▲ DURING THE UNDERWATER antics, songwriter Jimmy McHugh undertook to pen a new water song while submerged in some of the same. Al Jarvis breathlessly observes the performance. And Florence Chadwick, who knows all about water, observes them both with glee.

The "New" Penny Singleton

By Ted Hilgenstuhler

A CUTE LITTLE blonde stepped into the spotlight at the famed Biltmore Bowl. In her hotel room before the show, she described herself as being "green as grass." Working at supper clubs was an entirely new experience for her.

Like a diminutive doll, she sang, she danced, she cracked jokes. Her voice had a wide, vibrant range; her shapely legs glided through a classy Charleston; her comedy routine sparkled with fresh, witty lines, delivered with professional touch.

At the end of each skit, smiling faces and wild applause demonstrated that the crowd enjoyed what they saw and heard.

Everyone in the audience knew the young lady. It was Penny Singleton, better known to millions of Americans as just plain "Blondie."

New Yet Old

Although the people there had at one time or another undoubtedly laughed at the zany antics of "Blondie" and "Dagwood," that night they were not applauding a memory.

They were applauding a new, fresh face on the show-business scene. The "new" Penny Singleton.

Actually, Penny started out as a singer. When only nine years old (her name then was Dorothy McNulty) she got a job singing for illustrated song slides in a Philadelphia movie house.

Later, as a singer-dancer-comedienne, she appeared in several musical shows on Broadway. After many different types of movie roles in Hollywood, she finally became "typed" as "Blondie" of the famed Chick Young's comic strip. All told, she and "Dagwood" (Arthur Lake) made dozens of movies and piled up over 600 radio shows to their credit. Several years ago, the team broke up.

Comeback Trail

With the exception of a six-week stint with Ken Murray's "Blackouts" and a few TV shows back East, "Blondie" went into a sort of semi-retirement.

That wasn't too hard to take, either, because in private life she is happily married to movie producer Robert Sparks, and is the devoted mother of two lovely girls, Susie, nine, and Dorothy, sixteen.

However, Penny came back with an entirely different routine, and even a cute new hair style which she calls "My Dutch Boy," or "Penny's Bang Bob."

One night after her performance she explained the reasons for her comeback.

"I've been in show business all my life. Show-business people are my kind of people. I believe that anyone in this business has a gift. They have been given this gift for a special reason, and they should use their talent for the enjoyment of others as long as they can.

"My work does not disrupt my family life. And as long as I can make people happy, I shall continue to do so."

Following her appearance at the Biltmore, Penny expected to play at several night clubs and make guest spots on television.

She is also very much interested in doing her own show on TV. Judging from her successful supper-club engagements, she seems to be a sure bet for a future TV career.

It won't be the "old Blondie," though. It'll be the "new Penny," which is really another version of the "old Dorothy." It's confusing on paper, but mighty pleasing on stage.

▲ ALTHOUGH PENNY SINGLETON originally broke into show business as a singer-dancer-comedienne, it is only recently that she has been able to devote full time to her new act.

▼ COSTARRING WITH ARTHUR LAKE as "Dagwood," Penny Singleton was known for many years as just plain "Blondie" to millions of radio and movie fans. This story tells how Penny is attempting to prove she has many other talents.

They All Sing His Praises

*French-Born Director Philippe
 deLacy Has Many Admirers*

By Donna Scott

PHILIPPE DE LACY, KTTV director, has an enviable number of friends. Unsolicited, they sing his praises.

The modest, handsome, talented director was reticent on only one subject, himself. When it came to television, he was brimming over with conversation.

Philippe believes that some day the stature of television directors will receive the recognition accorded to those in the motion-picture industry. A director's identification with a telecast will have the same significance as the names of directors John Ford, John Huston and George Stevens have to motion pictures. He feels that eventually a star system will evolve around TV directors.

"A good director is not merely a technician," he says. "He must have an imagination and a talent to understand everyone's point of view... actor, writer, cameraman... and be able to direct and coordinate all facets as one would on a football team."

Philippe has had an extensive background in the entertainment field. In 1921 at the age of four he began his theatrical career, appearing with Geraldine Farrar. Later he was in such stage productions as "The Bluebird," "Spring Fever," and "Winterset." His films included "Peter Pan," "Beau Geste," "Anna Karenina" and "Four Feathers."

Subsequently Philippe tried his hand as a motion-picture director. In 1937 he joined the "March of Time" as an assistant to Louis de Roche-mont. His rich and varied experiences with these film documentaries helped him immeasurably with live TV documentaries. When Time did a feature on Father Divine, Philippe was in close association with the cult for two months. They dubbed him "Blessed Lamb."

Although they do not articulate the name bestowed upon him by Father Divine, his associates at KTTV think the name suits him to a T. Philippe is patient and understanding. He never loses his temper. He joined the station the day it opened. His credits include "Success Story," "Without Fear," Buster Keaton, Joe Adams, and a host of other shows.

Philippe likes special-events telecasting because no other medium can compete with its on-the-spot coverage. He thinks phonevision is the coming thing. And he wants to go on record as saying that in his opinion KTTV has the greatest creative group of engineers in town.

For the record this is what some of his associates have to say about him.

An agency director, Leonard Shane: "Philippe deLacy is the cleverest and most versatile TV director in Hollywood. Obstacles never stand in his way. His creative ability sweeps them aside... he puts his heart and his soul in his work."

Television actress Lenore Kingston: "Philippe is a thorough showman, an artist with great vision. He isn't afraid to allocate some responsibility to the technical crew. He can draw the proper response from an actor... His over-all understanding of the end product puts him head and shoulders above other television directors."

↓ DIRECTOR deLACY and TV technicians check a camera angle. Philippe claims KTTV has the greatest creative group of engineers in town.

↓ HANDSOME deLACY has a glib tongue when it comes to television, but when he is the subject of conversation he becomes most reticent.

Religion Is News On Channel 2

KNXT HAS STARTED a new trend in the airing of religious programs by treating the spiritual life of man as news.

Nearly all television and radio stations schedule programs revolving around religious themes. The customary practice, however, was supplanted by "Light of Faith," which is under the immediate supervision of Grant Holcomb, Director of News for KNXT.

When the decision to present a religious program was made last spring, KNXT officials expressed concern over the tendency of present-day news reports to emphasize violence and catastrophes. Then and there, it was also decided that "Light of Faith" would be treated with the same consideration for reportorial values as were the station's other news shows.

Holidays

In the interest of greater news value, Holcomb pays particular attention to various religious festival days. During the Easter season, programs were arranged so that complete information as to observances and beliefs of both Protestants and Catholics were highlighted for KNXT viewers. The same care was taken during the High Holy Day season, so that the tenets of Judaism and the significance of the season would be emphasized.

But special observances in the Christian and Hebrew religious calendars are not the only "news angles" determining individual "Light of Faith" programs. Any other newsworthy occurrence rates its full share of attention.

