Heights Hospital the same thing happened. 'Arise and shine, Dr. Webster,' they said. 'We expect great things of the great Dr. Webster's son.' Why couldn't they just accept me as another intern? Why didn't they let me alone?"

Joyce tried to comfort the sensitive young man. It was true what he had said about his father. Stern old Dr. Thomas Webster was a great surgeon, but he was stubborn and self-willed. He had come back to the hospital now to conduct a series of research experiments for the Army. The outcome promised to be sensational. Joyce advised the young doctor to live his own life.

She had occasion later in the week to help him more substantially. Dr. Molly, who had been named as head of the hospital for the war's duration, offered Joyce the position as her assistant. Dr. Molly, wise and experienced, knew that Joyce would not care to return to Lyndale and live alone in the knowledge that her baby was gone—that, perhaps, she'd never have another. Joyce cheerfully accepted the new responsibility and asked for Dr. Alan Webster as an assistant under her in the children's clinic.

Working together, the two became fast friends—in fact, on Dr. Webster's part it was almost more than mere friendship. He fell hopelessly in love with Joyce, at least he thought it was love.

His stern father, who now was working in a special research laboratory, accused Joyce of exerting undue influence on Alan in getting him to transfer to medicine instead of surgery. He said he would expose Joyce's background if she didn't leave. Joyce knew what he meant.

The story wasn't pleasant. Joyce's father, Roger Walton, once had been a successful doctor. But he had deserted Joyce's mother when Joyce was only three. He had been imprisoned and finally left the United States in disgrace, both privately and professionally. Ever after that Joyce had gone under her mother's name and tried to forget the sorrow of her childhood. Not even Paul knew about it. It was this background that the self-willed old surgeon threatened to expose. Joyce feared that despite her good work and record she might be dropped from the staff merely to prevent spread of a scandal and the attendant loss of support to the hospital from wealthy patrons.

"But," Joyce protested to the old man, "I haven't any influence over your son—"

"Alan is head over heels in love with you," the old surgeon said.

"He thought he was in love with me, Dr. Webster. We had a long talk about it. He knows now that what he mistook for love was only friendship. You will harm him by forcing him to shift back to surgery when he's making such splendid progress in medicine."

But grim-faced Dr. Webster was stubborn, and Joyce left the hospital feeling depressed.

To make matters worse Paul insisted that night on bringing home a mysterious friend named William Roger Walton. It seemed, as Paul explained it, that Walton had been in Honolulu when Pearl Harbor was bombed and he had a story that Paul thought he could use on his newspaper. Paul also told Joyce that Walton had expressed a keen desire to meet her. Just why, he didn't say.

But that night, while Paul was dressing, Walton proved to Joyce beyond a shadow of a doubt that he was the father who had left her when she was only three years old. He said he wanted her forgiveness, but Joyce was so taken up by surprise that she refused to listen to the elderly man's pleadings. She begged him to leave, and that night, after Walton had gone, she told Paul all about her troubled childhood and why she kept it a secret. Paul agreed that Walton did not deserve sympathy.

Matters stood that way the next day when, clinic hours over, young Dr. Alan Webster and Joyce discussed Alan's father in Joyce's office. Despite the quarrels and bitterness between them, Alan said he wanted to become reconciled with his father more than anything else in the world. He told Joyce he had heard his father tell of the need for a human subject to risk his life in an experiment which the brilliant elderly surgeon had to carry out as part of the Army medical project.

"I'd like to make up with him more than anything," Alan said, "and I think I can."

"How?" Joyce asked.

"By proving to him that I'm just as devoted to medicine as he is."

"How can you prove that?"

"By volunteering to be the subject of his experiment!"

"Alan!" Joyce exclaimed. "Do you realize what you're doing? Do you realize you will be risking your life? Is your desire for a reconciliation the only reason for this?"

"There isn't just one reason, Joyce. There never is. The work my father is doing is really important, and I believe in that work. He thinks I don't. I want to show him that I do, that I always have believed in it."

JOYCE argued for an hour with Alan, but couldn't convince him that there were other ways of proving his admiration for his father. And that afternoon Alan volunteered. The hot-tempered older man flew off the handle. He accused his son of having plotted the whole thing with Dr. Jordan and insisted that she be called to explain the situation. Alan protested, but his father put through a call for Joyce. He was frigidly polite when she entered the office. He immediately asked about his son.

"Alan told me that he wanted more than anything else in the world to make up with you," she said.

"So that's it. I thought so." He turned to the youth. "The whole thing was a gesture on your part, a gesture to make up your difference with me and still have your own way about your career." Abruptly the old man stopped and looked at Joyce. "Did you suggest the idea to him, Dr. Jordan?"

"No," Joyce replied, color coming to her cheeks. "Why should I suggest such a thing?"

"Because you're in love with him. You wanted to keep him in the children's clinic and at the same time have him make up the quarrel we had."

Joyce could hold back no longer. She lashed out at the old surgeon with her tongue.

"Do you think a woman who was in love with a man would ask him to risk his life, Dr. Webster? You're quite wrong. Dr. Webster, I don't understand you. Your son comes to you willing to risk his life to help you in your work and you suspect ulterior motives. Another doctor would be more than grateful if a young doctor offered such a demonstration of faith."

The old man sat grim-faced and silent for a time. Then, his face a shade more pale, he quietly walked to a cabinet at the far end of the laboratory and came back with a hypodermic needle.

"Roll up your sleeves, son," he said to Alan. The young doctor complied and the needle was driven home. Young Dr. Webster's blood was inoculated with a deadly tropical disease. The old surgeon turned to Joyce. "You win, Dr. Jordan," was all he said.

Alan sank into a coma from which he'd never recover unless his father's serum was a success. Both Joyce and the old doctor were acutely aware of this when they met that night at ten-thirty in the laboratory. Both were professionally calm, however, as they examined the unconscious Alan.

"You understand," the boy's father said, "that this experiment is a military secret? You can't tell anyone of what you may see or hear in this laboratory."

Joyce nodded. She sterilized a hypodermic needle and handed it to the old man.

"How long after the serum is administered will it take effect?" she asked.

"There should be positive results within an hour—accelerated pulse, reduction in temperature and so on. He should be out of the coma within three or four hours."

Joyce held the boy's arm while the father pressed the needle home. Together, in silence, the elderly surgeon and the beautiful young woman physician waited. Together, at 11:30, an hour later, they had noted no development. Alan's fever had not dropped,

EX-BEAU COVERS PRISCILLA LANE WEDDING ... BOB STIRLING SET FOR AIR FORCE

Rosalind Russell Will Pay Stiffest 1942 Income Tax; Gilbert Roland Is Inducted Into Uncle Sam's Army; Diana Barrymore Lunches on Carrots

HOLLYWOOD

By LEON RASMUSSEN

(Pinch-hitting for the East-visiting Evans Plummer)

JUST about anything can happen in Hollywood, or near here, and usually does. Victorville newsman, John Barry, the long suspected groom-to-be of Priscilla Lane, covered her wedding to bombardier Joe Howard for his Victorville paper. That is carrying news-gathering to an extreme and it must have been very cozy for all concerned at the ceremony . . .

There's another possibility for a stranger-than-fiction coincidence concerning some Hollywood principals. Robert Stirling, number one with Ann Sothern since her divorce from Roger Pryor, will leave Hollywood for the air force in two months. He will get his basic training at an air school in Oxnard, California, where, we believe, Mr. Roger Pryor is located as a flying-instructor. Now, if Mr. Pryor should be assigned to instruct the neophyte Mr. Stirling, the stage would be set for a real-life Hollywood drama. If the coincidence does work out the fellows probably won't play it straight, but will become fast friends . . .

Arleen Whelan had better make up her mind one way or the other about her married life. Her hectic, hot-and-cold marriage to Alex D'Arcy is very much on the freezing side right now, but then it has been that way so often before only to have them make up and say "Never again." Little and fiery Arleen feels that now is the time to file a divorce, yet she feels that now isn't the time—if you follow. Alex has just received his citizenship papers and it will be but a short time before he is fitted for one of Uncle Sam's khaki suits. Once that happens, Arleen won't be able to get a divorce for the duration. That is just what's distressing her. She's "desolated." She'll be unhappy if she does and if she doesn't. And what does Alex have to say about all this? Actually we don't know. Maybe he'll come through with a quote next week . . .

A now-familiar sight at the Universal commissary is Diana Barrymore coming to lunch with a make-up kit, calmly placing it on the table, opening it and pulling out a bunch of raw carrots, and then unconcernedly munching them. She is served a glass of water, leaves a tip and returns to the set. A lot of people probably eat carrots for lunch, but there is something about a Barrymore doing it that is unusual . . .

