PURPOSE. Antique Radio Classified is published for people involved in the radio collecting hobby. Its purpose is to stimulate growth of the hobby through the buying, selling and trading of radios and related items, and to provide a monthly forum for the interchange of ideas and information.

CONTACTING ANTIQUE RADIO CLASSIFIED. All correspondence should be sent to:

A.R.C., P.O. Box 2, Carlisle, MA 01741.

Only UPS, Federal, etc. items to street address: One River Road.

Telephone: (508) 371-0512; Fax: (508) 371-7129

E-mail: ARCMagazine@aol.com — Web: www.antiqueradio.com

Please, no classified ads by telephone; thanks.

Your ads, renewals, letters, etc. can be handled faster and more efficiently if your name, address and SUB# are written on each.

Unfortunately, A.R.C. is not staffed to answer letters with questions about antique radios or requests for advice. However, A.R.C. does solicit letters of interest to its readers and publishes them as space permits. A.R.C. assumes that permission is given to edit and to publish all correspondence and articles received unless otherwise indicated.

GUARANTEE. You may cancel your subscription at any time and receive a pro rata refund for issues not yet mailed. If errors to ads are made by A.R.C., upon request a free correction will be run in the next available issue.

PAYMENT. Please send in full payment with your order or A.R.C. does not carry accounts; all subscriptions, ads, etc. must be prepaid (except for the 6 and 12 month display ads indicated below). Pay in U.S. funds. Checks drawn on a U.S. bank, money orders, VISA or MasterCard ($100.00 min.) are preferred. Make check out to "A.R.C." U.S. stamps or cash are OK for small amounts. Canadian payers may send a Canadian check but specify U.S. funds. Subscriptions will be prorated to amount sent if amount is incorrect.

FAX & E-MAIL PROCEDURES/PAYMENT. Subscriptions, book orders, classified ads, display ads, etc. are welcome by fax or e-mail. Deadlines are the same as for ads received by mail. Please calculate the amount due. Payment by VISA or MasterCard is preferred if your order is over $10. If under $10, or if you prefer to send a check or money order, state the amount being sent and that the payment is in the mail. Do not send another copy of your ad with your payment; simply indicate that it is a fax or e-mail payment. If you want confirmation of our receipt of your fax, call immediately after sending your fax.

CHANGE OF ADDRESS. Please notify us 4 weeks in advance of a change of address. Send both your new and old addresses, and include your SUB# and effective date of your new address. Temporary address changes can be made also.

SUBMISSION OF MATERIAL. Antique Radio Classified welcomes and solicits information that pertains or relates to radio history or collecting. This may include articles, book reviews, photos, information on upcoming radio events, meetings, antique radio organizations, radio auctions, sources of old radio and restoration supplies, and other related and interesting material. All material submitted should be carefully researched, typed and accompanied by good photos, if appropriate. Computer disks are appreciated. Writing guidelines are available upon request. Unless prior arrangements are made, all submitted materials may be edited, become the property of Antique Radio Classified and will not be returned. Publication is subject to approval by A.R.C. and to time and space constraints.

MAILING OF ISSUES. U.S. subscribers can receive A.R.C. by First Class or Periodicals mail (Periodicals is the way most magazines are mailed). The mailing of First Class copies is staggered with faraway copies mailed before local copies. Non-U.S. copies are mailed on the first day. Periodicals copies are mailed on the last day. Mailing dates change each month, but mailing is usually completed by the 27th of the month. First Class copies usually are received by the 5th of the month; copies by Periodicals mail, by the 10th.

ETHICS. No person involved in the production of A.R.C. is to act on any information in the magazine until the first delivery day after local copies are mailed.

DISCLAIMER. The publisher is not responsible for any buying and selling transactions incurred, or for any other use of the contents of this publication.

Antique Radio Classified subscription rates, frequency of publication, content, policies, size and ad details, and rates are subject to change at any time by A.R.C.

DISPLAY AND BUSINESS CARD ADS - DETAILS AND RATES

The deadline is the first of the month for display and business card ad artwork, payment and repeat requests.

Advertising is accepted only for early items related to radio, communication, etc. All items must be described fairly; reproductions, reprints and not-original items must be so identified. Advertisers must agree to respond promptly to inquiries and orders, to resolve problems promptly if the buyer is not satisfied, and to comply with a buyer's refund request on unaltered returned items.

Advertising must be prepaid, except as noted below; see "Payment" paragraph above for details. Late ads will be run only if space and time permit. Since artwork is reduced to 63% in the printing process, originals must be the artwork size listed below. Do not send in artwork on art board or send negatives. Ads should be typeset or typed neatly with a carbon ribbon, black ink (not pencil) on white. If used, reverse type must be limited to 25% of the ad. If you want us to prepare your ad, include the one-time cost below for A.R.C. to make up the ad.

Photos should be at an 85-line screen; otherwise, add $14.00 per photo for screening. Do not cut or trim photos or glue photos to artwork; submit separately.

If you are confused by these requirements and terms, please contact A.R.C. before beginning to prepare your ad. We will be happy to advise you on your ad ideas, estimate how much the ad will cost, recommend an ad size, etc.

We assume that advertisers want all ads which are submitted to run without delay; therefore, we will run the ad and bill for any additional work required for the ad to meet these specifications. A late ad will run beginning with the next month. "Tear sheets" will be sent only for 1/8-page or larger ads and only if requested when the ad is submitted.

First business card per advertiser is at lower rate.

The 3-month rates represent about an 11% discount, the 6-month rates 23%, the 12-month rates 30%. Placement requests: add 15% but call first. Clubs: write for discount policy.

ANTIQUE RADIO CLASSIFIED

EDITOR'S COMMENTS

Preparing the December issue of A.R.C. as we did in November evokes an early holiday spirit, along with a bit of nostalgia. In this last festive month of 1996, we look back on a year of steady improvement in our magazine. We also look forward to more of the same in the New Year. Meanwhile, perhaps we can arrange for Santa to drop our renewed pledge of quality into those subscriber stockings "hung by the fire with care."

Wally Worth certainly takes up a nostalgic theme for those of us in the Boston area when he explores the rise and fall of the Samson Company. Many manufacturers produced only a few models, and we thank our readers for continuing to ferret out the histories of these obscure firms.

Although A.R.C. prides itself on being a medium for information exchange, little did we think that nearly two years after publishing an article on call letters, we would still be publishing follow-ups. Actually, Al Germond goes even further than simply discussing call letters; he gives a fine summary of the evolution of three radio networks — NBC, CBS and ABC. We also include contributions about call letters from nine other readers.

Foreign sets and collectors are represented this month by two articles. Ray Bintliff compiles a follow-up to a March 1995 Photo Review photo of a Russian radio. This composite is based on information submitted by five contributors about the Red Star radio, including its possible French and German ancestry.

The other foreign article is a collector profile of Dino Gianni of Milan, Italy, and his extensive collection. Robert Lozier and Vic Franzoni contributed the article and photo montage of Dino's crystal sets, receivers, amplifiers, consoles, radio/phonographs, and military sets.

This month's restoration topic is the Echophone EC-1 communications receiver manufactured by Hallicrafters in 1940. Ray Bintliff describes his success in restoring this basic 6-tube, AC/DC set.

A reminder: The danger of shock when operating AC/DC sets can never be overemphasized, and Ray mentions this fact in his article. Since the chassis on these sets is usually connected directly to one of the two AC line cord wires, A.R.C. recommends that AC/DC sets be operated only via an AC isolation transformer.

Alan Douglas continues with Part 7 of his series on vintage tube testers. This particular installment is probably best for the tube tester devotee who is comfortable tossing around terms like "KS 15750," "TV7" and "micromhos." Actually, Alan covers how to handle a host of glitches that can compromise the operation of old tube testers.

Alan also contributes a description of Radio Rex, a novelty dog and doghouse. He relates the little-known fact that this toy was manufactured by the predecessor to the National Company, once famous for communications receivers.

Ray Bintliff's Radio Collector's Guide to Philco Bakelite Block Condensers is reviewed by Ron Ramirez. Ron reports that this is an excellent book that was long needed for the radio restorer's workbench.

Photo Review this month features additional foreign sets — Australian and British — along with a unique, 1960s, Art Deco wall speaker that looks like a framed painting. Radio Miscellanea includes a letter reminding mail-order buyers not to "mess with" items received damaged or not working. There are also a few letters from happy A.R.C. readers.

Finally, we publish the answers to Dave Crocker's second "Radio Quiz," which appeared in the April 1996 issue. Sorry about the delay, but we are often limited by space. Thanks to all who sent in answers and also those who mentioned that they enjoy this feature.

