SHOULD ROME BE BOMBED?

The Ear Inspires the Pen

Mr. Walter Blake, 1056 South Normandie Avenue, Los Angeles, Calif.

What "Amos 'n' Andy" have meant to me personally is manifold. Entertainment, of course, the value of sincerity and a sense of tolerance for the vagaries of human nature. Their characterizations have rarely been black and white, but the soft grays of understanding, leaving with me, at any rate, a deeper faith in the brotherhood of mankind.

May they now go on bringing to the world these rounded-out bits of universal experience; bringing us laughter when laughter is so badly needed these days; revealing that man, left free, aspires to something perhaps beyond his reach, but wholly worth striving for.

Mrs. Helen Mead Pierson, 444 Twelfth Street, Santa Monica, Calif.

My husband was a cardiac sufferer for five years. Every night in the Evanston hospital at 10:00 p. m. were to be found staff doctors, nurses and myself in my husband's room to listen to "Amos 'n' Andy." That ended his long day happily. I may say that this program and that of Preston Bradley were his favorites and I am positive he never missed either one of them in the five years in the hospital.

Letter Contest

In the October 3 issue of Radio Life, we invited readers to write letters, telling us what the National Broadcasting Company's "Amos 'n' Andy" program has meant to them. The first twelve to write were rewarded with tickets to the preview of the season's initial "Amos 'n' Andy" broadcast.

We thought other Radio Life readers would like to know some of the sentiments which a few of the best letters expressed. So here are excerpts, printed for your enjoyment.

Mrs. A. B. Greenelch, 1608 Courtney Avenue, Hollywood, Calif.

Their programs are always such clean fun, never razzing anyone, never a word of sarcasm, or a remark that is off color. Their programs are such that even a very small child or an elderly person can enjoy them. I have missed very few of their programs since they started in Chicago as the Correll and Gosden team, singing grand opera (?).

They have always been my favorites and always will be, as long as they are on the air and I am able to listen. I wish them all the success in the world.

Mrs. Kenneth Yett, 1046 South Harvard Boulevard, Los Angeles, Calif.

My sweetheart and I always waited until after 10:15 p. m. to come home from ice skating on the Midway or Jackson Park or from swimming at Seventy-fourth Street beach (Chicago), as the seasons would have us do, because of the ("Amos 'n' Andy") broadcast that would keep my dad sitting in his easy chair. Now my sweetheart is my husband and our daughter listens to the broadcast that was the means of us finding each other.

Amos and Andy? They are Cupid and the dart. I hope my grandchildren will hear them.

Mr. M. B. McGeehan, 1324 Twelfth Avenue, Los Angeles, Calif.

"Amos 'n' Andy" have meant to me many years of consistently good and wholesome radio entertainment. They have demonstrated the fact that they can "keep it clean" and at the same time produce a show that is enjoyable to every member of anyone's family. Am sure their new show will be welcomed by their millions of listeners. Good luck to them!

Mr. Earl L. Frownfelter, 750 North Newlin Avenue, Whittier, Calif.

Keen observers of human traits and types, as well as those who enjoy wholesome comedy, can not help but enjoy the subtle portrayals of "Amos 'n' Andy." Viva Freeman Gosden and viva Charles Correll!

Mr. M. J. Madison, 1349 South Stanley Avenue, Los Angeles, Calif.

We have always been admirers of their programs, even away back in 1922 when they were "Sam and Henry" in Chicago. I believe it was station WGN. I can remember the program came on at 10:00 p. m. and if I was at a picture show, I would always manage to leave for home by 9:45 so as not to miss the program, regardless of how much of the picture I would miss. We admire "Amos 'n' Andy" very much. They're the best on the air, believe me.

Miss Ella Kennedy, 3724 North Griffin Avenue, Los Angeles, Calif.

My sister and I have listened to "Amos 'n' Andy" for years and they have meant more to us than can be expressed in words or in a short article like this. We are both disabled. I have been a cripple all my life and she fell and broke her hip this Spring so we do not get out and the radio is our only entertainment. As we were raised and spent all of our girlhood in "Sunny Tennessee," we naturally associated much with the colored race on the farm. We found them to be very faithful and lovable. "Amos 'n' Andy" have brought back the happy days of our childhood and the many amusing sayings of the old colored mammies who lived with us.

But we soon came to like "Amos 'n' Andy" for themselves. Amos, so faithful to "Andy" through all his rather shiftless, carefree life. We have always listened to them with interest and great pleasure. We remember so well with what suspense we listened to the murder trial of poor Amos and how we sat holding our breath until the verdict came in, setting him free.

Once, when our radio was out of order and the repair man came to fix it, we were so disappointed that he came too late to let us hear "Amos 'n' Andy" and he said that, as he came along the street, every radio he could hear had the "Amos 'n' Andy" program on. So that shows how popular they are! They have meant a great deal to us. We have missed them very much and are very glad indeed that they are coming back.

Mrs. Evelyn Babster, 2255 West Fourteenth Street, Los Angeles, Calif.

I have been an "Amos 'n' Andy" fan ever since they first started broadcasting back in 1922. There was the first program I can remember listening to when I came to California in 1929. I have followed all their joys and troubles. I don't remember ever having missed one of their programs intentionally.

How patient "Amos" has been with "Andy" in his troubles, and how understanding.

I have missed the "Amos 'n' Andy" program since they have been off the air and will welcome their return.

Mrs. Lee D. Leonard, Route 1, Box 2701, El Cajon, Calif.

Sirs: I think my pet peeve is one that, if remedied, will do more to calm our war nerves than any other one thing. I, like millions of others, listen to the soap operas (so-called) and the plays and enjoy them immensely while the play is going on. But as the talking stops, a blast of music smites my ears and literally shocks me all over.

Why must the musical theme be blasted at us? Couldn't it be played in a softer, lower key, so we can enjoy that, too? Can't the music and talking be synchronized, so we can stay at whatever we are doing while the commercial is going on, instead of having to rush and turn down the volume? Because as soon as the theme music and commercial are over, it has to be turned up again, in order to hear the play without too much strain.

We all know the commercials are what give us so many good radio programs and I have no complaint on that score. I just want to hear the commercials in comfort.

If the musical theme could be more in pitch with the talking, I'm sure, at the end of the day, we would all feel more rested.

We like Radio Life a lot and get it as often as possible. It is so nice to have a radio guide that gives so much data on the different artists and now, a chance to air my radio grievance, too. Thank you.

COINCIDENCE

There was an unusual coincidence in the signing of Ann Ayres, film actress, for the role of secretary on Lionel Barrymore's CBS program, "Mayor of the Town." The first picture the actress ever worked in was one of the "Dr. Kildare" series, with Lionel Barrymore, and her initial appearance on the CBS program was her first radio broadcast—again, with Barrymore.

