CHRISTMAS 1958

NORTHERN MESSENGER

The oldest continuous CBC program enters its second quarter century December 19 with its 26th annual marathon of Christmas messages

WHAT WOULD CHRISTMAS be without cheery greetings from friends and relatives? Most of us take these greetings for granted, simply trusting the mailman to deliver them daily during the Christmas season. But Yuletide greetings to the inhabitants of Canada's vast northland have another meaning—the CBC Northern Messenger.

Again this year on the Friday night before Christmas (December 19), the Northern Messenger will go on the air fifteen minutes after midnight CST (11:15 p.m. in Saskatchewan and Alberta) and stay on the air until all the messages have been read. This year the Northern Messenger begins its second quarter century on the air. It is the oldest continuous radio program heard anywhere in Canada. There will be hundreds of happy greetings from people all over the world—from Bethlehem, from France, from England and Scotland, from the United States, from Holland—to their loved ones in the 250,000 square miles of Canada's north. They come in many lan- (Please turn to page 35)

THE complete resources of radio will be brought into use once again this week, to lend richer enjoyment and deeper meaning to the Christmas celebrations taking place in millions of Canadian homes. Often great gaps of distance and time will be bridged as the Christmas microphone roams over the globe and through history in search of anything and everything that might enhance our festivities.

Always a highlight on Christmas morning is the BBC's world-ranging broadcast, to be presented this year for the 26th time. Concerning the 1958 Christmas Commonwealth program, the BBC weekly London Calling says:

"The Queen's broadcast will be preceded by the traditional feature that links the countries of the Commonwealth. The title of this year's program is The Seekers and its theme is the famous line from Tennyson's Ulysses—"To strive, to seek, to find, and not to yield"—the words that appear on the great cross erected to the memory of Captain Scott in the Antarctic. The program is a Christmas celebration of the seekers of new lands, the finders of new knowledge, and the pioneers of the Commonwealth, and it has been written by the Irish author and poet H. A. L. Craig.

"There is strong link between the great Antarctic explorers, most of whom have been moved and inspired by the 'text' of this year's Christmas program, and the builders of the British Commonwealth, and although the program will recognize more than geographical exploration, the Tennysonian line will be an appropriate one for the men and women who will be heard—the strivers, the seekers, the finders, and the undefeated people of the British Commonwealth of Nations.

"The Seekers will be narrated by the Australian actor Peter Finch. The hour preceding the Sovereign's message will begin with a 15-minute prologue of interlinking words and music on the theme of pioneers, past and present, in all realms of thought and endeavour.

Westerns

• Dear Producer i/c Westerns—Stranger, I reckon there ain't room enough in my living room for your shows and me both—that's if I'm fixin' to keep from goin' plumb loco. So I'm aimin' to make a deal with you. How's about you running all them shows, one after t'other, on one night of the week, steady right from nightfall to sun-up. You could call this "Western Night" and all the folks whose tongues hang out at the sight of shootin' irons, marshals, rustlers, etc., could have their fill in one long sittin'. Then us folks who have a hankerin' for real good shows like Close-Up, Explorations, etc., could catch up on our rug-hookin', crotch-etin' and taffee pullin' on Western Night (with our sets off). We'd know that we had a chance of seein' our shows on other nights without havin' them sandwiched in between gun fights and stampedin' cattle that fill our livin' rooms full of smoke, dust and noise. The way we figure it, we don't need a heap of old-time Westerns to make happy livin' in the West. And if you can't do somethin' about it, stranger, I'm loadin' up my wagon with my wife and younguns and a-headin' back to Philadelphia. Another idea you folks might think about is this: since the plot in all these Westerns is always the same, why not get them film-splicin' boys of yours to work in all the heros (Bat, Wyatt, Dillon, etc.) into one hour-long show each week. You could have six of them (three marshals and three varmints) shootin' it out on the main street and you'd have them Western viewers tongues hangin' out twice as far.—G. M. M., St. James.

Swedish Music

• Congratulations are due to the CBC Symphony for expanding its repertoire to include Swedish Music. Can we hope Rosenberg's Symphony No. 3 will be followed by one of Gosta Nystroem's fine works? The only complaint I have to offer is with John Beckwith's spelled pronunciation of Rosenberg's name. Surely no self-respecting Swede has given him "Rosenbay!" As it is impossible to write the proper Swedish enunciation of this name with English letters (and equally impossible for most people here to pronounce it), why not refrain from the temptation to be arty and just say Rosenberg, as we do Lindberg?—I. L., Balmoral, Man.

* * *

Annie Laurie

• It is impossible to believe that

From Our Mail Bag

Readers' comments are welcomed. Write: "Mail Bag," CBC Times, Box 160, Winnipeg.

a Winnipeg program would give out the information (as it did this afternoon) that the song Annie Laurie was written by "Bobbie Burns." In the first place, only Americans refer to Robert Burns as "Bobbie"; those who know better call him "Robbie." In the second place, Annie Laurie is an old Scottish ballad written in 1700 by William Douglas and said to have been addressed to the daughter of Sir Robert Laurie. Anyway your program was very enjoyable. One can usually count on a good musical treat from Winnipeg.—Mrs. G. M. L., White Rock, B.C.

Good Music

• This is a vote of thanks and appreciation for your programming of better music on CBX; especially do I like to get started off to work in a good frame of mind after tuning in your concert selections at breakfast time. The choice is excellent. We also like J. Frank Willis' frankness, and appreciate Rawhide's keen sense of commonsense. Naturally it gets a bit thick or thin occasionally, but who doesn't? We have a lot of CBC to be thankful for in Canada. I'm not a yes man, but I'm glad we don't have to depend entirely on those whangity-bang, yikkity-yak, rock 'n' roll radio stations with their rocket commercials.—A. K., Irma, Alta.

* * *

Court of Opinion

• CBW is the only station we listen to; it's become part of our everyday education, and I'm sorry to have to write in a complaint, but here it is: What has happened to the rebroadcast Friday mornings of Court of Opinion? I'm all for the University of the Air series, but Thursday mornings we hear Speaker's Choice, and Friday mornings was a pleasant change. I've always enjoyed the topics discussed on Court of Opinion and miss it very much. Is it available at any other time, or on any other station? The 7:45 to 8:00 a.m. live music is very good too; we enjoy

Dirk Keetbaas and Lucio Agostini, and thank you for Helmut Blume on Explorations. It was wonderful! Keep up the high quality please on CBW and CBWT.—Mrs. M. T., St. Vital, Man.

"Court of Opinion" will be carried again after the "University of the Air" rebroadcasts are finished. In the meantime, it can be heard Thursday nights on some Dominion Network stations.

"Times" Devotee

• While asking for this trio of matters (three gift subscriptions) to be attended to, may I send you the most sincere congratulations. In my opinion the CBC Times in its new form is extremely interesting as well as useful, and is a most impressive improvement over any earlier efforts to portray the schedules. It is good reading from cover to cover and already is firmly entrenched as a "must" in our household.—J. S. P., Calgary.

* * *

Canadian TV

• After returning from the U.S.A., where we had watched American television for one week, I have only one comment: Thank God for the CBC! We have always enjoyed the CBC programs on both radio and television, but never did we realize just how much. We hope that you continue to maintain Canadian television as distinctly Canadian.—Mrs. H. R., Winnipeg.

* * *

U.S. Listeners

• While studying this evening one of us happened to tune in your station. We recognized almost at once that it was not a U.S. station. We hope again to be able to find your station on our radios and to be able to enjoy your fine programs.—Kathryn Fischer, Jo Ann Ahrens, and Bette Peltola, Comstock Hall, University of Minnesota.

