Helen Mack, Producer, "A Date With Judy," NBC, Hollywood, Calif.

Sirs: I am writing to you on behalf of everyone connected with "A Date with Judy"—the cast, which includes Louise Erickson, our Judy; Dix Davis, who is her younger brother, Randolph; Melvin and Dora Foster, played by John Brown and Myra Marsh; Oogie Pringle, Judy's boy friend, played by Scott Elliott; Paul Sawtell, who makes with the composition, and C. Bakaleinikoff and his orchestra, who make with the music; Aleen Leslie, without whom the Fosters would have very little to say; the very versatile gal, Leona Shatan, who makes the proper noises; Bob Morris, who sees to it that the Foster Family has a microphone handy at all times; Bruce Kamman, the NBC producer who sees to it that the Fosters are clean, upright, and off the air at 5:59:25 every Tuesday—in other words, the whole darn family who have all worked so hard to make "A Date With Judy" merit the wonderful award you have given it.

We are so very grateful for the award and we want to thank you with all our hearts.

Bill Owens, 201 West Gray Street, Wilson, North Carolina.

Sirs: I'd like to join your oodles of other admirers and say I think Radio Life is a swell magazine, the best on the market. I hope it will remain the simple but excellently produced publication it has been, rather than become a New York Mag-About-Town. When I read Radio Life each week, I get the feeling that its words are not written in mass production, but just for me.

Secondly, but also a "first" in my admiration, is Conrad Binyon who plays the role of "Butch" on "Mayor of the Town," and "Junior" on "Life of Riley." In my opinion, Conrad is one of the best 'teen-agers on the air, and I really get a kick out of hearing him each week. He has a grand voice, and a capable way of reading his lines.

Julie Allan, Locksley Place, Los Angeles, Calif.

Sirs: I can't resist asking you to please sirg praises of the "Hercule Poirot" program and his delightful accent. One of the most delightful programs of its type on the air. Would like very much to know who plays the title role.

With some of your other readers, I also wish for the return of "Vic and Sade" with their homely humor. Also, it is surprising that any wide-awake sponsor misses the opportunity to annex so fine a program as "Those We Love"; it boasts an exceptionally fine cast, each one so perfectly fitting his particular character portrayal.

Nice-looking girl, Janet Waldo. Her "Irene" in "One Man's Family" is lovely; but her "Corliss" leaves me very cold. Over-played, it seems to me. But I love the parents and "Dexter", also "Mildred" whose non-chalance is so amusing. And speaking of "One Man's Family", I agree with one of your readers that "Margaret" is one of the highlights of the story. I think she is splendid. The story is running down a little just now.

One may say a good word for Haven MacQuarrie's program; all emcees should listen to it.

Harold Huber portrays "Poitrob"

George Gordon, 297 Twickenham Ave., Los Angeles, Calif.

Sirs: Just for fun, I've taken a poll of one hundred of my friends and acquaintances to find out whom they considered the "most convincing" commercial announcers.

From a list of twenty well-known announcers heard on local stations, here are the top three and their percentages:

Bob Freed—Mutual, 58%

Vincent Pelletier—NBC, 33%

Jim Berry—KFI, 2%

Seven received one vote each, ten none.

The most disliked thing in radio: the words, "but first," used preceding too many commercials.

Connie Varlotta, 1110 South Kenmore Avenue, Los Angeles, Calif.

Sirs: Is Mark Breneman on any program at present? Gene Baker is not quite as good.

My opinion is that the Metropolitan Opera Company should fire Lawrence Tibbett for making such a fool of himself on the "Hit Parade." I enjoyed his singing with the Met.

Mark Breneman is now heard Monday through Friday, 9:15 a.m. on KMPC.

Mrs. A. M. Owen, 562 East Garvey Avenue, El Monte, Calif.

Sirs: I wonder sometimes if the writer of "Helen Trent" is unable to stop writing it. It's already too long, and getting nowhere.

I feel we are being cheated, by losing "Dr. Kate" without any warning, and having her replaced by a very humdrum story. I'd much prefer Sam Hayes with an interesting commentary on some phase of news on that spot.

"Young Widder Brown" goes on and on, ending each episode flatly.

Mrs. J. Pelin, 1248 West Newmark, Monterey Park, Calif.

Sirs: I never could stand Bob Hope or Jack Benny; never can see anything funny about their programs. Danny Kaye is really funny. Jack Kirkwood is very funny, and so is Danny Thomas. Danny Thomas can also sing much better than Frank Sinatra.

Ruby Darrow, 491 North Ventura Avenue, Ventura, Calif.

Sirs: I agree with your reader who wrote in to you about Stuart Hambleton. I for one think it is the best program on the air. My whole family and most of my friends believe as I do that he and his "Lucky Stars" are the most talented and inspiring people we have ever listened to.

