The Queen Mother and the Black Watch

• It was a wonderful sight for me to watch our beloved Queen Mother present new colors to the famous Black Watch Regiment (Sat., June 9). The viewing was grand and I was so pleased. I am particularly interested in the Black Watch, as my brother was a regular soldier in the regiment . . . so it brought back so many pleasant memories. Thank you for this program. I do enjoy so many of the programs you televise. — Mrs. E.W., Winnipeg.

Shocked by Letter

• I was shocked and disgusted by the letter in the Times of June 2-8 from Mrs. J.A.B., Winnipeg, regarding teaching French on TV.

I believe it is a great service and an opportunity for many people to study the language. I had studied French in my 'teens, but was getting very rusty from not using it.

There is no French blood in my veins, so I am not biased. — I.B.G., Lethbridge.

CBC Radio in Chile

• To the Hon. J. H. Brockelbank, Saskatchewan Department of Mineral Resources: I heard your broadcast of

May 10th (Assignment) on the helium in Saskatchewan. At this distance, about half way around the world, it was indeed a great pleasure to hear from you. Your voice came in very clear, natural and relaxed. I thoroughly enjoyed your lucid and informative account on Saskatchewan's helium, but above all, you certainly did accomplish this evening to carry Saskatchewan to the farthest corners of the earth.—P.K., La Serena, Chile.

Views on Election Coverage

• While watching the election results last night, I decided to offer the following criticisms which I dearly hope will be constructive.

The whole program, both national and local, was colourless and monotonous. Instead of hearing the same things 20 times, why can't we have more specific information over the whole country? A map of Canada with the ridings marked out could far better show trends than the I.B.M. machine. It would serve a useful purpose in the interest of national unity if we were informed on what is going on beyond our own little area, by pointing out seats with some unusual or interesting history. Surely the cabinet ministers and Red Kelly aren't the only members of our government, past or present, worthy of mention.

Since the people of Manitoba nearly all have home towns in other parts of the country, why do we have to wait till the next day to find out what happened there, while being subjected to a vote-by-vote count here just to fill in time? . . .

Technically, I think the program was excellent, but with such exciting material to work with it is almost unbelievable that such a drab production was made of it. . . . — Mrs. R.A., Winnipeg.

CBC WINNIPEG musicians will perform four special concerts at the University of Manitoba during July, and most of the performances will be available to a larger audience through subsequent broadcasts on CBC Radio.

July 10 and July 31, the CBC Winnipeg Orchestra under Eric Wild will perform. The first concert, featuring violinist Marta Hidy as soloist, will be heard July 16 on the orchestra's regular weekly radio broadcast. The second concert, with mezzo-soprano Rolande Garnier as soloist, will be heard August 6.

The concert July 17 at the university will be performed by Gerald Stanick, viola, Peggie Sampson, 'cello, Leslie Mann, clarinet and Ada Bronstein, piano. Prairie Chamber Music July 17 will broadcast Fairy Tale, op. 132 no. 2 by Schumann, performed in the concert by Stanick, Mann and Bronstein, but three additional numbers will not be broadcast.

On July 24, Peggie Sampson, 'cello and Snjolaug Sigurdson, piano, will perform Sammartini's Sonata in G Major. It will be broadcast July 30 on Recital in Miniature. Tenor Peter Koslowsky will sing songs by Beethoven, accompanied by Sigurdson during the same concert, and this portion will be heard July 29 on Distinguished Artists.

All concerts commence at 12:30 p.m. in the University Residence Auditorium, and the general public is welcome. Producer Tom Taylor is in charge of arrangements.

CLARENCE TILLENIUS is a painter gifted with a genius for capturing the outdoors on canvas. On recent trips, Tilenius has spread his sleeping bag on a mountainside in the Yukon, in the high country of British Columbia, in the forests of New Brunswick, Ontario and Manitoba. Though the person walled up in the city may never watch a white-tailed fawn cavorting through a meadow, or wake to see the sun spilling the yellow light over a range of mountains or the short-grassed prairie, Tilenius captures these experiences to share with everyone.

Sunday, CBC-TV's 20/20 presents a program in which the cameras follow this rugged artist on his search for nature's beauty. It is a story of the outdoors, of animals, of birds, and of the creative art that makes Tilenius one of the world's foremost painters of nature.

Produced at CBC Winnipeg by Peter Kelly, the program was filmed by Paul Guyot.

Doug Crosley Keeps "Popping Up"

The host of the network newcomer, Swingalong, pictured with chorus member Mary Nowell, is a TV veteran while still in his early twenties

IF DOUG CROSLY, singing host of Swingalong Tuesday afternoons on CBC-TV, looks like someone you've seen before—chances are it's him you've seen.

If he resembles the handsome youngster who made guest appearances on Country Club and Holiday Ranch in 1958, it's not surprising. If he seems much like the fine young singer who replaced Allan Blye on Saturday Date in the spring of 1959, while Allan took off a week for his wedding, don't be dismayed. Should you find a resemblance between him and the member of the Gino Silvi Singers who did solo parts on the Top Ten medley on Music '60 in 1959-60, or if he appears much like the young man who hosted Welcome Home, CBC Winnipeg's special Christmas show, and CBC Winnipeg's network 25th anniversary show last—well, that's reasonable.

For in each case it was Doug Crosley making these appearances on the CBC Television Network. And he's kept popping up on many other CBC network shows with great frequency in recent months—Red River Jamboree and Music Break, to name a couple more—while hosting the Swingalong show for the past year on CBWT Winnipeg. (The show captured a network spot starting July 3.)

