WILLIAM G. DODGE PASSES AWAY

ANOTHER Federation stalwart has answered the final summons.

Monday, August 3, 1931, brought the telegraphic message that William G. Dodge, Assistant to President Joseph N. Weber during the past eight years, had passed away that morning, having failed to survive an operation for stomach trouble. The Dodge home is at Rockland, Mass.

Thus was brought to a close a career of unusual activity as a member of the American Federation of Musicians covering a period of thirty-four years.

Brother Dodge was born August 20, 1863, and was, therefore, at the age of 67 years and 11 months on the day of his passing.

He joined Local No. 9, of Boston, on April 22, 1897, as a Charter member, and retained membership therein until his death.

He served on the Local executive board for twenty years—from 1903 until 1923.

He was Secretary of the Boston Musicians' Relief Society from 1913 to 1915, inclusive.

With the exception of three years, he represented Local No. 9 as delegate to national conventions from 1906 to 1923.

It was the nature of Brother Dodge to be active in any movement with which he became identified. He was in no sense a wallflower. He wanted to be helpful, and when the opportunity for service opened, he assumed his task with enthusiasm and carried it forward with an intelligence and effectiveness which brought about an ever-increasing appreciation of the value of his capabilities and accomplishments.

Brother Dodge was the originator of the mammoth band concerts which have been a notable feature of Boston musical enterprise for many years. These concerts are played by a band of four hundred men. The proceeds are used for death benefits and assistance to needy members.

Brother Dodge became assistant to President Weber on August 19, 1923, and remained at his post until a short time before being compelled to surrender to the inevitable. He leaves a wife, Mrs. William G. Dodge; a son, William, who is a prominent orchestra leader of Boston; a daughter, Anna Dodge Dean, and a host of friends who will deeply mourn his departure.

The last sad rites were beautiful and impressive. The first services were held in Hanover, where he had lived for more than twelve years. The house could not begin to hold the large concourse, and the lawn was filled with hundreds of townspeople who came to pay their respects to the memory of their departed friend and neighbor.

Then came the service at the Headquarters Auditorium of Local No. 9 in Boston. Here a large orchestra, consisting of sixty-five members of the string section of the People's Symphony Orchestra, conducted by Frederick Mahn, played with fine feeling and interpretation, numbers which befitted the solemnity and the tender memories of the hour.

Brothers Brenton and Dodge had been co-workers, musical chums, and steadfast friends from early manhood. The eulogist could, therefore, speak from the mind and heart. His tribute was worthy of the occasion.

Then came the final journey to the Silent City known as the New Dell Cemetery at Natick—Brother Dodge's native town. The Natick Fire Department, which Brother Dodge organized many years before, was present in full uniform.

In his practical musical days, Brother Dodge was a trombone player; and at each one of the services herein described, a trombone quartette played "Going Home," the beautiful adaptation from the Largo of Dvorak's "New World Symphony," and "Nearer, My God, To Thee."

The trombone quartette was composed of Messrs. George W. Stewart, Chas. W. Howard, S. J. Gulesean and A. E. Broune.

At each service Rev. J. Fitzpatrick of the Unitarian Church at Rockland, Mass., officiated.

The active pall-bearers were Harry Shapiro, Victor Ferri, Jacob Woll and Frank Tortorello.

Following were the honorary pall-bearers:

Jos. N. Weber, President, A. F. of M.

William J. Kerngood, Secretary, A. F. of M.

H. E. Brenton, Treasurer, A. F. of M.

Edward Canavan, Chairman, Local No. 802.

George Gibbs, President, Local No. 9.

Herman Liehr, Secretary-Treasurer, Local No. 9.

James Hawks, Vice-President, Local No. 9.

James T. Kenney, President, Mutual Relief Society Local No. 9.

Jos. F. Toben, Secretary-Treasurer, Mutual Relief Society Local No. 9.

Thomas H. Carter, Conductor, Carter's Band.

Frederick Mahn, Conductor, People's Symphony Orchestra.

Harry Daggett, Conductor, Daggett's Orchestra.

William MacKinlay, Conductor, Colonial Theatre Orchestra.

Thomas H. Finigan, Past President, Local No. 9.

John Millington, President, Local No. 372.

Walter Hazelhurst, Business Agent and Manager, Local No. 143.

Brother Dodge was an earnest and aggressive fighter for what he believed to be right. Our first acquaintance with him occurred at the Atlanta Convention in 1911, where he made a strong and convincing argument in behalf of a proposal to maintain the status quo of the musicians playing at the mountain and seaside New England summer resorts.

May his family and friends find comfort and consolation in the reflection that he performed well his part in the battle of life.

Good heart, steadfast friend, Hail and Farewell!

A SHORT CUT METHOD!

Learn to COMPOSE and ARRANGE

this simple home-study way

Here's good news to every musician who wants to get out of the "pit"—who is anxious to give up "small time" orchestra work.

The Accusing Finger Points

WE are in a condition called depression. There is unemployment. Stores that once were crowded are almost empty. Factory wheels are idle. Men, women and children are hungry.

We are in a condition called depression. If industrialists and bankers took workers generally into conference and if workers joined in making decisions generally, then we could say, "Well, for whatever is wrong we are all responsible," and we could all get together to plan a quick readjustment.

