JEANETTE MC DONALD AND NELSON EDDY

... Bring Back Memories—and Tears

Mrs. E. P., La Puente

A robust bravo for Nelson Eddy and Jeanette McDonald.

I love all kinds of music from rock 'n-roll to classic. This may sound smaltzy but when I heard those two great performers sing on a recent show, I cried and I am not an emotional person either.

Even in my child's mind at that time, I felt the sincerity and splendor in their voices.

C.T., Temple City

Someone wrote you they turned off Tom Duggan because when asked why he didn't interview Ben Hunter, Tom said: "Who is Ben Hunter?" Not joking, I ask the same question. Who is Ben Hunter? I've never heard of him.

To set the record straight for all concerned: Ben Hunter is a disc jockey on KFI, with an all-night program called The Other Side of the Day.

Mrs. J.D.M., Santa Ana

The many new shows on TV this Fall are very fine. There are so many good ones, it is hard to single out any. But to us the Big Record stands out as the most terrific of them all. That show has everything—the wonderful personality of Patti Page, unusually fine arrangements, enjoyable dancing, and a lot of nostalgia. Musical and western shows seem to predominate among all the new favorite shows. We like the Polly Bergen show and know we will love Pat Boone even though we haven't seen his show as yet. Ernie Ford is wonderful as always. But we, too, miss the Spike Jones show. It was tops in entertainment.

C.W.M., Los Angeles

Recently we have noticed that such favorite entertainers as Gene O'Quinn, Lefty Frizzel, Freddy Hart, Dallas Frazier, and others have discarded their colorful western attire, and in so doing, they lose much of their personality and they turn up second in appearance to Eastern entertainers, from whom you expect more formal dress.

We want our tailored western suits, our fringe and sequins, and western boots.

C.E.P., San Bernardino

I'm 13 and can't stand Elvis. I'd rather hear Perry Como or Pat Boone anyway.

TV Widows of Ivanhoe, Anaheim

All our swingshift widows would like to put our plug in for these fellows: Cheyenne, Dale Robertson, Matt Dillon and Sheriff of Cochise. We think they are doing a great job. But the biggest thrill of all would be to see them galloping down Ivanhoe Street some lonely evening.

If such a thing happened, we feel fairly certain that the street would not be lonely for very long.

ALICE LON

... No Finger Snapping For Her

Mrs. M.T., North Hollywood

Alice Lon and Aileen Christy are such sweet, pretty girls and such good singers. I hope they will not start the crazy stunt of snapping their fingers all through their songs like all the other singers seem to be doing.

Mrs. C.L., Ramona

Bring back Bob Crosby and Noah's Ark!

JACK MAHONEY AND DICK WEST

... Cowhands, Athletes and Actors

Mrs. C.F.I., Santa Ana

Many hands of congratulations should be extended to Jack Mahoney "The Range Rider," and his pal Dick West. They are a couple of topnotch athletes and certainly appear to put their whole hearts and souls into making a good action western. In fact, the best on television.

My pet peeve is the unnecessary loud music, giggling and laughter for background on so many of the programs on TV. Why don't the producers get wise and cut it out?

A QUIZ SHOW FOR THE AVERAGE MAN

TAC O
$ DOUGH

EMCEE JACK BARRY IN ACTION ON THE DAILY TIC TAC DOUGH SHOW.

JAY JACKSON, emcee of the Thursday night segment of Tic Tac Dough quizzes the contestants who play for higher stakes.

By Jean Corlis

AFTER A YEAR and some months on daytime TV with very little fanfare, NBC-TV-KRCA's Tic Tac Dough added a nighttime spot last September and immediately caught on with the quiz-minded TV audience. This interest was different, however. With the big money shows the viewer usually listened to the question being asked, and knowing that he couldn't answer it his mind went wool-gathering until the round was over and he heard the emcee say "You're right for $32,000," or "I'm sorry, the correct answer is . . ." With Tic Tac Dough he's right in there, answering the question before the contestant can get it out . . . and he feels pretty smart, too, sometimes answering every question!

You, too, could probably answer most of the questions. The difference between you and the contestant is, "How's your strategy?" Simple as the game is, based on the old Tic Tac Toe everyone used to play on the sidewalk as children, you must choose a box which will give you the most money (center box with the more difficult question, $1,000 or outside boxes worth $500). Then to block your opponent from scoring you may have to take a box whose category you would not ordinarily choose. If each contestant's strategy is successful the game continues round after round. Two of the most successful contestants on the daytime show answered 40 questions straight at one time without an error and ran each other through six tie games. Since the start of the evening program in September, winners from the Monday through Friday games, who play for smaller stakes, become the contestants on the evening show.

The show requires an almost unbelievable number of questions to feed the fast moving game, and in ten months on the daytime show, researcher Helene Goldfarb thought up 6,000 questions . . . 125 questions over the five-day week.

Life used to be normal for Helene before she left teaching in search of "something different." "Parties used to be for fun. Now I'll be chatting and suddenly something someone says will become very interesting to me," Helene explained. "Then I realize the party's way in the background and I'm thinking, 'Wouldn't that make a good question?' Same thing when I'm reading a paper, watching a movie, walking along the street—questions, questions."

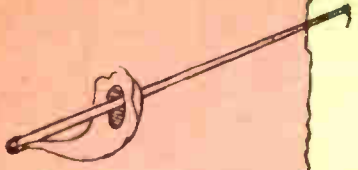

Helene's qualifications for the job were a natural inquisitiveness and a know-how with reference books. "Every morning I tackle a massive array of books. The knack is to find simple, 'one-answer' questions. I have to work backwards, read facts, formulate ideas and questions. Answers have to be authenticated, then the producer phrases the questions."

The game has caught on with the whole family, and though the younger children cannot answer the questions they are alert to the dangers of not blocking the opponent and keep shouting directions into the unhearing face of the television set.

