Miss Marion Kersting, 260 Kingsley Drive, Los Angeles 4, Calif.

Sirs: In the past few weeks, radio listeners have been hearing quite a bit from the Mitchell Boychoir. I voice the enjoyment of many, including my family and me. We hope to hear a great deal more of them. They do a fine weekly job on the Boy Scout Show. Since Bob Mitchell is back with them, they are really going places. But to get to the point, how about a story about the choir. They were included in a story about Dave Street last year, but I think since radio listeners are hearing more from them now, we are due for a new spread on Bob Mitchell and the boys. What do your other readers think?

Request noted. What DO our other readers think?

Jack Sonnenshine, 1210 North Gordon St., Hollywood, Calif.

Sirs: How come you haven't said anything about little Marlene Aames whom I saw in four shows last week at CBS? I have been a regular subscriber to your magazine for two years, and have seen youngsters galore, but this Aames kid is the original mighty mite of the mike. I'd like to see her picture, too.

You'll see a picture of little seven-year-old Marlene Aames in Radio Life soon. She came from New York, has appeared in a number of movies ("Lost Weekend," "Mr. Skeffington," supplied the voice singing the Welsh song in "The Corn Is Green"), attracted the attention of CBS' Bill Sloan and Neil Reagan and has been busy on the airlines ever since. During one week alone, she appeared on five shows—"Maisie," Nelson Eddy, "This Is My Best," Al Pearcee and "Romance of the Ranchos." Besides acting and singing, she plays violin and piano. Her mother is always being asked if Marlene isn't really a midget.

Miss Mary Working, Gardena, California

Sirs: I have read your magazine for a long time and think it is getting better all the time. There is one thing I would like to ask of you. Would you please put in an article and pictures of Mauri Cliffer? He's on "Teen and Twenty Time" and a swell guy. I'm sure all the 'teen-agers would appreciate it a lot.

Another vote for Cliffer!

Julie Allan, Locksley Place, Los Angeles, Calif.

Sirs: The "Thin Man" series is always amateurish and silly as far as the script is concerned—and if, as you say, Mr. Morgan and others of the family are listening to Claudia on that particular program, their ears must be annoyed and even embarrassed. Her insinuating and peculiarly personal way of speaking at times could cause one to reach for a glass of clear cold water.

"Mr. and Mrs. North" is so very much better, and if (quote E. Bigsby) "Mystery Time" is to leave the air for some reason, may I say that it certainly is better than "Thin Man," no matter which team presents it.

Pleasant to have had "Hercule Poirot" with us; he has personal charm which even a poor script could not dim, though I hasten to say that I think his scripts are generally good. There are so many good programs on the air of the quiz order that one does not have to listen to the many gruesome and hideous ideas which seem to slip with effortless regularity from the pens of radio writers, thus embroidering the airwaves with offensive and ugly conceptions. One is puzzled by these conditions; they do not seem normal. Against these eruptions of lowered and lowering thought the homely humor of "Vic and Sade" would be a welcome relief. The sponsors have a very poor opinion of the general public's listening ear.

Also, the charm of "Those We Love" would help to efface from one's mind the many ugly pictures which are bound to parade through it in spite of the fact that one has the privilege of turning one's dial when things become too difficult—as in the case of Ronald Colman's appearance on "Suspense" recently in a very ghastly thing which I left in a few minutes meanwhile regretting that Mr. Colman cared to lend his talents to anything of that nature. One thinks much of him but certainly would think less if that continued.

ON OUR COVER

Radio Life's Valentine girl is thirteen-year-old Gloria McMillan, who has been a radio actress since she was four and who has appeared with nearly every major radio star. You hear her Saturday nights on the Lionel Barrymore show on CBS, on which she is Charlee, also on NBC's "Date with Judy" (Eloise). With her sweet smile and blonde curls she's a sweetheart!

"Theater Guild's" recent offering of "Pride and Prejudice" was much appreciated.

I long to hear one of the "teamed" detective scripts refrain from the hackneyed line "he's gotta gun." Ma fo! They all say it—over and over, ad infinitum. Something else I do not understand is the loud "whacking" of the telephone-receiver holder when a conversation has abruptly ended in a scream and perhaps a "bah-dee" falling on the floor with a thud on the end of the line. Instead of rushing out to do something, they all stand and shout "Hello, hello, hello"—and whack, whack goes the little hootnanny on the telephone! This is the procedure even if they have heard a pistol shot and know as well as we do that the party on the other end of the line has met with foul treatment.

Lucy C. Stone, Alhambra, California

Sirs: I have this suggestion to make: that you publish a list of the principal radio stations with their mailing addresses.

Frequently we want to write to some company or individual heard on the air, and we (or I) do not know whether the communication should be addressed to Hollywood or Los Angeles, much less the zone number. This, I am sure, would be much appreciated and should appear frequently, if not regularly.

Addresses of all networks and stations are to be found in the classified telephone book under the heading RADIO BROADCASTING COMPANIES. Letters addressed to a station (as KPWB, Hollywood, California) are certain to reach their destination.

Mr. Toth, 324 Eighth Street, San Bernardino, Calif.

Sirs: What ever happened to Beryl Wallace, emcee on Gilmore's program?

Beryl Wallace is still appearing in the Earl Carroll show, but is no longer on the air.

Mrs. H. C., Hawthorne, California.

Sirs: What has happened to our holiday programs? New Year's Eve had the worst programs in history. We used to hear good orchestras and New Year's Eve in each large city. This year we heard the same programs we hear every Monday night—the same old singing commercials that drive us to the radio dial to change to another station only to hear more advertising. I'm not alone in this, either. Everyone I've talked to about it has said they've never heard such terrible programs as we heard this New Year's.

Also, why does Elsa Maxwell's "Party Line" announcer say the same thing every night in introducing the program? Just listen and you'll agree it's disgusting, I'm sure.

Lilian E. Gray, 129 East Morningside Street, Long Beach 5, Calif.

Sirs: I have just noticed in "Time Changes" that "Bride and Groom" is to be moved to eleven thirty a. m. Monday through Friday.

I'll bet a lot of listeners will join me in one big wail. Because I listen to "Queen for a Day" at that time each day, and I'll bet I'm not the only one!

No doubt there is a good reason for this change, but it does seem a shame to have two good programs on at the same time when there is so much time in which there are no special programs. I think it's a bad break for an up-and-coming program like "Bride and Groom" to have to compete with the immensely popular "Queen for a Day".

Be consoled. "Bride and Groom" has been moved again, to 3 p.m., on KECA.

Vivien Bean Griffith, 1511 Corona Drive, Glendale 5, Calif.

