I would like to say that I disagree wholeheartedly with the fans of James Dean and Elvis Presley of Riverside. I recently saw Presley in Love Me Tender and I have come to the conclusion that if he were to take the part of Dean in his life story, it would stink, if you please. Marlon Brando would, I think, be fine in this role.

J. S., L. A., Calif.

Just want to tell you how much we enjoy your TV-Radio Life. Without it we really would be lost. It's so easy to find the good programs, and tune out shows like Shower of Stars. This program was terrible. We looked at half and just couldn't stand any more. Thank heavens for programs like I Search For Adventure, Wanderlust, Strange Lands and Seven Seas, Kingdom of the Sea and Baxter Ward. He is our favorite. We like Jungle too, but think some of this is staged. Natural things appeal to most everyone, and when it comes to sexy pictures, watch the natives. They don't pinch in the waist line and prop out the bust. They are natural.

D. F., Fontana, Calif.

I want to thank Ed Sullivan for that remark to Elvis on his last performance on that show. Of course we teenagers have known that Elvis was a wonderful guy for a long time and it's time that the adults learned it too. Another thing is that your Mag. would be perfect if you had one or two more articles on Elvis.

THANK YOU, ED SULLIVAN

B. E., Compton, Calif.

We have a large variance of food, cars, clothes, entertainment, etc. So all can be happy and satisfied. Due to this great factor, the remark about the talentless Welk organization by Mr. and Mrs. T., Pasadena, was so unnecessary. No one is compelling them to read about, watch or listen to the Champagne Music Makers. Why shouldn't you print items about them when they are the hottest thing on TV for musical programs. Six years at the Aragon Ballroom, and they have received more awards, broken more records than any band organized in history and now they are invited to play at the Inaugural Ball.

It was a stupid remark and uncalled for and if their 27" Fleetwood just brings in one channel, get a 21" Hoffman with 8 stations. I don't care too much for Elvis but there are thousands that do and this is their right and it is good business for you to give what 99% of the people desire, whether it's Welk, Elvis, Monroe or Groucho. You're doing a grand job and your magazine is always on our coffee table.

LAWRENCE WELK . . . PEOPLE'S CHOICE

B. B., San Bernardino, Calif.

Guess I am the type that lets others fight my battles. (Like when Father Knows Best was taken off, I only silently fumed 'til they were back on.) But, just read they are cancelling Noah's Ark and this means war!

Mrs. B. W., Riverside, Calif.

Move over, teenagers, make room for the adults. Yes, Elvis is charming his way into our hearts, too. You can't see this boy in his movie without feeling a warm glow — whether it be romantic, motherly, brotherly, fatherly, or what have you. It's there! Of course there are still a sizeable number of men and boys who aren't too steamed up about him, but even they are beginning to give in to his power. Of course the old green-eyed monster is always around — but then are women and girls real gone over Jayne Mansfield? We don't mind if they drool over Jayne and Marilyn, as long as we can enjoy Elvis.

Skipper Frank Walks a Tight Rope

Frank Herman has learned one lesson
... that you can't kid kids.

By Jon Bruce

SKIPPER FRANK practically leads two lives. For one, he is a family man and one who has entertained in the past—and still does on some occasions—in night clubs as a magician. His other life is on KTLA where he shows cartoons for the kiddies and makes with the kid talk.

It is in the latter career that he has found what is his greatest satisfaction—and his biggest headaches.

When he is out in public with his Skipper Frank outfit on, he is besieged by youngsters who swarm all over him. This he doesn't mind too much, although there are moments when he feels like running into a corner to hide.

"It's lucky for me," Frank grinned, "that I wear glasses when I'm not in the Skipper Frank regalia. No one recognizes me then. It's good to feel that you don't have to be 'on' all the time. I don't mean I dislike being recognized, but there are times when you kind of wish you weren't."

Honesty

"Trying to please the kids, though, is my biggest problem. Children have utter honesty. They'll tell you exactly what they think of your work. They're a lot more blase today than they used to be because they see so much. You can't ever talk down to them. You have to talk straight to them as people with real intelligence.

"I have four boys myself, from the ages of six to twelve. They're my best critics, and, believe me, they don't spare my feelings. If I do a bad job on a show, they tell me! The boys in my Cub Scout pack are equally straightforward in their reviews of my program.

"And yet, I have to think of my audience as just kids when it comes to selecting material for the show. Sometimes the cartoons I run I would rather skip because of certain questionable things in them. However, I have found that most youngsters recognize a gag in a cartoon as a gag and don't take it seriously. And I don't think that what I show is half as bad as some of the Hans Christian Andersen stories which are certainly gory enough. I feel youngsters have to be given the chance to learn, to adjust, to decide what is right for themselves. They'll usually come up with the right answers."

Frank gets on the average of 500 letters a week from his fans, and they do much towards guiding him on his show. His Cartoon Carousel beats Arthur Godfrey, Gary Moore, Al Jarvis, The Early Show, and all other competitions between four and five. His Bugs Bunny show beats Meet the Press and The Whistler and has a 14.0 rating. He adds to his popularity with his regular appearances at markets, stores, parades, and the like each week.

He keeps his audiences by a careful study of what kids want. And then he sets out to give it to them. His is one show for children that always tries to avoid being coy or precocious.