Renew Now and Save. With the new year, comes another necessary increase in A.R.C.'s subscription and advertising rates. Annual U.S. subscription rates will increase $2.00 per year, classified ad extra words increase 2¢, and display advertising rates increase about 8%. Each year, to keep A.R.C. serving the radio collecting community, we must absorb increased costs of postage, printing, supplies, rent and personnel. We always announce these rate increases in advance so that subscribers and advertisers can take advantage of current rates before the new rates take effect on January 1, 1997.

Coming Radio Events. About three dozen radio events are scheduled during December. International events of note are being held in London, England; Toronto, Canada; and Vienna, Austria. It's not too soon to be looking forward to 1997 and its offerings. "Mark Your Calendar" also lists the dates for many of the major 1997 meets. Of special mention are two events that involve A.R.C. — Radio XXVIII on February 23 in Westford, Mass. (attendance last year was over 900!), and the 2nd annual ski/radio meet at Crested Butte, Colorado, from February 26 to March 1. I hope to see many of you at these events.

Holiday Greetings. From all of us at A.R.C. — John, Scott, Lisa, Cindie, Dorothy, Chris, Ray, Dave, Dick, Bobby and Jean — a happy holiday and a prosperous new year of collecting.

John V. Terrey, Editor

ON THE COVER

The search for a holiday cover for the December issue is always a challenge. This year, our choice is a postcard from the editor's collection. The subject seems appropriate in that a child fascinated with radio in times past is our hope for the future — a new generation of radio collectors.

WITH THE COLLECTORS

The Samson Electric Company Canton, Massachusetts

BY WALLY WORTH

Once again Wally Worth shares his interest in New England companies involved in the manufacture of early wireless and radio equipment. His first article on the L.E. Knott Company of Cambridge, Massachusetts, appeared in the August 1995 A.R.C. (Editor)

The Samson Electric Company was organized in 1883, in Boston, where it made electric lighters for gas lamps until 1904. At that time the company moved to Canton, Massachusetts, and changed its name to the Electric Goods Manufacturers in order to emphasize its broadened line.

In 1916, the company reverted to the name Samson Electric Co. (better name recognition?) and made fire alarms, marine ignition systems, and "wireless receivers." The latter were, in fact, headphones.

In that same year, the company received a contract from "the largest corporation in America in the radio field" for "tiny nickeled receivers" to make these headphones. Which company was this? The Western Electric Co.? Remember the year was 1916, and RCA had not yet been formed.

The headphones consisted of brass punchings formed into a cup, drilled and stamped complete, and then nickel-plated. (Sound like Western Electric phones?) The two magnets and the fine wire coils were assembled, and then the caps and headbands were added. This entire assembly was made within the Samson Electric plant.

The Canton Gazette of April 7, 1922, recorded that, at the Samson Electric Co., "Girls were hired to do the final assembly work and were given a two-week instruction course before starting work. They were paid $12 to $14 a week."

In 1922, the president of the company was Clarence R. Colby, the sales manager was Orin Smith, and the plant manager was George Galbraith. In 1923, still in Canton, the company was making radio parts and 2-, 3-, and 4-tube radio kits, as well as complete radios.

SAMSON RADIOS

The Samson Electric 4-tube T/C radio, shown in Figure 1, was advertised as having an "improvement in radio circuitry" consisting of a "tuned choke" in the plate circuit, similar to the later impedance coupling. This 4-tube radio was also sold as a kit, complete with all Samson Electric parts, for enthusiasts to assemble themselves.

The company also advertised the Samson Super-Kit, a superheterodyne of eight tubes that was an excellent performing set. (See A.R.C., May 1992, pages 10-11.)

Not many of these sets are seen now, indicating their rarity, but I have a Samson 4-tube kit-set marked "C/T" on the upper right corner of the front panel, with all brand new Samson parts that were never wired up. The front view is shown in Figure 2, and the unwired parts layout is shown in Figure 3. The chassis and panel are mint too. I have decided not to wire this set up myself, but to keep it the way the original assembler left it back in 1924.

Why didn't he finish it? The original assembler did a superb job of mounting the Samson parts, probably according to a blueprint, now missing.

Did he lose interest? I can't believe that! Did he die before he could finish up? Did he go off to college? I'll never know. But to see the arrested development of this set and muse on why it was never finished is, to me, what the radio game is all about.

SAMSON COMPONENTS

Samson excelled in marketing parts for radios, doing all the manufacturing from raw materials to finished article in its own plant. For example, the Samson "Uniform Frequency Condenser" was especially well-constructed. It had a peculiarly shaped rotor to give the "straight-line frequency tuning" then so much in demand to separate the stations on the dials. An advertisement for this condenser is reproduced in Figure 4. Notice also the polished brass shield over the stator plates of these condensers. They were handsome pieces!

The company also manufactured audio frequency transformers in many styles and ratios, 10 in all, some being the fancy helical-wound coils of 2, 3, and 6 to 1 ratios. The transformers were really efficient too.

Samson variometers and variocouplers were always very small and smartly done up with bright green silk-covered wire on genuine Bakelite tubing. They were individually boxed in orange and black cartons.

I've learned a lot about the Samson Electric Co. in a town only 10 miles away from my home. I felt I should research this company, and share what I learned, little as it is.

At age fifteen, Walter Worth began to save his paper route money to buy parts for 1-tube radios. Fifty years later, he started to collect anything that needed cabinet work. His diverse collecting tastes include crystal sets, 1920 battery

Smallest Uniform Frequency Condenser Easily Fits Into Present Sets

FULL size illustration above shows Samson Condensers are but $2\frac{3}{8}$ " diameter with plates fully extended—half to a third the size of others.

You can easily increase the selectivity of your present receiving set having ordinary condensers, and do away with the crowding of station readings—where 85 out of 100 come in below 50 on dial—by using

Samson Uniform Frequency Condensers

Samson Uniform Frequency Condensers are built to a tolerance of 1/1,000 inch, silver plated all over for high surface conductivity, and—in addition—have gold plated rotor and stator plates to prevent oxidation.

These grounded rotor type instruments have losses lower than the average laboratory standards. This condenser, due to its design does not have the defects caused by either solid metal or dielectric end plates. 500 mmf., $7.00; 350 mmf., $6.75; 250 mmf., $6.50.

More on Call Letters

BY AL GERMOND

Scott Killgore's article "Call Letter Meanings" (A.R.C. February 1995, page 7) and the article "More on Call Letters" (A.R.C. April 1996, page 17) have generated much response. Al Germond responded in detail, but we have also compiled some additions by others into the following article. (Editor)

The "B-C-N" in WBCN (104.1, Boston) more than likely stands for "Boston" Concert Network, rather than "Broadcast" Concert Network, (as suggested in A.R.C., April 1996, p. 17). WBCN was originally part of a network of four FM stations owned by Concert Network, Inc., 171 Newbury St., Boston, controlled by the late T. Mitchell Hastings, Jr., pioneer manufacturer of FM-only automobile receivers. By 1959, the four Concert Network stations — WBCN, WXCN (101.5, Providence), WHCN (105.9, Hartford) and WNCN (104.3, New York) — were linked in a unique off-the-air classical music network.

The "B," "H," and "N" in the calls definitely connect with the respective cities of license. While WPCN would have been available for the Providence affiliate, I speculate it was avoided to prevent confusion with WPFM (95.5), another Providence station. Hastings was also an applicant for a Trenton, N. J., frequency but dropped out of that proceeding.

Programming originated in Boston and was picked up in Providence via off-air relay. Hartford then rebroadcast the WXCN signal while WNCN received the WHCN signal from antennae on the roof of the Hotel Pierre, where the 104.3 MHz transmitter was located.

The New York relay ended in July 1962, when WHBI, Newark, began occupying 105.9, effectively blocking co-channel reception from Hartford. The respective stations were eventually sold, and the current occupant of 104.3 in New York was sold for $90 million.

Hastings manufactured a high quality FM tuner designed for automobiles starting in 1954, and later marketed a 1-tube portable earphone FM receiver employing slope-detection known as the Hastings FM Junior. It was panned by Consumer Reports for lack of sensitivity and low audio quality.

WABC – WCBS – WNBC

The call letters WABC have an interesting history with relevant connections to receiver manufacturing and two radio networks. The earliest use of the WABC moniker was with short-lived, low-power stations in Anderson, Indiana, and Asheville, North Carolina. The latter station, with 20 watts, was licensed to the Asheville Battery

Company, hence the A-B-C connection.

WABC's first metropolitan use was with A.H. Grebe, the pioneer receiver manufacturer. In early 1924, Grebe appeared before Arthur Batcheller, New York's chief radio inspector. Seeking a time-division agreement with WGBS, owned by the Gimbel Bros. Department Store, for the use of 316 meters (950 kHz) in the New York area, Grebe succeeded and secured his own initials in the station's call — WAHG.

The station signed on September 22, 1924, during the first Radio World's Fair in the old Madison Square Garden. Power was 500 watts with the transmitter and antenna atop the Grebe plant in Richmond Hill, Queens. Grebe was an early duopoly operator with another fixed station, WBOQ, and two portable facilities — WRMU on the Grebe yacht and WGMU, an early form of automobile boom box.