Sirs: I fully agree with the criticisms of the soap operas. There is so much grief in the world today that I haven't the courage to suffer daily with serials whose characters are forever in the midst of disaster.

But "nothing educational"! Oh now look—In music we have opera, concerts, symphonies, recitals—educational? Absolutely!

By the way, please have an early write-up and pictorial on the songstress whose informal handling of her program after midnight on KFI is such a joy to hear. Not only has she a wonderful voice but a personality to match. My husband and I enjoy her immensely but I can't remember her name.

Her name is Betty Russell and she's the spark of KFI's "Curfew Club". Radio Life had a story and picture of Betty in its October 21, 1945 issue.

Elinor Goodman, 825 East San Jose, Burbank, Calif.

Sirs: Referring to a recent criticism, I do not think Father Foster on a "Date With Judy" is too loud or does he over-act. I think he is very funny and he never fails to brighten up the show for me when it lags.

I saw an article in your magazine that said girls were swooning over Scott Elliott of "Judy" and would be barred from the studio if it went on. Please, please don't do it girls. We have a fan club for Louise Erickson and Dix Davis and it would be disastrous if we couldn't get in. Besides, I think Dix Davis is cutest, anyway.

Mrs. D. F. Nigh, Whittier, Calif.

Sirs: On page 30 of December 9 Radio Life, I notice a picture of Andy Devine and Chet Lauck. I may be mistaken, but I was always under the impression that Chet Lauck was Lum not Abner as you have in the picture. My husband says the picture is not Andy Devine. Well, I'll not say as to that, but it sure doesn't look like him, either.

Maybe you missed Andy's usual cowboy getup—beard stubble, blue jeans and horse—but "it's him" all right. And, we'll probably get all mixed up, but the picture is not Chet Lauck but Norris Goff. Norris Goff is Abner and Chet is Lum. We had it wrong. (That's what happens when you meet up with ONE member of a famous team!)

Pat Hobbs, Los Angeles, Calif.

Sirs: About a year ago they took "I Love a Mystery" off the air and I didn't write in then because I thought it might come back. Is it ever coming back? If so, let's have it for half an hour instead of a quarter of an hour.

Let's also have much more of Jack Smith.

No sign of "I Love a Mystery" coming back on the air.

Anida Wallace, 2643 Monmouth Avenue, Los Angeles, Calif.

Sirs: Enjoy listening to the radio and then reading about all my favorites in your fine magazine. The new one is the best yet with all those wonderful pictures of "The Jolly Boys", "Poor Miriam", and the new fashion column. Let's have more pictures of our favorites.

Mrs. Nellie P. Miller Hemenway, 1527 North Avenue 49, Los Angeles, Calif.

Sirs: I was sorry to hear that Charlotte Greenwood is leaving the air. When will she be on again? Also when are we to have "Vic and Sade" back?

There is nothing to indicate either Miss Greenwood or the popular "Vic and Sade" planning an immediate return to the air. Radio Life will precast them if and when they re-appear.

I BELIEVE that life goes in cycles," said Pinky Lee, lisping comic who is the one-man riot on the Rudy Vallee show. "First you're up and then you're down. You take the bitter for a while—and then you get the sweet." If this is true, Pinky's been through more cycles than anyone else we've ever heard about!

For instance — this is his second Vallee cycle. He was discovered once before by the indefatigable Vallee about ten years ago when he was set for a guest appearance on Rudy's great variety show. Unfortunately, the very night the broadcast was scheduled, Pinky's infant son laid in a hospital hovering between life and death. Pinky went from the hospital straight to the broadcast, arrived late and the show was already on the air. "I was so worried about the baby," recalled Pinky, "that I couldn't keep my mind on the script. I gave a very bad performance."

After this initial bad break, Pinky suffered six years of hard luck. Vaudeville died, and Pinky toured the country plagued by bad bookings, winter weather and automobile accidents. Finally, back in New York and out of a job, Pinky went into burlesque. "I went into it," he emphasized, "with the idea that I would be not only the highest paid comic in the business, but also the cleanest." And that's just what he did. He's proud of the fact that he's never tried to get a laugh with a "blue" gag. "I decided I'd get laughs by being cute." And if you look and act and sound like Pinky—that isn't hard. Handsome Mr. Lawrence Is Just That and How the Mesdames Go For This Attractive Emcee-Host

MEET THE MISTER! He's tall, dark and very handsome Jerry Lawrence, new emcee-host of CBS' "Meet the Missus."

The quick-witted, nimble-tongued young man from New York (by way of California) is proving himself an able match for the ladies. You like him instantly upon meeting him, and many a missus has come away from the daily show completely captivated by the amiable good-humor of Mr. Lawrence.

The day Radio Life called upon Jerry we found him in exceptionally good spirits. It was his birthday anniversary and he was soon to become the father of a little Miss or Mr. Lawrence. He really didn't care what "it" was. (Note: It turned out to be a boy!).

At home there is three-and-a-half year-old Stephen Jeffery, all about whom the radio audience knows already. Radio must "run" in the Lawrence menage, because Stevie has made his air debut and hounds papa for a repeat performance. As a gag, Jerry once interviewed his moppet, emerging (he confesses) second best.

They Knew What They Wanted

BUBBLING, blonde "Baby Helen Pearson" grew up to be bubbling, blonde radio actress Ge Ge Pearson, who possesses one of the loveliest hilltop apartments in Hollywood. The pretty thespian and her equally clever husband, Hal Gerard, have spent two years designing, furnishing, painting, papering, hammering and sweeping what they now lovingly call "home." And it was this which Radio Life eagerly visited last week.

Pearson and Gerard (maritally speaking) teamed up two years ago,

The "Honey Man"

CURT MASSEY was a mass (six foot plus, 200 pounds plus) of enthusiasm as Radio Life cornered him for a chat following his Wednesday night vocal gymnastics on the Andrews Sisters' CBS airshow.

"One show a week," he beamed, knocking on some nearby wood. "Isn't it wonderful!" Life, in fact, seemed to be wonderful all over for this tall, dark balladeer as he commented contentedly about California, his home and family, and his ether career.

A fugitive from sunrise shows and the five-a-day grind of the theater circuit, Curt calls his current schedule "a vacation". He loves radio, is an air veteran, and only worries when he has to inject visual entertaining into his microphone chores. "I don't go much for playing to the studio audience," he pointed out. "I think the microphone should have the performer's undivided attention."

Now delivering modern romantic ballads with his smooth baritone voice, Curt Massey began his musical career as a baton-wielder (at Kansas City's million-dollar ballroom, the Pla-Mor), then became a singer of western songs with "The Westerners", an instrumental-vocal group made up mostly of members of his own family.

