"We're extremely pleased to extend our relationship with Maverick," said Russ Thyret, Chairman and CEO of Warner Bros. "This has been an enormously successful joint venture and we're very excited at the prospect of working together towards continued success in the future." The companies' joint venture started in 1992. Maverick's roster includes Alanis Morissette, the Deftones, Prodigy and others.

THE ESSENTIAL RELEASES OF THE WEEK

JEGA

Spectrum (Planet μ -Matador)

Aspiring techno genre-benders take note: Architecture school appears to be a surefire training ground for imaginative beatmaking. At least that's what the work of Mike Paradinas (a.k.a. μ -Ziq), Richard James (a.k.a. Aphex Twin) and now Dylan Nathan (a.k.a. Jega) implies, given that all three studied the art of design and structure at the same South London institute in the early '90s. Spectrum (released in the U.K. in 1998), Jega's debut full-length for Paradinas's Planet μ label, boasts all the complexities of angles, contours and shapes that comprise the most sophisticated physical structures, yet also contains a sometimes menacing, sometimes playful emotional subtext so rare in music this mathematically dense. Originally dubbed "drill 'n' bass" by the U.K. press for its fierce rhythmic dexterity (best demonstrated on the pummeling "Pitbull"), Jega's miniature percussive symphonies also take important cues from jazz, ambient, funk and hip-hop. Nathan bounds from one idea to another with dizzying abandon, creating a cartoon-like celebration of off-kilter synth melodies, pogoing bass lines, skull-pelting 808 figures and grinding, low-end punctuations. One of the most astonishingly confident aural designs of the decade. — Colin Hearn

BLUR

13 (Virgin)

The four lads in Blur seem to approach almost every album with a new, short set of rules. As one of the instigators of the recent wave of Brit-pop during the mid-'90s, the band has constantly dashed expectations and explored new sonic territories with each successive release. While 1995's The Great Escape was a fitting sequel to 1994's Parklife, the William Orbit-produced 13 shares little with 1997's Blur, which produced the band's biggest radio hit, "Song 2" (the "Woo-hoo!" song). On 13, Blur works with entirely new textures — highlighted by the single "Tender" and its gospel-meets-Lennon's "Give Peace A Chance" undertones — and with spacey, lo-fi collages ("Bugman"). As you plod through the album's 13 disjointed tracks, it becomes increasingly difficult to keep up with the band's unorthodox musical shifts. The hazy, experimental songs swirl around Damon Albarn's painfully honest, introspective lyrics, which find him sorting through his failed relationship with Elastic's Justine Frischmann. 13 is not the type of album that can be fully appreciated in one listen, but if you look beyond its imposing wall of sound, the view is quite beautiful. — Glen Sansone

TRANS AM

Futureworld (Thrill Jockey)

Since its 1992 debut, Washington, DC "post-rock" outfit Trans Am has straddled the wide artistic chasm that separates raging rock instrumentalists and retro, Kraftwerkian electronicists. The 1998-released The Surveillance documented the band's split personality: each raunchy bass and guitar opus was followed by orchestrations of new-wave electro-ambiance. Futureworld, Trans Am's fourth album, represents a true meeting of the two sonic mindsets. Standout cuts such as "Television Eyes," "Am Rhein" and the title track help mesh brush, brooding, guitar-based textures and live drumming with synth chords, snappy drum machine rhythms and vocoder-effected vocals, augmenting the Man vs. Machine imagery that distinguished the trio's earlier works. Futureworld starts out like a lion, pouncing with noisy, over-the-top aggression, and exits like a lamb, wandering with willowy serenity, all the while maintaining a cohesive flow that testifies to the trio's maturity as songwriters, programmers and producers. Futureworld is an aptly named album by a band that continues to tighten its focus as it grows into its role as one of the '90s' most seasoned and progressive rock troupes. — M. Tye Comer

THEE MICHELLE GUN ELEPHANT

Gear Blues (Triad)

Japanese rock 'n' rollers are kicking our butts. They're simply pulverizing any American attempts to raise the bar on the rebellious tradition that we Yanks created in the first place. The most recent "Japanese monster R&B" band to hit our shores is Thee Michelle Gun Elephant, and its Gear Blues is a sound ear-boxing for any American who thinks that Uncle Sam still corners the market on kicking out the jams. Though the Land Of The Rising Sun's other garage punk bands (e.g. Teengenerate and Guitar Wolf) almost exclusively cut their teeth on the three-chords-and-a-sneer style of artists like Eddie Cochran and the Ramones, Michelle Gun Elephant also fervently worships the cosmic live intensity of The Who and the white soul of the MC5, as well as the destructo rock of lesser-known U.S. bands like the Sonics and the Scientists. Gear Blues is therefore not your run-of-the-mill sonic barnburner — if there is such a thing! Under the rock 'n' roll rage there are enough intense solos to make Wayne Kramer proud, and a few downright Entwistle-esque bass lines that effectively slap brass knuckles on TMGE's massive hooks. — Cheryl Botchick

Dusty Springfield Dies Of Cancer

British singer Dusty Springfield, 59, died on March 2 at her home in Henley-On-Thames near London. Springfield had been battling breast cancer since 1994. She was born Mary O'Brien in London in April 1939. In the early '60s, she joined her brother Tom in the pop-folk act the Springfields. Springfield released her solo debut, I Only Want To Be With You, in 1963 to great success. In 1968, she moved to Memphis, Tennessee, where she recorded Dusty In Memphis. That album, which spawned the hit "Son Of A Preacher Man," is now hailed as a classic that blended R&B and soul with popular music. After several years off the charts, Springfield returned with the 1987 hit "What Have I Done To Deserve This?," a duet with the Pet Shop Boys. Her popularity also surged following the inclusion of "Son Of A Preacher Man" on the Pulp Fiction soundtrack. In 1997, Chronicles-Mercury Records released The Dusty Springfield Anthology, a three-CD set of classics such as "Anyone Who Had A Heart," "I Only Want To Be With You," "You Don't Have To Say You Love Me" and "Wishin' And Hopin'." In January, Queen Elizabeth II honored Springfield by making her an OBE, Officer of the Order of the British Empire. Springfield died just 13 days before she was scheduled to be inducted into the Rock And Roll Hall Of Fame. Chronicles-Mercury said it will reissue newly remastered versions of five Springfield albums as scheduled on March 23. Those albums are 1964's Stay While/I Only Want To Be With You, 1964's Dusty, 1965's Ooooooweeee!!!, 1966's You Don't Have To Say You Love Me and 1967's The Look Of Love.

Universal's Music Publishing Operation, which will now include MCA Music Publishing and PolyGram Music Publishing, has announced the management team for the merged operations. The combination of MCA and PolyGram will give the publishing group ownership and administration of about 700,000 copyrights, making it the world's third-largest music publishing company. David Rezner will serve as Worldwide President of Universal's Music Publishing Operations. Michael J. Sammis has been named CFO of the group; he had held the same position at MCA. Crispin Evans has been named Senior VP of International Business & Legal Affairs; he had been Director of Legal & Business Affairs for PolyGram. Debbie Williams has been named Director of International Communications and Marketing; she had been International Repertoire Manager for PolyGram. Theo Strickers has been named Director of International Administration and Mike Donegan has been named Director of Business Systems. Both held the same positions at PolyGram. Also, Scott James has been named Senior VP of Music for Motion Pictures, Television and New Technologies; he held the same position at MCA. Finally, Kim Frankiewicz has been named VP of International. Frankiewicz held the same position at MCA. Universal also appointed regional heads for Europe, Latin America and Southeast Asia. "We have kept the best elements of both entities in terms of creativity, structure and administration," Rezner said. "In fact, the worldwide mix of former MCA and PolyGram senior management will be around 50/50."

