Analysts Bullish On Radio Industry Stocks For 1995

■ Will likely grow faster than rest of economy

Wall Street analysts say 1995 should be a good year for radio stocks, with the industry expected to post stronger gains in revenues and cash flow margins than other media.

"Even if the economic recovery ends in 1995, radio stocks should be resilient," said Alex. Brown & Sons analyst Drew Marcus. "Even if we get an economic downturn, radio advertising should still grow faster than the economy." That's a worst-case scenario, though, and Alex. Brown is not predicting an economic recession next year.

Marcus noted that although the radio industry may be about halfway through its duopoly consolidation, "We're probably at the early stage of margin gains from duopoly." He expects to see duopoly efficiencies translate into faster cash flow growth, which should give a boost to radio stocks.

PaineWebber's Alan Gottesman is also bullish about advertising growth in 1995 and expects to see most radio stocks do well.

Music Radio Listeners Also Crave Traffic Information

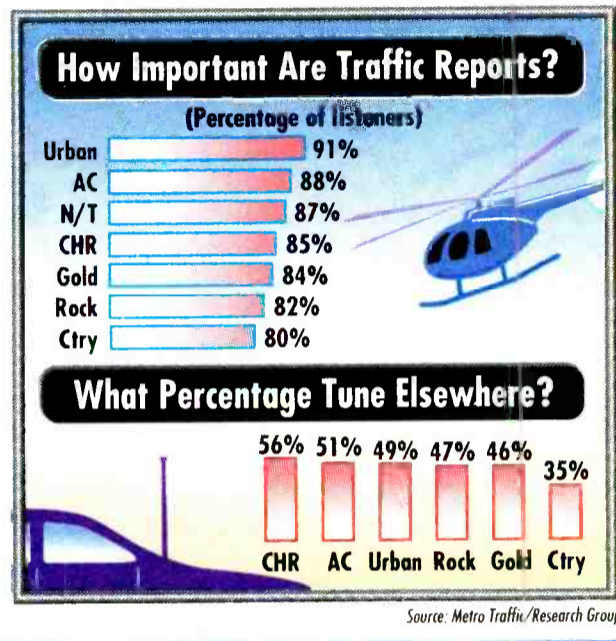

■ Interest greatest among Urban, AC listeners

Traffic reports are aired most frequently on News/Talk stations — they run every six minutes on KNX/Los Angeles — but listeners of major-market music stations are just as interested in traffic conditions, according to a Research Group study commissioned by Metro Networks.

The survey, which polled 1000 18-54 adults in New York, L.A., Chicago, Minneapolis, and Denver, found that 85% of listeners felt traffic reports were important during commute hours in 1994, 2% fewer than a similar survey found a year earlier.

Among the more interesting findings: AC and Urban listeners were more desirous of traffic reports than NT listeners. The Research

New FCC Commissioner Seeks Minority, Female Gains

This week, R&R's "10 Questions With ..." spotlights one of the FCC's two newcomers. Susan Ness, an institutional lender by trade, was hand-picked by President Clinton to succeed Ervin Duggan in March and was sworn in two months later.

Now, with six months on the job under her belt, Ness talks to R&R reporter Mary Ann Barton about EEO issues, indecency, and her role within the agency.

Q Chairman Reed Hundt has made female and minority involvement in broadcasting a top priority. How do you feel about that?

A As a lender, it was enormously frustrating not to see many minorities or women as GMs of radio stations or group managers or even station man-

Pressler: Communications Bill Tops '95 Priorities List

■ Incoming Commerce Chairman says legislation will unlock telecommunications floodgates

If all goes as planned, Sen. Larry Pressler (R-SD) will be elected the next chairman of the Senate Commerce Committee, possibly as early as today (12/2). Saying the time for talk is over, Pressler vowed to make passage of a communications bill his top priority once he's installed in his new post.

Pressler

"We've had hearings and hearings and hearings, and we've had lobbying and lobbying and lobbying," Pressler complained. "We've got the information — now let's see if we can get a bill together and do it. I'm making a plea — let's make it happen in '95." A communications bill drafted earlier this year under the chairmanship of Sen. Ernest Hollings (D-SC) fell victim to behind-the-scenes bickering by special interests. Hollings put part of the blame for the bill's demise on Sen. Robert Dole (R-KS), who is expected to lead the Republican majority

Kalodner Joins Columbia As Sr. VP/A&R, West Coast

Longtime Geffen A&R guru John David Kalodner joined Columbia as Sr. VP/A&R, West Coast this week. He's following one of his most successful acts, Aerosmith, into the Big Red fold, where he'll "influence" Columbia's records, as well as soundtracks, international efforts, and the new West Coast label. Kalodner's administrative duties will be minimal, and he won't report to Sr. VP/A&R David Kahn in a typically hierarchical fashion.

Calling Kalodner "the epitome of a great A&R executive," Columbia President Don Jenner asserted, "What John has accomplished in his 20-year career is nothing short of astounding, and he possesses the experience and talent to continue for another 20 years."

"I have known and respected John for many years," stated Sony Music Entertainment Exec. VP Michele Anthony. "He is a music-first executive who brings with him great instincts and a true devotion and dedication to his artists."

Kalodner told R&R, "It was a very simple decision, really. It was always my dream to work for Columbia Records, because when Meibach Becomes Executive VP At Warner Music - U.S.

Another piece of Doug Morris's plan falls into place this week as Ina Meibach joins Warner Music-U.S. as Exec. VP. She'd been Atlantic Group Exec. VP/General Counsel since leaving her own firm (Meibach, Epstein & Regis) earlier this year.

"Along with her legal savvy and creative instincts, Ina brings a wonderful sense of humor and great warmth to her work," commented Warner Music-U.S. President/COO Mel Lewinter, who worked with Meibach at Atlantic. "She will be involved in all facets of our activities."

Warner Music Chairman/CEO Morris called her "one of the most accomplished and admired peo-

Meibach told R&R, "I'm working with Doug and Mel on deal-making, financial reviews, and every aspect of the company. We're working with the [three main] labels and all their contingent labels to help them strategically plan for the future—to look at new business opportunities, new technologies, and whatever comes up."

RADIO BUSINESS

Simon To Clinton: Reappoint Barrett

His appointment to the FCC isn't up until June 1995. But Commissioner Andrew Barrett is being touted by homestate Sen. Paul Simon (D-IL) for another five-year term.

Simon sent a letter to President Bill Clinton urging him to reappoint Barrett to the Republican seat. (Clinton can't appoint a fellow Democrat, since there are already three on the five-member FCC.) Simon is retiring from the Senate and has announced he will not seek re-election when his term is up in 1996.

Barrett told R&R he had a conversation with Simon back in June. He said he asked the senator, "If I decide to stay, will you support me?" Barrett added that he hasn't seen the letter, and he's not sure whether he's interested in another term. "I simply have not made up my mind — there are a couple of things I have to think about in my personal life. Also, I don't have nominating powers."

Simon's letter to Clinton said Barrett should be reappointed because he is "sensitive to the needs of the minority communities, a voice that I think should be maintained on the Commission."

Barrett, the only African-American on the FCC, has served as a commissioner since being appointed by President George Bush in 1989. He'd previously served 11 years as a commissioner on the Illinois Commerce Commission, which regulates utilities.

Stations Protest FCC's Expanded Band Selections

At least 16 radio stations have complained that the FCC was unfair in the way it selected stations for the expanded AM band. The Commission released a list of 79 stations it had chosen to assign to the new band (1610-1700 kHz) on October 14.

The petitioning outlets say the FCC failed to explain why it excluded stations it had previously ranked in the top 79. Last December, the FCC released a list of 688 stations that had applied to move to the expanded band, ranking each station on how much it would improve the existing band by migrating to the new band.

The FCC explained that stations not receiving an allotment were precluded by international agreements, Federal Travelers' Information Stations, harmonic frequency relationships with existing stations, or preclusion by stations of higher ranking. Those criteria were part of a computer program that ultimately selected the 79 stations.

Wide-Ranging Complaints

Some of the petitioners claim those were not the only criteria used in compiling the allocation list. The FCCAM Branch has attorney Dave Blank and engineer Bill Ball looking into the grievances. "We're analyzing and studying their arguments," said Ball. "I've watched the Commission from the outside for years, and almost every process seems to have somebody who comes along and has something else to say."

Among the complaints:

• KOJY-AM/Costa Mesa, CA claimed the FCC violated a congressional mandate in denying it one of the expanded band slots based on the Commission's interpretation of a treaty with Mexico. KOJY had been ranked No. 4 on the December list.

• WAMS-AM/Wilmington, DE said "the Commission's decision to delegate the entire allocations process to a computer program constitutes an improper delegation of authority." WAMS's ranking was 147.

• WKEN-AM/Dover, DE echoed that statement: "Congress did not delegate to a computer program the power to make allocations decisions. Agency expertise and human discretion are necessary to ensure the public interest is being served." WKEN's ranking was 71, but it didn't receive an allotment.

• WPEO-AM/Peoria, IL, charged that the FCC had given one of the expanded band slots to a station that doesn't exist — WBCI-AM/Normal, IL. "The station has been off the air for at least four years, and there is no reasonable prospect for its return to the air," WPEO told the FCC. The station suggested the allocation should instead go to — you guessed it — WPEO, which had been ranked 388.

FCC OKs 'Channeling' Graphic Political Spots

Although too late for this year's election campaign, the FCC has ruled that stations may "channel" political spots deemed indecent or too graphic to times when children may not be listening. And the decision to channel a particular spot must not be related to any political position espoused by the candidate.

The ruling had been requested by the Kaye, Scholer, Fierman, Hays & Handler law firm, which represents several broadcasters, and a Georgia congressional candidate whose campaign spot featuring an aborted fetus had been rejected by an Atlanta TV station.

While the FCC ruled that the graphic anti-abortion ad was not indecent, it nonetheless held that broadcasters could use their discretion to channel material which might "be harmful to children" to times when they are not likely to be in the audience. The FCC said that would not violate federal candidates' legal right to broadcast access or the ban on censorship of political spots.

"This recognizes the role of the broadcaster in determining reasonable access," said Kaye, Scholer attorney Irving Gastfreund. He added that he hoped it would give additional protection against "frivolous complaints" by candidates.

"This is going to cause more problems rather than less," countered Media Access Project attorney Andrew Schwartzman, who had opposed the channeling idea. "It's an insult to candidates ... to have a broadcaster telling candidates what is appropriate speech for candidates."

EARNINGS

Paxson Revenues Up Sharply

Paxson Communications Corp. (Nasdaq Small Cap: PAXN), in its first report

since becoming a publicly traded company, said its third-quarter revenues rose to $18.3 million from $7.8 million a year ago. The company reported a net loss of $1.5 million (seven cents per share), compared to a loss of $1.7 million (eight cents). Broadcast cash flow was $4.6 million, up from $1.7 million.

On a pro forma basis — assuming the company had owned all of its current stations a year earlier — Paxson said its revenues were up $4 million, its cash flow was up $2.4 million, and its net loss was reduced by $5.2 million.

Paxson became a public company in early November after completing a takeover of publicly traded American Network Group. Paxson owns 14 radio stations and one TV station, and is buying two radio stations and one TV station.

NewCity Communications (publicly traded bonds) posted third-quarter net income of $1.9 million, down from $14.1 million. Revenues were $13.6 million, up from $13 million. The much higher earnings reported for the third quarter of 1993 had included a $15 million gain from the sale of WYAY-FM/Atlanta to Capital Cities/ABC.

NewCity owns 13 radio stations and is buying KDIL-FM/San Antonio.

