Carol Starr, 3907 Olmsted Avenue, Los Angeles 43, Calif.

Sirs: In regard to Jeanette Olsen's letter (issue of June 1): I was at the "Breakfast in Hollywood" show last month. Contrary to "Cornys'" evasive answer, I saw Mr. Breneman, who is Corny.

What ever happened to "Ellery Queen"? Enjoyed him so much.

"Ellery Queen" and his father, The Inspector, are currently vacationing, but are scheduled to return to KFI on Sunday, August 3. Watch Precast column for further information.

Mrs. G. Roberts, Los Angeles 1, Calif.

Sirs: I am a regular reader of Radio Life and enjoy it very much. Is there a daily program featuring canaries? There's the "Canary Pet Show" on KHJ Sundays, but is there any other, and if so, how listed? Also, how can I subscribe to "Top Hand"? I'm quite a western music fan.

There is no other "Canary Chorus" currently on the air on a daily status. We have no definite information regarding "Top Hand"; however, would suggest that you contact a regular magazine agent.

Catherine Karns, 802 Devenir Avenue, Downey, Calif.

Hal Berger

Sirs: Will you print a picture of Hal Berger, ball game announcer on KMPC? We surely love to hear good old Hal. Think he's the tops!

Here's the picture of Hal as he calls a "foul ball" play.

Mrs. Warthew, 355 Cochran Avenue, Los Angeles 36, Calif.

Sirs: This is for the "Radio Reader" who wrote panning Bing Crosby's recent appearance on the Jack Benny show. Have you gone through life reading the funnies, hearing jokes and still not reading or hearing anything? Must be awful to miss the point.

At this particular broadcast, I was lucky enough to sit in the fourth row, and what a show! The quartet, including Bing, was in itself a show! I'll also explain the "brushoff" Bing and Benny before the mike: Benny said, "But Bing, why those clothes today? You know this is a 'high-class' program." And Bing said, "Why Jack, I thought you'd love them."

And when Mr. Crosby, wearing a gray suit and a gray hat, took the wheel of his black Cadillac and waved to the crowd, he would have done great credit to the famous pages of "Esquire"!

Edward Bell, 930 North Wilton Place, Hollywood 38, Calif.

Sirs: Though perhaps it's useless to ask, why can't radio chains get together, and stop putting two or more of the best programs in the same half hour? Usually the following thirty minutes are dull. For instance: "Dr. I.Q." and the Bob Hawk show are in the same half hour; as are "Information, Please" and "The American Forum"; "Duffy's Tavern" and Bing Crosby; "Can You Top This?" and "Did Justice Triumph?" Plenty of other half hours, same evening . . . dull.

Also why can't ads be limited to one per program? Would you let anybody open your front door and shout about soap, insurance, etc., every eight minutes? You wouldn't. Then, why on the radio?

Both $64 questions, Mr. Bell . . . to which nobody, so far, seems to have the right answers.

Bob Fieman, 2003 Pelham Avenue, West Los Angeles 25, Calif.

Sirs: Something new has been added to the field of record playing by your artist MOBURG. Since when do records play counter-clockwise? I'm speaking of the cartoon in your June 8 issue.

Just felt like being a bit cynical today. Your mag is really doing a swell job, and I look for it every week to help me through the radio entertainment. I'm an embryonic announcer myself, and so I take a particular enjoyment in what may someday be my trade.

After holding his cartoon in front of a mirror, MOBURG congratulates you on your close observation. He offers this explanation: "I was probably expressing a subconscious desire to have all commercials played in reverse. You will agree that in many cases it would be a decided improvement!"

Mrs. J. D. Coles, 552 South Alandie Avenue, Los Angeles 36, Calif.

Sirs: Radio Life is just fine, and I've enjoyed reading it ever since it was first published.

I was so glad to hear John Nesbitt and his "Passing Parade" story told on the "Harvest of Stars" last Sunday, and I am wondering why he is not heard regularly on the air. I think his stories are wonderful, and he has the most pleasing voice of anyone now being heard. Is there any chance of hearing him again?

John Nesbitt is now with MGM Studios, making "Passing Parade" short subjects. His brother, Norman Nesbitt, however, is still actively in radio, with KMPC as a daily newscaster and with Mutual's Commander Scott on Sundays.

Mrs. J. B. Cote, 324 Oak Street, El Monte, Calif.

Sirs: I have two gripes. (1) Why are all police on radio programs so dumb, especially as compared to the miraculous "private eye"? (2) I'm a married woman and have a child, but nevertheless it embarrasses me as much as though I'd walked into someone else's bedroom when radio's gun molls get sexy. Why must they?

(1) It's an unfortunate blunder to make John Q. Law a stumbling idiot. Which makes us doubly thankful for such correcting views of our fine Los Angeles law operations as "Policing L. A." on KFI Saturdays at 1:45 p.m. and "Call the Police" on KFI, Tuesdays at 9:30 p.m. (2) We likewise shudder in shame, Mrs. Cote, especially at those hot and bothered scenes on "Inner Sanctum" (blood and thunder aren't enough, yet) and "The Thin Man," and we hope it won't be long before listening complaint blue-pencils other offending cases.

A Reader, Pomona, Calif.

Sirs: Can you tell us who writes the riddles for "People Are Funny"? They are so good, the writer should get some mention on the program.

The "People Are Funny" show, complete with riddles, is jointly written by Art Linkletter, John and Walter Guedel, Jack Stanley, Bob Dwan and Bernie Smith.

Sirs: I must say I don't care one snap about serials or plays on the air, but as some readers have already noted, that's what we have the "on and off" button for. We love "What's the Name of That Song?" but since it has changed time we seldom hear it. And why oh why did Jack Berch move to such an early hour?

"The Squeakin' Deacon"

I also enjoy all the quiz programs, "Take It or Leave It", "Double or Nothing", and "The Squeakin' Deacon". Love that man . . . and would love to see his picture in Radio Life.

Per your request, a picture of "The Squeakin' Deacon," alias adroit radioite Carl Moore.

The Shamrock Club, Los Angeles, Calif.

Sirs: Some of us have listened since St. Patrick's Day, hoping to hear again the wonderful Irish actress who was on the Kenny Baker program that morning. We have heard her unequalled brogue before on the air, but have not caught her name. Who is she? And why don't they have such outstanding voices regularly?

The blarney talk you heard was that of Molly O'Carroll. You have probably heard her before on the old Ken Niles and Al Pearce shows. Not so long ago, she was kept off the air due to a rather serious automobile accident, but since the Kenny Baker show appearance she has been doing some professional writing rather than acting. Away from the microphone, incidentally, she is the wife of one of Los Angeles' prominent high school principals. She learned her brogue, she tells us, from an old County Cork nurse; and, since it was the Shamrock Club which asked, she wanted us to be sure to add that there absolutely are no people like the Irish!

Mrs. Ola Bruce, 1201 Dawson Avenue, Long Beach 4, Calif.

Sirs: Please print details of the program, "Grand Slam," and an address where a letter may be sent direct to the program judges.

"Grand Slam" contests are based on five questions regarding any one popular song, as sent in by listeners. Prizes are miscellaneous, up to the $100 bond "Grand Slam" award. Address "Grand Slam," Box 105, New York 8, New York. (Please Turn to Next Page)

The Ear Inspires the Pen

Mrs. Doris Burrington, 1256 West 8th Street, San Pedro, Calif.

Sirs: In your May 25 issue, I read a letter from a person who signs himself "Radio Reader." If he has the courage to openly pan someone like Bing Crosby in public, I think he should have the courage to sign his name. As for Bing's singing, 50,000 people can't be wrong.

And as for Jack Berly saying his program was "high class." We all know Benny's dad ran a small store in Waukegan, just six miles from where I was born. So, it was all in fun and not a so-called "brushoff."

I wonder if it's possible to have a picture of Bob Phillips and Winky? They have a swell program of records in the wee hours of the morning. Also a lot of nice humor.

Bob Phillips

Mrs. Robert Clements, 436 West 4th Street, Pomona, Calif.

Sirs: Had it not been for the fact that I had a cousin (Shirley Gordon) writing for your magazine, my family and I would probably never have purchased "Radio Life." However, we did, almost every copy since we arrived in California a year ago, and found them quite interesting. Your "Ear Inspires the Pen" department discloses numerous pet likes and dislikes.

I don't listen to all kinds of programs; haven't time to run around changing the dial every few minutes, but I do have my favorites, and the "Breakfast Club" and Fred Waring are two of them. Other people must feel the same way, so I can't understand why, out of all the complaints I read (and some very petty!) not one mentioned the fact that those two programs conflict. Why must they, since they are both transcribed?

As we have pointed out before, there's the deuced business of "competition" in radio, and that's what keeps you dithering back and forth on your dial, trying to make up your mind which network's side you're on!

Mrs. G. S. Upson, 334 South Alexandria Avenue, Los Angeles, Calif.

Sirs: The program "Road of Life" has been one of my favorites since its inception. Lately, however, it hardly seems worth listening to. The narrator rehashes the previous episode to such lengths, and goes into such ecstasies on the product, "Duz," that it's truly nauseating! Can't we have less soap and more story?

Norma Martin, 1509 West Lombard Street, Baltimore 23, Maryland.

Sirs: I had never seen a copy of Radio Life until I came to Los Angeles for a visit this past February. We can't buy it here in Baltimore, but a dear friend now sends it to me every week and I can still enjoy it.

