An Exciting End To A Sleepy Decade

A vain search for the next Beatles was what the 1970's, through 1978, was all about. The supergroup on the wings of whom the record and radio businesses would soar to new heights was elusive. That search establishes the mind set, but the result was largely a musical disappointment, a decade which was essentially a boring repetition of past triumphs. It did soar economically.

Until 1979 the pattern was a direct descendant of two forces: the Beatles and Bob Dylan. The Beatles established groupism, while Bob Dylan established the singer/songwriter lineage. What followed was level by tedious level of compounding. The layers affected the music, moving it more and more away from the streets. Music became product, the product of producers, arrangers, product managers, artist development people and marketers of all sorts. In theory, this refining process should have produced something closer to perfection. However, as with sugar, the refining process is not always a good thing. For it is the streetness, the rough edge which has always been the charm of rock and roll.

Back in the beginning Chuck Berry and Elvis Presley and Jerry Lee Lewis were not refined images. It was that same packaging process which converted them, and those who immediately followed them, into the marketing tools they became by the early sixties. Fabian and Frankie Avalon were the height of that processing period. All of which set the stage for a rock and roll cultural revolution. So the Beatles came out of the streets of Liverpool with nice tunes, set in 4/4 time. They took rock music back to the beginning, back to the basics with a spare, almost innocent sound. "I Want To Hold Your Hand."

In the beginning of this year, the string had just about run out for the compounded sound of the formerly self-contained bands. The singer/songwriters sounded just plain old fashioned. 1979 is the year that rock and roll went back to the streets again. Back to nice tunes, set in 4/4 time. By this summer 5 of the top 10 radio records were newish music. The Knack, The Cars, Dire Straits, Nick Lowe and Bram Tchaikovsky, not to mention The Police, Joe Jackson and Talking Heads, were effectively changing the sound of radio across the whole country even after you allow for regional differences. Still, the point cannot be honed too sharply. After all, Supertramp, Foreigner, Fleetwood Mac and Eagles are doing or have done pretty well at radio this year and they can't be called new music. What is significantly different is the percentage of radio time taken up by newer music bands, check below. Yet, another piece of significance is how little time new names doing old style music got. That's a hidden statistic.

New music didn't just happen this year; its roots go back to the radical break of Sex Pistols a couple years ago. Even they and their cohorts reach back to Velvet Underground's musical tradition. So, nothing is absolutely new. What can be felt are the ebbs and flows. This year the tide of new music tends to be coming in as the Beatles/Dylan tide tends to be receding.

A side issue in this year's musical life was a shift in tastes in the South. Traditional Southern rock bands like The Allmans and Marshall Tucker didn't stick. They did well quickly, among the die-hards, but they didn't show their previous staying power. Instead, it was Blackfoot and Molly Hatchet who would not go away.

Radio itself went through an adjustment. The old, old days of album radio was a loose confederation of people doing whatever they wished. They were challenged, first by the early 70's Top 40 album approach of the ABC-FM chain and then by the undisputed king of research, Lee Abrams. For a while, research dominated.

Now, with the coming of new music, we have evolved to the best of both worlds. There is a fresh breeze blowing in radio today, and it is a sense that both information and instinct are necessary in programming a radio station. A tuned in programmer with good information is downright dangerous.

Another trend, one on the negative side, is the often noted discrepancy between the intensity of radio play and the intensity of record sales. The down turn in record sales, sadly, has meant that an estimated 1000 people have been cut out of the record company payrolls this year. The record industry may be leaner and stronger because of it, but the destinies of many people have been severely altered.

The record industry could not have conspired to put all of the negative economic elements together which came together this year.

1. The year began with high expectations, largely because of Saturday Night Fever's implications for disco.

2. Thereupon the record industry changed its entire distribution system in the first two months of the year. Companies merged, companies disappeared and companies shifted from independent to branch distribution.

3. In an obviously weakened economy, prices for records had been raised to the consumer resistance point. And resist they did.

4. Finally, few of the really big name groups released albums in the first nine months of the year. We still haven't heard from Messrs. Springsteen, Jagger, and Seger.

Point number 4, of course, is partly responsible for allowing so many new names to surface. Even in bad times, good things can emerge.

In dynamic terms, 1979 was an exciting end to a sleepy decade. Everything changed; the music, the music business, the sound of radio and the style by which it's managed. Ah, for some stability.

WALRUS! 1979 AIRPLAY ARCHIVE

What you see is a regional and national breakdown of radio's most played artists for this year and for four previous years. The artist's year end percentage is an average based on 12 months of WALRUS! Charting.
 [Sum of Weekly Chart % + 26 issues (1 year) = Yearly Average]
 The beauty of these numbers is that they relate one year to another. Both the growth of and the passing of artists can be tracked. No other charting method has this capability.

COMMENTS:

Hello to Barry & Gabby at WMAD.
Congratulations and Happy Anniv.
to all involved at WLIR.
Lucky Steve Dahl has proven that lightning can strike twice. Could Steve Dahl be the Allan Sherman of the new wave?
What with Iran, other fuel crisis, inflation, rail strikes, etc., I'm at a loss for an appropriate adieu for the 70's.
Farewell to the orange pages, tradition dies hard. Will WALRUS! ever be the same?
Merry Christmas, Happy Hannukah, and Happy New Year (Your choice of two). Meanwhile we anticipate the 80's with the meeting of the new wave fan club cresting down the hall.

CHART ANALYSIS

BY GEORGE MEIER

Given the time of year, the activity in Quick Starters is nice to see. It means that at a time when radio can get stale for lack of new albums filtering in, there is hope. The No Nukes album and Ian McLagan spark the action. Also, quietly building over the last few weeks is the Cliff Richard Lp. It has been accumulating call letters consistently, but in insufficient numbers to put it on the cover. It warrants mention now.

Further, there are several other items moving into our airplay charts with power. Pink Floyd, Neil Young, Dan Fogelberg, Little Feat, Joan Armatrading, Stevie Wonder and Fingerprntz are finding places on the air. All of which means that the dearth of music for the next month may be lived through.