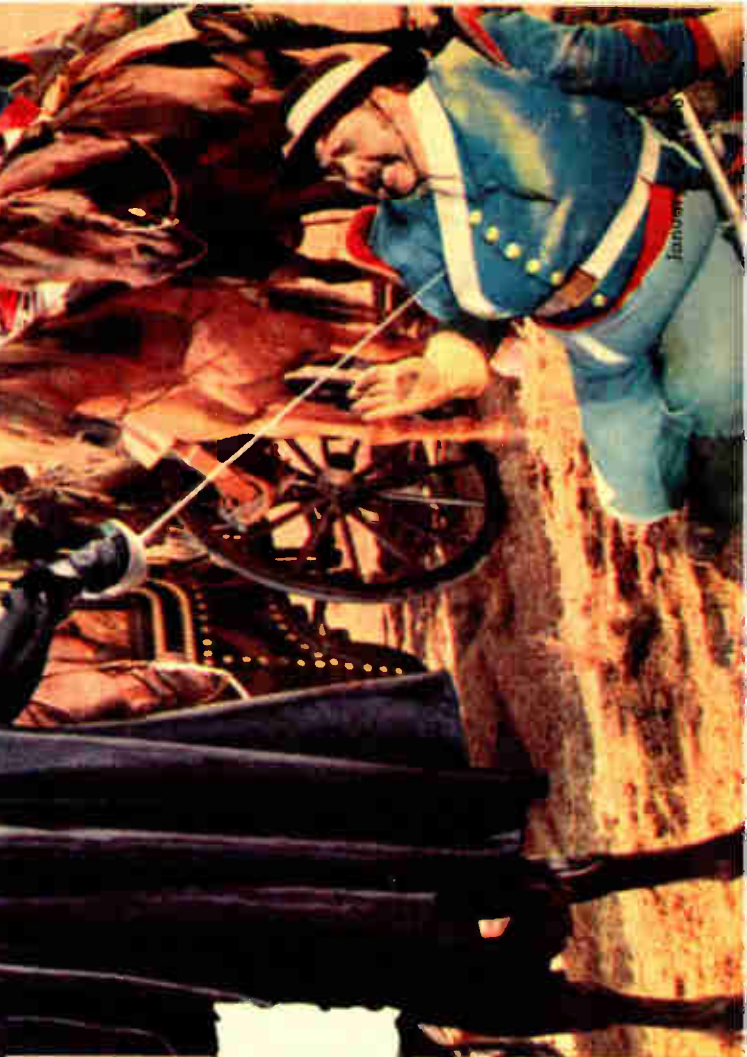

Jack Barry, emcee of the daytime show, is one of the packagers of Tic Tac Dough. Jay Jackson, who substituted for Jack on the Monday through Friday show while Barry was on vacation, is the emcee of the night time game. So far, no one has racked up such tremendous amounts as on Jack's other popular show, Twenty-One, or on the $64,000 Question, the $64,000 Challenge or other quiz shows, but if you'd like to play for fun and quite a sizeable sum of money and if you can think fast—then Tic Tac Dough is the show for you.

WHEN GUY ISN'T PLAYING ZORRO
he's masquerading as Don Diego, the rather foppish and elegant young gallant.

Zorro

ZORRO COMES TO THE RESCUE. Guy
Williams as Zorro neatly takes care of the bumbling sergeant, Henry Calvin.

Zorro

WILL

BE ANOTHER DAVY CROCKETT SMASH?

Already there are signs that this new Disney show will prove an even bigger hit than Davy was. What's behind the sudden success of Zorro?

ever happened to me and I'm not going to complain about anything. I must admit, though, that I get a bit concerned when Zorro has a higher rating than President Eisenhower's important missile speech. This is really an odd reflection of the American public's interest.

Son's Reaction

"The biggest thing about the series is that I've finally convinced Stevie that I am worth watching. He didn't even want to see Zorro in the beginning. Now his attitude has changed. I'm a bit bigger in his eyes."

Stevie now goes around the neighborhood with his chest bulging and making sounds that are like, "My Dad — he's Zorro." As a result, Stevie is a big man with the neighborhood kids.

Whenever Guy goes anywhere now young girls surround him. They giggle, squeal, and, in general, act like rabid fans. All of his fans, though, are more interested in him as Zorro than as Don Diego, which is odd in a way since Don Diego is on screen more than Zorro.

The fact that Guy is married and has a child hasn't hurt his romantic appeal on the show either — a fact which has surprised many. There has been no attempt to conceal his marriage, so it must be the dashing character of Zorro itself that has intrigued the fans.

The success of Zorro is not all Guy's — the performance of Britt Lomond as the handsome villain, Gene Sheldon as his servant, and rotund Henry Calvin have added much to the show. But whatever it is that has made this such a resounding hit doesn't really matter. All that counts is that Disney has again corralled a show that has caught the public fancy. There seems no limit to the man's ability to know what an audience wants.

Too bad other TV producers haven't his magic.

WALT DISNEY is used to successes, but he's really amazed over the spectacular success of his new show, Zorro.

From all indications, it looks as though he has another hit the size of Davy Crockett on his hands, for the new ABC-TV show has been surging ahead in popularity. Within 10 days after its first showing, huge piles of fan mail began arriving — mostly for Guy Williams who plays Zorro. Then merchandising companies, which have been acting very cautiously lately, began hammering at Disney's doors for merchandising rights to Zorro. As a result, the markets should be full next spring of Zorro outfits.

New Disney Audience

However, Zorro marks a change in audience appeal for Disney. Heretofore his shows have appealed mostly to children. Now the teen-agers are being heard from, principally because of the romantic appeal of Guy Williams who plays the title role — as well as Don Diego, the rather foppish counterpart. Most of the letters mention Guy's handsome appearance, his moustache, and his sighful qualities as a hero.

Zorro is the first TV show that has the dash and fire of the old Douglas Fairbanks tradition. As such, it has a distinctive interest for women especially — and it is well known that it is the women who decide what the men will see. Women feel romantic attachment to the character of Zorro, something that was never the case with Davy Crockett.

As for Guy Williams, he has no time to do anything but live, eat, and sleep Zorro. He works on the show all during the week and then on Saturdays he is doing publicity, taking his guitar or fencing lessons, and brushing up on his singing. On Sundays he has the day off — which is a laugh — since he takes two scripts home each week-end to study. So whenever he and his wife and his young son, Steve, go anywhere Guy lugs along his script. He also studies his lines each evening during the week. He is so out of contact with the outside world, as a matter of fact, that he doesn't even read the newspapers.

Does he mind all of this?

"Sure I get tired," Guy has admitted, "but this is the biggest thing that has

HOW

CHILDREN

This TV show worked strange magic for Barbara Hale's three youngsters — and for her own private life.

By Jack Holland

BARBARA HALE is now co-starred as Della Street in the CBS-TV production of Perry Mason. She is also the wife of Bill Williams, who co-stars in Date with the Angels. And she is the mother of three children.

Ordinarily, this would not seem to be the ideal set-up for a steady job for Barbara. After all, with three children to take care of and a husband who works steadily in a series, the load could get heavy. But Barbara has found that her career has actually helped her children.

"When I was making pictures and doing occasional TV appearances," the lovely Barbara began, "my hours were so irregular my children got confused and began feeling insecure. Now they know definitely I'll be gone on certain days, that I'll leave at a definite time and return at a certain time. There is no constant change, then, in their lives.

"I leave for work around 5:30 in the morning and get home about 6:30 or 7. I'm with my children until their bed time and they usually have their dessert while I have my dinner. If I get home late then I don't have dinner until they've gone to bed.

"They're with our very wonderful housekeeper during the day, so they're well taken care of. Friday night is their night. Bill and I make no plans at all for that evening — except to do what Jody, Bill, and Juanita want to do. Saturday evening is Bill's and mine. So, we have our life rather well managed — I think."

Jody is 10, Billy, 6½, and Juanita is 4 — so Barbara has an active clan.