I read in your May 25th issue where Mr. Robert L. Werner doesn't like the way Bing Crosby's show is being transcribed. Bing's show was among the many I got in to see when I was in Hollywood, and believe me, I never enjoyed a half-hour so much! I stood in a "no ticket" line for two and a half hours to get in, but it was worth it.

Hope you'll publish part of this letter anyway. I want Bing to know that all of us here are backing him up!

Mrs. Mabel Padgett, 1271½ West 37th Place, Los Angeles 7, Calif.

Sirs: I wish to thank you for publishing my letters. It was quite a nice welcome home from a trip we made to get your magazine and to find my letters at first glance. At first my friends kidded me, but now they say "That magazine is your lucky token."

You see, it was right after you published one of the gags I sent in that I was informed that I was one of the winners in a flour contest. I got a very lovely radio out of it. Oh yes, regular folks do win in the big contests, that was proven to me. I remember awhile back one of your readers was inquiring about just such a thing. Now, you have an answer for her. It's flabbergasting, I will admit, but it can happen!

An Avid Radio Fan, Los Angeles, Calif.

Sirs: I agree with Mrs. Holden and Mrs. Peters. Seems to me the "quiz show" emcees are ashamed of their own city and its surrounding suburbs. They always get people who are "visiting" or from "out of town" on their shows. Do they think it sounds better for "Mr. and Mrs. Kedunk" to be from Australia, England, Scotland, Brooklyn? I think Hollywood and California have more adventure, glamour and appeal than any other place. "Hollywood Clothes" still sound more wonderful to me than "Made in New York!"

Mrs. Lyle N. Reed, Box 402, Van Nuys, Calif.

Sirs: Have enjoyed reading Radio Life for three and a half years, and wouldn't miss a copy. I want to add my word for Cliff Arquette. Do hope he will be able to take his place on "Glamour Manor" when they come back from their vacations. Though Kenny Baker is very good, no one can replace Cliff. Was so sorry to learn of his illness.

Alex Crossan, 3800 T Street, Sacramento 16, Calif.

Sirs: When are you going to oblige us with a picture of that sparkling and distinctly California honey, Patsy Lee, of the McNeill "Breakfast Club"? And by us, I mean every California listener to the show, which, I think, means practically every Californian who can enjoy his radio when the "Breakfast Club" is on the air.

California Honey

Also, where can one find the Hooper ratings that they've been kidding Crosby about? Must have had some effect, for his canned show is getting somewhat better, though still a far cry from the sparkling hour he used to give us on the "Music Hall."

Herewith, a glamour pose of the California Honey. As for the Hooper ratings which have been bothering Crosby (and which, incidentally, seem to bother everybody in radio) they're relatively unobtainable except by worried network and agency program heads.

Yes indeed! Our faces are properly red. And just to show we can take our medicine, here are three sample "pop bottles" thrown from the bleachers. We try hard, folks, but this is a big field to cover and every once in awhile an important ball passes us by... like Casey striking out, or something. Anyway, thanks for calling our June 8 "Ear Inspires" slip-up to our attention. We'll make a bigger, better effort next time!

Melvin Porter, 409 East Fifth Street, Los Angeles 13, Calif.

Sirs: In your June 8 issue, Mrs. Rose Skaron asked about child training programs, and I could not help but notice you left off Dr. Osborn, KHJ, 12:15 p. m. Sunday, which seems to me very good.

I cannot agree with your boost of Victor H. Lindlahr. He is not reliable, as was his great old dad, Dr. Henry Lindlahr, who was a real doctor. But of course you are entitled to your opinion, as well as are those who differ with you.

A Reader, Inglewood, Calif.

Sirs: Re. letter of Rose Skaron in "Ear Inspires the Pen," June 8, asking for child training programs—a good one is Dr. Ernest Osborn, Child Psychologist, KHJ, 12:15 p. m. Sunday.

Mrs. Helen Babcock, 410 North Friends Avenue, Whittier, Calif.

Sirs: On Page two, second column, of your June 8 issue, is your reply to Rose Skaron, "There are no specific programs on child training currently heard . . ."

You may not realize that the program listed on Sundays, KHJ, 12:15 p. m. in your listing, is on child training explicitly, by Dr. Ernest Osborn, head of the department of Child Guidance at Columbia University, no less. A graduate of Pomona College, he is now "tops" as a child guidance consultant.

"Dinky Dink"

Not the Name of the Song, but of That Terrific Little Guy Who Says "Poopsie"

By Judy Maguire

THE little man pattered quietly up to the microphone. Opposite regal Bea Benaderet he stood, like a round, tiny brownie. Wistfully, he peered upward through thick, reflecting lenses . . . then, with a swishing sound of his teeth, he spoke.

"Yes, Poopsie? What is it, Passion Flower?"

Small but mighty Dink Trout has made a sizable fortune these past years playing squelched "Mr. Milquetoast" characters. When the new Dennis Day show opened to thunderous applause on the '46-'47 NBC fall and winter schedule, right in there bowing and sharing the kudos was dinky henpecked Dink as Mr. Herbert Anderson. When "The Life of Riley" began, starring the personable Bill Bendix, most dangerous scene stealer on hand . . . Dink's lovable "Waldo Binney." When Cass Daley strode forth in her recent boisterous, bumptious show, who swiped half the laughs? . . . keereect! . . . Dink, as her lipping swain, "Horace." And when kindly "Scattergood Baines" ambled to movie and radio history, whose name scrawled over tons of the fan mail? Dink Trout's, of course . . . can you ever forget him as "Pliny"?

This last Dennis Day rehearsal, when we watched Dink work, was a lesson in technique itself. Sawed off to a brief five-two, with balding brown hair, and big brown eyes behind his habitual thick lenses, he looked like a nervous little "Nixie," anxious to give nobody trouble. In his lines with Bea Benaderet he squeaked back quavering response, well-befitting a flattened husband. Most of the time, we usually wondered whether Bea wouldn't get so carried away (with her domineering, unchallenged advantage as the shouting "Mrs. Anderson") that she'd unexpectedly topple him over with the merest flick of her script.

Throughout the entire rehearsal, he crept unobtrusively here and there, mild, downtrodden, inoffensive. It was only when producer Frank O'Connor briskly called a halt in proceedings that Dink straightened his shoulders, banged on his battered old hat, jabbed a cigarette into his mouth and marched militantly forward to shake our hands.

Different Person

From then on, it was hard to connect him with his portrayal at all. Although his regular speaking voice is high, it carries a tone of definite conviction. One forgets that he is an unusually short man, because his movements are quick and decisive. His manner away from the mike is humorous and disarming. We had lots of fun talking to him about his early career.

His real name, he told us, is Francis Trout. When he was in grade school in his home town of Beardstown, Illinois, he used to clamor around the water pump with the rest of the youngsters at recess, jabbering "Hey, gimme a dink too . . . gimme a dink." That, and his size, contrived to give him a monicker.

His first public appearance was in school home talent, when he stepped in time across the stage behind a little girl with a big bow on the back of her pinafore. At an opportune moment, he grabbed a tie end and gave a tug. She turned and swatted him back . . . and teachers broke up a wrestling match which stole the show.

His first professional appearance, on the other hand, was with Lew Fields in Hammerstein's Broadway production, "Wild Rose."

At the University of Illinois, Dink played in the college band . . . a complete variety of instruments, including piano, trombone and four-hammer marimba. When he graduated, he joined a Chicago brokerage firm, and played the White City Ballroom at night. Meanwhile, he bore in mind the promise of Herbert Stothart (now MGM musical director), who had seen him in a campus production and offered his help, should Dink ever come to Broadway. Dink tried one more regular job, with the George Pullman Company; then, unhappy over his failure to adjust to debits and credits, he boarded a train for New York.

Bad Breaks

Stothart's support landed him the

NOT TOO TALL HIMSELF, Dennis measures a good foot above Dink as they share a mike for one of those defensive "man-to-man" chats . . . bellowing Mrs. Anderson, of course, not yet on the scene.

 VAN HEFLIN TRACKED "Philip Marlowe" to his source—author Raymond Chandler in his La Jolla home. Here producer Jim Fonda, Chandler and Heflin discuss the air portrayal of Chandler's famous hero.

Van Heflin Tracks "Philip Marlowe"

In Establishing the Background for His Role as the Famed Detective, Actor Van Heflin Visits the Crime Laboratories

By Noel Corbett

VAN HEFLIN is known as a perfectionist among actors (that's how you get Academy Awards), and in preparation for his radio role as Raymond Chandler's great detective, "Philip Marlowe", he was permitted to investigate the Los Angeles Police Crime Laboratories. Accompanied by his announcer, Wendell Niles, Van was taken under the guidance of police chemist Ray Pinker, and discovered how alloys were identified, dabbled with poison tests, investigated chemical analysis and went along for a police prowl car ride.

Some were just run-of-the-mill calls, like checking on a man removing merchandise from the sidewalk. It turned out to be a merchant closing his store for the night. A fast call to find out about a disturbance in a hotel turned out to be an argument in a "flop house" between two itinerants as to who should sleep by the window and whether or not it should be open!

The most exciting was a man reported to be holding up a liquor store. The prowler arrived in time to catch the criminal emerging from the establishment brandishing a gun. The officers driving the car told Van to duck. Refusing to miss any of the excitement, Van and Wendell dashed out of the car with the officers. It turned out that the desperate thief was armed with a toy gun and gave in readily when he saw the law!