George Murphy, Beverly Hills, Calif.

Sirs: I have just received the certificate which you so kindly sent me and hasten to thank you for this honor. It was very thoughtful of you, indeed, and I appreciate it tremendously.

What Price Comedy?

CBS-KXK

MY GOAL?" echoed Bob Jellison. "You can guess it—I'd like to be the guy who has the stooge, having lines fed at me!"

Right now, the rotund, round-faced, curly-haired radio actor is that funny little fellow who feeds lines to such ace laugh-getters as Danny Kaye, Danny Thomas, Jimmy Durante and Garry Moore on their respective CBS airshows.

But when the audience applauds, a goodly percentage of the plaudits are for Jellison. Being a good "straight-man" is a skillful achievement that only an experienced comedian can master, and Bob Jellison has been delivering laughs to entertainment-seekers ever since he was a youngster of twelve.

Bob Jellison's father is a vocal coach; his mother was a pianist. Bob, born in Des Moines, Iowa, began entertaining the public early when his parents took him with them on concert tours. He sang and danced, soon became a member of the "Kiddie Revues" that toured the country.

Then, he and vaudevillian Charlie Green formed a comedy act and played throughout the middle west in small clubs and theaters, purloining good gags from the top comics of the day whose shows they faithfully attended.

After that, in chronological order, Jellison joined the Bainbridge Players in Minneapolis, playing "young brothers and the like"; took a year's dramatic course at the University of Iowa, but spent most of his time playing the drums and doing comedy with dance bands and painting scenery at the local theater; then returned to Minneapolis where his father was directing a musical comedy series on Station WCCO.

Became Soundman

Bob recognized radio as the coming thing, forsook stock companies to become one of the country's first radio sound-men. "Sound technicians, we called ourselves," he winked. "I was good at it because I'd been a drummer."

Jellison remained on the station staff (doing a little bit of everything) until 1934 when he went to Chicago to work for CBS and NBC.

The following summer, he played stock in Glencoe, Illinois. The play was "Noah," and in the middle of its run, someone absconded with the show's receipts! The actors solved the problem by passing the hat at the close of their next performance and dividing up the collection according to the distance each player had to travel to get back home. Bob, who had come from Chicago, received exactly forty-five cents.

Stranded in Glencoe, he met the girl Fate had singled out to become the one he now calls "my beautiful wife." They were married in the fall of 1936, when Bob had become an NBC contract player, doing almost exclusively comedy roles on "First Nighter," "Betty and Bob," "Grand Hotel," "Chicago Theater of the Air," and other well-known Windy City airshows. Among other characterizations, Jellison was the original "Oswald Ching" of "The Story of Mary Marlin."

Nothing But Comedy

By the time he left Chicago, Bob was doing nothing but comedy. When he came to California, a little over a year ago, however, "I did nothing but dying soldiers for two months."

"Glamor Manor" afforded him his first comedy role in West Coast radio, and his present-day spots with CBS' top funsters followed.

He would like to see some dramatic work, because he believes the "sincerity" it gives a performer is important. "A comedian has to have sincerity, too," he explained. Comedy is his prime ambition; he hopes some day to do it on the screen as well as on the air.

Bob and his wife, Eleanor, live in North Hollywood, where their city-bred, Scottie, "Topper," is finding it hard to accustom himself to country life. "Back in Chicago," his master explained, "he used to sit all day long and watch the stream of cars go by. Now he sits out in the yard waiting and waiting for the one or two cars that come down our out-of-the-way road. He looks so lost and forlorn."

The Jellisons enjoy a good game of golf, and recently, Bob has taken up oil painting. "I'm surprising myself," he beamed.

He has a tremendous liking for two things. One is comedy, of course. ("I'm a good stooge, because I'm a

Wen Misses

For several weeks Radio Row has been keeping its fingers crossed for Wendell Niles, the "travelingest" man of the kilocycles. Each Wednesday, as listeners know, Wendell co-stars on his own air show with Don Prindle over the Blue at 7 p.m. Each Tuesday, if the Bob Hope show is airing west of Chicago, Announcer Niles flies east to do the Pepsodent commercials on the program. During the past four months since the Niles-Prindle show debuted, Wendell has had good luck. We'd heard him somewhere from the east on Tuesday night and marveled at the modern miracle of aeroplanes that would make it possible for him to be back and broadcasting from Hollywood the following night.

Then, last week, it happened. Wendell went east to announce the last Hope show of the season. En route home, his plane was grounded at Kansas City and Wendell could do nothing but chew his nails and thank heaven that he had a brother to step in and read his lines for him. It was still the Niles-Prindle show, but Ken co-starred with Don, instead of Wendell. And the final payoff was, this was the last Wednesday night Niles-Prindle was scheduled to broadcast. Their show moves to Sunday on June 17!

