Ralph Dessy, 6518 Orange Street, Los Angeles, Calif.

Sirs: I have been reading your magazine for some time. I am only a school boy of fourteen. I am writing for all the boys on our street. We have been listening to "Counterspy" since it has been on the air and it is our favorite program. We can't listen to it any more because it is now on at 6:00 p.m. instead of 8:30 p.m. We would like to know if there is a chance of its being changed soon.

We have good news for you. "Counterspy" returned to its former broadcast time, 8:30 p.m. Monday, on January 31.

Gabe Abdelnour, Jr., 1405 Dahlia Avenue, El Monte, Calif.

Sirs: I am much interested in mystery programs. My favorites are 1. "Inner Sanctum Mysteries," 2. "Suspense," 3. "Hermit's Cave," 4. "I Love a Mystery," 5. "Elery Queen," 6. "The Shadow," 7. "Mr. and Mrs. North," 8. "Gang Busters." When will "Lights Out" be back on the air? It was the best mystery program of them all. Also, what happened to the "Thin Man" program?

Thus far, there seem to be no plans afoot to bring back "Lights Out." However, it was a well-established and popular program and its return at some future time may not be unlikely. Should it come back, we'll announce it in the "Precasts and Previews" section of Radio Life. About "The Thin Man," it is broadcast over CBS Sunday nights at 7:30 o'clock.

Mrs. Minnie W. Adams, 638½ West Thirty-fifth Street, Los Angeles, Calif.

Sirs: Just a few words in praise of the too-often criticized commercial. The commercial is not only a very necessary part of the program but often proves useful and entertaining as well.

It seems to me that in the past few years, announcers have greatly improved in making their part of the program entertaining, notably, Bill Goodwin on the Burns and Allen program, Harlow Wilcox on the Johnson's Wax. Several others might be mentioned if space permitted.

And so, fellow radio fans, let's be fair—yes, and friendly, too, toward the persons who play a very important part in our radio programs—our announcers.

Doris Castle, P. O. Box 594, Los Angeles, Calif.

Sirs: I have been a Judy Canova fan for a long time, and I surely did enjoy your article on Judy, with the "glamour" pictures. I hope we shall read more about her soon. I heard her sing her sign-off song, "Goodnight Soldier" all the way through a few weeks ago, and I felt I was meeting a new Judy. It is a lovely song and says just what I've been thinking. It surely brought a tear to my eye. Judy is a grand star. And I want to thank your wonderful little magazine for helping us "meet" our favorites.

Mrs. Ralph L. Foster, 936 South Fetterly Avenue, Los Angeles, Calif.

Sirs: Your extraordinarily fine little magazine gets better with each and every issue. It is crammed full of good reading and little newsy tidbits about our favorite radio entertainers. I read it from cover to cover and thoroughly enjoy it. I have no criticism to make. To me, it is perfect.

I was very happy to learn that Bob Wills and his Texas Playboys had a new hour-long program of their own over KMTR. That means a lot to me for they are from my home town and I've listened to them since their start in radio. Hearing them is almost like having Texas move to California. Won't you please feature them in an article soon, naming the instrument that each plays? Bob's vocalist, Tommy Duncan, is the finest singer I have ever heard. I would truly appreciate an article and pictures of them in Radio Life.

Thank you for the "postes" in the first paragraph of your letter. We're just human and we love 'em! We've made note of your request anent Bob Wills and his Texas Playboys and won't forget it.

Miss Nelle McCullough, 2037 East Mountain Street, Pasadena, Calif.

Sirs: First, I wish to thank you for publishing such an interesting, informative, economical magazine as "Radio Life." To show you how I value it, I told a member of this household as he departed for market one morning that if he valued his own life he would not return home without Radio Life.

I wish to make inquiries concerning some former radio people. What has happened to Earl Godwin and his pig, "Fleurette"? What is Cal Tinney doing? His quaint comments were forceful. His last year's Christmas presentation was unique and worthwhile. Did Maxine of "The Hour of Charm" just vanish into space so far as listeners are concerned?

Earl Godwin and his comments about his pig, "Fleurette" have not been heard on the Pacific Coast since last summer. He continued on the Blue Network in the East for some time after that but now he is off the air altogether. Roy Henley is the commentator who is taking his place. Cal Tinney is in the Army. NBC's Hollywood Publicity Department has no information on Maxine, formerly of the "Hour of Charm." Perhaps you could secure the information by writing to the Publicity Department of the National Broadcasting Company at New York City, if you care to go to that much trouble. It is sometimes difficult to get facts here regarding the activities of former participants in programs which originate in the East.

Lee Zeigler and Lois Koch, 6065 Pickford Street, Los Angeles, Calif.

Sirs: We have purchased Radio Life since it first appeared at our neighborhood grocery and believe that it steadily improves. After seeing Robert Walker in "Bataan" and reading in several magazines that he has appeared on radio serials prior to his movie debut, we are almost sure that he used to portray "Davie" on CBS's "Maudie's Diary" about a year ago. Please tell me if we are correct and on what other programs he portrayed roles. We also wish that "Maudie's Diary" would return to the air as it was one of our favorite programs.

Due to the fact that "Maudie's Diary" has been off the air for so long, the Publicity Department at Columbia Square has no information on it. For that reason, we cannot answer your questions about Robert Walker. Perhaps the information will be available later and if so, we'll let you know. As yet, we have heard of no plans to bring the program back.

Leslie Balmer, 640 San Fernando Road, Los Angeles, Calif.

Sirs: Will you please tell me if Tony Wons is still broadcasting his "Scrapbook," and if so, on what network?

Sorry, we've been unable to get any information on Tony Wons' present activities, but he is not heard here. If we can answer your question later, we'll be glad to do so.

Mrs. G. B. Calvert, 216 North Central, Glendale, Calif.

Sirs: Thanks for a swell little magazine. Jack Benny's show last Sunday (January 2) was really fine. I have been one of his fans for years.