"I had always said I wouldn't do a series on TV," Barbara went on. "I had felt it was impossible with the children. But now the series has been the answer. I turned down Perry Mason at first and then I began to consider what the good was and what the bad was. One big advantage was that in this series I didn't have to be the mother of another family — on screen. This might have rocked my own children's minds, made them feel their mother was mothering someone else. In Perry Mason I'm a secretary — and I love it. And I love the people with whom I work — that wonderful Raymond Burr, Bill Talman, all of them.

Working on Perry Mason has had one influence on Barbara — she has tried to get more of a sense of organization in her own home as the result of playing a secretary on TV. She even bought a book called "Know Your Boss," which was written for secretaries. She has planned to use it as a gag on Raymond Burr, but, as she said, "It actually helped me to understand my own man better."

Raymond Burr and Bill Williams certainly have all the luck. What could be nicer than sharing Barbara Hale?

THIS WEEK the television spotlight focuses on the industry's most beautiful and charming girl working behind the camera. This past month a star-studded board of judges made up of Eve Arden, Jack Lemmon, Howard Duff, Ronnie Burns, John Forsythe, Hugh Beaumont, and Don DeFore chose the five finalists for the "Miss Cinderemmy" contest of 1957.

Chosen as finalists from a group of more than 100 entrants were Carol Chaka, Warner Bros. TV secretary, who lives at 1234 N. LaCienega, L.A.; Rochelle Greenblat, McCadden Prod. receptionist, of 904 N. Gardner, Hollywood; Mary Horwitz, CBS administrative assistant of 6106½ Afton Pl., Hollywood; Terry Alice Sinele, KTLA secretary of 3826 W. Alameda, Burbank; and Betty Teasley, CBS secretary of 140 S. Canon Dr., Beverly Hills.

"Miss Cinderemmy," who will reign over the Academy of Television Arts and Sciences New Year's Eve Ball, will also take part in the Emmy awards television show in March. The girl who earned the most points in the judging will be named "Miss Cinderemmy," but her name will be announced only on New Year's eve. The four runners-up will make up her court. Which one would you pick?

BY EVELYN BIGSBY

AS YOU PROBABLY KNOW, singers often make calls on d.j.'s to promote a new record. Singer Jack Smith, new a platter whirler on KLAC, remembers vividly the time he was making the rounds and in one Eastern City was forced to wait two and a half hours to see a big-headed record spinner who wanted to impress Jack with his own importance.

Jack Smith

"I WAS PRETTY UPSET ABOUT IT," Jack told me the other day, "until I learned that this same fellow had made Irving Berlin wait three hours! And Berlin needed him like a hole in the head!"

JACK WAS RELATING THE INCIDENT to back up his statement, "I can see the other angles now." Until KLAC approached him to do a d.j. show and fill three and a half hours daily ("it's hard to do"), Jack hadn't given serious thought to spinning records. "I believed that I'd wait to do that until I was an old man," he confessed. But after his first morning, when he suffered agonies to keep things rolling and finished an absolute wreck, Jack has found his work an ever-increasing pleasure and source of understanding. "I'm much more sympathetic to d.j.'s now," he claims. "Also toward commercials. I try to make them as 'unobnoxious' as I can." Jack injects variety and pace. He figures his audience is the young and perhaps older housewife, so he includes rock 'n' roll. He is especially fond of the new European recordings, notably German. "Beautiful stuff, especially with strings." Jack thinks it's time for us to have a new trend. Maybe Hawaiian or the waltz.

HAPPY TO BE BACK IN LOS ANGELES after a stint in New York, Jack has settled down in Errol Flynn's former home in Hollywood Hills above The Strip. Is now itching to do TV and welcomes the notion of local television because due to our ever-growing and changing audience it affords durability and exposure.

JACK HAS TRIED TO SHAKE THE TAG, "Smiling," which clung to him for so long when he had his own songshow on the air. Invariably, even though the appellation is kept out of the copy, it is inserted by columnists. "Guess it's okay," Jack shrugs. "Dinah Shore told me the name was worth a million."

I EXPECT THERE'LL BE A FLOCK of protests from loyal fans of that KNXT program, Panorama Pacific, which is departing from the TV tube. The reason, according to the station, is mounting engineering and production costs. Seems they've spiraled steeply during the years "Pan Pac" has been on the air. With a heavy payroll (between 25-30 persons) and costs rising, the program was losing money some months, so apparently it was thought best to break up the large hunk of time occupied by Panorama into smaller segments into which will go Capt. Kangaroo, news reports, and Ladies Fare emceed by Tom Moore. The latter will be sort of a Tom Breneman type show originating from a Hollywood eatery. Ladies from all parts of the Coast will be brought here by bus to attend the telecasts.

ANOTHER PROGRAM TO BITE the dust is Guy Mitchell's. Consensus is that the dialogue and setting didn't do the right things for this popular English star. No replacement set as yet. One show many will greet back gladly is Dr. Bergen Evans' intriguing "The Last Word." Frank Wright's Pet Exchange is due back, too. So in all the shuntings and shiftings, usually something good comes out.

A TRIP TO "COUGAR COUNTRY"

THE MAN RESPONSIBLE for bringing this action into our living room is Bill Southworth, cameraman for Bill Burrud Productions. This show is one of the best in the top-rated travelogue-adventure series.

HEADING the lion round-up in "Cougar Country" is Mark Swain, manager of the Desert Inn Ranch at Motoqua, Utah.

THIS WEEK WANDERLUST VIEWERS ON KCOP, Channel 13 (Monday 7:30) will see a mountain lion transported "live" from his natural habitat to a cage.

Tunnel

DUG BY JACK HOLLAND

A LETTER came from an editor in New York which was most illuminating — and startling. In it he said that all in New York connected with the movies were jittery, panicky — that some felt the industry would be no more within a year or a little longer. He wanted to know what the reaction here was. It is true that those connected with the movies are panicky here but not as violently as those in New York apparently are. There are those who think the industry is in bad, bad shape but few are claiming this is the end. Once again there are reasons for the state of the motion picture industry and TV is the chief villain in the piece. This columnist is certainly no seer or no analyst, but my personal feelings are — for whatever they're worth — that TV hasn't been the chief villain. Certainly television has played havoc with pictures, primarily in the beginning, but now TV has become a regular part of one's daily life and people will move away from their set if they're given anything worthwhile. Let's face it — movies have presented pictures that often weren't as good as those that could be seen for free on TV. Many pictures were of the old type that could be done as well if not better on TV. There was not sufficient use made of the scope of the motion picture. And yet, whenever a really great movie comes along people leave their sets all right and even pay the ridiculously high prices being asked at movie theatres (and here's a big reason for the sag in box office). Pictures like "Peyton Place," "Bridge on the River Kwai," "Sayonara," "Witness for the Prosecution," and to an extent the shocker "Fare- well to Arms" are doing great business. And these are stories that could not be told effectively on TV, stories that need bigness. Incidentally, "Farewell to Arms" is just about the most realistic and certainly the frankest American movie to be seen in a long time. The industry has to re-gear itself to a new conception of product. And it must not lie down and play dead and moan, "It's all TV's fault." If this is the prevalent attitude, then it is dead. TV is a competition, a real competition, but it should also serve as a stimulus for better movies. Hollywood can die next year or the year after — if it wants to.