Gold Star

NBC Hollywood put up its first gold star on the company service flag last week as word was received of the death in action of Lt. (j.g.) John Frazer, former staff announcer, in Pacific naval action on May 11.

Lt. Frazer was a combat intelligence officer with a Navy fighting squadron, and had seen much action in the Pacific. His wife, Blanche, and a daughter born the day after Pearl Harbor, have left their home in North Hollywood and are now residing in New York where Mrs. Frazer is awaiting the birth of another child.

Lt. Frazer was the first NBC Hollywood employe known to have been lost in action. Ben Byers, USAAF flight officer and former member of the network press department, has been missing in action over Germany since 1943.

Week's Treat

We played hookey from our typewriter last Monday long enough to get a glimpse of CBS's "Lux Radio Theater" rehearsal with Ingrid Bergman and Joseph Cotten at the microphone doing "Intermezzo."

The ever-beautiful Miss Bergman looked charming in a simple yellow print dress and low-heeled linen sandals with saucy little bows on the toes.

Oscar-possessor, she fluffed frequently during the dress rehearsal, frowned at her mistakes and came off-stage working her mouth silently in a fast yah-tah-tah motion to straighten out her twisted tongue.

At the mike, Mr. Cotten seemed to be emulating his friend and fellow "Mercury Theater" graduate, Orson Welles. Mr. C. donned big black-rimmed spectacles, gesticulated dramatically with his hands and scowled at whispering onlookers.

Still At Mike

Even though former NBC actor-announcer, Ben Alexander, is now a U.S. Navy lieutenant in the South Pacific, he is doing more broadcasts than when he was facing the mikes at Sunset and Vine in Hollywood.

In a letter to his mother, the radio man explained that he is doing a newscast and writing and narrating a daily serial for the men aboard his ship.

Our Inheritance

CBS commentator, Harry W. Flannery, recently received a poignant letter from a mother whose son, pilot of a P-38, has been missing in action in the European area since July, 1944. The mother wrote that, in going through her son's belongings recently, she found the following message written in his notebook.

The boy was a pre-med student, just nineteen years old. He wrote:

"Though all our hearts may break, our spirits never shall. Though some must die, our ideals will live forever. Though many will be trampled under foot, never the things for which we have fought.

"These words of hope, of light, and courage, I send to you in these days that see you grieving so much more than I shall ever grieve again.

"As I write, today, not really believing what I write will be read by anyone, yet not quite ignoring the possibility that it might be, I am forced to stop and wonder about the world that will follow this period of adjustment, the world for which I was ready to die, the world that I may never see. Make it good—it is your task—it is my prayer.

"There is now no time for remorse. We were caught in a great tide of misunderstanding. We were the victims of that tide. I went forth, bravely, I believe, to hold off that tide; beat it back, make sure that men would never again fall victim to international hate. If I have died as bravely as I went forth to die, and in so doing accomplished to a greater or less extent the task that motivated me, then I have died happily, knowing that I have fulfilled my destiny.

"As we look about us and note the sudden and tremendous turmoil that has visited all mankind, we cannot but realize that this is a part of a great and universal plan from which must come great and universal good. It has been my privilege to be the servant of this readjustment.

"My words of parting this time must be as inadequate as they were the first time I left my home and loved ones for a new and great adventure. In times like that, we say the conventional things. We are not equal to saying what is in our hearts. We cannot express the love we have, our gratefulness for all that was made available to me, my joy in living, for the happiness that was mine.

"Let the words of my lips
 And the meditations of my heart
 Be acceptable in Thy sight, O Lord
 Who are my Rock and my Redeemer."

"The world that I shall never see, for which I was ready to die. Make it good—that is your task—that is my prayer."

What's Going On?

Such an occurrence in radio is phenomenal but it happened—making KHJ announcer Bruce Buell a bit uncomfortable, until he realized a gag was being pulled on him.

Buell announced the local "Tune Time" recording show at the same time that the rest of the Mutual-Don Lee network was carrying "Your Army Service Forces." He had just made a colorful introduction for a Morton Gould tune as an instrumental presentation, when suddenly a soprano vocalist broke into the number, and there was the unmistakable presence of a second orchestra playing the same selection.

Fact of the matter was that "Master Control" had tipped off sound engineer Von Urbanski to the coincidence of the identical tune being carried simultaneously locally and nationally, and Urbanski couldn't forego the pleasure of passing on the laugh incident to Buell, superimposing the national show on the local, to perplex his one-man audience.

Two Thrills

Tiny Connie Haines is doubly thrilled over her approaching ten-week tour with Abbott and Costello and her new "beau."

"We're going to New York, Baltimore, Pittsburgh and all over," she happily told us. "It will be a wonderful trip, but—" she discontinued, her small face clouding up.

"What's the matter?" we asked.

"Oh, darn it all," she drawled, "everytime I meet an interesting new man. I have to go away. He's just darling."