Expedition

Last summer a Protestant minister appeared on the program just previous to departing on an eight-week archeological expedition to Palestine. Shortly after his return, he was again scheduled for an appearance, so that he might report the results—and the religious significance—of his group's research. In this manner, news and religion were effectively combined.

Prior to the start of the series, a survey was conducted to ascertain population percentages in the Los Angeles Area of the three major religious groups, Catholic, Jewish and Protestant. Guests are scheduled in direct ratio to these figures.

With the sure instinct of the veteran newsmen, Holcomb recognized that the authorities on religion were men trained in the field—the clergy. Therefore, each week a minister representing a different church or temple is seen on the program, thus acquainting Los Angeles citizenry with the men who are faced with the task of directing the spiritual life of the community.

No Sponsor

While Holcomb keeps a constant eye out for important events and schedules guests accordingly, he does not write the script for the show. Once the clergyman has accepted the engagement, he is on his own. Holcomb reasons, "I wouldn't like it if one of those fellows told me how to report the news, so I don't tell them how to report on religion."

No sponsorship is permitted by KNXT for "Light of Faith." Station executives feel that commercial backing, no matter how institutional in form, would weaken the impact of the program.

Or, as Holcomb says, "God doesn't need a sponsor."

▲ MALONE HAS such radio credits to his name as the Eddie Bracken Show, "Amos 'n' Andy," the Al Jolson show, and was editor of "The Whistler" for five years. Neither he nor Rogers ever appeared on TV before this quiz show in reverse debuted.

▲ ROSWELL ROGERS has written such top shows as "Lum and Abner," Joe Penner and the "Texaco Star Theater." As "Dean" he helps show contestants graduate from freshmen up to senior, with prizes all the way. "Seniors" get a crack at the graduate award. (NBC-Holloway photos.)

▼ "SIR RAMYLOT" is the knightly soul who swashbuckles his way through the dramas that usually find "Sleepy Slim" on the short end of whatever the plot may be. This make-believe refugee from the round table below is a newcomer to the "Jump Jump" cast. (NBC-Smith photos.)

▼ "ACHI PAGLI" AND "Sleepy Slim," the lion, key figures of KNBH's "Jump Jump of Holiday House" series, are firm friends. "Sleepy Slim" fancies himself a playwright, and his "Three B's," as close to the "Three Bears" as he could make it, is a classic of TV fare.

▼ THE ELF, "JUMP JUMP" himself, whose tiny voice helps pretty Mary of "Holiday House" spin the weekly stories that prove so fascinating to children. The rest of the voices on the Monday-Wednesday-Friday show are done by Harry Hickox, co-creator with his wife, Mary, of the show.

In & Out of Focus (General Comment)

Around the Row

CBS-TV's George Burns: "I figure it's part of my job to watch TV. We've got a comedy show," he reasons, "and I have to know what the other comedians are doing. So I watch wrestling." . . . All that nice new noise on Jimmy Wakely's KNXT "Corral" comes from the singing star cleaning the strings out of his band and replacing them with brass. He coined a word, with the help of "rejuvenate," that well describes the way the band swings as Wakely sings. "Brass-uvated" covers the added trumpet and trombone work on the country and pop melodies you enjoy Tuesday nights. . . . Winners of the Jack McElroy show contest on KNBH were Mrs. Mary Mettling of Los Angeles and Miss Carolyn Moss of San Diego.

George Burns

Mrs. Mettling, who claims this is her first contest-entering, came closest to the elephant and Jack's weights, and Miss Moss hit Les "Carrot Top" Anderson's and the mule's weights right on the nose! . . . It looks like Anita Louise (remember first meeting her on the Sunday afternoon Channel 4 show from beside the Town House pool?) may wind up as the Hazel Bishop girl who weekly mops a paw across her pretty mouth to show you that Hazel Bishop actually does not come off. . . . Star of that sponsor's show, incidentally, will not only entertain at the half time of the New Year's Sugar Bowl game in New Orleans, but Ralph Edwards will also originate his "This Is Your Life" show from that city. This will mark the first coast-to-coast microwaved live show from one of America's oldest cities, and one with a good claim to an art form all its own in being the birthplace of jazz. . . . The redhead in close attendance on the redhead who stars in NBC-TV's Red Skelton show is logically enough Mrs. Red Skelton, a real avid-type fan to the big clown's antics.

Ralph Edwards

The beautifully dressed Georgia trips about Hollywood weekly just as though she had to be here. . . . As a promotion stunt to interest disc jockeys in a new tune, "Wild Honey," 20,000 wild bees were captured, packaged and sent all over the country. What a swell way to start the day—open a package of wild bees! Ah, Hollywood!

Ideas, Anyone?

Dear Miss Bigsby:

On January 15th my television series, "Favorite Story," will be released to local television stations all over the country. This series has been in preparation for many months, during which time I have worked very hard on it with the Ziv Television Programs, Inc., people.

We are not going to cut corners. either with money, time, talent or production. As a matter of fact I am in Europe now for two purposes—to shoot some location scenes for the "Favorite Story" series and also to work on a picture for Darryl Zanuck.

The "Favorite Story" series will be dramatizations of great stories in the world's literature. Perhaps it might be interesting to you—and I know, frankly, it would be invaluable to us—you were to ask your readers what favorite story they would like to see us do. I will be very much interested in watching your column for reports.

I would also very much appreciate a note from you—please address it to my home at 772 North Bedford Drive, Beverly Hills, California, telling me your own favorite story. Believe me, all this will be a great help to me, and will make "Favorite Story" a better show.

With best personal wishes.

Sincerely,
ADOLPHE MENJOU

Second Glances (Critical Comment)

We Point With Pride

To the initial show of the returned "Mr. Peepers," seen following Red Skelton on Channel 4 Sunday nights. Years ago, somebody, probably in describing Charlie Chaplin, said you can't beat a mixture of pathos and comedy, and "Peepers" has it all the way. Half the time you can hardly laugh past the lump in your throat.

Bob Elliott

The other half the lump has a little trouble because you're laughing so hard. Welcome back doesn't begin to say it to Wally Cox.

. . . To Bob and Ray's "Club Embassy" seen Wednesday

nights at 10:30, KNBH's Channel 4. We wax explicit about time and place because to this particular reporter the duo turn in a too-brief fifteen minutes of fun that makes each week a little more worthwhile. Last week's sports-commentator-and-football-player interview was the greatest bit of lampooning we have ever seen, and the following Arthur Godfrey and his No-Talent Scouts was a top bit of goofology on the airways. These two must have a wonderful time together, and it comes across to the viewer.

Marie Wilson

To the mother-daughter switch recently on CBS-TV's "My Friend Irma," during which Marie played "Jane's" mother, Jane played "Marie's." Of course "Jane's" mother turned up as an addlepatte, while "Marie's" was a lignified sharpie.

To the Billy Daniels show just following Winchell's blasts on KECA-TV Sunday nights. For our money Billy can sing anything, and he handles his own introductions as well as he does his fine pipes. He seems to be one of this year's outstanding TV personalities.

