PURPOSE. Antique Radio Classified is published for people involved in the radio collecting hobby. Its purpose is to stimulate growth of the hobby through the buying, selling and trading of radios and related items, and to provide a monthly forum for the interchange of ideas and information.

CONTACTING ANTIQUE RADIO CLASSIFIED.

All correspondence should be sent to:

A.R.C., P.O. Box 2, Carlisle, MA 01741.

Send only UPS, Federal, etc. items to One River Road.

Telephone: (508) 371-0512; Fax: (508) 371-7129

Please no classified ads by telephone; thanks.

Your ads, renewals, letters, etc. can be handled faster and more efficiently if (1) each is on a separate piece of paper, and (2) your name, address and SUB# is written on each.

Unfortunately, A.R.C. is not staffed to answer letters with questions about antique radios or requests for advice. However, A.R.C. does solicit letters of interest to its readers and publishes them as space permits. A.R.C. assumes that permission is given to edit and to publish all correspondence and articles received unless otherwise indicated.

GUARANTEE. You may cancel your subscription at any time and receive a pro rata refund for issues not yet mailed. If errors to ads are made by A.R.C., upon request a free correction will be run in the next available issue.

PAYMENT. Please send in full payment with your order or ad. A.R.C. does not carry accounts; all subscriptions, ads, etc. must be prepaid. Pay in U.S. funds. Checks drawn on a U.S. bank, money orders, VISA or MasterCard ($10.00 min.) are preferred. Make check out to "A.R.C." U.S. stamps or cash are OK for small amounts. Canadian payers may send a Canadian check in U.S. funds, but please add $1.00 (U.S.) for bank charges. Subscriptions will be prorated to amount sent if amount is incorrect.

CHANGE OF ADDRESS. Please notify us 4 weeks in advance of a change of address. Send both your new and old address, and include your SUB# and effective date of your new address. Temporary address changes can be made also.

SUBMISSION OF MATERIAL. Antique Radio Classified welcomes and solicits information that pertains or relates to radio history or collecting. This may include articles, book reviews, photos, information on upcoming radio events, meetings, antique radio organizations, radio auctions and price reports, sources of old radio and restoration supplies, and other related and interesting material. All material submitted should be neat and verified for accuracy. Unless prior arrangements are made, all submitted materials may be edited, become the property of Antique Radio Classified and will not be returned.

MAILING OF ISSUES. U.S. subscribers can receive A.R.C. by First or Second Class mail (Second Class is the way most magazines are mailed). The mailing of First Class copies is staggered over one to four days with faraway copies mailed before local copies. Non-U.S. copies are mailed on the first day. Second Class copies are mailed on the last day. Mailing dates change each month, but mailing is usually completed by the 26th of the month. First Class copies usually are received by the fifth of the month; copies by Second Class mail, by the tenth.

ETHICS. No person involved in the production of A.R.C. is to act on any information in the magazine until the day after local copies are mailed.

DISCLAIMER. The publisher is not responsible for any buying and selling transactions incurred, or for any other use of the contents of this publication.

Antique Radio Classified subscription rates, frequency of publication, content, policies, size and ad details, and rates are subject to change at any time by A.R.C.

DISPLAY AND BUSINESS CARD ADS - DETAILS AND RATES

The deadline is the first of the month for display and business card ad artwork, payment and repeat requests.

Advertising is accepted only for early items related to radio, communication, etc. All items must be described fairly; reproductions, reprints and not-original items must be so identified. Advertisers agree to respond promptly to inquiries and orders, and to resolve problems promptly if the buyer is not satisfied.

All advertising must be prepaid; see "Payment" paragraph above. Late ads will be run only if space and time permit. Since artwork is reduced to 63% in the printing process, originals must be the artwork size listed below. Do not send in artwork on art board or send negatives. Ads should be typeset or typed neatly with a carbon ribbon, black printing on white. No reverse type if A.R.C. is to make up the ad. If you want us to prepare your ad, include the one-time cost below for A.R.C. to make up the ad.

Photos should be at an 85 line screen; otherwise, add $10.00 per photo for screening. Do not cut or trim photos or glue photos to artwork; submit separately.

If you are confused by these requirements and terms, please contact A.R.C. before beginning to prepare your ad. We will be happy to advise you on your ad ideas, estimate how much the ad will cost, recommend an ad size, etc.

We assume that advertisers want all ads which are submitted to run without delay; therefore, we will run the ad and bill for any additional work required for the ad to meet these specifications. A late ad will be run beginning with the next month. "Tear sheets" will be sent only for 1/2 and full page ads, and if requested when the ad is submitted.

Business card ads are limited to one per advertiser.

The 3-month rates represent about a 10% discount, the 6-month rates, 20%. Placement requests for display ads: add 15% but call first. Clubs: write for discount policy.

EDITOR'S COMMENTS

Our lead article this month by Dave Crocker is about the Telmaco Type BR receiver and the Type BA amplifier. Although Dave is known to many as "The Crosley Collector," he was intrigued, as have been many other collectors, by the exposed tube and the levered tuning dial on this receiver. Dave also includes photos of two "copy" sets by other manufacturers and illustrations of other Telmaco products.

Since this is the April issue, we again feature the "all-in-fun" Eliminator, the official publication of the A. C. Radio Renegades (A.C.R.R.). Included is the ever popular Dr. Radio column, a book review of a guide to radio price guides, a futuristic article on a computer radio by Fred Geer, and ads for several new services for the AC radio collector. Note that the A.C.R.R. is cohosting a radio toss event at the Mid-South Antique Radio Collectors show on April 11, in Madisonville, Kentucky.

Until I read Ron Boucher's article on left-handed radios, I was unaware of the uniqueness of sets which have the dial on the left and the speaker on the right. Perhaps readers will be able to add to Ron's list of these unusual sets.

Thirty-eight years after Jacob Anthes had written an article for the Radio Television Service Dealer on his drugstore television tube tester, he decided his invention was of interest to the antique radio collector. Look for his bit of nostalgia in this issue.

Understanding and solving tube and pilot light problems in AC/DC radios with series-wired filaments should be a breeze after reading Ray Bintliff's article, Vacuum Tube Heater Voltages in AC/DC Radios. Ray also discusses voltage dropping resistors and resistance line cords.

This month, we include a number of welcome letters from subscribers. Several have questions, and we hope that the answers lie with our readers.

Our Photo Review contains a couple of very unusual table radios. To add to the humorous tone of an April issue, Doug Houston has contributed an amusing anecdote from his transistor radio collecting and repairing past. On the more serious side, Richard Arnold asks for responses to his survey of Jackson Bell Model 25 owners.

OOPS!

In Don Hauff's report in our August 1991 issue on the Northland Antique Radio Club Radio Daze '91, the lower photo caption was incorrect. The Model 888 transistor radios were manufactured by Emerson, not Zenith.

This month, our Auction Report is a discussion of problems with reporting and publishing auction prices. Even with problems, comments from our readers indicate that auction reports are one of the more valuable functions of A.R.C.

Now that Alan Douglas' long-awaited Volume 3 of Radio Manufacturers of the 1920s has been published, we are able to present a review of it by John Wolkonowicz, who also reviewed the first two volumes. John again praises Alan's extensive research, which resulted in this fine series of books.

Alan Douglas also has contributed a review of His Master's Voice in America by Fred Barnum. This book, published by General Electric about its newest acquisition — RCA, is highly recommended.

A.R.C. is Growing. A.R.C. continues to grow. I thought that our last month's new high in the number of photo, boxed and regular classified ads was an aberration, but we have exceeded it again with over 825 this month. With a full selection of articles and an extra page of club event announcements, we have filled 100 pages. For our more than 7,200 readers, we are pleased to publish the premier magazine in antique radio.

Club Events. With 27 club activities this month, there should be one within driving distance of nearly every reader. A "Grand Tour" of events could be made throughout the country — from New England to Florida, across the southern U.S. from Alabama and Texas to California, and from Washington state back through the heartland of Illinois, Kentucky, and Michigan to New York. A radio collector need never be without friends and activities.

We are planning to attend the New England Antique Radio Club meet in Nashua, N.H., on April 18, and the Dayton, Ohio HamVention at the Hara Arena on April 24, 25 and 26. Although this second event is a ham convention, lots of collectors scour the over 1000 flea market spaces hoping to find an old radio amongst the ham gear. We will be at inside booth 206, along with New Wireless Pioneers in the next booth, so stop by if you have a chance.