"Who's darling?"

"Bob Scott. He's under contract to Columbia pictures, is 6'2" and is immense," she giggled, "we went dancing at the Grove last week and my poor 'll ole neck feels like it's broken. I still have a crick in it—but it's worth it."

Excited? . . . Who's Excited?

Arnold Stang, character actor who's just been signed to appear regularly with Kay Kyser's "College of Musical Knowledge" air show, tells of a time when through a case of mistaken identity he was signed for a stage part at several times his usual salary. His agent had arranged the deal and after the contract had been signed the producer glanced at Arnold's signature and roared; "I thought I was getting Hubert Spang, the English music hall comedian. Who're you?"

"I'm Stang," replied Arnold.

"You're Stang!" shouted the theater man. "I'm stung!"

Dog-Gone

Florence Lake tells how she averted a near tragedy in the Lake menage.

NEXT WEEK

A swell new radio show and a quartet of sterling air personalities are headlined in your forthcoming issue of Radio Life. "Queen for a Day," a program that spreads a royal magic carpet for a Miss or Mrs. America, is spotlighted in two pages of wonderful pictures. Lionel Barrymore, that beloved "grand old man" is on our cover, and profiled in an intimate story inside. Ginny Simms will seem as familiar to you as your next-door neighbor after you've read our revealing article called "If You Knew Ginny." Jay Stewart, one of the busiest mikemen along Hollywood's radio row, is the subject of another interesting interview, as is Alice Frost, better known to radio-dialers as the pert feminine member of etherdom's popular sleuthing duo, "Mr. and Mrs. North."

The actress' little daughter, Joyce, had a dog which she loved dearly. It had been a gift from uncle Arthur Lake and was an offspring of the "Bumsteads'" famous "Daisy." In honor of Uncle "Dagwood," the child had named her pet, "Bummer." They were inseparable. They ate together, played together and every night he slept at the foot of her bed.

One day he disappeared. The household was frantic. They looked everywhere for him but he was nowhere to be found. When Florence learned that "Bummer" had been killed she was distraught because she didn't know how to break the news to her daughter. One afternoon at a rehearsal of the NBC Billie Burke show, a cast member came in with a worried look on his face.

"What's the matter?" asked Florence.

"Well," he explained, "my wife and I have been housing a cute pup we found. But we can't keep him in our apartment. Don't know what to do with him."

"Give him to me, he's just what I need," exclaimed Florence.

So there now resides a new canine member in the Lake home. One who is rapidly filling the spot vacated by "Bummer" and who answers to the name of "Buttons."

"Whew," remarked Florence, "from 'Bummer' to 'Buttons' in ten long days has worn me out."

KGFJ BOND SHOW

Smoothy of the airlines FRED WARING is going great guns on his morning strip over KFI at 8:00 just as everyone expected. After all, Fred is one of the best showmen in the country, with just the kind of 'know-how' to keep a daily variety show at a high entertainment level. His story, however, is typical of the little band grown big and the now world famous organization known as the Pennsylvanians started in the parlor of Fred's home as a group of four teenage boys with a novelty orchestra. When Waring and his pals moved on to Penn State they kept the little band intact and made additions as they could to fill weekend fraternity dates. The Pennsylvanians grew to include 69 performers with a behind-the-scenes organization of many more. Today the Waring offices occupy two full floors on Broadway with several different size rehearsal halls, offices, recreation room and even a kitchen for those too busy to go out for lunch. Fred was and will always be the boss at rehearsals and there isn't a member of his organization that doesn't have the highest regard for his artistry.

Fred Waring

Dinah Shore is now on a two months tour of G.I. hospitals and in addition will fulfill a series of concert dates in Chicago, Detroit, Philadelphia and Milwaukee. This Wednesday she's scheduled to appear as soloist with the Detroit Symphony Orchestra.

If you missed the first broadcast of comedian Jay Flippen's new show "Correction Please" last Friday over KFI at 8:30 be sure to catch this week's edition. Flippen's formula for fun involves five members of his studio audience, four of whom are service men and women, vying for cash prizes at the drop of a question from Flip. There's plenty of tomfoolery on this show to keep you interested so all in all it's worth your while. The program is, of course, the summer replacement for "Duffy's Tavern" which returns to the air on October 5.

Maybe you didn't know that Master Mentalist, JOSEPH DUNNINGER, who fills the 7:00 o'clock spot Friday evenings over KFI has been a professional magician for the past twenty-five years. He has toured the world reading the thoughts of such famed personages as Pope Pius XIII, the Duke of Windsor, the late Thomas Edison, Governor Tom Dewey of New York, Henry J. Kaiser, and six Presidents of the United States. —Advertisement.

Shippey & Family

hoping to get a letter telling him he was in the Star staff.

Then came THE morning, but Lee wasn't meeting the postman. He was hearing his mother telling him to get up.