Human-interest story of the week: Gilbert Roland said good-by to his wife, Constance Bennett, took a street-car to Army induction center at Fort MacArthur . . .

The Hollywood actress who will pay the Government the stiffest income-tax assessment come next March will not be one of those perennial favorites like Claudette Colbert, Norma Shearer, Joan Crawford or Ginger Rogers. In all likelihood it will be Rosalind Russell, who, only last October, quit M-G-M, where she was drawing down the nominal sum of $2,000 a week for her talent. Today Roz' salary is $150,000 a picture, which, with a guarantee here and a thusa and a thata there, works out to a neat $18,750 per week. Inasmuch as this marks a $16,750-a-week raise, you can hardly blame Roz for being happy with her new set-up. She can give a needy Uncle Sam much more than she ever did before and still have more for herself . . .

It looks like the American women are in for some skull practise. It is all on account of Michele Morgan—who, incidentally, is not Vichy-washy French. Michele wears a skull-cap. It is the only kind of hat she ever wears, and it appears that cap of hers is destined to become as famous as Gable's turtle-neck sweater or Bing Crosby's sweat-shirt. When Michele went on a nation-wide tour recently her little hats created a furor among the women wherever she appeared. Department stores were immediately besieged with calls for hats just like hers. A prompt and enterprising New York advertising man jumped on the bandwagon and is now putting through a spectacular promotion campaign on the hat, which is titled "The Michele." It ought to establish as much of a hit with the priorities board as it did with the women because of the small amount of material used . . .

SLINKILY solemn, usually, on the screen, Veronica Lake, top skim of the present glamour-girl cream in Movietown, really cuts loose with a terrific laugh in an off-stage moment on Paramount's "This Gun for Hire." Director Frank Tuttle (left) and Robert Preston join in her merriment

Here's a prediction for one of the next big hit tunes of the day. It's

JOAN and Constance Bennett celebrate double anniversary with their dad Richard—his 72nd birthday, 50th mile-stone as an actor

"Jingle Jangle Jingle," a catchy song which Frank Loesser and Joe Lilley wrote for Paramount's "Forest Rangers." You'll soon be hearing Fred McMurray and Paulette Goddard singing it in that picture. Evidence that it is slated for the hit bracket is the fact the Merry Macs, Freddy Martin, Guy Lombardo and Kay Kyser have all made recordings of the tune. Veteran lyricist Loesser contends that Lilley is potentially the greatest music-writer in Hollywood. You'd believe him, too, if you heard Joe for hours on end entertaining at the piano, manufacturing impromptu ditties and compositions you'd swear would be hits once they reached the music stands . . .

Now that the Government has restricted studio expenditure to $5,000 per set, many producers are worrying that their pictures may lack what Hollywood terms "class." Mitchell Leisen, who has just started work on "No Time For Love" after turning out the smash hit, "Take A Letter Darling," is making an effort to solve the problem by asking designer Irene to produce seventeen swank gowns for Claudette Colbert to wear in the picture. That, according to Mr. Leisen, ought to give the picture plenty of class regardless of what's in the background, as La Colbert has a flair for wearing clothes that can be shared by few actresses in Hollywood . . .

Hollywood experts in romance are at work again on the Lana Turner predictions. Lana has been seen having quiet dinner dates with millionaire producer and aviation man Howard Hughes, one-time discoverer of Jean Harlow. An elopement is supposed to develop, but probably won't. Movie girls like Lana aren't as interested in rich men as the story books would like to think—they have enough money of their own . . .

Victor Mature will be Hollywood's next Army recruit, scheduled to go into the service in less than sixty days, after finishing "Sweet and Hot," in which he co-stars with Lucille Ball. You can expect that Vic will enlist before he is inducted, provided the studio can finish the picture in time, and he hopes to land in the same infantry regiment which already has in it a couple of his boyhood pals, one of whom sent him a postcard saying, "Army life is better than Hollywood. Less kicking around from taxes; more kicking around the Axis."

SHIRLEY TEMPLE and Dickie Moore in a scene from Shirley's latest, "Miss Annie Rooney," in which she has her first romance

MOVIE REVIEWS

"Miss Annie Rooney"

Cast: Shirley Temple, William Gargan, Guy Kibbee, Dickie Moore, Peggy Ryan, Roland DuPre, Gloria Holden, Jonathan Hale, et al. An Edward Small-United Artists production. Directed by Edwin L. Marin; screen play by George Bruce.

Type of Picture: If you've seen the wishy-washy Shirley Temple pictures of an earlier day, you'll appreciate her as she goes through the pain of her first screen romance. The picture is entirely wholesome, extremely amusing.

This Is the Story: Shirley lives in a cheap flat with her grandfather, Guy Kibbee, a retired policeman, and her widowed father, William Gargan, an insurance salesman who throws the family money away on will-o'-the-wisp ideas. By accident she meets a wealthy young boy who is attracted to her, invites her to his formal birthday party over his parents' protests. Shirley charms the guests, but her dad embarrasses her terribly by showing up with a demonstration of milkweed rubber. A happy ending clears up the situation at the last moment.

Verdict: Any picture that can tickle the youngsters, cause dad and mother to shed a tear over their own first loves is the essence of good entertainment and worth seeing even if sophisticated critics may not be enthusiastic. Shirley Temple is here to stay as a lovely young actress.

"The Man Who Wouldn't Die"

Cast: Lloyd Nolan, Marjorie Weaver, Helen Reynolds, Henry Wilcoxon, Richard Derr, Paul Harvey, Billy Bevan.

Type of Picture: Another Michael Shayne mystery, based on a novel by Clayton Rawson and the character Michael Shayne, originated by Brett Halliday.

This Is the Story: Latest of the Shayne whodunits, with the detective, per usual, solving the mystery from fantastic clues. A Hindu fakir who traffics in suspended animation adds to the complications in this one.

Verdict: Nolan is still good as Shayne; Marjorie Weaver cute and capable. But plot is not up to others in series.—Family.

RADIO GIRLS FLOCK TO JOIN ARMY . . . KEEP YOUR RADIO ON IN AIR RAIDS

Women's Army Auxiliary Corps Plans Snappy Uniforms for the Ladies;
Cavalcade Seeks Clark Gable; Salter's No City Slicker; The Mayor Muffs

WASHINGTON

By LT. COL. CURTIS MITCHELL

The biggest question in town this week is how to get into the Waac. The Waac is the Women's Army Auxiliary Corps, and from all I hear more radio gals than you can shake a stick at are knocking on the doors of the recruiting offices.

Women are needed in the Army for the following jobs: Clerks, machine operators, cooks, bakers, stewardesses, dietitians, telephone operators, hostesses, librarians, accountants, post-exchange clerks, bookkeepers, etc. In every case, they can relieve some man.

The original enlistment is for one year, and every woman who joins up is under military discipline and control.

The pay is the same as the soldier gets, $21 per month. If soldier pay is raised, the Waac's pay will also be raised. Officers will receive better wages, first officer getting $166.67 per month; second officer, $131.25; third officer, $125. All clothes, food and shelter are supplied by the Government.

All officers will go through the first officer's training-school, which is scheduled to start very soon. An initial group of 270 women is being selected from the first volunteers, and when these are trained they will be used to train others. By fall the Waac is expected to be solidly organized.

Personal qualifications are: A Waac officer must be between twenty-one and forty-five years old, a graduate of a high school or its equivalent, able to pass the Army officer's intelligence test, a citizen of the United States, physically fit and over 105 pounds in weight, and of good character.

Any recruits should apply at once to the nearest U. S. Army recruiting station.

One final word is this. I have seen some of the uniforms. They are smart and practical, and I promise any future volunteer that, clad in the Waac raiment, she will be the best-dressed army woman in the world.

P. S.: Married women are eligible, too . . .

Considerable pressure is brought to bear from time to time by quick-on-the-trigger groups who seek to close down those stations and programs which are using a foreign language. Lately there has been considerable talk that the Italian language, which is an enemy language, should be suppressed. I hope it isn't true. During days of peace, we needlessly permitted foreign-language groups to listen to their own programs. I say needlessly because there has been no immigration into this country for many years, and any resolute and intelligent program of Americanization would have abolished the old-world newspapers and broadcasts. That they were not discontinued is probably due to the pressure of paid supporters of both Mussolini and Hitler.

However, we now have them with us, and in this tense time we need their help because they are the only means by which a considerable portion of our inhabitants receive their information about the war.

Some radio station Italian and Polish programs have been suspected. Some warnings have been issued. There is now no danger from that source. Recently broadcasters whose stations broadcast in Italian grouped themselves into a committee to offer the closest possible support to the Government. They can police their own shows with much greater effectiveness than can any outsider . . .