Happy collecting.

The Telmaco Type BR Receiver and BA Amplifier

BY DAVE CROCKER

Since small, antique radios that feature exposed tubes have always intrigued me, it is no wonder that Telmaco Type BR advertisements catch my attention. And when the opportunity came to acquire the BR receiver — along with its matching Type BA amplifier, I was ecstatic! Let me share some information about this interesting set with you.

Telmaco was the trade name of the Telephone Maintenance Company of Chicago, Illinois. As the name implies, the company must have either sold telephone equipment — as did companies like Federal, Stromberg-Carlson, and Kellogg — or serviced it. Since everybody and his brother seemed to be getting into the radio business in the early 1920s, Telmaco joined the crowd.

However, Telmaco didn't actually manufacture radios at the time, but contracted out to Tri-City of Davenport, Iowa, to have them (or at least the BR receiver and BA amplifier) built. Because Tri-City was licensed to produce sets using the Armstrong regenerative circuit, it had been approached by more than a few companies to make regenerative radios.

The design that Tri-City offered to Telmaco and others was the small, 2-dial, horizontal paneled regenerative receiver with its single exposed tube located in the upper right corner of the panel. Telmaco's version, the Type BR, shown in Figure 1, is identical in circuitry and panel layout to two other sets I have owned — one a Blue Ribbon, shown in Figure 2, and the other a Crosley Ace Precision shown in Figure 3; the latter used Crosley parts totally inside and out. It is quite possible that Telmaco was used to build them also, or at least license them. Even the box construction is identical.

The Type BR was built using components by Howard, ERLA, and others. As shown in Figure 4, the interior of the set consists of a tapped variocoupler with loading inductance in series with the primary, a 13-plate variable condenser, a filament rheostat with a simple trimmer, one nickel-plated tube socket, and a fixed grid condenser. It can operate using either a 6-volt, Type 01-A tube, or a 1 1/2-volt dry cell tube such as the Type 199. The workmanship is of a higher quality than that of the Crosley version.

Telmaco was obviously eager to show the construction of the set, as the company advertisements displayed even interior details. The set sold for a mere $25 during the 1923-1924 season.

The Telmaco's unique feature is the tuning stick attached to the condenser dial, which was not shown in the 1923 ads, but which appeared later, in 1924. My original thought was that the stick was merely for fine vernier tuning. However, when the set is in operation, the reason for the stick is obvious. Without it, body capacitance interferes with the reception and tuning. Whenever a hand comes anywhere near the tuning dial, an annoying howl is heard. A 3-foot stick might be even better! An interesting note is that Telmaco's catalog offers the vernier handle for 60 cents — an option that was a must!

Early versions without the tuning stick show the panel of the Type BR engraved with the Telmaco logo. In later versions the panel logo is gone, and a Telmaco metal identification tag is attached to the front of the box.

THE MATCHING AMPLIFIER

Telmaco offered a 2-tube Type BA amplifier, which sold for $20, to connect to the Type BR receiver, as shown in Figure 5. The BA amplifier used CRL 6-ohm rheostats — the same unmarked tube sockets used in the Type BR receiver — and audio transformers made by the United Mfg. and Dist. Co., Chicago. However, Amer-Tran audios were known to have been used on the BA unit as well. An interior view of the Type BA amplifier is shown in Figure 6.

OTHER TELMACOS

Telmaco's catalog for 1924 offers not only the Type BR and BA, but also receivers by Atwater Kent, Western Coil, Garod, Clapp-Eastham and others. Speakers offered and shown are by Magnavox, Music Master, SAAL and others, including the Telmacophone Type TH-1 shown in Figure 7. I have never seen this ornate horn speaker by Telmaco and would be interested in knowing if any were actually sold and still exist. I welcome your comments.

While the Type BR is the most familiar of the Telmaco radios, Morgan McMahon's Radio Collector's Guide lists the TRD-1 model in 1921, the BR in 1923, and the Acme "P" series portables (see Figure 8) up to 1926, some of which were sold as kits. Nothing after this date appears, leading me to assume that the Telephone Maintenance Company finally gave up its radio venture or sold out, as did so many manufacturers at the time.

Jackson Bell Model 25 Survey

BY RICHARD ARNOLD

Richard Arnold has reported that his article on Jackson Bell's Model 25 (A.R.C. June 1991) elicited a number of responses. He has learned that there are differences in chassis design, tube complement, tube shielding, and the shape of the horn in the grille.

Richard has determined the following:

- Model 25 is a 5-tube set with two #57 tubes and one #24, #47, and #80, or with two #58 tubes and one #24, #47, and #80.
- Model 25AV is a 6-tube set with two #58 tubes and one #57, #55, #47, and #80.
- Model 25U is a 5-tube set with two #58 tubes and one #24, #47, and #80.

Fellow collectors are asked to respond to the following survey for each Jackson Bell Model 25 owned. Send responses to Richard at the address to the right.

1. Model # (Three are known: 25, 25AV, 25U).
2. Cabinet Style: Peter Pan or Swirl Design.
3. How long have you had the set?
4. What type of tubes does it use? (Give tube complement).
5. What type of tube shielding is used on the detector/amplifier tube?
6. What is the serial number?
7. Does your set have the sliding drawer at the base of the cabinet?
8. What is the cabinet manufacturer's name, if any?
9. Is the horn neck in the grille long or short?
10. Is there a name on the speaker?
11. Do you have any literature on the radio?

The radio in the photo on this page is unusual. It's a Silvertone 7022 AC-DC Superheterodyne from 1946. It has a metal cabinet, painted white. So far, there's nothing unusual. But, what is special about this set? It's a left-handed radio. I know what you're thinking — next I'll start telling you about left-handed pencils!

If you look through any of the many radio picture books now available, you'll see a lot of radios that have the dial in the middle and symmetrical controls. But, when you start looking at the radio styles that emerged in the late 1930s, you see many cabinets with the dial and knobs on one side and the speaker on the other.

Almost all of these have the controls on the right side. This is so that right-handed people (the majority) didn't have to reach across to the left side to operate the controls. In those days, it was even common to teach naturally left-handed kids to write with their right hands.

In my dealings with collectors, I often find people who like to specialize in their collecting. Some seek certain brands, others might look for portables, or even 32-volt DC radios, for example. Specialization helps keep the crowding down and even makes collecting more challenging. However, someone specializing in left-handed radios would have a meager assortment since such examples are few and far between.

In looking through my many radio reference books, I found those in the table below. If you group all the similar ones, you're really left with only twelve different radios, and the influence of a "right-handed world" goes on — most modern

TV sets are right-handed; computer floppy drives are on the right, as are microwave oven controls, etc., etc.

Oh, by the way, if you pick up a pencil and hold it in your right hand, the lettering on the pencil is right-side-up. If you hold it in your left hand, it's upside-down. A left-handed pencil is as hard to find as a left-handed radio.

(Ron Boucher, P.O. Box 541, Gofftown, NH 03045)

Ron often has radios for sale, and his lists are sent upon request by writing to the above address.

VINTAGE TEST EQUIPMENT

The Complete History of Drugstore TV Tube Testers

BY JACOB ANTHES

It all started when I designed the Teletest Tube Tester, Patent Number 2,795,755, in 1952. I was in the TV service business in Milwaukee when I felt the need for a tube tester that did not require a roll chart and a half-dozen controls to be set before testing a tube.

The tube tester I came up with — the TV-20 — is shown in Figure 1. It used 20 preconnected sockets and only a filament voltage and a load switch to be set. (See the complete circuit diagram in Figure 2.) No roll chart was needed because I limited the tester to only the 60 tubes currently used in the TV sets of that time. The information listed on a roll chart could be printed directly on the front panel of the tube tester next to the proper socket.

I then sold the TV repair business and went into manufacturing the TV-20 tube tester I had designed. Since I had always liked living in a small town, I moved to Fort Atkinson, Wisconsin and founded American Scientific Development. To get the new venture started, I wrote a technical article for Radio-Television Service Dealer magazine fully describing the new "special purpose" tube tester. [See box for excerpts from Mr. Anthes' original article in the Radio-Television Service Dealer, July 1954.] This article resulted in an immediate and big boost in sales. I was in the manufacturing business overnight.