After the ride, Van felt he had gathered plenty of atmosphere for his role. Originator Chandler, whose character has been brought to the screen in such films as "Murder, My Sweet", "The Big Sleep", "Lady in the Lake" and "Brasher Doubloon", approves heartily of Heflin in the role. "I think the part of 'Philip Marlowe' couldn't be in the hands of a more capable actor," is the unusual praise handed to Van by the author. Hearing of Van's research into police procedure to aid his characterization, Chandler added, "Judging from the trouble you're taking to know Marlowe—you'll have no trouble in playing him!"

▲ "THE HAWK" IN FULL western regalia, strong-featured Barton Yarborough leans on the old hitching rail to tell another "Larrabee" yarn of the "shoot-in" Texas 1840's.

IN THE early days of the West," reads your announcer, in his best Lone Star State voice, "a man had to be tough and fast on the trigger if he wanted to live to a ripe old age. Such a man was 'Hawk Larrabee,' whose stories of the timeless prairies CBS brings you today!"

Against such a windswept setting has been plotted one of the most polished horse opera series galloping the airplanes so far. In the traveling Texas avenger, radio's seemingly insatiable "adventure audience" has found a new type of cowboy hero. Drawling "Hawk" fills all requirements for a fast-on-the-trigger manhood; in addition, he has a slow humor which crackles steadily through the story with ever-increasing effect, and his "Good Samaritan" tendencies are being put across by an actor who wisely forbears from "throwing his weight around."

Barton Yarborough is the star of the "Larrabee" wanderings, and that famous "Clifford" voice is utterly "un-Barbour-Familyish" in its new western trappings. Bart himself is a native of Goldwaite, Texas, and as studio producer Richard Sanville says, "he's our authority. I'm afraid as a tenderfoot I might make some drastic mistakes."

"Justifying lines" in these dramas of the dusty-streeted 1840 period is a process demanding "two cents," however, from every member of the cast. During a rehearsal we visited, a lengthy discussion on matches was bandied busily about. When it was finally established that folks at that time did use matches, but not the book variety, producer Sanville had a concluding remark. . . "Don't," he suggested, "drag out your Dunhill lighter."

Practice production of the show is held back of the curtain at the Columbia Vine Street Playhouse every Saturday afternoon. Sanville, a high, prophet-faced man, who moves like an unsprung steel coil, works his cast hard. Even after final "dress," he painfully goes through brushing-up spots, and five minutes before 3:00 p.m. air-time, he may unexpectedly try another board fade.

NEWS and COMMENT

For Love o' Mike (General Comment)

Rumors Are Flying

"Is it true that so-and-so has been dropped?" "Did you hear that what's-his-name is going to have his own show?" Like every other business in the world, radio has its share of rumors. The talk goes from person to person, from station to station, from columnist to columnist.

Just to give you an idea—here are a few rumors we've snagged this week: Playwright-actor-composer Noel Coward is supposedly recording a series of fifteen-minute programs featuring him singing and playing his own song hits. Abe Burrows, the Dinah Shore show scripter, recorded his piano and song-satire show, using the Meredith Willson audience last week. A sponsor is rumored to be interested in returning the well-missed "Point Sublime" to the air. Jack Kirkwood, also missing from radio too long, is supposed to have cut an audition record mildly described as "sensational." We've also heard that Dennis Day might be auditioning for a third show—thus putting him one up on Phil Harris and Peggy Lee. Eva Le Gallienne and Margaret Webster, both pillars of the New York stage, may soon be heard in a series of radio dramatizations of famous plays and novels.

Voices on Vine Street

"He's acting under a great handicap—no talent." "Hey, mister, got any extra tickets, huh?" "The trouble with radio out here is, they're always looking for somebody new—it's getting so you have to come from New York to get a job." "The trouble with radio out here is, it's a closed clique—if you come from New York you can't get a job." "My friends tell me that with my voice, I should be in radio." "Thank you for sending us your script. It was interesting, but unfortunately we have several on hand." "I did return your call, but the line was busy." "I listen to you all the time—may I have your autograph?" "Leave your name and phone number with the girl in the office. If anything comes up." "Don't call us—we'll call you."

If you are musically appreciative of the classics, you probably don't have to be reminded of this fine series. In case you have overlooked it, we recommend it for those in search of exciting music styling.

The ensemble which presents these unusual four-piano arrangements is composed of Adam Garner, Vee Padwa, Frank Mittler and Edward Edson.

Of course Chopin, that favorite composer among pianists, is done to a turn by these fine artists. What are even more extraordinary are the operatic and symphonic selections, usually heard in full orchestra and with violin solo instrumentation, here translated into four-piano renditions. For instance, a recent half-hour programmed Rimsky-Korsakov's "Flight of the Bumble Bee," famous pyrotechnical violin showcase; Saint-Saens' "Danse Macabre," orchestral tone poem; the Rossini "La Danza," popular tenor aria; in addition to Rachmaninoff, Chopin and Liszt scores for piano.

Not only will "First Piano Quartet" satisfy a discriminating taste in music, it might also reintroduce you to many of the old favorites that had begun to pall, in an exciting new setting.

The House Is Hunted

KLAC (Monday nights at 9:05) introduces "The House Is Hunted" with a good old mystery-show musical introduction. An eerie-voiced announcer further lures you with: "You may not be a 'Sam Spade,' a 'Philo Vance' or a 'Thin Man,' but you can help solve the mystery of the missing homes!" A dyed-in-the-wool follower of crime might craftily refuse the pitch and switch to his idea of greener pastures, but if you listen a few minutes more you'll be well rewarded for giving up your murder kicks.

Last week's show gave a complete breakdown of the new rent control law, explained how and why tenants were protected until March of 1948, and enlightened listeners with an announcement of whom to appeal to in case they are on the verge of bankruptcy or eviction as a result of fabulous rentals.

Too, the landlords get a break. A visiting representative of this group appeared and explained some of his problems. This is a weekly feature.

That night it was Langdon Post, Regional Housing Director, who re-

Another summertime show takes over the Walter Winchell time on Sunday, July 20th. Starting that date (KECA at 6 p.m.), and for six successive Sundays, Ben Grauer, Ed Thorgenson and various fashion experts will combine their talents and serve as replacement for the vacationing columnist. Format for the summer show, titled "Three Views of the News," will have latest news reported by Grauer, a sports feature and commentaries by Thorgenson, and prominent fashion experts discussing fall styles.

Graeme Fletcher

Speaking of newsmen, here's Graeme Fletcher, latest commentator to join the ABC ranks. Fletcher is heard Monday thru Friday mornings over KECA at 7:30.

Ted Bentley, headman on the nightly "Sports Page of the Air", has just signed a 52-week contract with his sponsor, Thrifty Drug Stores of Los Angeles. Heard Monday thru Friday night at 10 on KECA, the Bentley stanza features interviews with some of sportsdom's outstanding figures, reviews of important events of the sporting world, and an all-around coverage of the sports picture up to airtime. Tobe Reed's Scrapbook, recently added ABC feature, is now heard over KECA on Tuesday and Thursday nights at 7:30. The Kellogg Company's Galen Drake, one of radio's best known commentators in the philosophical vein, is now heard on 205 ABC stations. Drake's range of subject matter, believed to be the most varied in radio, embraces both the topical and the timeless, drama, humor, human interest and all manner of material called "the everyday stuff of life." KECA airs the philosopher-commentator, Monday thru Friday mornings at 10. Of interest to music lovers is the fact that ABC will again present the Berkshire Music Festival from Tanglewood, Massachusetts, in mid-July. Dr. Serge Koussevitzky resumes his post as musical director of the orchestra and head of the Centre concerts to be heard over KECA from 6:30 to 7:30 on Tuesday evenings thru Aug. 5th.

Paul Whiteman, beloved Dean of American Music, owns one of the finest collections of records in existence. During his new Paul Whiteman Club sessions (KECA, Monday thru Friday, 12:30 p.m.) many early collector's items from his own record cabinets will be aired. Sammy Kaye fans will be glad to know that the poems read by Maestro Kaye on his "Sunday Serenade" during the past year have been published in a volume known as "Sunday Serenade Book of Poetry, Volume II". Kaye's first volume sold over 100,000 copies. The ABC Breakfast Club's Jack Owens has done it again. That successful song writer and "Cruising Crooner" penned a new tune called "How Soon", which will be recorded by Bing Crosby in August. You'd hardly guess it but that gal with the low-pitched, sultry voice, Beryl Davis, heard on the Phil Silvers show Wednesday nights on ABC at 9, is an English import. This is her first American radio series, tho' she's done guest spots. Lots of good things come from the island kingdom... tweeds and scotch... Chelsea china and singers!

AROUND RADIO: Gaylord Carter, organist on ABC's "Bride and Groom" show, has purchased an auxiliary sloop and named it the "Blue Fin". He's a sailing fan and plans to spend as much time as possible on the blue Pacific. Bruce Foote, baritone on ABC's "Hymns of All Churches" program, KECA at 10:55 a.m., once toured capitals of Europe as a pianist and trumpeter with a popular band. He switched to opera, and finally entered the concert field as soloist with the Chicago, Cleveland and Indianapolis Symphonies.

cently has spent so many explanatory hours on the air.

The program usually includes a "sound-off" period for veterans, which is just what the name implies.