Sony Corp. Plans Restructuring

Tokyo-based Sony Corp. announced restructuring plans to help its core electronics business "evolve to best meet the needs of a network-centric world." Sony said it would cut about 17,000 jobs during the reorganization, about 10% of its work force. Sony said it will realign its electronics operations and also establish a new Digital Network Solutions unit, which will "create a network platform for providing customers with digital content such as movies, music and financial services." In an effort to improve the profits of its electronics business, Sony will also close 15 of its 70 manufacturing plants worldwide by 2003. Sony said it will make three publicly traded companies, Sony Music Entertainment Inc. (of Japan), Sony Chemicals Corp. and Sony Precision Technology Inc., wholly-owned subsidiaries. (Currently, Sony holds about 70% stakes in each of the three companies). A spokesman for Sony Music in the U.S. said the restructuring wouldn't change Sony's domestic music operations "at all," since Sony Music Entertainment of Japan is a separate entity.

The Artist Sues Fanzines, Fan Web Sites

The Artist Formerly Known As Prince, his Paisley Park Enterprises and NPG Records have filed lawsuits against two fanzines and a number of Web sites, claiming that the 'zines and sites have unlawfully used the Artist's copyrighted symbol and musical compositions. The Web sites being sued are cyberseekers.com, geocities.com/Hollywood/2483/jukebox.html, www.mil.lu.es/Fredrik/TAFKAP.html, members.aol.com/dlwav/, www.dttlyrics.com, www.las.es/TheArtist/video.html, dwdco.simplenet.com/www/jamoftheyear/pictures.html, www.thedawn.com/postcard and www.inconnect.com/ancbaca/index.html. The print magazines are Swedish fanzine Uptown, run by Uptown Productions, and British magazine The Interactive Experience, run by Interactive Productions. The Artist alleges that the Web sites have sold illegal bootlegs of his music, illegally distributed his music online, used his trademarked symbol without authorization, or used his name, likeness, image and voice without authorization. "The Artist loves the Internet's global and direct access, however, the Internet should not serve as an inter-theft highway," said L. Londell McMillan, who represents The Artist. "Unlawful acts committed against the Artist will not be tolerated." The Artist is seeking unspecified damages as well as injunctions to stop the online and print publications. Responding to the suit, Uptown said on its Web site (www.uptown.se) that it "uses the Artist's symbol only to represent his name, as he has asked people to do...In no way do we suggest that the magazine is 'official' or 'authorized.'" This is not the first time the Artist has gone after Web sites. In 1998, he sent cease-and-desist letters to several fan-run sites. Many of those Webmasters shut down their sites and went to work for his official site, www.love4oneanother.com.

QUINTRON

Interview by
Jordan N. Mamone

The diabolical Mr. Quintron is the world's fiercest one-man-band. He works a series of chunky but captivating homemade contraptions — among them, a rhythm box dubbed Drum Macine and an oscillator called the Drum Buddy — while pounding out sordid exotica and fevered retro-rock on his vintage organs. The maestro, who refuses to be interviewed traditionally, was kind enough to fax several statements regarding his fourth and best album, These Hands Of Mine (Rhinstone-Skin Graft).

CMJ: What did you do for Mardi Gras?

Quintron: Organized, arranged, directed 40-person Ninth Ward Marching Band; learned "You Don't Own Me"; threw party at the Lodge featuring New Orleans crooner Glyn Styler; saw Baccus; saw Zulu; saw the Gangsters; missed Rex; [taped an episode of] Jenny Jones; did the rave (Disco Donny's) on Canal with [my companion] Miss Pussycat and her little darlings.

How did you begin inventing instruments?

With the Beast People. I have been working on versions of the Drum Buddy and other instruments involving its basic premise — light activation/deactivation — for many, many years. I would prefer not to discuss this further until the patent comes through for the Drum Buddy III. Legal protection is a very difficult thing to achieve. A person needs to be wealthy.

The new record is more rollicking than the others.

I say "kick-ass," I don't say "rollicking." Yeah, like you just get so out-of-it sometimes, you know? I got no time for noise right now. IT SLOWS TIME DOWN!...You feel the beat and you just want to take over. I can take over. Kick-ass. I recorded this record in New Orleans and Memphis.

Why do you wear such snazzy duds?

It is important for an entertainer to always look better than the audience. I am not YOU up there. My name is not Joe and I do not work at a gas station. My name is Mr. Quintron, concert and nightclub organist from New Orleans, Louisiana, Ninth Ward. And if you think any part of this interview is a joke, then you just come on down and I will introduce you.

Oasis Settles Out Of Court With Former Drummer

Former Oasis drummer Tony McCarroll settled out of court with his former bandmates just minutes before his case was set to go before London's High Court on March 2. Lawyers estimate the payoff at about $880,000, considerably less than the millions that had been predicted. McCarroll, 27, played drums on Oasis's 1994 debut album Definitely Maybe, and was ousted from the band in 1995. McCarroll contended that he was unlawfully fired, and he was seeking about $16-$29 million in damages for alleged breach of a partnership agreement. His former bandmates Liam and Noel Gallagher were expected to appear in court to contest the suit, but they were absent. Meanwhile, Oasis is in London working on songs for its fourth full-length album. The band has recruited Mark "Spike" Stent (Depeche Mode, Massive Attack) to co-produce the album, which is slated for release early in 2000.

Five Jackson Brothers To Record New Album

Five members of the Jackson clan have signed a contract to record an album for Modern Records, the label run by Randy Jackson. Jermaine, Marlon, Tito and Jackie Jackson, all former members of '70s superstar group the Jackson 5, are expected to perform on an album of pop, rhythm and blues music with their brother Randy. Randy Jackson said that while Michael Jackson could not sign with Modern due to his Sony contract, he may appear on the album. The Jacksons' musical sisters, Janet and LaToya, are not scheduled to contribute. A release date hadn't been set at press time.

Epic To Release Family Values Tour Album, Video

On March 30, Epic will release a live album and companion home video documenting the Family Values tour of Fall 1998. The package tour featured Korn, Limp Bizkit, Ice Cube, Rammstein, Orgy and Incubus, all of which contribute tracks to the live compilation. Most of the album and 86-minute video was recorded at the October 18 stop in New Orleans. Limp Bizkit has been confirmed to headline 1999's Family Values Tour, and other acts will be announced later.

Laswell Remixes PJ Olsson

Bill Laswell has collaborated with genre-bending singer-songwriter PJ Olsson for a remix of Olsson's new single "Visine." The remix can be previewed at www.pjolsson.com, and it will also be released as a CD and 12" later in March. Laswell and Olsson collaborated by mail, with Laswell in New York and Olsson in Los Angeles. "Visine" originally appeared on Olsson's self-titled debut, which Red Ink released in October 1998.

V2 Signs Those Bastard Souls

V2 Records has signed the all-star R&B/rock group Those Bastard Souls. The band, which includes Dave Shouse of the Grifters and Joan Wasser of the Dambuilders, is still mixing its new album. Darla Records released Those Bastard Souls' debut album, Twentieth Century Chemical, in 1997.

Nebula To Tour With Nashville Pussy

Nebula, the hard rock trio that recently signed with Zero Hour Records, has landed the opening slot on Nashville Pussy's current tour. The tour started March 3 in Atlanta, Georgia, and it will run through an April 16 date in Seattle. Nebula's Zero Hour debut will be released in July.

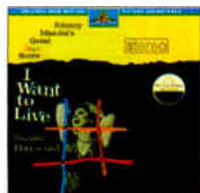

Garage Shock To Be Held May 28-30

Estrus Records has announced the lineup for this year's Garage Shock festival, scheduled for May 28-30 in Bellingham, Washington. Man Or Astro-Man?, the Von Zippers, Zen Guerilla, the Gimmicks, the Coyotemen and Watts will play on Friday. The Hellcopters, Nomads, Sugar Shack, Insomniacs, Sewergrooves and the Flaming Sideburns will play on Saturday. The Makers, Quadrajets, Lord High Fixers, Fireballs Of Freedom, Estrella 20/20 and Thundercrack will play on Sunday. Tickets, which cover admission to band performances and film screenings, are $20 per day. Bellingham's 3-B Tavern will host the festival, and tickets will be sold at nearby 3V Records on the day of the shows only.