People are still asking "What happens to my radio during an air-raid?" New Yorkers found out just last week. All New York stations were silenced for twenty minutes just before noon. Their last emission was a record playing these words: "Attention, please. All radio broadcasting stations monitoring this key station are instructed to sign off immediately by order of the First Interceptor Command, New York."

"Listeners, keep your radio sets turned on and tuned to this station for further announcements. We are now signing off by order of the First Interceptor Command, New York."

I've repeated that order in full, for it is a military order, and in time of an air-raid the military is in command. Anyone at home should know what is going on, and his radio should be kept tuned to his key station even though nothing comes through. It is the only way the isolated individual or family can keep in touch . . .

Both Army and Navy are working on pictures which will be made for the benefit of Army and Navy relief. The Navy show has been titled "Anchors Aweigh." The Army picture probably will have nothing to do with the Army, concentrating on an entertaining film the purpose of which will be to raise as many dollars as possible for the benefit of soldiers and their dependents.

Which reminds me that theater audiences have already contributed generously to this cause. In the recent pass-the-hat campaign conducted through 15,000 motion-picture audiences, more than $2,000,000 was raised within one week.

"Cavalcade of America" puts on a summer dress June 29 when the budget will be pared for this Monday night drama series and names not of the magnitude now used will have the lead roles. Incidentally, the agency on the show is trying to get Clark Gable to lend his talents for one night. If the deal jells it will be the movie star's first public appearance since the tragic and untimely death of Carole Lombard . . .

Chicago's Mayor Edward J. Kelly took no chances of being put on a spot when invited to be a guest "detective" on an Ellery Queen mystery case. Preferring to hear the show at NBC's Chicago studios (the program originates in New York), he arrived at the Merchandise Mart accompanied by three "real McCoy's" from the Chicago police force. When decisions were handed down, the mayor and tennis star Alice Marble, who also was a "detective" on the case, placed the guilt on the same man. Dinah Shore's contributions to war activities are stacking up! Her May 29 program was recorded at the request of the Government, and records were sent to every U. S. Army, Navy and Marine camp in the entire world, with her sponsor footing the bill. Not to be outdone, Dinah furnished a set of her own records for the camps, too—totaling several thousand, which she paid for herself. Next on La Shore's war program—she's been chosen by the huge new Chlco, California, Army Flying School to act as their "Bond Girl" in a sale of war bonds, stamps scheduled for the area on June 14 . . .

Chet Lauck (Lum of "Lum 'n' Abner") has struck gold on his Arizona mine holdings. After digging for over a month without striking pay dirt, all of a sudden—there it was, and at the rate of $45 a ton! Which isn't hay, seasoned old prospectors will tell you. And right on the heels of that, Lum's Pride, racer owned by Chet which appeared on May 2 cover of MOVIE-RADIO GUIDE, won at Lincoln Fields track, paid the neat sum of $129 to ticket-holders who had bet him to win! Looks like Lum's lucky year all round! . . .

Along baby-buggy lane in Hollywood they're laying odds that the Penny Singleton-Bob Sparks heir, due in September, will be a girl. Penny, as the movie-radio character Blondie for more than three years, has had a baby three times the past year—in the comic strip, on the radio and lately in the movie "Blondie's Blessed Event." Another bona fide blessed event, scheduled for August, will take place at the Leonard L. Levinsons' (writer of "The Great Gildersleeve") . . .

Irrepressible Charlie McCarthy has wangled himself a "good conduct" medal for services rendered at the Mare Island Hospital and presented to him by General W. P. Upshur of Marine headquarters in San Francisco. Fact that it was given him on a probationary basis, hinging on further good conduct, roused Charlie's ire. He threatened to contact Washington and, if necessary, take the matter up with the General's wife. P.S.: McCarthy

"THE KING'S HENCHMAN" TO CONCLUDE AMERICAN OPERA FESTIVAL, THURSDAY

Craftsmanship Can Never Equal Real Inspiration, Claims Composer-Conductor Maurice Baron; Joan Edwards Not a Gus Edwards Discovery

By ROBERT BAGAR

New York World-Telegram Music Critic and Associate Program Annotator for Philharmonic-Symphony Society of New York

THE head of the composing-staff at the Radio City Music Hall in New York City is Maurice Baron, a tall, rather heavy-set man who has flair for the trenchant turn of phrase and a laissez-faire sort of philosophy that you will find only in the Frenchman.

Mr. Baron conducts the Music Hall radio broadcasts during the summer. His interests are many and varied, though, as he might put it, "Music is the number one item, and it's no use to mention the others."

When Mr. Baron was seventeen years old his family came to Canada from France on a government homesteading project. The little group, all trained musicians, were given some ground, a house and the encouragement to "raise things."

"Somewhere in my background there was an ancestor or something who had done that sort of thing," Mr. Baron said. "But it proved too far back for us to have inherited anything like a real love for it. In fact, you need more than love. You need the iron will to continue in the face of the most trying circumstances."

"Think of it," he went on, "we were miles, but miles away from a railroad. Comforts were mighty few. We had neighbors, of course, somewhere in the next county. One year the wheat was good, the next year bad. The prices went up, then they went down."

"That's the sort of thing I was sure

PREPARING a "Telephone Hour" program means hours of work at the piano for Donald Voorhees, conductor of the Monday series

HAILED as one of the most glamorous and popular opera stars of all time, coloratura Lily Pons makes one of her infrequent radio appearances Monday night as guest of the "Telephone Hour," NBC

I was not meant for. So I went to New York, some eight or nine years later. There I began to study music again, taking up fugue and counterpoint, and so on. I got good, tough training in those subjects and I had to work like anything.

Mr. Baron got a job playing the piano in a dance hall. That was in Brooklyn, home of the fantastic baseball Dodgers. At night he would earn extra money by copying music.

In the meantime he had a few pieces published, numbers for piano solo, works for voice and piano, orchestral compositions. Matters went progressively better for him and in no time at all he was somebody to conjure with.

"One day," Mr. Baron said, "I was playing the organ at the Hotel Astor—the roof dining-room, you know. A very polished gentleman, well-spoken and very affable, came over to me and introduced himself. It was Erno Rapee. Among other things, he wanted to know why I was sporting a beard. I told him that it was because I wanted to look older. Well, I shaved off the beard; I was glad to do it, anyway, because the thing was beginning to get in my hair."

"Well, there's little more to the rest. With the money I was making I could afford to buy first-hand overcoats instead of the second-hand beauties I had been accustomed to. I began to develop what you might lightly term epicurean tastes in food. In short, this was living."

With the coming of talking pictures, Mr. Baron's activities increased. His experience at movie-theater conducting stood him in good stead and he directed orchestras for many early sound films. Besides, a good deal of his own music was now being utilized in movie scores and he devoted his spare time to orchestrating such scores.

At the Music Hall Mr. Baron does a lot of composing, owing to the weekly change of program. Sometimes he writes ballet music, sometimes numbers of a jazzier nature for the Rockettes, sometimes a song might be necessary for one of the soloists. He must be ready at almost a moment's notice with the right composition for a particular spot. That he has been doing it since the opening of the celebrated theater reflects an amazing facility.

"To me music is something to take in stride. It is a most important part of my life, but there is nothing to be gained by rushing madly back and forth, getting hysterical over disappointments. I favor the short pieces. Of course, I have the respect that one pays to a Beethoven, a Brahms, a Mozart, a Debussy, but I really think that most music is forced somewhere in its course.

"You are bound to find dozens of uninteresting measures in any composition. That's because inspiration has run out and the composer's 'craftsmanship' has taken over. This, I am almost sorry to say, is true of any music, no matter by whom. For me, craftsmanship can never equal real inspiration, so that many of the greatest works lose their appeal when the tune runs out.

"I don't want to sound sacrilegious. I am not wrapping up the whole music literature and throwing it away. I merely say that in the best of us there is a touch of the commonplace. We are human, you know. There is no perfection in us."

The composer-conductor referred contemptuously to "atonal abracadabra," saying, further, that he used such a term, perhaps, because he cannot write that sort of music. "I suppose," he added, "I could do a page of it or so, but it would be strictly synthetic with me, and that's that."

In other words, Mr. Baron knows what he likes and what he doesn't like, and the chances are, if you get right down to it, that he likes a great deal more than he dislikes. We wanted to talk more with Mr. Baron, but a sudden call for a special material number came in, so we took our leave as gracefully as possible.

(Maurice Baron is conductor of "Radio City Music Hall," Blue Network, Sunday.)