I am sorry that the Mischa Auer-Mary Astor-Ruggles show is off the air. I surely enjoyed it.

Old Gags for New

Thursday, 7 p.m.
NBC-KFI

COSTELLO: I had a terrible accident, Abbott. I upset Mrs. Niles' car. I gotta turn it over right away or Mrs. Niles won't like it!

Abbott: We can do that when we come back from Palm Springs.

Costello: I GOTTA TURN THE CAR OVER NOW OR MRS. NILES IS GONNA BE MAD!

Abbott: I'll explain it to Mrs. Niles—where is she?

Costello: She's under the car!

Abbott: (Yells) She's under the car! Is she in a coma????

Costello: No, she's in her evening gown!

An old Joke? Certainly. Marty Gosch, producer of the Abbott-Costello airshow admits it.

Says he: "We're very lucky. We have four writers who know all the old Jokes. We use them as the basis for our comedy. Everybody does, but they don't admit it. It's a question of psychology. An audience likes to think it recognizes the material. Abbott and Costello both like old material. That's true of all old-time comedians. They hanker for it because they know they'll get laughs.

"But," continued Gosch, "by the time we get finished with it, we defy any one to say it's old material!"

Every big-time radio program that is successful has to have one dominant personality guiding the show. Examine such high-Crossley airers as Fibber and Molly, Red Skelton, Jack Benny, Burns and Allen, and one recognizes a Don Quinn, an Edna Skelton, a Jack, or a George to stamp that program with a definite mark. For the Abbott and Costello airshow, that person is shrewd, stocky Martin Gosch.

Made Some Changes

"You," he addressed Abbott and his roly-poly team-mate, "are going to have fifty per cent new material. We'll remake the other fifty per cent."

"Costello," he continued, "will come down from his shrieking pitch and will talk in his natural voice.

"We'll keep the material topical," expanded Gosch. "We'll assemble a good cast and try to build a happy family, with fewer and fewer guest stars as time goes by."

Continued Gosch: "We will expand your 'spots' and make a story out of them." Which meant that Abbott and Costello would move into situation type comedy. But in a special way. Always before, Abbott had forced

Here's a Show That Uses Old Material And What's More, Admits That It Does

Costello into certain situations. Now, Costello was to become a more sympathetic character, get himself into his own tight situation and out.

"That's the way to make listeners love the performers," Gasch explained. "They want to feel sorry for a guy. They want the fellow verbally to take his clothes off. That's what radio has done to show business. For example take Benny. One reason he is so popular is because he's the fall guy. In the old days everyone was a stooge for the comic. Now the comic is a stooge for the stooge."

That Gasch called his shots is evidenced by the show's Crossley. Latest readings of the comics' ratings place them around 28, which is better than good. When they were on the air a few seasons ago in a summer replacement their show rated 5.

The trick in writing Abbott and Costello scripts seems to lie in adapting old jokes and writing new ones to make them sound as if they are old. As an example of a new twist on an oldie:

Abbott: Did the cop recognize you?

Costello: Yeah.

Abbott: Could he swear to you?

Costello: YEAH, AND I SWEARED RIGHT BACK AT HIM! I said—you David Copperfield, you Tale of Two Cities, you Oliver Twist!

Abbott: What did you say that for?

Costello: I was giving him the dickens!

Abbott: This is a fine thing—now I have to straighten you out with that policeman. Where is he?

Costello: He's under the car, too!

Abbott: (Yells) What are they all doing under the car?

Costello: Have you looked for an apartment lately???

"Since the program started," remarked Gasch, "we have done only six of the old Abbott and Costello routines and then only if they fitted the situation. Sometimes the listeners think our new material is old. We're not unhappy if they do. Just so long as they laugh!"

Taking the curse off an ancient laugh-getter is another problem for the writers. This is how they did it for one old chestnut!

Abbott: I'll have you know I studied Latin at my mater's knee.

Costello: Your who's knee?

Abbott: M a t e r! Mater means mother, and my pater means father. Where are your mater and pater?

Costello: They went to the theater with my brayter and sayter! Ha, ha—see, I make up all my own jokes!

Abbott: You don't look that old!

One of the funniest of the recent scripts was delivered the Thursday after Christmas and built around: a routine so old they don't use it in burlesque any more. Called "Pinkus, Pay the Two Dollars!"; this ancient round-and-round was adapted to the situation where Costello was thrown in jail and kept pleading with the others "to pay the man the dollar and get me outta here!"

A few weeks ago, Costello was resting at Palm Springs, when he heard a few funny remarks in an obvious telephone conversation. "How you gonna get down here?", demanded the man on the desert end of the line. "Yeah, I know you drive, but how you gonna get down?" Costello returned to Hollywood and outlined the humorous possibilities of a script based on the theme, "You Drive."

Here Is Sample

ABBOTT: We were going to Palm Springs and you wreck the car. Now we'll have to rent one.

COSTELLO: Where can we get one?

ABBOTT: U Drive.

COSTELLO: Me drive?

ABBOTT: U Drive.

COSTELLO: I said I drive!

ABBOTT: You don't drive it—I drive it!

COSTELLO: Drive what?

ABBOTT: A U Drive!

COSTELLO: Why should I drive when you want to drive?

ABBOTT: I'm going to drive. Look, Costello, I'm renting a U Drive and I drive it!

COSTELLO: THEN WE BOTH DRIVE IT!

ABBOTT: We do nothing of the kind. I

IN LINE WITH POLICY to make cast "one happy family" is the build-up accorded "Mr. and Mrs. Ken Niles," here shown in affectionate pose. "Mrs. Niles" is the well-known supporting actress, Elvia Allman, while Niles plays "himself."

ANOTHER FAMILY MEMBER is cute little Connie Haines, who furnishes the vocals on the half-hour show. While Abbott looks apprehensive, Costello tries to find out if music "comes out here."

