GOVERNOR GOODWIN KNIGHT pulled the switch to activate KCOP'S new transmitter atop Mt. Wilson. Channel 13 is now the most powerful TV station in Los Angeles.

MILDRED YOUNGER is now active on both KABC and KABC-TV with her provocative comments on affairs of interest to women—and men.

TV IN THE Nursery

Nursery school comes to television and it's finger paints and fun on Romper Room.

By Donna Scott

TELEVISION is creating a lot of apple polishers and Helen Beale on Romper Room deserves a big, red, shiny apple.

The KABC-TV nursery school program has caught the fancy of children and adults alike. It is a carefully planned and researched syndicated series that has been playing in key cities throughout the country. Before launching Romper Room, the packager conducted a comprehensive survey of nursery schools, their methods and achievements, and he also conferred with some of our top educators. The results of his careful study have paid off handsomely.

Each morning at 11:30 thousands of eager children sit before their television sets with eyes glued to the program designed just for them. As the nursery schoolroom comes to life, the image of freshly scrubbed faces is reflected on the picture tube. Presiding over the brood is the refreshingly wholesome and delightful Miss Helen.

The half-hour session gets under way in an atmosphere of clay, paints, blocks, crayons, dolls, trucks, tables, books and rhythm instruments. The children, both on camera and at home, join Miss Helen in singing songs, playing games and making simple things with their hands. There are story readings, teach-it subjects and make-it projects. The do's and don'ts of growing up are illustrated simply by two bumble bees, Mr. Do Bee and Mr. Don't Bee.

The program is so highly regarded that 100 registered nursery schools throughout the city request advance mailings of Romper Room's schedule so that they can parallel their activities with those on the television series.

Teacher

But it takes more than a scientifically planned schedule to put a program of this kind across. It takes a warm, sincere personality who has a way with children. Miss Helen fits the prescription perfectly. She is not an actress, not a pitchwoman and not a glamour girl; she is, however, an attractive, married, fully credited and experienced teacher who specializes in children... young children.

The hazel-eyed Miss Helen literally fell into her television job by replying to an advertisement for a "Kindergarten Teacher for a Television Show to Start in Los Angeles." Helen found herself hired immediately because of her teaching background and personable manner. She went through an intensive training, learning the format that has made Romper Room a successful show in 20 other major cities. After mastering the myriad games, songs, stories and techniques used on the program Helen faced her first TV audience.

Her initiation was well received. In no time at all children were clamoring to attend her classes on Romper Room. The Romper Room children are personally selected by Miss Helen. She rotates her young "students" so that new faces and personalities are constantly before the cameras alongside children who are experienced Romper Room veterans of two or more weeks.

The children respond to Miss Helen's instructions like little angels. Occasionally, though, an eager little beaver gets involved in a long monologue and Miss Helen with a mindful eye on the clock politely interrupts the youngster by telling him they can discuss the subject a little later.

But it's the uninhibited actions and naturalness of the children that help to make the show. Usually children have vivid imaginations and participate in make-believe willingly. One day, however, a little girl refused to pretend that she was washing clothes on a scrubbing board. She steadfastly insisted that her mother had an automatic washer. Nothing Miss Helen said could make her change her mind.

Actually these little incidents present no problem to Miss Helen. Her only problem, she frankly admits, is selecting six youngsters for the show when she'd like to have 60 on camera.

"Modern educators," says Miss Helen, "believe in exposing the children to the academic world early in life by introducing them to the nursery school where the staid, conservative ways of teaching have given way to a fun-while-learning method. Romper Room, like off-camera nursery schools, is especially good for teaching young children how to get along with others, the sharing of toys and the little courtesies of daily living."

It's quite obvious that the children like this sugar-coated learning. It's a sweet way to start getting an education.

ATTENDING ROMPER ROOM has become a sign of recognition among the pre-schoolers. The children thoroughly enjoy their TV nursery school and respond to Miss Helen's instructions like little angels.

Is Georgie Worried?

George Gobel is a mighty thankful guy for all that has happened to him, but he keeps insisting that he's just been lucky. There are those who would disagree with him.

By Jack Holland

over the reins and pull the strings. Why should I try to run things? He knows a lot more than I do.

"And, of course, although I probably shouldn't mention it, I owe much to my wife and family. It takes a lot of patience to live with and try to understand a comic. Most funny men—so-called—may bring in the laughs during a show but they aren't always so hilarious by their own fireside. And now I'll tell you—I have moments when I confuse my wife. Naturally, though, she confuses me too so it sort of balances.

"But I have to be serious about my home life. If I hadn't been so happy at home I don't think I could have done much outside the home." Then, with a dry laugh, he added, "Maybe it was because I was gone so much of the time before I did TV that my wife was able to stand me. It was a case of absence making the heart grow fonder—or something like that."

George is back with his NBC-KRCA show now and is still dishing out the inimitable Gobel brand of humor. He is not, however, sitting back resting on his laurels—nor does he believe in being over-confident about the future.

Worried?

"I'm a worrier," he said seriously. "I worry about most everything. And one of the things I wonder about is—will I hold my own this season? I don't have the answer for that one. I hope I will, naturally, and I'm going to work hard to see that I do all I can to stay on top, but you have to be practical and look at facts.

"Comics are largely fads—or so I think. They run hot and cold. I just want to stay away from the cold. I like it when it's warmer."

George lit a cigarette, got up and paced around the room, and finally

WHEN George Gobel was at Paramount last summer making the movie, "The Birds and the Bees," he was like a kid taking his first ride on a new bicycle. He kept pinching himself to be sure he wasn't dreaming.

"I couldn't help wondering how I'd been so lucky," he said quietly. "Me—in the movies. You know, I was always pretty star-struck and I have a healthy respect for the great talent around. I was amazed that I had managed to get into such a charmed circle."

This attitude of George's is one of his greatest attributes. He has had phenomenal success in TV and from all reports he's going to be equally successful in movies. And yet the only answer he has for all this is that those who have guided his career have done a good job.

His Thanks

"I certainly owe many thanks to Dave O'Malley, my manager all these years," Georgie went on. "He saw more in me than I ever thought was there. It was he who pushed me into big-time with his wise decisions and his know-how. I just let him take

Gildersleeve Gilded Him

Willard Waterman has found that the role of Gildersleeve has rubbed off on him in many ways, but he's not sure that this is all to the good.

By Bruce Ramsey

HIS NAME is Willard Waterman, but most people knew him as the blustering, blundering Great Gildersleeve. For years he was a radio byword and now with his KRCA-TV show, he is walking right into the living room.

Willard is a quiet kind of guy, a little reserved, entirely unpretentious and unimpressed with himself. The more you talk to him the more you're convinced this guy has to be an actor to be convincing as Gildersleeve.

And yet, the character has had its impression on him. At home, for instance, his family often gets the idea he is Gildersleeve.

"I can't quite figure it out," Willard said softly, "but at times my wife, Mary Anna, and my daughters, 11 and 17 respectively, think I really am like Gildersleeve. Lynne, my oldest daughter, especially thinks this is so, but I try to comfort myself with the thought that all teen-agers regard their parents as a bit on the stuffy side. Now, I don't think I'm stuffy at all. I think I'm pretty open-minded which, of course, makes me a typical father.

"Mary Anna sees a connection between Gildersleeve and me only on occasion. Most of the time she finds me not too difficult to live with. At least, she hasn't for 18 years. I think I'm a pretty good husband, but, naturally, this is only my own opinion and as such open to argument."

Quiet Person

At home Willard is anything but the blundering clown. He lives quietly, spending most of his time reading or playing golf. In fact, he and Mary Anna are pretty good at the game.

In this connection, Willard presented a trophy called the Willard Waterman trophy at a recent NBC golf tournament. The funny part of it was that he shot the best game and won the trophy himself.

"Naturally, I gave it to the next best score," Willard laughed.

Willard is unlike Gildersleeve in that he is not brash or pushy as an individual. He simply is not an extrovert. He's relaxed, he has no ulcers, he gets himself into few messes

"at least not ones I can't get out of," he adds with a laugh. And yet when his family see him on TV, they can't even believe he's the same man who lives at home with them

"Mary Anna saw the first two TV shows," Willard commented, "and she thought I mugged too much. Maybe it was just because she was used to seeing me so sedate at home.