Pro Grid Game the Victim

Were you one of the fans who two Sunday mornings ago stumbled sleepily to your set and got Channel 7? The New York Giants and San Francisco '49ers were meeting in a pretty important tilt. Important to the Rams, especially.

But you tuned in a Western movie. One that didn't end by the time the game should have started. So you frantically called KECA to find out what gave. The harried operators didn't have time even to greet you as cheerfully as usual. "The game is on Channel 9" was your succinct answer. Probably a lot of you didn't ever take the time to call later and find out what caused this switch.

KECA-TV had announced the switch in Channels. At 10:42 an announcement ran; then two others were spotted during the Western that went on and on . . . and on. Might not it have been more serviceable, and just as simple, to run a tape more frequently across the bottom of the picture, announcing the game's temporary new slot?

A union jurisdictional fracas resulted in the switch, we learned later. The game went on from New York's Polo Grounds, which are linked with DuMont for TV. DuMont is affiliated with one union, ABC with another. So Union No. 1 wouldn't feed to a net affiliated with Union No. 2. Rather than disappoint pro-ball fans, ABC generously turned the game over to another channel, with the DuMont-affiliated union piping the game to the West.

We are glad to report that ABC got a good many letters commending their generous gesture and announcements that the game could be seen—on another channel!

PICK of the PIX

by Aubrey Dahl

Maunderings while watching a horror movie of Karloff-Lugosi vintage on TV: "The Nasty Gorilla," starring Jim Frightwig and Harry, the Ape. The opening scene . . . a laboratory . . . sputtering cauldrons . . . foaming beakers . . . an evil professor pours something into a retort . . . an explosion . . . the retort retorts, you might say, har, har . . . The prof looks menacingly over his shoulder . . . presses a button . . . the wall slides back, revealing a rather seedy looking gorilla. The professor tells him he can't change him back into a human being just then . . . can't find the formula . . . the gorilla tells him to get a sharper retort . . . that he's tired of being a gorilla. Seems that the gorilla was once the prof's assistant, until he agreed to be a guinea pig for an experiment . . . but something went wrong and he became a gorilla instead. He whines that he wants to meet a girl gorilla, but the prof snarls at him to shut up and slams the wall shut. The prof's nurse enters . . . the prof eyes her speculatively . . . she might make a nice girl gorilla . . . he hypnotizes her . . . jabs her with a hypodermic needle . . . look at that . . . she's turning furry . . . and shrinking . . . she has become . . . a guinea pig. The prof is disgusted . . . he throws her into a cage . . . she comes to . . . asks to meet a boy guinea pig . . . the prof snarls at her to shut up. Someone enters . . . before he can say a word, the frenzied prof slips him the old hypo . . . he turns into an elephant . . . starts wrecking the joint . . . the prof gets an idea . . . sticks the needle into his own arm . . . turns into a white rat . . . scares hell out of the elephant . . . the gorilla breaks out . . . jabs himself with the needle . . . turns into a guinea pig and is introduced to the girl guinea pig by the white rat, who finally receives his just punishment by inadvertently backing into the hypo and becoming once more a human being.

"Eternally Yours." (5) Nov. 23, 7:30. This is a gay, frivolous, light comedy that, for the most part, manages to be all of those things. David Niven is a magician and escape artist who falls in love with Loretta Young, a beautiful girl. After the usual series of misunderstandings, the young lovers are united, but not until Niven has fallen seven thousand feet or so out of an airplane, trying to wiggle out of a pair of handcuffs in order that he may pull the ripcord. It looks for a while there during that fall as if Loretta might have to scour the countryside for her beloved.

"Four Just Men." (7) Nov. 23, 10:15. Francis L. Sullivan and Anna Lee in a tale of how four men set out to right injustices and bring evildoers to bay. They succeed.

COLOR TV

Since we first started advertising in this magazine, thousands of people have purchased Great Western's TV-Color Filter. Many of those people have re-ordered and sent this filter to friends and relatives. To those of you who have not purchased a filter, this is what it is: Made on Eastman Kodapak film, this 3-color filter is easily attached to your TV set by means of scotch tape, and can be just as easily removed. This TV color filter gives the ILLUSION of color (green, yellow and blue) and is a temporary answer to the Government's ban on the manufacture of TV color sets. Great Western's TV color filter will do this for you: reduce "snow" and "ghosts"; make the picture clearer, improve "fringe area" reception; eliminate glare and eyestrain. Send check or money order for $2.00 in an envelope addressed to: Great Western, Dept. 1121, c/o TV-Radio Life, 6361 Selma Ave., Hollywood 28, Calif. We'll put your filter in the mail within 48 hours. Please allow one week for delivery. Specify screen size with order—sizes 8" to 21". Send your order today. Sold on money-back guarantee.

Lifelines

BY EVELYN BIGSBY

YOU NEVER KNOW, DO YOU? A week ago Wednesday I met Clinton "Buddy" Twiss, one of my favorite people, coming down the elevator in the Equitable Building, corner Hollywood and Vine. We chatted for a moment during which he told me June Allyson was set for one of the leads in the movie adaptation of his book, "The Long, Long Trailer." Friday Buddy was dead—a completely unexpected heart attack.

OLD-TIME RADIO PEOPLE WHO used to work in San Francisco when it was bigger than Hollywood as a radio center feel especially bad about losing such a sweet chap. In the old days, Twiss used to announce "One Man's Family." He also did news and special events for NBC. In Hollywood he became chief announcer for the network and spied "The Standard Hour's" commercials and announcements. After he left NBC he worked with Carlton E. Morse for a few years before chucking the whole thing for a cross-country tour in a trailer. His book resulted from this trip.

I REMEMBER WITH GREAT HAPPINESS a story I did for Radio Life (in 1942) at Buddy's suggestion. He was responsible for getting all his NBC announcers together in the Announce Lounge for a session of recalling their most embarrassing or uncomfortable experiences. As most of the men had handled special events (which come under the category of sitting on the edge of a smoking volcano) some of the stories were pretty funny. Some were dillies and involved such gigantic fluffs I couldn't print them.

BUDDY GOT A KICK OUT OF TELLING about going aloft in the Lockheed Electra, the first army supercharged job. At 30,000 feet, Twiss was supposed to broadcast a report of how it felt to be flying high. A doctor from Mayo Clinic was aboard to conduct experiments to see how high the men could go without oxygen masks. Constant pulse-taking, chest-thumping and tabulations were going on so that when broadcast time drew near the only place Twiss and his engineer could seclude themselves was the men's room.

WITHIN A COUPLE THOUSAND feet of the goal the doctor popped into the "broadcasting studio" to thump Twiss's chest and take his pulse, then said, "It's a wonderful thing we're doing. Only three ships have been made like this. Italy built one, France built one, Now we have one. Too bad about the other two. They exploded in mid-air!" So scared he could barely talk when he first went on the air, Buddy expected to be blown to smithereens any minute.

