Memorable Scene-Ons from 1955

1955 marked some significant advances and changes in the TV scene. Here are a few pictorial highlights.

▲ IMOGENE COCA, long a TV favorite, tried a show on her own but it never got off the ground. This year she announced she was quitting her contract with NBC.

▲ JACK WEBB finally took a detour from Dragnet and produced and starred in "Pete Kelly's Blues" for Warner Bros. This was notable because it marked the film version of Jack's radio show. Peggy Lee co-starred.

▼ THE FICKLENESS OF THE PUBLIC was well exemplified by the cancellation of Mr. Peepers. When it went off TV first, viewers raised such a furor it was put back on. But the public forgot about Wally Cox and his Peepers too quickly and the show faded for good.

▲ AFTER MUCH SPECULATION and much publicity about whether or not Eddie Fisher and Debbie Reynolds would marry, the two personable kids surprised many by their sudden wedding.

Lippy Durocher

Looks For in '56

One of baseball's most controversial personalities has traded a baseball uniform for civilian clothes in his new position as an NBC-TV executive. As always, he tells what he thinks in this exclusive feature.

By Ted Hilgenstuhler

LEO DUROCHER is quite serious when he says he has quit baseball and is going to devote full time to his new NBC activities as a talent scout and "trouble shooter." It may surprise quite a few people to read what his plans are for the coming year. (NBC-Holloway photo.)

LEO "THE LIP" Durocher didn't get his nickname just from arguing with umpires. That's easy to understand as soon as you talk with him for a few hours—especially about his new job with NBC-TV, and his plans for 1956.

"I'm through with baseball. I've said this again and again but people don't seem to believe me. The papers had me all set to manage at St. Louis or Milwaukee. If I wanted to stay in baseball, I would have managed the New York Giants again.

"For the first time in my life I'm able to do what I've never had time for before: to enjoy my home in Beverly Hills, my wife, and my kids.

"I'm a rookie in this TV business. I know that. I feel like a rookie who is going to spring training for the first time. Unlike the old days in baseball, however, when the vets in the game would give a newcomer a hard time, I've got it a lot easier.

"I not only have loved show business all my life, but over the years I've become personal friends with the biggest names in the business. In addition to that, the people at NBC have been exceptionally nice to me. It seems they can't do enough for me.

"All this makes my job as a talent scout and trouble-shooter for NBC just about as pleasant as I could hope for. And I'm getting paid considerably more than I ever did as a player or manager in baseball."

Money Not All-Important

Leo's not saying what his NBC contract calls for, but his top baseball salary as manager of the New York Giants was $60,000 a year. So for "considerably more" you can tell that Leo won't be starving this year.

However, the 50-year-old, articulate, gitty ex-shortstop really means it when he says: "If a man isn't happy with the work he's doing, the money is no good to him. I'm not only happy with my job—and intend to stick with it as long as NBC wants me—but I don't have that strain and worry that I had every day I put on a uniform and walked out on the ball field."

Leo's contract has approximately seven more months to run. After that time, he has the option of telling NBC whether he wants to stay on the job. If he says "yes," and the NBC officials are satisfied with his work, Leo will renew. So far, it looks like both parties will say "yes."

Leo has never looked better or happier. And from NBC's viewpoint, he is just the straight-talking kind of a guy they need to line up new talent for their programs. In addition to that, Leo is set to make at least 20 guest appearances on different shows (mostly sports programs) during the year.

Baseball Bug

"I'll probably get the baseball bug

when spring training time rolls around," he smiled. "If it gets too bad, I'll take a quick trip back East and spend ten days or so with the boys, and get it out of my system. One thing is for sure—my wife was sure happy about my decision to retire from baseball."

When he told his actress-wife Lorraine Day that he was going to quit baseball for good and settle down in California, she cried for an hour. "They were tears of happiness," he revealed. "She wanted me to do that for a long time, but she never insisted on it. You know, we've been married for ten years now, and people said our marriage would never last. One of the big reasons for its lasting was the fact that when we first married I told her that baseball was my business and she said acting was hers. We promised never to interfere with each other's career. And we never did. So when I finally gave up my managerial duties, you can imagine how happy she was!"

About the only people in town who aren't too thrilled about Leo's new life are the local golfers with whom he plays. Golf enthusiast Durocher shoots between a 72 and 76.

"I remember playing a game with one of the NBC executives recently," Leo laughed. "We played for 20 bucks and I won. When he handed me the money, he smiled and asked, 'When do you start with CBS, Leo?'"

Ben's Blue Heaven

Just Lesley and He and Baby Make Three and Are They Happy!

By Evelyn Bigsby

WE BOUGHT a one-bedroom house," Ben Alexander related, "never thinking we'd have a baby. And now here's Lesley Beth, a knockout and something we've wanted for quite awhile. A real stunner. A dainty little soul. Sleeping in my den which is all done very modern. We'll have to build on another room!"

A wonderful story—to have Jack Webb's sidekick and his pretty wife Lesley so happy to start a family after six years of marriage. But it's much more of a story than appears on the surface.

It started about a year ago when the doctor told Ben he should lose some weight and suggested that Lesley, too, might be better off without some extra pounds. He even intimated that diet might have something to do with realizing their wishes for parenthood.