CONDUCTOR Alfred Wallenstein's final offering on MBS' "American Opera Festival" will be a Deems Taylor composition

YEHUDI (above) and sister Hephzibah Menuhin offer a rare duet treat in a new Victor recording of Schubert's Rondo in B Minor

In Conclusion

Last work in Alfred Wallenstein's "American Opera Festival," over MBS, is "The King's Henchman," by Deems Taylor. The work, based on a subject following the Tristan theme, is by the noted American poet, Edna St. Vincent Millay.

"The King's Henchman" was given its premiere performance at the Metropolitan Opera House on February 17, 1927. Heading the east on that occasion were Edward Johnson as Aethelwold, Florence Easton as Aelfrida, Lawrence Tibbett as Eadgar. In tenth-century England, the court of King Eadgar at Winchester has spent the night feasting, and now the fatigued revelers listen to the song of Maccus, a harpist. When he finishes, the formal announcement is made of King Eadgar's suit for the hand of Aelfrida, who is the daughter of the Thane of Devon. As in Wagner's "Tristan und Isolde," Aethelwold, the king's trusted henchman, is given the commission to present his lord's suit and to return with the young woman. Aethelwold is not too willing to execute this task, but, later, he accedes to the king's request.

In a forest of Devonshire, Aethelwold is sleeping, on a misty Allhallows Eve. Aelfrida makes her entrance intoning a spell whose purpose is to find a lover for her. As she concludes, the mists lift and she spies Aethelwold, who thus seems to have come in answer to her prayers. They fall in love, but the young knight soon discovers that she is the object of his king's quest. Maccus, who has gone with him on the journey, is sent back to inform the king that the girl is not good enough for him, but that with his lord's permission Aethelwold would marry her.

The lovers are married, Aelfrida completely in the dark concerning her husband's mission. He is on the point of explaining the story to her when Maccus returns, announcing that King Eadgar will soon arrive on a visit. Aethelwold relates the original purposes of his arrival in Devon and the wife at first consents to make herself ugly, in order to give credence to Aethelwold's lie. But she later decides to appear as she actually is.

Tortured by the thought of his disloyalty, Aethelwold kills himself. As he is being buried, King Eadgar mourns the loss of his friend.

"The King's Henchman" will be presented in the final program of Alfred Wallenstein's "American Opera Festival," Thursday over MBS.

BEFORE she was through school Joan Edwards entertained ideas of carving out a career in the show business as singer-pianist

POPULAR MUSIC

JOAN EDWARDS, "Your Hit Parade" songstress, enjoys the distinction of being one star Gus Edwards might have discovered but didn't. There are two reasons for that: (a) Mr. Edwards was no longer in the discovering business when she was about ready to blossom forth, and (b) she happens to be his niece—and you know how rarely relatives discover relatives.

Added to that is the fact that her uncle—and her father, for that matter (he is a well-known music-publisher)—insisted she get an education. Miss Edwards, who was all for carving out a singer-pianist's career for herself, went to Hunter College, in New York, and attended the sessions there assiduously for three years. Then she revolted.

Her revolt came at a beautifully opportune time, for both her father and her uncle were busily engaged in Hollywood. She enlisted the services of a sympathetic music-publisher—who was unaware of her real identity—and started out on her career. When father and uncle returned she was a featured vocalist-pianist with Paul Whiteman's orchestra.

Amusingly, when, at the end of a year, Uncle Gus chided her for not finishing her college education, Miss Edwards reached into her handbag and brought out her check-book showing deposits totaling $5,000. Nothing more was said.

Where her father and her uncle made a big mistake, fortunately for her many fans, was in encouraging her to take up voice and piano. Because, being an Edwards with the ability to sing and play, it followed as night follows day that she would heed the call of the blood and plunge right into show business.

Popular Records

Decca offers an album featuring the glittering piano playing of Hazel Scott, in which the gifted young woman surveys a variety of moods, from lowdown blues to hot and speedy boogie-woogie. Another interesting Decca album is that presenting a group of West Indian folk-songs, as delivered by Sam Manning. And do not overlook Benny Goodman's Sextet playing "Wang Wang Blues" and "The Way You Look at Me" (Columbia).

Captured Russian Pilot Claims U.S. Planes Are Too Fast, Says Berlin; 34,000 British Women Now in Land Army, London Reveals

Japan Forecasts Our Future

ACCORDING to Tokyo Radio, Great Britain's reputation was based on her maritime power. This is gone for good. There is no way for Britain to improve this situation. Her occupation of Madagascar represented a desperate attempt to bottle up the Japanese fleet in the Indian Ocean while at the same time holding on to her supply line to India. The speaker continued by saying that it would be like tearing out England's heart to lose India now, but without ships and with Sir Stafford Cripps' mission a failure, what could she do? Without ships England cannot get fighter supplies from anywhere.

He continued his wishful thinking by stating that August or September of this year would bring a showdown in Europe. With Britain already a beaten power it could end in only one way. The idea of surrender will come to Britain, he said, when starvation comes, when her people lie dead by the thousands, or perhaps the British government will flee to Canada, in which case Germany will have practically no opposition to an invasion attempt.

The United States, he declared, is already facing serious internal dissension. This internal uprising, together with Britain's defeat and Japan's ever growing might in the Pacific, will spell America's doom and with it the doom of the United Nations.

In closing, this Jap pipsqueak declared that there would be no negotiated peace for the Allies. It would be life or death. Hitler, he said, would never leave England half alive, and Japan neither is one to do things in a half manner.

The trouble is that these Jap and Nazi propagandists are beginning to believe their own propaganda. There is a whole lot of difference between wishful thinking and an accomplished fact. Perhaps we should let these little people do their crowing while they can, for some of these days there won't be anything to crow about. While no one can deny the seriousness of the situation, while no one can deny that we have a gigantic task cut out for us, we will win this war not with twittering wishful thinking; not with foolish overoptimism but with a serious realization of the task ahead of us, by rolling up our sleeves and saying as the British are: "This job has to be done. Let's get into it and get it overwith."

of "Guess Who." Presumably piqued by the fact that no one knew enough about him (or, for that matter, cared enough about him) to guess his identity, Mr. Guess Who has revealed himself as Robert H. Best of Sumter, Sumter County, South Carolina. (If any of our readers in the vicinity of Sumter know this Robert Best or anything about him, they will be doing us a big favor by sending any facts concerning him, his family or his background at once to the writer of this column.) Best's broadcasts are known as the BBB broadcasts, which he admits himself could stand for Berlin's Best Broadcast or Berlin's Beastly Best, depending upon your attitude toward them.

Reader Proves Good Samaritan

It is a pleasure to introduce seventy-three-year-old A. J. Bergeron of Houma, Louisiana, not alone because he has purchased every copy of MOVIE-RADIO GUIDE since its birth but because he is doing a fine, unselfish service for which he receives no reward other than the heart-warming gratitude of countless mothers and fathers whose boys are "down and under." Mr. Bergeron listens each morning to the American soldiers calling home from Australia, takes down their messages in brief, then writes a personal letter—enclosing the message—to the relatives to whom the boys had addressed their little talks. So far he has sent messages to parents and relatives in twenty-seven different states and hopes to make the figure forty-eight before he is through. Letters like the following from Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Klingenberg of Dayton, Kentucky, bring great joy to Mr. Bergeron: "It is really impossible to convey to you how thankful we are to hear news about our son, Ralph. It has been quite some time since we have heard from him, and the news you sent us has filled the home with joy. I suppose you hear many such programs, and write many such letters, see many such replies, but the work you are doing—and it is work—is one of the grandest acts of charity I have ever come in contact with. Our son has been in the Army since June. Being drafted, he left a career as a chemist. He is doing his part and you most assuredly are doing yours; here we will try to do ours. If you do hear any more from our boy please write

This is to remind you that American boys in the R. A. F.—and occasionally one or two from the Ireland A. E. F.—send messages home on the BBC's "Weekly Visit to the American Eagle Club" program, which is now broadcast Saturdays from 8:00 to 8:30 a.m. EWT over not only GSC (9.58) and GSD (11.75) of London but WOR and many other MBS stations.

I Heard This Week

From Berlin: O. K., just back from a trip to Lisbon, states that in that neutral city it is still possible to get American Schlitz, Blue Ribbon and Ballantine beer in "cans" . . . From London: According to William Holt, England is now the most highly mechanized agricultural country in the world. 200,000 acres of flooded river-bottom land overgrown with weeds as tall as a man are rapidly being reclaimed for use in Great Britain. The women's land army now numbers 34,000 . . . From Tokyo: According to a station speaker, who had just interviewed the commanders of the submarine which shelled Santa Barbara, California, they were completely within their rights to shell this United States city, since it contained oil-storage tanks. While the shelling was going on, cars were racing up and down the coastal pavement, their headlights boring into the night . . . From Melbourne: A soldier boy calling home in the United States requested that his mother send several issues of Time and the latest Dick Tracy cartoon book . . . From Berlin: According to a captured Soviet pilot, the U. S. planes being sent to Russia are good but too fast and too delicate to handle. Being too difficult for Soviet pilots to manipulate successfully, they are being held for emergency use.