One day, my salesman, Jack Benz, was demonstrating the new TV-20 to a distributor in Philadelphia. Standing right behind him was Fred Robin, owner of Certified Tube Company. Fred promptly phoned me and ordered a "head" without the usual carrying case. He mounted this "head" in a rack with tube storage below and located it in a drugstore in Philadelphia. This was the first drugstore TV tube tester. The time was July 1953.

The tester was an immediate success. It sold tubes to the do-it-yourselfers by the hundreds. Lines began to form in front of the tester. I sold more "heads" to Certified Tube Company, which put them in more drugstores in the Philadelphia area. Soon, Certified Tube Company was ordering 100 heads per month, and then per week.

I then decided that I should manufacture complete self-service TV tube testers myself and sell them to others interested in setting up tube tester "routes." Sales increased steadily and reached 500 units and over per month. It wasn't a case of how many we could sell, but only of how many we could make. I had to pull all salesmen off the road because we were running at full capacity.

By 1957, the number of tubes available for TV use increased dramatically. The TV-20 could no longer test enough of them. I was forced to design the Model

340. The 34 sockets on this head could now test over 150 tube types.

In the meantime, in this three-year period, the U-Test-Em Company, working from my original patent, started a competing enterprise in Milwaukee. This new company soon matched and finally surpassed my sales volume. In 1957, the only three manufacturers of drugstore tube testers were Certified Tube Company in Philadelphia, U-Test-Em Company in Milwaukee, and ASD (American Scientific Development) in Fort Atkinson, Wisconsin. A number of others bought my heads and built their own cabinets for them, but their total sales were small compared to the "big three."

By 1963, sales volume dropped drastically, as solid-state TVs began to hit the market. I then sold my business to Certified (by then called Quik-Chek) Tube Company in Philadelphia. During those ten years, I had sold about 50,000 drugstore tube testers in addition to over 12,000 TV-20 models in portable cases to TV service shops throughout the country.

(Jacob Anthes, Lutz Road, Box 52, Glidden, WI 54527)

Jacob Anthes has enjoyed several careers in electronics. He has been an electronics engineer at Centralab, the owner of a TV service business, a manufacturer of tube testers, and a new-products engineer. In retirement since 1980, Jacob now collects antique radios as a hobby.

A Special Purpose Tube Tester

Since the advent of television, many tube testers have been left behind in the service shop while the repairman goes out on his calls. Tube substitution, instead of tube testing, has frequently become the standard servicing procedure. This practice represents a considerable change from the days of radio, when few repairmen ever left their shops without tube testers.

ADVANTAGES OF USING A TUBE TESTER

The great amount of time consumed in setting up for and testing the twenty or more tubes in the average TV chassis is the main reason why so many servicemen prefer to use substitution methods. While this may be the fastest way to complete a service call, there are several serious objections that should not be overlooked.

One objection is that the serviceman (and the customer) gets no indication of the condition of the rest of the tubes in the chassis. In addition to passing up many possible tube sales and the resulting loss of profit, the repairman leaves himself wide open to callbacks and ill feeling when another tube fails a few days later. Experience shows that many callbacks can be avoided by replacing questionable tubes on the first call.

Another serious objection to substitution as a regular procedure is that the customer gets only the serviceman's word that certain tubes need replacing. A meter indication on a simple "good-bad" scale is still the best possible customer convincer. Few people will object to having needed tubes replaced if they can see the necessity for it themselves on a tube tester meter.

The ASD model TV-20 tube tester was developed primarily for the TV repairman, so that tube testing, instead of substitution, might again become the preferred method as it was in the days of radio. By eliminating all but a very minimum of switching and set-up and by printing tube type and adjustment information directly on the top panel so that no roll chart was necessary, it was possible to design a tester that could check all the tubes in the average TV chassis in a matter of minutes...

Every design feature of the ASD tester was conceived with testing speed as the primary goal. Having eliminated most of the set-up and the roll chart, it was now necessary to remove from the tube line-up all obsolete, radio, and seldom used tube types. This left approximately 100 types, plus picture tubes, representing all of the "most used" types in present day TV sets. While the serviceman may occasionally run into a type not printed on the panel, the use of substitution in such isolated cases should not seriously inconvenience him, since so much time has already been saved by testing the popular types that are included on the panel.

The ASD tube tester is a "special purpose" type of tube tester. It is not intended to obsolete or replace the conventional tube tester. There will still be a need for the regular tube tester in the shop or on the counter for all the non-TV tube types that the TV-20A does not test.

The main applications of the ASD tester are in its use by the TV serviceman on his daily service calls, on the counter as a tester for the "walk-in" customer with the paper bagful of TV tubes, and on the bench so that production line techniques can be used in TV repairing.

Vacuum Tube Heater Voltages in AC/DC Radios

BY RAY BINTLIFF

Wow! You bought that great AC/DC radio at a flea market. But when you got home and plugged it in, it didn't work. The dial lamp and tubes do not light, but the tubes test OK. So what do you do now?

AC/DC radios use one of two basic methods to develop vacuum tube filament or heater voltages. One method, illustrated in Figure 1, connects the tube heaters in series directly across the 120-volt AC/DC line. Direct connection across the line is possible in this case because the total of the individual heater voltages is 122.8 volts, very close to the typical house current of 120 volts.

However, if the radio's total heater voltage requirement is less than 120 volts, then a voltage-dropping resistor must be used to develop the proper voltage, as shown in such a typical heater circuit in Figure 2. This resistor may be called a series resistor, and this type of circuit may be referred to as a voltage divider. The voltage-dropping resistor (R) may take one of three forms: a chassis-mounted resistor, a spiral wire resistor built into the line cord (resistance line cord), or a plug-in ballast tube.

Returning to our fictional non-working AC/DC radio, we find that the problem is most likely a defective voltage-dropping resistor. However, before looking for an open resistor, make certain that the line cord, plug, and on/off switch, as well as all vacuum tube heaters, are OK. Then, the chassis-mounted resistor, the resistance line cord or the ballast tube should be checked and replaced, if defective.

In each case, you will need to know the replacement part number or resistance value. If it is not possible to determine the part number, then the resistance required must be calculated. The resistance value is of utmost importance.

VOLTAGE DROPPING RESISTOR

For those readers with a technical background, the calculation of the required resistor value should not be difficult. But the "non-technical" readers should not despair. Calculation of the resistor's value requires only the use of simple mathematics and Ohm's law.

Referring again to Figure 2, we see that the individual tube heater voltages add up to 68.9 volts versus a line voltage of 120 volts. By subtraction, we can determine that the desired voltage reduction is approximately 51 volts ($120 - 68.9 = 51.1$). The next step is just as easy. Ohm's law says resistance (R) is equal to the voltage (E) divided by the current (I) or $R = E \div I$. Since the rated heater current for the tubes shown in Figure 2 is 0.3 ampere, $51 \div 0.3 = 170$ ohms.

As a result, we know that we should look for a 170 ohm resistor, ballast or line cord. This value is not precise and, in actual practice, may range from 160 to 190 ohms. If a resistor of the exact value cannot be located, it is better to use one of a slightly higher value. Lower values will result in higher voltages at the tube heaters, which may shorten the tube life.

In summary, to calculate the resistor value for any AC/DC radio, first calculate the required voltage drop as explained above. Then find the rated heater current for the tubes used in your radio. [This information is provided in radio receiving tube manuals.] Finally, divide the voltage drop by the related heater current (in amperes) to arrive at the resistor's value in ohms.

PILOT LAMPS

Some AC/DC radios use pilot lamps in their heater circuits which must be considered when calculating the resistor's value. If the rectifier tube has a tapped heater, it is designed to have a lamp connected across one leg of the heater and no change in resistor value is needed. Examples of this tube type include the 35Y4, 35Z5, and 45Z5. This arrangement is depicted in Figure 3.

Early AC/DC radios use a different approach, as illustrated in Figure 4. In addition to the voltage-dropping resistor (R1), the heater circuit utilizes another resistor (R2) to develop the voltage required to light a panel lamp. The lamp is connected across R2. If the tubes have a rated heater current of 0.3 ampere and the desired lamp voltage is 6 volts, the value of R2 is 20 ohms ($R = E / I$, or $6 / 0.3 = 20$). Typical values of R2 found in early radios range from 20 to 27 ohms. The lamp voltage is determined by the value of R2. The lamp voltage (and brilliance) will increase as the value of R2 is increased. Conversely, the lamp voltage will decrease as the value of R2 is decreased.