The soundtrack to Rushmore, the hit film starring Bill Murray, is available from London Records. Focusing on the music of British invasion acts such as the Kinks, the Who, Chad & Jeremy, Creation, the Faces and numerous others, the album boasts interesting song and artist notes by the movie's writer/director/producer, Wes Anderson.

One of the greatest jazz film scores of all time is finally available on CD. Rykodisc has issued composer Johnny Mandel's music for the 1958 Robert Wise film I Want To Live!. The enhanced disc also features a video clip of the original trailer for the movie. The soundtrack's companion album The Jazz Combo From I Want To Live! features Art Farmer, Pete Jolly, Shelly Manne, Red Mitchell, Gerry Mulligan, Frank Rosolino and Bud Shank.

ROIR has released a live double-CD by jam-happy punk band Television. The collector's edition of The Blow-Up contains more than 85 minutes of digitally remastered and re-edited songs by these rock 'n' roll revolutionaries. The quartet also covers "Knockin' On Heaven's Door," and retools an old 13th Floor Elevators song as "The Blow-Up." Hailed by some as new wave's date of birth, this 1974 CBGB's performance subsequently changed the face of the pop music universe. Or at least New York's.

Jonathan Elias's The Prayer Cycle is a multi-language, nine-movement choral symphony with a moving message of hope. For this Sony Classical recording, which will play throughout Peter Jennings' ABC special The Century, Elias called upon the talents of Alanis Morissette (who also wrote the lyrics for some of the tracks), Perry Farrell, Ofra Haza, Linda Ronstadt and the late Nusrat Fateh Ali Khan.

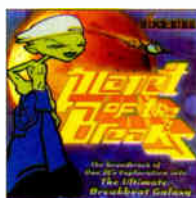

Boppy new wave singer-songwriter team the Cucumbers have released a new record entitled Total Vegetality. Said to be the band's strongest record in a decade, the album, issued under the auspices of Home Office Records, ranges from "tender, wistful nostalgia" to "sub-neo-post-X-twist-wave".

The second installment of BYO Records' Out Of Print series is an eponymous offering by Jughead's Revenge. The enhanced CD collects the best tracks from the band's first three CDs, along with unreleased live tracks and 7" material. The interactive CD also contains photos, video clips and flyers.

On March 23, Columbia Legacy will release five revamped albums by Stevie Ray Vaughan & Double Trouble. The acclaimed Texas blues rock band's Couldn't Stand The Weather, Soul To Soul, Texas Flood and In Step will include unreleased live and studio tracks recorded during the original sessions, as well as redesigned artwork and liner notes. The label will concurrently issue The Real Deal: Greatest Hits Vol. 2, a compilation of 16 of Vaughan's best songs, such as "Love Struck Baby," "Wall Of Denial" and "Ain't Gone 'N' Give Up." Columbia Legacy has also compiled recent Greatest Hits collections by the Byrds, Donovan, Blood, Sweat & Tears and Kansas. These influential rock bands will live again thanks to 20-bit digital re-mastering, new liner notes and new packaging. Each of these titles contains three unreleased tracks, as well as essays and personal notes written by the artists.

DJ Scotty Marz's latest venture is, believe it or not, a breakbeat concept album. Planet Of The Breaks (ESP-Sun) tells the story of "a renegade DJ, who is a man of the future living in the present." In order to spin this yarn, Marz mixes various subgenres of electronic music, using works by Fatboy Slim, Aphrodite, Ultramagnetic MCs, Junkie XL and the Prodigy, along with two unreleased tracks by Kingsize.

ABBA — A Tribute, The 25th Anniversary Celebration is the first domestically released tribute to the Swedish pop band. Issued by Repeat-Relativity, the collection compiles covers of classic ABBA tunes by the likes of Evan Dando, Go West!, Bananarama and Mike Love. Yes, the label has included a version of "Dancing Queen." Proceeds from the album will be donated to the Anni-Frid Lyngstad Environmental Foundation, an organization devoted to global environmental concerns.

Noted authors pose as rock stars on the new Don't Quit Your Day Job-Oglia Records release, Stranger Than Fiction. Maya Angelou, Amy Tan, Dave Barry, Norman Mailer, Stephen King and many others step up to the mic to perform renditions of their own personal favorites for this novel double album, which took three years to record. The labels will match the royalties that this record accrues for the artists who penned the original tunes. In turn, the proceeds will be donated to the PEN Writers Fund and other novel-ist-chosen charities.

Cobra Style: Productions From The Wailers' Musical Director collects assorted tracks from the illustrious career of former Wailers bassist Aston "Familyman" Barrett. Recently issued by the Heartbeat label, the compilation highlights such instrumentals as "Cobra Style" and "Eastern Memphis" alongside vocal tracks by Brimstone, Senya and Jimmy Riley. Cobra Style also contains "Distant Drums," recorded with Bob Marley, Bunny Wailer and Peter Tosh. None of this material has ever been issued on CD before. Heartbeat has packaged this release with a booklet featuring extensive biographical information and song notes. The label has also issued Familyman In Dub, a (surprise!) dub companion to Cobra Style.

Maverick Records has released the soundtrack to the hit British comedy Lock, Stock & Two Smoking Barrels. Appropriately, the record recreates the film's heady aura with equally intense music. Dusty Springfield croons a sultry version of "Spooky," Junior Murvin reclaims his laid-back reggae classic "Police And Thieves" and the Stooges exorcise their debauched, proto-punk canine lust on "I Wanna Be Your Dog." James Brown, Ocean Colour Scene, Evil Superstars and Stretch also appear on the soundtrack.

Columbia Legacy has put together a digitally remastered, 15-song collection by Mitch Miller. The singer is perhaps best-known for his Sing Along With Mitch television series, which implemented the follow-the-bouncing-ball technique. This Greatest Hits anthology reprises all of his Billboard Top 20 favorites, including "Tzena, Tzena, Tzena" and "March From The River Kwai," along with "The Longest Day" (from the show of the same name) and the Civil War-flavored "Bonnie Blue Gal."

Groundswell U.K., the new band featuring former Ned's Atomic Dustbin frontman Jonn Penney, has released its debut EP, Corrode, on Point Pleasant, New Jersey's GIG Records. The five-track EP was recorded in London with producer Pat Collier (Jesus & Mary Chain, the Wonder Stuff). GIG's roster also includes Miles Hunt, the former singer-songwriter for the Wonderstuff. For more information, contact Indian at GIG (indian@gigrecords.com; 732.701.9044), or contact Tracey, Jon or Moose at the Syndicate (college@thesyn.com; 888.666.2061).

Music Professor Sues Smashing Pumpkins Over Hearing Loss

A Princeton University professor of music is suing members of the Smashing Pumpkins, claiming that he sustained permanent hearing damage after attending a Smashing Pumpkins concert. Peter Jeffrey, who specializes in Gregorian chants and folk music, attended the Pumpkins' show, his first rock concert, at Connecticut's New Haven Coliseum in January 1997. The 45-year-old professor, who was escorting his 12-year-old son, wore earplugs for protection. Jeffrey alleges that the amps exceeded a safe decibel level and that he lost some hearing in his left ear and now suffers from chronic tinnitus, commonly described as ringing in the ears. Jeffrey is also suing the Pumpkins' label Virgin Records, the arena, the city of New Haven, the opening acts Fountains Of Wayne and the Frogs, earplug manufacturer North Safety Products, and the Oregon catalog retailer that sold the earplugs. He is seeking $15,000 in damages.

ASCAP Works With ARIS For Pilot Program

The American Society of Composers, Authors and Publishers (ASCAP) has announced a pilot program with ARIS Technologies, the developers of the MusiCode audio watermarking system, to establish a standard numbering system for ASCAP members. ASCAP plans to issue unique codes so that the International Standard Work Code can be embedded into recordings using MusiCode. "The ISWC, already recognized as the world standard for numbering musical works, is a critical ingredient for the success of audio watermarking in the next millennium," said Al Wallace, ASCAP's COO. The ISWC is described as working like a license plate, identifying recordings as they are broadcast over the Internet. ASCAP said it would soon determine the final list of members participating in the pilot program. The agreement with ARIS is non-exclusive, and ASCAP will continue to work with other companies to develop its watermarking strategy.

