FCC Aftermath?

When Lever Brothers, giant combine controlling Swan soap, a host of other soaps, other products, this week announced that Keystone Broadcasting System would soon release transcription of the Burns and Allen program to 129 non-network stations, two "firsts," one an actual, one a potential development, were ominously projected upon the radio horizon.

Keystone Broadcasting is a well-established organization, operating as a syndicate, selling transcriptions of network programs to non-network stations. Alka-Seltzer has been using recordings of Lum 'n' Abner on some hundred Keystone affiliates. Other network-originating programs too have been recorded for Keystone release by the dozen. The Keystone system gives sponsors even more complete advertising coverage than could be possible if programs were restricted to network stations alone.

But actual "first" in Lever Brothers move was that it calls for release of Burns and Allen to no less than 129 Keystoners which, with 117 stations in NBC-Red hookup and 14 CBS-ers already using recordings, will amass bewildering all-time high of 260 total stations carrying program. On basis of Crossley ratings alone, Burns and Allen, representing a $6000 talent cost, just don't happen to deserve that much; other shows' talent costs are as high as $17,500.

Potential "first," therefore, and fraught with profound significance, is that such recording of big-name programs for release via Keystone or other transcription syndicates may be Lever Brothers move to hedge against possibility FCC "anti-trust, anti-monopoly" regulations against the big live-talent networks are made enforceable. For present, court ruling has been made impossible for indefinite period by agreement of counsel for both FCC and networks. Yet question remained: were Lever Brothers again proving, as they had often proved before, their farsightedness?

On whether or not fear of FCC regulations' enforcement inspired move to enormous and unprecedented coverage by recordings of non-network stations, Lever Brothers at week's end remained mum. Inspiration for move, said soap-combine's radio masterminds, was simply to get greater advertising coverage for their product. Other radio masterminds, having learned in ways of their own that Lever Brothers colleagues have lately given much study to possibilities in event of FCC triumph over networks, direly reserved right to their own gloomy suspicions—started wondering what life would be like in radio if show business came dressed in a 16-inch-diameter aluminum can which bore a 16-inch-diameter wax disc. While it would be tough on show business and on radio, they wondered if listeners fully realized that it would be even tougher on them. KFI, 8 p.m. Tues.

Santa Comes to Town

Night after Thanksgiving, three quarters of a million people jam-packed the sidewalks on Hollywood boulevard to applaud Santa's arrival for the purpose of opening famed, dazzlingly illuminated Santa Claus Lane. Half the number comprised goggle-eyed youngsters, breathless at sight of the properly padded, rosy cheeked, snowy be-whiskered Saint. The other half was composed of indulgent parents, who secretly came to witness and stood pop-eyed over NBC's exclusive parade of favorite radio luminaries escorting Old Nick in his impressive ride down the street.

As parade time approached, the center of bustle and hilarity was NBC's parking lot, where floats were being passengered, were falling into line, and where waiting participants regaled onlookers with entertainment worth six figures.

Feuding were sassy Charlie McCarthy, jaunty in a vivid red Santa suit, and Jerry Lester. Bally-hoed Lester: "Let's go according to Crossleys. Gangway for me."

Repartee Charlie, giving Edgar a knowing look and Lester's float a disdainful glance: "His is a B version of our float."

Endearing themselves to parade lookers were George Burns and Gracie Allen, whose adopted children, Ronnie and Sandra, were perched on a float drawn by a white swan. The crowd gasped with delight when their salutations to Gracie were met with her spontaneous, inimitable, "hello."

As Red Skelton and Company rolled from the lot onto the street, balancing precariously on a truck piled high with corn shocks, Red announced: "Here we are folks. On top the corn as usual."

Grand Marshal of the procession was Irene Rich, attired in a pure white Western costume and riding a beautiful white horse. No. 1 entry, she was able to see the entire procession, as she dismounted at the disbanding point and joined a group of children on the curb.

Fibber McGee and Molly, in command of a firetruck and wearing the slick bonnets of fire-eaters, were disappointed about a fast ride back from the disbanding point to NBC. They envisioned a hectic, siren-heralded hurtle down the boulevard, but the huge crowd slowed the mad ride to a sedate roll at 10 m.p.h.

One car remained alone and forlorn on the lot, after all the others had ventured parade-ward. It was labeled for Jack Benny, who was held at the picture studio. Jello, however, was admirably represented by a huffin', puffin' Maxwell, chauffeured by a liveried Rochester. Spread out with lordly attitude over the back seat was Carmichael. On one of Hollywood's nippiest nights, shivering onlookers envied the polar bear's luxuriant, white fur.

At the tag end of the parade, just ahead of Santa's resplendent float, straggled a very dejected figure on a sway-backed horse. It was Bob Hope in satin colors of a jockey. Placards, toted by five small boys who received a buck apiece for their cooperation, told the story: (1) "Here Comes Mandrake"; (2) "Crosby's Fastest Race Horse"; (3) "Ridden by Bob Hope"; (4) "Towed by Jerry Colonna"; (5)—(Period).

Sub-Dominant Evils

Unlike movies, newspapers, theatres, Radio hates back-tracking, likes to be right the first time. Growing fast and growing big, it owes its all to men who think fast, act fast to forge sound-steel policies. Monumental difference between executives of other-mentioned industries and Radio's master minds is that when latter criticize people and things they think not of the modern scene but of days to come. Startling for accuracy, pungency, probity, are these criticisms of Radio, forthcoming in confidential moments this week from executive of one of industry's most prominent agencies, who must remain unnamed:

Halo surrounding guesting movie stars will have to be rudely lopped off by bolder radio producers to get good performances. Moviedom's big names may be big shucks at camera-emoting, are too often third-rate before microphones. Too often out for picking up easy "side-money," halo-shrouded camera-genies are chary of rehearsals, bad actors when they do show up. Producers, keen to hold their jobs, back down on radio-acting's fine points.

Prediction: Radio's agencies and their producers will have to crack down, suffer resignedly first consequences, which will be diminishing of big names in radio shows, but emerge later with better radio acting.

Other criticisms also stemming from fact movies are relatively dominant, radio sub-dominant entertainment industry:

Up-and-coming younger talent gravitates lemming-wise toward movie industry, uses radio only as crutch to hop toward cameradom. Prediction: Time will come, and soon, when all radio, in Hollywood and elsewhere, will see young talent training, as now in New York, for radio alone.

As soon as possible, says unnamed but straight-thinking radio executive, Radio wants not to lag behind public clamor for "better shows" as have movies, but to be so far ahead of clamor that subdominant industry becomes dominant, dominant in merit, dominant in power, dominant in the hearts of Americans.

Silent Might

Since the very beginning of World War II have U. S. radio correspondents and the Nazi Reichsrundfunk Gesellschaft (State Radio Trust) teetered and tottered—the one to tell their U. S. countrymen the truest possible story under conditions of the Nazis' so-called "voluntary" censorship, the other to enforce in reality the strictest censorship possible without losing "face." With more than Oriental patience and ingenuity have the Nazis toiled to "advise" forthright U. S. newsmen in ways of "prudence" rather than provide tacit admission of skeletons in Nazi closets (or on the plains of Poland) by outright censorial crack-down.