Still in his early 20's, Doug has established himself as a music variety star with a large following. And it all started with a CBC audition after he won an amateur contest in Oshawa, at

AMERICA ABROAD: The Problems of Being Helpful

SINCE 1776, when the 13 colonies fought a war to break unwanted ties with the Old World, the United States has striven to retain its independence, to determine its own destiny uninfluenced by events in other parts of the world. Throughout much of its history, it has managed to preserve that independence, but today, after two world wars and enormous changes in international relations, the country is deeply involved in the fortunes—economic, sociological and political—of a great many other countries.

The U.S. gives aid of various kinds to some 70 nations, and about two million American citizens now live and work abroad, scattered all over the world. An examination of the work being done by some of these people will be presented on America Abroad, a special program produced by Britain's Associated-Rediffusion for Intertel, to be seen on the CBC-TV network on Monday, July 9.

(Intertel, the International Television Federation, is an association of broadcasters in four English-speaking countries. Members are the National Educational Television Network and the Westinghouse Broadcasting Company in the U.S., the Australian Broadcasting Commission, Associated-Rediffusion, and the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation. Each member of the federation produces programs for showing through other members' facilities, to an estimated world-wide audience of 42 million.)

America Abroad was filmed in four countries: Cambodia, South Vietnam, Pakistan, and Ghana. All receive American aid in one form or another, but the nature of the aid varies widely, as do the political and economic situations of the four countries.

Cambodia accepts help, not only from the U.S., but from France, the Soviet Union, and Communist (Please turn to page 19)

LATE NOTES AND CORRECTIONS

WEEK OF JUNE 30 - JULY 6

Because each issue of the CBC Times must be mailed so far in advance of the program week covered in it, some changes in scheduling and in program content are inevitable. These are noted below:

MONDAY, JULY 2

RADIO

Summerfallow

The Awakening by Charles Israel. The story of a farm boy, who, while maturing and growing up, realizes a new appreciation of nature, the world, and his own responsibilities within the family. Music by Morris Surdin.

Sightline

Fairs and Festivals. The Stratford Festival will not be visited on this program. Co-hosts Fred Davis and Bruce Marsh take visitors on a tour of the Seattle World's Fair and the Dawson City Gold Rush Festival.

At the World's Fair viewers see the superb 21st century architecture manifested in the buildings; the Gay Way Midway, with many new and exciting rides and attractions, and Show Street, the area housing the sideshows. The hosts talk to Patty Conklin, a Canadian who is manager of the Gay Way. Fred Davis also talks to Washington State Governor Albert D. Rosellini on the observation platform of the Space Needle.

At the Gold Rush Festival, ragtime piano player Bob Darch and comedienne Pam Hyatt, who are performing in the Festival, are interviewed. Dawson City has been reconstructed to give the appearance of the 1898 gold rush days, complete with gambling casinos and dance hall girls.

RADIO

Say, Uncle. A series of satirical skits based on Eric Nicol's book of the same title. Adaptation is by Mavor Moore and Stan Daniels. The satire envelopes American history from the beginnings to the present administration. Music is by Lucio Agostini, and the cast includes John Drainie, Paul Klugman, Peter Mews, Bill Cole, Bud Knapp, Don Francks, Ed MacNamara, Corinne Conley, Barbara Hamilton and Betty Robertson.

"Parade" repeats . . .

Brought Back By Popular Request

"Parade" viewers have been naming their favourites over the past couple of years. Now the most-requested programs make up a series of summer repeats

CBC-TV PRODUCER Norman Sedawie has been busy recently, viewing a number of his own productions—the Parade variety shows of the past two seasons. He has picked out the best of the crop for showing this summer on the CBC-TV network Wednesday nights. The summer repeat programs have been selected on the basis of program quality and variety, combined with favourable viewer reaction to their initial showings, and they feature some top Canadian and American entertainers.

Sedawie hasn't minded the extra work. "We're very pleased that Parade has been singled out for repeat showings," he says. "To the best of my knowledge this is the first time that CBC has repeated a series of TV variety shows."

Parade got its start four years ago, a summer series, returned in 1960 and '61, and was carried on into the fall-winter schedule last year. Producer Sedawie has shared directing duties with Bill Davis, and Saul Ilson has served as writer on all Parade shows. The only regular cast member on the series is host Bill Walker, who has been a part of the show since it began. All other performers—ranging from ballet dancers to Dixieland jazzmen—have appeared on a per-occasion basis, conforming to the show's wide variety of format, from opera to sing-along shows. "I look on each Parade as a 30-minute special," points out Sedawie, "because every show has an entirely different cast and format."

The first summer repeat program was seen last week (July 4), and featured jazz pianist Oscar Peterson and his trio, an orchestra led by Phil Nimmons, and singer Ernestine Anderson. For those who missed past Parades or who may wish to savor some shows for a second time, a list of the rest of the summer's shows is given below:

July 11—Sing, Sing, Sing—A sing-along show, with the Gino Silvi Singers and the Alan Lund Dancers.

July 18—Parade Salutes Small Towns—Singers Joan

Fairfax and Denny Vaughan help Montreal Canadiens' hockey star Bernie (Boom Boom) Geoffrion make his TV debut as a popular vocalist.

July 25—Brenda Lee — Show stars the teen-age American singer, backed by a five-man vocal-instrumental group. At 18, Brenda Lee is a veteran of most of the major U.S. television variety shows. She made her first appearance on the Perry Como Show at the ripe age of 10, and has since become a teenage idol, now selling three million records a year.

