Miss Donata Arnholt, 800 South Osage, Inglewood, Calif.

Sirs: I enjoy your magazine so much and never miss an issue. I especially enjoy "Gags of the Week." I would like to know when "The Court of Missing Heirs" will return to the radio. I have enjoyed it so much the last two winters. If it is to return, when will it start?

Thus far, the publicity department of the Columbia Broadcasting System in Hollywood has no information to indicate that "Court of Missing Heirs" will return to the air. However, should it later be scheduled to come back, Radio Life will list it under new programs in the Precasts and Previews section.

Mrs. M. R. Emig, 5130 Franklin Avenue, Los Angeles, Calif.

Sirs: As I was listening to the beautiful musical program of the Stradivari orchestra, KFI, 9:30 a. m., Sunday, a protest against the defense of jitterbug, jive and such so-called "music" arose within me.

In a recent issue of Radio Life, was a long communication in defense of such inharmonious and nerve-wracking discordance. The writer used as part of her defense that the young people of this country are fighting and dying to keep us free and should have what they want. As I understand it, they are fighting and dying to make America one of the best and cleanest of places to live. Do we want our enemies to be able to say we are a decadent and depraved race?

There are many musicians whom I know to be sick of this nerve-destroying noise, but who have to appear to like it because it's their bread and butter. And you can't tell me that some of the high-ranking musicians who have to cater to this depravity and make monkeys of themselves before the public are not heartsick because of this trend, over which they have no control.

Not content with original abominations, moderns take the classics and lovely popular music and desecrate them with this dissonance.

And, in closing, as to commercials. I agree that sponsors are entitled to a plug for their wares. What the listeners want is that the commercials be delivered in a sensible and reasonable way.

Mr. D. W. Johnson, 317 1/2 West Fifty-first Street, Los Angeles, Calif.

Sirs: I read, with interest, your article on the Moore-Durante show.

THE BROADWAY

Where Los Angeles Shops with Confidence

(Dec. 5) To me this show is better than the other comedy shows because it is different. It always has new ideas and it doesn't use those corny jokes about Bing Crosby's horses, Hedy Lamarr and Army jeeps for instance. That, I think, is why it is so good. You say in your article they purposely leave out these topics. I believe other writers should do the same. Yours for better material.

Mrs. H. S. Brown, 920 1/2 South Lorena Street, Los Angeles, Calif.

Sirs: Realizing that you must have a great many letters to read, I am taking a chance and hope you find a little time to read mine. I'd just like to write about everything in general.

Commercials, for instance. There isn't anything wrong with them that quiet speaking announcers couldn't remedy. I have my radio tuned just loud enough to hear well when, boom! Out of nowhere comes someone who is so excited about his products that he has to scream it and it just about scares my baby out of his booties. If we only had more announcers like Richard Stark, Charles Stark and Charlie Warren. I never get bored with them, because they don't yell at me.

Next, comedians. I'm afraid I can't agree with that other Radio Life reader (Nov. 7). I like the same old comedians that I've listened to for years. They are still "tops" with me. Of course, there are times when they slip, but after all, even a good horse gives out some time. We can't expect them always to be perfect.

Now and then a new comedian comes along and he's good, too, so I listen. Guess I just like funny programs. I can't think of one of the oldtimers, though, who isn't always good for a few laughs. Maybe it's because I sort of grew up with them and they seem like old friends. Anyway, them's my sentiments.

Last, but not least, your magazine.

My husband reads it (first, darn him!), I read it and my little girl loves it. We wouldn't be without it. May you go on forever as good as ever!

M. Davidson, 255 Center Street, Laguna Beach, Calif.

Sirs: Can you tell me what has become of "African Trek," also "Nero Wolfe." Both programs were much enjoyed by a group of us and we miss them very much. I enjoy your magazine and find the program finder a great help.

"African Trek" was an unsponsored program and is no longer heard locally. However, Joseph Marais of that program, occasionally is heard on Blue Network stations on this coast in a program called "Music by Joseph Marais." "Nero Wolfe" was presented only as a summer replacement and has not been on the air since the beginning of the fall season. However, there have been many requests for its return. We suggest that you watch the Precasts and Previews in Radio Life for possible news of its return. We're glad you like Radio Life.

Mrs. Rosita Hilliker, 527 West Eighty-fifth Street, Los Angeles, Calif.

Sirs: I've been buying Radio Life for more than a year and still you haven't printed pictures of the cast of "Hawthorne House." A friend of mine and I are faithful listeners to the program. We've tried to picture the different characters and we'd like to see if our description resembles them.

We'd like to have you publish pictures and information about each character, in Radio Life.

"Hawthorne House" is broadcast from San Francisco. We have sent for material on the program and will publish a story about it—with pictures—as soon as we receive the material.

Don Wilson: "Toasty-Brown Malty-Rich"

By ANN COMAR

*Flavorful and Wholesome
As His Sponsor's Product
Is the Hearty Personality of Jack Benny's Announcer*

▲ THE BENNY SHOW'S ANNOUNCER—Don Wilson, above, is a big, jolly man, with a big, jolly laugh. He not only participates in the program as the announcer, but also adds to the fun as an actor.

Sunday, 4:00 p.m.
NBC-KFI
Sunday, 8:30 p.m.
Mutual-KHJ

BIG, JOVIAL Don Wilson takes a lot of kidding about his portly build,—especially on Sunday afternoons. We don't need to tell you that's the day the Jack Benny show is aired, coast-to-coast, on the NBC network, and that Wilson is the announcer.

In appearance, Don is the direct opposite of that other Wilson, lean, spare, scholarly, grave of mein, who was our nation's President in World War I. His looks and general bearing typify the prosperous American businessman, with a background of college sports. He has to stoop to get his six-foot-three into a taxicab without bumping his head and when he steps on the scales, the dial doesn't stop moving until it gets somewhere around 215 pounds. He still has his hair, which is brown, his blue eyes twinkle, and he's as ruddy-faced and jolly as Santa Claus, despite a very definite bearing of dignity.

Jack Benny never lets either Wilson or the radio audience forget that Don is a BIG MAN. Here's a typical example of the kind of ribbing Benny gives Wilson on the latter's tonnage, almost every week.

Is Ribbed

JACK: . . . Cupid brought me because I was born on St. Valentine's Day, but the stork brings everybody else.

WILSON: You're a little wrong there, Jack, a crane brought me.

JACK: What's the difference?

Stork, crane . . . They're both birds.

WILSON: I mean a crane like in a shipyard.

JACK: Oh, you mean hoist . . . Well, Don, you're an exception. You were a very heavy baby . . . I understand your nurse had to jack you up to get your diapers on.

But Don doesn't mind being kidded about his weight. He might not be the announcer on one of radio's foremost variety shows today had he been a little chap. That big frame of his helped to make him a football star at the University of Colorado. Sometimes ardent devotion to the pigskin in college days proves a handicap to later success. It worked the other way in Wilson's case. The knowledge that he gained playing varsity guard made him one of the National Broadcasting Company's ablest sports announcers and his success in that work led to his place on the Benny show.

Don's interest in athletics didn't interfere with his studies, either in high school or college. He had a couple of things in common with that other Wilson, to-wit, firstly, outstanding scholarship; second, a marvelous "gift o' gab." His first appearance as a public speaker was when he was a high school sophomore. He was the proud participant in a debate. All the others on the two debating teams were seniors. Evidently his ability as a speaker was beginning to win recognition, even then.