Now, let's try the mathematics for R1 in Figure 4. In this case, the lamp's operating voltage must be included when calculating the value of R1. When the lamp's operating voltage is added to the total heater voltage, a new total of 74.9 volts is obtained ($68.9v + 6.0v = 74.9v$). The voltage drop across R1 is 45.1 volts ($120v - 74.9v = 45.1$ volts). The value of R1 is 150 ohms ($45.1v \div 0.3 = 150$ ohms). For the circuit shown in Figure 4, the calculated value for R1 is 150 ohms and for R2 is 20 ohms. You may increase the brilliance of the panel lamp by increasing the value of R2. For example, if the value of R2 is increased to 27 ohms, then the lamp voltage across R2 will be 8.1 volts (27 ohms \times 0.3 ampere = 8.1 volts).

For simplicity, we have not considered the effect of placing the panel lamp in parallel with R2. Placing a lamp across R2 will result in a parallel circuit whose combined resistance is lower than that of R1 alone. Consequently, the voltage developed at the lamp will be lower than that shown in the calculation shown above. However, because the current drawn by the lamp is considerably less than that drawn by the resistor, for practical applications the effect of this parallel circuit can be neglected. Those readers with an interest in the effect of a parallel circuit are referred to the publications listed at the end of this article.

RESISTANCE WATTAGE

In addition to calculating the resistance wattage value of the voltage-dropping resistor, we must also determine its power rating. Again, this calculation is quite simple. Power in watts (P) can be calculated by multiplying the voltage drop (E) by the current (I) which flows through the resistor, or $P = E \times I$. Using Figure 4 again, we find the voltage drop of 45.1 volts multiplied by the current of 0.3 ampere equals 13.5 watts.

When a safety factor of 1.5 to 2 is applied to the calculated power value, a range of 20 to 27 watts results. A resistor with a power rating of 25 watts would seem adequate. Therefore, our need is for a 150-ohm resistor rated at 25 watts. The calculation for the power rating of R2 is a bit more complex because R2 is wired in parallel with the panel lamp, but a good rule of thumb would be to use at least a 2-watt resistor for R2.

Let's examine briefly just why the power rating is important. In performing its function, the voltage-dropping resistor is quite wasteful. The 13.5 watts of power are dissipated as heat and become lost energy. If a resistor rated at less than 13.5 watts were to be used, it would soon overheat and fail.

It is important to consider the amount of heat that will be generated if a chassis-mounted resistor is used to replace a resistance line cord. The resistance line cord's greater surface area can more easily radiate the heat it generates, whereas the chassis-mounted resistor presents a smaller surface, and its ability to radiate heat will be confined by the radio cabinet.

In summary, it is quite easy to determine the resistance value and power rating of a voltage-dropping resistor for an AC/DC radio by using the methods described above. For those readers interested in learning more about series and parallel circuits, many good books dealing with electrical fundamentals are available. Some examples are the following:

The Radio Amateur's Handbook, published by the American Radio Relay League.

Radiotron Designer's Handbook by Langford-Smith.

Formulas, Tables and Basic Circuits, available at Radio Shack.

Recently infected by the "antique radio bug," Ray enjoys repairing and restoring pre-1945 radios and test equipment.

PHOTO REVIEW

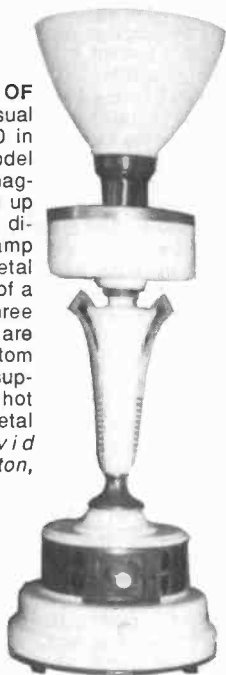

This column presents in pictorial form many of the more unusual radios, speakers, tubes, advertising, and other old radio-related items from our readers' collections. The photos are meant to help increase awareness of what's available in the radio collecting hobby. Send in any size photos from your collection. Photos must be sharp in detail, contain a single item, and preferably have a light-colored background. A short, descriptive paragraph MUST be included with each photo. Please note that receipt of photos is not acknowledged, publishing is not guaranteed, and photos are not returned.

AIRLINE 93BR-421B - A compact superhet in a streamlined, white, plastic cabinet, this model has a slide rule dial that is unusual in a very low priced set. (Fred Geer - Jacksonville, FL)

RADIO LAMP CORP. OF AMERICA - This unusual set, made about 1940 in Chicago, has no model number. The electromagnetic speaker is facing up in the compartment directly below the lamp socket. The flat metal chassis, in the shape of a D, is supported by three wooden blocks which are friction-fit into the bottom of the lamp. These supports insulate the hot chassis from the metal lamp base. (David Kraeuter - Washington, PA)

YOSHIDA SHIK STAND RADIO - This Japanese novelty radio is of polished brass construction. Each pillar houses one of its four tubes. All markings are in English. (Frank Heathcote - Logansport, IN)

UNIVERSAL CATHEDRAL - This ornate TRF cathedral originally used three Type 24 tubes, including detector, directly coupled to the Type 45 output, and a Type 80 rectifier tube. I couldn't find a replacement for the open 2 1/2-volt transformer so I converted the radio to three Type 36 tubes, a 71A tube and an 80 using a 6-volt transformer. This set works fine with a 5 fil. resistor on the 71A. No model number was visible. (George Hausske - Wheaton, IL)

CROSLY 51SD - The "SD" meant "Special Deluxe," but this set was nothing more than the Model 51 with variable-plate tuning in a fancy box. In 1925, it sold for $23.50. (Dave Crocker - Duxbury, MA)

AIR KING MODEL 47 - This five-tube set made in 1937 has a heater cord and is in a violin-shaped case of solid wood. (Walter Worth - Wollaston, MA)

BURNS MODEL 205B - This highly desirable horn speaker was manufactured by the American Electric Company of Chicago, Illinois. It has an aluminum neck and Pyralin horn bell. (Mike Adams - Scotts Valley, CA)

THE OFFICIAL NEWSLETTER OF THE A.C. RADIO RENEGADES

EDITORIAL

Here we are with our sixth issue of The Eliminator, the official newsletter of the A.C. Radio Renegades (A.C.R.R.). And once again, we have chosen Antique Radio Classified as our exclusive distributor.

For you new readers, the A.C.R.R. is devoted to lovers of A.C. radios - collectors who aren't very excited about loose couplers or crystal sets, but who love a darkened room illuminated by the tuning eye and dial lights of a big black-dial Zenith.

Remember guys, it's all in fun. We only hope to add a few laughs to our fast growing hobby. Thanks for all the letters and keep 'em coming. "Gloria Alternatus Currentus."

COMING EVENTS

Attention... The A.C.R.R. is proud to co-host the upcoming Mid-South Antique Radio Show and Swap Meet on Saturday, April 11, 1992, at the Days Inn, Exit 44 off the Pennyriple Parkway, Madisonville, Kentucky. For further details, check the Coming Radio Events in this issue of A.R.C. Special unannounced events include a radio toss (winner keeps radio!), and a Fada, courtesy of Dr. Radio, which will be awarded as a special door prize!

This publication has, for reasons unclear even to us, been brought to you by the A.C. Radio Renegades. Sorry, no membership information available at this time. BOOK REVIEW

Price Guide Guide to Antique Radio Price Guides
by Milton Schwartz

Confused by all the new price guides being advertised? Not sure which price guides are most current, highest or lowest? Milton's new Price Guide Guide will change all that! Instantly, you'll know which price guide is highest if you are selling or lowest if you are buying! Don't get all confused with actual auction or swap meet prices when you can have instant access to the price you want with the new Price Guide Guide to the price guides. This handsome softbound book with an attractive full color cover is a must for every collector. Unfortunately, at press time we were unable to ascertain the price of this extraordinary publication.