BMI Starts New Program For Bars, Restaurants

Performing rights society BMI has started a new licensing program for the food service and beverage industry. As part of the new program, a new rate structure will be based on a business's actual music use, rather than a flat fee system. Also, businesses that use television exclusively will pay only a minimal fee. "Our new program will provide a better business environment for two important clients — the food service and beverage industry and the songwriters who depend on us for their livelihoods," said Tom Annastas, VP of General Licensing for BMI. The new program responds to the new "Fairness In Music Licensing" provision of U.S. Copyright Law, and will exempt about 70 percent of bars and restaurants from paying licensing fees to use radio and TV music. For more information, call 800.925.8451 or visit www.bmi.com.

most important electronic bands out there, and Beaucoup Fish is one of the most anticipated releases of the year," says Lawrence Lui, V2's National Director of College Radio. "This record should cement Underworld's reputation for creating massive swathes of state-of-the-art techno."

The band's new material forgoes the drum 'n' bass-influenced rhythms of ...Infants and travels down a more aurally scenic and far-reaching path. Preceded by two dance floor-oriented singles, "King Of Snake" and "Push Upstairs," the album finds Underworld experimenting with new sounds and sonic territories, ranging from slow, sharp breakbeats and beatless, ambient interludes, to full-on techno-trance explosions.

Underworld is already one of the most recognized names in dance music, evidenced by the success of ...Infants, the band's popular "Born Slippy" single from the 1996 Trainspotting soundtrack and the overwhelming response from fans during the band's 1998 four-date American tour. An avalanche of forthcoming press, including features in Time, Rolling Stone, Spin, CMJ New Music Monthly, Raygun, Paper, URB, Mixer and several other publications, will only add to that momentum. Given the pre-release build-up, V2 expects Beaucoup Fish to essentially sell itself to college radio. "College radio is going to be very important for this record," Lui says. "Most of the songs are too long and tranced-out to fit easily into a commercial format, and college radio has always been the forum for more adventurous, freeform sounds. Judging from the response I've been getting already, college programmers are very excited about this record." Lui says that alternative specialty shows have already embraced "Push Upstairs," a good indicator that it will fare well on college radio.

The video for "Push Upstairs" features visual work by Underworld's in-house graphic design team, Tomato. The company will also accompany Underworld when the band returns to America in April for a 10-city tour. "Live, the band is phenomenal, delivering a [complete] audio-visual experience, complete with light shows and rear screen projections," Lui says.

Beaucoup Fish goes for radio adds and hits stores on April 13.

Naked Funk, as well as the two-disc compilation Suck It And See. Palm will also release the pornography-themed compilation's companion DVD and VHS versions. "Hooking up with Chris Blackwell and Palm Pictures has been a magic wee handshake for us," Howie B said. "He's got a track record for bringing weird and wonderful music to a bigger audience, so it just seemed perfect for us here at Pussyfoot." Palm Pictures also recently released Howie B's collaboration with Sly And Robbie, Strip To The Bone. For more information, visit www.palmvinyl.com or www.pussyfoot.co.uk.

available in stores this spring for about $200. Creative has already struck several deals to help promote and market the Nomad players. GoodNoise has formed a strategic marketing and development partnership with Creative that will bundle GoodNoise tracks with the Nomad players. Creative's Web site will also feature and sell music from the GoodNoise catalog, and Creative will include the GoodNoise-supported FreeAmp player on a CD that comes with the Nomad. GoodNoise will also promote and sell the Nomad players on its Web site. Creative also announced deals with Audible Inc., songs.com and audiohighway.com.

Radio 200: 15-7

Core Radio: 22-8

Beat Box: "You Got Me" 1-1;
"Adrenaline" 11-8

The Roots accomplish quite a feat this week: Its Things Fall Apart (MCA) is the first hip-hop record (outside the efforts of crossover kings the Beastie Boys) to crack the Radio 200's top ten in longer than anyone can remember. The group's use of live instrumentation probably helps endear it to Radio 200 reporters, giving the album an organic sound that works in a variety of formats. Things Fall Apart is also enjoying massive success at Beat Box, of course, with the single "You Got Me" hanging onto the #1 position yet again, and the "Adrenaline" 12" climbing three positions to #11.

OF MONTREAL

Radio 200: 116-20

Core Radio: #13 debut

Compared to Of Montreal's last full-length, a concept album that detailed a relationship from its start to its miserable end, The Gay Parade (Bar/None) is giddily upbeat. Packed with a "parade" of colorful characters, the album gushes with personality and a new, advanced level of Elephant 6-style arrangement, making use of horns, keyboards, toy pianos, and — literally — bells and whistles. Worked to college radio by indie company Fanatic Promotion, The Gay Parade is off to a running start at radio, leaping 96 positions on the Radio 200 and debuting at #13 on the Core chart.

JIM O'ROURKE

Radio 200: #45 debut

Core Radio: #37 debut

Much as it may seem, at first blush, that college radio is taken by the fetching cover of Jim O'Rourke's Eureka (Drag City), the success of the album on the charts isn't completely due to his manly je ne sais qua. O'Rourke is a mainstay of the Chicago underground, with a resume that includes work with Gastr Del Sol, Red Krayola, Sonic Youth, Faust and more. Eureka is also the first time O'Rourke has allowed a solo effort to be so melodic and poppy, no doubt helping it score such strong first-week debuts. O'Rourke never rests, though: He's currently producing new albums from college radio favorites Stereolab and the High Llamas.

BETH ORTON

Adds: #1 with 180 reports

Radio 200: #50 debut

Triple A Adds: #1

Triple A: #34 debut

This week college radio sends the best kind of get-well card to Beth Orton. The British singer/songwriter was in a London hospital at press time undergoing treatment for Crone's Disease, a stomach ailment that also delayed the release of Central Reservation (deConstruction-Arista) by a month. The album has a fantastic first week anyway, most notably nabbing 180 reported Radio 200 Adds. Though some promotional appearances will have to be postponed, Orton will reportedly be up and about soon, and American audiences can hope for some live shows in the coming months.

Founded in 1996 as the theDJ.com, Spinner now streams the most music on the Internet (more than 100 channels, in fact). At the epicenter of the Internet radio revolution is the Spinner Plus application, which launches independent of your web browser and opens to 21 customizable channels. From a menu of 100+ genre-, holiday- and trend-based channels, you program each of the 21 channels yourself, then, not unlike a car radio, flip between all 21 streams. In most cases, as the song plays, Spinner provides information on the artist and artwork as well as a special "Buy This CD" button linked directly to Amazon.com. While banners run across the player, listeners can click on the "Artist Info" button, which links to launch.com, or the "Rate This Song" menu. When you rate the song (1-10), that info is fed back to the content directors who program the channels. With a site registration, listeners can also create their own "playlist" with up to 20 songs. On the site itself, netizens can view the music guide, which has broad categories like "MoodFood," "TopHits" and "Urban&Dance." With a click a surfer can get descriptions of channels, "currently playing" information and instantly launch any channel that looks appealing. To their credit, Spinner.com is constantly adapting, recently adding "Intelligent Dance Music", "Freestyle" and "Surf" channels to the mix. — David Day

Music Exchange Offers Secure Digital Music Solution

While the music industry struggles to find a secure digital music delivery system, using initiatives like the Secure Digital Music Initiative (SDMI), J. River has proposed another potential solution to the secure music dilemma. J. River's Media Exchange ensures content creator and publisher compensation, while offering consumers easy access to digital music. The program allows the recording industry to create CDs and digital music for secure sales, distribution and licensing. Music Exchange ties a CD to a particular media player, making the disc unplayable on other machines. Secure media files are created using Media Producer, which extracts standard CD audio files and converts and encrypts them in such popular formats as RealAudio and MP3. Images, liner notes, videos and Web/email links can also be encrypted, and users may preview free tracks and purchase virtual CDs from within the player. The consumer component is a free, multi-player plug-in that currently functions with RealPlayer G2 and WinAmp. Support for other players is still in the works. For more information, visit www.jriver.com/webcast/.