Louise, His Sister

The youngest of eight children, Curt was born in Midland, Texas, and raised on a ranch near Roswell,

▲ A MASSEY MELODY gets some solid backing by the Andrews Sisters as the foursome takes to the air each Wednesday evening over CBS. Baritone Curt was formerly singing-fiddle-playing member of folk-music favorites, "The Westerners".

New Mexico. His folks still live in this locale and nearby is his sister's ranch. Louise Massey, feminine member of "The Westerners", retired from radio some time ago.

Music was an integral part of the Massey family life. Curt's father, Henry Austin Massey, is a champion old-time fiddler of the southwest. Curt himself plays the violin, trumpet and piano, and has made music a part of his own home life now. His son, Stevie, is only four and a half, but already joins his father in impromptu piano-trumpet duets—with Stevie manning the trumpet!

Curt composes songs with the ease that he sings and plays them. Tunes he has penned include "The Honey Song," "Venuti Blues" and "Draggin' the Bow" (the latter two, special violin numbers).

The Massey manse is located in Beverly Hills. It is a big house ("bigger than we need, but we took what we could get"), with four radios and a loud-speaker system to carry music into every room.

Another Massey

Mrs. Curt Massey is the former Edythe Williams, a non-professional whom Curt met during his appearance at the Pla-Mor. The Masseys expect a second child come next May, the month of son Stephen's birth. "Stevie," smiled Curt, "tells everybody that he's going to get a baby sister for his birthday."

Away from the microphone, Massey wields a golf club with the skill of a professional player (and has the trophies to prove it!) "I'm a good golfer, and don't have to be modest about it," he grinned. "I've devoted almost as much time to the game as a professional."

Hunting and photography are among Massey's other spare time pursuits, and when we expressed surprise at the fact that this ex-"Westerner" and graduate of real ranch life didn't live in the "wide open spaces" of the San Fernando Valley, Curt quickly dispelled our disappointment.

"We're looking for a place out there," he smilingly notified us—and knocked on wood again!

▼ ANOTHER TROPHY for Curt's collection of golfing awards he has won during the years. He has spent almost as much time on the links as a pro-golfer. (That's Tommy Armour with him below).

Ex-"Westerner," Curt Massey, is the Fellow Who Wrote "The Honey Song," is Now Crooner On Andrews Sisters' Show, also a Top Golfer!

Television

Television came a foot nearer to rounding that corner around which it's been lurking for so long when NBC set up its Hollywood Television Department last week. Hal Bock, head of NBC's Western Division Press and Public Relations, was named boss of the newly-formed department.

Announcing NBC's plans, John F. Royal, network vice-president in charge of television, admitted that his visit to Hollywood was prompted by a desire to contact motion picture studios with the idea of making tie-ups for television films. Royal stated that television sets would be ready for the public about June 1, with prices starting at $150 and rising to $400. Eighteen television applications from this area are now on file with the FCC. NBC, he said, would be able to start regular schedules of telecasting within a year after receiving its local license.

AFRS Continues

Radio Lifers whose men-folk are still in service will be happy to learn these facts concerning the Armed Forces Radio Service:

AFRS still has 230 broadcasting stations bringing its programs to servicemen throughout the world. AFRS program production here in Los Angeles is still being kept at full speed. During December, AFRS wrote, produced and transcribed 362 original radio shows ("Command Performance" "Mail Call", "Jubilee", etc.); it transcribed 441 top programs from the four major networks; its short-wave offices in New York, San Francisco and Honolulu shortwaved 4,430 hours of news, sports, special events and entertainment, wrote ninety-six scripts for its script kit, added eighty-four new numbers to its basic music library of 3,704 selections, and shipped 119,756 AFRS plastic 16-inch transcriptions, of which the ships of the U. S. fleet received 28,140 discs.

Each GI station overseas is still receiving sixty hours of AFRS special shows and decommercialized network programs weekly via air transport from AFRS headquarters in L. A.

Success Story

The sultry songstress who is heard Monday nights on KECA's new half-hour variety show, "Sunset and Highland Fling," is Ginny Sellers of ABC's publicity department. "It was all a surprise—and such a nice one!" exclaimed Ginny when we talked with her on the phone the other morning. "They called me just two days before the show started, so there was no time to be scared."

This is the young singer's first bow on the Hollywood airlines, but she is no newcomer at a microphone, having worked on every station in Seattle, in a variety of capacities. She has been associated with Bob Nichols and appeared with him on a popular morning airshow in Seattle that was, she explains, "a cross between Al Pearce and Tom Breneman."

Ginny has picked some nice footsteps in which to follow, having studied singing at King Bing's alma mater, and made transcriptions with Crosby's guitarist, Perry Botkin. It was these transcriptions which led to her Hollywood air debut.

Nice going, Ginny—and good luck!

Where Elite Meet

As it grows dusk, we must confess

NEXT WEEK

Real-life heroine, Susan Peters, who has returned to the Hollywood spotlight recently with her appearance on two of radio's top shows, is spotlighted in next week's issue, and you'll surely want to read the inspiring story of her fight to walk again . . . That screen idol of the twenties, handsome Herbert Rawlinson, is word-profiled in another feature that is accompanied by some priceless early movie stills. Mr. Rawlinson is now one of etherdom's most popular performers . . . Pretty Janet Waldo appears in two pages of fashion photos. The young actress was recently chosen as one of the six best-dressed misses in America . . . Likeable Jimmy Gleason is interviewed on the occasion of the start of his new air series . . . You'll also enjoy the two additional features provocatively entitled "Carmen on the Keys" and "Buckskin Rides Again," and another page of pictures of your radio row favorites. Get your copy early!

we're often tempted to peek out of our Vine Street window at the passing throngs below. The other night we spied Red Skelton, manager Edna and announcer Red O'Connor patiently winding their way up the street. Hmm, off to dinner, we thought. We wondered if they would make it or if the autograph fans would stand squarely in the path of progress. Suddenly Skelton and Company were in the clear but a few steps from the Derby. But didn't go in. They crossed the street, entered a local hot dog stand, and emerged with king-sized frankfurters and the happiest smiles of victory we've seen.

Tables Turned

Usually, on CBS' "Suspense", the acting team of Lewis and Lewis (Elliot and Cathy) are busy at the microphone enacting a variety of roles on the Bill Spier-produced thriller. On a recent Thursday, however, when Dame May Whitty appeared on the program as the star of a play entitled "My Dear Niece", Cathy and husband Elliot were seated in the control booth and displaying more nervousness than either of the air veterans have ever shown in front of a microphone.