They Ruin MY Love Life

By Sydney Reznick
(DURANTE-MOORE WRITER)

As Told to DAVID GREGGORY

(Georgia Gibbs, vocalist of the Jimmy Durante-Garry Moore show, bravely consented to pose for a series of shots demonstrating Sydney Reznick's theory that 'once a gag-writer, always a gag-writer—even during the most romantic moments.'

"If Syd's not kiddin'," opines Georgia, "I'm sure any gal will agree with him that a gag-writer wouldn't make a very satisfactory husband. Things are difficult enough without having to run competition to 'Joe Miller', too."—The Editor.)

SO you think positively that a gag-writer has no business to marry? Sydney Reznick was asked.

"He can't afford to, if he has no business," grinned the incurable gagster.

"Don't you think that's tempting Fate?"

"Like Oscar Wilde, one of the best gag-men in literary history," remarked Reznick, "I can resist anything but temptation."

Tradition has it that gag-writers are not always given to bestowing proper credit on the quips they crib from the classics, so we complimented Sydney on his honesty.

"I have always believed in giving credit where credit is due," he nodded, "It's only where cash is due, that I'm shy."

You'll begin to see that interviewing a gag-writer is a little like a game of conversational ping-pong, in which the interviewer (who becomes the unwitting straight-man) keeps "serving," and the gagster keeps sending his innocent words back. As in tennis, the "return" may be a lob, a volley or a smash—but whatever it is, the gag-writer can never resist turning your most harmless remark into a "feed" for a joke.

And that is a clue to the reason Sydney Reznick has a theory that the boys who bandy the banter had better remain bachelors. Sydney is in his early twenties. He's one of the youngest gag-men in radio, and definitely the youngest on the writing staff of the Jimmy Durante-Garry Moore show, being even younger than the Schnozzola's co-star, who is just twenty-eight.

Gets the Bird

The Kilocycles' Newest, Most Amazing Star Is Raffles, Mina Bird Brought Here from Malaya

By EVELYN BIGSBY

A SHEENY, black-feathered bird who can whistle and talk is radio's newest star.

The sensational "Raffles," brought from the Malayan jungle by Mr. and Mrs. Carveth Wells, recently made guest appearances on the Blue's "What's New?" and "Duffy's Tavern." For each appearance Raffles received $500).

In addition to swiping the current kilocycle honors, Raffles, according to Mr. and Mrs. Wells, is: Getting

Has his own maid.

Has his checks made out in his own name, with proper deduction for Social Security, California State Unemployment, 20 per cent Withholding Tax, and plans to pay his own Income Tax.

Is writing his autobiography and has had a book written about him.

Is the only bird to have been given a party by Elsa Maxwell, who hosted swank society in Raffles' honor at the sumptuous home of Mrs. Evelyn Walsh McLean.

Receives fan letters from all over the world, and recently had one from a London parrot.

Is donor of a mobile kitchen, paid for and sent to England out of his own earnings.

What makes Raffles stand head and wing above other birds? "There are hundreds of mina birds in the world," explained Carveth Wells, "But Raffles is a very smart one." Furthermore, one has but to see the bird with Mr. and Mrs. Wells to realize that Raffles has been the object of lavish attention and infinitely patient training.

Four years ago, when Explorer Wells and his wife were on a picture-taking safari in the Malay jungle, Mrs. Wells found the bird. Thirty feet up the trunk of a towering tree, the baby mina was creating a commotion in a hollow. Lustrous black feathers at the base of the tree told a brief tragedy. A snake, apparently had killed the mother bird, and the excitement in the hole meant that the baby was cold, lonesome, hungry.

A cleverly devised ladder of vines and pegs enabled Ali, native boy of the party, to rescue the forlorn mina.

Back in camp, the fledgling just squatted and opened its mouth for food. Mr. Wells did not display the least interest until Ali informed him that the bird was a mina. Discovering that it came from a clever strain, Wells showed some enthusiasm about helping to feed the hungry orphan. Every fifteen minutes they stuffed boiled rice and banana down his yawning beak.

The bird was sent to Singapore while the expedition was completed. Scheduled to sail for America on the President Polk, Mr. and Mrs.

PERCHED ON ARCHIE'S SHOULDER, Raffles responds to Mrs. Wells' query, "Are you in the army?" by whistling "I'm In the Army, Now."

Wells were aboard ship when the latter remembered the "baby." A mad taxi dash, and the determined Mrs. Wells and her amazed husband found themselves sailing for home with a bird in their stateroom. They named him Raffles, in honor of Sir Stamford Raffles, founder of Singapore.

Learns to Talk

During the long voyage home by way of Ceylon, Bombay, Suez Canal, and Gibraltar, Raffles started to learn. One of the first things he caught onto was the little bell which Mrs. Wells hung in his cage. He learned to ring it when he roused in the morning and wanted the cover lifted from his cage.

He learned to play dead, then hop up when told to "wake up!"

In no time at all, he showed he knew Mr. and Mrs. Wells as apart from other persons. He recognized them by flapping his wings and "dancing" in front of his cage door. He learned to take a bath in the washbasin, but this routine developed into an amusing performance whenever Mr. Wells served as bath steward. Raffles insisted on sitting on his master's head, making it necessary for Wells to stoop carefully and lower the bird to the level of the washbasin.

His first words were, "Hello! Hello!" Then he learned to say "Carveth," in exactly the same tone of voice used by Mrs. Wells. He learned to say, "Have a bath?," using a very broad "a" to pronounce bath. Then, one day, when a pretty girl passed his cage, he supplemented his "hello" salutation with "darling." He grew to say "Hello, darling," so much like Mrs. Wells that oftentimes Mr. Wells became delightfully confused. When Wells became ill with a cold and did a lot of coughing and sneezing, Raffles appeared to follow suit. They thought he was sick, until it dawned on them that the bird was imitating his master.

Finally, he learned to whistle the first four lines of the "Star Spangled Banner." Appropriately enough, as the President Polk edged inside New York harbor and Wells cued Raffles with a grape, the bird whistled the national anthem.

The mina's entry permit hadn't arrived when the boat docked, but Raffles won over a persnickety customs official when he said: "Hello, Joe!"

"He knows my name!" exclaimed the dumbfounded man, promptly letting Raffles ashore.

Became Citified

Gradually, the bird became accustomed to life in a New York apartment.

He developed a love for motoring, but once almost involved his mis-stress with the law. Mrs. Wells was forced to a sudden stop, and as the cop came over to speak his mind, Raffles croaked up from the back seat.

"Hello, darling!" he greeted the scowling officer, who thought Mrs. Wells was getting fresh with him, until he spied the bird in the rear of the car.