Johnny Washbrook has competition in his family now. His older brother, Donald, did a small part in Junior Miss and made a sizable impression. This wasn't Donald's first acting stint, of course, since he had done a good deal of acting in Canada, but it is his first break of any importance. This kid can go far. Johnny, incidentally, is busy making a picture as well as TV stints. And — again — there are rumors that My Friend Flicka may get a new lease on life.

It's not often that this column goes out to extoll a commercial product but Skipper Frank on KTLA has been plugging a product that looks like a natural from where we sit. It's called Bugs Bunny Jell-Molds — and they are really clever. Behind these molds there is one man who has almost single-handedly and in spite of incredible obstacles pushed this idea into reality. The kids will love this product — so give 'em a try.

Don't miss Where We Stand on CBS-TV January 5. You'll be shocked by what you see!

BY AUBREY DAHL

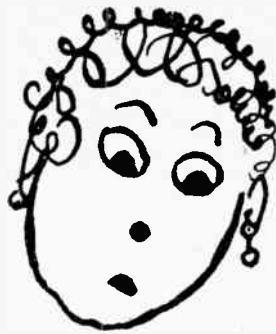

I'M SURE you've heard of the new manner of inflicting commercials on the public. It consists of flashing announcements on the screen of such short duration, that they aren't really seen, but are subconsciously retained by the viewer. Reports indicate that the method is highly effective but in my opinion, the whole thing is utter nonsense.

"Citizen Kane." (9) Beginning Jan. 6, 9:00. 1941. When boy wonder Orson Welles first came to this town with an unparalleled contract as a producer-writer-director, he was much scoffed at by studio citizenry, but he justified his billing by turning out one of the greatest pictures ever made, one that stands as a landmark of the craft. Based loosely on the life and career of one of America's foremost newspaper publishers, "Citizen Kane" chronicles his rise from boyhood poverty, his rise to the pinnacle through inherited wealth, and his ultimate career of conspicuous consumption at his fabulous estate. In the outline of his loves and hates, his ambitions and insecurities, his pride and his shame, the picture limns as conclusive a portrait of a man as the movies ever have presented, and does it in a sharp and natural style that is endlessly stimulating to watch. The dialogue flows and overlaps, the camera's eye intrudes, glances, stares, and wanders through sets that are realistic, but which are given an impressionistic focus by the angle of shooting. The acting by Welles, Joseph Cotten, Everett Sloane, Paul Stewart, Dorothy Comingore, Ruth Warrick and a host of lesser but no less illuminating lights is exciting and provocative, and Welles has utilized their talents and the benefits of his script, as well as his own considerable abilities in a fashion that marked the film as being fifteen years ahead of its time. That means, of course, that now is the time to see it . . . and see it to the end, when the meaning of the tycoons' last word, "rosebud," is explained. It remains, for me, one of the most ironic endings ever filmed, and one of the most satisfying.

"In Old Chicago." (2) Jan. 4, 10:00, 1942. A period epic starring Tyrone Power, Don Ameche and Alice Faye in the story of a single family against the background of Chicago, its growth and destruction in the great fire. Big, brawling and frequently entertaining.

"Edge of Darkness." (5) Jan. 5, 7:30. 1944. Another filmic tribute to the courage of occupied Norway, this one relating

BETTY has a little pot.

You may now come down from off the filing cabinets Olga. The office Christmas party is over.

Saturday is Chili Day in Ol' L.A. —and for the best explanation of WHY this should be so we recently offered a prize—a trainload of our delicious KoldKist Fresh Frozen Chili —with the winner keeping the train, a toy electric train by Revell.

Well, we have a winner. We also have a lot of non-winners, naturally, but in a way everybody wins because Kindly Ed Jarvis, head man at KoldKist, said "Let's give a pound package of KoldKist Chili to everybody who entered the contest."

So, now in the mail are several hundreds of coupons, each good for a pound package of KoldKist Chili. If you entered the contest you'll get a coupon in the mail. When you go to market lift a pack of KoldKist Chili out of that frosty bin. When you get to the check stand your coupon pays for the chili.

So—this Saturday we hope that hundreds of you will have a chili lunch on the house. At 12 noon serve the chili, please observe 15 seconds silence while facing east, in the direction of the KoldKist factory.

It's very fine chili. Just thaw, heat, eat.

THE WINNER of the contest, and the trainload of chili, and the train, is Betty Small. She owns a second hand store in Carlsbad. Her letter begins "Dear Fred, I have a little pot."

It seems that Betty heats the chili con carne, in her little pot, in the back of the store. Uses an electric plate. Each Saturday noon—KoldKist Chili. Customers sniff the wonderful fragrance and now the store is jammed every Saturday. Saturday is also Chili Day in Carlsbad.

So many friends and customers drop in for Saturday Chili that Betty says "I'm getting a larger pot."

You too will enjoy our chili and the 10 other famous KoldKist Fresh Frozen Cooked Foods and Meat Products.

WATCH FOR LOVELY MARY COSTA to make a movie with Maurice Chevalier in the not too far distant future. What a charming team they'll make! You may think Mary's pretty on the CBS screen, but in real life she's even lovelier with that creamy complexion . . . In a recent column my remark likening a new singer to Donald Novis brought a letter from Bud Coulson at Disneyland to remind that Novis has been singing at the Golden Horseshoe at the Park and that everyone thinks his voice is just as fine as ever . . . People in the trade are still talking about what a flop Twelfth Night was on TV. Jack McElroy played Santa and conducted the drawings for prizes at Hollywood Ad Club's Christmas luncheon. CBS-Radio gave several nice prizes — especially radios and FM adapters which bring in this type of radio reception from your TV set. Jack took glee in pointing out what a sneaky present for a radio station to give! (All a rib, of course!)

AMERICAN RESEARCH BUREAU has announced ARBITRON, "an electronic research aid that records instantly on a central board the number of TV sets turned on at any given time and the channels to which they are turned." Device has been undergoing tests in New York for the past three weeks and starts operating there Jan. 1. Sample is 300 homes equipped with an electronic sending unit attached to the TV set. Each unit connects by direct wire to ARBITRON headquarters. A tone signal, either automatic or manual, sent out from here, activates the home devices which can return their own signal telling whether the set is on and if so, to which channel it is tuned. A computer absorbs all the signals and after interpreting them, flashes results on an Auto Board and also enters them through a machine similar to a teletype.

ARBITRON WILL START operating in L.A. March 1. ARB foots all costs. Presently the "perfect sample" is being chosen for this area which comprises L.A. and Orange counties. The Auto Board is to be installed in the Lawyers' Building in Hollywood. Here anxious TV executives may assemble to keep track of their program's progress (or regress). What nail-biting will go on!