But industrialists and bankers do not generally take workers into conference. They make their own decisions. The accusing finger points out the guilty.

What do they plead in extenuation? What CAN they plead?

And, can WE let it happen again?

This Bears Repeating

THE average of union wages is more than double the average of non-union wages.

There are men still foolish enough to parrot the employers' tripe about the independence of the non-union man.

Where there is non-unionism the only man who has any independence is the employer.

The union man has the only true independence. He is the only worker who has rights. He is the only worker who has anything to say about his wages, his hours of labor, his conditions of work.

Again: The average of union wages is more than double the average of non-union wages.

The non-union worker has no rights, no independence, no freedom—and in addition he pays a high price for his state of subserviency.

How can any man afford so high a price for such degradation?

Why are there any non-union workers?

Take Communism Seriously

THERE are still those who think it good politics to laugh at communism.

That is the worst kind of politics.

Communism takes itself mighty seriously.

Remember this: Communism is not responsible for any measure of respect for or obedience to the rules of this nation's social or political order. It is not in business to make things work well.

Communism is in business to destroy this social and political order and to substitute something called communism. Whether the substitute really is communism, and it isn't, doesn't matter.

If communists take part in a strike they have no responsibility for winning a victory and an agreement. They have quite a different aim. It is to produce as much disorder as possible and to make the whole outcome as bad as possible.

Communists are not trying to achieve anything that we call good. They are on the job to wreck and ruin and disarrange and besmear.

Observe any situation in which communists have played a part. In the end sorrow and regrets for American workers who have been fooled; one more piece of damage chalked up for the communists.

Those who understand the aims of communists and the teachings of communism never need to wait for the outcome. They can tell you in advance. Those who will not take the trouble to understand have to wait for the outcome.

The number who have to wait for the outcome is, as usual in such matters, always too large. But it will be so until men begin to think more deeply and more clearly.

Manifest Unfairness to Labor

LITTLE if any constructive work has resulted from the efforts of the American Bar Association to direct Congressional action through the findings of special and standing committees.

The most recent of these reports deals with radio and does not improve the Bar Association record. The association opposes consideration for labor and education, reporting that to grant the desires of these groups would destroy the present broadcasting system.

The committee does not, as far as rather voluminous newspaper reports reveal, differentiate between the requirements of labor and of education.

Labor operates one station—only one. To give that station the best possible facilities in the way of time and clear channel could disrupt nothing. It could improve the radio situation greatly. Education, by and large, has or has had some 94 stations. To lump two groups under one heading is to be obviously unfair. All lawyers are potential judges. They ought not wait until they wear the ermine before showing the qualities supposed to be possessed by judges.

We Can Have Prosperity This Winter

THERE is no longer any question that certain great financial and industrial powers are deliberately prolonging this depression and that some of them are profiting thereby.

The European depression is used as an excuse for the prolonging of our own, but it is only an excuse—it is not a reason.

Today, here at home, in almost every line, stocks are low—way down to the bottom. Ordinarily such low stocks would start boom-time orders.

There is every reason for immediate and fast revival.

Meanwhile, among other things, certain tight little groups reap fortunes "on the short side of the market."

It is time to start using the branding iron—to name names, to put the blame where it belongs. It is time for the President of the United States to use his knowledge and his authority. WE CAN HAVE PROSPERITY if the right things are done. Let them be done.

Labor Queries - - -

Out Beyond the Surf--

Where thought, unhastened by necessity or trepidation, sometimes penetrates to truth. Here, where the shallows throw no spray, let us ponder and enjoy the lessons of the art and the work and play of life.

Almost every authority looks to more unemployment this winter.

President Green puts the probable figure at seven million.

That is a great army. There is no need for such a volume of unemployment—no need for so much misery.

And there will be misery. Last winter there were more reserves in savings than there will be this winter.

They tell us the savings banks are bursting, but not with money saved by the unemployed. The unemployed this winter will be in a sad fix.

As for the bankers, their campaign to cut wages goes on steadily, though more quietly.

It is high time to talk straight talk to the big bankers. They are not kings. They are only bankers.

We cannot put all bankers in one bag, any more than we can put all of any other group all in one bag. There are plenty of bankers who are real citizens—too many are merely shylocks, miserable money changers with minds warped by gold and the feel of gold. Humped over mentally, if not physically. Warped.

The disasters of other people are their chance for a "clean-up"—look at what has been happening in Chicago.

After all, the people have a tremendous power over bankers, if ever they want to use it.

Why should the power be all on the side of the bankers? Why should they sit on thrones, giving orders, heaping up wealth?

This is a society of human beings—not machines and gold.

Not long ago Montagu Norman, governor of the Bank of England, was in the United States, urging reduction of American wages. Now he is in England telling Englishmen capitalism is in danger of collapse.

Norman ought to know. His wage-cutting idea is one of the saws eating away at the limb on which capitalism sits.

Bankers like Norman and littler ones like Rome C. Stephenson furnish a pain in the neck. Pretending to be wise men and physicians, they are fools and workers of ruin.

Bankers have got a lot of exhortation coming to them. Picking the bones of industry, they pretend to furnish its life blood. They furnish nothing.