Hearing what tenants and landlords are allowed or not allowed, and what measures are being attempted to restore a modicum of normalcy to the housing situation, more than satisfies the void left by not hearing the make-believe mystery the introduction suggested.

"Western Melodies"

Some night when you're in the mood for music as western as the clink of spurs and the squeak of saddle leather, and you don't want to suffer through any hillbilly nasalities, join KFVB's campfire gathering of the boys at 8:15, Monday through Saturday.

Real Western music lovers will be delighted with the mellow guitars and snappy strains of harmonicas as Ozie Waters and his Plainsmen "Throw a Saddle on a Star," or Bob Wills and His Texas Playboys serenade their old girl, "Rose of the Alamo."

If there's never a night when you have a yen in your heart to make the Old West live again, because you are of the category to whom the strum of a guitar is a painful thing, pull yourself together just for the experience of a revelation. You'll be amazed at what the boys can do when they aren't bent on making every selection as "folksy as an old red barn." The show is recorded, and the studio has a whole bin of Westerns from which to choose. So far it has always selected rhythmic, interesting ballads that set your toes to tapping. You might give the show a listen—for ourselves, we can already sniff the sage, just anticipating tonight at 8:15.

Derry Falligant

Wednesday nights at 8:15, KFI presents the highly-touted Derry Falligant, and after a couple of listens to this boy's relaxed, warm voice, it's easy to see why he's making such a splash in music circles.

Derry plays his own accompaniment on a red hot guitar he's sensible enough to keep low range, and Bob Mitchell's organ accompaniment combines melody and background rhythm.

Into each evening's entertainment the singer incorporates a lively tune, such as "My Heart Goes Crazy"; a Western song, because, as he says, "So many people like them... including me"; and an "old song department," during which he reaches way back for songs like "When You Were Sweet Sixteen" or "Peg o' My Heart."

It's a ten-to-one cinch that Derry's listeners go through much the same series of reactions.

"Why, he sounds like Bing!" "No, he sounds more like Como, don't you think?" "Say, doesn't he remind you of Jack Smith?"

Derry Falligant has a little of them all. But a lot of his own appeal.

Playbacks (Critical Comment)

"Arthur's Place"

We're going to take the long view on CBS's "Arthur's Place," heard on KNX at 9:00 p.m. on Fridays. It's one of those shows that didn't make good immediately—but it's also one of those shows with some of the ingredients and many of the actors we like.

Just to be different, let's look on the credit side first. "Orville," the handyman, is portrayed by Clarence Hartzell, an actor who gets a laugh from us without even trying. Sara Berner, who plays the wacky waitess, "Dreamboat," is another of those versatile people who is an asset to any show on which she appears. "Arthur," in the person of Arthur Moore, producer-turned-actor, gives his cast and guest stars the laugh lines while he rambles along as more or less of a straight man.

On the debit side, there are a few things we'd like to see cleared up before we settle down with "Arthur." The first thing that dims our interest in what is to follow is the needlessly long introduction on the program—we'd like "Arthur" to demonstrate what kind of a "Place" he has rather than have the announcer tell us all about it. We'd also like to get to know "Arthur" as a personality instead of merely a name. We'd like to hear the program follow its own fancy instead of treading on "Duffy's" toes. We'd like to see the show keep its leisurely humor and speed up its pace a little at the same time. In other words, we'd like to like "Arthur."

"CBS Was There"

The announcer shouted valiantly on the opening performance of this Monday drama-documentary (KNX, 9:00 p.m.) but he couldn't have drowned out those sound effects if he'd been a practiced pig-yodeler.

Dialers tuned in for an imaginary radio coverage of Abe Lincoln's assassination, done in "on-the-spot" manner. But background crowd scenes were so crowded that the radio reporter could hardly push his way through, much less make himself heard. Records became louder and louder and actors yipped like banshees alternately expressing gaiety, shock, horror, grief. We felt the entire slipshod job was unforgivable, even a first and trial show.

The speech of Mr. Lincoln as he entered the theater and stopped briefly at the microphone left us quite chilly. . . . "I like to get out in the crowd like this," he parroted stiltedly. "It helps me forget the affairs of state for awhile, and I can better bear my cross." Where, may we ask, has history reported that Honest Abe ever felt like that? Much less, said so.

CBS is to be commended for turning out new program ideas fast, making up for the tremendous gap caused by migrating headliners. But we think haste has made waste already of several basically good new outlines struggling to survive debuts with bad production and loose-ended script development. On this one, "CBS Was Not There" . . . not there at all.

Vacation Worries

This summer season will be one that a young Los Angeles couple, Al and Betty Anderson, will never forget. As a highlight of the final "Truth or Consequences" broadcast of the season, the Andersons were assigned—as a "consequence"—a two-month-long scavenger hunt.

The list of items which Ralph Edwards asked the Andersons to procure consists of: a cigar partly smoked by Winston Churchill (prize, an automatic washer); a hat-band from a hat owned by former mayor La Guardia (prize, a man's complete wardrobe); a hair from Jack Benny's toupee (prize, a diamond ring); a salt cellar from Senator Pepper (prize, a vacuum cleaner); a hambone autographed by vegetarian George Bernard Shaw (prize, an RCA-Victor phonograph combination); a shilling or twenty-five-cent piece contributed by Scotsman Sir Harry Lauder (prize, two wrist watches); a copy of the Missouri Waltz autographed by President Truman and Senator Taft (prize, a gas refrigerator); one of Herbert Hoover's collars autographed (prize, a gas range); a hair from the eyebrow of John L. Lewis (prize, a set of sterling silver); a portion of a sheet worn by Mahatma Gandhi and personally autographed by him (prize, a home freezer filled with frozen foods). Whew!

We're hoping, for the Andersons' sake, that the humor with which many of these gentlemen are endowed comes to the fore. (A piece of John L. Lewis' eyebrow, eh? Hummm—it wouldn't be us!)

"Powie!"

A truly electrical response was received by Montgomery Ward and Company, to their recent radio offers of a store catalog. We hear tell that Ward officials were watching a thirty-trunk-line switchboard as the first spot announcement was aired. A string of red lights instantly stretched across the board, and just as suddenly went out. The load of telephone requests had blown a fuse!

Restored to working order, the board again lit up fully after the next spot, two hours later. This time the fuse held. At the end of an exhausting day, however, the company reviewed results. Ten such chain-breaks had completely exhausted the stock of 4,000 catalogs on hand!

Next!

New Bumstead Children

Since July 6, listeners to CBS' Sunday night "Blondie" are hearing a brand new "Cookie" and a brand new

"Alexander", bringing Norma Jean Nilsson (Jack Carson's little friend), in "Cookie's" role, and Bobby Ellis as "Alexander." Relative newcomer to the Coast radio circles, Bobby has been heard for several years as "Ricky" of "The Guiding Light".

Norma Jean nearly missed the part, due to a bout with the flu. Audition records had set her solidly in the "Cookie" role, but when directors and producers heard her squeak through the first rehearsal, unaware of her just past illness, their eyebrows shot up and a conference followed. Another listen to the audition record clinched the choice, however, and "Cookie's" antics are safely in Norma Jean's hands.

Phone for a Show

Sounds to us as if a big step has been taken toward solving the question of just who is going to pay for television production on a large scale. E. F. McDonald, Jr., president of the Zenith Corporation, has announced the invention of a device whereby you call the telephone operator, she connects you with the television program you want to hear and the charges go on your phone bill!

Before this gadget becomes a reality in the home, amendments to present laws concerning the operation of telephone lines will have to be made. The big technical difficulty was solved by splitting television frequencies—part of the vision is sent through the air, and part over the telephone wires. Put them together and you've got a big-time show.

Wonder if they've taken into consideration the good old human angle that's bound to present difficulties—"Oh, operator, you gave me the wrong show."

Telling on "Pops"

The story of how Charles "Bud" Barry, recently appointed vice-president in charge of programming for ABC, helped sell Paul Whiteman on the idea of doing his Monday-through-Friday record stint, "Paul Whiteman Club," got a laugh from us. We're passing it on, hoping it does the same for you:

Barry, who had worked on the idea of a Whiteman record show, broached the subject to Paul one morning when the maestro visited his office. "Pops, old man, how would you like to do an all-record show, coast-to-coast—playing records, telling stories, and so forth?"

"Naw," was the Whiteman decision. "I've got enough to do without worrying about a new program all of a sudden." Barry had just about decided that selling "Pops" on the show was a lost cause when, the next morning, Whiteman rushed into his office and exclaimed, "Bud, I've got a swell idea! How's about my doing a nation-wide daytime musical show with recorded music?"

The stunned Barry recovered enough to say, "Why, Pops, that'd be swell. How come you thought of it?"

"Well," said Whiteman, "I dunno. I can't sleep very well these nights, and I just got to thinking about it this morning and could hardly wait to go over the idea with you."

And that's how "Pops" was sold on doing his new show!

Mile of Words a Minute

Something that has our head swimming is the disclosure by NBC's prexy, Niles Trammell, of the new system of high-speed communication which can transmit a million words a minute from New York to San Francisco.

News of this radio-mail system, tentatively referred to as Ultrafax by its developers at the RCA Laboratories, was given in Mr. Trammell's testimony before the Senate subcommittee holding hearings on the new radio law proposed by Senator White.