Many of the standard regional patterns are holding up. For example, when you look to see which acts are doing best on both coasts, you see a familiar list which includes: Tom Petty, The Police, Joe Jackson, Boomtown Rats, The Inmates, Blondie, Bonnie Raitt and Joan Armatrading.

Likewise, a very standard 10% of the charts show stronger retail intensity than radio.

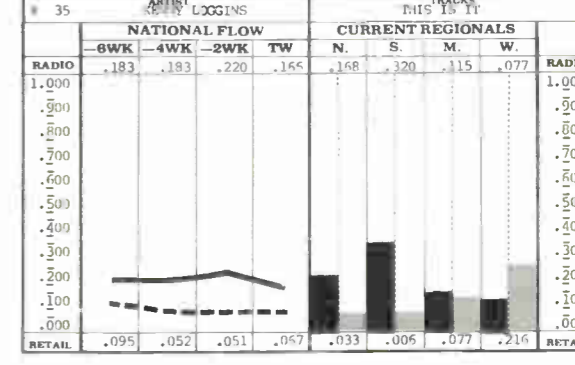

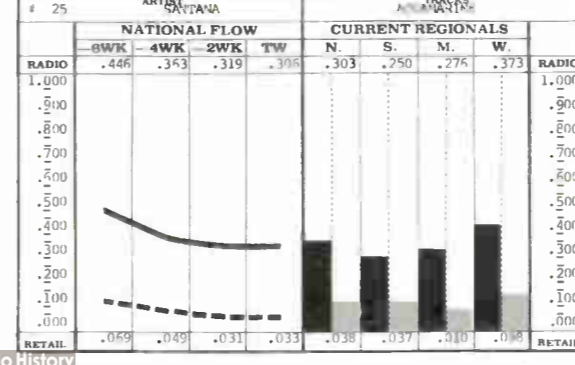

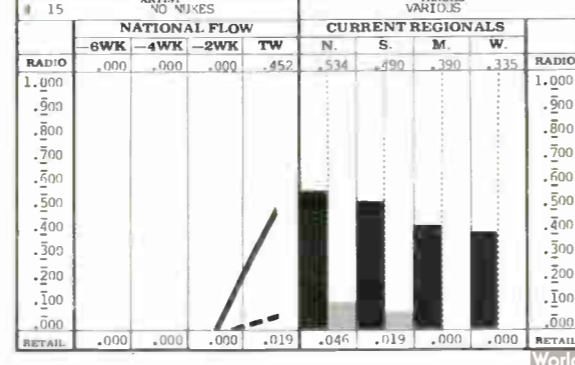

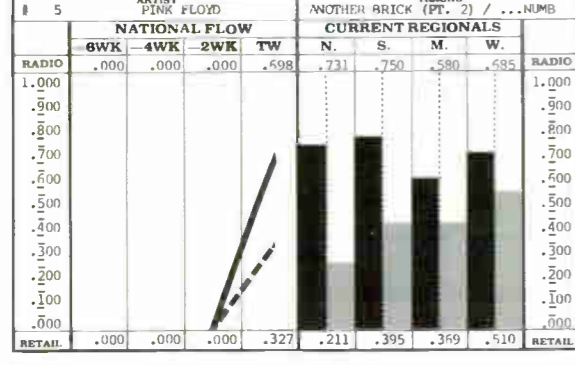

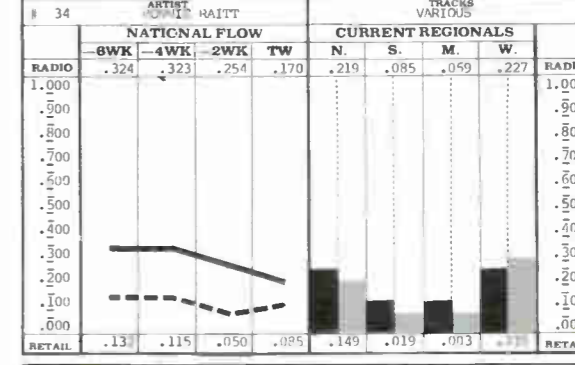

