GERMAN

WPOW's Martha Ley has earned a strong, loyal Germanic following. Her interview programs have made her a most popular German radio personality in New York.

POLISH . . .

The Two Edwards, a "brother" team, have developed an ardent listenership among the Polish people in the New York area. Their hour program, four days a week, is directed to the Polish people, in their native tongue.

RELIGIOUS . . .

In the religious field, most of the national and local programs are carried over WPOW. Religious programming each weekday plus inspirational music all day Sunday. National and local advertisers can capitalize on WPOW's established local personalities. "spot" their messages to these specialized groups with WPOW's selective programming. Good music radio began 25 years ago with WQXR, New York.

The nation's first good music station today is its leading one, attracting more than 1,300,000 upper-income families every week with the world's finest music and The New York Times news. Add to WQXR its affiliated good music stations of the QXR Network and you have what is today's most effective radio buy for quality advertisers: the leading quality radio stations in 38 of the nation's top markets.

FARGO is America's MIGHTIEST MITE!

Fargo is the retail trading center for more than 500,000 people in the rich Red River Valley—and also has over 200 wholesale distribution firms!

WDAY-Radio serves more than 75,000 Fargo-Moorhead people alone—more than 25,000 farms. And the Fargo metropolitan area is No. 2 in the Nation, in Retail Sales Per Family!

WDAY-Radio really delivers the bulging “buying-power” audience in its 55-county market—44.5% more adults listen to WDAY-Radio than the next station!* Ask PGW for details!

QUALITY PROGRAMMING* CAPTURES A QUALITY MARKET!

"Southwest

Central"

*Whenever and wherever the news is hot, WFAA takes its listeners there with first hand reports at the state, local, and international levels. News breaks 3 to 4 times hourly on WFAA in addition to regularly scheduled newscasts . . .

WFAA-820
DALLAS

Southwest Central is fast capturing the fancy of some 1,685,000 free-spending Texans in the adjacent Dallas-Ft. Worth metro areas! Emanating from its Dallas home base (with a 2-to-1 population advantage), WFAA-820's electronic journalism theme is keeping listeners glued to their sets throughout the broadcast day. In an ever-increasing news-conscious era it is easy to see why more people are turning to the station with more reports . . . more authoritative . . . more direct . . . and more unique in scope and interest. You can reach this highly informed audience any time of day. Call your Petryman now for the full story!

Houston's most interesting radio station because its

Key People Really Care!

KPRC, Houston's first radio station, isn't just another jukebox with a transmitter and tower. Its Key People Really Care about listeners and clients, and do everything possible to make the listening pleasant, meaningful, interesting, and resultful. They also insist upon truthfulness and good taste, and as a result, KPRC! has thousands upon thousands of loyal listeners, hundreds of sales-happy clients. It all started years ago when KPRC! engaged Dr. Ernest Dichter's organization to make the first motivational research survey in Houston's radio history to find out what Houston radio listeners wanted from radio. Following the findings in this survey, KPRC! started making the necessary changes, and today you'll find more and more Houstonians listening to KPRC! for its

THE PEOPLE TALK BACK TO RADIO

Motivational Research Study of the Houston Radio Audience

- 1. Interesting News! Announcers at KPRC! don't just read releases off a news ticker or machine. KPRC! maintains a staff of 11 newsmen. They go to the scene of the news, witness it, write it, and in most cases, report it themselves on the air. Since they live the news they know the news . . . and, KPRC! news is most interesting!
- 2. Interesting Music! The records heard on KPRC! aren't the records KPRC! thinks ought to be heard—they're the records listeners indicate they want to hear by their purchases at record stores, by the records they play in public places, by what they say in conversation to KPRC! people and their friends.
- 3. Interesting People! The voices on KPRC! are friends. The voices belong to real flesh and blood people like Tim Nolan, Bob Byron, Johnny Edwards, Jack London, Gordon Smith and Ken Fairchild. They are companionable people, intelligent people, friendly, interesting people.

AS A RESULT, KPRC! IS MOST INTERESTING, MOST BELIEVABLE, MOST RESULTFUL, BECAUSE ITS

PERFORMANCE PROVED ITA FM TRANSMITTERS

ONE FOR EVERY POWER RATING . . . INCLUDING THE MOST POWERFUL FM TRANSMITTER MADE

Every day in more than 500 installations around the world ITA transmitters are proving their superior quality and low cost of operation. No changes required in basic transmitter for stereo and multiplex operation . . . merely add stereo or multiplex generators. And ITA's many other unique features offer built-in advantages no other transmitter can duplicate.

- All transmitters use ceramic tetrode power amplifier tubes . . . operated well below maximum capabilities to achieve utmost economy and long life. Conservatively operated silicon rectifiers in all power supplies are designed for the life of the equipment. Contemporary styling for ease of operation. Custom tested on channel before shipping.

If you're in the market for an FM transmitter . . . one for any power requirement . . . think first of ITA. Contact your nearest representative and he'll answer any questions you may have about the complete line. What's more . . . when you buy, an ITA representative will help supervise installation at no charge. ITA's representatives are listed on the next page. Call or write today!

MAGNETIC RECORDING TAPE

- ★ LOW NOISE LEVEL
- ★ SUPERB FREQUENCY RESPONSE

- ★ HIGH SENSITIVITY
- ★ UNIFORM, TROUBLE-FREE PERFORMANCE

Remarkable Burgess engineering developments have produced an audio tape of superlative quality.

1. Micro-finished surface and built-in lubrication eliminates tape squeal and reduces recording head friction.
2. Improved pre-coating process produces a superior bond, eliminating flake-off so that recording heads stay clean.

3. Revolutionary dispersion process produces tape with high sensitivity, extraordinary frequency response, eliminating print-through, and delivering mirror-like sound reproduction.

PREVENT SWITCHING ERRORS WITH S-T-E-P

STEP stands for Sequential Television Equipment Programmer... the economical system that automates video and audio switching during station and commercial breaks. Priced at a low $5900 (a fraction of the cost of comparable equipment) STEP eliminates the complex manual switching sequences that cause errors, make-goods and lost revenues.

STEP's unique pinboard memory permits advance station break planning but at the same time provides a simple means for meeting last-second changes. And for emergency conditions, manual override insures, safe, instant switches by the control room operator.

ORAL ROBERTS EVANGELISTIC ASSOCIATION, INC.

TULSA 2, OKLAHOMA

To my broadcaster friends:

This marks the fifteenth year of our working together. It was back in the 1940's that my sermons were first broadcast over radio to audiences in this country.

Today, as you know, through the wondrous miracles of radio and television my message reaches millions every week, not only in this country but in lands throughout the world.

Recently, in going over some of our records I noted with great satisfaction that there are stations carrying our program today that have been with us from the start of my broadcasting ministry. Others have joined us along the way. From time to time others are becoming part of our broadcasting family.

To the members of this great industry who have contributed so much to the furtherance of my ministry, I express my most earnest thanks.

And in my prayers I constantly ask that we may continue together with this great and satisfying venture that we are embarked upon.

Faithfully yours,

NAB Television Code

Preamble

Television is seen and heard in every type of American home. These homes include children and adults of all ages, embrace all races and all varieties of religious faith, and reach those of every educational background. It is the responsibility of television to bear constantly in mind that the audience is primarily a home audience, and consequently that television's relationship to the viewers is that between guest and host.

The revenues from advertising support the free, competitive American system of telecasting, and make available to the eyes and ears of the American people the finest programs of information, education, culture and entertainment. By law the television broadcaster is responsible for the programming of the station. He, however, is obliged to bring his positive responsibility for excellence and good taste in programming to bear upon all who have a hand in the production of programs, including networks, sponsors, producers of film and of live programs, advertising agencies, and talent agencies.

The American businesses which utilize television for conveying their advertising messages to the home by pictures with sound, seen free-of-charge on the home screen, are reminded that their responsibilities are not limited to the sale of goods and the creation of a favorable attitude toward the sponsor by the presentation of entertainment. They include, as well, responsibility for utilizing television to bring the best programs, regardless of kind, into American homes.

Television and all who participate in it are jointly accountable to the American public for respect for the special needs of children, for community responsibility, for the advancement of education and culture, for the acceptability of the program materials chosen, for decency and decorum in production, and for propriety in advertising. This responsibility cannot be discharged by any given group of programs, but can be discharged through the highest standards of respect for the American home, applied to every moment of every program presented by television.

In order that television programming may best serve the public interest, viewers should be encouraged to make their criticisms and positive suggestions known to the television broadcasters. Parents in particular should be urged to see to it that out of the richness of television fare, the best programs are brought to the attention of their children.

Advancement of Education and Culture

1. Commercial television provides a valuable means of augmenting the educational and cultural influences of schools, institutions of higher learning, the home, the church, museums, foundations, and other institutions devoted to education and culture.

2. It is the responsibility of a television broadcaster to call upon such institutions for counsel and cooperation and to work with them on the best methods of presenting educational and cultural materials by television. It is further the responsibility of stations networks, advertising agencies and sponsors consciously to seek opportunities for introducing into telecasts factual materials which will aid in the enlightenment of the American public.

3. Education via television may be taken to mean that process by which the individual is brought toward informed adjustment to his society. Television is also responsible for the presentation of overtly instructional and cultural programs, scheduled so as to reach the viewers who are naturally drawn to such programs, and produced so as to attract the largest possible audience.

4. In furthering this realization, the television broadcaster:

a) Should be thoroughly conversant with the educational and cultural needs and desires of the community served.

b) Should affirmatively seek out responsible and accountable educational and cultural institutions of the community with a view toward providing opportunities for the instruction and enlightenment of the viewers.

c) Should provide for reasonable experimentation in the development of programs specifically directed to the advancement of the community's culture and education.

Acceptability of Program Material

Program materials should enlarge the horizons of the viewer, provide him with wholesome entertainment, afford helpful stimulation, and remind him of the responsibilities which the citizen has towards his society.

The intimacy and confidence placed in television demand of the broadcaster, the networks and other program sources that they be vigilant in protecting the audience from deceptive program practices.

a) (i) Profanity, obscenity, smut and vulgarity are forbidden, even when likely to be understood only by part of the audience. From time to time, words which have been acceptable, acquire undesirable meanings, and telecasters should be alert to eliminate such words. (ii) Words (especially slang) derisive of any race, color, creed, nationality or national derivation, except wherein such usage would be for the specific purpose of effective dramatization such as combating prejudice, are forbidden, even when likely to be understood only by part of the audience. From time to time, words which have been acceptable, acquire undesirable meanings, and telecasters should be alert to eliminate such words.

(b) (i) Attacks on religion and religious faiths are not allowed. (ii) Reverence is to mark any mention of the name of God, His attributes and powers. (iii) When religious rites are included in other than religious programs the rites are accurately presented and the ministers, priests and rabbis portrayed in their callings are vested with the dignity of their office and under no circumstances are to be held up to ridicule.

c) (i) Contests may not constitute a lottery. (ii) Any telecasting designed to "buy" the television audience by requiring it to listen and/or view in hope of reward, rather than for the quality of the program should be avoided. (see Contests).

d) Respect is maintained for the sanctity of marriage and the value of the home. Divorce is not treated casually nor justified as a solution for marital problems.

e) Illicit sex relations are not treated as commendable.

f) Sex crimes and abnormalities are generally unacceptable as program material.

g) Drunkenness and narcotic addiction are never presented as desirable or prevalent.

h) The administration of illegal drugs will not be displayed.

i) The use of liquor in program content shall be de-emphasized. The consumption of liquor in American life, when not required by the plot or for proper characterization, shall not be shown.

j) The use of gambling devices or scenes necessary to the development of plot or as appropriate background is acceptable only when presented with discretion and in moderation, and in a manner which would not excite interest in, or foster, betting nor be instructional in nature. Telecasts of actual sport programs at which on-the-scene betting is permitted by law should be presented in a manner in keeping with Federal, state and local laws, and should concentrate on the subject as a public sporting event.

k) In reference to physical or mental afflictions and deformities, special precautions must be taken to avoid ridiculing sufferers from similar ailments and offending them or members of their families.

l) Exhibitions of fortune-telling, astrology, phrenology, palm-reading, and numerology are acceptable only when required by a plot or the theme of a program, and then the presentation should be developed in a manner designed not to foster superstition or excite interest or belief in these subjects.

m) Televised drama shall not simulate news or special events in such a way as to mislead or alarm. (see News).

n) Legal, medical and other professional advice, diagnosis and treatment will be permitted only in conformity with law and recognized ethical and professional standards.

o) The presentation of cruelty, greed and selfishness as worthy motivations is to be avoided.

p) Excessive or unfair exploitation of others or of their physical or mental afflictions shall not be presented as praiseworthy.

q) Criminality shall be presented as undesirable and unsympathetic. The condoning of crime and the treatment of commission of crime in a frivolous, cynical or callous manner is unacceptable.

r) The presentation of techniques of crime in such detail as to invite imitation shall be avoided.

s) The use of horror for its own sake will be eliminated: the use of visual or aural effects which would shock or alarm the viewer, and the detailed presentation of brutality or physical agony by sight or by sound are not permissible.

t) Law enforcement shall be upheld, and the officers of the law are to be portrayed with respect and dignity.

u) The presentation of murder or revenge as a motive for murder shall not be presented as justifiable.

v) Suicide as an acceptable solution for human problems is prohibited.

w) The exposition of sex crimes will be avoided.

x) The appearances or dramatization of persons featured in actual crime news will be permitted only in such light as to aid law enforcement or to report the news event.

y) The use of animals, both in the production of television programs and as part of television program content, shall at all times, be in conformity with accepted standards of humane treatment.

z) Quiz and similar programs that are presented as contests of knowledge, information, skill or luck must, in fact, be genuine contests and the results must not be controlled by collusion with or between contestants or any other action which will favor one contestant against any other.

aa) No program shall be presented in a manner which through artifice or simulation would mislead the audience as to any material fact. Each broadcaster must exercise reasonable judgment to determine whether a particular method of presentation would constitute a material deception, or would be accepted by the audience as normal theatrical illusion.