Reason was that the script being presented had been penned by actor Elliot, and was his initial attempt at radio writing.

Teen-Age Teena

Have you met Teen-Age Teena? Prototype of the popular conception of Frank Sinatra's feminine fans, Teena made her debut on CBS' "Songs by Sinatra" broadcast several Wednesday's ago, and the resulting enthusiastic fan mail caused producer Mann Holiner to bring her back at the mike with Frankie again. In fact, on the following week, Teena not only traded chatter with Sinatra but she sang on the show, too!

Off-mike, Teena is pretty, brunette Janet Waldo, popular air actress who specializes in playing teen-agers, though she is actually just a few years beyond that stage. Air audiences know her well as "Corliss Archer," which she portrayed for almost two years, and as "Emmy Lou" of the "Ozzie and Harriet" series.

Says Janet of her bobby-sox assignments: "My father claims I'm enjoying a delayed adolescence!"

Oscar Survey

On a recent Tuesday night airing of his KNX "Midnight Merry-Go-Round," Tom Hanlon staged a pre-Academy Award poll to see who and what his listeners would vote as the best actor and actress and picture of the year. With the aid of announcer Maurie Webster, Hanlon took nearly four hundred telephone calls (averaging six and a half a minute) with the following resulting tabulations:

Best Picture: 1) "The Bells of St. Marys" (124); 2) "Mildred Pierce" (105); 3) "Lost Weekend" (105); 4) "Anchors Aweigh" (61); 5) "Spell-bound" (35).

Best Actor: 1) Bing Crosby (149);

Are you listening . . . I hope, I hope, I hope . . . the verbal trade mark of Al Pearce and his famous "Elmer Blurt" character . . . is a bit unnecessary along the stations of the American chain these days . . . I mean that "I hope, I hope, I hope" part, for it's a cinch that hundreds of thousands of radio dials are turned ABCward for the Monday through Friday "Al Pearce Show" (KECA at noon). Returning to the airplanes last fall, after a tour entertaining overseas troops, during which he flew over 50,000 miles, Pearce gathered together many popular members of his old "gang," and adding a few new members, he gives listeners a half-hour chucked full of laughs . . . a half hour just for fun. Here's Al, in his lovable low-pressure salesman character "Elmer Blurt", who joins ranks with Arlene Harris, Leo Cleary, Will Wright, the musical Todds, Arthur and Betty, and others of the cast for their half-hour of noontime cheer.

Johnny Olsen and his "Ladies, Be Seated" show moves, starting Feb. 18th, for from four to six weeks to the Windy City. The ladies of Chicago have a treat in store . . . and a chance at the big prizes Olsen and crew pass out daily (ABC-KECA at 12:30, Monday thru Friday). Selection of participants is made by Olsen, his wife, Penny, and the program's director, George Weist . . . and prizes are numerous . . . including electrical appliances, ranges, complete wardrobes, and many other things to enchant the feminine heart . . . And another bright spot on your weekday dial at that famous 790 spot, is the Jack Berch Show at one o'clock. It's catching . . . the way Jack whistles in his own lilting fashion to open the show . . . sort of stays in your memory and makes you remember to dial his way. There are songs, chatter and letters sent in by listeners. Music on the "shortest fifteen minutes in radio" is furnished by Charlie Magnante and his trio, with Charlie himself on the accordion, Tony Mottola playing guitar, and George Wright on the electric organ . . . a combination that's hard to beat on old songs and new. Dial their way a few times and 'twill become a habit . . . We warn you.

Jack Berch

. . . 790 . . . It's the Spot . . .

AROUND THE DIAL: The epochal recent news of radar contact with the moon caused ABC's commentator Orson Welles to recall his famous "Invasion from Mars" drama which sent citizens of New York and New Jersey scurrying in terror, back in '38 . . . Maybe he was somewhat of a prophet after all . . . Welles is a regular over ABC-KECA Sunday mornings at 10:15 . . . Lewis J. Valentine, former Police Commissioner of New York, and now on the air every Saturday night on ABC as chief investigator-commentator on "Gangbusters" (KECA at 9) has been requested by General Douglas MacArthur to help reorganize Japan's civilian police. "I can't say whether or not I will go to Tokyo just yet," Valentine said. "I'll talk to Army heads in Washington, and if General MacArthur needs me badly, I'll go." The appointment would be from 30 to 60 days . . . An article by Mark Sherwin about one of radio's most colorful commentators . . . Walter Winchell (ABC-KECA Sundays at 6 p.m.) is a feature of the current "This Month" magazine.

THIS AND THAT: Tom Breneman and his "Breakfast in Hollywood" show will be in the city of Detroit this week . . . through the 21st. Before returning to the coast, Tom and company will visit St. Louis, Missouri, Houston and San Antonio, Texas, another eastern city (yet to be determined) with a grand wind-up of the tour in New York's Madison Square Garden in late March . . . Patsy Montana, cowgirl singer on ABC's "Wake Up and Smile" Saturday morning show (KECA 8:30 a. m.) has composed more than a hundred cowgirl songs, of which 82 have been published! . . . The Quiz Kids have a unique idea . . . their current contest to select the best schoolroom teacher in the U. S. Tune the "Kids" on Sunday night, KECA at 8:30, and hear the details.

Radio Life Lines

By Evelyn Bigsby

Lifelines' squib last week about NBC's pianos scuffed up quite a flurry. Among those heard from was Hei Mueller, who's been in charge of all NBC's musical instruments for years. Apparently we added just one more hunk of trouble to Hei's already-over-flowing lot. He has twenty-four pianos to watch over and it seems every one of them takes a beating every day (average use, ten hours). "We should have new pianos every four years", Hei said wistfully, "but our oldest ones are nine, now, because the war more or less cut off our supply." That makes a four-year-old piano "comparatively new."

Whether a show needs one, two, or sometimes three pianos, Hei says he sees to it that every instrument is in tune before it goes on the air.

It would induce instrumental longevity, he claims, if performers wouldn't drop hair pins, paper clips, cigar butts, and pencils into pianos' innards and if persons looking for places to dump their water, chocolate malts, and coffee would have some consideration for a piano's sensitive nature.

Someday soon, we hope Hei will get a whole family of sprightly young pianos that'll require the minimum of nursing along. In the meantime, if any of our readers need their pianos tuned, we can probably supply you with the name of a good man. Seems a lot of this column's readers were out-of-work tuners who phoned, thinking NBC was in desperate need of helpers. No help wanted right now, says Mr. Mueller.