* * *

Roundtable

• Just a line on behalf of my wife and myself to say sincere congratulations and a great big "thank you" for the delightfully interesting and pleasing program put on last week by Mr. Jimmy Wilson and those eight charming, intelligent young ladies from two of our high schools. The girls were natural, normal, and so sensible. It will be interesting to see if you can arrange a similar evening with boys expressing opinions. Thank you and good luck to CBC.—C. E. G., Winnipeg.

The Queen's Message

The annual Christmas Day message by Her Majesty the Queen to the peoples of the Commonwealth will be broadcast on the CBC Trans-Canada and Dominion Radio Networks and on CBC-TV at the following times:

Manitoba—9:00 a.m.

Saskatchewan and Alberta—8:00 a.m.

It will be rebroadcast Christmas Night on the Trans-Canada Radio Network at the following times:

CBW—9:10 p.m.

CBK and CBX—8:10 p.m.

The tradition of a radio broadcast by the Sovereign at Christmas started in 1932 with an address by King George V. Since that occasion there have been only two years in which there was no message: 1936, the year of the Abdication; and 1939, when King George VI toured Canada.

H.M. the Queen

The music has been specially written by William Alwyn, a leading British composer, and will be conducted by Muir Mathieson; the words, again by Craig, who has collaborated closely with Alwyn in producing what will be a unique prelude, will be spoken by Peter Finch."

H. A. L. Craig was born at Drumtarriffe, County Cork, "the son of a Church of Ireland parson with twelve parishioners." He was educated at Kilkenny College (the school of Swift, Sheridan, and Congreve) and at Trinity College, Dublin.

He began writing as a schoolboy with plays for local amateurs, and verse, some of which was published as a volume shortly after he had left school. At eighteen, he compiled an anthology of Anglo-Irish verse, which was accepted by a publisher who died before it could be printed, and it has never yet appeared to enrich a bookshelf. He has always lived by his writing, which has included verse, dramatic and film criticism, and books on subjects ranging from poker to Ben Jonson's "Discoveries," and has avoided any form of regular employment, on the grounds that since writing is so painful to him, security would too easily persuade him to give it up.

In Rome four years ago Craig married Peggy Erskine, an American lecturer in the history of art at Columbia University. She still lectures each summer at the Sarah Lawrence women's college in Florence, so the Craigs happily spend half their year in Italy and half in Hampstead, with brief periods in Ireland.

Craig's work is well known to the BBC's overseas listeners. He made his first contribution to radio in a poetry series for the BBC's London Calling Asia series ten years ago, and since then has written many dramatic feature programs broadcast in the BBC's General Overseas Service. Two of the most recent were The Frost of Heaven, an account of the compulsions which made men go on Antarctic explorations, and The Voyage of the Beagle, marking this year's Darwin centenary.

Television at Christmas

For most people, the charm of Christmas lies in things remembered—the timeless story of the babe in the manger and three wise men who followed a star, the mulled-ale flavour and crackling yule log of the Pickwicks, the sound of voices joined in familiar carols, and all the fantasies of a thousand gaily wrapped story books. If it can conjure up just a few of these images or catch a whiff of the nostalgia they evoke, CBC-TV's Christmas schedule will have more than done its job.

It is apt that the first special production of Christmas week should reflect the true meaning of the season. Gian-Carlo Menotti's Amahl and the Night Visitors (December 20th) is the story of a little crippled boy who is miraculously cured when he offers his crutch to the three kings to be taken as a gift to the Christ child. This Christmas opera was commissioned from Menotti in 1951 by the National Broadcasting Company and has become a perennial favourite. Sunday's offering is a delayed telecast of this year's NBC production with virtually the same cast that created the memorable roles.

Showtime on Sunday evening, offers a special Christmas musical fantasy written by Saul Ilson. It is called Andy the Handyman and tells in song and dance the adventures of a small-town "Mr. Fixit" who is drafted to the North Pole to help Santa and the elves make Christmas toys. Regulars Joyce Sullivan and Bob Goulet will handle the narration and the dance routines are being choreographed by Alan Lund.

Another pre-Christmas package for Sunday night viewers will be Lister Sinclair's television adaptation of Pride and Prejudice which Paul Almond will direct on G.M. Presents. Jane Austen fans are legion and few will want to miss seeing the Bennet girls on television.

The artistic highspot of the week will probably be Tuesday's performance of Tchaikovsky's gingerbread ballet, The Nutcracker, on CBC Folio. The National Ballet's husband-and-wife team, Lois

PACK OF JOY

BURL IVES is a bemused Santa Claus as Dinah Shore tries to direct his attention to the picture on the wall where Gale Storm (of "Oh Susanna") quietly filches a gift package from the mantel. Burl Ives and Gale Storm will be Dinah's guest stars on the "Chevy Show" this Tuesday (Dec. 23) on CBC-TV.

Smith and David Adams will star with Betty Pope who will dance the part of little Clara. A more complete story on the production is given on page 16.

Another Christmas Eve special, this one in the morning, is the popular English film, The Holly and the Ivy. Sir Ralph Richardson plays the part of an old parson who teaches his relatives a warm-hearted lesson about Christmas spirit. The other members of the family circle are played by Margaret Leighton, Hugh Williams and John Gregson.

Christmas Eve this year will be unique for at least one member of the CBC fraternity. Rev. Brian Freeland, assistant supervisor of religious programs and author of many broadcast dramas, will make his television debut when he conducts a Christmas Eve Holy Communion Service at St. John's Convalescent Hospital in Toronto. He has conducted the midnight service there for a number of years but this will be the first time it has been televised. The stained-glass windows in the hospital chapel will be lit from the outside to enhance the ceremony from the visual point of view. Another thing viewers may look for is the brocade altar frontal, a gift from a well-wisher, which was used in Westminster Abbey for the coronation of Queen Elizabeth II.

MISSES HIS TRUCK

PAUL BIRCH (left) head of the Cannonball family, takes time off to help his family with Christmas shopping. (From the look of it he should have taken his truck along, too). Steve Barringer, Beth Lockerbie, and Beth Morris make up the rest of the family, and William Campbell (right) plays a friend of the family in CBC's weekly television show "Cannonball."

Christmas Day television begins with a filmed study of Bethlehem today as seen by Larry Henderson. A half-hour feature on Christmas in the British Isles serves as a prelude to Her Majesty's annual Christmas Message. Trans-Atlantic television still being a thing of the future, radio and television listeners will be on equal footing here. The Queen's speech will be followed by a program of traditional carols sung by the boys of Chetnam's Hospital School, Manchester, England. The program, titled Here We Come A-Wassailing, was filmed in the medieval baronial hall of the hospital school.

Many youngsters (and oldsters too) will regard the scheduling of Walt Disney's film Dumbo as a real Christmas present. The lovable baby elephant with his enormous flapping ears is perhaps one of Disney's gayest and warmest productions.

Next we go to Winnipeg for a special half-hour Christmas Day variety show, then over to the Halifax studios for a message from

CBC president J. Alphonse Ouimet, and Operation Christmas, a drama in which some flying-saucer men try to puzzle out the Christmas "peace on earth."

As usual, there will be some people who won't be spending Christmas at home with their families. Typical of these are the men of the Canadian armed forces serving overseas—in the Middle East with the United Nations' Emergency Force or on ships in foreign ports. Defence Minister G. R. Pearkes will introduce Christmas with the Forces, a filmed program showing how soldiers overseas are likely to spend Christmas. It will touch on the airlift from Quebec to the Middle East. Other segments were filmed at El Arrish and Rafah, headquarters of the Canadian base unit.

