DISPLAY AND BUSINESS CARD ADS - DETAILS AND RATES

The deadline is the first of the month for display and business card ad artwork, payment and repeat requests.

Advertising is accepted only for early items related to radio, communication, etc. All items must be described fairly; reproductions, reprints and not-original items must be so identified. Advertisers agree to respond promptly to inquiries and orders, and to resolve problems promptly if the buyer is not satisfied.

All advertising must be prepaid; see "Payment" paragraph above. Late ads will be run only if space and time permit. Since artwork is reduced to 63% in the printing process, originals must be the artwork size listed below. Do not send in artwork on art board or send negatives. Ads should be typeset or typed neatly with a carbon ribbon, black printing on white. No reverse type if A.R.C. is to make up the ad. If you want us to prepare your ad, include the one-time cost below for A.R.C. to make up the ad.

Photos should be at an 85 line screen; otherwise, add $10.00 per photo for screening. Do not cut or trim photos or glue photos to artwork; submit separately.

If you are confused by these requirements and terms, please contact A.R.C. before beginning to prepare your ad. We will be happy to advise you on your ad ideas, estimate how much the ad will cost, recommend an ad size, etc.

We assume that advertisers want all ads which are submitted to run without delay; therefore, we will run the ad and bill for any additional work required for the ad to meet these specifications. A late ad will be run beginning with the next month. "Tear sheets" will be sent only for 1/2 and full page ads, and if requested when the ad is submitted.

Business card ads are limited to one per advertiser.

The 3-month rates represent about a 10% discount, the 6-month rates, 20%. Placement requests for display ads: add 15% but call first. Clubs: write for discount policy.

EDITOR'S COMMENTS

This month, A.R.C. celebrates eight years of service to the antique radio community. In June, 1984, Gary Schneider, a well-known Ohio collector, mailed out several thousand copies of a new magazine — Antique Radio Classified.

Based on his experience as a longtime collector, a manufacturer of a battery set power supply, and a supplier of sales lists of magazines, catalogs, etc., Gary had the vision to fill the communication gaps among collectors. From his first 16-page sample issue, A.R.C. has grown to a 90-page plus publication, mailed to over 7300 subscribers worldwide.

A.R.C. provides a medium for the widely distributed antique radio collector populace to get together and to preserve our radio communication heritage. All of us here at A.R.C. hope that you enjoy this eighth anniversary issue and that you will continue to support the growth and quality of A.R.C. in the years ahead.

This month, our cover points to our lead article — the fifth installment of photos contributed by Ron Boucher from his Atlantic Radio Company collection. The article includes several photos from the 1920s which advertise the new RCA portables — Models 24 and 26.

At the other extreme of size, weight and time are transistor radios. Marty Bunis, the coauthor of the popular Collector's Guide to Antique Radios, has contributed an article on collecting novelty transistor radios. Although many collectors belittle these unique sets, they are, indeed, a piece of recent radio history.

If the novelty of a MacDonal's Hamburger radio does not turn you on, perhaps you might be interested in how those motorized pushbutton tuning systems work. Howard Grant has written an excellent article, including photos and carefully drawn diagrams, which explain these intriguing sets.

This month, we present six pages of auction prices from three auctions. The VRPS Spring Auction, held near Dallas, Texas, was reported by George Potter; Craig Huseboe sent in the results of the Gene Harris second annual radio auction in Marshalltown, Iowa; and the A.R.C. staff reported on the Water Village Radio Auction II in Nashua, N.H. The many low prices make it apparent that an interesting collection of radios can be put together for a very modest sum, regardless of whether you are collecting battery sets, cathedrals, plastics or transistor radios. Only the unique, rare, and most unusual sets in any category demand the multiple-hundred dollar bids.

The photo review, our most popular section other than the classified ads themselves, is expanded by a page in this anniversary issue. The items shown range from a 1922 battery set to a 1970s communications receiver, plus several consoles and a novelty radio bank.

Alan Douglas, author of the three-volume Radio Manufacturers of the 1920s, reviews a book by Britisher Robert Hawes entitled Radio Art. I myself have been very impressed with the beauty of the many color photos in this book and with Hawes' concise history of radio, even though it is viewed from the other side of the Atlantic.

An equipment review on the Power Technology Model AA-10 Active Antenna by Jim Sargent compares the performance of this tabletop antenna with a 75-foot long wire. Read the review for Jim's conclusions.

Problems with Advertisers? Have you had a problem with an advertiser in A.R.C.? Although A.R.C. cannot be responsible for transactions which are results of the ads in A.R.C., we do try to help individuals resolve their problems. We also coordinate multiple complaints about specific individuals and publish the information, if necessary, so that others may be aware of their activities. So, if you are having difficulty with an individual and efforts to resolve the problem yourself have failed, please write, since yours might not be an isolated case.