EMI Music reported its sales rose 12.7% in the six months ended September 30 to £877 million ($1.3 billion); profits also rose 12.7% to £101 million ($155 million).

Parent company Thom EMI (London Exchange) reported pretax profits up 27% at £126 million pounds ($197 million).

In the U.S., EMI owns Capitol, Virgin, SBK, Chrysalis, and EMI.

George Francis relies on Stratford Research to help build his stations into branded franchises. He uses Stratford because we're the only firm that can provide the Fortune 500 research and brand marketing techniques that were previously reserved for the world's top consumer marketers. That's the same reason why the NAB asked Stratford to write The Franchise, the industry's definitive book on building radio brands.

Stratford's branding discipline represents a true source of competitive advantage for radio stations. That's why George Francis wants it in his arsenal. He looks to Stratford for strategic research, music testing, focus groups and brand marketing.

BBC Network Radio is set to launch a Eureka-147 DAB service in September 1995.

BBC, a Eureka member, is claiming to be the first broadcaster to commit to DAB. Its service will feature BBC's current five networks plus extended parliamentary and sports coverage.

BBC Network Radio Managing Director Liz Forgan urged manufacturers to "respond to the challenge" and make affordable DAB receivers available as soon as possible.

Great Britain plans to use a new band around 60 MHz (occupied by TV Channel 3 in the U.S.) for DAB.

NASA, CD Radio Set DAB Tests

NASA and CD Radio Inc. (Nasdaq Small Cap: CDRD) announced an agreement to conduct joint technical tests for development of satellite DAB service.

According to NASA Satellite Radio Project Manager James Hollansworth, the proposed satellite DAB service "will provide U.S. industry with new technology opportunities in the satellite, microantenna, receiver, and software areas."

"This new service, when authorized by the FCC, will provide motorists with seamless, national radio coverage for the first time," said CD Radio Systems President Robert Briskman.

The NAB and many broadcasters oppose the establishment of satellite DAB.

COMMENT: This station is being sold to a minority-controlled company under the FCC's "distress sale policy" and will terminate proceedings on allegations that this station and KQOL-FM Spanish Fork, UT were under common ownership before duopolies were permitted. A previously proposed deal to sell KBER for $1.9 million did not close.

10 QUESTIONS WITH...

Susan Ness
 FCC Commissioner

can to give rise to more ownership.

Q How can the Commission help minorities and women advance?

A There are a lot of things the Commission can do. We can focus attention on it. We can applaud creative mechanisms. For example, I believe it was the New Jersey Broadcasters' Association that came up with a job fair ... quite a number of applicants were successful in obtaining jobs via this statewide effort.

Q And is the FCC planning to address station owners' complaints about EEO paperwork?

A We're starting to look at some of the EEO issues — both in terms of what we require of radio stations and how productive those requirements are to achieve the goal. To the extent that we can do something to either streamline or enhance their performance, we're interested in doing that.

Q Are you satisfied with how the FCC operates?

A I'm very supportive of a lot of the "reinventing government" kinds of things the Commission has engaged in. We are trying to set quality and customer service standards in many of our bureaus — including the Mass Media Bureau — to see how we can streamline our processes to better serve the public. We're working with the lawyers who represent applicants. We're also working to see if electronic filing, for example, can be done. I'm pleased to see that happening. I encourage it whenever possible. All of us are mindful of the need to do that, particularly given the caseload we have here at the Commission.

We have taken an opportunity of late — where there have been issues that are particularly controversial — to bring in more than one side on an issue. Typically, one group comes in and makes its case; then another group comes in and makes its case. What we're now doing is putting the two players together in the same meeting so we can have more of a debate to see whether there really are divergent views and whether there are some ways we can resolve them.

Q What seem to be broadcasters' chief concerns?

A When you have new commissioners, a lot of groups want to come in just to say hi, introduce themselves, and get on our radar screen, so to speak. But they also call attention to innovations, ownership issues, and the effects of duopoly and increased ownership. There are a lot of issues on people's minds.

Q Do you think the Commission's indecency rules have any effect?

A I think broadcasters understand the seriousness of policing themselves. To the extent that the Commission engages in a finding of indecency, we should pursue whatever remedies we have at our disposal.

Q Will the FCC issue a clearer definition of indecency?

A I think there is something in the works. Although I don't know precisely where they stand, there are efforts under way to try to put more meat in the definition.

Q What is your perspective on Chairman Hundt's idea of a "social compact"?

A Providing local service is extremely important. I think we're also trying to make broadcasters recognize that, embodied within the Communications Act, it is mandated that they serve the public interest. That is why they have their spectrum, and that is why it has been a historically free spectrum. And they have a protected status in many ways.

But we have a need for them to serve the public interest. And most stations are very dedicated to that end — making sure that issues of public concern are aired. That's an important community contribution that's unique to broadcasting.

Q What strengths do you bring to your job?

A For many years, I was a lender to communications companies. On a daily basis, I find that enormously helpful for me to understand what the ramifications are for companies, both large and small. I came with an appreciation for a lot of different industries within the area that we regulate. That has been a tremendous strength and opportunity for me.

Secondly, I come with an attitude of "let's figure out how we can best regulate without being overly [restrictive]" — to try to either streamline or at least be as practical as possible, taking into account the public that we serve as well as the industries. I look at "what are we requiring here and what does it mean? What does it really mean?" I like to get those questions answered.

I come from a public interest background as well as a banking background, so ultimately I do care tremendously about our need to make sure the public is well served. But I also come with a very positive attitude that one can serve the public and work together with industries to create a better environment for us all. A lot of what I'll be doing is more bully pulpit than regulating — trying to bring the communities together to solve problems.

Q What do you find frustrating about your job?

A I find it frustrating that there's so much to be done and so much detail to be mastered. These issues are of such great importance that I would like to be able to spend 25, 26 hours a day. And I obviously don't have such time.

I find it frustrating that I cannot spend as much time as I would like with my family because of the immediate demands of the business ... and that things come at us not necessarily in the best possible sequence. But you just have to roll up your sleeves and address the problems and issues as they arise. It's a daunting experience, but an exhilarating one.

You just take each day with its joys and its sorrows. Then you see what you can do to try to make it a little bit better the next day.

Kalodner

I was listening to music, so many of the artists I was listening to were here. And I've always admired all the people who worked here.

"I'm going to be an A&R guy who signs and makes records, like I've been. That's why I appreciate coming here, because they didn't try to put me in a box. They don't want me to be different; they want me to make records."

Kalodner left journalism to join Atlantic's publicity department in 1974 and segued into A&R a year later. He worked there with Firefall, Genesis, Yes, Foreigner, AC/DC, Peter Gabriel, and Phil Collins. He helped sign Survivor to Scotti Bros. in 1980, then became the first A&R exec at the new Geffen Records. There, he rebuilt Aerosmith's career, assembled Asia, and worked with Whitesnake, Jimmy Page, Coverdale/Page, Sammy Hagar, Cher, Nelson, XTC, and Jackyl, among others.

'ZINE SCENE

Spend The Day At Rhinoland!

In a Los Angeles Magazine profile on Rhino Entertainment, President Richard Foos says he wants to turn the label into a "lifestyle company ... whatever your cultural interest is, you would be able to find the definitive collection."

He even imagines a theme park: "My vision would be that you could almost go into a time machine and experience the most pleasurable aspects of whatever decade you wanted to be in. There would be Fiftiesland, Sixtiesland, and Seventiesland." He adds wistfully, "Rhinoland. It is something we think about."

Carey On Items

Mariah Carey dresses up vamp-style in Vogue, saying, "People who work with me like to keep me the same little curly-haired girl I was four years ago." She reveals she's studying music with a piano teacher now, "and sometimes I do her hair in exchange for lessons, because I can do hair too. I did 500 hours of beauty school." By the way, the Coca-Cola is different in England, so "I have to bring my own when I go there, because I don't like the way it tastes."

Vogue also hangs with video stylist Nancy Steiner as she searches for a pink, fuzzy, yet masculine garment to be worn by STP singer Scott Weiland. Of her alternastar clients, she says, "The last thing they want is to look styled, but they still have to look right."

Courtney Last Resort

Courtney Love opens up and bleeds in her Rolling Stone cover story, where she reveals that three completed Nirvana songs remain, plus 10 others, and "all the riffing." She plans to release none of it. "In my parallel universe, the No. 1 album would always be [Captain Beefheart's] 'Trout Mask Replica.' Kurt and I fucked to that record once. It was amazing sex."

She also reveals, "I adore [Michael Stipe]. And I asked too much of him at first. In my will, I wanted him to take [daughter] Frances if I died. And he wasn't willing to do that. He probably felt that if he did, I would instantly kill myself."

The Star reports Love attacked a former employee at L.A.'s Palladium, screaming, "You killed my husband and I'm gonna kill you!" She took off her shoes and chased the girl out of the venue and for several blocks. Fans followed, shouting, "Go get her!"

Each week R&R sneaks a peek through the nation's consumer magazines in search of everything from the sublime to the ridiculous in music news. R&R has not verified any of these reports.

A Time To Lead

Speaking of leadership, musician Wynton Marsalis and L.A. talk host Tavis Smiley make Time's list of 50 leaders age 40 or under. Smiley brings his brand of black conservatism to both KMPC and KFI, where he joins the top-rated Ken & Barkley show each morning. "I am part of the political debate every single day," he says.

The Syndicated Life

"Smart Money" talks the Dolans rate a page of color pix in Working Woman's story on couples who work well together. Even so, Daria Dolan notes, "He accepts my position as his equal, but he never notices when things [at meetings with others] are addressed wholly in his direction ... It just doesn't bother him, and it bothers the hell out of me."

Business Week notes Pete Rose has signed on with a new syndicator because his talk career hasn't gone as well as he'd hoped. While SportsFan Radio CEO Kyle Heinrich says Katz Radio made no real effort to market the show, Katz Radio Group Sales Sr. VP Bonnie Press says the show was a tough sell, partly because some people still haven't forgiven Rose for getting kicked out of baseball.

Family Affairs

Melissa Etheridge and girlfriend Julie Cypher have asked close pal Brad Pitt to donate sperm so they can have a child (Globe).

"Superstar songbird Whitney Houston has launched a hush-hush plot to adopt a baby boy from Africa," pants the Globe.

Nicollette Sheridan says she's turned down Michael Bolton's proposals "at least half a dozen times" in the last year, because she doesn't want to give up her career or move to NYC (Star).

Heather Locklear, 33, says she loves Bon Jovi axman Richie Sambora, 35, because he reminds her of her father (Star).

Como Again?

"Oh my God, I thought you were dead," gasped a nun upon bumping into Perry Como recently. He's 82 and as alive as ever. (National Enquirer).

Gilreath In, Eley Out

Entertainment. Based in Washington, DC, the new venture will provide minorities with on-the-job training in record promotion, sales, and marketing. Eley is looking for a pro in each of those areas to help train the hit men of tomorrow.

In related Motown news, former label COO Harry Anger is now heading L.A.-based AVI Entertainment, which has been restructured and is rereleasing its own catalog as well as Excello's and Nashboro's — a trove of 3000 titles.

Alternative WDRE/Long Island VP/GM Dan Zako received a C&D from Alternative-leaning CHR Z100/NY, demanding 'DRE stop promoting its forthcoming holiday concert as "Acoustic Christmas," citing confusion with Z100's own show.

Z100 PD Steve Kingston says, "Z100 exercised first use of 'Acoustic Christmas,' and therefore it's exclusively Z100's to use. We couldn't find any prior use of 'Acoustic Christmas' by WDRE in any Christmas holiday event. Even with WDRE's limited signal in a small portion of our coverage area, we felt it was important to protect our right to first use and prevent any possible listener confusion."