From Christmas overseas we move to Christmas in Canada, which will show some of the ways in which the feast is celebrated in Canada. Viewers will visit such places as a remote trading post in Northern Ontario to show how 17th-century customs of the Indians are still carried on. Another segment of the program will take a look at toys that made children's eyes sparkle 100 years ago — and compare them with gifts received today. Yet another portion will come from a skiing resort in the Laurentians as chefs prepare to whet the outsize appetites of their Christmas guests. In Toronto, the cameras will look in on some new arrivals celebrating Christmas in ways traditional in the lands of their birth. Script for Christmas in Canada is by James Bannerman.

A roaring yule log fire will be the focal point for the Christmas Day edition of Open House, with the gang gathered around, mouths watering as Madame Benoit describes a traditional French Canadian Christmas dinner — suckling pig stuffed with buckwheat, ham cooked in cider and glossed with maple syrup, and seasoned goose. After dinner conversation will be provided by Fred Davis, and columnists Frank Tumpane and Greg Clark.

Last Christmas CBC Vancouver presented a musical version of the fairy tale, The Three Bears. It proved so popular that it is being done again this year. The music for the production was written by Vancouver composer Marjorie Adalburg with words by Joy Coghill.

Another highlight for the younger set will be the film Alice in Wonderland, produced by Lou Bunin, one of Europe's leading puppeteers who has combined live actors and puppet characters to make his fantasy characters believable. The film's prologue takes viewers to Oxford University to meet Lewis Carroll, the mathematician who told wonderful stories.

As Christmas Day draws to a close seven top-flight Canadian entertainers get together for a special hour-long variety show. They are Juliette, Bob Goulet, Wally Koster, Don Gillies, Gino Silvi and Paul Kligman. Music will be by Samuel Hersenhoren's orchestra.

CBC-TV has allowed Charles Dickens to write finis to the Christmas Day schedule with the presentation of the film, The Pickwick Papers, starring James Hayter, Nigel Patrick and Joyce Grenfell. And who could do it better than Mr. Pickwick?

TV Network Notes

SUNDAY

Heritage

"No More Strangers." Documentary film about the work of three United Church mission boats on the west coast of British Columbia. Film shows the ministers and their families at work among isolated communities.

Country Calendar

Special Christmas messages from the Prairie ministers of agriculture—the Honorable L. C. Halmrast (Alberta), the Honorable I. C. Nollett (Saskatchewan), and the Honorable Errick Willis (Manitoba). They will be interviewed at their farm homes by CBC Farm commentators. Also included in the program will be Stan Westaway's regular gardening feature.

Citizens' Forum

"Unemployment." The program continues its examination of the unemployment situation as a panel discusses whether there is a lasting solution to the problem.

Bob Cummings Show

"Bob Becomes Chuck's First Patient." Bob's nephew, Chuck, wants to give up his medical studies and become a plumber, but when Bob comes down with the 'flu, Chuck's healing instinct comes to the fore.

Father Knows Best

"Friend in Need." The Andersons become attached to a lost dog and regret losing her when the owner turns up to reclaim his pet.

December Bride

Pete's mortal fear of horses ruins his chances of selling a large insurance policy to a wealthy horse rancher.

Showtime

"Andy the Handyman," a Christmas musical fantasy with Bob Goulet and Joyce Sullivan as narrators. Andy keeps the children of Greenville happy with his stories and songs until one day he is called on by Santa Claus asking him to go to the North Pole to help him out with the Christmas toy-making rush. The children are loath to see him go, but they agree that it would be a good thing both for Andy and for the children of the world. Words and music for the fantasy are by Saul Ilson.

The World's Stage

"Picture of the Magi." A child's belief in the story of Jesus and the Magi, enables her and her family to escape from Communist Hungary in 1956.

G.M. Presents

"Pride and Prejudice." Jane Austin novel adapted by Lister Sinclair.

Twentieth Century

"The Addicted," (Part One), shows the attempts of a young drug addict to shake the habit and return to normal life. His story is told by himself, his family and friends, and the doctors and nurses who treated him.

Fighting Words

Guests include Generals Albert C. Wedemeyer and Telford Taylor. General Wedemeyer, whose latest book, "Wedemeyer Reports," has received wide acclaim spent considerable time in China during the Second World War. General Taylor, now a New York lawyer, was army advocate for the U.S. at the Nuremberg trials and is a top-ranking military historian. His book, "March of Conquest," deals with the German army and high command during the first two years of the Second World War.

Nursery School Time

Miss Teddy and Hoppy the bunny show how to make paper chains for decorating Christmas trees. Miss Teddy tells the story of "The Little Fir Tree."

Our Miss Brooks

"Christmas Show." On the day before Christmas, all the Madison High teachers and pupils are broke, resulting in a great "exchange" of gifts at the local department store.

P.M. Party

The guest will be Alex Read, pianist and singer, who has his own show on CHML Hamilton.

Howdy Doody

The gang at Doodyville get a card from Pan saying she will be home for Christmas. A mysterious stranger arrives in Doodyville and announces that he doesn't believe in Christmas.

Follow Me

Viewers will be taken on a tour of a pulp mill near Vancouver to see how raw stock paper is converted into paper products.

The Adventures of Chich

"Picking Apples." Chich gets involved with a farmer's scarecrow.

Mickey Mouse Club

Jimmie Dodds and the Mouseketeers are featured in an ice-skating scene. In the Clint and Mac Serial, the boys are discovered aboard the robber's boat; and there's an item on "Cormorant Fishing."

The Millionaire

"Ken Leighton." A husband with a weakness for risky business ventures, finds himself on the verge of a separation from his lovely wife.

Danny Thomas Show

"Kathy's Career."

Cannonball

"The Little Old Man." Mike and Jerry join in the search for the disease carrier when a smallpox epidemic breaks out in a large city.

Desilu Playhouse

"Crazy Hunter," adapted by Walter Newman from the novel by Kay Boyle, and co-starring Franchot Tone and Jo Van Fleet. It's the touching story of a young girl's patience and faith in her ability to train a blind horse to perform astounding feats.

TUESDAY

Nursery School Time

Maman Fonfon and Dick the beaver decorate their Christmas tree and show how to make decorations with silver paper.

Friendly Giant

Friendly reads the story of "The Little Lost Lamb," about a shepherd boy who goes up the treacherous mountainside with his dog in search of a lost lamb.

Gumby

"The Racing Game." Gumby and Pokey enter a sports car rally and are about to win when the motor of their car burns out.

Whistle Town

Some children visit the toy shop to sing carols and after they leave, Santa arrives to fill up their stockings.

Sky King

"Stage Coach Robbers." An express agent plots to rob his company of a gold shipment by faking a holdup.

Front Page Challenge

Guest panelist will be Frank Tumpane of the Toronto Telegram, who will join regulars Gordon Sinclair, Toby Robins and Pierre Berton.

Chevy Show

Dinah Shore's guests are Burl Ives, Tony Perkins and Gale Storm.

CBC Folio

"The Nutcracker," Tchaikovsky's Christmas ballet performed by the National Ballet Company of Canada. Leading dancers are: Lois Smith as Snow Queen and Sugar Plum Fairy; David Adams as Nutcracker Prince; and Betty Pope as Clara, the young girl in whose honor the fantasy is staged.

WEDNESDAY

Nursery School Time

Miss Teddy tells the story of the Christmas bunny. She sings "Away in a Manger," and other Christmas songs.

Dear Phoebe

"Merry Christmas." Peter Lawford goes on the warpath when managing editor Fosdick cancels the newspaper's Christmas party.

P.M. Party

One hundred and fifty children from foster homes in Toronto will make up today's audience and will join in the fun. Gordie Tapp will be the Clown Prince, Donna Miller will be a Dutch girl, Rex Loring will be dressed as a toy soldier and Rudy Toth as an old-time band leader. The guest will be Johnny Giordmaine, a magician.