Golfing Gagsters

Gags flew thick and fast and the air stung with rapid repartee when radio's Big Three—Bing Crosby, Bob Hope and Frank Sinatra—headed a galaxy of stars who came out to give their all for charity at the January 30th Pro-Amateur Golf Tournament at the Lakeside Country Club. NBC's incomparable Bing did some super-smooth sports reporting at the mike with his ad-lib analyzing of the players' good points, past records and possibilities, while Brother Bob of the Crosby clan and Jug McFadden emerged the winners!

"As for Bing," quipped Hope, "age is creepin' up on the old boy."

When swoon-crooner Sinatra made his appearance, he got the works from quipmaster Hope and took it all with a grin.

DOING AN ALL-OUT STINT for the 4th War Loan Drive, NBC's "Arkansas Traveler", Bob Burns, helped Boy Scouts outdistance former sales records with his thirty appearances on KFI, the Saturday of January 29th when he asked the public to "buy a bond for a boy scout." Burns told stories, played records, and judged a fish fry during his six-hour stint at the station.

THE VICTOR IN THE JANUARY 30TH PRO-AMATEUR GOLF TOURNAMENT, a weary Bob Crosby (middle) reports to the NBC mike for his Sunday night radio show with Les Tremayne and songstress Julie Gibson.

"Look, Frankie," shouted Bob in greeting him, "it's fresh air! Breathe quick!"

"You know," continued Bob to the assembled spectators, "once we found Frank laid out stiff on the clubhouse floor. He had pulled his bow tie too tight."

When Bing returned to the mike in a comparatively conservative sports ensemble, Bob queried, "Why, Crosby, where's your pink stuff? What's the matter? Are you in mourning for your horses?"

And when Bing was asked if he played much tennis, he answered, "Nope, I stick to golf. I'm a little 'hippy,' y'know."

The victorious Bob Crosby played a hard game all day Saturday and Sunday, then had to report back to the NBC radio mike for his Sunday night airshow. CBS's Sinatra, scheduled to caddy, appeared wearing his habitual yachting cap. "He's caddying for old man Bing," commented Bob. "He knows he'll be in the lake all day!"

At the bond auction held during the tournament, and auctioneered by Crosby, Hope, Sinatra and Kay Kyser, an estimated total of $250,000 in war bonds was sold. Among the items on the block for bonds were:

Marlene Dietrich's black lace garters, for $1,750.

Bill Tilden's International Tennis Championship racket, for $10,000.

A horseshoe worn by "Seabiscuit" in the "Kentucky Derby," for $20,000.

Two Crosby-Sinatra duets of "People Will Say We're in Love" and "Shoo Shoo, Baby," for $20,000.

Orchids, pinned on feminine bond buyers by Frank Sinatra, which totaled $2,000.

Johnny Weissmuller swimming medal, for $25,000.

14 lb. sirloin steak, for $2,000.

Plane model, for $1,000.

One of Bing's golf clubs, for $1,000.

Bing Crosby hitting golfball off Kay Kyser's nose, for $5,000.

Silver cigarette case with engraved autographs of Hollywood stars, for $5,000.

Dorothy Lamour's sarong (modeled by Sinatra), for $1,500.

Additional such stills for several $100 bonds.

Cantor Super-Salesman

After his record-breaking sale of over $40,000,000 worth of war bonds in 24 hours of broadcasting over NBC's station KPO in San Francisco, Eddie Cantor returned to Hollywood last week to be heralded with a hero's welcome. His only comment on his spectacular feat of bringing in cash at the rate of $28,215 per minute for 24 hours, was his declaration that it was "the most thrilling experience of my entire 35 years as a showman, and my 52 years as a man." His oldest daughter, Marjorie, declared that it was the greatest show her dad ever put on in his career.

To Cantor, his most thrilling half-hour was the closing portion of the program when the OWI shortwaved the finish of the marathon broadcast to every U. S. fighting front in the world.

"Listen, Tojo," Cantor said into the mike, "one of your rusty bayonets picked up on Guadalcanal brought in $1,250,000 at an auction to buy the bombs we're going to drop on you. Did you hear that, Tojo? A million and a quarter dollars for one of your rusty bayonets which your thug didn't get a chance to plunge into an American boy because we got him first."

The NBC comedian himself purchased $50,000 of bonds in honor of Connee Boswell who got up out of a sick bed to sing at the rally.

Eddie actually remained in the studios for the entire 24 hours except for one instance when he took a walk around the block to get some air. Even during that brief absence, crowds of San Franciscans who jammed Studio A all day and all night, would set up a "We Want Cantor" chant that sent Eddie running back, a bite of doughnut in his mouth and a cup of hot coffee in his hand. He drank 37 cups of coffee to keep awake. "More," he said, "than I ever drank in my life."

When he finally returned exhausted to his hotel room, he found a basketful of messages with more pledges and notes from parents of servicemen, saying "God bless you, Eddie Cantor."

Not once during the 24 hours did he run out of gags. A woman wanted to ask him a question in exchange for a bond purchase. "How old are your daughters, Mr. Cantor?" was the query, "Just name an age," shot back Eddie, "and I've got a daughter to fit it."

Wired President Roosevelt upon completion of Cantor's job: "Fine work. Take things easy until you get rested. Best of luck always."

Blue Airs Battle

The Blue Network scored an exclusive scoop recently when a recorded description of an actual naval engagement was broadcast on the "Meet Your Navy" program. The combat recording was made on one of the Navy's baby flat-top carriers and included orders and conversation between men on the carrier, Naval fliers and members of a destroyer crew, all of whom were staging a smashing attack on an enemy submarine.