August 1—Parade Presents Jazz—Trumpeter Maynard Ferguson appears as soloist and as leader of a big jazz band. Montreal-born, Ferguson formed his first band in 1943, at age 15, later was featured trumpeter with Stan Kenton's band, and has headed his own groups at the Newport Jazz Festival, New York's Birdland, and the Stratford (Ont.) Jazz Festival. Sharing the program with him are Jackie Cain and Roy Kral, who specialize in a singing style in which they imitate instrumental sounds, and the Pat Riccio Quartet, a Toronto jazz group.

August 8—The Traffic Problem—Singers Shirley Harmer and Julius La Rosa co-star in a show about driving schools, parking problems and other traffic topics, with the Billy Van Four vocal group and the Don Gillies Dancers.

August 15—Parade Presents Diahann Carroll — Show is built around Miss Carroll, acclaimed as one of the most dynamic and versatile singers to emerge in the U.S. in recent years. She is assisted by the Don Gillies Dancers and the Royden Smith Singers.

August 22—Parade Features Groups—The George Shearing Quintet shares this show with the Billy Van Four, a vocal-instrumental-comedy group known as the Hi-Lads, and a Dixieland band led by trombonist Murray Ginsberg.

August 29—The Jet Age—A musical tribute to modern air travel, starring revue artists Bill Cole and

Some of Those Days

A popular summertime variety series which recaptures by-gone days through music, photographs and news-reel film. Bill Bellman is host of the Vancouver-produced show. Regulars in the cast are: comedian-musician Barney Potts; Lance Harrison and his orchestra; and singers Thora Anders; Lorraine McAllister; Pat Walker; Betty Hilker; Pat Morgan; and Maurice Pearson.

1925. It was the year of Charlie Chaplin's famous Gold Rush film and comedian Harold Lloyd went to college and played football in his film, The Freshman. Speakeasies were popular and so were balloon pants worn by men. Baseball star Babe Ruth was in full power. A few of the selections are:

Then I'll Be Happy	Anders and Hilker
A Cup of Coffee, A Sandwich and You	McAllister and Pearson

Sweet and Low-Down _____ Walker and Morgan
 Collegiate _____ Potts and Harrison
 Save Your Sorrow for Tomorrow _____ Full cast

Sir Francis Drake

CBXT—Play of the Week

A Very Special Baby. The story of an affluent Italian family living on Long Island, and the 34-year-old "baby" of the family who has been under his father's thumb all his life. Starring Oscar Homolka and Larry Blyden.

World of Sport

International Pro-Am Golf Matches. Steve Douglas with film coverage of the 6th annual International Pro-Am Golf Matches for the Carling Cup. The 18-hole tourney was played July 2 at St. George's Golf and Country Club, Toronto. Douglas covers action on the 18th hole as the four Canadian and four U.S. teams finish the match-play tourney, using the three-point Nassau scoring system.

Each foursome consists of a Canadian and American pro and a Canadian and American amateur. Canadian pros competing are Stan Leonard, Al Balding, George Knudson and Gord Brydson. They are teamed with amateurs Garry Cowan, Nick Weslock, Phil Brownlee and Gord MacKenzie. U.S. pros are Dow Finsterwald, Julius Boros, Gay Brewer Jr. and Ernie Vossler.

World of Sport

World Soccer. World Cup Soccer matches played in Chile and described by David Coleman and Kenneth Wolstenholme.

Country Calendar

Up-to-date methods in haying procedures are discussed and an agricultural engineer explains the proper way to adjust farm equipment.

20/20

Program Notes

JULY 9

See also page 4 of next week's issue for possible changes in these notes and additional program information

Live and Learn

A series of half-hour programs about geology. Host is Dr. David Baird, chairman of the department of geology, University of Ottawa.

Beaches. Doctor Baird looks at the processes and features which mark the meeting place of water and land.

Vacation Time

Hosts Toby Tarnow, Tom Kneebone and Lloyd Robertson show a film from the Sir Lancelot series. Jim Mitchell teaches the elementary crawl to swimming students at Central YMCA, Winnipeg. The program also includes a cartoon entitled "Henry and His Claymates."

CBXT-Gateway

Host Jim Schrumm presents the timely and the topical on the Edmonton scene, and Ernie Afaganis with this week's golf pro, Ron McLeod of the Jasper Park Lodge, demonstrates how to improve power hitting with the driver.

David Copperfield

In this episode Mr. Micawber plots against Uriah Heep and invites friends to Canterbury to witness an explosion.

A Case for the Court

The Unused Seat Belt. Once you have seat belts installed in your car, does it constitute negligence not to use them? Judge: the Hon. Mr. Justice Stewart; lawyers: Gregory Evans, Q.C. for the defense, and R. A. Mac-kimmie for the plaintiff.

Danny Thomas

Danny and Durante. Danny's nose causes him undue concern.

Singalong Jubilee

A singing show devoted to folk songs and old favourites, many of them with a maritime theme. Bill

Percy Saltzman (left) host of the new CBC-TV series, Making Ends Meet, splits a "two-dollar bill" with Lorne Rowbottom of the Dominion Bureau of Statistics, guest expert on the first program. The series, which started Monday, July 2, examines spending patterns of Canadians and shows how some families manage to "cut corners" in their budgeting.

Langstroth is the host with singers Bud Spencer and Elan Stuart, singer-guitarist-violinist Fred McKenna, announcer Jim Bennet, and the Jubilee Singers.