ANOTHER SPECIAL EVENT HE COVERED was a big canyon fire in Hollywood. To get it on the air he persuaded the master of a mansion on top of the hill to let technicians use the house phone. Then Twiss went down the canyon to do some first-hand coverage. When he returned to the hilltop estate it looked as if the wrecking crew had just finished. Twiss used his best banana oil to assuage the angry householder and gave him an especially strong pitch on what a wonderful and superior medium radio was, scooping even the most alert newspapers on things like fires. The irate gentleman heard Buddy through, then acidly took his card out of his wallet and presented it to Twiss. Buddy took one look and cast about for the proverbial hole to crawl into. The man was publisher of the Herald-Express.

EVEN TODAY I CHUCKLE recalling the yarn Buddy relished most. Leopold Stokowski was to be interviewed in his suite at the St. Francis in San Francisco between the Philharmonic rehearsal and performance. "Stoky" greeted Twiss and the NBC technicians who were going to put him on the air and then said apologetically, "I'm dreadfully tired. Do you mind if I slip between the covers and rest before we go on the air?" Full of sympathy, the men consented and sat around quietly while the famous conductor climbed in bed and drifted off to sleep. As broadcast time grew closer, there was a hurried consultation about what to do. Twiss did not feel he could go over and say, "Hey, wake up. We gotta go on the air," so he did the next best: got up on top the bed, scrooched beside "Stoky," set the mike on Stokowski's chest and started the interview. Fortunately, the conductor woke up sufficiently to ad-lib a good show. Twiss treasured a recording of it. I treasure Twiss's stories.

ANY TIME QUEEN JULIANA CAN'T MAKE IT over here and wants to send a topnotch stand-in, she can dispatch Madame J. H. van Roijen. A poised, blonde matron who speaks beautiful English, Madame van Roijen is wife of the Netherlands Ambassador to Washington. She has four children—two boys and two girls, ranging in age from seven to seventeen—and they're all happy American school children.

MADAME VAN ROIJEN, HONOREE at a small buffet luncheon in Palm Grove of the Ambassador last Tuesday, spoke delightfully of American TV and her hope that some day it will cross the ocean to help her people understand our culture more fully. "You've no idea what an impression the New York symphony made on my country," she stated. Right now, The Netherlands has only one TV station (experimental).

"AMOS 'N' ANDY" COULDN'T have celebrated their 10,000th radio broadcast more fittingly than to reunite former cast members on the program, among them wonderful Bill Hay. Deep-voiced Hay estimates that in the seventeen years he was with the famous team he participated in at least 6,500 programs. It was Hay who put them on the air for the first time as "Sam 'n' Henry." Bill even now receives about twenty letters a week from fans who want to know what he is doing. They'll be happy to learn that Hay is enjoying life—"never had as much fun as in the last three years!" He and Mrs. Hay have traveled, were given royal treatment in Scotland. She is still a great radio fan (and letter-writer—more than 700 epistles this year) and he is enthusiastic about lawn bowling (just missed national championship by a couple of points). He thinks it would be too much work to do TV, but I've a sneaking hunch someone could twist his arm hard enough to get him back on radio. How about it, listeners? Sponsor, anyone?

Radio in Review

For Love o' Mike (General Comment)

Radio Ramblings

Bennett Cerf, noted publisher and writer, and regular panelist on CBS's "What's My Line?" series, has authored another new book titled "Good for a Laugh." . . . Roberta Linn, featured vocalist on the Jimmy Wakely show, has a Chihuahua and a six-week-old toy French poodle. Roberta likes her pets small.

Rosemary Clooney

David Rose scores the musical portions of the Skelton show four to six weeks in advance, and does no rehearsing with Red. . . . CBS's Gene Autry has inked Rosemary Clooney for a guest shot on his December 6 show. This marks the second time in twelve years that Autry has had a guest. Two years ago Jack Benny invaded the Autry radio range for a guesting. . . . Two stations in Alaska are joining the ABC net, KABI, Ketchikan, and KJNO, Juneau.

Christmas in Korea

Newsman Virgil Pinkley is determined to make Christmas in Korea more palatable. His plan is simple. A recorded message delivered to a boy in Korea or Japan in return for a pint of blood. Furthermore, he will deliver these messages in person. Pinkley's "Blood for Christmas" campaign is in effect now and will continue through November 29.

Those wishing to give a pint of blood in return for a recorded message may do so at the ABC radio station in any of the twenty-seven cities in Washington, Oregon and California where Pinkley's program is heard.

We salute ABC, the Red Cross, the Armed Forces and Pinkley's sponsor, Prudential Insurance Company, for their cooperation in behalf of this campaign. Further details may be heard on Pinkley's nightly KECA airer.

Genial Jack McCoy believes in experimentation. There are very few emcees around who would attempt to revive the late Tom Breneman's show. Especially after others tried unsuccessfully immediately following Breneman's death in 1948.

Coping with the problem of a beloved memory and the knowledge that others have failed finds Jack feeling his way slowly but surely on the first two "Breakfast" broadcasts.

Jack's warmth and sincerity are noted in his voice. Its catchy quality has a genuine ring. McCoy has retained some old segments of the Breneman format and added a few new ones. The audience participates in the following: celebration stint, children's corner (unpredictable conversation with the small fry), good neighbor, wishing ring, stork corner, question of the day and the eldest guest. These are the program's chief ingredients. Jack mixes them well, handing out orchids galore and gifts a-plenty to the participants.

In no way does Jack try to emulate Tom Breneman. Perhaps that's the secret of his success. However, there's one point on which he might unbend and follow his predecessor. Instead of having the "old" ladies kiss you, Jack, why not buss them on the cheek in true Breneman fashion? —M. R.

Helen "Kathy" Strohm

NBC's "Father Knows Best" series starring Robert Young has a new Kathy. Versatile nine-year-old Helen Strohm has replaced Norma Jean Nilsson, who is too grown-up this year to play the part of the curious, quibbling Kathy.

Helen may be only nine years old, but she has a solid professional background. She started her entertainment career as an ice skater with the San Francisco Skating Association at the age of five. Leaving the Bay Area, she appeared on the "Mickey O'Day" show on both radio and TV in Los Angeles and before long progressed to radio roles on several network shows including the "Lux Radio Theatre."

The new "Kathy" possesses a beautiful lyric soprano voice and she's a featured soloist at the Hollywood Presbyterian Church. On the screen, she played the role of the orphan girl in the Bud Abbott-Lou Costello feature "Going to Mars." She attends Professional School in Hollywood. In addition to her academic studies singing, dancing and ice skating are on her curriculum. Helen's wish is to grow up to be an opera star: "like Lily Pons... mixed with a little dash of Sonja Henle."

We View With Alarm

... The asinine "Charlie McCarthy-Marilyn Monroe" nuptials. A one-time shot would have sufficed, but to torture listeners by milking the plot on three broadcasts was carrying it too far. Let's get back to good socko comedy scrips without unfunny soap-opera installments.