"I do get some response from adults too," Frank laughed. "When I do any club dates, they know me as Frank Herman, but many have come over to me and told me how much cereal they had to buy as a result of their youngsters watching my show."

Frank had never thought of doing any kid program on TV. He had always considered it too tough. His early career certainly didn't lead to anything of that type either. He and George Gebel, for instance, were on a show at Beverly Hills High in 1940 with Frank doing his magic act.

"I was sure I was going to lay an egg that day," Frank said, "so I got the kids in the right frame of mind by tossing in a lot of gags. This taught me a good deal about how to work with children."

When Frank isn't skipping for KTLA he spends his time as a collector. When he was in Alaska he began a collection of Macedonic ivory. On a Korean trip where he entertained the GI's he saw villagers wearing odd types of hats so he started collecting hats.

"I'm going to work in these other interests of mine into the format of my show," he explained. "I intend to invite the kids to write me about their own collections and have them bring them on the show. The segment of the program will be called Sharing."

Skipper Frank's job looks easy, but have you ever tried to keep your own children amused day after day? It's a wonder Frank hasn't fallen off that tight rope before.

That Devastatin' Dinah

Poised and relaxed
in front of an audience, offstage she's like a veritable whirlwind

By Evelyn Bigsby

THE SCENE: Any time just before Dinah Shore goes on the air. Her NBC dressing room.

The "cast": Dinah and a roomful of people. A song writer is putting in a pitch for her to sing his latest number. A set designer is asking what to do about background for show after next. The dress designer needs to know what she wants to wear to fit into the background. Her secretary is trying to answer urgent mail. Her social secretary is attempting to find out exactly who is to be at her next party. A disc jockey is wedging in a taped interview. The hair dresser and the make-up man are putting the finishing touches on their star subject. Dinah's publicity man is lurking protectively and the jeweler is helping her select just the right gift for a special family occasion. It looks like chaos on a grand scale.

Into this seeming disorder walks Dinah's producer-director, Bob Banner. He is very casual as he announces in his best Texas manner, "Miss Dinah, we have about fifteen seconds until airtime."

"I think I can make it, Mr. Bob," Dinah replies in her best Tennessee style. She rises, takes his arm, strolls into the studio and onto the stage with five seconds to spare. What looked like disorganization turns out to be quite the reverse.

Dinah's activities are as highly organized as possible. She is a perfectionist who is casual only because she knows what she wants to do and how to do it. To most her schedule is frantic.

"Normal" Day

For example, during her recent coast-to-coast tour she returned to her home town, Nashville. In one day she conferred with Gov. Clement; addressed a joint session of the houses of the state legislature; appeared before the student body at her alma mater, Vanderbilt University, spoke for an hour; was interrogated by a panel of four experts at a Shriners luncheon; toured a children's hospital; rehearsed her television show; was guest of honor at a dinner given by her sponsor, Chevrolet; made an appeal for Hungarian relief. Then spent some time with her family.

This day was like many others of her tour. Her former director-producer, Alan Handley, who was shown a typed schedule of her itinerary before she left Hollywood, read the first page and gave it back to Dinah saying, "Just reading this far has made me tired." Alan Handley is an extremely busy man who pushes himself far more than most others in the business.

What's Dinah trying to prove? This question is asked by many who marvel at her vitality and tirelessness. Those closest to her say she isn't trying to prove anything. She is doing what she wants to and has a tremendous enthusiasm for what she is doing. Her ability to drive stems from her love of people. She comes alive in front of them. She is able to meet the hectic demands placed upon her partly because she plans ahead and lets all around her know what is being planned. She does one chore at a time, concentrating only on what she is doing. She knows the secret of relaxing at every opportunity. If she is to be on a plane for an hour, she can drop off to sleep for 55 minutes of the 60.

When an extra demand rises during a crowded schedule, Dinah tells her public relations man, Charlie Pomerantz, "Just give me an hour to rest and I'll do anything you want."

Besides her ability to relax and the energy she possesses, Dinah has exercised another asset which keeps this whirlwind girl moving. She has surrounded herself with experts and she allows them to use their initiative on her behalf. Besides Bob Banner there is her attorney, Henry Jaffe. Inasmuch as Dinah's services are greatly in demand she really needs no agent. It is mostly a matter of screening the various offers and selecting the most desirable. Jaffe is the one who draws up contracts and attends to Dinah's legal matters. She has a business manager, Alexander Tucker; her press agent; her arranger, Ticker Freeman, who has been with Dinah since she began singing. Ticker has great taste for the things Dinah can do. He digs up songs and special ideas like her medleys with Frank Sinatra and Perry Como, recent standouts.

In her intimate life she has an extremely talented and versatile helpmate in George Montgomery. There is a saying in Beverly Hills, "George can do anything." George had complete charge of building his and Dinah's home, the architecture, the construction, the furniture (much of it Montgomery-made) and landscaping.

Organization

Though Dinah has two secretaries, she always dictates her replies and writes many of her own personal notes. Other members of her household staff have been picked with great care, then given maximum authority. For cook she has a jewel named Pauline, an out-of-this-world culinary catch. Dinah herself is no novice with the pots and pans. She can make anything from melt-in-the-mouth biscuits to delicacies under glass. But fare at the Montgomery establishment is usually simple.