"But why should I get up in the middle of the night?" he asked her.

"It isn't night, it's the middle of the morning," she explained.

"But everything is dark to me," Lee said.

They summoned five eye specialists to look at the blind boy. One of them had a clue. "Have you been using wood alcohol in any way?" he asked young Shippey.

Lee remembered he'd been cleaning his new pipe with it every morning. They examined the pipe — a claw-type—and found that fully a teaspoonful of wood alcohol had settled every morning in the claw. Lee had been smoking it for more than six weeks!

"My boy," said one of the specialists with frankness, "there's only a remote possibility you'll ever see again!"

With affected buoyancy, Lee's sister came into his room with the Star. "Would you like to have me read you the humor column?" she asked.

What she read was the material that Lee Shippey had left on Alexander Butts' desk three weeks before!

"Telephone Mr. Butts," said the exuberant Lee, "and tell him I can fill that column for several days while his regular man is sick."

"Why doesn't the young man call for himself?" asked Mr. Butts. And then Lee's sister explained about the blindness. "Tell him to keep on writing the column," said the newspaperman. "It'll keep his mind off his troubles."

"For four months," recalls Shippey, "I lay on that bed and was the happiest boy in Kansas City. I didn't worry about the eyes. I worried about the column!"

One morning, light again penetrated the boy's vision, and a few days later, they took Lee down to see Alexander Butts. It was then he learned that the regular columnist had been sick only one day and that Butts had been paying him out of his own pocket for weeks.

Lee remained as a columnist with the Star, however, until he bought a country paper in Higginsville, Missouri. "The Journal," reminisces Shippey, "with a circulation of 1200, of whom 300 paid."

In 1918 he went to France as correspondent for the Star, there he met and married Madeline Babin, a vivacious French girl. They ran the Tampico Press in Mexico for three years before Lee wrote his mother and said: "We've saved

Move to Del Mar

For Lee and his wife, the elder Mrs. Shippey purchased a $1400 beach cottage at Del Mar. "It was a comfortable camp," Shippey remarks. "There was no roof on the house. You could have dropped an elephant through it. I tried to put on a roof, but before I did, I took out insurance, so in case I fell off, I'd be worth $5,000!"

Shippey settled down and tried free lance writing for Colliers, American, Post, and Mercury. For six months he didn't make a nickel. For the next five years, in fact, the nickels were few. Lee borrowed $75 from Walt Mason to pay the hospital bills when Sylvia was born.

About that time Shippey recollected something Norman Chandler of the Times had said ten years before: "That young man (Shippey)

All the World Loves a Bandleader

By Betty Mills

Phil Harris, Still Portraying That Brash Guy With the Baton, Isn't Really Brash at All, But Is a Happy Husband and Doting Dad

Wednesday, 7 p.m.
NBC-KFI

LOOKING for Phil Harris on a Columbia Picture set last week was like looking for a steak in the butcher shop. Grips, technicians, and the director were quite prominently on display, but no Phil. At last he strolled into view, garbed in a well-cut tuxedo, reading a newspaper—with a blindfold on his eyes. It was a very strange sight, indeed.

"It's a nice trick if you can do it," Phil confided. The bandleader, who substitutes for Kay Kyser this summer, flashed his famous Harris smile. "But I was really peeking. See, like this," said he, popping the blindfold back on his eyes. "I look like I'm all decked out to play blind-man's bluff with my kids."

Phil was in the midst of shooting a scene for his latest picture, "I Love A Bandleader" — "That's me," laughed Harris referring to the title. "All the world loves a bandleader—I hope!"

Starts Tenth Year

For the past fifteen years it has looked as if all the world loves a bandleader. At least Phil Harris has gratefully found it so. Starting his tenth season next fall with Jack Benny, he seems well on his way to another fifteen years (or as many as he desires) as the brash, brazen—but oh, so likeable—guy with the baton.

When Radio Life called upon Phil we weren't at all surprised to find a soft-spoken, well-mannered, almost shy man in place of the wise-acre with whom we like to laugh on radio. By his associates, we had been told countless stories of Harris' kindness, easy-going temperament, and unflinching sense of humor.

"He's a great guy," Phil's business manager related to us. "Everybody likes him. The grips on the set, even the kid who sweeps the floor thinks he's a king. I've been with him for twenty years and I've never seen Phil be unreasonable or refuse to listen to both sides of a question."

As we watched Phil, we noticed he seemed to radiate happiness. He laughed and joked with everyone. Later joining us on the sidelines of the set, he sat down and wiped his brow. "Wish I could take a quick dip in my pool. But who doesn't?"

Usually sporting a deep tan, Phil is at present only a light brown because his picture commitments have kept him indoors. "Ah, but next month," he grinned, "Alice, the kids and I are going to take our first vacation in years."