Since the start of the war, it has been our opinion that radio has overlooked its most effective means of

NEXT WEEK

We bring you John Loder, husband of Hedy Lamarr, in an intimate close-up. John, as you know, is now emceeing CBS' "Silver Theater." You've all heard that clever actor, Arthur Q. Bryan. Well, it's high time Radio Life did a story about him. You'll find it under the title, "An Oscar for Arthur Q." Jack Sherman out at KMPC has a very slick program called "Housewives' Exchange." Three thousand ladies (and we'll bet a lot of 'em are Radio Lifers), belong to his "club." If you want a little information on Jack and some funny pictures of him, see pages 28-29 next week. Lovely Rosemary De Camp and Connie Haines are also included in this diversified line - up of the February 20 issue.

battlefront coverage by not employing this method of reporting. It seems to us that, wherever and whenever possible, recordings should be made of the actual battles in occurrence on the world's war fronts. Only radio can do this job. Why doesn't it?

Two-Way Job

Not only does Upton Close keep his listeners informed on the activities of our armed forces. The NBC and Mutual Network news commentator also is busy keeping a portion of the armed forces up-to-date on happenings at home. He has four sons in the service, two of them overseas at present, and spends several hours each week writing to them.

The Close family also has rationing worries. The newsman's youngest son, Spencer, sixteen months old, has already used up the family's allotments of shoe coupons for the year and has just gone through the toe of his newest pair of shoes!

Precasts & Previews

Once upon a time, only farmers knew what was doing in the world at 6:00 a.m. Nobody else knew, or cared.

Now, it seems quite a number of people get up at 6:00, and quite naturally they turn their radios on to hear the news over KFI. Radios that used to rest until nine o'clock take quite an early morning beating now. So KFI has lined up some extra good listening for us early risers.

The 6:00 a.m.ers, as we said before, turn on their sets and get news, reported by Russ Stewart. Those who miss that before-sunrise edition can get even more news at 7:00, this time reported by Ted Meyers, who is one of the busiest of the morning radio workers.

Suppose you sleep too late for that? Well, there's Sam Hayes at 7:45 and if you're really a late riser Jack Latham covers the news front at 8:30 a.m. To interpret all this news, Fleetwood Lawton rises early, and analyzes the communiques at 7:15 a.m., and T. B. Blackiston looks over the news at 8:15 from another angle. So, you don't have to go to work wondering what's going on. We'll tell you, via KFI.

But you want entertainment as well as news to liven up the morning.

So, we hereby recommend the following: for western fans, "Chuckwagon Jamboree," 6:15 a.m. every week-day, featuring Long Bill who sounds just like Bill Davidson; for music lovers who like variety, there's "Reveille Roundup" with Louise Massey and the Westerners, at 7:30 a.m. Monday, Wednesday and Friday; and "March to Victory" on Tuesday and Thursday, same time; Johnny Murray, at 8:00 a.m., tells some mighty fascinating stories, which he calls "fifteen minutes of food for thought"—mighty pleasant food, too; then, at 8:45 a.m., one of the best of all dramatic serials, "David Harum."

That's a pretty varied bunch of radio, you must admit, and there's something there for everyone wide awake enough to tune in.

The same goes, of course, for the rest of the day. For news, comedy, music, drama and every conceivable form of radio entertainment, just keep tuned to KFI.

CARAMEL CALAMITY

During a recent "Crime Doctor" broadcast an old man was discovered searching frantically for something he'd dropped on the floor. Trying to prevent a disturbance, the pageboy asked him what he had lost. "A caramel," replied the old man. "You don't mean you're making all this fuss over a caramel," he was asked. "Yes," came the reply. "My teeth are in it!"

BORDER INCIDENT

Morton Downey (KECA, 12:00 noon, M-F) likes to tell this story: "There was a man who lived right on the border between Russia and Poland. For years officials of both countries were unable to figure which country he lived in. Finally after much bickering he was told he lived in Poland. 'Thank goodness,' he said as he breathed a sigh of relief, 'I just couldn't stand another one of those Russian winters.'"

LUCKY STONE

Producer Cecil B. DeMille of CBS's "Lux Radio Theater" always carries in his pocket a lucky Chinese "rubbing stone," fashioned of white Chinese jade. It is an oval stone, with a sea otter carved on one side and a China lily on the other. The design has been worn smooth by C.B.'s restless fingers. "It does for me what chewing gum does for many people," he explains. "Rubbing it relaxes me."

A WORD FOR IT

When CBS News Analyst Nelson Pringle mentioned a town called Mooselookme-guntic, Maine, on a recent broadcast, he received an air mail special delivery letter from a lady listener who wrote that she hadn't heard that name since she was a child. "Where in the world did you dig it up?" she queried. Seems that New Englander Pringle used to go fishing at Mooselookme-guntic—the name of which was derived from a story about an Indian who went hunting, met a moose head-on, and was so frightened he forgot to fire.

DOODLE ARTIST

Cowboy singer Eddie Dean of CBS' "Judy Canova Show" spends any rehearsal breaks "doodling" on the back of this script. And the Dean-doodles, which are generally sketches of desert scenes, look good enough to frame!

GENERAL GUEST

Eddie "Rochester" Anderson, of the Jack Benny show, entertained Brig. General B. O. Davis at his home for dinner recently. General Davis is the only Negro general in the Army of the United States.

SOMETHING NEW
 Edwin C. Hill (KNX, 9:30 p. m. Tues.) has found a unique way to keep intact his collection of headline stories which dates from the shooting of President McKinley. The commentator is making a montage mural of them for his Manhattan office.

SWING FANS
 How do the stars react to a swing song? Gertrude Lawrence likes to shake her torso—but with dignity. Raymond Scott taps his fingers in her rhythm. Richard Himber claps his hands. Ginny Simms wiggles her shoulders.

MUSICAL DIRECTOR

Mr. Leon F. Drews, for seventeen years organist at the Heathman Hotel, Portland, Oregon, has joined the KPRO staff, Riverside, California, as musical director. KPRO presents Mr. Drew's program, "Always Yours," at 4:00 p.m. daily.