"While we sat there on the stage of the high school auditorium in Denver, waiting for the school principal to come, I was petrified—scared stiff and perspiring bucketsful," he says now, in speaking of the incident. "But as soon as I stood up and started to talk, I was all right."

He took no interest in dramatics but sang in a male quartet in high school and in the glee club at the university. As a high school student, Don clerked in his father's drug store after school. It didn't take high pressure selling to peddle pills, but the experience sufficed to let him know he had a certain persuasive power with words. Soon after he got his college sheepskin, he took a job as salesman for a wholesale drug concern. On Sundays, he was baritone soloist at a Denver church.

Sang First

It was Don Wilson's singing voice which first introduced him to radio listeners. When one member of a successful harmony trio dropped out, the other two invited Don to take his place. "I had no ambitions for a singing career, but the novelty of it appealed to me so I accepted," he says.

"We were very courageous," Wilson reminisces. "We sang everything from the 'Prune Song' to grand opera."

The trio performed at luncheons, banquets, theaters, programs of all kinds. In 1924, the three began to do programs over Denver stations KOZ and KFEL. Under Piggly-Wiggly's banner, they went to San Francisco to sing over KFRC, then toured California for a year, as a Fanchon and Marco unit. The trio dissolved in 1928. Wilson and Martin Dougherty, the two remaining members, came south and landed jobs as staff singers on KHJ.

Maybe you remember those two merry "waker-uppers," "The Early Birds," and "The Two Boys, Don and Mart." Both duos were the lads from Denver. They worked early and late, snatching meals on the run. Often their only salvation was the eight bars or so of music opening and closing the programs.

Buying a new car cost Wilson his job on KHJ, says Wilson. Don Lee, then the owner of KHJ, also was the Los Angeles Cadillac dealer. "When the manager of the Don Lee used car department learned I had to sell my car before I could buy a Cadillac, he gave me a very definite brush-off," he says. "So I sold my car to the Packard agency and bought a new Packard. Not only was the Packard a competitive product but Earl C. Anthony, the Packard agent, was the owner of the rival Los Angeles radio station, KFI."

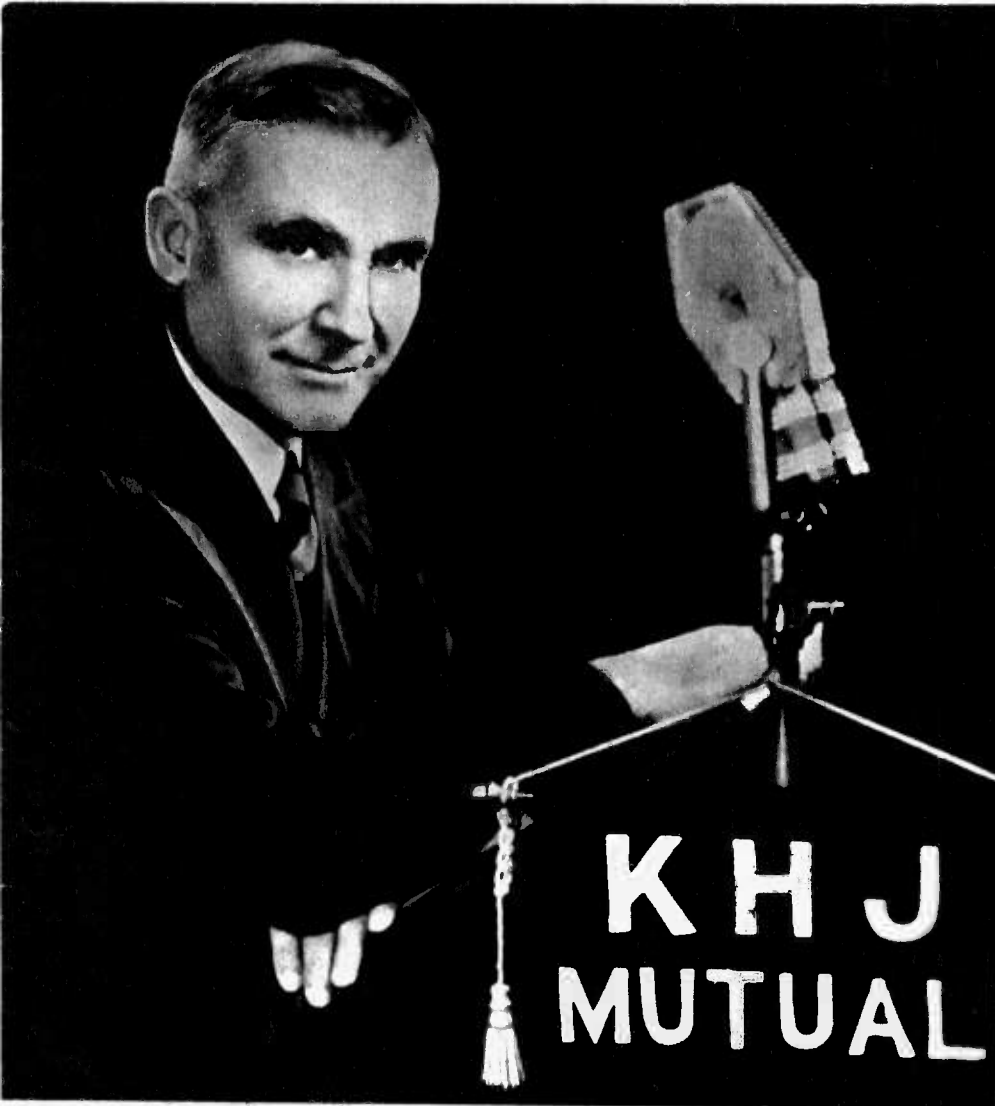

Don Lee fired him. Another of today's famous radio announcers, then was manager of KMTR, suave Harry von Zell. When Wilson applied to him for a job as an announcer, von Zell turned him down. Years later, when Wilson asked him the reason, von Zell exclaimed, "Why? I was scared to death about my own job!"

Anthony heard about the Packard incident, put Wilson on KFI and children became acquainted with his kindly voice and hearty laugh on such programs as "Big Brother Don." It was on that station that Wilson became an announcer, specializing in sportscasts, and eventually chief announcer. In 1933, at the invitation of John Royal, vice-president of NBC, Wilson became a member of the New York staff of NBC. He was put on

DR. CHARLES E. FULLER—The leader of the "Old-Fashioned Revival Hour" gave up a promising business career to become a minister. He says he has never regretted that step.

The Program Built by Prayer

Won World-Wide Audience* ★

THE POWER of prayer. A reason rarely given for the success of a national radio program. Yet Dr. Charles E. Fuller, Baptist clergyman, says it is prayer which put "The Old-Fashioned Revival Hour" on the air and has kept it there for nine years,—his prayers, his wife's, his associates' and those of millions of listeners in the program's vast, unseen audience. The program has gone out over an ever-increasing number of stations, until now it is almost world-wide and has the largest radio audience of any religious program on the air.

Dr. Fuller makes no claim to brilliance as an orator, nor is he one of those shouting, pulpit-pounding radio ranters who antagonizes religious and non-religious dialers alike. He's a big, quiet-mannered, soft-spoken man, six feet, one and a half inches tall, with gray hair, kindly brown eyes and a benign countenance.