RADIO RENTERS A NEW SERVICE

Are you hesitant to host a meeting of your local or national radio club because you're embarrassed by your puny radio collection? Are you ashamed because you have space in your living room for real furniture? Do none of your lamps or tables have radios built into them? Fear no more! Radio Renters service will move in and set up any size collection necessary to gain the respect of your fellow club members.

Pick from early wireless, crystal, cathedral, Art Deco and classic consoles. Radio Renters will move in all necessary shelving and display cases so that your home will have only a narrow path from room to room. Impress your friends with a magnificent display of advertising, novelties and literature. Options include a crowded and cluttered work and storage space in your garage or basement. By popular demand we now offer a stand-in actress for your wife, who will threaten divorce if you bring home one more radio. Call now to reserve your temporary radio collection.

The Computer Radio

BY FRED GEER

A perusal of old radio magazines frequently proves that crystal ball gazing into the future of radio has often been an amusing pastime. For example, Hugo Gernsback's April 1947 Radio Craft contains an article by U.M. Fips entitled "The New Crystron Lapel Radio." Figure 1 shows Fips' diagram for the grid crystal tube, which appears on page 24 of the article. This diagram appears to be very much like that of a transistor - a full year before Bell Labs announced the transistor.

More recent prophetic articles have appeared in A.R.C. - Dave Crocker's "Here Come the Consoles" (July 1989) and Mike Adams' "The Next Big Thing" (November 1991), which predicts that transistor collecting is the wave of the near future.

So, why not another leap into the future? AM radio goes digital! All that is needed is something like the Indinaumfasuphide superchip to push AM into the world of the computer. Will this breakthrough make our prized antique AM radios obsolete?

SCENARIO: THE DIGITAL CONVERSION

The FCC has begun a 5-year phase-in period to convert the whole AM band to digital operation. An unused 1610-1700 kHz part of the AM band will become operative first. Early demonstrations of digital AM have shown that distant stations sound like local stations, even when weak and fading.

Radio Computer Corp. of America will not even need a patent for the new system, which is theft-proof because unauthorized tampering invokes a self-destruct virus.

With this new technology, 20 different radio shows can be broadcast by a single transmitter. Thus, large cities need only three transmitters to accommodate 60 channels. Digital transmissions eliminate static and interference. Oversampling in the radio fills in missing digital information, just as in CD players. Stereo surround sound is standard on all channels.

National Bureau of Standards Radio Station WWV time signals furnish universal synchronizing for both the computer radio and modulator. By breaking 20 radio programs into digits, a time constant can be assigned to each digit and permit millions of digit transmissions each nanosecond. Computer radio receivers sample the broadcast signal, reproducing only the program assigned to the time constant the listener has chosen.

Top-of-the-line Model APR-1 has some features that make it easy to operate. A backlit LCD screen displays station call letters, station location and format. Song, title and artist are displayed as the music plays. Each radio becomes more personal as the memory learns what its listener likes and scans for that kind of programming. User presets call up desired stations.

Digital radios look very much like other hi-fi components with remote control. The computer screen is 6" x 9" and angled slightly for easy viewing, as shown in Figure 2.

A printer port makes hard copies from the news channel - tomorrow's newspaper. This printer is also used by many other services. For example, commercial free music is enhanced by a song memory system that can be updated weekly.

A big selling point includes a method for subscription services. Placing the subscription card in a slot controls the use of all subscription services, which are recorded on a magnetic tape. With each use, accrued cost is displayed, and every 30 days the card must be validated by usage prepayment.

Expect little economic impact or protest when the full change takes place in the year 2003. By then, the world of radio will be ready for another great technological innovation! As U.M. Fips would no doubt say, the target date for flooding the market with digital AM radios should be April first!

Dear Doctor Radio

Dr. Radio answers those tough restoration problems sent in by our readers

Q. Dear Dr. Radio,
I promised my girlfriend that I'd get her a fancy Art Deco radio like that big mirrored Sparton radio called the Nocturne. Well, I've found out that I couldn't afford it even if I found one. How can I keep my girlfriend happy?

Z.A.K. from Texas

A. Dear Z.A.K.,
After making a visit to Mr. Deco's Custom Radio Service, I think we've got a solution to your problem. Arthur Deco has advertised his talents for transforming plain radios into fancy Art Deco sets. To see what kind of work he really does, the Eliminator staff made a visit to his shop, of course disguised as pushy and obnoxious big city antique radio collectors.

We presented Mr. Deco with the pile of plain wood sets shown in Figure 1. We almost laughed as we told him we wanted these "Plain Jane" radios turned into a collection of high priced Art Deco radios, including at least one Nocturne. Well, after just one week, Mr. Deco transformed the junkers in Figure 1 into the fancy Art Deco radios shown in Figure 2. You can tell by his smile that he takes great pride in his work. My advice is to call Mr. Deco.

ANNOUNCING A DRAMATIC SCIENTIFIC BREAKTHROUGH

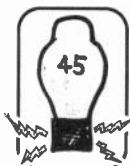

Magnetotech Industries, long associated with the Space Shuttle Program, has now come to the aid of all radio enthusiasts who aspire to join the exalted coterie of Those Who Collect Radios with Lots of Tubes (TWCRLWLOT).

Be honest! Who among us has not longed to own a set with more than 20 tubes? Who has not yearned to see his or her house lights dim, as a forest of output tubes draws hundreds of amps at the flick of a switch?

Until now, however, the purchase price and upkeep of these rare gems has kept them beyond the reach of the average radio collector. No more!!!! The engineers of Magnetotech Industries have come to your aid by producing the Synthetrode 99 (TM)

Think of the possibilities—

- Turn your boring, mundane Crosley Fiver into a 21-tube powerhouse!!!!
- Transform your embarrassing metal cabinet AK-44 into a stunning electronic porcupine, bristling with output tubes!!!!
- Even your lowly Crosley Pup can join the fun!!!!

Yes, aspiring TWCRLWLOTers, it looks like a 45—but the secret difference is in the base—no pesky pins!!! Just a powerful magnet, permitting attachment to any and all areas of bare chassis!

So quit your sniveling. Now the only thing limiting your tube count is your imagination. Get on the TWCRLWLOT bandwagon!!!! Order your beginner's sample set of two dozen Magnetotech Synthetrode 99s today!

AUCTION REPORT

Reported Auction Prices — The Myth!

BY JIM CLARK

While attending a local antique radio swap meet recently, I noticed that one of the club members had out a nice Pepsi drink dispenser novelty transistor radio, complete with its carrying strap. As the item was not marked, I inquired as to the price of his offering — he said $300. He went on to tell me about how one of these rare beauties had sold at an auction a couple of years ago for $1300 and thus what a bargain his set was! As proof, he had a copy of Breed's novelty transistor radio book [Collecting Transistor Novelty Radios — Value Guide] in which a $1300 sale is reported — referencing an [auction report] in the January 1989 issue of A.R.C. The seller was showing this reference to everyone that inquired about his Pepsi radio. Haven't we all seen other collectors and dealers referencing that famous $1300 Pepsi radio sale?!

When that $1300 sale was first reported in the January 1989 A.R.C., I was so shocked I immediately called the author to investigate. I suspected some unusual circumstances must have occurred that led to this record sale. I was startled when the author revealed to me that, in fact, the Pepsi radio did NOT sell for $1300; rather it sold for $200-300!! The author went on to explain that the error in reporting the amount of the Pepsi novelty transistor radio sale involved some confusion that had developed revolving around some absentee bidding on the item just previous to or immediately following the Pepsi radio. For whatever reason, a correction was never printed, and the $1300 Pepsi transistor radio sale myth has not only been allowed to grow, but prosper!

I also have noted many other errors in the reporting of auction sale prices for antique radios. [An auction attendee carefully records] each item and its selling price at an auction and then presents this information for publication. However, this practice can lead to the reporting of many inaccuracies. How, you say? What gets reported are the final prices that an item APPARENTLY sells for, EXCEPT some of these items can be no-sales or buy-backs!! The casual person in the audience rarely knows this. For example, it was reported that a Stellar Mantle/Maris baseball radio sold at the Radiofest '91 auction for $700. In this case it was bought back by the owner (perfectly allowable under the auction rules) and thus did not change hands. Is it accurate to report this as a sale? In another auction where it was permissible to bid on your own item, I recall where a Smokerette radio sold for about $125, and yes, it did change hands (I know, as it was mine, and I did not buy it back or bid on it!). Later in the same sale, I was surprised to see another Smokerette radio in similar condition bid to over $300 — only to be bought back by its owner. I assume he had more than $300 in it and only kept on bidding on it to protect his investment.