News About the Stations

According to Rome Radio the Japanese troops have seized an American radio station in Chekiang Province, China. This, according to Rome Radio, was to have been used by the Americans in their contemplated attack on Japan from bases in China . . . XGOY, Chungking, China, is being heard with strong signals on a frequency of 11.90 megs near 5:30 a.m. EWT, according to James Hart of Irvington, New Jersey . . . August Balbi of Los Angeles, California, informs me that KZRH, in the Philippines, is being heard on a new frequency of 11.63 megs from 4:00 to 10:00 a.m. EWT, simultaneously with its usual frequencies of 9.64 and 6.14 megs. News in English is now read at 8:00 and 9:30 a.m. EWT.

NOTICE: The information contained in the program schedules presented in these pages is supplied by the stations broadcasting those programs. MDVIE-RADID GUIDE should not be considered responsible for errors in announcements due to failure of stations to advise of weekly program changes. If your favorite station is not listed at quarter- or half-hour periods, consult the time listings immediately preceding. The chances are that a network program of 30 or 60 minutes' duration is on the air at a quarter-hour when you do not find your station listed.

IMPORTANT NOTICE

Following our policy that "the reader is always right" we have, at the suggestion of many, made the following changes in the Program Section effective with this issue:

1. The Program Section begins with the listing of complete programs for Saturday on page 17, followed by complete programs for Sunday.
2. The new revised Monday through Friday daytime program section begins on page 22. This section is made up in a new style designed to give the reader greater service value and eliminates the necessity of looking in two different sections. All daytime programs are listed complete for Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday between the hours of 7:00 o.m. and 3:45 p.m., inclusive. See page 22 for complete instructions on how to use this section.

SATURDAY, JUNE 13

Save One for Us, Mr. Melton!

James Melton's friends used to smile tolerantly when he talked about his hobby of collecting antique automobiles. Now their smiles are meant to be ingratiating, for they want some of those antiques themselves, and the tenor is the man who can help them get anything from 1915 electrics to prewar steamers.

No, Mr. Melton hasn't converted his friends to his hobby. They want the antiques for the dead-serious business of transportation. Modern cars use gasoline, and "A" rationing cards don't give drivers the gasoline they need.

Electrics run on storage batteries, and steamers have kerosene-fed boilers. As a result, James Melton is busy these days running down the 1,500 ancient horseless carriages which are listed in his records.

The Personal Touch

Frances Scully, heard on the military show "Your Blind Date" Mondays, receives a flood of mail each week from Army camps from Alaska to Florida. And, because a typewritten letter lacks the personal touch, she answers each one in longhand.

When Dinah Shore learned that her program was to be recorded and sent to Army camps and bases, she volunteered to supplement the shipment with some of her Victor recordings at her own request.

Strictly in Character

Recent guest at House (Mr. Aldrich) Jameson's farm in Connecticut was Jack Kelk, Homer on "The Aldrich Family." To give him something to do, House put him to work weeding the carrots.

"How is that for a job?" asked Jack some hours later, leaning proudly on his hoe.

"A little too good," replied House grimly. Strictly in character, Jaek had carefully removed the carrot shoots, leaving neat little rows of weeds.

Arranging Is a Fine Art

Composers win the fame in the musical world, but the forgotten arrangers deserve recognition as fine artists. That is the opinion of Percy Faith, conductor-composer of the "Contented Hour" program (NBC, Mondays, 10:00 p.m. EDT).

Says Mr. Faith, who makes all his own arrangements:

"The only difference between composing and arranging is that the arranger is given a melodic line around which he weaves his personality, style and development, while the composer supplies himself with the melodic line which he develops, styles, touches with his personality—arranges.

"How do you go about it? How do you write a poem or paint a picture? There's no set rule. If the day is right, if your last golf game was par, if the bills have been okayed, then maybe the creation of an idea will go smoothly. If not, you stew, pace the room, smoke a million cigarettes, swear at the maid, the family, the Fuller Brush man and finally give up. Unless, of course, you're in radio and working against a deadline; then you browbeat your mind until it turns out something usable.

"There's no definite routine to arranging. Because it is creative, it is uncertain, unpredictable. If you are one of the lucky ones, the stuff will sometimes (not often) flow at the slightest suggestion. If you are not and still insist on being a radio arranger, you might as well make up your mind to spend the rest of your life in a constant state of jitters.

"Most of us do just that. But how we love it!"

ODT Request

The new song "Rolling Along the Highway" was written by Meredith Willson at the request of the Office of Defense Transportation and will be used by ODT on programs throughout the country.

7:00 a.m. to 3:45 p.m. Inclusive

HOW TO USE THIS SECTION

All daytime programs for Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday between the hours of 7:00 a.m. and 3:45 p.m., inclusive, are listed in this section.

The daytime programs listed under the heading "Monday Through Friday Programs" are all programs broadcast Monday through Friday at the same time each day.

Halfway down the same column and under the same time line you will note the word "exceptions." All programs listed under this heading are those which are not broadcast at the same time Monday through Friday but are different every day or broadcast in a series of two or more such as Monday-Tuesday, Monday-Wednesday-Friday, etc. In other words, if you are looking for a news program or a dramatic serial broadcast at the same time each day it will be listed under the "Monday Through Friday" heading. All other programs will be found under "Exceptions."

Music by Bomber

Bombers roaring east to Britain carry a mixed freight, most of its nature being a military secret. It is no secret, however, that planes of the Ferry Command carry recordings of the British-American Festival programs heard here on CBS Fridays at 3:30 p.m. EWT.

BBC assembles the records and selects those best suited to the English taste. Incidentally, war seems to have turned the British listening public toward a taste for the finer things. Symphonic music is more popular in England today than ever before.

Record shipments by bomber presents serious problems. The recordings must be specially packed to protect them against the sub-zero cold through which the high-flying bombers travel. For protection against the hazards of the Battle of the Atlantic, the records depend upon the skill and courage of Ferry Command pilots. So far not a single record has been reported lost.

From the Mouths of Babes

One of the many alarming things about youngsters is their careless, brutal realism. They use truth as a pin-prick to puncture inflated adult egos. And their trick of putting things in their proper places can often destroy illusions their elders have carefully built up. To prove these points we offer:

Case Study Number One. The other day, Jim Kelly was throwing himself into the part of Mike Clancy on Blue's "Mr. Keen, Tracer of Lost Persons" show. His carefully planned speech tones rolled through the loudspeaker at the Kelly home. Unimpressed, Jim's five-year-old son stated flatly, "That's only Pop talking funny."

Case Study Number Two. Recently Wendell Niles, announcer on Al Pearce's NBC show, gave son Wendell, Jr., the job of setting the family dinner table. When the parents sat down they noticed the absence of bread and butter. Instead there was a package of cigarettes (the Pearce show sponsor's brand). Under the package was a note, "This is our bread and butter."

Bing Sings in Spanish

Bing Crosby's motion-picture short on golf, which will be completed this week, will be issued in English and Spanish versions. Although a Spanish narrator will dub in sound for the South American version, no translator of Crosby's song, the climax of the picture, will be needed. Bing will do the song in both languages.

Truth Is Stranger

Phillips H. Lord recently turned down a suggested plot outline for "Counter Spy" on the grounds that it was too fantastic. The plot was shelved until a news story released by the Navy from Washington revealed how an old destroyer sank a submarine—and paragraph for paragraph the story was the same as the discarded outline.

Dinah Shore Says:

"The Navy has taken most of our handsome young men, so now most girls are hitching their wagons to a tar."

Pencil for Baton

Many times during his career Donald Voorhees became annoyed with the inconvenience of using a baton for conducting, especially at rehearsals. When changes or notations were needed in the manuscript, he had to put down the baton, stop rehearsal, pick up a pencil, made the notation, take up the baton and continue. He started using the pencil for conducting and found the new procedure so satisfactory that he continues to use it to this day.

"All Is Fair" Rule Holds

Tom Wallace, speaking as the sage of "Uncle Walter's Dog House," has the following bit of homely philosophy to offer: "In love, baseball rules do NOT apply. A girl who can get to first base is always OUT. The girl who never makes a hit is always SAFE AT HOME."

Profitable Trip

The amazing story behind the three luxurious suits Karl Weber has been sporting about the studios lately is that he purchased the material for all three in Guatemala last summer for eight dollars and had them made up in this country.