This winter will see aggravated unemployment, probably in spite of all that conscientious men can do.

The bankers of America could do a lot to relieve the situation, if they were endowed with half as much idealism and conscience as they are with greed and the ability to smell profits.

Among other things they could do would be to finance production, which is actually needed in many lines.

It is not so easy to keep an even temper in dealing with the maladministrations of the mighty.

This social order called capitalism isn't going to collapse, because thus far we know of nothing better, but if we have any sense there will be a lot of improvements made around the old place.—C. M. W.

Where Political Action Fails

RESIGNATION of the Ramsey MacDonald government in England, to be replaced by a national government, with all parties participating, brings sharply to the front the extreme dangers faced by labor in the realm of partisan politics and independent labor politics.

Within the Labor Party structure the trade unions and the political leaders came to a point of disagreement as sharp as any point of disagreement between opposing political parties could be.

The whole British labor front is bound to be affected for the worse. Instead of unity and solidarity within labor ranks there is dissention and dispute. Which is right and which is wrong matters little. There is division and that matters a great deal.

There will be in the United States no desire to express anything but hopes for the progress of the wage-earning masses of England, but the time is more than opportune to point again to the soundness of the American trade union policy in politics—partisanship to principles, but not to political parties.

Hugh Frayne, veteran New York representative of the American Federation of Labor, was at his fighting best when he spoke at the great Madison Square Garden mass meeting to fight racketeering. Frayne made no mush-mouthed talk. He sailed in and told them that employers who slash wages and foster unemployment cannot escape their responsibility for a great part of the racketeering that New York is fighting. And the immense audience thundered its applause.

OVER FEDERATION FIELD

(BY CHAUNCEY A. WEAVER)

What are the broadcasting stations doing to relieve the depression? What would a broadcasting station be like without music? What kind of music do radio listeners like best or enjoy most? Some stations manage to maintain a reasonably high-grade program throughout the year; but a large number of them are disposed to lower the standard during the heated term until in many cases it becomes an affliction to listen and turning off of the dial brings a sense of relief. If the comparative popularity between instrumental and vocal music were submitted to a referendum vote among radio fans, which branch of artistic specialty would win the majority? We have no disposition whatever to inveigh against vocal music. The singer and the song have ever had a glorious part in the great drama of mortal existence, but we insist that the broadcasting program which does not give the instrumentalist at least a fifty-fifty break is not meeting the musical demand which radio fandom would express if it had a chance. We know any number of people, and so do the readers of these lines, who let their radios remain silent throughout the summer because of the inferiority of the programs offered. Broadcasting stations are money-making institutions as a rule. Nothing will intensify the radio habit and the urge to listen like instrumental music, plenty of it, and of a character to reflect credit upon the musical profession. The depression has thrown an army of high-class musicians off the broadcasting trail. The summer is ending and autumn breezes are beginning to blow. All kinds of declarations are going forth by erstwhile employers about what they are going to do to relieve unemployment. Put musicians to work. They will deliver the goods. The public will hail with gladness this evidence of an enlarged musical output for the coming year.

Statistics show that cigarette consumption fell off 9 per cent last month, compared with the month immediately preceding. Who would have ever dreamed it?

Local No. 47 of Los Angeles has already taken the preliminary steps in the matter of preparing for the 1932 convention. Procrastination is not in the California lexicon.

The Indianapolis Star reports the death of Theodore Perry of that city—which event occurred on July 28, 1931, as the result of stomach disease. Brother Perry will be remembered as a delegate from Local No. 3 to many national conventions of the American Federation of Musicians and was elected to membership on the national executive board at the San Francisco convention in 1915. He was 65 years old. He was for years prominent in the affairs of the International Typographical Union and held the office of first vice-president at the time of his death.

People interested in sleight-of-hand performances will look eagerly forward to the reading of the national political platforms on prohibition next year.

We have just read "Marse Henry," an autobiography of Henry Watterson—known far and wide as the brilliant editor of the Louisville Courier-Journal. It is interesting to learn that Mr. Watterson was a talented musician, an authority on musical classics, and would have undoubtedly embarked on a musical career but for the mishap to one of his thumbs which made piano playing out of the question.

Upon a building at 338 Spruce Street, Philadelphia, appears a bronze tablet bearing the following inscription:

Hall Columbia was composed here by Joseph Hopkinson
April 22, 1798
marked by
The Historical Society of Pennsylvania
April 22, 1930

Some disconsolate brother, exasperated by the absence of kick in near-beer and kindred concoctions, furnishes the Philadelphia Musician with the following parody to which the old familiar tune very easily adapts itself—

Hall Columbia, happy land!
Prohibition, ain't it grand?
Snoopers, snipers, agents everywhere
Watching, waiting, "Now you must forbear!
Do as I say, not as I do."
This is the cry of the kill-joy brigade.

We think these lines evidence an almost uncontrollable mid-summer Philadelphia thirst.

Chicagoland Music Festival held on Saturday evening, August 22, 1931, was evidently a monster affair from the standpoint of magnitude. Artistically the programs had a popular appeal and were creditably rendered. Several mid-west state musicians contributed and 150,000 filled the immense Soldier Field amphitheatre. Perhaps eventually band music will be restored to the place in public appreciation which it once enjoyed.