Late in 1926, Grebe's stations were reorganized in a new corporation — the Atlantic Broadcasting Corp. The officers of the company included Grebe as president, Douglas Rigney, general manager of the Grebe company as vice president, and Leone Faurote, vice president and general manager. The studios and offices moved to Steinway Hall, 113 West 57th Street, and with those changes, WAHG became WABC, effective 7 P.M. December 17, 1926, with an inaugural concert. The transmitter remained at the Grebe factory.

By late 1928, WABC was using a new 5-kilowatt transmitter on Cross Bay Boulevard, Queens, consisting of two 165-foot towers holding a center-fed Marconi antenna. Earlier, the Federal Radio Commission (FRC) had moved WABC to 970 kHz, but its status as a clear channel station was still unclear. The Davis Amendment to the 1927 Dill-White Communications Act forced the FRC to make many changes in its original allocations scheme. Effective November 11, 1928, WABC moved to 860 kHz and became a clear channel station.

At this time, Grebe sold WABC to United Independent Broadcasters, Inc., headed by William S. Paley. In early 1929, WABC became the Columbia Broadcasting System, Inc. Begun as an adjunct to the Columbia Phonograph Co., in 1927, WOR Newark was the network's first New York area affiliate. Paley had tried to buy WOR from its Newark department store owner, Bambergers, but was spurned, and he turned to Grebe.

For much of 1929, because of contracts, Columbia had two New York area affiliates, WOR and WABC, who carried programs on alternate evenings. The rechristened CBS opened its 47-station, coast-to-coast network in January 1929, and built studios at 485 Madison Avenue, which it used until 1964.

CBS had no reason to be embarrassed by its flagship station call letters. WCBS was used by a 100-watt Springfield, Illinois, station denoting Capital Broadcasting Station. Meanwhile, WABC upgraded its clear channel facility to 50 kilowatts with a move to Wayne, New Jersey. This station pioneered the use of the vertical radiator antenna similar to WLW's mast at Mason, Ohio. Although there are references to the organization of an American Broadcasting Company during 1928-29, no such entity appeared to challenge CBS on a national basis until the mid-1940s.

It is well known that the National Broadcasting Company owned the Red And Blue Networks and two New York key stations, WEAf and WJZ. In 1941, the Federal Communications Commission investigated radio networks for possible monopolistic practices and ordered NBC to sell one network and key station. After losing before the Supreme Court in 1943, NBC sold the Blue Network and WJZ to Edward J. Noble, the Lifesaver candy magnate who renamed it the American Broadcasting Company (ABC). Now there was some embarrassing confusion in the New York area.

In August 1946, CBS received FCC permission to adopt the WCBS calls for its New York AM- and FM-owned stations. However, Springfield, Illinois, broadcasters recall a high-powered CBS delegation visiting the Illinois capital and offering favors to the small station calling itself WCBS. The Springfield station adopted the phonetically similar WCVS calls, and WCBS was first used in New York on November 2, 1946, the same day, ironically, that NBC replaced WEAf with WNBC.

Curiously ABC stuck with its own pioneer calls from the Westinghouse days — WJZ — for another six years. In early 1953, the American Broadcasting Co. merged with Paramount Theatres, and on March 1, 1953, WABC was adopted by the network's New York flagships. WJZ moved to Baltimore where it was adopted by Westinghouse's TV station there. Now ABC is part of Disney, but there is no reason to expect a change at WABC, New York.

Even More on Call Letters

The subject of call letters appears to be inexhaustible. The following readers have contributed more information to our archives, and we'll wager that more will come. (Editor)

From Phil Whitney:

I read the article about early station call letters and wonder if perhaps the mention of WOC might be slightly in error as I talked some time ago with a chiropractor who had mentioned that the station, owned by the inventor of chiropractic, had obtained those call letters as identification of the phrase "World Of Chiropractic."

I was also reminded that in 1933, Thomas Stevenson published a radio log of stations then receivable on the broadcast band in the U. S. There were 942 listed stations on the air at the time, but it included stations in Canada, Mexico, and Cuba as well. The two cities with the most stations on the air then were New York and Chicago, with a total of 20 each.

Some of the stations listed were the following: KID in Idaho Falls, Id.; KIT in Yakima, Wash.; KNOW in Austin, Tex.; WHO in Des Moines, Ia.; WOW in Omaha, Neb.; WILL in Urbana, Ill.; WERE in Erie, Pa.; WELL in Battle Creek, Mich.; WHAT in Philadelphia, Pa. By that time the Detroit police station, KOP was off the air. WOW was owned by Woodmen of the World, WMIE represented the Moody Bible Institute, WEVD was owned by the Eugene V. Debs Memorial, WREN broadcast for the Jenny Wren Co., and WCFL was the voice of the Chicago Federation of Labor. Today, WAGE is in Leesburg, Va., and making money.

(Phil Whitney, 214 Carters Ln., Stephens City, VA 22655)

From Chet Gehman:

In those early days when the high-frequency end of the AM Broadcast band ended at 1500 Kc, police radio stations were assigned the next 100 or so Khz. Some radio manufacturers took a few turns off the RF and/or oscillator coils to cover that service, and many receivers had the word "POLICE" printed at the high end of the dial. Later (I believe it was during the late 1930s), police radio was assigned still higher frequencies, and the vacated channels were designated "experimental."

Mechanical scanned TV stations did their thing in the 1.5/1.6 Mhz band, and at least one high frequency station — WZXR — became available in the New York City area. Eventually, the AM BC band was extended to 1.6 MHz and WZXR became WQXR, broadcasting high quality music on 1560 kHz. Today that spot is occupied by WQEW, offering "civilized" old favorite music. Here in northwest Connecticut, I receive a reasonably strong signal from WQEW using a loop antenna, but unfortunately, fading is severe, especially at night.

From David Carson:

First, the call letters WSUI, a station for which I worked for eight years during high school and college, had nothing to do with hog calling. The licensee is the University of Iowa, which was known as the State University of Iowa — SUI — when the call was first acquired. The call WSUI replaced WHAA, which had earlier been assigned by the Department of Commerce.

Second, WABC was the CBS flagship station in New York; there was no connection between this call or station and NBC. Predecessor of the present WABC was NBC's Blue Network flagship, WJZ. The NBC Red Network flagship was WEOF, a call inherited when the station was purchased from American Telephone & Telegraph in 1926. NBC continued to use the call WEOF (Water, Earth, Air, Fire) for a number of years.

(David Carson, HCO1, Box 19A, Long Lake, NY 12847-9704)

From Larry Jordan:

The assertion that WSUI derived its call letters from the familiar hog call is amusing, but I'm not sure its accurate. Since it's a university station, it actually stood for State University of Iowa. If you have any evidence to the contrary, I'd be very interested in knowing of it.

(Larry Jordan, 205 North First St., Panora, IA 50216)

From Clifford Stout:

How happy I was when, as a boy in the mid-1920s, my family moved to Grand Rapids, Michigan, home of radio stations WASH and WOOD. WASH announced the "home of Baxter Laundry Co.," while WOOD announced, "WOOD, Owned & Operated by Walter B. Stiles Lumber Co." The station operated on 1270 Kc at that time, and also shared the time! It is now WOOD 1300 Kc — still popular and active.

(Clifford Stout, 2241 E. Broadway Ave., Muskegon, MI 49444-2505)

From Alton DuBois, Jr.:

In the early 1930s, a radio station opened in White Plains, New York. The station call letters were, and still are, WFAS. It was rumored that the station was set up by manager Frank A Seitz' mother. The station was located in the penthouse atop the Hotel Roger Smith, no longer operating under that name. I know this because when I was a kid in high school, I interviewed Mr. Seitz at his studio for our high school newspaper, as I was the science reporter.

The transmitter was in the next room from his office behind a glass enclosure. It was strictly a utilitarian design, consisting of two vertical pillars between which were heavy phenolic shelves, where tubes and coils were mounted. The top of this assembly was a huge output coil. Below the tubes on the floor were the power supply and the audio modulation equipment.

After World War II, the station was moved to an outlying area near town, and a new transmitter was built with a large antenna. For a long time, the old transmitter was kept as a standby.

Frank Seitz left in the 1970s to be advisor to the Communications Department of New York University for some years before he died.

(Alton DuBois, Jr., 67 Peggy Ann Rd., Queensbury, NY 12804)

From Stan Lopes:

Those who are really interested in call letter slogans, might look to the book by Tom Kneitel called Radio Station Treasury, CRB Research, P.O. Box 56, Commack, NY 11725, if it is still in print.