The "Old-Fashioned Revival Hour" is for people of all denominations and is directed to beginners in the study of the Bible. Its gospel messages are simple truths, couched in language understandable to the humblest as well as the most learned listener. The program's chief aim is to reach people who have not followed the Christian pattern of living.

No Mike Fright

"When I preach, I completely forget about the microphone and the huge radio audience out beyond it," the tall clergyman told us, as we talked in the office of Radio Life. "I picture some lonely miner in a little cabin on a mountainside or someone else alone and perhaps struggling with what seems like an insurmountable problem."

Whatever Charles Fuller may lack in eloquence, say his friends, he makes up in the earnestness and sincerity with which he speaks. No other speaker in the history of religion has ever had a weekly audience equal to that of this unassuming Baptist pastor who began his adult life as a business man.

The "Old-Fashioned Revival Hour" has more than 800 outlets in the United States, Central and South America, Canada and Alaska and is shortwaved and sent by transcription to Europe, Africa, Asia, Australia and islands of the sea. Dr. Fuller also conducts the "Pilgrim's Hour," which originates at the Long Beach Municipal Auditorium at 11:00 a.m. each Sunday and is broadcast over the Mutual network for more advanced Bible students. Its weekly congregation in the big auditorium numbers more than 2,000.

Add the cost of this broadcast to the necessary office expenses and the total is many thousands of dollars each week. No denomination backs it. There are no sponsors. Yet every week's mail brings in the tremendous sum required to carry on this work. To the program's postoffice box in Los Angeles come letters from millions of devoted listeners. The great majority of the contributions are "widow's mites,"—small sums, often saved and given only by means of touching sacrifices.

Supported By Gifts

"These contributions are all free-will offerings. We have never had a single pledge or subscription," Dr. Fuller asserts. "The program is supervised by a non-profit religious organization, under the strict supervision of the State."

The organization was formed by a group of Long Beach business men in May, 1933. Dr. Fuller was anxious to put the program on a thoroughly sound business foundation to eliminate any possible basis for criticism of the disposition of funds. To solve the problem, the Gospel Broadcasting Association, Inc., was formed under the laws of the State of California.

All funds received are deposited to the credit of the Gospel Broadcasting Association and are checked out over the signatures of two of the executive officers, Dr. Fuller told us. "A careful accounting of the receipts and expenditures of the money used to carry on the work is kept by the most modern bookkeeping methods and the accounts are audited every ninety days by one of the best-known firms of public accountants in America.

The twenty-five organizers of the association annually elect nine from among their number to serve as a board of directors, supervising the financial and business details. Rev. Fuller is in complete charge of the program's contents. Four other ministers comprise an advisory committee on spiritual matters.

Be they large or small, every free-will offering from a dime up is acknowledged by letter. To read and answer the donors' letters requires the services of a staff of 35 girls at the Gospel Broadcasting Association offices in Pasadena, and the use of a mechanical letter-opener and much other modern labor-saving equipment.

Musical theme for the program is the appealing hymn, "Jesus Saves." The program blends its spoken gospel message with well-loved old-fashioned hymns, quartet and choir music. Musical director is Leland Green, an accomplished young musician who worked with Dr. Fuller when he was pastor of a Placentia church. Rudolph Atwood is the pianist. William MacDougall, Arthur Jayseley, Herman Hosier and Al Harlan make up the male quartet.

Many Conversions

That the program successfully serves its evangelistic purpose is convincingly indicated by the many thousands of letters which bring stories of conversions to belief in Christ, says Dr. Fuller. These letters come not only from men and women who have fallen away from high standards of Christian living but also from hardened criminals in whose lives religion has had no place.

He tells of one man who wrote to say the "Old-Fashioned Revival Hour" had saved him from suicide. Reared in a Christian home, he had almost forgotten his early teachings. When his wife left him and took their children with her, he lost faith in life. He went into his garage, turned on the motor of his automobile and lay down in back of the car. He had almost reached unconsciousness from breathing the carbon monoxide fumes when, from the car's radio came strains of hymn singing and a quietly-spoken message from the Scriptures,—the "Revival Hour." He began to realize the enormity of what he was doing, struggled to the door and somehow, managed to get out. Weeks later, he wrote to tell of his experience and to ask for help in returning to the Christian way of life.

Numerous letters have come from other near-suicides who have found, in the "Revival Hour," courage and the strength to go on.

In his early life, the 56-year-old pastor of the "Old-Fashioned Revival Hour" had no interest in becoming a minister. It was not until 1919, after spending several years in other work, that he turned his back on a successful business career that he might dedicate himself to teaching the gospel.

Charles Fuller's parents came to Los Angeles from New York State as pioneers in the 1870's. Dr. Fuller was born at Third and Hill streets on April 25, 1887. The firehouse was close to his father's furniture store and as a small boy, Charles Fuller loved to ride the firewagons when the alarm sounded. Once he was soundly and publicly spanked for indulging in that favorite diversion against his mother's orders.

The family later moved to Redlands, where Dr. Fuller's father bought 250 acres of citrus groves. As a Redlands high school student, Charles was a big, shy, awkward lad, who did better at football than conversation. He continued to shine on the gridiron when he entered Pomona College in 1906. He was graduated with honors.

After his marriage to Grace Peyton, his high school sweetheart, Fuller became a citrus grower. He lost his groves when frost killed his crop a few years later. Moving to Placentia, he became manager of a fruit growers' association and the largest packing house in the world. Again he purchased an orange grove.

Began Bible Study

The Fullers would have been amazed, at that time, if anyone had told them that Charles Fuller some day would become the pastor of a church which would be built on the vacant lot across from their tiny home. When his wife became increasingly interested in the Bible, he had no share in her enthusiasm. But a chance sermon delivered in Los Angeles by a former college friend stirred his conscience. He began to see life in a different light.

The young business man began to study the Bible. He had never liked to speak in public and felt that it would be impossible for him to preach. But one day, in a secluded spot in the packing house he managed, he went down on his knees and prayed for guidance. With his wife's approval, he gave up his job. Where the money for his three years of ministerial training at the Bible Institute of Los Angeles would come from, he didn't know. But he had faith, he says, that God would supply his needs. Three weeks later an oil company offered him $10,000 for a lease on his orange grove!

In 1926, Calvary Church was erected in Placentia, across the street from the Rev. Fuller's home and he became its pastor. It was after pinching for the scheduled speaker on a gospel radio program at a religious conference that he first saw the vision of what religious broadcasts by radio could mean in spreading the gospel. From his church at Placentia came his first broadcasts, through remote control from Long Beach station KGER.

Fuller resigned from the pastorate of Calvary church in 1932. He had lost all his own property in the depression. He was entirely dependent upon his listeners for the money to pay for broadcasting his two programs. There were many anxious hours. One Friday night, there was a big deficit in the amount needed for the following Sunday's broadcasts. At dinner, he and his wife prayed for the needed funds. A few minutes later, a telephone call brought word that their beach cottage had been leased at a good rental. Then a young dentist phoned to say he had a contribution. It was for the exact remainder that was lacking—$150.

The two programs went on the air over the Mutual network with a 13-station hook-up in 1937. Seven months later Fuller faced cancellation of his "Revival Hour" broadcast due to a conflicting national broadcast. With complete faith that his needs would be met, he signed a coast-to-coast network contract. That meant a cost increase of $3,000 a week. Listeners voluntarily provided it.