An article in a current financial magazine reviewing the ups and downs of the moving picture industry names a movie actress who was paid $300,000 for a period of ten weeks' service. No actor or actress that ever lived was worth that amount of money. In this case hysteria seems to have been substituted for business sagacity.

SLENDER "Victor" Cornet

IF CONN IS NOT ON THE INSTRUMENT IT IS NOT A GENUINE CONN

STYLED for the MODERN PLAYER

For the first time—a true Cornet with trim, slender, racy lines in keeping with today's style trend. One inch longer than the regular VICTOR. Slightly smaller in bore yet retaining the glorious tone, accurate scale and easy playing qualities typical of the world's greatest cornet.

WHETHER you play trumpet or cornet—here is an instrument that you will want to try. A Conn "Victor" Cornet that is distinctly new—with a unique appeal to the modern player.

The Slender "Victor" is essentially a modernized model of the famous standard "Victor"—the cornet universally recognized as the world's best.

The same easy blowing—the same amazingly accurate scale—the same patented Opera-glass Tuning Wheel—the same glorious tone but with just a shade brighter coloring due to its slightly smaller bore.

The Slender "Victor" is one inch longer than the regular "Victor" with slender, racy lines that give it an ultra-modern appearance never before obtainable in the cornet family. Note the trim streamlines, the beautiful balance and symmetry, the smart, sporty appearance of this newest of Conn Cornets.

Already it has proved a tremendous favorite, particularly with players in dance orchestras where its true cornet tone and trumpet lines instantly attract favorable attention. Some artists say this model has the edge on the regular model. Others say they are unable to choose between them because both are so marvelous in tone and performance. You'll want to make your own comparison.

Your Conn dealer now has this model on display. Visit him now and ask to try the new Slender "Victor." We promise you a delightful surprise. Free literature gladly sent on request.

 Where with our Little Hatchet we tell the truth about many things, sometimes profoundly, sometimes flippantly, sometimes recklessly

Destroying good cotton didn't appeal to the farmers who raise cotton and so the Federal Farm Board was told to dig up a better idea.

Aside from the false economics involved, men and women have an ingrown aversion to destroying things that have value. Human beings revolt against destroying things they have made or raised.

The amazing thing is that a government board should ever have proposed such a step.

There has seldom been actually too much of anything.

There has often been an inability on the part of the masses to get enough of anything. That is the thing to straighten out.

Anyone who says the American people couldn't use more cotton is foolish. They could, just as they could use more shoes, more wool—more of everything useful and good.

Give them the means to get it and they'll use it.

The well-paid wage-earner always has more than the poorly paid wage-earner.

If all wage-earners were well paid it is clear that more things would be used.

There are plenty of people who haven't enough cotton cloth—plenty!

There are little girls in this and every other city with but one pitiful little cotton dress. Finding of mothers with but one cotton dress—plenty more with no more than two.

Couldn't some wise person figure out how to use that miscalled surplus of cotton to make things for the under-supplied thousands upon thousands?

The supply of nonsense among politicians is too large. That's one place where there's a surplus.

The number of politicians who look to the welfare of the corporations and the rich is too large. The number who try to find a way to equalize distribution so that things can be got into use and people made happy is too all-fired small.

Well, here's one way to get cotton and many other things into use. Get more money going into wages and less into profits for Wall Street.

Pyramid corporations have bled plenty of industries white through one layer of profits and dividends upon another.

The public utility field is pretty guilty in that respect.

The food industry is pretty guilty in that respect.

As for textiles, where cotton is used—well, that industry has been plain loco.

Plenty of nations have tried to raise prices by limiting production and by destroying commodities.

England didn't succeed with rubber; Brazil hasn't succeeded with coffee. Failure follows wrong methods.

Sound results will flow from getting things to the people; not from keeping things away from the people.

Who ever gave anybody the right to say that cotton, or wheat should be burned while millions want and cry out in need of cotton and wheat?

America, wake up! People must come first!

Change on Every Hand

Any industry or trade that today thinks it can shut its eyes to change is drawing false conclusions. And change today in industry means men thrown out of jobs, sent to look for new ones that generally do not exist.

Machines to cool homes in summer are being tested and will soon be on the market. One is already available. That is change for enormous importance. It will not be good for makers of fans.

A great building in Pennsylvania is almost all steel—including door and window frames.

Co-ordinated rail motor transport service is being adopted by one railroad after another. Containers for less-than-car-load lots also are coming into use.

Turning to little things, photo cells sort and count almonds for market—work formerly done mostly by girls. Where do the girls go.

A vending machine sells you a bottle of milk for a dime and gives you back a nickle for the bottle.

Change is the most common things modern industry has. Look out! A whole industry today may be gone tomorrow.

And all too often industry, going it blindly, is itself unaware of what is coming until it gets hit.

A Roosevelt Anecdote

George B. Cortelyou, president of the Consolidated Gas Company, presents to the world an aspect of the deepest gravity which, as most of his friends are aware, conceals a well-developed sense of humor. Mr. Cortelyou, it will be recalled, first came into national prominence as secretary to President McKinley. Later he held the same post with the late Theodore Roosevelt, and still later he was Secretary of Commerce and Labor and Secretary of the Treasury.