During a summer vacation in Connecticut, the bird started to give professional performances. Raffles also was lost for a whole day, and while he tried his wings flying around the country, his distracted owners instituted a frantic search. As night approached, they returned home, Mrs. Wells sobbing and her husband trying to console her over their loss. But there, on the front porch, was a tired, repentant bird, surrounded by some 30 gaping inhabitants. The minute he saw Mrs. Wells, Raffles, covered with muck, hopped on her shoulder and said: "Hello, darling. Have a bath?"

Raffles is now four years old. His radio acting has come about slowly, but surely, in the past two years. On his benefits for servicemen, Raffles played host to many celebrities, so his guesting on the radio shows of the famous came about quite naturally.

He works, not by rote, but by cue ramified by a delicious morsel of ingly in front of him. His appearance grape which Mrs. Wells holds tempt-

Quiz Kids Arrive

Thursday, November 18, the Blue network's "Quiz Kids" piled off The Chief at Union Station and made ready to take Hollywood by storm. Each accompanied by his or her mama, Kids bouncing off the train and riding to the Hollywood Knickerbocker in Army jeeps were Ruthie Duskin, Gerard Darrow, Harve Fischman, Joel Kupperman and Richard Williams.

It was a gala affair—meeting the train. Blithely shrugging off deadlines, your Radio Life reporter was right up in front when Joel peeked around the corner of the grimy steel Pullman. While their mothers huddled near stacks of baggage, the youngsters posed for several photographers and gave the press a chance to look them over.

Handsome Richard showed himself as a gentleman and when his mother was asked to join the group for pictures, straightened the frill at her neck and didn't do a bit of fixing up for himself. Ruthie looked very grown-up in a pink wool suit which heightened the color in her cheeks. Harve appeared to be a husky red-head, and Gerard looked as if he had put on weight since the last time he was here. His Aunt Bessie confided that he worried so about leaving his pets, which include 15 turtles, and instructed another aunt: "Wire me if anything happens to any of them!"

Joel, as to be expected, was scuttling here, there, and everywhere. After every picture, he managed to dart away, only to be called back for "just one more." After this routine had gone on four or five times, he pouted and exclaimed: "You're not good Americans. You say 'just one more' and then you don't keep your word." When Mrs. Kupperman corralled him, he bit his lip and forced back the tears.

The Kids will broadcast from Hollywood two more Sundays—November 28 and at a bond rally on December 5 at Philharmonic Auditorium. Admission will be by bond purchase and a local Quiz Kid will be selected to appear on this occasion.

As they left the platform to clamber into low-slung Army jeeps, the Kids were focus of attention for a group of express handlers. "Hey," the men yelled, grinningly, "you Quiz Kids tell us when we're going to get a raise. You know everything else!"

Watch KMPC

Two days after Radio Life hit the stands with a story, "Watch KMPC," G. A. Richards, owner of KMPC, announced that he had purchased a new home for the "station of the stars" at 5939 Sunset boulevard, corner of Sunset and Gordon Street. The FCC approved the application last Wednesday and it is expected that KMPC will move from its present site in Beverly Hills within 90 days.

Acquisition of the new site will put KMPC right down on Radio Row and will allow for the station's expansion program. At present, operations are seriously handicapped, according to KMPC executives. Office space is inadequate and employes are trying to work in a building which housed half their number five years ago. At that time the station operated on 500 watts, part time, while today is it in full time operation on 10,000 watts. Location in Beverly Hills is 10 miles from most advertising agencies and other commercial contacts. Move to Hollywood will more than cut this mileage in half.

Robert Reynolds, general manager of KMPC, said that plans are being made to remodel the recently-purchased building, which formerly housed KNX and has been more lately used by Columbia Pictures. Twenty offices will be made available with the move to Sunset and Gordon along with fuller facilities for live talent shows. Reynolds said that KMPC will progress with as much remodeling as possible under war-time restrictions, but what cannot be done now will await tackling after the war.

Near Miss

The NBC network was almost without a Jack Benny broadcast when the show originated from an air base in the Mojave Desert, a week ago Sunday. Forest fires back in the mountains had burned the connecting telephone wires and contact was resumed thirteen minutes before Jack was due to go on the air.

Big Business

Radio networks are far and away ahead in time sales this year over those of last year, according to recent release of figures. For the first nine months of 1943, sales have been: CBS, $41,520,000, or an increase of 25 per cent; NBC, $38,830,000, or up 21 per cent; Blue, $18,950,000, or increase of 78 per cent; and Mutual, $9,350,000, or increase of 32 per cent.

CBS alone had a gross income of $53,846,000 for 39 weeks of 1943 as against $45,293,000 for 1942, and after allowance of $21,852,000 for operating, $6,789,000 for selling expenses, $1,777,000 for income taxes, $2,973,500 for excess profit taxes, totaled a net income of $3,245,000 as against $2,894,000 for the previous year.

Symphony Sponsored

Boston Symphony, which went on the Blue Network a year ago as a sustaining musical program, has been bought for sponsorship by Allis-Chalmers Company, thus assuring continuance of this presentation the year 'round. During the summer, the Esplanade concerts will be performed in an outdoor setting on the Charles River. The "pop" concerts will occupy the spring season, while the regular winter series will be broadcast from October to May.

New Handle

Now it's five-and-a-half-year-old Bobby Hookey, Mutual starlet, who is achieving swooner-crooner fame. At a recent broadcast while Bobby was singing, a group of little girls was noticed sighing. An adult member of the audience promptly dubbed him "The Sinatra of the Nursery!"

Yankees Thrilled

Royal Arch Gunnison, Mutual Network Manila correspondent returning from internment, cabled that the most dramatic moment aboard the prison exchange ship Gripsholm came when 1,500 repatriates saw their first American film since their imprisonment in Japan.

"The picture was 'Yankee Doodle

Next Week

Next week Dinah Shore is on the cover and is written up on an exciting story inside, Pages 4-5. Title is "Undazzled Dinah." "They Loved Him in Africa," is, as you guessed, a Jack Benny article relating his experiences on his 10-weeks' overseas entertainment tour. Pictures were taken on the scene. Lowell Thomas writes an exclusive piece for Radio Life called "Formula for Newscasting." "Glamour Girl at 45" tells about one of today's most popular stars, while "Comedian Against His Will" gives first-hand information on someone you've all been asking about—Garry Moore. The realization had to sink in that now you can give voice to your feelings. . . . Once that realization sank in, the lid was off, and you ought to have heard the applause and cheering!"