"I'd always eaten heartily," Ben reported. "Especially at lunch. Soup and salad and pastes. So I started by watching my lunches and instead of the full meal I'd always eaten I began ordering steak or cold roast beef. Soon I noticed I didn't need to take a nap the way I'd always done—in the Navy during World War II. I could always flop, even on deck.

Sweet Tooth

"I'd always liked sweet drinks, so I began to watch this, too. Little by little I lost. At the end of three months it was twenty-seven pounds. Lesley dropped to 110. I think the dieting may have changed our chemistry because now we have this good baby and since we know now how important the diet can be, we hope to have many more children."

Ben himself is an only child; his wife has one sister. (Jack Webb, so Ben pointed out, is also an only child.) Lesley Beth is the first Alexander lass, but not Ben's only child. By his former marriage, he has Nick, a lad of thirteen.

"The baby is a complete joy," Ben reported. "Lesley Beth is not a problem baby."

While new mama Lesley was in the hospital, Ben took great delight in deluging her with funny telegrams. All purportedly from baby Lesley. One of them, for instance, asked, "Can I bring the gang in to lunch today?"

PRINCESS in the Ben Alexander household is the bonnie lassie gurgling atop her bathinet while adoring parents, Lesley and Ben, beam. (NBC-Smith photos and color cover.)

TINY LESLEY BETH gets the time-honored burping treatment from her attentive daddy of Dragnet (NBC-KRCA) and Badge 714 (KTTV).

Lesley Beth's birth announcements were especially designed as a row of paper dolls in pastel colors, but to one Hollywood personality. Papa Ben sent a wire. The recipient was his good friend Jack Bailey. Though Jack and Carol have no youngsters of their own, they have raised a niece who now is the mother of five, thus making the Baileys foster grandparents. Ben's wire to pique Jack's consuming curiosity read, "Les had a baby. Letter follows." Reports are that the Queen for a Day eincee was frantically phoning all over town trying to find out what kind of baby the Alexanders had received. "Guess I really drove Jack out of his mind," chuckled Ben later.

Though Jack Webb had not seen Lesley Beth Alexander up until the time she was a month old, he had most certainly followed her "career." "I asked Jack about going on the diet," Dragnet's "Frank Smith" recalled. "I realized it might make a difference in the TV film if I pared down too much and too suddenly. But I really don't think too many viewers have noticed the change. My suits are big suits because I always have to carry a lot of junk in my pockets and my hat always has a broad brim. Anyway, Jack gave his consent readily."

Fond Parents

Asked if he thought his new daughter would be pampered, Ben laughed. "Oh, yeah! We're going to dedicate ourselves to her. After you've waited these many years for a baby, I expect we'll spoil her. You should see me around the house. I run around testing the temperature and closing and opening windows in the baby's room. But on carrying her pictures with me. I'm afraid it's going to take constant nudging. I'm not a guy built that way."

Talent Scout Winners?

By Donna Scott

A RECENT crop of Arthur Godfrey's Talent Scout winners are out to prove that their fame is not fleeting. Brown-eyed Laurie Carroll with the lyric soprano voice was signed to the second girl lead in the musical "Plain and Fancy" as a result of her appearance on Talent Scouts. Laurie had studied opera but quit when her parents forbade her to take jobs singing popular songs. She left her music temporarily and studied psychology for three years at the University of Southern California but the lure of show business was too great. The vivacious lass succeeded in convincing her parents that popular music was not to be frowned upon and embarked upon a singing career.

Her credits include two successful stints at Las Vegas, a record album and several variety shows on television. Her role in "Plain and Fancy" should set her star zooming upward.

Norm Alden is another lucky Talent Scout winner. He had been working in radio and television in Texas and came to Hollywood for a vacation. He got an unexpected break when he brought a girl singer to CBS' Hollywood studio to audition for the Talent Scout program. As he waited for the girl to perform he amused the crew with his comedy patter. Director Ace Ochs overheard him and invited him to do his act. As a result Norm won the audition, was flown to New York and won on Talent Scouts. Murdo MacKenzie heard him on the show and was so impressed by his talent that he asked Alden to be a guest on the Gary Crosby show, and he remained as a permanent member of the cast. A few weeks ago he was signed by NBC to a long-term contract and is being built up for important radio and television roles.

Other Talent Scout alumni who are making good are Dick Phillips, young guitarist and violinist with Tex Williams' orchestra who won his big chance on Talent Scouts last May and is now being used almost every week on Godfrey's Wednesday night network show, and young concert pianist Olegna Fuschi who received a scholarship to the Julliard School of Music as a result of her appearance on the Godfrey show. Miss Fuschi has been scheduled for a guest spot on the Ed Sullivan show in the near future.

These are but a few accounts of what's been happening to the Talent Scout winners. They are finding that Talent Scouts opens for them many bright new horizons.

TEXAS-BORN NORM ALDEN had his show business career hypoed when he appeared on Talent Scouts. The young comedian had been a regular on the Gary Crosby show but he is now under contract to NBC.

LOVELY AND TALENTED Olegna Fuschi is a concert pianist with a bright future. As a result of her appearance on the Godfrey show she won a scholarship to Julliard. (All CBS photos.)