The reporting of auction prices could be improved if the selling prices of the items sold, not including buy-backs and no-sales, were supplied by the auctioneer or organization sponsoring the auction. So the next time you decide to act as a reporter at an auction, KNOW you are getting all the facts correct! To do anything less is to do our hobby a very great disservice!!

(Jim Clark, 1292 Starboard, Okemos, MI 48864)

Auction Reports — How We Do Them

BY JOHN V. TERREY, EDITOR

The error in the reporting of the price realized on the Pepsi radio that Jim Clark reports on above did indeed occur. It is unfortunate that no one reported the error to us two years ago when it was discovered, as a correction would have been printed. Please, in the future, if any reader is aware of an error in our auction reports, let us know so that we can print a correction!

I agree with Jim that caution should be used in interpreting auction prices. In a statement that we periodically include with our auction reports, we address most of Jim's concerns:

A warning: Auction prices are not current values. A listing such as this cannot adequately include the condition of cabinets, chassis, transformers, tubes, the operating status of the set, and the inclusion of incorrect, restored or replica components, etc. Auction prices are the result of the excitement of the auction process, the skill of the auctioneer and the specific interests of the participants. Nevertheless, auction prices serve as useful references and as another element in the value determining process.

Although our statement does not specifically mention the possibility of errors, we will include that possibility in our future statements.

A few additional comments:

(1) If it were not for our devoted auction reporters, A.R.C. readers would be almost entirely without auction information. Since auction reports are among the most carefully read sections of A.R.C., our thanks go to those readers who painstakingly take detailed notes during the auctions and forward them to us.

(2) Although it might seem that the auction house is the best source of auction information, our experience shows that not to be the case. Rarely does an auction house respond to a request for prices! If it were not for our auction reporters' efforts, few auction reports would appear in our pages. Several collector clubs do furnish us with a computer listing, but often the descriptions need supplementation. We combine the information received from clubs with that from our reporters, sometimes several for the same auction. Hours are spent typing, editing, proofing and on necessary follow-up research to maximize the accuracy of our auction reports.

(3) Information on buy-backs by owners and items "sold" to a minimum bid usually is unavailable. Although at first glance the price of a bought-back item may appear to be meaningless, it is important to realize that the price is high by only one auction increment, which is usually no more than 10%.

Finally, as our auction warning statement indicates, auction prices are only one of the elements useful in determining the value of a radio.

How Do You Repair Rubber Push Buttons?

Dear Editor:

Does anyone know how to repair those rubber push buttons that make contact on a printed circuit board grid with rubber conductive buttons? The rubber seems to have lost its conductivity. I have a General Electric clock radio that utilizes these buttons to tune stations electronically and set the clock, and the buttons will only work when pressed very hard. Is there a conductive liquid that can be applied, and if so, what is it and where is it available?

More on Reforming Electrolytic Capacitors

Dear Editor:

In reference to James Di Ruzza's article in the February 1992 A.R.C. on "Replacement of Electrolytic Capacitors in AC/DC Radios," a very important caution was omitted. Always, ALWAYS discharge the electrolytic capacitor after reforming it. Most of the popular AC/DC radios of the 1940s used 20-20/150V electrolytics which are capable of holding a charge that can deliver a severe shock after it is disconnected from the reforming power supply. Higher or lower capacity ratings store a proportionately higher or lower charge. ...A quick way to discharge the capacitor is to short the leads on some handy piece of metal... Don't trust that first spark to have discharged the capacitor to a safe level. Capacitors will reform to a small charge immediately after such a discharge. Hold the leads on the metal short circuit for a few seconds, just to be safe. This is a tip from an old hand who was repairing radios back in the '40s.

Collecting Panel Meters Restoring Glass Radio Dials

Dear Editor:

I noticed on your comment card you list a spot under "Collecting Interests" marked "Panel Meters." I have a small collection and would like to know of any other collectors, magazines, etc.

2. We have a small stained-glass company called "Cross Glass Works" mainly for leaded windows, lamp shades, etc. However, we can also print colored inks on glass using silkscreening. We also have a kiln capable of custom bending glass. Do you know of any of your readers or clubs that might be interested in our service to restore their glass tuning dials on their old radios? We can silkscreen the numbers only on glass; we are not capable of silkscreening on metal.

More on Tube Socket Test Adapters

Dear Editor:

I was going through some back issues to see if I had missed anything and came across the excellent article in the October 1991 issue by Ray Bintliff, K1YDG, on building tube socket test adapters. In November, at the Houston HamComm's flea market, I picked up something called "Kit, Tube socket adapter MX-1258/U" from Joe Bunyard [1601 Lexington St, Waco, TX 76711-1701]. The kit, packed in a hinged aluminum case, was originally made for the Navy and includes adapters, which look very much like those in the photos in Ray's article for 4-, 5-, 6-, 7- small, 7- large, octal, loctal, and 7- and 9-pin miniature tube sockets, as well as a pin straightener for the miniatures. I paid $10 for the kit.

...I've had most of the adapters themselves for more than twenty years — just never had the box to put them in. Except for the fact that the exposed test contacts are recessed into the outer housing, the construction method is almost identical to that use by Ray, including the #4-40 machine screw.

BOOK REVIEW

Radio Manufacturers of the 1920's - Volume 3 Radio Corporation of America to Zenith by Alan Douglas

REVIEWED BY JOHN WOLKONOWICZ

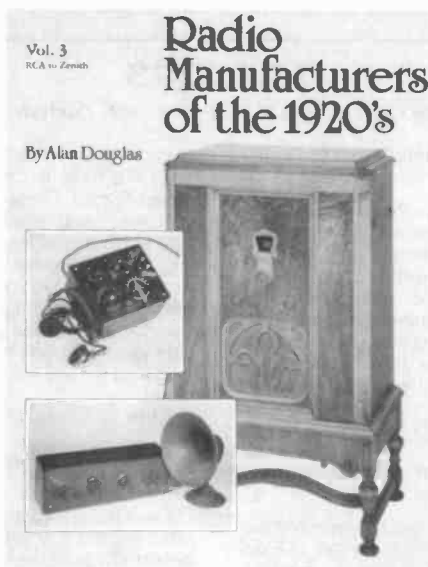

After a long wait, Volume 3 of Alan Douglas' Radio Manufacturers of the 1920's is finally here. The wait was worthwhile, since Volume 3 is the best of the trio. This volume covers manufacturers from RCA to Zenith in 285 fascinating pages.

As with Volumes 1 and 2, Alan has covered the principal radio companies of the 1920s in a chronological format. Each chapter treats one manufacturer and includes a brief business history of that company's product range during the 1920s. The text is concise and fact-filled, but very entertaining.

The photographs consist of original advertisements and press photos, supplemented with recent photos of various receivers from collections across the country. The recent photos are of excellent quality, most having been taken by Alan who is a talented amateur photographer, in addition to being a historian. Due to an improved printing process, photo clarity is much improved over Volume 2. A complete index for Volumes 1-3 is also included.

The true highlight of Volume 3 is the chapter on RCA. This 68-page history of the Radio Corporation of America in the 1920s is the best I have ever read; it is packed with information not previously available. Production figures are included for many key models, and photos of never produced models and early prototypes are also shown.

Several years ago, Alan obtained the personal papers of Arthur F. Van Dyck, an RCA engineer from the 1920s to the 1950s. The Van Dyck papers contain a detailed personal diary, engineering drawings, papers, and some incredible photographs, many of which are included in this book. Using the Van Dyck papers as a basis, Alan takes us behind the scenes at RCA in the 1920s to explain, for the first time, the reasons behind some of RCA's puzzling product and marketing decisions of this era. The chapter sheds new light on the reasons why RCA introduced no new models for several key selling seasons and why some Radiolas were produced in such small quantities.

Other key manufacturers in Volume 3 include E.H. Scott, Stewart-Warner, Stromberg-Carlson, C.D. Tuska, Western Electric, and Zenith. Smaller companies like Sleeper, Thermodyne, Western Coil, and Workrite are also included.