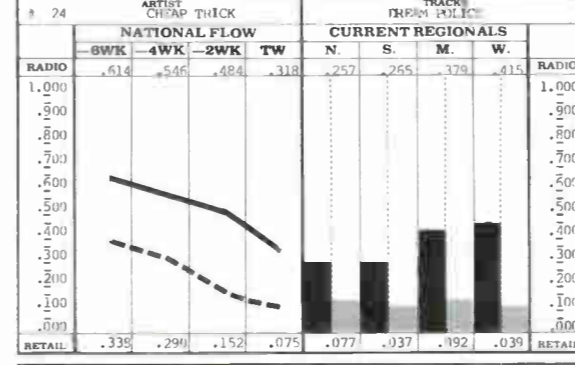

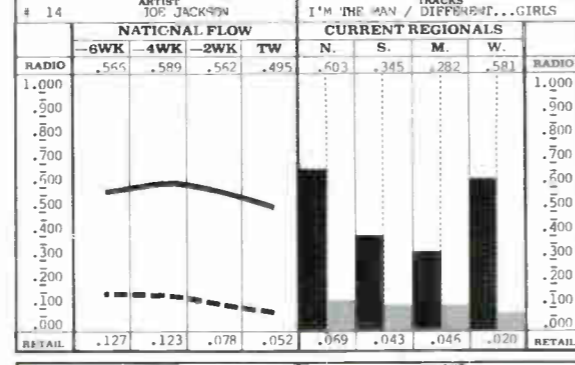

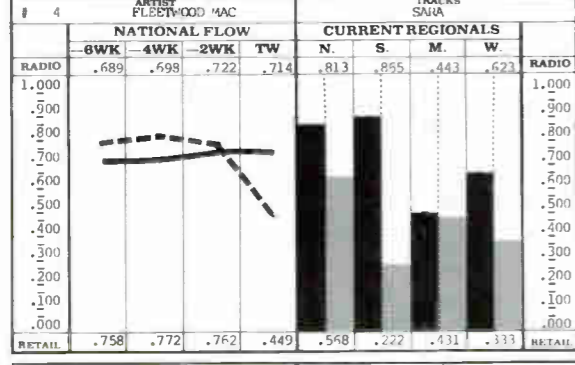

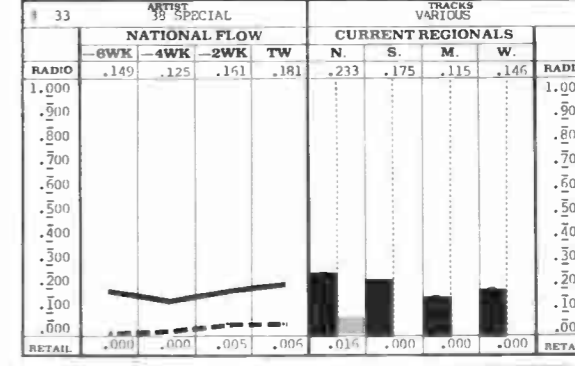

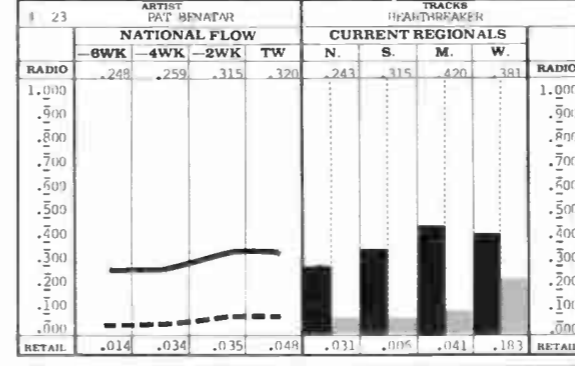

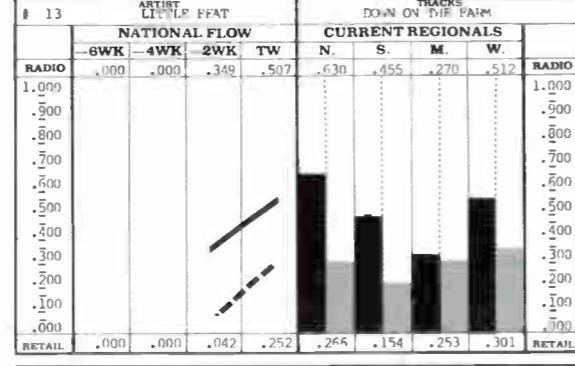

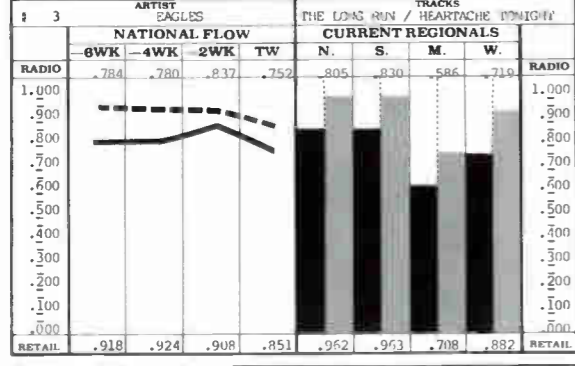

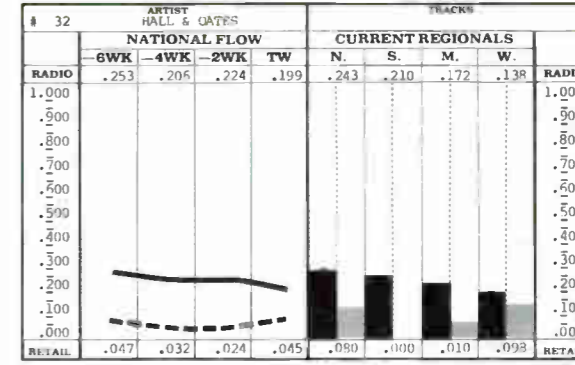

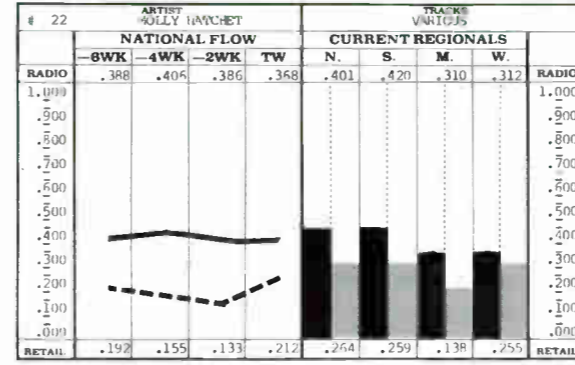

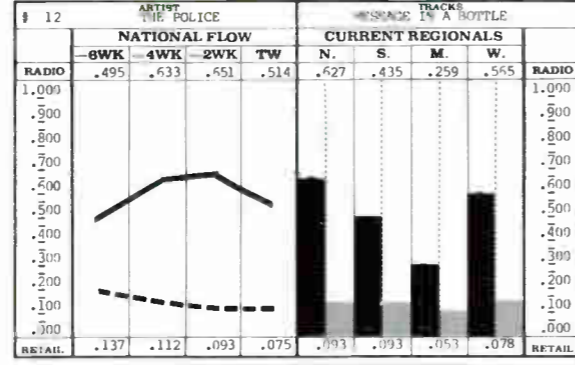

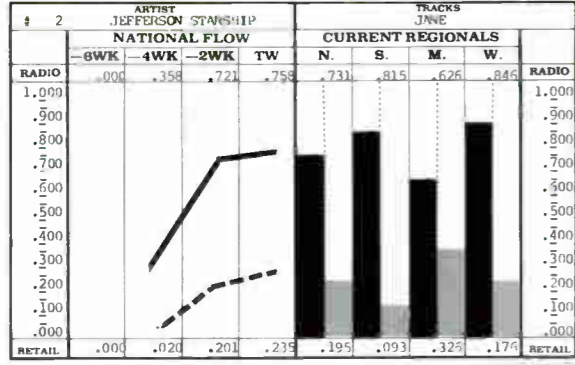

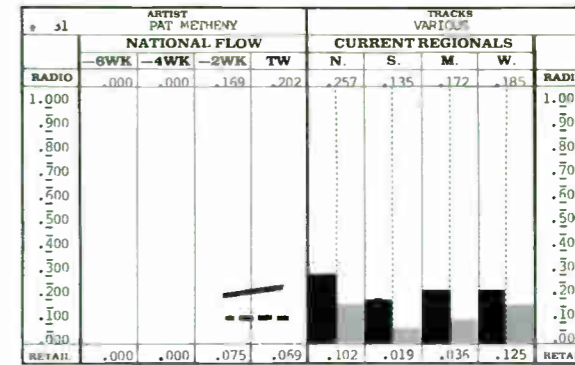

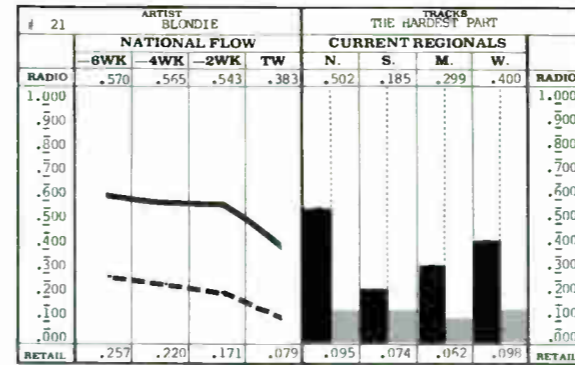

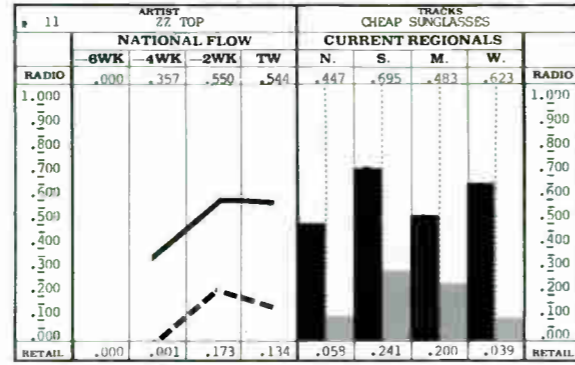

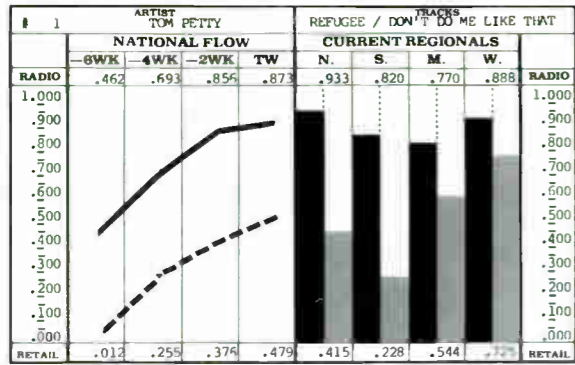

In the world of standards one is moved to look for the anomalies so that the relative weakness of The Eagles, Led Zeppelin, Little Feat and Outlaws in the Midwest is curious. It might be explained by the play-through effect. Since that region would tend to start fastest on some of these groups, they would similarly tend to slow airplay first. That Foreigner and Styx are stronger in the South than they are in the Midwest speaks to the point made earlier in the year about the changes taking place in the South. It is looking more and more like the Midwest, conservative and rocky.