A few of the meanings or slogans starting in 1926 are as follows:

KPRC Kotten Port Rail Center, Houston, Texas
KTHS Kum To Hot Springs, Hot Springs National Park, Arkansas

KVOO The Voice Of Oklahoma
KWKC Keep Watching Kansas City
WDBO Way Down in Orlando
WDOD Wonderful Dynamo Of Dixie
WTIC The Insurance City, Hartford, Conn.
WLBL Wisconsin Land of Beautiful Lakes, Madison, Wisc.

There are hundreds more, plus a chronological coverage of all radio station licenses for those interested, along with historical information from day one including trivia like the inventor Mahlon Loomis of Washington, D.C., who built an antenna in the Blue Ridge Mountains of Virginia for transmission of communications without wires — before Guglielmo Marconi was even born! His patent #129,971 by the U.S. Patent Office is probably the actual invention of radio.

(Stan Lopes, 1201-77 Monument Blvd., Concord, CA 94520)

From Joe Papovich:

While I was in Fairbanks, Alaska, I heard KFAR Fairbanks, Alaska. (Key for Alaska's Riches). Here in the Delaware Valley we have — WIP (Watch Its Progress), and WWDR (We Work Dollar Better).

(J.J. Papovich, 53 Magnolia Ave., Pitman, NJ 08071)

From Charles Mooney:

I enclose a list of some of the stations and their owners from the year 1926 — some unusual, some well known and perhaps a few unknown to many. The log — Andrews Radio Log, published by Wayne Andrews Co., Oklahoma City, Okla., 4th edition, 2/5/1926 — also lists wavelength in meters and kilocycles and watts of each station. I found this 15-page, 9 x 5 1/2-inch booklet in excellent condition a couple of years ago in an antique shop in Frederick, Maryland:

The Russian Red Star 54

BY RAY BINTLIFF COMPILED FROM INFORMATION PROVIDED BY SABINO FINO, RICHARD FOSTER, J.C. LACROUTS, ROGER MULLARKEY, AND DANIEL SCHWARTZMAN

One thing often leads to another in the course of A.R.C.'s pursuit of radio information. You may remember a picture of a Russian radio in the March 1995 Photo Review. Mike Hackett, the radio's owner, was requesting more information about the set. Soon after, the responses began to come in.

THE RED STAR

The first response came from reader Dr. Dan Schwartzman who described a similar, if not identical, radio that he had received as a gift from some colleagues while on a medical exchange program in Russia. His radio is marked "Zvezda 54," which translates as "Star 54."

A Red Star 54 is shown in Figure 1, with a rear view in Figure 2. A close-up shot of the radio's tube location diagram appears as Figure 3. Schwartzman also pointed out that a similar radio, identified as a "Red Star," ca. 1954, appears on page 177 of the first edition of Scott Wood's Evolution of the Radio, Volume 1.

Schwartzman describes his radio as follows: "The radio is painted in a red and black, snake-skin-type, lacquer finish. The dial glass is mirrored and back-painted with yellow trim. There are 5 bands, with long wave, middle wave, and shortwave, plus individual bands for 25-32 meters, and 41-50 meters. In minute letters are written the names of 24 cities of the Soviet Union from Alma Ata to Voronezh, all in Cyrillic, of course.

"There are 7 tubes, including tuning eye, with most in octal configuration. The tubes are all Soviet types, with no direct equivalent in U.S. or European types. One Soviet tube is marked "6A7," but it is not the same as our Type 6A7.

"Luckily, my set played after some capacitors were changed; however, the reception is a little bit insensitive, although the volume is adequate."

Schwartzman goes on to say that, although dirty, his set was intact when he received it, and the Masonite back shows instructions printed in Russian. The set was already wired for either 220 or 110 volts, with an adaptor plug in place on the back.

He scraped some Russian children's dinosaur stickers off the side and cleaned the finish with automobile polish. The results were fairly good. When the set is turned on, a lamp glows behind the big red plastic star, which is on the top front of the set.

Since returning from Russia, Schwartzman has received a little more information about his Zvezda 54. Apparently, it is extremely rare in Russia, as it was very expensive — the cost was about one month's salary for the average worker. Only those with the economic status of Communist Party supervisors could afford to own one.

While in Elektrostal, he received a more conventional combination phonograph and multiband radio as a gift also, and this is in working condition. In people's apartments, he saw several other older radios, and they closely resembled "knock-offs" of typical German table radios of the late 1940s and 1950s.

He would appreciate hearing from anyone with access to older Soviet vacuum tubes.

EUROPEAN INPUT

Next, Sabino Fina of Avellino, Italy, also identified the radio as a Red Star 54. He provided a schematic diagram of the radio and a cross-reference of Russian and American tube types.

From his information, we concluded that the the Red Star 54 is a 5-band, 7-tube radio with two speakers. The American equivalents of the Russian tube complement are a 6SA7 mixer-oscillator, a 6SG7 IF amplifier, a 6AL5 detector, a 6AK5 AF amplifier, a 6AQ5 audio output, a 6E5 tuning eye, and a 6X4 rectifier. The radio operates on either 110 or 220 VAC and uses an IF frequency of 465 kHz.

The schematic diagram calls for a 6BA6 American equivalent as the IF amplifier, while the tube location chart for Schwartzman's radio indicates that a 6AK5 equivalent is used in that function.

FRENCH ANCESTRY

From Richard Foster and Roger Mullarkey, we learned that the Red Star radios were very similar to some French radios. Then, Foster tapped some of his European sources and provided a wealth of information about these French radios.

THE SNR EXCELSIOR MODELS

The Société Nouvelle de Radiophone (SNR) Excelsior Models 52 and 55 were made in France in the early 1950s. These luxurious-looking radios, shown in Figure 4 and 5, came in metal cases and were available in six different colors, including a 2-tone green with a lizard-skin pattern.

The magazine Toute la Radio for May 1951 carried an advertisement for the Model 52. The pictured radio's exterior appears to be identical to the Red Star radios. However, the chassis and tube complements are quite different.

The Model 52 is a 5-tube, 5-band radio that tunes the long-wave, medium-wave, and short-wave bands, as well as the 25-26-meter and 46.5-51-meter bands. An export version of the Model 52 covered the medium-wave band and four shortwave bands.

The Model 52 used the "rimlock" series of tubes, which resemble American miniatures with an added metal base. This metal base snaps into the socket shell. The rimlock tube types are an ECH42 mixer/oscillator, an EF41 IF, an EBC41 detector, an EL41 audio output and a GZ40 rectifier. In the same order, the American equivalents are the following: Types 6CU7, 6CJ5, 6CV7, and 6CK5. There does not seem to be an American equivalent of the GZ40.

Evidently, schematic diagrams for the SNR radios were never published.

WHICH CAME FIRST?

From the dates cited for the Red Star and the

SNR radio, it appears that the French radios were the first to be produced and that the Red Star was a Russian copy, possibly issued under a licensing arrangement. Since the Russians copied automobiles and other products (even locomotives), it is quite likely that they drew heavily from the design of the French radios. It is also likely that they substituted Soviet tube types for the French tubes but retained the French radio's cabinet design.

Radio Broadcast Quiz Answers — Part 2

REPORTED BY DAVE CROCKER

Radio Quiz Part 2 (A.R.C., April 1996) seems to have caused as much consternation as Part 1, which appeared in the July 1995 issue. However, several intrepid sleuths persisted and got over 30 of the 42 answers. Top scorer was Harry Blesy who calls himself "a nostalgia freak," and suggested that the quiz should perhaps be called a "Radio-TV Quiz."

The top scorer of Part 1 was Tony Verdi, who also did well on this one, as did Gus Stellwag and Bill and Wayne Miedema. Gus once again tried to resist getting involved, but "after almost driving off the New York State Thruway dreaming about old radio shows," he succumbed to the challenge and sent in his answers. He also retaliated with a quiz of his own, which we will publish at a later date. Dave Crocker beware!

Remember that Part 2 also included #36 and #37, which had been omitted from Part 1.

PHOTO REVIEW

This column presents in pictorial form many of the more unusual radios, speakers, tubes, advertising, and other old radio-related items from our readers' collections. The photos are meant to help increase awareness of what's available in the radio collecting hobby. Send in any size photos from your collection. Photos must be sharp in detail, contain a single item, and preferably have a light-colored background. A short, descriptive paragraph MUST be included with each photo. Please note that receipt of photos is not acknowledged, publishing is not guaranteed, and photos are not returned.