The 32-page chapter on Zenith is quite detailed and contains much new information. The Zenith chapter concludes with a full reproduction of Zenith's own historical booklet (issued in 1955) and an article from the December 1922 issue of Radio Topics, which portrays Zenith as a much larger manufacturer than it actually was at the time.

In previous reviews of Volumes 1 and 2, I've stated that this three-volume set is the best series ever written on antique radios. Volume 3 is "the best of the best." [Volume 1 was reviewed in A.R.C. March 1988; Volume 2, in A.R.C. August 1989]

Anyone who has Volumes 1 and 2 probably has already ordered Volume 3. At the AWA conference at Rochester, N.Y., last fall, Alan was besieged with questions from collectors on Volume 3's availability! If you don't own any of this trilogy, start with Volume 3. Even if 1920s sets are not your prime interest, you will enjoy this book. And, you will almost certainly order Volumes 1 and 2 as soon as you've finished Volume 3.

My only gripe about Volume 3 is the same one I've had about Volumes 1 and 2 — the boring front cover (selected by the publisher). The back cover is new, however, and shows Alan with his matching aqua and white '68 Chevys — a sedan and a pickup. These vehicles are almost legendary at radio meets here on the East Coast. They are particularly significant to me since much of my own radio collection has been hauled home from Canandaigua and Rochester in those two vehicles!

As with Volumes 1 and 2, Volume 3 is available in both hardcover ($39.95) and softcover ($29.95) from Vestal Press Ltd., P.O. Box 97, Vestal, NY 13851, from A.R.C. advertisers and from A.R.C. Alan has been considering writing a Volume 4 which would include additional manufacturers as well as new information on companies covered in Volumes 1 to 3. Let's all encourage him in this worthwhile project!

His Master's Voice in America By Fred Barnum

REVIEWED BY ALAN DOUGLAS

It's rare enough when a company takes an active interest in its own history, but a company publishing the history of a former competitor is unheard of. Yet GE has done it by funding a book on the Victor Talking Machine and RCA — His Master's Voice in America by Fred Barnum. Of course, since GE bought RCA, GE's Government Communications Systems Department is now located in Camden, New Jersey, in the original Victor factory complex. Many of GE's current employees began their careers with RCA. But RCA itself never produced anything like this book.

Fred Barnum, a marketing representative with RCA during its last years and then with GE, became interested in Camden's past and tracked down as many sources as possible. His efforts produced caches of old photos that had escaped previous housecleaning efforts. An extensive photo exhibit for a 1989 open house attracted the attention of his department's General Manager, eventually resulting in the go-ahead for a formal book.

Apparently, the book was created in six months during 1991; this late publication date perhaps is its weakness. Since the men who worked for Victor and RCA over the past 90 years are largely gone, Barnum had to rely on official printed sources for most of his text. A bit heavy on financial dealings, the book takes a public-relations view of products and events. It also repeats the long disproved fable about Sarnoff handling Titanic distress traffic in 1912.

Still, the sheer quantity of material assembled into one volume (388 pages, 8 x 11 format, densely packed) assures your interest, whether your specialty is Victor phonographs, factory buildings, wartime electronics gear, television, or anything else that RCA has ever done. And the photos — they're just amazing!

For the RCA chapter in my own book, I searched for one good illustration of the Camden factories and had to settle for something from an ad in a dealer's magazine. I can't begin to count the factory photos in Barnum's book — dozens and dozens of them, never published before.

In other areas, such as RCA's products, the photos are more conventional, taken from familiar sales brochures or magazine ads. But even here, with so many photos, there are bound to be plenty that you've never seen before or that you wouldn't know where else to find. GE claims there are "over 700 of them."

At $36, His Master's Voice in America may seem expensive, but it is evident from the printing quality that GE is not making a nickel on it. For this reason, you will not see it offered by other dealers, since they would have to add a markup. The book is published by General Electric Company, Government Communications Systems Department, Camden, N.J. and is available from General Electric Co. (add your state sales tax to the $36 price) by writing to: His Master's Voice, GE GCSD, Attn: Bldg. 10-4-9, Front & Cooper Sts., Camden, NJ 08102.

You may wonder why I have written such a lengthy review of this book, versus less than a page about Tom Lewis' Empire of the Air. The reason is that Empire will be around for some time and will get lots of reviews and attention. Everyone will (or should!) eventually own a copy. This GE book, however, is a limited edition for a limited market, and once it's gone, it's gone. You'll be sorry if you don't grab one now.

My thanks to Brian Belanger and the Mid-Atlantic Antique Radio Club Newsletter for informing me about His Master's Voice in America.

Empire of the Air ... The Reviewer Responds

The February 1992 A.R.C. printed a letter from Pete Yanczer commenting on Alan Douglas' short book review of "Empire of the Air." Here is Alan's reply.

To the Editor:

Yes, I thought that my review was too short when I hurriedly wrote it, but the Editor shortened it even more. I mentioned the technical errors because there are quite a few of them, many more than I listed (see the latest AWA Old Timer's Bulletin review also), and readers should be aware of their occurrence.

I realize all too well how much work goes into writing a book, but in the end, that's irrelevant; a book (or any work) will be judged on its own merits. And how much better can you get than the best? Alan Douglas, Pocasset, MA

As with nearly every article printed in A.R.C., editing is necessary. For balance, two lesser technical errors and two other sentences were omitted. The information from "Publishers Weekly" was added. (Editor)

WITH THE COLLECTORS

The Crushing Tale of a Transistor Portable Radio

BY DOUGLAS HOUSTON, JR.

Who would ever have thought that the Zenith Royal 500 transistor set would attain such status as a collector's item that it borders on being sacred? Certainly not me, or at least, not 34 years ago!

In 1956, I bought my first transistor portable set, an RCA Victor 7-BT-9J, while a friend of mine named Joe bought a new Zenith Royal 500 set in a maroon case. My RCA was a bitter disappointment, especially next to Joe's Zenith. The RCA did well in the near field of a transmitting antenna, while the Zenith was so hot, I'll swear that it received stations that weren't even there!

The difference in the two sets was overwhelming. I had the worst on the market, and for only 10 bucks more, Joe had the best! Saving up my pennies in 1957, I was able to buy a Royal 500, with a black case, which is still in my collection and is shown in Figure 1. I dumped the RCA for $20 and was glad to be rid of it.

Around 1960, I acquired a badly damaged Royal 500 in what had been a maroon case, just like Joe's. As you can see in Figures 2 and 3, the poor set had been crushed by something, but there were some salvageable parts in it, so on the shelf it went (where it still remains).

Shortly after my acquisition of the crushed 500, Joe's Zenith developed trouble, and he asked if I could fix it. He brought it to me in the little flannel pouch that it had come in when new. The problem was a dead transistor, which the junk set yielded. Once again, Joe's Zenith operated as a Royal 500 should.

Of course, I would never think of charging this friend of childhood days for that little service, but why not have a little fun as a reward for myself?

Carefully placing the crushed set in Joe's pouch and his good set in my coat pocket, I set out for a party, where I would meet him that evening.

Approaching him, I announced that I had repaired his radio. He was delighted. I further explained that I had experienced a problem with the set and handed him the pouch, which he commenced to open. Seeing the contents, he lost color completely, and I'm sure that he came just short of crying! His words were only: "What?...W-W-W-What?...?"

I couldn't carry the joke further, so reaching into my coat pocket, I produced his working radio, offering it in exchange for the wreckage. Joe was overjoyed, but assured me that he would love to bludgeon me into hamburger! Seconds later, with his radio playing beautifully, we broke into heavy laughter — he with his good radio and I with my mangled mess.

Joe is now retired, and lives a good distance from me. I hope that he is still enjoying his Royal 500, as I enjoy mine, along with the others that stand beside it. You just can't have too many Royal 500s!