Shangri-La Located

Now that President Roosevelt has announced that Brig. Gen. James H. Doolittle took off for Tokyo from a flying-base at Shangri-La, the exact location of Shangri-La can now be revealed.

Shangri-La, some experts at Radio City have deduced, is located at a point half-way between Fibber McGee's Wistful Vista and "Guiding Light's" Five Points.

Further information can be obtained from Fibber and Molly's Uncle Dennis... Sade's Aunt Bessie; Carmichael, the polar bear, or even Charlie McCarthy's pal, Skinny Dugan.

Victory Garden Party

A novel party idea was introduced in Hollywood recently by Billy Mills, bandleader on the "Fibber McGee and Molly" show. Calling it a Victory Garden Shower, Mills provided the refreshments, and each guest brought a half-dozen plants, spaded a section of Mills' garden and planted them.

minutes between the two shows, and as Miller's musicians were leaving the studio, Vinson's east was coming in. Glenn and Owen had been chums at Fort Morgan, Colorado, where they attended high school together, and, though they both have climbed to success in radio, they hadn't seen each other since . . .

In the service: J. Parker Wheatley, moderator of "Northwestern University Reviewing Stand" (MBS) and producer of the CBS sustainer "Of Men and Books" . . . Rene Gekiere, who made final appearance recently as Rod Elgin in "The Remanee of Helen Trent."

GENERAL ENTERTAINMENT

Under the sponsorship of the USO-Camp Shows, Inc., some fifteen summer units, with nearly three hundred performers, have started tours of Army and Navy posts throughout the nation. Their reception has been spontaneous and enthusiastic, indicating that the lads in Uncle Sam's service have a warm spot in their hearts for that type of entertainment which reached its peak of popularity early in the century . . .

Character of the entertainment offered is typical of the old-time vaudeville pattern. "Full Speed Ahead," for example, which opened May 15 at the Norfolk Naval Training Station in Norfolk, Virginia, included Sybil Bowan, Harriet Lane, Ross Wyse, Jr., June Mann, Harold Barnes, Shea and Raymond, the Gae Foster Girls . . .

The "Roxy Theater Revue," which opened at Camp Robinson, Little Rock, Arkansas, featured Dave Appollon, one of the standard vaudeville favorites, a bevy of Gae Foster Sweethearts—sixteen, count 'em—and several top-notch supporting acts in a wide range of types . . .

Then there are the "Major Bowes Prize Winners," "Keep Shufflin'," a Noble Sissle production, "Hullabaloo," "On the Loose"—in short, the type of proven entertainment that appeals to the boys in uniform who prefer laughs rather than tears in their spare hours after drill and fatigue.

Joyce Jordan

nor had his pulse shown any improvement. Twelve o'clock passed. The clock ticked relentlessly on. Twelve-thirty, no change. Old Dr. Webster sat with his gray face cupped in his hands studying his notes. He had just felt his son's pulse.

"Still feeble. But it—" his voice cracked—"you—you were right, Dr. Jordan. It—it is the same. The serum isn't working. Something's gone wrong! Alan is—he's dying. He's going to die!"

Joyce tried to comfort the old man. She failed.

"You're a doctor," he said harshly. "You know it as well as I do! In a coma since five o'clock—all the signs point to my son's death."

"But the injection—the serum you gave him."

"It—it should have worked hours ago. He—he had such faith in me—believed in me, and I've failed him, failed him in this as I did in everything in his life. Now he's going to die because of me. I've killed—killed my son because of the same egoism that Alan resented so much. Alan—oh, Alan, my son . . ."

Joyce bent over the young unconscious doctor. Her sensitive hands held his wrist. She felt a flicker of life under her fingers. She called the boy's father.

Hope? Was there really hope? He hurried to Joyce's side, quickly felt the youth's pulse.

"Yes," he cried in an eager voice. "Yes, this may be the turning-point. Quickly now, we must get his blood pressure . . . take his temperature . . ."

Joyce came home at five-thirty that morning. Paul had made a sandwich and was waiting up for her. She was tired, but happy. She knew that Alan would live, that father and son would be reunited and that the old surgeon now considered her a friend. His experiment was a success, an invaluable contribution to the cause of a nation at war. But Joyce faced a new problem.

Walton, her father, the man who had deserted her in childhood, insisted on a reconciliation. Paul seemed strangely taken with the older man's sophistication and knowledge of the Far East. In fact, Paul said, Walton had given him scoop material for his broadcasts that had been sensational.

"But that's not the important thing, Joyce," he told her. "The important thing is that Walton told me all the trouble he had caused you when you were a little girl. Things you never told me. Now he wants to see you. He's begged me to arrange another meeting. He wants to ask your forgiveness for the past . . ."

"But how can he change so quickly? Why didn't he come back to my mother years ago? I don't believe he's changed now, Paul. He wants something."

Paul pointed out to Joyce how old Dr. Webster had changed toward his son and asked Joyce to be only human and forgive. Reluctantly she consented to meet her father. As she dropped off to sleep that night, she knew she'd forgive him and that everything in the world was all right again . . .

But she had a surprise in store. Her father proved to be a charming man when reconciliation finally did occur. He was gray-haired, quiet-spoken and had the polish and manners of a cosmopolitan traveler. Only one thing seemed peculiar. He introduced Joyce to a young and pretty girl named Myra Lee and told Joyce that he and Myra planned to be married.

Joyce was astonished. Myra was barely 20 years old, young enough to be her younger sister. She was the only daughter of Courtney Lee, an extremely wealthy man who had made a fortune in fabrics and plasties. Why was Myra attracted to the charming but aging Roger Walton? What was the secret behind the match?

As the weeks passed quickly by, the mystery grew deeper. For one thing, there was Walton's promise of a $10,000 donation to the hospital. Joyce believed her father to be wealthy in his own right and was surprised one day to find him borrowing money from Myra. She began to doubt if the contribution ever would be made. She began to doubt her father's good faith. Was it true he actually had reformed?

BUT on the day that Courtney Lee, Myra's father, returned from Hawaii, Walton came into Dr. Molly's office and graciously dropped a certified check for $10,000 on the desk. Was there some connection between Lee's return and Walton's gift?

Another problem arose. Myra begged Joyce to find her a position at the hospital.

"I feel so useless, Joyce," the girl pleaded, "and I want to help when everyone else is working to win the war. Please find something for me."

Joyce, who had become Myra's close friend, found an opening for her as an assistant in the children's ward. It was there that Myra came in contact with young and attractive Dr. Webster. And that meeting brought great repercussions. Myra and sensitive Alan Webster fell deeply in love with each other—so deeply that Myra secretly broke off her engagement with Walton.

She told Joyce about it and Joyce told her that she believed the match with Dr. Webster was far more natural than Myra's proposed marriage with the sophisticated old man. But Courtney Lee was strangely antagonistic to Dr. Webster. So was Walton. Myra's father said the match was impossible. Despite the opposition of the two older men, Joyce encouraged Myra in her new life.

It was then the bombshell broke. It happened on the day that Dr. Webster and Myra were to have picked out her engagement ring. Instead, Myra came to Joyce's apartment that night alone and was on the verge of nervous hysteria.

"Oh, Joyce," she cried, "what can I do?"

"Why, Myra, what's happened? What's wrong?"

"My engagement with Alan is broken. I can't marry him."

The pretty girl buried her face on the arm of a davenport and sobbed. Joyce sat beside her and put a comforting arm over her shoulders.

"Tell me all about it, Myra. What's gone wrong?"

Myra looked up. Her face was white with fear and sorrow.

"Oh, Joyce, Daddy says that Mother was insane; that insanity had afflicted her family for generations, and that I, too, have inherited the strain and that life with Alan would hasten the time when a breakdown may occur . . ."

Read this thrilling story, adapted by Wiley S. Maloney, then listen to "Joyce Jordan" over CBS—written by Julian Funt and broadcast Monday through Friday at 2:15 p.m. EWT, 1:15 CWT, 1:30 MWT, 12:30 PWT, under the sponsorship of General Foods Corp. for La France, Satina and Postum.

HAPPY over his wife's gift of masculine toiletries is NBC's Ted Steele

FEMININE FORUM • by Edith Hampton

To My Man... With Love

THE man in your life won't be dubbed a dandy if you say it with cosmetics—the male animal variety—this Father's Day. Fact is, your favorite man, be he daddy or draft bait, will probably fall in love all over again—just as you do every time he gifts you with a luscious bottle of Eau-de-Something.

Time's come when masculine toiletries are positively he-man. They're packaged and scented with lumberjack manliness. Pine, tweed, smoke, spice, leather, heather and great outdoor odors give him a big-but-wonderful-brute halo. And besides just smelling swooney, these shaving "musts" keep him best-groomed to boot.

