Lawrence Welk is another one we don't like. When he is in front of the camera, which he tries to be all the time, he is just like a monkey, grinning and bobbing up and down. How different Myron Floren is. He is so modest; it is a delight to watch him. Mr. Welk could take a lesson from him.

Here is a friendly challenge to the happy readers of TV-RADIO LIFE: Try to name three more witty, clever and handsome men about TV town than:

Is "Stories of the Century"

Something New In Westerns?

By Donna Scott

DEAN MARTIN VISITS JIM DAVIS and Mary Castle on the "Stories of the Century" set. Jim plays the role of railroad detective, "Matt Clark," and Mary is "Frankie Adams," his undercover agent. "Stories" is, perhaps, the most expensively produced western on television.

WESTERNS ON television came of age with KTTV's "Stories of the Century." This is the first time a series, made especially for television, brings to the video screen the dramatic pageantry of cattle rustlers, Indian massacres, border raids and the panoramic splendor of the rolling hills and plains of the great West.

Except for the classic Western motion pictures shown on the home screen, TV's oaters, generally are made with a handful of characters, who repeatedly tread the same worn sets and are backed by familiar old stock footage of outdoor scenes. "Stories of the Century" was the first series to dispense with low budget production and thus escaped the hazards of making a Western on a shoestring.

Production

"Stories" is produced by Studio City TV Productions, utilizing the facilities of Republic Studios. Through the affiliation with Republic, they have been able to use the creative producers, directors, writers and other talented craftsmen in the motion picture field. Morton Scott, president of Studio City Television states: "The primary factor behind our entrance into high budget television production, evidenced by our 'Stories of the Century' series, is obviously the high-geared production facilities available at Republic Studios, together with a pool of top manpower developed over a period of three decades.

"We have the advantages of the departmental efficiency built up over a period of years by Republic. A smooth operation from our story department to casting and on into the technical phases of production enables Studio City Television to produce high quality TV subjects. . . . We are proud to be the first to capitalize on our natural resources in the interests of an improved television product."

WHEN IT COMES TO SHERIFFS, there's no one like our own Sheriff Biscailuz who is shown here chatting with Mary and Jim at a special party launching the "Stories of the Century" series. A press junket aboard the Santa Fe's "KTTV Special" was a most appropriate way to herald a new western series.

Although budget figures were not available, "Stories" is believed to be the largest budgeted TV show of its kind yet produced by the films-for-video industry. "Stories" uses hundreds of extras, extensive locations, and numerous sets.

The scripts are based on official newspaper files and records and the individual programs present accurate stories of historic personalities at the colorful turn of the century. Jim Davis stars as "Matt Clark," railroad detective, and Mary Castle portrays "Frankie Adams," his undercover agent. Miss Castle and Davis with a varying supporting cast of top talent enact such stories as "Belle Starr,"

"The Dalton Gang," "Frank and Jesse James," "Geronimo," and "Joaquin Murietta."

Response

The response to "Stories of the Century" has been very encouraging. From a selling factor, its sponsor, Sears Roebuck, couldn't be happier. Whenever Sears advertises a commodity on "Stories," it's assured of a complete sell-out.

The station, too, is pleased with "Stories of the Century's" growing popularity. The reaction to this program has been so favorable that KTTV is revamping its Sunday night programming in September to fall in line with this outstanding telefilm series.

Time alone will tell whether or not "Stories of the Century" achieves real video importance. They seem to be starting out in that direction.

This Show - A Matter of Life and Death!

By Evelyn Bigsby

↑ RICHARD BOONE, enacting meticulous role of "Dr. Konrad Styner" in the first "Medic" telefilm, is shown here in the delivery room making a desperate effort to save the life of a newborn baby.

JIM MOSER got sick the first time he watched a doctor operate. After the surgery was over, an understanding young medico drew him aside and explained the doctor's approach to surgery.

"I learned detachment," Jim stated. "I learned to take the personal side out of surgery . . . to view the human body like a piece of machinery being repaired." He has never again become ill.

This lesson was one of the first Jim learned during the nine months he actually lived at a local hospital to gain authenticity for the new NBC-TV "Medic" series which he created and writes.

"In the hospital they called me 'Dr. Moser,'" Jim related. "My 'specialty' was ENT—ear, nose, and throat. Once I was standing by in surgery. A woman doctor turned to me to ask my opinion about what was being done. I just didn't answer her. I didn't know what to say. But usually when I got in a jam like this, someone who knew why I was 'interning' always came to the rescue and said I was 'a medical student.' It would have been too involved to go into a full explanation."

Jim was a full-time hospital resident during those nine months, going home to his family for week-ends only. His being a stickler for authenticity is more understandable when one realizes that Moser wrote 169 of the original Jack Webb "Dragnets."

"Medic" is more exciting than "Dragnet," Jim claims. After working on "Medic" since 1949, he had a difficult time persuading TV executives that he had a great show. Jim's pilot script, written after his arduous grind at the hospital and countless gruelling hours poring over medical tomes and journals, received indifferent reception from network program directors. "A very nice show but . . ." and "A nice stride ahead for TV but let somebody else . . ." were words which some TV "know-its" are no doubt already eating. The script bounced around for four months until Worthington Miner, NBC-TV producer, saw it and acted swiftly.

It took nine months to receive the go-ahead signal from the Los Angeles Medical Association. "I'm a stubborn man!" Moser said after it was all over, "but I got pretty impatient waiting for the okay."

"I don't think the public knows their doctors," he explained. "In this series we want to put the doctor in a good light and teach the public something about medicine while also teaching the doctor something about his patients.

↓ SHOCKED AND INCREDULOUS, Beverly Garland here plays exacting role of young mother-to-be who has just been informed by her husband that she will soon die of leukemia. This is scene from first show of series and is entitled "White Is the Color."

"There are good doctors and some not so good. Sometime we may even televise the story of a bad doctor, just the way we did the story of The Bad Cop on 'Dragnet.'

No Dearth of Material

"Possibilities for scripts are endless. You can take medicine and do anything with it. In fact I wrote a farcical comedy for one program, but right now it's on ice. To those who are afraid 'Medic' will be grim, I can say there are as many up-beat stories as there are sad ones. My one problem in writing the show is to fight sensationalism. I never will tell a story without making a point. Every story WILL make a point . . . will combine entertainment with information."

Moser's first show of the series, the powerful story, "White Is the Color," was shot at General Hospital. It made its point about leukemia. Other "Medics" though perhaps not as shocking as this film, will be every bit as authentic. A minimum of actors is used. In the first show there were only four actors—the doctor, young mother, husband, and one nurse. Remainder of the "cast" were legitimate surgeons and nurses performing duties at General Hospital. The TV film camera was only five or six feet from the table in surgery. During extremely technical shots, the rubber-gloved hands of the real doctor were used instead of those belonging to actor-"doctor" Richard Boone.

October 8, 1954

▲ ANOTHER SCENE FROM THE PREMIERE SHOW. This tense moment shows the doctor leveling with the expectant mother, who knows she must die but wants to live long enough to bring her child into the world.

For the second show, "Laughter Is A Boy," the story of a little lad with cleft palate, Moser tried desperately to find a child with this impairment for the lead, but those he screened were too introverted. He taped yards of talk by cleft-palated children so that little actor Jeff York, who finally played the part, would sound true-to-life.

Another "Medic" program is called "My Very Good Friend, Albert." It's the story of a Swedish immigrant who makes his living playing cello. He loses his hearing.

To discover how sounds come to a man wearing a hearing aid, Moser put one on for half a day. His script on polio was one of his toughest—he spent three weeks in research, one week writing and several hours in an iron lung to learn how this felt.

Numberless hours in research are accepted by Jim as part of his job. "A good doctor does a tremendous amount of reading," he pointed out. "Dozens and dozens of journals."