With equal ingenuity and too-little-known heroism have the newsmen labored to get the truth out, by innuendo, by use of Americanisms intelligible only to Americans, without provoking that outright censorial ban. To the very bitter end did newsmen and Reichsrundfunk Gesellschaft serve their countries, each in his own way.

By the time the U. S. Congress junked the remainder of its "neutrality" law a few weeks ago, however, time had come, too, for the jockeying to end. U. S. newsmen, sensing the inevitable, were throwing caution to the winds in their reportage, and when the broadcast of a Mutual correspondent was silenced midway no one, neither U. S. networks nor Nazi censors, could so much as pretend to be surprised.

But with the Truth-Censorship contest ended, the face-saving contest still remained. First move came from NBC, straight-facedly announcing receipt of list of grievances against "conditions" from its Berlin correspondent. Next move came from Gesellschaft-etc.—announcement that NBC's Alex Dreier was verboten because of unjustified protests to NBC, made without first "consulting" with the "proper authorities" in Berlin. Third inning, NBC advised G-etc. no more broadcasts would be made until the Dreier suspension was explained. Fourth inning, G-etc. announced no more broadcasts would be permitted anyway and at all. At week's end apparently the last inning had gone to the Nazis but the victory, if any, was a hollow one. To U. S. minds at least it seemed that NBC had struck the pro-founder blows, and anyway, to U. S. minds was this much incontestable: the silence that reigned in Berlin was the silence of weakness—the silence of U. S. correspondents was the assured, confident silence of truth, the silence of might.

Timely Reincarnation

When physically fragile, idealistically powerful, practically bewildered Woodrow Wilson finished breaking health and spirit against shrewder-trading European peace conferees and aloof-remoteness-crazed U. S. post-war Congress, among some of New York's wealthier intelligentsia was formed Foundation for Preservation of ill-fated Wilson's ill-fated Fourteen Points.

For twenty-one years have Foundation's mental giants ignored the one U. S. citizen who by gifts of intelligence and moral power is best qualified to explain meaning of Points to Americans—daughter of Points' author herself, Eleanor Wilson McAdoo. Exclusively to Radio Life at press-time this week came word that Eleanor Wilson McAdoo had been at last discovered.

Discovered by the Foundation too, apparently, had been that situation today resembles with uncanny realism situation out of which Points were born. If democracies would like to have more concrete ideas on what the shooting's for, Points will go far to supply the need.

Accordingly on Dec. 21, E. W. McAdoo will radio from New York Points' modern significance at 21st annual meet of Woodrow Wilson Foundation for all America's ears, for all Britain's ears as well. On occasion of her Points-meaningful renaissance will Eleanor Wilson McAdoo probably share company with no less than the President of the United States. It'll be a big day.

Fighting for her father's Points, E. W. McAdoo fights for Churchill-Roosevelt Atlantic Charter points as well. To German Foreign Office leer that Churchill-Roosevelt Eight Points were but plagiarism of points by a greater American replied greater American's daughter, on recent tour:

"It is not plagiarism . . . to enunciate principles of human decency and peace any more than it would be plagiarism to repeat . . . the ten commandments."

Vallee to Microfilm

Specially sensitized, specially processed, and exposed in specially constructed cameras is microfilm, used by warring world for bomb-proof copying of art treasures, recording of scientific data, preservation of other of civilization's mementos of less brutal days. This week announced Rudy Vallee he had found for microfilm still another use—the copying and indexing of voluminous records accumulated in 15 action-packed years in show business.

Labor will require several months, when completed will reduce to few square feet space now occupied in basement of new Vallee Hollywood home by dozens of metal filing cabinets. Among minutiae to be enshrined:

The once - characteristic megaphone, used in pre-amplifier, pre-radio days. The first baton. The first radio contract, signed in 1929. Souvenirs of college days at Maine, Yale, of his trip to England for coronation of Edward VIII.

Life of Vallee, unlike that of other, usual singers, orchestra leaders, has many sides, many corporations, has boomed his annual earnings to half-million mark. Safe in fireproof cabinets in fireproof, bomb-proof basement is Life of Vallee to be preserved—cryptic, sanguine, significant commentary on early days of radio industry, a more complete, more detailed biography than ever was given to any Coptic Pharaoh to leave to a later but probably still-dazed, still-warring world.

For a Free Radio—and a Clean Radio

A Radio Life Editorial

Quick to praise, RADIO LIFE is even quicker to point out alarming tendencies in the great industry it serves. Such a tendency is seen in the currently acute series of "borderline" jokes being aired by virtually all of the nation's top-flight comedians.

In all its vast, startling, brilliant growth, Radio has carefully avoided the cheap pandering to popularity—at the cost of higher standards—which has so often characterized other public mediums.

But when we hear the best comedians in Radio—not the so-called "hams," but the first-raters—branding Radio with this tragic contempt for the public conscience, RADIO LIFE feels it's time to point out the inevitable consequences of continuing to broadcast these improprieties under the guise of humor.

One will be government censorship, and with it the death-knell of Radio as a free medium of public information with all the rights of such a status in a free nation.

The other will be a scandal that Radio, which has labored so heroically and pioneered so much of inestimable benefit to the whole nation, will be years living down so as to win back its position with the American public.

RADIO LIFE wants to go on record that it does not believe the public wants this kind of entertainment, and is prepared to back its readers by seeing to it that their voice is heard where it will do the most good.

The networks have the power to take a strong stand against this type of humor if they are able to back it up with an abundance of evidence of public indignation. And, make no mistake, letters from listeners are the kind of evidence that will determine the kind of programs you are to hear.

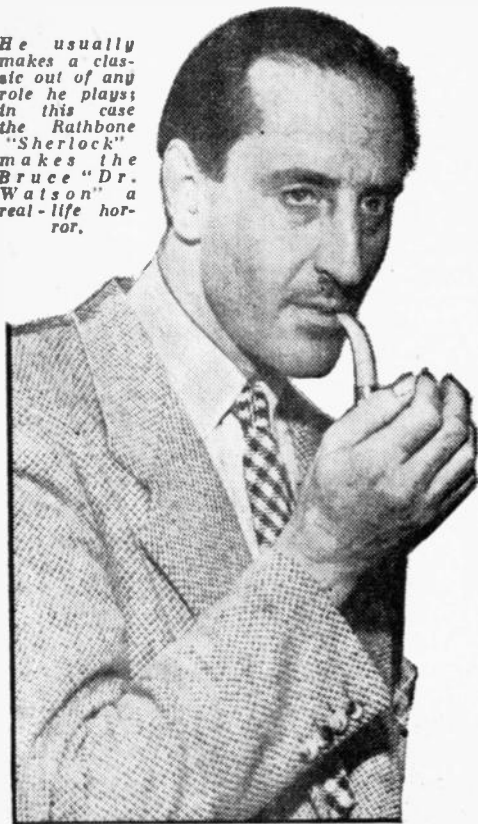

This is a job listeners themselves will have to do. RADIO LIFE urges its readers to write the networks care of RADIO LIFE immediately, and give us the kind of evidence we need. Let there be no doubt as to just whom you mean and what you mean. If the networks don't hear from us, it will be only because you have not done your part. The price of freedom in anything is eternal vigilance and militant action. For a free Radio, and a CLEAN Radio, act now, write today!—C. M. B.