One of Dinah's great regrets is lack of time to do more cooking. She was in her element during the holidays when the family spent five days in Palm Springs and she was boss of the kitchen.

When she is at home in Beverly Hills she always takes time out to relax late afternoon for tea. During these pauses she enjoys conducting a little business, perhaps with Travis Banton who does most of her clothes. He knows precisely what Dinah likes, both in fabric and design, often brings samples to the house to save Dinah's time and energy.

Naturally she must own an exceptionally large wardrobe of dressy things because of professional demands. Now that she has hit the top as a Spectacular star she must plan dresses suitable not only for singing, but the acting and dancing which she now does.

Small wonder that Bob Hope, famous for his energy, admitted he couldn't match Dinah's pace.

"A Benzedrine takes Dinah!" he cracked.

TV's Relaxin' Man

You shouldn't be surprised that Perry Como looks as though nothing is bothering him and that he's having a ball. Not if you know what makes this genial gentleman tick.

By Jack Holland

PERRY COMO checks the script during a break in the rehearsal of his popular NBC-TV show. Don't let that worried look fool you.

IT seems like everyone wants to do a show with Perry Como — even those who have viewed TV as something akin to an ogre.

Take Rock Hudson, for example.

Now Rock is a rather important star in motion pictures, as can be judged by his work in "Giant" and currently in "Pylon" at Universal-International. As it must to all men, even big motion picture stars, Rock was asked to do a plug for a film on Perry Como's show. Live TV is something a good many movie stars would rather stay away from but Rock had already heard about this Como man and so agreed to do the stint.

Rock Hudson's Views

"All I can say about Perry is that he is the warmest, the friendliest, the most wonderful guy," Rock said recently. "His show was my first live TV program and I was concerned about it since I hadn't done television before. I had no desire to lay any egg. I went to New York four days before the telecast to rehearse for the spot. I had also been a little worried because I was to do a comedy skit with Perry, and comedy has not exactly been the kind of thing I'd been doing in the movies. Well, I needn't have worried. The relaxed, easy way that Perry works makes everyone relax. He does little things to help you feel at home. One day, for instance, on his way to get a drink of water he suddenly gagged things up by going into a time step. You figure that if a guy can be that relaxed while working on a TV show, there's nothing for anyone else to worry about.

Rock's comments are echoed by everyone who has had the fun of working with Perry. Even when something goes wrong on a show, Perry laughs off the whole matter. In short, he takes his job seriously and he's conscientious, but he's not going to let TV or anything else tie him in knots. He just has too much fun living to let work bother him.

Worries?

If you were to ask Perry why he relaxes, hed' say, "Oh, I got butterflies, nerves, or whatever you want to call them, but I don't pay them much attention. I've never been able to see what good it did me to get worried or nervous. I never knew anyone who got ahead by being a mass of jitters. Or," he adds with a laugh, "maybe it's just because I don't see any point in working any harder than I have to."

Perry's wonderful sense of humor, his honest appraisal of himself, and his happy approach to life are a few of the keys to this man. Perry looks for a smile in life instead of a frown. He views his success philosophically and with genuine humility. More than once he has said, "I've been just plain lucky. I could have been a barber today. In fact, I may still have to go back as a barber some day. Who knows? That's a good job too."

There is little chance of that but Perry takes success in his stride. He doesn't give it undue importance. He'll admit that the money he makes helps to make living more comfortable, but the money is not what makes Perry happy inside. That comes from the man himself.

Perry has found contentment and happiness through his home and his family. He is an exceptionally understanding father and husband, and nothing is more important to him than his children and his wife. Whatever he does whatever he gains is for them. And more than once he has said that he would never have made the grade if it hadn't been for the help of his wife.

So what cements a home so firmly? In Perry Como's case it is a firm religious philosophy, a faith upon which everything else is built. Perry doesn't talk a lot about his faith. He keeps it within himself and lets it guide him quietly but surely. Above all, his religion is no front — it is deeply important. You'd never find him using his faith in a superficial way.

Perry appreciates all of the good fortune he has had. But more than that he remembers the earlier struggles and he has never forgotten those who helped him up the ladder. You'll never hear him say he was a "self-made man" because he knows that anyone to be really honest must realize that there is no such thing as a self-made man. There are always hands to help anyone up the ladder. Perry remembers those hands and the faces of those who believed in him, who guided him.

Success will never change Perry Como. A man who has found the answer to what really matters in life, a man who never compromises with his beliefs and his ideals, a man who believes in others will always be happy — within himself.

And any happy man is a relaxin' man.

ON THE RUN WITH NEWSREEL

THE Don Lee Broadcasting System's Newsreel program, aired locally on KHJ-Radio (5:15-5:30 p.m. weekdays) has the reputation of reporting the news — almost before it actually happens.

This nose for news belongs to Newsreel's Los Angeles editor, John D. O'Connell, who, along with engineer Dexter Young, spends the greater part of each day in the Don Lee mobile unit riding herd on the news and recording on-the-spot interviews minutes after the action takes place.

The tapes then go to Editor-In-Chief John Bosman, who compiles them, along with those submitted daily by 59 Don Lee affiliate stations, into a news broadcast that brings listeners all the news — as it happens — on the Western scene.