In many times of personal misfortune,—when his only son, in childhood, lay dying with pneumonia, when business troubles beset him, Charles Fuller says he put his faith in prayer. His friends say he believes with his whole heart in what he preaches.

Acquire Blue Interest

Time Inc. and Chester J. Laroche last week acquired an interest in the Blue Network, recently purchased by Edward J. Noble, Lifesavers tycoon, from NBC for eight million dollars. Amount of shares sold by Noble to publishers of Time, Life and Fortune was 12½ per cent of those outstanding. Same amount was purchased by Laroche, well-known radio executive, formerly chairman of the board of Young and Rubicam Agency and organizer and present head of the War Advertising Council.

It is expected that Time will make a major contribution to the Blue's news programs and that Laroche will be a valuable executive.

Said Noble of the deals:

"These transactions leave me with substantial control of the shares of American Broadcasting System, Inc., which I intend to hold for an indefinite period. However, I have in mind, at some later date when I have obtained fuller knowledge of the enterprise and can measure the risk involved in equity ownership, to invite participation by other management officials, fellow members in affiliated stations and possibly the public. In all probability, such shares would be offered by the company and not by any other present stockholders."

Richard's Prayer

Herewith is a copy of the prayer which Richard Williams composed and read on the Quiz Kids' Christmas broadcast and for which so many of you readers have made request.

"Our dear Heavenly Father, again the Christmas season is here, the time when love and happiness should fill every heart, the time when we give gifts to those we love to celebrate your great gift of love, your Son. We know that Jesus came into the world to teach all men to love one another. Now it seems that men have forgotten the teachings of Jesus, and the world is full of hate and war.

"Because of this war, families are separated and Christmas is lonely. But above the noise of battle, the angels are still singing their carols of love and peace to all who stop to listen.

"Dear Father, please be very near to every soldier and especially to the very young ones, like my brother Glenn, who have never been away from home before; and give encouragement to the mothers and fathers and all the others who are so lonely without their loved ones. Make our faith strong to believe that the teachings of Jesus will triumph over evil. We pray for the peace of that first Christmas and for the safe return of our boys.

"We ask this in the name of Jesus, who was the Prince of Peace. Amen."

Careful

Abner's Lum, in real life Chester Lauck, took his four-year-old son Junior for his first horseback riding lesson last week, and young Chester liked it fine, except there was a little doubt in his mind.

Remembering last summer, when his father took him fishing for the first time in his life, Junior recalled that Dad had instructed, "Now sit still or you'll tip over the boat."

Noting how stiffly his son sat in the saddle, Lauck asked him what was wrong. "Well, Daddy," queried Junior, "If I don't keep still, won't he tip over?"

1945 Too Optimistic

NBC Commentator H. V. Kaltenborn, just back from a 20,000-mile swing of Pacific war fronts, had this to say about the end of struggle with Japan:

"The cry of the Marines is 'The Golden Gate by '48'—but although I think we may move that up to 1946, it is stupid for anyone to predict when a war like this, with so many intangible features, will end."

In Whirl

On Monday, December 27th, William Parker, popular commentator on KMPC, had a busy day. At 11:05 a.m. he was on the air at KMPC with his daily comments to the Youth of America.

Then he rushed to Long Beach, thirty miles away, where he addressed the night group of the Sixth Ferrying Group, at 2:00 p.m. for one hour. He

Next Week

We write about KFI, the station that was super when it had only 500 watts. Pictures of KFI favorites accompany the story . . . Do you cry in the movies? That's what Art Baker wants to know, along with a lot of other questions, on his "Meet Joe Public" show. We tell you all about it and print a picture of Guinea Pig Alley . . . We televise a "Point Sublime" script and attend a "Potluck Party" where "anything goes." . . . Louis P. Lochner, NBC commentator, writes "What About Germany Now?" . . . We thumbnail sketch John Conte. Hope you'll enjoy every word of this issue.

recounted personal experiences during the forty-five tragic days of the defeat of France, and how German artillery shelling saved him from execution when mistaken by French for a spy.

At 7:00 p.m. he repeated his story to the day group of the same outfit, finishing about 8:00 p.m. He then was rushed to the studio of KFOX at Long Beach and by remote wire to KMPC, broadcast his news comments at 8:15 p.m.

Uses Irijum?

"Poor Miriam."

Dolly Mitchell heard that so much that she decided to go along with the gag.

Henceforth, she'll be tagged Miriam Mitchell, but she's hoping that everyone will forget the "Poor" part.

Dolly—or rather, Miriam—sings the "Poor Miriam" commercials on Bob Hope's NBC show. It was inevitable that everyone would start calling her "Poor Miriam," forgetting she was ever known as Dolly.

So last week Miss Mitchell decided to follow the line of least resistance and make it Miriam officially.

Feel Better, Lady?

If it will make any of the ladies in the audience feel happier with their lot, Irene Dunne knew there was a war on when she broadcast recently for CBS' "Screen Guild Players." Miss Dunne got a run in a stocking!

Contest Deadlines

For instrumentalists entering the Los Angeles Philharmonic Young Artists' Competition, the deadline for composers is February 15, 1944. The competition will continue through next March. Applications for entry may be obtained by writing to the Director, Young Artists' Philharmonic Competition, KFI, 141 North Vermont Avenue, Los Angeles 4, California.

All instrumentalist applicants must be American-born artists who have not appeared with any other major symphony orchestra; all composers, young artists whose works have not been performed by any major symphony orchestra. The instrumentalists must be under the age of 21; the composers, under 30.

Radio station KFI has received applications for entry from fifteen states east of the Rocky Mountains and from twenty-four cities throughout the United States.

Joint sponsors of the contest are the Southern California Philharmonic Association, the Daily News, and Earle C. Anthony, Inc., station KFI.

Kinfolk

Bob Burns treated his radio studio audience to the actual sight of two of his real cousins at his last broadcast. They were smartly dressed, chic women and anything but those Burns has made capital of for eight years. Then, further to prove his point he said, "Now I'd like for you to see my own daughter Barbara, age five and a half, just to prove there's nothing abnormal about us and my kinfolk."

Little Barbara came out from the wings walking barefoot on her toes!

Charming Party!

If you would like to know what radio actors say when they're called upon to ad lib a party background, here's an example, taken from Columbia's "Bright Horizon."

The script called for a party to be given at the home of Michael and Carol West, the principal characters. Various members of the cast stepped up to the microphone at intervals to carry on the thread of the story, while others, in the background, provided laughter and chatter.

Grace Russell, over in one corner, sat reading Walter Winchell's column aloud, with rising and falling inflections. Stefan Schnabel imitated Harpo Marx, and chased Renee Terry all around the studio, uttering low growls and making her giggle. Richard Kollmar, who plays Michael West on the program, wandered about reading the New York Times theatrical column and mumbling, "That's a wonderful idea! That's a marvelous idea! That's a marvelous idea!" Joan Alexander, who plays Carol, carried on a sprightly but entirely one-sided, conversation with the show's director, despite the double glass screen of the control booth, through which he could hear not a word.

A good time was had by all.