The youths stopped at the Solemint General Store in Saugus to inquire the address of Roy Rogers when they were told that Stone lived nearby. LETTER OF THE WEEK

A.H., South Pasadena

A new TV season — much of it has already been discussed in the public prints — but nowhere have I seen a reference to the fact that NBC continues to give us most of its programs in such messy kinescopes that we have to choose between such eyestrain as causes headaches, some other station or else fall back on the public library which last Spring replaced most of the television entertainment offered to the Los Angeles district.

Two years ago we read explanations of these NBC kinnies attributing the trouble to general studio and engineering disorganization due to a crash program of color pictures. But the kinnies get less viewable as the months go by and to watch Kraft Theatre or any other of the old favorites (they never were very good kinnies but lately they're AWFUL) which are black and white recordings of color films — well, it's simply asking too much. Either NBC (and ABC is nearly as bad) should make all their important programs on film or else they should get help from CBS which gives delayed programs in recordings that are almost as good as the live shows.

I don't know, haven't even met, anyone who owns a color TV but everyone I know complains of the horrible, smeary, faceless messes that NBC (and ABC) serves to us. Compare Wide, Wide World as it comes to us live for a while with the kinnie version that soon replaced the live show. It is only one of the many fine programs that NBC think of as not worth bothering about for Pacific Coast viewers. And, even now, switch from Sullivan's beautifully reproduced show to the competing Steve Allen show which looks as if it has been photographed through ground glass on 8mm film by an amateur. I have tried watching from three widely separated locations and the results are the same.

If you can't start a campaign to alter these conditions then we, the viewers, will have to start writing to the sponsors who foot the bill for these kinnie atrocities.

A curious "Romper Roomer" was squatted by the camera busily screwing the brake on.

Seven Lively Arts Termed 'Good Viewing'

By BILL WEBER

Sunday, 5 pm.,
 KNXT, Ch. 2

Regardless of how lively the seven arts may come across in this new hour program, the fact remains that there is interest in this program if for no other reason that it is an attempt to bring artistry before the television public. It is always enjoyable, a sort of spree to witness a program not formulated according to the patterns prevalent in the cliches of television production.

In short, Seven Lively Arts is not geared down to the lowest common denominator. And that in itself is well worth comment. You may not enjoy all these programs, but if hungry for substantial fare, you will find them stimulating and well worth while.

With television critic John Crosby as host, commentator and general handyman, the series cuts a wide swath in drama, music, dance, biography, documentaries, and, in fact, just about anything that comes under the heading of art, entertainment, and social commentary... a sort of 20th century culture grab-bag.

The question of how successfully live television projects at least one of the arts arose with the recent production of Tchaikowsky's "Nutteracker Suite", as performed by the New York City Ballet with Maria Tallchief and Andre Eglevsky as the stars.

The amateur photographer soon learns that no matter how appealing some vistas are to the eye, they fail to come across when photographed. Although an audience in a theater may sit spell-bound watching a ballet, the same ballet becomes static when subjected to television cameras. And, that, of course, is where the art of the motion picture comes in.

For the mere recording of action on film or through a television camera does not necessarily mean action in a photographic sense.

Live television in photographing a ballet lacks the dramatic mobility possible on the motion picture film. In being limited to merely photographing the dancers in action, the television camera is unable to give the viewer close-ups and is more or less limited to a static range of photographing the action in its entirety. And though the naked eye will accept such things in the theater, on the television screen the viewing becomes tedious.

Also lacking is the art of the film cutter which added to the art of the motion picture camera builds the rhythm and tempo of a scene to the climactic point. The live television camera gives the impression of an artistic incompatibility with the dance, that it is presenting the subject matter in only one dimension of flatness. And though the dancers are themselves attractive, there is the feeling of a lack of completeness.

Another aspect limiting ballet on television is perhaps the size of the small screen and its inability to satisfactorily handle large groups in action as required in ballet numbers.

Transportation of dance to motion picture has always been a difficult feat, for in the transference to another medium the essential quality somehow becomes lost. And other than the Gene Kelly motion picture of a few years ago presenting three dances, little has been done in tackling the difficult task.

But as I have said, whether or not you will find every program of Seven Lively Arts of the same interest, this is one of the few television shows offering the best in carriage-trade entertainment.

GREEK TO HER

Dayle Rodney, who has just been signed for a lead as a typical American girl in Sky King teleseries by Producer Dorrel McGowan, has made a reputation for herself as an excellent dialectician. Thus far in her television career, the titan haired Greek beauty has portrayed a French spy, a Brooklyn shop girl, a Mexican girl, a British ingenue, and an Ozark mountain girl, and a Russian Countess.

Dayle, who speaks Greek flawlessly, has never yet been called on to play a character with a Greek dialect. As she puts it, "I guess I just don't look the part."

JOHNNY GRANT

Johnny Grant, the young man from Goldboro, N.C. who spent another Christmas entertaining troops overseas, went West and made good in Hollywood. Johnny is accredited with making the greatest single contribution by any member of the entertainment industry to the welfare and morale of United Nations Armed Forces at home and abroad.

Eleven trips to the Far East — on his second to Europe — three to Alaska and one to the Carribean, as well as more than 700 to Camps, Posts and Stations in the Continental USA. This is Johnny Grant's hobby — entertaining members of the Armed Forces.

In Hollywood he is the top rated disc jockey on KMPC. He spins records, preaches Americanism, promotes safety, and helps the youth of the vast metropolis of Los Angeles in their various projects.

At night he usually can be found doing a benefit — for a charity, for a group of youngsters trying to raise funds for a recreation center, or for a friend who needs the Grant touch to launch a new business enterprise successfully. Recognition has come from nearly every civic and fraternal organization of the Nation, as well as from the Military and Department of Defense.

This is Bob Hope's protege, Johnny Grant, the young man who insists that the need for entertainment for men and women of the Armed Forces is certainly as great in Peace time as in War. The young man who is doing the thing closest to his heart — assuring our fine youngsters in the Military that they are not forgotten.

- cause he was too drunk; a woman with Illinois license plates who ignored three California traffic citations, thinking they would never find her; school bus driver cited for speeding while driving children to a Rose Bowl game; a woman and her daughter arraigned for double parking while they ate popsicles; and a man who came to court to clear himself of a traffic citation and thereby avoided a divorce.

SKIPPER FRANK'S SCAM-O-GRAM

Hi!

It is always a good idea to at least once a year stop and evaluate the happenings of the past twelve months. This being the start of a new year, I thought we might look at the growth of "Cartoon Carousel" during 1957.

1957 saw the start of a new facet of our show, the organization of the Cartoon Carousel Club. Our club now has over 10,000 members and is still growing. The first club outing, the tour of the Los Angeles Harbor from Pierpoint Landing, was a huge success.