Leaves Maids

It was a sad farewell day around Kraft Music Hall on a recent Thursday when Hal Hopper—long time member of the Music Maids and Hal vocal group of Bing Crosby's perennial Thursday night "clambake" severed connections with the "Maids" and rejoined his original vocal group, the Pied Pipers. Hal spent eighteen months in the Army, was given a medical discharge a few weeks ago, and returned to KMll. His farewell gifts to the "Maids" were clever lapel pins featuring bizarre head designs. The girls kissed Hal soundly—wished him every success with the Pied Pipers. Lee Gotch replaced Hal with the Music Maids group.

Signed, Sealed

Producer Cecil B. DeMille says that everything is set for the presentation of "Mrs. Miniver" on Lux, Monday night, December 6, CBS-KNX, 6 p. m. This play was to have been the opener for Lux's fall season, but Greer Garson, feminine lead, was drafted to go on the Hollywood War Bond Cavalcade, and since her return, has been tied up with film work. Walter Pidgeon will co-star with her in the air adaptation, as he did on the screen.

An Extra Laugh

Anything can and usually does, happen on "Thanks To the Yanks," CBS Saturday night show. Recently Bob Hawk asked a contestant what his business was.

"I'm a garment cutter," replied the New Jersey contestant. "I handle ladies' pajamas."

While the audience laughed hilariously, Hawk ad-libbed, "You don't make any slips in your business, do you?"

Diggin' Discs

With JACK LAWSON

THIS IS THE HOME STRETCH week of DIGGIN' DISCS' popularity poll for the "Favorite Male Singer." No votes will be counted after November 30. At this writing, BING continues to lead the field, with FRANKIE SINATRA up close and DICK HAYMES coming up strong from third. Way behind are JOHNNIE JOHNSTON, BUDDY MORENO, RAY EBERLE, BOB EBERLY, DAVID STREET and DICK TODD. But, fans, you have one more week for voting—so get in there now and vote for your favorite. All you have to do is write his name on a penny postcard, together with your own name and address, and mail it to DIGGIN' DISCS, c/o RADIO LIFE, 1558 North Vine Street, Hollywood, 28. It's your last chance.

VOTING TOOK an upward spurt after DIGGIN' DISCS made a guest appearance with DON OTIS on his KFAC Dance Time the other night. DON, by the way, is making a series of appearances at local high schools in conjunction with the sale of war stamps and bonds. It all began when L. A. High staged a war bond rally a while back. DON offered 100 records for those who bought the most bonds. Over $102,000 in bonds were sold at the school. So now other schools have invited Don over. So far he's appeared at BELMONT, EAGLE ROCK, ROOSEVELT and UNIVERSITY, with VENICE set for December 7.

Admission is a 50c war stamp, or more. Famous recording stars appear with Don (JOHNNIE JOHNSTON, CONNIE HAINES and JO STAFFORD among others). Don plays records and gives an educational spiel with each, taking away the stigma of popular music at school. It's a swell stunt, and Don's doing a great job.

COLUMBIA is concentrating on albums at present, and putting out quite a bit of promotion on same. One of these days, we're going to devote a column to albums, but for the present we have room only to skim over the subject. There are groups of WALTZES, MOOD MUSIC, PIANO MUSIC, SHOW TUNES, BAND MUSIC, CONGAS, RHUMBAS and TANGOS, SYMPHONIC, LIGHT CONCERT, HOT JAZZ, VOCALS, etc. By way of albums, the music lover can have a complete concert of almost any type in his home, whenever he pleases.

One of the most unique of COLUMBIA's albums is that devoted to Circus Music, with MERLE EVANS conducting Ringling Brothers and Barnum and Bailey's band in such numbers as "Ringling Bros. Grand Entry," "Symphonia March," "The Big Cage," "Barnum and Bailey's Favorite," "High Ridin'," "Jungle Queen," etc. Other band music includes the marches of EDWIN FRANKO GOLDMAN's band. Yes, albums offer every type of music you can want.

Radio Roundup from KFI

If you like your radio entertainment on the sophisticated side, skip down to the middle of this column. This is the corn on the cob department. Subject: the new

"Hook 'n' Ladder Follies," NBC's Saturday morning combination of mountain music and country comedy.

Emceeding "Hook 'n' Ladder Follies" is Ralph Dumke, a radio big-shot in the east, and one-time half of the "Sisters of the Skillet." He introduces such stars of music and comedy as Carson Robinson, who plays and sings his own compositions; the Sourwood Mountain Boys; Ed Durlacher, who calls square dances, and Frank Novak's 18-piece orchestra, sweet potato sextet and saxophone septet.

As we hinted at the start, it's corn. And good corn.

You'll have to get up early Saturday morning to listen, because "Hook 'n' Ladder Follies" comes on over KFI at 8:00 a.m. But it's worth it.

And speaking of corn, the National Barn Dance is a Hollywood show now, what with the arrival here of Joe Kelly and sundry other Barn Dancers. They do their broadcast from here Saturdays at 6:00 via KFI, and on weekdays they're making a movie.

Typical Americans are the heroes of a new show, "Lighted Windows," to be heard over KFI Saturdays at 8:30 p.m. beginning December 4. With Fulton Oursler as consulting editor, "Lighted Windows" tells the story of the home life of an average American family in wartime.

RECOMMENDED: Bob Becker's "Pet Parade," real stuff for dog lovers, on KFI at 9:30 a.m. on Saturdays. . . . The Fitch Bandwagon, with Dick Powell as guest November 28, 4:30 p.m. on KFI. . . . "Tomorrow's World," news of the future, 6:15 p.m. Mondays, KFI. . . . The luck of the Crosbys still holds, or so says Bob who will have lovely and blonde June Hutton as his guest next Sunday at 7:30 p. m., on KFI. . . . Suggest you listen to Alvin Wilder Sunday morning on KFI at 10. Wilder launched a new commentary program on the NBC network last Sunday which is, but good.

CHANGES: "O.K. for Release," with and by Joy Storm, takes over the 5:00 p.m. spot across the board on KFI . . . and "Voice of a Nation," compilation of editorial views from the press, moves to 10:45 p.m. daily.

COTTEN'S VOICE
If you see the U. S. Navy movie short, "Eagles of the Navy," you may recognize the voice as that of the narrator of Columbia's "America, Ceiling Unlimited" program, Joseph Cotten.
AUDITION WINNER
It was in 1929 that Harry von Zell, now announcer on Columbia's "Dinah Shore Program," got his first big break in radio. Competing with over 250 other announcers, he won the audition for the Paul Whiteman show.

APT PHRASE

On her first radio program, in 1940, Dinah Shore, the nation's No. 1 songstress and star of her own show on the Columbia Network, was well described as an outstanding "blues" singer, when she was called "the gal who starts a fire by rubbing two notes together."

ONE EXCEPTION

Bernardine Flynn, "Sade" on the "Vic and Sade" program, observes, "The only person I know who makes a success running other people down is the elevator boy."