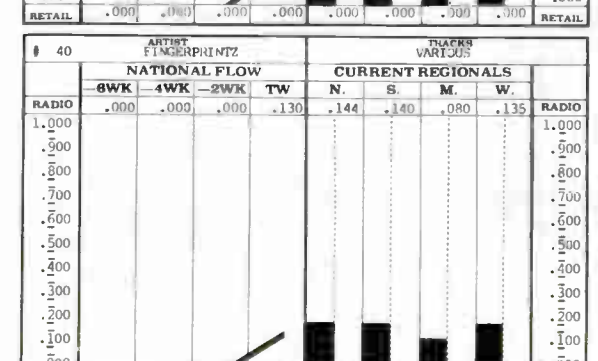

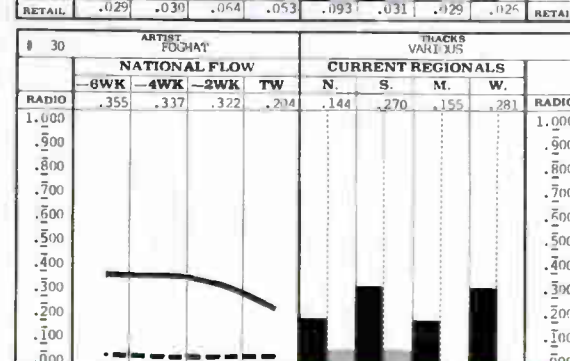

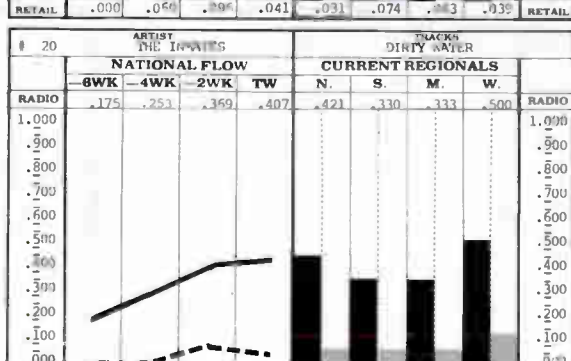

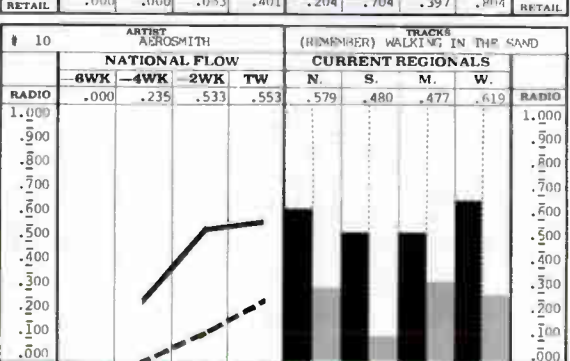

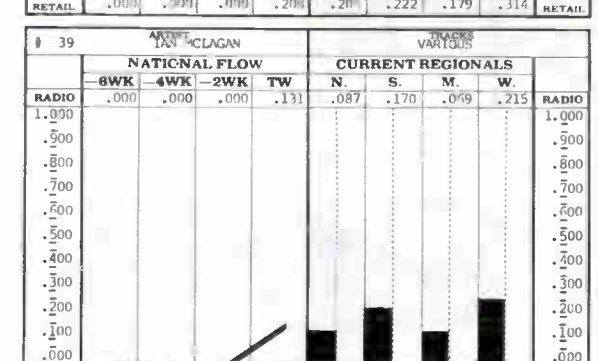

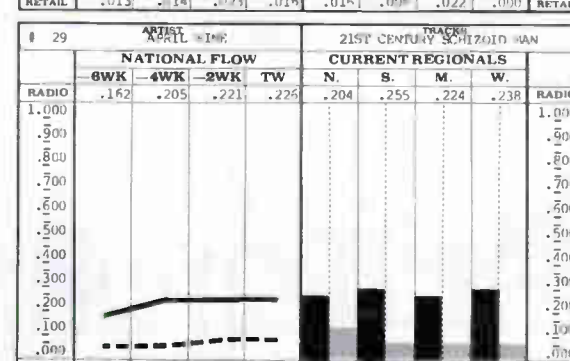

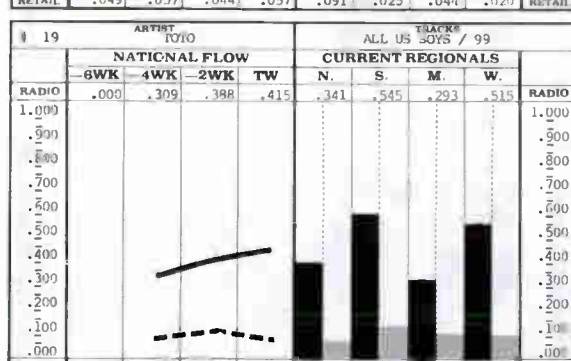

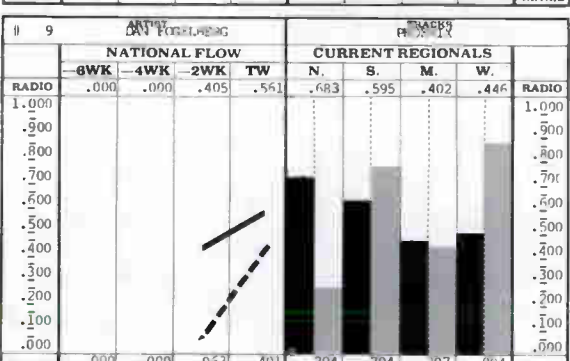

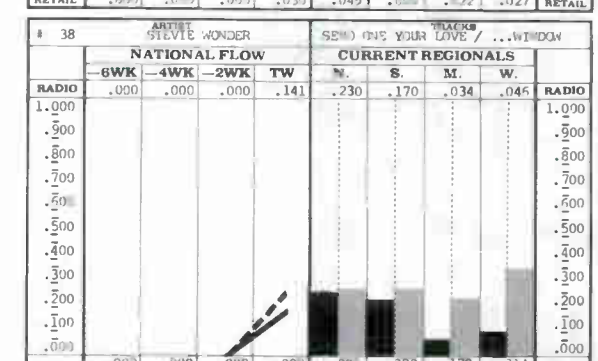

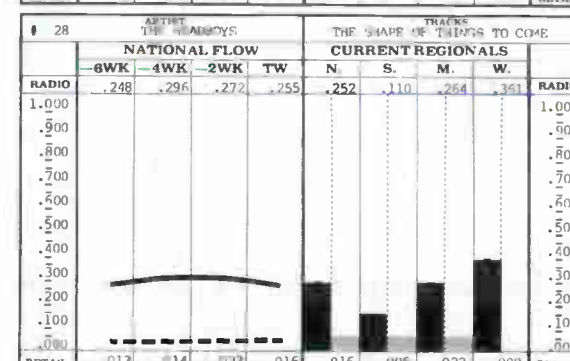

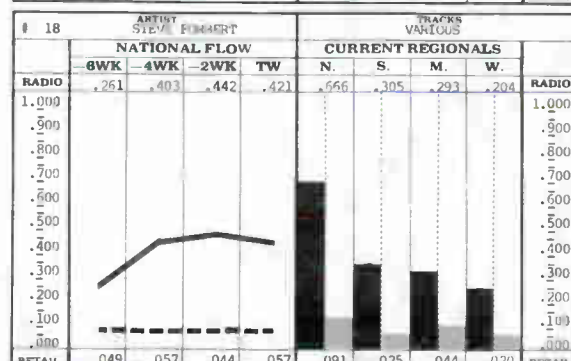

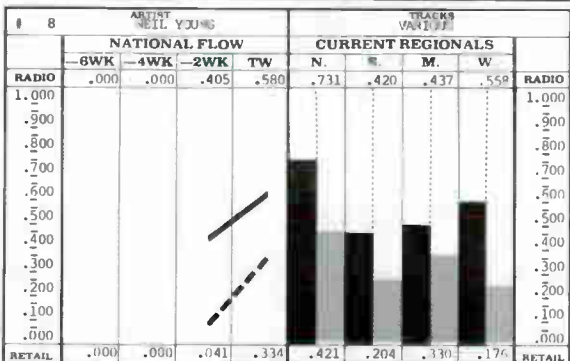

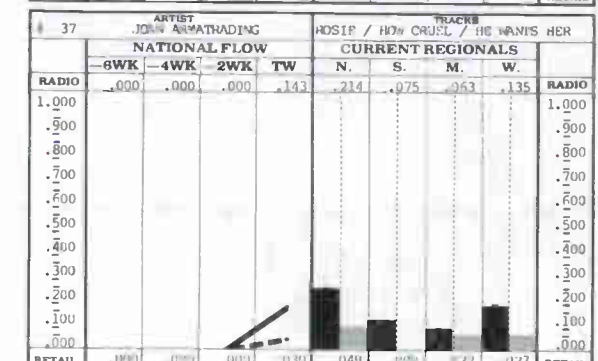

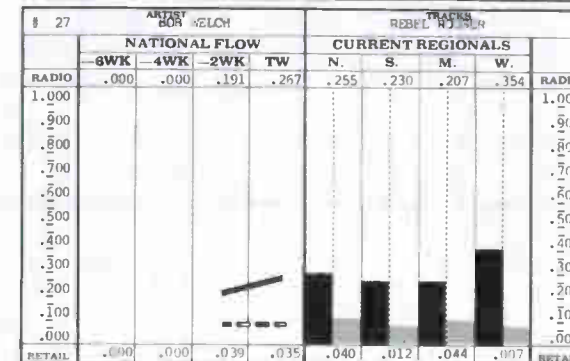

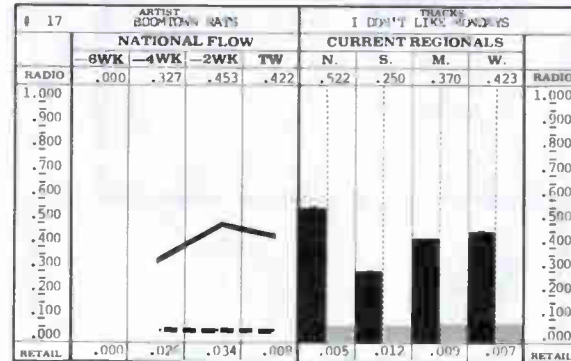