WHEN Popeye's pal, Tom Hatten, recently asked youngsters from 6 to 16 why they would like to be an announcer just like him, admiring boys and girls clamored to enter this TV-Radio Life contest which would entitle them to spend a typical day at the KTLA studio with Tom. Winners are shown here enjoying their prize.

NOW that Charles Van Doren has been defeated on 21, it will be interesting to see how this particular show fares. There can be little doubt that Van Doren almost single-handedly built this program into such prominence. The lady who defeated him does not have the same kind of personality that takes hold of an audience. There isn't Van Doren's warmth or genuine simplicity. I think most people were sorry he lost, but it is quite possible that he is glad to be rid of the weekly strain. When he gets through giving most of his money to the government he may wonder why he went through it all. More and more people have been made aware of the terrifically high income tax as a result of the amount Van Doren will have left after tax is deducted. As many, many people have remarked, "This all only serves to show how unfair our income tax can be." As for other aspects of the show, there are also many who refuse to believe that Van Doren actually couldn't remember the King of Belgium's name and there are just as many who keep asking, "How did that woman know she was ahead?"

It was really informative to see the detail put into some TV films to get a convincing show. I visited Life of Riley and Wire Service recently and got an eye-opener. On Riley a big barbecue was being staged on the set — and it wasn't fake food. There were real steaks — and what steaks! — being passed out to extras who were getting paid for the privilege of eating them.

Wire Service was doing a show called "Ninety and Nine," which starred Dane Clark, and it was probably the wettest production filmed by TV. The main part of the story deals with a hurricane and you can be sure that the company not only got doused for almost all of the six days of shooting but also got whipped by the wind which was much in evidence on the set. Dane was really drenched and how he avoided pneumonia no one will know. Everyone worked under most difficult conditions. And yet in spite of all the problems, there was not one moment of tension on the set.

HOLLAND'S Tunnel

DUG BY JACK HOLLAND

There was no temperament, only very real cooperation. This was quite a testimony to the even-tempered man who directed — Harold Schuster — and to his patience and his understanding of his actors. It was also convincing proof that when you have a star like Dane Clark who indulges in no temperamental antics but who merely works hard at his job, you have a happy set. Certainly fine actors like Malcolm Atterbury, Bob Crosson, Jon Sheppard, Abraham Sofaer, and the others in the company were finding this a pleasant way to display their talents.

Got a real surprise recently when I heard a couple of sides from Elvis Presley's new album. The boy can really sing a hymn beautifully! You can't doubt the feeling behind his singing of these wonderful old songs. It's a new Presley and RCA-Victor, who released the album, has something quite worthwhile here. Also on the record line, Frankie Laine probably has found that hit for which he's been waiting — and it's "Love Is A Golden Ring." This one ought to go, go, go.

Ray Anthony's show is supposedly not long for this world, which is too bad, because it has been pleasant listening. Here's another victim of advertising agencies' passionate belief in rating services. Ray may still manage to ride over this trouble spot and let's hope he does. In the meantime, his "Calypso Dance" is really catching on!

CALL ME MADAM wasn't my life, but Playhouse 90 will be, because I'm watching it like a hawk!" So stated Mrs. Pearl Mesta, our former ambassador to Luxembourg, last week prior to the March 21 CBS-TV show dramatizing the experiences of "the mostes' hostess."

OF COURSE, BEING A MARVELOUS hostess is only one of Mrs. Mesta's assets. The rare opportunities she has had to travel have enriched her life immeasurably. You name the place — she's been there and can answer your queries. Yes, even Russia, where she wangled a tour of their greatest steel mill. When they extended their invitation, the Reds, no doubt, were ignorant of the fact that Mrs. Mesta's husband had been in the steel business. They must have realized she knew quite a lot about it when she finally made her visitation. To us at Hollywood Women's Press Club, she described a great rolling mill as "an exact copy of one we had," and labeled the Russians "the greatest copyists in the world today — better even than the Japanese." Asked if she thought war with Russia was coming, she said, "No war — unless one of those boys gets full of vodka and orders a bomb."

MRS. MESTA IS CERTAIN THAT the Voice of America broadcasts get through in some parts of Russia. "The Ukrainians are ready to go (revolt) if they get help," she claimed. "The underground is working there. That's why it's so important to help the Hungarians. They're our first line of defense."

OBVIOUSLY LUXEMBOURG IS ONE of Mrs. Mesta's favorite countries and her story of how she played hostess to three American G.I.'s a tale to relish. It all began when she invited the wistfully loitering trio inside the embassy and gave them the time of their homesick lives. It grew into a giant affair monthly when some 1200 servicemen and their families were asked to the embassy for fun and American food. "My chef was a French cook. I had to learn to cook American. Gen. Eisenhower used to come over from Paris and teach me even though, as you know, I'm a Democrat."

MEETING MRS. MESTA, it's easy to see two of her assets, in addition to tact and wit, are charm and femininity. Unfortunately last week she had fallen prey to the "Hollywood ailment" — laryngitis, but was going right ahead with the Playhouse 90 preparations. She was especially pleased that a young Korean girl, a very talented pianist she brought to this country to sponsor in Chicago musical education, was to appear during the last act of the Mesta story on Playhouse 90.