QUIZ KIDS THRILLED

Sikorsky, inventor of the helicopter, was breakfasting at Chicago's Dearborn Inn recently when the Blue Network's Quiz Kids spotted him.

"We had quite a conversation," said Harvey Fischman. "I said, 'May we have your autograph, Mr. Sikorsky?' He said, 'Yes,' and then we said 'Thank you,' and he said, 'You're welcome!' "That's historic," commented Richard Williams.

JACKIE QUIPS

Jackie Kelk thinks Hitler is having rodeo trouble with the Mos-cow boys!

PIE PARTY

One of Buddy Moreno's fans presented him with a luscious apple pie recently and the crooner of the Columbia network's Harry James show organized a "pie pool" and gave a pastry party backstage.

BLACK SHEEP

Carlton Morse, writer of "I Love a Mystery," was asked by an actor for a job as a villain. "I'm just the type," said the actor. "In school I was the only one in the graduating class to get a black sheepskin!"

Gags: They Ruin My Love Life

"A gag-writer becomes so accustomed to diggin' for gags," explains Sydney, "that just about any situation, any moment of his life, or anything even his sweetheart may say, is liable to be the inspiration for a new joke.

"For instance, maybe a gag-man is sitting in the moonlight with a girl he thinks is a combination of Hedy Lamarr and Betty Grable. He thinks, like any fellow, 'gee, I wish I could marry Mary'—if that's her name. But what does he think next? Maybe something like this—'One trouble with marriage right now is that a fellow can hardly support the income-tax collector and a wife, on one income'. So you see."

"Or suppose a more serious moment, when a fellow's going to see his girl's father about marrying her. If the father were enthusiastic, and said 'I like you, my boy. I'm proud to give you my daughter's hand,' a gag-man would be quite capable of spoiling the whole thing by being unable to resist thinking, 'Okay, pop, but you'll have to throw in the rest of her.'"

Sydney was asked to recall a couple of the outstanding examples, in his own romantic experiences, where he may have lost out with his lady fair, but came up smiling with a good gag. He looked thoughtful, then grinned.

"I remember once when I was going around with one of those very eager, ambitious gals. She wanted to take me—and everything else—seriously. That was fine, for I was pretty young and kinda serious about it myself. But, came the moment when the writer won out over the Romeo in me."

"Did you get as far as a proposal?" Sydney grinned.

"Now there's a lead-line into a censorable gag, if I ever heard one. Anyway, this girl wanted to encourage me. She was afraid I wasn't working quite hard enough to my chosen career. So, during one of our quiet evenings at home, she leaned over, tenderly, and murmured, 'I do like to see a fellow throw himself right into his work.'"

"That's a fine thing to say to a guy who inspects elevator shafts."

"That's what I thought, and I thought it so automatically I made the mistake of saying it aloud. 'Very funny' commented the young lady, who was very put-out at not being taken seriously. In fact, she was so put-out, it wasn't very long till I was put out. You get the idea."

"Do you think there's any hope for a gag-writer at all?"

Sydney shook his head.

"Afraid not, speaking for this gag-writer, at least. Of course, being gag-minded can come in handy, too. Suppose I do finally get to a justice of the peace with a determined young lady who has exactly the perfect

"If I Can Write 'Em, I Can Read 'Em"

what else could she play?"

Jack's spot usually ends with a bit of the dramatic. One of the best examples was the day he and Don Ameche did the buzz saw act.

Ameche: "I'm strapped down in front of a big buzz saw."

Jack: "Yes . . ."

SOUND: Buzz Saw.

Ameche: "Hey, Jack. I'm getting closer and closer to the buzz saw. Isn't anybody going to save me?"

Jack: "Oh, sure. The hero saves you at the last minute."

Ameche: "Who's the hero?"

Jack: "I don't know. We're still casting."

SOUND: Buzz Saw, Establish and Out.

Ameche: (Yelling) "Jack! I'm getting closer and closer to the buzz saw. Jack! Jack! Jack!"

SOUND: Saw cuts through log. Log falls to floor.

Jack: (Pause) "Well, we still have Jim Ameche!"

Because Douglas was formerly a gag writer for big comics, one assumes it takes him but a few minutes to dash off his weekly script, timed to six' or seven minutes. The supposition is false.

"I work all week on my stuff," averred Douglas. "Of course, I have files with thousands of gags written for others but never used. But to whip up my spot takes all week from Saturday to the next Saturday." He says he used to work about 12 hours a week on material for another comic.

"I'm taking a gamble, starting off the way I am on my own," he admitted. "We all lay eggs sometimes. No script can hit 100 per cent. But if you are writing for someone else, he gets all the credit if the stuff is good; if it's bad, you get the blame!"

Gagging is all a serious business to Jack. One would think, after he has worked all week writing his spot, that he would toss off the actual delivery with becoming nonchalance. But just go backstage some Saturday afternoon when "What's New?" is on the air. You'll see an intense, slightly nervous young gag-maker, sitting on the steps leading sense of humor. What would happen to the average man at such a moment, if he discovered he'd forgotten the ring?"

"I'd think he'd be covered with confusion, to put it mildly."

"Right," Sydney declared, "but what would a gag-man do. He'd smile nonchalantly and say, 'I've been meaning to give you a ring. And I will, too, as soon as you get your phone put in.'"

GAGS OF THE WEEK

For the best Gags of the Week, heard over Radio and sent Radio Life, tickets will be sent winners for admission to radio broadcasts. Send your best gag selection to 1029 West Washington Boulevard, Los Angeles.

Miss Gloria Kuderna, 1319½ East Wilson Avenue, Glendale, Calif.

Heard on the Bergen-McCarthy show: Jane Powell: Why, Mr. Bergen, you don't look old! Your hair isn't even turning to silver.

Charlie McCarthy: No-o-o! It's turning to skin.

(Tickets also to Miss Marcene Buckman, 6004 Carlton Way, Hollywood, Calif.)

Jimmy Allen, 828 Schumacher Drive, Los Angeles, Calif.

Heard on "Point Sublime":

Ben Willet: Yuh know, Mooney, a long time ago I used to be a life saver.

Mooney: Yuh did, Mr. Willet?

Willet: Yeah.

Mooney: What flavor?

Warren Wiener, 636 South Burnside, Los Angeles, Calif.

Heard on Bob Hope show:

Jerry Colonna (to Bob Hope): Bob, you're a distinguished guest here in Las Vegas. The mayor has asked me to turn over the keyhole of the city to you!

Miss Jerry Burke, 621 North Juanita Street, Redondo Beach, Calif.

Heard on the Burns and Allen show:

Gracie (speaking of George): He's even a better singer than Nelson Eddy. When George sings "Shortenin' Bread," it smells!