One of Ten

Kate Smith has been chosen one of America's ten outstanding women in a poll just completed by "The Woman" magazine and Columbia Pictures which produced the film, "What a Woman!"

She keeps company with Mrs. Hortense Odlum, business; Pearl Buck, literature; Vivien Kellems, industry; Marion Anderson, music; Katherine Blodgett, science; Rosalind Russell, movies; Dorothy Thompson, journalism; Nancy Love Harkness, Women's Ferry Command; Anna Rosenberg, labor. Kate represented radio.

Precasts & Previews

When you listen to the Quiz Kids Sunday nights at 8:30 on KECA, maybe you get the impression that those kids aren't quite real; that they are too smart to be human.

Well, they are a little above the average. After all, it's asking a lot to expect the average kid to give the cube root of the volume of the earth just off-hand, like repeating the telephone number of the girl down the street.

Captain Jack

But the average kid, the kid selected at random off the street, is pretty smart himself. Captain Jack, who conducts "Captain Jack's All-American Junior G-Man Club," was quick to recognize that, and he has made use of the smartness of Los Angeles school-age kids to build a mighty interesting quiz show. Every Wednesday, during the regular session of his Junior G-Men Club, he picks five kids at random from the audience, and puts them through a quiz-and-answer test on American history, geography and traditions. Listen in next Wednesday at 4:45. You'll be pleasantly surprised.

With news breaking faster every day, and with Russia particularly in the news now, the Blue has done a good turn to news-hungry listeners by booking Walter Duranty for a series of commentaries on Sundays. Duranty, author of many famous articles and books about Russia, begins his series January 16, at 5:30 p.m. over KECA. Here is a commentator who speaks with authority, and, if he speaks as he writes, he should present a fascinating quarter-hour.

What have you got to swap? Any white elephants around the house you want to put to good use? Herb Allen has a new program just for the inveterate swapper, the Yankee trader who wants to convert an unused dining table into a pair of skis. "White Elephant," Herb's swap-shop, is a Monday-through-Friday novelty on KECA.

"Deadline Dramas," a new type of dramatic program with speed, tricky plotting and lots of action, adds a little excitement to the Sunday night schedule on KECA. "Deadline Dramas" takes over the 9:00 p.m. spot on KECA right after the Quiz Kids.

LIKE THRILLERS

Rated radio's top performer by millions, Bing Crosby gets little attention from his young sons when he's on the air. But they're enthusiastic followers of "Red Ryder" and "Jack Armstrong," the popular Blue Network kid shows.

BEAUTY HINT

Bob Burns, NBC's "Arkansas Traveler," says it's all very well to put on a good front, but he suggests that the ladies back up to the mirror once in a while. "You can't always be meeting people," the comedian points out, "You gotta pass 'em some time!"

Craig McDonnell, a actor who has the title role in NBC's "David Harum," was a schoolmate of Enrico Caruso, Jr., son of the great opera tenor. However, Craig, not Enrico, Jr., was the school soloist.

LIKES WESTERNS

Dinah Shore, star of Columbia's Thursday night "Dinah Shore Program," has little time for recreation but when she does take in an occasional movie, it's likely to be a Western.

TUESDAY, JAN. 11

At hours where no listing is shown for a local station, recorded music has been scheduled.

FROM SAME COUNTY

Almost neighbors are Roy Acuff, singing star of the NBC show "Grand Ole Opry," and Claude Sharp, leader of the Old Hickory Singers, vocal quartet on the same program. Sharp was born and reared in the Smoky Mountains, in Acuff's home county.

SOLVES PROBLEM

To solve the cash-and-carry problem, Irene Rich, star of Columbia's "Dear John" serial, totes an ingenious enlarging pouch. It starts out to be a conservative purse size, but as its contents grow, a clever draw string gadget allows it to expand.

SINGER QUIPS

Bill Days, tenor of the Sportsmen's quartet and vocal soloist of the Columbia network's "Blue Ribbon Town," wonders if the hit tune "Shoo, Shoo, Baby" will become known as the "Lay that 18-coupon down, Babe" song.

FRIGHT WIG
 Garry Moore's crew haircut has become a sort of trademark. The junior star of Columbia's Durante-Moore show, under contract to Edward Small Productions, went to the studio recently to be tested for a role in the picture "Up in Mabel's Room." He introduced himself to the producer and said he had come for the test. "What?" gasped the producer. "With that fright wig" and immediately sent the comic over to Max Factor's to get a wig to wear for the shots.

MORE TROUBLE
 Observes CBS news commentator Harry W. Flannery, "Looks like one of the troubles 'that Russian winter' is going to give Der Fuehrer's troops, regardless of the temperature, will be cold feet."

MORE BLISS-ES

Armistice Day this year brought Mr. and Mrs. Ted Bliss new cause to celebrate. The producer of the CBS show, "Doctor Christian" and other important programs passed out cigars and candy in honor of the birth of his second daughter at Good Samaritan Hospital on the holiday. The seven-pound new arrival has an adoring admirer in her small sister, Janet.

RESTRAINED

Pictures were being taken of Rosalind Russell, Janet Blair, Brian Aherne and George Tobias poking their fingers into the icing of Columbia's "Screen Guild Players" first anniversary cake. When Tobias got a blob of marshmallow icing on his finger, the photographer said, "Lick it off. No one's looking."

"I can't," replied the comedian. "I'm on a diet!"

UNEXPECTED HONOR

NBC comedian Eddie Cantor, when made a jungle Mudder First Class by Army men stationed in the Canal Zone, quipped, "After all these years of being a fadder, now I'm a mudder, too!"

REAL SLEUTH

Alice Frost, the "Mrs." of the NBC Wednesday night detective team, "Mr. and Mrs. North," was forced to turn detective in real life recently, to find hotel accommodations in New York. Her apartment lease expired two days before a lease on a new apartment began. So acute is the housing situation in the metropolis that it took three rehearsal "breaks," a few dozen nickel pay-phone calls and the aid of several friends to find a hotel vacancy.

THE REASON

Joe Howard, emcee of "Gay Nineties Revue," asserts that a large number of people are behind the eight ball because of the natural affinity between it and their heads!

FAME SPREADS

Wherever Xavier Cugat goes, people clamor for caricatures. The orchestra leader, heard on KHJ-DLBS network's Dubonnet show each Saturday, played at the Hollywood Canteen each week. Recently, as he started to leave, about 40 soldiers gathered around him, each with a sheet of paper. They all wanted Cugat to sketch them. It was a big order, but the gracious Latin-American maestro caricatured each one of them.

PLAN SKETCH

Garry Moore, Jimmy Durante's co-star on Columbia's weekly "Jimmy Durante-Garry Moore Show," and announcer Howard Petrie are jointly working on a new comedy sketch for presentation at nearby Army camps.

With JACK LAWSON

WRITING at a camp at Shreveport, La., Cpl. H. V. ROCA sent us the following letter:

"Dear Jack: I'm taking time out during the Louisiana maneuvers to write you and tell you of few things about my outfit ("Troop A"). We have all been (140 of us) DICK HAYMES minded for quite a while now, and while at garrison at Camp Polk we heard Dick every week.

"Needless to say, we really enjoy his singing and he is without a doubt today's top male singer of songs. I have already sent my vote in for Dick in the contest you are sponsoring, but I am afraid it will get to you too late. I can, on your say-so, produce a document with 140 signatures, all of which agree that Dick is TOPS.