Sort of an interesting story behind (Please Turn to Page 25)

FAIR PLAY

For years now, record jockeys have been plugging bands. Recently Slim Gaillard and his quartet must have decided to do as much for the jockeys. If you listen to Slim's latest record "Te Say Mali" you'll hear the names of Don Otis, Gene Norman and Peter Potter slipped in during the jive lyric. We don't know if there are more or not—those are the ones we happened to catch. What with Xavier Cugat's new rhumba entitled "The Walter Winchell Rhumba" maybe radiotes won't feel they've arrived until an orchestra leader honors them with a waxing.

HELLO, MOM
 Perry Ward, announcer who handles from ten to fifteen network shows every week, does a 15-second bit
 each week on CBS' "Stars Over Hollywood." Perry reads one line each week-but it's important, for of all his programs, "Stars" is the only one that his mother in Tulsa, Oklahoma can hear.

Pinky's Not Blue

naturally laughed no matter how serious he tried to be.

Another early ambition was thwarted when his voice changed when he was thirteen—and his beautiful singing voice disappeared. With typical Lee luck—this had to happen the night before he had signed to go on tour with the late Gus Edwards' famous kid act. Pinky clowned his way through school, taught himself dancing. "I've been expelled from more schools and oftener than anybody!"

More Soap

Pinky once took a job with a soap company in his home town of St. Paul, Minnesota. It was against his better judgment, but his father insisted he try something besides show business. "An actor is always a pretty good salesman," lisped Pinky, "and in no time at all I sold more soap than anybody they'd ever had." He wound up his sudsy career by selling a carload and a half of soap to a firm because he had given the president's daughter a tap lesson while he was waiting. "I always dance a little bit when I'm nervous," he explained. "I still do. When the little girl asked me to show her a few steps—I taught her in ten minutes what dancing schools take a month to do. So she made her father listen to my sales talk." Pinky got a raise out of this deal, was made district sales manager of three states and was given a two percent interest in the company. Then he decided that it was not soap—at any price, it was show business for him. He's been in it ever since.

It had always been his big ambition to crash radio, but something always happened to jinx it. Back in 1934 he did a comedy spot on the old "Carefree Carnival" and his mother heard him on the air for the first time. She wrote him a letter saying that her one ambition now, was to see him on the Rudy Vallee show. The next day she was killed in an automobile accident. The letter was found on her body. "I still have it," said Pinky. "It's my most precious possession."

It's taken a while, but Pinky has finally realized his mother's hopes for him. Pinky's road to the Vallee show led from burlesque to a Broadway show, "Wine, Women and Song," the movie, "Lady of Burlesque," the Earl Carroll night club and finally his second discovery by Rudy.

It was at Earl Carroll's birthday party that Pinky ran into Rudy Vallee again. "How about using me on the show, Rudy?" said Pinky by way of conversation. He signed Pinky for one show, and, as Pinky says, "the rest is history!"

Idolizes Vallee

As for Vallee—"He's given me everything," says Pinky. "Nothing is too big or too small for him to do for me. You just wouldn't believe all the things he's done. It's like I always say—the bigger a man is, the sweeter he is."

Pinky's in the busiest cycle we've ever heard of, at present. He's still in the cast of Earl Carroll's show, he's got a seven-year contract with Republic and is a weekly feature of Rudy's broadcast. He likes radio best. "It's a gentleman's job," he said. "I go to work and they usher me into the studio—I finish and they usher me out! It's a great business."

He doesn't look it, but he's got a son, Morgan David, ten and a half, and a daughter, Patricia Bonnie, five and a half. It was last year while returning from a camp show at Camp Roberts that Pinky, his children and his wife, Bebe, had a huge truck overturn on their car in a horrifying accident. "We escaped with minor scratches, but the doctor who attended us says he can't understand why we weren't all killed. It was really a miracle. Many of the papers published pictures of our pancaked car with the caption, 'Could You Have Lived Through This?' It was then I decided that something had plans for me—that I had been saved for a reason. I guess you can see why I believe that Fate is helping me on the upgrade after all our hard luck."

We said we certainly could.

"Well," Pinky apologized, "that's about it. I guess that nothing really exciting has ever happened to me, though."

and moved into the only vacant apartment they could find—a most dismal little place. Instead of being down-hearted, they immediately set to work to "build" the kind of home they wanted. Today it is a chic, modernistic masterpiece, due entirely to the untrained efforts of the Gerards who knew what they wanted.

Color Rampant

The modern Chinese motif is carried out through the colorful bric-a-brac decorating the rooms, as well as the beautiful Oriental tables and chairs. Believing in color, the Gerards have furnished their living room with gray walls, a bright red rug, an amber couch, a canary yellow chair and two zebra-striped chairs. The result is exciting.

An ancient Oriental game table of hand-inlaid mother-of-pearl and dainty wood carvings, a wooden table painted to resemble gold, and an antique tapestry are three of Ge Ge's favorites. Hal's consist of a bright red raffia lamp shade and an authentic-looking Chinese scene, both of which Ge Ge created. The bedroom is furnished with modern furniture boasting rose and gray satin coverings.

Unique Board

Most guests, as were we, are fascinated by the huge blackboard which hangs over Hal's desk. All of the Gerards' calls, rehearsals, and shows, under each name, are noted by a little pink slip of paper bearing the appointed hour Hal or Ge Ge are expected to appear. This simplified system serves a double purpose. Not only does it keep the Gerards on their toes, but it helps inform Mrs. where the Mr. is and vice versa.

As one of radio's most demanded actresses, Ge Ge knows all about show business. She has been in it since the age of four. That's what happened to "Baby Helen." She has "played" everything but burlesque.

Roles Named

She is such a clever dialectician and mimic that she is rarely heard as her charming self. You laugh at her as Sara Dew, Willie Lump Lump's wife, and Mrs. Shagnasty on the Red Skelton show. You've heard her as the "Jivin' Granny," Jack Haley's chic French friend, and as Nancy on the "Man Called X." She likes doing character work and is pleased with radio as the best medium.

Ge Ge is a petite, blonde ball of energy and enthusiasm. She is well-liked throughout the industry and, in turn, is tremendously fond of people. She is cheerful, friendly and never still for an instant.

She dresses in vivid colors and prefers feminine, frilly things. She is quite domestic and loves to cook and sew. She has a small daughter, Louanne. A perfect hostess, Ge Ge adores showing off her newly-furnished apartment. The housekeeper left not long ago, but Ge Ge and Hal don't mind. It's so darned much fun taking care of their house that if they didn't have the famed blackboard to remind them, they'd probably never show up for a broadcast.

pounds lighter than he used to be . . . You'll be hearing Bob Garrod on the air again . . . Along with several hundred other curious persons, we were watching the big fire at Hollywood and Ivar the other noon when Bert Gordon breezed by and said: "I've just wired La Guardia!"