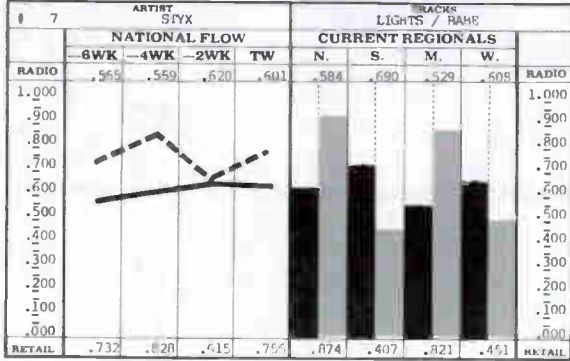

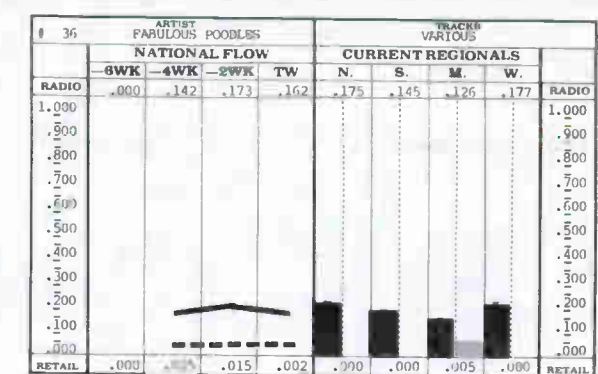

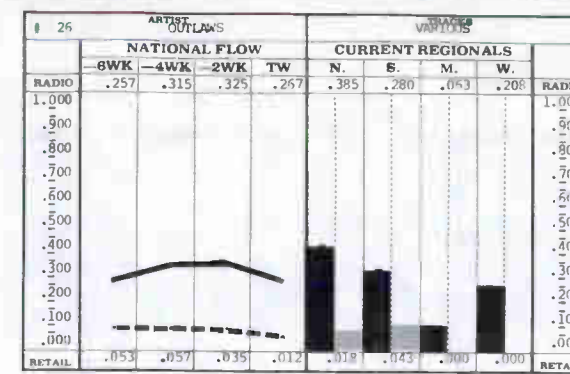

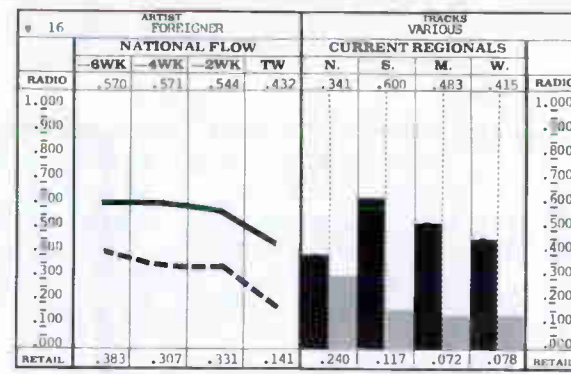

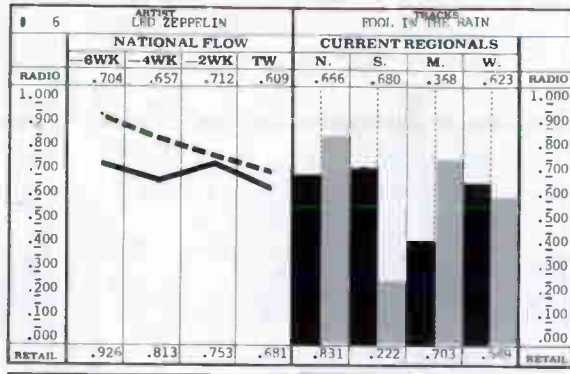

On the retail side, things tend to follow patterns too. Metheny and Raitt do best on the coasts while ZZ Top is weaker there. It is interesting to note that The Eagles' weakness in the radio Midwest is followed closely with a retail weakness in the same region.

Now, it is time to cruise into the new year. Look for it to be less musically exciting. Look for a solidification of new music and a process of sophistication to set in.