Other topics studied and scripted include a heart operation filmed in San Francisco and titled, "I Climb the Stairs"; "With This Ring," story of an un-wed mother; "Death Rides A Wagon," about a cholera plague; "Day 10," story of bubonic plague; and the assassination of Lincoln. From time to time historical themes like the last-named will be screened. Carl Sandburg read and approved the Lincoln script before it was filmed.

Approval

All scripts are submitted to Los Angeles Medical Association for an okay. There are no general restrictions on Jim's writing—main purpose is to have the Association approve the manner in which doctors are portrayed. One doctor, who must remain nameless in accordance with the medical code, serves as technical adviser on all "Medic" shows.

In the tremendous effort of placing "Medic" on TV and feeding scripts to his brainchild, Jim Moser has had a liberal education in medicine. He has learned about ailments he never knew existed. In fact, after a few short weeks of "internship," Jim began to have a suspicion that he was about to succumb to every new illness about which he learned. That's all over now. His sole consuming thought is to make "Medic" the finest documentary drama on TV.

Apparently his friends are convinced Jim knows what he's writing about. They come to him with their aches and pains, ask him for diagnosis and prescription. After four years, Jim has watched so many surgery cases that he feels like a surgeon.

Modestly he admits, "If I had to, and if there were no complications, I believe that I could perform a successful appendectomy."

▼ CENTRAL CHARACTER in one "Medic" deals with cello player who loses his hearing. Robert Osterlah interprets role. Writer Moser wore a hearing aid for some time so he could script the cello player's part realistically.

Where Women Go Wrong

Just when everyone was convinced cooking and household hints types of shows had to be dull, along came Norma Gilchrist. And the personable red-head has a few things to say about how women treat men.

By Jon Bruce

▲ ALL COOKS should look like this! Norma is now doing a new show at KTTV but will still supply gentle hints to homemakers.

IT WAS ALMOST as though Norma Gilchrist had been tossed neatly into a kitchen.

Let's face it—Norma is the type of gal who looks as though the nearest she ever got to a kitchen was to order a maid to make a caviar hors d'oeuvre. But this is where she fools you. From the time she was six she was on her way as a culinary cutie. At that tender age she was making her own corn bread and popovers—so help us!

"I've always been around cooking," Norma chirped. "I used to watch my mother prepare various recipes and my grandmother logged many fabulous recipes down through the years. I have used her cookbook over and over again and when any of my guests—oh yes, I cook at home too—comment over some 'new' dish, I take a somewhat fiendish delight in telling them that it's an old preparation handed down by my grandmother."

Norma is now doing a new show for KTTV in which she will act as hostess for the "Mr. and Mrs. North" re-runs, and lend her charmingly feminine hints too.

"I have always tried on my show to do things that would be of real help to the ordinary homemaker," Norma said. "I think the average woman thinks that to be really glamorous or to be a really good cook takes a lot of time, and this is where I have an answer. It doesn't take time if you know the little tricks.

"I do believe that almost every woman gears her activities with one purpose in mind—to please her husband or her favorite boy friend. If she wants to look better it's usually to make the 'apple of her eye' look more searchingly in her direction. If she wants to cook well it's because every red-blooded man is sensitive to good food. While the old adage of 'the way to a man's heart is through his stomach' isn't entirely accurate, there's enough truth in it to make it worth heeding.

"Actually, what I suppose I've really tried to do on my show is to make women remember the importance of being feminine. With all the competition today, some women have begun to feel it's smart to be independent, self-reliant, and to feel they must compete with a man on his own ground. I believe men like women with minds of their own—the clinging vines have gone out of mode—but I don't know of any man who wants to be led around by the nose by a strong-willed lassie. And I don't know of any man who doesn't like a really feminine woman.

"I think we women should concentrate more on being women and spend less time acting as though we were put here to tell men how to compete with us."

▲ THE LOVELY KTTV RED HEAD issues a challenge to the ladies. Wait until you hear Norma's ideas about the women vs. men theme. (Rothschild photos.)

Norma seems to be on the right track because men find her show interesting. There is, naturally, the point that perhaps they're spending more time looking at her instead of at what she's doing on the program but at least they're watching. It would be interesting to see what kind of a male audience Norma would have if she were on in an evening hour.

Come to think of it we remember Norma more than we remember her culinary antics and beauty tips. She'd be nice to have around any kitchen.

"Shower of Stars"

Thursday, 8:30 p.m.
KNXT, Channel 2

"Shower of Stars," CBS-TV's first color extravaganza from the West Coast, was a glittering musical fantasy. The thin story line in the premiere show satirized movietown's making of biographical pictures.

Fred Clark appeared as a confused movie producer and Marvin Kaplan as the frustrated writer who suffered at every whim of the indecisive producer. This story line, "corny" as it was, gave the program some semblance of continuity. "Fade-ins" were made from the producer's office to the potential "movie sequences" starring Betty Grable, Harry James and Mario Lanza. Everything from opera to boogie was covered by the trio of stars, who were making their TV debut.

Glamorous Betty Grable and tinted TV go together. She sang and danced her way right into video stardom, proving that she wasn't number one box office for so long without reason. Grable's games were generously displayed throughout most of her numbers. These ranged from the sexy "Baby Won't You Please Come Home" to the somewhat conventional "I'm Just Wild About Harry."

Her Harry played his trumpet sweet and hot and did much to add to the musical enjoyment of "Shower." Harry's numbers included "Let It Ride" and "I'm Just Wild About Harry."

Mario Lanza was welcomed back to the spotlight with tremendous applause from the studio audience. His songs were pre-recorded and he simply mouthed the words. There were times when the synchronization was off, but it didn't seem to have any effect on the audience's enthusiasm for Lanza. Of his three selections—"Vesti la Giubba," "Marechiaro" and "Be My Love"—the latter got the best reception.

William Lundigan was an affable host, delivering low-pressured commercials on Chrysler's forward look, which stressed modern design. Gordon Jenkins' musical backstopping was fine. Producer Nat Perrin and director Seymour Burns did a creditable all-around job. Robert Sidney's choreography was eye-catching.

Those who viewed the show on color sets had a definite advantage over black and white viewers. The conventional screens looked drab when compared to the tinted sets. However, color merely enhanced the program, it did not make the talent perform any better.

Link Returns

Art Linkletter's sponsor, the Toni Company, went all out to greet the popular emcee with a special party for him last week at the Beverly Hills

Hotel to celebrate his homecoming from a world-wide vacation

Some of the biggest names in show business dropped by to say "hello" to Art, including Barbara Britton, Tennessee Ernie, and Connie Haines.

Also at the function was sportscaster Tom Harmon who explained to TV-RADIO LIFE about the unfortunate mess which occurred during the Iowa-Michigan State telecast. Football fans throughout the nation missed about twenty seconds of the entire game. As luck would have it, those twenty seconds were the most crucial in the game because it involved a punt return, which set up Iowa's winning touchdown.

Harmon explained that neither he nor co-announcer Jack Drees knew anything about the deleted portion of the telecast. "If I had," Tom said, "I certainly would have mentioned it."

Back to Art. Of all the places he stopped at on his 20,000 mile air trip, the congenial emcee found Hong Kong to be the most interesting, because of the people and natural surroundings of the famed English seaport.

After thirteen years of hosting "People Are Funny," on radio Linkletter is also bringing the laugh-filled contestant program to the TV lanes this fall on NBC-TV, Wednesday, 7 p.m.

videolanes last week. His TV family, Jean Hagen, Sherry Jackson and Rusty Hamer, who appears a few inches taller this fall, picked up right where they left off last season.

The opening episode finds Danny dour-faced and short-tempered because he's losing his confidence as an entertainer. Rusty picks this inopportune time to ask Danny for an allowance. When Danny explodes at this request, the family decides to take action and help him solve his problems.

Rusty plans to entertain his friends and then fakes stage fright and Danny tries to instill courage and confidence in Rusty. There's a very tender scene between the two of them and it resolves in Danny solving his own problems. Danny regains his confidence and harmony is restored in the "Williams" family. Rusty even gets his allowance.