RADIO AND TELEVISION WOMEN staged a bang-up Third Award banquet at the Beverly Hilton Hotel, with Loretta Young on the receiving end of the coveted "Genii" statuette. This smart affair was a far cry from earlier ones when, fun though it was, sacks of spuds were given away!

AMERICAN CINEMA EDITORS really wrapped their Ambassador Hotel dinner-dance in cellophane. Honorees were five Oscar and five Emmy nominees in film editing category. Mike Todd as speaker made some good suggestions for advancement of movies. In fact, he was outright movie-biased, though the affair was honoring both TV and picture editors. I cheered when Janis Paige, presenting the TV honors, pointed out that TV editors accomplish a miracle against time, a handicap which movie editors do not confront daily.

KTLA HAS PASSED ALONG a cutie from a Glendale mother: "Today my three-year-old boy came out to the kitchen and said, 'Mom, I wish my name was Chosen instead of Ray. Skipper Frank said if my name was chosen he would send me a toy.'"

Pick OF THE Pix

BY AUBREY DAHL

MRS. B. DAYTON, of Verdugo City, writes and points out that I put the date "1903" on the movie, "Forty Second Street," when it was reviewed here and goes on to say, "... I remember seeing it three times when it was brand new ... but don't you think this is pushing the date back a little too far? I'm only thirty-two, really I am." Now, really, Mrs. Dayton ... even the street in the movie admits to being forty-two.

"The Zeigfeld Follies." (11) March 28, 8:00. 1945. This vaudeville show is hung on the smallest of premises ... William Powell, as Flo Zeigfeld, is in heaven (those are pretty big premises, come to think of it) wondering how he would put on a show with the talent of 1945 and we are whisked to a stage ... but it is solid entertainment all the way. The cast is awesome and several of the acts are among the best ever seen on the screen. Judy Garland's movie star press interview is wonderful, Red Skelton's Dribbler's Gin routine is hilarious, as is the Victor Moore-Edward Arnold "Pay the Two Dollars" skit, while others who do excellent work in their specialties are Lucille Ball, Fannie Brice, Fred Astaire, Gene Kelly, Lena Horne (whose "Love" is a highspot, sung in a much less affected style than she employs today) and many, many others.

"Rachel and the Stranger." (9) Beginning March 26, 9:00. 1948. Strange, the history of some films. This one received mixed reviews when first released, but has since been referred to many times as a fine picture of its genre and has done quite well at the box office in several re-releases. It takes place in early nineteenth-century U.S. and tells the story of a widower, William Holden, who purchases a bondswoman, Loretta Young, for eighteen dollars, to take care of his young son, and marries her to keep things respectable. The conflict enters with Robert Mitchum, an itinerant hunter, who falls in love with Loretta and shows her the romance her life has been lacking. Holden's reaction to this and his efforts to remove the hypotenuse of the triangle are the basic elements of a sentimental, frequently slow moving, but subtly affecting movie.

"Melba." (2) March 28, 4:30. 1953. For music lovers only, this saga of the life and times of the famous diva, Nellie Melba, features the lovely voice and features of Patrice Munsel, as she sings the traditional arias. The story is usual ... from the bottom to the top ... but the picture has splendid production values, as well as Robert Morley and Martita Hunt, and it goes without saying, of course, that Melba was the toast of London.

"The Great Lie." (5) March 24, 7:30. 1941. Bette Davis built her reputation on this sort of picture ... a woman's story with lots of opportunity to tear passions. It's all about George Brent's illegal marriage to Mary Astor, the offspring of that union, his subsequent marriage to Bette, his disappearance in the jungle, his return and the ultimate triangle. It packed 'em in in the old days, and after seeing Bette on G. E. theater the other night in a foolish little thing, I think it still will.

"King of the Underworld." (2) March 29, 11:00. 1939. The most astute critic of acting I know once told me that the reason Humphrey Bogart was so satisfying to watch was not that he was a great actor, but that he had developed one character and within the confines of that person, Bogart was always true, never false. I agree. This cops and robbers potboiler has nothing to recommend it but that character, a full, rewarding figment of an actor's imagination.

Nightwatch

Ch. 13, KCOP

Wed., 9:30 P.M.

There is much to praise in Nightwatch. On-the-spot coverage of police at work as shown in this series of Culver City police officers pursuing their routine duties must present nerve-jangling technical difficulties. In capturing slices of life more or less on the run, credit must be given the bold thinking behind this program in its attempt to break the barriers hemming in the conventional approach to television. And in its faithfulness to the documentary technique, Nightwatch commands respect and attention.

What its attraction to a general audience will be, remains to be seen. The picturization of unrehearsed humanity comes through. But is this enough? There can be no gainsaying that drama, or any other art form, must derive its substance from the raw material of life. It should be remembered, however, that the raw material of life does not constitute drama, or painting, or sculpture, or architecture. The raw material is simply a means to an end, stuff to be shaped and structured by the creative mind in order to most effectively communicate with other humans. However tragic or joyous life might be, it becomes significant only through interpretation, whether on an individual basis, or in the interpretation of a creative artist seeking to reach others. Thus, our insights into life are quickened and stirred not by the raw material of life offered us by a Beethoven, a Shakespeare, a da Vinci, but by the almost mystical divinity of the individual genius in interpreting for us.