"I've always thought, of course, that she should do some acting. I used to try to get her to do walk-ons when I was doing stock in Chicago, but I couldn't convince her. However, she recently directed and produced the Lakeside Women's Invitational Show—and she did a good job. Maybe the business is rubbing off on her after all."

Willard is, on the whole, pretty happy about doing Gildersleeve, but he is somewhat worried about being typed too much.

Typed

"I'd like to have a chance to do something different, especially in pictures," he stated. "I've been up for a couple of parts but could never get entirely past the casting office before someone would say, 'Oh, no, he's a comedian.' And here I am—wanting to play a good tough heavy.

"It's not so surprising that I want to be a villain. I used to play nothing but heels on radio. And then I got involved in a comedy series called Those Websters and from that I did comedy roles with Joan Davis and Cass Daley—and all of a sudden I was Gildersleeve and a comedian.

"I was glad to see the show go on TV because it gave me a shot in the arm. It was a challenge just when I needed something to stir me up a little. I think any actor needs some kind of change, of variety unless he wants to stagnate. Believe me, I'm not at all interested in stagnating."

Willard Waterman has, therefore, made one mistake in his life—he was so good as Gildersleeve that you have to think twice to remember his real name. Willard Waterman is missing and Gildersleeve would like to find him again.

Dummies Are Smart

Edgar Bergen claims his colleagues are far more clever than most people care to admit.

By Mildred Ross

CHARLIE, MORTIMER, EFFIE and Lars are a pretty smart lot. And Edgar Bergen, a mere human, defies anyone who claims that these dummies aren't hep.

The famed quartet was shrewd enough to convince the ventriloquist to return to radio for his 20th year of broadcasting on KNX-CBS-Radio. And Charlie reluctantly admits that Bergen showed some intelligence by following their logical advice.

Acting as the spokesman for the quartet, Edgar cites some of the reasons these smarties preferred radio to television. "Take the case of our dear Effie Klinker," Bergen explains. "She knows she used to have a shape like a violin, but a string busted and she's not the same old gal she used to be. Effie has tried all the beauty treatments but her age shows up on television. Sometimes when Effie bats her blue eyes on camera, viewers see the bags under them instead of her orbs. After a radio broadcast fans always write to tell her how seductive her voice sounds. Guess Effie feels safer on radio and you can't blame the girl.

"Now take our Swedish fisherman, Lars Lindquist, one of the newer additions to the family—he's much happier in radio. Lars likes to talk about his Viking ancestors and their harrowing experiences seal-hunting up at the North Pole. Lars rightly philosophizes there's no visual limit to the size of fish he catches on radio and he sure likes to spin his tall yarns.

"Charlie is another great advocate for radio. It's terribly frustrating for him not to be able to kid my chin strap and receding hairline on television. TV kills some of his best gags and this makes him most unhappy. Then, too, he claims that I, his close associate for 10 to these many years, become difficult to work with when we're on camera. Frankly, I think it's just his deflated ego that bothers him. He's not as photogenic as he'd like to be, you know.

EDGAR BERGEN surrounded by his famous and brainy friends, Charlie McCarthy, Miss Effie Klinker, Lars Lindquist and Mortimer Snerd. Bergen claims it's difficult to outsmart these dummies.

"Mortimer claims he prefers radio because his buck teeth aren't so noticeable. But aside from this self-conscious observation, Mortimer is pretty much at home in either medium. I hope you won't think I'm bragging when I tell you that both Charlie and Mortimer have received honorary degrees for their special talents and keen intelligence.

Degrees

"Actually, Mortimer has never been the same since talking to Dr. Baxter who conferred an honorary degree on him for being a well adjusted person one without a single neurosis or frustration. Sometimes Mortimer gets a little out of hand but you can hardly blame him since no one else holds this unique degree. Not to be outdone by his country cousin, Charlie was the recipient of the Honorary Degree of Master of Innuendoes and Snappy Comebacks from Northwestern University. To-wit: 'Mr. McCarthy has been a student in absentia for many years following a similarly distinguished career in the Grade and High School during his youth. He is possessed of a capacity for research surpassed only by his ability to speak for himself . . . is known for his wit and wisdom, not to mention his willingness to borrow all his ideas from the person nearest him . . . a prince of parasites . . . violent in company . . . churlish in behavior . . . acid in conversation . . . wooden-faced in all relationships and in all other aspects a typical product of higher learning in America . . . famed for his investigation into the value of timber in voice production and a nationally known contributor to a field of entertainment which deserves the fate he's brought upon it.'

"I think it's quite obvious that Charlie, Mortimer, Effie and Lars are pretty smart characters, don't you?"

When certain Italian citizens clamor to appear on an American television program it makes one stop and realize what an impact the medium has on people no matter where they live.

It seems as though NBC received ten letters from Italy each with a single request in mind. The writers wanted to appear on Truth or Consequences and take a crack at picking up $100,000 while under hypnosis. You may recall that Pat Morris, a USC coed, appeared on Truth or Consequences and was put in a hypnotic trance and unable to pick up $100,000 from a table close by.

Although T or C is not seen in Italy, it is assumed that the program with its various gimmicks receives such wide press coverage that the Italians are eager to appear on the audience participation show.

Gino Prato, $64,000 Question contestant, received wide acclaim when he visited Italy recently. Perhaps the publicity and recognition accorded Prato has stimulated his former fellow countrymen into thinking if Gino can do it so can they.

In any event the hypnotist stunt on T or C is over and done with and NBC regrets that they cannot comply with the writers' wishes. But they are happy with the thought that their program is highly regarded in a foreign country where commercial TV is virtually non-existent.

Tune Troubles

Despite some objections—particularly by the British—KTLA will not ban the controversial tune "I Don't Want To Ever Be A Princess."

Composers Spade Cooley and Kay Cee Jones, who wrote the song with obvious references to the recent Princess Margaret-Capt. Peter Townsend courtship, will present the song on the Orrin Tucker Show on Friday, November 18.

For the benefit of our readers, here are the lyrics. What do you think? Is it in bad taste or not? Let us know and we'll publish the results in our "Ear and Eye Inspire the Pen" column.

"I don't want to ever be a princess
If I have to spend my life alone.
I don't want to ever be a princess
Without a true love to call my own.
I don't want the world and all its treasures

If it means the two of us must part,
'Cause if I were a princess, even though I loved you

I couldn't be the queen of your heart."

Putnam's New Show

What should be one of the most exciting and controversial shows on television, Controversy, starring George Putnam, will make its debut nationally in the very near future.

Produced by George Draine and directed by Lenny Blondheim, the documentary filmed show will tackle many controversial subjects, including the Black Dahlia case, the disappearance of Amelia Earhart and the real facts behind Rudolph Valentino's death. Viewers will be taken right to the scene where the event occurred. People who were actually involved in the story will be interviewed. And many unanswered questions will get surprising answers.

In short, Controversy will document in thorough style the facts behind the most dramatic people of our time. And it is quite likely that not all of these people will thoroughly relish the revelations.

We Point With Pride

. . . to the adept handling of Date-line 2 on Producers' Showcase. The entire show was a standout tribute to America's overseas correspondents. Greer Garson and Bill Holden co-hosted with warmth and dignity. Most effective was Holden's reading of John Steinbeck's tribute to the late photographer Robert Capa.

. . . to Leo Durocher's guest performance on George Gobel's show last week. (This week, Mr. Gobel graces our cover.) Leo seemed as much at home before the cameras as he did on the third base coaching lines while managing the New York Giants. Leo, incidentally, is scheduled to do approximately 20 guest appearances on various NBC-TV shows during this coming year, so be on the lookout for him. It's never dull when "The Lip" is on the loose.

Lifelines

BY EVELYN BIGSBY

I DIDN'T KNOW THAT A LEMON was more fragile than an orange and that they used to blow the temperature forecasts on the fire sirens—didn't, that is, until I chatted some time ago with Floyd D. Young. At that time the frost warning broadcaster explained that a ripe orange might take a 27-degree temperature all night and not suffer damage, but that a lemon could be ruined at 30 degrees for as little as half an hour.