Responsibility Toward Children

1. The education of children involves giving them a sense of the world at large. However, such subjects as violence and sex shall be presented without undue emphasis and only as required by plot development or character delineation. Crime should not be presented as attractive or as a solution to human problems, and the inevitable retribution should be made clear.

2. It is not enough that only those programs which are intended for viewing by children shall be suitable to the young and immature. (Attention is called to the general items listed under Acceptability of Program Materials). Television is responsible for insuring that programs of all sorts which occur during the times of day when children may normally be expected to have the opportunity of viewing television shall exercise care in the following regards:

- a) In affording opportunities for cultural growth as well as for wholesome entertainment.
- b) In developing programs to foster and promote the commonly accepted moral, social and ethical ideals characteristic of American life.
- c) In reflecting respect for parents, for honorable behavior, and for the constituted authorities of the American community.
- d) In eliminating reference to kidnapping of children or threats of kidnapping.
- e) In avoiding material which is excessively violent or would create morbid suspense, or other undesirable reactions in children.
- f) In exercising particular restraint and care in crime or mystery episodes involving children or minors.

Decency and Decorum in Production

1. The costuming of all performers shall be within the bounds of propriety and shall avoid such exposure or such emphasis on anatomical detail as would embarrass or offend home viewers.

2. The movements of dancers, actors, or other performers shall be kept within the bounds of decency, and lewdness and impropriety shall not be suggested in the positions assumed by performers.

3. Camera angles shall avoid such views of performers as to emphasize anatomical details indecently.

4. Racial or nationality types shall not be shown on television in such a manner as to ridicule the race or nationality.

5. The use of locations closely associated with sexual life or with sexual sin must be governed by good taste and delicacy.

Community Responsibility

A television broadcaster and his staff occupy a position of responsibility in the community and should conscientiously endeavor to be acquainted fully with its needs and characteristics in order better to serve the welfare of its citizens.

Treatment of News and Public Events

News

1. A television station's news schedule should be adequate and well-balanced.

2. News reporting should be factual, fair and without bias.

3. Commentary and analysis should be clearly identified as such.

4. Good taste should prevail in the selection and handling of news: Morbid, sensational or alarming details not essential to the factual report, especially in connection with stories of crime or sex, should be avoided. News should be telecast in such a manner as to avoid panic and unnecessary alarm.

5. At all times, pictorial and verbal material for both news and comment should conform to other sections of these standards, wherever such sections are reasonably applicable.

5. Pictorial material should be chosen with care and not presented in a misleading manner.

7. A television broadcaster should exercise due care in his supervision of content, format, and presentation of newscasts originated by his station, and in his selection of newscasters, commentators, and analysts.

8. A television broadcaster should exercise particular discrimination in the acceptance, placement and presentation of advertising in news programs so that such advertising should be clearly distinguishable from the news content.

9. A television broadcaster should not present fictional events or other non-news material as authentic news telecasts or announcements, nor should he permit dramatizations in any program which would give the false impression that the dramatized material constitutes news. Expletives (presented aurally or pictorially), such as "flash" or "bulletin" and statements such as "we interrupt this program to bring you . . ." should be reserved specifically for news room use. However, a television broadcaster may properly exercise discretion in the use in non-news programs of words or phrases which do not necessarily imply that the material following is a news release.

10. All news interview programs should be governed by accepted standards of ethical journalism, under which the interviewer selects the questions to be asked. Where there is advance agreement materially restricting an important or newsworthy area of questioning, the interviewer will state on the program that such limitation has been agreed upon. Such disclosure should be made if the person being interviewed requires that questions be submitted in advance or if he participates in editing a recording of the interview prior to its use on the air.

Public Events

1. A television broadcaster has an affirmative responsibility at all times to be informed of public events, and to provide coverage consonant with the ends of an informed and enlightened citizenry.

2. Because of the nature of events open to the public, the treatment of such events by a television broadcaster should be effected in a manner to provide for adequate and informed coverage as well as good taste in presentation.

Controversial Public Issues

1. Television provides a valuable forum for the expression of responsible views on public issues of a controversial nature. In keeping therewith the television broadcaster should seek out and develop with accountable individuals, groups and organizations programs relating to controversial public issues of import to its fellow citizens; and to give fair representation to opposing sides of issues which materially affect the life or welfare of a substantial segment of the public.

2. The provision of time for this purpose should be guided by the following principles:

- a) Requests by individuals, groups or organizations for time to discuss their views on controversial public issues, should be considered on the basis of their individual merits, and in the light of the contribution which the use requested would make to the public interest, and to a well-balanced program structure.
- b) Programs devoted to the discussion of controversial public issues should be identified as such, and should not be presented in a manner which would mislead listeners or viewers to believe that the program is purely of an entertainment, news, or other character.

Political Telecasts

Political telecasts should be clearly identified as such, and should not be presented by a television broadcaster in a manner which would mislead listeners or viewers to believe that the program is of any other character.

Religious Programs

1. It is the responsibility of a television broadcaster to make available to the community as part of a well-balanced program schedule adequate opportunity for religious presentations.

2. The following principles should be followed in the treatment of such programs: a) Telecasting which reaches men of all creeds simultaneously should avoid attacks upon religion. b) Religious programs should be presented respectfully and accurately and without prejudice or ridicule. c) Religious programs should be presented by responsible individuals, groups and organizations. d) Religious programs should place emphasis on broad religious truths, excluding the presentation of controversial or partisan views not directly or necessarily related to religion or morality.

3. In the allocation of time for telecasts of religious programs it is recommended that the television station use its best efforts to apportion such time fairly among the representative faith groups of its community.

Subliminal Perception

The use of the television medium to transmit information of any kind by use of the process called "subliminal perception," or by the use of any similar technique whereby an attempt is made to convey information to the viewer by transmitting messages below the threshold of normal awareness, is not permitted.

Production Practices

The broadcaster shall be constantly alert to prevent activities that may lead to such practices as the use of scenic properties, the choice and identification of prizes, the selection of music and other creative program elements and inclusion of any identification of commercial products or services, their trade names or advertising slogans, within a program dictated by factors other than the requirements of the program itself. This expressly forbids the acceptance by producer, talent, or any other personnel of cash payments or other considerations in return for including any of the above within the program.

Presentation of Advertising

1. Ever mindful of the role of television as a guest in the home, a television broadcaster should exercise unceasing care to supervise the form in which advertising material is presented over his facilities. Since television is a developing medium, involving methods and techniques distinct from those of radio, it may be desirable from time to time to review and revise the presently suggested practices:

a) Advertising messages should be presented with courtesy and good taste; disturbing or annoying material should be avoided; every effort should be made to keep the advertising message in harmony with the content and general tone of the program in which it appears.

b) A sponsor's advertising messages should be confined within the framework of the sponsor's program structure. A television broadcaster should avoid the use of commercial announcements which are divorced from the program either by preceding the introduction of the program (as in the case of so-called "cowcatcher" announcements) or by following the apparent sign-off of the program (as in the case of so-called "trailer" announcements). To this end, the program itself should be announced and clearly identified, both audio and video, before the sponsor's advertising material is first used, and should be signed off, both audio and video, after the sponsor's advertising material is last used.

c) Advertising copy should contain no claims intended to disparage competitors, competing products, or other industries, professions or institutions.

d) Since advertising by television is a dynamic technique, a television broadcaster should keep under surveillance new advertising devices so that the spirit and purpose of these standards are fulfilled.

e) Television broadcasters should exercise the utmost care and discrimination with regard to advertising material, including content, placement and presentation, near or adjacent to programs designed for children. No considerations of expediency should be permitted to impinge upon the vital responsibility towards children and adolescents, which is inherent in television, and which must be recognized and accepted by all advertisers employing television.

f) Television advertisers should be encouraged to devote portions of their allotted advertising messages and program time to the support of worthy causes in the public interest in keeping with the highest ideals of the free competitive system.

g) A charge for television time to churches and religious bodies is not recommended.

Acceptability of Advertisers and Products—General

1. A commercial television broadcaster makes his facilities available for the advertising of products and services and accepts commercial presentations for such advertising. However, a television broadcaster should, in recognition of his responsibility to the public, refuse the facilities of his station to an advertiser where he has good reason to doubt the integrity of the advertiser, the truth of the advertising representations, or the compliance of the advertiser with the spirit and purpose of all applicable legal requirements. Moreover, in consideration of the laws and customs of the communities served, each television broadcaster should refuse his facilities to the advertisement of products and services or the use of advertising scripts which the station has good reason to believe would be objectionable to a substantial and responsible segment of the community. The foregoing principles should be applied with judgment and flexibility, taking into consideration the characteristics of the medium and the form and content of the particular presentation. In general, because television broadcast is designed for the home and the family, including children, the following principles should govern the business classifications listed below:

a) The advertising of hard liquor should not be accepted.

b) The advertising of beer and wines is acceptable only when presented in the best of good taste and discretion, and is acceptable subject to Federal and local laws.

c) Advertising by institutions or enterprises which in their offers of instruction imply promises of employment or make exaggerated claims for the opportunities awaiting those who enroll for courses is generally unacceptable.

d) The advertising of firearms and fireworks is acceptable only subject to Federal and local laws.

e) The advertising of fortune-telling, occultism, astrology, phrenology, palm-reading, numerology, mind-reading, character-reading or subjects of a like nature is not permitted.

f) Because all products of a personal nature create special problems such products, when accepted, should be treated with especial emphasis on ethics and the canons of good taste. Such advertising of personal products as is accepted must be presented in a restrained and obviously inoffensive manner.

The advertising of intimately personal products which are generally regarded as unsuitable conversational topics in mixed social groups is not acceptable. (See Television Code Interpretation No. 4.)

g) The advertising of tip sheets, race track publications, or organizations seeking to advertise for the purpose of giving odds or promoting betting or lotteries is unacceptable.

h) The role and capability of television to market sponsor products are well recognized. In turn, the fact dictates that great care be exercised by the broadcaster to prevent the presentation of false, misleading or deceptive advertising. While it is entirely appropriate to present a product in a favorable light and atmosphere, and techniques may be used to depict the characteristics of the product as they appear in actuality, the presentation must not, by copy or demonstration, involve a material deception as to the characteristics, performance or appearance of the product.

2. Diligence should be exercised to the end that advertising copy accepted for telecasting complies with pertinent Federal, state and local laws.

3. An advertiser who markets more than one product should not be permitted to use advertising copy devoted to an acceptable product for purposes of publicizing the brand name or other identification of a product which is not acceptable.

4. "Bait-switch" advertising, whereby goods or services which the advertiser has no intention for selling are offered merely to lure the customer into purchasing higher-priced substitutes, is not acceptable.

Advertising of Medical Products

1. The advertising of medical products presents considerations of intimate and far-reaching importance to the consumer, and the following principles and procedures should apply in the advertising thereof: a) A television broadcaster should not accept advertising material which in his opinion offensively describes or dramatizes distress or morbid situations involving ailments, by spoken word, sound or visual effects. b) Because of the personal nature of the advertising of medical products, claims that a product will effect a cure and the indiscriminate use of such words as "safe," "without risk," "harmless," or terms of similar meaning should not be accepted in the advertising of medical products on television stations.