Is the Word For SHERLOCK

Relating the Strange Case of Writer Turned Actor, Perfectionist

By PAUL HOLMQUIST

—and yea, hereafter—grimness because he thinks he's impersonating no less than the John Bunyan of the Highland moors, the Acme of Infallibility, the Paragon of Sleuthing Perfection, the man whose ability to be right every time is legendary, and who therefore has to be right with this fierce suddenness that has had such untoward effects on his less realistic assistant.

For one thing, Basil Rathbone is a case of writer turned actor, and when this happens you get performances (if the man is a good actor, which Basil Rathbone is) which carry a double inspiration, that of the literary mind behind the story and that of the Thespian mind of the acting personality. Born in South Africa, educated in England, and once member of a Shakespearian troupe, Rathbone is inclined to try to make a classic out of anything he does—and usually, as in the case of the Sherlock Holmes radio serial, he succeeds but definitely. Listen to the unmistakable sincerity with which he gives you his conception of the character; this is what Rathbone hopes he is getting across to you:

"Holmes was a man with tremendous powers of concentration. The most extraordinary thing about him was his complete absorption in his calling. Very properly, he never associated with women, showed no interest in them (and imagine what a problem being Sherlock's wife would have been. Such was his intensity on the work at hand that he was inattentive to minor details of dress and deportment. He just couldn't be bothered."

That, friends, is the inspiration behind the Rathbone performance. He maintains that, while he has played several of them, there is no other character in detective fiction the equal of Sherlock. Holmes, to Rathbone, is the absolutely classic example of his kind. That's why Rathbone gets such a terrific bang out of doing him.

Apparently Rathbone is on the right track. At least no less an authority than Denis Conan Doyle, son of Sherlock's creator, visiting here a few weeks ago, was virtually agog with well-suppressed British enthusiasm for the Rathbone portrayal. Taking a deep breath in the much-glassed sponsor's booth from which he witnessed the proceedings, Doyle mastered himself sufficiently to exclaim, "Admirable, absolutely, admirable," then at last ejaculated the final accolade, "I have never seen a better performance."

While he fastidiously maintains his 1000 per cent batting average as Sherlock, when Rathbone matched wits with Los Angeles' own Sheriff Biscailuz recently he had to concede a point or two.

"A man was found dead in a locked closet with his hands tied behind his back," posed the doughty California super-sleuth. "There were no marks of violence on his body and the coroner said he was strangled to death, yet we proved it was a plain case of suicide. Now, how do you suppose Holmes would have solved that one?"

"Oh, I don't think it would have stumped Holmes at all, old boy," quipped the unabashed Thespian with placid mien. "I should say he would have found the man had locked himself in, concealed the key in the pocket of a coat hanging from a hook, tied his own hands—it can be done, you know . . . and . . . well . . ." the details tapering off slightly.

"Well, what, Mr. Sherlock Holmes. Come on, give us the NBC version," taunted Biscailuz.

"I'll admit you've got me stumped," confessed Rathbone a little shamefacedly.

MRS. NIGEL (Violet Campbell) Bruce is one of those stalwart steel-souled women of the kind that have mothered the brawny men of the Royal Scots Guard for eight centuries past. She doesn't scare easily, so when she is downright panicky things are likely to be in an unmitigated mess indeed. Not that Mrs. Bruce is complaining, but strictly in confidence she has revealed to us that of late in the dim, piercing, grayish dawns her husband, the intrepid Nigel, has taken to feverish moaning and tossing. Occasionally she is able to make out his mutterings . . . "what are you going to do now, Holmes . . . Holmes—look out, man! . . . Good Godfrey, Holmes, you're walking to your death!" And so Mrs. Bruce is resigned to her husband's condition—even if she's worried just the same.

Actually, playing Dr. Watson to Basil Rathbone's Sherlock Holmes—now in its third season on NBC Sunday nights—week in, week out, would be enough to do a lesser man in, what with the shocking sinisteress of the whole ghastly, appalling business. Holmes talks so tough and is tough so often he'd have scared an ordinary man to death a long time ago. But having met Rathbone in World War I and been one of his closest friends ever since makes it a little less trying. Then, too, Nigel Bruce, while the Scotch son of the Scottish but globe-trotting baronets, Sir William and Lady Bruce of Stirlingshire, Scotland, was born in San Diego and is able to temper Sherlock Holmes' hysterical single-mindedness with a little Yankee equanimity.

With Rathbone, however, the situation is fraught with life-and-death

Knows the Troubles

Myrt

Has Seen

By Mark Franklin II

There's a reason . . . why she's braver than ever any radio character she writes can possibly be.

Offering Just Notes For a Script You'll Never Hear Produced

THIS is about a woman who writes of life—as a wife, as a mother, and as a trouser. You can hear the “Myrt and Marge” show for yourself, and you’ll enjoy it. Of course, by the time the commercial and the current contest offer have been orated, four minutes will be gone and you know they’ll leave two minutes for more of the same at the end. But in the intervening nine minutes you’ll hear it—and you’ll get it all right—that blunt, stabbing authenticity. So this isn’t to tell you about the show at all, and anyway, maybe you don’t like soap operas, even if this one has been on the air continuously on CBS for more than ten years as of last November 2. (There was one interruption, but of that . . .)

All right then, this isn’t about a soap opera. It’s simply about how a certain stirring, skin-creeping realism got into one of ‘em. It’s a 20th or any other century miracle of appropriateness. It could happen only once in a generation and it happened in radio. Since it happened in radio it became a day-time serial, a soap opera. But that’s not what the story is about.

It’s not about the stifled pain in a mother’s voice, the shocked, unbelieving gasp as she finds her own daughter misunderstanding her motives. It’s about how it got there. It’s about a woman who pours the rich, mature experience of a crisis-jammed, eventful life into a radio script, and then personally projects that true-to-life personality out of your loudspeaker.

It’s not about the story that goes on the air. It’s about how this woman learned to write that story, how she earned the right to write it, and the profound heart of her that is braver than ever any radio character she writes can possibly be. You’ll see why.

Myrtle Vail was born of a conservative Joliet, Illinois, family who encouraged her dramatic talents for church and social entertainments, but balked at her ambitions for a stage career. She learned then the soul-stirring, firmament-crumbling crisis of the choice between family and career. She was fifteen.

She chose. She ran away to go on the “stage.” From the back row of the chorus she fell in love with the handsome leading man—who didn’t know she existed. She learned the meaning of the love that reverences, unnoticed, from afar. In less than a year they were married, and she learned the consummate rapture of soaring romance, exultant madcap romance—touring the nation from coast to coast in vaudeville with her matinee-idol husband.

Because she was in love she decided that the stage was, after all, just a means to an end—and that the “end,” the best one of all, would be retirement on a chicken farm. She had toured for ten years with her husband with but two interruptions—Donna, when she was only 17, and George Damerel Jr.—and she was ready to rest. It had been a full life.