RCA MODEL 9X – A 1939 midget set, this radio measures approximately 5" high x 7½" wide x 4" deep. It uses a 4-tube chassis with a line cord resistor. Although this set is quite handsome in wood, its Catalin mates are more highly valued. (Robert Bailey – Jacksonville, FL)

FADA MODEL 845 – This beautiful marbled white Catalin with red knobs and handle was given to me by a man who had stored it in a garage attached to his chicken coop. When I received it, the color was a dirty yellow, and it looked like a parts unit until I cleaned it up with gentle liquid soap. (Carl Kalmbacker – Newark, DE)

ROLY-POLY ART DECO MODEL RP8 SPEAKER

This poly-planar speaker was manufactured by the ERA Acoustics Corp. of Moonachie, N. J., ca. 1960. This 8-inch round speaker, rated at 20 watts with an impedance of 4-8 ohms, has an overall depth of 1¼". The reproducer "cone" is a planar diaphragm (flat disc) made of rigid polyfoam, and it is driven by a voice-coil type of transducer. The enclosure is a 24" x 18" x 1½"-deep picture frame, deep enough to house the speaker. The baffle is covered with an oil-on-canvas painting, which makes the speaker ornate as well as functional. (Richard Bartle – Hollister, CA)

WESTERN ELECTRIC MODEL 517W – This rather crudely made, black painted brass horn speaker has a bell diameter of $5\frac{1}{2}$ " , with an overall height of $16\frac{1}{4}$ ". Note the two small holes on both sides of the bell mouth. The decal at the top of the base identifies the horn. I'm seeking more information, which can be forwarded to A.R.C. (Ed Bell – Raleigh, NC)

ERICSSON CRYSTAL SET, BRITISH – Made by the L.M. Ericsson Mfg. Co., Ltd., this 1924 circular Bakelite crystal set is only 3" in diameter. Note the post office registration number at the bottom. (Jim Taylor – Winton-Bournemouth, England)

TASMA MODEL 1001 – This 1936 Australian-made Bakelite radio has an AC chassis that requires 240 volts. It uses 4 tubes —Types 6A8, EBF2, EL3, and 5Y3. The set operates on four bands. (Keith Dennison – Victory Mills, NY)

BUSH MODEL AC3, BRITISH – This fine example of cathedral radio design was manufactured in 1932 by Bush Radio, Ltd. A TRF set and Bush's first receiver, it measures 18 " x $13\frac{1}{2}$ " x 9 ". (Jim Taylor – Winton-Bournemouth, England)

RESTORATION TOPICS

The Echophone EC-1: An Easy Restoration

BY RAY BINTLIFF, K1YDG

The Echophone Commercial, Model EC-1, was first produced in 1940 by Hallicrafters and priced at $19.95 as a low-priced alternative to the Hallicrafters line of radios. At the time, the Sky Buddy was Hallicrafters' lowest priced receiver at $29.50. After a quick look at the EC-1, it becomes apparent how Hallicrafters achieved the low price. The radio is a no-frills AC/DC set. However, the radio's performance is better than you might expect.

ELECTRICAL RESTORATION

As found, the EC-1, shown in Figure 1, produced only a loud hum. This problem was easily solved by replacing the 2-section tubular filter capacitor. Next, the paper capacitors were tested, and all but one were found to have excessive leakage. Ironically, the good capacitor was a previous replacement, but of the wrong value, so it was also replaced.

The stick-type carbon resistors were all within tolerance except for a 20 megohm unit that had drifted up in value. More good news — all of the tubes looked good in the tube tester. Only the dial lamp needed replacement.

The radio's line cord was original but had a replacement plug, so again I opted for replacement but with a slight difference. Since the radio is an AC/DC set with one side of the AC line connected to the chassis, I selected a replacement line cord with a polarized plug and made sure that the neutral side of the line was connected to the chassis. With a non-polarized plug (both contacts of the same size), you run a 50-50 chance of plugging in the radio with the hot side of the line connected to the chassis and thus a potential shock hazard. Mercifully, the radio's metal cabinet is insulated from the chassis, but the possibility of electrical shock from the chassis still exists.

I also made a change to the AC switch wiring. As built, the EC-1 has the AC switch wired from one side of the AC line to the chassis. The other side of the AC line connects to the string of tube filaments. I rewired the circuit by connecting the neutral AC lead to the chassis and connecting the AC switch in series with the "hot" side of the AC line and the start of the filament string.

A few ohmmeter checks of critical circuit locations and the radio was ready to be fired up.

THE SMOKE TEST

The moment of truth had arrived — the radio was switched on. Whoopee! No smoke and the radio played. However, the volume control, main tuning and bandspread tuning produced scratching sounds. A few squirts of tuner cleaner and all was well. The radio sounded great, and I made a mental note to perform an alignment later and perhaps improve its performance a bit.

COSMETICS

Fortunately, the EC-1 was in good condition cosmetically. There were no significant paint chips or scratches, and all the correct knobs were in place. Only the rear cover was missing, (another good reason to use that polarized AC line plug). But as you would expect to find in a 55-year-old radio, the interior of the radio, including the dial scale, was loaded with dust. No sweat, just pull the chassis and go to work, right? Wrong. The slide switches that control the BFO, standby and phones/speaker functions are riveted to the front of the cabinet but wired to the chassis. So it was necessary to unsolder the ten wires that connect to these switches — more of a nuisance than a major task.

The removal of dust and grime went quite well. The careful use of an air-hose sped up the process and produced excellent results. After it had been cleaned with a damp cloth, the dial scale turned out to be a nice ivory color, not a dingy beige. One note of caution about cleaning dial scales. Some dials do not stand up well during cleaning, and it is a real stomach-churner to see the dial markings disappear along with the dirt. So, try plain water or mild soap and water before getting out the heavy duty stuff or alcohol. Also, first test your cleaning material on some inconspicuous part of the dial. To Hallcrafters' credit, the dial markings on the EC-1 are very durable and consist of black enamel silk-screening on an ivory-colored painted metal plate.

Likewise, the front panel markings are silk-screened white enamel on a dark gray panel. Even after a detergent and water bath, the markings still looked yellow and grimy. So, with great care, I tried Fantastik household cleaner. It worked and the panel markings proved to be "bullet-proof."

One not-so-great feature of the EC-1 is its top-mounted speaker. After the removal of the speaker and speaker grille, a thick layer of dust on the speaker cone proved the folly of such a design.

ABOUT THE EC-1

As stated above, the EC-1 is an AC/DC set of simple design. It uses 6 tubes: a 12K8 mixer/oscillator, a 12SK7 IF amplifier, a 12SQ7 detector/AVC/1st AF amplifier, a 35L6GT audio output, a 12J5 BFO and a 35Z5GT rectifier. It tunes from 0.55 to 30 megacycles in three bands. It features electrical bandspread tuning with a bandspread scale of 0 to 100. In addition to a volume control/power on-off switch, its operating controls consist of a standby switch, a phones/speaker switch and a BFO on-off switch that also disables AVC in the BFO-ON position. These inexpensive slide switches are not as convenient as toggle switches, but they help to keep the price down. The ear-phone tip jacks are located on the rear of the chassis and oddly enough they are labeled "PHONO." Antenna and ground connections are also located on the rear of the chassis.

In most higher-priced short-wave receivers, the BFO frequency is adjustable by a front panel control. As a cost-saving measure, Hallicrafters chose to make this a rear panel screw-driver adjustment.

REFLECTIONS

Was this little low-end receiver worth the time and effort to restore? I think so. It may not be a Super Skyrider, but the EC-1 is a very interesting receiver that was designed for entry-level short-wave listeners. Who knows how many careers and lifelong interests in electronics were sparked by the EC-1 and subsequent Echophone models.

The radio's simple design and small size made the restoration task very easy. If you are looking for an uncomplicated restoration project, this kind of radio may be the one for you. An EC-1 or similar radio may have a particular appeal for collectors with an urge to restore a radio for the first time. Why not give it a try?

VINTAGE TEST EQUIPMENT

Vintage Tube Testers — Part 7 Problems and Repairs

BY ALAN S. DOUGLAS

This is the seventh in a series of Alan Douglas' articles on vintage tube testers. For easy reference, the previous articles appeared in the July, October and December 1995 issues, and in the March, June and September 1996 issues. (Editor)

Maybe I've just been "lucky" or perhaps owned too many tube testers, but I've seen some odd problems. Old test gear is somewhat like a pet — lots of fun to have around, but if you aren't prepared to deal with trouble you might prefer a ceramic lawn ornament.

CORROSION-RELATED PROBLEMS

My military I-177 was prone to poor contacts in the push-button switches, but that's easy to fix. You should spend some time with toothpicks, cotton and DeOxit anyway when you acquire a new instrument (just clean the contacts, don't douse the whole switch). I don't recall ever having any spats with my Hickok 6000A, which was only two years old when I bought it.

But I was being set up for a fall. I bought my Hickok KS 15750 L1 through a newspaper ad for $20. It looked gorgeous, and has become my most used tester, but I've had numerous problems with it, all corrosion-related. Maybe the Cuyahoga River backed up into the Hickok factory that day, I don't know. (The Cuyahoga was so polluted then that it once caught fire).