A few of their selections are:

- Streets of Laredo _____ Bud
- Black is the Colour of My True Love's _____ Bud
- Heir _____ Elan
- The Moonshiner _____ Fred
- Beer Barrel Polka _____ Jubilee Singers

Room for One More

Ribbin's and Beaux. Mary pretends to have a boyfriend to prove to a girl she is popular with boys.

Making Ends Meet

A series of half-hour documentaries on family budgeting. Each program features studio discussion, filmed interviews, still photographs and cartoons illustrating statistics. Families representing low, medium and high income brackets are interviewed and an expert in each of the areas discussed (food, clothes, etc.) also appears on each show. Host is Percy Saltzman. Producer, Leo Rampen.

The problem dealt with on today's program is food.

Intertel

America Abroad. An examination of four countries in which American citizens are actively engaged in a program of foreign aid financed by the U.S. government. Countries are Cambodia, South Vietnam, Pakistan and Ghana. Produced and written by Peter Hunt. Narrators are Michael Ingrams and Peter Dyneley. Music was specially written and conducted by James Stevens.

CBWT-Surfside Six

An Overdose of Justice. In a search for some stolen money, Dave Thorne clashes with a beautiful murderess.

Making Ends Meet

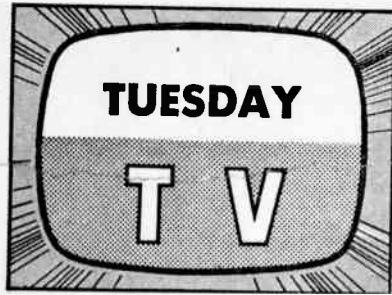

-Is this difficult in your family? Then this new CBC-TV series may prove helpful

MORE THAN HALF the Canadian urban families live on between three and six thousand dollars a year. One-quarter earn less than three thousand. Only the remaining quarter make more than six thousand annually. How do these groups spend their money? How do some of them manage to cut corners in their budgeting? Explorations offers some of the answers in a new seven-part series on family financing, Making Ends Meet, which began Monday night, July 2, on CBC-TV. Percy Saltzman is the host.

The first program introduced three young couples who will be reappearing in each program to tell how they handle their family budgeting in different areas, Nancy and Jim, whose income is under $4,000 a year; Sandra and Harold, who have between $6,000

JULY 11

See also page 4 of next week's issue for possible changes in these notes and additional program information

Playground

A series of half-hour films featuring various aspects of different parts of Canada.

The Cape Islander. Story of the Cape Island boats, describing how they are made at Clarke's Harbour, Nova Scotia, and showing their variety of duties for fishing and fun in the coastal waters of Nova Scotia.

Wild Life Rendezvous. A "who's who" of Canadian wildlife, the film introduces wild fowl and wild animals at the wildlife sanctuary near Shubenacadie, Nova Scotia where almost all species are to be found.

Vacation Time

Featuring a film about a boy rancher entitled Playstreet. Jim Mitchell's swimming lesson for today includes the surface dive and back crawl, with demonstrations filmed at Central YMCA, Winnipeg.

The Living Sea

The First Mariner. Anthropologist Wilson Duff of the University of British Columbia talks about early man in North America.

CBWT—A to Zoo

Nursery. The surroundings in which young animals begin to grow up and the family life of the Sarus Crane, Snow Leopard and Syrian Bear are illustrated. Another sequence shows a Woodford's Owl acting as foster parent to a young Snowy Owl. For the first time on film a mother Octopus is shown diligently caring for her cluster of eggs until they hatch.

The second part of the film illustrates a variety of animal noises including the whooping Gibbons, the improbable squeak of the Rhinoceros and the deafening shriek of the Bell-bird.

CBWT—Alberta Game Farm

The program discusses the problem of the dwindling number of reindeer and caribou in Northern Canada. They are being saved from possible extinction by being observed in captivity. In addition there is a report on the success of the captive breeding at the Alberta Game Farm.

Al Oeming describes the slight difference between the reindeer and caribou and some of the newly-born reindeer are shown.

CBXT—Farm Focus

Dick Bocking visits the Rocky Mountain House district to see brush control methods that will make possible greatly increased farm production in the area.

Whitney Blake, also seen Sundays on "Hazel," is a star Wednesday on Kraft Mystery Theatre.

Of Ballads and Bards

A quarter hour of folk songs featuring singer Reg Gibson and guitarist-vocalist Jim Pirie. Host is Ed Derback. Producer, Ray McConnell.

CBXT—Hancock's Half Hour

Economy Drive. Hancock decides to institute an economy drive after a holiday which cost him a lot of money but which gave him little enjoyment. Sydney James is co-star.

Dennis the Menace

Dennis Has a Fling. Mr. Wilson appears as a Scotsman in kilts for the All-Nations Show being presented at Dennis' school.

Parade

Sing, Sing, Sing. With host Bill Walker and starring the Gino Silvi singers and the Alan Lund Dancers.

Kraft Mystery Theatre

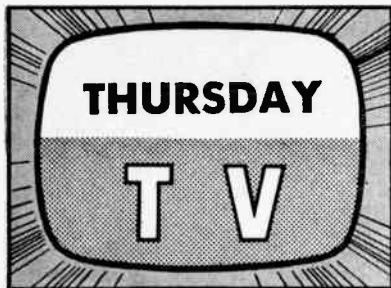

Two Counts of Murder. A district attorney discovers that he may lose his fiancée, his chance to become governor and possibly his life, if he does not release a political boss' grandson from a murder charge. Starring Raymond Massey, Whitney Blake and David Janssen.