Upon mentioning his wife, Alice Faye, and the "kids," Phil smiled lovingly and looked very much the devoted husband and doting father.

THIS IS PAPA HARRIS, lately Prof. Harris of the "College of Musical Knowledge," who isn't as well-known in the role of a doting father.

Having temporarily retired from the screen, Alice has just finished starring in her first picture since the birth of little one-year-old Phyllis. Alice Jr., is three.

Baby's Birthday

"It's little Alice's third birthday tomorrow. But I won't be there for the party. I'm flying to San Fran-

THIS IS MAMA HARRIS, lovely Alice Faye, with the two little Misses Harris. Alice, Jr., aged three, clutching a rag doll named "Phil," is a "ham" and loves to have her picture taken. Phyllis, now one-year-old, "is a happy baby who likes to talk," according to Papa.

THE FIRST thing one notices when meeting Columnist Lee Shippey is not the kind, dimly-blue eyes nor the slightly stooped shoulders; nor the shy smile nor the shortly-ruffled grayish hair.

One notices a service pin on his right lapel—a pin with four tiny blue stars for four husky sons in service—and to us, that pin epitomizes Lee Shippey. He's a family man in every sense of the word.

Ask him when it was he and Mrs. Shippey decided to quit newspapering in Tampico, Mexico, and Lee answers: "Our oldest son, Hank, was already here and Chuck was en route, so it must have been in 1922." Ask him when he conceived the idea for his book, "Where Nothing Ever Happens," and he replies: "We were living in Del Mar. John was toddling around and Frank was just a baby—must have been around 1925." Ask him when he joined the Los Angeles Times staff as columnist and he answers: "In 1927, when our fifth baby was on the way and the idea of free-lancing for 'an army' got me down. I needed a regular pay check."

Great Day Coming

As we write, the Shippey family—

Since the War, Lee Calls His Clan "Shippeys That Pass," But A Great Reunion Day Is Coming!

Mr. and Mrs., the four sons, and Sylvia, is expecting its greatest day—reunion after three scattered war years. Twenty-five-year-old Hank, a corporal in the Rangers, is on his way home after sixteen months in German prison camp Stalag 2-B. Chuck, twenty-two, who was one of three signalmen aiding MacArthur's landing on Leyte, has been transferred here as an aviation machinist's mate. John, twenty-one and a flight officer, has just finished B-29 school; and PFC Frank, nineteen, who has been manning a Browning automatic rifle in Patton's army, is also expected.

The four Shippey sons, whose lives have been "hypoed" by the excitement of war, will have many an exciting story to tell. But for bed-rock drama, they'll have to talk fast to eclipse the tensely simple story of their father.

Left fatherless when a child, Lee Shippey went to work at an early age and managed to complete high school courses by returning to school during his lunch hour. When only fifteen, he started sending manuscripts to editors—poems, anecdotes, philosophical observations characteristic of newspaper columns. When he turned twenty, he scooped up the best of what he'd done and headed for his home-town newspaper, the Kansas City Star. After walking around the block six times, he summoned enough courage to present his material at the desk. "Can you use any of this?" young Lee queried. "Yes, we can, for fifty cents a line!" replied the want ad taker.

Meets Mr. Butts

Following directions, Lee trudged upstairs to the office of Alexander Butts, and finding no one there, left his material with a brief, pencil-scrawled note telling Mr. Butts he'd be glad to fill in any day the regular columnist got sick.

For three weeks afterward, Lee met the postman every morning

Who Wants to be Cute?

By Shirley Gordon

Florence Lake Calls Herself Radio's First Dumb Dame; Laments Her Petite Figure, Won't Wear Hats Because She Says She Looks Like a Comic in Them

Wednesday, 8:30 p.m.
NBC-KFI

FLORENCE LAKE is 106 pounds, and five feet, one inch of Scotch-Irish temperament topped by a twinkling pair of gray-green eyes and short bobbed natural blonde hair. She is pert and petite, and wishes she were tall and stately.

"'Cute', they call me,' she lamented. "Who wants to be cute! After all, there comes a time when we all want to grow up."

Miss Lake's piquant features joined in a wreath of infectious good humor. The comedienne, heard weekly on Billie Burke's NBC air series, calls herself "radio's first dumb dame." That dates back to her early work on the ether lanes when she played a character named "Elsie" on a show emanating from Chicago.

Sister of Arthur

She and her brother, Arthur (now well-known as "Dagwood") began their radio careers together in the Windy City, writing as well as acting in a daily series.

Before that, the brother and sister, born and raised in show business, had debuted on the screen in the early children's pictures and played in stock throughout the country. "Our name then was Silverlake," explained Florence, "but Hollywood chopped it in two to fit the mar-quees."

The actress' recent films include more of the popular Edgar Kennedy comedies (she makes six of these annually), "San Diego, I Love You," "Hi, Beautiful" and "Goin' to Town," the latter with Lumi 'n' Abner.