HELPING HAND

Minerva Pious, new member of the Jack Benny fold, is a great help to the show's gag writers. Always equipped with a pad and pencil, she can often be seen jotting down quips and anecdotes heard around Hollywood which she turns over to the scripters for the Sunday shows.

FRIDAY, FEB. 18

At hours where no listing is shown for a local station, recorded music has been scheduled.

GUARDSMAN

John Loder, CBS's "Silver Theater" host, is a first lieutenant in the California State Guard. In the last war, he served as the youngest combat officer in the British Army.

HERE'S WHY

Penny "Blondie" Singleton asserts that the reason girls are knitting for their sweethearts and husbands overseas is so the boys can hand out plenty of socks to the Axis!

REFLECTION

"It never occurs to a boy of 18" reflects "Crime Doctor" Everett Sloane, "that he will someday be as dumb as his father!"

TIME SAVER

Groucho Marx, clown of CBS's "Blue Ribbon Town," observes that the best way to save daylight is to use it!

WRITES SONG

Charles (Chuck) Collins, CBS singing piano virtuoso, has composed a new song called "Victory V-March," which has been recorded with a band. Collins, heard mornings on "Collins Callin'," hopes the Allies soon will be singing it as they march down Unter Den Linden.

DINAH'S TOPS

Top feminine singer in this country is Columbia's Dinah Shore, according to an Accurate Radio Survey poll of more than 1,500 radio editors, writers, radio agency executives and critics. Next came Kate Smith. Bing Crosby led the male division. The Great Groaner is Dinah's idol.

SUPER-SALESMAN

Ed Gardner, "Archie" of the Blue Network show, "Duffy's," once was a paint salesman with a marvelous sales technique. Once, while peddling his paints in a Pennsylvania town, he was locked up for speeding. But after his release he called at the city hall and got an order for paint to "pretty-up" the jail!

WELL-TRAINED SERVANT

Jack Carson, star of CBS's "Jack Carson Show," is puzzled. Every time he walks across the stage, the audience laughs. What the audience sees that he doesn't is Arthur Treacher following him. Treacher, cast as his butler, carries a tiny whiskbroom and constantly brushes thin air as Jack walks around.

Radio's Girl

tion, he announced his existence when he told his sister: "I'm not dead. I'm in Hollywood, speaking from the Ginny Simms' program!"

Seventy per cent of the men appearing and afforded opportunity to telephone someone request that their message be directed to "Mom." But at least thirty per cent want to hear the voice of the wife or girl friend. When Technical Sergeant Eddie Sickert, U.S.M.C., called his girl in Brooklyn, he proposed. Then, happy over being told "yes," he raised the question of a ring.

"Look," said Ginny. "I'm going to visit New York in a few weeks. I'll take the ring to her for you."

Benny Called

Jack Benny's secretary, Harry Baldwin, who used to deliver the comic's telegrams for a mirthful spot on the Benny show, entered the service and when summoned to guest on the program, asked to call his former boss, then staying in New York. Appropriately, Ginny's song for that night was "Love In Bloom."

On and on the list could go; reunions, 'phone calls, poignant moments, with lovely Ginny ever the pivot for the action. Happy times predominate. But, too, there have been very serious interludes, when men who have performed valorous acts for their country have been accorded some of the recognition due them.

Private Jose Tugat, a member of the Philippine Scouts, told of being the last man to leave Bataan. Hanley Stafford's son, Graham, a flight sergeant, called the father of Meyer Levin, former bombardier on Colin Kelly's plane. A flyer lost in the jungle for ten months spoke to the mother of his captured buddy. To celebrate Hitler's birthday anniversary, the program honored Mrs. Abraham Marks, a Jewish mother whose son died for this country. Ginny sang "Eili. Eili," on this occasion. Air Cadet Tom Harmon, twice lost, is still remembered for his participation on one of the early programs. Messman Charles Jackson French, 22-year-old hero, modestly related how he swam through shark-infested waters under Jap machine gun fire, and how he towed a raft holding twenty wounded Americans to safe landing.

Obtaining "Stars"

As one reads the list of imposing, interesting guests, he wonders how they are obtained for the airshow. Weight of this selection rests on Producer Myron Dutton, whose contacts with Army, Navy, Marine and other personnel are very close. Hearing of a likely guest, Dutton tries to arrange two weeks in advance for his or her appearance.

During the interview which ensues, he gains some ideas as to what would make a realistic script and a thrilling gift for the participant. He obtains the name of the nearest relative—the one the guest would most

Cupid Ken

When announcer Ken Niles stepped out on the stage for the pre-broadcast warm-up at a recent Blue presentation of the "Life of Riley" program, he spotted three handsome young marines seated right across the aisle—so near and yet so far—from a trio of pretty girls.

With a smile and a wink, Ken stepped down from the stage, went into whispered conference with the two trios, and completed a new seating arrangement. Result: one grinning marine found himself sandwiched between two pretty girls, while the other lucky lassie shared the remaining two smiling servicemen.

No Correction!

Among bulletins read by Gil Martyn on a recent Eastern news broadcast was one stating that American and Chinese pilots had attacked a Japanese convoy. In giving the report, Martyn said, in part: "Three Jap ships sunk, two probably stunk." He didn't take the trouble to make a correction. Gil probably figured no error had been made.

like to see or talk with. If a telephone conversation is indicated, Dutton then proceeds to call the relative or friend, usually in the East.

With both sides of the telephone conversation in mind, Producer Dutton then writes an appropriate script, which must be cleared by designated authorities. Due to war times, conversations heard on the program must follow pre-arranged scripts, but the telephone calls are bona fide and are the personal pets of NBC's switchboard supervisor, Billie Clevenger, who sets them up two or three days in advance so that the program will not interfere with wartime communications.