If you want to pay tangible tribute to his good taste, select some of those practical but oh-so-handsome shave kits now on the market. Shaving-cream, soap, lotion, hairdressing, talcum, after-shave astringents and cologne—packed in party wrappings—take his barber-ritual out of the humdrum. A definite medium for feminine flattery, these luxurious gift boxes drive deep into the most vulnerable line of his defense—the male ego. If you're at all skeptical about this, call to mind his wobegone wailings for yesterday's crop of curls. Or ask yourself why he struts (always surreptitiously) before your dressing-table mirror, shooting casual—but studied—glances at his happy vision. Recall his painstaking shopping excursion for a tie to match, his "just washed my hair and can't do a thing with it" bereavement, the way he pampers the snifles.

If he's the pipe and slipper type, a'yearning for the days when, the Early American Old Spice shave set is true-to-type. Crisply scented with the tang of spice, the toiletries are contained in Early American pottery reproductions of ye olde medicine jar and barber mug. The fast-lathering quality of the shave soap and the blended-to-male-complexion talc are bound to win male approval. And your clever choice of either one of two Shulton shave chests, filled with pottery bottles of refreshing after-shave, talcum and cologne, will score a "homer" with his masculine fancy.

The old brown jug ain't what she used to be now that Courtley toiletries adopted it for their very own. Blown out of porcelain and topped by royal crown horseheads, the jugs are a potion for the sophisticated, he's-been-around lad. Especially penny-prudent, the new nine-ounce, one-dollar line: hairdress, pre- and post-shave liquids, powder, deodorant and cologne are replicas—in miniature—of the regular high-priced line. Scented and styled for men in mufti or military dress, Courtley lotions are bound to put love notions in his head.

When your heart beats pitter "pater" answer the inner call with a Yardley "To Father" gift box. Packed in jolly holiday wrappings, the Yardley set of shave lotion and wood lather bowl, lasts a year—a daily reminder that your heart belongs to daddy. Lenthaler's inexpensive "Tripkit," styled for summer travel, is a boon to your man if he's the Odysseus type. And if Dad's touchy 'bout the fast-appearing nude spots where his hairline used to be, a really wonderful scalp stimulant, poured out of Lenthaler laboratory test tubes recently, will provoke his hearty applause.

Sturdy stone jugs, with the scent of Highland heather and Scotch fern make the Seaforth line of men's toiletries a bonnie gift for the Scotchmen (no innuendo intended) in your life. Their swell and very effective men's deodorant is fast becoming a favorite with meticulous males throughout the country. If he hasn't tried it already, he'll undoubtedly be perennially grateful for your plenty-smart selection. And don't fear he'll tag you: "Unsubtle Hinder." "If the hat fits him," you'll be doing a worthy turn.

PEPSODENT POWDER

makes teeth

TWICE AS BRIGHT

HI! I'M CHARLENE:

... AND PEPSODENT MADE IT EASY TO KNOW I'M SHIRLEY!

"YOU MAY HAVE SEEN US... performing as drum majorettes... at the Chicago Bears' football games... or other places. You know we really do look a lot alike. When we made the tooth powder test, Mother suggested that Shirley be the one to use Pepsodent. I chose another leading brand."

"IT SURE TURNED OUT to be a swell suggestion... for Shirley! While her teeth had never been quite as bright as mine, after she used Pepsodent her teeth became easily twice as bright! Mother was so impressed she immediately switched to Pepsodent and could hardly wait 'til I did."

HANDY TWINS TEST AND CONFIRM THIS FACT: INDEPENDENT LABORATORY TESTS FOUND NO OTHER DENTIFRICE THAT COULD MATCH THE HIGH LUSTRE PRODUCED BY PEPSODENT. BY ACTUAL TEST, PEPSODENT PRODUCES A LUSTRE TWICE AS BRIGHT AS THE AVERAGE OF ALL OTHER LEADING BRANDS!

For the safety of your smile... use Pepsodent twice a day... see your dentist twice a year!

"Two Cheers! Pepsodent leads the parade with us!"

WHAT'S COOKING!

By GEORGIA SCOTT

FOOD for FATHER

THERE'S more to celebrating Father's Day than letting that man of yours sleep 'til ten . . . toss the Sunday papers and his clothes around . . . forget about Rover's bath . . . disregard the lawn-mower and complete a four-some down at the club. And if you think that you're Lady Bountiful just because you've gifted him with a half-dozen ties, ask the man who owns them!

If you're really interested in making Father's Day something to tell the boys down at the office about, include Dad's favorite dish (not necessarily fish) in your schedule of surprises. You can live with "pa" twenty-five years and still find him unpredictable as a woman. Yet I'd bet a chef's hat you discovered his fidelity to favorite foods long before you reached the "I do" stage. Mrs. Adelaide Hawley, CBS star of "Woman's Page of the Air," tells me that "Egg Noodles Benedict" is hubby Mark's food-love. As a matter of fact, "Eggs Anystyle" would describe his recipe preference more accurately. Eggs, fresh off the Hawleys' Jersey farm, are a menu-must in Mark's diet. And when I discovered that the radio commentator was not the only male animal to rate eggs a choice food, I tackled Mrs. Hawley for her recipe. Think the men in your house will love:

Egg Noodles Benedict

- 1 package of fine egg noodles
- 1/2 cup butter
- 2 egg yolks
- 1 tablespoon lemon juice
- 6 slices frizzled ham
- 6 poached eggs
- Paprika

Cook fine egg noodles as directed and drain. Divide the butter into two portions, put one piece in a double boiler containing hot, not boiling, water with egg yolks, dash of paprika (sweet red pepper) and lemon juice. Stir constantly until butter is melted. Add remaining portion of butter and cook until sauce is thickened. Arrange egg noodles in six nests on a hot platter. On each nest arrange a piece of ham which has been frizzled lightly in a frying-pan and on this drop a poached egg. Over these pour the Hollandaise sauce and serve.

Fisherman's Clam Pie, a Mark War-now food-ambrosia, will be baked by fifteen-year-old daughter Elaine as a Dad's Day specialty. Keeping house for Father, Sister and Brother since Mother died, Elaine remembers how Mother prepared the "clam bake" every Father's Day.

Fisherman's Clam Pie

- 1 quart soft-shell clams, chopped fine
- 6 slices good breakfast bacon
- 3 tablespoons flour
- 1 1/2 pints seasoned mashed potatoes
- 1/2 teaspoon pepper
- 3 teaspoons onion juice
- 1/2 cup raw grated carrots

Elaine either has the market prepare the clams or removes sacs from them and washes clams in several waters. She puts bacon through food chopper and cooks in hot pan until fat is melted. Adds clams and cooks three minutes. She blends cold water with the flour, pepper and onion juice (it may be bought already prepared), then adds mixture to the clams and bacon, stirring until thick. She has the mashed potatoes mixed with grated carrots ready. And spreads half of the potato mixture over bottom of greased baking-dish or casserole. Then she adds the clam mixture and covers with remaining potato mixture, bakes it for one-half hour in moderate oven.

HE-MAN BODY...

WHAT do people say when they see you on the beach? Then you show what you REALLY are—a HE-MAN or a weakling! And don't think clothes can cover a flat chest, skinny arms, pipestem legs EITHER! People KNOW when a man's got a puny build—or when his personality glows with smashing strength, rippling muscles, tireless energy!

In Just 15 Minutes a Day I'll Prove I Can Make YOU a New Man!

That's all I need to PROVE—regardless of how old or young you are, or how ashamed you may be of your present physique—that I can give you a body men envy and women admire. Biceps that can dish it out, and a muscle-ridged stomach that can take it. A full, deep barrel-chest. Legs that never tire. A tough, sinewy back. An all-around physique that can laugh at ANY kind of rough going.

And suppose you are called to the colors! Will your body be the laughing-stock or the envy of your buddies? RIGHT NOW many soldiers and sailors are using my methods. They know a MAN'S body means "easier going," more fun, quicker promotion!

I was once a 97 lb. weakling, but you'd never believe it to look at me now, would you? Through my discovery of "Dynamic Tension" I changed myself into "The World's Most Perfectly Developed Man." I'm LIVING PROOF of the miracles "Dynamic Tension" can perform—right in the privacy of your own home!