Pointing out that broadcasting will thus encompass the written as well as the spoken word, Mr. Trammell urged protection of the freedom of radio as well as press. By treating the printed page as a frame in a television picture and flashing each page in rapid succession, twenty 50,000 word novels could be transmitted from coast to coast in sixty seconds.

The only thing that bothers us is that we can't read that fast!

Typically Typical

When we heard that Lurene Tuttle was wanted by Ronald Colman for a prominent role in his new picture, we rejoiced. Excellent actress Lurene did get one magnificent movie break in "The Robe," and it seemed only fitting that her radio emoting should branch out a great deal thereafter to films. When she auditioned, we're told, both Colman and the director were greatly impressed by her powerful camera performance.

But she didn't get the part. Average Hollywood reasoning . . . no marquee name. One more reason for name credits for all radio actors and actresses. Radio Life will plug this until . . .

Baker's Book

After weeks of watching Phil Baker, sixty-four-dollar man of "Take It or Leave It," scurrying to a corner between rehearsals and bending himself over a note pad, an agency producer approached Phil and inquired as to what he was writing!

Thus Baker's esoteric scribblings have come to light. It seems Phil is busily gathering notes for an autobiographical book concerning his experiences and those of his show business friends. Paradoxically enough, the jolly showman is to title the treatise "I Shop for Pallbearers." It will be a tongue-in-cheek, speculative account of the friends he has who some day may serve in the capacity suggested by his grim title. The leavening touch will be the Baker humor, so well known to listeners, and should be a very entertaining bit of business. Phil has known a lot of 'em, from the days when Ben Bernie and Singin' Sam were big names on the air.

That's Our Boy!

The last time we interviewed young Tommy Cook, who plays "Junior" on NBC's "Life of Riley," the talk, if you recall, was tennis, tennis, tennis.

And, it seems that Tommy not only talks a good game of tennis—he plays one, too. This week he, along with three other local net (tennis, not radio) lights, will represent the Southern California Tennis Association in the Michigan junior singles and doubles championship matches. The following week he'll travel to South Bend, Indiana, and participate in the Western Tennis Tournament. The week after, he begins qualifying rounds at Kalamazoo, Michigan, in the U. S. Lawn Tennis Association's national tournament.

Crafty

Telling the "Queen" just what she can or cannot do is the job of Harry Mynatt, Mutual's "Queen for a Day" squire. Harry, who figures out just what the Royal Party will do on its twenty-four-hour whirl about town, says the itinerary is basically the same, but that he selects the spots after seeing each winner.

Asked if he ever has had trouble with "Her Majesty," Harry answered "None. You see," he pointed out philosophically, "I always begin by telling her how well she looks. You can say that to women from seventeen to seventy—and never miss at all!"

WAYWARD SON

Ronnie, unpredictable offspring of NBC's Perry Como, has every record his dad has ever made . . . but every time Perry walks into his son's room he catches him "listening to Spike Jones, Tex Ritter or Spade Cooley."

RECORD NOTES TO YOU

By ANDY MANSFIELD

- 2 notes—pleasing
- 3 notes—very good
- Chord in G—tops

KLAC, 10:05 a.m. Sunday

ALBUM OF THE WEEK

"Ellington Special" (from the band leader of the same name) quite appropriately describes the album's eight sides recorded 1932-1938 by the Duke's great aggregation of that era and never released . . . All are good jazz classics and the best Ellington oldies to date—just as good today as they were fifteen years ago and a big Chord-in-G addition to any jazz-fan's library. (Columbia Alb. C-127.)

RECORD OF THE WEEK

Ella Fitzgerald's "Lady Be Good" and "Flying Home" easily won this spot 'cause the gal's quasi-scat singing is really terrific on both sides . . . You'll like her instrumental take-offs, even tho' they be a bit wild at times—but it's the Fitzgerald style and talent that bangs out a lusty three notes. (Decca 23956.)

HAL DERWIN ORCH.

Possessor of one of the finest voices on or off records, Hal introduces his new band (pleasantly reminiscent of the late Hal Kemp's) with "Apple Blossom Wedding" and "Blue and Broken Hearted" . . . but it's the excellent vocal on B&BH that definitely scored a choice three notes. (Capitol 430.)

TEX BENEKE ORCH.

With Tex doing the vocal on the pseudo-hillbilly "Feudin' and Fightin'", and Garry Stevens and the new Moonlight Serenaders vocalling "How Can I Say I Love You," here's a full two-noter in anybody's language. (RCA-Victor 20-2313.)

RAY BLOCH ORCH.

With faultless arrangement and velva-smooth performance, Bloch adds two more to his list of pop concert favorites: "Deep Purple" and "Stella by Starlight"—and three notes seem almost inadequate for these waxings. (Signature 15116.)

VIC DAMONE

"I Have But One Heart" and "Ivy" are well suited to the smooth appealing voice of Damone who debuts on a new label . . . Though the disc is a two-noter, give this lad time, because the stuff is there . . . definitely! (Mercury 5053.)

IT'S A GRAND OLD NAME

Have you often sighed in envy at seeing such names as Choo-Choo Johnson, Chili Williams or Ganges Gilbert in print, and wished your parents had exercised a little whimsy in selecting a tag for you before settling for Mary or Betty? If you nurture an ambition to reign as Mutual's "Queen for a Day", be happy as Mary or Betty.

The "Queen for a Day" folk have done a little research into this matter of name-calling and have discovered that if your name is Mary, you've got a whopping good chance of being named "Queen". If you're a Betty, your chances are pretty good; as Alice, they're not bad; if it's Helen, Ruth or Ann, they're still better than average. It seems that more "Queens" have borne these names than any other.

So far there have been seventeen Marys crowned, fifteen Bettys, twelve Alices, eleven Helens, ten Ruths, eight Anns, six each of Virginia, Margaret, Gertrude, Irene, Doris and Lillian and five each of Grace, Edith and Juanita. Out of 279 first names that 505 "Queens" have borne, 194 have not been duplicated. Many of these have been such common names as Stella, Helena, Isabella, Norma, Naomi, Viola, Fern, Eloise, Hazel, Susan, Rosemary, Rebecca and Maud.

Jack Bailey figures that he's met his first and last "Queen" Vaye, Armi, Hil-len, Cathiene, Lani, Anjani, Minal, Zoma, Malgorgata, Inger, Laurece and Gummel. Sometimes Jack wonders if it shouldn't be a "King for a Day" show when such names as Lynn, Georgie, Chris, Jacques, Terry, Jimmie, Billie and Guy crop up.

Another interesting Bailey discovery is the fact that double names are no longer very popular — or else women drop them by the time they're old enough to become "Queen". The records of the program reveal that only eleven "Queens" have had double names such as Mary Ella and Flora Jane — and not one of the eleven is duplicated.

George M. Cohan's song claims that "Mary is a grand old name" — it took "Queen for a Day" to prove it!

Radio
Life Lines

By Evelyn Bigsby

CLEVEREST INVITATION came to us the other day. It was from Mr. Garry Moore, comedian, and Mr. Herb Sanford, director, "both being terribly unemployed at the moment."

They requested the pleasure of our "indigent company at an Unemployed Party at the home of Mr. Moore. The guest list being made up of radio's foremost unemployed artists," the bid continued, "everyone is requested to bring his own jug . . . Ice, soda and a buffet dinner of hot dogs and sauerkraut will be on the house . . . A select menagerie of agency talent buyers will be on display in a small roped-off area . . . Should you become employed before the party, this invitation is automatically rescinded."

Whadda sense of humor! Dinah Shore, Ginny Simms, Alan Young, and a bunch of stars qualify for the party. The invitation came on ragged-edged brown wrapping paper.

IF GARRY LANDS the kind of solo-starring show for which he quit his Durante teamship, we'll admire him for sticking to his guns. Guess we do anyway. Heard he turned down one solid offer because it wasn't what he'd had in mind. Made him more or less of a figure-head emcee. Incidentally, Arthur Treacher is going to be Jimmy's staid foil come autumn. Can't you hear them already? That combination was a real brainstorm.

HOWCUM ANNOUNCER TIP CORNING, recently gone commercial on

Arnold Eidus of Sarasate's "Gypsy Airs."

Sunday, July 20 — "Open Forum," KMPC, 9:00 p.m. (1 hr.) Debated question, "Should nationwide strikes be prohibited by law?"

WHAT'S SPECIAL

Public Interest

Saturday, July 19—Farm Safety Program, KHJ, 9:30 a.m. (30 min.) Assistant Secretary of Agriculture Charles Brannan, Representative Clifford R. Hope, and Senator Arthur Capper participate in this special national program honoring the Fourth Annual Farm Safety Week Campaign.

Monday, July 21—"Musical Digest" and "If They Had Lived", KGFI, 6:00 p.m. and 8:00 p.m. (2 hrs. 15 min.). Both programs will be dedicated to the Los Angeles Cancer Hospital Drive, with guest speakers Michael Fanning (postmaster general for Los Angeles) and Dr. E. T. Rennam (president of the Los Angeles County Medical Association) heard in their separate Cancer Drive capacities.

Fred Beck's morning stint, now fliply calls the boss "Fred"? When they were just sustaining, he called him a naively respectful "Mr. Beck" and we liked it better that way.

We like to listen to Johnny Murray, but we'd like it better if he and his announcer, when the show starts, didn't sound so much like Mr. Beck and Tipper.