However, 'DRE intends to continue using the "Acoustic Christmas" slogan, citing Jarad Communications is picking up the last station of Merv Griffin's group — WTRY-FM/Albany — and has LMA'd it with a '70s-based Gold format. 'TRY couldn't be sold to Liberty Broadcasting along with Griffin's other stations, because it would have given the group three FMs in Albany. However, Liberty still gets to handle ad sales under a deal with Jarad.

The program will be funded by spot sales and public radio-type corporate sponsorships.

And ... Westwood One will begin offering 24-hour weekend talk programming on December 5.

According to the L.A. Times, IDB Communications — which has a $721 million merger pending with LDDS Communications — has set aside $75 million to settle shareholder lawsuits filed after its stock price plummeted when Deloitte & Touche resigned as the company's auditors in May. The L.A. Times also reported that IDB is the subject of a federal grand jury probe — as well as an ongoing SEC investigation — and quoted Sr. VP Peter Hartz as saying that the company is cooperating with the feds.

PD Dave Logan exits Evergreen-owned WLUP/Chicago. GM Larry Wert told ST, "The station's evolution to fulltime personality entertainment dictates that we no longer have a need for a traditional AOR PD. For now, programming duties will fall upon my desk."

Meanwhile, WRCX-FM/Chicago morning manatee Mancow Muller, sidekick Irma Blanco, and parent company Evergreen were hit with a $5 million defamation suit filed by former Chicago Bears lineman-turned-WLUP overnight fill-in air talent Keith Van Horne.

The suit stems from on-air remarks made by Muller and Blanco last month. Muller accused Van Horne of "threatening to kill" him for earlier comments the Mancow made when

While interviewing William Shatner, Power Pig/Tampa personality MJ Kelli broached a taboo subject — the "Star Trek" star's infamous hairpiece. Shatner's on-air response was to ask if "MJ stands for Most Jerk," adding, "You are a dope!"

Traffic

Group's Eileen Marshall theorized that AC's preponderance of female listeners, along with Urban's youth base, constitute a large number of hourly wage and retail workers who must arrive for work at a specific time.

The survey also found that most music listeners were willing to tune to another station when they were in a traffic jam rather than wait for a report on the station they're currently with. CHR listeners were most likely to switch away, while Country listeners were least likely.

Mornings Most Important

Marshall said listeners were most interested in traffic reports during the morning commute. Most start listening to the radio during the 6am hour, but one in five listeners begins listening during the 5am hour. On the other side of the daypart, 70% of listeners say they're through with traffic reports by 9am, but 27% still need them between 9-10am. This is particularly true among younger listeners — 39% of 18-24-year-olds want more traffic reports between 9-10am.

Traffic reports rated slightly less important in afternoon drive, although Marshall points out that's when employees are clocked out, on their own time, and looking for the quickest way home. The study found that 80% find traffic reports to be important, and 70% believe they're just as important as they are in the morning. About a third of listeners need traffic reports during the 3pm hour, with that number ballooning to 70% during the 5pm hour.

Marshall said market size had little effect on the numbers. People in Minneapolis were just as interested in traffic information as L.A. residents were.

the Bay Area — he's a real street fighter who will bring leadership and expertise to the station. He'll bring a mature approach to youth radio."

Stocks

He also noted that the outcome of the November 8 election, which gave Republicans control of Congress, was favorable for broadcast stocks.

"The prospect of a deregulatory atmosphere in Washington is a big plus, particularly as far as cross-ownership and duopoly [for TV] are concerned," Gottesman said.

Ed Dugan of Dugan Associates expects to see more radio groups go public next year, but doesn't think they'll get top dollar for their stock. "You're going to have to have a pretty severe discount from those other companies [that have already gone public] to make an investor want to sell theirs and buy yours, or add yours," he noted.

"I'm definitely bullish on the industry," said First Boston's Harry DeMott, who predicted that interest rate worries will abate and investors will "start focusing on the fundamentals again."

DeMott said radio stocks would do better if the companies were larger and had enough stock being traded to attract institutional investors. He noted the takeover of Southern Starr Broadcast Group by Multi-Market Radio as an example of what other public companies ought to do. "Sooner or later, the dollar signs will overcome the egos."

Meeting with about 20 reporters in the Senate Commerce Committee Room, Pressler compared passing a communications bill to "firing a starting gun for the Oklahoma land rush," saying it would break open the doors for businesses to begin marketing and manufacturing new telecommunications technologies.

The Senate bill written this year had little to do with broadcasting outside of increasing obscenity fines from $10,000 to $100,000 and directing the FCC to review ownership rules. But it would have been the biggest rewrite of communications law since 1934.

With Republicans planning to vote on a weighty agenda of items listed in their "Contract With America," which they hope to pass in the first 100 days of the 104th Congress, might a communications bill get lost? An optimistic Pressler said that rather than getting lost, such a bill might be "a welcome thing" — a "bipartisan issue" that may easily pass.

Pressler said that if a communications bill is not passed next year, it would probably have to wait until 1997 because it would become too political to pass during the 1996 presidential election year.

He said he plans to appeal to Vice President Al Gore to be more visible and lobby harder for the bill's passage this time around. "The White House vanished last summer during consideration" of the bill, Pressler said.

Another priority for Pressler: Oversight of the FCC. The senator said he will visit the agency soon and plans to scrutinize its budget and practices.

greater available audience with '70s oldies. We truly believe this is the Oldies format of the future and wanted to be the ones to jump into it first.

"Our approach is more like Cox's 'pop' version. The Rock arena is pretty well filled here. We want to be different enough so that we won't be confused with anybody else. Our new median target demo [35] will be about 10 years younger than the Oldies format provided us."

"I'm really thrilled about joining the station, not just because it's a duopoly but because the station has been very stable," Hamilton said. "We just need to crank it up a little and shake up the market. [Archival] KMEL sounds very good, but we can — and will — do better."

Hamilton most recently was VP/GM of KSFO-AM & KYA-FM/San Francisco and previously was OM of crosstown KFRC-AM & FM. He served an earlier stint with KSFO & KYA as PD. Morning Shows: Working Through The Holi-Daze

As the holidays approach, your morning show is faced with the monumental challenge of observing the holidays and staying topical and entertaining.

Kevin Healey

Recently, I had the privilege of working with WSTR-FM (Star 94)/Atlanta morning show producer Kevin Healey, who also serves as head writer of the "Fax Attack" morning show prep service.

With more than 150 radio stations as clients, Healey has the unique ability of knowing what morning show listeners want and mixing it with his unique sense of humor. In addition to his morning show prep service, Healey's jokes continue to appear on "The Tonight Show with Jay Leno" and "The Dennis Miller Show."

What do the holidays mean to a morning show? Most agree that while it's OK to reach into the holiday prep bag now and again, the important thing is to keep the show fresh and topical — regardless of the season. Healey warns that you're suffering from "jock burnout" if ...

• After attending four mall broadcasts, three charity events, and two fundraisers in one evening, you open the mic the following morning and lose the will to live.

• You're playing "Grandma Got Run Over By A Reindeer" for the 1347th time and, as you hit the next song, you're overwhelmed with a strong desire to shave your head and distribute herbal tea at the Greyhound station.

I can't think of a better feeling than giving to people who are really in need of items we take for granted, like food, clothes, and heat.

- Vikki Locke

• Even the salespeople are afraid to talk to you.

Mix Facts And Fun

So what can be done to keep your morning show timely ... and out of an institution? How about some funny shopping tips? Healey suggests you begin by playing it straight. Present some localized tips relating to malls and stores that your listeners frequent. Who doesn't want to know what time stores open and close or who has the hard-to-find gifts — let your listeners do the talking.

Then interject some fun with a little public service, like "how to tell the difference between a good shopping mall and a bad shopping mall":

• At a good shopping mall, the food court offers a wide variety of delicacies ... at a bad shopping mall, the food court offers napkins emblazoned with the poison control hotline number.

• At a good shopping mall, security guards will routinely escort you to your car when it gets dark ... at a bad shopping mall, mall security will routinely fire warning shots into your back if you can't produce a receipt.

• At a good shopping mall, the kiddies can visit the reindeer petting zoo ... at a bad shopping mall, the kiddies can be terrorized by caged, rabid mutts with antlers glued to their scalps.

• At a good shopping mall, children may have their photograph taken with dear old Santa ... at a bad shopping mall, children may run screaming, "Mommy, Santa has no pants!"

Another great phone starter: According to a recent poll, only 10% of the millions of gifts handed out last year were ever used. Find out from your listeners if this is true.

Cool Yule Ideas

How about cool Christmas postmarks on your holiday cards? All you have to do, according to Healey, is address and stamp all your cards, place them in a big envelope, and mail them to one of the following addresses:

- Post Office, North Pole, Alaska 99705
- Post Office, Santa Claus, Indiana 47579
- Post Office, Snowflake, Arizona 85937
- Post Office, Bethlehem, Pennsylvania 18015
- Post Office, Christmas, Florida 32709
- Post Office, Mistletoe, Kentucky 41351

With the new release of "Miracle on 34th Street," what better time to have your very own "Kris Kringle" drive around town and hand out $100 bills. Take this real-life story and make it yours. Do your best to visit high-traffic areas, and look for that free press.

Remember: Hanukkah and Kwanza are also celebrated this time of year. If there's any confusion whatsoever, invite a listener or community leader on the air to explain the importance of these holidays.

Ask The Experts

To get the personalities' perspectives, Healey first talks to Steve Cochran, host of WPNT-FM/Chicago's morning show, about his creative approach to the holiday season.

KH: Do you approach this time of the year differently than the rest of the year?

SC: Not as much as you may think. It's very important to stick with the traditional holiday bits and promotions, but I also want the show to reflect what's going on in Chicago today.

KH: Give me an example of a traditional holiday bit for you.

SC: I really love to toy around with the word "traditional." For example, we've done a spoof on the so-called "traditional holiday special." We rent out a bowling alley, broadcast live, hire a band and a Santa, and invite listeners to come down and bowl a few frames with us.

KH: People really seem to focus in on the less fortunate during this season. How does your morning show reflect that same feeling?

SC: During our fun bowling show, we also raise a ton of money for charity. In the past, we've put thousands of dollars into the Council Against Child Abuse. We also conduct the "Home for the Holidays" airfare giveaways.

KH: You're not a fan of rehashing old stuff. Got anything new planned for this year?

SC: What's the first thing that dies out around Christmas time?

KH: My appetite for things ending with the word "nog"?

SC: Batteries! This year, we've got the FM 100 Battery Patrol ready to replenish those worn out and dead cells.

Contests & Connections

Here are some highlights from Healey's conversation with Star 94 morning partners Steve McCoy and Vikki Locke.

KH: How do you approach the fact that at least two major holidays are celebrated this time of year?

SM: We pride ourselves on being sensitive and aware of our community. Actually, we've found one way to take on both holidays and wrap it into one fun on-air trivia game.

VL: We call it "Christmas Or Hanukkah." We play the names of celebrities in rapid-fire succession ...

SM: And the contestant must quickly shout which holiday that star celebrates.

VL: For example, "Billy Crystal, Garry Shandling, the Pope?"

SM: "Hanukkah. Hanukkah, Christmas!"

KH: Listener involvement is crucial year-round. How do you employ that element during this time of the year?

VL: Something that has worked wonderfully in the past is a sort of on-air public service feature, where we assist listeners in locating "impossible-to-find gifts."