By the very nature of its basic premise, then, there can be little shaping or structuring of material in the documentary technique as employed in Nightwatch. There is no beginning, middle, or end. The net result is a more or less unrelated shock treatment without relation to the significant motives of the humans involved. The effect is akin to presenting an audience the fragment of a story. Audience insistence on a complete story is not an arbitrary demand for dramatic structure, but because the totality of character and its relationship to event is a psychological "must" if audience emotion is to be aroused, held, and satisfied.

Regardless of this, one must tip one's hat to police recorder Donn Reed and Bill Burrud's staff, the producers of Nightwatch for their bold challenging of a medium nearly rigid with rating-paralysis.

Fred Beck says:

We are prepared to give away $164,000.00 in quarters. Hurry! Read about it here!

Just when I was beginning to get disgusted I finally got a letter from one of you wonderful wonderful readers — and I wish I'd never opened it.

Very short letter:

"Dear Mr. Beck,
"Where can I obtain a twinkling?"

(Signed) Yrs. Trly.,
Vera Comack."

Whenever I am stumped I telephone Bob Cummings who is very well informed as well as having the best Thursday TV show.

I read Vera's letter, to Bob. What's biting this dame?

"Originally," replied Bob, "four-poster beds were so constructed that a bedpost could be lifted from its socket and used as a club. In Sussex in the 15th century these removable bedposts were called 'twinklings' because, in a twinkling, or before you could bat an eye, you could grab it and bat down an intruder."

"Thank you Robert," I said — and still curious as to why Vera would want a bedpost I sleuthed her down by telephone. Seems that Vera had obtained one of our wonderful little (free) KoldKist recipe booklets wherein she read "KoldKist Dinners Are Prepared in a Twinkling."

She thought a twinkling was a special pot for preparing those delicious KoldKist Fresh Frozen Cooked Foods and Meat Products.

Any pot will do, especially a double boiler, and you too should write to me care of TV-RADIO LIFE for your free copy.

Now about the $164,000 in quarters! Go buy two packages of that delicious item called KoldKist Chili Size Twin Dinner — real size and a real deal. Mail the two labels to KoldKist and we'll mail you 25 cents.

This offer is open to everybody except our printer. And your family will love KoldKist.

KoldKist's Fred Beck spins discs Mon. thru Fri.-6:45-8:30 a.m.-KABC 790 on your dial.

Harvest

Sunday, 1 p.m.

CBS-TV, Channel 2

In Harvest, Dr. Frank Baxter moves from the world of literature into a larger arena that (according to one log note on the program) "covers ideas, personalities and achievement in the world of art, literature, public affairs and science—past and present." A roomy grab-bag, to be sure, and one that could in less skillful hands than Doctor Baxter's end up as little more than an empty sack.

However, Doctor Baxter communicates a good deal more than the bare bones of knowledge, for he has that rare faculty of also communicating his own zest for the subject matter, a spirit of wonderment ever-fresh as if for the first time he had chanced upon a rare and good thing. Contrary to the usual pedagogical procedure of handing down knowledge, Dr. Baxter imparts the sense that he and his listeners are sharing knowledge on an equal footing as kindred spirits.

There is a good deal more to the doctor than sheer pedagogical enthusiasm. Erudition and learning, to be sure, but above all, a philosophical and interpretive mind seeing and pointing out significant relationships in various fields of human endeavor and different eras of time.

For those who enjoy exploring man's finest achievements with this wise and witty man of the twentieth century, Harvest is your dish.

MAXWELL REED:

Tall Hunk of Hero

Workers of the world arise!

Arrange your uprising between 6:00 AM and 8:45.

You have nothing to lose but your nightie. And you have everything to gain.

There's Bob Crane, for example

... a brash, brisk youngster with a minute-fresh way of presenting music, weather stuff and a broad view of the local milieu. Bob Crane, the housewife's balm!

The toiler's shield!

The maiden's dream!

Actually, he's none of those.

His approach to the mayhem of the A.M. merely makes early morning up-getting and out-going less revolting than need be. Be cocksure at cockcrow, try Crane on

KNX RADIO of course.

Label Talk

BY TERREA LEA

HAVE you opened your Bank account without money yet? A couple of weeks ago Label Bank ran an ad in TV-Radio Life suggesting you do this and I must say it was most successful. Calls have been coming in to the office by the hundreds. In fact, Paula and Stella are most unhappy with me for having just the telephone number put in the ad. The phone has been ringing off the wall and they have been pretty busy.

Some folks question the possibility of opening a bank account without money and I must confess that three or four years ago I would have thought there was some kind of a catch to it too. And, I guess there is because I'm not talking about a regular bank account . . . but a label account at Label Bank.

Many products you are now using have labels, box tops, wrappers, and various package parts that can be deposited in a bank account just like money. In fact, these labels, etc., are worth money to you because they can be exchanged for your choice of over 500 nationally advertised premiums. Each label and package part is worth a certain number of points and each premium is worth a certain number of points. When you have enough points, from the labels, in your bank account you can purchase your choice of premiums with them. You put no money with the points. So, the premium costs you nothing but a little time and effort to save and deposit the labels. You are buying these products anyway . . . you can buy them anywhere . . . they cost you no more . . . and their labels are valuable. And you'll find all of the Label Bank products are top quality.