"He is not just tops with the fellows in my outfit, but he's tops with servicemen throughout this country and overseas, too.

"In closing, may I say that Troop "A" of the 89th Cavalry Reconnaissance Squadron is all out for Dick Haymes, the nation's top singer of songs. Thank you. Sincerely, CPL. HAL V. ROCA.

"P. S. Is there any possible way that I can subscribe to Radio Life? The one copy I have has been read and enjoyed by almost all of the boys in the troop. We think Radio Life has quite a future in store."

DEAR HAL: Thanks for the nice letter. We have taken out a subscription to Radio Life for you. Consider it a little present to you and the fellows in your troop, from an ex-cavalryman. All best wishes to your outfit.

"Dear Jack: Your contest for the most popular male singer was a great success. Nobody but BING CROSBY should have won. So many contests are phonies. Yours wasn't. If SINATRA had won, it would have been a phoney. I don't see who would vote for Sinatra anyway. I think he stinks. Sincerely, TED SHAFFER."

DEAR TED: We appreciate your faith in our integrity, but it makes us wonder what the FRANK SINATRA fans think. And it frightens us!

"Dear Mr. Lawson: I didn't learn about your contest for the favorite male singer until it was too late, but I'd like to vote now for the GREAT GILDERSLEEVE. LILLIAN WISE."

DEAR LILLIAN: Say! We think you have something there. But "Gildy" is a comedian. You wouldn't vote for Bing Crosby as your favorite comic, would you?

GAGS OF THE WEEK

For the best Gags of the Week, heard over radio and sent Radio Life, tickets will be sent winners for admission to radio broadcasts. Send your best gag selection to 1029 West Washington Boulevard, Los Angeles.

Heard on Mike Stuart's "Let's Go to the Dogs" show:

Jack (the Giant-Killer): I'm goin' to make our fortune with that beanstalk.

Mama: How?

Jack: Look what Gracie Fields did . . . with just a big aspidastra!

Mama: Yes . . . but she knows . . .

Jack: Look what Durante has done . . . with just a nose!

Mama: But, son, there's no food in our closet . . .

Jack: Look what Fibber McGee's done . . . with just a closet!

Mama: But I'm so hungry I'm groaning.

Jack: Look at Bing Crosby!

Mama: Oh, be still . . . you dummy!

Jack: Look at Edgar Bergen!

Jack (thoughtfully) Mama . . . remember Gypsy Rose Lee?

Miss Pat Gormley, 1665 North Sycamore, Hollywood, Calif.

Heard on the Dinah Shore program: Dinah: But you never did say how the football game ended.

Wally Brown (guest): Who said it ended? They're still playing. The timekeeper was a conscientious objector and wouldn't shoot the gun.

Mrs. Arthur N. Nelson, 3211 Marathon Street, Los Angeles, Calif.

Heard on the "Breakfast at Sardi's": Tom Breneman: Have you a joke for us?

Uncle Corny: Yes, of course. I always have a joke. Why is "Breakfast at Sardi's" like a card game?

Tom: I don't know, Corny. Why is "Breakfast at Sardi's" like a card game?

Corny: Because you think you're a card and the ladies have your number.

Miss Crystal Love, 8511 Grace Street, Los Angeles, Calif.

Heard on Phil Baker's "Take It or Leave It":

Phil: Sh-h-h! Don't tell anybody, but the next thing that's going to be rationed is ration books. Now try to hoard them!

Heard on the Joan Davis show: Joan: How did I sound, Jack, high-class?

Jack Haley: I don't know about the class, but you sure sounded like you were high.

Miss Maxine Tschanz, 1912 South Date Avenue, Alhambra, Calif.

Heard on "That Brewster Boy":
Joey Brewster: Say, Marve, why is it there is a shortage of shoes?
Marve: I don't know, Joey. Why?
Joey: Because the government is building everything for defense and nothing for de feet.

R. F. Ainsworth, 931 West Florence Avenue, Downey, Calif.

Heard on the Durante-Moore show: Garry Moore: On my way down, I stopped in a filling station and asked the attendant how they made anti-freeze and he said they hid her nightie.

Miss Jean Aguirre, 529 North St. Louis Street, Los Angeles, Calif.

Heard on the Al Pearce show: Arlene Harris (to her son, Junior, in theater): Look, over there is something you'll never see again—a bald-headed naval officer with a beautiful WAVE.

Tickets also to Miss Marie C. Rafferty, 301 West Twenty-third Street, Los Angeles.

Fred Andrews, 865 South Tremaine Avenue, Los Angeles, Calif.

Heard on the Judy Canova show: Geranium: Judy, I can't make this salad.

Judy: Why?
Geranium: Because, every time I put in the Russian pepper, the German sausage jumps out!

Miss Victoria Suk, 925 South Breed Street, Los Angeles, Calif.

Heard on the Joan Davis show: Jack Haley: Don't you know that familiarity breeds contempt?

Joan: Yeah, I know. Let's get comfortable.

THEOSOPHY SPEAKS

Although its time was pre-empted on one Sunday recently by the professional football game broadcast, the program "Theosophy Speaks" is continuing over KMPC each Sunday at 2:15 p. m. The program is in the form of a discussion of ancient religious teachings by several speakers.

SALUTE TO THE SERVICES

KMTR's "Salute to the Services" is presenting interviews with returned heroes from every branch of the armed forces. Stories of the field directors of the Red Cross are told, and for the first time the public will learn of the actual accomplishments of blood which has been donated from this area. "Salute to the Services" is heard Monday through Friday, 5:15 p. m.

Contest Cinderella

Judges Discover Beauty Winner Can Also Sing

Monday, 10:30 p.m.
Blue-KECA

HERE COMES old Cindy! exclaim Samohi friends of Billie Tedder ever since this 16-year-old songstress won a glamour contest sponsored by Western Family Magazine, then slid into a coveted singing assignment on the Blue when it was discovered she could sing, too.

"Cindy" is short for Cinderella—the "Cinderella Girl of 1943" which Billie was called when she walked off with the beauty prize. And "Samohi," as all good Southern Californians know, is short for Santa Monica High school, where Billie is a Junior B and sings with the 14-piece orchestra which talented young people of the school have organized.

The other day, Billie of the sparkling blue eyes and trim five-foot-four figure came to call on Radio Life and told us her whirlwind story.

"It was all a surprise," she explained. Then she related how she thought it might be fun to enter Western Family's contest and win the wardrobe offered as part of the prize. Five days after she turned 16 on September 11, she was notified she had won the 'teen age beauty race. "I sent in the picture I had taken for our annual," she said.

So far, bear in mind, singing had no part in Billie's winning.

Mentioned Her Voice

Quite casually, she mentioned that she sang week-ends with the band and entertained at clubs and school dances. So the magazine's editorial department decided to give her voice a test.

Dr. Lazar Samoiloff heard her sing in her deep contralto and was astonished when he was told she had won a beauty contest, not a singing competition. Not that Billie isn't attractive—her pictures prove that point. But so are thousands of other young girls. As Samoiloff put it, "You look for a face and you find a voice!"

Auditions were then arranged with Paul Whiteman. "There's nothing wrong with her voice that a little experience won't take care of," pronounced the dean of modern American music.