PRETTY LAURIE CARROLL retired from an opera career in favor of popular songs and acting. The Talent Scout winner is now appearing in the Broadway musical "Plain and Fancy."

Point With Pride

... to Disneyland's "Man and the Moon" episode showing man's first successful rocket flight around the moon. The animated cartoon at the beginning of the telecast was an amusing account of moon lore and superstitions and their effect on human behavior. The graphic illustration of the trip to the moon was imaginative, scientifically factual and artistically beautiful. Disney and company has done it again. Next Tomorrowland episode covers man's trip to Mars. ("Man and the Moon" was press-previewed. Viewers will see this telecast December 28.)

RADIO*Lifelines*

BY EVELYN BIGSBY

ANTICIPATION IS USUALLY MORE exciting than looking back, but since it's expected that some kind of farewell be given Old 1955, Lifeliner has sunk into a reminiscent mood to dredge up a few fleeting memories.

HERE THEY COME, item by item dribbling through! Big news of 1955 was The $64,000 Question and need more be said? Whopping audience, terrific hold on the public's imagination, plus scads of publicity. Even newspapers front-paged the rise and fall of the contestants. I think one of the most unusual features of this program was that it began in the summer and managed to hit the heights despite this fact.

MARTIN AND LEWIS: This was the hot feud item of 1955 and speculation was completely wild on how the deep-freeze situation between the two chaps would resolve. Contractually no one could understand how they could separate; financially they'd be crazy to. Good that they're back together. Their new NBC contract gives them a cool $7½ million!

GLEASON SIGNED HIS NEW five-million pact with CBS and gave all the other comics a peg on which to hang a new cycle of jokes. In herding Gleason into the signing stage, CBS promised a guarantee of $100,000 a year between 1957 and 1972. Jackie gave the network his exclusive services for 15 years.

MOTION PICTURE STUDIOS grew cozy with TV and the Fall of '55 saw

Warner Bros., 20th Century-Fox and MGM all putting out fare for TV. Despite their know-how and facilities, the studios for the most part disappointed with mediocre material. Some of it would have been more geared to television as we knew it four or five years ago. Year-end rumor had MGM changing its show drastically.

NBC DID ITSELF AND TV PROUD with several splendid programs. Wide World provided viewers with a wonderful new kind of video—things happening right now to people in other places—and in radio, the network's Monitor which debuted in June was such a success that Weekday came on in the autumn to offer listeners a sparkling, flexible type of programming. ABC-Radio segmented its nighttime listening into provocative categories, this also a good, stimulating move on radio's part.

COLOR SPREADS GREW BIGGER AND BETTER. Peter Pan made the splash early in the year and following it were such excellent productions as Cyrano, Caine Mutiny, Our Town, and recently The Sleeping Beauty. Color TV still lagged, but daytime color programming was enhanced with NBC's ambitious Matinee.

JUST ABOUT EVERY MOVIE STAR who wanted to do TV found himself in the position of no obstacles. Judy Garland broke down and did a "spec" which received mixed reviews but encouraged everyone to proceed with a CBS pact for the dynamic gal.

DAVY CROCKETT, THANKS TO DISNEYLAND, became the rage of the country. I guess we all saw enough coonskin caps and other Crockett paraphernalia to last us the rest of our lives. And for awhile we couldn't go anywhere without hearing the plaintive song identified with the character. In a hectic, over-capacity mob, Disneyland Park was launched on July 17, a day which anyone who spent at the Anaheim creation will never forget for one reason or another.

TV PROGRAMS APPEARED TO BE on a slow but definite climb in quality. There were a few smart, courageous leaders to point the way, and though considerable bulk of the TV fare showed no startling improvement, the lot which did reached the "next plateau" to which the laggards would have to struggle eventually or fall back.

GROUCHO, DRAGNET, WHAT'S MY LINE, Lucy, Ed Sullivan were at top of ARB's L.A. rating list in December, 1954. In 1955, same month, the score here stood $64,000 Question, Groucho, What's My Line, Sullivan, Disneyland.

PEGGY LEE, NICHED INTO the "Pete Kelly's Blues" flicker by Jack Webb, turned in a telling performance and won the COMPO newcomer award. Truly a radio and TV contribution to films. Arthur Godfrey fired Marion Marlowe and some more, but this was nothing distinctive for 1955. He'd given La Rosa his walking papers in '54 and started the cycle. Ed Sullivan promptly hired the firees. Sinatra and Liberace feuded with the Toast-man and every one of the parties involved reaped great publicity and appeared to proceed to bigger 'n' better things.

LORETTA YOUNG, BLESS HER, pulled through a serious illness and was able to bounce back to TV; Alice Lon and family had a harrowing experience; Betty Hutton came out of "retirement"; Eddie and Debbie were finally hitched and in their first big TV "spec" together were a hit. Eddie, in fact, emceed the "I Hear America Singing" with so much poise and grace that he loomed on the '56 horizon as an important TV star in this new role. His happy "old" year saw him poising pen over a fabulous $15,000,000 NBC contract.

SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA RADIO had a lush year. Co-existence with TV had been worked out happily. In fact an indication of radio's status was displayed conspicuously last week. On the ABC-Radio marquee on Vine Street was the "tradey" but clever sign: "Wide Wide Weaver—Hank, Not Pat—Is Chairman of the Bored—3:30-5:00 p.m." And across the street, rival NBC (TV and radio) sent photographers to snap the display. It looked like a happy New Year for all.