The past year has also been a year for contests. Over $11,000.00 in prizes have been given out during 1957. This has included everything from Johnny Jeeps to Encyclopedia Americanas.

It also has been a year for personal appearances. It has been my pleasure to make over 200 appearances at markets, store openings, sand storms and what have you. In this way, I have been able to meet in person many of the faithful fans who watch "Cartoon Carousel" every afternoon on Channel 5.

If I were to list the highlights of the year, I would have to include being Ringmaster at the opening of Ringling Brothers, Barnum & Baily Circus, a dream of mine since childhood. Skipper Frank night at the Ice Follies is also an event I won't soon forget. Add to this the many parades, benefits and remote telecasts and it stacks up as an eventful year.

But even more important are the cards and letters you have sent commenting on the program. This is the only way we can be sure that you are getting the type of show you want. We are happy that you have supported our show as you have, and hope that this support will continue.

Many new and exciting surprises are in store for all of us in 1958. There will be more club trips, more contests with fantastic prizes, and more personal appearances. I hope you will help us enjoy them.

Sincerely,

SKIPPER FRANK

BED-CRASH SPOILS SCENE

Spoiling scenes is a costly proposition in film production. However, in spite of all efforts, things do happen that will spoil a scene. During the filming of a scene for Cheyenne, three extras were sitting on a bed set adjacent to the Cheyenne shooting. Photographer Russ Myers, taking production shots of the company, decided to take a brief rest and sat down with them. The bed crashed down noisily and the director had to order a retake.

Just a diet is not enough to lose weight and get that figure in shape. For the benefit of the ladies—and the men—curvaceous Kathy Smith of KNXT proves that

It Takes WORK to Lose Weight

ANOTHER EXERCISE to strengthen those stomach muscles, and literally round-out a perfect figure — simultaneously raising the legs and head.

HERE THE 19-YEAR OLD MODEL and actress demonstrates some "crossovers." "All of these exercises," Miss Smith explains, "during the first week should be done for three days in three sets of 10 each. Then, increase each exercise 5 times each week — until you reach your own particular maximum."

WITH PANORAMA PACIFIC'S HOSTESS Helen Parrish helping out, Kathy demonstrates some deep-knee bends. Now that you know the principles, it just takes some application — and then you too can have a 38-23-36 figure like Miss Smith's — or a reasonable facsimile.

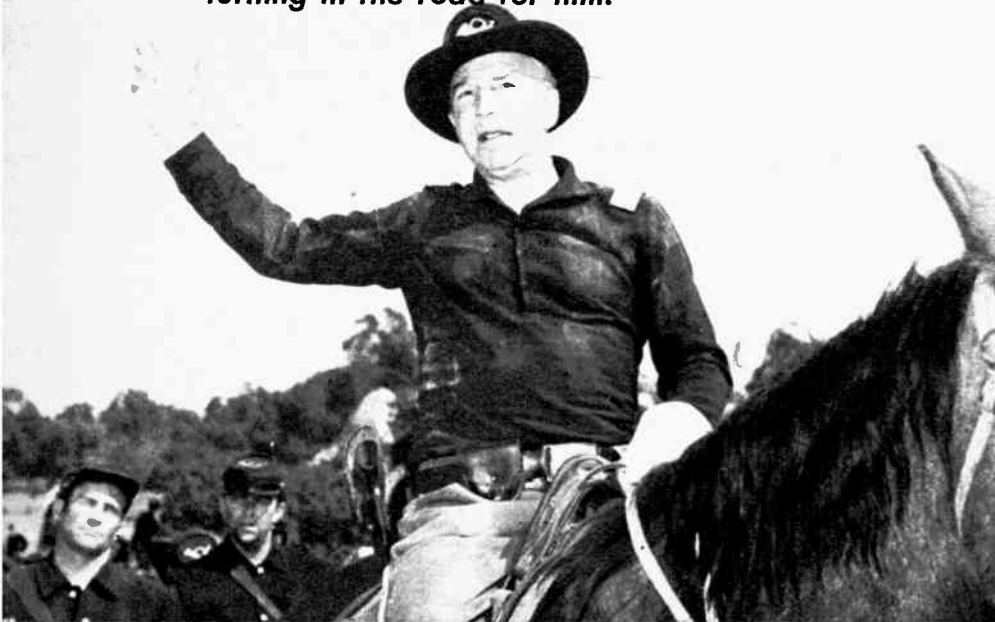

WANNA REDUCE LADIES? Kathy Smith, who leads the exercise department every Friday on KNKT's Panorama Pacific, shows us how. First, some side-bends.

NEXT, SOME LEG-RAISERS. "This helps to tighten the abdominal muscles," pretty Kathy explains.

What He Can't Forget

Lloyd Nolan, one of our finest actors, recalls some memorable moments that marked a turning in the road for him.

LLOYD NOLAN as he appeared in Screen Gems-Playhouse 90's "Galvanized Yankee." He is soon to be seen in his own TV series.

By Jon Bruce

LLOYD NOLAN was just starting on the long, rough road as an actor. He had done several plays before but nothing spectacular and now he found himself in a show called "One Sunday Afternoon."

Nobody paid much attention to it. It was to open at Winthrop Ames' small private theatre off Broadway because no other theatres were available. Another big production was to open the same night so the second-string critics were the only ones on hand to see Lloyd's show. To push the effort into even more oblivion, it opened on the night after FDR narrowly missed being assassinated and the night that Mayor Cermak was killed. Consequently, few read the reviews of the play.

But that opening was a memorable evening. The reception was so tumultuous that the audience stood up on the final curtain and literally walked down the aisles towards the stage. A hit had been born — and it was one of the most significant moments in the life of one of this country's most brilliant actors.

"This was a springboard to my career," Lloyd recalled, "and a real turning point. Prior to this I was doing 'Reunion in Vienna' with the Lunts, but I had been miscast and I knew it. As a result, I couldn't get across the comedy in the lines as the author intended. I was finally told I was to be replaced but after several auditions the Lunts decided to keep me in the play.

"However, I had to leave the show for a couple of weeks. I got into a fight and had two eyes blackened. After being away a week I went to the play and saw my understudy playing the role. He was getting all the laughs I should have been getting. I can assure you I hurried back to the cast.

"When 'One Sunday Afternoon' opened, Lynn Fontanne came back to see me. She was completely surprised by my performance in the show. Her kind words to me made me feel as though I had really arrived. Miss Fontanne is a fine actress and a fine critic. She had been very annoyed with me during 'Reunion' because I had managed to acquire three black eyes in a period of a month."

Another opening night in New York marked a turning point for Lloyd. He had undergone a period of comparative inactivity. The roles he had been getting were certainly not worthy of his talent. He was languishing in a rut. And then came "The Caine Mutiny Court Martial."

"We went into New York on the heels of fine advance out-of-town notices," Lloyd said, "but we knew that because of the animosity between east and west we'd have to be darned good or we'd get the axe. Our company was primarily a west coast company, you see. Well, after the first ten minutes opening night we knew we were in. This play helped to bring me new opportunities — and it was about time."