When the listener hears the program conversation, it's the real thing, except for this fact: the talk is "live" on the Eastern show which leaves Hollywood at 5:30 p.m. On the later repeat broadcast for the West Coast, except when the call is on the coast, capable supporting players read the inaudible end of the conversation from small booths adjoining the stage. These same performers also stand by to pick up cues in case mothers, sweethearts, or other relatives break down emotionally. The majority of them become very nervous over the prospect of talking with their loved ones and in handling this situation, Supervisor Billie has performed an excellent job for the program by chatting with far-away relatives and calming their nerves before they are connected with their serviceman or woman.

So interesting have some of the conversations been that both Producer Dutton and Ginny have ached, ever since the show's inception, to hear "the other end."

For the time being, Ginny will around, with all the unerring suddenness of the strep infection.

Danny O'Neil was lifted out of the waters of Pearl Harbor, with a broken back.

The doctors were amazed at his first conscious words. Danny didn't ask, "Will I ever walk again?"

He wanted to know: "Will this keep me from singing?"

After seven months of hospitalization he was given his honorable discharge . . . a physical disability discharge . . . on December 4, 1941.

Three days later the Japs attacked, and four days later Danny O'Neil was back at the enlistment offices. But the Navy medics said "Sorry, not with a broken back, even though you're up and around and willing to fight."

Fate was really throwing low punches, but the Irishman was having no part of taking the count.

He could sing, couldn't he?

And he did, at camps, USO centers, any place where the beloved blue of his former shipmates afforded a signal.

Chaplân Hansen again came forward. First with an invitation to sing as the only civilian on the "Meet Your Navy" program. Second with an audition at the CBS studios in Chicago.

The audition song, oddly enough was not a Navy song.

Danny sang something which might have been his own heart giving voice, as it had once before on a Christmas eve.

The studio folk heard: "Coming In On a Wing and a Prayer."

The talent scouts walked up with a fountain pen and a contract.

Within the week he was singing for four commercial programs and before 14 days had passed he was added to the CBS "40 Chicagoans" and "Victory Matinee" programs out of Chicago.

Chicago now claims him as one of its own.

His fan mail is prodigious and his night club appearances are literally sell-outs.

The nation, too, is rapidly lining up behind Chicago in its adulation.

The happiest guy in the world . . . a kid who "lost his voice," "lost a chance to serve the duration" . . . "broke his back" . . .

Figures he's lucky to be alive today, to be singing with his cronies each Sunday on the "Blue Jacket Choir" show.

"It's the luck of the Irish," says Danny O'Neil.

have to remain, literally, on her pedestal. But a few weeks ago, Dutton could no longer restrain his curiosity. Now he has an extension plugged into the control booth!

Luck O' the Irish

Fate Handed Danny O'Neil
A Knockout Punch, But He Refused to Take the Count

Sunday, 2:05 a.m.
CBS-RNY

SOME ONE once said that there is no greater human anxiety than that of a sightless person waiting for the surgeon to take off the bandages after an operation that may, or may not restore vision.

Danny O'Neil, who sings each Sunday with Columbia network's "Blue Jacket Choir" program has known a kindred anxiety—twice!

For the ex-sailor in Uncle Sam's Navy, Fate played two cruel tricks, and for months he went about with the admonition "you'll never sing again!"

Out of nowhere, in September, 1939, a streptococci infection lodged in Danny's throat. The whole world had crashed. War had burst forth across the sea and many young men already were wondering "will we get into it?"

Danny O'Neil, who had been singing since he was eight years old, and who was just on the verge of winning recognition, wondered too, about the war.

And more personally, he lay ill with an infected throat, and wondered when he would be able to sing again.

The doctor shook his head and said, "The infection is gone, but you will never sing again. You shouldn't try anyway, unless you want to risk having to speak in a whisper the rest of your life."

An Irish kid, with the traditional song in his heart since babyhood... well, maybe he was lucky to be alive, and maybe he could do something about that!

Birmingham, Alabama, was a long way from Warsaw, Poland, but if war was coming to America... If "we might get into it"... the thing to do was to be ready. There would be plenty of time for singing when the trouble was past.

Whispering "Boo"

So the kid enlisted and landed at the Great Lakes Naval Training Station, near Chicago. Chief petty officers wondered about the quiet "boo," who spoke only a shade above a whisper.

He was afraid to lose even what little voice there was left.

And his one comfort was the time he could get off from duty, so he could haunt the rehearsals of the Great Lakes Naval Training Station choir. Just to listen, mind you, that's all. It wouldn't harm to listen. The soul of an Irishman with a song in his heart.

That went on for months. And then the choir began rehearsals for the 1939 Christmas recitals.

They sang many carols and hymns. Then they sang "Silent Night."

How many times Danny had sung that... when he hadn't been afraid to sing. When he really could cut loose... but now, just listen.

The first stanza had swelled on the air, they'd begun the second... Danny O'Neil thought that maybe, if he just hummed ever so gently... you know how it is...

He tried.

Chaplain Hjalmar Hansen, director of the choir noticed the timorous lad in the corner and passed by listening.

The Chaplain urged him to try to sing with the "boys."

It worked! Danny O'Neil wasn't whispering any more! He could sing. Those who heard the carols and hymns that year probably never knew the thrill that went from one heart to Heaven, amid those voices.

After six months Danny O'Neil was choir soloist, proud possessor of a citation from Admiral John Downes, commandant of the Station, and "shipping out" for service aboard the U. S. S. Lexington.

Pearl Harbor, early in 1941. The war coming ever closer to the fateful December 7, but not yet quite touching the United States.

Danny O'Neil sang whenever he had an opportunity... ship concerts, for his "bunkies"... at work... anywhere.

He was ready, as he had decided to be back in 1939.

He had his voice back.

Why shouldn't a fellow sing?

Then a swinging davit came

Radio's Pedestal Girl

By
Evelyn Bigsby

Tuesday, 8:30 p.m.
NBC-KFI

IF RADIO should decide to nominate a pedestal girl, that girl should be Ginny Simms, who combines a universally gracious manner with a sweet dignity.