You, too!

NO MORE TV REPAIRS?

Transistors are now replacing all receiving tubes with good results in newly designed radios of various sizes, including "All Transistor Car-Radios" which reportedly will be used in most of the 1956 car models.

Designers of TV sets are also experimenting with transistors and it is believed that they will be used in Color TV Sets at a later stage but not in Black and White sets.

The advantage of using transistors is two-fold: Firstly, cut down of the breakdown ratio of the now very sensitive tubes and secondly, conservation of space.

But as long as you have to be satisfied with your present TV set, you should realize and face the maintenance problem involved.

The most reasonable service plan was worked out by Television Industries in 1949 and is still considered the best available. Television Industries will write a Parts Warranty on your set for only $15.00 for one full year, on a two year basis covering any and all parts including the large picture tube up to and including a 21 inch screen.

All house calls are charged for at a flat rate of $3.50.

For further information call RI. 9-0301 or write to Television Industries, Inc., 4031 Wilshire Blvd., Los Angeles, Calif.

Ear, Eye Inspire

Louise Stihles, Van Nuys

Will the Whiting Girls ever come back? I thought the show they had was wonderful, but couldn't they get a show of their own, and not be a replacement for the "I Love Lucy" show during the summer?

Could you tell me if they are going to get their own show, and if so, when, what channel and what time?

No definite time or station has been arranged as yet, and no new films are being made by the Whiting Sisters. However, Desilu Productions have picked up their option and new plans may soon be announced.

Mrs. E. M. Martin, North Hollywood

For a long time I've wanted to write and say how much I enjoy the Jack Owens Show. A wonderful family and I think Mary Ann is the loveliest girl on TV.

Hal March and Bill Gwinn are my two other favorite personalities on TV.

Mrs. Venita S. White, San Diego

Would like to register a gripe about the Wm. Faulkner show The Sound and The Fury. Such a fine cast and the imitation southern accent spoiled it all. That was excruciating to listen to. Southerners do not talk as if they had their mouths full of much. It would be much better to speak plainly and let us imagine the southern accent. I was born a southerner and love the accent but not the imitation.

Pick of the Pix

By Aubrey Dahl

I should like to record here this week one of the major journalistic triumphs of our time. You all know how I have inveighed against the practice of cutting worthwhile films for showing on TV. Well, at last I can feel that I have done my job well, that I can enter the new year happy in the knowledge my words are read and heeded, that I am, indeed, a successful crusader in the best columnar tradition, for in response to my criticism of their cut version a few weeks ago, Channel 13 will present the complete two hour showing of "Kind Hearts and Coronets," on Sunday night, Jan. 1, at seven p.m. I am weary but vindicated, secure in the thought that I have fought the good fight for you, the public, my readers, my friends. (Please ignore the foregoing . . . I have just checked with the station and they told me that they are showing the uncut picture in answer to many requests from the public . . . that pack of whiners.)

"Captain's Paradise." (5) Jan. 1, 7:30. And still another in the Alec Guinness series and acclaimed by many as the best (for those who care, I think the best was "Man in the White Suit.") Here, Alec plays a sea captain who travels between here and there (someplace in the Mediterranean) with a wife, Celia Johnson, in one port and a sweetheart, Yvonne De Carlo, in the other. With wife Celia, who seems a humdrum sort, Alec is circumspect in the extreme . . . in bed by nine, a proper diet, discreet with money, the conventional pleasures . . . but with sweetheart Yvonne, the lid is off . . . dancing all night, drinking, spending money like a drunken sailor (which he sometimes becomes) and his pleasures are anything but conventional. The trouble with Alec, however, is that he doesn't understand women (a rare fault among men, you must admit). Wife Celia yearns to kick up a heel or two and sweetheart Yvonne longs to marry and settle down. This all comes to a climax when Celia shows up in the wrong port, strikes up an acquaintance with Yvonne and Alec inadvertently winds up in front of a firing squad. The ending is quite funny, as is most of the picture, and all the principals perform pleasingly.

"Tomorrow Is Forever." (9). Beginning Jan. 3, 9:00. This 1945 melodrama presents the old Enoch Arden theme in a fairly modern setting. Claudette Colbert learns of the death of husband Orson Welles on Armistice Day, 1918. She is expecting a child and George Brent, junior member of the firm for which she works, takes her under his protection. A son is born and after a time, George proposes and is accepted. The years pass and we discover that Orson is not really dead, that he had been disfigured so badly that he decided to keep his anonymity that became his when his identification tags were lost. He returns, gets a job with Brent's firm (natch) as a chemist and meets his son, Richard Long, whose mother is trying to keep him from joining the RCAF in World War II. Claudette doesn't recognize Orson (in spite of the plastic surgery, this is a little hard to accept) but finally, of course, the truth becomes known. This is a woman's picture, I'm told, with lots of tears, but I think you'll like "Moonrise." (4) Jan. 1, 11:20. Dane Clark's father was hanged as a murderer and Dane gets so fed up with his small town persecutors that he kills one of them in self defense. The sheriff knows he done it but wants him to give himself up, which he does after fleeing through the woods to his granny's (Ethel Barrymore) little cabin and talking things over with her. Dane is melancholy in this one, while Miss Barrymore plays Granny as if she had just swallowed the wolf (I don't really mean that but I like to sound like a Time Mag critic once in a while).