AFTER SITTING on the radio sidelines for many years while Nelson Eddy's mike career has been off-again, on-again, we've come to the conclusion that his are the most constant, most ardent fans (perhaps excluding Sinatra's). The minute we published the fact that Eddy was to head up "Kraft Music Hall," his followers started besieging us with story and picture requests. Audience for Eddy's opening show was an interesting cross-section of more mature femininity. The twelve men present were conspicuous by their paucity in numbers.

VEOLA AND HANLEY STAFFORD were vacationing in Victoria last week and wrote they were having a sensational time. "I'm really becoming British with afternoon tea every day," Veola scribbled.

KFI IS FILLING in vacant summer schedules with some of the nicest music in a long time. Studied selection of records and pleasing continuity in, for example, Sunday's "Styles in Music" (9 p.m.)

PAUL WHITEMAN, who started his disc jockey session on ABC here July 14, is using a wire recorder to get advance interviews with celebrities he wants to present on his program.

Nominated for the most disagreeable commercial: "Policewoman's." If that wasn't "bad taste," what was?

Overheard in the Derby: "Yeah, I'm corny. I listen to "Manhattan Merry-Go-Round!"

NELSON PRINGLE is doing some of the sharpest, most colorful first-hand reporting in these parts.

EIGHT-YEAR-OLD ANNE WHITFIELD, who plays Phyllis on the Harris-Faye show, is playing "Susan" in "Melloney Holtspur" at Pasadena Playhouse. She also appears frequently on "Cisco Kid," over at Mutual. "Look, Mommy," Anne exclaimed as she picked up her Fourth of July script, "I'm the only woman on the show!"

DELETE ON DASHES

Through a new technical set-up, Mutual's Jimmy Scribner now does the twenty-two voices for "The Johnson Family" without his famous fades and footwork to and fro in the studio. Jimmy, who used to run to another mike ten feet away for a voice on filter, now gets his effect through three connected mikes and a series of pushbuttons. "It's fine," he comments, "but I'm nervous now about my waistline."

COMEDIENNE COOK

Judy Canova will publish a cookbook compiled from the more than 30,000 recipes she's collected as a hobby. Judy has also contrived a "Canova Cookbook" index system which really takes the headaches out of trying to find the right recipe.

GAGS OF THE WEEK

N. Patterson, 117 North Catalina, Redondo Beach, Calif.
 Heard on "Noah Webster Says":
 Haven MacQuarrie: And what is your name?
 Contestant: Mrs. Boozer.
 MacQuarrie: What does Mr. Boozer do?
 Contestant: He's a beer-truck driver.
 Bertha May Hembling, 4230 Wawona Street, Los Angeles 41, Calif.
 Heard on the Judy Canova show:
 Paw: I'm plum wore out.
 Maw: You just been settin' in that rockin' chair and rockin'. I don't see how yo're wore out.
 Paw: I been rockin' agin the grain.

VERY HANDY

Something he'd like to have in case of being stranded on a desert island is what CBS "House Party" host Art Linkletter calls the average woman's purse. Delving into pocketbooks on a recent broadcast, Art came up with the following curious articles: a baseball, a half-eaten carrot, a radio tube, a screwdriver, a Big Ben alarm clock, a hardboiled egg, and a three-inch heel from a dancing slipper.

How's THAT?

Conrad Nagel, Columbia's "Silver Theatre" host, rarely twists his tongue on the air, but made up for it recently when, after a brief description of the story, he said "And now — Sliver Theatre."

A Dog's Life

Rudd Weatherwax, trainer of "Lassie," the MGM dog star who recently started her own ABC series, has a fund of dog stories. He tells about the irate man who complained that one of the dogs on the trainer's grounds barked all night. "Don't worry about him," consoled Weatherwax. "He sleeps all day!"

IMPRESSED

As a recent Father's Day gesture, Shirley Lauck (nineteen) and Gretchen Goff (seven) came to NBC to watch their respective dads perform as "Lum and Abner." When the program signed off, there was a long pause, before little Gretchen stage-whispered over to Shirley: "Gosh... they're good!"

SEE?

When a doubting North Carolina listener recently wrote to Mrs. Florence Burnet of Granite City, Illinois, asking her if she really got that trip to New York, and, in fact if anybody ever actually won anything from Mutual's "Heart's Desire", loyal Mrs. Burnet dispatched an immediate letter to emcee Ben Alexander. "Can't you do something to convince her?" she wanted to know. Ben could, and did. New clothes for all of the North Carolina tuner's five children are now on the way as well as subscriptions to three popular magazines for herself!

Contests and Offers

"WIZARD AND THE ODDS," KHJ, 9:45 p.m. Tuesdays and Thursdays—Leo Guild takes a hazardous stand regarding the "flying saucers" reports, and offers $100 to anyone who can prove that a "flying saucer" exists. Any takers? (We're scared to watch this one!)

*"HOLLYWOOD PLATTER PARTY," KHJ, 11:00 p.m. Monday through Friday—Four weeks more remain to name your favorite disc jockey, via Wendell Noble's nightly contest. Send your special pick to the program, c/o KHJ, 5515 Melrose Ave., Hollywood, Calif.

WILLSON WISDOM

Meredith Willson, CBS "Showroom" host, has some advice for people who want to hear symphonic music, but don't because they feel they won't understand it: "Sit down and just listen," he suggests. "Don't try to imagine what the composer had in mind when he wrote it. Make up your own stories to fit the music. Also, study the notes. You'll discover that it's wonderful what's been done with from four to eight notes. Some masters can write an entire movement, using no more than four!"

"Wild Rose" part, but the show folded after a brief few weeks' run. Without another job, Dink waited, and got broke. Then, Ben Bernie's brother, Herman, offered a place with a smart New York cafe orchestra. At the same time, Lew Fields and his son were starting a new stage show at the Oliver Morosco Theatre, but it meant eight weeks without pay until production was definitely set.

Dink was hungry, and he needed ready money fast. So he took Herman Bernie's offer, and joined the cafe staff that night. In four weeks, the restaurant went bankrupt. Frantically, Dink called Fields, to see if he still had a chance in the play, but the part had just been cast. It seemed thereafter as though all the breaks were bad. He tried vaudeville and played the Orpheum circuit for a time, but bookings were skimpy and discouraging. He traveled to Atlantic City on a pointless wild goose chase. Finally, he joined the Warners' chain, as a manager of local picture theatres.

Back in Chicago by this time, he was working on a radio script idea whenever he had the chance. Satisfied that it was salable, he took his suggestion into WGN on the same day that the studio was holding auditions for a role on "Just Plain Bill." Dink decided to stick around. Handed a script, he read it in typical Trout style.

The producer scratched his chin. "Can you play the mouth organ too?" he wanted to know. Dink shook his head. The producer sighed and pivoted. "Wait!" Dink decided. "Do you mean can I play a mouth organ now . . . or can I play one this time tomorrow?"

Overnight, Dink became a specialist . . . on a mouth organ borrowed from a friend's little girl. From then until he went with "Scattergood Baines," Dink played both Elmer and the "Polly Wolly Doodle" theme music on "Just Plain Bill's" Monday through Friday travails.

Sock-Staring

His success in landing the "Pliny" portrayal was an equal misadventure. Dink was called for the auditions along with an imposing batch of people. From 4:30 in the afternoon, he sat lonesomely outside the studio for his chance, while one applicant after another filed in and out. Rumors began to have it that the part was already cinched. The ranks thinned steadily . . . as Dink forlornly stared at his socks.

Hours later, the doors opened, and the producer, star, cast and orchestra streamed out, closing their briefcases with significant finality. Most of them stared blankly at Dink with that "you still here?" expression. But the producer reconsidered . . . after all, why not give the "poor little guy" a chance. So, at his request, Dink was ushered into the studio, lights were switched back on, and a "snappy test" mike turned up.

Dink read two lines, and stopped at the resulting hubbub in the control booth. The producer excitedly motioned him to continue. The part was Dink's for the next five and one-half years . . . including enactments of "Pliny" in six "Scattergood" pictures!

Dink, who drives a colossal big Packard, can tinker the inside workings of anything mechanical into shape. In his home town of Beardstown, he explains, automobiles and girls were "a fellow's favorite pastimes." He also loved to hunt and fish, as a youngster, and would like to do more fishing out here if he could find anything "like those wonderful Illinois lakes." When Dink was a boy, his father once took him to a memorable breakfast with ex-President Woodrow Wilson, and Beardstown, you'll also remember, was the place where Abraham Lincoln fought his famous Armstrong trial. Dink speaks of both events with detectable pride.

We wanted to know just one more thing. "Don't you ever get to feeling inhibited . . . all those people pushing you around?"

"Hmmm," he considered. "Never thought about it much. Guess I should, shouldn't I? But the only person who really seems to mind is my mother. She always wanted me to play tall, romantic leads . . . can't get her to listen to me on the radio at all!"

"The Hawk" Swoops Again

Christians and Jews, for "The Biggest Crime" (one of the "Assignment Home" series) and one sees indeed that over-all "Hawk" producer William N. Robson has picked a good assisting man.

We especially enjoyed, too, watching star Yarborough work. An utterly calm actor, who is unobtrusive facet of "Larrabee" rehearsals, Bart moseys around the studio more or less out of the way, until he's on cue. Usually, he reads his lines lounging easily on a high stool, holding his script about two feet from his face. (He is terrifically farsighted, in spite of the intense dark-rimmed glasses he wears). He has only one nervous Yarborough gesture, flinging his hand behind his head in a sort of a half-yawn pose, whenever he wants to give emphasis to a particular line. Veteran of fifteen pictures, 200 stage appearances and more than 10,000 radio broadcasts to date, Yarborough easily acts as casually as he talks.