If you are throwing away the labels and package parts from these Label Bank products you use, it's just like throwing away money. So stop being a label waster and join Label Bank right away. Send for that free catalogue that shows pictures of the premiums and gives a complete list of the products and information. Just call (apologies to Paula and Stella) WE-8-2438 and give your name and address. Or write to Label Bank, Dept. TVRL, 727 No. La Brea Avenue, Hollywood 38, California. The catalogue will be sent to you and you; like so many thousands of other men, women and children; can start to shop and save with Label Bank.

More Label Talk next week. Until then, bye for now.

The 77th Bengal Lancers
Sunday, 7 p.m.
NBC-TV, Channel 4

The 77th Bengal Lancers is good entertainment.

One of the season's new entries, the Lancer's has a sweep, dash and vigor that is missing in so much of today's dramatic fare. And although the plot of the episode I saw was nothing startlingly new I was grateful for the brisk, nimble treatment that brought vitality to the screen.

The Lancers is melodrama, but so well done that it recalls the time before the word "melodrama" fell into disrepute, a time when theater was excitement and glitter and solely to entertain.

There is an exotic splendor in the old India under the days of Victoria, a setting where almost anything could, and did, happen. And of this the producers of the Lancers make the most.

Although I've seen a good many regiments in action via motion pictures and television, the 77th Bengal boys strike me as a colorful and exciting lot. Moreover, they strike me as having the good taste not to take themselves too seriously as they go about their work with a sense of humor that skillfully avoids any mock heroics and military stupidities that seem to afflict the human male once he dons a military uniform. And while on the subject of uniforms, special commendation should be given the Lancers for the handsome outfits that would be a modern recruiting officer's dream for luring soldiers.

Casting is excellent, with Phil Carey and Warren Stevens sharing honors in the lead roles as two of Her Majesty's officers.

Storywise it was a novelty to have crisp, fresh dialog with good humor and a fast paced tale unencumbered with heavy-footed plotting. A good show. Don't miss it.

NEW SERIES

Briskin Productions, Inc., has signed Alan Hale, Jr. and twelve-year-old Bobby Clark to co-star in Casey Jones, new teleseries at Columbia Studios. Hale who recently completed roles in "The True Story of Jesse James," "The Day They Give Babies Away," and a Crossroads telefilm, will play the title role.

Bobby Clark, who has just completed a part in "Happy Road," as Gene Kelly's son, plays Casey Jones, Jr.

The teleseries is set in the late 19th Century when the railroad was king of the continent and pushing West to unify the vastness of America as it was then.

HUSKY DOGS

Three teams of husky dogs are mushing to Hollywood for work on CBS Television's "Sergeant Preston of the Yukon." Kenneled for the summer in the mining ghost town of Ashcroft, Colorado, the dogs are kept in shape by hauling logs, automobiles and other loads across mountain meadows and trails.

With the first snow, at the 12,000 foot level in Ashcroft, the teams worked out daily by pulling loaded sleds to keep in shape for their filming schedule each fall.

AROUND THE GOLF LINKS

FIVE MINUTES TO AIR TIME—Dean Martin "just happened" to bring a map of his new Knollwood Country Club, completed in March. Chick Hearn, Joe Kirkwood, Jr., and guest student Art Berr (in make-up chair) got the details while awaiting their turn for a make-up check before going on Channel 9's "Let's Play Golf." (Ralph Wideman photos.)

KIRKWOOD CAME UP with a solution to Dean Martin's putting problem — too much body english. "That clinches it," replied the crooner, "no more mambo lessons."

THREE MINUTES TO AIR TIME . . . CHICK HEARN takes his place before cameras during a last minute check on lighting.

ON-THE-AIR—"Get this, mink-covered club caps with ermine tips," Martin quips when pro Kirkwood brings on his "sticks" for an instruction session on KHJ-TV's newest sports show, "Let's Play Golf."

TV WON'T SWALLOW THEM UP

Marge and Gower Champion may be jumping into television but they have their life preservers all ready.

By Jack Holland

MARGE AND GOWER Champion, two of the finest dancers and nicest people you'll ever meet, were taking life easy in their beautiful new home above the Strip.

Rather, they were taking things as easily as anyone can who is remodeling a house. The warm, comfortable, friendly home was getting its face lifted and with charming results.

After Marge and Gower, along with Samson, the huge black Great Dane, gave me a tour of the five bedrooms, four bathrooms (a far departure from the two bedroom and one bath home they used to have), we wasted no time in discussing their new CBS-TV show which will take over Ann Sothern's former spot.

"We're only going to do six shows," Gower explained, "since we're filling out the balance of the season before the summer replacements come in. Two will be done on film and four will be live. Frankly, we are very glad we're not doing a regular season of 13 or 26 shows. The kind of act we do takes too much out of us. It's practically impossible to work out enough sock dance routines to fill a weekly TV bill — and we have no intention of letting TV swallow us up. Then, too, doing only six will give us a chance to see if we like TV and if the sponsors like us, a kind of a test to see if we're mutually acceptable."

"The nearest thing to the format is the sort of show Jack Benny does," Marge put in. "It won't be a variety program or a revue or a situation comedy. Instead, it will be an informal type of production where we do a couple of dances, talk to the audience the way Jack does, and just be plain informal."