Howdy Doody

Everyone follows the mysterious stranger to his cave. During the chase, the stranger's horse is deflated, but Santa Claus brings him a new one and restores his faith in Christmas.

Rope Around the Sun

On this Christmas Eve, Stu Davis tells how cowboys celebrate Christmas. He will also sing some special Christmas songs including "A Merry Texas Christmas," "It Came Upon the Midnight Clear," and "Cowboy's Meditation."

Woody Woodpecker

"The Screwball."

Walt Disney Presents

"From All of Us to All of You"—Jiminy Cricket and Mickey Mouse are hosts for this special Christmas greeting from all the famous Disney cartoon characters.

For our readers' convenience, radio and television information is now separated in "CBC Times." Radio notes and listings begin on page 21.

cameras will follow a nurse pushing a patient in a wheel-chair into the chapel where the Reverend Brian Freeland will conduct the service. Mr. Freeland, assistant supervisor of CBC religious programs, has conducted the Christmas Eve service at this Anglican hospital for a number of years. The deacon at the service will be the Reverend Donald Anderson who will give a short address, and the sub-deacon will be Neil McNish. Walter McNutt, director of music at St. Thomas' Church, Toronto, will conduct the choir in familiar Christmas carols and also the "Mass of the Nativity," written by him for this telecast.

The Holly and the Ivy

Sir Ralph Richardson will star in this special film presentation. He plays the parson of an English village, and Margaret Leighton, Hugh Williams and John Gregson play relatives who return home for a Christmas Eve reunion with the aging clergyman. Discord and unhappiness are present in the family group but the wisdom and understanding of the parson is transmitted to the relatives. They re-discover the true spirit of Christmas and establish a warm bond of family unity.

THURSDAY

Today in Bethlehem

Larry Henderson describes the scene of Christ's birth.

Prelude to H.M. the Queen

Christmas celebrations in the United Kingdom.

H.M. the Queen

Her Majesty's Christmas message to the people of the Commonwealth, broadcast from her home at Sandringham.

Carols from Chetham's School

A special program of traditional carols sung by the Boys of Chetham's Hospital School, Manchester, England. Dressed in their school uniforms, the boys will present their carol program from the medieval baronial hall of the hospital school, which was founded in 1663 but is housed in a historic building which dates even farther back.

Dumbo

Walt Disney's feature film, Dumbo tells the story of a baby elephant born with enormous, flapping ears. His appearance makes him a figure of fun and the butt of pranksters at the circus. However, with the help of his loyal friend Timothy Mouse, Dumbo eventually finds his place in the world, and his ridiculous ears play a vital part in his rise to fame and fortune.

Prairie Christmas Card

Musical program from Winnipeg with Georges LaFleche, Norma Vadeboncoeur, and Eric Wild and the orchestra.

CBC President's Greetings

CBC President Alphonse Ouimet with Christmas greetings to the people of Canada.

Operation Christmas

A contemporary fantasy of how the earth's Christmas celebrations appear in the eyes of the inhabitants of other planets.

Christmas with the Troops

G. R. Pearkes, Minister of Defence, will give a short introduction to this program which will show how Canadians serving in the Middle East and the United Nations Emergency Force are likely to spend the day. Because Christmas is not widely observed in Middle East countries, Canadian servicemen will depend largely on their own resources for any celebrations. The film will touch upon the airlift from Dorval to the Middle East. Other segments were shot at El Arrish and at Rafah. Several Canadian sailors will be shown visiting Vesuvius and Pompeii in Italy. While accompanying a reconnaissance party, Ed Rollins, CBC supervisor of film production, and Bill Duncan, CBC cameraman, were caught in a severe sandstorm. Some footage of this storm will also be shown.

Christmas in Canada

Special program by the Outside Broadcasts Department showing some ways of spending Christmas in Canada. Viewers will see a remote trading post in northern Ontario where Indian children build a nativity scene creche; a skiing resort in the Laurentians; and how new Canadians celebrate Christmas in traditional ways. Another item will be some toys given as Christmas presents one hundred years ago.

Noels du Chateau de Ramezay

A remote broadcast from Chateau de Ramezay in Montreal. The program will take the form of a historical tableau with period music and host Leon Trepanier telling stories of old Quebec.

The Three Bears

A musical version of the children's story, with music by Marjorie Adelberg and words by Joy Coghill.

Nursery School Time

Maman Fonfon tells young viewers the story of the birth of Jesus Christ.

Alice in Wonderland

Lewis Carroll's delightful story about a little girl's adventures in a topsy-turvy world. The film, produced by Lou Bunin, one of Europe's leading puppeteers, combines the use of live actors and puppets. It begins with a prologue at Oxford University where the audience meets Lewis Carroll, a dean at the university, and his three daughters, one of whom is Alice. Other personages include various members of the faculty, and Queen Victoria and her consort who pay a visit to the university. These characters become the prototypes for the fanciful creatures that inhabit Alice's fantasy world. Thus Queen Victoria becomes, in fantasy, the Queen of Hearts; the Dean becomes the Cheshire Cat; the Vice Chancellor turns into the White Rabbit. Lewis Carroll himself becomes the Knave of Hearts. As the Dean begins to tell his daughters the story, the audiences, like Alice, slip off into the world of fantasy.

The cast includes Steven Murray as Lewis Carroll; Carol Marsh as Alice; Pamela Brown as Queen Victoria; and David Read as the Prince Consort.

Music Makers

Sylvia Murphy is guest soloist. Jack Kane tells how a band is formed, using members of the band as examples. There'll be an end-of-Christmas medley—music designed to soothe the tired Christmas shopper.

The Unforeseen

"The Key," an original play by Marian Hemar. It's a ghost story with a Christmas setting, about a man in a London fog who cannot find the house he visited during the Second World War.

Wyatt Earp

"Command Performance." Wyatt stages a fake holdup to entertain a visiting European prince, and wins a royal decoration for his efforts.

Loretta Young Show

"Most Honorable Day," starring Loretta Young. It's a story with a Japanese setting and a Christmas theme. Miss Young plays Taka, a Japanese peasant girl who is hired as a maid by the Browns, an American family recently arrived in Japan. Taka is bewildered by the hustle and bustle connected with an American Christmas. But the simple peasant girl soon discovers the true meaning of the Christmas holiday and brings happiness to the Christmas celebrations at the Browns' household.

Christmas Night Show

A special Christmas show planned as a treat for parents after the youngsters are in bed. Juliette, Bob Coulet, Wally Koster and Denny Vaughan will be featured. Another guest, Judith Dornis, formerly leading ballerina with the Berlin Opera Company who recently arrived in Canada, will be featured with the Boris Volkoff ballet troupe. The Gino Silvi singers and the orchestra conducted by Samuel Hershoren will provide the background music.

Pickwick Papers

James Hayter, Nigel Patrick and Joyce Grenfell will star in this special film presentation of Charles Dickens' classic novel. Mr. Pickwick, the jovial leader of the Pickwick society, and three members, Winkle, Tupman and Snodgrass, decide to make a stage-coach tour of Britain in search of knowledge and adventure. As they travel from inn to inn, they encounter many hilarious misadventures and meet some amusing characters.

Christmas Day Special

Alice in Wonderland

Alice in Wonderland, based on Lewis Carroll's delightful novel about a little girl's adventures in a topsy-turvy world, will be a special film presentation Christmas Day on the CBC television network (check local listings for times).

Author Lewis Carroll wrote his famous fantasy while at Oxford University where he was a professor of mathematics. Carroll fashioned his fantasy on his own life at Oxford, using the people with whom he came in contact as models for his literary caricatures.

The film was produced by Lou Bunin, one of Europe's leading puppeteers, and by combining the use of live actors and puppets he made his fantasy characters believable.