And advertisers, please adhere to our advertising policy. Be especially concise when describing the condition of items and be prompt in your shipping. If there is a problem and if the buyer requests it, we expect that you will accept a return and send a refund promptly.

And buyers, if you are dissatisfied with an item, arrange ASAP for resolution, before you attempt repair or any other modification of the item.

Club Listing. This month, we publish a complete listing of the U.S. and foreign clubs — now numbering 69 — that have sent us information. A.R.C. is committed to supporting the activities of all radio organizations with these free listings. Over two dozen clubs are sponsoring activities this month alone.

We hope to make it to several of the coming meets and to see you there.

Happy Collecting.

The Atlantic Radio Company — Part V

CONTRIBUTED BY RON BOUCHER

Here is another installment in the series of Atlantic Radio Company articles, featuring photographs that I acquired years ago at a sale from the estate of E. P. Gordon, Atlantic Radio's advertising manager during the 1920s.

This group of photographs consists of publicity shots issued by RCA in May 1925 to tout its new Radiola 24 and Radiola 26 superheterodyne portable radios. The cover letter, which Mr. Gordon received with these photos, indicated that he was to introduce the radios to the public through advertising at the end of that month (May). Obviously, the appeal was to summer vacationers, since portability meant that radio could be a part of their activities. The photos certainly emphasize this fact.

When the photographs were being taken, only those "in the know" were aware of these sets.

The radios used in the photos might have been prototypes or from early production runs. Collectors today would surely consider the people in these photos lucky to be among the first to see these future collectibles.

However, these seemingly fun-loving people may have known nothing about radio. They probably didn't even care about what they were being hired to advertise. It's possible that they were RCA employees selected because of their good looks, but more than likely they were professional models.

The photographer was Thomas Coke Knight of 22 Beaver Street in New York City, perhaps a neighbor to the writer of the RCA cover letter at 233 Broadway. As in modern advertising, Knight's job was to create a "feeling" through these photographs. The feeling seems to be one of easy pleasure derived from portability. No doubt, his instructions were to show some of the oddball places you could take these sets — if you had the strength — and to emphasize that having a set with you made all the difference in the world! You were "in!"

(Collecting Novelty Transistor Radios, continued) section of this magazine. I have paid as little as 25 cents and as much as 50 dollars, depending on rarity and condition. My most recent purchase, and at present my favorite, is the Dick Tracy wristband radio shown in Figure 3.

By trial and error (mostly error), I have learned always to ask for novelty transistors. Many times, they are such good replicas of everyday items, like soda cans or toys, that you can walk right by one without realizing it's a radio! The search can be almost overwhelming, especially at a big flea market, because just about anything can be a novelty transistor. Looking for the telltale signs of speaker perforations and thumbwheel knobs helps. Still, I miss a lot because novelty transistors are so well disguised! Examples of some well disguised transistor radios that I did not "miss" are shown in Figures 4, 5, 6 and 7.

Just a hint to all you guys out there who wish your wives would go along with you to yard sales and flea markets when you're looking for conventional old radios: I have noticed that many wives of vintage radio collectors are interested in novelty transistors, and some have already built substantial novelty collections of their own. The fun of radio collecting is doubled when you have someone to share it with, and this could be just the opportunity you need to interest your "better half" in radios!

THE FUTURE

Have you ever wished you could see into the future and know what radios will be "hot" five or ten years from now? Well, my guess is that novelty transistors are going to be some of the most sought-after sets of the future. If you scan the classified ads in recent issues of A.R.C., you'll find that more and more novelty transistors are being offered for sale — there's no doubt that this is a fast growing segment of radio collecting.

It makes sense when you think about it — most of the early 1920s sets are now in collections and museums or are so expensive that the average collector can't afford them. Even the good 1930s and 1940s sets are escalating in price as more and more collectors grab them up to fill their radio room shelves. And of course the great Deco and Catalin sets are now beyond the financial means of most collectors.

What does that leave for those of us who can't compete in the "big leagues" of radio collecting? Think about it — for the cost of one decent Catalin or breadboard, you can buy about 100 novelty transistors; in the space that one console takes up in your living room, you can fit a case with dozens of novelties.

I can hear all you hard core "real" radio collectors groaning about having to read more and more articles about this new "garbage." But, believe me, novelty transistor collectors get just as much of a thrill in finding a mint-in-the-box set they've been searching for as you do in finding that special Kennedy or Federal that means so much to you. There's room for everyone, every budget, and every kind of radio in this hobby of ours, and each new aspect of collecting makes the hobby that much more interesting.

How can the president of an antique radio club admit that his favorite radios are novelty transistors? It's easy when he has over 300 of them and buys more all the time — he's hooked! I like novelty transistors, and I'll admit it to anyone! In the last few years, I have managed to reach my initial goal of acquiring a real Majestic Charlie McCarthy and an Emerson Mickey Mouse. As much as I like them, I have many other novelty transistor sets that mean just as much to me as their older "cousins."