Art Linkletter was stopped cold at his "House-Party" the other afternoon when he asked a lady if she was married. "No!", she answered emphatically. Linkletter keeled back on his heels then exclaimed, "You are too!" (The lady was Mrs. Linkletter).

most neglected medium in the fashion field, and I am depending on Milady to put fashions in action on the air." Miss Mellis' "Advertising in Action" is preparing a daily radio show to bring fashions to life for the listener.

"Advertising in Action" consists of many features, merchandising, publicity, radio personal appearances, even an audience participation quiz.

A Smith To Remember

With a Name Like Wonderful
Smith, Who Could Forget Him?

By B. J. Hammer

▲ WONDERFUL SMITH IS BACK on the same show he left when he went into the army—in the same suit! The mustache was “just one of those things you do in the army.” By now it’s gone—and unlamented!

Tuesday, 7:30 p.m.
NBC-KFI

IS WON—?” we started to say, on first meeting Wonderful Smith, young comedian on Red Skelton’s show. “Yes — Wonderful is my real name,” he smiled, before we even got started. Sooner or later, but mostly sooner, everyone asks that question, and by this time, Wonderful can almost beat you to the answer. “My grandmother back in Arkadelphia, Arkansas, named me that. I don’t know why. She really gave me a hard name to live up to!”

We think that Mr. Smith is doing a pretty good job of living up to that bright and shinning first name. Just listen to what can happen to a young man tagged with a name that people can’t forget:

Wonderful was always interested in dramatics, and took the drama course at Fairfax High School in Hollywood. Very often there were no parts he could play, so he would write one for himself. So while he developed as a comedian, he was also developing as a satirical writer. Later, he joined the Laguna Beach Little Theater, and scored a personal success in a play called “Abduct Me Tenderly.” In Hollywood he got a small part in an Earl Carroll show, between odd jobs.

“Jump for Joy,” the Duke Ellington musical, was Wonderful’s big stepping stone. He had sold himself to the Duke with a monologue he had written in which he portrayed a guileless draftee who calls up President Roosevelt on the telephone. Opening night, the audience laughed so unexpectedly hard that Wonderful says he had a terrible time staying in character—he wanted to laugh, too.

No. One Fan

Red Skelton heard of Wonderful through a monologue he had written and delivered on an Orson Welles show, and added him to the Raleigh show. Wonderful has certainly become the number one Skelton fan. “I appreciate the way Red has let me work into different characters,” he said. “For instance, on one broadcast I played a real estate agent and a Gabriel Heatter type commentator. Red’s a wonderful fellow to work with.”

Wonderful counts himself fortunate indeed, as far as his career goes. He spent three years in the army (twenty-six months overseas), was discharged on November 18, returned to the same show he had left on December 18, same time, same station. Though Wonderful isn’t heard every week, he’s what you could call a “Skelton familjar.”

Twenty-two of those twenty-six months he spent overseas in a trucking regiment on the Lido or Stilwell Road in India-Burma. Every week he put on a show for his regiment—and when you put on a show in the army, Wonderful emphasized, it means just that, you put it on! He not only wrote and acted, but he supervised and directed, and in the heart of the jungles with a detail of four, he cut down trees and built his own stage!

He’s proud of the fact that he was the first to carry a live G.I. show into liberated Burma. After twenty-two months in the jungles, Lt. General Wheeler, theater commander at New Delhi, wrote to Wonderful’s commanding officer and requested his services as an entertainer at a rest camp in Calcutta. Wonderful worked up a radio show, and was broadcasting when V-J day arrived. It came in the middle of a program he was emceeing with a Negro quarter which was singing spirituals. The announcer waited until they were finished with their number and then read the news of Japanese surrender. The next spiritual, already scheduled, was “I Ain’t Gonna Study War No More.” “You can imagine,” said Wonderful, “the feeling that went into that song!”

Grew Mustache

Wonderful came back to his job on the Raleigh show. “I didn’t even have to buy a necktie!” he exclaimed. “All my clothes were just the way I’d left them.” The only change was Wonderful’s mustache which he grew while overseas. “You do things like that when you’re in the army,” he laughed. While Wonderful was overseas he ran into Henry Armstrong, the fighter, who was putting on boxing exhibitions for the boys. “We’re old friends,” he said, “back in the thirties we were in the same breadline together.”

Wonderful not only thinks Red Skelton is a great guy, but a great comedian, too. Paul Robson is his favorite dramatic actor and he regrets not being able to get back to the States in time to have seen him do “Othello.” His ambition is to branch out into more radio and picture work doing the same type of satirical comedy that he does on the Skelton show.

Wonderful admits that his name has really been a great help in his career. “When people forget it,” he laughed, “they call me the strangest things — “Bashful,” “Happiness” — one lady even called me “Goodwill Smith.”

Well, we don’t think she was so far wrong!

Heard, But Not Seen

Are the Background Players on "Lux," Who Scream, Shout, Gurgle, Whisper

P EOPLE FREQUENTLY ask about the background atmosphere on a "Lux Radio Theater" show. You hear the murmuring voice of the desk clerk in the hotel lobby, while the hum of people talking and laughing blends with the clunk of suitcases being eased to the floor. You wonder what goes on back of the scenes, back of the dialogue of the stars continuing in the foreground.

Against the soft music of a dance band, a nightclub atmosphere emerges, with the chatter and clatter of customers enjoying themselves at the rate of a dollar or two a minute. Maybe a noisy swimming party is punctuated with the splash of water.

◀ CATHY LEWIS AND WALLY MAHER are well-known background and character players on the hour dramatic series.

◀ GRIFF BARNETT, considered to have one of most sympathetic voices in radio, does college professors, newspaper men, druggists.

▲ NORMAN FIELD is a fixture on "Lux", being heard as a banker one week, a businessman, doctor, broker, or lawyer the next.

▲ TALENTED YERNA FELTON has distinguished herself in many roles on "Lux", among them that of Madame LaFarge on "Tale of Two Cities".

▲ EDDIE MARR ("Tell ya what I'm gonna do") has a favorite role on "Lux". It's that of pitchman or barker for circus or sideshow.

Possibly there is the roar of spectators at a race track or the long-drawn-out sigh of those who watch the high trapeze performers at a circus.

You, as a listener, may not question the background too closely, but it is as important to the rounded-out performance of a "Lux" radio show as the stars themselves, who carry the brunt of conversation, acting and suspense. Back of every Lux Radio production is a cast of performers, never seen in publicity and advertising releases, yet of first importance to the success of the one-hour plays.