But it was to work out differently. The upheaval of ‘29 swept away the chicken farm—and everything else that the Damerels had in the world. She learned the meaning of want. But coming as it did at a time when she had prepared herself for retirement, the disaster proved to be the inspiration for her greatest success. For the first time she was now able to look back on life. What she saw, what she wrote—ten scripts in long-hand—became “Myrt and Marge.”

She pawned her last piece of jewelry for money with which to buy a new outfit to impress a sponsor. It didn’t take long. “Myrt and Marge” went on the air for the first time on November 2, 1931, and with but one interruption, has been on the air ever since.

About that interruption. Myrtle Vail had opposed her daughter’s following her footsteps in the theatre. While she had toured vaudeville with George Damerel Donna had been placed in a private school. The authorities had been instructed to eliminate all references to the stage. But Donna didn’t need “references”—the stage was in her blood.

When she was fifteen, as old as her mother had been, she too ran away to the “stage”—to the chorus. Mother and daughter faced each other on the issue and the daughter triumphed; the mother could not gainsay the daughter’s heritage, the heritage she herself had given her. When “Myrt and Marge” went on the air, Myrt and Marge Damerel played them.

Myrt wrote many words, nearly two and a half million words, enough for ten volumes like “Gone with the Wind,” for the “Myrt and Marge” scripts—and they were always about the real Myrt, and the real Marge. Mother and daughter took up the trouping where mother and father had left off. They won even greater laurels than the Damerel name had ever won before. Donna married, and marrying came to understand her mother’s performances ever better, and was able to improve her own work as the daughter. But always the real brilliance of the show lay not in the two real-life actresses’ work but in the real-life author. She was writing of life as she had lived it. She was writing for herself and for her daughter.

But on February 15 last year Marge dropped out of the cast. She had passed into the strange never-never world of childbirth—and never returned. This, then, was the one experience in which she was never to Private Letter to Ken Murray: Congrats in order on your completing format for new show to open after turn of year. But remember, Ken, to have a second thought for the other members of the cast—especially just before broadcast time. You know what we mean, Ken, and we know you'll take it in the right way. Show business, the gallantry of it, starts right in your own troupe. Give 'em a break, that's all they want, and we'll be rootin' for ya.

Congratulate Yourself Because Of: Your guesting spot on Bing Crosby's Kraft show this Thursday, Veronica Lake. . . . Fact you've prepared new show and will return to airwaves after Jan. 1, Arch Oboler. . . . Your tenth year of television pioneering, marked this month by W6XAO, Tommy Lee. . . . And accept our congratulations for grand performances. . . . Accept our condolences, Fibber and Molly, for fact that your guest appearance with Bergen and McCarthy toppled your own show out of best Crossley rating, and that the Crossley poll "wasn't taken" on the day Edgar and Charlie returned the call on your own program. . . . Comes word from Edgar and Charlie this week, by the way, that they've demanded full charge of their show, Edgar re-doubling as producer. . . . And rumor is Abbott and Costello may by unmoored from the Sunday night spot and tied into show of their own,—radio hath many wonders: right now various agencies are in blood-letting battle for Lifebuoy account and Messrs. A. and C. are thought to be best possible lure to the B.O.-destroyers.

Add Crusades: Eddie Robinson, who really inspires the reforming-crusading efforts of "Big Town's" Steve Wilson, stops us to confide he is also doing a sub-crusade against the gophers marauding in his Beverly flower garden. Recently inducted as a member of auxiliary force of L. A. Police Dept., Eddie took it big—with genuine, sincere pride.

Mary Astor 'plane soloed on Tuesday. She took up flying after hubby Manuel del Campo enlisted in the RCAF. . . . John Barrymore has a two weeks "leave" from the Vallee show. He is hospitalized for a tummy ailment and friends think it may take longer than a fortnight to get Jawn on his feet. . . . Brother Lionel upholds family tradition meanwhile and is planning to do "Christmas Carol" on the Dec. 25 show. . . . Joan Davis, guesting with Vallee during November, has merited another month's invitation.

Penny Singleton skipped nonchalantly through her "Blondie" script Monday night, then went into Good Samaritan hospital for a minor operation. . . . Ransom Sherman (Hap Hazard), who did such a swell job subbing for Fibber and Molly this past summer, bows in a show of his own over CBS Dec. 30. Sponsor is Procter and Gamble, said to be making its first night-time attention bid account of Burns and Allen selling a lotta Swan soap.

CBS staff members are expectant over the Christmas party which Fletcher Wiley throws every holiday season. . . . Chubby Ella Logan, Gene Autry's femme soloist, wore a red jacket that added inches when she microphoned last Sunday, but we don't care 'cause she crooned sweet and low. . . . Lurene Tuttle is all excited because she may get to go to New York with Dr. Christian show come Yuletide. She'd have to be written out of Niece Marjory part in "Gildersleeve" for three Sundays. Anyhoo, she was studying timetables at rehearsal Wednesday.

Nominated as Nice People: Roxanne Lambie at Young and Rubicam Agency. Roxanne has had her hands full this week, what with Proud Papa Jack Sayers disrupting routine by passing out cigars and chocolates account of a boy baby. . . . Young Bruno of NBC's Guest Relations staff. His greeting is so-o-o- cordial. . . . Miss Olson, assistant manager of "Breakfast at Sardi's"—not only useful but ornamental to the show.

Overheard at Burns and Allen rehearsal: NBC producer was warning cast members that impending shortage of paper might affect radio scripts.

George: "Probably have to ad lib the whole show."

Gracie: "We can write the dialogue on slates."

Paul: "Nope. We'll put the gags on plate glass so the audience can see through 'em." Incidentally, Gracie showed up at NBC last Tuesday with her right knee swathed in bandages. She cut herself while climbing a step-ladder. . . .

You know I know you know what I mean.—M. F. IL

Two champions to whom perfection is a never-ending dream, and to whom the business of being funny is no business at all.

Taking You Behind the Scenes Where Crossley Ratings Are Inspired

BEING funny can be a funny business in exactly two different ways. If the jokes don't jolt 'em, if the gags don't leave 'em gasping, if the cracks don't crumple 'em—they don't laugh. When they don't laugh, well—it's a heartbreaking business, it has its ups and downs. But if they do laugh, they love you. And the more they love you the better you get. Then, of course, it's not a business at all—it's a joy forever.

So, actually, it all gets back to how good you are. But Frank Morgan and Fanny Brice of NBC's Maxwell House Coffee Time program have been so good for so long—and audiences love 'em so hard—that it's not likely they could love 'em very much harder. Which brings us to the reason why the two stars of the show have set up a little feud—witness and to-wit: to try to outdo themselves by trying to outfunny each other.

While the feuding has its funny side, the story the Crossley ratings tell, while it's not funny, is an even greater cause for rejoicing, as will be brought forward in due course.

Meanwhile, to writer Phil Rapp, Producer Mann Holiner, Maestro Meredith Willson and all the others on the program, this competition is the funniest and most absorbing funny business in the world. Showmen themselves, they understand and reverence this spirit of rivalry. They know they're watching two champions to whom perfection is a never-ending dream, to whom the business of making people laugh is more than a business—it's a privilege and an honor.