ABC's "Make Room For Daddy" is one of the best family-comedy series on the air. Rarely do they go overboard and exaggerate a situation until it reaches incredible proportions. "Daddy" proves that a show can be both discriminating and humorous at the same time. Sheldon Leonard's direction is tops. As far as Danny Thomas and the rest of the cast are concerned, well, we ran out of superlatives a long time ago. M.R.

"Lady In The Dark"

Sunday, 6:00 p.m.
KNBH, Channel 4

Max Liebman scored roundly with his second NBC color Spectacular. Televising a proven hit like "Lady In The Dark" did much to strengthen the argument in favor of using video adaptations of the tried and true.

The Gertrude Lawrence starrer of a decade or so ago came to life in a blaze of color. Those who saw the show on color sets were thrilled by the vivid color and life-like quality of the telecast. It was the closest thing to actually watching this musical-extravaganza in a theater.

"Lady" is a musical play concerning a woman who subconsciously rejects femininity because as a child she was labeled "plain." To compensate for her feeling of insecurity she busily "turns out magazines instead of babies." She consults a psychiatrist about her wild dreams, in which she is always symbolized as a captivating enchantress.

The outstanding act of the play was the circus dream sequence. The staging, color and music made it the hit of the show.

Ann Sothern was a glamorous, beautiful dancing doll. Her voice was pleasant and she was certainly an excellent choice for "Liza Elliott." The cast—James Daly, Carleton Carpenter, Robert Fortier, Paul McGrath, Sheppard Strudwick and Luella Gear—were all perfect. Carpenter's interpretation of the slightly mad photographer was very amusing. He measured up well against Danny Kaye who originated the role in the Broadway show.

The Moss Hart book has a timeless quality. Music by Ira Gershwin and Kurt Weill was as tuneful as ever, especially "The Saga of Jenny" and "My Ship." Billy Freidberg and Max Leibman captured the full essence of the play in their TV adaptation. Costumes were lavish and Paul duPont can take a deep bow for his wonderful creations. Rod Alexander and Bambi Linn were, as always, dancers extraordinaire.

"Lady" was a top-notch production from every angle; even the commercials were palatable. M.R.

Harry Richman

Friday, 9:30 p.m.
KTTV, Channel 11

Television is no longer the infant it used to be, when all an entertainer had to do was stand in front of a camera and sing a song. This, in effect, is what Harry Richman did on his TV opener.

With white-tie-and-tails, cane and carnation Richman sang "That Old Gang of Mine," "Puttin' On The Ritz" and other sentimental tunes. Eddie Cantor and Bob Hope were on hand to welcome their colleague. Their tribute to "Mr. Broadway" came from the heart as did Richman's singing.

Richman belongs to the Cantor and Jolson era. Granted, he was the kingpin of Broadway, and there are a lot of folks who have tender thoughts of Richman and the era he represents, but it takes more than a show saturated with memories and nostalgia to compete with current video fare.

To disrespect great showmen who live in the past would be foolhardy. Tradition is part of the theater. But a TV program cannot be built on sentimental tradition alone.

The packagers had better come up with a worthwhile format or viewers are apt to look-and-see Harry Richman just once for old-time sake. M.R.

Dave Comes To Town

Dave Garroway, the genial emcee of NBC-TV's "Today," which greets the hardy souls who watch TV from eight to nine a.m., paid his first visit to Hollywood last week and succeeded in impressing everyone who met him.

For a while he wasn't sure he was going to make the town. His plane developed trouble and was forced down in Arizona. The flight time from New York was sixteen and a half hours, which gives you a rough idea of the difficulties encountered.

While in Hollywood, he did a stint on Johnny Grant's early a.m. show and also a spot at Grauman's Chinese

Theatre for his "Today" program. The Chinese sequence was a neat production job, a solid effort from every standpoint.

Dave was showing signs of fatigue since he had not slept for over thirty-one hours. But he's used to getting little or no sleep. He gets up at four a.m. in New York, arrives at the studio at five for a rehearsal, and then begins his three hour show at seven. With Dave at the helm "Today" has been a marked success, drawing in $11,000,000 in revenue for NBC last year. This is the largest income ever grossed for one show in the entire realm and history of show business.

"When I was first approached about doing this program," Dave commented, "I said that nobody would be watching it but those who had gotten home late the night before and were too tired to turn off the set, but I guess I was wrong. More people seem to get up early these days."

This is Dave's sixth year in TV. The quiet, unassuming, modest guy is a credit to the medium. It's good to see success come to people like him. J.H.

TV-RADIO Lifelines

BY EVELYN BIGSBY

THE DAY AFTER PREMIERE of "Shower of Stars," there was a large-size furor in Hollywood and a top brass conference at Television City over the accusation that Mario Lanza was merely mouthing words to his own records when he sang on Chrysler's telecast with Betty Grable and Harry James.

FAKING FOR PICTURES AND NOW FOR television isn't anything new. In fact Donald O'Connor played it smart all last season, I believe, by pre-recording his Colgate songs. After all, a performer can't be hustling around all over the stage and do a top-notch vocal job simultaneously. So the crux of the Lanza controversy seemed to be the use of records, and the real nubbin of the deal, so the ole grapevine had it, was how old were these records? Were they special recordings made a couple of days before the telecast or were they regular commercial discs, waxed a couple of years or so ago, when, perhaps, the singer (who has been dieting recently for his video debut) might have been in better voice?

LATE FRIDAY AFTERNOON, following huddles, CBS-TV issued a statement from network president J. L. Von Valkenburg. Here's the gist of it: "When CBS-Television engaged Mario Lanza to appear on the 'Shower of Stars' both he and we were in agreement that his performance would be by means of pre-recordings, a practice common to the entertainment industry for productions of the size and scope of this one. Actually, the pre-recording session for Mr. Lanza was set up for Monday, September 27th. Just prior to this Mr. Lanza told us that his physician had advised him it would be impossible for him to undertake this taping session and to participate in the production to the extent we had originally planned. In view of this, we eliminated a complicated finale to the show in which he participated. We also eliminated a comedy sketch which featured Mr. Lanza. We also decided that, due to Mr. Lanza's physical condition, we would have to use already existing records instead of newly pre-recorded ones."

SO MUCH FUSS WOULD PROBABLY not have been kicked up over the whole thing were it not for the fact that Chrysler and CBS flew in eighty-five TV editors from over the country for the premiere show and resulting publicity is what you might call transcontinental.

Well, anyway, Lanza did show up for the telecast!

LARGE TURNOUT OF THESE EDITORS enjoyed a luncheon date with Dinah Shore the day after the "Shower of Stars" premiere and subsequent Crystal Room gala doings. The scribes were really living it up in Hollywood, but what puzzled some of them was that they weren't asked to join the studio audience to witness the show. This was what they had expected, with, of course, a chance also to view the action on monitor sets. Instead, they sat on risers in a nearby studio and looked at the show. "Just as if we were back home," one of the puzzled columnists said.

ELSEWHERE IN THIS ISSUE I believe there is a comment on the Grable-James-Lanza efforts, so my final remarks will be (1) Color on the Liebman specials and on the "Shower of Stars" was certainly handled differently, "Shower" going in for bright splashes—and maybe this is exactly what fans expect of their color programs! (2) Where does Betty Grable's hot hoofing put Sheree North, who was really mentioned after she did some fancy gyrating on Bing Crosby's telecast last spring?

ONE OF THE MOST POPULAR GENTLEMEN at the pre-show party thrown at Television City was Dr. Frank Baxter, who, with his accustomed wit, tagged the "Shower of Stars" "a drizzle of meteors."

GEORGE MONTGOMERY PUT IN AN appearance at Dinah's luncheon and I felt so pleased when he took his table place next to me. George's furniture-making business is going full blast—he now employs seven—and he told me he is making all the pieces for the Fred MacMurray's new home as well as his own and Dinah's house under construction.