Three wire-wound resistors had opened, and not all had marked values. Fortunately, someone at the factory responded to my request for service and calibration data. The moving coil of the micromho meter was open, which I fixed by resoldering one end (under a binocular microscope!). Later, the bias meter did about the same thing after working intermittently for several years — its balance staff corroded through and fell off. One electrolytic had been installed backward. If this tester weren't so heavy, I'd probably have thrown it through a window long ago.

My Weston 686 10A analyzer was a gift and therefore not subject to dental checkup. Aside from its size and weight — as befits a horse — it had one major defect. Its screen voltage was controlled by a wire-wound pot, a 200-watt 20K Ohmite with microscopically fine wire windings which had opened up.

Buying a replacement was financially out of the question, so I made one from a 37-step attenuator switch and individual wire-wound resistors. The steps are a bit coarse, but it works fairly well, considering. I recently saw a World War II vintage OD-4 made by Weston for sale with both plate and screen pots open, so caveat emptor.

My TV3B, a gift from a friend who found it for $5 at a flea market, had a sticky meter, four open wire-wound resistors, and a bent panel. Careful inspection revealed a tiny metallic flake in the meter gap, which I removed, and the resistors were either repaired or replaced, but the tester still doesn't work.

MODIFICATIONS

At an Antique Wireless Association flea market years back, I found a Hickok 539C, bought originally by NASA in 1966, with a $20 price tag. I went around it in ever-smaller circles — asking why do I need a fourth tube tester — but I just couldn't leave it there. So it followed me home, and if nothing else, has kept my KS 15750 honest.

Recently when I went to use the 539C, it didn't perk, and I found the line-test rheostat had opened up (it sure helps to have a big junk box). I also noticed that the NASA boys had replaced the Type 83 rectifier with a Type 5U4, and had altered the meter shunts a little; at least they left careful notes inside about what they had done. I changed the socket back to a 4-pin and plugged in a Type 83 (a 5U4 has too much voltage drop).

Then there were the two TV7s, purchased in "checked" condition, but needing further work nonetheless. The TV7B, a Hickok from 1957, had a wrong fuse lamp installed (it should be a No. 81, 6V auto lamp), and its copper-oxide line-test rectifier fell apart. I squeezed the metal holder a little tighter and slid the rectifier elements back in.

The TV7, made by Supreme in 1953, had a pair of 1K resistors in its line-test circuit that had increased to 1.5K and 1.9K, throwing the calibration off. Rather than fix that, some past tech had replaced another precision resistor with a pot and twiddled it until everything worked (for a while). Also the 4-, 5-, and 6-pin sockets, made by National and the finest that money could buy, were still too tight to accept tube pins, and I finally had to ream them out with twist drills (aargh).

Finally, my otherwise nice $45 TV2 had its share of meter problems. The signal meter was a badly done replacement, and the (hermetically-sealed) screen voltmeter had magically increased its sensitivity by 10 percent. Spare meters are available, with a little searching, for all the military models. Increasing the external multiplier resistor by 10 percent "fixed" the screen meter; screen voltage affects the Gm readings quite a lot, so it is worth checking.

CALIBRATION

Here are some Hickok calibration procedures not covered earlier. Once the main Gm range is calibrated, the remaining ranges can be tested by using a Type 6L6 tube as a transfer standard. Vary the bias control until the 6L6 reads 3000 micromhos, and then switch to the higher ranges and see if the reading changes. This method is recommended in the TV7 manual, but I would use it cautiously, as it is valid only for identical grid and plate voltages from one range to the next.

For the 600 Gm range, if your tester has one, the position of the hum-balancing pot across the 83 filament is critical, and this pot may also need resetting if the 83 is replaced with a pair of silicon diodes. For what it's worth, the KS 15750 calibration of the 600 Gm range calls for a 6-volt AC source and 11,530 ohms of series resistance (not 12K). With a 1-volt grid signal, this works out to 500 micromhos.

If your tester has VOM functions, you can adjust the meter to indicate properly on the DC voltage and current ranges, rather than puzzle out the tube-tester circuitry. You could even replace a defective meter; a 20,000 ohms-per-volt VOM must (by Ohm's Law) use a 50-microamp movement. Other Hickoks may use less sensitive meters; the KS 125750, for instance, uses a 120-microamp meter.

METER REPAIR

One common problem with meters is sticky pointers. This is usually caused by a corrosion particle lodged in the magnet gap, which can be removed by a sliver of masking tape worked up and down. Obviously this takes some care, as it is especially important not to bend the hairsprings or to dislodge the balance weights, but it can be done. Masking tape will also remove the bits of steel wool that a meter magnet can seemingly attract from interstellar distances.

Radio Rex

BY ALAN S. DOUGLAS

Not T. for Tyrannosaurus Rex, but Radio Rex. This popular toy, shown in Figure 1, appeared in 1922, though the paper label lists several patents to one H.C. Berger as far back as 1913. The doghouse pictured is wooden; later ones were lithographed tin or cardboard. Rex himself is hollow celluloid, like a ping-pong ball.

A spring-loaded paddle inside kicks Rex out of his doghouse when the battery current to an electromagnet is interrupted; this occurs when a loose contact on the side of the house is jarred by a loud sound. To operate, carefully latch the paddle, place Rex inside his house, call "Here, Rex," and clap your hands.

The National Toy Company (later to drop the "toy" part and to be led to radio fame by Jim Millen) had a patent on a mechanical version of Rex the Wonder Dog, devised by National's president William Ready in 1918. Figure 2 shows his patent, filed March 18, 1918, and granted on September 16, 1919.

Thanks to Dr. Ed Taylor for some of this history.

COLLECTOR PROFILE

The Dino Gianni Collection — Milan, Italy

BY VIC FRANZONI AND ROBERT LOZIER, JR.

Robert Lozier had the pleasure of seeing a large portion of the radio collection of Dino Gianni in 1987. Recently Robert's friend, Vic Franzoni, who lives in northern Italy, sent Robert the following collector profile on Dino Gianni. The photos accompanying this article give just a small hint of the quality and extent of Mr. Gianni's collection. (Editor)

Stimulated by memories of his youth when, to keep himself out of mischief, he built crystal sets for his friends and relatives, Dino Gianni seriously started collecting in 1957. His collection is now considered to be one of the top, if not the top, radio collections in Italy.

The quantity of material thus far collected is simply enormous. All of the most significant pieces have been fully restored by Gianni himself or a Mr. Calderara. The apparatus is located in two large rooms in different buildings which are kept at a constant temperature and humidity. The remaining material (sets under restoration, duplicates kept for swapping, loose components, stocks of very old valves) is kept in four storage rooms just under his residence.

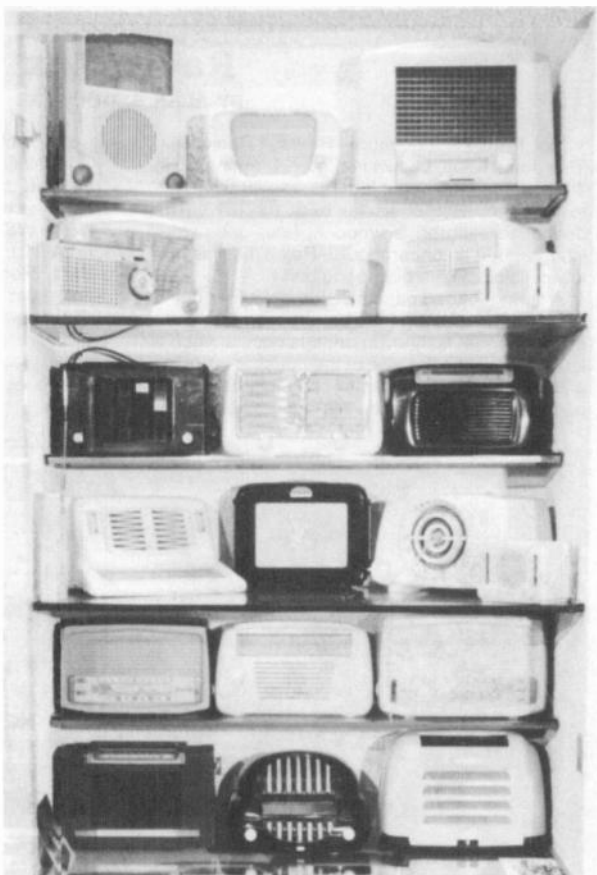

In the display areas are found 123 factory-made crystal sets, 30 or more early European receivers and amplifiers with externally mounted valves, 35 sets in cathedral style cabinets, 120 various other table model sets of the 1930s, and 150 console radios and radio/phonographs. All the important makes of portable radios, transistor sets and novelty radios are well represented.

The Gianni collection may be called an "anthology" of radio. Although Gianni's main interest is in broadcast sets, he cannot neglect the military equipment because of its great role in the development of radio during the Libyan war of 1911, World War I, and World War II when great improvements were made.

You will find military spark transmitters and crystal sets of the very early years as well as the advanced German receivers of World War II. His most treasured military item is an Enigma coding machine.