Sightline

The Summer Stage. Master of ceremonies Fred Davis and a guest emcee visit a number of theatre and entertainment events. Included are a girl's rodeo at High River, Alberta; La Poudriere, Montreal; the Red Barn Theatre at Jackson's Point, Ontario; and Theatre Under the Stars in Vancouver.

The Gino Silvi Singers are seen Wednesday on Parade, in a repeat of their "Sing, Sing, Sing" program of earlier this year.

China. The program shows projects undertaken in the country by each of these donors, and discusses their relative successes.

In war-torn South Vietnam, some of the major U.S. aid projects are shown, including bridges, highways, civil aviation developments, and the continuing fight against malaria.

The portion of the program devoted to Pakistan, where 70 projects have been completed of 100 undertaken, includes interviews with Americans engaged in these projects and with some Pakistanis who deeply resent the "foreigners" and the projects.

The U.S. citizens who appear on the program are typical of the thousands of engineers, doctors, teachers, missionaries and voluntary Peace Corps workers now representing America in countries throughout the world.

In the opinion of Peter Hunt, writer and producer of America Abroad, these Americans are representing their country well, on the whole. "Not all are popular," he points out, "but some have proved to be indispensable. Some are popular but useless. Some are brilliant but misplaced. Some mean well but are misunderstood. Where the task involved direct interference in the internal affairs of a country we found acute difficulty, some hard feelings. Where it was being done because it should be done, we found co-operation and admiration."

Michael Ingrams, director of America Abroad, shares Hunt's view. "The aid programs to the underdeveloped countries," he writes, "in the initiation, financing and administration of which the United States plays the immensely largest part, are the wonders of the modern world—splendid and hope-filled wonders, however mixed may be their motivation and whatever failures and weaknesses may mar their interpretation. Every American taxpayer can well take pride in the investment he is making in the peace, security and well-being of his poorer fellow humans."

Absolve Te

Is Father Gravel a mystic?

This will be left for the viewer to decide as he watches the new series Absolve Te. One thing is certain: Father Gravel is a young, dynamic personality who wants to help people, but is needed by no one. Everyone, it seems, refuses to take him seriously.

One day however, Heaven grants him the opportunity to save a strange young girl dominated by an inexpllicable terror, who is brutally taken from the confessional, at the very moment she is to confess her sins. Father Gravel is himself beaten unconscious, and when he wakes up, all that remains from his encounter with the girl is a small Roman missal forgotten in the confessional.

This poor lead will be sufficient to send the impetuous young priest on an exciting search for the girl whom he feels will surely need his help. This scene is typical of the quality of the plays to be presented on this new series. It is a suspense-filled series of which no one, not even the actors, will know the outcome, until the last program.

Don't miss an episode! Absolve Te is seen Wednesdays on CBWFT at 10:00 p.m.

BOXING

"The Pot of Gold Behind a Single PUNCH"

WHAT WOULD THE Marquess of Queensberry think of the sport now? Have the golden gloves become emblems of torture? Is boxing still the gentlemanly art of self-defence or is it mayhem—a pot of gold lying behind a single punch? Should it be abolished?

Recently Montreal freelance broadcaster Lou Craig, an artist and mother of a 14-year-old boy, gathered a variety of outspoken opinions from men associated directly or indirectly with boxing. CBC radio's Soundings presents them Thursday night.

Mrs. Craig talked to a coach, a promoter, boys on their way up as amateur boxers, a doctor, the athletic director of a university, an ex-professional boxer, and Andy O'Brien, sports editor of Weekend magazine.

O'Brien pulled no punches in his replies. "Boxing, and this is the fundamental fault of it," he said, "is designed to injure. I abhor the father who sends his boy into golden gloves. The more plain guts a fellow has the more danger he is in."

Ex-professional boxer Armand Savoie of Montreal says he went into the game "for the glory. I wanted to be liked by everybody, and be good to everybody." Savoie, who has since been on unemployment insurance and has worked as a waiter, admits that the friends of his palmy days are no longer around.

Young fighter Marcel Bellefeuille had a patriotic motive for donning gloves, says he "wanted to win something for the country."

Mrs. Craig also interviewed promoter Eddy Quinn, young Olympic fighter, Gaby Masini, coach Roger Larivière of La Palestre Nationale, Montreal, Dr. E. F. Crutchlow, consultant physician to the McGill Athletic Board, and Harry Griffiths, director of athletics for McGill University.

Boxing didn't start out as a refined art. First it was bare knuckles, at a time lost in the mists of Greek mythology, when Apollo was one of the champs. Boxing became a feature at most Greek games, and one of the Olympic heroes, Theagenes, is reported to have killed 1,800 men with his fists, though it is unlikely that this all occurred in the ring.

Greek fighters wore a belt, probably to inhibit foul bashing, and a leather glove known as a cestus. Later, when boxing was introduced to Rome, it fell on evil days, for the Romans, playing to the blood lust of the crowd, added some brutal attractions by attaching bronze buttons to the cestus.

After several centuries of Romans being mashed to pulp for the benefit of the box-office, fist fighting was outlawed. It disappeared for 1,200 years before it popped up again, this time in England, and its popularity quickly spread to North America.