Contests

1. In addition to complying with all pertinent Federal, state and local laws and regulations, all contests should offer the opportunity to all contestants to win on the basis of ability and skill rather than chance.

2. All contest details, including rules, eligibility requirements, opening and termination dates should be clearly and completely announced and/or shown, or easily accessible to the viewing public, and the winners' names should be released and prizes awarded as soon as possible after the close of the contest.

3. When advertising is accepted which requests contestants to submit items of product identification or other evidence of purchase of product, reasonable facsimiles thereof should be made acceptable.

4. All copy pertaining to any contest (except that which is required by law) associated with the exploitation or sale of the sponsor's product or service, and all references to prizes or gifts offered in such connection should be considered a part of and included in the total time allowances as herein provided. (See Time Standards for Advertising Copy.)

Premiums and Offers

1. Full details of proposed offers should be required by the television broadcaster for investigation and approved before the first announcement of the offer is made to the public.

2. A final date for the termination of an offer should be announced as far in advance as possible.

3. Before accepting for telecast offers involving a monetary consideration, a television broadcaster should satisfy himself as to the integrity of the advertiser and the advertiser's willingness to honor complaints indicating dissatisfaction with the premium by returning the monetary consideration.

4. There should be no misleading descriptions or visual representations of any premiums or gifts which would distort or enlarge their value in the minds of viewers.

5. Assurances should be obtained from the advertiser that premiums offered are not harmful to person or property.

6. Premiums should not be approved which appeal to superstition on the basis of "luck-bearing" powers or otherwise.

Time Standards for Advertising Copy

1. In accordance with good telecast advertising practices, the time standards for advertising copy are as follows:

PRIME TIME (Definition: A continuous period of not less than three hours of each broadcast day, within the station's highest rate time periods.)

Commercial content of any 30-minute program in prime time may not exceed four minutes. This restriction includes "billboards," public service announcements and promotional announcements for other programs.

NON-PRIME TIME Individual Sponsorship—The Time Standards for advertising for individual sponsors in non-prime time are as follows:

Length of Pgm. (in Minutes)	Length of Advertising
5:00	1:15
10:00	2:10
15:00	3:00
30:00	4:15
45:00	5:45
60:00	7:00

(See Paragraph 4 for "participation" program time allowances in other than prime time. This paragraph is effective Oct. 29, 1961.)

2. Reasonable and limited identification of prize and statement of the donor's name within formats wherein the presentation of contest awards or prizes is a necessary and integral part of program content shall not be included as commercial time within the meaning of paragraph 1, above; however, any oral or visual presentation concerning the product or its donor, over and beyond such identification and statement, shall be included as commercial time within the meaning of paragraph 1, above.

3. Station breaks are spot announcements scheduled between programs.

In prime time (See definition above) they shall consist of not more than two announcements plus non-commercial copy (station identification and/or public service announcements, etc.). The aggregate total of all announcements including non-commercial copy shall not exceed 70 seconds.

In non-prime time, station breaks shall consist of not more than two announcements plus the conventional sponsored 10 second station ID.

Station break announcements shall not adversely affect a preceding or following program. (Effective Oct. 29, 1961.)

4. "Participation" programs (those designed to accommodate a number of announcements within the body of the program and available for sale to individual advertisers) in non-prime time may not contain more than six minutes of commercial for any 30-minute program. No program shall have commercial content in excess of this ratio. Not more than three announcements shall be scheduled consecutively. Where the program exceeds 30 minutes in length, the customary ID, not exceeding 10 seconds, may be in addition to these commercial time allowances. (Effective Oct. 29, 1961.)

5. Programs presenting women's services, features, shopping guides, market information, and similar materials, provide a special service to the listening and viewing public in which advertising material is an informative and integral part of the program content. Because of these special characteristics the time standards set forth above may be waived to a reasonable extent.

6. Any casual reference by talent in a program to another's product or service under any trade name or language sufficiently descriptive to identify it should, except for normal guest identifications, be condemned and discouraged.

7. Stationary backdrops or properties in television presentations showing the sponsor's name or product, the name of his product, his trade-mark or slogan may be used only incidentally. They should not intrude on program interest or entertainment. "On Camera" shots of such materials should be fleeting, not too frequent, and mindful of the need of maintaining a proper program balance.

8. In non-prime time the above commercial time standards do not include opening and closing "billboard" announcements which give program or announcement sponsor identification. Each opening and closing "billboard" regardless of the number of sponsors shall not exceed 20 seconds in programs longer than one half-hour or 10 seconds in programs of one half-hour or less. (Effective Oct. 29, 1961.)

Dramatized Appeals and Advertising

1. Appeals to help fictitious characters in television programs by purchasing the advertiser's product or service or sending for a premium should not be permitted, and such fictitious characters should not be introduced into the advertising message for such purposes.

2. Dramatized advertising involving statements or purported statements by physicians, dentists, or nurses must be presented by accredited members of such professions.

Sponsor Identification

Identification of sponsorship must be made in all sponsored programs in accordance with the requirements of the Communications Act of 1934, as amended, and the Rules and Regulations of the Federal Communications Commission.

Interpretations of the Television Code by the Code Review Board

No. 1, June 7, 1956

Combination ("Piggy-Back") Announcements

The NAB Television Code Review Board has reviewed a number of spot announcements advertising more than one product. The Board has concluded that when unrelated products are advertised as separate and distinct messages within one announcement, they in effect constitute separate announcements. The Board observes that it is an acceptable practice to advertise related (e.g., various frozen food products, or automobiles of one manufacturer) or compatible (e.g., pancakes and syrup, or furniture and carpeting) products within the framework of a single announcement, when integrated to form a single message.

No. 2, June 7, 1956, revised June 9, 1958

"Pitch" Programs

The "pitchman" technique of advertising on television is inconsistent with good broadcast practice and generally damages the reputation of the industry and the advertising profession.

Sponsored program-length segments consisting substantially of continuous demonstration or sales presentation, violate not only the time standards established in the Code, but the broad philosophy of improvement implicit in the voluntary Code operation and are not acceptable.

No. 3, June 7, 1956

Hollywood Film Promotion

The Television Code Review Board has formally concluded that the presentation of commentary or film excerpts from current theatrical releases in some instances may constitute "advertising copy" under section 1, "Time Standards for Advertising Copy." Specifically, for example, when such presentation, directly or by inference, urges viewers to attend, it shall be counted against the advertising copy time allowance for the program of which it is a part.

No. 4, June 7, 1956

Non-Acceptability of "Intimately Personal Products"

The Television Code Review Board has reviewed several advertisements in view of Paragraph 1) "Acceptability of Advertisers and Products—General" and in particular of the specific language "... the advertising of intimately personal products which are generally regarded as unsuitable conversational topics in mixed social groups is not acceptable."

NAB Radio Code of Good Practices

The Radio Broadcaster's Creed

We Believe:

That radio broadcasting in the United States of America is a living symbol of democracy; a significant and necessary instrument for maintaining freedom of expression, as established by the First Amendment to the Constitution of the United States;

That its influence in the arts, in science, in education, in commerce, and upon the public welfare is of such magnitude that the only proper measure of its responsibility is the common good of the whole people;

That it is our obligation to serve the people in such manner as to reflect credit upon our profession and to encourage aspiration toward a better estate for all mankind; by making available to every person in America such programs as will perpetuate the traditional leadership of the United States in all phases of the broadcasting art;

That we should make full and ingenious use of man's store of knowledge, his talents, and his skills and exercise critical and discerning judgement concerning all broadcasting operations to the end that we may, intelligently and sympathetically:

Observe the proprieties and customs of civilized society;

Respect the rights and sensitivities of all people;

Honor the sanctity of marriage and the home;

Protect and uphold the dignity and brotherhood of all mankind;

Enrich the daily life of the people through the factual reporting and analysis of news, and through programs of education, entertainment, and information;

Provide for the fair discussion of matters of general public concern; engage in works directed toward the common good; and volunteer our aid and comfort in times of stress and emergency;

Contribute to the economic welfare of all by expanding the channels of trade, by encouraging the development and conservation of natural resources, and by bringing together the buyer and seller through the broadcasting of information pertaining to goods and services.

Toward the achievement of these purposes we agree to observe the following:

1. PROGRAM STANDARDS

A. News

Radio is unique in its capacity to reach the largest number of people first with reports on current events. This competitive advantage bespeaks caution—being first is not as important as being right. The following standards are predicated upon that viewpoint.

NEWS SOURCES. Those responsible for news on radio should exercise constant professional care in the selection of sources—for the integrity of the news and the consequent good reputation of radio as a dominant news medium depend largely upon the reliability of such sources.

NEWSCASTING. News reporting shall be factual and objective. Good taste shall prevail in the selection and handling of news. Morbid, sensational, or alarming details not essential to factual reporting should be avoided. News should be broadcast in such a manner as to avoid creation of panic and unnecessary alarm. Broadcasters shall be diligent in their supervision of content, format, and presentation of news broadcasts. Equal diligence should be exercised in selection of editors and reporters who direct news gathering and dissemination, since the station's performance in this vital informational field depends largely upon them.

COMMENTARIES AND ANALYSES. Special obligations devolve upon those who analyze and/or comment upon news developments, and management should be satisfied completely that the task is to be performed in the best interest of the listening public. Programs of news analysis and commentary shall be clearly identified as such, distinguishing them from straight news reporting.

EDITORIALIZING. Some stations exercise their rights to express opinions about matters of general public interest. Implicit in these efforts to provide leadership in matters of public consequence and to lend proper authority to the station's standing in the community it serves, is an equal obligation to provide opportunity for qualified divergent viewpoints.

The reputation of a station for honesty and accuracy in editorializing depends upon willingness to expose its convictions to fair rebuttal.

Station editorial comment shall be clearly identified as such.

TREATMENT OF NEWS AND PUBLIC EVENTS. All news interview programs shall be governed by accepted standards of ethical journalism, under which the interviewer selects the questions to be asked. Where there is advance agreement materially restricting an important or noteworthy area of questioning, the interviewer shall state on the program that such limitation has been agreed upon. Such disclosure shall be made if the person being interviewed requires that questions be submitted in advance or if he participates in editing a recording of the interview prior to its use on the air.

B. Public Issues

A broadcaster, in allotting time for the presentation of public issues, shall exert every effort to insure equality of opportunity.

Time should be allotted with due regard to all elements of balanced program schedules, and to the degree of interest on the part of the public in the questions to be presented or discussed. (To discuss is "to sift or examine by presenting considerations pro and con.") The broadcaster should limit participation in the presentation of public issues to those qualified, recognized, and properly identified groups or individuals whose opinions will assist the general public in reaching conclusions.

Presentation of public issues shall be clearly identified.

C. Political Broadcasts

Political broadcasts, or the dramatization of political issues designed to influence an election, shall be properly identified as such.

D. Advancement of Education and Culture

Because radio is an integral part of American life, there is inherent in radio broadcasting a continuing opportunity to enrich the experience of living through the advancement of education and culture.

The radio broadcaster, in augmenting the educational and cultural influences of the home, the Church, schools, institutions of higher learning, and other entities devoted to education and culture:

Should be thoroughly conversant with the educational and cultural needs and aspirations of the community served;

Should cooperate with the responsible and accountable educational and cultural entities of the community to provide enlightenment of listeners;

Should engage in experimental efforts designed to advance the community's cultural and educational interests.

E. Religion and Religious Programs

Religious programs shall be presented respectfully and without prejudice or ridicule.

Radio broadcasting, which reaches men of all creeds simultaneously, shall avoid attacks upon religion.

Religious programs shall be presented by responsible individuals, groups, or organizations.

Religious programs shall place emphasis on broad religious truths, excluding the presentation of controversial or partisan views not directly or necessarily related to religion or morality.

F. Dramatic Programs

In determining the acceptability of any dramatic program containing any element of crime, mystery, or horror, proper consideration should be given to the possible effect on all members of the family.

Radio should reflect realistically the experience of living, in both its pleasant and tragic aspects, if it is to serve the listener honestly. Nevertheless, it holds a concurrent obligation to provide programs which will encourage better adjustments to life.