Radio, however, she calls her "pet," and she has been especially busy at the microphone these past few years—replacing Arlene Francis on "What's My Name," co-starring with Donald Cook in "Charlie and Jessie," substituting for Penny Singleton in "Blondie," and appearing on other airshows such as "Inner Sanctum," "David Harum" and Bergen-McCarthy. She names Charlie McCarthy as her "favorite radio leading man."

Besides her radio and screen activities, Florence Lake appears weekly at the Hollywood Canteen, works with the VACS, does bond shows and personal appearance tours, but her chief occupation is housekeeping and the care of her

Asked to describe young Joyce, Florence answered, "Katherine Hepburn. Spittin' image."

BLACK-EYED, black-haired (and very handsome, too) announcer Tommy Dixon admits that he's a little worried about what some people might think of him. "My friends," he explained, "know me and just say 'Oh, well, there goes Dixon again.' But acquaintances must think I'm nuts."

The reason, it seems, for Mr. Dixon's fear of social ostracism is his forgetfulness. "I never forget a business appointment," he hastened to point out, "but"—with a sheepish grin—"I wish I could say the same about my private life."

The last straw—or the "mistake" that made Tommy decide he'd better

Handsome Tommy Dixon Is Always Late Socially—But Never Professionally—; Forgot to Appear as Best Man at Best Friend's Wedding; Hasn't Missed Air Show

change his way of livin'—came not too long ago. "I was to be best man at my best friend's wedding, and simply forgot to show up," he confessed. "It still haunts me and many are the nights I wake up in a cold sweat."

Couldn't Be Lazy!

In spite of the fact that he describes himself as forgetful, leaning toward procrastination and downright laziness, and a "butterball," Radio Life found Tommy to be likable, quite a humorist, and a marvelous prospect for the silver screen.

For a man, we decided, who announces the CBS 8:30 a.m. "Billie Burke Show," and the KHJ "Quiz of Two Cities," who emcees the KMPC "Homemakers," and who assists Bob Nye on several other programs, he couldn't have enough leisure time to be dubbed "lazy" by anyone.

In 1922, seven-year-old Tommy Dixon, his mother, father, sister, and brother moved to California from Edmonton, Canada. Tommy discarded his Canadian schoolboy smock and began to acquire an American way of living after his first fight, his first day at school. The Dixons, Tommy recalled, lived in the same house for twenty-four years.

In 1941, he went to work for KHJ and eventually was sent to the Coconut Grove to announce Freddy Martin's band numbers. In a borrowed tux (a size too large) and with a bravery he didn't feel, he made his debut "squeaking" to a coast-to-coast audience. "Afterward," Tommy recalls, "I was so terrified that all I could do was stand and let my knees calm down. Someone mistook me for a waiter and gave me a complete dinner order before I could find my voice to protest."

While appearing with a little theater group, he met his future wife, Georgia. They were, incidentally cast as man and wife. "It wasn't love at first sight. Sort of sneaked up on us." They were married early in the month of February, 1945.

Is Home Body

Tommy describes Georgia as being everything he isn't. She's very small, blonde, possesses an abundance of energy, is neat, can cook, sew and keep house. "She gave up any thoughts of pursuing a career and devotes her time to helping me," Tommy announced proudly.

As for his career, the announcer intends to seek the footlights again some day. He laughs about his rather harrowing experience with motion picture producers. One of them thought they had in Tommy a combination of Clark Gable, Tyrone Power, Caesar Romero and other screen idols.

Upon arriving at the studio, Tommy was led from one producer's office to another with the sounds of "Swell, great! But don't you think he's a little short?" ringing in his ears. "After seeing five of those guys," Tommy grinned, "I felt so small I had trouble reaching the doorknob." In person, the announcer measures a little under five-foot eight and tips the scales at 160 lbs.

Dixon collects records, enjoys swimming, wants four children, likes clothes (especially plaid suits), wants to build his own house out of hand-made adobe bricks (he'll make them), yearns for a boat, hates arguments and is subject to blue funks.

As for his best virtue, he regards his record of never having been late for a rehearsal or an airing. "Since living through my own wedding experience without getting a demerit from my radio bosses, I've received enough inspiration to keep me from ever being late," laughed Dixon. "professionally, that is," he hastened to add.

The Dixon wedding is still a laughable topic to his radio pals. When Tommy had been with the Billie Burke show (his first big trans-continental job) for only three weeks, he and Georgia decided to get married on a Friday night. Being a new cast recruit, Tom was afraid to ask for a Saturday morning replacement. The whole cast knew of his uncomfortable position and offered no solution, waiting for him to broach the subject. He never got the nerve.