They tell the story that Jess Willard thought he had slipped back into gory Roman times when Jack Dempsey beat the bejabbers out of him at Toledo some time ago. The day was a scorcher, and prior to the bout, when Dempsey's hands were sprinkled with powder before they were taped, the trainer accidentally grabbed a can of plaster of paris instead of talcum. When Dempsey started to perspire, the plaster began to set. And when Dempsey threw a punch at his opponent, Willard thought he'd been hit by a brick. After the fight Dempsey's vanity was badly pricked when he unpacked his gloves and discovered the real reason for his success.

Boxing was an even more red-blooded sport than it is today before the Marquess of Queensberry introduced padded gloves to the ring and drew up the standard boxing rules in 1865 (revised in 1890). Andy O'Brien recalls that "wrestling and hugging were allowed. A weakening man could be cross-buttocked into a stage of breathlessness. Gripping a man by the throat was legal. So was tripping him, then jumping upon the prostrate fellow. A round ended when a man went down for any reason, resumed 30 seconds later. There were no wins by decision, only by knockout."

And sometimes bouts went on for hours. The fans were not greedy, but they liked a lot. A world championship heavyweight fight held in Canada in 1857 lasted for 152 rounds—two hours, 58 minutes. But not all bouts, even long ones, have been banging-up sessions for the pugilists. At a fight in Port Dover, Ontario, in 1870, the fighters danced around the ring for an hour and 17 minutes without striking a blow.

Many fights have had their funny side as well as their rough. Several boxers have been wits whose sense of humour took a lot to knock down for a full count. When Max Baer beat Carnera in 11 rounds in 1934, the highlights of the fight was a crazy fandango the two danced before both tumbled to the canvas with Max yelling: "Last one up is a sissy!" When the late Harry Greb was fighting a bout with Gene Tunney in which Tunney was giving him a bad time, Greb's trainers kept shouting encouraging words from

LATE CONCERT

A group of Peter Warlock songs are featured in the first half of this program. Most of them are settings of an earlier age and demonstrate the composer's genius for capturing the spirit of the period without resorting to a quality of the archaic as a musical parallel.

The Brahms' work featured for the second half is presented for no other reason than to prove that the composer wasn't always morose and introspective in his compositions.

Twelve Songs Peter Warlock

Featuring tenor Alexander Young and pianist Gordon Watson. Sigh No More, Ladies; Mockery; Sweet-and-Twenty; Pretty Ring Time; And Wilt Thou Leave Me Thus?; Away To Twiver; Sleep; Jillian of Berry; The Lover's Maze; The Fox; Yarnouth; Rest, Sweet Nymphs.

Sonata No. 2 in A major,
 op. 100 Johannes Brahms

Featuring violinist Wolfgang Schneiderhan and pianist Carl Seenan.

Producer, Benjamin Horch.

CHORAL MUSIC

In the first in a series of two programs the CBC Winnipeg Choristers sing an oratorio by Franz Schubert. (The second program will feature the first radio performance of Bernard Naylor's Three Motets, and Benjamin Britten's Cantata for Organ, Soloists and Choir entitled Rejoice in the Land).

Miriam's Song of Triumph was composed in 1828—the year of Schubert's death. It is written for soprano soloist, a four-part chorus and piano accompaniment. Schubert's publisher suggested the work, claiming that a new market was open for easier choral works requiring only a pianoforte accompaniment among the hundreds of Germany's small choral societies.

The Song of Triumph deals with the flight of the children of Israel from Egypt through the Red Sea. The work requires a soprano with a range of more than two octaves. For this performance the role of Miriam is sung by soprano Phyllis Thompson and mezzo-soprano Joan Maxwell. Accompaniment is by pianist Stuart Thompson. Conductor, Filmer Hubble. Produced by Benjamin Horch.

SPORTS

by
KEN REEVES
 CBC Regina Sportscaster

THE WEEKEND of July 7 promises to be one of the best of the summer on CBC television for sports fans, with top-flight attractions scheduled from Saturday through Tuesday. On Saturday, the usual major league game of the week will feature the Chicago Cubs and Milwaukee Braves (except on CBWT) from the picturesque Wrigley Field, in Chicago. Although neither the Cubs nor Braves are in a contending position at the moment, both have some outstanding veterans and youngsters in their lineups. But both are weak in pitching, which probably accounts for their low placings in the pennant race.

However, both teams have plenty of long-ball hitters, with the Braves fielding such as Joe Adcock, Hank Aaron, and Eddie Mathews. Chicago can counter with players like Ernie Banks, rookie Lou Brock, and the outstanding sophomore, Billy Williams.

Sunday will feature film coverage of the sixth annual Pro.-Am. International golf tournament, to be played July 2nd at Toronto's St. George's Golf and Country Club. CBC sports commentator Steve Douglas describes the action, which includes Canadian professionals Stan Leonard, Al Balding, George Knudson and Gord Brydson. The amateurs representing Canada are Gary Cowan, Nick Weslock, Phil Brownlee and Gord MacKenzie. The U.S. pros are the well-known Dow Finsterwald, Julius Boros, Gay Brewer, Jr., and Ernie Vossler. (The U.S. amateurs will be named later.)

Four Canadian and four U.S. teams compete in this match-play tournament and the Nassau system and $7,000 to spend and save; and Kay and Gordon, whose combined earnings bring in a little over $10,000 annually. The overall average city income in Canada, according to the latest statistics, is $5,000. No one is truly "average," but these three pairs of husbands and wives will be among the examples the series will use. In the first program L. C. Rowebottom of the Dominion Bureau of Statistics explains how statistics are assembled, and puts them in proper perspective.