THESE AND OTHER BITS OF INFORMATION flashed back to me the other day when I learned that Mr. Young was planning to retire next March 1.

HE HAS CERTAINLY EARNED every minute of his projected round-the-world jaunt. Back in the smudgy past, before Young started broadcasting his frost warnings, the growers had no reliable source of weather data to guide them in their nightly orchard vigils. When a big freeze was expected, the fire sirens in various communities used to toot out a certain number of sounds to indicate the temperature-to-come. Then, a friendly phone relay was built, but the chilly spell of 1922 put such a drain on this system that it bogged down.

SHORTLY AFTER, YOUNG STARTED to broadcast his frost warnings on KHJ, later moved to KNX (1930-37) and settled finally on KFI, where his 8:00 o'clock intonations of the cold outlook have taken precedence over all kinds of fancy commercial programs.

WITH YOUNG AT THE HELM, the Fruit Frost Service has saved millions of dollars in crops. That the service will go on is certain, but much of the credit for past, present and future must go to the man who has tied himself down to that wintery 8:00 p.m. spot for so many years. His daily calculations have required coordination of data from more than a dozen sources and making of a weather map of this continent west of the Mississippi and over to Hawaii—every afternoon. And because of the delicacy of the oranges, lemons and all the other products grown in this wonderfully fertile area of ours, the calculations have had to be nail-on-the-head. Young once told me that he allowed himself only two degrees leeway in his forecasts, these two degrees being his cushion should an unforeseen wind or cloud crop up.

ONE OF THE FUNNIEST LUCY SHOWS happened the other night when they did a Person to Person take-off. Lucy herself was a riot with her mouth clenched speechless by chewy candy, but topping her, for a rare bit, was a chap named Elliott Reid who impersonated Edward R. Murrow.

SEEMS THAT JESS OPPENHEIMER approached Murrow and asked him to play himself on the show, but the clipped-speaking, cigaret-posing Murrow found he was too busy. Then Jess remembered Reid doing a take-off on the Kefauver Committee on a New York show and when he called the actor, he found that Reid, by delightful coincidence, had made several tapes of Murrow with the idea of studying them and incorporating them into a night club act. Reaction to Reid's impersonation on the Lucy show was so favorable that Oppenheimer now thinks he'll send Edward R. a print of the show (he was probably too busy to catch it).

HAD YOU NOTICED THAT WE ARE in for a cycle of mental illness TV shows? These must be done with exactly the right touch or they become maudlin or depressingly terrifying.

ON MY RECENT TRIP TO NEW YORK I spent one of my pleasantest evenings at the Bijou Theater where Joyce Grenfell was captivating audiences with her one-woman repertoire. When she appeared on Ed Sullivan's show the other night she didn't come across nearly as well as she did in person. Of all her theater numbers the Nursery School wasn't her best. I hope she comes back soon to do The Understanding Mother and Running Commentary. . . Also must mention J. Carroll Naish, our ex-Luigi, who is sensational in a pair of N.Y. plays, "A View From the Bridge" and "A Memory of Two Mondays." In the latter he's in the role of a rough, dirty little old guy who reminds one of a baboon but occasionally reveals spots of a tender man.

GODFREY'S EIGHT-PART STORY in The Post is attracting much attention. . . Betty White has a new NBC pilot and tells me she's "at the fingers-crossed stage." John Wayne is coming up on the December 7 Screen Directors' Playhouse series. And speaking of SDP, Buster Keaton, who has a part in the December 14 Playhouse show, says that Stage 3 at the Hal Roach lot where they've been shooting the TV film is the very same one where he did his first movie in 1919 just after he got out of the Army.

remarked, "You know, I have been told I fuss too much, but I'm glad that I can look at any eventuality. You can sort of plan then on what you're going to do if the picture changes. In the meantime, I just want to go on doing the best I can. I don't want to let anyone down, especially those who have done so much for me. I owe them a big debt. And I like to pay my debts."

I could remember talking to George before he ever started his TV show. He was being practical then. He was no idealist. It's a healthy thing that he isn't closing his eyes now and gazing into fleecy clouds. However, talent is hard to be minimized. And with all the talent he has, he should let himself have a few fancy illusions and rosy ideals.

Regardless of George's outlook, the public isn't worried. They're just too thankful to have a personality like Gobel around to brighten their TV and movie screens, so don't be surprised if they keep him busy for many months to come.

One of my favorite programs has always been "My Little Margie." Last night, when I turned on the television, I was very disappointed to see that "Father Knows Best" was on, instead of Margie. I like "Father Knows Best" but I like "Margie" better. Could you please tell me if she's coming back to TV?

"My Little Margie" is on Channel 11, Monday at 7:30 p.m.

Mrs. J. H. Davis, Huntington Park

After viewing Toast of the Town recently, I became both disgusted and nauseated at Roz Russell. She is no spring chicken and made a fool of herself.

M. H. J., San Gabriel

Let me say first that Lawrence Welk did very well for himself before he came to California. True, he was not on TV, but during many of those years there was no such medium; when there was, it was very young. Had he remained there, he probably would have been on TV. Who can say that he would not have? Is the writer of a recent letter a crystal ball gazer in reverse?

Whether KTLA survives, I would not presume to say but how anyone can truthfully say the Tucker music is superior to Welk's is beyond my power of comprehension. He has not a singer in the lot, including himself; his boys appear to utterly lack personality or to be the exact opposite, viz. completely conceited and self-satisfied.

Mrs. J. D., Whittier

Our whole family and many of our friends join the lady reader who said they no longer stay home on Friday nights now that Lawrence Welk is off KTLA. We were all kids when Orrin Tucker was popular and had a REAL band—why, oh why, does he land his name to that un-musical conglomeration he leads now? Lawrence Welk took lots of kidding about his "1-2-3"—but it's far better than Mr. Tucker wrinkling, crinkling and laboring through "I'm Young and Healthy" with tired tonsils.

Mrs. Amy D., Los Angeles

This is the first time in my life I ever wrote, either in praise, or condemnation, but now I want to put in my two cents worth. First, the bouquets: to the very fine talent among the Crystal Tone orchestra. Jack Melick is tops, as is also the steel guitar man, xylophone player, in fact nearly all with the exception of the leader. He certainly cannot sing, but can make faces. They don't take the place of Lawrence Welk by any means, but I am wondering has anybody noticed that if any one that is appearing on Channel 5 dares to guest on any other channel, that's all boy, they are not on Channel 5 anymore. Some I could mention, Dick Gardner, Sandra Berkovitz, the skater, also violinist and many others.

Another bouquet for the very wonderful performance of Jack Carson on Jane Wyman's show recently. For one who has always played the rough comedian he surprised and pleased myself and many others for his sincere performance. Others were very good also. Come on, producers, let's have more shows like "The Director."

Mrs. Dorothy Arbuthnot, Los Angeles

I was surprised when I read an article by a woman recently about smutty or nasty music. You can look into just any song and find a so-called smutty insinuation in it. Even to the old favorites such as "That Old Black Magic," "You Do Something to Me," and "I Get a Kick Out of You." These have through the years become standards.

My idea is that there are two sides to every story, and it depends on how you look at it. Ninety percent of radio and TV stations are playing and singing it day in and day out. According to record sales surveys, the rhythm and blues or rock 'n roll is the highest.

YUCCA VALLEY

A fast-growing new community. Yucca Valley (or Yucca Village, as the subdivision is called) was only a small trading post seven years ago but since its subdivision it has become a haven for those seeking a restful locality for retirement, or relief from the effects of the California smog.

Yucca Valley is situated in a forest of Joshua Trees, surrounded by protecting hills and commands a magnificent view of the San Gorgonio range, which boasts of Southern California's highest snow-capped mountain. The homes are carefree and informal—designed for out-door living—and-comfort. Those who think that the desert is barren should view some of the local gardens and shrubbery.

The water is abundant and of the finest quality—many visitors bottle it and take it home for drinking in preference to coastal water. The soil is rich and productive, giving the homeowner a chance to indulge in a creative hobby that is both interesting and fruitful.

This climate is very beneficial for sufferers of Arthritis, Asthma, Sinus, High Blood Pressure and many types of heart conditions. Let Mother Nature go to work for you. Water is pure and soft, no chemicals added. Complete details will be furnished upon request. Help yourself to health and love living here in Yucca Valley, Calif., elevation 3300 ft. where no air conditioners are needed.