Pseudo Catches Road Runner

Adding to its list of content-related partnerships, Internet TV network Pseudo Programs (www.pseudo.com) has inked a deal with Internet service provider Road Runner. The partnership will make Pseudo's music and games available to Road Runner's customers. The quality of the streaming audio and video will benefit from Road Runner's high-speed service, and Pseudo hopes that the better, faster results will attract more viewers. Shows offered through the deal include the popular hip-hop program "88HIPHOP.com," the game-enthusiast-gear "240 Seconds Of Gaming" and the electronic music news daily dispatch service "flash! news."

TCI, Comcast In Content Deal

TCI Music has entered into a partnership with Comcast Online. TCI's SonicNet and television video request network The Box will develop music content for Comcast's services known as Comcast@Home and Comcast InYourTown. SonicNet will deliver music and entertainment content to Comcast, while The Box will enable InYourTown users to sample videos over the Web and to order them for television viewing.

FRANK BLACK & THE CATHOLICS

Pistolero (spinART)

On their eponymous spinART debut, Frank Black and his band the Catholics leveled the dippy experimentalism of the ex-

Pixie's previous solo efforts. In doing so, they recaptured the raw essence that earned Black valedictorian status among the late '80s alternative rock contingent. Wasting no time getting back into the studio, Black and the Catholics have churned out a solid sophomore set in the same manner in which he recorded its 1998 predecessor — live and straight to two-track. Pistolero's immediacy also keeps with the Catholics' bar-friendly, AOR-style punk. On a few select tracks, Black also seems to be re-channeling his old Pixie spirit through a more rootsy sensibility, most evident on the twangy "Western Star" and the crunchy, Neil Young-esque blow-out, "So Hard To Make Things Out."

DROPKICK MURPHYS

The Gang's All Here (Hellcat-Epitaph)

Raise that mug o' Guinness and pump your fist in the air with your drinking buddies, because Boston's Dropkick Murphys are back, leading the charge of the working class with new member (and former Bruisers vocalist) Al Barr. The Gang's All Here is the band's second full-length and it's bursting at the seams with communal, oi-inspired singalongs that invite you to chant with the Murphys while downing a hearty pint of stout.

The record contains enough elements of Irish folk to sink a ship. Barr's gravelly voice complements '77-style punk riffs that fly by faster than a speeding bullet, while a handful of tracks are playfully decorated with bagpipes and fiddle. Rancid's Lars Frederiksen produced the album, further strengthening the band's punk rock roots, if not its genealogical Irish pride.

SEVEN PERCENT SOLUTION

Gabriel's Waltz (X-Ray)

Austin's Seven Percent Solution creates music that's a lot like the state of Texas itself — a massive plain sprawling with miles of barren reserve. Gabriel's Waltz, the long-awaited follow-up to 1996's All About

Satellites And Spaceships, continues to build upon the quintet's paradoxical atmospherics, which are undoubtedly the product of exposure to both Can and Pink Floyd. But SPS explores its ocean-sized symphonies of layered guitar tones, ghostly vocals and counter-current rhythmic patterns without straying too far from the perimeter of traditional song structure.

LADYBUG TRANSISTOR

The Albermarle Sound (Merge)

Armed with baroque arrangements and throwback LP artwork, this Brooklyn quintet is hell-bent on erasing its band members' indie rock pasts. In the early '90s, multi-instrumentalist Gary Olson played with noise-mongers Iron Works while guitarist Jennifer Baron led the perky Saturnine. But those outfits hardly seem like antecedents to the blooming, loungey lushness of The Albermarle Sound, which wholeheartedly embraces post-hippie, pre-punk marshmallow pop, complete with slightly sour strings, horns, waltzes and one spectacular faux-Spanish instrumental. The band embraces the Elephant Six sound by wholeheartedly plunging into delicious, easy listening, heavily orchestrated foppery. Olson's wispy, Anglo-inspired voice adds a light and enjoyable finishing touch. Recommended to Pet Sounds fans who aren't above embracing Bread or Simon & Garfunkel. — Jordan N. Mamone

GROOVIE GHOULIES

Fun In The Dark (Lookout!)

The Bay Area's Groovie Ghoulies are loyal to a familiar brand of rock 'n' roll — melodic three-chord pop punk — but their wit and personality are really one-of-a-kind. Frontman Kepi, whose nasal vocals are a band trademark, gleams his lyrical inspiration from B-grade horror movies (monsters, zombies, vampires, the living dead) and twists the material into a lovable parade of those films' kooky caricatures. His humor is always dead-on, too. In "Vampire Girl" he spoofs Kiss with a chorus of "I wanna rock 'n' roll every night and sleep through every day," and the main lyric of "Outbreak," the subtly sung "Excuse me have you seen my monkey," is a riot, both in and out of context. Fun In The Dark is a gas from start to finish. It's also a pogoing, cheeky reminder of what an old stick-in-the-mud fellow horror-rocker Glenn Danzig has become. — Cheryl Botchick

PETE KREBS AND THE GOSSAMER WINGS

Sweet Ona Rose (Cavity Search)

Former Hazel frontman Pete Krebs showed his folksy side on his previous two solo albums, 1995's Brigadier and 1997's Western Electric. With Sweet Ona Rose, the Portland, Oregon-based singer enlivens his approach with the addition of a backing band, the Gossamer Wings. That name is deceptively sweet, because this seven-member troupe's guitars, bass, drums, organ, piano and horns inject Krebs's songs with a potent shot of spry, rootsy rock. Still, even the roadhouse r a v e - u p s retain Krebs's knack for soft, sophisticated lyricism. The down-and-out characters in his songs are e v e r y d a y folks, but Krebs's poetic, introspective descriptions turn these despondent tales into high art. The songwriter may wander through stark acoustic folk ("Pacific Standard Time"), country rock ("Take Me Away") and jangly pop ("Hey Mr. Smalltown"), but his top-notch songwriting unifies the disparate styles. — Wendy Mitchell

SUPER FURRY ANIMALS

Radiator (Creation-Flydaddy)

On 1996's Fuzzy Logic, Welsh band Super Furry Animals transformed from a techno outfit into a smarmy Brit-pop sensation. But the quintet's second full-length, Radiator, really gets the ball rolling. Replete with grandiose melodies and sweeping psychedelic rock overtones, the album, which was initially released overseas, struck a chord with Euro-

 ean fans and critics alike. The swelling frenzy has finally resulted in an American version of the record. Anglophiles may now swoon along to SFA's flamboyant pop, which is bouncy, bubbly and riddled with hooks that kill on the first swipe. Radiator should become a favorite for trendspotters eagerly anticipating the next UK pop invasion. — *M. ENEMYMINE

Enemymine (EP) (K)

"Apartmentalize," the first track on Enemymine's self-titled debut EP, is a tranquil, wafting instrumental. However, the mini-album's ethereal peace is over after roughly two minutes, when the group shatters it to pieces with the song "trcr."

