From Henry Kahn

GARLAND WILSON is dead. The popular American planist died from internal nemorthage at the American hospital in Faris at 5 o'clock from internal neurostries or an analysis of the manufacture of the method on Monday morning.

Taps Miller told me that Garland, who was drawing a big crowd to the Boeuf Sut Le Tolt, had complained on Sunday evening that he was not feeling well. But the audience was there and Garland played—until he began coughing well. But the audience was there and Garland played—until he began coughing well.