Label Talk

By TERREA LEA

Well, how are you doing on the saving of those label sets? Remember, the club sending in the largest number of complete sets of labels, made up of one label from each of the Label Bank products, will win $250.00 in cash. And the individual sending in the largest number of complete sets of labels made up of one label each from any 20 of the Label Bank products, will win a Motorola Television set. Labels must be in the Label Bank office at 727 No. La Brea by Dec. 16 and in case of a tie duplicate prizes will be awarded.

You still have time to enter—and perhaps win. Just think!—$250.00 for your club treasury and a brand new 1956 TV set for yourself and family. And that television set sure is beautiful. It is the new Eye-Condition-TV by Motorola and the controls are right up front for easy tuning. It is charcoal . . . all sturdy metal and folks the new Hi-Fi sound system gives you the truest tone this side of the microphone. So save those labels . . . and good luck.

Now don't forget that the labels you send in for the contest will be on deposit and can be redeemed for a premium in case you don't win.

Now for some news that I'm just very happy about. You folks that listen to my radio show will be able to get to bed a bit earlier now. The program is now heard Monday thru Friday at 10:30 p.m. on KABC. That's 790 on your dial. I'll be telling news of Label Bank, singing songs for you and I'll also be playing recordings of your favorite folk artists. Oh yes, the program has been extended to 30 minutes, too, so that will give me quite a bit of time to play and sing those old songs that have lived for so many years. I sure do hope you'll be listening.

And here's something I've been meaning to mention for some time now. How many of you folks reading this column have a subscription to TV-Radio Life? I'll bet you buy it every week but haven't thought about how nice it would be if it came to you through the mail. Well, if you send in your subscription to Label Bank you will receive 200 bonus points toward that premium. Just send a check or money order for $4.50 for the year's subscription to Label Bank, 727 No. La Brea Ave., Hollywood 38.

More Label Talk next week. Bye for now.

HOLLAND'S TUNNEL

DUG BY JACK HOLLAND

It takes a while to settle into the slower pace of Hollywood after a session in New York, but it's good to be back in the groove again.

Marlon Brando recently made a statement that he thought TV would supersede the movies in time but not the stage. Considering that Brando is a movie personality and not a TV star, this was quite interesting — but it sounded more like a good publicity gimmick than any world-shaking revelation. From all indications so far, it looks as though both the movies and TV will make advances year by year with neither changing the standing of the other too much. It's true that TV has had its effect on the motion picture industry, but it's been for the good. A while back the movies were giving TV a few headaches. So it all sort of balances up. As for his comment about TV's not bothering the stage, this really was out in left field. What has happened to the stage since TV? Look at the road show companies and their financial difficulties where once they reaped harvests. Outside of Broadway, there isn't much stage any more. Oh well. Brando probably likes TV and the stage better than the movies. Bet the motion pictures he makes pay him a lot more than either of the other mediums, though.

It was very good seeing Jeff Donnell back on the Gobel show. And it was a mighty wise move to bring her into the fold again. For a while, it looked as though the people in charge of George's program were going to make too many changes in a format that had been successful. This seems to be a happy and hysterical habit of some top shows. They are so afraid the public will tire of the same routine they concoct "new looks." And they're so surprised when viewers politely say, "No, thanks" and turn the dial. Look at the Jackie Gleason Honeymooners as an example. Once a highlight of an entertaining hour show, Jackie dropped his old format, filmed the Honeymooners, and quickly introduced a flop. Now there's talk of his dropping that in favor of something else. On the other hand, Toast of the Town has stuck to the same approach for over six years and is still doing nicely.

I hear ecstatic reports over Alex Segal's direction of his first movie—"Fearful Decision" at MGM. Starring Glenn Ford and Donna Reed, it is the film version of the successful U. S. Steel Hour show that was such a hit it was presented twice. Apparently, Segal's direction startled a good many over MGM way, because it was so unorthodox, but the final results have really paid off—from all you hear. The first few days, it was said, he was directing a la TV, rushing everything to get scenes done, but he finally got the message, took his time, and still managed to combine both his TV experience and movie technique. Keep your eye out for this one.

See where Screen Gems has signed Sonny Tufts for a film. Sonny Tufts???

LUCKY NUMBER

Maestro Orrin Tucker of KTLA proclaims that 17 is his lucky number.

Is TV Your Baby Sitter?

How has television affected your family . . . do you permit your children to watch it endlessly . . . has it become your baby sitter . . . do your children see more of Howdy Doody than they do of their own father?

Do you regulate the viewing habits of your children . . . are certain shows restricted . . . how many hours do your children watch television daily . . . have you noticed any harmful effects, good results?

TV-Radio Life would like to know whether or not television has or has not become the mechanical monster that dominates the household and baby sits for the children.

Address your letters to TV-Radio Life, Contest Department, 1610 N. Argyle Avenue, Hollywood 28, California. Letters cannot be returned and become the property of TV-Radio Life. Five prize-winning letters will be chosen by our editorial staff and the winners will be awarded a one-year subscription to TV-Radio Life.

Results of the letters will be compiled and printed in a later issue.

Inasmuch as my contributions to the Community Chest have not been what they should and inasmuch as the Child Care Division of the Children's Bureau of Los Angeles needs foster mothers and inasmuch as most of the eight hundred thousand people who waste their time with this column are women with large hearts, why don't some of you call Miss Marjorie MacKinnon at DUNKIRK 4-2515 and supplement your Community Chest contribution by offering to take care of a little nipper or two? What has this to do with movies, you ask? Nothing, I answer.

"Woman In The Window." (9) Beginning Nov. 29, 9:00. This 1944 production is a topnotch suspense film that established Edward G. Robinson as not merely the classic gangster type, but also as a character actor of no mean ability. He plays a psychology professor who kills a man in self defense in model Joan Bennett's apartment. Instead of contacting the police and clearing up the matter in short order, Robinson and Miss Bennett decide to destroy the evidence and dispose of the body. This they do and the police, headed by D.A. Raymond Massey, are properly baffled. Robinson is a friend of Massey's and thus has the inside on every police move, but he is harassed by blackmailer Dan Duryea, and as the authorities of law and order move inexorably toward his capture, the Nunnally Johnson script and the direction of Fritz Lang provide some extremely exciting moments . . . and I guess that's getting out of telling you the ending.

"Stairway to Heaven." (7) Nov. 27, 7:30. David Niven is a British RAF pilot who falls in love with American WAC Kim Hunter, and while under ether after a flight injury is forced to undergo an inquisition by various racial and political despots of the past (they're all in limbo, you see and the decision is whether David shall be allowed to marry Kim or shall be forced to go to heaven) who might have some objection to a Britisher marrying an American or vice versa. There is lots of spectacle with masses of dead actors and lots of stairways in the mist but I think much too much ado was made about not very much so without further ado, I shall pass on.

"The Adventuress." (5) Nov. 27, 7:30. Here is a 1947 Lauder-Gilliat production that stars Deborah Kerr in the role of a little Irish girl who has been brought up on such a diet of British hatred that she falls easy prey to Nazi blandishments during the war and becomes their dupe in a campaign to capture the Isle of Man. It isn't until British artilleryman Trevor Howard takes an interest in her that she sees the error of her ways and helps confound the villains. Miss Kerr and Mr. Howard should be enough recommendation for any picture.

"The Cobra Strikes." (7) Nov. 27, 7:30. "Venom I going back to work?" he cries in his hole. "I'm having a ball on this strike but I'm tired of picketing in this pocket."

Train Talk

by

"Engineer"
Bill Stulla

Railroads try wherever possible to help conserve our natural resources. In particular they are interested in preserving our forests. As a matter of fact, many railroads employ forestry experts to promote tree planting in areas that can't be used for growing food. One railroad is so interested in this problem that they have developed a machine that plants seedlings at a rate of 1,000 seedlings per hour.

One of our readers has written in to ask: "Engineer Bill, I've heard people talk about the driving of the Golden Spike. What do they mean?" Well, on May 10, 1869, at Promontory, Utah, the last rails of the Union Pacific Railroad and the Central Pacific Railroad were joined, thereby linking for the first time the West and the East by rail. A spike of California gold and Nevada silver were driven to commemorate the occasion. But before you run off to Utah, I'd better tell you that the original Golden Spike is in a San Francisco bank vault.