Novelty transistor collecting is a great hobby for anyone whose space and funds are limited. In addition to that, it's a fast-growing, new and fascinating segment of radio collecting.

(Marty Bunis, RR1, Box 36, Bradford, NH 03221)

Marty Bunis has been a collector for about five years, during which time he and his wife Sue first filled their home with anything and everything. They have since begun to concentrate on quality radios with aesthetic appeal and have refined their collection to focus on novelty and regular transistor radios.

This article has also appeared in the new publication "Transistor Network" of April 1992. It is reprinted here with the permission of Marty Bunis, publisher, and has been expanded with several additional pictures and related commentary which did not appear in the original article.

WITH THE COLLECTORS

The Truetone D-727 Electric Automatic Tuning System

BY HOWARD C. GRANT

If you collect antique radios manufactured in the 1930s and 1940s, chances are that one day you will find yourself in possession of a set that has an electric automatic tuning system. I mean the kind where you press a button and an electric motor rapidly drives the variable gang condenser and dial pointer to a preselected station. Of all the auxiliary methods used in tuning radios, this is my favorite. Let me explain why.

Consider this question. Is there any intrinsic satisfaction in pressing a selector switch on a radio and having the station instantly pop in? My answer is "no," except that which is derived from listening to the station.

On the other hand, there is considerable satisfaction in holding down the push button on a mellow old superhet and feeling the power of an electric motor as it whirls into action. There is satisfaction in watching the pointer race toward its preselected spot on the dial. There is satisfaction in watching and feeling the system come to rest after a few soft overshoots. With an electric automatic tuning system, not only do you get your station, but you also have the fun of getting there.

THE TRUETONE MODEL D-727

Western Auto's Truetone Model D-727, as shown in Figures 1 and 2, manufactured by the Detrola Radio Corporation around 1937, incorporates such a system. It is one of my favorite sets and always gets attention when I show it off. A more detailed description of the system and how it works follows.

SYSTEM COMPONENT DESCRIPTION

The tuning system of the D-727 consists essentially of only three parts:

(1) The Master Selector: this includes the selector drum and the selector pins. These parts are mounted on the rear of the variable condenser, together with their associated brackets and wiring.

The selector drum is essentially two pairs of conductive ribbons, partially recessed, around

"...there is considerable satisfaction in holding down the push button on a mellow old superhet and feeling the power of an electric motor as it whirls into action."

the periphery of a phenolic drum. These two ribbon pairs are slightly less than 180 degrees in length and are diametrically opposite each other on the drum. This placement creates two non-conductive break points on the drum that are 180 degrees apart. One of these break points is used for stopping the motor at the selected station.

The selector pins are mounted on a bracket around the selector drum and are normally in contact (spring loaded) with the selector drum ribbons. The wiring sides of the selector pins are connected to their respective push buttons. The selector pins are adjustable and are set so that the drum will stop at the desired station. The motor stops when the break point on the drum reaches the selector pin being energized.

(2) Motor and Drive: This assembly consists of an induction motor having a mechanical drive clutch with magnetic throw-out, and a train of gears operating directly into the Manual Station Selector drive shaft. The motor is bi-directional.

(3) Push Button Assembly: These buttons are located on the front of the chassis and extend through the escutcheon below the dial. Stations are tuned in automatically when the button under the call letter of the desired station is depressed and held down until the motor stops and the station is heard. When the button is pushed down, an automatic silencer mutes the receiver until the motor stops.

HOW THE SYSTEM WORKS

Figure 5 shows the complete tuning system of the D-727. Remember, this is an electro-mechanical schematic and conveys both mechanical and electrical information.

Observe the position of the selector drum. Note that the two break points are in a horizontal plane. This may be defined as the reference position. In this position, the variable condenser is fully meshed, which means the receiver is set to its lower mechanical and electrical extreme. This position must be manually set. Note: the maximum clockwise (CW) rotation of the system from the reference position is 180 degrees.

With the selector drum in this reference position, it can be seen that pressing any one of the eight push buttons will cause the selector drum to rotate CW because all the selector pins are in contact with the selector drum ribbon that is connected to the CW winding of the motor. Counter-clockwise (CCW) and CW refer to the direction the drum will rotate. When a push button is pressed, the selector drum will rotate CW until the break point on the drum is directly under the selector pin being energized. At this point, the selector pin will lose contact with the ribbon on the selector drum and the motor will stop. This is how the system makes the station selections.

The Number 1 selector pin requires less rotation from the reference position than the Number 8 selector pin — another way of saying that the Number 1 pin tunes the lowest frequency station, while the Number 8 pin tunes the highest frequency.