Record Notes to You

By ANDY MANSFIELD
(KFI, Monday through Friday, 8:45 a.m.)

ALBUM OF THE WEEK: It's called "Hollywood's Best," and when the "best" means eight Academy Award-winning songs interpreted by Columbia's Rosemary Clooney and Harry James Orchestra, it couldn't help but be tops. Songs like "The Continental" (1934), "Sweet Leilani" (1937), "Over the Rainbow" (1939), "You'll Never Know" (1943), and the others are nostalgic reminders of those years when each was the best. Rosemary and The Horn work well together, for both are extremely versatile and both have the ability to get the most out of a song, as this collection easily proves.

TINSEL AND MISTLETOE: First of the new Christmas discs to arrive features Don Cornell (Coral) in a pair of new tunes in contrasting tempos: "Let's Have an Old-Fashioned Christmas" shows possibilities as a ballad, while "I've Got the Christmas Spirit" is more on the rhythm side and the weaker of the two. . . Molly Bee (Capitol) will be heard plenty on "Willy Claus," with the youngster displaying plenty of style. . . Rosemary Clooney and Gene Autry (Columbia) have the best so far on "The Night Before Christmas Song," with its lyrics adapted from Clement Moore's famous poem. . . Louis Armstrong and Gordon Jenkins Orchestra (Decca) add still another version to this label's much-recorded "White Christmas," with "Winter Wonderland" on the flip. Since Louis sings 'em straight, there are better versions available—but don't try to tell that to Satchmo's fans!

WITH THE VOCALISTS: The Modernaires (Coral) have another great rhythm arrangement of yesterday's "Gotta Be This or That"; however, "Wildflower" on the flip falls far short as material for this group (maybe it would be more apropos in the spring). . . Mindy Carson (Columbia) sings high and wide for the uptempo'd "Barrels 'n' Barrels of Roses," but really shows her individual styling on the ballad "All the Time and Everywhere" for the better side. . . Fran Warren (MGM) wisely stays on the calmer side for lovely waxings of "I Worry 'Bout You" and "Anywhere I Wander"—both with showcasing accompaniment by Ralph Burns Orchestra and Chorus. . . Patti Page (Mercury) once more hits the bell with "Why Don't You Believe Me," good material and fine arrangement. "Conquest" on the flip (evidently pilfered from Newman's "Captain From Castile" theme) leaves much to be desired lyricwise and strongly on the monotonous side. . . For contrast, listen to Mary Ford's easy, relaxed and warm vocal chorus with Les Paul (Capitol) on "My Baby's Coming Home." . . It'll make you wonder why he ever went away. . . A.M.

Ear, Eye Inspire the Pen

James R. Barker, Zahler Productions, Inc., 418 S. Robertson Blvd., Los Angeles, Calif.

In regards to the letters in your column, "Ear and Eye Inspire," I thought you might be interested to know that for many months we have had in preparation a show to be known as "The Sewing Room."

Being produced on film, the series will progress from the simplest to the very professional and involved sewing methods used by the beginner and advanced domestic and professional sewers alike.

One of the foremost sewing instructors of today, Elizabeth Chapin, is featured. Being nationally known for her clear, concise classes in sewing, fashion design and modeling, we feel that Miss Chapin will fill in the need for intimate instruction in a skill that has been completely neglected by television in the past.

It might be of interest to know that "The Sewing Room" is being produced by a group of outstanding technicians, making use of all the finest skills of the motion-picture and television industry, plus the training methods which have developed the audio-visual training field into the least painful and most entertaining style of instruction.

We will be happy to let you know when the release of this series is made.

Ruth Forqueran, 8321 Truxton Ave., Los Angeles, Calif.

This is about the most insulting letter I have ever had the displeasure of reading about Liberace. Liberace does not profess to imitate anyone but has a style of his own. Oh that there were more programs on TV which brought so much happiness weekly into as many American homes.

Mrs. J. S., Los Angeles, Calif.

This is to the person who called Liberace an "animated player piano." There are some people too stupid to recognize great talent.

Liberace

Judy Woelky, 1710 Belmont Lane, Redondo Beach, Calif.

I think that the person who wrote Liberace is an "animated player piano" is making a fool of himself instead of Liberace. We think Liberace is a very good piano player and a real gentleman.

Hazel Cambuzzi, 1054 Rosalind Ave., Los Angeles, Calif.

We people who helped to fill the seats at the Philharmonic and the Hollywood Bowl hope that Liberace gives concerts at these places again, and that he never goes off television.

Virginia Howard, 5137 Alvida St., Compton, Calif.

I enjoy, and so does everyone else, Liberace's playing and singing.

Richard Carner, 621 S. Painter Ave., Whittier, Calif.

The person who wrote about Liberace is a great deal wrong. Liberace is the greatest piano player.

Patricia Evans, 3144 Barbara Ct., Hollywood, Calif.

If the person who wrote the recent letter about Liberace does not like Liberace, why does he listen to him? Liberace has a style of his own and does not try to copy anyone else, because he doesn't have to.

B. Stephenson, Long Beach, Calif.

Liberace is a credit to some of the music on TV and he has plenty of listeners who enjoy his music. Could it be that your recent correspondent was jealous of his popularity?

M. M. Kimball, 2233 S. Orange Dr., Los Angeles, Calif.

To the man from Pasadena who would like to know how long he has to listen to the animated player piano, Liberace: Mister, just cross the room and turn to another station. I hope I never get so selfish or narrow-minded to think everything I don't care for on TV should be discontinued.

Mrs. J. E. Fonham, 2407 Glencoe Ave., Venice, Calif.

Concerning the party who criticized Liberace in your column: why does someone not suggest this party tune in "Beany" or some other good child's picture. And let the rest of us, many thousands, enjoy this real artist on the piano. His half hour is too short.

B. G. W., Long Beach, Calif.

It really did my heart good to see and hear Curt Ramsey singing with the "Sparklers" on the Lawrence Welk show again. There definitely is a difference since Bob Olah and Curt Ramsey left. We miss them. Please get them back, Lawrence!

Paulette Kroll, 1033 Lantana Dr., Los Angeles, Calif.

Could you tell me why Maurice Hart doesn't have his program on Saturday nights any more? All of us kids used to have a lot of fun calling him up and dedicating songs to each other and requesting all kinds of tunes.

At the end of the regular baseball season, during which KFWB announced the Hollywood Stars baseball games, Maurice was switched back to his regular Saturday afternoon time.

Virginia Johnson, 794 West Harriet, Altadena, Calif.

Why not a story on the world's greatest accordionist, Myron Floren?

Maurice Hart

Thank you for the suggestion. If it fits into our schedule, we will do it.

Mr. and Mrs. Ray Bazzem, 113 Second St., Seal Beach, Calif.

Please, could we have Bob Olah back again in the Lawrence Welk band? He is such a fine musician and he is missed very much. We hope sincerely that something is done to bring him back.

Mrs. Richard A. Sedwell, 312 W. C St., Ontario, Calif.