Should the Allies Bomb Rome?

*Commentator Harry Flannery,
A Catholic, Discusses This Timely, Heated News Subject*

By MERIE BILLING

Monday-Saturday, 5:30 P.M.
CBS-RNA

Who interest ourselves, extra-curricularly, in activities outside the radio field, such as war, go to the sources we consider most authentic when we want special information.

It was only natural, therefore, that we should contact Mr. Flannery on a subject which today is attracting world-wide attention. We refer to the bombing, or further bombing, of Rome.

With the Allied armies and air forces moving ever closer to the heart of the Catholic faith and the possibility looming increasingly that Rome may be subjected to treatment similar to that accorded Naples, the likelihood of destruction for this ancient city becomes an international problem.

Catholics have differed among themselves when questioned about the advisability of destroying Rome to gain a military victory. Protestants, too, have opposed one another in their views.

Flannery, therefore, was our man. He is a Catholic, he is broadminded, he is an American and, above all, he is qualified, we believe, to air an opinion—an opinion, which he insists is purely his own and does not reflect any general opinion of the Catholic religion or its hierarchy.

In Harry W. Flannery, CBS, is a modest, soft-voiced, smiling young man who has been around the world, who is qualified in every respect—as few are today—to serve the American public as news analyst and commentator.

He was a newspaperman in St. Louis before he joined radio. He served CBS as foreign correspondent and for many months was in Berlin to chronicle daily the happenings there. That, of course, was before America entered the war.

There are those, claiming to know the whys and wherefores, who insist the Japanese bombing of Pearl Harbor gave the Nazi Germans an excellent excuse to sweep Flannery from his position of journalistic prominence.

Actually, however, Flannery had been excused, impolitely, from the Reich some months before.

Saw German Horror

Much as they did NOT care for his frank, honest and thorough reporting of their attitudes and activities, the Germans did respect Flannery as a newspaperman, for he was the only newspaperman or radioman taken along in the last waves of the invasion of Crete. Flannery saw for himself the horror carved from those hills by the Germans.

We asked Mr. Flannery what his views were concerning Rome.

"Rome," he answered, "is a great city. I've respected it, for nearly all my years, as a great historical and religious monument. In Rome lives the head of my church."

But Rome, Flannery points out emphatically, still is only a city and must be regarded as such in any military strategy.

He expects the Allies, particularly the Americans, will make every effort to avoid placing further shells into the city.

He believes General Mark Clark, General Bernard Montgomery and whichever other Allied commanders are brought into the action will try to outflank Rome and surround it, thus causing its downfall without the firing of a single shot.

But, he expects, too, that the Germans will seek shelter within its holy boundaries, will use Pope Pius as a shield akin to hostage to slow up an Allied drive.

He expects the Germans will use demolition squads to wreck some of the historical highlights.

He looks, also, for German trickery to be employed to force an Allied bombardment of Rome. But, he points out, if this comes to pass, blame cannot be placed upon either the British, the Americans or the French who may be involved in the attack.

Having heard the commentator express these views, we next probed the frame of mind which caused Flannery to explain these beliefs.

Does he approve the bombing of Rome?

He does, if it cannot be avoided.

Rome cannot stand in the way of a victory, Flannery said. If the entire city should be laid waste in gaining our objective, providing it can be accomplished no other way, then the city must be destroyed.

Those are emphatic words, particularly from a man who says he loves the city.

What About Vatican?

That brought us to the question of the Vatican and its chief resident, Pope Pius.

Naturally, Flannery explained, every precaution will be exercised to keep bombs and artillery shells away from this holy shelter, once the world's most peaceful spot, now surrounded by all the terrors and din of brutal warfare.

But, said Flannery, he believes Pope Pius himself would prefer to die a victim of military might rather than surrender any of these peaceful beauties with which his office has so long been synonymous.

There is a possibility, of course, that Vatican City, too, might fall victim to attack.

In that case, what?

In that case, said Flannery, Americans and Catholics can only weep and say prayers for the repose of all souls whose bodies were torn in the battle.

There can be no grievances held by any Catholic or any American for what might happen in the course of military progression.

"A Catholic, after all, is an American, too," was Flannery's closing remark.

And it shows, we guess, that patriotism, too, is a mighty fine and deep religion in wartime.

◀ LAUGHING AT HIS OWN JOKE is the brand new comedian, Jack Douglas, who used to be a gag writer, but figured if he could write 'em, he could tell 'em, too. He's doing both, now.

Saturday, 4 p.m.
Blue-KECA

JACK DOUGLAS, sensational new comic of the "What's New?" show, is a gagwriter who has turned gagster. Once, he admits, he made up a quip and tried to sell it to Eddie Cantor.

"What'll you give me for this joke?", Jack asked the pop-eyed funster.

"A ten-yard head start!", cracked Cantor.

That's the trouble with being a gagwriter, Douglas decided. You knock yourself out to figure something funny, but your idea of a good crack and the comedian's conception don't coincide. Your frustrated gags, laid end to end, would reach from Benny's Maxwell to 79 Wistful Vista.

So why not write your own stuff and deliver it, too? One way to be certain that your material goes on the air and goes on the way you want it.

No, Jack was never unhappy about the manner in which his laboriously-engendered quips were dealt with by Bob Hope, whom he helped script for three years, Red Skelton, for whom he worked two years, or Tommy Ruggs and his illusory little niece, Fatty Lou.

★ Says Former Gagwriter, Turned Gag Deliverer ★

"If I Can Write 'Em, I Can Read 'Em"

But no comedian was ever able to use all Jack wrote. Beyond this, if one will probe his obscure past, one unearths a stretch of Jack monologing in vaudeville, sessions of "warming up" the radio customers.

When some smart executive heard Jack tickling the risibilities of a studio audience, a frigid one at that, he exclaimed: "That fellow is funnier than any guy he writes for." An audition record was cut, but Jack was drafted about that time last spring, then plumped back into civilian life, a 4-F. Someone remembered the audition platter, and before Jack could say "Don Ameche," he was set for the RCA show, "What's New?", with Ameche as emcee and the straight man for the Douglas dialogue.

The fact that Jack writes and delivers his stuff automatically sets

◀ AS JACK USED TO BE—a thinker-upper of wisecracks for other comedians. Last year, he was one of head writers on the Skelton show; was going over script with Edna Skelton when this picture was snapped.

WHO DAT? It's Jack Douglas, new comedy find, talking back to his writer, who happens to be Jack Douglas. Jack formerly wrote for stars Hope, Skelton, Tommy Riggs.

him apart. Few, indeed, are the comics who bite off such a chunk. Fred Allen is one, Garry Moore another, Ed Gardner, perhaps a third. That practically completes the list.