SM: We call them "Steve & Vikki's Gift-Finders." If a listener can't find a video game or a Power Ranger Action Figure, we'll put the word out.

At Christmas time, we work harder than we do at any other time during the year ... It's a connection to your audience, letting them know this is their radio station and we work for them.

VL: And usually in minutes, we'll get a response from listeners describing where and how to get the item.

SM: The added bonus is a connection with our listeners. They may seem small, but these are the type of bits listeners remember for a long time.

VL: I can't think of a better feeling than giving to people who are really in need of items we take for granted, like food, clothes, and heat.

SM: At Christmas time, we work harder than at any other time during the year. But the dividends pay off in a big way. There's an incredible satisfaction you get from helping those who may not be able to help themselves or just may be down on their luck. You can't replace that feeling. It's a connection to your audience, letting them know this is their radio station and we work for them.

Twisted Tunes: How To Write Great Parody Songs

■ Tips from one of the industry's most successful 'parodists'

Having a great song parody for your station is like owning your own hit record. Listeners jam the phones to request it. People ask if there's any way they can buy it. Best of all, they know that it can only be heard on your station.

Bob Rivers

One of the best parody songwriters is KISW/Seattle morning man Bob Rivers. Atlantic has just released his "Twisted Christmas Boxed Set," which includes his first CD ("Twisted Christmas") plus "I Am Santa Claus" and "Twisted Tunes 1994 — The Year In Review." Rivers records the songs in his home 24-track studio, dubbed "Bob's Garage." His parodies are also syndicated by TM Century Networks.

Rivers just released the video for his most recent work, "I Am Santa Claus" (a variation on Black Sabbath's "Iron Man"). The clip, which includes a cameo appearance by Ozzy Osbourne, is airing on several cable outlets.

Topical Ingredients

Rivers points out that subjects already on your listeners' minds work best, because "it's not as hard to get noticed. If I'm in a dry spell, I'll get ideas from the topics in Jay Leno's monologue. Look for topics with staying power. Local issues make great parody material and often get TV and newspaper coverage. Since it takes a considerable amount of time and resources to produce a parody, you should choose a subject that will be around for at least a few weeks."

He says that to be a success, a parody must be tied in to the song being spoofed. "In fact," says Rivers, "it's a legal requirement." (See box at right for more information on copyright infringement.)

Rivers outlines ways to keep your parodies connected to the original songs:

• Title — "The title of the parody is the punchline. It must sound so close to the original that you 'get it' right away. Soundalike titles are the easiest and most common way to start writing a parody tune. We recently wrote this parody of Eric Clapton's 'I Shot The Sheriff': 'I shot the White House, but I did not hit the President...'"

• Subject — "The subject matter of the song should be related to the subject matter of the parody and be essential to the joke. For example, here's a parody of Chuck Berry's 'My Ding-A-Ling':

"Once I was a little Bobbitt boy/My ding-a-ling brought me loads of joy/Every morning my alarm would ring/The first one up was my ding-a-ling."

• Attitude — "The attitude of the song must fit well with the humorous intent of the spoof. The emotion of the original helps make the commentary in the parody, as in 'Take Baseball And Shove It,' sung to the tune of Johnny Paycheck's 'Take This Job And Shove It.'"

• Delivery — "The vocals and/or music should be an obvious send-up of the artist being parodied. Not only is it funny to hear a caricature of the original artist, it helps define the work as parody."

Include Some Jokes

"Don't forget to include some jokes. I've written a few parodies that fell flat," Rivers admits. "They rhymed real good and were topical, but there was no element of surprise. Sometimes the tune writes itself quickly, other times it takes much longer to examine all the possible angles until something makes me laugh."

"I often write with the other members of our morning show — Spike O'Neill, Joe Bryant and Rob Oxford. We'll throw out ideas until something strikes us all as funny. The best songs are clever, contain some element of surprise, and follow the poetry of the original as closely as possible."

Avoiding The Suits

■ Helpful hints on distinguishing between parody and copyright infringement

Bob Rivers's copyright attorney, Scott B. Zolke of Beverly Hills-based Heenan Blaikie, offers a few pointers and rules of thumb for staying on the legal side of parody.

"Under the U.S. Copyright Act, a parody is 'fair use' because it effectuates criticism. It's only when a parody is too commercial, borrowing substantially from the underlying song and reducing its market value, that it's not entitled to the 'fair use' defense.

"In determining what is or isn't parody, courts evaluate two factors: 1) the extent to which the parody borrows from the original, and 2) the parody's market effect on the original. As long as you don't use more than necessary to 'conjure up' the original work, you should be on safe ground — but not always. Cases have held that unless the parody contains a critical commentary on the host work, it can't be protected.

"Does a parody have to be funny? Not necessarily, because the U.S. Copyright Act doesn't refer to humor in its definition of 'fair use.' However, a parody must do more than merely achieve comic effect. It must also make some critical comment or statement directed at the host work.

"The Supreme Court's recent 2 Live Crew decision reaffirmed its long-standing analysis that the two most important aspects in determining parody are the amount borrowed from and the market effect on the host work. In order to be totally safe, the parody should always target the copyrighted host work with its criticism. But in the 2 Live Crew decision the Court didn't provide a clear definition of parody.

"Here are three rules of thumb for parody:

- Don't use more of the original than absolutely necessary to conjure up the host work.

- Make certain the parody contains legitimate criticism of the host work.

- Ensure the parody will not adversely impact other non-parody markets for the host work; i.e., don't expect a rap version of a rock ballad to be protected merely because it sounds funny."

To the best of R&R's knowledge, these guidelines are accurate, but they are not intended as legal advice. If you're concerned about legal ramifications of a parody song, consult an attorney.

Less Is More

"Never wear out your welcome," cautions Rivers. "Ninety seconds is the average length of a good parody. Two and a half minutes is pushing it, and anything longer is bloated. It's better to leave them wanting more — and don't take more of the original than you need to make your point."

We recently wrote this parody of 'I Shot The Sheriff': 'I shot the White House, but I did not hit the President...'

Help Wanted

Rivers says you can produce great parodies even without musical talent. "The number one skill you need to accomplish this is called 'finding talented people.' Since you're in radio, you'll need to find talented people who'll work for peanuts, CDs, or concert tickets. One surefire way is to ask on-air. You'll meet musicians who are fans of your show."

"Look for a MIDI programmer — someone who uses keyboards, computers, and samplers. A fairly talented MIDI whiz can do an impressive job with almost any music bed. Over the years I've met killer vocal impressionists and musicians by going to see bands, quizzing all the musicians I meet to see if they know anyone who does a boffo impression, asking at music stores, and advertising in music publications."

But the primary recording tip Rivers offers is "don't overdo it. If you're recording or mixing your own music, watch the levels. Make sure the vocals are clear and understood, or you're wasting your time."

If possible, make friends at a professional studio. Try to work with someone who knows what they're doing, and watch, listen, and learn. I once booked a parody session at Abbey Road [while in London for a station remote] just to mingle with the pros and pick up some recording tips."

Rivers doesn't always follow the rules. He says, "If it's funny and you can't explain why — that's true art! These are my guidelines, and they may not all apply to you — sometimes they don't even apply to me. I fly in the face of them whenever my gut tells me to. Someone once said there are only three ways to learn to write: Write, write, and write. I'm still working on the first one."

You've used Bob Rivers every Christmas, isn't it time you made him a part of your morning show?

What PDs Look For When Hiring Air Personalities

■ Stability, talent, attitude key attributes

In this time of corporate downsizing and duopolies within the radio industry, air personalities have become even more vulnerable than in the past. I frequently receive phone calls from individuals asking what PDs look for when hiring air talent. Everyone knows the days of sending out airchecks are over, so what's the key to becoming the one who gets the available air position? Two PDs explain their philosophies behind finding the right personalities for their stations.

Jae Jackson
WPAL-AM & FM/
Charleston, SC

"First and foremost, I look for stability," says 17-year industry veteran Jackson. "Usually when you think of stability, you think about someone who's been around for a while—but that's not necessarily the case. I think you can find stability in the young as well as in the not-so-young. Also, if the person I'm considering is right out of college, I look at the stability of the jobs they held while in school, [regardless of] whether it was in the industry.

"Determination also is something I look for in a potential candidate. I want to see just how determined they are to get this job after I've communicated with them. Attitude plays a very important part when I make a hiring decision. I want someone with a good, positive attitude about themselves and the world. If a person shows the wrong type of attitude, I certainly don't want them around—they might disrupt the team we've put together that gets great results.

I like to see personalities who aircheck themselves and do self-critiques. Here's a person who'll accept constructive criticism, and we all need that.

-Jae Jackson

"Performance also can play a large role. I'd like to know how they perform on a regular basis. Most of the time, I'll go to the city where they work and listen to them on the air for a couple of days. Or I'll get several airchecks of their work to listen for consistency. Sometimes I give

Interep Set To Expand 'Power' Series In '95

The Interep Radio Store announced it will expand its series of format network "Power" events for the advertising community in 1995. Citing the success for the eight events held in 1994, Interep said it will hold nine such events next year on behalf of the Country and Urban radio format networks and radio industry. More than 1100 advertising and agency execs attended this year's Power Of Country Radio Tour and Power Of Urban Radio Day.

Power Of Urban Radio events will be held in Dallas during the week of March 26 and Chicago during the week of April 3. Specific dates will be announced shortly.

the person the opportunity to go into our production studios and do something for me. They don't have to do an aircheck, but I'll ask them to read some copy and run some music underneath. That can give you a little insight into how they work under pressure; it's also a way to see how they might use their personality in a creative situation."

Quality People

Jackson lists some important qualities successful air personalities must possess. "Being well-prepared — a person who preps for his show will be more prepared than a person who walks in just minutes before going on the air. And diligence — I like to see personalities who aircheck themselves and do self-critiques. Here's a person who'll accept constructive criticism, and we all need that." Jackson also considers how people dress, since all air personalities are representing the radio station they work for.

Dena Yesner
KMJK/Phoenix

Says 13-year industry veteran Yesner, "I basically look for two things: the candidate's level of talent and experience and what type of person the individual is. I like team players.

Dena Yesner

I also look for someone with an exceptional on-air personality who can communicate while entertaining. We don't want any comedian wannabes.

We don't want any comedian wannabes. We're looking for people who can deliver the information as well as sell the radio station, the music, and the promotions on-air.

-Dena Yesner

We're looking for people who can deliver the information as well as sell the radio station, the music, and the promotions on-air. We basically just want someone who's got the skills to deliver the format within the guidelines that we set up.

"Another thing I might look at is the previous experience and positions they may have held at other radio stations. They may have some other skills that are needed here, and they might be able to fill in and work on something behind the scenes. Because we're a small staff, it's nice to know that someone else might be able to lend a hand in programming, promotions, or whatever if needed."

Yesner admits gender is a factor. "Presently, we don't have any women on the air, except for the morning news person. For balance, it would be nice [to hire a woman], but whoever is best qualified is the most important thing for the radio station. I wouldn't just hire a woman to have a woman on the air if she wasn't competent and qualified and didn't have the skills."

Listen And Learn

How much importance does Yesner put on potential candidates'

job performance when listening to airchecks or hearing them live where they currently work? "I definitely think there's some importance placed on it, but I'd be listening for whether I could take them from where they are and put them on my radio station — would they fit our sound and what we do? It's rare to hear someone who's absolutely perfect in what you're looking for as a talent. When you're looking for talent, you're also looking for the potential the person has to become what you envision on your station."

African-Americans: Higher TSL

Although black Americans listen to radio in the same proportions as non-blacks do, TSL is a bit higher for blacks, and radio format preferences differ vastly, according to research from Arbitron.