Indispensable

A genial, youngish, gray-haired, smiling director of this part of the show calls the cues and gives the signals. His name is Charles Seel, an actor of many years' experience, who has spent the past decade in radio. Without Charles Seel and his characters, the show could not go on, though the cast were to include the luscious Hedy Lamarr, Lana Turner, Charles Boyer and Bing Crosby.

Working before the microphone, without suffering from "mike" fright is something of an accomplishment in itself. Radio actors must be stage wise, so when asked to ad lib they can think of something definite to say, which fits in with the scene up front. Rehearsals for this part of the show are as essential as those for the stars. Among other things, actors in the background must know how to scream, shout, gurgle, gasp, whisper, speak loudly or softly and they must be dressed attractively, so radio audiences will have a pleasing picture to carry home with them.

When a play for "Lux" is decided on, Seel reads the script with the director and gets busy on the telephone. Sometimes his first list of

"Leave It To The Girls!"

Who'll Tell You Whether the Auto or Phone Has Been the Greater Aid to Real Romance

Saturday, 6 p.m.
MBS-KHJ

SO MANY OF THE people who were in radio or were trying to break into radio asked Martha Rountree's advice on careers and marriage, that one of her associates laughingly suggested she syndicate a "romance column." The idea finally bore fruit in a pattern for a radio show, called "Leave It to the Girls."

The format of the show calls for a panel of feminine experts, a mistress of ceremonies and a male guest who takes up the cudgels for the masculine side each week.

The panel is comprised of Florence Pritchett, lecture writer of the New York Journal-American; Robin Chandler, directress of the John Powers School for Models; Dorothy Kilgallen, syndicated columnist, and Eloise McElhone, OPA food division. The prerequisites for membership in the panel when it was formed was that all girls must be successful in their fields, charming, pretty and also able to think on their feet, as it were. Two hundred and ninety-six potential members were interviewed before the four were chosen.

Male vs. Female

In selecting a male guest for the program, an intellectual background is stressed rather than just a name personality. As Martha expresses it she would rather have "thinkers than glamor boys." There is a unique scene in each show wherein the "man strikes back" and outlines his pet peeves against the doings of the distaff side.

Recently Bennett Cerf wanted to know why women carried so much in their pocketbooks. Why did they keep them stuffed with things they would never use? Dorothy Kilgallen challenged this and told Cerf he carried more articles in his pockets than she did in her bag.

The entire studio audience remained after the show as Miss Kilgallen and Cerf emptied their pocketbook and pockets respectively—strangely enough Miss Kilgallen was right—Cerf had much more in his pockets than she had in her bag.

The show is actually a round table discussion of romance—problems of the heart. Questions sent in by listeners are discussed by the girls, who give their reactions and state what they would do to handle the problem. The male guest also has his chance to enter the discussion and the age-old conflict between the male and female opinion of affairs of the heart gives the program a light and humorous touch.

The questions selected for discussion must have: 1. Human interest. 2. Are there two sides? 3. Does it pertain to romance? 4. Is it a good springboard for discussion? 5. Has a similar subject been discussed?

Questions Similar

The questions pour in from all over the country from every age group—teen-agers write about their problems and they recently received a letter from a sixty-year-old widow asking if they thought she was too old to re-marry. The questions are about divided as to problems of single and married people and there is a great similarity in questions from different parts of the country.

None of the panel sees the questions before air time. The program is spontaneous and unrehearsed. During the show's first seven weeks on the air, a guest mistress of ceremonies was used. Paula Stone has been permanent guide of program ever since. Dorothy Kilgallen was ill one week and Miss Stone was secured

Pursuits of Perrott

By Tod Fredricks

RUTH PERROTT made her stage debut in the original company of "Blossom Time", which was indirectly responsible for her entry into radio in 1937.

CHARMING and clever Ruth Perrott is a lady farmer ("Well, I have a terrace garden outside of my apartment window"), an accomplished milliner ("I haven't had any rush orders from my friends to date, but I do make my own hats and accessories"), a writer ("the publishers haven't started forming lines yet") and an actress.

"That shouldn't come last," she grinned, "that belongs first. Because I'm incurably stagestruck. And acting is my whole life."

The stage, which is responsible for nearly everything in her active life, indirectly brought about radio, which, in turn, brought about her coming to California—"where I'm happiest at farming, millinering, writing and acting."

Last week Ruth took time from her numerous radio duties to relate to Radio Life how she finds time to lead a quadruple life. "Well, the garden," she began, "doesn't take too much effort. I just water the plants and watch 'em grow. I'm going to have a real home some day with loads and loads of flowers and plants so that I can really call myself a farmerette."

"As for the hats," she continued, "that's fun. I love to make them and usually do it on the spur of the moment. The writing, well, that's another story. I keep intending to do a play—and someday I shall. I did several while in college."

"The acting? All I can say is thank goodness for radio! I love it. The stage will always have a special niche in my heart, but the good old ether is dependable, secure and fun."

Debut On "Cavalcade"

Ruth's radio debut of 1937 was an outgrowth of her devotion to the stage. Following her initial appearance in the original company of "Blossom Time," she toured with many stock companies and finally found herself in Washington. Her first-air show was "Cavalcade," She found she liked working in this new medium because it gave her a chance to portray so many characters.

She is proud of the fact she has never been typed. You heard her as Dotty Brainfebble (her favorite characterization) on "Vic and Sade." She has played comedians on the "Meet Me At Parky's," a villainess on the former "Creeps By Night" series, and "I Love A Mystery," and her first "straight" role (courtesy of her idol, Carlton E. Morse) on last summer's "Younger Generation."

Producer Helen Mack is another favorite. It was she who gave Ruth her first try at radio comedy. As for pictures, the attractive lady has the filmization of a "Suspense" broadcast with Peter Lorre to her credit. The only possible event to lure her from California would be a part in a Broadway play, which the red-headed, brown-eyed actress says she does not see in the offing.

Pie Expert

In her modernistic hilltop apartment, Ruth has most fun when she can whip up a spur-of-the-moment supper for her many friends. She loves cooking and lemon meringue pies are her specialty. She enjoys the theater, ballet, reading, sewing, gardening (she's saving for a quiet little home of her own someday) walking, and dancing.

As great a devotee of the stage as she is, she thinks radio is kind of nice, too. And someday would like a show of her own, offering her a chance to portray the many characters she does so well. "Just like radio," she winked, "I hope I'm here to stay. But if that can't be, I guess I can always be a farmer, or a milliner or a writer."

as last minute replacement. She made such a hit as a member of the panel, that she was asked to serve as guest mistress of ceremonies.