This obligation is apparent in the area of dramatic programs particularly. Without sacrificing integrity of presentation, dramatic programs on radio shall avoid:

Techniques and methods of crime presented in such manner as to encourage imitation, or to make the commission of crime attractive, or to suggest that criminals can escape punishment;

Detailed presentation of brutal killings, torture, or physical agony, horror, the use of supernatural or climatic incidents likely to terrify or excite unduly; Episodes involving the kidnapping of children;

Sound effects calculated to mislead, shock, or unduly alarm the listener;

Disrespectful portrayal of law enforcement;

The portrayal of suicide as a satisfactory solution to any problem.

G. Children's Programs

Programs specifically designed for listening by children shall be based upon sound social concepts and shall reflect respect for parents, law and order, clean living, high morals, fair play, and honorable behavior.

Tv Code CONTINUED

The Board has concluded that products for the treatment of hemorrhoids and for use in connection with feminine hygiene are not acceptable under the above stated language.

No. 5, Jan. 15, 1957, Revised June 9, 1958 Advertising Copy Defined

"Advertising Copy," for the purposes of the season entitled "Time Standards for Advertising Copy," is defined as follows: Reference (aural, visual, or both) to a commercial product or service, unless such reference is permissive under the provisions of paragraphs No. 2 (awarding of prizes), No. 7 (guest identification), or No. 8 (visual sponsor or product displays).

No. 6, July 17, 1958, Oct. 2, 1958

Dramatized Appeals and Advertising (Section 2)

1. The term "statement" shall include the portrayal in any manner, of a physician, dentist or nurse. Thus, the simulation of such professional people may not be undertaken even by visual means only.

2. There are instances presently on the air of advertising depicting persons obviously of some professional standing. By the nature of the props and setting, such portrayals could be that of medical, dental or nursing profession members even though direct reference so indicating is not made. Such presentations, unless made by accredited members of these professions, are not acceptable.

3. This restriction does not preclude reference to comprehensive scientific research, studies or surveys, providing, however, that such claims can be fully supported.

4. The Board recognizes the need for time to change existing film commercials affected by this amendment and advises that all such advertising produced prior to June 18th may be used until January 1, 1959. All "live" advertising and filmed announcements prepared subsequent to this date will be considered violations.

5. The term "accredited" defined. In this context the use of the word "accredited" is synonymous with "having legal sanction." Thus, an "accredited" member of the medical profession is one who has completed the required education in a recognized institution of learning.

who has passed all necessary state examinations, and who has been granted leave by his resident state to practice a particular branch of medicine.

No. 7, Jan. 23, 1959

Prize Identification

The Television Code Review Board considers that oral and/or visual prize identification of up to ten seconds duration may be deemed "reasonable and limited" under the language of this Section. Where such identification is longer than ten seconds, the entire announcement or visual presentation will be charged against the total commercial time for the program period. The Board recognizes that some subscribers have current contractual obligations which will preclude immediate application but advises that all prize agreements made after February 1, 1959, should comply with the interpretation.

No. 8, Oct. 4, 1960

Acceptability of Advertisers and Products

This restraint applies to the advertising of products and/or services in themselves not hard liquors, but which in their presentation induce the use of hard liquor.

They shall convey the commonly accepted moral, social, and ethical ideals characteristic of American life.

They should contribute to the healthy development of personality and character. They should afford opportunities for cultural growth as well as for wholesome entertainment.

They should be consistent with integrity of realistic production, but they should avoid material of an extreme nature which might create undesirable emotional reaction in children.

They shall avoid appeals urging children to purchase the product specifically for the purpose of keeping the program on the air or which, for any reason, encourage children to enter inappropriate places.

H. General

The intimacy and confidence placed in Radio demand of the broadcaster, the networks and other program sources that they be vigilant in protecting the audience from deceptive program practices.

Sound effects and expressions characteristically associated with news broadcasts (such as "bulletin," "flash," etc.) should be reserved for announcement of news, and the use of any deceptive techniques in connection with fictional events and non-news programs shall not be employed.

The broadcaster shall be constantly alert to prevent activities that may lead to such practices as the choice and identification of prizes, the selection of music and other creative program elements and inclusion of any identification of commercial products or services, their trade names or advertising slogans, within a program dictated by factors other than the requirements of the program itself. This expressly forbids that acceptance by producer, talent, or any other personnel of cash payments or other considerations in return for including any of the above within the program.

When plot development requires the use of material which depends upon physical or mental handicaps, care shall be taken to spare the sensibilities of sufferers from similar defects.

Stations shall avoid broadcasting program material which would tend to encourage illegal gambling or other violations of Federal, State and local laws, ordinances, and regulations.

Simulation of court atmosphere or use of the term "court" in a program title should be done only in such manner as to eliminate the possibility of creating the false impression that the proceedings broadcast are vested with judicial or official authority.

When dramatized advertising material involves statements by doctors, dentists, nurses, or other professional people, the material shall be presented by members of such profession reciting actual experience, or it shall be made apparent from the presentation itself that the portrayal is dramatized.

Quiz and similar programs that are presented as contests of knowledge, information, skill or luck must, in fact, be genuine contests and the results must not be controlled by collusion with or between contestants, or any other action which will favor one contestant against any other.

No program shall be presented in a manner which through artifice or simulation would mislead the audience as to any material fact. Each broadcaster must exercise reasonable judgment to determine whether a particular method of presentation would constitute a material deception, or would be accepted by the audience as normal theatrical illusion.

In cases of programs broadcast over multiple station facilities, the originating station or network shall assume responsibility for conforming such programs to this Radio Code.

II. ADVERTISING STANDARDS

Advertising is the principal source of revenue of the free, competitive American system of radio broadcasting. It makes possible the presentation to all American people of the finest programs of entertainment, education, and information.

Since the great strength of American radio broadcasting derives from the public respect for and approval of its programs, it must be the purpose of each broadcaster to establish and maintain high standards of performance, not only in the selection and production of all programs, but also in the presentation of advertising.

A. Time Standards for Advertising Copy

The time standards for advertising copy are as follows:

1. Programs under single sponsorship.

The maximum time to be used for advertising, allowable to any single sponsor, regardless of type of program, shall be—

5 minute programs	1:30
10 " "	2:10
15 " "	3:00
25 " "	4:00
30 " "	4:15
45 " "	5:45
60 " "	7:00

The time standards allowable to a single advertiser do not affect the established practice of allowance for station breaks between programs.

Any reference in a sponsored program to another's products or services under any trade name, or language sufficiently descriptive to identify it, shall, except for normal guest identifications, be considered as advertising copy.

While any number of products may be advertised by a single sponsor within the specified time standards, advertising copy for these products shall be presented within the framework of the program structure. Accordingly, the use on such programs of simulated spot announcements which are divorced from the program by preceding the introduction of the program itself, or by following its apparent sign-off shall be avoided. To this end, the program itself shall be announced and clearly identified before the use of what have been known as "cow-catcher" announcements, and the programs shall be signed off after the use of what have been known as "hitch-hike" announcements.

2. Announcement type programs, multiple sponsorship programs, and any combination of programs and announcements.

The maximum time to be used for advertising in announcement and/or multiple sponsorship programs shall not exceed an average of 14 minutes an hour computed on a weekly basis; provided, however, that in no event shall the maximum exceed 18 minutes in any single hour or five minutes in any 15-minute segment. For the purpose of determining advertising limitations such programs types as "classified," "swap shop" "shopping guides" and "farm auction" programs, etc., shall be regarded as containing one and one-half minutes of advertising for each five-minute segment.

B. Presentation of Advertising

The advancing techniques of the broadcast art have shown that the quality and proper integration of advertising copy are just as important as measurement in time. The measure of a station's service to its audience is determined by its overall performance, rather than by any individual segment of its broadcast day.

The final measurement of any commercial broadcast service is quality. To this, every broadcaster shall dedicate his best efforts.

C. Acceptability of Advertisers and Products.

1. A commercial radio broadcaster makes his facilities available for the advertising of products and services and accepts commercial presentations for such advertising. However, he shall, in recognition of his responsibility to the public, refuse the facilities of his station to an advertiser where he has good reason to doubt the integrity of the advertiser, the truth of the advertising representations, or the compliance of the advertiser with the spirit and purpose of all applicable legal requirements. Moreover, in consideration of the laws and customs of the communities served, each radio broadcaster shall refuse his facilities to the advertisement of products and services, or the use of advertising scripts, which the station has good reason to believe would be objectionable to a substantial and responsible segment of the community. The foregoing principles should be applied with judgment and flexibility, taking into consideration the characteristics of the medium and the form of the particular presentation. In general, because radio broadcasting is designed for the home and the entire family, the following principles should govern the business classifications listed below:

- The advertising of hard liquor shall not be accepted.
- The advertising of beer and wines is acceptable only when presented in the best of good taste and discretion, and is acceptable subject to existing laws.
- The advertising of fortune-telling, occultism, astrology, phrenology, palm-reading, numerology, mind-reading or character-reading is not acceptable.

d) The advertising of certain intimate personal products which might offend or embarrass the listening audience is unacceptable. Among these are products for the treatment of hemorrhoids and for use in feminine hygiene.

e) All advertising of products of a personal nature, when accepted, shall be treated with special concern for the sensitivities of the listeners.

f) The advertising of tip sheets, publications, or organizations seeking to advertise for the purpose of giving odds or promoting betting or lotteries is unacceptable.

2. An advertiser who markets more than one product shall not be permitted to use advertising copy devoted to an acceptable product for purposes of publicizing the brand name or other identification of a product which is not acceptable.

3. Care shall be taken to avoid presentation of "bait-switch" advertising whereby goods or services which the advertiser has no intention of selling are offered merely to lure the customer into purchasing higher-priced substitutes.

D. Contests

Contests shall be conducted with fairness to all entrants, and shall comply with all pertinent federal, state, and local laws and regulations.

All contest details, including rules, eligibility requirements, opening and termination dates, shall be clearly and completely announced or easily accessible to the listening public; and the winners' names shall be released as soon as possible after the close of the contest.

When contestants are required to submit items of product identification or other evidence of purchase of product, reasonable facsimiles thereof shall be made acceptable.

All copy pertaining to any contest (except that which is required by law) associated with the exploitation or sale of the sponsor's product or service, and all references to prizes or gifts offered in such connection shall be considered a part of and included in the total time limitations heretofore provided.

E. Premiums and Offers

The broadcaster shall require that full details of proposed offers be submitted for investigation and approval before the first announcement of the offer is made to the public.

A final date for the termination of an offer shall be announced as far in advance as possible.

If a consideration is required, the advertiser shall agree to honor complaints indicating dissatisfaction with the premium by returning the consideration.

There shall be no misleading descriptions or comparisons of any premiums or gifts which will distort or enlarge their value in the minds of the listeners.

ASCAP

ASCAP are the initials of the American Society of Composers, Authors and Publishers, America's performing rights society.

■ An unincorporated, non-profit membership association of the men and women who write this nation's songs, the Society represents the catalogs of more than 7000 American authors, composers and publishers, and more than 50,000 of other countries. ■ The Society, which was organized in 1914, has always been dedicated to the protection of the rights of musically creative talent. The Society's catalog today covers every phase of musical literature: the popular songs of today, the standards of yesterday, the Broadway and motion picture hits, as well as the leading symphonic and concert works, religious, folk and country music.

IN WORDS OF ONE SYLLABLE...

A man who pays to get a thing, as a rule, wants it.

Or needs it. Or both.

This is true for things men read—as well as things they eat or wear. Which is why we think it makes sense to look for the ABP sign in the books in which you plan to run your ads.

For the ABP sign in a book means it goes to men who want it. It is a sign they have paid to get it. And with some of them—a lot of them, in fact—it is a sign they need it.

When you pay for space to talk to men who can buy what you have to sell, it's a good thing to keep this in mind. For if they want the book in which you run your ad, there is a good chance they will see it and read it. And if they need the book in their jobs, the chance is more than just good. It's what we used to call a lead pipe cinch.

When you buy space to talk to men you want to sell, buy it in the books they buy—books that are proud to stand a plain old test of worth: cash. You can spot them through this sign:

The plus value of paid circulation is "wantedness"

BROADCASTING is the only publication in its field qualifying for ABC and ABP membership.

The radio and television audiences

Television and radio set ownership was at an all-time high in midsummer 1961.

The latest information available as of Aug. 1 gave this snapshot indication of the extent of viewing and listening:

- The number of tv-equipped homes was close to 90 percent of all U. S. homes. And the average television home was spending up to six hours a day at its set.

- Radio homes totaled 96 percent of all homes and listening per home averaged up to about an hour and three-quarters per day—apart from the unmeasured listening being done in millions of cars and to other millions of portables at beaches, amusement parks and picnic grounds, and in other public places.