The "What's New?" humorist is a strappingly, well-proportioned young man, who looks like an all-star, ex-tackle. He carries on a Hope-type monologue, but unlike the rapid-fire comedian, Jack has a slow, deliberate delivery. His spot on the program comes late on the hour-long show, and is introduced by the delicately haunting melody, "Mighty Lak' a Rose."

Laughed Jack: "Every one expects to see and hear a sweet little boy, not a truck driver like me!"

His humor has general appeal, and he plans to keep it that way. At home, he listens to the radio, which he finds a fruitful source for gag ideas.

"Don't get me wrong. I don't steal other comedians' stuff," he protested. "But the soap operas and news give me inspiration. Generally, I'll have one gag that's of current nature."

Sure enough, on the following Saturday, Jack quipped: "Hasn't this weather been nice lately? That's one thing about California. No matter what happens, the sun always leaks out! Isn't it wonderful, the Army gave us permission to talk about the California weather on the radio, again. Now all we have to do is get permission to use that kind of language! I went down to the Hollywood High School to get my No. 4 Ration Book today. Dear Old Hollywood High School! The principal saw me in the hall and said: 'My gosh, Dumbo, Haven't you graduated yet?' I'll never forget my school days. I went to Hollywood high. That's why I got expelled!"

Another Saturday, when rationing was tough, Jack made a topical gag: "Well, I'm back again. Aren't those sulphur drugs wonderful? I really feel great. I had a beautiful dream last night. I dreamed that Lana Turner came into my room . . . with a pound of butter!"

The World Series couldn't pass without a small crack: "I'm worried tonight. I'm worried about my grandmother. She hurt her hand during the World Series. She caught a bouncing sailor!"

Jack confesses to liking odd-sounding words. He uses them in his strapless gown gag. There's always a girl and she's wearing some strapless costume, for instance, a bathing suit.

DOUGLAS WITH EMCEE DON AMECHE. Jack's spot on the RCA show lasts from six to seven minutes, but he spends all week working on it. Ameche acts as Jack's straight man in dialogue parts.

Ameche: "A strapless bathing suit? How does she keep it up?"

Jack: "Soy beans." (or Walnettos, or Ironized Yeast).

A quick glimpse at Jack's scripts reveals the scope of his humor. Example: "Just a minute. I have a message from the Secretary of the Interior."

Jack: "Okay . . . Bromo-Seltzer, Bromo-Seltzer, Bromo-Seltzer."

Example: "My girl's awfully sweet. We used to go on picnics together. Boy, what fun! I'd rather go on a picnic than eat!"

Example: "I blame the shortage on Washington. All they do there is shoot craps. They're always talking about the Basic Seven!"

Example: "I'm very upset tonight. I just had a big argument with a lady taxi driver. She wouldn't turn off the meter while we parked."

Example: Don: "Do they have any girls in the floor show?"

Jack: "Yes, one of the girls is very clever. Here's her picture . . . she plays the cello."

Ameche: "Humph! With those legs, (Please Turn to Page 28)

"OH, MR. HOPE- MR. HOPE." Vera Vague (Barbara Jo Allen) concentrates on getting Comedian Bob's notice. She would even share his divided attention with Frances Langford.

The Transformation of Miss V. Vague

The Case History of One of the Screwiest Screwballs on the Air

Tuesday, 7 p.m.
NBC-KFI

OH, yoo-hoo! Oh, Mr. Hope, yoo-hoo!
It's man-chasing Vera Vague, bustling on stage for her banter with Pepsodent's Tuesday night mirthmaster.

Down in the front row are two elderly women. One turns to the other and exclaims in sotto voice which carries straight to the stage: "Oh, look at her. She isn't as bad as she makes out!"

Obviously, it's their first glimpse of Barbara Jo Allen playing Vera Vague. What the lady customers probably expected to glimpse was a female in silly hat, feather boa, lorgnette, flat heeled shoes. "And probably an outlandish dress of monk's cloth trimmed in pink dimity," adds Miss Allen.

What they actually saw was a tall, well-built young woman, with lovely eyes complementing regular features and raven hair . . . the real Barbara Jo.

Vera Vague, her brain child, was born the afternoon Miss Allen peeled her eyes to the comedy of a woman's club meeting. She went home from the affair and whipped up the characterization for a talent parade. Instantly, it caught on and was heard on the "Carefree Carnival," six or seven years ago. Later, it was the dizzy climax to "Signal Carnival;" now, it's sure-fire comedy on the Hope program.

"Vera Vague," explained Barbara Jo in a low, well-modulated voice quite dissimilar to the character's, "is just like anybody's addleheaded aunt. She's sort of a frustrated female, dumb, always ambitious and over-zealous. There is nothing in the world she can't or won't tackle. So she becomes a spouting Bureau of Misinformation.

"I created the character first, then figured out why people liked her. As I analyze Vera Vague, she is based on the fact that women have come into their own, but have taken their emancipation too seriously. So it becomes funny when woman goes out over her head."

The truth is, Miss Vague never quite rings the bell, thus making her like a lot of people. Not ourself, heavens, no! But the lady next door, the woman down the street, Second Cousin Bertha. All the Miss Vagues in the world mean well, but they miss clicking—socially, mentally, in their appearance. They make up for their deficiencies by their over-abundant enthusiasms.

A woman thinks Miss Vague is funny because she reminds her of the Miss Vagues of her acquaintance. Barbara Jo had this proved one afternoon at a business women's gathering, where she had been invited to perform. Preceding the entertainment, various members arose to make talks on one subject or another. They hemmed and hawed, spoke all around the point and not to it, ended up in confusion.

As one after another passed in review, Miss Allen became panicky. Turning to the chairman, she protested: "I can't do my monologue. All these women will think I'm making fun of them!"

The chairman's insistence overrode Barbara Jo's objection. She did a Vera Vague lecture on Italy. She tried to tell where it was, but had forgotten . . . tried to bound the country, but couldn't . . . launched into statistics of economic importance and fizzled. The one thing Vera Vague could definitely tell about was the wonderful date she had had with a handsome Italian!

Did the ladies get up in a huff and walk out on the characterization? Did the chairman get red in the face and apologize? Hardly not. They were too busy falling off their chairs from uncontrollable laughter.

Men Like Her

Men, too, take to Vera. "It flatters them to think a woman is chasing them," asserts Miss Allen. "It's just that any truly masculine man hates a woman who is too, too efficient. They like a woman who can't use a hammer, they resent women wearing slacks, women in politics. Vera Vague makes men feel superior, so they like her."

It is no secret, however, that the zany dame is undergoing a slow change. First, it was her clothes. Barbara Jo always appeared for her mike part wearing a crazy hat and flaunting a long hankie. Her lorgnette popped up whenever she had a particularly pat line. When the character was transferred to movies, grape which Mrs. Wells holds tempt on the "Duffy" show called for him to perform a variety of stunts, prefaced by a typical Archie introduction.