THERE WAS QUITE A CONTINGENT of television and radio stardom at Helen Hayes' "What Every Woman Knows" christening at the Huntington Hartford. I saw the Jack Baileys, Ozzie Nelsons, Don DeFores, Ralph Edwards, Liberace with Joanne Rio, and a dozen more. Barbara Edwards sadly told me they had almost not attended the premiere, due to the serious post-operative condition of Ralph's longtime production head, Al Paschall. He's still in critical condition in Santa Monica Hospital. Incidentally, the decor of the new theater is beautiful. You'd scarcely recognize the ancient Lux Radio (not television, as some misinformed claimed) Theatre.

ANSWER TO BETTY HUTTON'S plaintive quote of the week labeling television as "great for someone with more energy" and "a medium for younger people": film your show!

ANY TIME AROUND THIS HECTIC BUSINESS, and especially at this hectic season of the year, persons grow careless and thoughtless, but the worst breach of courtesy this scribe has ever encountered was at Harry Richman's home where he entertained following his TV debut. It's a lowdown shame when guests are so busy enjoying the host's hospitality that they can't give him their undivided attention when he is gracious enough to put on a performance for them.

BIRTHDAY CONGRATULATIONS to TV-Radio Life subscriber Mary Hockett, who is ninety-four this week and has never missed a copy of this magazine . . . Jack Owens's daughter, Mary Ann, is being married October 23 . . . Mary Ellen Clemmons has a movie role in "Night of the Hunter" with Lillian Gish and Bob Mitchum . . . Byron Palmer and Joan Weldon started a new trend by making personal appearances in the Pacific Northwest preceding debut of their "This Is Your Music" teleshow . . . To date, no auditions have been held for George Reeves's replacement as "Superman." Money differences caused the split-up . . . Yoo hoo, ladies! Guild is preparing a filmed reducing series! . . . "The Whistler," so long a CBS radio favorite, starts on KTTV October 15.

PRIZE PUBLICITY STUNT OF THE WEEK was CBS's Irving Fein's "employment" of thirty carrier pigeons, which were sent to the press with instructions to reach into the carrying carton, remove the capsule from the bird's leg, write an opinion on the new CBS "Amos 'n' Andy" show on the enclosed onionskin paper, and let the pigeon free to wing the words back to headquarters.

FIRST BIRD ARRIVED BACK HOME in fifteen minutes. "Off to a flying start," said the message. "This show is not for the birds," was the note brought in by the next messenger. "Where do I send the cleaning bill?" impishly demanded another. By nightfall, all but two pigeons had returned. Laggards were the pigeons from Pasadena, who apparently were trapped by twilight near Eagle Rock and decided to put up there for the night. They flew in bright and early next ayem after a good night's sleep.

Dear Sirs:

I have had my television service agreement with you for the past two years, and am enclosing check for 2 more years of service, with a subscription to 27 weeks of TV-Radio Life included. I have not needed you but a couple of times. But knew you would respond quickly when needed and your work was always satisfactory. And your helper who calls on me is a very courteous person, and knows his TV work. Thanking you for the past favors rendered me. May you have a prosperous year for 1954.

Sincerely,
Mrs. R. E. Schenck,
827 E. Chevy Chase,
Glendale.

If your TV picture tube would burn out it would cost you plenty of money to install another one. A few months ago, I had to have that big tube replaced in my set. I wish I had known beforehand about Television Industries. For only $10 a year, this company will guarantee your present TV picture tube, if it is working now. It makes no difference how old your tube might be, and any size up to and including 21 inches. You can have it guaranteed for one full year for $10 if it is working now. Just phone PRospect 0301 now, to make an appointment for a technician to visit your home, to test your picture tube.

You can't spend more than $10 for a year's peace of mind . . . There is no extra charge for installation. The man who comes to your home to inspect your picture tube and writes the warranty makes no charge for the call. It costs nothing if he has to return to install a replacement tube, if the one he guaranteed, fails.

The company also has a complete Parts Warranty, protecting picture tube and all other parts in your TV set, for $15 per year. That warranty covers all parts and the picture tube up to and including a 21-inch screen, on a two-year basis.

This company is straight forward and reliable. No gimmicks. They don't sell parts, they don't sell sets. They don't sell picture tubes—they just guarantee the one you have, if it is working now. They are basically a service organization, servicing greater Los Angeles since 1949.

Simply call PR. 0301, or mail the coupon below to Television Industries Inc., 4031 Wilshire Blvd., Los Angeles 5, California.

PICK of the PIX

By AUBREY DAHL

At hand is a complaint from Mr. Sean McCloud, of Riverside, who writes, "Who told Aubrey Dahl he was a critic?" Who told you? "Personally I think he's stinko." You're sobering me up fast, Mr. McCloud. "Why spoil an otherwise good magazine with this jerk!" Nothing's perfect Sean . . . there always has to be a jerk around. "His father must be the editor is the only reason I can think of." Well, if Mrs. Bigsby is my father, she's got a lot of explaining to do. Anyway, thank you for the objective criticism, Mr. McCloud . . . it has inspired me to keep up the good work

"A Double Life." (9) Beginning Oct. 12, 9:00. Here is undoubtedly one of the two or three best pictures ever to appear on TV. It won Ronald Colman the Academy Award as the best actor a few years ago, and it presents an illustration of the legitimate theatre and its people as few movies ever have. Colman, who does the job of his life in this one, plays an actor who becomes so completely the character he is portraying that he finds it difficult, and ultimately, impossible, to separate himself from the fictional. This theatrical schizophrenia reaches a climax when he plays the role of "Othello" in a Broadway production and projects the Moor's jealous and revengeful nature into his own life with tragic and dramatic results. Signe Hasso, as the actor's sympathetic ex-wife, and Edmond O'Brien, as his press agent, also perform creditably, while Shelley Winters, in her first big role, does a believable job as the waitress who is picked up by the actor and falls victim to his Shakespearean delusion. I think the most memorable scene in the film is the one in which Colman explains his struggles, his climb, his life as an actor. It is a fine speech in a fine screenplay, which was written by Ruth Gordon and Garson Kanin, and well directed by George Cukor.

"Miss Robin Hood." (2) Oct. 11, 2:35. Margaret Rutherford, the zany matriarch of British comedies, plays an old crone who admires a female Robin Hood type character created by a writer for a children's magazine, and sets out to emulate her idol by stealing the brewing secret of an honorable whisky so that she may share it with the world. Pigeons follow Miss Rutherford about and things are occasionally fairly humorous.

"The Gangster." (5) Oct. 10, 7:30. This is the low budget picture which started Barry Sullivan on the way to big things, and it concerns just what the title implies. First time on television, but it won't be the last.

"Hell is Sold Out." (4) Oct. 11, 1:00. Who cares? I've got reservations.

HOLLAND'S TUNNEL

DUG BY JACK HOLLAND

There's been a lot of talk over KNBH way about Jack Latham who takes over the news slot. In fact, this personable fellow does twenty-eight newscasts a week, sixteen on TV and twelve on radio. His preference, incidentally, is TV since he feels that news on radio, production-wise, is inclined to be dull.

"My one aim is to cover the town more by film," Jack explained recently. "In fact, I won't be surprised if in the not so distant future ninety-nine percent of TV news will feature film clips with the one percent devoted to the newscaster. At the present we have three and a half cameramen out covering the field for news. The half is my rather facetious term for an assistant, who is actually a very capable and expert photographer in his own right.

"Much of our spot film coverage comes from free-lance photographers. For example, when that cement truck was hit by a train recently, all of our cameramen were out on assignment. We finally managed to contact one and told him to get to the accident as soon as he could. About ten minutes later one of the free-lance photographers called and said he had about two hundred feet of film on the wreck—and did want it? We did.