Catherine MacIver says: "Making Ends Meet" does not set out to tell people how they ought to spend their money. But we will see how some families budget, where they save, when they splurge, where the pinch comes. We will also see what the national averages are: how much the illusive "average" family, making two, four or eight thousand a year, spends on housing, food, clothing, appliances, and so forth. And—in the last program—we hope to take a fresh look at the question of personal savings. Is "money in the bank" as important as it used to be? We hope that by observing the spending patterns of some of their neighbours, viewers may be able to see some choices of which they were unaware. The experience of one family—who looked at 150 development homes before buying one—may, for example, be of assistance to anyone who thinks all subdivision houses in the same price range are pretty much alike."

In each program discussion in the studio will be supplemented by filmed interviews in homes, still photographs with voiced commentary, and cartoons illustrating statistics. An expert in each of the areas discussed (food, clothes, etc.), will also appear on each show to give opinions.

The writer-researcher for the series, Jean Morrison, was assisted by the staff of the Dominion Bureau of Statistics.

The July 9 program will concern food budgeting; July 16: homes; July 23: appliances; July 30: clothes; August 6: cars; August 13: money in the bank.

DOUG CROSLLEY

which CBC variety producer Drew (Country Hoedown) Crossen was judge.

Doug was raised in Oshawa, home of Shirley Harmer (star of A Summer Night, Fridays) and Mary Frances (who made a big hit as female vocalist on Country Hoedown during 1961.) In fact, Doug sang frequently with Mary Frances in an Oshawa bandshell, when both of them were studying semi-classical and operatic singing. "Mary's voice was an octave higher at that time," he recalls—but the demands of a pops singing career caused her to lower it.

Following his graduation from Trinity College of Music, Toronto, Doug worked as a draughtsman in an Oshawa automobile factory until his "big break"—winning the amateur contest and CBC auditions.

Versatility always has been a strong point with Doug. "I used to be soloist at church on Sundays, and sometimes follow up with an appearance at a rock n' roll show the same day," he recalls of his 'teens in his home town. He is good enough on the trumpet and trombone to have played them in an Oshawa danceband, interspersing instrumentals with a few songs. "The fellows in the band didn't like my voice," says Doug modestly, although if this is true, they must be quite alone among a world of Doug Crosley fans.

Among those fans is Manitoba's Lieutenant-Governor Errick Willis. Doug is the only popular performer to have given a command performance at Manitoba's Government House—singing for an I.O.D.E. tea. He gave another performance with the Lieutenant-Governor in attendance at the Golden Boys' banquet held by the Manitoba Travel Association. Mr. Willis enjoyed Doug and the Swingalong chorus so much at that time, that he had them stay the evening, and jokingly proposed that they might make use of him in the bass section.

Doug's career has not skirted the medium of radio. In the summer and early fall of 1960, he did a 15-minute weekly show on CFRB Toronto. He has been guest on CBC Radio's Variety Showcase, and one week replaced Georges LaFleche on his CBC Radio Network show.

Night clubs have received him enthusiastically. He went to Buffalo, N.Y., for a one-week stand that stretched to 13 weeks in 1960, and since moving to Winnipeg in 1961, has appeared at a leading night spot.

A privately owned television station in Toronto invited him back for many guest appearances after he first was seen on a late-night variety show.

Perhaps the most important move the young singer has made so far in his career was in the summer of 1961, when he decided to investigate the possibilities of appearing on Winnipeg's outdoor theatre, Rainbow Stage, or on one of the shows produced at CBC Winnipeg.

He was eagerly snapped up by producer Neil Andrews for the series of informal "sing-along" programs planned for the summer, Swingalong. At the end of the scheduled 13 weeks, the viewers were clamouring for more, as they continued to do throughout the winter. The setting had to change from a campfire to a ski-lodge, but the music kept the same relaxing style, under direction of Neil Harris and Mitch Parks. Much of the program's appeal comes from the successfully created atmosphere—that of a group of clean-cut young people having a good time harmonizing together.

Midway in the winter season, says Doug jokingly, "I got tired of taking off my makeup myself after each show, so I decided to arrange for some help." In November, he married Jean Gray of CBC's makeup department.

In his off-camera hours, the husky Doug—6' 1½", 175 lbs.—likes to slip down to the "Y" for some weight-lifting. "I enjoy picking up my trumpet occasionally, too—when the neighbours are out of ear-shot." And another favourite pastime is cooking, which he does to perfection.

"He turned out 40 magnificent steaks for the Swingalong cast's barbecue the other day," says producer Neil Andrews, smacking his lips. "And I can tell you that his prime rib roast with Yorkshire pudding is a delicacy."

Live audiences add to the fun of performing, Doug agrees—particularly after a recent Swingalong show taped with a studio full of people in attendance. Musical comedy also provides an opportunity for such live-audience appearances, and Doug looks back with pleasure to a show aptly titled "Purely for Pleasure" in which he played the male lead, travelling through southern Ontario in the summer of 1959.

This summer, Doug is anticipating an appearance with Winnipeg's Rainbow Stage, although no announcements could be made at press time. And present plans indicate that Doug and the chorus will continue their local television appearances on CBWT Winnipeg next fall, but—firm schedules have not yet been announced.

began with 16 teams from as many countries, and after a round-robin series, quarter finalists and semi-finalists were declared, which led to the eventual final between the defending champions from Brazil and Czechoslovakia. The world cup is played only every four years, and Brazil became the first country to win twice in succession since the Italians had done so in 1934 and again in 1938. Just which game CBC sports fans will see isn't known at this time but regardless of the competing teams you'll be treated to the best-played soccer in the world.