So far I have shown how the system moves (CW) and stops on any selected station (pin) from the reference position. The question now is what happens when the selector drum stops on the Number 8 position. Remember, this is the highest station, and there are no selector pins beyond this point. Part of the answer is obvious. The system can't be tuned electrically above this position.

By visualizing the selector drum in this position, you can see that selector pins 1 through 7 are now in contact with the selector drum ribbon that controls the CCW winding of the motor. Therefore, from position 8 the system will tune CCW to any other station when a push button is pressed. But, just as the system can't tune above the Number 8 position, it cannot tune below the Number 1 position.

Now picture the selector drum in the Number 5 position. From this position, the selector drum can rotate in either direction, depending on which push buttons are pressed. If selector pins 1, 2, 3, or 4 are energized, the system will rotate CCW to the station selected. If selector pins 6, 7, or 8 are energized, the system will rotate CW to the station selected.

In summary, it can be said that the system will tune from any selector pin to any other selector pin, but not beyond. This feature prevents the system from driving the variable condenser into the mechanical stops. However, if the system is manually set to either the high or low mechanical extremes, as we have already seen in the reference position, the direction of rotation will always be correct when a selection is made. Had the upper mechanical extreme been chosen as the reference position, all of the above explanations would apply except in reverse.

AUTOMATIC SILENCER

The motor voltage is rectified by one of the diodes in the first audio tube (75). The resulting DC voltage is applied to the triode grid, cutting off the tube when a station is being tuned.

PHOTO REVIEW

This column presents in pictorial form many of the more unusual radios, speakers, tubes, advertising, and other old radio-related items from our readers' collections. The photos are meant to help increase awareness of what's available in the radio collecting hobby. Send in any size photos from your collection. Photos must be sharp in detail, contain a single item, and preferably have a light-colored background. A short, descriptive paragraph MUST be included with each photo. Please note that receipt of photos is not acknowledged, publishing is not guaranteed, and photos are not returned.

ARVIN MODEL 444 - This (1947?) red Arvin, metal radio, (Chassis Re-200) has a tube line-up of 12SA7, 12SQ7, 50L6GT, and 35Z5. At 6.5 x 5 x 4 inches, this radio is near the lower limit in size for any radio with four octal tubes. (David Kraeuter - Washington, PA)

EXCEL CORP. MODEL XL-45 - This small, 4-tube superheterodyne radio was manufactured in Japan under license from RCA. It is powered by one D cell and one 67 1/2-volt B battery. The year of manufacture appears to be sometime in the 1950s. Any additional information would be appreciated. (Douglas D. Fox - Aurora, IL)

ATWATER KENT 82Q - Manufactured in 1931, this battery-operated version of the Model 82 cathedral radio has seven tubes and was one of AK's first superheterodyne radios. Tuning, volume, and tone controls are in front; a local-distance switch is mounted on the left side of the cabinet, while the on-off switch is on the right side. (Ron Ramirez - Providence, KY)

PHILCO MODEL 90X - This console set, which has the same chassis as the well known Philco 90 cathedral, is an AC-operated AM radio using nine tubes. It was one of Philco's first consoles to use the famous inclined sounding board. (Ron Ramirez - Providence, KY)

ZENITH BANK - While at Elgin, a friend found this 3 1/2" tall bank at a local flea market. Made out of bronze-colored potmetal, it appears to be a very good replica of a 1937 Zenith Model 8S-154. Its tone quality is poor, but its portability is excellent! (Steve Hartwich - Kansas City, MO)

---

BROWN H2 - HORN SPEAKER - "S. C. Brown LTD, London, W" is cast in the base of this small horn, 7 1/2" diameter bell, 11 1/2" high. The tiny but sophisticated adjustable driver is in the base. (C. E. Clutter - Portland, OR)

---

EDDYSTONE MODEL S670A - This working British set has a 1978 radio tax stamp from the British government, but was probably manufactured in the late 1950s or early 1960s. It uses only five tubes plus a selenium rectifier, contained in a well constructed metal cabinet. This five-band receiver has an awesome bandspread, and "feels" like an expensive set. (Mike Adams - Scotts Valley, CA)

REGENCY MODEL TR6 - This portable transistor radio, probably made in 1957, is contained in a leather case with perforated front grille. (C. C. Trissell - Lincoln, NE)

ATWATER KENT MODEL 35 - This is Atwater Kent's first metal AC box set, made in 1926. It is battery-operated and uses six tubes. (Ron Ramirez - Providence, KY)

GREBE CR-8 - Manufactured by the A. H. Grebe Co. during 1922, this set is considered by some to be the best one-tube regenerative receiver ever built — tuning from 150 to 1000 meters. Used by radio amateurs and listeners alike, it sold for $80. Even today, it pulls in stations from all over the country. The small hole to the left of the tube hole may not be original. (Dwight Cross - St. Louis, MO)