The film begins with a prologue at Oxford University where the audience meets Lewis Carroll, a dean at the university, and his three daughters, one of whom is Alice.

Other personages include various members of the faculty, and Queen Victoria and her consort who pay a visit to the university. These characters become the prototypes for the fanciful creatures that inhabit Alice's fantasy world.

Thus Queen Victoria becomes, in fantasy, the Queen of Hearts; the Dean becomes the Cheshire Cat; the Vice Chancellor turns into the White Rabbit. Lewis Carroll himself becomes the Knave of Hearts.

As the Dean begins to tell his daughters the story, the audience, like Alice, slip off into the world of fantasy.

 Queen Victoria Pamela Brown
 Prince Consort David Read

Alice in Wonderland was five years in the making. The puppets in Alice's dream were designed by producer Lou Bunin from Lewis Carroll's original drawings and word descriptions.

Christmas Eve Eucharist From St. John's Hospital

The stained-glass windows of the chapel of St. John's Convalescent Hospital at Newtonbrook, near Toronto, will be illuminated from the outside so that their beauty may be seen by viewers when the Christmas Eve holy communion service is televised from there.

The program, Eucharist of Christmas Eve will start with a short tour of the hospital, and will be seen on the CBC-TV network.

CBC television cameras will then follow a nurse pushing a patient in a wheel-chair into the chapel where Rev. Brian Freeland will conduct the service.

Mr. Freeland, assistant supervisor of CBC religious programs, has conducted the Christmas Eve service at this Anglican hospital for a number of years. This will be his first appearance on television.

Walter MacNutt, former Winnipeg-organist who is now director of music at St. Thomas' Church, Huron Street, Toronto, will conduct a select choir of 15 adults and seven boy sopranos. They will sing familiar Christmas carols and also the Mass of the Nativity, written specially by Mr. MacNutt for this program.

Larry Palef, CBC announcer, will be the narrator. He will relate the background of the hospital and will describe some of the gifts from patients and well-wishers which decorate the chapel. These include a brocade altar frontal which was used in Westminster Abbey for the coronation of Queen Elizabeth II.

The deacon at the service will be Rev. Donald Anderson, who will give a short address. The sub-deacon will be Neil McNish.

David Marcus Roland will produce Eucharist of Christmas Eve.

Ed Litzenberger, a native of Neudorf, Saskatchewan is one of four NHL super-stars who hail from Western Canada. The others are Andy Bathgate, Terry Sawchuk and Gordie Howe.) The Montreal Canadiens seem to have the monopoly on all the Eastern-born super stars.

Litzenberger was brought up through amateur hockey ranks and into the NHL by the Montreal Canadiens before being sent to Chicago in 1954-55 during a "help the have-nots" campaign. At that time, he was a promising 22-year-old with seven NHL goals to his credit in the first half of the season. Though disappointed at leaving a championship team for a cellar dweller Litzenberger moved to Chicago and there finished out a great rookie year that won him the Calder Trophy. Before hanging up the blades for the 54-55 season, he'd scored 23 goals and assisted on 28 others.

Litzenberger suffered a sophomore season letdown the following year with only 10 goals and 29 assists but has bounced back with two great seasons, last year leading the Black Hawks out of the league cellar. In 25 games so far this year he has garnered 11 goals and 12 assists for 23 points.

Ed grew up in Yorkton, Saskatchewan and learned to skate there before moving to Weyburn where he played three years as a midget and juvenile. He joined the Montreal organization during his three years with the junior Regina Pats where he played for Murray Armstrong, a coach he credits with much of his development as a hockey player.

For the 1952-53 and 1953-54 seasons, Ed moved up to the Montreal Royals and the following year he graduated to the NHL.

Litzenberger now plays centre though he's spent most of his career at right wing. He's 6' 1" and weighs 195.

Indian Children Make Creche for Christmas in Canada

There are many traditional ways to celebrate Christmas. On Christmas Day CBC-TV cameras will visit a remote trading post to show viewers how Indian children observe this occasion.

Christmas in Canada, a special CBC-TV outside broadcasts program, will be seen at 1 p.m. CST (12 noon MST) on Christmas Day on the full CBC-TV network.

In the 17th century, a Jesuit missionary described in a manuscript how Huron Indian children spent weeks before Christmas gathering material for a nativity creche. When the creche was completed, the children paraded it through their village. Christmas in Canada will go to a remote trading post in Northern Ontario to show how this custom continues, and how people shut off from the world celebrate Christmas.

Christmas in Canada will take a look at toys that made a child's eyes sparkle 100 years ago—and compare them with gifts children receive today.

Skiers will be seen whizzing past a window outside an indoor swimming pool when the program switches to a skiing resort in the Laurentians. CBC's cameras will invade the kitchen of the Chantecler resort at Ste. Adele-en-haut, Que., to see how the chefs cater for the hearty appetites of their Christmas guests.

Viewers will see recent arrivals to Canada celebrate Yuletide in ways traditional in the lands of their birth, and they'll also see the food that goes with the Christmas activities.

SANTA'S STRAY

Who wouldn't go a long way to hear Joyce Hahn sing on CBC-TV's popular "Cross Canada Hit Parade" Rudolph will no doubt return home in time to pull that sleigh on Christmas.

WHAT KIND IS THIS?

These experienced guessers are willing to admit that, when it comes to guessing what's inside Christmas packages the only real experts are children. When there's an open season on guessing, however, Kathie McNeil, Allan Mannings, and Rita Greer Allen (left to right) are tops. They keep in guessing trim each week as panelists on CBC-TV's quiz, "One of a Kind."

"The Nutcracker"

CBC Folio presents National Ballet Company in popular Tchaikovsky ballet this Tuesday

The National Ballet Company of Canada will play before the biggest audience in its history this Tuesday night on CBC Folio. And the ballet it will perform, Tchaikovsky's The Nutcracker, is also likely to set some sort of record for collecting an audience that ranges from the very young to the very old.

Canada's premiere ballet company has travelled widely, and won critical acclaim, in the United States as well as in Canada, and it has appeared on Canadian television before. But on Tuesday night, the National Ballet Company will be televised for the first time since the TV network was extended from coast to coast.

Every youngster of kindergarten age is familiar with at least one segment of the music of The Nutcracker—even Spike Jones made a recording of it for children a few years ago. As for the story—well, it's of the stuff that fairy tales are made from.

It tells of a little girl named Clara. At a Christmas party, Clara receives a nutcracker—not an ordinary nutcracker, but one carved with the features of a man's face. The Nutcracker Man's jaw is hinged so that he cracks nuts between his teeth. Clara's brother, Franz, is jealous and breaks the Nutcracker Man, and Clara goes to bed, sobbing over her broken toy.

Late at night, unable to forget the Nutcracker Man, she goes downstairs and discovers that all the Christmas toys have come to life, and are fighting with an army of mice. Clara helps the toys drive off the mice and—quite suddenly—the broken Nutcracker Man turns into a handsome prince. He invites Clara to go with him to his land, the Kingdom of Sweets.

They journey through a snow-storm in which the individual snowflakes dance, and in the Kingdom of Sweets, Clara is enthralled by a divertissement—an entertainment of many different dances that fill her with wonder: the Dance of the Sugar Plum Fairy, the Russian Dance, the Arab Dance, the Chinese Dance, the Dance of the Mirletons (of Flutes), and the Waltz of the Flowers.

Principals in Tuesday's performance will be prima ballerina Lois Smith (the Snow Queen and the Sugar Plum Fairy), premier danseur David Adams (the Nutcracker Prince), and soloist Betty Pope (little Clara), assisted by the corps de ballet of the National Ballet Company of Canada. The music will be conducted by George Crum, musical director of the National Ballet. Television production will be by Norman Campbell with sets by Richard Lambert. The costumes were designed for the National Ballet by Kay Ambrose.