Go backstage before broadcast time to watch Frank Morgan and Fanny Brice at work on their lines and the first thing you find yourself trying to probe into is the same tense expectancy of a major sporting event—the first cocky batter up for a World Series opener, referee's Bronx-voiced instructions for a heavyweight title fight, the vast split second before the kick-off for a Rose Bowl game. Miss Brice and scribe Phil Rapp you find on the floor of the comedienne's dressing room, fine-tooth-combing newspaper comic sections, poring over Encyclopaedia Britannica, and intermittently screaming baby talk at each other. The problem will be either to further highlight the maniacal prodding of a Baby Snooks line or to deepen Daddy's lameness tations unto the most absolute pitiable-ness.

"This line doesn't 'strike' right," muses Miss Brice. "Can't we have a better twist for Daddy's 'does a chicken lay an egg because it has to?'" Rapp jars doggedly down on his elbows, reads the line in a murmur an even dozen times. Finally:

"Here it is, Fanny, how does this carry—'Does a chicken lay an egg because it wants to, or MUST it?'"

Down to the last few minutes before broadcast time they remain at work on the script, finding new "tag-lines," working over single points of dialogue, "splicing up a flat line," delaying a "twist"—all hallmarks of experience and craftsmanship in laughmaking.

For the broadcast Morgan is given his inning first. For 15 minutes he blusters, ballyhoos, is caught in lies, and lies himself out of them. Between innings Meredith Willson's "chiffon swing" arrangements provide audience relaxation before Fanny's impending efforts.

Just before broadcast time Miss Brice had dashed away for a drink of water, leaving her script. Wisely, she has not looked at it since, bending every effort to complete relaxation. Now she is ready to go to the microphone. Hanley Stafford, "Daddy," is already there. She looks at her script and finds in Frank Morgan's handwriting this challenge:

"After you've put 'em to sleep with this stuff, I'll wake 'em up."

The gauntlet has been thrown. Fanny Brice picks it up—and the joust is on. And what a performance Fanny Brice gives this night! When Baby Snooks' demonic prodding of her innocent and helpless father has ceased, there are tears of laughter standing in studio-audience eyes and studio-audience cheeks ache with grinning. It's a far cry from the days when Miss Brice highlighted Florenz Ziegfeld's Follies with her rendition of "My Man." Then she was a vocalist. Now she's Baby Snooks. But she is still and has always been a trouser.

The Baby Snooks role, which was created for the Follies of 1934, is a combination of stage heredity and environment, and a streamlined radio characterization, combining the heavyweight punch of the first and the suave deftness of the second. It needs a Fanny Brice,

COMING OUT OF the ETHER

With BERNIE SMITH

You never can tell what the mailman will bring when he calls each day. I received a little mash note this week that, I think, will tickle you as much as it did me. Here it is:

Dear Bernie:

Do you think anyone would be interested if I said that just sixteen years ago this month I started in radio; that was when crystal radio sets were the last word. I sang five songs for five dollars, and Charlie Hamp played piano, announced and managed the studio, K. M. T. R. I paid him five dollars for playing piano for me, so the net results were just what I was worth,—exactly nothing. Then fourteen years ago with Uncle John on top of the old Times Bldg., then twelve years ago on K. F. I. in the Earle C. Anthony Bldg. in a trio known as the Three B's, with Don Wilson announcing. One night Don was supposed to say 'The Three B's think—', but he must have said what was on his mind because he left off the first two letters of the word and put the letters S T in place—net result, perfect—still no money.

I could go on like this, but just want to say that Radio has been wonderful to me and I love it. Which brings me up to the subject in mind. I read Radio Life from cover to cover, and think it is the only means left whereby both the public and performers can get some of the real news about what is going on in Radio, without benefit of press notices. I also like the way you go to bat in your column for the things you think are right, so maybe you can ponder over this one. Did you know, or maybe you do, that there is not one radio show of any importance today (with the exception of Fibber McGee and Molly) that does not use motion picture actors or actresses as guest stars? Fibber McGee and Molly had a top Crossley and are still among the first three, and no guest stars. Maybe I'm wrong—maybe there isn't any good old radio talent left—maybe the listening public enjoys hearing picture plugs on the air. I wouldn't know—do you?

Now that I have that off my chest, I'm practically exhausted, and I still haven't said anything.

So as the tailors say when they see me, 'Let's go to press!' Thanks a million.

From your girl (fiend) friend,
Tizzie Lish.

week to luncheon of 200 lady fans at New York's Hotel Astor.

Detained by his radio broadcast, Young was late in arriving; called upon to speak, he felt called upon to offer apologies,—in apologizing mentioned his radio activity. From two hundred throats rose rapt gasps of admiration and surprise as only two hundred lady luncheoners can gasp for a popular male actor. So welcomed did Carleton Young proceed with his prepared oration.

Rushing out of the dining-room upon conclusion of festivities was he button-holed by still a more intense admirer of his newsman characterization than of the luncheon speech, who plausibly explained that while she heard "Front Page Farrell" every day, this dreadful day had this delightful luncheon precluded that habitual delectation. What, asked this most enthusiastic of all "Front Page Farrell" fans, had happened to Front Page Farrell today.

Then and there on that indeed memorable day last week in that indeed memorable hotel lobby, assuming all the roles in the day's script, Front Page Farrell told her.

What a Relief

Probing mental facilities of Charlie McCarthy last week was Dr. Albert Edward Wiggam, noted psychologist, who made a guest appearance on the Chase and Sanborn hour. For several years a listener and observer of the smart alecky little dummy, Dr. Wiggam counseled with Edgar Bergen back-stage.

Said the eminent Doctor: "Charlie is not a bad boy, as many suspect. He is a perfectly normal American boy—probably not typical, but nevertheless, normal. Mothers who have youngsters as forward and mischievous as Charlie should not do too much worrying about them. They turn out all right."

Remarking that he had known many children like the irrepressible rascal, Dr. Wiggam added: "Such youngsters are bright, and what is more important, they display quite a lot of imagination. Charlie has a fine sense of humor, and that is often an indication of fine intelligence."

Relieved was Bergen, who had lain awake of late nights fretting about outcome of Charlie's latest prank, dubious about fundamental integrities of his charge. Also relieved were Bergen's friends, who believe that McCarthy is the outcropping of shy Bergen's facetious alter ego. According to Wiggam, both Edgar and Charlie will turn out all right.

with her broad experience, brimming talent, and outstanding intelligence to put it over.

Like the two champions they are, when the feuding is finished Morgan and Miss Brice link arms and go off together for a snack at The Gotham. But the hot breath of their fervid tummy-tickling tussles is no less infectious for all their real-life friendship. Playing his script-character, a hayseed buffoon, Meredith Willson occasionally leaves the script terra firma to soar into a spontaneous ad lib session that jerks both Morgan and Emcee John Conte to their toes and keeps them dangling until they've bested—and quieted—the competition-smitten maestro. You can judge the contagion of the Brice-Morgan rivalry when you consider that the maestro's musical stature reposes not on comedy interpolations—but on two modern symphonies and a mass of other serious creative work. It's got to be good to get Meredith Willson.