Fully 96% of all persons age 12+ spend almost 24 hours a week listening to radio. Of the 96% of black Americans who listen to radio, average hours of listening total 26 hours. The contrast is more dramatic in overnight listening: While only about 30% of general market adults can be reached overnight, almost half of black adults can be reached.

The major difference is format, with Urban formats preferred by 53.5% of African-Americans over age 12 (Monday-Sunday, 6am-midnight). Among general market adults, the Urban listening share is a mere 8.7%. The format preferences are less pronounced in older adults of both groups. What black audiences don't listen to is Country, although it appears among the Top 5 formats for all age groups for the total audience.

Adults are the largest African-American listener group, and 25-34s are the key demographic target with the highest listening in all dayparts. Black TSL is heaviest during mid-days (10am-3pm) and weekends.

WMMS Becomes 'The Next Generation'

Heritage Rocker's step-by-step evolution to Alternative

After 26 years of being a Rock station, WMMS/Cleveland sent shockwaves throughout the industry when it completed its evolution to Alternative just over a month ago. OM/PD John Gorman and APD/MD Doug Kubinski explain the station's transformation to new music for "The Next Generation."

The first signs of change began in January when WMMS became more current-intensive under then-consultant Gorman. He programmed 'MMS in the mid-'80s and rejoined the station in the same capacity when it changed hands from Shamrock to OmniAmerica on tax day, following a duopoly with Gold WMJI.

"WMJI has been dominant 25-54 [persons] since 1991 and we didn't want to cannibalize our sister station," admits Gorman. "We wanted to build a strong 18-34 station. We're No. 1 18-34 with WMMS and 25-54 with WMJI — it's become one of the more successful duopolies in the country."

Risky Business

'MMS has undergone several format incarnations within the AOR genre over the years. Gorman comments, "The station had been inconsistent and had lost a great deal of appeal. We were very cautious about making another change. We set a goal of becoming a modern rock station in a year, since that's where the music is headed. We realized it was a risk trading off an older demo for a younger demo, but it was also a necessity for the station to gain prominence."

"The new audience picked up on us really fast. The audience that had preference towards older Classic Rock moved over to [Classic Rock]

John Gorman

Doug Kubinski

WNCX. The unusual thing, which is an interesting byproduct, is some of the oldest 'MMS audience went over to WMJI — that was unexpected."

"Some of the people that listened to 'MMS in the early '80s and late '70s came back," adds Kubinski. "They've told us it sounds like 'MMS did then, except obviously with the music of today. It reminds them of the power, attitude, and feeling they got when they listened to the station back then."

"Cleveland has always been in the forefront of new music," notes Gorman. "The last few years it got away from that. We knew before we did our research project that there was a big hole in this market for a station playing new music. The research confirmed our gut."

"We considered blowing the station up and changing the call letters, but research indicated that wasn't the problem. But we needed to change the logo. The Buzzard had turned into this grotesque-looking character. Now it resembles the original Buzzard from many years ago."

The Next Generation

"The beginning of the year was the excavating and laying the foundation period," explains Gorman. In April, we began putting up the structure. Just like any architect, the end result is usually slightly different than the blueprint. Sometimes you find better ways to do things. We developed the format with a lot of audience participation: extensive weekly callout research and on-air features."

Despite crosstown Alternative WENZ, Gorman's research showed a hole for another Alternative station. "Both stations take a different approach," he says. "We're far more current-based with higher rotations and many more CHR elements; 'ENZ is broader in their approach. We're closer to KROQ [Los Angeles], they [WENZ] are closer to WDRE [Long Island]."

Following the duopoly, WMMS began using a new positioner: "Buzzard Radio — The Next Generation." In conjunction, the production was elevated and the airstaff underwent a major overhaul. Gorman recalls, "We took a lot of slamming from the local press. They thought we were replacing talent that had been with the station — in some cases for 20 years — with new, untried talent. A couple of people made the transition — Len Goldberg, who joined the station in 1972 and BLF Bash, who's been here since 1976."

"Cleveland has always been a very strong radio personality town, but we had to hire a staff that could relate to the music. We made certain the new staff was young, into the music, and sounded good on-air. They are Cleveland's new radio personalities."

LORD, HELP US! — Comedy Central's Monks (and their groupies) joined WDRE/Long Island for a Friday happy hour remote at Sprat's Bar & Grill in Westbury, NY. Gathered to pray for the single ("Oh, Brother!") are (l-r) groupie Carrie Aller, Monks Ben E. Dict and Greg O. Ian, groupie Tracy Mann, and WDRE morning man John Loscalzo (genulecting over the table).

"We began airing new ID sweeps and really pushed that we're a new music station, not a Jurassic Rock station. We backed it up with a five-week TV schedule at the beginning of the summer book that was produced by Marty Wall, formerly Z100/New York's Promotion Director. A couple of stations wouldn't air it until after midnight, because there was a bare ass in one of the frames. The message was there's a different WMMS — it's today's best new music."

"We became very active in presenting a lot of new music, through clubs and low-price concerts. If there was a turning point, it was when we did 'Buzzardpalooza' the last weekend in July. That was really our coming out part to let Cleveland know we were now a different format. We'll never know how many people came, because it was closed down due to overcrowding. Green Day never got to play, so we did a separate show with them at the end of the summer. We sold out 18,000 tickets in one weekend. There was no external promotion, other than on-air. This was when we realized something was really happening here."

Remodeling The Music

Prior to WMMS's new music stance, it was about 20% current — mostly new titles from Classic Rock artists. "Our library has gone through a major remodeling," Gorman explains. "Each week a few older titles were deleted and new titles put in. By mid-summer, we became around 70% current during the day and close to 90% at night. Our library has gotten a lot smaller. We're playing 213 titles in three different categories. This may not seem like a large amount, but it is when only 30% of your total programming is library."

Kubinski cites, "Once we started playing new music, the requests ceased for stuff like Led Zeppelin. It was almost an instant reaction from our listeners."

Despite its transformation to Alternative, a handful of staple Rock bands remain. "The unusual thing we found is that recent currents from artists such as Aerosmith, Neil Young, and Tom Petty are still accepted by our audience," says Gorman. "Somehow these songs fit; maybe our audience looks at these artists as survivors. They test as well as Green Day, Bad Religion, Cowboy Junkies, and Pearl Jam."

"We do a 'High Five' feature at night, where we playback the Top 5 requested songs," adds Kubinski. "Our audience introduces the songs. Recently, someone introduced Tom Petty's 'You Don't Know How It Feels' by saying, 'He's old, but he's still cool.'"

Gorman concludes, "The reaction has been overwhelmingly positive. I don't look at the station as changing; this has been a very quick evolution in the right direction. Our audience tells us we sound better every week. The older audience that left say, 'WMMS plays all that weird music now.' It's a major change, but when you look back at the greatest success of any station in this market, it was the one who won the new music battle."

Quality Christmas Music Plentiful For Programmers

Seasonal classics are finding their way on station rotations throughout the country. In addition, programmers are finding a better-than-average selection of new holiday music this year. "It's the best year for new Christmas music in at least five years," asserts WQLR/Kalamazoo, MI PD Bill Wertz.

Several familiar staples punctuate Arista's "Miracle On 34th Street" soundtrack. Highlights include: Natalie Cole's rendition of "Jingle Bells," Kenny G's "Have Yourself A Merry Little Christmas," and Donne Warwick's "It's Beginning To Look A Lot Like Christmas."

Puns & Classics

While Atlantic has no new Christmas product, the label is rereleasing a Bob Rivers comedy compilation, which contains some seasonal selections. (Also see Page 18.)

Puns-a-plenty abound on "Have Yourself A Scary Little Christmas" courtesy of Capitol division's The Right Stuff. Classic yuletide favorites undergo a unique ghoulish twist by "Tales From The Crypt" crypt-keeper John Kassir.

Format superstar Mariah Carey spearheads Columbia's seasonal festivities with "All I Want For Christmas." The upbeat tune Carey co-penned with producer/arranger Walter Afanasieff is featured on her "Merry Christmas" CD.

Among other Columbia artists boasting Christmas product are Neil Diamond ("The Christmas Album, Vol. II") and Tony Bennett. A highlight from the latter's "Snowfall" album is the previously unreleased "I'll Be Home For Christmas" from Jon Stewart's late-night TV show.

"The Return of Sampler Claus," Columbia's 17-track compilation, features past favorites by artists including Carey, Diamond, Bennett, Bruce Springsteen, Peabo Bryson, Shawn Colvin, Bruce Cockburn, Nancy Wilson, and Kirk Whalum.

Singing Soap Stars

"No More Blue Christmas" and "The Holly & The Ivy" are two cuts featured on Natalie Cole's "Holly & Ivy" Elektra CD.

A diverse Mercury threesome — Vanessa Williams, Donna Summer, and Bon Jovi — will get their share of individual holiday-leaning airplay.

Freddie Jackson's new RCA "At Christmas" CD features the title track and "One Wish." The label also released "A Soap Opera Christmas," a mega-gathering of daytime stars doing a variety of seasonal favorites.

Among those featured on the 12-cut CD are Scott Thompson-Baker ("The Bold & The Beautiful"), Diana Barton ("The Young And The Restless"), Peter Bergman ("The Young And The Restless"), Martha Byrne ("As The World Turns"), Amelia Marshall ("Guiding Light"), Lisa Peluso ("Loving"), and Scott Reeves ("The Young And The Restless").

Who's Playing What

Some stations like KCIX/Boise, ID and WUSA/Tampa started interspersing Christmas music Thanksgiving Day. However, after Thanksgiving, these stations decreased to one holiday-favored cut every other hour.

WTPI/Indianapolis remembers its Jewish listeners by mixing in some Hanukkah music.

WQLR/Kalamazoo will program two-hour (8-10pm) all-request "Trim-A-Tree" shows beginning December 15 through December 23.

WPEZ/Macon, GA PD Jim Franklin comments, "We'll play mainly traditional gems, mixed with good new releases."

WRVR/Memphis will take a different slant on scheduling all-Christmas music by programming continuous holiday music 6pm-midnight between December 12 and December 23.

WLTE/Minneapolis PD Gary Nolan's simple suggestion for handling Christmas music: "Just play the hits."

By December 20, WOBM/Monmouth-Ocean will mix 70% new/recent with 30% traditional.

And according to KMGL/Oklahoma City PD Steve O'Brien, "We'll play popular Christmas titles by [contemporary] artists like Mariah Carey and Aaron Neville. [To a lesser extent], we'll also play Bing Crosby, Andy Williams, and Johnny Mathis."

Expect WBEB/Philadelphia to play contemporary AC artists and some traditional classics.

KELO-FM/Sioux Falls, SD runs a daily two-hour Christmas show from Thanksgiving through Christmas Eve.

Hot AC Holiday Highlights

WBT-FM/Charlotte PD Tom Jackson stresses, "Play the classics. Contemporary is okay, but don't omit traditional favorites."

KVUU/Colorado Springs, CO PD Bobby Christian remarks, "We'll start with just the hits and add more traditional music closer to Christmas Day."

KATF/Dubuque, IA PD Tommy Allen observes, "Label support for Christmas music libraries would help greatly."

WQSM/Fayetteville, NC will probably stick to more of the classic Christmas songs, rather than contemporary.

To get shoppers in the season spirit, WMXL/Lexington, KY was among a group of stations playing all Christmas music the day after Thanksgiving.

WCSO/Portland, ME PD TJ Holland comments, "Rather than guessing, I wish I had a tested list of music that I knew my audience wants."