IMPERIAL CONSOLE - This 8-tube superheterodyne, AC-operated, AM radio, was probably made around 1931. The lid lifts up to reveal, apparently, a phonograph, now missing from the set. The name "Imperial" on the escutcheon is the only identification on the radio. Does anyone have further information on this set? (Ron Ramirez - Providence, KY)

AUCTION REPORT

VRPS Spring Auction March 28 1992 — Irving, Texas

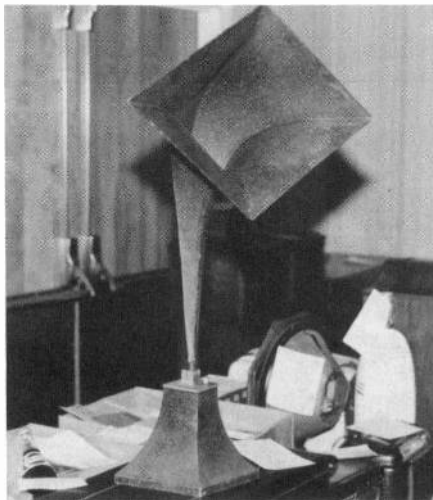

CONTRIBUTED BY GEORGE POTTER

The Vintage Radio and Phonograph Society (VRPS) held its annual spring auction on March 28, 1992, at the Holiday Inn, DFW Airport South, Irving, Texas. Attendees numbered 158, and 428 items were sold for a total of $17,796.

This was the best run VRPS auction to date. Among its positive features were plenty of space, a good layout, a great crew and very few junkers. Auction highlights included a Federal 102 portable with lid, a Herald horn, and Nippers from a few inches to four feet high. Popular items were a Regency TR-1, a few Catalins, and some novelty transistors.

These listed prices are for information only and should not be taken as "going prices." The sets were judged by general condition; they were not tested or thoroughly inspected.

Water Village Radio Auction II

Nashua, New Hampshire — April 18, 1992

CONTRIBUTED BY JOHN V. TERREY AND DICK DESJARLAIS

Vintage Radio Auction II, sponsored by Water Village Promotions, was held on April 18, 1992, at the Holiday Inn, Nashua, New Hampshire. Although approximately 400 radios were advertised for sale, mainly from one collector's estate, only about 310 were actually put up for bid due to time limitations. A detailed catalogue was available to all bidders. In general, all items were in good condition and well described.

The auction was conducted by Frank Sykes of Water Village Promotions, Water Village, New Hampshire, before a standing-room-only crowd of 150 radio collectors and dealers. Having participated in the April meet of the New England Antique Radio Club earlier that day, many of those present had had a full day of radio activity.

Highlights of this auction included the following: a Westinghouse RADA at $275, a Crosley 48 Wigit cathedral at $300, a Miniman MG Germanium white, rocket-shaped radio with original box at $125, a Stewart-Warner Porto-Baradio with original glassware at $240 and a Philco Predicta Debutante at $225.

Radio Art By Robert Hawes

REVIEWED BY ALAN DOUGLAS

On a visit to London with an Antique Wireless Association group, I attended a scheduled event which was a summer garden party at Gerry Wells' museum. While, like most of the guests, I was more concerned with the hundreds of radios on display than with personal dress, I still remember Robert Hawes as the chap who arrived suitably outfitted and sporting a straw boater — carefully "turned out."

His book Radio Art is much the same. Attention to detail shows everywhere — in the color photography, the layout of the book itself, and the carefully worded text. Although not identified as such, models from his personal collection are identified in the photo credits at the back of the book; he has evidently spent a lot of time and care in assembling Radio Art.

The book is in two parts: the 45-page text with occasional accompanying photos, followed by an illustrations section — 76 pages of captioned photos of domestic (British) and foreign models. All photos, more than 250, are in color. It would perhaps have been better if more of these photos had been placed with their corresponding text, because the illustrations section, although more visually appealing, is not as well organized as the text.

The text begins in the 19th century and continues up to the present. It would stand alone as a concise, readable, accurate and informed history of radio development.

While the text concentrates on British developments, the illustrations section includes many models from other countries. These sets, chosen largely for their oddity, are not necessarily representative of foreign collectibles. On the other hand, the author's selection of British models is wide enough to include "ordinary" radios, which, he makes clear, are what the public bought.

The foreign examples, however, tend to extremes, and there is no counterbalancing frame of reference to maintain the reader's sanity. I am sure, for example, that not all French and Spanish plastic radios look as if they had been left on a hot stove burner. And unfortunately, one of the American examples of the mundane, a Philco cathedral, has been stripped and bleached so that its own mother wouldn't recognize it.