What it all adds up to—and what counts most is, just how all these sock-shenanigans are received by radio audiences. The answer is that the "Maxwell House Coffee Time" program showed the steepest rise in Crossley ratings this fall of any comparable type of broadcast. You've got to admit the Brice-Morgan fracas have their points, strictly for the sake of enjoying a good laugh. But, when they result in Crossley points as well, you're staring face-to-face at a saga of show business that show-folks themselves will be telling their grandchildren in the sere days of their well-earned and richly-deserved retirement from—the best fun in the world.

Chef Milani's Sunday Dinner

For Eight Persons

Grapefruit Cocktail
Olives Celery Radishes Green Onions
California Olive Soup
Tender Made Ham, Family Style
Mashed Potatoes
Buttered Peas
Brussels Sprouts
Heart of Lettuce with Oil and Vinegar Dressing
Assorted Cakes
Monarch Coffee

Recipe for California Olive Soup

2 medium onions, sliced
4 cups of chicken or veal broth
½ tsp. pepper
1 cup milk, scalded
1 cup cream, scalded
1 tsp. salt
2 tbsps. flour
2 tbsps. butter
2 cups minced California ripe olives
2 tps. Gravy Master

Fry onions in 2 tbsps. butter for about 5 minutes. Add chicken or veal broth, season with salt and pepper.

Simmer for 45 minutes, strain through a sieve. Melt in a saucepan 2 tbsps. of butter and blend in the flour. Let cook for 2 minutes. Stir in the strained broth, and stir well. Then stir in the scalded milk and cream little by little. Season with Gravy Master. When smooth add minced California olives. When hot serve with croutons.

Recipe for Tender Made Ham Family Style

1 Wilson Tender Made ham (10 to 12 lbs.)
4 tbsps. dry mustard
4 tbsps. brown sugar
4 tbsps. butter
2 cups strong coffee
1 pkg. cloves

Unwrap Wilson's Tender Made ham, and place it in a roasting pan. With a long knife cut the ham into squares in the way that the knife touches the meat. Melt butter, sugar, mixed together, and then add mustard and mix well to a paste. Spread the mixture on top of the ham, and then insert one clove in each diamond cut. Pour coffee on the bottom of the roaster. Cover roaster and put to bake in oven at 350° for 1½ hours to the pound. 20 minutes before it is done, uncover the roaster, baste with the drippings and the liquid coffee and let bake again until brown.

Recipe for Mashed Potatoes

3 lbs. of potatoes
6 tbsps. of butter
1 cup cream
1½ tsp. baking powder
1 tbsp. salt
¼ tsp. pepper
1 tsp. Gravy Master

Peel potatoes and boil until well done. Drain them well and mash them while they are still very hot. Add cream, butter, baking powder, salt, pepper and Gravy Master and beat hard and fast until nice and fluffy. Pile them in a hot dish and serve at once.

THE WIFE'S LITTLE HELPER—This is a dissertation to justify the husband who enjoys donning an apron and whipping up a tasty dish. This may occur infrequently if the wife has well prepared meals served on time. However the most rational husband is capable of becoming a kitchen fanatic when the little woman goes on a short trip to visit Cousin Sadie.

Of course, being a man, he has already assured himself that practically all of the culinary art is comparable to a simple twist of the wrist. This being the case, here are a few things for hubby to twist his wrist on. A steak is a likely cut of meat to begin with. If all goes well, it is a meal in itself. And besides it is not too difficult to cook. First of all the steak should be a good one, a porterhouse or maybe a sirloin, and as thick as you can intimidate the butcher to cut it. The before-cooking preparations are simple. First the steak should be wiped tenderly with a damp cloth. Next it is given a thin coating of oil. In the meantime the fire above the broiler has been going at a high gage for at least ten minutes, and Chef Husband has located the broiler by means of a kitchen manual. Now the steak is laid on the broiler to sear. This takes about thirty seconds for each side. The seasoning—salt and pepper—follows. Then the rest is simple. Turn the flame down and let it cook, first on one side and then on the other. For inch steaks, seven minutes is certain to make it well and rare. Fifteen minutes and the steak is definitely well. The cook in this case is the judge. And we wish him luck.

THE CAKE THAT CAUSED A REVOLUTION—Many years ago, about 1791, the Queen of France was a dainty child, the pleasure-loving Marie Antoinette. Jeweled and perfumed, she spent her days enjoying the revelry of the French court. But under the sound of revelry was the growing clamor of a starving population. Then one day the cry for bread made itself heard at the very walls of the castle. The courtiers, the minister, and even the King was forced to listen. Only Marie Antoinette failed to understand the suffering of her subjects. "If the people lack bread, why not give them cake?" she asked. The ultimate result of her lack of understanding we well know—the bloody French Revolution, which reached its climax in the execution of the Queen.

Sweet Potato Croquettes

- 4 sweet potatoes
- Wilson's Laurel Leaf lard
- 1 tsp. salt
- ¼ tsp. pepper
- 2 eggs, beaten
- 2 cups bread crumbs
- ¼ lb. American cheese, cut Julienne
- 2 tbsps. melted butter

Boil potatoes in salted water. When done peel them and mash them with butter, salt and pepper. When well mashed form them like corks, insert one stick of Julienne cut cheese roll them in bread crumbs, then in beaten egg and then again in bread crumbs. Fry in deep Wilson Laurel Leaf lard. When nice and golden, put them on absorbent paper and drain. Serve.

Recipe for Glazed Sweet Potatoes

- 6 sweet potatoes
- 4 tbsps. butter
- 1½ cups brown sugar
- 1½ cups sherry wine

Boil potatoes, in salted water until done. Peel them and cut lengthwise. Beat brown sugar and sherry wine to make a syrup. Dip potatoes in gently and place them in a buttered baking pan. Pour the rest of the syrup all over the top of the potatoes. Melt butter and pour on potatoes. Bake in oven at 350° until potatoes are browned. Baste them with the syrup often while they are baking.

Recipe for Sweet Potatoes and Cranberries

- 8 sweet potatoes (even sizes)
- 2 cups cranberry sauce
- ½ cup brown sugar
- 1 cup Budget Pack mixed nuts, minced fine
- 4 tbsps. butter
- ¼ cup sherry wine

Boil sweet potatoes in salted water until done. Let cool. Peel them and cut them lengthwise. Scoop them out like orange cups but thicker. Fill 8 halves with cranberry sauce and cover them with the other halves. Place them in a buttered baking pan. Melt butter in a saucepan, add wine, sugar, and nuts. Mix well. Pour over the potatoes. Bake in oven at 375° until a golden brown. It will take about 25 to 30 minutes.

CHEF MILANI is heard Monday through Friday at

 FOR FOUR FOR A DOLLAR, NO MORE.