And finally, WNSN/South Bend, IN PD Rob Poulin reports, "Local favorites by Heywood Banks — 'You Ain't Getting Diddly Squat,' and 'Frosty The Snowman' perform very well here."

Surefire Holiday Music Scheduling

Programmers each year grapple with how best to schedule Christmas music. For the ultimate procrastinator, the following results of an exclusive R&R survey may shed some light on the subject.

Some ACs, however, jumped the gun Thanksgiving Day, while many Hot ACs will hold off introducing Christmas music until next Monday (12/5).

It's Beginning To Sound Like Christmas

While some PDs and MDs have adopted a cynical view of Christmas music, for approximately three-five weeks a year, it's an integral programming element.

"It would sound very silly if we didn't play Christmas music," admits Hot AC KOSO/Modesito, CA MD Donna Miller. "Christmas is just about the only subject we talk about on the station between Thanksgiving and Christmas. It's just natural having Christmas music to go along [with that discussion]."

Donna Miller

Remember Tradition

Tradition is an important reason why people enjoy the holiday season, Miller suggests. "With families scattered all over, we don't have many traditions left. People want to hear and see things that bring back good memories. It makes them feel a bit more grounded."

Last year when they were sister stations, KTHT/Fresno, KMGA/Albuquerque and KOSO co-produced a 12-hour special. Each was responsible for a four-hour segment and all three four-hour blocks ran in the stations' markets. "It was beautiful because people talked about their local traditions," Miller recalls. "Each [air personality] also offered input about Christmas memories."

With KTHT and KMGA no longer in the chain, Miller notes, "We'll probably do something similar, concentrating solely on our local area."

One of Miller's personal holiday favorites is "Grown Up Christmas List." Versions have been recorded by Amy Grant and Natalie Cole. "It speaks to me and is one of those songs that stays in your head. It sounds like a classic Christmas song, yet it's geared toward real life."

Humbug On Redone Classics

"We won't add a new Christmas song just because it mentions Christmas. It must sound good." Miller is not a fan of covers. "I don't see the sense in that because we're still playing original versions. There's no reason to have new versions of old Christmas songs. Most of this music is being played because it's classic."

During the holidays, Miller slows down KOSO's tempo. "I can appreciate how frustrating this must be for record companies. We tell them we want uptempo [product], but when they give it to us [in November and December], we don't play it. We still want new music with that Hot AC sound, but music with a sentimental sound is very important [during the holidays]. If people aren't sentimental during the holidays — they're depressed."

KMLE's Trek To The Top

KMLE's rise to the top of the Phoenix ratings is one of the more amazing odysseys in Country radio history. Not only does KMLE reside in one of the most competitive radio markets in the nation, but standing in its way was one of the most formidable Country stations in America.

Indeed, KMLE hit No. 1 this past summer for the first time in its six-year journey, which hasn't been easy. Broadcasters had long been reluctant to go head-to-head with market leader KNIX. A well-known consultant once told a major broadcast company looking to flip its Phoenix property to Country that it might as well "put $1 million in cash in the middle of the floor and set it on fire."

Even KMLE owner Shamrock Broadcasting wasn't sure what to expect when the change was made. In an October 1988 interview, Shamrock Chairman Bill Clark told R&R he would be happy with a five share in the demo. He figured Country was such a quality buy in the market that KMLE could make money at that point. My, how times have changed.

In The Beginning

KMLE debuted in October '88. J.D. Freeman, currently VP/GM at Shamrock sisters KLAC-AM & KZLA-FM/Los Angeles, was KMLE's VP/GM; Bob Glasco, now a consultant with Rusty Walker & Associates, was PD.

No one really ever focused on being No. 1. We didn't concentrate on the top of the mountain, but on the next plateau.

- Alan Sledge

Freeman, who left in Summer '93, says, "The idea behind KMLE was to create a great Country station that people enjoyed. We knew Phoenix was a great Country market and felt if we did a great job in programming, promotion, and sales, we'd have a viable radio station.

"A lot of people had their doubts at the time. KMLE was the lowest-rated station in town with a .7 [12+]; KNIX had a 1.3. But I never set beating KNIX as the goal; we wanted to be the best station in Phoenix. KNIX didn't have to fail for KMLE to be a success. We knew from the first day that our success was up to us. By paying attention to our agenda and not worrying about what KNIX was up to, the station became successful. The result is that Country is a premium in Phoenix because both stations are very good — and that's great for the whole business."

Roughly two and a half years after KMLE's debut, Glasco resigned to join Walker. Coming aboard as PD in January '91 was Alan Sledge, who arrived from Shamrock sister station WFOX/Atlanta. He would spend the next three and a half years overseeing KMLE's programming before leaving for another Shamrock Country outlet, WWWW/Detroit, last June.

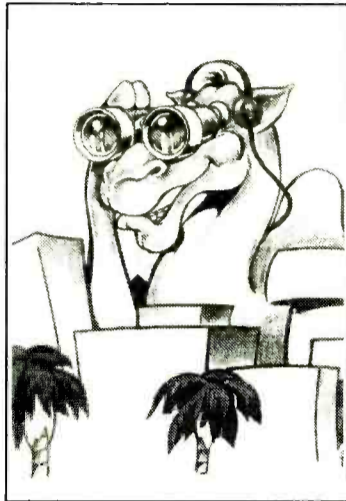

Keys To Success

Sledge says, "One of the keys to KMLE's success is that we had a plan and stuck with it. We concentrated on the things we could control. Certainly, we paid attention to the marketplace and KNIX. But we didn't worry about what others were doing — we just tried to be as good as we could be every day."

According to Sledge, another key part of the plan was building KMLE a step at a time. "Most people looking toward the next goal look at the top. But no one here really ever focused on being No. 1. We didn't concentrate on the top of the mountain, but on the next plateau. It wasn't until last year that we began to focus on actually being No. 1."

KMLE's management took a unique approach in creating a winning environment. They were as concerned with the internal climate as they were with the on-air sound. Sledge recalls, "To get to the top tier of Phoenix radio, we knew we had to have a station that was fun, entertaining, and compelling. To do that, we wanted to create that kind of feeling inside the station, believing it would make its way onto the radio. That helped listeners know from the start that KMLE's fun attitude was 'real.'"

Sledge says that from the very beginning, the folks at KMLE weren't afraid to take risks. "Early on, a lot of people thought some of the things we did were very risky — like using CHR jingles or our nighttime show called 'Club Camel,' where we produced our own dance mixes. We weren't afraid to take risks within the structure of our overall strategy."

Developing The Brand

The early strategy was to develop a specific product line of "Today's New Country." Says Sledge, "KMLE became the 'brand' for new country, so it was our job to explain as creatively as possible the difference between us and every other station in town."

Part of that "explanation" included TV spots featuring Gene Autry's "Back In The Saddle Again," implying that KNIX was "Old Country." Sledge explains, "We weren't trying to say that heritage was bad. We were servicing our brand the best way we knew how; we had to point out the virtues of our new kind of Country. We weren't pointing guns across town; we never took KNIX's name in vain. It was tongue-in-cheek — an exaggeration that was carefully done so as not to trash the wonderful Country environment that existed in Phoenix."

The plan was to build cume. "We worked everything backwards from there," explains Sledge. "We worked at reaching specific cume goals. That's where we put all of our marketing and promotion dollars. Everything we did on the air addressed those goals as well."

New Faces, Ideas

The station went through a critical phase in its life early in Sledge's tenure. "A wonderful group of people had built the station to a nice plateau, but the task when I came in was to take it to the next level. That meant

KMLE'S FUTURE

Walking Camel Down The Road

KMLE/Phoenix PD Shaun Holly has been part of the station from day one. He was its first evening personality when it flipped to Country in October '88, was named Promotions Director in early '91, and became PD last June.

Obviously, he was thrilled when the Summer '94 Arbitron placed Camel at the head of the pack. But he also knows he has his work cut out for him to keep KMLE on top. How does he plan to do that?

"It sounds corny, but we're going to continue to find new and other ways to superserve the listener with what they've come to expect from Camel. That means personality — whether it's defined as air personalities, the staging on the radio, or jingles. And that also means doing the unexpected and being unpredictable — both as individual personalities and as a station. KMLE is fun to listen to. The music is right, of course, but KMLE is much more than that. What happens between the songs is what makes great radio. And that's what Phoenix listeners hadn't been getting before Camel came on.

"KMLE is famous for doing things out of the ordinary," Holly continues. "We're not a typical Country station, and that's been beneficial. The differentiation allowed us to be first in something before we ever were No. 1 in anything. Being first in something — anything — helps set you apart from everybody else."

Risks & Rewards

Holly adds that KMLE will continue to take risks. "Radio can get too scientifically programmed. Leadership needs good ears and gut to recognize good radio in the market they're in. We'll continue to be on the edge. It's hard to say where that edge is, but we'll keep taking risks. But they must be calculated risks and be part of the original vision that defined KMLE's stationality.

"We decided we wanted to own 'fun and entertaining.' To do that, the PD must have the right creative gut to say, 'This risk fits the mold of what we're trying to create' and go out and do it. PDs who rely on research and science alone miss part of the station's marketing. Being on the edge is definitely part of KMLE's packaging."

Congrats to Holly, VP/GM Bruce Blevins, and the entire KMLE staff on being No. 1 in Phoenix!

We hired people, supported them, and got out of their way. Individuals were allowed to stretch beyond where they thought they could be.

- Alan Sledge

new faces and new ideas to further stress the strong points of difference between KMLE and KNIX."

Changes includes promoting night jock Shaun Holly to Promotions Director and bringing in a couple of new personalities, Jeff Daniels and Stu Evans, who currently do mid-days and afternoons, respectively. (Holly was named PD following Sledge's departure in June.)

"We had the right people in the right place at the right time. We hired people, supported them, and got out of their way. Individuals were allowed to stretch beyond where they thought they could be. Many of the people who work at KMLE are destined for greatness beyond KMLE, or they will stay there and continue to contribute to KMLE's success. They know what makes it work; they're part of it."

Sledge's biggest challenge came 18 months after his arrival, when morning team Taylor & The Bear left for KIKK-FM/Houston. He says that in some ways, the seven-month gap between one morning show's departure and the other's arrival was beneficial to the station.