(Douglas Houston, Jr., 3441 S. Hadley Ln., Ortonville, MI 48462)

MESSAGE: Do you collect regular or novelty transistors? Do you find it difficult to locate other people who are interested in transistors? Would you like to join a network of transistor collectors? This is a new and exciting field of radio collecting, and transistor prices for both novelty and regular sets are climbing at a steady pace. I have started a national network of transistor collectors which offers a monthly transistor newsletter, featuring transistor-related articles and classified ads. If you would like more information about joining the transistor network, send a LSASE to: Marty Bunis, Box 36, Bradford, NH 03221, or give me a call at (603) 938-5051

ACTraveler

On-the-road AC power

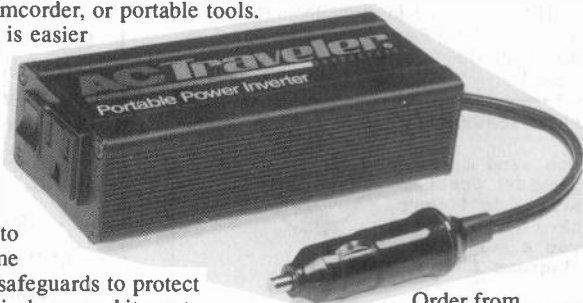

Have you ever wanted to power up a radio, TV, soldering iron, oscilloscope, electric drill, electric screwdriver, or your personal computer while on the road, camping, or at your favorite antique radio swap meet. Perhaps you would like to power the battery charger for your H.T., cellular phone, camcorder, or portable tools.

Now, with the ACTraveler it is easier than you ever dreamed. Just plug into your cigarette lighter with this pocket sized 15 oz. hi-tech marvel.

It delivers up to 140 watts continuous power (200 watts for 5 minutes) and can deliver 400 watts to handle the startup surge some loads require. It has built-in safeguards to protect your battery from excessive discharge and it meets U.S. and Canadian safety standards. All this and a 3 year warranty for only $125.00. Shipping prepaid in the U.S. (200 watt model available)

Order from
PTI, Box 191117,
Little Rock, AR 72219.

MESSAGE: Extravaganza '92, July 10-12, 1992. This year the Michigan Antique Radio Club (MARC) and the Antique Wireless Association (AWA) are proud to announce our 6th annual Extravaganza convention to be held again at the Holiday Inn Convention Center in Lansing, Michigan. In just six (6) short years this event has become one of the premier events in the United States featuring antique radios, TVs and associated items. We fully expect that Extravaganza '92 will be our biggest and best convention yet! The theme of Extravaganza '92 is EH Scott Radios and the 1930's Big Band Era. One of the highlights of Extravaganza '92 will be our "informal" Social Hour (come as you are) Saturday evening during which we will have an excellent EH Scott radio display, some 1930's Big Band music, activities, and door prizes. To top off our Social Hour, we will be raffling off a Zenith Walton's radio at 9 pm and you must be present to win! Every person who registers for Extravaganza '92 will receive one free raffle ticket for this drawing, and additional tickets will be offered for sale. We received many compliments about our Social Hour last year; be sure not to miss it. Perhaps you will go home with the big prize! We will also have three (3) Programs for your benefit, including one by George Fathauer of Antique Electronic Supply. This year AES is celebrating their 10th year in business. Please come and listen to George tell us their interesting story. Each day we will have an outside Flea Market and 50/50 Raffle in addition to our outstanding Hospitality Suite with free coffee, soft drinks and munchies. Colonel Jeff Bub of Brunswick, Ohio, again will preside over our Equipment Auction on Saturday which last year included over 250 items selling for over $25,000! Our usual Women's Luncheon will again be on Friday. We will conclude our convention with our Donation Auction late Sunday morning as has been our tradition for a number of years. We have made some significant changes in our Equipment Contest, this year on Friday, in an effort to make it even better than in the past. The primary changes are (1) our Equipment Contest will be judged by a panel of judges for the first time in many years, and (2) we have implemented twelve (12) new contest categories which should allow everyone to enter almost any item(s) they have in their collection. Plan to attend Extravaganza '92, you are sure to have an interesting and enjoyable time! For a convention brochure or further information, write: Extravaganza '92, PO Box 585, Okemos, MI 48864

CLASSIFIED ADVERTISING POLICY

ONE FREE 20-WORD AD for subscribers in each issue; additional words are 15¢ each. See details below. Classified ads must be received (not just postmarked!) by NOON on the ad deadline. Late ads are held for the following issue. Please enclose correct payment with all ads. Stamps or cash are OK for small amounts. (Canadian and other foreign advertisers, please see "Payment" on page two for methods.) "Free words" cannot be accumulated from month to month; free words must be requested when ad is submitted.

Please write each ad on a separate sheet of paper, especially when included with other A.R.C. correspondence. Include SUB# with ad. Ads may be sent in advance; but, write each ad on a separate piece of paper and indicate the month (or successive two months) you want the ad to run.

Please write legibly and use both capital and small letters. Do not use dashes between words. Some numbers and letters can look alike, for example 1, l and I (the number one, the capital i and the small L.) Write the following characters clearly (especially in model numbers): 1, l and I; 0, O, o, Q and D; r and n; 6, b and G; V, U, u, v and Y; A and R; 5, S and s; 2, Z and z. We try to correct spelling errors, so when using an uncommon word or manufacturer which looks similar to a common word or manufacturer, note it so that we do not "correct" it. Editor's comments are in [brackets].

Advertising is accepted only for early items related to radio, communication, etc. All items must be described fairly; reproductions, reprints and not-original items must be identified as such. Advertisers agree to respond promptly to inquiries and orders, and to resolve problems promptly if the buyer is not satisfied.

Publisher reserves the right to edit ads without notification to the advertiser and to reject ads for any reason. Publisher is not responsible for errors due to illegibly written ads or for any other reason. Since club activities receive free advertising on the Coming Radio Events page, the free 20 words may not be used for club activity ads. See inside front cover for additional information.

CLASSIFIED AD DETAILS

Deadline: NOON - 10th of the month!

Classified ads must have a standard heading such as WANTED, FOR SALE, FOR TRADE, FOR SALE/TRADE, SERVICES, MESSAGE, HELP, AUCTION, MEET, etc. This heading is the only bold or all-capitalized words allowed in the ad. Capitalize only manufacturer names, model names, etc. Wanted and For Sale ads are mixed together to encourage the reading of all ads, including the Wanted ads. This standard ad format makes scanning the ads easier.

Before writing your ad, please look over the ads in a recent issue of A.R.C., and try to write your ad in the same style. Full name and address is required in all classified ads; we will add it if you forget.

To encourage varied content of the ads, the same classified ad may be run only once per issue and for only two consecutive months. (To run an ad longer, use a boxed classified or display ad.)

Classified Ad Rates per Month

Subscribers:

First 20 words: FREE

15¢ per word for extra words over 20 plus

10¢ per word for a shaded ad (count all words including free words).

* Subscribers may take 20 free words on only one ad each month.

Non-Subscribers:

30¢ per word plus

10¢ per word for shaded ad.

Please do not forget to send in the extra 15¢ per word when your classified ad runs over the free 20 words; your payment will be appreciated, and it will help to keep A.R.C. healthy.

BOXED CLASSIFIED AD DETAILS

Deadline: 1st of the month!

Boxed classified ads can run unchanged for three months or more. No words are free. Ads may be shaded and may include bold and all-capitalized words freely. The ad need not begin with For Sale, etc. Minimum run is 3 months, prepaid.

Boxed Classified Ad Rates per Month

Nonshaded ads:

25¢ per word for all words,* none free, plus

10¢ per word for each bold word plus

10¢ per word for each all-caps word.

Shaded Ads (All words are bold at no charge):

35¢ per word for all words* plus

10¢ per word for each all-caps word.

Non-Subscribers:

Add 20¢ per word to above costs.

*Three words can be bold-all-caps at no extra charge.

Deadline: 1st of the month

for all ads with drawings or photos!

Drawings and photos are encouraged as the response to your ad is much larger and the reader knows better what you want or are selling. Send in your drawing or photograph, and A.R.C. will reduce it or enlarge it as needed.

$8.00 per month for each photo or drawing

(If ad is canceled, this amount cannot always be refunded.)

CHANGES & CANCELSATIONS

Please check your ads carefully before sending them in. Once ads are received, it is not always possible to refund the amount sent, pull the ad or make changes.

IMPORTANT — COUNTING WORDS — IMPORTANT

The standard headings: WANTED, FOR SALE, etc., count as one word each time used in an ad. Name, address and (one) telephone number, count as 6 words, regardless of length. Ham call letters and business name can be included in the 6 words and do not count extra. Full name and address is required in all classified ads — it does not cost extra! Each additional word, abbreviation, model number or number group, extra telephone numbers, etc. count as one word. Hyphenated words count as two words.