Strangely enough, Tchaikovsky didn't think much of the idea of The Nutcracker when it was suggested to him in 1890—a Dumas translation of E. T. A. Hoffman's story, "The Nutcracker and the King of Mice." But he was finally persuaded to start it in January of the following year, and to complete the draft score six months later.

And although the music of The Nutcracker abounds with melody, is captivatingly scored and is clearly the work of a strong imagination, it has been said that it has never been greatly successful as a ballet. Indeed, it was not a success when first presented in St. Petersburg, then the capital of Russia, in December, 1892, as a special Christmas presentation. It was only later that the ballet, and its music, became well-liked. However, one of the criticisms of the day—that The Nutcracker was better suited to a juvenile audience—could hardly be considered as a serious objection today.

In spite of any alleged weakness as a ballet, the work is getting two television performances this week. CBS will also present a 90-minute version on Christmas night, two nights after CBC Folio's presentation, performed by New York's City Centre troupe, with Canadian Melissa Hayden.

The National Ballet Company of Canada has also had several invitations to appear on American networks but has turned them down because it doesn't want to be tied down with regular programs.

And perhaps this makes Tuesday night's performance even more of what it's supposed to be: a rare Christmas treat.

N.H.L. Game

Chicago Blackhawks meet the Toronto Maple Leafs.

JULIETTE

CBC Stars Salute Mothers, Dads, Santa

The Christmas Night Show has been planned as a treat for parents after the youngsters are in bed," says producer Don Hudson.

"By the way," Hudson continues, "Santa Claus (Paul Kligman) will be made comfortable in the studio where he can watch the fun. After all, he had a busy day too. Did you ever try stuffing hula hoops down chimneys?"

Juliette, Bob Goulet, Wally Koster, and Denny Vaughan will be featured on the CBC-TV network show. Judith Dornis, formerly leading ballerina with the Berlin Opera Company who recently arrived in Canada, will be featured with the Boris Volkoff ballet troupe. The Gino Silvi singers and the orchestra conducted by Samuel Hershoren will provide background music.

MUSIC

Frank Haworth discusses this week's radio concerts on CBC

Why, out of all the celebrations of the Christian year, Christmas should be the one that maintains and strengthens its hold on popular affection, when outside the ranks of the religious-minded the rest are all but forgotten, is a question perhaps for the sociologists and the historians to debate, rather than the musicians. Yet musicians and music-lovers may well rejoice in its undiminishing lustre, for Christmas has inspired, and continues to inspire, a stream of music as delightful as any that has flowed from the heart and mind of man. The CBC's selection from this music affords us a sampling that lets us realize how extensive it is, and how varied in style and approach, while retaining that intangible something—that subtle "Christmassy" feeling which gives it its characteristic flavour and appeal.

To consider come of these offerings in chronological order: the week's first salute to Christmas is sounded on the Winnipeg Sunday Concert, which features Vaughan Williams' On Christmas Night, and Finzi's Dies Natalis, the latter a setting for tenor (or soprano) and string orchestra of passages (some in prose) from the 17th-century English poet Traherne. Gerald Finzi is a contemporary English composer noted for his sensitive and sympathetic settings of words, often in a delicate, recitative-like vocal line. On Monday Halifax Concert acknowledges the season with the Sinfonia from Bach's well-known Christmas Oratorio—actually not an oratorio at all in our sense of the term, but a series of six can-tatas performed successively between Christmas Day, 1734, and January 5, 1735. Bach and his associates were nothing if not thoroughgoing in their celebrating, and such an arrangement reminds us, moreover, that Christmas used to be celebrated on and after the day, rather than before it, as it tends to be now.

On Christmas Eve the CBC Wednesday Night program includes a performance of Benjamin Britten's St. Nicholas Cantata from Toronto. This work, composed in 1948 for the centenary of Lansing College in Sussex, and heard for the first time in Canada under its composer's own direction, in a CBC Wednesday Night program in November of the following year, tells the story of St. Nicholas, patron saint of children, seamen, and travellers, and, of course, the original Santa Claus. In nine episodes it relates how he performed many charitable works, became a bishop, went to prison for his views, and on one occasion understandably declined to eat some pickled boys, even in a time of famine. It is scored for a miscellaneous group of adult and children's choirs, tenor solo, orchestra, organ and two pianos, with a narrator, and includes two well-known hymns to be sung by a "congregation"—for its intended setting is a church. Like the recently-heard Noyes Fludde and Let's Make an Opera, this work represents the development by the composer of an alternative, and simpler, style and idiom, long way removed from (for example) The Turn of the Screw—a tacit acknowledgement that "serious" music has drifted far from the "popular" brand, and of a desire to have a foot in both camps. This is not a new trend, of course; Elgar wrote Salut d'amour as well as The Dream of Gerontius, and even Beethoven wrote sets of minuets and other "popular" twiddles of that day while at work on his Ninth Symphony.

The carols to be presented by the George Little Singers on CBC Wednesday Night, represent many periods in many lands, and attest the universality of the Christmas appeal. Their frequent wide departure from our somewhat conventionalized ideas of what carols should be, and especially the rhythmic jauntiness of some of them, may be responsible for the slowness of their dissemination and general acceptance, although they are increasingly heard at carol services and concerts.

On the day itself the item of most musical interest, perhaps, is the Vespers of Christmas, to be sung by the Renaissance Singers, in the version known as the Sarum Use. A "use" is an approved local variant, in minor details, of the church's universal forms of prayer, and their plain-song music; this one, originating in Sarum—now called Salisbury—was much favoured in pre-Reformation England.

Outstanding among the non-Christmas events is the first North American performance, by the Toronto Wind Octet (Sunday morning) of a "new" Mozart work—an arrangement by him, recently unearthed in Germany, of material from his own opera Die entfuhrung aus dem Serail, for a group of wind instruments. The question of "arrangement"—the transferring of music to instruments and voices other than those for which it was originally written—was at one time a controversial one; and there are still purists who object to it on the grounds that the composer surely knew best what effects he intended when he wrote it. Unfortunately for this argument, however, the chief "offenders" were the masters themselves, who were forever transliterating their own music—and other people's—from one medium to another.

The CBC Dominion Network is a chain of radio stations to which the CBC makes available a variety of programs each day. Only one of the stations—CJBC in Toronto—is CBC-owned and carries all the programs. The following programs are available to Dominion Network stations in the prairies. Only those marked with an asterisk (*) are carried by all stations; the others may be dropped due to local commitments. The stations themselves will be pleased to inform listeners which programs they carry.

More About

Christmas Day on Radio

Having wandered around the world in the morning, listeners will be invited to explore their own country on Christmas afternoon via the program Christmas Almanac, from 11:15-5:00 p.m. CST. It will be Almanac's fourth year and again the main ingredients will be music and actualities from every corner of Canada.

During the course of the afternoon there will be musical Christmas greetings from the Happy Gang in Toronto, the Shantymen of Leonard Mayoh in Halifax, folksinger Alan Mills in Montreal, Doug Parker's jazz sextet in Vancouver, the Prairie Schooner boys in Winnipeg, school choirs in Newfoundland, and Eddie Richards' popular quintet in Halifax. The Richards group will be familiar to everyone who followed CBC radio coverage of the Springhill mine disaster, for it provided interludes between reports from the minehead.

Actualities on Almanac will include a visit to the Saint John waterfront with Ken Homer, a visit to an old-style Christmas celebration on a farm in northern Saskatchewan, a radio conversation with the pilot of a BOAC jet comet flying at 20,000 feet, and interviews with a lighthouse-keeper on the west coast and with an IGY cosmic research scientist at his post in the mountains above Banff.