"We have gone to great lengths to get coverage of special news events. When the French soldiers, brought here from Indo-China and Dien-Bien-Phu, arrived at Mather Field, our crew chartered a plane to go up to Mather to photograph the arrival. I had heard there was one nurse aboard, who was tending to the litter cases, who spoke English, so as the soldiers were being taken from the plane I kept an eye out for her. I finally saw a nurse, a very attractive girl, who was speaking to each soldier as he was taken off the plane. I couldn't help noticing how their eyes lit up and how broad was their smile when she spoke to them. I went over to her and said, 'I understand you speak English. Well, English is the length, breadth, and width of my vocabulary. I know no French at all.' At that she laughed heartily and then told me she was Marguerite Hogan from Boston, Massachusetts."

When it comes to newscasters vs. personality, Jack feels that a personality man is essentially an actor but that news reporting should be done with a business-like approach. "News is, after all," said Jack, "education and not entertainment."

It will be interesting to see how Jack Latham does at KNBH. He already has made quite an impression on a lot of people.

Maybe I'm getting very sentimental—or maybe it's a second childhood—but I'm a sucker for the new "Lassie" series. It's a heartwarming show, perfect for children, and just as entertaining for all but the most cynical adults. This is one solid answer to the perpetual cry for better juvenile programs. It's a delight. Let's hope you older folks are joining Junior and watching this one.

More, more, more new shows. One of the most promising is "The Line-Up," CBS' answer to "Dragnet." The first offering was a punchy affair, packed with a good amount of suspense and action, and was done with intelligence and dramatic impact. The exterior shots of San Francisco were especially interesting, and performances by Tom Tully and Warner Anderson, the stars, were of the Class A variety. However, wouldn't it be interesting some day to see detectives acting happy? They all look so glum and serious. While "The Line-Up" is recommended, the commercials that go with it have got to go. I've got news for that cigarette company—who cares what your cigarette has that other filter tip cigarettes haven't got. And your 20,000 filters line isn't going to impress anyone. These "plugs" went back to the old idea that repetition is all that counts. The "message" was repeated so often that the press viewing the show couldn't help groaning. Keep up this line of commercials, boys, and people will not only switch off your show but they'll go back to chewing tobacco.

Harry Richman's new KTTV show is real old-time show business. The critical reaction was quite mixed, but this tunnel liked it. Okay, so Harry's voice isn't as great as it used to be, so production wasn't too sensational, but this is the kind of entertainment a lot of people are looking for. Who doesn't enjoy recalling the old days of vaudeville—and this is what Harry is doing. This show can be a real winner.

KTTV has another good entry in "This Is Your Music," starring Byron Palmer and Joan Weldon. This is devoted to one thing—music, and yet there is very real originality in the production. The numbers are staged attractively, the settings are highly imaginative and the singing of the stars couldn't be better. If you want to relax and just listen to the music of America, "This Is Your Music" is your dish.

George Gobel got an unexpected warm-up when he was called down to the Statler Hotel last week on short notice to sub for Helen Traubel, who had laryngitis. And Gobel came through with a bang! This is a very funny man with a unique but highly effective delivery. He should do nicely on TV. The Statler, incidentally, is where George made his big impression on local NBC executives. Let's hope he is used more effectively on TV than was Paul Gilbert. As for Miss Traubel, we hear nothing but raves on her show. Look what television has done for her!

If you can make it, go see Helen Hayes in "What Every Woman Knows" at the Huntington Hartford Theatre.

Always a favorite, Miss Hayes has probably many new fans as a result of her TV appearances. Anyway, it's a great thrill to see her again. The entire production is deserving of the highest praise.

Just what was Jack Carson trying to do at the "Star Is Born" premiere? He certainly made a bad impression!

Back to Hollywood. This Larry Finley is quite a guy! Here's a fellow who is so busy he almost has to make an appointment with himself for a sandwich. And yet, while others do a lot of talking about it and never really put the words into action, Larry took steps to see that new talent gets a break. Each week on his "Strictly Informal" show on KNXT he plans to present a promising newcomer. So what does the guy do? He takes three hours out of his busy day, beginning a half an hour after his radio show is over, to audition countless hopefuls. This column happened to be one of the judges and some outstanding talent was heard, but it was Finley who was the main attraction—at least to us. He was so kind and considerate and helpful to these young people. Never once did he act like a Big Shot. Never was he rude. Each performer got a fair shake and Larry talked to each one after his audition. This was no phony, grandstand stunt. Larry Finley wanted to find new talent. He deserves a big, deep bow. If only other people would be as unselfish and help give newcomers a break. If more stars can do what Finley is doing, you're apt to find new faces on TV yet. And wouldn't that be a nice thing to contemplate?

Ear, Eye Inspire

Connie Van Housen, Los Angeles

Was happy to read the favorable comment about Johnny Carson. There are many of us who think he is 'the most' and the wonderful hand he received on the MS Telethon recently should prove just how popular this guy is. We enjoyed him on "Earn Your Vacation" this summer but now how about bringing his show "Carson's Cellar" back to TV viewers. Hummm???

Although Johnny is keeping plenty busy these days, he still would like to bring back "Carson's Cellar." It needs what every steady program needs: a sponsor.

Cora I. Dunham, Pomona

I also have something to say in regard to indecent clothing. I am very glad to see a letter on the subject, and was glad that Mrs. Ella Elbert wrote of it. But what can we expect when from tiny tots they are given the devil's intensive training that no part of their body is any more private than their face, and they must not have the slightest thought of decency or modesty, and undressed in the devil's style, it is not possible for them to have. I am old, lame and alone, needing care which I cannot get, but I have always believed in decency. It is much too bad that decent people are forced to see such indecent sights on the street and everywhere. That will sure come up in the Judgment Day.

Radio in Review

Radio Ramblings

Fully recuperated from a long illness, Elmer Davis returns to ABC radio October 10 . . . Jack Gould quits CBS, after a very brief association, to return to his desk at the New York Times where he has been radio-TV editor for many years.

"Make Way For Youth," the Jimmy Wakely and Perry Como shows returned to the CBS airwaves last week.

Two-year-old Dorie Rogers flew to New York, accompanied by her nurse, to join her parents Roy and Dale Rogers during their Madison Square Garden rodeo engagement. . . Doris Day has started a transcribed series for airing over Radio Luxembourg . . . Irene Tedrow gets a role in "Not As A Stranger" . . .

"Juke Box Jury" gets cut to a half-hour . . . Bill Cullen, the emcee who is heard on practically every network, bows on Mutual with an early morning daily strip entitled "It Happens Every Day." Arlene Francis shares mike chores with Cullen. . . . Bob McLaughlin is back on radio. He does an across-the-board evening show on KFWB . . . The New York Philharmonic starts its twenty-fifth year on CBS this season.

Leonard Hall, Chairman of the Republican National Committee and Stephen A. Mitchell, Chairman of the Democratic National Committee, engage in a series of debates beginning October 10 on CBS radio and TV to discuss major campaign issues . . . NBC covers the pre-election scene during the battling month of October with "Barometer-1954." NBC newsmen Merrill Mueller, Joseph C. Harsch and Ray Scherer will air every phase of the political contest. M.R.

KNX's "This Is Los Angeles" received a special award from the Community Chest "for constantly fostering better understanding and support of the 164 services of the Community Chest, Los Angeles area, 1954."

The Children's Hospital, Salvation Army and seven other community organizations have been using "This Is L.A." transcripts as educational material for their staff workers.

Your Cue ( May Like Shows You )

"Amos 'n' Andy"

Sunday, 4:30 p.m.
CBS-KNX

Those two reliable, "Amos 'n' Andy" delivered an opening show of the season that was loaded with warm humor. Their steady formula—a fine development of an amusing situation topped by a twist ending—never fails to produce laughs.