PINK FLOYD

THE WALL/Columbia PC 2 36183

This update of the "Blows Against The Empire" musical philosophy is classic superstar defiance of the cosmos. The Wall rocks hard but at a relatively slow pace. Nonetheless, these studio masters have engineered yet another entry for the headphone hall of fame. (Look Mummy, there's a Pink Floyd up in the sky.) (D.S.)

Asylum ML 801

I was lucky enough to attend three of the five Muse concerts. For me, this is a very special album because it captures the feeling quite well. Most of the material is, at the very least, familiar to all of us. But never since Woodstock has there been so important a reason for such an event. The intent of the artists represented makes this music sound better than ever. (D.S.)

JOHN CALE

SABOTAGE/LIVE/IRS (Spy) SP 004

Some say Cale is an acquired taste. Well, he's been around so long we should all be into him by now. Just because he accentuates the darker side of life, that's no reason to be shy. His metal attack is like a magnet. Just give him a chance and he'll pull you in. (The only flaw here is that some tunes end too abruptly, as if incompleated.) (D.S.)

THE B-52's

Warner Bros. BSK 3355

To be sure, this is the hardest one to eat. I have hated The B-52's, beginning with the single of "Rock Lobster," even more than I despised Orchestra Luna. But on the basis that they're only having fun, playing primarily dance music, and since they have helped to initiate some new-wave-comers, I guess they at least deserve a Merit instead of my vengeful "Satisfactory" review. - Gulp! Ahhhh - Inner Sanctum! (D.S.)

BLONDIE

EAT TO THE BEAT/Chrysalis CHE-1225

I liked this album a lot when I first heard it. Since then I haven't been able to stop playing it. It is somewhat of a departure from their last, and shows major growth since their first with one fine song after another. Anyway, I haven't gotten bored with it at all - and that's some compliment coming from me. (Up from Merit Plus to Strongly Meritorious.) (D.S.)

BETTE MIDLER

THE ROSE/Atlantic SD 16010

This Lp makes sense even without the movie. This style of horny rock (with horns) is a bump and grinder's delight. It's "kick out the jams", Muscle Shoals entertainment. And it's real nice to hear the Devine Miss "M" singing rock 'n' roll. (D.S.)

R.T.'s Whose Side Are You On

PHOENIX

Unlike their first post-Argent Lp, Phoenix is presenting a consistently tight, melodic and almost danceable brow raiser. There are no more songs about a tacky Winnebago, but there is also no equal to "Easy/Drowning In Tears" from their first. Charged energy pours through the inflated production, but they lose voltage on a few songs which don't connect. (D.S.)

EATING CROW FOR XMAS

Some people say that there's no right and wrong when it comes to music. They say it all comes down to personal taste. Personally, I think that theory is full of shit. After all, I was wrong about the following albums - in one way or another. Radio airplay and retail activity (+ or -) have no effect. I judge the music for what it is - to me. In the case of these six albums, I simply f*cked up. No strokes. (D.S.)

DAVE EDMUNDS
REPEAT WHEN NECESSARY/Swansong SS 8507

(Originally Merit.) There's just no excuse for that, other than sheer stupidity or manic depression. Even on a bad day, Dave Edmunds couldn't make a merely Merit album. Cut for cut, it may not have been an AOR standard, but certain tracks are classics. Sorry Dave, kick me hard. (Merit Plus.) (D.S.)

JOE JACKSON
LOOK SHARP!/A&M SP 4743

We just missed this one. Don't laugh - you've missed some too. Still, missing the spirit of Joe Jackson is shameful. "Is She Really Going Out With Him?" alone, is enough to make Joe sound sharp! (G.B.M.)

THE REDS

A&M

As most of you know, I think highly of The Reds. Hence, the review of Special Mention (only one this year.) My error was not in the grading of the Lp, but in the lack of an explanation for such a review. First of all, my friendship with this band is a direct result of my unquestioned understand of - and need for their music. NOT vice versa. The Reds manifest in their art the endearing violence of frustrated protestation which was a common factor in the critical/mass acceptance of The Doors, Velvet Underground and The Stones. The Reds' ideas are twisted - as twisted as life itself. And as each day in this life goes by, we must come to grips with the fact that the heroes we grew up with cannot last forever. Jon Landau realized it when he said, "I have seen the future of rock 'n' roll. And his name is Bruce Springsteen." Jon's vision was correct - but short sighted. He didn't see far enough. I have experienced the ultimate future of rock 'n' roll. And believe me, it's The Reds. (D.S.)

COMMENTS:

I may be a "Teenage Lobotomy", yet it seems fairly simple to see why the companies bite the dust so frequently these days. Why sign groups that are a longshot at best? CBS signs Brownsville, then rapidly drops them. It seems apparent they have only had one hit and may never have another. Many such groups are being signed frequently and none should really be singled out. Also promo money is wasted on these groups in abundance. At this point in time why not sign promising new artists and let tired ones die.

COMMENTS:
Those 10" collector editions of Joe Jackson and The Police went really quick, wish there were more. John Denver and The Muppets is doing great as is the Muppet Doll give away. What's long, green, slimy and smells like pork? Call (405) 848-4032 for the answer. The new Ian McLagan release TROUBLEMAKER, ought to be some Grade A rooster rock. Retail merchandises for the 1980's. Onward.

Thanks Chuck Gullo, the people at Cincy Branch Offices of CBS, WEA & MCA. For the tours: Dale Libby (CBS), Terry Cox (WEA) and my friend Andi Sondrini at MCA, and along with scores of others who got the axe. Well, that's show biz- I hope not. Good luck and stay in touch.

The Who at Cincy wasn't a tragic mess- no blame should lay with the band or rock 'n roll. The show must go on and will.