On Christmas evening the mind's eye will have opportunities to wander south and north, rather than east and west. First, to the tropics and beyond for an hour-long report on how people spend Christmas there; the show is called Green Christmas and there will be interviews with people in such countries as Argentina, Brazil, Ceylon and Thailand. Then on Northern Messenger, an hour of greetings and entertainment directed from the people of southern Canada to their fellow-countrymen in the north and especially in the vicinity of Whitehorse, only recently joined to the CBC radio network for regular program service; this show will include polka and other lively dance music and messages from Government and CBC officials.

Adaptations by George Woodcock of several of the medieval English mystery plays, which gave market-square audiences the history of the world in dramatic form from the fall of Lucifer to the birth of Christ, will be presented on CBC Wednesday Night from Vancouver. To be heard are The Fall noted Irish author, has written the script for this year's BBC Commonwealth Christmas broadcast, "The Seekers," described on page 3.

of Lucifer, from the cycle of plays that became associated with Coventry, The Fall of Man, from the York cycle, Abraham and Isaac from the Broome cycle, The Annunciation and The Nativity, from the York cycle, and The First Shepherd's Play, from the Wakefield cycle. There will be a simple commentary linking the plays, which will be produced by Gerald Newman.

Concert Hour Scheduled on English Network

Kinerecordings of the CBC French Network's Concert Hour series will be presented Saturday afternoons on the CBC English Network, starting December 13. No regular programs will be cancelled.

Following is the schedule:

December 13

JOAN OF ARC AT THE STAKE

Dramatic oratorio by Arthur Honegger, dealing with the last period of the saint's life, from the trial at Rouen to her death at the stake. In her last agonies, Joan relives the trial in a series of hallucinations in which the judges have become animals. Cast includes Charlotte Boisjoli as Joan, Jan Doat as Dominique, Andre Lortie as Porcus, Jean-Paul Jeannotte, Benoit Dufour, and Yolande Dulude. Producer: Pierre Mercure.

1:45 p.m. CST

2:45 p.m. MST

December 27

GREAT SOLOISTS

This program includes performances by dancers Alicia Alonso and Igor Youskevitch (in the Black Swan pas-de-deux from Tchaikovsky's "Swan Lake"); violinist Betty-Jean Hagen (playing Mendelssohn's Concerto in E Minor); European guitarists Ida Presti and Alexandre Lagoya; singers Elaine Malbin, Richard Verreau and Leonard Warren (in the second act of Verdi's "La Traviata," with a 62-piece orchestra conducted by Jean Beaudet).

1:30 p.m. CST

3:30 p.m. MST

January 3

LA GRANDE DUCHESSE DE GEROLSTEIN

Jacques Offenbach's comic opera, conducted by Wilfrid Pelletier, with Pierrette Alarie in the title role, Andre Turp, Benoit Dufour, Paul Berval, Robert Savoie, Yolande Guerard, Eve Gagnier, Claire Duchesneau, Colette Merola, and Marcelle Couture.

1:30 p.m. CST

3:30 p.m. MST

On December 20 there will be no Concert Hour rebroadcast. On that occasion CBC-TV will present a film of the NBC production of Menotti's Christmas opera, Amahl and the Night Visitors (3:00 p.m. in Manitoba, 4:00 p.m. in Saskatchewan and Alberta).

The Renaissance Singers of Montreal perform:

The Vespers of Christmas Day

The Vespers of Christmas Day, according to the Sarum Use, will be sung by the Renaissance Singers of Montreal under the direction of Donald Mackey, on Christmas Day on the Trans-Canada Network (5:08 p.m. in Manitoba, 4:08 p.m. in Saskatchewan and Alberta).

The Sarum Vespers is taken from the Sarum Breviary as used in the English Church at Salisbury (Sarum) and in many other parts of England in pre-Reformation times. The books of the Sarum rite furnished the English reformers with their main material for the first Book of Common Prayer in 1549.

The plainsong of the Sarum rite was a local modification, in details only, of the Roman rite. In the Vespers of Christmas it will be sung in English, according to the adaptation of the late Dr. G. H. Palmer — an adaptation which is now widely used in the monastic communities of the Church of England.

The Psalter forms the core of this Office, and Psalms 110, 111 and 112 will be heard, each framed with its proper Antiphon. The Magnificat (Luke I, 46), the Biblical song known as the Canticle of Mary, has since the sixth century been the focal point of Vespers. It will be sung to the First Mode

Psalm-tone, with fauxbourdons composed by Healey Willan. The Magnificat, like each of the Psalms, is enclosed by its appropriate Antiphon. Also to be heard on the broadcast are the Responsorium, The Word was made Flesh, and the Office Hymn, From lands that see the sun arise.

The Renaissance Singers is a group of 16 which has been heard on the CBC during the past two years, particularly on Good Friday and Sunday Chorale broadcasts. Donald Mackey, who is the director, is organist of the Church of the Messiah in Montreal, and music-teacher at Westmount High School.

On Christmas Eve

Christmas Sing with Bing Crosby

The fourth annual Christmas Sing With Bing will be presented Christmas Eve on CBC Dominion Network stations. Co-starring with Bing Crosby this year for the first time will be Kathryn Grant (Mrs. Bing Crosby).

Pursuing its already well-established pattern, Sing With Bing will feature special pickups from many corners of the world where Christmas is celebrated. These will include the famed Vatican Choir and the sound of the bells of St. Peter's summoning Romans to the Midnight Mass at the Basilica in Vatican City.

• The Boy's Choir of St. Andrew's Cathedral, Sidney, Australia, will sing a Christmas carol which is a traditional part of the cathedral's own church service.

• From Honolulu, the Kamehameha School Choir will be introduced by William F. Quinn, governor of the Territory of Hawaii.

• Making its fourth annual appearance on Sing With Bing will be the 375-voice Salt Lake Tabernacle Choir of Salt Lake City, Utah, singing Beautiful Saviour.

• The 100-voice Community Chorus of Anchorage, Alaska, will sing three Christmas carols.

• A chorus of natives from the Fiji Islands will sing It Came Upon a Midnight Clear, a carol taught to them by the missionaries who turned them from head hunters into Christians.

• Other choruses to be heard are from Canada, Holland, France, Philadelphia, and New York.

Christmas Sing With Bing will be heard at 9:00 p.m. Christmas Eve in both central and mountain time zones. (See page 29 for list of Dominion Network stations).

Women's Interests

Trans-Canada Matinee marks Christmas week with special musical programs which capture the warmth and joy of the season. On Monday, the Chapel Choir of Bishop Strachan School, Toronto, under the direction of John Hodgins, will present a program of songs; on Tuesday, listeners will hear the Northview Heights Collegiate Choir, Toronto, conducted by Elmer Iseler; and on Wednesday, Ellis McClintock and his Waits will entertain listeners. Waits were originally itinerant musicians who paraded the streets at night at Christmas time and in the 14th and 15th century, they were watchmen who sounded horns to mark the hours. Later, private individuals kept up the custom now honoured by Trans-Canada Matinee which brings the "Waits of '58" to serenade its friends this Christmas.

On Friday, Marian Anderson will be the special guest and the music portion of the program on that day will be devoted to recordings of her incomparable voice.

Open House presents a line-up of special items for Christmas week. On Monday, there are features on Christmas in New Zealand and suggestions for front door decorations. Tuesday brings suggestions for special party food, and a surprise guest. On Wednesday, Jean Tweed takes viewers on an expedition to choose a Christmas tree; and on Christmas Day, Open House entertains in the good old-fashioned way with a number of well-known guests. Friday is Boxing Day and time to begin writing those thank-you notes.