When "Mama," "Sapphire," "Kingfish" and "Andy" take off in a lopsided, second-hand trailer with a defective hitch, to visit a rich relative in Florida, the script grows funnier as the trip progresses. Everyone decides to call the trip off when the trailer becomes unhitched on a railroad track and is demolished by a train. Everyone, that is, except undaunted and caustic "Mama" who buys another trailer as the "Kingfish" groans with the agonizing thought of starting out for Florida again with his battling mother-in-law.

Supporting cast, Ernestine Wade, Johnny Lee and Amanda Randolph were excellent. Writers Joe Connolly and Bob Mosher were in the writers' corner again for the umpteenth year.

Lud Gluskin is musical director and Cliff Howell directs the show that's become an old-fashioned remedy packaged for a good laugh. M.R.

RECORD Notes to You

By ANDY MANSFIELD

(KFI, Monday thru Friday, 8:45 a.m.)
(Saturday, 10:00 p.m.)

Tops in long-play records this week is Columbia's "A Star Is Born", with songs from the film's soundtrack by Judy Garland. While viewing this fine film will double your enjoyment of the songs, the Arlen-Gershwin score will easily stand on its own merit musically. Especially effective are "The Man That Got Away" and the extended versions of "Someone At Last" and "Born In A Trunk." Don't be surprised if "A Star Is Born" turns out to be both Columbia's and Judy's biggest hit; it's got what it takes.

"Ellington '55" (Capitol) is the best listening The Duke has provided in many a session. There are eight extended versions of jazz standards, each four to six swinging minutes in length, in this free-wheeling package of Ellingtonia at its best. "Rockin' In Rhythm," "Black And Tan Fantasy," "Stompin' At The Savoy," "In The Mood," "One O'Clock Jump," "Honey-suckle Rose," "Flying Home" and "Happy Go Lucky Local" as a table of contents should more than guarantee great listening.

Another high point of Decca's Twentieth Birthday release is the re-issuing of a package of a dozen fine waxings by Bob Crosby's Bob Cats. This band within a band had something that no purveyor of present-day Dixieland has ever remotely approached—a rhythm and beat that only its top jazzmen could provide. Listen to "Jazz Me Blues," "Big Foot Jump," "March Of The Bob Cats" and "Fidgety Feet" and maybe our younger generation will discover what we of the older one fondly remember.

"Memories," as a musical term, has been much abused—but it would be hard to find a better title to describe Columbia's new album by Morton Gould and his Orchestra. In nostalgic mood, this outstanding composer-conductor has selected a wonderful dozen of songs, rich in memories, each a hit in its day, and each one of which, in Mr. Gould's adroit and effective arrangements, still has an extraordinary amount of vitality, no matter how long ago the original was written. This is music for easy listening,—and melodies that can't help but recall many personal memories of yesterday.

WISCONSIN VS. RICE

Madison, Wis. Camp Randall (51,000 seating) Oct. 9, ABC-TV Network Channel 7, 11 a.m.

Wisconsin has balance, depth and size, three ingredients that make for an outstanding team. To take full advantage of the material on hand, coach Ivy Williamson has added the single-wing formation to the offensive pattern of T-formation and split-T which has characterized Williamson football at Wisconsin since 1949.

All this and sure-fire All-American fullback Alan "The Horse" Ameche is what Rice will have to contend with when these teams clash on the gridiron at Madison, Wis., October 9, in the ABC-TV nationally televised game.

As an offense unit the club should be as strong as the 1953 Badgers who finished with a 6-2-1 record. Defensively, the team should be stronger. Principal hopes are shouldered on Ameche and quarterback Jimmy Miller who made good as a soph last season. The incomparable 220-pound Ameche has stormed over opponents for three seasons to the tune of 2,599 yards.

Wisconsin and Rice have only met once before on the gridiron, in 1952 when the Badgers won 21-7.

The Rice Owls, co-champions of the Southwest Conference and Cotton Bowl victors over Alabama, are figured to be a stronger title contender this year on good team speed, an explosive backfield featuring All-American candidate Dick Moegle, an improved passing game and a seasoned pass defense.

The main concern of coach Jess Neely is finding suitable replacements for the entire first string line of '53 that graduated. Of the 13 returning lettermen, only six are linemen. This gives you an idea of the backfield strength with seven veterans for four positions.

Bill's Corner

By Bill "The Angel" Brundige

RAMS ON THE ROAD

"And, they say pro athletes don't take their game seriously." Someone passed along this remark as we were riding with the Rams from Washington to Baltimore. Hardly a word was spoken on the 42 mile bus trip as the Rams were approaching their opening game of the season. Hardly a smile graced a player's face . . . as the Rams plotted their attack on the Colts in the game which was to start less than 2 hours hence over KHJ-TV and KHJ. How ill-advised can those few people be that would have you believe, "the pro athletes don't take their game seriously."

The climax of our trip to the eastern seaboard was about to be reached . . . in the 1954 National Football League opener at Memorial Stadium. It all started, for me, early Friday morning, when I soared high over the clouds enveloping Los Angeles, on a one-stop trip to the Nation's Capitol. Ginny Simms, one of my favorite singers was on the plane, en route to Atlanta, Ga. But, she confided, she would much rather be on her way to Baltimore, for the charming thrush is a real Rams' fan.

The first person I met at the airport in Washington was another Rams' fan, George Nicholas, brother of Bill 'Coliseum' Nicholas. He was in the east on business and had already bought tickets for the Sunday game. Del Webb, co-owner of the Yankees, rode down town from the Washington airport with me . . . all smiles . . . not because of the American League finish, but due to the fact the Yanks made more money this season as a second place club than in 1953 as the pennant winner.

There were no smiles evident, however, around the DuPont Plaza Hotel, where the Rams were quartered in Washington. Several key men were injured, and could see only limited action in Sunday's game. Coach Hamp Pool and his staff were a gloomy bunch as they sat in the lobby consoling each other over the fates that had beset the Rams after such a tremendous start during the exhibition grind.

On our way downtown to test one of the famous Washington lobsters, Pool confided to Bob Kelley and me that he was genuinely concerned over the game coming up, and frankly didn't feel the Rams figured to be such heavy favorites.

Saturday was a day for preparation . . . and the Rams ran through a light work-out, just to limber up. But, as luck would have it, two key men, Stan West and Jack Dwyer, suffered painful and sidelining injuries in this brief drill. A darker and more sinister cloud hovered over the hotel that night.

Then came the day of the game . . . the bus trip . . . Pool's disclosure to members of the Rams' party that the sideline flanker play would be used as a weapon to partially offset the epidemic of injuries. "I don't know if it will work or not, but we've got to try something with so many of our regulars injured," he explained.

IT WORKED.

And, so did the waiters as the Rams held an impromptu celebration at the airport prior to leaving for home. We watched a portion of the San Francisco-Washington game on TV, but what we saw didn't lighten the hearts of the Rams, for the 49'ers were running rough-shod over the Redskins, and Hamp's Huskies were looking towards their next game, against these self-same 49'ers.

As I talked with Don Paul, he was, even then, planning a defense against the San Francisco runners, and pass snatchers. Every now and then a group of Rams would gather and above the din of the TV set and jubilation over the Colt rout, whispers of how the 49'ers could be stopped were heard.

Then, the PA announced the departure of the 'Los Angeles Rams' charter for Los Angeles. The parade to the parade was uneventful save a few remarks about the running of McIlhenny . . . the passing of Tittle . . . the overall power of the 49'ers attack.

Captain Emory Culbertson and his United Airlines crew did a marvelous job of winging the big DC-6 from Baltimore to Los Angeles. Naturally, they didn't have to excel themselves to keep the club happy . . . they had won their right to that on the Memorial Stadium turf hours earlier.

As the wheels cushioned on the International Airport runway 9½ flying hours later, the trip was over . . . and all that remained was a short drive home to get some sleep.

Don't Call Them Deejays

Amos 'n' Andy, also known as Freeman Gosden and Charles Correll, have started a new show after twenty-five years in radio. And they have moments when they wonder why.