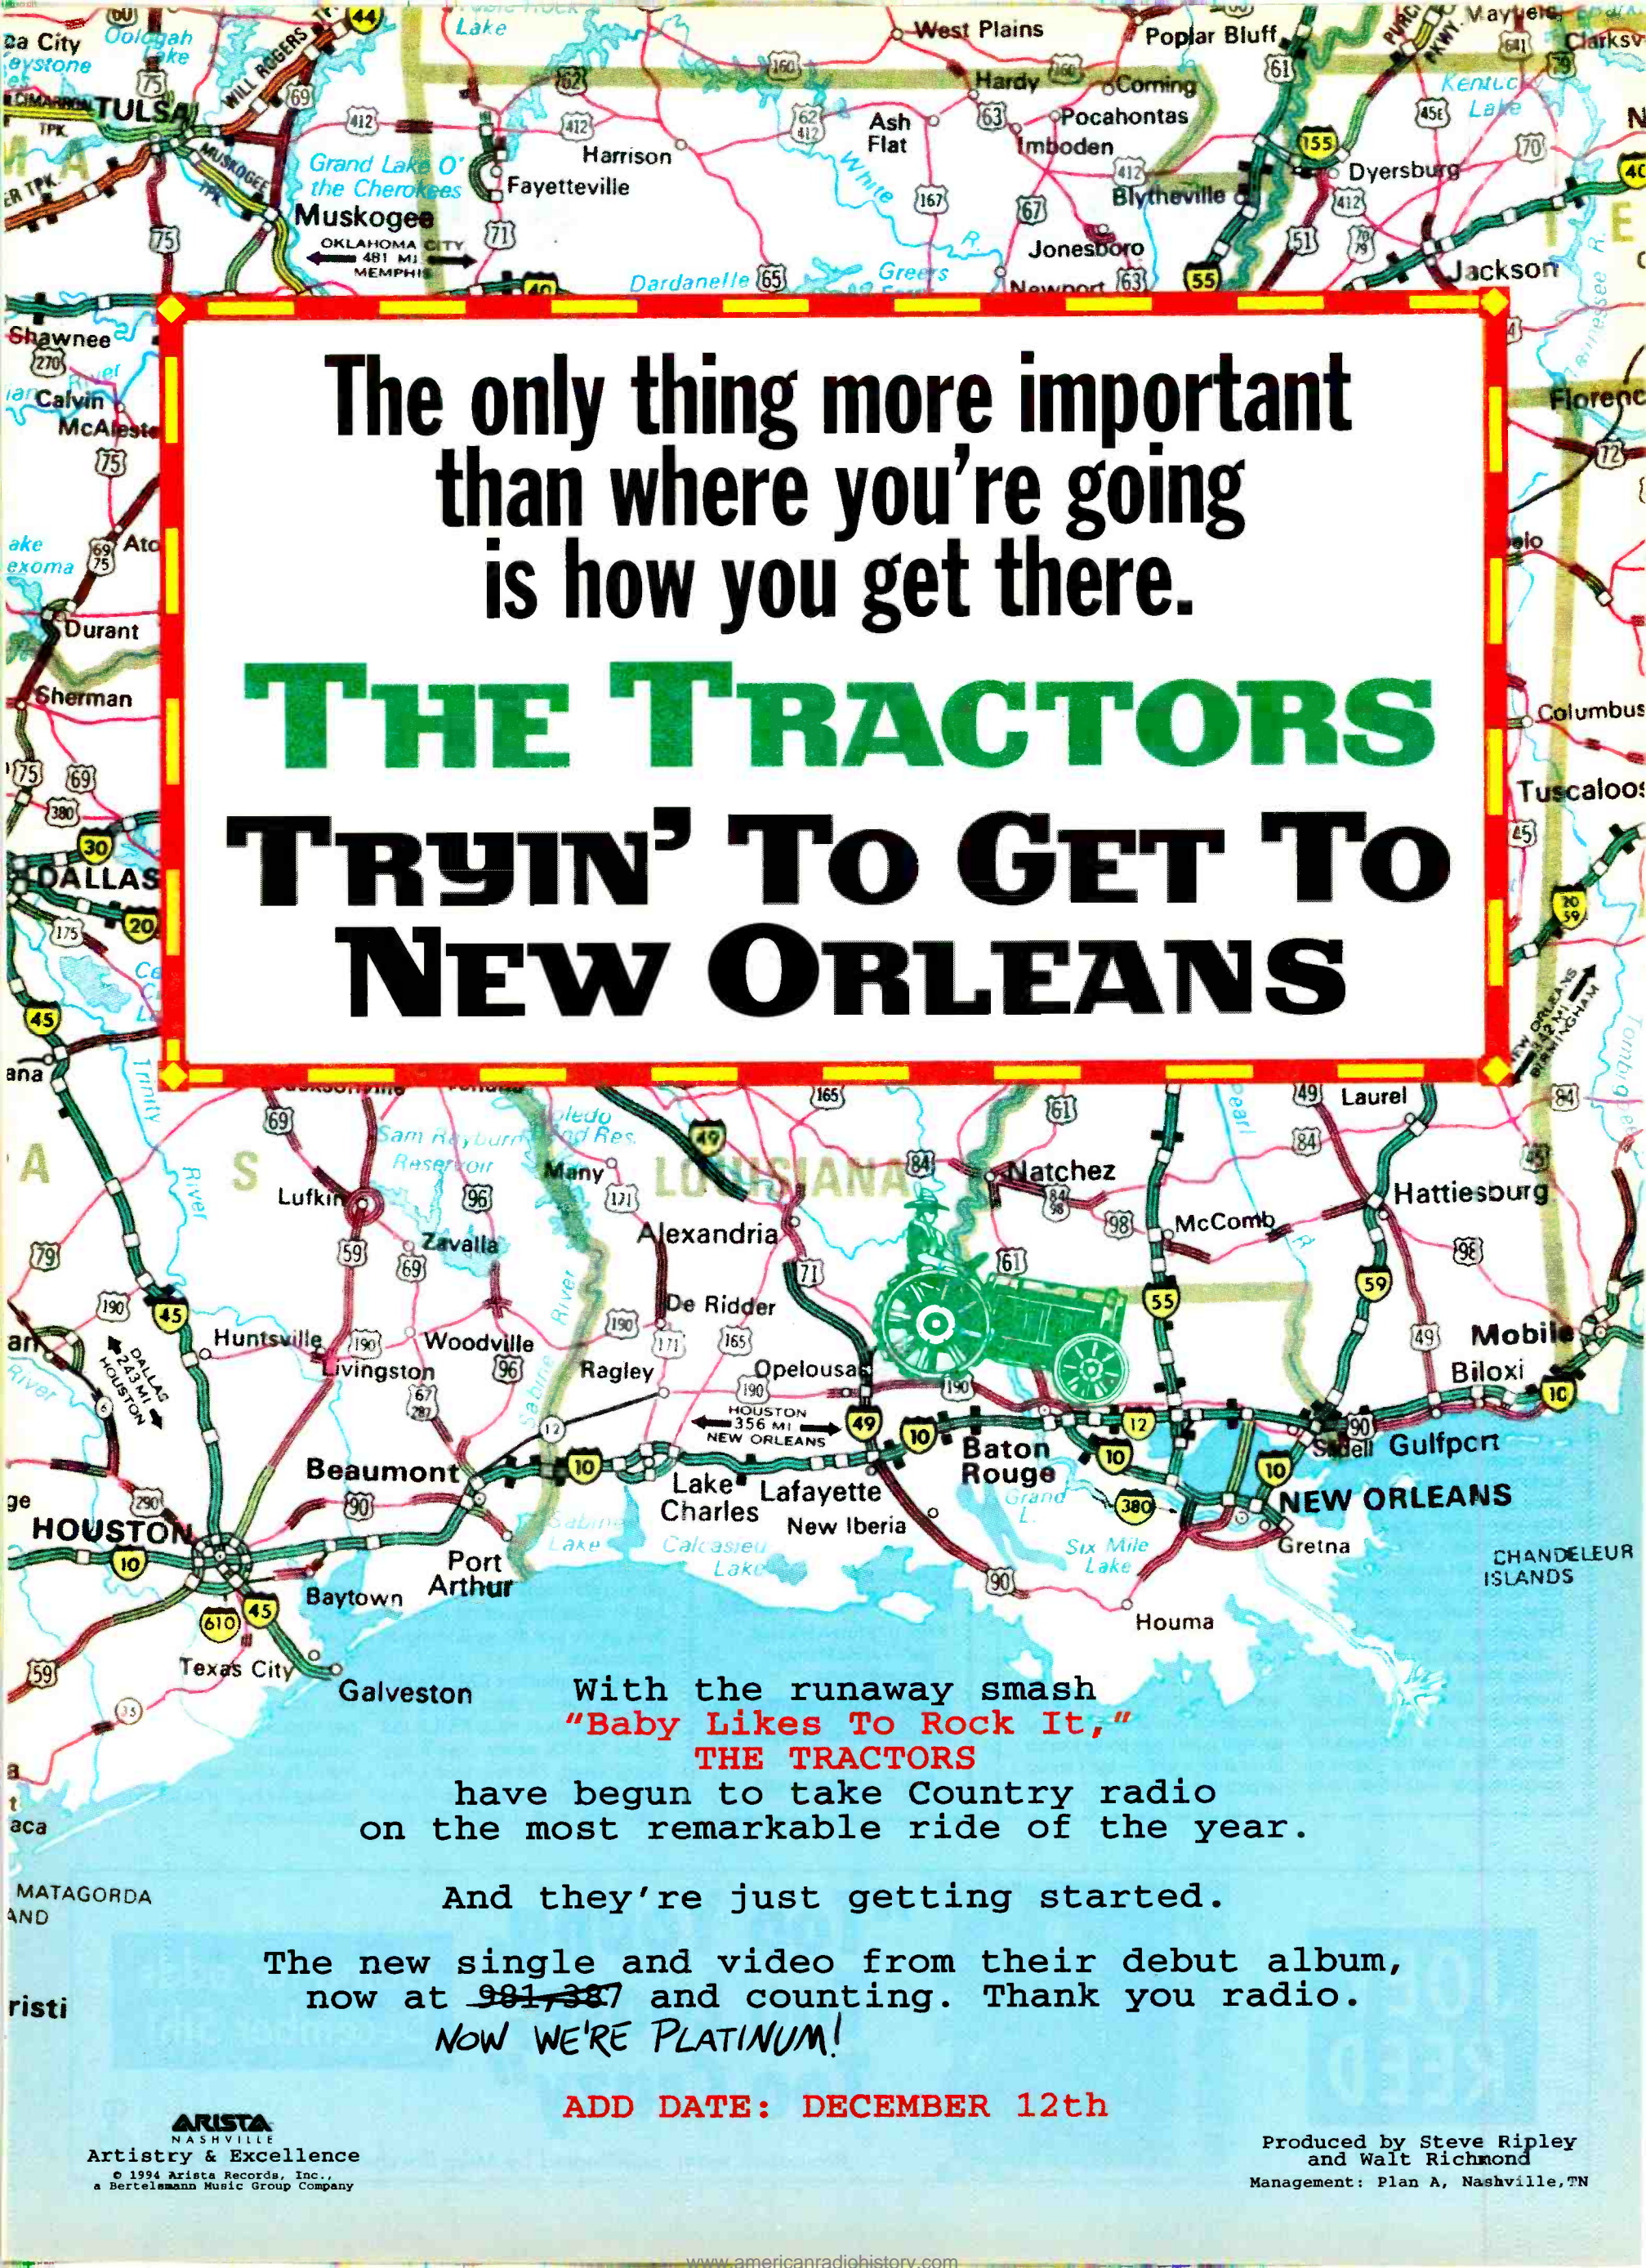

"When you know you don't have the killer morning show the station needs to pivot around, you pay more attention to every other aspect of programming. KMLE became a very sound radio station in all respects; the product was solid. When Tim Hattrick & Willy D. Loon came in, it was icing on the cake. They pushed it over the top to make KMLE a complete radio station."

'Classy Competitor'

Sledge calls KNIX "one of the classiest competitors I've ever been up against." He adds, "They're incredible supporters of the Country radio market; they make it a positive experience for listeners and advertisers and, ultimately, for the country music industry. KNIX and KMLE will always be friendly competitors. We both know we have to coexist in the market."

Asked his thoughts on some of the fundamental programming changes KNIX went through during KMLE's

New Artists For The New Year

The new year is almost upon us, and with it comes music from new artists. Here's a peek at some of those who'll see their first efforts released during the first quarter of 1995.

Wade Hayes

NEW ARTIST FACT FILE

Label: Columbia/Nashville
Single/Album: "Old Enough To Know Better"
Influences: Merle Haggard, Gary Stewart, Waylon Jennings, Gene Watson, Willie Nelson

Early Days

Wade Hayes has been around country music all his life. Father Don Hayes was a professional musician who played in honky-tonks near their home in Bethel Acres, OK. The 25-year-old started playing the mandolin when he was about nine. "When I was 12, I moved to the guitar and knew I had come home."