Male guests who have battled with the girls for their particular romantic views have included: Richard Rodgers, Joe Laurie, Jr., Bennett Cerf, Richard Kollmar, Ham Fisher, William Bradford Huie, Major Kenneth McKenna, Dr. Richard Hoffman, Houston Peterson, Lawrence Spivak.

"Leave it to the Girls" might be termed "advice to the lovelorn with tongue in cheek," for they attempt to keep a sense of humor attitude and highlight the romantic question involved by not taking it too seriously. Some of the questions are opinion questions—one of the most interesting of these was: Which do you think has been the greatest aid to romance—the telephone or the automobile? We-1-1-1?

actors must be revised, as they may be busy on another show, on vacation, or ill.

Among the regular stand-bys on the Lux show, who often play strong character roles, then again appear in small parts, or as part of the atmosphere effects, are: Griff Barnett, well-known screen and stage actor, until radio began occupying all his time. He is said to have one of the most sympathetic voices heard on the air and his roles as college professors, old newspaper men and druggists have endeared him.

Herbert Rawlinson, dashing screen idol of the old silent days, still handsome, with wavy gray hair, brilliant blue eyes and a flashing smile, has found a new career in radio. He is often cast as a night club proprietor, a lawyer, a doctor or a friend of the family.

Another Idol

Francis X. Bushman, another screen hero, was once the Frank Sinatra of the younger set. His remarkable profile, like that on a Greek coin, combined with a splendid physique "sent" maids and matrons of the twenties. Today, his vibrant voice in the role of a minister, a priest, a judge, tycoon or clubman is in constant demand.

Leo Cleary quit the stage and screen twenty years ago for radio and his is one of the most popular voices on the air. He is noted for his "Boston Blackie" characterizations and for his imitations of Frank Morgan, Adolphe Menjou, Alan Hale and Charles Boyer.

Isabel Jewell, one of the most talented motion picture actresses in Hollywood is heard frequently over the air in strong dramatic or tragic roles.

Verna Felton created a sensation when "Lux" presented "A Tale of Two Cities." She appeared in the role of "Madame LaFarge," the old harridan of the French Revolution, who knitted a long list of the names of aristocrats destined for the guillotine. This is only one of many parts in which Verna has distinguished herself.

Norman Field has become something of a fixture on the "Lux" rostrum. His voice is considered practically perfect for his roles of austere bankers, businessmen, doctors, family lawyers and Wall Street brokers. He heads the radio dramatic department of University of California, Los Angeles, extension department, having taught there for the past four years. Norman Field started a stage career thirty years ago and for the past fifteen years he has been steadily engaged in radio, having made a study of this medium in all its ramifications.

Eddie Marr, one of the better known radio personalities, (known as "Tell Ya What I'm Gonno Do Marr," because of his characterization of that title), appeared with Bing Crosby on "Kraft Music Hall"; has headed his own show at various times and on the "Lux Radio Theater" show, he switches from one part to another—one of his favorite roles being that of a "pitchman," or "barker" for a circus or side show.

Others Listed

Among other well known "background" and character players on the "Lux" show, who appear fairly regularly and have become well known to listeners are: Cathy Lewis, Eddie Emerson, Thomas R. Mills, Regina Wallace, Bea Benadaret and Stanley Farrar.

A Treat For The Ladies

ether-training as announcer, writer, janitor and actor, he temporarily forsook radio to tour to Cleveland with the Globe Theatre. He saved his money "like crazy," and at last hit the big town of New York on election day of 1936. Within three days he had landed a staff announcer's job with CBS.

A few years later he became one of the most popular disc jockeys with a show of his own called the "Man In the Moon." You guessed it, Jerry was the "Man in the Moon" and the daily airer went on from 2 to 5:30 a.m. "It was rough, but well worth it," Jerry said.

For instance, there was a brand new singer whom Tommy Dorsey was introducing. He asked Jerry to give this fellow a plug and being a nice guy, Jerry asked him down for an interview. The fellow never forgot Jerry's thoughtfulness and a few years later asked Jerry to be his New York announcer whenever he was in town. His name, of course, was Frank Sinatra.

Not THAT Dumb

Then there was the time Billy Rose had insomnia. In fact he whiled away many a sleepless night by listening to Jerry. One morning Lawrence received a call from one Billy Rose with a request to call him back. Jerry couldn't recall a Billy Rose among his acquaintances and promptly forgot it. This went on for days until Mr. Rose was lucky enough to catch Jerry in one morning.

"This is Billy Rose," began the impresario.

"Um hum," blankly agreed Jerry. "Now where did I know you?"

"You didn't," patiently replied Rose, "but by way of introduction I own a little place by the name of the 'Diamond Horseshoe' and I have a show running called the 'Aquacade' . . ."

"That," grinned Jerry, "was my most embarrassing moment. But, believe it or not, he hired me. I worked twice as hard at announcing for him to prove I wasn't really that dumb."

When Jerry was offered the roles of emcee on Hollywood's CBS "Meet the Missus" and the KNX "Money On the Line," he was delighted to return. It has been 1936 since he was here before and he finds that things have changed considerably. But with his usual luck, he and his family found a house.

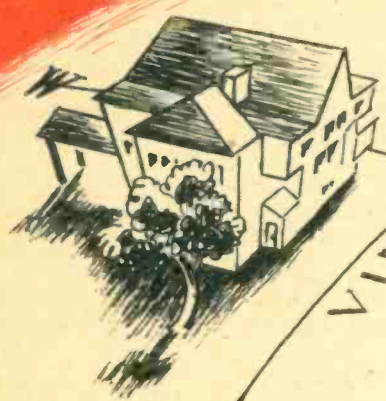

The friendly, casual air of California is much more in keeping with his nature, he feels. He confesses he is a procrastinator, and worse, a very lazy man. On his day off he sleeps the clock around. He collects records and at this writing has around four thousand.

For a man who dislikes dressing formally, Jerry confesses New York is not the place to live. But now he finds it's difficult to lapse into California's informal habits of dress. "I don't think it will take too long."

For the first time in years his evenings are free, but he's much too occupied with the business of being a family man to go night-clubbing. He enjoys renewing old acquaintances with friends, Ralph Edwards, John Kennedy and Charlie Cantor. Jerry is fond of puttering around the house.

"My wife's my toughest critic, and I feel if I can please my missus," he joked, "I might stand a pretty good chance of meeting the standards of all the missuses. Women, bless 'em, they're wonderful!"