Chef Milani's Super-Economical
"Dinner for Four, for a Dollar,
 No More"

CHEF MILANI'S DOLLAR (FOR 4) DINNER No. 1

- Swiss Steak Stew with Lima Beans
- Boiled Cabbage
- Lettuce with Oil and Vinegar Dressing
- Bread and Butter
- Coffee
- Jack Benny Jello

Recipe for Swiss Steak Stew with Lima Beans

- 1 lb. Budget Pack lima beans
- 1 lb. of Swiss steak
- 3 tbsps. of flour
- 2 tbsps. of Gravy Master
- Salt and pepper
- 2 slices Wilson's Ol' Fashund Bacon
- 2 small onions
- 1 carrot
- 1 No. 2 can tomatoes

Soak Budget Pack lima beans for three hours. Drain, cover with boiling water and cook for 25 minutes. Drain again. Cut one lb. of Swiss steak into 1 inch cubes. Roll in 3 tbsps. of flour, mixed with a dash of salt and a dash of pepper. Saute meat in two slices of Wilson's Ol' Fashund bacon. When meat gets almost brown, cut two small onions and put to saute with meat. When the onions get to a golden brown color, arrange the beans, the meat, and the onions in alternate layers in a Dutch oven. After that, sprinkle one carrot cut into little strips over each layer. Now pour a 1 lb. and 3 oz. can of tomatoes over the top. Then season with 1 tsp. of salt, ¼ tsp. of pepper, and 2 tbsps. of Gravy Master. Cover with water to the top of the tomatoes, and then cover the Dutch oven. Put to bake in an oven of 350° for 2½ hours, or until beans are done.

CHEF MILANI'S DOLLAR (FOR 4) DINNER No. 2

- Risotto con Bue a la Frachiaccone
- Buttered Beets
- Sliced Tomatoes
- Bread and Butter
- Grapes for Dessert

Recipe for Risotto con Bue a la Frachiaccone

- 1 lb. of chuck pot roast
- 4 slices Wilson's Ol' Fashund bacon
- 1 small onion
- 1 lb. Budget Pack rice
- 1 can solid pack tomatoes, 1 lb. and 12 oz.
- 2 tps. Gravy Master, salt and pepper
- ¼ lb. American cheese

Chop four slices Wilson's Ol' Fashund bacon and put to melt in a thick pot. Then cut 1 lb. of beef chuck pot roast in 4 parts. Put the meat to saute with the bacon. Chop 1 small onion and when the meat begins to brown, put it to saute with the beef and bacon. Cook until the onion gets to a golden brown. Open a can of solid pack tomatoes, 1 lb. and 12 oz. Pour tomatoes in pot with the meat. Season with 1 tsp. of salt, ¼ tsp. of pepper, and 2 tps. Gravy Master. Let come to a boil, and then reduce fire to simmer. Let cook for 1½ hours. While sauce and meat are cooking, boil 1 lb. Budget Pack rice until tender. Drain and place rice in casserole. Now cover the rice with sauce. Next sprinkle with ¼ lb. grated American cheese. Then put casserole in oven at 350°. As soon as the top browns, serve with meat.

GAGS OF THE WEEK

For the best Gags of the Week, heard over Radio and sent Radio Life, tickets will be sent winners for admission to radio broadcasts or tours of NBC and CBS Hollywood studios. Send your best gag selection to 1029 West Washington Boulevard, Los Angeles.

Lawrence Rice, 1441-C 26th Street, Santa Monica, Calif.

Sirs: Heard on Bob Hope show:
Bob: Rocks are hard luck in my family. My brother is busy now breaking them for taking them.

Dorothy E. Pickle, 1651 Blanche Street, Pasadena, Calif.

Sirs: Heard on Jack Benny's program:
Jack: Have a cranberry, Mary?
Mary: A cranberry? Why Jack, you're supposed to have cranberry sauce.
Jack: Well, squash it! Are you helpless?

(Tickets for this gag also go to Mary Saxton, 246 E. 61st Street, and William W. Wehner, 1154½ North Madison, Los Angeles.)

Mrs. Delbert Monreau, 2129 Baldwin Avenue, Arcadia, Calif.

Sirs: Heard on the Jack Benny program:
Rochester (talking to Jack on the 'phone): Those weren't ducks you shot, boss, they were pigeons.
Jack: Of course, they were ducks, what makes you think they were pigeons!
Rochester: Because one has a message on his leg that says: "Just captured Manila," signed "Dewey."

Mrs. Iven Ginger, 4551 Fountain Avenue, Hollywood, Calif.

Sirs: Heard on Bob Burns' show:
Bob Burns (talking about his relatives' rush to get to table): My uncle was chopping wood when the dinner bell rang. He dropped his axe, started for the house but tripped and fell and was getting up slowly. "What's the matter, uncle," I asked, "aren't you hungry?" "I was," said my uncle, "but it's too late now!"

Mrs. G. Leavens, 12908 McCune Avenue, Venice, Calif.

Sirs: Heard on P.D.Q. Quiz Court: A soldier who had earlier acknowledged his receiving a medal for gunnery was so shaky on receiving his ten dollar award that Gary Breckner remarked: "For a lad who wins a medal for gunnery you certainly are shaky." Said the contestant: "With ten dollars in the army—you'd shake too!"

J. H. Sampson, 1033 Avon Place, South Pasadena, Calif.

Sirs: Heard on Al Pearce's program:
Andy Devine: Al, I saw the whole S. C. football team at the ribbon counter.
Al: What were they doing there, Andy?
Andy: Oh, I dunno,—just trying to get yardage, I guess.

Dorothy B. Martin, 3741 Floresta Way, Los Angeles, Calif.

Sirs: Heard on Battle of the Sexes:
Frank: Ben, do you know what a twip is?
Ben: Uh-huh. A wide on a twain.

Sherlock Pinked

"How did you find out that he killed himself?"

"Dry ice," came the explanation. "It gives off deadly fumes as it evaporates. The man took a piece of dry ice into the closet with him, locked the door, tied his hands as you said, waited for the gas to take effect, and died of self-strangulation."

For his broadcast sleuthing, however, Rathbone gets considerably greater cooperation, which helps no little, probably, to keep him in the clean-up spot. The background of fifty-years-ago England is preserved with absolute authenticity. You don't hear door bells ring—there were no storage batteries then—you hear a bell clanging. Instead of an electric-light switch clicking, you hear the striking of a match and the whirring of escaping gas. Train toots were different then, and women's skirts gave off a Gargantuan rustle compared with what they sound like now—if anything.

The music is utterly frenetic with a turgid, deathly ghastliness. Director Lou Kosloff does his devilish best with the bassoon, which even LOOKS sinister, and the french horn, which is a devilish thing to try to blow through, if you've ever tried it.

Ever wonder why they won't permit audiences for the broadcast? Well, of course it might destroy the mad eeriness which the cast is able to intensify in a closed broadcast-room. But the real reason is—that Nigel Bruce is a natural comedian. If, instead of hearing his bewilderment as Doctor Watson, you were to see him, chances are you couldn't help laughing at him. Radio hath many wonders, and not the least of them is this: it's made a magnificent "straight" player out of a man who's spent most of his life playing comedy in every corner of the world.