"Head End Traffic" is mail, express, baggage, newspapers and milk which are usually transported in cars near the locomotive. For this reason railroaders call this "Head End Traffic."

This Saturday (Nov. 24) afternoon at 3:00 we are doing a special show at the world headquarters of Thrifty Drug Company, La Brea Avenue and Rodeo Road here in Los Angeles.

Mike-Conscious Community

Palm Springs may have a reputation for being a wealthy, sophisticated resort town. But radio station KCMJ gives the people in the community that good "home town" feeling.

By Phil Stone

If you want to hear the voice of the people, ultra-modern style, just jump into your car and breeze out to Palm Springs, where lively little radio station KCMJ specializes in broadcasting the community's views in its own varied voices.

Programs feature first-hand interviews with just about every kind of person in the community.

A six-year-old boy will explain why he likes second grade better than kindergarten. A 91-year-old resident, celebrating his 60th wedding anniversary, will reminisce about fighting days with the U. S. Cavalry on the bloody Cherokee strip.

A housewife will announce details of a forthcoming P.T.A. barbecue. A retail merchant will outline his plans for business expansion.

And the golfer who made a hole-in-one on the local course that morning will tell how he did it—and how it felt.

All this, and a great deal more, is entered on the station's Federal Communications Commission log schedules as "public service time"—but in the town itself it adds up to a high level of listener interest and a very human inclination to get in on the act.

Most everybody in town does just that. Each week an average 75 townsfolk, old and young, get to speak their piece on topics of their choice, serious or trivial, over the microphones of their home-town station.

Statistically speaking, that's around 340 a month and some 4000 a year—almost half the town's entire population.

A common compliment when businessmen gather at the drug counters for morning coffee is "I heard you on the air last night"—and a nine-year-old girl, irked when she got a radio sentence tangled, regained confidence a little later to assure her invisible audience, "I'll be better next time I broadcast."

"Radio Oasis"

Little KCMJ operates on only 250 watts of power, the lowest possible unit in commercial broadcasting, and can be heard for little more than 10 miles in any direction. Yet it is literally a "radio oasis" since the 10,800-foot height of majestic Mt. San Jacinto immediately west cuts off Los Angeles' 50,000-watt stations just as effectively as it protects Palm Springs from the rains, winds and fog which at times afflict the nearby Pacific coast.

Mt. San Jacinto, too, is the natural barrier which makes television reception impossible around Palm Springs, except by an elaborate booster system combined with telephone lines which "pipe" the video images into homes for a monthly service fee—another justification for KCMJ's proud claim on promotion material that "We have it all to ourselves."

No matter how high-powered your expensive set if you want to listen to radio at Palm Springs, you listen to KCMJ—which probably explains why this little station founded eight years ago was until recently the only 250-watt of the approximately 200 stations throughout the nation affiliated with the CBS Radio Network.

Celebrities

Five mornings a week, a 15-minute "Palm Springs Today" show features a brief roundup of the local overnight news and a 10-minute interview with some interesting local personality or notable visitor.

In the afternoons, a similar "Our Town" welcomes a local businessman as guest, giving him the chance to talk about himself, his business, his views of civic affairs, or play and comment on his favorite records.

At a later time afternoons, it's time for "In the Sportlite" where a similar pattern operates with a local sports celebrity as guest.

This latter is a show on which such national celebrities as Nancy and Ralph Kiner, Gussie Moran, Pancho Segura, Gene Littler, and Ben Hogan have been heard, but generally speaking there's an informal ruling against celebrated part-time residents who might throw the local talent too far in the shade.

Lily Pons, Ginger Rogers, Alice Faye, Phil Harris, Desi Arnaz, Walt Disney, Bing Crosby, Jack Benny, Bob Hope and Eddie Cantor—all enthusiastic Palm Springs winter residents and willing KCMJ mike guests—are invited mostly for special programs boosting the Community Chest or Red Cross campaigns or Palm Springs' own annual charity drive, the glamorous Desert Circus.

Election Time

Each Sunday the pastor of one of Palm Springs' 20 religious congregations conducts a 15-minute radio service, and each Easter Sunday a KCMJ staff announcer lugs microphone and line up Mt. San Jacinto's rugged foothill slopes to broadcast the open air sunrise service.

And at election time, the voices of precinct officials telephoning complete unofficial returns are phone-taped and broadcast in a matter of minutes.

Las Vegas, Yuma and Tucson may question whether Palm Springs is really "America's foremost desert resort." But nobody can doubt that it's America's most mike-conscious community.

RECORD

Notes to You

By ANDY MANSFIELD

(KFI, Monday thru Friday, 8:45 a.m.)
(Saturday, 9:30 p.m.)

Jazz, ballads, light classics, comedy, quiet music, small combos . . . these are the categories represented in long-play albums this week and trying to pick the best is like naming our next President. However, Gershwin's symphonic poem, "An American in Paris" (MGM) is still a joy to the ear as interpreted by Hans-Jurgen Walther conducting the Hamburg Philharmonic Orchestra. This work, coupled with Robert Russell Bennett's Symphonic Picture, "Porgy and Bess," marks one of the finest Gershwin LP's to be recorded in Europe, and a worthy addenda to any Gershwin collection.

"Jazz of Two Decades" (EmArcy) is perhaps the greatest sale-bait offered to record fans for virtually small change. Examples on this demonstration twelve-incher spotlight the nation's top jazz men of the '40s and '50s in sterling samples of New Orleans, Chicago, Kansas City, Ellingtonia, Swing, Bop and Progressive styles—and for less than a buck, you can't miss.

According to Gina Lollobrigida, "Minucci's music muses, dances, makes love!"—and that's a pretty fair description of Coral's "Music By Minucci." Here is some of the best mood or quiet music, composed by and featuring the piano artistry of Ulpio Minucci against the lush full orchestral background. It's original, it's beautiful, it's Minucci!

A thank you to MGM for reissues of Jimmy Durante singing his own original material as only The Schnoz can do, for Durante is still Mr. Show Business to this reviewer and millions of fans from ocean to ocean. Here are a round dozen examples of great special material that no one can do like "Durante In Person."

I've always thought there could be only one Fats Waller—but that was before I listened to Benny Payne's "Sunny Side Up" (Kapp). It isn't an imitation of The Big Boy, but Benny's piano style and vocal, coupled with a small combo, will certainly remind you of Waller . . . and, come to think of it, we could use another entertainer whose happy songs and effervescent piano stylings might just spread happiness the way Fats used to do.

Louise O'Brien of KNX's Matinee was guest of honor at the State of Oklahoma's reception in conjunction with the movie premiere. . . . Jack Linkletter has joined USC's water polo team. . . . Terrea Lea replaces Lonesome Gal on KABC. Terrea, however, will feature her own and ballads of other folk singers.

Vocalist Sue Rainey joins the Jack Carson show. . . . Charlie McCarthy and Edgar Bergen were up in Indio last week for a picture layout in the date country. Now Charlie considers himself an authority on dates. Watch out for him when he starts lecturing on the subject. M. R.

Death of Radio Greatly Exaggerated

Robert Bailey, KNX-CBS Radio's freelance insurance investigator, "Johnny Dollar," says that the reports of the death of radio are greatly exaggerated.

"This corpse," says John, "will out-live its pallbearers."

"Radio's handicap, some think, is the fact that it can be heard but not seen. But it can be seen—with the mind's eye. And the mind's eye devises its own scenery and costumes. Radio's scope is limited only by the creator's ingenuity and the listener's imagination—not by the sponsor's available cash. Infinite riches in a little budget, you might say.

"To belittle radio because it is not 'visual' in the literal sense is like razing the Venus de Milo because it had no sound track, like panning 'War and Peace' because it is a novel and not a square dance.

"I own to some prejudice because, of course, radio is a performer's dream. Compared to it, acting in all other media is peonage.

"Just think—no rising in the cold, grey dawn, no make-up to stain your collar, no hot lights to melt the make-up, no preview audience to write on hundreds of cards: 'He stinks. Why don't you drop dead. Oh, boy, what a lousy picture.'