Since then, Lloyd has appeared in several major motion pictures, notably "Hatful of Rain" and "Peyton Place."

He recently appeared in Playhouse 90's "Galvanized Yankee" too, filmed by Screen Gems, one of his few TV efforts of late. He has done little TV recently but a few years ago he was featured regularly as Martin Kane in the TV series.

He is now currently at work on preparation for another new TV series, based on the Department of Internal Revenue. The show has had the official blessing of the Treasury Department, and such blessings are not easily come by. When asked why he'd want to take on a series, Lloyd grinned, "Residuals, of course. It's the only way an actor can save any money!"

As an actor of very special standing, Lloyd has given consideration to the fate of younger actors just starting out. Where can they learn to act? In TV, with its demand for expert performances done in a hurry? In movies where there is need for the best trained performers? Can a young person learn his craft here?

"There is a sense of performing and of tempo in live TV," Lloyd reasoned. "It's a little like stock. And while I don't like live TV at all, it does separate the men from the boys.

"However, to be realistic, it demands a lot that most young people with little training can give. I found out about its demands especially when we did 'Caine Mutiny Court Martial' on TV. I had done the role about 800 times but several cuts were made which were confusing. Plus the terrific responsibility you feel to all those millions of viewers. It was a harrowing experience in many ways.

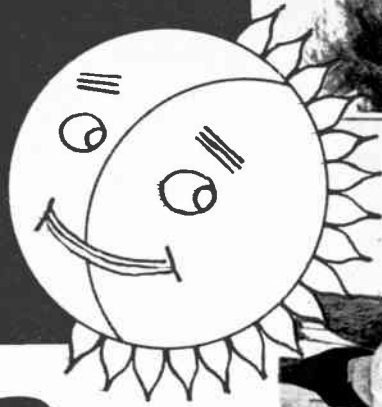

"I think any young person, though, if he has talent will get his chance. If he gets in the movies he can get by with a little less talent if he has a personality that clicks. But that personality must really be a potent one.

"Talent, though, is still the best recommendation. You can't hide that behind a screen."

That is something Lloyd has always had plenty of.

Lloyd, off-screen, is the devoted father to Melinda, 16, and Jay, 14. He and his wife and children live in Brentwood — and have for the past 19 years. So far it doesn't look as though either Jay or Melinda will go in for acting.

KNX Radio's overnight man Mel Baldwin, has an almost ideal set-up. He works all night and reserves

The Day for Play

by Dave Vowell

IT TAKES a lot out of a man to do nothing all day long, but I'm getting used to it," said the tall, thin man from Tillamook — that's where the cheese comes from. "Ever since I started 'Music 'til Dawn' on KNX Radio, I've sort of been out of step with the world," Mel Baldwin continued, "and by that I mean, that while other guys are getting up and going out to work in the morning I'm at home having a late breakfast with my wife, Lillian, and seeing my two children off to school. But the heck of it is, I'm still at home in the evening when the neighbors come back from work! They must think I never work."

But of course Mel does. He's been handling KNX Radio's over night 'Music 'til Dawn' stint since 1951 and he hasn't missed a day—or rather a night—in all that time. Mel leaves home around 10:30 in the evening to arrive at the downtown Hollywood studios in plenty of time to go on the air at 11:30. He turns the station over to the morning man at 5:30 a.m.

After putting in a good night's work, Mel heads home for breakfast. He eats breakfast two times a day: when he comes home in the morning and when he gets up in the afternoon. He has his biggest meal in the evening with his family, then takes another nap before heading for Hollywood and work. "Before my children started going to school," Mel reports, "I would have breakfast on the way home—that way Lillian wouldn't have to get up at such an ungodly hour, but now I head on home and have breakfast with Carol and Bruce and send them off to school. Then I have the rest of the day to spend with the woman of the house."

Because he has his days free—and being of a creative turn of mind—Mel has been able to get quite a bit of writing done. "I started in writing," he explains, "when I was hungry for money to support my growing family, but now," Mel grins, "my old enemy lethargy has got up with me. I just sit around the house and work in the yard. You should see my pool! I've put in flagstones and trees and shrubs and all that jazz. The place is a veritable paradise. And, if I may say so," said Mel with mock pride, "I did it all myself."

Speaking of his writing, Mel described his initial efforts in terms of necessity and his subsequent work as a hobby. "It always seems that when I get a good idea I'm either sitting down or doing something else and I say to myself that it can wait until tomorrow. I've got a brief case full of completed scripts but, and this sounds funny, I can't seem to find the time to take them around and try to sell them. I'd rather stay around home with Lillian and the children."

Before coming to Los Angeles in 1951, Mel worked and lived in Tillamook, Oregon, where he was manager of radio station KTLI. A great admirer of Steve Allen, who was then KNX Radio's all-night man, Mel sent Steve some samples of Tillamook cheese as a joke. When Mel came to L.A. on a visit shortly afterwards and looked Steve up a friendship resulted. About a year later, Mel sent an audition record to KNX and he was signed immediately. Since then Mel has been the maestro for the popular Music 'til Dawn show and has made quite a name for himself. "And," family man Mel adds, "the hours are terrific! I may be out of step with the world, but I'm right in step at home."

IT'S NICE TO HAVE A MAN around the house," says Mrs. Baldwin, and Mel is, all day. When other men are going to work, Mel is getting home and settling down for a pool side brunch with daughter Carol, wife Lillian and son Bruce.

A MAN HAS GOT TO DO SOMETHING to while away the time and Mel's investment in an old Model T has resulted in many pleasant hours of tinkering. Sidewalk engineers Carol and Bruce supervise the job.

WORK OR PLAY? Actually, it's a combination of both as Mel and son Bruce "collaborate" on an award winning script that will more than likely find a resting place in the brief case along with his other scripts.

Gloria Winters is a beautiful girl loaded with talent but she emphatically declares

I'll Never Be a Glamour Girl

DOGS AND DUCKS LOVE GLORIA WINTERS; and vice-versa. But when it comes to wolves—Hollywood style—it's a different story for the femme star of Channel 7's Sky King series.

IN MANY WAYS Gloria Winters, who plays Penny King in KABC-TV's Sky King series, is a typical Hollywood actress. In other ways, she's not-so-typical. Here's why.

First, she's different. On the set, when you first meet her, you notice that she's friendly and talkative with the crew at the McGowan Studios, where her popular TV series is filmed. "A lot of actresses I know hardly take time to get to know the people they work with," Gloria explains.

"I have some advantage because I do this show week after week and therefore get to know the crew better. While for the most part, other actresses are only on the set for a few days doing one particular show. I don't go out of my way to strike up a friendship with the stagehands, cameramen, and others.