Wade Hayes

Hayes has always wanted to perform: "I can't remember not wanting to. I got my first real gig when I was 13 or 14 playing guitar on this Opry show in Shawnee, OK. I started playing honky-tonks when I was 14 or 15, and played those until about two years ago when I moved to Nashville."

But that wasn't the first time he had been there. When Hayes was in his early teens his father landed an ill-fated deal with an independent label; the Hayeses sold their house, packed their belongings, and moved to Music City. Unfortunately, the label folded about a year later. "My parents ended up losing everything they had," says Hayes, including their house in Nashville.

Nashville Connection

Shortly after arriving the second time around, Hayes was hired to perform at a local club. The experience opened a lot of doors for him—but it also opened his eyes. "Record labels started sending scouts, and the guy who managed the club found out and tried to force me to sign a management contract. I wouldn't, and I got fired."

It turned out to be a blessing. A mutual friend introduced him to songwriter Chick Rains; Hayes played guitar on a demo session for him, and the two became friends. "We wrote a couple of songs together, and he took me to see [producer] Don Cook. As it turns out, [Sony Music/Nashville Exec. VP and former Sony Tree VP] Paul Worley and [Sony Tree Sr. VP] Donna Hilley happened to come to this meeting. I could hardly play, I was so nervous. But the Lord really blessed me because the very next day I was at Tree signing a publishing contract. I got my record deal, too." He also got a roommate—WB/Nashville artist Greg Holland, whom Hayes met through Cook.

Songs

After signing with Columbia, Hayes spent about six months writing songs; three ended up on his debut album, "Old Enough To Know Better." "It's hard for me to write songs that aren't about things that have happened to me. I have a long way to go. I love it, though."

"My favorite song on the record is 'I'm Still Dancing With You.' I wrote it when I was fixin' to move to Nashville; I was leaving a relationship I had been in for almost three years. I'm very sorry about it, but this music thing was all I've ever wanted to do. It's definitely taking precedence over everything in my life right now. I was pretty torn up about it for a while—but I ended up getting a song out of it."

Atlantic/Nashville is gearing up for two new releases. "Through His Eyes" is the debut album by Louisville native Marilyn Martin, who had a hit in the late '80s with Phil Collins ("Separate Lives"). She most recently sang backup for Don Henley, leaving after two years to record her solo effort. Originally signed by Atlantic's New York office, Martin requested a move to the label's Nashville branch because she felt more comfortable in the Country format. Her first single, the title track, ships to radio January 30.

Also making his Atlantic debut is Woody Lee. A regular performer at Dallas's Cowboys nightclub, Lee co-wrote Tracy Lawrence's recent hit, "I See It Now"; a duet with Lawrence will be included on Lee's new album. Look for his first single in early March, with the CD to follow shortly thereafter.

Mercury/Nashville introduces radio to Wesley Dennis. Dennis began playing the guitar and making up lyrics to songs when he was four; he wrote his first song at seven. He performed in bands throughout high school and became the first artist signed by Mercury VP/A&R Keith Stegall. His self-titled debut is out March 7 and features the first single, "I Don't Know But I've Been Told."

Polydor/Nashville is planning the premiere of the Moffatts. The quartet—which consists of 10-year-old triplets and their 11-year-old brother—grew up in Victoria, British Columbia. They've been making music since 1987 and have even written a number of songs. The boys' as-yet-untitled album is scheduled for release March 21.

Opryland Christmas

This year people around the country won't have to travel to Nashville to take in Opryland's 1.8 million Christmas lights (or nearly as many country stars). CBS-TV will air "Opryland's Country Christmas" December 22. The hourlong special will feature Clint Black, Vince Gill, Emmylou Harris, Lorrie Morgan, Mike Snider, Marty Stuart, Mel Tillis, Pam Tillis, Travis Tritt, Tanya Tucker, Tammy Wynette, and Trisha Yearwood. Settings for the show, taped last week, include the Opryland Hotel and theme park, the General Jackson showboat, the Opry House, Ryman Auditorium, and the Wildhorse Saloon.

New Year's News

For New Year's Eve homebodies who just can't handle the thought of watching the ball drop in Times Square again this year, TNN offers an alternative—or two. Tim McGraw headlines the two-part "Wildhorse Saloon: New Year's Eve '94," the last stop on the 31-city Unbeatable Wheatables Country Tour '94 sponsored by Keebler. Between the special's two segments, TNN will air "New Year's Eve At Sea World Live," co-hosted by Katie Haas and Lee Greenwood and featuring a performance by Little Texas.

Country Showdown

Willie Nelson and Jimmy Dean will host the 13th annual "True Value Hardware/Jimmy Dean Foods Country Showdown," to be taped next week (12/9) at Nashville's Ryman Auditorium. The show, which also features performances by Bobby Bare, Crystal Gayle, and Kris Kristofferson, spotlights six aspiring country artists competing for a grand prize of $50,000 and a recording contract. The finalists have advanced through local, state, regional, and national competitions to get this far. The "Showdown" will air on a syndicated TV special this spring.

ratings ascent (outlined in the 11/4 column with KNIX VP/GM Michael Owens), Sledge responded, "We always assumed they'd always be there. As good a station as they were—and are—they had to make tough decisions about their product, including the morning show, the music, and presentation. We knew they had to make many of the changes because we saw the weaknesses in our research."

Sledge emphasizes KMLE's victory isn't about what KNIX did wrong, but about what KMLE did right. "KNIX never does many things wrong. Did they blink? Perhaps. But along the way, we always knew they were a well-oiled machine. Our agenda was to support Country—make it a good experience for the listener and a good advertising buy for clients. This wasn't a prize fight; the goal wasn't to knock out the other guy."

The battle between the two stations has never been on any level but the high road. "We tried to avoid the garbage so common to CHR wars. But that's what makes Country unique. We all work with the same wonderful artists, so we try not to put them on the spot. The two stations protect the Country turf together. There's never been any actual discussion about it, but we all seemed to understand it was the best strategy for both of us for long-term business aspects."

KKSC's Small-Market Dilemma

■ Can a new station make a splash in a little pond that already has a big fish?

What's a programmer to do when given the task of launching a small market's second News/Talk station? That's the intriguing question posed to me by KKSC/Sioux City, IA OM Bob Bakken, who faces the monumental challenge of luring Sioux Citians to KKSC's new Talk format.

The station's lineup includes the WOR Network's Dr. Joy Brown and money-talkers the Dolans, as well as several shows from the Sun, IBN, and Peoples Radio networks. Local programming consists of an hour of news and interviews in morning drive and an hour of local news in PM drive — including a 30-minute simulcast of a Sioux City television newscast. Crosstown KSJC carries a variety of popular talk shows, including Rush Limbaugh.

What kinds of promotion should Bakken be doing to spread the word about his station's new format? Several Talk PDs agree: This is one tough sell.

Define Your Differences

WXYT/Detroit GM Michael Packer believes Bakken must move swiftly and aggressively to identify KKSC's target audience, then differentiate his station from KSJC in marketing toward that group.

"The most important thing, in both on-air and off-air promotion, is to identify the differences between yourself and the competition. You need to decide who you're targeting. Is it men or women? Liberals or conservatives? Then you have to give [those] people a reason to switch from the established Talker to your station.

"You've got to sound like you're the more informative, entertaining

The best come builder for a Talk station is word of mouth. Stake out extreme positions and draw attention to yourself. Get the mayor and other public officials involved if possible.

- Gabe Hobbs

station. You also have to figure out a way to make them dissatisfied with the established station. Carry this message of differentiation in all your liners, positioning statements, promotions, and advertising."

Focus First

WTMJ/Milwaukee PD Steve Wexler cautions that Bakken must make sure his station's programming is clearly targeted and focused before he begins promoting it. "To be successful in Talk, you need to own something — a franchise that will make money for you. Maybe it's women, or maybe it's all-sports. I wouldn't suggest just putting together a lineup of shows and becoming the second choice for News/Talk [in Sioux City]."

Wexler also recommends that KKSC produce a solid local morning show — perhaps a news block. Such a show, he points out, would give the station credibility as an information source.

Once the station has selected a target audience and put together a solid lineup, Wexler says, it should start looking for unconventional ways to promote itself. "If I was targeting women," he explains, "I'd look for ways to tie in with providers of women's health services. I'd also look for partnerships with other media [that appeal to the same audience]."

Perils Of Syndication

WFLA/Tampa OM Gabe Hobbs agrees that KKSC needs to create a buzz, but wonders whether that's possible with a mostly syndicated lineup.

"The best come-builder for a Talk station is word of mouth," says Hobbs. "If there's not a lot of money to do a ton of television advertising, the best way to create that word of mouth is by generating controversy and water cooler talk. Stake out extreme positions and draw attention to yourself. Get the mayor and other public officials involved if possible.

"If you're not in a position to be controversial, you may have to resign yourself to the fact it's going to take two or three years for people to find out about your station. And you'll just have to hope that when they find you, they like the syndicated shows you carry."

In the meantime, Hobbs thinks KKSC should probably focus on as-

TOP 10 TALK TOPICS

November '94

What's on Americans' minds? Each month R&R conducts an exclusive survey of the nation's leading Talk radio stations to determine the 10 issues that have generated the greatest amount of listener phone response over the past four weeks. Following is a comparison of last month's and this month's hottest topics.

LM	TM
—	1	GOP Election Victories
—	2	Immigration
—	3	Susan Smith/Child Murders
—	4	GATT Treaty
—	5	School Prayer
3	6	O.J. Simpson Trial
—	7	Welfare Reform
4	8	Crime & Violence
—	9	White House Shooting
—	10	Education

O.J. Simpson extends his chart run to six months, dropping from the Top 5 spot.

Reporting Stations: KGO/San Francisco, Ken Beck; KIRO/Seattle, Billy Yeend; KMOX/St. Louis, Tom Langmyer; KSDO/San Diego, Kelly Wheeler; KXL/Portland, Bill Gallagher; WBAP/Dallas-Ft. sembling a strong sales staff that will build relationships with local advertisers and sell the station on a qualitative basis. "It pains me to say this as a programmer, but they probably ought to go out and hire a couple of good salespeople."

Losing Proposition?

WLS-AM & FM/Chicago OM Drew Hayes, who has an almost religious faith in the power of publicity and promotion, offers a dire prognosis for KKSC's situation. All the hype in the world, he points out, can't help a second Talk station with a weak lineup in a small market.

"If I was consulting this station, I'd ask why they went to Talk," says

Hayes. "My guess is they did it because the [owners] see that Talk is hot and that there's a lot of free programming available out there. Talk does work well, but when you get down into the smaller markets, there's really only room for one Talk station."

KKSC's lack of significant local programming — or even a high-visibility syndicated show — Hayes concludes, may be an insurmountable obstacle to the station's success. "I like a good challenge, but you have to have the horses to make it happen. Honestly, I'd recommend that they do some kind of Country or Rock format that's different from what's available now."

NEW & ACTIVE ...and more!

"That record rules!"
—Mike Morrison, KSCA

"Check out all the fuss."
—GAVIN

ALBUM NETWORK:
"Funk lives! And the hottest proponents are clearly the Boxing Gandhis...blending funky soul grooves, tremendous vocal harmonies, rootsy instrumentation and hook-infested lyrics. There are so many killer songs on this album that you'll have a hard time choosing which ones to play!"

THE HARD REPORT:
"The band maintains a funky tight groove while delivering (vocalist) David Darling's socially conscious lyrics, and the album begins with three outstanding tracks."