The newspapers can not be depended on for true programs, but TV-Radio Life is always on the ball.

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Wright, Jr., 751 Bel Air, Ontario, Calif.

I am one of the many who turn to "Ear and Eye Inspire" first. I don't ever remember reading any comments on the Jalopy Derby, on Sundays on Channel 11 at 3 p.m. We enjoy it very much.

Mrs. Mary Adams, 7306 Capps Ave., Reseda, Calif.

Tallulah Bankhead

Who in the world wrote the material for the recent "All-Star Revue" starring Tallulah? I thought it would get better as it went along, but it got worse.

Leslie Ann Lupton, 4233 W. Ave. 41, Los Angeles, Calif.

Recently I have noticed that lots of people have written in and said "We agree that 'Space Patrol' should have more romance." I think it's rather silly for those people who wrote in to say that.

After all, isn't it supposed to be a children's show, even if a lot of grownups watch it too? Besides, those people ought to realize that the actresses and actors on the show might not feel like making torrid love in front of a camera, to people they like and (I hope) respect.

Mrs. Annie Lippert, 1638 N. Lundale, Lakewood, Calif.

I have never written to you, but since I've heard so many say the following, I thought I would write it. The comments on Bill Stulla are good. I agree that he is a nice person, and Bob Mitchell is the best, but the choice of singers is lousy. I've seen singers on talent shows who are better. Pat Lynn can't sing a note, and the male singers could be improved.

G. H. Sutton, 545 W. Belmont, Ontario, Calif.

I think "You're Never Too Old" deserves a big plug: no show is better conducted or has more interesting variety.

Mr. Robert J. Wilkens, 6620 DeLongpre Ave., Hollywood, Calif.

Why have you refused to print letters concerning Korla Pandit, save for an insulting line which you must have searched long and hard for several weeks back which was a poison-pen slap from an idiot. Mr. Pandit is without doubt one of the great geniuses of our time. Let's see some democracy in action on your part. Give us readers a square deal, or your magazine will be left out of the running some day soon.

Because of increased circulation in the past year, and because of added interest in our "Ear and Eye Inspire" column, we now receive far more letters in one week than we could ever possibly print. Consequently we have had to choose only some of them, and when too long have tried to condense them to give their essential meaning. We have tried our best to be fair in the whole matter. We can assure you that in the entire TV-radio world we show no prejudices or favorites in our letter column.

Speaking about Mr. Pandit, we believe over the past year we have published as many letters concerning him as any personality on TV or radio. At times, when we print too many letters on particular stars (such as Korla, Betty White, Lawrence Welk, Roberta Linn, etc.) we do so because the majority of our mail is about these and other personalities. Then we get letters accusing us of playing "favorites," and consequently we tend to "lay off" for a while. Our mail pull is now very heavy, but we will try to print as many letters as possible. So keep writing.

In the future, as in the past, we shall try to be as fair and honest as we know how, and we sincerely hope we do not offend any particular group. This is YOUR column today; we hope it will continue to be that way for many, many tomorrows to come.

On the Ball

With Ted Hilgenstuhler

Jockey Joke

Mickey Katz, ABC's new American Jewish disc jockey, told me this one:

Abie had always been a rich man. One day he found himself down to his lousy last grand. But quick, already, he had to replenish his bank-roll.

A great animal lover, he especially admired the four-legged creatures upon whom he could bet a few C-notes.

Before going to the race track the next day, in desperation he went to a synagogue and prayed for guidance.

The formula worked. He picked seven out of seven long shots, right on the ole schnozzola.

For several months, Abie followed the same routine: a trip to the synagogue; a trip to the track; and then a trip to the bank to deposit his enormous winnings.

Abie was happy. He was a trillionaire again.

One morning he met his poor friend Sam. Now Sam was only a millionaire. "So Abie, I'm hearink you've got lots of shekels."

"So Sammy, I'm tellink you, I've got a system, yet."

Abie explained to his friend how he won his fortune at the race track.

"But Sammy, first to the synagogue you must go," warned Abie.

"So Abie, remove your carcass from my path, I'm doink likewise."

Sammy was off to the races.

Several weeks later, Abie visited the garment district looking for a few factories to buy in his spare time.

On the street a bearded, shabbily dressed man approached him, and in a low, meek voice, asked:

"Please, mine friend, I'm pleadink. Could it be a few pennies you could give me for some borscht and bagels?"

"Sammy!" yelled Abie, recognizing his friend. "Vat happened?"

"Like you told me," wept Sam, "I done and did, already. Every day I went first to the synagogue to pray, and then to the race track. But always mine horses finish out of the money."

"It cannot be," said Abie. "I'm still winning. I have more money than mine wife can spend."

Abie thought for a moment, and then asked, suspiciously:

"Sammy, which synagogue did you go to?"

"The synagogue at Pico and Pitkin," replied Sam.

"Oi, oi, oi," moaned Abie. "That's the one for trotters!"

Wrestling Is My Business

by Jules StrongBow

Well, the Lou Thesz-Antonino Argentine Rocca battle for the world's heavyweight championship title is over, but certainly not the way any of us would have liked to see it go. Especially Lou Thesz.

When Rocca banged his head on his knee as he hit the ropes on one of his flying tackles on Lou, he literally knocked himself out. He wouldn't let Referee Mike Ruby give the match to Lou and insisted on fighting with the falls one apiece.

In his dazed condition, it was only a matter of a minute before this valiant warrior was down for the three-count—and the title remained in Thesz's possession.

Later I talked with Lou, who was even more depressed than if he had lost his coveted crown. No wrestler or sportsman likes to win a match the way he won that one. Rocca was a great, worthy competitor and much respected by Lou. It hurt him to have the match go the way it did—just as it hurt the fans who witnessed it.

I have told you many times that the men in wrestling love it and will endure all kinds of hardships to stay in wrestling. Here is a recent example of this. A man many of you know personally and the rest by reputation, Yukon Eric, had his ear torn off in a rough match with Tarzan Kowalski in Montreal.

Saving the mangled ear was out of the question but doctors wanted to put a plastic ear on Eric, one that couldn't even be detected. When they told Eric that this would mean he would have to give up wrestling, he refused it. As soon as he recuperates, he plans on returning to his chosen profession.

I understand that he is planning on taking a rather extensive lay-off and may visit us here on the West Coast. Whether he wrestles or not, his fans may see him at the arenas to talk over old times and say hello.

Bad accidents seem to come in threes. Another victim is the big Japanese matman, The Great Togo. Togo suffered a head injury in Buffalo similar to that of Rocca last week. He severed an artery in his head and had to have five blood transfusions. In fact, the report is that he is near death but nevertheless is talking about the day when he can get back in the wrestling ring.

Young, handsome Jerry Christy is causing quite a furor and often a stampede at the arenas where he wrestles by giving out pictures of himself. Fans of all ages admire this promising fellow. If you would like a free picture of himself, just ask him for one at your local sports arena.