"No, none of that in radio—you arrive at the studio, wearing a sweat shirt and a dirndl, you open your mouth and point it at the nearest microphone and a few hours later you wash up, get your money and get out of there. No blood, sweat, toil, nor tears. Of course, I do shake quite a bit during the show, but I find this is good for my circulation. Helps to get my heart started.

"And then, of course, type casting is not so rigid as in other forms of entertainment. You may have a face like a catcher's mitt, but on radio—when the heroine says, 'Oh, here comes Oscar now. Doesn't he look like a Greek god?' even the Greeks won't object. If she said this on the screen or on the stage, with your kisser plainly exposed, you'd spend the next six weeks taking the tar and feathers off.

"Ah, yes, when you speak of radio, speak low, for you're speaking of the medium I love. And to those actors who, for sundry reasons, have shied away from the mike medium—to them I say, 'Come in, the ether's fine.'"

Russians Look-See

Ruth Ashton, KNX-CPRN newscaster, covered the recent Russian delegation when they toured a housing development in Southern California. Reporter Ashton gives us her candid opinions on this assignment.

The occasion for my brief observations was during the tour of the delegation around the Foothill Park development in Azusa-Covina. The homes are typical California bungalows—a type which never would be found in Russia. But the delegation did seem impressed with the methods of prefabricating the plumbing and electrical installations; and they displayed great interest in some of the tools—particularly a Remington product called a "Ramset" which fastens boards to concrete by means of powder charges.

Of course, one of the difficulties with an assignment like this one was how to tell a Russian from a reporter, photographer or public relations expert. The visitors were outnumbered by approximately five to one. But when I did sort them out, primarily by looking at their shoes, which had square toes, I managed to direct a few questions for the edification of our KNX-CBS listeners.

Through an interpreter, I was told for one thing that there are a great many women in Russia connected with the housing field—as architects and consultants. And also, after lengthy three-way consultation back and forth, I gathered the impression that . . . wives are not too different whether in this country or Russia when it comes to choosing the family home.

But there is a difference in the conveniences available to women in the two countries. The Russians didn't actually say that they have fewer or less advanced appliances. In fact, the Russians said as little as possible. But one of them, in an unguarded moment was heard to ask while viewing a modern kitchen in this country: "What do American women do in the kitchen . . . sleep?"

In general, the members of the Russian housing delegation seemed to be friendly, quiet and careful . . . and observant in more than one way. When asked if anything in this country had surprised him, Mr. P. A. Spushnof who has the impressive title . . . Chief of the Division of Sanitary Technical Construction of the State Committee of Construction of the Council of Ministers of the U.S.S.R., answered: "The most interesting and most unexpected thing for me was the beautiful figure of the American woman."

LONG PARTNERSHIP

It was on August 12, 1919, that Freeman Gosden and Charles Correll, (CBS Radio's "Amos 'n' Andy") signed a partnership in Durham, North Carolina, to start a theatrical team.

SPEEDY LINK

The fastest (and most accurate) typist at Ark Link-letter's office is Art himself. The CBS Radio star used to earn his living typing and still is as speedy as they come.

Lyle's Corner

By Lyle Bond

Pigskin Chagrin

The ball was snapped from center Then disappeared from view As the quarter faked to this one Then another of his crew.

A big and brawny halfback Raced wide around the end His way toward the goal line Elusively did wend.

He sped across the thirty. The twenty, ten and five Sailed into the end zone With a final, desperate dive. The halfback then discovered When he heard no cheers at all Stopped at the line of scrimmage The fullback had the ball.

This 'n' That

I wonder if KHJ-TV's Campus Club prexy, Gene Norman, is rooting for Wisconsin or Michigan to take Big Ten football honors and trip to the Rose Bowl. Gene spent the first part of his college days at the University of Michigan, the latter half at Wisconsin. . . . The Channel 9 cohorts now call Mama Weiss "Santa" Weiss 'cause she's always gifting studio help-mates with goodies from her TV kitchen. . . . I thought I was really hepped on the sport of fishing but co-worker Ted Meyers has me beaten by at least a million miles. On non-performing days he's always headin' for some remote river or lake in pursuit of the finny fellows who so easily elude me and are so easily caught by him. (He says.) Actually, I think his wife, Linda, or his father, does most of the "catching" and he takes the credit.

Bob Searles, who directs the Hank Penny Show Tuesday nights at 8 on No. 9, went to Las Vegas recently and came back with his pockets lined with silver dollars. A non-participant in games of chance he went there only to exchange some of his green backs for the silver mediums of exchange. He was quite chagrinned when he learned he could have accomplished the same purpose at a local bank.

I got a kick out of a story I heard from an early acquaintance of Bill Brundige. Bill was doing one of his first big-time football broadcasts—acting as color man with Ted Husing. (You know a color man's job. When nothing is happening he's supposed to describe it.) Bill did an excellent bit of coloring—with one exception. As the half-time activities came to an end and the teams made their reappearance on the field, friend Bill turned the microphone back to Mr. Husing with the excited comment—"and the feams are back on the field lining off for the kick-up and here's Hed Tusing" . . . Of course, something approaching the aforementioned has happened to almost all of us who make our living at the microphone. I recall several years ago I was doing a newscast containing an item about a famous actress ill with pneumonia. The story dealt with her improving condition and quoted her doctor as saying her improvement could be attributed to doses of penicillin and messages of hope from her many friends. I mis-read "messages" as "massages" and, unwisely, didn't make a correction. The remainder of the evening our switchboard operators were plagued with inquisitive listeners calling to find out the type of "massages" administered to pneumonia victims.

Jack "QFAD" and "T or C" Bailey, who plays about umpteen musical instruments, including the piano, touted me into taking lessons on the ol' '88 about a year ago and he really gave me a hot tip. I've had more doggone fun peckin' away at the ivories and highly recommend same to any other middle aged male (or female) who wants an interesting and satisfying hobby and/or pastime. It's surprising how easily and quickly one can learn with present day teaching methods.

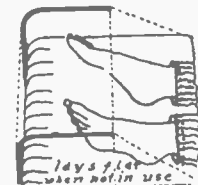

In closing I'd like to applaud Gene Norman for his excellent job with the youth of the community. I heartily agree with Gene's daily show-closing comment—"The only thing wrong with the younger generation is that most of us no longer belong to it."

The pretty little lady is Queen for a Day model, Kathy Cook. As usual, the boys have done a bang-up job this season bringing the play-by-play into our living rooms. Another group of men who have done some stellar, sometimes unheralded work for the Rams are the linemen and defensive backs, also shown here. This week the Rams face the Eagles in Philadelphia, and once again KHJ radio and Channel 7 will cover every pass and run.

Dangers of a Career Girl

Jill Corey is young, she's single, and she's definitely a career girl.

By Ted Hilgenstuhler

JILL HAS REALLY GONE Hollywood—in a nice way, of course—since she came here to appear as a regular on the Johnny Carson Show. She lives alone, enjoys the swimming pool at her apartment (she's just learned how to swim), and at this stage in her life she has no problems—not even man problems (yet!). (CBS-Lewis photo.)

CAREER GIRL is a nasty word to those who believe in romance, true love, entralling moonlight, and all that sort of stuff.

A career girl (so the modern legend goes) is cold on the outside and cold on the inside. Instead of concentrating on what every normal girl should concentrate on (what else, but men?) she's thinking about business, money and appointments. Occasionally she breaks down and goes out on a dinner date (dutch, natch).

That's the way the legend goes. And in some cases, it's tragically true.

Although every profession has its share of career girls, the world of show business (to use the King's English) is loaded with them. Instead of expectant mothers, they're expectant singers, actresses and dancers.

Some of them even have talent. All of them have an insatiable desire to do something big, to have their names in lights, to be flocked by autograph hounds, and to be admired and desired as far as the opposite sex is concerned.

From what we have outlined it does not appear that a career girl has much of a chance to lead a normal life. You know, courtship, engagement, marriage, motherhood, grandmotherhood, ad infinitum.

No Jack, Yet

Now Jill Corey (she's the little gal who sings regularly on the KNXT-CBS Johnny Carson Show) is definitely determined to be a career girl.