If radio art is so important as to warrant a book devoted to it, we might wish for more information on its creators. Were they recognized artists in other media? Industrial designers? Radio engineers? Company presidents? We learn that the Emerson

BD-197 (the "Mae West" to modern collectors) is "grotesque," but we do not learn that its designer was Alexis De Sakhnoffsky, who created everything from coffeepots to Budd vehicles and whose work, according to Emerson publicity, was featured in Esquire magazine.

We are told that metal radio cabinets were "unimaginative" and cost more to make than wooden or plastic ones. But in the U. S., where a mass market allowed it, millions of metal cabinets were made in the late 1920s, largely because of Arthur Atwater Kent's personal preference for factory methods of mass production. He stretched the limits of metal deep-drawing technology as far as automobile manufacturers did. As long as the public would buy them, metal cabinets were far more profitable than wooden ones. And if we think of the chrome-plated Scotts as the ultimate form of metal cabinetry, are they unimaginative?

We learn that the huge round dial of a late 1930s Zenith is "incongruous," but we are not told that this was the fiat of Zenith's autocratic president, Gene McDonald. There is no mention of any American industrial designers, whether Walter Dorman Teague, Raymond Loewy, or Norman Bel Geddes. There are no labeled examples of their work.

However, the book admittedly concentrates on the British radio industry, and there is some treatment of Wells Coates and his round Bakelite Ekco models, and of Gordon Russell who shaped the public taste with his simple Murphy cabinets in natural veneers.

"Indeed, no other piece of domestic equipment has been produced in quite so many different forms." With that premise, Robert Hawes has done a fine job of showing us these forms, and — at least, for the British market — has provided some insight into their raison d'être.

Radio Art is published by Greenwood Publishing Company, London. It is available in 9 1/4" x 12" hardcover format at $29.95. It can be ordered from Robert Hawes, 63 Manor Rd., Tottenham, London, N17 OJH, or from A.R.C. and A.R.C. advertisers. A postcard deck consisting of 30 photographs from the book is also available at $9.95.

LETTERS — More on Auction Prices

More on Auction Prices

[See "Reported Auction Prices — The Myth!" and "Auction Reports — How We Do Them" in the May 1992 A.R.C.]

Dear Editor:

Auction prices and price guides shouldn't set a precedent for an item's value. I've been getting the feeling that too many collectors are more concerned with "value" or profit than with radio collecting as a hobby. Will radios turn into another commodity that is just bought and sold for profit? Shouldn't the sale price of a radio be what makes buyer and seller happy? Are too many of us getting too greedy?

Nevertheless, I find the auction reports printed in A.R.C. to be invaluable and the selling prices reported, for the most part, plausible. For me, the auction reports provide a basis for what one might pay for particular radios and related items. I don't hold the prices as gospel. I think we all can learn to spot mistakes or aberrations in auction prices. Through the course of 12 issues of A.R.C., one can often find several selling prices for the same (or similar) items through different auction reports and through classified ads. Thus, one can usually derive a fairly accurate average selling price for many radios. Furthermore, the more "seasoned" a collector becomes, the better feel he tends to get for the popularity, availability and average sale price of a particular item. I bet this is especially true for those who specialize their collecting.

If I see an auction price that seems extraordinarily high, I conclude it was either a mistake or someone wanted the auctioned item desperately enough to make the buyer pay the high price. Also, if I come across someone asking an extraordinarily high price for an item, no matter what reference he cites to justify his price, I usually conclude he is not truly interested in selling the item or he's willing to wait (a long time) for that person who wants the item, price be damned.

I conclude that what determines the value of a radio is what the collectors' market is routinely willing to pay and not the "one in twenty" price at some auction or in a classified ad. Better yet, the price of an item should be what makes buyer and seller happy, not the ultimate high price or dazzling profit. Why didn't the seller in Jim Clark's article ask for the erroneous auction price he referenced or even half the price? I bet that he knew the reported price was out of line and that his asking price was closer to what someone might really pay.

Robert Perlstein, Medford, MA

Still More on Auction Prices

Dear Editor:

Just to comment on the auction report articles. In "Auction Prices — How We Do Them," paragraph 3, you state that it is important to realize that "the price is high by only one auction increment..."

I think you said this in good faith; however, it is not usually true. Auctioneers will and do run up a "hot" buyer at the sale. It is common practice, although it is not good practice. The untrained observer probably will not notice, but an informed one will, sometimes. I don't like to admit it, but I know this to be true, as we have an auctioneer in the family.

I cover a lot of auctions as a buyer of antiques, including radios, and unfortunately, these bad principles are widespread. There are some exceptions, but they are rare.

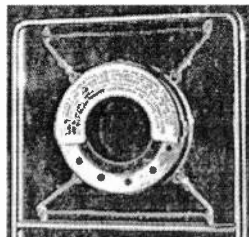

Buyer Rule #1: Never allow yourself to be "moved" from your sensibly established price range. If the price goes beyond that, let it go. Patience and perseverance will reward you well.