Baron Michele Leone called me Sunday from Ohio to say that he is homesick to return to his Santa Monica home and will be back the 24th.

Your friend and mine, Wild Red Berry, called from Texas to say hello and to tell you that he plans on returning the middle of January. The carrot-topped philosopher is doing very well for himself in the Middle West.

This week a colorful Arabian invades Los Angeles—Sheik Ben Ali. He is here on a visa from Arabia and, from advance reports, is an interesting and valuable asset to wrestling.

Rey Urbano, Filipino flash, will be back next week from an Eastern tour. Rey studied cinematography at USC and intended to follow in his father's footsteps. His father is the leading motion-picture producer in the Philippine Islands—but the wrestling bug bit him and his flicker career went by the boards.

RECOGNIZED AS one of the finest grid coaches in the country, Red Sanders of UCLA has been priming his squad all season long for the titanic struggle this week against their arch rivals, USC.

ED FLYNN, guard, is the captain of the surging UCLA team which opposes USC at the Coliseum this week. You'll see both teams in action over Channel 4, NBC-TV, at 1:45 p.m.

LOU WELSH is the center and captain of the Trojans of USC, who will oppose the resourceful UCLA club this Saturday. This grid-iron classic is the only local college game to be seen on our TV screens this year.

JESS HILL of USC has not only had a successful season on the gridiron this year, but the popular mentor has also turned into a TV star with his own shows on KECA-TV and KLAC-TV.

Dennis Day Gives Thanks

The Star Does Not Take His Good Fortune for Granted

By Mildred Ross

DENNIS DAY has great thanks in his heart all of the time and particularly at this Thanksgiving season.

Although he's a star in the higher magnitudes his thankfulness shares a common denominator with the man on the street. What man wouldn't be thankful for a happy home life and a successful career?

Dennis Day's modesty has not been tempered by his stardom. One draws from his reticence a certain humbleness of character, refreshing indeed from Hollywood's braggadocios.

Dennis is thankful first to his mother, who encouraged him to pursue a singing career when he showed a greater talent for scales than he did for jurisprudence. Then to Jack Benny, who gave him his chance.

The turning point in Dennis Day's career, he believes, occurred when he was star of his own radio show. The Dennis Day Show gave him an opportunity to prove that he wasn't just a timid, naive character associated with the Jack Benny gang. For five years, loving every minute of it, he headed a cast starring Barbara Eiler and Bea Benadaret.

Dennis is also thankful that his singing saves him from being type-cast. When the "timid soul" bursts into song, any illusions of Casper Milquetoast are shattered by the tenor's high notes.

This season finds Dennis with new TV accolades. He is star of his own weekly TV show, and if his rigid schedule permits he will be a rotating guest star on NBC's "All-Star Revue." As a matter of fact before he launched his own show this season, he starred on the initial "All-Star Revue" for the current season.

Format

Dennis appears as a refreshing, "not-so-timid" personality this year. Reluctantly he "axed his mother" (Verna Felton) when revising the format for his new series. How else could he achieve his independence and become a gay singing bachelor?

Cliff Arquette's homespun humor has supplanted Verna Felton's domineering mannerisms. The apartment-house locale gives the cast ample material for amusing situations. Cliff, as building superintendent, manages to involve Dennis in humorous escapades revolving about the "unattached" female tenants. And Hal March's portrayal of a provocative ham actor is a noteworthy contribution.

Family

The real Day family has a beautiful home in Mandeville Canyon. The three "Indians" (Patrick, four, Dennis, two, and Michael, one and a half), are affectionately referred to as "those little darlins." The Days hope their expected fourth child will add the missing feminine touch. They've optimistically selected her name — Margaret, completely ignoring a masculine alternative.

The boys, like most children their age, don't know the meaning of fear. Recently when rattlesnakes were found on the Day property, it took forceful persuasion to convince the children that snakes are harmful.

Dennis is a devoted family man and is thankful that after all these years he was able to fulfill his parents' long-cherished dream.

Last summer, Dennis took his parents (and wife) to Rome, where they had not one but two audiences with His Holiness the Pope.

Do DJ's Get Graft?

By Ted Hilgenstuhler

IN GENERAL, people react similarly to two of the three famed monkeys. They don't like to see evil or to speak evil. But there are occasions when even the most high-minded seem to enjoy hearing evil.

With this in mind, then, here's a nice, nasty rumor that's been circulating around radioland.

It concerns disc jockeys. It involves alleged graft. And here's how some of the tongue-waggers think it works:

Disc jockeys select and play musical records. For this, in addition to their commercial yak-yak, they receive wages.

The gossips claim that the platter spinners are "persuaded" sometimes to choose songs and artists which they ordinarily wouldn't play. The deciding factor—so goes the rumor—takes the form of a bribe, or hand-out, or graft, or whatever you want to call it.

If true, it's not a very ethical procedure.

In order to find out the answer to this not-very-pleasant question, we polled several of the leading DJ's in the Los Angeles area.

DICK HAYNES, KLAC: "I've been a DJ for over fourteen years, and I have never in all those years been offered a bribe."

LARRY FINLEY, KFWB: "If it's true that DJ's get graft, then I'd like to know about it. In all my time on the air, I've had only one man come up to me and offer money to play a number. His daughter wrote a song, which was recorded on an off-brand label. He offered me $50 a week if I would play it twice a night, each week. The record was never played on my show.

"To my knowledge no DJ gets extra money for playing records."

PETER POTTER, KLAC: "I have never taken a dime for playing records and I don't intend to. I have had offers, but none in the past three or four years."

LARRY BERRELL, KBIG: "Definitely not. I not only have never taken any graft; I have never been offered any, either."

BOB McLAUGHLIN, KLAC: "No one has ever offered me any graft. They know that if they did they would get nothing but a good smack in the nose."

IRA COOK, KECA: "Competition today amongst disc jockeys is keener than it has ever been before. Therefore, I can't sacrifice what reputation I've gained, for a few extra dollars. It's true that I've been approached, but I have never accepted any gratuities."

PAUL MASTERSON, KECA: "Nobody has approached me with any such offers. People in the business have told me that such is a fact. However, personally, no one has even hinted they'd give me anything for plugging a record. They haven't even offered to take me out to dinner."

AL JARVIS, KECA: "During my sojourn as a disc jockey, I have been offered percentages of songs, gas rationing stamps, nylons, and even Confederate money. But it is my experience that if a song is so bad it has to be given away, that if on its own merits it can't be good enough, then I wouldn't want to take advantage of my radio and TV viewers."

GENE NORMAN, KLAC: "I have never taken a bribe, and never will take one. It would be poor business. If I lose control of the records, then I would eventually lose control of the entire show."

BILL ANSON, KFWB: "I haven't heard of any graft out here, and I certainly have never taken any extra money for plugging a record. Besides, no one person could possibly have enough money to buy a hit."

Looks like a unanimous decision, as far as the DJ's are concerned. To a man, they say: "No. No graft."