"Knight Without Armour." (2) Dec. 31, 12:15 a.m. And what's a night without amour?

HOLLAND'S TUNNEL

DUG BY JACK HOLLAND

Omnibus, which is almost always a stand-out production, came a-cropper with its production of "Salome." It had two strikes against it—one a long-winded script that went around and around and featured repetitious dialogue from Leo Genn, a fine actor, about wanting Salome to dance. After a while, nobody cared if the gal took off her veils and tripped around stage or not. The second strike was Eartha

Kitt. Now, Miss Kitt is a delightful singer, but she should stick to such established efforts as "Santa Baby." As an actress, she was just downright embarrassing. There are rumors that she wants to go into more dramatic things. Well, this is an admirable idea but I would suggest a series of summer stock or winter stock or any other kind of stock first. She gave Salome a tiger-like air, but her reading of Wilde's lines sounded more like a young high school girl walking on the stage for the first time and playing Juliet. The production was just not up to Omnibus' standard. Even a fine actress like Patricia Neal suffered. For all she had to do she could have phoned in her lines. The settings were brilliant and that was the one saving grace. Some friends were watching the show with me and when Eartha came on with John's head on the plate, they said, "This is pretty rough for TV, isn't it? Imagine youngsters watching this." Well, by this time the kids had long ago run for shelter—or had gone next door to look at a western on someone else's set.

Ken Murray's "I Hear America Singing" was proof that once a spectacular is put in the hands of someone with know-how you get a fine production. This was stirring Americana, with wonderful music. The many stars just didn't pop in and out for no reason. They were on logically and sensibly. Eddie Fisher did a notable job of headlining the production and the routine he and Debbie Reynolds did may have struck some as sticky and sentimental, but this tunnel thought it was charming. Red Skelton was also excellent. It's the first time in many, many months that Red has had the right showcasing for his talents. To Mr. Murray, a deep bow.

Elizabeth Patterson, who has been doing more Lucy shows as Mrs. Trumble, flew out suddenly to New York last week to do a major role on "The Day The Trains Stopped Running" for Playwrights '56. This is a well-deserved break for a fine actress. The show goes on January 3—at least at last reports.

Up to now, Alfred Hitchcock, as a gag, has appeared in every movie he has made—but as a walk-on. Well, TV may change that, for certainly he is one of the most amusing and interesting personalities ever to hit the channels. This is one case where viewers watch a show not to see the drama so much but to see the host. His satirical, witty comments are a joy. He has really brought something new to the television scene. He was a 1955 highlight.

Aside to Mrs. John Varrell—the Ed Murrow material appears in next week's column.

Label Talk

By TERREA LEA

Well, Christmas is over and the New Year is almost here. We have been joyful and full of the Christmas Spirit. Wouldn't it be a wonderful thing if that same spirit could stay with us throughout the coming year? I don't mean that hustle and bustle of trying to get everything done on time. I mean that inner glow we should have in our hearts of peace on earth, good will to men.

I don't think it's because we don't feel love for our fellow man. I just think that oftentimes we are too busy to show that love. We in America are so fortunate just to live in this great and wonderful country. And if we don't have the material things one hopes for... think of all we have that we couldn't buy for a million dollars. So many things.

Truly God has given us much to be thankful for. Have you ever stopped to think what life would be like without the warm bright sunlight... the stars... the moon... the different seasons. Would you enjoy going for a drive in the spring if you couldn't look out upon green fields, see beautiful flowers and hear the birds singing? Of course you wouldn't. But so often we are so busy worrying about the things we don't have that we don't find time to be thankful for the things we do have.

Well, let's be thankful. And let's show our love by greeting people with a smile instead of a frown. If you are driving your car down the street and the car in front of you stalls... don't pull around him. Give him a push. Help him. Next time you have a big basket of groceries to check out and the little lady behind you has a loaf of bread, ask her to step ahead of you instead of waiting. It will amaze you how good it will make you feel. And next time you are grouchy when you arrive home and your dog greets you with the welcome only a dog can give—don't kick at him and scold him. Pet him and tell him you're glad to see him and to be home. It just might make you feel a lot better. At any rate, it's worth a try isn't it?

When you come right down to it: 1955 has been a pretty good year and this is a pretty wonderful old world we live in, isn't it? Oh, it hasn't been perfect... but we can't expect it to be until we are, can we? So let's just hope and pray that we have another joyful Christmas next year and that 1956 brings us all peace, good health and happiness.

Commercials Censored

Last week several radio stations flatly refused to air plugs for Frank Sinatra's latest picture, "The Man With the Golden Arm," the story of a narcotic.

Bert West, KNX's general manager, commented: "The subject matter was not in good taste therefore not in keeping with KNX's policy."

Because of saturation spots for another picture, KABC had no time available and wasn't approached, consequently never reached any discussion or consideration stage.

Originally, KLAC was in the censor corner but changed its mind. When business manager Russ Horgan was asked what motivated the change he said "No comment." Mortimer Hall, manager of KLAC, was unavailable for any further statement.