Lou Bring, at that time head of music for the Blue's Western unit, also listened to Billie and stopped the audition so that other executives might hear her too. Sid Fuller at Mutual was contacted and rivalry for her services sprung up between the networks. Blue moved in first and built a half hour show around Billie and young Andy Russell, rising singer from the East. Andy had proved his ability with Alvino Rey's orchestra; some thought he might be too good for Billie.

and "Black Magic". As they trekked Eastward with their rattling washboards, clicking thimbles, wigs, and slide whistles, they left in their wake two broken house records and the feat of bowling over staid Boston.

Broke Two Records

Their "meet the people" tour had several highlights, among them a chance to meet Father Flanagan of Boystown, to whom Spike delivered Tom Breneman's "Breakfast at Sardi" orchid. In Milwaukee they broke the box office record for the Riverside theater, then on to Hammond, Indiana, where another high mark was surpassed.

Boston, according to Spike, was very unusual in its responses. Good showmanship dictated that the band reserve "Der Fuehrer's Face" for its encore, so it regaled the audience first with "Glow Worm", "Liebestraum", and "Hotchacornia". Bostonians sat so tight-lipped and feeble-handed after each number that Spike thought the act there was a fizzle.

Leaving his podium, he hurried back-stage, found his manager, and exclaimed: "You'd better get us out of this. See if we can book transportation for New York right away!"

But as soon as the repertoire was completed, Spike and the Slickers were surprised by a tremendous ovation. Seems Bostonians do not like to break the continuity of a musical series by applauding, hence they save all their cheers until the end of a presentation.

Other Shows

In New York the group opened at State Theater and established the biggest Sunday box office record in the State's history. Sprinkled throughout the trip were numerous appearances at camps, bond rallies, and radio shows.

What People Like

"We learned what the people want", Spike stated after completing the tour. It was a test for the "band

Music of Spike and His City Slickers Accepted Now for Satiric Merit

SPIKE JONES has packed more work and worry into the past twelve months than he squeezed into twelve years of drumming before he and the City Slickers zoomed to phenomenal success.

The other day he rushed into the Brown Derby fifteen minutes late for a luncheon appointment with Radio Life. He looked prosperous, but had to write a check to pay for the meal; he assured us he had plenty of time for our interview, but was interrupted by four telephone calls.

Time there was, however, to determine one thing. Spike's corn and that of His Slickers has taken root.

A year ago, this group was a sensation because of a little number giving Hitler the raspberry right in his face. At that period, Spike and the City Slickers, riding the crest of new-surgingly popularity, were besieged with gold-plated offers for personal appearances in New York, Chicago, and other key cities.

"We'll wait", Spike declared level-headedly. "We'll wait until we can bring them a lot more than 'Der Fuehrer's Face.' We'll make our trip when we are established."

There followed months of hard work—two radio shows a week, personal appearances, movies and "Salute to Youth" War Bond rallies in the schools of Southern California. In the months which intervened between their first success and last summer when the band members finally went East, corn took root. Spike and the Slickers went on from "Der Fuehrer's Face" into complicated satirical numbers like "Chloe" that plays for fun", because it had never clocked extensive audience reactions outside bond rallies and similar appearances.

▲ SPIKE AND HIS CITY SLICKERS, whose corn has taken root. The group now specializes in satire, using numbers like "Chloe" and "Night and Day" to obtain hilarious effects.

What the people want, Spike learned, is satire. Loosely called "corn", the brand of music dealt by the Washboard Wizard and his assistants pulls a song apart and pokes fun for all the lines are worth. Some folks may object to hearing a number like "Night and Day" satirized. Spike expects this. But more folks will get a kick out of debunking sentimentality.

"In the roaring boom" — and in cuts a sound record of screeching brakes and horns.

"In the silence of my lonely room" — dead silence, broken by remark, "Quiet, isn't it?"

"Keeps repeating, and repeating" — in stuck-needle tone, "and repeating and repeating! Darn those radishes!"

These are samples of the corn which has taken root.

Songs Hard To Find

"It's hard to find songs", Spike said somewhat dejectedly. "You know—songs that lend themselves to satire. But we keep working on it."

After a song is chosen and arranged, all the Slickers help with suggestions. At Spike's invitation, we later watched the band rehearse "Night and Day". Over and over again they worked on a line or phrase, polishing inflection or coordination. Audiences, possibly, do not begin to fathom the infinite detail going into such a gaily rendered novelty.

Besides the number and its arrangement, Spike has duties which few, if any other, leaders shoulder to the extent he does. Every song must be accented by slide whistles, helmets, and other mirth-provoking gadgets. "No other leader", sadly commented Mr. Lindley (Spike) Jones, "has to worry whether his men have their guns and false wigs ready!"

▼ SPIKE THINKS HE HAS MORE worries than any other bandleader. "Who else has to see that the boys have their wigs, their German helmets, their whistles, and their false noses?" he demands. We think he has a point, as this picture shows.

*It Put Life Into A Program Given
Six Weeks to Live*

Saturday, 9:30 a. m.
CBS-KNX

HOW DOES it seem to see and work with the stars at eight o'clock in the morning?

The logical person to answer this question is Paul Pierce, able director of the CBS dramatic show, "Stars Over Hollywood"—the program production executives said would last six weeks but which is now going full speed ahead with 175 performances to its credit.

"Until we started 'Stars Over Hollywood,'" Producer Paul Pierce told Radio Life the other day, "Saturday morning was considered completely unsalable time. We began with a rating of 2.2 and have gone as high as 10.8. Right now, we're hitting 6.5 and are very satisfied.

"We actually pioneered the Saturday morning field. Armstrong later moved into the half hour ahead of us with its 'Theater of Today,' Dick Powell now follows us, and 'Let's Pretend' recently took over the 8 o'clock spot. But our show broke the ice."

Easy to take is "Stars Over Hollywood," for it features big-name stars in light dramatic entertainment—romance, comedy, actual farce, occasionally a mystery, but tragedy perhaps once a year. Chief aim of the program is to be amusing, for it strikes housewives busy with their Saturday morning chores at a time when they cannot assimilate powerful drama.

Scripts are written by a group of writers, about ten being the most consistent contributors. Pierce himself has written approximately 21 of the programs.

Usual procedure is for the story to be selected first, then the star. Some of the personalities who have appeared include Mary Astor, Alan Ladd, Anita Louise, Billie Burke, Edna Best, Jane Wyman, Connie Bennett, Joan Blondell, Basil Rathbone, Merle Oberon, Phil Harris, and Eric Blore, luminaries most often associated with extravagant night-time programs. Usually, six or seven of Radio Row's most competent actors assist the stellar attraction. "We get the pick," said Pierce, "because there are no other dramatic shows Saturday morning."

Ivan Ditmars furnishes music on the organ, supplemented by a harp and violin. It sounds like a small orchestra, so cleverly are the microphones placed and so adeptly are arrangements made. Thus it is that "Stars Over Hollywood" garners a tremendous audience at comparatively low cost—lower than many big-time evening programs with budgets five times as generous.

Rehearse Early

Dress rehearsal on Saturday morning at 8 runs into air time and would be a sensational performance to view IF it were viewable. Not so, because actors and other performers, in appreciation of the early hour, dress most casually.

"They arrive," explained Pierce, "in unglamorous attire—pajamas, bandanas, curlers, slacks, sucking lemons to clear their throats at such an early hour, or sometimes still rubbing the sleep out of eyes. But by 9:30 they're rarin' to go."