Only 18, she has already appeared in the top nightclubs in the East, has a recording contract, and is being considered for the movies as an actress.

If anyone should be worried about the dangers of a career girl, it would be she. After our interview with the cute Italian girl with the Italian haircut ("I didn't copy anyone; I was one of the first to do it this way, and have not changed it for three years") she convinced us that she isn't particularly worried about the problem.

"Of course I'm going to get married. Not for awhile yet, however. For a few years I'm going to devote all my time to my career. I think when I'm 23 or 24, that'll be about right," she remarked.

When she talks she can't help smiling just a little, and there's an inquisitive, sometimes uncertain twinkle in her eye. (She's a vet in show business, but she's still only 18.)

There's a freshness about her—like a shining new dime in a world of worn-out dollar bills—which makes her a welcomed newcomer to the Hollywood scene. There's an innate, slightly lacquered innocence, too—which is quickly reflected in her straightforward answers.

What About Future?

"No, I'm not in love.

"I have a boy friend. Well, a sort of boy friend, back home in Avonmore, Pennsylvania. But it's nothing serious.

"I live alone in a Hollywood apartment. It has a swimming pool. And I'm proud of the fact that I just learned how to swim.

"I go out on dates once in awhile. Gary Crosby took me out one night. He's very nice. And I've gone out lots of other times, mostly with older men.

"I'm Catholic, you know. My real name is Speranza. I'd like to marry a nice Catholic boy, but he doesn't necessarily have to be Catholic. Just as long as I love him.

"Oh, yes. I'll probably marry someone in show business. And I'll probably give up my career when I do get married."

That's young Jill Corey talking—just starting out on what promises to be a great future as a singer and possibly as an actress, too.

And that's about all we can tell you, for now. Let's wait until she falls in love, but good, and for real. Let's see what she does when day after day and night after night her business dealings conflict with her romantic feelings.

Then we'll ask her again if she thinks the life of a career girl can be dangerous.

If she still says "No" then, you can bet that her official last name will be something else besides "Miss Corey."

He's An Expert?

By Jon Bruce

IT ALL BEGAN because Otto Kruger didn't like the way a petunia smelled.

Otto, one of this country's most renowned actors, is now hosting for Lux Video Theater on NBC. He's the kind of a man who can do a lot for TV. And he's especially glad to be doing a spot like this because he has another occupation that takes up a lot of his time—keeping his fabulously beautiful garden in shape.

But to go back to the petunia

The Petunia

One day Otto decided to do something about that flower. He decided to graft a petunia with a carnation. A short time later he had given birth to a beautiful double petunia—that smelled like a carnation. Immediately, he became famous. Horticultural societies from all over wanted to know his secret. All pointed out that this had been considered an impossibility—getting a petunia and a carnation together. Pictures were taken of the plant. Then he was invited to speak at a luncheon of the Southern California Horticultural Society.

After a gladiolus had been named after him at the luncheon Otto got up and said very frankly that he knew nothing about growing flowers, that it was just a hobby with him, that he was no expert, but no one believed him. Everyone thought he was being modest. Friends called him for all kinds of information about plants and when he said he didn't know the answer he was considered stand-offish.

Then he decided to attend agricultural courses at UCLA just so he could answer his friends' questions. He studied all kinds of books and added much to his knowledge, but then came another incident and he was once more an expert.

"I had become so tired of emptying the can filled with aphid spray so I could refill it with a solution for mildew that I decided one day to put both solutions together in the same can." Otto laughed. "I didn't know whether the stuff would blow up or not. As it turned out, it worked for both mildew and aphid and so right away I was another authority.

"During the war I had my own

OTTO KRUGER is the new host for NBC-KRCA's Lux Video but he spends every spare moment working in his remarkably beautiful garden. His horticultural instincts have led to his being called an expert.

Victory Garden so I was looked on as an authority on all Victory Gardens. Friends called me to see why their carrots or their beans didn't do so well, so again to defend myself and to answer their questions I went to courses at Stanford and other colleges to learn more facts. From this I was suddenly handed the job of working out a vegetable growing program for troops in the Pacific. And the funny part of it all was that I had to give lectures on the subject—and some of my students were the same teachers who had taught me the courses in Stanford and other universities.

"Believe me, I'm no expert and never have been. I just love to work in the garden. And whatever I did I did in self-defense so people would let me alone."

Otto is an expert in acting, though, and has been for about 48 years. He's doing less work now, however, and is concentrating almost entirely on his Lux Video show. He will be unlike most "hosts" in that he will do nothing about commercials. He sells nothing. He will also be unlike other such "hosts" in that he will not even use a teleprompter.

TV Pioneer

"I've been attached to Lux for years," Otto remarked. "I took over for DeMille years ago when he quit the radio show. So it's like coming home to be doing this job. I don't have any more time now, of course for other TV work, which is quite a change, since I had been going back and forth to New York quite consistently for TV appearances. I had done about 40 ulcer shows in New York.

"Television is not new to me. I was doing it back in 1934 in England. I was commuting between England and the United States at the time. The British Isles had TV then and we didn't, so I learned a good deal about the medium there. Then, in 1946, CBS in New York asked me for some opinions about their TV plans and their technique. At the time they had tubes in the ceiling for lighting and I pointed out that this would not do. I offered some views about their use of make-up. I had been asked for my ideas and that is the only reason I gave them, but one cameraman, fresh out of college, got quite annoyed with me. He said to me very pointedly one day, 'Do you know I've been in this business for two solid years!' I didn't even bother mentioning that I'd already had about 12 years in it. I just quietly left him to struggle for himself."

Otto hopes now that his "expert" days are over and that he can relax and just putter around his garden and do his Lux show. As he says, "I don't want to advise anybody about anything. If anyone ever calls me an expert about any subject again, I think I might forget I'm supposed to be dignified."

WHAT ARE YOUR TV GRIPES?

What don't you like about TV? Bad commercials? Loud announcers? Reruns? Old movies? Here are some of the reactions we received in answer to our TV Gripe Contest.

SEVERAL months ago TV-Radio Life started a TV Gripe Contest. We asked our readers to write us and tell what they thought was wrong with TV.

Since that time, we have received hundreds of letters in reply to our request.

Commercials were the number-one complaint. Not the good commercials, which we all realize are the backbone of our system of free entertainment in the field of communication, but loud, offensive, and over-used commercials.

The rest of the gripes also had a familiar ring:

Re-runs, especially during the summer.

Old movies.

Kinescopes from the East Coast, some of them weeks old.

Stammering and trite expressions used by supposedly competent announcers.

Worn-out and hackneyed plots—particularly in the half-hour telecasts.

Following are just a few sample letters which we have picked out to show you what your fellow TV viewers are "gripping" about. (The winners of our contest—receiving a year's subscription to TV-Radio Life—were published in a previous issue.)

Charles L. Skelley, Pasadena

I think someone "dropped the ball" when they commenced to crowd certain classics, full-length three-act plays and other legitimate revivals into one-hour time slots. Even with short commercials, a lot of the dialogue pertinent to the entire enjoyment of the play has to be necessarily cut to conform to program standards.

If a play is presented—such as a three-act vehicle—why not delay those commercials at least until the end of the number?

Too, if a play is well-known, popular or happens to be one that has formerly run on Broadway, I'm sure the audience response would be tremendously greater if the cast were composed of top-flight actors and actresses.

Mrs. E.M.C., Los Angeles

I am a steady, everyday viewer, especially evenings, and I would like to pass on to you and in hopes that there are many others who agree that murder films, films of suicide and mental institutions are the worst possible films to fill people's minds with. What about our young people? Are we not trying to put an end to delinquency, both in our young people and adults also, more the pity?

People's minds are receptive to either good or bad. Why not good? I think more travel and animal nature films are wonderful, also good musicals, clean family living, films of fun and comedy, something to uplift human consciousness.

Mrs. William Wright, Sun Valley

My biggest gripe? It is the lack of clothing on so many of our female entertainers. Since I am a grandmother and far past the age of "jealousy" of other women, I feel safe in stating my opinions. From the remarks and reactions of our teenagers I feel it is a large contribution to juvenile delinquency—unwed mothers—etc. The remarks they make about these things would really curl your hair.