Dour Character

When Shakespeare wanted to offset a tense situation, he threw in a character seldom expected, but humorously effective. Writer Dean Owen has tried the same with a clever side-kick personality, known dourly as "Sombre Jones."

Played by Oscar-Levantish Barney Phillips, "Sombre" rides glumly beside "Hawk," mumbling unhappily about every adventure, in one of the darndest "sour grapes" voices we've ever heard. As "Hawk" says, "He'd grumble if he dug up a can of gold pieces and found they wasn't shined up all purty like they came from the mint." We were as hysterical as the script-characters about how the routin' tootin' action would turn out, until "Sombre" laconically beamed the villain with a cookie jar, as he backed up, both guns blazing, past the pantry door.

Pleasantly different is the music on this show. Since "Hawk" will probably draw his "forty-four" on a cross-country cooperative basis as soon as the series becomes commercial instead of sustaining, an orchestra was out of the question. Instead of using "canned" (recorded) background, however, producers Robson and Sanville have thrown a trumping card.

The cowboy quartet which now sings calypso harmony when the action needs a break, is as reminiscent of hot coffee under a prairie moon as the real thing could ever be. The boys . . . Rod May, tenor; Fran Mahoney, lead; Bob Crawford, baritone; and Tookie Cronenbold, bass; attend rehearsals and show in full western regalia, leaning "old bar rail" style against the wall, while they out-wait lines.

This is "Hawk's" second season on the CBS dial. Originated as an experimental piece in Ernie Newton's Hollywood program office, the program has been widely appealing from its very start. The fact that it's a once-a-week, thirty-minute drama has set "Hawk Larrabee" way out in front of the "pulp western" class, and allowed for refinishing and quality casting all the way through. When he leaps a trail and comes careening down the mountain on another pounding hombre-chase, listeners can be sure "Hawk" will give them the ultimate in thrills . . . and that the program at the same time will complete itself as a fine production.

"Hawk" and "Sombre," to be candid, are relative newcomers to the field of western drama. It is skillful direction, unusual lines and authentic portrayals which are making all the difference in establishing them both as old favorites in the "hand on the holster" class.

When Hawk says: "Shucks, me and Sombre thrive on trouble . . ." Sombre says: "Speak for yourself, Hawk. Me, I'm peaceable."

The two of them, accordingly, are as much fun together in the saddle as anybody we've watched for a long time!

Roberta Roberts, Who Helps "Bride and Groom" Launch Couples Into Matrimony. Almost Too Busy to Become Bride Herself

By Coy Williams

THE CUPID behind the scenes of ABC's "Bride and Groom" program is a pretty blue-eyed blonde who would make a stunning bride but is too busy holding weddings to hit the middle-aisle herself. Fellows, it's a terrible waste of material.

Roberta Roberts is her name, and we'll tell where to phone her in a minute. We aren't sure Miss Roberts has any free time, because it's a job shoving a couple a day across the threshold of matrimony and there are occasions, we'll bet, when the gal looks at weddings with a slightly jaundiced eye.

During the year and a half that "Bride and Groom" has been on the air, more than 400 couples have said their "I do's" to the not unmusical jingle of free silverware, refrigerators, radios and other incidentals of domestic life—and Roberta and her bosses, the Johns Masterson, Nelson and Reddy, have seen all of them through the crisis.

You understand her problem when you realize that every day 100 applications shower on her desk from happy couples who want the world to know how they met. Twenty-five are called in daily for personal interviews, and 150 more phone in for information. All this while a wedding is going on. It's not a job for a person who likes to do more than one thing at a time.

However, Roberta's previous experience made her an almost perfect choice when the program owners, Masterson, Nelson and Reddy, started looking for someone accustomed to meeting the public under conditions of stress.

Proper Training

Roberta during the war was on a draft board—and she finds very little difference in the degree of tension in those headed for war or matrimony.

As a member of Selective Service in Fairbanks, Alaska, she passed on Eskimos and Indians for Uncle Sam's army. Now she feels she is doing a measure of penance for breaking up igloo home life: she has helped steer nearly a thousand tortured souls into domestic bliss.

There is no trouble getting customers. People from all over the U.S., Canada and Hawaii write in asking to be put on the program. They had one Norwegian wedding. Another couple seventy-five years old, who met at a Townsend Club, got married on the show.

IF YOU are interested in scouting young talent, we hope you've been listening to the programs presented by Los Angeles City College on KFCAC, 11:30 a.m. Wednesdays and Thursdays, and 5:30 p.m. on Saturdays. By the time this is in print, they may be summer vacationing, but look for their return with fall classes. These Radio Drama Workshop plays have been presented since 1938. The Workshop recently passed its 1100 mark, and under the faculty supervision of Mr. Robert Whitten has presented dramas which have attracted much favorable professional comment and helped many hopefuls along the way to air success.

The Workshop uses a leased telephone wire to pipe its broadcasts to KFCAC from the college radio studio during the early show, and transcribes its half-hour Saturday broadcast.

Its dramas are packaged entirely with student talent, including the writers, actors, producers and sound effects men.

A recent series of children's programs, "Fun With Fables", has been broadcast over KRKD on Sundays. Realizing the need for more constructive programs for children, the Radio Department of the School presented the fifteen-minute series under the direction of Miss Julia Crary, faculty supervisor, and with the endorsement of the Board of Education and the Parent-Teacher Association.

Audition Required

The demand for entry into the radio department of the school is so great at present that for the first time an audition system has been necessary for use in determining the students accepted into the advanced classes. Beginning work is available to all students.

Many graduates of the radio course have made good in the stations and on the nets. Among the younger personalities who are former students are writers John Fenton Murray, Vance Colvig and Robert Barton Behr, producers Bob Lehman and Alan Mann, announcers Bentley Morris and Phil Norman, NBC engineer Don Onofrio and dramatic actor Robert Cole. Elliott Lewis, one of the most sought-after radio actors in Hollywood, is perhaps the best-known of City College's radio alumni.

Instructors in the radio department who can take credit for the imposing list of grads who made good are Robert Whitten, Radio Workshop and announcing instructor; Douglas Kennedy, chairman and technical instructor; Julia Crary, production and acting instructor; Joseph Johnston, radio writing instructor; and John W. Shaw, microphone technique instructor.

Several students now taking the course have worked professionally in radio and several do part-time work in lesser capacities around local stations.

Many of his students, according to Mr. Whitten, came back from the service with their voices and microphone technique neglected and have re-enrolled to regain their former proficiency.

Scrolls of merit are awarded each semester to the two advanced students contributing the most to the radio department. "Alpha Awards," the department's Oscars, are presented annually to the student who has shown the greatest improvement and to the most outstanding student.

she's mad. She doesn't know anything about radio, except that I'm on it at regular intervals. She sews . . . when we went to San Francisco with the "Queen for a Day" show recently, she made a coat in three days. She goes to Chouinard's Art School . . . taking millinery designing. And she's also learning to swim at the Los Angeles Athletic Club . . . ever borhood, near Washington and Ardmore, through Los Angeles Polytechnic High School. When he graduated, it was directly into the depression. One of his brothers, luckily, was working at the Daily News, and with his help Hugh got a job riding a bike downtown delivering display copy. At night, he enrolled in journalism at Metropolitan Trade School, eventually advancing to the editor's desk on the Metropolitan Night School newspaper.

At that time, Ken Frogley was radio editor on the Daily News staff, and very much in contradiction to his weekend calendar (when he liked to get away, "hang it all," and relax) he had acquired a 9:00 p.m. newscast every Saturday. Hugh had developed a hobby of hanging around the radio desk, picking up copy and reading it over idly. He happened to be doing just that one Friday afternoon when Frogley exploded in exasperation that he'd give anything to pass that dratted newscast on to "some poor sucker" the next day. Automatically, Hugh pointed chestward.

His delivery was a hit with the station (KFI) and Frogley, simultaneously. Nothing for it, then, but that Hugh must become Frogley's assistant, with the newscast his regular assignment and other radio details included.

He'd been filling the job enthusiastically for a time, when a man from KTM came in to "plant" a publicity story. To his inquiry, did they know of any radio announcers? Hugh again nodded vigorously. It would be a regular job, the fellow elaborated, probably not pay much, maybe $25. Hugh, then making $17.50 (all told), was still interested. And, following a brief audition which established his voice favorably, he walked right in.

Evolution

Some station history at this point rather interested us. KTM was at that time operating in connection with another independent, KELW, in Magnolia Park. Both stations were eventually bought by William Randolph Hearst and combined as KEHE, local outlet for his old California State Network. The famous Earle C. Anthony backing finally assumed full ownership, and the result has been one of Los Angeles' most applauded chain affiliates . . . the American Broadcasting Company's KECA!

Hugh, for his part, had been with the new KEHE for two months, following its Hearst conversion, when station KHJ, (then located downtown at Seventh and Bixel Streets, Los Angeles) joined the Mutual Broadcasting System. Looking for new men to start the new coast chain, they picked Hugh's voice and offered a contract.