Miss Sonya Breder, Cleveland, Ohio.—If you tune in your radio to the "Saturday Night Serenade," you can hear the lovely voice of JESSICA DRAGONETTE singing your favorite songs. MOVIE-RADIO GUIDE's readers have elected Jessica as tops in the classical music field. The little girl who is only five feet two inches tall and weighs but a hundred pounds is dynamite over the radio... Miss Dragonette was born in Calcutta, India, of French parentage. After she was six years old she traveled with her father into many off-the-way places of the world until she was old enough to go to school. She was brought to America and placed in the cloistered quiet of Georgian Court Convent at Lakewood, New Jersey. It was there that she came to love music when she learned to play the piano... Jessica made her theatrical debut in Max Reinhardt's "The Miracle" and was a success. Broadway saw her in several shows while she was still in her teens. But a very simple letter changed the course of her life when she received a request from the newly organized National Broadcasting Company to join the artists staff. Jessica accepted the offer to forego the glitter and applause of the stage to invest her talent in a new entertainment medium... Although today the "Saturday Night Serenade" has a large studio audience from which Miss Dragonette can get her inspiration, at first she had to learn to sing into an unresponsive microphone. One of the secrets of her success is that she employed the same effort either with or without an audience before her... She is completely feminine, preferring a single rose in a vase to a dozen American Beauties... Jessica has memorized almost a thousand songs and about a hundred operettas... She likes oatmeal, often nibbles at a raw carrot, doesn't like caviar... is always in evening dress when she broadcasts... her eyes are blue but of an unusual shade which she likes to call "plaid."

Mrs. Irene Upsahl, Chicago, Ill.—WHITFIELD CONNOR has the role of Frank Chase in the daytime serial "Romance of Helen Trent." In "Helpmate" it is PAUL McGRATH who handles the part of Clyde Marshall.

Bill Bliss, Dayton, Ohio.—It was JOHNNY GIBSON who took the role of Tippy in the show "The Man I Married." Johnny also played Doc Felix, the wisecracking chauffeur, in the show "Michael and Kitty."

Mrs. George P. MacAgy, Chicago, Ill.—ROBERT DONAT (pronounced doan-at) made a tremendous success of his portrayal of the schoolmaster in James Hilton's "Goodbye, Mr. Chips."

Miss Barbara Campbell, Martinez, Calif.—CARL RAVAZZA's orchestra is on and off the air, hence it is difficult to give definite information. However, if you wish to write him, you may reach him in care of the Wm. Morris Agency, 202 N. Canyon Drive, Beverly Hills, California... Carl has been playing in San Francisco.

her soon after . . . Collyer was born in New York City on June 18, 1908, the brother of June Collyer, the former film star. When he was young, Bud wanted to go on the stage, but his family persuaded him to study law. While at Williams College he conducted an orchestra to help pay his tuition; received his law degree from Fordham University in 1933. But after two years of practise, Bud answered the call of the grease-paint. He leaped from "The Fields Beyond" on Broadway to "Cavalcade" on CBS. He has been heard recently as Tom in the radio show "Kate Hopkins," but is more familiar to his fans as Abie in "Abie's Irish Rose" . . . Bud likes to ride horseback, play tennis, baseball and football . . . is exactly six feet tall, weighs about 175 pounds, has dark-brown hair and hazel eyes.

Miss Marion Sweet, Haverhill, Mass. — "Nothing doing!" declared VAUGHN MONROE when his boss, Jack Marshard, wanted him to lead one of the Marshard-controlled band units. But when Marshard threatened to fire Vaughn from his job as trumpet-player and singer, then Vaughn saw the proposition in another light. With his ten-piece "society band" he played alternately in Miami Beach and Boston for two seasons, then he fired the entire crew and hired a thirteen-piece swing band. His engagement at Seiler's Ten Acres in Wayland, Massachusetts, rocked the entire nation in less than five months. Today Vaughn knows what it is to be a successful maestro with a band that is equally adept at swing or sweet music . . . He likes outboard-motor-boat racing, golf, tennis, swimming and horseback riding . . . is six feet two inches tall, weighs about 185 pounds, has blue eyes and brown hair . . . Vaughn hopes some day to retire to his farm in New Hampshire . . . He was born in Akron, Ohio, on October 7, 1911, but went to school in Jeannette, Pennsylvania . . . In 1926 he won a state contest for a trumpet solo in Milwaukee.

Mary Eileen Vance, Dubuque, Iowa. — Last February 28 ROBERT ADOLPH ELSON and Jeanne Kuhl said their I do's at a simple wedding attended only by relatives. Bob has millions of radio fans who look to him for accurate and interesting word pictures of sports events . . . Bob was interested in dramatics and debating during his career at Loyola and Northwestern Universities. He left school to enter radio in 1927. In 1928 he entered an announcers' competition and won it. The national pastime is Bob's hobby and livelihood, but he has a soft spot in his heart for three-cushion billiards.

BUSY MAN

Radio's Busiest Director, Guilbert Gibbons, Fights a Battle Against Time to Keep His Four Daily Shows Running Smoothly

1. SIX A. M. and a long day ahead. Guilbert Gibbons leaps up full of joy and vigor—sorry, no leap! Radio's busiest director looks as though he'd like to make the clock leap

HIS DAILY SCHEDULE

9:30 to 10:30 a.m.—"Road of Life" rehearsal at NBC.
 10:30 to 10:45 a.m.—"Road of Life" on the air.
 11:15 to 12:15 p.m.—"Guiding Light" rehearsal.
 12:15 to 12:45 p.m.—Race to CBS, reset musical bridges, sound-effects and so on for "Road of Life" repeat.
 12:45 to 1:00 p.m.—"Road of Life" repeat on air over CBS.
 1:00 to 1:30 p.m.—Rush back to NBC and set music and other details for "Guiding Light."
 1:30 to 1:45 p.m.—"Guiding Light" on the air.
 1:45 to 2:45 p.m.—"Right to Happiness" rehearsal.
 2:45 to 3:00 p.m.—"Right to Happiness" on the air.
 3:00 p.m. to ??? —Auditions, script conferences and attention to other details.

Time indicated above is CWT.

2. WORK BEGINS AT BREAKFAST as director Gibbons reads program notes. Wife Julia is doing her best to get the orange juice safely within reach of his backhand grab

3. DAILY EMERGENCY comes when the whole family organizes Gibbons for a sprint to the office. Four-year-old daughter Judy serves as his hat-check girl

4. "ROAD OF LIFE" rehearsal starts Gibbons' studio day. Front: Nannette Sargent, Sidney Breese. Rear, left to right: Bret Morrison, Gibbons and Ken Griffin

5. "GUIDING LIGHT" rehearsal brings Gibbons into a hot argument about sound-effects with soundman Mike Eisenmenger. The cast members who are waiting for the storm to subside are Sarajane Wells, Ed Prentiss, Laurette Fillbrandt

6. LIKE A CAPTAIN on the bridge, Gibbons is cool, intent and weary as his fourth show of the day goes on the air. From his control-room post he throws a cue to an actor. Engineer Charlie Butler stands by

7. HOME AGAIN! Four shows, three rehearsals and such details as auditions and conferences have left their mark. Julia's greeting is sympathetic

8. PORTRAIT of a radio director reading his dear daughter to sleep. All that is needed to cause an explosion is someone to whisper in Gibbons' ear, "My, but you radio people must have an easy life!"

Keep the Blitz from Your Baby!

Poor little China baby, scared of war so close and dreadful. What's to prevent that happening here, in your town, to YOUR baby?

Men can't prevent it—even big tough soldiers—unless they have tanks, planes, ships, guns . . . more of them, bigger ones, better ones, than any in the hands of the enemy.

And the supplies and machines for successful war cost money. Will you help?

This advertisement has been prepared entirely as a patriotic gift to the Government. The art work, copy, composition and plating, as well as the space in this magazine, have been donated by all concerned as part of their effort towards helping win the War.

How to buy a share in VICTORY

Where's the money coming from?

YOU'RE going to chip it in, out of the money you are getting TODAY. Instead of spending it all, you're going to lend some of it to Uncle Sam. He'll put it to work for America. He will give you a written promise to pay it back in 10 years, with interest (2.9% a year). If that promise isn't good, nothing's good. But because this is America, it IS good.

How can you chip in?

By buying War Savings Bonds. You can buy one today for $18.75. It is worth $25.00 when Uncle Sam pays you back in 10 years.

INSTALLMENT payments?

Yes! If you can't spare $18.75 today, buy War Savings Stamps for 10¢ or 25¢ or 50¢. Ask for a Stamp book, save a bookful of Stamps, then exchange them for a War Savings Bond.

What IS a BOND?

A piece of legal paper, official promise from Uncle Sam that he'll pay you back your money plus interest. The Bond will be registered in your name. Keep it safely put away.

Can you CASH a Bond?

Yes, any time 60 days after you buy it, if you get in a jam and need money, you can cash a Bond (at Post Office or bank).

WHERE can you buy War Savings Bonds and Stamps? At your nearest Post Office. At a bank. At many stores all over the country.

WHEN?

Our enemies have been getting ready for the past 7 or 8 years. Are you going to wait till they get nearer our kids?