Tuesday on CBC television, the first of two annual Major League all-star games will be shown from the new District of Columbia Stadium, at Washington, D.C. This 32nd annual all-star game will be handled by the well-known commentators, Mel Allen and Joe Garagiola. All baseball fans will no doubt remember the fine job of reporting by the humorous Garagiola on last year's World Series. A former Major League catcher, Garagiola is one of the keenest analyzers in baseball reporting. He has the ability to size up any situation and is usually correct in his estimations of what the respective managers will do under the circumstances. In fact, Garagiola is such an observant man, that he knows almost every odd-ball quirk of the vast majority of veteran major league batters and can call them before the routine is begun once the batter reaches the plate.

the sidelines. "You're doing just fine, Harry," called one of them. "He hasn't laid a glove on you." "Well," mumbled the disheartened Greb through crushed and bloody lips, "you'd better keep your eyes on the referee, because someone in there is punching the hell out of me!"

Today's boxers don't go in for the histrionics of the old ring heroes. John L. Sullivan was probably the champ at giving the crowd a bit of colour and fun. At Madison Square Garden in 1884, when 12,000 braved the heat to see him cut down England's top boxer, Charley Mitchell, Sullivan arrived late to find the crowd considerably browned off with waiting. He staggered into the ring in full dress, took off his top hat, belched loudly, and called:

"Gentlemen, I am sick and not able to fight. The doctor is here, and this is the first time I have disappointed yer."

"He's drunk!" screamed the crowd. Then Mitchell spoke up: "Gentlemen, I am prepared to box, but Sullivan claims he is sick, and it would not be fair as I am feeling pretty good myself." The fight was postponed.

Four years later the two met again, in France, and again got the crowd fighting mad. They battled in a driving rain, and after 35 minutes and 39 rounds the fight was a draw. The crowd was ready for their blood, because during the bout both of the pugilists would stroll nonchalantly around the ring, then retire to their corners to scrape the clay off their boots, "and refresh themselves until one would challenge the other."

No Summer Holiday For CBC-TV Musicians

IT WAS CUSTOMARY, not too long ago, to regard warm weather as incompatible with serious music. A definite hiatus occurred in musical life during the summer, and concerts and recitals were almost non-existent.

Today, however, the enormous popularity of summer music-and-arts festivals has shown that people's tastes don't change completely with the advent of higher temperatures.

Reflecting this idea, CBC-TV will continue to present serious-music programs during the summer months. The hour-long Concert series, from Montreal, will be seen most Monday evenings, and the Recital series, shown on an intermittent basis in recent months, began a regular weekly schedule, Tuesday nights, starting July 3.

The Recital programs will concentrate on the music with a minimum of spoken introductions. Simple settings will be enhanced by imaginative use of lighting and camera angles.

A program of a few weeks ago, in which the Canadian String Quartet played Maurice Ravel's Quartet in F, provides an example of the techniques to be employed. The four players were placed in a setting which suggested the massive stone balcony of a Mediterranean villa; the only set decoration was a framed portrait of Ravel; the lighting suggested evening; and, as the musicians played, the cameras wandered around the set, moving in from time to time to focus on an individual player when he had a solo passage. The total effect gave the viewer a sense of participation, as if he were a guest at a quiet musical evening.

Some of the Canadian artists to appear in the Recital series: harpist Lise Nadeau, pianist Ronald Turini, tenor Leopold Simoneau, soprano Pierrette Alarie, and pianist Mark Jablonski.

Mark Jablonski

Other performers to be seen in coming weeks include: cellist Zara Nelsova, violinist Devy Erlih, pianist Franz Brouw, flutist Jean-Pierre Rampal, harpsichordist Robert Veyron-Lacroix, violinist Christian Ferras, duo-pianists Victor Bouchard and Renée Morisset, the violin-piano duo of Lee and Makanowitzky, and the Baroque Trio of Montreal.

RECIPES FEATURED ON
"LADIES FIRST" EACH TUESDAY
ON CBWT AND CBXT

DOUBLE RING DESSERT MOLD

- 2 pkgs. lemon jelly powder
- 2 tsp. unflavoured gelatin
- 1 cup pineapple juice
- 1 cup hot water
- 2 pints vanilla ice cream
- 1 can (20 oz.) crushed drained pineapple
- ½ cup toasted chopped almonds
- ½ cup chopped maraschino cherries

Mix jelly powder, gelatin, pineapple juice and water in saucepan. Put on low heat and stir until gelatin is dissolved. Remove from heat. Spoon in ice cream and stir until melted. Then fold in all other ingredients.

Pour into two four-cup molds and chill until firm. Place on tray, interwinding one ring with the other. Fill centres with fruit in season.

Makes 12 servings.

Quilico to Paris

Montreal-born baritone Louis Quilico, who will be seen in CBC-TV's production of the Verdi opera Otello in the fall, recently signed a five-month contract with the Paris Opera for next season. His current contract with the Royal Opera, Covent Garden, expires in July.

Quilico sings the role of Iago in the CBC production, a role he sang in the Canadian Opera Festival in Toronto during 1960. Last winter, in the midst of his Covent Garden season, he made a successful debut at the Paris Opera.

The singer is negotiating for appearances in Russia next season, and this summer will appear on concert stages in Montreal, New York and Philadelphia. In the autumn, he will commute between the Canadian Opera Festival in Toronto (where he will sing the title role in Rigoletto) and the New York City Centre Opera.