You are doing a good job and provide a needed service. A.R.C. is a good and reliable source of information. You may find a way to enlighten the readers with the tricks of the auction trade.

[Although it is the policy of A.R.C. to publish letter writers' names, in this case, the name has been withheld on request.]

MISSING

The condenser microphone pictured on the right was noticed missing from a lobby exhibit at AT&T Bell Laboratories at Murray Hill, New Jersey, in early April, 1992. It was used by President Warren G. Harding at his inaugural address on March 4, 1921. It is so labeled (on upper half of microphone) and may have #17196 engraved on it.

It is hoped that the microphone will be returned — no questions will be asked — to: AT&T Corporate Security, 20 Independence Way-Room 4A22, Warren, NJ 07059; Telephone: 800-822-9009.

EQUIPMENT FIELD TEST REPORT

Active Antenna Model AA-10

BY JIM SARGENT

Living in or near a big city has its advantages when you are looking for old radios, but it presents drawbacks to playing the gems once you find them. Most urbanites don't have the space or the inclination to string 100 feet of copper for a "suitable antenna" — the suggestion for most pre-1950 radios. Of course, if all you want to hear are the local stations, a short piece of wire will usually suffice.

While Sherwood, Arkansas, is far from being "big city," the neighborhood I live in has had most of the good climbing/antenna-hanging trees removed. We learn to adjust to our environment. My antenna is approximately 75 feet of copper running L-shape in my attic. The lead-in wire goes into a small room in my garage where I have my test bench.

However, I have always wanted something I could move from room to room as I demonstrate my collection to a willing visitor. The Active Antenna Model AA-10, shown in Figures 1 and 2, fills that bill.

Manufactured by Power Technology, Inc., and advertised in this and other antique radio publications, the AA-10 offers excellent possibilities because of its size and portability. Acquiring the AA-10 gave me the opportunity to compare it, in a somewhat scientific manner, to the 75 footer in my attic.

COMPARISON WITH 75 FOOT ANTENNA

Although I collect a variety of radios (refined way of saying my collection knows no bounds), I decided that the Hallicrafters Model SX-122 would be suitable for both general coverage and short-wave comparisons. I had originally planned to install a double pole/double throw (DPDT) switch near the front of this receiver. I could then change near antennas by simply throwing the switch.

I quickly found out that the switch contacts were so close together that a loose coupling effect distorted the actual results. Following the manufacturer's suggestion for best results, I connected the AA-10 to the radio with a small coaxial cable, using an alligator clip arrangement to switch from one antenna to the other.

Chart A depicts the results of the study done during one evening and one daytime session. The comparison is of the signal strength of stations I received at various points on the dial. The SX-

122 S-meter ranges from 0 to 60 db.

As the chart indicates, a db comparison would suggest that the AA-10 was generally not the equivalent of the long wire. However, the difference in signal strength, especially in the middle of the broadcast band and through about 12 MHz, was not audibly significant. While the AA-10 is advertised primarily for the antique broadcast radio market, I was pleasantly surprised by the comparisons in the shortwave bands. The effectiveness did appear to drop off at the higher frequencies, but it was still quite suitable through about 15 MHz.

On the strong local stations, the AA-10 appeared to act as an Automatic Volume Control (AVC) which could be a bonus on those early sets not having an AVC circuit. Placing the AA-10 as high as possible and away from fluorescent lamps also seemed to improve the results.

PERFORMANCE WITH CRYSTAL SETS

While a tube-type broadcast radio will often receive local stations with even the shortest of antennas, crystal sets are another matter. As these sets typically do not have amplifiers, the signal gain is quite dependent upon the length of the antenna. I conducted the final test of the AA-10 using a home brew crystal set with capacitor-type tuning. This type of tuning proved to be easier and more accurate than the slide and loose coupler tuning types I have used.

The long wire antenna pulled in three of the local stations with ease and good audio levels. After switching to the AA-10, I was able to receive only two of the three stations. Even though the signal was noticeably lower, the stations were easily heard. I suspect there are several reasons for the drop in signal strength. First, the directional pattern of the AA-10's whip is different from the directional pattern of the long wire. Second, the long wire is located at least 15 feet higher than the workbench the AA-10 was sitting on.

THE CIRCUIT

The AA-10 is, in reality, a broadband amplifier combined with an impedance matching device. The impedance matching becomes necessary because of the 42-inch whip antenna which has a higher impedance than a typical long wire. The matching occurs in three stages, as shown in Chart B, with the amplification being realized between the first and second stage. The 12 db gain from the amplifier primarily compensates for the shortfalls of the whip antenna.

The AA-10 is powered by a 9-volt battery with which I calculated the drain to be 6 mA. If you use a Duracell™ MN-1604 as I did during tests, you should get approximately 80 hours of operation.