These homes figures were subject to adjustment based on final figures compiled in the 1960 decennial census, expected to be released by the U.S. Census Bureau in late 1961.

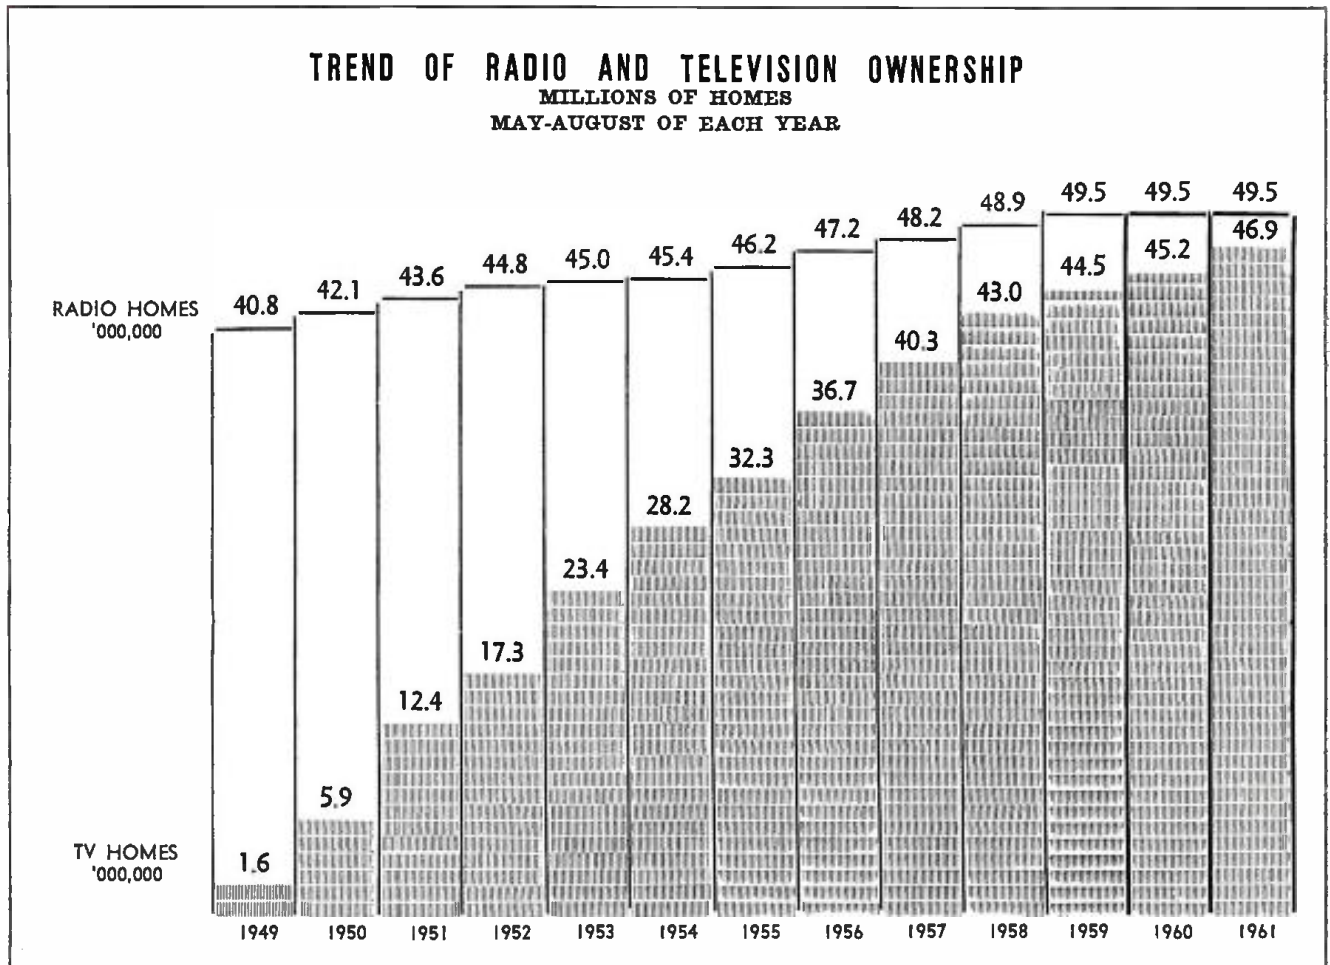

The radio home figures—49.5 million were estimated by the A. C. Nielsen Co., which has frozen them since March 1959 pending a more authoritative count by the Census Bureau.

The size of radio was pointed up in another way by the Radio Advertising Bureau. RAB estimated that as of Jan. 1, 1961, there were 168,314,000 radio sets in working order in the U. S.: 115, 698,000 in homes, 42,616,000 in automobiles and 10,000,000 in public places. These figures represent a gain of almost 12 million over RAB's estimates a year earlier.

The estimates of tv-equipped homes came from two sources: A. C. Nielsen Co. and the American Research Bureau. Nielsen put the U. S. total at 46.9 million or 88 percent as of Jan. 1, 1961, while ARB estimated almost 47.9 million or about 90 percent as of the same date.

All of the data used in preparing the charts and tables on this page and those immediately following was furnished by the A. C. Nielsen Co. and its Nielsen Television Index (NTI) or Nielsen Radio Index (NRI), unless otherwise indicated. The material depicts basic dimensions of both radio and television in terms of their audiences, including average weekly listening and viewing, high and low listening and viewing periods by hour of the day, day of the week and season of the year; radio and tv usage as it varies in counties of different sizes and from one geographic region to another; tv audience composition and the types of programming that command most viewing time.

THE WEEKLY RADIO AND TV AUDIENCE

HOW MANY LOOK AND LISTEN? The respective sizes of the radio and television audiences in the course of an average week are shown above, by day part and by full-week total. In each case, the count is limited to different homes listening or viewing—duplication has been eliminated. Figures are from the 1961-Nielsen March Week I study.

SIZE OF THE BROADCAST AUDIENCE is spelled out in further detail in the three foregoing tables. Here the measurement is in terms of U. S. homes tuning during an average minute. The county-size classifications are as follows: Class A, all counties assigned to metro areas having central cities with populations over 500,000; Class B, all other counties over 100,000 population, plus certain counties that are parts of metro areas whose central city has population less than 50,000; Class C, all other counties having population over 30,000; Class D, all remaining counties. Sources: Nielsen Radio Index; Nielsen Television Index.

LISTENING IN RADIO-ONLY vs. LISTENING IN TV HOMES

HOW RADIO LISTENING DIFFERS IN TV HOMES. This table, based on Nielsen measurements in March-April 1961, gives the answer. It also shows the extent of radio listening in all radio homes, those with as well as those without tv, thus providing a norm with which to compare the extent of listening in the sub-categories.

Sunday	30 mins.	34 mins.	21 mins.	1	25

EXTENT OF IN-HOME RADIO LISTENING, by day parts as well as by average day, is pointed up in this table (above), based on NRI measurements in March-April 1961.

Not included in this table: Listening to auto radios and other out-of-home sets.

NUMBER OF HOMES TUNED TO RADIO, TV

IN-HOME AUDIENCES are shown in another way in the tables at right depicting number of homes tuned in per average minute of each daytime hour, Sunday through Saturday. At night the radio tune-in, over a full week, is 4.1 million homes in the average minute between 6 and 7 p.m.; 3.2 million at 7-8, 2.5 million at 8-9, 2.2 million at 9-10; 2.4 million at 10-11 and 2.1 million at 11-12 midnight. Figures are for NRI March-April 1961. Comparable nighttime figures for television are 20.1 million at 6-7, 26.1 million at 7-8, 29.8 million at 8-9, 30.2 million at 9-10, 24.6 million at 10-11, and 13.4 million at 11-12 midnight. Monday-Friday Morning	4.7	6.8	6.2
Monday-Friday Afternoon	4.7	5.0	4.5
All Nights (6-11 p.m.)	3.2	2.8	2.9

THE VARIATIONS between summer and winter audiences, in both radio and television, are demonstrated in the tables above. The figures in both tables show in millions the number of homes tuned-in during the average minute. Note that while television's afternoon and evening audiences are substantially higher than radio's, radio's is consistently greater during the morning, winter and summer. Tables from A. C. Nielsen Co.

TV VIEWING PER HOME PER DAY

VIEWING PER HOME PER DAY. The time the average tv home spends watching television each day is depicted in the table above, which not only shows the daily average over the full week but also breaks down the daily average by day part and days of the week. Data is NTI January-February 1961.

Television time sales 1948-1960

These are total billings for all U.S. stations and networks after all frequency and promotional discounts but before payment of commissions to agencies, sales representatives, etc. Figures are those officially reported by the FCC, except radio for 1960 which are BROADCASTING estimates.

*In 1948 FCC reported only "total revenues" (from time, talent and services) from "network programs" and from business "sold directly by stations." Hence figures for that first year of television financial reporting are not comparable with figures for time sales in ensuing years.

Total includes regional network and miscellaneous time sales not assignable to network, national non-network and local categories.

No time for scatter-shot "...greater productivity in advertising is of the essence. With the ad budget one of the biggest, if not the biggest single item of expenditure for many food and grocery companies, a five per cent greater effectiveness means tens of thousands and even millions of dollars. It is this prize that is generating all the heat and effort."

FOOD FIELD REPORTER, 10/26/59

How to achieve that all-important extra effectiveness? Certainly not with scatter-shot advertising. The dictates of marketing today call for rifle-shot accuracy...for spot, the rifle-shot medium.

Only with spot can you target in on your markets of greatest potential, and use in each one: the right station(s), a hand-tailored copy approach, the necessary weight of impressions for the job.

pick a card (any one) and you'll get a specialist in 5 great TV markets.

Want the market picture and/or availabilities in New York, Chicago, Los Angeles, Detroit, San Francisco... want it fast, full and factual?

It's in the cards . . . as shown above.

They speak singly and collectively, all 18 of them, for ABC-TV National Station Sales, Inc., ABC-TV's new owned-and-operated stations' sales organization. They speak, specifically, for KGO-TV (San Francisco) . . .

WXYZ-TV (Detroit) . . . KABC-TV (Los Angeles) . . . WBKB (Chicago) . . . WABC-TV (New York) . . . five of the most trendful stations in five of the nation's most prosperous markets.

One call, on your part, calls into action a man who will now concentrate 100% of his considerable media experience on these markets. And nowhere else. Call, as they say, now.

The CBS Eye logo is a large, stylized eye shape composed of three concentric circles. The outermost circle is black, the middle ring is orange, and the innermost circle is black. The text "CBS TELEVISION STATIONS NATIONAL SALES" is centered within the innermost black circle in white, bold, sans-serif capital letters.

CBS TELEVISION
SALES

AT YOUR SERVICE! Service is the watchword of CBS Television Stations National Sales (formerly CBS Television Spot Sales), now the national sales organization for the five CBS Owned television stations exclusively.

These five major-market stations are being sold now by the same full-strength staff of sales specialists in six regional offices...backstopped by the same array of experienced research, promotion and sales service people. What results is a finely-tuned sales force with the knowledge and the time to be an "extra arm" to advertisers and agencies seeking top efficiency from their television dollars.

An unbeatable combination—the sales impact you get from the CBS Owned stations (WCBS-TV New York, WBBM-TV Chicago, KNXT Los Angeles, WCAU-TV Philadelphia and KMOX-TV St. Louis) plus the service-in-depth you get from CBS Television Stations National Sales (with sales offices in New York, Chicago, Los Angeles, Detroit, San Francisco and Atlanta).

ABC Television Network

Well, what kind of a trend has it been?

It's been, first, a trend to first place.* To the largest share of the viewing audience where it counts most.

From October to June, in the markets where they can watch all 3 networks, they watched ABC-TV most.*

It's been a trend to new successes in new programming. My Three Sons and The Flintstones, for example, have continually hit the top ten. And such established trends as The Untouchables, 77 Sunset Strip, The Real McCoys, have kept trending right along.

It's been a trend to a new trend in public service series. Witness the acclaim for Sir Winston Churchill: The Valiant Years, Close-Up!, Expedition. And a new trend in news reporting: ABC-TV News Final.

It's been a trend to sports leadership . . . with Fight of the Week, NCAA and American League Football, College Basketball, All Star Golf, ABC-TV Wide World of Sports.

It's been a trend to the most tangible kind of sponsor enthusiasm—a 20% jump in billings for the first quarter of '61, a figure far in excess of the industry pattern.

It's been a trend to new affiliate successes.† In Portland, Ore., Seattle-Tacoma, Salt Lake City, Boston, Milwaukee, after affiliate switches to ABC-TV, average evening audience shares soared as much as 52%.