Pierce, who is marking his fourteenth year in radio, has the background to handle stars in top-flight production. "I began in radio as announcer for a troupe of hillbillies from one to four ayem—for nothing!" This happened on KEOW, a Magnolia Park station, now defunct. Through the mazing mill of radio as chief announcer at KRKD, staff announcer and head of the writing department at KFWB, Pierce pieced together his experience. Then on to CBS as writer-announcer-producer of special events, where he did crazy things like riding a canoe through one of the Los Angeles aqueduct tunnels.

Saner, but just as exciting moments found him swooping in a glider (he was first to broadcast from one), zooming through the air in the monstrous DC-4 on her third flight, riding to sea with the fleet.

Immediately preceding his present assignments, Pierce was production supervisor for CBS, and while in this capacity, he launched "Stars Over Hollywood." Now he is free lancing, producing the "Dreft Star Playhouse" in addition to his CBS Saturday morning show.

Tense Times

He has many tense moments producing "Stars Over Hollywood," although he is not a Simon Legree in the booth. "I like to keep my actors easy and happy," he remarked. "If possible, it's better to let them read their lines the way they feel them. They give a better performance."

One of the more hectic times, according to Pierce, was when Jane Wyman ate too much lobster the night before she was scheduled to star on the show. Next morning she was too ill to perform. Regardless, she arrived at the studio and made a stab at carrying on. It was a case of the spirit being willing but Jane being weak. They called an ambulance to take her home and simultaneously, called that fine support-mainly to do broadcasts of sports events and eventually devoted all his time to such programs. But before he was relieved of his studio assignments, NBC instituted its news service. Wilson and the late Graham McNamee were chosen to do the news broadcasts, which usually lasted half an hour.

With McNamee

"It was pretty hectic," says Wilson. "Usually we had no time to check on pronunciations or familiarize ourselves with the copy before we went on the air."

During the depression, the word "indigent" was much in the news. An item which Wilson read on the air made reference to some "expectant and indigent mothers." His always-rosy countenance became several shades rosier when he realized he had changed the phrase to "expectant and indignant mothers."

In his first year in New York, Wilson, with other members of NBC's announcing staff, auditioned for the job of announcer on the Benny show. "I was certainly jittery," he confesses. "New York still had me very much awed. Why I got the job I don't know, unless I just happened to laugh at the right time."

The big chap with the booming laugh has been with the Benny show ever since. He has become one of the select few among the elite of radio announcers who have been drawn into important radio shows as actors, besides doing the commercials on their programs.

Wilson credits Benny with being the first radio performer to "kid the commercial." "He instituted the sugar-coating. It was his idea and he started me on it. The idea took hold. We developed it after we went on the Jell-O show."

Ed Wynn began to use quips about his sponsor's product on the Texaco program. The idea spread like wildfire. Now commercials on many programs have become a highlight of the entertainment instead of mere bores, to be patiently endured.

Typical Commercial

"Speaking of dreams, Jack, I had an amazing one last night," says Wilson, leading into a typical commercial on the Benny show. And the dialogue continues thus:

JACK: You did, Don, said Benny . . . (with the brains of a wheatcake) . . . What was your dream, Don?

WILSON: Well, last night I dreamed that I, Don Wilson, was a toasty brown, sweet as a nut, Grape Nut Flake.

JACK: You . . . a flake?

WILSON: Yes, I was a Grape Nut Flake and a fellow came along and poured me into a big twelve-ounce, economy size package.

JACK: Gee, this is thrilling.

DENNIS: Aw, tell it to Sweeney, how could they pour Wilson into a twelve-ounce package?

JACK: This is a dream, like when I kissed you, remember? . . . Continue, Don.

WILSON: Well, Jack, a little later a charming American housewife came to a grocery store and bought the package I was in.

(Sound: Cash register).

JACK: Dennis, take your hand out of there. This is a dream. Go ahead, Don.

Wilson: And you should have seen the look of delight on her husband's face the next morning when he saw a whole bowlful of Grape Nuts Flakes right on the table in front of him.

JACK: Yes, yes? and then what happened?

WILSON: He put me in a spoon, the spoon broke and I woke up.

JACK: Well, Don, that was certainly a wonderful dream.

When the Benny show was broadcast from Toronto, Canada, in June of last year, the kidding commercial went like this:

WILSON: . . . Speaking of Canada, I've written a very clever message which involves various cities and towns in this Dominion.

JACK: Who else is in it? . . . I mean, you have? . . . What's the matter with me?

WILSON: Yes, it goes something like this . . . (Clears Throat). When you come back from the Lake, Louise . . . and when you arrive in Port, Arthur—

JACK: Well, there are two places already.

WILSON: I want you both Toronto your neighborhood grocer and ask him for a box of toasty brown, sweet as a nut Grape Nut Flakes.

JACK: Toronto, that's not bad.

WILSON: Now if you arrive home and find that you've forgotten your Grape Nuts Flakes . . . Quebec to the store immediately.

JACK: Quebec . . . Quebec to the store?

WILSON: Yes, because Grape Nuts Flakes in the big twelve-ounce economy size package is America's fastest growing flake cereal . . . Believe me, folks, you Ottawa try some tomorrow morning.

(APPLAUSE)

JACK: Don, that was wonderful . . . I'm sure you've given the people Halifax about our products.

When Don Wilson isn't on the air, giving the people "Halifax" about the sponsor's product, he's usually busy at the West Machine Corporation airplane parts factory—he owns and manages, or reading a "Book-of-the-month" or listening to the radio at his San Fernando Valley home. such notions. Phone calls and fan letters amazed and delighted both the new young star and those who had faith in her.

So Billie Tedder became the singing Cinderella to radio and "glamour puss" to the boys in the band at Samohi.

The day after her network debut, three girl school chums who had been rather dubious about Billie's singing ambitions waited to eat lunch with her and offer their congratulations.

Now, her young friends who retire early Monday nights, set their alarm clocks for 10:30 and interrupt their beauty sleep to hear Billie's program, "A Boy, A Girl, And A Band."

Billie can always count on this loyal contingent among her fans and it is amusing to think of the many Samohis whose alarms rouse them simultaneously to snap their dials to "Cindy's" program.

One night, says Billie, one sleepy young lady jumped out of bed when the alarm bell jangled and too benumbed to figure out why she had set the clock, she started to brush her teeth and dress in preparation for breakfast!

"I think I've entered a good cycle," exclaimed the glamour songstress as she summed up the rapidly-moving events of the past few months. "Everything I'd always hoped for is just turning out all right," and she touched the frat pin embellishing the front of her suit-coat.

"How long will it take you to get to CBS?" Pierce asked Lurene. "Thirty minutes? Well, hurry!"

Twenty minutes before air-time, Pinch-hitter Tuttle bounded into the studio. "Darn you," she kiddingly addressed Pierce. "I was just dreaming I had a date with Vic Mature when you phoned!"

Before she'd had a chance to read more than three pages of the script, Lurene was "on"—"cold."

Related the producer admiringly: "She didn't know until the end that she wasn't married to the guy in the story!"

But another successful "Stars Over Hollywood" had been entered on the record, which looks now like a disgustingly healthy one for the handicapped new-born show some biggies expected to live but six weeks!