This close association with the "Rough Rider" gave Mr. Cortelyou a rich fund of Roosevelt stories. He tells, on occasions when some reference has been made to his solemnity of countenance, of a day when Roosevelt praised him for some meritorious bit of work, and then added: "If I could only make you smile, George, I could make you President of the United States."

Organization Only Solution Of Machine Age's Problems

By CHARLES P. HOWARD
President International Typographical Union

With millions of workers in all lines of industry out of work and with added millions of dependent women and children suffering the inescapable evils of unemployment, the American people still have much for which to be thankful as we approach Labor Day. America has the most stable government in the world. America has all the essential factors for prosperity. America has the capital, the machinery and the manpower with which to produce all that is required to make a happy and contented nation. Our immediate and pressing problem is to evolve a system of distribution that will meet the requirements of our people.

The national experience of the past 100 years has been one of alternating prosperity and panic. For the workers this has meant a few years of employment at a wage which permitted them to maintain a proper living standard, to be followed by a period which wiped out their savings and brought suffering and deprivation. For business and industry it has meant flush years during which there was an expansion and accumulation of profits, followed by a period in which failure and bankruptcy stalked throughout the land.

This system has benefited only the stock gambler and speculator, "who toils not and neither does he spin," and who like a social and economic vulture poises himself to prey upon the misfortunes of those who suffer losses.

Those who would preserve American ideals and institutions hold to the fundamentals upon which our government was founded. We believe it to be the first duty of government to protect the weak against the strong; to save the honest producer from the cupidty of the unscrupulous; and to guarantee to honest citizens life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness. We also contend it to be the prime purpose and duty of government to guarantee to wage-workers and other producers the fullest measure of compensation for services rendered. Poverty and starvation in a nation which is capable of producing more than enough for all its people is a national disgrace. Our democracy cannot withstand the severe test put upon it if millions of willing workers continue to be deprived of the opportunity to earn their bread by honest effort.

We do not accept the theory that a dictatorship in the name of the proletariat, or Facism, is necessary to provide the solution for our problems. The best evidence that hope does not lie in that direction is to be found in the fact that ten thousand years of dictatorial government did not bring us a condition where it was possible for the world to produce sufficient food, clothing and shelter to sustain all of its people. During those centuries millions each year died of starvation because of the failure to solve the problem of production. The world will continue to suffer in a lesser degree until we solve the problem of distribution.

American labor offers as the machinery through which the solution can be developed its plan of organizing workers. To maintain the necessary balance between production and consumption the work day and the work week must be regulated in such manner as to afford maximum opportunity for employment. As production increases through use of new methods and automatic machines there must be further and further reduction of the working time to avoid stagnation, unemployment and attendant evils. Effective organization of the workers into trade unions which accept the cooperative theory is the most practical way of accomplishing the desired result.

At a time when a majority of the nations of the world suffer from chaos, revolution, and industrial and economic bankruptcy the trade unions of America are in the front line trenches protecting American ideals and institutions against a determined assault from within and without conducted by those who accept and advocate strange philosophy and untried theories. During the worst period of panic and depression we have ever known our problem has not been aggravated by strikes, lockouts, riots and disturbances. None can deny credit to the trades unions for maintaining stability during this trying period. On the other hand, where there has been effective organization of the workers there has been co-operation through which wage reductions have been avoided and established hours and conditions maintained. In those industries in which the unions have a voice the working time has been divided among a larger number of workers by restricting the work week, and payment of out-of-work benefits has prevented suffering among organized workers.

As an illustration of what can be accomplished through effective organization we offer the record of the International Typographical Union during a year of panic and depression. A million and a half paid as old age pensions; half a million as death benefits; three hundred thousand for maintenance of its home for the sick and aged.

Where the most aggravated condition of unemployment existed in larger cities the Typographical Union has inaugurated the five-day week. In New York, the largest printing center in America, the union has paid out-of-work benefits in excess of $21,000 per week in addition to limiting the work week to five days. In Chicago, the second largest center, the union has paid out-of-work benefits in excess of $310,000 during the year, in addition to a five-day work week. In numerous other cities and towns the demand upon the state, public charities, and industry has been reduced to a minimum as a result of the trade unions bearing their own burdens.

At no other time in the history of our country has the value of trade union organization been more apparent. In the interest of prosperity and national safety, to maintain high standards and advance civilization; to protect the millions of workers from those who inherit or accumulate the power of wealth; to solve the problems of a machine age and enforce justice in the industry, the workers must organize.

There has never been a time in the history of the world when the command had equal significance—INDUSTRIAL WORKERS, ORGANIZE!

Life's a Fight

Life is a fight. Millions fail. Only the strong win. Failure is worse than death. Man's internal strength is created by watching circumstances like a hawk, meeting her every spring stiff and straight, laughing at her pitfalls—which in the beginning of life are excess, excess, and always excess, and in all manner of dishonor. Strength is created by adversity, by trying to win first the small battles of life, then the great, by casting out fear, by training the mind to rule in all things—the heart, the passions, the impulses, which, if indulged in, make the brain the slave instead of the master. Success, for which alone man lives, if he be honest with himself, comes to those who are strong.—Gertrude Atherton.