Ever since I started as a child actress in Hollywood (Gloria began her career at the age of two appearing with Janet Gaynor and Charles Farrell in "Change of Heart") the people at the studio have always treated me like a daughter. I, in turn, have always had a genuine interest in their personal lives."

On camera, Hollywood-born Gloria is a lovely blonde, with a winsome figure and a pretty smile. Although she is only in her early 20's, she's been in every facet of show business (movies, night clubs, army show tours, and now TV) and has undeniable talent as both an actress and a singer. But in her own words, she says, "I'll never be a glamour girl. I'm just not the type. I don't like to put on an act for the big wheels—which I suppose every glamour girl must do at one time or another. I've always been a 'little girl', she smiles, blushing slightly. "And I suppose I'll never change. I don't think I really want to change."

Big Girl — Big Business

While young Gloria may prefer to be a 'little girl' in her private life, she's certainly a "big girl" when it comes to business. She not only makes good money for the steady role in the KABC-TV series, but she also adds to her income with personal appearances and merchandizing schemes. "I have some special Penny King dresses, which I designed myself, which will be on the market shortly," she explains. As an added business venture, she also invests in stocks and bonds. "Even if my show business activities should suddenly collapse, I think I could always get a job in the publishing world. A girl these days, needs this sense of security."

As if her acting talent weren't enough, Penny is also an accomplished singer. "Actually, that's my big ambition. With my present TV schedule, I don't have the time to devote to singing, but someday I would like to prove myself as a vocalist. I've been singing all my life on personal appearances, and even appeared in Las Vegas with my own act, but I still haven't had that 'one record,' yet. However," she added confidently, "some companies are interested in some records of mine, and maybe the day when I'll be successful in this field is not too far off."

Personal Life

In her private life, Gloria is single and lives with her mother in a modest Hollywood home. She says she has a steady boyfriend, but has no intentions of marrying in the near future "because my career would conflict right now with my home life."

Ordinarily, Gloria would be a great target for the typical Hollywood wolf on the lookout for a pretty girl with a big name and a sizeable income. But on this subject, the vivacious blonde merely laughs and declares "they don't even know I exist."

Occasionally, while making p.a.'s for the Sky King series, Gloria does have an occasional run-in with the opposite sex.

"Just recently, for example, while I was at a local market a young red-headed young man came directly up to me and said:

"Miss Winters I've always enjoyed you on TV. And I like you very much. Could I have your telephone number?"

"I was startled at first," Gloria explained, "and the only thing I could ask him was what did he want it for?"

"Oh. I just want to talk to you, that's all," the redhead answered.

"He was so pleasant and so cute," Gloria continued, starting to smile slightly, "that I gave him the number."

Wasn't this a rather bold move?

"Not really," Miss Winters concludes. "You see, the redheaded young man was only five years old!"

Despite many imitators in the past few years, Jack Douglas is still King in the Adventure field. However, he has his problems because he's found

It's Tough to Be On Top

AS THE PRODUCER AND HOST of his adventure shows on Channel 13, Jack Douglas (right) believes he should concentrate not on himself but on the person having the adventure — such as Clifford Kamen and his trip to Chile.

AT THE TIME of this writing, Jack Douglas with his I Search For Adventure show on KCOP had the top-rating for the Los Angeles area. Oddly enough, the man who pioneered adventure shows on TV was grateful—but still not too happy about it.

"When you're number one, the only place you can go is down," the dark-haired producer moaned sitting in his luxurious office on the Sunset Strip.

In addition to acting as host on Bold Journey and Channel 13's Golden Voyage, Douglas puts in a full day at his office working diligently from 9 to 6. He also spends many a weekend looking at adventure films sent to him from people all over the world. It was about four o'clock when we visited Jack and he was in a question and answer mood. Known for years as one of Hollywood's most outspoken producers, we fired some dandies at Douglas and here are the opinions he expressed.

On the subject of Lowell Thomas' new adventure series—Douglas was not impressed. "The most glaring deficiency in the program is the fact that it is over-dramatized," Douglas explained. "It might be all right as a full-length documentary feature for the motion picture theaters—but not for TV. When you do adventure shows for TV, you have to make them realistic and true-to-life. As a Johnny-come-lately in the adventure field on TV, Thomas, so far, has been a disappointment to me."

Kids Don't Dig Douglas

On the subject of disappointments, Douglas had another one he wanted to get off his chest. "The biggest personal disappointment I have had with 'Search' is the small percentage of children who watch the program. Four years ago, when I started I Search for Adventure I thought I had a show which would attract the children. Do you know that now between 90 and 92 per cent of our audience is adults? I've tried everything to have the kids watch. I mean it when I say that our program is meant for 'ladies and gentlemen, boys and girls.' I think the two basic reasons we are not getting the kids to watch are because we are competing against too many children shows at that hour and because on TV the children want to withdraw from the world of realism.

"I'm vitally concerned with kids and their viewing habits because I have two of my own. And I still think adventure shows can be made entertaining as well as educational. But, as yet, I just haven't found the right formula," Jack said.

Altogether Douglas has four adventure series on the air: 'Search' and Golden Voyage on KCOP, Bold Journey on the ABC-TV network; and Kingdom of the Sea, also on Channel 13, which Jack created and later sold.

Jack's latest venture is a show called Seven League Boots—another adventure series. Only this time, instead of buying films from other adventurers, Jack has his own camera crew in the field.

Some Travel Tips

Despite these world-wide activities, Douglas himself is strictly a stay-at-home. "If I were going to do some traveling though, I'll tell you where I'd go. First, to the Scandinavian countries—Finland, Sweden, Norway and Denmark. Why? Because the scenery is great and the American dollar can go much farther in these countries. Besides, they like Americans there—and that always helps.

"Northern and Southern France also have a great appeal for me. As far as the non-European trips are concerned, I think Australia would be ideal. The living conditions are similar to ours; there's a lot to see; and once again they are favorable to Americans."

When Douglas travels, he himself seldom takes a camera. As a matter of fact, in four years of doing countless adventure films on TV, Douglas has been only responsible for a short film sequence used on Kingdom of the Sea once. It's still causes a big laugh everytime Jack and his staff discuss the matter.

Douglas, of course, is primarily an idea-man and a producer. Although he performs before the camera on all of his shows, he does not consider himself a personality as such. "My easiest days are when I know I'm going to do a show. To me, it's the simplest part of my job. I suppose that's because my main purpose on TV is to focus attention on someone else—rather than myself," he comments.

In private life as on TV, Jack leaves the adventure to other men. "I like comfort and clean water, too much," he smiles. "I want no part of the swamps. And when I take a ride down a river, I don't want any crocodiles in my path."

The only kind of crocodiles that Douglas doesn't mind are the ones on the Rivers of the World at Disneyland in Anaheim. "I take the kids to Disneyland once every four weeks. And except for a trip to Catalina, that's the farthest I've traveled since I started on KCOP," the king of adventure concludes.

Which all goes to prove that you don't have to travel far—to still conquer, control, and enjoy your own little world.