She is the kind of girl who reminds servicemen of their wife, their sweetheart, or their sister. A moonlight and roses girl, but one, too, who can don a pinafore and whip through the housework without a struggle.

For a radio show like the one Philip Morris presents every Tuesday night on NBC, Ginny constitutes an ideal mistress of ceremonies. For on this broadcast appear the "greatest guest stars in the world"—the men and women of our armed forces—and to them, on behalf of her sponsor, the brown-haired songstress presents regular fairy godmother gifts; expensive long distance telephone calls, 'plane trips, baby showers, family reunions. Her sincere solicitude for her guests, her beautiful singing, her charm, and her integrity endow the program with genuine human kindness. And when, as often happens, she deftly guides the script through a touching moment, smiles mingle with the honest tears of her studio audience.

Many have been the highlights of the past year and a half while the program has been on the air. One of the first and most unforgettable guests was Corporal Ben Effros, an orphan, who telephoned the founding home in Cleveland where he was raised. This was in itself a thrill. But after the program, a compassionate young lady invited the lone soldier to dinner at her home. A few months later, wedding bells pealed, with Ginny singing for the couple's rites.

▲ CHRISTMAS REUNION OF HUGE FAMILY took place on Ginny's program. Here are Private Jack Story, U.S.M.C., his parents, and his sixteen brothers and sisters who were brought from Bakersfield to share Yule treat with the serviceman.

Banana Cream Cake

No one who heard it will forget the exciting day when Private Miller was guest on the show. It was his birthday and he wished most of all for a banana cream cake "like Mom used to make." Ginny waved her wand, ordered the young man to turn around and view his cake, especially to see who was carrying it in on the stage. It was "Mom," of course, and there wasn't a dry eye in the studio as Private Miller and his mother embraced.

A baby shower from Hollywood's glamour stars isn't something that happens to every serviceman, even if he is a lieutenant like good-looking Tom Moore. The day Marine Moore landed back in San Francisco after duty overseas, his son was born. So when he appeared the following week on the "Johnny Presents Ginny Simms" program, Songstress Ginny presided over a shower. Baby gifts came from the McGees, Bing Crosby, Fannie Brice, many more. Then, to cap the climax, the fighting man received a 'plane ticket to take him back home for a first glimpse of his wee son.

When Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Grossman celebrated their golden wedding anniversary, the program reunited fourteen members of the Grossman family, who talked to the only absent one, Corporal Sydney Grossman in Honolulu.

A similar reunion took place at Christmas time, 1942, when guests on the show were Private Jack Story, U.S.M.C., his parents, and sixteen brothers and sisters who were brought from Bakersfield for a Yule dinner and tree.

When Chief Electrician's Mate Campbell appeared on the show, his telephone message to his sister in Chicago came as a jolt. Thought by relatives to have been killed in ac-

It Pays to be

Ignorant

WHO SAYS there's nothing new under the sun? If you are one of that growing group of radio dialers who is beginning to be worn ragged by the endless barrage of quiz programs that prove to be poor imitations of "Information Please," you will find just what you're looking for in "It Pays to Be Ignorant," the new half-hour comedy show heard each Tuesday night on KHJ, and also being featured indefinitely as a part of CBS' popular Friday night "Kate Smith Hour." It's a quiz show to end all quiz shows.

Burlesquing the usual programs of this type, the cast of this new laugh spot includes interlocutor Tom Howard and a trio of judges, George Shelton, Lulu McConnell and Harry McNaughton. Their routine runs very much as follows:

Curtain opens on board of experts in the midst of deep intellectual discussion:

1st Expert: "What d'ya think he did—he tried to pass off a lead half-dollar on me!"

2nd Expert: "The dirty crook!"

3rd Expert: "What did you do with it?"

1st Expert: "I bought this tie."

This week's literary offering from these noted educators:

"Little Bo Peep

Has lost her sheep

And don't know where to find them . . .

Leave them alone

And they'll come home.

. . . Lamb chops!"

Dean of Misinformation, Mr. Tom Howard, submits the question of the evening to the board:

"What great president was the city of Washington, D. C. named after?"

The board of experts, with furrowed brows and drumming fingers, sinks into deep concentration of thought,

"No help from the audience, please!" Mr. Howard exclaims hastily with a warning gesture. "Now, let's all concentrate," he urges his experts.

The experts look dubiously at one another.

"Would you kindly repeat the question, please?" they finally request of Mr. Howard.

Mr. Howard obliges.

The board remains puzzled.

D. C. or T. C?

"Did you say D. C. or T. C?" they question.

"Could it be Ted Collins?" one suggests, Mr. Collins being a prominent figure on the Kate Smith show.

"He wasn't president during my time," a co-expert points out.

"Why did you put that D. C. in the question?" another expert asks of their interlocutor, "You're trying to confuse us!"

"D. C. stands for District of Columbia," Mr. Howard patiently explains.

"Oh, then it's something about Christopher Columbus!" exclaims one enlightened expert in delight.

"Why wasn't he president?" asks another.

"He must have been a Republican," opines the third.

The board once again emerges into the deepness of thought. There is a period of suspenseful silence; then one of the esteemed experts clears his throat to speak.

"What was the question again, please?" he asks.

"Why was Columbus made president?"

As one can readily see, "It Pays To Be Ignorant" is a reverse of the orthodox procedure on question-and-answer shows. The judges are as much baffled as the audience, as they try not only to answer the puzzlers but also to find out what the questions were in the first place.

Such profound inquiries as "What great American general lies buried in Grant's Tomb?" and "What radio singer with initials K. S. has a theme song called 'When the Moon Comes Over the Mountain?'" are gravely pondered by the learned foursome.

The questions they will or will not answer, depending on their mood of the evening, are submitted in writing from the audience instead of in person, as previously done on their own show.