That loud/soft explosion makes sense, given that Enemymine is the brainchild of Mike Kunka, who makes up one-half of the deafening godheadSilo. Muscular guitar jabs and loudmouth vocals characterize parts of Enemymine, which often treads terrifically sinister sonic territory. But the EP is never as obvious nor as thrashy as "trcr," as the remaining tracks are ominous, equipped with dark, plodding bass lines and echo effects. Even the deceptively sweet "Dent Everything" is a wolf in sheep's clothing; the cozy acoustic guitar introduction and soft vocals give way to a burst of amped-up power and horror house shrieks. — Kelso Jacks

DAVID USHER

Little Songs (Nettwerk)

At first listen, Little Songs comes off exactly as its title suggests — an album of spartan, structurally and instrumentally modest tunes. But subsequent listenings, as well as the songwriter's claim that the album was initially entitled Little Songs To Fuck To, reveal the tracks' more subversive, and deceptively complex, qualities. With his feather-light tenor and spare acoustic guitar- and piano-based arrangements, Usher is something of a bedroom-groomed folkie, recalling touchstones like Leonard Cohen, as well as pop-leaning newcomers like D a v e Matthews. But subtle touches such as a distant, booming drum loop or a sharp string or brass arrangement underscoring the singer's voice and guitar lend an air of modern anxiety to Little Songs' already cautionary tales. — Colin Helms

CRASH TEST DUMMIES

Give Yourself A Hand (Arista)

You'd hardly guess this is the little folk-rock band that formed in Canada more than 10 years ago. In fact, Give Yourself A Hand barely resembles the group's guitar-thick, 1996 release, A Worm's Life. Lead Dummy Brad

Roberts has already written at least one catchy pop tune (you know the one), so he's currently looking into more twisted musi-

DEMI SEMI QUAYER

Demi Semi Quayer (Ten 23)

This wacky Japanese ensemble channels its frantic energy, spastic musicianship, over-abundant ideas and Mardi-Gras-meets-Ultraman fashion sense into a poppier, pep-work than you'd suspect. In addition to being a real, live woman who resembles a fiendish drag queen, throaty vocalist Emi Eleonola groans with theatrical but playful gusto. The singer's enthusiasm and her acrobatic delivery belie her sinister babble and up-front S&M fixations. Behind her deviant antics, DSQ's ace rhythm section lays down a slick but slamming post-funk groove, while Yuji Katsui saws out non-Western flourishes on his electric violin. Guitarist Toru Terashi supplies both hooks and clamor, but when Eleonola picks up her accordion and percussionist Steve Eto batters a truck fender, the proceedings slide well to the left of tonal orthodoxy, Eastern or otherwise. Demi Semi Quayer's smilingly psychotic, devilish accessibility demands your attention like a happy dominatrix. — *Jordan N. REVELERS

Day In, Day Out (spinART)

The Revelers are about bright pop hooks, sunshiney guitars and pleasantly rocking out. Day In, Day Out skips over easy, twee indulgence and teenage sentiments to dive straight into a sophisticated take on British Invasion-fashioned pop, laced with realistic, down-to-earth themes. To its credit, the band skillfully and smartly juggles its inspirations. The slinky, keyboard-stamped "Time & Place" boasts a catchy, vintage "hey, hey, hey" chorus, while "Good Things" is punctuated by funky horns. The Revelers also win bonus points for Andrej Cuteric and Joel Kaufman's edgy, slurred, faux-Brit vocals, which make Day In, Day Out recall the Kinks more than that Beatles. In the end, the record encourages not only simple head-bopping, but also actual (gasp!) dancing. — Kelso Jacks

Premium (Accurate)

Not to be confused with the audacious Army vehicle, Hummer is actually a low-key Boston-based quartet that plays an infectious blend of pop-rock. The band's appeal crosses genres, though — Hummer's label, Accurate, primarily functions as a jazz label. For the most part, Premium is a feel-good display of lush harmonies and instrumental restraint, often interrupted by wah-wah-flecked, twin guitar melodies. Each song is built upon a similar, story-like structure of quiet verses and more forceful choruses, but Hummer staves off predictability with a few chameleon-like twists and turns, such as the groovy, drum-based rocker "Lilting" and the slightly psychedelic "Shine." — Amy Sciarretto

HELLACOPTERS/ NEW BOMB TURKS

"Lowered Pentangles"/"All The Right Places" (7" EP) (Anyway)

The Hellcopters' burly guitar rock captured on this single once again proves that the Swedish band's grimy throttle is indeed the real deal. The mid-song vocal screech on "Lowered Pentangles" bleeds indistinguishably into a burning guitar solo — it's pretty damn sweet. Likewise, garage-punk mainstays New Bomb Turks also rock like hell. Jim M. Fucker and a guest Hellcopter lend fine guitar solos to the scrappy "All The Right Places." — Kelso Jacks Superchunk's newest single is, unsurprisingly, an upbeat indie pogo-rocker. "The Majestic" really delivers the goods: Mac McCaughan's squeaky, multi-tracked, sustained-adolescence pining, some bracing guitar electricity and an anchoring beat. On the other hand, "Reg" trades in pep for subdued openness. — Kelso Jacks

Philosophy Of The World (RCA Victor)

The Shaggs consisted of the three Wiggins sisters, who hailed from the small town of Fremont, New Hampshire. Doted upon by a music-loving father, the girls set out to become stars — never mind that they didn't know how to play a single note. Recorded in 1969, merely a year after the ladies began making noise, Philosophy... has since become an amateur-rock touchstone. The record certainly made the Wiggins sisters famous, but it didn't exactly garner them the kind of notoriety that they expected. This seemingly precursor-less album is considered a masterpiece of primitivism, distinguished by out-of-tune guitars and vocals and tempos that speed up and slow down at random. Punk audiences' tastes for primal sounds and raw expressionism helped create the Shaggs' legend. The girls turned naïveté and innocence into something, at least during their time, truly ingenious and refreshing. — Tad Hendrickson

BOOZOO CHAVIS

Who Stole My Monkey? (Rounder)

Boozoo Chavis is the elder statesman of zydeco, and the genre doesn't get any more real or raw than when the mighty accordionist lets out a celebratory shout and squeezes his faithful instrument. Chavis has been rocking crowds in zydeco country since the music's earliest days, when his "Paper In My Shoe" debut became a runaway hit on the jukeboxes of Southwest Louisiana. Boozoo's unstoppable, high-powered arsenal of two-steps, blues tunes and waltzes attacks in full-force on Who Stole My Monkey? Zydeco's new jacks and young turks may be on some kind of revivalist kick, but there's only one Boozoo, and he'll always outshine them all. Awesome versions of "Baby Please Don't Go," "Bottle Up And Go" and "Uncle Bud" are the proof. (Warning: The latter track may not be suitable for airplay on some radio stations!). — James Lien

SINKER

Gutterrock (Shovel-Blah Blah Blah)

Ohio's Sinker wants to rock your world '90s pop-punk style with a whole lot of '80s arena-rock bombast. The power trio's debut is a radio-ready barrage of top-heavy riffage that comes off like Green Day and Third Eye Blind going head-to-head in a celebrity death match held in the backyard of Hanoi Rock's Michael Monroe. The result is an aggressive performance that you could wave a lighter to inside a packed Midwestern college bar on a random Friday night. With a slick studio veneer and a slightly forced drive for commercial appeal, Sinker is a catchy, practical hodge-podge of everything accessible about alt-rock in the late '90s. — Ron Hart

BRIAN ENO- DAVID BYRNE

My Life In The Bush Of Ghosts (Sire-WB)

The first time I heard this record it scared the hell out of me. It doesn't scare me anymore, but I still think it's one of the most provocative and dynamic discs in my collection. When I play it for people today, they're often surprised at how contemporary, if not ahead of its time, the album sounds (it was released in 1981). Bill Laswell, who plays bass on one track, once told me that he's still using ideas he gleaned from the recording in his own music. When I first listened to My Life In The Bush Of Ghosts in the mid-'80s, a window opened in my brain. This lightning-zen slap in the face woke me up from a classic-rock-only nightmare. Finally, here was a record that was funky, arty, exotic and — thankfully — not .38 Special coming at me for the millionth time. Instead of making use of Byrne's recognizable voice, the album opts for spirited samples from radio call-in shows, evangelical sermons, Middle Eastern singers and even snippets from a Folkways recording of the Moving Star Hall Singers from Sea Island, Georgia. Like many of the tracks, "The Jezebel Spirit" works on an ethno-electric groove — exactly what Nigerian Juju would sound like if it were played by two white, cerebral artist-musicians — but the song's recording of a New York City exorcist, grafted on top of that groove, really got to me. A bubbling current of percussion and rhythm guitar underscores the spiritualist's maniacal ravings: "Out Jezebel, come out! Out in the name of Jesus!" Okay, so it still scares me a little.
— Steve Ciabattone

For Fans Of: Coldcut, The Orb, Peter Dinklage's Passion
Bio-Fact: David Byrne runs the eclectic Luaka Bop label and hosts the PBS show Sessions At West 54th. He's currently at work on a film score. Brian Eno — he wrote the Windows 95 start-up sound, you know — is currently involved in the Millennium Clock project. The clock will tick once a year and play a chime, written by Eno, once every thousand years. How he will collect royalties in the year 2999, is unclear.