CONCLUSION

All things considered, the AA-10 offers a suitable alternative to tree-climbing and wire-stringing. The portability of the AA-10 definitely makes it ideal to demonstrate old radios at flea markets. Once word gets out on this product, few dealers will want to be caught holding the antenna terminal with their fingers as they demonstrate old radios.

MESSAGE: At the AWA Tranquility meet, Mister Transistor placed over a dozen of the most desired transistor collectibles up for sale. Again, Mr. Transistor sells sets that look great and work perfectly for both display and use. Remember a dead radio is a broken radio. FOR SALE: A number of fully restored tombstones are featured this month. All are completely recapped and not sold with only new filters and a line cord in place. Call about the Zeniths, Spartons, Westinghouse and RCAs I've got in stock. I've also got two super RCA consoles, one with electric tuning, that'll make you cry with joy. And I've got metal sets, a U5A in blue no less! and others. Get your checkbooks out and call. For the transistor folks how about a turquoise Motorola, the third one made, or a GE that's really worth collecting? Perhaps your fancy is a baby Toshiba to die for. In all I've over 100 fully restored collectibles for sale. If you're just starting to collect transistor radios, I'm looking at a burgundy Zenith 500 that's 9.7 on a ten scale. So get on the horn or you'll be forlorn. Remember Mister Transistor is radioactive. Henry B. Cohen, 2459 Eighth St., Fort Lee, NJ 07024. (201) 585-0030; Fax (201) 585-1659

CLASSIFIED ADVERTISING POLICY

ONE FREE 20-WORD AD for subscribers in each issue; additional words are 15¢ each. See details below. Classified ads must be received (not just postmarked!) by NOON on the ad deadline. Late ads are held for the following issue. Please enclose correct payment with all ads. Stamps or cash are OK for small amounts. (Canadian and other foreign advertisers, please see "Payment" on page two for methods.) "Free words" cannot be accumulated from month to month; free words must be requested when ad is submitted.

Please write each ad on a separate sheet of paper, especially when included with other A.R.C. correspondence. Include SUB# with ad. Ads may be sent in advance; but, write each ad on a separate piece of paper and indicate the month (or successive two months) you want the ad to run.

Please write legibly and use both capital and small letters. Do not use dashes between words. Some numbers and letters can look alike, for example 1, l and I (the number one, the capital i and the small L.) Write the following characters clearly (especially in model numbers): 1, l and I; 0, O, o, Q and D; r and n; 6, b and G; V, U, u, v and Y; A and R; 5, S and s; 2, Z and z. We try to correct spelling errors, so when using an uncommon word or manufacturer which looks similar to a common word or manufacturer, note it so that we do not "correct" it. Editor's comments are in [brackets].

Advertising is accepted only for early items related to radio, communication, etc. All items must be described fairly; reproductions, reprints and not-original items must be identified as such. Advertisers agree to respond promptly to inquiries and orders, and to resolve problems promptly if the buyer is not satisfied.

Publisher reserves the right to edit ads without notification to the advertiser and to reject ads for any reason. Publisher is not responsible for errors due to illegibly written ads or for any other reason. Since club activities receive free advertising on the Coming Radio Events page, the free 20 words may not be used for club activity ads. See inside front cover for additional information.

CLASSIFIED AD DETAILS

Deadline: NOON - 10th of the month!

Classified ads must have a standard heading such as WANTED, FOR SALE, FOR TRADE, FOR SALE/TRADE, SERVICES, MESSAGE, HELP, AUCTION, MEET, etc. This heading is the only bold or all-capitalized words allowed in the ad. Capitalize only manufacturer names, model names, etc. Wanted and For Sale ads are mixed together to encourage the reading of all ads, including the Wanted ads. This standard ad format makes scanning the ads easier.

Before writing your ad, please look over the ads in a recent issue of A.R.C., and try to write your ad in the same style. Full name and address is required in all classified ads; we will add it if you forget.

To encourage varied content of the ads, the same classified ad may be run only once per issue and for only two consecutive months. (To run an ad longer, use a boxed classified or display ad.)

Photo and Drawing Rates per Month

$8.00 per month for each photo or drawing (If ad is canceled, this amount cannot always be refunded.)

CHANGES & CANCELATIONS

Please check your ads carefully before sending them in. Once ads are received, it is not always possible to refund the amount sent, pull the ad or make changes.

IMPORTANT — COUNTING WORDS — IMPORTANT

The standard headings: WANTED, FOR SALE, etc., count as one word each time used in an ad. Name, address and (one) telephone number, count as 6 words, regardless of length. Ham call letters and business name can be included in the 6 words and do not count extra. Full name and address is required in all classified ads — it does not cost extra! Each additional word, abbreviation, model number or number group, extra telephone numbers, etc. count as one word. Hyphenated words count as two words.