Although only 13, Louise Erickson has had four years of radio experience starting with "Dramas of Youth" at KHJ. She has appeared on Confessions of a Corsair, created the roles of Mitzi and Edith in "A Date with Judy," enacted Merle Oberon at age of nine on Hedda Hopper's show, and more recently has had parts on "Dr. Christian." She likes radio people "because they are always laughing" and wants to move right along on a radio career. She attends Mar-Ken Professional school. Accomplished otherwise, Louise has won two national contests in dress designing, rides, ice skates, sings, and plays the piano. She plans to attend Stanford.

Mystery Sanctum

Pleased is punch that "Inner Sanctum Mystery" plays have captivated fancy of listeners, Himan Brown, producer-director, this week announced inception of new police.

"From now on we're going to bring them the biggest and brightest names we can find in Hollywood, along Broadway and on the air," Brown declared, thus admitting fearlessness of average listener.

"Heretofore," he explained "we've featured Boris Karloff, Paul Lukas and George Coulouris whenever their schedules permitted. We are going to continue this idea but widen its scope. We've already contacted such people as Claude Rains, Ralph Forbes and Henry Hull for a starter and it's working out just fine."

"Inner Sanctum Mystery" series, is heard Sundays at 8 p.m., over "ghost-to-ghost" NBC-Blue Network (KECA).

★ ★ KECA, 8 p.m. Sun.

Cheese Sandwiches

Bing Crosby has instituted an on-the-stage luncheon club to save time during Kraft Music Hall rehearsals. Up trundles a truck with food from a nearby eatery. While script discussion and music proceed uninterrupted, the food vanishes rapidly.

★ ★ KFI, 6 p.m. Thurs.

Keeps 'Em Busy

Add headaches:—Boys in the NBC music library who spent three months taking ASCAP music out of the network files are now working 18 hours a day putting it back.

Add Accessories

Two radio inventions announced recently are a shut-off button enabling a broadcaster to cut himself off the air while he coughs, and a tuning device for radio receivers that can be set to tune in up to 672 consecutive programs over as many as eight different stations.

Buck Passing

When a radio program makes a pancake landing, take it from Milton Berle, the producer blames the director, the director blames the star, the star blames the writer, and the writer blames the guy he stole the idea from.

Air-Minded

Bob Garred, CBS newscaster, is drafting plans for a private flying club of West Coast radio folks whose hobby is aviation. Among the charter members will be Bill Goodwin, Wen Niles and Russ Johnston, all of whom hold private flying licenses.

Quipping Kay

When Kay Kyser was in Washington, D. C., he asked why the streets were named alphabetically. One of his musicians surmised it was because it gave the politicians a chance to learn their A B C's!

Pun Fun

Bob Hawk, quizmaster on the "Take It or Leave It" show on the CBS network Sunday, heard a couple of rounders giving each other a build-up recently. "The pot calling the kettle white?" commented Hawk tersely.

KNX, 7 p.m. Sun.

Bad Precedent

Twin actors, not so good, applied to Frank Fay for a job on his program as stoges.

"I'm afraid I can't use you," said Fay. "Look what double features are doing to the movies!"

He's Real Fan

The sound man on the Andre Kostelanetz "Pause That Refreshes" program must like the conductor's music. At any rate, last week when Kostelanetz called a rehearsal recess, the sound man remained in the studio playing the latest recordings by the Kostelanetz 45-piece orchestra, on his studio turntable. His interest aroused, Andre learned the soundman also studies music.

★ ★ KNX, 1:30 p.m. Sun.

When Jimmy Cash went to New York in 1936 as the winner of a radio contest, Winchell dubbed him "The Audacious Amateur."

Eddie Cantor created the "Mad Russian" characterization for Bert Gordon. Before that, Gordon's act was that of a timid cowboy.

TRAIN FOR RADIO. THIS IS AN ACTORS AND AUTHORS WORKSHOP, "NOT A SCHOOL", WHERE YOU WORK

Dinah Gets Wings

Dinah Shore, vocalively on the Eddie Cantor programs, has been made honorary colonel of Will Rogers Field. With the appointment came a special parchment citation and two sets of wings.

★ ★ KFI, 9 p.m. Wed.

Rewarded

Jerry Hausner, only outside actor ever to appear on a Lum and Abner radio program—he recently portrayed the villainous Prince Ali Kushi—this week drew an added reward for his work. He was cast in the Lum and Abner film now before the cameras.

Versatile Orson

Orson Welles' magic pitcher, an interesting bit of magic equipment invented by Welles, has become a best seller at many of the country's magic stores. Welles, in addition to his weekly "Lady Esther" radio program over CBS, his Mercury Productions motion pictures and other activities, is one of the best amateur magicians in town. The pitcher is the most important part of a trick whereby it is filled with milk, the milk poured into a paper cone, and the cone then broken over the head of a spectator. Of course it's empty—that's the reason the trick is selling so rapidly.

Myrt Alone

follow her mother, she who had followed her in so many—in love of the theatre, and in the experiences of "Myrt and Marge."

Sure, the fictional "Myrt" was replaced, and capably too. Helen Mack's brilliant work has even added new lustre to the drama that is told on the radio.

In the other drama, the drama that remains in the heart of the woman who writes of life as she has lived it, Marge remains the same and will never be replaced. Nothing that Myrt writes for the new fictional Marge needs to be changed. No other will ever mean as much as the real Marge, daughter, trouper, friend. . .

Crime Pays

Although the Gang Busters show, through weekly broadcasts of actual clues for wanted criminals over the NBC-Blue Network, has brought to justice more than 265 law-breakers, it has provided one gangster with a very nice living. *

Mandel Kramer, NBC actor, has been cast in gangster roles on the program on and off for the past four years. Kramer is heard on a lot of other programs as well, but plays either a man with a nasty disposition or—a gangster.

Sherlock Junior

Experienced

Betty Jane Tyler, 12-year-old actress who plays Midgie in "Myrt and Marge," had a wonderful time playing detective not long ago. In Central Park Betty Jane found a briefcase which contained no sign of the owner's name. But there were clues. A dress pattern in the briefcase indicated the owner was a grown woman. An envelope with the name "St. Luke's Hospital" and a picture of a nurse in uniform indicated the lost property belonged to a nurse. Betty Jane telephoned the hospital and reported her findings. Sure enough, a few days later a Miss Benke called, described her belongings, and retrieved them. "Elementary, my dear Miss Benke, elementary," was the remark of Sherlock Tyler.

Something not generally known is that there are two Andersons on the Jack Benny shows. One is Eddie Anderson who is Rochester and the other is his brother, Cornelius Anderson, who plays the porter on the Benny stanzas. Eddie and Cornelius used to be vaudeville partners.

Gets Hubby's Aid

Dorothy Kilgallen is one of the few Broadway columnists to be accompanied by her husband while on duty. Actor Richard Kollmar accompanies the commentator nightly upon her night club beat.

PLUM PUDDING

For centuries Plum Pudding has been a Christmas dessert-favorite in many lands.
Its rich, spicy aroma is as much a part of the Christmas festivities as old St.
Nick himself! So easy to serve, too, it's a boon to busy housewives. When you go shopping today be sure to ask for "Richardson & Robbins" Plum Pudding. Flavor-sealed in cans, it has that "extra quality"
that's made it famous throughout the years.