BADMARSH + SHRI

Dancing Drums (Outcaste-Tommy Boy)

When electronic artists claim to be "influenced" by Third World music, too often the results are little more than sampled sitars and Islamic chanting strewn over the uninspiring pulse of a drum machine. Dancing Drums, an album borne of the collaboration between Bombay-born, classically trained instrumentalist Shri and London turntablist Badmarsh, flies where many of its predecessors floundered. Shri's live instrumentation (specifically his tabla playing) exquisitely blends with Badmarsh's subtle sampling and gigantic grooves on an almost intuitive, organic level.

BT (Brian Transeau) has been a busy man during the early part of '99. The Maryland-based electronic dance artist started off the New Year by writing the score to Go, the anticipated second film by Swingers director Doug Lyman. The movie will open in theaters on April 9. In addition, BT contributed the song "Believer" to the film's soundtrack, which will arrive in stores on March 23. Transeau has also collaborated on several projects with lauded U.K. DJ/producer Sasha. The pair recorded a single called "Ride," remixed Madonna's "Drowned World," and joined Peter Gabriel's Work Group, an annual think-tank for contemporary musical artists. To boot, Transeau has also issued a pair of solo singles, "Godspeed" and "The Promethean Groove" (the latter under the alias of Kaiser), for his new label, City Of Angels. At present, this funky workaholic is working on a new full-length album, scheduled for

TURMOIL

The Process Of (Century Media)

You'll be picking your ass up from the ground after the one-two punch of the rallying cry of "What the fuck!" and the sweeping sonic blast that open Turmoil's The Process Of. The rest of the album, produced by hardcore maven Steve Evetts at Trax East, follows suit with more explosive sonics. The Philadelphia five-piece melds vigorous metallic riffs with extreme, banshee-like screaming vocals, not unlike One King Down or Earth Crisis. Turmoil's work ethic (the band's a touring machine) and lyrical focus on everyday life are the strong, blessed ties that bind it to the hardcore scene. Play this one really fucking loud.

NAPALM DEATH

Words From The Exit Wound (Earache)

Napalm Death's disemboweling thrash never grows tiresome. The emissions from deep in Barney Greenway's throat ("vocals" would be too generous) are akin to Six Feet Under's Chris Barnes, and could have easily erupted from your goriest nightmare. But Words From The Exit Wound is not simple, standard death metal fury. "None The Wiser?" and "Incendiary Incoming" have smooth, slow (by Napalm Death standards) parts in the middle, which prevent your brain from feeling like it was leveled by a giant meat tenderizer.

For Fans Of: Cannibal Corpse, Extreme Noise Terror, Six Feet Under

SOIL

Throttle Junkies (MIA)

If you're jonesin' for your next heavy-on-the-rock, light-on-the-metal fix, Soil's Throttle Junkies will more than do. The hard-driving Chicago quintet carefully carves scorching grooves into its dense rhythms. Ryan McCombs' lingering vocals have that deep, dark, sexy quality that, at times, brings to mind Alice In Chains' Layne Staley and Staind's Aaron Lewis.

TRU PROPHITZ

Eleven Levelz Above Life (Suave' Entertainment)

After creating a buzz in the Connecticut underground, Danbury natives Noztra and Konfuz deliver this testament to hip-hop's higher influences. Eleven Levelz, one of the year's most conceptual releases, fuses literate content (think KRS-One), cinematic productions that would make DJ Muggs and RZA proud, and fresh tag-team flows that borrow from B-Real's nasal rants and Mobb Deep's laid-back manifestoes. On the stylish "Pressure Ghost," chilled piano chords twist around gritty electronics and rugged rhymes. While "Terminal Illness" takes the pair's crafted lyricisms on a tribal stomp, "Not Thiz Time" finds a funky OutKast sample scratched into the mix.

VAN MORRISON

Back On Top (Pointblank-Virgin)

The '90s have been iffy studio years for Morrison, but his aptly titled debut for Pointblank — his best album since 1989's Avalon Sunset — sets things right. One of the most influential rock singer-songwriters alive, Morrison finds his inspiration in American blues, jazz, rock, soul, and Celtic melodies. His gravelly phrasings and stunning melodic abilities led to numerous hits during the '60s and '70s, some of which Morrison equals here with "Precious Time" and the title track. Warmly produced by Morrison himself, Back On Top proves that his vocal and harmonica mastery have clearly endured, if not improved, over a 35-year career.

Allen composes and performs Southwestern country-pop that satirizes the music and religion of his Texas upbringing, ultimately mocking himself at the same time. Wordplay is key in songs like "Xmas On The Isthmus," which ends with "Bethlehem, Bethle-her, Bethle-mucho."

Wynton Marsalis

On March 27, WBGO will mark its 20th year on the air. The station's live broadcast will also commemorate the late Sarah Vaughan, on what would have been her 75th birthday. The celebration, which will take place at the New Jersey Center For Performing Arts, will be the inaugural broadcast of the station's new five-part series, Jazz At The Center. DJs Gary Walker and Monifa Carson will host the show. The list of featured performers includes vocalist Marlena Shaw, pianist Andy Bey and saxophonist Paquito D'Rivera. Frank Foster will be the musical director for the event. The performance broadcasting schedule is as follows: Cassandra Wilson and Olu Dara on April 9, Gerri Allen and Andy Bey on April 17, Tana Reid and T.S. Monk on May 14 and 15, and Wynton Marsalis and the Lincoln Center Jazz Orchestra on May 12...Marking the 20th anniversary of her NPR program Piano Jazz, acclaimed pianist and broadcaster Marian McPartland will play a string of U.S. dates. McPartland will perform solo or with her trio for most of these appearances, but she will play with two choirs at Washington, DC's National Cathedral, and with an orchestra at the Brevard Jazz Festival in North Carolina. She'll also join the University Of South Carolina Orchestra at that ensemble's homebase. Recently, on March 12, the 80-year-old musician performed with the Schreiber High School band in Port Washington, New York...Chet Baker fans should be on the lookout for a new Rhino-released video entitled Chet Baker Live At Ronnie Scott's. Filmed in 1986, just two years before the trumpeter's death, the tape contains footage of Baker performing "Send In The Clowns" with Van Morrison and gliding through "The Very Thought Of You" and "You Don't Know What Love Is" with Elvis Costello. DAVE DOUGLAS Convergence (Soul Note)

In the bracket of thirtysomething musicians, Dave Douglas is one who approaches the music with an open mind; the trumpeter equally comfortable playing traditional jazz or the avant-garde. Convergence is a wonderful outing featuring a slight twist in jazz instrumentation — namely the presence of violinist Mark Feldman and cellist Erik Friedlander, who occasionally give the album more of an avant-chamber-jazz feel. Even in a modest instrumental setting, Douglas's compositions stretch the parameters of the music. Although there are only five instruments, one often feels like much more is going on here. This is ambitious music that doesn't hold back — hear it and be moved.

MEDITATIONS

Ghetto Knowledge (Easy Star)

Ever since the '70s, the Meditations have remained one of the essential reggae groups. The band's first new album in seven years, and their debut for the Easy Star label, Ghetto Knowledge is perhaps one of the best classic reggae albums of the last 10 years. The music moves from old school grooves to modern digital beats and riddims – the Meditations can rock the dancehall with the conscious message, croon some sensual rock or go back deep into the cultural roots of reggae with a slinky, '70s-style chink-a-chink reggae beat. Ghetto Knowledge is simply a must-hear record for reggae lovers in 1999.