To cover the entire history of radio, one section of the museum is dedicated to the range of apparatus from which radio was born. He calls it "Radio Prehistory" where devices such as electrostatic machines, early batteries in glass jars, coherers, Leyden jars and complete equipment layouts for various telegraph stations are displayed.

His collection of apparatus is complemented by a wide selection of early technical books, documents, magazines and advertising ephemera.

In view of the range of equipment thus far collected, it is becoming more and more difficult to find new items that will fit well in the collection. The best collectible vintage equipment is very scarce and extremely expensive, (much more so than in the U. S.). Therefore, without losing sight of his main interests, Gianni is now looking to increase his holdings of scientific instruments that were the precursors of radio equipment as well as to find more equipment made by the various Marconi companies.

Gianni has been a radio amateur for years, and his call is I2HNX. He occasionally works 20 meters but is more often on 2 meters and 440 MHz. His passion for collecting the vintage gear leaves little time for ham radio these days.

Gianni is well known among the serious vintage radio collectors of Europe. He always travels to the great radio meets held in Riquewihl and Bar le Duc, France, and Friednshaten, Germany. He holds membership in the AWA; GFGF (Germany); AIE, CHCR, Amis de Guglielmo Marconi (France) and is an advisor and treasurer of AIRE, the Italian association for vintage radio enthusiasts. He loans his equipment for public exhibition and will be helping to mount a special exhibition of Marconi equipment this year.

Dino, a civil engineer, is the director of a building construction company. He is active in the construction of new homes and smaller commercial buildings, as well as in the restoration and reconstruction of old historical buildings.

BOOK REVIEW

The Radio Collector's Guide to Philco Bakelite Block Condensers, By Ray Bintliff

REVIEWED BY RON RAMIREZ

To anyone who has ever attempted restoration of a Philco radio made between 1930 and 1938, the uniqueness of Philco Bakelite block condensers becomes immediately evident. At times, the Bakelite blocks have either been bridged by replacements or completely removed from the set and replaced by terminal strips and new capacitors.

In The Radio Collector's Guide to Philco Bakelite Block Condensers, Ray Bintliff has expanded greatly on my article in A.R.C., October 1989, page 8. He has added much information and included very helpful charts.

The book opens with a brief history of Philco Bakelite blocks, first used in Philco's new June 1930 line, which included Models 30, 41, 77, 96, and 296. By 1935, Philco had begun using conventional cardboard tube condensers to some extent in its sets. This transition increased over the next few years, since by 1939, Philco sets included only one Bakelite block — the AC line filter condensers.

Ray describes the two general styles of Bakelite blocks — the standard style, which he prefers to call the "miscellaneous" style, and the universal style. The standard condensers usually only have two or three terminals, although a few used more than three. The universal style condensers all have six terminals, along with a seventh grounding lug in some.

Ray goes on to explain Philco's part numbers for its Bakelite blocks and the significance of the suffixes used in the part numbers. For example, Part No. 3793-DG signifies a universal block with two .015 uF condensers inside, one lead of each condenser being connected to the seventh grounding lug.

Philco service bulletins and parts catalogs giving specifications for its Bakelite blocks were used in compiling the information in the book, as were other sources such as service manuals. Ray has gone to a lot of trouble compiling this information into extremely useful chart form, listing all 343 known Bakelite blocks by part number and referencing the next section, which gives drawings of all known Bakelite blocks showing the internal wiring of each. Finally, the book has another chart cross-referencing the over 100 drawings to Philco Bakelite block part numbers.

Not all of the Philco Bakelite block part numbers have corresponding drawings in Ray's book. He explains that complete specifications for all the part numbers were unavailable, and some information could not be confirmed. However, the most widely used and most popular Bakelite blocks can be found.

Various techniques of removing the old condensers (and the occasional resistor) from the Bakelite blocks are discussed. Many modern capacitors are small enough to fit easily inside the Bakelite block once it has been gutted. For the few Bakelite blocks that have a resistor inside, resistors are just as easy to replace.

This is an excellent book that has been needed for a long time and no doubt will find a place near every radio restorer's workbench. It is well worth the $9.95 price and should be considered a must for anyone who does work on Philco sets of the 1930s.

The Radio Collector's Guide to Philco Bakelite Block Condensers, first published in 1994, is now in its second edition. Softbound in an 8½" x 11" format and containing 56 pages, the book is available from A.R.C. and A.R.C. advertisers. Be sure to check with these suppliers for ordering and shipping information.

RADIO MISCELLANEA

"Antique Radio Classified" invites its readers to contribute letters and information for inclusion in "Radio Miscellanea" and elsewhere in the magazine. "In The Marketplace" is based on information submitted by the businesses themselves. All topics should be of general interest and sent to A.R.C., P.O. Box 2, Carlisle, MA 01741. All material submitted should be verified for accuracy and may be edited for publication, which is not guaranteed. See the masthead for more details.

More on Soldering

Dear Editor:

In the August issue of A.R.C., there are several pages about soldering. However, there was nothing about litz wire. I know it's not a project for greenhorns, especially if there are several hundred strands, as on my world's largest (?) crystal set. At over 300 strands, I stopped counting, and I think I got 100 percent of the wires soldered.

Seventy years ago, I did soldering the hard way with a small iron, which I poked into the grate of Mom's wood-fired stove. I heated the iron up and was in business. Dad used a gasoline blow torch to heat his big irons.

My first electric iron was a 115-volt one, which I re-wound for 32 volts, as we had a Delco 32-volt system. We are on R.E.A. now and have a number of irons, from 30 to 300 watts.

To do a good job of soldering is not as easy as electric welding. Metal can be welded with the rust on. But to solder, the surface must be spotless. It's possible to solder steel using rosin flux, provided the surface is spotless and soldered as soon as possible. Otherwise, the surface tends to heal over.

H. Eitz, Juniata, NE

The Many Routes to A.R.C.

How people find the road to A.R.C. is always interesting. We recently had a phone call from Barry Young of Hancock, Maine, who has a German radio for which he needs parts. He called the Boston German consulate for advice. They referred him to the California German consulate, who referred him to the Bavarian Radio Works near Boston, who referred him to us. A roundabout route is better than no route at all! (Editor)

A.R.C. Ads Sell!

Dear Editor:

I would like to report on the results of my recent ad in the October issue. I sold the Radiola III, the Crosley, dozens of tubes, the Chanalyst, the scope, several years of magazines, and the Majestic sign. I also received 12 letters requesting my magazine listings. I even sold items that were not listed because buyers came from as far as 150 miles away to pick up the items.

Needless to say, I am well satisfied and wish that I had "put my shoulder to the wheel" and advertised months — yes, years ago!

Edward Scribner, Schoharie, NY

Ten Years of A.R.C.

Dear Editor:

I'm thirty-two years old, and it's been ten years of A.R.C. A.R.C. has often made my day! Thanks.

Vincent Tutula, Baltimore, MD

Don't Mess With Damaged Goods!

Dear Editor:

Buyers should be warned that if purchased equipment is not received in the expected condition — don't mess with it! This is the time to let the other party know of the problem. Don't repair or claim to have fixed something before the sender knows what you plan to do.

The receiving party does not have the right (in my opinion) to repair something and expect to get reimbursed unless the sender has agreed to this action beforehand. UPS won't pay claims on something that has been fixed unless they have proof that it was broken. If you fix something before letting the sender know, then the cost of repairs will be up to you.

Sellers, be sure to document your shipping and sales details. If shipping radios, take lots of pictures. When shipping TVs, be sure to take pictures of working screens, if you are selling them as working.

One major point — always be truthful, and take that extra time to make sure everybody is satisfied.

Mark Minks, Liberal, KS

Thanks for reminding A.R.C. readers of this recurring issue. Note that the A.R.C. advertising policy states "...and to comply with a buyer's refund request on unaltered returned items." (Editor)

KTRK — 1670 on Your AM Dial

Dear Editor:

As if one new station (WJDM) in the "expanded" AM band isn't enough, now there are two! Military station KTRK has conducted test broadcasts at 1670 kHz of the Tactical AM Broadcast Service from a temporary location at Fort Meade, Maryland. These broadcasts are intended to try out the system before it is deployed to Bosnia. The call letters, apparently "borrowed" from a U.S. TV station, stand for "truck," indicating how the station will get around.

You never know what what you'll find for music during these broadcasts, as I heard almost everything from "metal" to "50s do-wop" in the span of just a few hours. Like the WJDM tests, there are no commercials.

The station is encouraging anyone who receives a signal at a distance greater than 50 miles from Washington, D.C., or Baltimore, Maryland, to send in a "DX" report stating the time, listening location, and the quality of the sound. The letters "DX" should be written on the envelope addressed to: A.B.S., Room 340, 601 N. Fairfax St., Alexandria, VA 22314.