KMPC issued a formal announcement when queried about the matter: "First, let us emphasize that our decision was made wholly independently. We did not know what action other stations were taking until we read the story in the trade press. Station KMPC, as are all radio stations, is licensed by the FCC, said license specifically stipulating that the station must, at all times, operate in the public interest. . . . Since station managers are simply human beings, each interprets the directive in accordance with his own principles and as his own conscience dictates. That is why the acceptance of program and commercial material varies with different stations. That is why certain stations, apparently, have agreed to carry announcements for 'The Man With the Golden Arm' and KMPC refrains from doing so.

"KMPC based its decision on several known facts. The picture had been refused the Seal of Approval by the Association of Motion Picture Producers. The inference in the picture that narcotic addicts can throw off their enslavement and resume normal life had been condemned by authorities whose entire lives have been dedicated to fighting the drug and who felt that such inference might lead to drug practices on the part of teenagers.

"After careful consideration, we at KMPC felt that because of the vast number of teen-age listeners in our audience we should not place our stamp of approval on the picture by accepting commercial announcements promoting it."

Alan Lisser, program director of KBIG, said: "After checking the Sheriff's Office and the Motion Picture Producers' Association, which did not give the picture its seal of approval because the code specifically says that pictures shall not cover the subject of narcotics regardless of the treatment, we decided it was not in the public interest to carry the program." Lisser explained that he was given a synopsis of the picture which was different from the book which he had read. "The ending of the story was changed," he stated, "to imply that the addict is cured. I had been informed by reputable authorities that 98% of the so-called cured addicts eventually revert to addiction. If the picture had followed the original book I don't think we would have refused the advertising. For the record," Mr. Lisser added, "we refused the order and as erroneously reported, there are no lawsuits pending."

OCCUPATIONAL HAZARD

Ken Carpenter, veteran CBS Radio announcer, was once one of the nation's most famous sportscasters. He bears the scars, too—cleat marks from a Rose Bowl game, a near-drowning on Navy Day, and a mighty kick from Acuzar, first horse to win the Santa Anita handicap, in 1935.

STUDENT

Sue Raney, 16-year-old vocalist, has enrolled in the Hollywood Professional School while singing every weekday on the Jack Carson show.

INVENTIVE

Vonnie King, one of the four singing King Sisters on CBS Radio, designed a Christmas skirt for her daughter which can be used on Valentine's Day and other holidays. The skirt has green Christmas trees on its pockets. They can be removed and Valentine hearts or Easter bunnies sewn on in their place.

1956 Predictions - From Who Else? - But Criswell!

New Year's just wouldn't be New Year's without a few predictions. And who could be better for such a task than the one and the only, and unpredictable Criswell! (You can see the blue-eyed, blond forecaster Tuesday through Saturday at 10:45 p.m., Channel 13.)

Here are ten events, which are shaping up at the present moment, which Criswell predicts will happen in 1956!

1. Criswell predicts the Republican Party will again sweep the nation, in even a greater landslide than 1952, with Eisenhower and Nixon heading the ticket!
2. The Duke of Windsor will be called for the Protectorate of the British Throne, and a bitter Royal battle will be fought in every corner of the Empire!
3. Criswell predicts that ex-dictator Peron of Argentina will stage a political comeback which will astound the experts!
4. Criswell predicts that the world will suffer the greatest series of weather tragedies in the coming year, and 1956 will be remembered as the year that Mother Nature went on a rampage! 1956 is the seventeenth year of the weather cycle, which is always the most violent.
5. Criswell predicts that one of our largest automobile corporations will give one share of stock to every citizen of America over 21 years of age! This offer will be made on television only, and it will be the biggest give-away program to date!

6. Criswell predicts that Paris will be supplanted by Rome as the fashion capital of the world!
  7. Criswell predicts a blanket insurance policy which will cover your life, accident, sickness, theft, fire, earthquake, flood, and even your funeral expenses. By a New York insurance company.
  8. Criswell predicts that the financial structure of America will be much stronger in 1956 than in 1955!
  9. Criswell predicts that your personal life will be much more enjoyable in 1956! The new Eisenhower Highway will make auto travel a pleasure.
  10. Criswell predicts that 1956 will prove to be the greatest scramble, for viewers and listeners, that television and radio have ever experienced!
- On that cheerful note, Mr. Criswell's predictions come to an end.

AROUND THE SPORTS CIRCLE with GARRY GOODWIN

ALTHOUGH HE PERSONALLY PREFERS FOOTBALL as his favorite sport, KCOP's Garry Goodwin has become a wrestling expert as a result of his many announcing chores. Now, with his added duties at the Olympic Auditorium, he's becoming equally well known in the boxing world. In the locker room prior to going on the air over Channel 13, he chats first with the one, only and inimitable Art "Golden Boy Aragon" (top right); fight enthusiasts "Dynamite" Jackson, Mayor Jimmy Wilson, George Latka and Robert McAllister (top left); and Joey Darando, Al "Bobo" Custer (featherweight champ from Philadelphia, and Howie Steindler (center left).

Highlights '55

*What strides did television make in the past year?
Is the industry putting its best foot forward?*

By Mildred Ross

TELEVISION passed through adolescence during 1955. It grew in every direction and while stretching to maturity it achieved some notable highlights in the passing year.