It's been, in summary, that happiest of trends—an uptrend. A direction in which, it should be noted, we have every programming intention (Top Cat, The New Breed, Target: The Corruptors, Calvin and the Colonel) of continuing.

ABC-TV NETWORK RATES

Below are gross rates for Class A hour. Class A time is 6-11 p.m., Sunday through Saturday. Class B rate (75% of Class A rate) applies to stations not primarily affiliated with ABC-TV. Class C time (50% of Class A rate) is 11 p.m. to sign-off Sunday through Saturday, 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. Saturday and Sunday, and 5-6 p.m. Monday through Friday. Class D time (33.3% of Class A rate) is daytime hours up to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday, except for special programs on national holidays, which are charged as Class C. Rates for periods less than one hour are charged at these percentages of the hour rate; 80% for 45 minutes; 60% for 30 minutes; 40% for 15 minutes; 33 1/3% for 10 minutes and 26 2/3% for 5 minutes.

ABC has no must-buy list of basic stations. Its rate card states: "Advertisers are required to purchase for each program a minimum cleared gross for station time equivalent to $80,000.00 for each Class A hour telecast."

IF THE
IS YOUR MARKET

IS YOUR NETWORK BUY

ABC Radio researched the young adult market. Found it big, bountiful and burgeoning. ABC Radio went after the young adult market with programming and promotion. Now you virtually own the young adult market with "Breakfast Club" on ABC Radio . . . "Flair" on ABC Radio . . . Sports on ABC Radio . . . News on ABC Radio. On the average, program for program, hour for hour, minute for minute, it costs you less to sell with ABC Radio. So ask your ABC Radio salesman for all the facts and figures.

CBS RADIO NETWORK RATES

Rate card provides for sale of 5- and 2½-min units in specified Mon-Fri daytime programs and 5-min segments on specified weekend programs & after 6:30 pm, NYT, on Mon-Fri, plus 5-min segments on a run-of-schedule basis. Fixed position: 5-min units (wkday) cost $1,450 each, if order is for fewer than 4 units per week for under 13 weeks; 2½-min (wkday) and 15-min (wkend) units cost $1,100 each for fewer than 6 per week for less than 13 week. Run-of-schedule: 5-min segments are $950 each for a minimum buy of 6-10 per week. These prices reduce as frequency and contract length increase, and the categories are combinable for discounts. Rates include talent and facilities for full network, with time charges rebateable on a pro-rata basis for stations not carrying. Rate card further provides for sale of other program lengths in multiples and fractions of a full hour.

NBC RADIO NETWORK RATES

NBC Radio does not list rates for affiliates individually. It sells on a "full network" basis. Privately it has set up a schedule of percentages to compute rebates to advertisers for stations that fail to clear. These percentages are not made public.

Gross costs of participations, full network, follow:

Participation or Segment	"MONITOR"	Weekday Programming
5 minutes	$1,530
1 minute	1,350	$1,350
30 seconds	1,000	1,000
6 seconds	400	400

These prices are based on a full network clearance.

Gross time charges on the full network for sponsored programs, effective June 1, 1960, follow:

Length of Program	Total Gross Network Charge
5 minutes	$1,736.87
10 minutes	3,269.37
15 minutes	4,597.50
20 minutes	5,721.37
25 minutes	6,768.50
30 minutes	7,662.50
35 minutes	8,582.00
40 minutes	9,399.37
45 minutes	10,114.50
50 minutes	10,727.50
55 minutes	11,238.37
60 minutes	12,260.00

avoid the hazards of selling on your own

Why take the risks involved in negotiating without our knowledge of markets, of actual sales, of responsible contacts? In speaking to any buyer, Blackburn's experience and reputation for reliability naturally lend greater weight to our opinion than any seller can reasonably expect to be given to his own.

Voice of America Fact Sheet

The work of the Voice of America, a part of the U. S. Information Agency, is to submit evidence to the peoples of other nations that the objectives and policies of the United States are in harmony with and will advance their legitimate aspirations for freedom, progress and peace. Equally the Voice exposes Soviet imperialism and the fraud of international communism, while combatting their anti-American slanders and lies.

Radio is the fastest, most effective day-by-day medium for achieving these objectives; it speaks directly to people abroad, instantaneously surmounting barriers of distance, censorship, illiteracy, foreign exchange, paper shortages and tariffs.

Facilities

The Voice has a network of 87 transmitters of which 30 are in the United States.

These latter are shortwave stations, ranging in power from 25 thousand to 200 thousand watts, and operated under contract to VOA by private broadcasting companies. Government-owned or controlled relay stations are located at Munich, Salonika, Tangier, Ceylon, Honolulu, the Philippines and Okinawa. These installations comprising short, medium and longwave stations, include million-watt transmitters—the world's most powerful known broadcasting facilities—in the Philippines, Okinawa and Munich.

Relay facilities are also leased from BBC in England. Other relays or rebroadcasts are made through arrangements with local broadcasters of France, Italy, Germany, Austria, Switzerland, Trieste, Greece, The Congo (Leopoldville), Viet-Nam, Japan, Korea, the Philippines, Formosa and Latin America.

The Voice has a floating broadcasting station, the U. S. Coast Guard Cutter Courier which uses high powered medium wave and shortwave transmitters. The Courier provides VOA with a mobile and flexible relay station to meet the demands of the changing world situation and to combat Soviet jamming.

Program Content

Voice broadcasts consist of news, news analyses and features, which include political commentaries, press reviews, round-table discussions, documentaries and special events. Although the breakdown varies from area to area, the program content in general is balanced as follows: News: 50%; Analyses and Features: 60%.

Approximately 60% of VOA's total program effort is directed to the Iron Curtain countries and Communist China. In addition to direct shortwave programming, the Voice regularly broadcasts transcribed programs air-shipped to its relay stations. Other transcribed programs, music recordings, script material, television kinescopes and films are also furnished to U. S. Information Service offices throughout the free world for local distribution and broadcast.

Audience Information

Programs are beamed to areas having a potential audience of over 400,000,000. Scientific surveys, letters from listeners, interviews with Iron Curtain defectors, efforts by the Communist press and radio to discredit the broadcasts, reports from United States missions, correspondents and travelers provide convincing evidence of a regular listening audience of many millions.

Operations Information

The Broadcasting Service is responsible for the planning, execution and content of programs. Programs are written, produced and broadcast from studios in Washington, D. C.

Voice of America Daily Broadcasts

“In our generation, the most profound change to come upon the music scene undoubtedly was the formation of Broadcast Music, Inc. . . . Tin Pan Alley is now the United States of America.”

An Editorial by

PAUL ACKERMAN, Music Editor

Billboard Music Week

January 30, 1961

“Music—both as an art and an industry—is dynamic and ever-changing. To maintain a state of health it must be ever-seeking; it must always reach out and embrace new ideas and forms. It must avoid the status quo, for when an art and an industry lapses deeply into a rut, it can only decline and lose importance as a facet of the nation’s culture.

“In our generation, the most profound change to come upon the music scene undoubtedly was the formation of Broadcast Music, Inc. The creation of BMI set up a chain reaction of developments which brought to American music a richer repertoire and a broader base. In a phrase: Tin Pan Alley is now the United States of America.

DEPTH OF CHANGE

“The drama of this statement needs no undue emphasis. The simple statement of fact indicates clearly the depth of change that has come upon the music industry—upon its songwriters, publishers, artists and recording executives. And, of course, upon the people—the last and most important link to be effected.

“BMI brought to the music business not only dramatic change, but a large measure of romance. New sounds and new writers from faraway cities emerged to leave fresh impressions upon a musical scene.

“As is true of all major departures from the norm, the changing patterns dislocated writers and publishers of the old school. All who were solidly entrenched viewed the new era with irritation—if not loathing. The day of sleek comfort was dissipated by the onset of sharp competition.

A RICHER ART

“Yet, in our view, this competition has resulted in a richer musical art and a more progressive music business. This we feel is true not only in the fields of concert and jazz music, but also in the pop category where BMI has been most strongly attacked by adherents of the older music business. We feel that when serious composers begin the task of capturing the essence of musical America in major works, they will find that their basic material is all the richer because of the folk-oriented repertoire which BMI brought to the mainstream of pop music. When the tumult dies, it will be realized that this repertoire, neglected through the years, represents much of the musical heartland of the continent.

“Competition has made this musical growth possible. It is worth remarking that this competition was created by the broadcasting industry. It was not imposed by a governmental agency; rather, it is one of the notable examples of an industry facing a problem—the need for competition—and solving that problem from within.”

Schools Specializing in Radio-Tv

(This list includes only those schools which specialize in professional or technical courses in broadcasting. Many colleges and universities also offer courses in radio and television. Current information on college and university radio-tv courses is maintained by the Office of Education, United States Dept. of Health, Education & Welfare 330 Independence Ave., S.W., Washington, D. C., and by National Assn. of Broadcasters, 1771 N St. NW, Washington 6, D. C.

Announcer Training Studios. 25 West 43rd st., New York, N. Y.

Courses offered: Spanish announcing course, commercial spokesman course, radio announcing course; FCC 1st class ticket preparation course.

Broadcasting-Video Arts School. 2118 Spruce St., Philadelphia 3, Pa. Locust 3-0826.

Courses offered: Basic courses covering radio-tv field.

Brown Institute of Broadcasting and Electronics. 3123 E. Lake St. Minneapolis 6, Minn. Parkway 1-1639.

Courses offered: Broadcasting techniques (including tv production fundamentals); FCC license preparation.

California Institute of Radio & Television. 2700 Cahuenga Blvd. Hollywood 28, Calif. Hollywood 9-1938.

Courses offered: Radio-tv production; FCC electronics. In-residence and correspondence.

Cambridge School of Broadcasting. 687 Boylston St., Boston 16, Mass. Copley 7-4380.

Courses offered: Radio and tv production, announcing, sales, continuity writing, sportscasting, newscasting, operation of equipment; FCC license preparation.

Capitol Radio Engineering Institute. 3224 16th St. N.W. Washington 10, D. C. Hobart 2-1520.

Courses offered: Career development programs in electronic engineering technology; residence and extension: communications, aeronautical and navigational, television engineering technology, servo-mechanisms and computer, automation and industrial electronics engineering technology; engineering math; management and nuclear engineering technology.

Cleveland Institute of Electronics. 1776 E. 17th St., Cleveland 14, Superior 1-9400.

Courses offered: Intermediate electronics; master course in broadcast engineering (leading to 1st class license); advanced communication engineering.

Coyne Electrical School. 1501 W. Congress Parkway, Chicago 7, Ill. Seeley 2-7722.

Courses offered: Electrical-electronic-radio-tv, service technicians.

DeVry Technical Institute. 4141 Belmont Ave., Chicago 41, Ill. Kildare 5-2700.

Courses offered: Radio-tv servicing, communications, electronic controls for automation, electronic technology.

Hilkins Institute of Radio & Electronics. 2603 Inwood Rd. Dallas 35, Tex. Fleetwood 2-9565.

Atlanta 9, Ga.: 1139 Spring St., N.W. Trinity 2-0375.

Chicago 4, Ill.: 14 E. Jackson Blvd. Wabash 2-5430.

Courses offered: 6-week theory & laboratory training in radio, tv, electronics, terminated by acquisition of a 1st class radio-telephone FCC license.

Hilkins School of Broadcasting. 2603 Inwood Road, Dallas 35, Tex. Fleetwood 2-9565.

Courses offered: 12-week course in fundamental broadcasting encompassing announcing, scriptwriting, sportscasting, newscasting, control operation, recording, programming, production, etc.

Grantham School of Electronics. Hollywood Division: 1505 N. Western Ave., Hollywood 27, Calif. Hollywood 7-7727. Washington Division: 821 19th St., N.W., Washington 6, D. C. Sterling 3-3614. Seattle Division: 408 Marion St., Seattle 4, Wash. Main 2-7227. Kansas City Division: 3123 Gilham Rd., Kansas City 9, Mo. Jefferson 1-6320.

Courses offered: Preparation for FCC operator license examinations by correspondence or in resident classes.

Lincoln School of Radio & Television. 1851 Broadway, New York 23, N. Y. Circle 6-5300.

Courses offered: radio, fm and television technicians, electronic (radar) technician, electrical inspector.

Don Martin School of Radio & Television Arts & Sciences. 1653 North Cherokee, Los Angeles 28, Calif. Hollywood 2-3281.

Courses offered: Complete tv production and engineering; radio production, announcing, electronics and preparation for FCC license.