Complete details of both Trans-Canada Matinee and Open House follow:

Trans-Canada Matinee

"Fashion in Furs"—Olive Dickason of Toronto says this year's fur fashions include everything from mink paws to monkey fur and if you have your eye on the January sales as the time to invest in that new coat, you may get some ideas from this talk. "Laugh Clown, Laugh"—Wendy Butler interviews Emmet Kelly, probably the best-known clown in the circus world and the creator of "Weary Willie," so well-known to circus-goers (Toronto). "The Story of Fief Hubert"—Lou Craig of Fort Chambly, Quebec, talks about the estate known as Fief Hubert which was granted by Louis XIV in the year 1698. Norah Ellwood, the present owner and descendant of the original recipient of the land, now runs Fief Hubert as a game preserve and Lou Craig is her neighbour. News commentary—Anne Francis (Ottawa); Music—Chapel Choir of Bishop Strachan Schools, Toronto; "Joseph Dearest, Joseph Mild;" three carols from French Canada; an excerpt from the "Magnificat" of J. S. Bach. Reading by Diana Goodrich of Vancouver from "An English Year" by Non Fairbrother.

Open House

"Christmas Around Home"—Dorothy Lash Colquhoun has some last minute suggestions for giving your front door that welcoming look. "Passport to New Zealand"—Canadian Helen Roe who has spent the last three Christmases in New Zealand, takes viewers "down under for a different kind of holiday celebration. "Songs from New Zealand"—baritone Harry Mossfield sings some Maori songs.

Trans-Canada Matinee

What's New in Alberta"—Ethel Marliss of Edmonton tells about the children's concerts given by the Edmonton Symphony Orchestra in which the orchestra goes to the children in their schools. Matinee Quiz (Toronto); News commentary—Mattie Rotenberg (Toronto); Music—Northview Heights Collegiate Choir of Toronto under Elmer Iseler. Reading.

Open House

"On the Map"—Paul Fox discusses what's in the news. "Artist in the Kitchen"—suggestions for special party food will be demonstrated by Margaret Wallace of Oakville. "Guest of the Week"—Anna Cameron, Fred Davis and Paul Fox will be joined by a surprise guest.

Trans-Canada Matinee

"Laughter and Tears"—Joyce Grenfell, the noted British actress, comedienne and broadcaster, makes a welcome day-before-Christmas visit. She recalls some of the events which through the years have caused her to laugh and cry. "Christmas Creche"—Helen Gougeon (London). "Talk About Teen-Agers"—Listeners will be guests at a Christmas party given by Mrs. Corrigan, mother to fifteen teen-age boys who live in a residence of the Toronto Children's Aid Society. Edna May talks to Mrs. Corrigan about her ideas on the discipline and care of a batch of active teen-agers. News commentary—Anne Francis (Ottawa). Music—Ellis McClintock and his Waits (Toronto). Reading.

Open House

"New Faces"—beauty pick-up tips from Lydia. "R.R. 1"—Viewers will accompany Jean Tweed on an expedition to choose a Christmas tree. And to round off your Christmas Eve—John Drainie reads one of his favourite passages from Stephen Leacock.

THURSDAY

Open House

For this Christmas Day edition of Open House, Anna Cameron and Fred Davis entertain in the good old-fashioned way. Their guests will be Joyce Sullivan, Charles Jordan, Gwen Vernon, John Coveart, Pat Patterson, Frank Tumpane, Jehane Benoit and Greg Clark. There'll be music and reminiscences, and an impromptu sing-song revealing hidden talents.

"OPEN HOUSE" HOSTS

Fred Davis and Anna Cameron will have no Christmas holiday this year. They've planned a special program for presentation on Christmas Day.

FRIDAY

Trans-Canada Matinee

"Guest of the Month"—Kathleen Teltch interviews Marian Anderson who is as much at home on the stage of the Metropolitan Opera as she is at the United Nations where she sits as the Alternate Representative. This year she was granted the Third Albert Einstein Commemorative Award for her ten-week tour of Asia which she undertook at the invitation of the American State Department. "China Revisited"—in the last of three talks on his recent visit to China, Edward Jolliffe discusses the arts and how they are thriving in the Chinese People's Republic. Mr. Jolliffe spent seventeen of his early years in west China. News commentary—Anne Francis (Ottawa). Music—Marian Anderson recordings. Reading.

Open House

"Boxing Day"—and it's time to begin writing those thank you notes. Peggy Austin believes in getting the children into the habit even before they can write and it's obvious that in her house the "thank you's" are not a chore but a game. One of the people who listens carefully to what Peggy has to say is British actor John Neville of the Old Vic who has five children at home. Another Boxing Day feature will be Johnny Davidson and his square-dancers.

MARY LIZ SHOW

Only one Mary Liz Show will be presented this week. It will be seen on Tuesday, December 23, at 2:00 p.m. on CBWT, with Mary Elizabeth Bayer and Bill Guest as hosts.

Music and memories will be combined on this Christmas program. Vocalist Georges LaFleche will present a medley of English and French songs of the season; and viewers will meet three guests who remember Christmas in other days and in other climates. They are Mrs. Grace Jones, who will recall festivities in Wales; Joyce Hurley, who will describe the holiday season in the West Indies; and Canon W. H. Walter who will recount some of his experiences during forty-four years in the North.

Saturday, December 20 on CBC-TV

"Amahl and the Night Visitors"

Gian-Carlo Menotti's Christmas opera, Amahl and the Night Visitors, which has become almost a Christmas season tradition in the few years since it was written, will be presented on the CBC-TV network Saturday, December 20 (3:00 p.m. in Manitoba, 4:00 p.m. in Saskatchewan and Alberta). Kirk Jordan plays the role of Amahl, the crippled boy who is miraculously healed following an act of charity on his part. The telecast is a kinerecording of an NBC-TV production.

guages, mostly English, French, and Eskimo.

Early in December the messages begin to arrive at the office of producer Harry Randall, who edits them and has them typed and arranged in the order in which they will be read—that is alphabetically according to the name of the person to whom they are directed.

Following the pattern established in 25 years of service, the four announcers—Norm Micklewright, Bob Willson, Lorne Wallace and Leo Remillard—will read all the English and French messages until they are completed. Then recordings of messages from Eskimos in hospitals and sanitariums in the "south" (Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta) will be played for their friends "down north." Eskimos across the North eagerly await the transmission of these messages in their own language each Christmas. They're heard in points ranging from Labrador almost to the North Pole, and on to the tip of the Yukon. Unlike other means of communication, the Messenger always "gets through."

Listening to the weekly Northern Messenger (shorter programs are heard each Friday night from November to April) has become a tradition across the north. For people in many of the most remote areas it is the only regular contact with friends. The Northern Messenger also offsets the propoganda influence of the only other broadcasts available in many of these areas—those from the U.S.S.R.

Although the Northern Messenger is intended mainly for inhabitants of the North and their friends in the South, many Canadians find listening to the Christmas edition a heart-warming experience each year.

In addition to the Friday night Northern Messenger, the CBC will again present a special Christmas Northern Messenger on Christmas Day at 10:00 p.m. on CBW, CBK, CBX. On this broadcast such public figures as the federal minister of northern affairs, the minister of transport, northern bishops of the Anglican and Roman Catholic churches, and the president of the CBC will give their greetings to the residents of Canada's north. Personal messages will also be given by a few of the most regular Northern Messenger service users. The messages will be interspersed with music by Jake Park and his popular Polka Party band and vocalists Kerr Wilson and Donna Andert.

Harry Randall, who has produced the Northern Messenger series for the past seven seasons, will express his own warm feelings for his listeners on the Christmas Day program.