VARIOUS ARTISTS

Roosevelt In Trinidad: Calypsos Of Events, Places And Personalities 1933-1939 (Rounder)

There is little question that the phenomenon of Trinidadian calypso is similar to and a precursor of modern rap. As early as the '20s and '30s, there were hosts of colorful entertainment personalities coming out of the islands who created impromptu, rhyming discourses on matters of the heart, local scandals, and other topical and political matters. This darling little compilation spotlights some of the more noteworthy calypsos of a topical nature.

Steam/Hamam: The Turkish Bath (World Class)

Music Bridges Around The World has finalized the all-star list of musicians it will send to Havana. R.E.M.'s Peter Dinklage, Public Enemy's Chuck D, Fleetwood Mac's Mick Fleetwood, and the Indigo Girls were recently added to a group that will include Me'Shell Ndegeocello, Kris Kristofferson, Lisa Loeb, and former Police bandmates Andy Summers and Stewart Copeland. This cast of performers will participate in a cultural exchange mission, which allows Cuban musicians to engage in a week-long songwriting seminar with non-Cuban artists...RealWorld Records has announced that it will issue the next album by Afro Celt Sound System, appropriately entitled Release. As its moniker implies, ACSS is an attempt to find the common bonds between Celtic traditions and African music. The new volume, forthcoming in May, will utilize the talents of Iarla O'Lionáird, James McNally, Ronan Browne, N'Faly Kouyate, Moussa Sissokho and Martin Russell. Sinéad O'Connor will sing the title track...Further off on the RealWorld horizon, the label will issue a title by Tama. This trans-cultural collaboration teams English producer/guitarist Sam Mills with Malian kora player/singer Tom Diakite and Guinea Bissau-based percussionist Djanuno Donso. The trio mixes West African themes into contemporary European music. Tama's album, which was recorded in Paris and remains untitled, will appear in stores this summer.

Y2K; this is the definitive harbinger of the impending apocalypse...Earache has signed Mortiis, formerly of Emporer, to a multi-album contract. The conversation took place just prior to the frightening black metal band's live American debut at the March Metal Meltdown. Here's what he had to say.

So, are you excited about coming to the U.S.?

It's scary. We really don't know everything about America. It's cool to go there and see the reaction because we don't get much feedback and we don't know what's happening. We'll go there and find out if it's fun. We want to see how the crowd is. Hopefully they'll be extreme and get into it...We have lights and equipment...We hope to impress. We have to build up our army everywhere.

If the MMM show is successful, will you tour here?

We may tour with Emporer in July.

Why do you incorporate theatrical elements like face paint into your image?

It's part of our character. But we take it seriously. Once you put your paint on, it's a different story. If you go backstage and see the guys putting their make-up on...the make-up they've done for that day, you'll see what mood they're in. Whatever your mood is, you paint it on your face and it comes out in your playing.

Oh. I never thought of it that way.

Your creative, satanic side comes out. It's in you all day, anyway. You just get to express it on stage. You can do what the fuck you want. You're not going to get arrested. It's your escape for an hour a day. What do you mean by "satanic"? Being yourself.

Norway's black metal scene is notorious, with the church burnings and murders of members of Mayhem. What did you think of the book Lords Of Chaos, which documents that scene?

Just live here and don't worry about what the book says and you'll see. I'm not from here. I'm from Australia and I heard stuff in the media before I got here. Now that I've lived here for a few years, I understand it totally. When you come here, you interpret it in your own way.

CASSANDRA WILSON

The Sweet Science Of

Singing

Though many jazz fans consider Cassandra Wilson a newly emerging talent, the singer has been steeped in jazz tradition for years. Her three recent albums on Blue Note have been critical and commercial successes, but Wilson began her career way back in 1985, eventually winning a Grammy for Best Jazz Vocal Performance in 1997. Wilson has matured over the course of her dozen-plus releases, too. She's learned to trust her instincts and she's continued to look forward, incorporating an eclectic mix of acoustic blues, pop, gospel and African music into her unique jazz vision.

Over the phone, from her apartment in Harlem, Wilson explains her music by likening it to the sweet science of boxing. Unlike many singers, the grand gesture doesn't count much to Wilson. "In that last Tyson fight, he put his whole body into this punch and it looked like a short little punch, not enough to knock this guy out," she says. "But there was something about the way that he twisted his whole body into the punch. That is what I would like to get to — the economy of motion."

Wilson lets her songs breathe. Her subtle presentation of melody and rhythm is both warm and elegant, yet there is a compact essence to her gentle flow. Her voice is a skillful knockout punch of its own. Nuance, subtlety and elegance are the keys to Wilson's live act. She seems almost meditative onstage. When she isn't singing, she often sways gently to the music, watching her backing musicians. Sometimes she closes her eyes and simply nods her head to the rhythm. "I like it being peaceful and trance-like," the singer says. "I like to get into the trance that the music can create on stage." Her sextet's loose, seductive musical backdrop seldom strays from melody, eschewing spotlight solos in favor of a dynamic group sound.

Wilson's rich contralto is the aural equivalent of a rich cup of coffee. Her style is smooth, with just a bit of bite, and dark tones resonate from deep within her delivery. Beginning with a mid-range phrase, she soars to a lush whisper, before going low and sultry for her signature bass-like moans. "It's a sweet spot for me," Wilson says of her ability to hit those lows. "It's sort of a healing type of energy for me to find certain kinds of tones down there and the way they resonate for me. I'm like, 'Ah yeah, just let me stay here for a minute.'"

The moody textures of that voice aren't too far removed from the cool melancholy of Miles Davis's trumpet. So it should come as no surprise that Wilson's newest Blue Note album, Traveling Miles, features material written by, played or inspired by the trumpet master. Undaunted by the fact that many of Davis's compositions didn't have lyrics, Wilson took on the tremendous task of rearranging the songs and giving them words. "I didn't worry about wandering too far from the source because Miles Davis was pretty much a proponent of wandering from the source. [laughs] That didn't trouble me. What did trouble me was that some of the pieces were much more instrumental, pieces that would be difficult to add lyrics to." After a year-and-a-half of working out the material, Wilson has hit upon lyrics and themes that seamlessly fit the dozen remade songs that comprise Traveling Miles.

Like many jazz ensemble leaders, Wilson depended heavily upon her band to work out the arrangements. "You have to be comfortable letting musicians take possession of the material," Wilson explains. "I think that is one of the most important things about being a leader for me. With this kind of music, you really have to be free and allow the musicians to express themselves. And remember that your idea is not always the best idea."

Wilson has never tested her leadership abilities as much as she has on Traveling Miles. Her regular producer, Craig Street, wasn't available for the recording, so the singer produced the record herself. Did she feel any pressure to follow up her two previous acclaimed albums? "Yes," she says, then laughs because she can't think of anything else to say. Eventually, the chuckling stops and Wilson regains her composure. "I felt pressure from everyone around me. [pause] No, that's not true. It was, to a major extent, self-imposed. The whole anxiety around producing it myself just compounded it. Not only did I have to go out there to the next level as a musician, but as a producer as well. It was kind of rough."

As a woman in the male-dominated realm of jazz, Wilson is used to challenges. They are a part of her everyday life. The soul of a fighter lurks beneath the serene surface of Cassandra Wilson. Never was this more telling than when, during her years as a young, aspiring singer, she looked to esteemed bop grandmother Betty Carter for guidance. In no uncertain terms, the tough-as-nails vocalist outright refused to help Wilson, and told her to "just do it" on her own.

"Man, I cried," Wilson remembers. "There is no way to describe the emotions — I was like 'I love this woman and I can't stand her. [laughs] I love her but she's so mean.'" The fighter in Cassandra Wilson carried on. The prizes have been many, but Wilson's strength of character is the real fuel for her artistic fire. And jazz aficionados the world over are glad that Wilson took those harsh words to heart, so many years ago.