COMMENTS:

We're a little less than deliriously happy with WEA's new 5% surcharge regarding the return of defective merchandise. While we recognize the need for an intelligent method of limiting returns to acceptable levels, we don't think racks, distributors or retailers should be penalized for factory sealed defects. Anybody have a bad run on the new Eagles and Zeppelin? Anyone notice the squeaky plastic wheel that pulls the TUSK 8-track? Has anyone seen the ELP "Trilogy" disc that comes in the AC/DC "Highway To Hell" sleeve? They just cost you a quarter apiece.

COMMENTS:

Pleasant surprises of the past month include new Lps of Peter Green, Pink Floyd, Tom Petty, Fleetwood Mac, (perhaps the most criticized and least listened to Lp of the year) and Little Feat. Some depressing and unexplainable releases during same time period include Neil Young, Gilda Radner, E. L. & P., and E.L.O.'s Greatest Hits (most unnecessary release of '79.)

RADIO CITY

Rock'n'Roll is twenty five years old. During the last ten years it has gone through puberty, struggled through adolescence and suffered through its shakey early twenties. It experimented with sex—the back seat of any car. It became addicted to drugs—“This is the best part of the trip—this is the trip, the best part—I really like.” Then, rock got super serious on us with Tales of Topographic Bullshit.

Obviously, a revolution just had to happen. And it did—in the nick of time. But as we go into the big countdown to the 80's, how do we remember the 70's? And how important was '79?

Mark McEwen from W4 in Detroit remembers the decade like this: “Musically, we went from being electronically experimental to being bloated with electronics. About midway through we stopped making statement music and started making jukebox music, ala Styx and Kansas. And I don't think that there's anything from that genre of music which in ten years we'll look back to and wish those days were here again. We peaked musically in '75 with 'Born To Run.' But since then I don't think anything major has been done. What we had in the 70's was sort of the 'flash in the pan' kind of thing—more commercially than artistically. People were just trying to make those bucks. And I think a lot of people shot their wads. Everybody had one good album. There weren't too many who had a string of them. And as the buck affected the music, it also affected radio. All of a sudden, FM became a money maker. And anytime that happens, things change. And boy, did they! It went from artistic to commercial. And on the same level, at the same time, it seemed that people didn't want to be exposed to new music. When they listened to the radio they wanted the gratification of knowing that the albums that they recently bought were good albums because if radio was playing it, it must be a good album. They wanted reassurance of their own tastes. But all of that is turning around lately. People want the new stuff. The jukebox period is dying. But when I look back at the 70's in general, I call it the 'Hey, we can make a lot of money on this shit' decade.”

Steve Sutton, PD at WYSP in Philly says, “Where did those ten years go? All I can remember are the 15 stations where I've been who told me I'd never work in those towns again. My biggest disappointment is that I thought the drugs would have gotten better.”

Dave Einstein from WHFS in D.C. says, “The 70's? It's been all down hill. It's been a straight ride to the bottom. Just cross your fingers for the 80's. Musically, it's been pretty stagnant except for this last year. Nothing has happened in rock'n'roll since Buddy Holly died—a couple of guys took acid and went out a little bit, but not much beyond that. I was more bored in '75 and '76 than any other time. I can't even remember those years. The early 70's were hip, but then Nixon came along and that's when the whole thing started to slide.”

Kate Ingram, MD at WBCN in Boston offers her analysis: “The whole thrust of this last year has served to bring mass appeal music to a level of social consciousness again. It's sort of been a cycle since the late 60's. But some of the real importance of this decade lies in the fact that rock music has been made available everywhere in America. Before the 70's only certain markets had stations which even played rock'n'roll, outside of Top 40. But what we've seen in the 70's is the growth of the research approach, with the Abrams type of stations becoming so pervasive in the realm of how many listeners they have. They're huge. So AOR became, in the 70's, what Top 40 was in the 60's and 50's. And just as there's a parallel between the two eras of radio, there's a parallel in what happened to music. During the 60's music got into a dance, or disco, type of thing. Then the Viet Nam war opened up the social issues, thus the demise of dance music and the rise of psychedelic rock. What happened in the 70's is that we got into disco, or dance music and then regressed, this time full circle back to the roots—the same thing that was happening in '64, the mod sound.”

Last but in no way least is Sky Daniels from the Loop: “The 70's—for a while there, I was worried. I think you have to credit the New York scene of '76-'77 and the English punk scene from that same period for what's happening today. Even back then I knew that if that movement caught hold at least a little bit, it would give the impetus for the critics and some of the more straight forward and essential radio people to have a foundation to build on to take the whole business back to the essence of rock'n'roll. And that's what happened. Even though the main stream is a long way from coming home, it may have come home a lot in the ears of the critics and radio people, it still hasn't manifested itself to any great degree in the real audience. They're still into Styx, Kansas, Boston. But more and more they are orienting themselves towards, at least, the Cars, Joe Jackson and Tom Petty. I think '79 was the greatest year of the 70's. It was clearly a transitional year in which the new bands had renewed confidence and actually felt that they were on par with their superiors. The Fleetwood Macs were having the same difficulties making money as some of the younger bands. Albeit, in larger scale, but they were still fighting for their rock'n'roll dollar.

“Now everyone's realizing that the party's over. It's back to playing great rock'n'roll and not doing it for money's sake. They have to do it from honest motivation. I think that after '79 we're going to see one of the most fertile periods rock has ever had because we've learned from our past mistakes and we're going to improve upon the original essential rock period—the mid 60's and late 50's.”

“The 70's as a whole, especially in radio, were thoroughly disgusting. Either it was so forced in its progressive pretentiousness or so calculating in its mass appeal that nothing had any natural, spontaneous life to it. It was all someone's idea of how they'd impress a listener rather than just living it and doing it and thereby gaining the confidence of their listeners. But this year has started to turn that around too. So, looking at the entire decade I'd say 1970 to 1978—not so good, 1979—THE BEST.”

I'd like to take this opportunity to thank everyone out there who offered help and support during this past year. There are a hell of a lot of real nice people in radio who have made this smart-mouthed, wise ass of a newcomer feel accepted and welcome. Actually, before I even thank God I must thank George Meier who was never my boss, but always my friend.

So, here come the 80's. My advice is simply 'Keep on rockin' til your jeans explode.'