The most outstanding contribution television made in 1955 to the American public was KTTV's coverage of the Salk Polio Vaccine Report from Ann Arbor, Michigan. The fact that an independent station handled this 2,100-mile remote was an unparalleled feat in telecasting annals.

In addition to this praiseworthy report of medical progress, television also took care of our emotional and intellectual needs. Along the emotional vein, the program which made headlines and achieved nation-wide publicity was CBS' $64,000 Question. It became the top-rated show within weeks after its debut. It offered suspense and real human drama, and the morning after each telecast the man on the street was discussing what had happened on the program the preceding night. Hal March, who had attained a modest degree of success before emceeding the show, became a household word overnight. Too, Gino Prato, the shoemaker who walked away with $32,000, became a celebrity doing dozens of guest appearances on various shows.

Situation comedies were back in full swing in 1955 but perhaps with less emphasis on family situations than in the previous year. High up on the comedy ladder is Phil Silvers in his Sergeant Bilko role on You'll Never Get Rich. Silvers plays the con sergeant with the soft heart to the hilt and audiences love it. Jackie Cooper's People's Choice and Janis Paige's It's Always Jan are two other contenders in the comedy situation field for '55.

Education

TV hasn't neglected our intellectual needs. KNXT offered two more college credit courses to its viewers. Psychology on TV with Dr. Herman Harvey and Spotlight on Opera with Dr. Jan Popper. Another highly informative program was NBC's Dr. Benjamin Spock's series on child care. The noted pediatrician enlightened many a confused parent about his offspring. It was comforting to learn that one's child was not acting oddly but merely following a prescribed behavior pattern at a particular age.

Speaking of children, KNXT is to be commended for their special series Focus on Delinquency. The series was the first to televise scenes of the Los Angeles Juvenile Court while in session. It covered detection and detention of the juvenile delinquents and related problems. Judge William McKesson commenting on the series said: "Because so much misinformation exists about so-called 'juvenile delinquency' this series was an exceedingly valuable contribution to our community's understanding of the problem."

KRCA devoted much of its public service time to programs aimed at helping the teen-ager, such as the San Fernando Valley Youth Foundation and safe driving campaign telecasts.

Pattern

Once a pattern is set and proves successful everybody wants to get into the act. Walt Disney joined forces with television last year and following close on his heels were Warner Brothers, MGM and 20th Century-Fox. At last the ostrich raised its head from the sand. With the major motion picture studios joining the television circle the industry can claim a feather in its cap.

1955 was the year for authentic westerns as evidenced by Wyatt Earp, Matt Dillon (Gunsmoke) and the exciting Frontier series. It was also the year for adventure programs, Robin Hood, Long John Silver, Kingdom of the Sea and the Golden Voyage.

Biggest entry in the dramatic field was NBC's Matinee Theater. The hour-long five-a-week tinted tele-plays were a milestone in television history. Matinee was a noble experiment well received. Playwrights '56 made its debut this year under the supervision of Fred Coe. Another dramatic highlight was the Hitchcock series. The lead-ins to the stories done by host Alfred Hitchcock were in many instances far more entertaining than the teleplays themselves.

Color Spreads

Perhaps one of the greatest achievements television made in the past year was its expansion along the color front. CBS jumped on the color bandwagon with their monthly Ford Jubilee programs. Mary Martin, Noel Coward, Judy Garland and other luminaries were presented in tint to the public.

NBC went great guns with Show Biz, Skin of Our Teeth, Our Town, various operettas, Maurice Evans' productions and, as previously mentioned, Matinee. Tennis matches, the World Series and football games were also done in color in '55. KTLA did the Fishermen's Fiesta and Hairdressers' Ball in colorcasts.

In a category all its own but not in color is NBC's Wide, Wide World, the hop-skip-and-a-jump telecast that made the wide world seem like a small one. Discriminating viewers considered W.W.W. a must.

Radio

By and large, radio went on its merry way in 1955, with high profits and little change in its operation. In passing, two documentaries are worth noting, NBC's This Is Moscow report with Irving R. Levine, and CBS' Age of the Atom series with Gordon E. Dean serving as consultant. The most revolutionary change in the A.M. field was Monitor and Weekday, the well-planned hodgepodge method of broadcasting.

Reviewing the past 12 months proves conclusively that television is well on its way to maturity. Even better telecasts seem inevitable for 1956.

Highlights '55

THE $64,000 QUESTION program and Hal March received more attention and press than any other program aired in 1955.

PHIL SILVERS' characterization of a clever promoting sergeant in CBS' You'll Never Get Rich was one of the laugh sensations of the year.

HE CAN'T ESCAPE

The Cloak & Dagger

By Jack
Holland

EVERY ONCE in a while you could forget that George Dolenz is an actor and not some reincarnated figure from the shadowy past, from the days when heroes would as soon go into a duel as drink a glass of water. George has been a swash-buckler for so long you forget he is also a very modern guy himself, a charming sophisticate, and a fellow with a delightful sense of humor.

Right now he is dashing about the place for the benefit of the Count of Monte Cristo show which is seen over KTTV. Part of the show was shot here, part in England.

Before he took off for England the last time George gave his views about his cavalier stints.

Typed?