↑ THE MOST POPULAR TEAM in the history of radio may be playing records and interviewing stars on their "Music Hall" but this is no slipshod effort. They even have a script to guide them. Hold on for some good laughs, folks, when you hear this show. (CBS photos.)

ords—three or four of them—but we're doing far more than just spinning a few platters. As to why we started this new program, we've asked ourselves the same question. It all began when a friend of ours tossed us the germ of an idea, and we carried the ball from there. The show we have now is considerably different from the original idea—we can assure you.

"On all of our five-night-a-week programs we intend to tie in what records we play with a real story line. Our guest stars will not be interviewed in the usual way but they will be part and parcel of our 'plot' for the day. For instance, when Liberace and Jack Benny were our guests, we worked out a gag where only one star was expected—Liberace. Benny arrived unexpectedly because he said he had heard that we were to have one of the most important stars in the country as our guest and he naturally assumed he was the one. On the Frank Sinatra program, the 'Kingfish' interviewed him—along with 'Amos' and 'Andy.' The gimmick here was that 'Kingfish' told everyone he knew all about Sinatra and then asked Frank questions like 'You're married to Zsa Zsa Gabor, aren't you?' The 'plot line' was concerned with how to pay Frank his fee for appearing.

"We plan to do a comedy skit in our shows, but at times this won't be possible. For example, with Sophie Tucker and Judy Garland the emphasis can't be on comedy. Instead, it must be on the moving highlights of their lives. Some of the other guests will be Burns and Allen and Tony Martin, and we even plan to take in people from other walks of life—such as sports figures."

Radio Fans

It was natural for Gosden and Correll to take this show to radio instead of television. They still remain two of radio's biggest boosters.

↑ FREEMAN GOSDEN and Charles Correll ring out the chimes to celebrate the start of their twenty-sixth year on radio. And to herald the event, they simply start work on another new show.

"We know radio isn't what it used to be," Freeman remarked, with a hearty agreement from Correll. "TV is the popular monster now, but we still feel radio has an enormous audience. The number of car radios tuned in alone is proof of that. Anyway, this has been our business for years. We enjoy it but we make a real business out of it."

The programs will be taped—either in Gosden and Correll's office or at CBS studios—without an audience.

Naturally, a venture like this has to be paid for—and so you'll find commercials. But the program, originating in the "Grand Ballroom of the Lodge of The Mystic Knights of the Sea," will not be surfeited with endless plugs, such as are heard on disc jockey shows.

"We have about two or three commercials on each show," Correll stated. "Some we'll do just as Freeman Gosden and Charles Correll. Some will be given by the guest star. Others will be done by 'Kingfish' or 'Amos' or 'Andy.' But even these will have a comedy twist on occasions—and will be given with humor.

"We've heard that the other complaint, outside of the commercials, about most record shows is that the deejays play the top tunes over and over. We don't plan to stress the favorites. In fact, we will even go back into some of the popular classics of yesterday. And we won't be introducing any new numbers. We'll let the others take care of that."

Now that Gosden and Correll are knee deep in more work, they have moments when they wonder just what got into them. They are especially in a confused state when it comes to finding enough guest stars for their show.

"This alone has proved one thing," Correll said with a laugh. "we always thought we were crazy and now we know it."

OVER CBS way there's a new radio program that ought to be a real delight. Called "The Amos 'n' Andy Music Hall" show, it is probably the most unexpected venture of the season.

When the news leaked out that Freeman Gosden and Charles Correll were going to take their famous "Amos 'n' Andy" characters into a new type of radio show, almost everyone was surprised. Why would these two talented men, after spending twenty-five fabulously successful years on radio, invite more work for themselves? The reaction was even more amazing when it was heard that they were going to do a show that had all the earmarks of a disc jockey thing.

However, those who have heard the program agree that this has as much connection with a deejay epic as "Little Orphan Annie" has with Zsa Zsa Gabor.

No Deejays

"We are not doing any disc jockey show!" Freeman Gosden explained heartily. "Yes, we're playing rec-

▲ ONE OF TV'S MOST PERFECT MOTHERS is Gale Storm. The "Margie" star's views on television are shared by husband Lee, and sons Philip, Paul, and Peter.

GALE STORM, who is the proud mother of three boys, has found that TV children don't always make the happy combination they are supposed to. In fact, she has found that being a TV parent isn't the easiest job in the world.

"Regulating my boys' TV fare has been something of a problem," the pert little "Margie" of NBC's "My Little Margie" remarked. "Naturally, my boys love it—but there are difficulties. When we sold our house and moved into a rented home until we were able to be in our new place, we had quite a situation on our hands. The boys couldn't ride their bikes any more since we were living in the hills, they had no friends there, and so they had a lot of time on their hands. As a result, Lee, my husband, and I had to pry them loose from the TV set. Our main objection has always been that we didn't want the boys to watch TV when they should be playing outside or studying. We didn't want them to lose the urge to think up things to do, either.

"Ordinarily, Lee and I manage things so that TV isn't taking over our house. On week-ends we plan little outings so that the boys don't have much time to watch television. We also have quite a rule against their watching TV during the dinner hour. We don't let them take a tray into the den and gulp their food down while being engrossed in the adventures of some television character. We feel that the dinner hour is the time when parents have the greatest influence on their family—and we don't want anything to usurp that feeling of closeness. Of course, sometimes on Sundays we may all take a tray into the den and watch TV together, but at least there is still a family unit then.

"During the summer, Philip, Paul, and Peter stay up no later than nine. In the winter Philip is in bed by eight-thirty and his brothers get to bed by eight. So with this schedule and with their studies to do, which always come first, there is little time for them to see TV.

"Lee and I are especially sure to see that we never use TV as a baby-sitter. There's a tendency among some parents to let the television take over their parental responsibilities. Maybe they don't want to be bothered with the children at times and so it's easier to let them stay glued to the set. This is one temptation I personally feel no parent should succumb to.

Disadvantages

"I think, too, that TV can be bad for a child's eyes if he watches it too much. It also has a tendency to heighten such nervous habits as thumb-sucking and nail-biting. Being such an inactive, passive pastime it encourages such traits.

"However, I must confess that I don't think there are too many shows that are bad for a child to see. I think TV has regulated itself pretty well in putting on programs at a later hour that are not right for children. Besides, boys and girls seek their own level after a while. They usually don't watch shows that aren't right for them—at least not for too long a period. Philip has gone away from space shows and Westerns, for instance, and has become a devoted follower of situation comedy programs. He even likes 'Panorama Pacific,' and 'The Big Picture,' shows that one would think would appeal only to adults. His other favorites are the funnies and Art Linkletter.

"There has been much discussion, too, about how close or how far away a child should sit from the set while watching TV. I feel children's eyes are different. They like to be close to a set and most pediatricians I have talked to say this is natural. They soon find the right distance anyway.

"Frankly, in spite of all its drawbacks, I think TV can be a fine educational device for children. It has taught them a lot—especially has it taught them to recognize the products advertised on the shows. And how loyal the children are to those products! If they really like a program and then go to the market with their mothers, they see to it that the products advertised somehow get into the market basket.

"Not that I think TV is good only to sell cereal and the like. It can make children more alert to the developments taking place in this world today. It can bring them closer to the advances of the times. And it can create a wider range of interests.

"It strikes me that with such potentialities TV has a real challenge and an obligation to both parents and children. Let's hope its lets neither down."

TV Parent Are You?

▲ DR. FRANK BAXTER tosses some real challenges to today's parents. He feels TV can be useful to children but is now being used primarily as a drug. This is a blunt fact for parents to face.

PARENTS have to realize one thing about TV as far as their children are concerned—it is a barbituate, an opiate, a Mickey Finn. And it's up to mother and father to see that their youngsters aren't completely doped."

So spoke Dr. Frank Baxter, who has brought the intellectual approach to TV on his KNXT "Shakespeare on TV" program—and made it pay off.