Mid-South Electronics Institute Inc. 207 23rd Ave. North, Nashville 5, Tenn. Cypress 1-7998.

Courses offered: Radio-tv servicing, engineering and announcing.

Midwestern Broadcasting School. 228 S. Wabash Ave., Chicago 4, Ill. Wabash 2-0712.

Courses offered: Announcing.

National Academy of Broadcasting Inc. 3338 16th St., N.W., Washington 10, D. C. Decatur 2-5530.

Courses offered: Radio-tv announcing; script; drama; production; diction; foreign words; promotion; management; FCC license preparation.

New School for Social Research. 66 West 12th St., New York 11, N. Y. Oregon 5-2700.

Courses offered: Tv writing workshop; script writing clinic.

New York Institute of Technology. 135 W. 70th St., New York 23, Endicott 2-9100.

Courses offered: Degree programs in radio and tv programming and production, electronics technology.

New York School of Announcing and Speech. 165 W. 46th St., New York 36, LT 1-3471.

Courses offered: Basic of radio; advanced courses in newscasting, disc-jockeying; specializes in closed-circuit am and tv.

THE ABCs OF RADIO and TELEVISION

Even the most experienced radio and television executives would find it hard to answer all the questions of how these businesses came about, how they operate, what they consist of. This primer provides the answers. It was prepared by George O. Gillingham, FCC information chief.

HOW RADIO BEGAN

Radio communication was born of many minds and developments. In the 1860's, Maxwell predicted the existence of radio waves. Hertz later demonstrated that rapid variations of electric current can be projected into space in the form of waves similar to those of light and heat. In 1895, Marconi transmitted radio signals for a short distance and, at the turn of the century, conducted successful trans-Atlantic tests.

The first practical application of radio was for ship-to-ship and ship-to-shore telegraphic communication. Marine disasters early demonstrated the speed and effectiveness of radiotelegraphy for safeguarding life and property at sea.

This new communication medium was first known as "wireless." American use of the term "radio" is traced to about 1912 when the Navy, feeling that "wireless" was too inclusive, adopted the word "radiotelegraph." Though the British still cling to the older term, "radio" continues to be the American designation. The word "broadcast" stems from early United States naval reference to "broadcast" of orders to the fleet.

There was some military radiotelephony in World War I—between ground and planes and ship and shore—but most early radio communication was confined to ships at sea and to amateurs. The latter were highly instrumental in arousing popular interest in radio and otherwise contributing to its progress.

The first voice broadcast is a subject for debate. Claims to that distinction range from "Hello, Rainey," said to have been sent by Stubblefield to a partner in a demonstration near Murray, Ky., in 1892, to an impromptu program from Brant Rock, Mass., by Fessenden in 1906, which was picked up by nearby ships.

There were other early experimental audio transmissions—such as De Forest putting Enrico Caruso on the air in 1910 and trans-Atlantic voice tests by the Navy station at Arlington, Va., in 1915—but it was not until after World War I that regular broadcasting began. But here, too, there is controversy. Some radio broadcasting stations developed from experimental operations going back to 1912. KDKA Pittsburgh, although not issued a regular broadcasting license until Nov. 7, 1921, carried experimental programs prior to that date under a license issued in 1920. The first station issued a regular broadcast license was WBZ Springfield, Mass., on Sept. 15, 1921.

There was experimental network operation over telephone lines as early as 1922. In that year WJZ Newark, N. J., and WGY Schenectady broadcast the World Series. Early in 1923 WEAJ New York and WNAC Boston picked up a football game from Chicago. Later that same year WEAJ and WGY were connected with KDKA Pittsburgh and KYW Chicago to carry talks made at a dinner in New York. President Coolidge's message to Congress was broadcast by six stations in late 1923. In 1926 the National Broadcasting Co. started the first regular network with 24 stations. Its first coast-to-coast hook-up, in 1927, broadcast a football game. In the latter year the Columbia Broadcasting System was organized. The first round-the-world broadcast was made from Schenectady in 1930. Today, thanks to telephone lines, coaxial cable, microwave and other relay facilities, it is possible to send the same program over many stations at the same time.

Fm (frequency modulation) and tv (television) broadcast emerged from their experimental stage just before World War II. Wartime restrictions retarded normal expansion of radio facilities but that emergency produced new techniques and apparatus which have invaluable peacetime application.

REGULATION OF BROADCASTING

There was a Wireless Ship Act of 1910 which applied to use of radio by ships, but the Radio Act of 1912 was the first domestic law for the control of radio in general. It made the then Secretary of Commerce & Labor responsible for licensing radio stations and operators.

Early broadcasting was experimental and, therefore, noncommercial. In 1919 broadcasters operated as "limited commercial stations." In 1922 the "wavelength" of 360 meters (approximately 830 kilocycles) was assigned for the transmission of "important news items, entertainment, lectures, sermons and similar matter."

Recommendations of the first National Radio Conference in 1922 resulted in further regulations by the Secretary of Commerce. A new type of broadcast station came into being, with minimum power of 500 watts and maximum of 1,000 watts (1 kilowatt). Two frequencies (750 and 833 kilocycles) were assigned for program transmission.

So rapid was the development of aural broadcasting that, upon recommendation of subsequent National Radio Conferences (1923 and 1924), the Dept. of Commerce allocated 550 to 1500 kilocycles for standard broadcast (am being the only regular broadcast at that time), and authorized operating power up to 5,000 watts (5 kilowatts).

Increase in the number of am stations caused so much interference that, in 1925, a fourth National Radio Conference asked for a limitation on broadcast time and power. The Secretary of Commerce was unable to deal with the situation because court decisions held that the Radio Act of 1912 did not give him this authority. As a result, many broadcasters jumped their frequencies and increased their power and operating time at will, regardless of the effect on other stations. This caused bedlam on the air.

In 1926 President Coolidge urged Congress to remedy matters. The result was the Dill-White Radio Act of 1927.

Federal Radio Commission

The Radio Act of 1927 created a five-member Federal Radio Commission with certain regulatory powers over radio, including the issuance of station licenses, the allocation of frequency bands to various services, assignment of specified frequencies to individual stations and control of station power. The same act also delegated to the Secretary of Commerce authority to inspect radio stations, to examine and license radio operators and to assign radio call signals.

Much of the early efforts of the Federal Radio Commission were devoted to straightening out the confusion in the broadcast band. It was impossible to care for the 732 broadcast stations as then operating. New rules and regulations caused about 150 of them to surrender their licenses.

Communications Act of 1934

At the request of President Roosevelt, the Secretary of Commerce in 1933 appointed an interdepartmental committee to study the overall interstate and international electrical communications situation. The committee reported that "the communications service, as far as Congressional action is involved, should be regulated by a single body." Accordingly, it recommended the establishment of a new agency which would regulate all interstate and foreign communication by wire and radio, including telegraph, telephone and broadcast. The resultant Communications Act of 1934 created the present Federal Communications Commission for this unified regulation.

Federal Communications Commission

The Federal Communications Commission, an independent federal agency composed of seven commissioners appointed by the President, by and with the advice and consent of the Senate, began operating on July 1, 1934.

WHAT THE FCC DOES

One of the FCC's major activities is the general regulation of broadcasting—now visual as well as aural. This regulation, largely technical in nature, may be divided into two phases.

The first phase deals with the allocation of spectrum space to the different types of broadcast services in accordance with Commission policies and rules to carry out the intent of international agreements, the Communications Act and other domestic laws affecting broadcasting.

The second phase is concerned more directly with individual stations, and embraces consideration of applications to build and operate; the assignment of specific frequencies, power, time of operation and call letters; the periodic inspection of equipment and the engineering aspects of operation; passing upon transfers and assignments of facilities; also the many varied changes in existing authorizations; modifying and renewing construction permits and licenses; reviewing the general service of each particular station to determine whether it has been operating in the public interest; licensing radio operators, and otherwise discharging domestic regulatory responsibilities.

Broadcast stations are licensed to serve the public interest, convenience and necessity. Because radio channels are limited and are a part of the public domain, it is important that they be entrusted to licensees who have a high sense of public responsibility. The normal license period is three years but, in 1960, Congress authorized the Commission to make shorter term grants at its discretion.

The Communications Act sets up certain basic requirements which must be met by broadcast applicants. In general, applicants must be legally, technically and financially qualified, and show that their proposed operation will be in the public interest. A 1960 amendment to the Communications Act empowers the Commission to fine broadcast licensees up to $10,000 for willful and repeated violations.

The license privilege is limited by law to citizens of the United States. It is denied to corporations wherein any officer or director is an alien or of which more than one-fifth of the capital stock is controlled by foreign interests.

The Commission's broadcast application and hearing procedure is outlined in a separate FCC information bulletin (see page C-24).

Programs: Under the Communications Act it is the responsibility of each broadcast station licensee to arrange his program structure so that his operations will be in the public interest. The Commission does not prescribe any percentages of time which should be devoted to particular subjects, such as news, education, religion, music, public issues, etc. That is something which can vary with the locality. However, the Commission does periodically review the overall performance of a station—engineering and otherwise—when it applies for renewal of its license, to determine whether it has lived up to its obligations and the promises it made in obtaining permission to use the public airwaves.

In 1960 the Commission issued a report and statement of policy on programming. It stated in part:

"In the fulfillment of his obligation the broadcaster should consider the tastes, needs and desires of the public he is licensed to serve in developing his programming and should exercise conscientious efforts not only to ascertain them but also to carry them out as well as he reasonably can. He should reasonably attempt to meet all such needs and interests on an equitable basis. Particular areas of interest and types of appropriate service may, of course, differ from community to community, and from time to time. However, the Commission does expect its broadcast licensees to take the necessary steps to inform themselves of the real needs and interests of the areas they serve and to provide programming which in fact constitutes a diligent effort, in good faith, to provide for those needs and interests.

"The major elements usually necessary to meet the public interest, needs and desires of the community in which the station is located as developed by the industry, and recognized by the Commission, have included: (1) Opportunity for Local Self-Expression, (2) The Development and Use of Local Talent, (3) Programs for Children, (4) Religious Programs, (5) Educational Programs, (6) Public Affairs Programs, (7) Editorialization by Licensees, (8) Political Broadcasts, (9) Agricultural Programs, (10) News Programs, (11) Weather and Market Reports, (12) Sports Programs, (13) Service to Minority Groups, (14) Entertainment Programming.

"The elements set out above are neither all-embracing nor constant. We reemphasize that they do not serve and have been intended as a rigid mold or fixed formula for station operation. The ascertainment of the needed elements of the broadcast matter to be provided by a particular licensee for the audience he is obligated to serve remains primarily the function of the licensee. His honest and prudent judgments will be accorded great weight by the Commission. Indeed, any other course would tend to substitute the judgment of the Commission for that of the licensee."

Censorship and free speech: This review of broadcast station performance does not, however, give the Commission authority to direct a station to put a particular program on or off the air. The Communications Act states: "Nothing in this Act shall be understood or construed to give Commission the power of censorship over the radio communications or signals transmitted by any radio station, and no regulation or condition shall be promulgated or fixed by the Commission which shall interfere with the right of free speech by means of radio communication." The Commission has held that freedom of speech on the air must be broad enough to provide full and equal opportunity for the presentation of both sides of public issues. Under such conditions, licensees of broadcast stations have the right to editorialize.

Advertising: While it does not pass upon the nature or length of commercials on the air, the Commission's review of a station's performance does consider deviation from promised service which tends toward overcommercialization. Also, under a cooperative arrangement with the Federal Trade Commission, which has jurisdiction over false and misleading advertising on the air, the Commission notifies stations concerned of broadcast advertising cited by the FTC so that these stations may take any necessary action consistent with their obligation to operate in the public interest.

Political broadcasts: The Communications Act (sec. 315) expressly provides: "If any licensee shall permit any person who is a legally qualified candidate for any public office to use a broadcasting station, he shall afford equal opportunities to all other such candidates for that office in the use of such broadcasting station: Provided, that such licensee shall have no power of censorship over the material broadcast under the provisions of this section. No obligation is hereby imposed upon any licensee to allow the use of its station by any such candidate. The charges made for the use of any broadcasting station for any of the purposes set forth in this section shall not exceed the charges made for comparable use of such station for other purposes." In 1959, news broadcasts were exempted from the "equal time" provisions of sec. 315. Congress suspended the equal-time provision for nominees for President and Vice President in the 1960 campaign to determine its effect in considering possible permanent waiver.