"It's possible that for a time I tried to get away from the 'type,'" he smiled, "especially after I made the motion picture 'Vendetta.' It looked as though that would be the end of my career since the picture wasn't released for a long time. I'd almost forgotten it when it came out. But by that time I had left the studio and was free-lancing. However, most of the parts that came my way were of the swashbuckling type.

"For a while I thought I should try to steer clear of the cavalier heroes, but an actor likes to work and I soon discovered that I was actually having fun making such pictures. Certainly Monte Cristo has been exciting to me. It's a good thing I feel as I do now because by the time people see me on TV they're never going to accept me in anything else."

Life Story

George's own life has been of the exciting variety. He was born in 1915 near Trieste and was one of 14 children. The family decided to move to Sardinia later when George was hit by a stray bullet fired during the course of a local dispute in this trouble spot of Europe.

While he was growing up, George tended sheep and also, with his family, organized an amateur theatrical group. He laughingly commented, "Casting was no problem—what with 13 brothers and sisters from whom to choose."

All of the time George had his mind on one thing—acting and getting to Hollywood. He certainly arrived in Hollywood the long way around, traveling through France, Belgium, Switzerland, Cuba—and working on the way as waiter, house painter, tourist guide and dishwasher, among other jobs. Once, while waiting on tables in a French nightclub, the featured baritone reported ill. Dolenz pinch-hit for him and was hired to play the club for four weeks. He had, incidentally, been studying voice on the side too.

When he finally reached Hollywood he got a job as a waiter at the old Trocadero but took up English and acting during the day. He went into acting seriously when he studied with Max Reinhardt, his performances in plays there leading to a contract at Universal. His role in "Vendetta" followed. That was almost a career in itself since it took two years, a million and a half dollars, four directors and a string of writers to finish it.

In 1943, George married Janelle Johnson. They live in North Hollywood with their two children, George Jr. and Gemma Marie, Gemma having been George's mother's name.

"One thing is sure—I get my exercise in this show," George concluded. "I don't know how those cavaliers in the old days stood all that dashing about and dueling."

GEORGE DOLENZ has been swashbuckling for so long now that he hardly feels dressed in modern clothes. Is he tired of being the cavalier from the past?

CAN'T PICK A "HIT" OR "MISS"

"Not if my life depended on it," says Peter Potter. And that's not all he discusses in this exclusive TV-Radio Life interview.

By Ted Hilgenstuhler

IT'S AN ODD thing, but in all the time Peter Potter has been handling Juke Box Jury no one has bothered to ask him what kind of a judge he would make.

As most TV fans know who have watched the personable moderator during the past six years on 'Jury,' Pete stirs up a lot of hot conversation on the relative merits of the particular tunes, but he himself has never told whether a record would be a "hit" or a "miss."

"I never have come out and judged a record, and probably never will. That's not my job on the show," the popular platter spinner expostulated.

If he were on the panel, instead of being the moderator, lots of people would be surprised. Pete himself has never declared that he's an expert on music; as a matter of fact, he has previously stated in TV-Radio Life that disc jockeys are not supposed to know music; that's not their function.

Surprise Statement

However, being one of the real veteran deejays around town, he certainly should know as well as anyone what to expect at least so far as sales are concerned. With this in mind, the next statement came as rather a shock:

"I couldn't pick a hit or a miss if my life depended on it!"

December 30, 1955

That's what the man said, and he wasn't kidding either.

"Figures show that our panels, over the years, have been 41 per cent right in picking a hit or a miss.

"A hit tune must sell at least 200,000 records. A recording company must sell at least that many to make a profit on a record. If they sell any less, they lose money," Pete commented.

"Many panels, as well as the audience, when they first listen to a song get carried away with 'the enthusiasm of the moment.' It's very understandable, of course. It's just human nature to be enthused about a good song the first time you hear it.

Only One Per Cent!

"I myself love anything that Louis Armstrong, Bing Crosby, Johnny Mercer or Tony Martin does. And I like practically everything Cole Porter and Noel Coward have written. So I have personal preferences as well as anyone else. And I'm always hoping that every song I play will be a hit.

"However, if I were a judge on the Juke Box Jury panel, I'm afraid I wouldn't be too popular with the recording companies and artists. I'd vote much differently from the way I personally feel.

"Of all the songs I've heard on the Jury I'd pick about one per cent as hits!"

Pete indeed would be a stern judge. He plays approximately five songs a week. On the basis of picking one per cent as hits, that means he would pick one hit tune every 20 weeks!

How tough can you get!

Station Switch Explained

On the subject of his recent transfer to KRCA (Channel 4) from KNXT (Channel 2), Pete explained that the move was made primarily to get a better time slot for his program.

"Because of CBS-TV network commitments, KNXT couldn't give us an earlier or better time. So I decided, regretfully — especially because of the fine crew at KNXT—to move to Channel 4. It was as simple as that."

This month, for the first time in Jury's history, Pete is going to award a diamond-studded solid gold disc (worth $2,500) to the artist or artists who sold the most records of a certain song for the year 1955.

Pete wouldn't make any predictions on the winner. "I remember," he laughed, "when I first played 'Sh-boom'—the record which later sold over a million copies. I thought it was horrible. I played it just because I thought the audience would get a kick out of it. And look what happened!"