"There will be a story line to establish us as characters, although we'll play ourselves. It is a problem to get people to know us as people and not just as dancers."

Marge and Gower may do a few of the special routines that have made them famous. Gower will do the main deciding on what routines to do since he is the choreographer. In fact, that is his first love. He just recently did the dances for RKO's picture, "The Girl Most Likely," with one number being especially unusual. The dancers do the routine in six inches of water at the beach.

Past TV

The Champions have been on TV before, principally on the Three for Tonight show they did a couple of years ago with Harry Belafonte. Of that production, Marge said, "I think it was ahead of its time, at least looking back on it now. But it was exciting. Every time we do anything on TV we're asked by someone to do our own series, and we could do it if we wanted to kill ourselves. Gower and I both feel, however, that dancers can't ever be stars on TV because of the mechanics themselves. A dance act usually ends with a smash but on a big scale, and it would have to be photographed too far away on TV to get any intimate impact. It would look too small. TV also slows down dancers' actions. If we're doing a series of fast turns and leaps, it's alright, but when you have to slow down for contrast, the leaps look less spectacular and the spins seem too slow."

Baby

Both Marge and Gower were more excited about their new baby, Gregg, than about any career matters. In the past they have toured all over the country, but for the last year they have stayed quite close to home. And this is the kind of life they hope to go on leading.

When Marge came home from the hospital with young Gregg, she walked into quite a sight. The kitchen, which was being entirely remodeled, was nothing but blank walls. Gower marched her upstairs to her room and refused to let her come down in order to keep her from being upset by all the confusion. He had to get water from the bar in the den and he used an electric plate to heat the baby's milk.

"All I could hear was noise and people yelling about problems," Marge laughed, "but I was never allowed downstairs."

"If Marge had known all that was going on, she'd have really been in a tizzy," Gower grinned. "You should have seen this house!"

It was Marge who first saw the house when she and Gower were looking for a larger home. At the time it was too expensive and there was no place for a rehearsal hall.

"There still isn't a hall," Gower said, "but we're going to start our own professional dancing school. We've been amazed by the number of kids who have asked us pertinent questions about dancing, about technique, so we decided to start a school. It won't be the social dancing type — but designed for those who want to make the dance their profession."

"My other interest is in directing a picture and a Broadway musical. This may work out too."

"Me — I just want to be an actress," Marge replied. "That's if I can manage a small career and a baby."

"Or two," put in Gower.

"Yes — or three," Marge said warmly.

The future looks very bright for the Champions — because champions they are.

No Juvenile Delinquency Here

With the help of Earle C. Anthony Inc. and KFI radio, boys scouts make good use of their time.

By Charles Stalnaker

KFI's "Scout Jamboree" is a definite combatant to juvenile delinquency. And it has living examples of good citizenship to prove it.

First aired in 1939 by Earle C. Anthony Inc., it has enjoyed continuous operation ever since. And it has gone on doing good and building lives.

Take the former scout Dick Crenna. Dick plays Walter Denton on the Our Miss Brooks TV show. He first started in Scout Jamboree in 1940, later getting a running part with Ed Penney in a skit called Herman and Sam—an episode concerning scouting.

A second alumna is Hugh MacAlhane, the well-known professional football player, now playing with the San Francisco 49ers.

Format

The weekly format for Scout Jamboree includes songs by the Mitchell Choirboys, scout interviews and contests based on scouting skill and knowledge, a story of particular interest to boys, an interview honoring a scoutmaster who has done meritorious work for scouting and news of scouting activities within the various districts and councils. The highlight of the program is the High Sierra Award. This award is given each week to an outstanding Eagle Scout, selected by Scout officials, entitling the winner to participate in a ten-day hiking and camping trip through the High Sierras at the close of the season, with all expenses paid by Earle C. Anthony Inc.

This trip is by no means all play and no work! The boys are necessarily put on their own when it comes to cooking and caring for their clothes.

Leader of this trip since the beginning, except for one year, is Clem Glass Jr. He missed once when he had polio.

While the program is on the air, Dyer Huston, who is producer-director of the show, has able assistance in getting the show off the ground and to a successful landing. Chuck Cecil acts as emcee and Earl Montgomery assists in lining up the interviews.

This show is unrehearsed as far as dialogue is concerned, therefore is completely impromptu. As Dyer points out, "We never have trouble in getting the boys to talk. In fact, sometimes we have to be careful the allotted time for each interview does not run over into the next interview."

It would seem that with a show being unrehearsed, it might get out of hand at times. According to Dyer, "I have never had to edit on one thing out of the show except for one small slip by a very young fellow that I thought was not in the best of taste."

Aids Scouts

Scout Jamboree gets full cooperation from the Boy Scouts of America, even to the extent of making full-fledged scouters of Dyer and his assistants. The Mitchell boys have also been influenced even to being given a definite official title—Troop 800, Post X. They take an interested part in scouting work. The show has inevitably increased the interest in scouting activities, materially aiding in recruiting boys for the Scouts.

As long as there are programs such as this, society need not worry about juvenile delinquency getting the upper hand among our youth.

BOB MITCHELL and the "Mitchell Boys" (Troop 800 X) provide musical entertainment on "KFI Scout Jamboree."