And after all, who would know better than they do?

They All Say "No!"

Experimental TV Still With Us?

▲ DANCER CARLOS CARVAJAL of the San Francisco Ballet Company and Doris Eaton portray, respectively, the "Prince Nutcracker" and little "Clara" in a scene from the Standard Hour television production of Tchaikovsky's famed ballet "The Nutcracker." The sequence is featured on a special Christmas Week program of the thirteen-week experimental series.

ABC-TV's "The Standard Hour—TV" is not only an experimental program featuring outstanding soloists, orchestra and a ballet troupe to test public taste, it is an actual experiment in technique. Every viewer who sees it is watching the fruit of an original idea.

Same Cast

The performers are basically the same group who have made radio's "Standard Hour" beloved by millions.

In the absence of a Western TV network, producer Michaelis decided on film for the show. A simulcast of the radio show wasn't feasible, because a program made up entirely of artists performing in conventional dress, before a conventionally arranged orchestra, all needed for radio, would have little visual appeal.

But producer Michaelis was told repeatedly by TV experts that nowhere outside of New York or Hollywood could he hope to produce the show he had in mind.

Thus was the "Palmeroscope" filming method introduced. First of all, the program is actually run off before TV cameras and transmitted over a closed circuit, wholly within the confines of a sound stage. Palmer's camera photographs the program directly from the viewing tube of a "master monitor."

The Advantages

Fewer technical personnel are involved, with a consequent payroll saving that even television welcomes, and costly lighting is eliminated. A TV camera is ten times as light-sensitive as conventional movie cameras.

The costly delay involved in waiting for "rushes" was eliminated by the director doing his "dissolves" and other camera tricks right on the monitor, without going near a film laboratory.

Like any Hollywood musical, the sound track of the "Standard Hour" for TV is recorded apart. That way no rustling dresses drown out the sound of the music, and possible acrobatics during the dance routine don't let the viewer hear landing feet thump the stage.

And yet with all this thought, perfection and work behind the Standard Hour for television, its future at this moment of writing remains undecided. While radio's "Standard Hour," now about to launch its twenty-seventh year, will continue, the TV show may or may not be prolonged beyond the experimental series you see now.

▲ TENOR WILLIAM OLVIS and soprano Dorothy Warenskjold raise their voices in the famed duet, "O, Soave Fanciulla" from Puccini's "La Boheme," during a recording session for the television version of "The Standard Hour." Their sound track was later synchronized to the visual sequence which television viewers will see on the opening program.

The Decision

And what decides its fate? Something the Standard people call "audience reaction." More simply, you. If you watch the show and a rating service calls, you have done your bit. If you watch the show and nobody calls you, your bit just might lie in dropping a post card to Standard lauding them for bringing a long-time air favorite to visual life.

▼ BARITONE CHARLES HARMON sings "Golden Days" to an attentive circle in a scene from Sigmund Romberg's "The Student Prince." The enactment of the operetta favorite was one of the "Standard Hour—TV's" first programs last fall.

▼ OPERATIC STAR VIVIAN DELLA CHIESA as she appears in the big show singing "Ernani, Involami," from Verdi's "Ernani." Viewers need not be of the "long-hair" school to enjoy the show, whose numbers are kept brief enough for all.

How to

Score a Fight

By Ruby Goldstein

(Editor's Note: A former light-weight fighter himself, Ruby Goldstein has gained a national reputation as the No. 1 referee via television. Millions have watched Goldstein in action during some of video's greatest fights.)

THE TELEVISION of boxing matches has made that sport one of the most popular in the country. Most people think that scoring a fight is a complex system known by relatively few. On the contrary, it is a simple procedure with a simple formula.

Each referee is given a scorecard with various categories of boxing proficiency set down. The categories are: clean punching, aggressiveness, ring generalship and defense. At the end of each round I check the categories which I believe the fighter showed best during the round. Watching the fight on TV, you can make your own scorecards with the same categories and referee the fight along with me or my colleagues.

In addition to the four categories I will mark a "W" or "L" alongside the fighter's name. I will also put down the number of points he deserved in that round. A one-point round is given to the boxer who wins the round by a narrow margin. A fighter will get two points when he has a clear-cut majority during a round. Even to TV viewers watching a fight for the first time it is easy to pick out a two-point round.

A three-point round usually involves a completely one-sided three minutes. There is also a four-point round. That happens when a fighter scores two knockdowns and has complete command of the situation.

In states where the point score is in effect, as in Illinois, the ten-point system is used. If the fighter has an advantage it will be in the ratio of 6-4, 7-3, 8-2, just the same as a one-, two-, three- or four-point round. If a fighter loses a round because he fouled his opponent, he will lose it by a 6-4 margin.

The decision is derived by totaling the points for each fighter, and the boxer with the most points wins. However, if a fighter is called the winner on two out of the three officials' cards, he wins. They do not total the points of the officials to determine the winner.

In other states, the use of the "won and lost" record in rounds holds precedence over the point score. If the "won and lost" rounds are even, we then go to the point scoring system and the fighter with the most points earned during the fight will win.

Clean punching is an all-important factor in deciding a round. Hard punching must also be included. A fighter must not only be aggressive, but he must still punch and score. The other items, ring generalship and defense, are also taken into consideration.

Scoring a fight isn't a baffling art known to just a few of us. During the next Wednesday night Pabst Blue Ribbon Bout, make your own score card and score the fight. I'd venture an opinion that you'll come as close to the results on your card as the referee and judges.

GEORGE SANDERS

No. 15 of a Series George Sanders

George Sanders emceed a radio kid show at ten and has been talking ever since. He likes to be active. His stamina is amazing. George works seven days a week, averaging thirty-five radio and three TV hours. He's been on every station in Los Angeles but KFAC and KFI. He has appeared on every TV station in town, but never as a D. J. He claims he owes his success to J. Frank Burke, manager of KFVD. "Burke tolerated my headstrong youthfulness."

Before coming to the West Coast, George was newscaster-announcer and a summer-stock performer. When the local stations overlooked the talented Mr. Sanders he ventured into real estate, advertising and the hotel business. But the combination of TV-Radio Life's glowing reports of successful radio stars and his frustrated microphone fever brought George back into the fold. His radio and TV earnings (KTTV's "Success Story") are invested in small businesses.

Dark-eyed George is married to Helen Alyce, former actress, who occasionally appears with him professionally. They have a two-year-old son. The Sanderses love to travel. They take lengthy vacation tours. George collects stamps and plays baseball. He has appeared in countless motion-picture bit parts. His favorite songs are "Sweet and Lovely" and "Lover." Tony Martin and Margaret Whiting are his preferred vocalists. His record collection leans heavily on the classics.

His fans are mostly middle-aged women. They showered him with wedding and later baby gifts. If given half a chance some of them would undoubtedly like to mother Sanders.

If dark-eyed George Sanders continues to cull as many accomplishments as he has garnered in his mellowed twenty-eight years he will be cramming two lifetimes into one.