Mr. Whately, a commercial traveler, is a very light sleeper. One night he was obliged to stop at a small hotel, and after much tossing about he finally succeeded in getting into a sound sleep. In answer to loud, repeated knocks on his door, he nervously sat upright in bed.

"What's wanted?" he grumbled.

"Package downstairs for you, sir."

"Well, let it stay there; it can wait till morning, I suppose."

The boy shuffled down the corridor and after a long time the guest fell into a sound sleep again. Then another knock came at the door.

"Well, what's up now?" queried Mr. Whately.

"Tain't for you, that package!" said the boy, peeping round the door.—Ex.

By the Way

Comment and Criticism About Things Doing in the World

Who said the days of feudalism were gone? Here's Henry Ford announcing that married men employed in his plant at Iron Mountain, Mich., must have vegetable gardens or lose their jobs.

"Next year every man with a family who is employed at the plant will be required to have a garden of sufficient size to supply his family with at least part of its winter vegetables," said Czar Ford. "Those who do not comply with the rule will be discharged."

If Ford's action is not pure despotism, worthy of a feudal lord, what is it? It is not merely suggested that his employes have gardens, they are ordered to have them. Refusal means loss of a man's job and perhaps hunger and privation for himself and family. "I am boss and you must do as I say, or starve," says Ford, who acts as if he had never heard of democracy or the right of a man to do as he sees fit, provided he does not encroach on the rights of others.

Labor has sometimes expressed doubts as to the benefits of new machinery, but not so Wall Street, which has looked on new machinery as profitable and therefore altogether good. Now even Wall Street is beginning to have doubts about all new machinery, if a recent editorial in the Magazine of Wall Street reflects its view. The Magazine of Wall Street thinks that new machines are not always what they are cracked up to be, saying, in discussing "Will o' the Wisp Mechanization":

"Keeping up with the Jones,' is as much of a folly in industrial as in social life. Perhaps it has a lot to do with unemployment. It would be edifying to know just how much a lot of our mechanization has contributed to reduction of production costs. Perhaps if there had been more figuring on that item there would have been less of a tendency for plants to put in new machines because their competitors were doing so. We suspect that there are many wonderful machines in America that have added as much as overhead costs as they have saved in labor—overhead costs that go on even when the plant is shut down. Let us assume such a case. The machine has reduced employment. It has also reduced dividends because of the money that went into its purchase and because of the added amount that must be carried to surplus to take care of interest charges. The general result is a reduction of purchasing power of both workmen and shareholders. That plant may be producing as much or even more than before the installation of the new plant, but it is contributing less to the pool of mobile funds from which in the end its products must be purchased. Instead of progress this machine represents regress. For all we know American industry may be littered up with mechanical 'improvements' that are really business and social evils."

During a recent municipal ownership campaign some of the defenders of an exploiting gas company declared that a certain advocate of municipal ownership was not even a taxpayer. Asked when the man had died, the stupid answer was, "Why, he isn't dead, but he isn't a taxpayer."

The truth is everybody who is alive pays taxes—and they pay rent and interest whether they are aware of it or not.

Every time a person buys food, pays rent, buys gasoline, takes out an insurance policy or goes to a theatre, he automatically pays some of his money to the government. The old saying that death and taxes are inevitable is truer today than it ever was. And, as a result, tax reduction, far from being a matter that interests only the wealthy few, is a matter of tremendous personal importance to each of us.

It would not be far from the truth to say that the consumer pays all the taxes, for it is in the power of the big fellows to pass the impost on down and lay the burden on the back of the people.

HORRIBLE IN SIBERIAN MINES, YOUTH DECLARES

Hundreds From United States, Without Passports, Have Soviet "Citizenship" Forced Upon Them, Escaped San Franciscan Reveals.

After two months in a copper mine in the northern part of the Ural Mountains on their western or Siberian slope near Omsk, 18-year-old Carl Carlson of San Francisco managed to get to Berlin penniless and more than a month later ship from Hamburg to New Orleans in the galley of the steamship Cranford.

When Carlson leaves the Cranford he proposes to start at once for his mother's home in San Francisco, even if he has to hitch-hike.

With the permission of Captain Alex W. Jamieson of the Cranford, Carl left his job of preparing roast potatoes to tell International Labor News Service what has happened to him since he left his garage job in San Francisco last April.

He put on his black cotton Russian blouse, which he hopes never to wear again not tucked in, as it was worn on the steppes and in the mines.

Sovietized Against His Will

"Last spring I went to Salt Lake City where my father, a practical mining engineer, was listening to the talk of two men about the great chance of a career in the mining country of Russia, where men could get 400 rubles ($200) a month in the mines," Carlson said.

"My father, who did not take an American passport with him, has been given Soviet citizenship papers against his will and I am afraid he will never get out of Siberia again.

"There were 19 of us in the party, including my father and six boy friends of mine who went with me from San Francisco to listen to the talk. We signed up for two years' work under their five-year plan. They told us we need not bother to take passports with us. We were told we could get them there any time we wanted them. Three of us took passports just the same, but my father made the mistake of believing the Russians.