Came Friday night and they were married. Still afraid to ask for a substitute announcer, Tommy and his bride bid the wedding party (including the cast members) good night and went to the Beverly Hills Hotel. Upon arriving the first thing Tom did was to make sure that the rather surprised telephone operators understood they were to call him at 5:30 a.m.

Arriving at CBS at the crack of dawn, he was greeted by howls from his chums. "Well," explained Tommy defiantly, "I said I'd be here on time and I am . . . you dogs!"

so when queried about her hobbies, she grinned, "Making beds, sweeping floors, doing dishes." She also does a lot of canning.

She swims all year 'round, plays bridge a great deal, used to play golf when she had more time. She takes a keen interest in photography, calls herself "a candid camera fiend."

Her childhood ambition was to be a bareback rider, and she still has a yen to troupe with a circus.

As for any special likes, Florence names "people" and "food." "I'm not a good cook," she adds in hasty honesty. "I make salads and spaghetti best."

She hates to shop, wears her favorite clothes until they are worn threadbare. She loves jewelry, especially her crowded gold charm bracelet. Usually, when she leaves the house, she is bedecked with so many jeweled adornments, her mother comments with sarcastic humor, "Haven't you forgotten something?"

Florence doesn't like to wear hats, insisting, "I always look like a comic in them." She likes suits—and evening dresses because they lengthen her figure.

In short, she likes any kind of clothes that make her look tall!

cisco tonight for the Benny show. Gosh, I wish I could be with her," said Papa Harris looking very crestfallen.

At home in Encino, Phil and Alice live a very quiet life. Things have changed since the days when they were both so active as night club entertainers. Now it is the two little girls who run the Harris way of living. After Phil's brief vacation with his family, he returns to the airlines to fill Kay Kyser's vacated spot as head of the "College of Musical Knowledge."

Particularly anxious for this day's shooting to be finished, Phil wanted to rush home to his daughter. "The little one"—(one-year-old Phyllis)—"might still be up. And I want to wish Alice, Jr. a very happy birthday. We usually spend an hour together at night before she goes to sleep.

"Baby's a Ham!"

"I wish you could see that kid. She's a little blonde-haired, blue-eyed doll. And what a ham! We think she shows talent—and no crack about her parents either—but it may be too early to tell. She loves to carry on telephone conversations and if we don't watch her she's always in big Alice's perfume."

Friends say the two little Misses Harris are perfect ladies. Maybe papa is inclined to spoil them a little but mama, who is a bit more practical, is always on hand to see that they maintain their equilibrium.

As for future plans for the two youngsters, Phil admitted he and Alice had none yet. "Of course, they'll go to school but their careers are their own."

As for his own plans, Phil intends to keep on wielding his baton on the summer Kyser show and in the fall, again with Benny. Apparently wife, Alice, will return to the role of being a happy housewife and mother.

Breaking for lunch, Phil graciously invited us to share the hamper basket he had with him. "Much simpler this way. And so much better," he explained bringing into view a luscious chicken sandwich. "You see, Alice made it. She packs my lunch every day."

can join the Times family any time he wants to." A little vaguely remembered after the lapse of a decade, Shippey hit Norman Chandler for a job and was hired. He started writing a daily column for the Times.

One noon at the select Authors' Club, Lee was asked: "What else do you write besides your column?" That made a book a "command performance" with Shippey, who conscientiously started out to write every Tuesday and Friday night. "But people we hadn't seen for twenty years would stop in," he bewails, so he shifted, instead, to a regimen of early morning writing—an hour each day between seven and eight, and in a year's time, he had completed "Where Nothing Ever Happens."

Because Chuck had asthma, the Shippeys shifted from the Del Mar coast to a mesa, two miles inland, later moved to Hollywood, but stayed only two months. In Sierra Madre they bought an old-fashioned ten-room house that's home to the "Shippeys that pass in the night."

Lee has written another book, "The Great American Family," and has become increasingly popular as a speaker. He made the address when son John recently completed his flying instruction. Because Shippey has never had strong eyesight his scripts are typed in jumbo letters and a secretary does all close work for him. Mrs. Shippey devotes hours reading to her husband. He can't see well enough to drive a car, so he commutes between Sierra Madre and Los Angeles on the Pacific Electric, does his semi-weekly broadcast from his desk at the Times.

There's a mellowness, a philosophical whimsy about Lee Shippey that leaves an interviewer thoughtful. This same quality permeates his written column and his air column. "We've always had enough money to keep going," he says modestly, "but not enough to spoil the kids. They're pretty good kids. You know, we'd always gotten along with some Sears-Roebuck silver, but last year, when we celebrated our 25th wedding anniversary, Sylvia got the notion we should have something better. She wrote to Hank in Italy and to Chuck in Tarawa, and to John and Frank, and when the old anniversary rolled around, there they had us a bunch of sterling!

"Yes," said Shippey with a stifled chuckle, "they're not bad kids!"