When interlocutor Howard asks "What comes over the mountain?" the answer he gets is "Hillbillies!"

When Howard persists, and patiently hints, "What comes over the mountain at night?", the reply comes readily: "Drunken hillbillies!"

All four members of the cast of "It Pays To Be Ignorant" are veteran performers. Tom Howard, born in County Tyrone, Ireland, has a theatrical career that goes back to 1905 when he decided that vaudeville acting was nice easy work paying fine dividends. He started at the Dreamland Theater in Philadelphia for the munificent salary of $15 a week, playing a dozen performances a day. That led to other engagements which finally brought him to Broadway in the "Ziegfeld Follies," Joe Cook's "Rain or Shine," "Greenwich Village Follies" and "Keep Moving."

Then Howard found a partner in George Shelton, to form the team of Howard & Shelton, a standard vaudeville act for many years. The team also made a number of motion picture shorts, some 55 in all, which brought them nationwide attention and fame. With the advent of radio, the team went on the air, appearing on many programs for the past decade.

Shelton, born in New York, started his career with a tent show in Iowa. He had worked out an act featuring a Dutch accent, but soon learned he had to broaden his repertoire by reason of doing a different act each night. Turning to blackface with a Southern drawl he encountered difdrive. When I say U Drive I don't mean you drive. I mean that I drive although it's a U Drive!

COSTELLO: When you say U Drive, you don't mean me drive, you mean you drive because I don't drive!

COSTELLO: Now I've got it! I DON'T EVEN KNOW WHAT I'M TALKING ABOUT! Now look, Abbott—you go to a place and facilities, for the Dixie drawl came out with that same old Dutch dialect.

From the tent show Shelton went on tour with a repertory company for five years, and then saw service in World War I. After the war, he toured Germany with a show, then returned to America for vaudeville dates. He replaced Bobby Clark in an act called "The Merry Wives of Windsor," and after that ran into Tom Howard and decided to team up.

The other two expert "ignoramus" have had equally long careers in the theater. Lulu McConnell, the only woman in the show, has been on the stage in one capacity or another since she was four years old. Born in Kansas City, she was an established musical comedy star by the time she was sixteen, and has been featured in a number of successful Broadway shows, both in stock and in musicals. She takes some pride in having discovered Jack Oakie. Celebrities she appeared with included Eddie Cantor, George Jessell, Lillian Russell, Anna Held, and Wille and Eugene Howard. She says she likes answering the questions put to her on "It Pays To Be Ignorant" because it gives her a chance to use some of the same old jokes she has been using for years. "And," say Lulu, "they still get laughs!"

Harry McNaughton, best known to radio audiences for his seven-year run as Phil Baker's English butler, "Bottle," is the only member of the "Ignorant" cast bearing the distinction of having been a prisoner of war. In World War I he was captured by the Germans and so badly beaten he still bears facial scars.

Currently celebrating his 25th anniversary in show business, McNaughton comes of a long line of English theatrical artists. His father was lessee and manager of the Adelphi Theater in London, and his uncles were music hall favorites for many years. His Broadway career includes appearances in more than 30 productions.

In 1929 he was making a film at the Pathe Studios in New York when fire broke out. McNaughton jumped out of a window with a helpless chorus girl in his arms, both of them escaping with minor injuries although several people were burned to death in the blaze. The chorus girl, now a distinguished actress, was Constance Cummings.

And in case you still want to know who's buried in Grant's Tomb, ask them and they'll doubtless reply, "We don't know; we don't go to funerals."

you rent a car? . . . (YES) . . . You are driving the car? (YES). Where am I sitting?

ABBOTT: You are sitting right next to me!

COSTELLO: Is there a steering wheel in front of me?

ABBOTT: No.

COSTELLO: And you're positive that I am not driving?

ABBOTT: I'm positive.

COSTELLO: And you are driving the car?

ABBOTT: Yes!

COSTELLO: All right—what kind of a car are you driving?

ABBOTT: U DRIVE!

COSTELLO: (Pause). SOMEBODY BETTER BE DRIVING!

ABBOTT: No, no! Look Costello, I'm trying to explain this. We go and rent a car!

COSTELLO: Right—where are we gonna get it?

ABBOTT: U Drive Company!

COSTELLO: NOW I DRIVE COMPANY!

I THOUGHT WE WERE GOIN' ALONE! ABBOTT: You don't understand. It's Hertz U Drive!

COSTELLO: Well, if it hurts, you drive!

ABBOTT: That's right!

COSTELLO: That's right! This is gettin' worse!

ABBOTT: Don't you see, the head of the company's Hertz.

COSTELLO: That's too bad! What hurts him?

ABBOTT: Nothing hurts him! Look, every company has to have a head.

COSTELLO: Naturally.

ABBOTT: THIS COMPANY'S HEAD'S HERTZ!!!

COSTELLO: THEN LET HIM TAKE AN ASPIRIN!!!

ABBOTT: Listen, Costello—It's Hertz U-Drive all over the country!

COSTELLO: If it hurts to drive all over the country, why should I drive to Palm Springs and get hurts!

ABBOTT: You don't get hurt. It's Hertz Company!

COSTELLO: HURTS COMPANY! I DON'T WANNA HURT NOBODY!

ABBOTT: WILL YOU LISTEN TO ME! The man's name is Hertz! He rents cars . . . U-Drive! It's U-Drive all over the country!

COSTELLO: NOT WITH THAT O. P. A. BROTHER!

ABBOTT: What're you talking about?

COSTELLO: THAT'S WHY I CAN'T GO—

O. P. A.!

ABBOTT: (Yells). WHAT DO YOU MEAN, O. P. A.?

COSTELLO: ONLY A PUNY CARD!

This performance was widely acclaimed and several camps sent requests for copies of the script to be reproduced by entertainment groups.

Pointed out Gosch: "Everybody thinks the "You Drive" script was an old routine!" A perfect example of making new gags sound old.