Siberian Mines "Horrible"

"Everything was fine until we arrived at Moscow and were sent to the mines. The rest was horrible.

"Up near Omsk somewhere I was put to work with Tartars and Mongolians under Russian bosses. There were 20 bosses to 10 workmen. We Americans were given an interpreter. We had to work seven hours a day without stopping to eat. When we did eat, we only got black bread and tea, after working from 7 A. M. to 2 P. M.

"We got no pay. The company held it for us. Some men had no money for seven months. But money would not buy food. Only a government order would give us a chance to buy bread.

"Our quarters were small and crowded.

"The Soviet government prohibits children under 18 from working in the mines, but little girls and boys from 13 to 15 years old were working in the deepest parts of the mines in the Northern Urals.

Hundreds of Americans Are Held

"We had no diversions in our idle time, except to sit around and talk. It would have been better to have been stranded in the Mojave desert.

"Without a passport my father cannot get back at all. They declared him a Soviet citizen. Hundreds of Americans are in the same fix over there. I was lucky to get out at all. When I demanded

IF You want to be A REAL Drummer

IF YOU want to be one of the top-notchers who get a "big hand" and a fat envelope—play Leedy drums.

The greatest drummers in the world will tell you that—and back their opinions with their own example.

For instance, here's Al "Rags" Anderson showing his favorite Leedy equipment to "Rusty" Parker, his director. Parker's Orchestra plays and broadcasts at the State Restaurant, Columbus, Ohio. Diners and dancers at the "State" rave over Al's hot rhythm and his popularity is nation wide.

For more than 35 years Leedy drums have been favorites with the vast majority of America's leading professionals—men who know that nimble fingers and a sense of rhythm are not enough to carry you to the top. You've got to have drums that have that split-second response and super tonal brilliance found only in Leedys.

Write for Free Catalog

With Leedys any drummer can play a better job. Try a Leedy at your dealer's now. At the first tap of the sticks you'll know why.

The Dump-Cart Driver

The dump-cart driver settles in his seat, His rounded shoulders hot beneath the sun; And now the old gray head is drooping deep— Still deeper, till the noisy world has gone. The nodding nag with steady stepping feet, The rhythmic jingle of the harness-rings, Have faded now and merged in wandering dreams Of far-off homeland long forgotten things. He's just a lad with happy laughing lip And no concern that down a city street A lumbering wagon, loose in all its seams, Bears on its swinging seat, head hanging low, An old day-laborer driving in his sleep. With reins wound round the long-since useless whip, The while the faithful horse goes plodding slow. —Elizabeth Challis Adams, in "The Street Car and the Star."

Proper Vision

State Street was very slippery and the traffic was heavy. A 300-pound lady approached the traffic cop on the corner.

"Could you see me across the street, sir?" she said.

The big cop took one look at her.

"Sure," he snapped. "I could see you a mile."

LABOR and LIBERTY

Tyrants Have Used the Weapons of Their Time—Today's Struggle is with Today's Methods and Weapons.

By JOHN P. FREY

THE wage earner's long struggle for freedom, with all of its dark pages and its story of degrading and brutal conditions which has been pressed down upon labor, contains much which is inspiring.

The story of slavery is followed by the worker's experience as a serf and then as a peon. Finally, and as a result of tremendous effort and sacrifice, serfdom and peonage were abolished and the worker made partly a free man. Finally, the franchise was won for every adult wage earner. Labor at last had the right to the ballot box, to have a voice with all other citizens in determining the form of government under which they would live, and their part in determining the character and the qualities of the laws which would govern them.

When our nation was born, the black man was bought and sold like any other commodity or article of commerce. Young people were indentured to employers for long periods of years, these indentures giving the employers far-reaching disciplinary control. Slowly the indenture system of labor was stamped out. In time the Civil War abolished human slavery. But the freedom won by these groups failed to give the mass of the wage earners their full liberties and rights as free men.

Peonage

The Southern plantation owners, faced by the problem of the freed slaves, met it by establishing peonage. When peonage became illegal as the result of Federal legislation, plantation owners devised other means of limiting the plantation hands' liberties. So that the employer continued to regulate the terms of employment and the worker's opportunities to suit his own selfish interests.

As our manufacturing industries developed, various and devious systems of labor control were devised which were intended to hedge about and hamstring the wage earner's free exercise of his constitutional liberties. Blacklists flourished to punish and to crush those hardy spirits among the workers who gave voice to the industrial injustices under which they suffered.

Yellow Dog

Employers organized locally, then into national organizations, and finally federated these for the purpose of adopting rules and regulations intended to make it extremely difficult, if not impossible, for the wage earners to organize for their self-protection. "Yellow dog" contracts were devised for the purpose of compelling the wage earner to surrender his most priceless right—that of combining with his fellow wage earners—the wage earner faced by the "yellow dog" contract being compelled to sell his liberty of action as the price of being given work.

Injunctions

Beginning comparatively a few years ago, Federal and State courts of equity, through the issuing of injunctions, began to shave away and to nullify the wage earner's citizen rights and lawful activities. To such an extent have these injunctions developed that they have restrained wage earners from quitting work when the conditions of labor were unsatisfactory. Restrained trade unionists from going on strike when employers placed non-union workmen among them for the definite purpose of destroying their trade union organization. Restrained trade unionists from endeavoring to organize the unorganized. Restrained the right of free speech to such an extent that wage earners were denied the right to present their side of the case to others through speech, writing, printing, or any other method of conveying information.