"No, no, Duffy," Archie told the tavern owner on the telephone. "It isn't Orson Welles tonight. This bird you can shut up!"

Continued Archie: "He's a feathered Quiz Kid. He's like a malted falcon, only darker." "Chocolate malted?" asked Eddie Green.

Then from a large cage, a green felt cover was removed. Mrs. Wells offered the bird her right index finger as a perching post, and Raffles went on the air.

He whistled "My Country, 'Tis of Thee." When asked if he was in the Army, he whistled "I'm In the Army Now."

"When you saw Duffy's picture, did you laugh?" queried Mrs. Wells, whereupon Raffles rippled out with a mischievous guffaw. He said: "Hello, Joe Joe" in a high voice, then obliged by repeating it in deep tones. He gave a perfect imitation of an electric buzzer. But fell down on the one thing desired: whistling the first few bars of "Star Spangled Banner." This was due, in part, to the fact that Mrs. Wells couldn't ask Raffles to whistle the tune. The national anthem must be sung in its entirety or not at all. So the only way to get around it was to ask Raffles to whistle his "favorite tune" and keep fingers crossed that it would be "Star Spangled Banner." This night, however, his favorite was "America," and every time he was requested to do his favorite, Raffles launched out jauntily on "My Country 'Tis." After the show, when Mrs. Wells could make a direct request, Raffles didn't once miss whistling the national anthem. Of Raffles' rendition, Dale Carnegie said: "He can whistle the 'Star Spangled Banner' better than I can." Sometimes, it is told, the bird hooks on his own ending to the song. After "the twilight's last gleaming," he goes into the "What the heck do we care" line from "Hail, Hail, the Gang's All Here!"

Raffles is a natural showman," agree Mr. and Mrs. Wells. He had only half a dozen rehearsals at home before appearing on the "Duffy" program. It seems a pity that the average life of a mina bird is but six years, for Raffles has made a nic'e that his owners and fans will find difficult to fill. "But we don't want to breed him, for we hear that a mina loses his interest in performing," Mrs. Wells said. She is the one who handles Raffles on the air shows, to warn onlookers not to become excited if the bird, who is never held or restrained, takes a notion to fly around and light on someone's head. Her devotion to the mina is apparent. At Christmas time, she said, Raffles will have his own little tree hung with raisins and nuts. These he dearly loves, as well as grapes, orange juice, egg yolk, and red peppers. He gets brandy, too.

Every morning, Raffles is brought in to Mrs. Wells with her breakfast tray. He perches on the top of the door, waiting for his morning lesson, becomes very impatient if the telephone interrupts their routine.

"Raffles will say 'Quiet, quiet, quiet' if a party becomes noisy," his mistress stated, "but there is one word we have never taught him to say. That is 'goodbye.' We don't want to run the chance of his springing it at some inopportune time."

Raffles was also taught to respond with a large raspberry when asked, "What do you think of Hitler?" This routine was always hilarious business until the day two gentle ladies approached his cage at a charity affair and Raffles horrified them by greeting them with an enormous raspberry.

Mr. and Mrs. Wells decided to make the mina "unlearn" the trick as rapidly as possible, and accomplished the feat by refraining from asking him what he thought of Hitler and refusing to pay any attention to the bird when he voluntarily voiced his opinion.

The enthusiasm of Mr. and Mrs. Wells over their mina is indeed refreshing. Amusing, too.

"Here I've spent all my life traveling and studying world problems and just came to the place where my lecture schedule was booked solid," exclaimed Mrs. Wells. "Then Raffles catches on and I've lost my identity. I'm just the owner of Raffles."

Mr. Wells' experience parallels his wife's. It provoked a chuckle from onlookers when the noted world traveler, lecturer, author, and NBC commentator was summoned to the stage by Mrs. Wells.

"Raffles isn't here for the rehearsal," she explained. "Come, Carveth, you will have to be his stand-in!"

producers insisted that the clothes follow an outlandish, patently quaint trend. For years, Vera's creator has fought the idea that props were important in the delineation. Gradually, she is winning out.

On the screen, the character is now permitted to don normal, if not smart apparel. Before the mike, Barbara Jo is alluring in evening dress.

"It's mental attitude that counts in putting over a part," Miss Allen stated. "Vera Vague can be registered through the hands, the facial expressions, and the body. If I'm off-key a little, I can get the part over."

"Due to shortage of time on the Hope show, situations can't be built up for Vera. So the comedy is broad and sure-fire. Maybe some day though, Vera Vague and Barbara Jo Allen will come to a melding point and I'll be able to do what I've always wanted—light comedy."

All-Round Actress

To those who remember Miss Allen as Beth Holley of "One Man's Family," her desire to enact other than broad comedy roles is not surprising. She is an all-around, talented actress, an intelligent, well-educated thespian with a University of California degree and study at the Sorbonne to back her up.

The nearer Vera Vague approaches in appearance the real Barbara Jo, the more often is Miss Allen recognized on the street and asked to act out just a little bit of her screwball part. The all-time high in requests came the other day when the actress was preparing to give a party for her daughter, Joanie. She wanted to get sufficient ice cream.

Eventually her search brought her to a Beverly Hills store, where she stated her name and professional connection, then made known her desires. At the end of her purposely impressive little speech, the manager cocked a quizzical eye and demanded: "Who did you say you were?"

Miss Allen repeated her routine. The manager nodded his head toward an inner office. "I can let you have a quart," he stated, "but if you'll go in there and do your Vera Vague part and convince me you're really her, I may be able to fix you up."

Never able under tight circumstances to deliver a sock performance, a determined mother let go with her best "yoo-hoo." Apparently it was convincing enough, for she marched out with promise of two gallons to tide over the party.

Fourteen-year-old Joan appreciated the fact that Vera Vague, and not Barbara Jo Allen got the ice cream. But as a small child, starting to school, she was extremely embarrassed when the other children found out that her mother was crazy Vera Vague.

One afternoon Joan returned home after a very trying session with her playmates. She was "humiliated," and told her mother: "I can't stand it any longer."

"But with the money I'll make, you may have your music lessons," said Miss Allen. "Then, some day we'll have saved enough money and we'll go to South America and forget all about Vera Vague."

"Mother!", wailed Joan. "I'll bet you'd be doing the part in Spanish!"

And we think she wasn't far wrong.

LOCHNER'S IDEA

The ideal solution for punishing the Axis criminals at the end of the war is proposed by NBC commentator Louis P. Lochner, former head of the Associated Press News Bureau in Berlin. "Just try them under their own laws and they'll be wiped out in no time," says Lochner.