"Let me say first that I think television a wonderful thing—when used properly." Dr. Baxter went on. "It's so wonderful I still find myself saying, 'I don't believe it will work.' But it can be a damaging thing, especially to today's youth.

More Variety

"I think TV must begin to offer a more balanced diet. There is a vast audience for new ideas, new programs. I can still remember when the party was given to announce the debut of 'Shakespeare on TV.' Many people there drank a good deal but few believed the idea would go over. That it apparently has is proof that audiences want something different—and, yes, intellectual.

"I don't believe the industry, so far, has thought much about shows for our children. There is certainly not enough variety in programming.

"There seems, in my humble opinion, several things wrong with children's shows. To begin with, some peace must be made with sponsors. Programs are too highly spiced with commercials. This business of drilling products into a child's mind is in highly questionable taste.

"I also don't approve of the shows of violence—and by that I don't necessarily mean western. I should say the western because all these outdoor epics are the same story over again. You know when the fight will start, you know when the hero and the villain will knock over a table, when they will knock down some shelves, when one will be thrown over the bar, when they will start fighting up the stairs and when one will be knocked over the bannister. There's just no imagination in these pictures—and they are definitely remote from reality. They depict a part of the west that never existed. What happens outdoors in the western isn't so bad but what happens indoors is dreadful.

has thought of putting on a show for children that will feature a person with a wealth of stories to tell—and then use a stage with little figures to dramatize the tales. Think of the vast fields here—the stories of Hans Christian Andersen, Grimm's Fairy Tales, and others.

Restraints

"As far as parental control of a child's TV habits is concerned, I feel children have to be restrained. Parents must be dogmatic about regulating both the time spent in front of the set and the types of shows watched. Every means should be taken to encourage boys and girls to be more selective in their choice of programs. Too many parents, it seems, tend to use TV to keep a youngster out of circulation. The set is used to 'quiet' him, to put him to sleep. TV is shaping the America of tomorrow. This is a terrible responsibility and shouldn't be turned into an opiate.

"I also feel the time spent watching TV should be budgeted—perhaps an hour a day. Television should be a pleasant interlude in a child's life, not his whole existence. TV interferes too much with his reading habits, the development of hobbies, with his normal need for play time outdoors. It also limits his self expression. I like 'Ding Dong School' because it stirs up a child's imagination—and to stimulate the imagination should be an objective of television. Too many programs don't allow youngsters to think for themselves.

"Parents must use a rod of iron— if their children aren't to be turned into immobile robots. Let's hope parents realize the job before them."

If you want to know what kind of a parent you are as regards your child's TV habits, answer the following questions. Ten or more "yes" answers mean you're exceptional. Five to ten—you're about average. Under five—you're using TV as a baby sitter.

The Best

ALL ROADS these days lead to television. Even the biggest and most famous of them all, the Great White Way of Broadway, has capitulated to the demands of the giant new TV industry.

Sooner or later it had to happen. For a long time now the vast TV public has clamored to see the top Broadway productions.

When CBS-TV finally decided to bring the "Best of Broadway" into the living room of millions of American homes, the network went at it in a big way.

Best for "Best"

First of all, they took one of the best times available. For over three years now, the Pabst Blue Ribbon Bouts on Wednesday at 7 p.m. has been one of the top-rated programs on the air. Westinghouse, through the co-operation of the Pabst Brewing Company, was able to obtain one Wednesday night each month for the Broadway plays.

The next problem was: which plays should they select? The answer was obvious: if they were going to call the series the "Best of Broadway," that's exactly what they should get. As a result Broadway's best musical comedies and dramatic plays of the last three decades were lined up.

The opening one, "The Royal Family," seen on September 15, starred Helen Hayes, Claudette Colbert, Fredric March, and Charles Coburn. The George S. Kaufman-Edna Ferber comedy was viewed "live" over the CBS-TV network — ninety-four stations altogether.

The remaining "Best of Broadway" plays to be seen during the coming year include:

"The Man Who Came to Dinner" by Moss Hart and George S. Kaufman, on October 13.

"Panama Hattie" on November 10.
"Ah Wilderness" by Eugene O'Neill.
"The Guardsman" by Ferenc Molnar.

"Idiot's Delight" by Robert Sherwood.

"Arsenic and Old Lace" by Joseph O. Kesserling.

"The Barretts of Wimpole Street" by Rudolph Besier.

"The Time of Your Life" by William Saroyan.

"The Philadelphia Story" by Philip Barry.

Producer Talks

In an exclusive interview, TV-Radio Life discussed some of the aspects of the "Best of Broadway" with Producer Martin Manulis. The producer of "Suspense" since October, 1952. Manulis has an impressive list of Broadway plays to his credit and has directed such stars as Shirley Booth, Tallulah Bankhead, Sara Churchill, Donald Cook, John Loder and Jeffrey Lynn.

Did Manulis think the one-hour TV show would be able to do full justice to the more lengthy Broadway productions.

"Yes. Definitely," he replied. "We found, for example in the cutting of 'The Royal Family' that we eliminated the sub plot elements and the lesser characters who had no bearing on the major story, we were able to retain the major characters and story in full."

Will any of the original scripts be changed? Will any lines be censored?

The reply: "There will be no basic changes in the original scripts. The original, of course, will have to be cut. But in 'The Royal Family' we found that we had scarcely a line or two which was not written by Kaufman or Ferber. Our attempt is to make a TV show primarily—but a TV show of a play as opposed to a scenario. As far as I know there will be no censorship other than that of basic good taste for family viewing. This privilege will be exercised by ourselves."

Are any of the original authors working on the TV plays?

"Yes. Howard Lindsay and Russel Crouse on "Arsenic and Old Lace"; William Saroyan on "The Time of Your Life"; Phillip Barry, Jr., on the late Phillip Barry's "The Philadelphia Story"; and we hope Robert Sherwood on "The Petrified Forest."

In Color, Too

Does Manulis himself prefer to work on a TV show or a Broadway play?

"It's hard for anybody as stage struck as I am to choose between producing a Broadway show or a TV show. But when it's on "The Best of Broadway" the producer gets the best of both worlds. The plays are top flight as is the production. The casts are more impressive in name value than could ever possibly be assembled for a Broadway production," he answered.

"The Best of Broadway" is transmitted and received in color, though of course the great majority of Americans see the performances in the usual black and white. What affect does the color have upon production?

"Color affects very much the planning of the physical production," Manulis replied. "The settings, the properties in furnishing and costumes must be designed specially, not only for their fitness to the play, but their harmony to the color-physical production is very much like a Broadway play rather than for black and white television."

Will the "Best of Broadway" hurt the box office of Broadway productions, particularly on the Wednesday night of the show?

The reply: "As this could only apply to New York City and the few major cities in the country which have live theatre, I don't think we are in serious competition. I hope that the 'Best of Broadway' will be exciting enough to keep avid legitimate theatergoers at their sets on Wednesday night."

Finally, the $64 question: Will the people who have seen the original plays on Broadway be disappointed after seeing the one-hour TV version?

Manulis gave a firm reply of "No" to this one. "We have attempted to preserve and so far on the first two scripts, I think we have succeeded in keeping the values of the plays which first made them successes. That is, the dialogue, basic characterization, major story lines, laugh lines, etc.

"I think if the viewer has already seen the full stage play and liked it, he will only have a happy and satisfactory nostalgia from seeing the play again and the high moments will be there for him to enjoy.

"A case in point from an actor's standpoint: Fredric March played 'The Royal Family' on the stage and in motion pictures. When he read our version of the play, he felt that only three lines had been left out that he especially remembered as fine moments in the play.

"The three lines were quickly restored—and only one turned out to be his."

ANOTHER ONE of Hollywood's great stars to finally hit the TV fold is the lovely Claudette Colbert. In addition to her "Royal Family" appearance she will also be seen on December 2 on Screen Gems' "Ford Theatre." (Columbia Pictures-Gereghly.)