One of his major shows at that time may arouse nostalgic memories . . . remember the team of Fred Astaire, Charles Butterworth and JIM Hugh Brundage frowned into his cup of coffee. "Before we go any farther," he committed himself, "I might as well tell you. I haven't any fascinating hobbies. . . like race horses or airplanes. We don't live in the San Fernando Valley. I've never been screen-tested for pictures. My wife isn't a career woman, and so far we haven't any children. We're just two happy people who aren't very unusual, and I don't know what on earth you're going to write about either one of us."

Like Jack Benny, we had been interposing "But . . . But . . . But . . ." all through this galloping monologue. "But . . . that's wonderful!" we finished finally, lurching halfway across the table to heartily shake his hand. "That makes you very unusual."

"It does?"

"Yes, indeedly." Happily we rubbed our palms together. "Now," we encouraged, "go right ahead and jabber. What about your wife? She sounds swell."

"Well," he reflectively continued, "she's a five-foot six-inch blonde from Texas, who never draws unless since we went to Arrowhead with friends last summer, and she had to wade around on the outer edge."

Unhappy Period

Hugh and Patricia (he calls her Patricia instead of Pat) were married in August, 1942, in Santa Barbara. Three weeks later, Hugh went into the Coast Guard on submarine detection convoy duty to Bizerte, Casablanca, Orlando, and for the ensuing three years saw his wife exactly twelve days. "Shore Leaves" were definitely in the Frederic Wakeman manner, and being much older than most of the youngsters who followed duty with him, Hugh remembers the entire period as one of the most unhappy in his life.

Finally transferred back to the states, he gratefully went into Armed Forces Radio Service under an old friend, actor Elliott Lewis, whom, as a youngster singing with the Los Angeles City College choir, Hugh had first met years before at old independent KTM.

A Californian since 1926, when his folks moved south from Montana (not because of his father's health, but because of his mother's persistence) Hugh lived in the same neigh-

JOHNNY DESMOND in the G.I. role that started the oo-la-la-ing echoing clear back to this country. Kollar Photo.

FRENCH girls first applied the term "la creme" to Johnny Desmond, whose lyric baritone voice boosted him to high-bracket popularity in France, England and all along the Riviera. Literally the à la Française expression means "the cream," broadly inferring that's of what the Desmond vocalizing is reminiscent . . . the smoothness of cream.

The overseas adulation started when Major Glenn Miller, playing Pled Piper in reverse, followed the kids to war with the American Allied Expeditionary Forces band. More than once performers' feet were nearly uprooted by the landing of a nearby bomb, but determination remained intact, and for over five hundred broadcasts and personal appearances B-17's winged their load of boys along the melody trails through Europe.

When Johnny came marching home, it was to find an interrupted career had been furthered by the praises sung and the fan clubs formed on foreign shores.

All the mooning and swooning by the maids with different tastes might conjure to mind an alarmingly impressive picture of Johnny. It's by no means a disappointment to find the young singer as typically American as hot dogs and giant malts. Radio Life's first glimpse caught him slouched in a chair at one of our local bistros drinking a glass of milk and laughing at the glamorized publicity pictures of him that are to decorate facades wherever his personal appearances are made. The Desmond hair was shorn in as nearly a crew cut as a highly publicized balladeer is allowed, and we could see a bright striped T-shirt under his very good, but mismatched, tweeds. A dry wit and ease of conversation make Johnny excellent company. Being a perfectly normal man of twenty-six, whose good fortune hasn't always existed, he holds an embarrassed pleasure over the ballyhoo and success.

Was "Bobolink"

A Mr. Bob Crosby, driver of the old "Camel Caravan," is responsible for first plucking John Desmond from the obscurity of teen-age singing in and around the old home town of Detroit. A group of three boys and a girl made some mighty fine music with Crosby's band (including the famous "You Forgot About Me") under the name "Bobolinks." The girl in the group chose, two weeks after the big break and some thousand miles out of Detroit, to become homesick and leave. Wisely, bandleader Crosby extracted a promise to stay with the job from the new warbler, a pretty Salt Lake City miss named Ruth. A year later the girl made another promise, this time assuring Johnny Desmond she would wait for him while he struck out on his own. Back to New York went the hopeful fellow.

"Those six weeks before I connected with Gene Krupa were the loneliest I ever spent in my life. New York had never seemed so big." But the ensuing year with the popular Krupa outfit enabled Johnny and Ruth to be married, and turned the spotlight brightly on a new voice and personality. Then occurred Johnny's period of gritting his teeth through the usual Air Corps training period in this country before leaving for overseas with the Miller band.

Young Mr. Desmond is not the person to whom you want to smilingly address a remark about "having settled down to civilian life." Since his 1945 release from the service, Johnny's been busy as that proverbial paper hanger with his Victor record-

Johnny Green on the old Packard hour? In addition, Hugh sold Popsent on the Boh Hope time, and handled major music and news hours throughout the week. Then, while he was still announcing such famous Mutual-ers as "Old Fashioned Revival Hour" and the Langendorf News, he was offered free-lance work on CBS's Shirley Temple and Ginny Simms shows, so for the ensuing period he scattered fire.

In '42 he joined the Coast Guard for those next years of which he speaks so miserably; and when he was out of uniform in September '45, found radio crowded with new faces and shows. With free-lancing definitely "tough bucking," he went to KFAC spinning records. Then Charlie Vanda called him for announcer auditions on Dee Engelbach's "Academy Award" series; and Hugh was given the show on an exclusive contract which meant one show per week and six days for golfing.

The hardest work he did all that season, he swears, was painting his mother's seven-room cottage, "two coats," (even though he swore, when he left the blues, that he'd never paint again). "That's all you do in the Coast Guard, you know. Paint a deck, scrape it off, paint it again, scrape it off. . . ."

Further Assignments

When "Academy Award" went off the air, Hugh tried his own hook again and landed Mark Warnow's chanting "hup 2-3-4" show, "Sound Off!" then on KHJ. By the time the Army decided to march its offering over to CBS, Hugh had signed a staff KHJ contract again, which he's on fulltime now, including regular service with Jack Bailey on "Queen for a Day."

That, he despondently assured us, was the "Brundage Story" in toto. "I haven't championed any fatal microphone incidents either. . . ." He sighed heavily, "I'm afraid I'm a very simple guy."

Hardly, friend Hugh. . . . Hardly. Ever heard that very prickly little Charles Wagner theory. . . . "A man is simple when his chief care is the wish to be what he ought to be—that is, honestly and naturally human."?

After they'd been properly sealed and dispatched by air to New York under the protective care of an ABC publicity man (the only three-person honeymoon we recall), Roberta looked around for more clients.

A series of local announcements before the show's debut had brought in eighteen letters. All eighteen were booked forthwith and luckily turned out well.

Typical Wedding Day

Prospects nowadays get a much finer screening. Once chosen, they become practically wards of Miss Roberts. Every detail of the wedding (which is held in a chapel adjoining the broadcasting studio so that the newlyweds can return to the program immediately afterward) is gone over many times in advance. On the wedding day, bride and groom show up by 8:30 in the morning, get a rehearsal, dress for the ceremony and have their official pictures taken. Emcee John Nelson talks to them for a half hour, calming their nervousness and learning something of their background. The minister—usually kindly, white-haired Rev. Alden Lee Hill of Highland Park—arrives and discusses the ceremony. All the while Roberta hovers nearby.

It's her duty, later, to get the palpitating pair up to the mike for pre-wedding chatter, out to the chapel for the really serious business, and back to the studio (not forgetting hankies for the bride's tears and the lipstick on the groom's chin) in time to receive Nelson's good wishes and shower of gifts.

After she has them headed in the direction of the airport, Roberta is free to take up the next case. But she isn't through with that couple. They keep calling her to tell about the honeymoon, to ask advice on the first quarrel, and "what'll we name the baby?"

With all that background and knowledge, the question naturally arises about Roberta: why doesn't she go on her bosses' program as Exhibit A? Well, so much exposure to matrimony acts like a vaccination; it develops a certain immunity.

But don't let that stop you, fellows. Give her a ring at "Bride and Groom" headquarters Mondays through Fridays. If a man answers, don't hang up. Probably just another bridegroom.

ing contract, theater and guest appearances, and a desperate effort at finding a home.

"Traveling conditions being what they are, it's been necessary for Ruth to wait for me at her home in Salt Lake City," Johnny bemoaned. "We realize we're in the same boat thousands of others share, but it makes it no more pleasant."

Practical Mr. Desmond spent a good deal of his spare time while here looking for a house. He loves California's easy ways and climate, so ideal for a boy who enjoys speeding about in open cars and engaging in all outdoor sports. His eager plans for that "some day" would take years to fulfill.

At the conclusion of his highly successful engagement at our own Ciro's, and highlighting his visit to the coast as four-time guest on the Chesterfield "Supper Club," Johnny left once more for New York, via Salt Lake City, of course.

"I'd better change my ways if I ever hope to get across in California, though. I was appearing at Pasadena Junior College one day, and right in the middle of an encore I found myself staring back at a whole auditorium full of surprised faces. For the life of me I couldn't remember any more words. What made it worse was the song I'd been singing. . . . 'I'm Lost.' Boy, those kids must have thought I was terrible!"

Johnny has no superstitions, and says his sort of good luck allows no room for them. He seems wholeheartedly to enjoy myriads of things . . . records, books, games, food . . . but question him about a hobby and he'll tell you flatly, "I have none at all. I hate hobbies and try to avoid them."