A.R.C. Flies the Friendly Skies

Dear Editor:

Antique Radio Classified sure is a good way to shorten long airline flights! I took an issue with me on a business trip to Germany and the time flew. Having both A.R.C. and Electric Radio along was also a conversation starter.

Recovery and preservation of the equipment's last known electrical integrity must be accomplished using gentle resurrection/restoration techniques and practices, and will be the responsibility of the buyer(s). The seller welcomes and encourages prospective buyers to perform (or have performed) visual inspections of equipment. Specific equipment that is offered and that typifies equipment condition is depicted on the cover of the world's largest antique tube supplier's 1996 catalogue (SX-88, SS-1R, KWM-1).

Best Acceptable Offers Will Secure Equipment. Packaging and shipping will (generally) be the responsibility of the purchaser. Inspection of the equipment by the purchaser or his delegate(s) is welcomed and will be arranged for mutual convenience. Availability of equipment is subject to prior sale (first acceptable offer). Commitment of offer and acceptance of offer will be conducted by fax only and will be considered as binding. Payments must be in U.S.$, in the form of certified cashier's check or draft. The seller will not divulge to any prospective buyer the nature of any other offers received, nor will he establish any "target" prices.

Hopefully you'll find something in this collection that fulfills your wish list — Allen F. Richmond, W7GIF

ANNOUNCING

Tube Lore

A REFERENCE FOR USERS AND COLLECTORS

By Ludwell Sibley

For serious tube users, collectors, and admirers, a new look into tubes from 1920 to the present: history of design trends, tech data, equivalencies, stocking-up hints, even prices. Here's what it contains:

- Trends in Tube Design - major styles that shaped the industry - acorns, metals, loktals, miniatures and subminiatures, lighthouse, nuvistors, compactrons. Includes odd design variants and special "reliable" types.
- Receiving and Audio Tubes: "prehistoric" types from 25 tiny manufacturers as well as the big guys. Information on a lot of collectible tubes in one place. Basic data on lots of later types not found in ordinary tube handbooks, and early CRTs.
- Special-Purpose and Transmitting Types - covers the familiar ones and lots of unknown types. "Regular" tubes, plus magnetrons, klystrons, thytrons, ignitrons, camera tubes, etc. Capsulized characteristics on 2300 "specials" from 5512 to 9019. Helps identify that just-found "whatzit." (Everybody knows a 6922 is a premium 6DJ8, but what about the 7308?)
- Military Types: a researched and insightful list of Signal Corps "VT" tubes; the biggest list yet seen of Navy type numbers; coverage of Canadian "REL" tubes.
- Unique Types of major makers: De Forest, Eimac, GE, Raytheon, RCA, Sylvania, Western Electric, Westinghouse.
- User's Guide: ideas on testing, adapting, repairing, reactivating, reading date codes, detecting the real maker of private-brand tubes, turning random lots into usable repair stock.
- TV Sweep Tubes: what tubes are used in eight audio amps and 78 amateur transmitters/linears; hints on substituting as the originals get scarcer and more expensive.
- Auction Prices: for collectible and audio tubes, from six major sales.

Contains 186 pages, 8-1/2" x 11" softbound. Price, postpaid: $19.95 in North America; $24.95 elsewhere. Orderable from:

Radio Restoration Parts

Vacuum Tube Repair Wafers

These tube repair wafers are solid-state devices for quick and easy repair of early vacuum tubes. The wafer is installed by simply sliding it over the tube pins and reinserting the tube into its socket. If the filament is intact, but there is little or no emission, the filament may be lit for best visual effect. However, the tube can be open filament.

No change in radio operating voltages is required. Any number of tubes may be repaired in a radio. If wafers are installed on all tubes, the B+ voltage may usually be reduced without sacrificing volume or sensitivity. Performance will vary between radio models.

CLASSIFIED ADVERTISING POLICY

ONE FREE 20-WORD AD for subscribers in each issue; additional words are 25¢ each. See details below. Classified ads sent by mail, fax or by any other method must be received (not just postmarked!) by Noon Eastern Time on the classified ad deadline date to guarantee inclusion in the current issue. Late ads are held for the following issue. Please enclose correct payment with all ads. Stamps or cash are OK for small amounts. (Canadian and other foreign advertisers, please see "Payment" on page 2 for methods.) "Free words" cannot be accumulated from month to month; free words must be requested when ad is submitted.

Faxed & e-mailed ads: Please see additional information on the inside front cover.

When including ads with other A.R.C. correspondence, write the ads on a separate piece of paper. Include SUB# with ad. Ads may be sent in advance; but, write each ad on a separate piece of paper and indicate the month (or successive two months) you want the ad to run.

To minimize our typing errors: Please write legibly. Use both capital and small letters. Do not use a dash between words. Carefully write the following numbers and letters (especially in model numbers) since some can look alike; for example 1, l and I (the number one, the capital i and the small L.) Also: 0, O, o, Q and D; r and n; 6, b and G; V, U, u, v and Y; A and R; 5, S and 8; 2, Z and z. We try to correct spelling errors, so when using an uncommon word or manufacturer which we might mistake as a more common word or manufacturer, note it so that we do not "correct" it. Editor's annotations are in [brackets].

Advertising is accepted only for early items related to radio, communication, etc. All items must be described fairly; reproductions, reprints and not-original items must be so identified. Advertisers must agree to respond promptly to inquiries and orders, to resolve problems promptly if the buyer is not satisfied, and to comply with a buyer's refund request on unaltered returned items.

The publisher reserves the right to edit ads without notification to the advertiser and to reject ads for any reason. Names other than the advertiser will be edited out of ads. Ads with non-radio-related items will be returned or edited unless the non-radio-related items are for trade of radio-related items, or they are incidental to and appear at the end of an otherwise acceptable ad. The publisher is not responsible for errors due to illegibly written ads or for any other reason.

Clubs: Since club activities receive free coverage on the Coming Radio Events pages, the free 20 words may not be used for club activity ads. See inside front cover for additional information.

CLASSIFIED AD DETAILS

Deadline: NOON ET— 10th of the month!

Classified ads must have a standard heading such as WANTED, FOR SALE, FOR TRADE, FOR SALE/TRADE, SERVICES, MESSAGE, HELP, AUCTION, MEET, etc. This heading is the only bold or all-capitalized words allowed in the ad. Capitalize only manufacturer names, model names, etc. This standard ad format makes scanning the ads easier.

Before writing your ad, please look over the ads in a recent issue of A.R.C., and try to write your ad in the same style. Full name (or company name) and address is required in all classified ads; we will add it if you forget.

To encourage varied content of the ads, the same classified ad may be run only once per issue and for only two consecutive months. (To run an ad longer, use a boxed classified or display ad.)

Classified Ad Rates per Month

Subscribers:

First 20 words: FREE

25¢ per word for extra words over 20 plus

10¢ per word for a shaded ad (count all words including free words).

* Subscribers may take 20 free words on only one ad each month.

Non-Subscribers:

41¢ per word plus

10¢ per word for shaded ad.

Please do not forget to send in the extra 25¢ per word when your classified ad runs over the free 20 words; your payment will be appreciated, and it will help to keep A.R.C. healthy.

BOXED CLASSIFIED AD DETAILS

Deadline: 1st of the month!

Boxed classified ads can run unchanged for three months or more. No words are free. Ads may be shaded and may include bold and all-capitalized words freely. The ad need not begin with "For Sale," etc. Minimum run is 3 months, prepaid. Discount: 10% for 6 months; 20% for 12 months.

Boxed Classified Ad Rates per Month

Nonshaded ads:

36¢ per word for all words,* none free, plus

10¢ per word for each bold word plus

10¢ per word for each all-caps word.

Shaded Ads (All words are bold at no charge):

45¢ per word for all words* plus

10¢ per word for each all-caps word.

Non-Subscribers:

Add 20¢ per word to above costs.

*Three words can be bold-all-caps at no extra charge.

Deadline: 1st of the month

for all ads with drawings or photos!

Drawings and photos are encouraged as the response to your ad is much larger and the reader knows better what you want or are selling. Send in your drawing or photograph, and A.R.C. will reduce it or enlarge it as needed.

$20.00 per month for each photo or drawing

(If ad is canceled, this amount cannot always be refunded.)

CHANGES & CANCELLATIONS

Please check your ads carefully before sending them in. Once ads are received, it is not always possible to refund the amount sent, pull the ad or make changes.

IMPORTANT — COUNTING WORDS — IMPORTANT

The standard headings: WANTED, FOR SALE, etc., count as one word each time used in an ad. Name, address and (one) telephone number, count as 6 words, regardless of length. Ham call letters and business name can be included in the 6 words and do not count extra. Full name (or company name) and address is required in all classified ads. Each additional word, abbreviation, model number or number group, extra telephone numbers, fax, e-mail, etc. count as one word each. Hyphenated words count as two words.