Mrs. M. N. Holloway, Long Beach

My pet peeve is watching the commercial "artist" reading his lines. Now I like most commercials, and have profited by some, but instead of looking directly at camera, the artist's eyes will shift from side to side, drawing your attention from what he is talking about. I realize one can't memorize such a long commercial, but why not show the product and let the artist read off camera. Many of them do; too many do not.

Harry F. Lincoln, Los Angeles

My chief TV gripe, and that of many other viewers, judging from your letters to the editor columns, is the dropping of favorite programs.

On second thought, perhaps the fault is probably with the average person.

Let's get smart and when we do enjoy a TV program, buy the sponsor's product, if at all possible. Then in many cases the company that pays the cost of putting on the program will continue to do so.

Truman H. Dunn, Los Angeles

Horse operas, which I sometimes watch for want of something better to do, all seem to have the same pattern. The same scenery, same flock of horsemen ride the same road, sometimes twice in the same chase. Fox and hound shots are fired point-blank at the principals, always missing unless it is expedient to wound one or the other.

The inevitable chase between the hero and the villain, the leap from one horse to another, both hitting the dirt and rolling on the ground, finally after much slugging and knocking down, both being on the receiving end, the hero conquers and gets his man.

Ruby W. Carriker, Glendora

Why, oh, why cannot we have more good musical programs on TV? I am not a longhair, but I do like quiet, restful music, and many others I have talked with feel as I do. I look forward eagerly each week to an enjoyable half hour with Voice of Firestone, Florian Zabach and Liberace.

It would be wonderful to have a change from so many quiz programs, old movies, noisy bands, etc.

Please, please, please, let's have more high-class, listenable music on TV channels.

Mrs. F. W. Helmering, Rosemead

Doubtless most American television viewers have reached a state of satiety in TV fare and are therefore in poor position to register a legitimate gripe, but since you have tempted us, here is mine:

Too many of the movies and plays depict the ugly side of life—we get enough of that in the daily news.

Too much raucous background music—drowning out the dialogue.

Too long and frequent commercials—implying the viewer is stupid.

Too many females, too much undressed—and I'm no prude.

However, television is almost my only diversion and I am truly grateful for this marvelous medium of information and entertainment and will be happy to resort to "turning the dial" until TV comes of age and there will be no more occasion for gripes.

Dagmar Hert, Colton, Calif.

My Gripes: (1.) Films with the guts removed, i.e., Casablanca. History Is Made at Night. Steel Helmet. My Pal Trigger. (shall I go on?) to fit into hour-long shows. (2.) Loud background music (Music? yah-h-h (a) behind and in addition to dialogue. (b) behind and in addition to newscasting (of all things!) (c) behind and in addition to lectures, trav-elogues, explanatory commentaries (until in desperation you turn off the sound entirely. (d) introductions of everything, from soup to nuts, from the serious to the silliest; from the littlest to the biggest. Louder and louder. (3.) Interviewers who won't let the interviewee talk. (4.) Repeat commercials. (5.) Films that are "broken" in the middle of a sentence or sequence for the commercial. This makes me mad. I not only won't buy the product, I stay away from the channel which makes a habit of this kind of thing. (They certainly don't sell stuff by such tactics, do they?)

Miss Elcy Ebert Oberdick, Beverly Hills

TV is such a pleasure for the average person that the good things about it far surpass the bad things.

But there is one thing that I get tired of reading in the various magazines . . . and that is that only New York can put on an "arty" show . . . having lived in Beverly Hills (coming from a small western town) 20 years, and knowing the vast amount of talent who live here eventually, I feel that this statement is absurd.

Why is it that so many native New Yorkers eventually come out here to live and want their shows to originate from here? Because it is a pleasant place to live, establish a home and have a regular life for the family, along with the all-year wonderful weather and the facilities of our broadcasting studios.

Remember, also, there is enough talent out here to put on "arty" shows . . . but maybe the producers know better what the average family likes to see on TV and that even the small-town aggregation who catch the shows understand what it's all about.

Mrs. Ann Kirkpatrick, Redlands

Here is a gripe that is "burning up" thousands of TV viewers. It may be so "hot" that you won't want to touch it with tongs; but let's have the courage to get it out in the open. When a network initiates a first-class new program, does that network usually choose a dull time slot, thereby giving the whole TV business a lift? No. It usually horns in on the audience already cornered by another network's first-class program. Why? To try to grab off some of a competitor's viewers. This cut-throat competition actually cuts the public's throat. Two good shows cannot be watched simultaneously, and good shows are few, aren't they?

This is strictly network warfare. The public is the one who gets hurt.

and a hurt public is likely to become an angry public. Give the public consideration, and network and sponsor will both profit

Mrs. Robb West, Gardena

My gripe for TV is the way certain "juvenile" emcees play to the kids and beg them to make sure Mommy buys this brand and that one. I think mothers generally try to get the most for their money and stick to the name brands because of necessity. It gripes me to death to have some of these characters play "heavy" to my kids

Glenn C. Anderson, San Bernardino

My main gripe, why do the orchestras that we hear weekly continue to play the same musical repertoire week after week, as there are thousands of hit parade songs and others that have been old favorites for years?

Nancy Streebeck, North Hollywood

Producers' Showcase offers some of the nicest shows on TV. But why must they start at 4:30 p.m.—before us working people return home? Living in Hollywood one would certainly think we are entitled to see "live" showings of our own Hollywood TV shows. Who wants to catch those lousy "hot kinescopes?" . . . and why, oh, why must The Colgate Variety Hour and Toast of the Town come on at the same time?

Pauline E. Hopkins, Los Angeles

When all the long-drawn-out commercials come to a glorious end . . .

And the sponsors finally follow the new, eye-catching trend . . .

Like the snappy Ford commercial we all find so amusing . . .

For it does away with all the gab we now find so confusing!

When they stop those facial expressions of rapture to make us think . . .

They're sipping nectarine from heaven from every product they drink . . .

When all the products forced upon us are intelligently defined . . .

And sponsors stop to realize we are masters of our mind . . .

And when newer movies grace our screen instead of ancient tripe . . .

Ah! Then, when, if all this comes to pass, we'll have no cause to gripe!

GRIPES! GRIPES! AND MORE GRIPES!

Here are some "Quickie Gripes" which were sent in to TV-Radio Life as part of our Gripe Contest. Do you agree with them?

" . . . Newscasters who fail to check pronunciations before going on the air. Shocking"

" . . . 'Gloomy Gus' soap operas. Depressing."

" . . . Oh, those singing (?) commercials! Wonder if the merchants would get as weary of a product if we were to sing each time we purchased it?"

" . . . My pet gripe is re-runs in the summer."

" . . . My worst gripe regarding TV is having the music too loud."

" . . . My gripe is the delayed broadcasting of Eastern programs."

" . . . My pet gripe is definitely the panel shows, plus the newscasters who are conducting a continuous 'Operation Brain-wash' on the long-suffering public and using TV to propagandize and promote their own left-wing views and slanted opinions."

" . . . Programs for juveniles should cease when it is time for adult programs to begin."

" . . . Would like some especially good programs during the legal holidays, but instead they seem to be their worst at that time"

" . . . I wish singers would give the names of writers of their songs and music"

" . . . My gripes are the gum-chewing audiences frantically waving and the extremely lengthy commercials"

" . . . My particular gripe is too many big-name old-timers holding the spotlight. Why don't some of them bow out gracefully leaving the viewers with pleasant memories instead of continuing on year after year."

" . . . Too many plays ending too abruptly leaving us suspended in the air, so to speak."

" . . . My gripe concerns those 'eager beaver' commercial barkers who shout at you so much louder than the program."

" . . . There's nothing a little over my head on daytime television for me to reach for!"

" . . . The same old movies, over and over again"

" . . . Three to four programs you don't want to miss all on the same hour."

" . . . We want sponsors and producers to see that phony ha-ha shows (situation comedies) only endure when necessary."

" . . . My favorite TV gripe is why do they always use boys in TV plays that need a hair-cut? The little ragamuffins aren't always poor either and they still need a haircut."

Mabel says now that they both come on between 4 and 5, alternating every other day, she gets to see them both and still fix Harry's dinner . . . so they're back together again!