While these injunctions were being issued, the employers' organizations became more powerful. They developed systems of employment which made it more and more difficult for workmen to organize, or to maintain the organizations which they had formed.

Judiciary

These employers' organizations which were opposed to trade unionism, and their rapidly developing financial and political power, have had a tremendous effect in handicapping the growth of trade unionism. But more serious than the employers' ability to hire and discharge has been the judicial support which has been given to "yellow dog" contracts and the judicial activity in issuing injunctions, which stripped labor of every practical defense against industrial injustice which it possessed.

A candid review of those developments which have handicapped wage earners while leaving employers free to enjoy in full their rights and opportunities, will indicate that for many wage earners it is not a question of their essential rights having been placed in jeopardy, it is a condition under which their rights have already been taken from them.

Liberties

The wages paid, the hours of labor and the sanitary and safety conditions under which labor is performed, includes some of our most important problems. But greater than any of these, or all of them put together, is the question of having our liberties, our rights as free men, re-established so that no employer or group of employers can enjoy any right, any opportunity, or any privilege which the wage earners can be restrained from enjoying.

Our Federal and State governments can enact much legislation which is beneficial and which establishes a larger measure of justice. Legislation can place pads which ease the pain where the industrial harness galls the workers the most. Factory legislation, safeguards to life and limb, workmen's compensation, are helpful—for that matter they are necessary.

But if we lose sight of the fact that many of our liberties as free men have already been taken from us; if we fail to insist that the most important thing for legislative bodies to do, is to definitely announce our rights as free men and effectively protect us in the enjoyment of these rights, then we will have lost sight of the most important reason for the existence of trade unionism.

Struggle

The struggle is ours to make, no one will make it for us. Every group must carry on their own contest, establish their own liberties, and when these have been secured, defend them at all costs. An illustration of how liberties are won is found in the gradual growth to freedom in England.

When the barons assembled at Runnymede and compelled King John to sign the Magna Charta, they were fighting to win their own liberties and establish their rights more firmly. They were engaged in no contest to establish liberty for Englishmen as a whole, the best evidence of this being the manner in which the barons exercised control over their serfs and dominated the law-making powers of the country.

Reversion

When the barons had won their measure of liberty of action, their attitude toward businessmen and other employers of their day was practically the same as that which had been the King's toward them—an arbitrary refusal to even consider equality of rights and of opportunities. English employers and businessmen, as a result of long years of effort and contest, gaining here and there a little more ground through parliamentary methods, in time established their freedom, their liberty of action. But in turn their attitude toward the workmen in their employ was similar in substance to the baron's arbitrary control over his serfs. In time, English workmen, realizing the gross injustices under which they suffered, the impositions forced upon them by employers, began their long struggle for liberty, until finally they won the right to trade union organization.

Rights

Liberty is the most valuable possession which men can have, the most essential to their welfare and for the protection of their rights. For us it is guaranteed as an inalienable right in our Federal Constitution. But many employers have been unwilling that we should enjoy the same rights and opportunities which they had. Lawyers and courts have found ways and means by which our liberty of action could be shaved away here and there. Judicial precedents have been established, until in many instances there remains only the shadow instead of the substance of our liberties as free men.

Employers have not only organized themselves through local and national associations, but huge corporations have been developed, and through methods of holding companies, subsidiaries and interlocking directorates, have placed themselves in a position where they feel strong enough to determine the terms of employment and conditions of labor for huge armies of workmen. It is their deliberate intention to dominate the industrial situation if they can.

Organize!

The only way by which workmen can protect their interests and exercise their rights as free men is by combining through trade unions so that they can act collectively. It is this essential right to organize which has been largely taken from American wage earners, as a result of the employers' policy and the tremendous assistance they have received from the courts. It is our duty as trade unionists to recover these rights and to secure legislation which will prevent any judicial authority from nullifying even a shred of the wage earners' liberty of action as free men. The question involved is the most important one our trade union movement faces. It must be dealt with effectively if the right of wage earners to trade union organization is to be maintained.

American workmen must never be willing to accept the right to organize as a favor granted by employers. American workmen must be taught that our right to organize is our inheritance as free men, a right as important and as sacred as the employers to organize for their welfare. American workmen will not surrender this right, and the effort to regain the rights which have been taken from us will be the greatest source of inspiration which can come to us in our efforts to spread the principles of trade unionism.

LABORGRAMS

Wickersham commission thinks we should have educated cops. Yes, and some judges, too, who can tell freedom from slavery.

Prohibition, as it is called, still has its same old supporters, the bootleggers, the prohibitionists and the racketeers.

It isn't just an accident that the average union wage is more than twice as high as the average non-union wage.

And the five-day week is not coming just because employers want it.

In Unions there is strength. Unions are more needed now than ever: Get a new member this week.

The big bankers of the country are rapidly losing what respect there was for them. Their present conduct is exceedingly revealing.

Trade unionism is America's greatest human asset. Take away trade unionism and the nation would go into a tailspin tomorrow.