"Payola" and "Fixed Quiz" show revelations resulted in the Communications Act being amended in 1960 to make it illegal to "plug" records and other commercial services over the air without announcing if payment has been received, and to penalize those who broadcast deceptive programs purporting to be based upon knowledge, skill or chance.

Lotteries, obscenity and fraud: The United States Criminal Code prohibits broadcast of information concerning "any lottery, gift enterprise, or similar scheme," also utterance of obscene, indecent, or profane language, and fraud by wire, radio, or television. A Supreme Court decision on a particular "give-away" program did not hold it to be a lottery.

Time charges and station management: The Communications Act declares that broadcasting is not a common carrier operation. Consequently, a broadcast station is not required to sell or to give time to all who seek to go on the air. Because programming is primarily the responsibility of broadcast station licensees, the Commission does not ordinarily monitor or pass upon individual programs, or require the filing of radio scripts. However, broadcast stations are required to keep a program log and a technical log, and a record of all requests for political broadcast time. The Commission does not maintain surveillance of the day-to-day internal management of broadcast stations or regulate their time charges, profits, artists' salaries or employe relations.

Networks: The Commission does not license networks as such, but only individual stations. However, its licensees are subject to the chain broadcasting regulations adopted by the Commission in 1941 to further competition in broadcasting and implemented by regulations stemming from its 1957 special study of tv network broadcasting. The major radio networks are: American Broadcasting Co., Columbia Broadcasting System, Mutual Broadcasting System and the National Broadcasting Co. The Commission has indorsed proposed legislation which would enable it to license networks directly.

Monopoly: There is Commission prohibition against the same interest or group from operating more than one network, or more than one am, fm or tv station in the same area, or more than seven am, seven fm or seven tv commercial stations throughout the country as a whole. Not more than five of these tv stations may be in the vhf band.

Receivers: The Commission does not license sets that are for reception only. However, it does impose limitations on their radiations which may interfere with radio or tv service. The advent of "wireless" prompted the use of receiving sets by amateurs and others interested in listening-in on Morse code radiotelegraph transmission. Inexpensive crystal detectors boomed the production of home-made and manufactured receivers. The advent of broadcasting aroused public interest in sets (at first battery-operated) to receive regular programs. Receiving sets operated by house current came on the market about 1928. A 1948 development called the "transistor" has replaced tubes in many sets.

Call letters: International agreement provides for the national identification of a radio station by the first letter or first two letters of its assigned call signal, and for this purpose apportions the alphabet among different nations. United States stations use the initial letters K, N, and W, exclusively, and part of the A series. Broadcast stations are assigned call letters beginning with K or W. Generally speaking, those beginning with K are assigned to stations west of the Mississippi River and in the territories and possessions, while W is assigned to broadcast stations east of the Mississippi.

During radio's infancy, most of the broadcast stations were in the East. As inland stations developed, the Mississippi River was made the dividing line of K and W calls. KDKA Pittsburgh was assigned the K letter before the present system was put into effect. Most of the early broadcast assignments were three letters. This combination became exhausted, making it necessary to add a fourth letter.

Since many am broadcast licensees also operate fm and tv stations, a common practice is to authorize the use of the call letters of the am station followed by a dash and "fm" or "tv," as the case may be.

National defense: Under the CONELRAD system for the control of electromagnetic radiation in war emergency, all fm and tv stations would cease operation on a radio "alert" and remain silent until the "all clear" signal was given. However, designated am stations would remain on the air to broadcast official bulletins, civil defense instructions and other pertinent information. This would be done on two particular frequencies—640 and 1240 kilocycles—in a way to conceal the location of the transmitting stations and so prevent their beams from guiding enemy aircraft and electronics missiles. Meanwhile, CONELRAD broadcast facilities have been put to peacetime use for alerting communities and areas to threats of hurricanes, tornadoes, floods, and other acts of nature which endanger lives and property.

BROADCAST OPERATION

Since radio frequencies differ, the particular qualities of each radio band must be considered in determining the type of service which can best operate on it. Consequently, that portion of the radio spectrum between 535 and 1605 kilocycles is occupied by am broadcast, fm broadcast is allocated 88 to 108 megacycles, and tv is provided for in 54-216 megacycles (vhf) and 470-890 megacycles (uhf). (A "kilocycle" denotes a thousand wave transmissions a second, while a "megacycle" is a short way of indicating a thousand kilocycles.)

Fm broadcast requires a channel 20 times wider than that used for am, but tv transmission of combined picture and sound needs about 6 times the spectrum space occupied by the entire am broadcast band.

The same aural or video broadcast channel can be used in different places if the using stations are far enough apart so as to not cause excessive interference with one another or to stations on adjacent channels. A tv station may be required to operate "offset" 10 kilocycles above or below its normal carrier frequency. The channel assigned to such a station is, in consequence, designated "plus" or "minus," as the case may be. This makes more tv assignments possible and reduces the probability of interference.

A separate information bulletin on "Frequency Allocation" is available from the Commission.

HOW RADIO WORKS

Without being too technical, here is how an aural (am or fm) broadcast station works:

A person talks into a microphone as if it were a telephone. His voice sets up vibrations of varying intensity and frequency. The lower the pitch the slower the vibration.

In the microphone these vibrations are converted into electrical impulses like those in the originating sound. At the transmitting station these electrical vibrations are greatly amplified—sometimes millions of times—before being put on the "carrier" wave. The intensity and frequency of the carrier wave are constant and this wave, by itself, does not transmit music or speech. So it is varied to correspond with the fluctuations of the speech or music received at the microphone. This is called "modulation."

In am broadcast the audio waves are impressed on the carrier wave in a manner to cause its amplitude (or power) to vary with the audio waves. The frequency of the carrier remains constant. This is known as "amplitude modulation." In "frequency modulation" (fm), the amplitude remains unchanged but the frequency is varied in a manner corresponding to the voice or music to be transmitted.

These modulated waves radiate from the antenna tower at approximately 186,000 miles per second (the speed of light). Some of them follow the contour of the ground and are called "ground waves." Others dart upward and are called "skywaves." Skywaves are often forced back to earth by a ceiling of electrical particles known as the ionosphere. This rebound gives the listener a choice of more distant am stations at night.

Daytime reception is largely dependent upon ground waves.

Radio waves may pass through buildings and other objects but are subject to absorption and interference. As in the case of ripples on water, radio vibrations weaken with distance. Seasonal disturbances and sunspot periods can throw them off their course and cause "freak" reception.

Am broadcast stations use "medium waves." That is, they transmit 540,000 to 1,600,000 waves a second. At 540,000 waves a second, the distance between the crests is approximately 1,800 ft. This is known as "wave length." A station transmitting 540,000 waves a second is said to have a "frequency" of 540,000 cycles or 540 kilocycles.

The so-called "shortwave" (long distance) broadcast stations transmit from 6 million to 25 million waves per second. These waves are sent out one after another so rapidly that the distance between their crests (wave length) is only about 37 to 150 ft.

The modulated radio wave from the radio station is picked up by the home receiving antenna (exterior or set-enclosed). In other words, the wave sets up in the receiving antenna a current having the same frequency characteristics as the one transmitted. In the receiver the audio and carrier waves are separated by a device called a detector or demodulator. The carrier wave, no longer needed, is dissipated while the audio wave is relayed to the loud speaker where it is transformed back into the sound that you hear.

Relays

Relay broadcast depends upon common carrier or private interconnecting facilities. Most live-talent am network programs are sent over telephone wires, many across the continent, for rebroadcast. Am and fm stations also use transcriptions (recordings), and tv stations show many films, "kinescope" and tape recordings. Broadcast stations usually employ wire connections between studios and transmitters, but some use radio (see "Auxiliary Broadcast Services").

Besides being transmitted over wire, cable or microwave facilities, broadcast programs can be picked out of the air for rebroadcast. Because of its characteristics, tv cannot be sent over ordinary wire lines but must depend upon coaxial cable or microwave relay, which can also handle am and fm transmission, as well as telephone, telegraph and facsimile communication.

Transmitting Antennas

In the interest of safety to air navigation, broadcast transmitting antennas more than 150 feet above ground must be reported to the Federal Aviation Agency. All transmitting antennas exceeding 170 feet in height must be painted and lighted. The advent of tv (which roughly, has a theoretical range of as far as can be seen from the top of the transmitting antenna) has produced many towering shafts. One of these [WRBL-TV Columbus, Ga.] rises 1,790 feet above ground, making it the tallest man-made structure in the world. To further minimize hazard to air traffic, shared use of towers in excess of 500 feet or grouping them on "antenna farms," where possible, is advocated.

Directional Antennas

Directional antennas are devices which enable radio stations to control their service patterns. As broadcast stations began to multiply on shared channels, it became necessary to employ directional antennas to prevent interference. Since 1937, directional antennas have been one factor in helping new stations squeeze into the congested am broadcast band. Directional antenna arrays can produce "figure 8" and more complicated service patterns. One complex array includes nine towers. Directional antennas are used also in international communications and microwave relay to beam transmissions to particular points. A few fm and tv stations now use directional antennas.

Am Broadcasting

Amplitude modulation (am) is the oldest system of program transmission. Besides being used in the standard broadcast band it also is employed in most long-distance shortwave broadcast as well as for the visual part of tv programs.

The 535 to 1605 kilocycles portion of the radio spectrum is now used for am broadcast. This pioneer service started operation on the lower frequencies and, as a result, has continued to occupy the band in which it developed.

The am broadcast band consists of 107 channels, each 10 kilocycles in width. Individual stations are assigned to frequencies in the center of each channel, such as 540 kilocycles, 550 kilocycles, etc.

Am broadcast stations use power of from 100 watts up to 50 kilowatts (50,000 watts). The latter is the present maximum power prescribed by the Commission for this service.

There are four major classes of am stations.

A Class I station operates on a clear channel and employs 10,000, 25,000 or 50,000 watts to serve remote rural areas as well as a large center of population.

A Class II station is a secondary station which operates on a clear channel with 250, 500, 1,000, 5,000, 10,000, 25,000 or 50,000 watts. It serves a population center and an adjacent rural area, and is operated so as not to interfere with the extensive services rendered by dominant clear channel stations.

A Class III station, which shares a regional channel with several similar stations, uses power of 500, 1,000 or 5,000 watts and serves a center of population and adjacent rural area.

A Class IV station operates on a local channel (shared by many similar stations elsewhere) and employs up to 250 watts nighttime, and not more than 1 kilowatt daytime.

"Clear channels" are set apart by international agreement for the operation of maximum-powered am stations to serve remote rural areas. The other channels are shared by so many regional and local stations that people living outside populous communities must at night depend largely upon the strong signals of distant clear channel stations which are protected against night-time interference.

Fm Broadcasting

Fm (frequency modulation) has several advantages over the older am (amplitude modulation). Fm has higher fidelity characteristics and is more free of static, fading and background overlapping of other stations' programs.

Fm's greater tonal range capability is due primarily to the fact that it uses a wider channel than that employed for am broadcast. Then, too, fm occupies a higher portion of the radio spectrum where there is less static and other noise than at lower frequencies. Fm receivers have the peculiar ability to suppress weaker stations and other interference.

Since the frequencies on which fm operates do not ordinarily reflect back to earth from ionospheric layers ("skywaves"), it is possible for many scattered fm stations to use the same frequency without excessive interference with one another. Most fm stations serve areas within a radius of approximately 35 to 75 miles, although high-powered fm stations sometimes reach out 100 miles or more. Low-power stations have a limited local coverage.

Fm and am broadcast do not interfere with each other since they are on widely separated bands. Because of the difference in their spectrum locations and the systems used, fm cannot be heard on am receivers without special adapters. Likewise, am broadcast cannot be heard on sets made to receive fm exclusively. However, combination sets cover both bands and systems.

The principle of frequency modulation has long been known but its advantages for broadcasting were not realized until shortly before World War II. Largely as a result of interest evoked by extensive fm development work by Edwin H. Armstrong in the 1930's, the Commission authorized increased fm experimentation and, in 1940, after extensive public hearings, provided for commercial fm operation to start Jan. 1, 1941. It set apart 35 channels for commercial fm and 5 channels for non-commercial educational fm use.

There was no "first" individual commercial fm grant because, on Oct. 31, 1940, the Commission authorized construction permits to 15 such stations simultaneously. By the end of 1940 the number of authorizations had increased to 25. The first commercial fm station licensed by the Commission was WSM-FM Nashville (May 29, 1941), which operated until 1951.

Fm stations were initially assigned call letters with added numerals, but in 1943 the present letter system was adopted. There is optional use of the suffix "FM" to distinguish fm stations from am stations under joint operation.

Though all radio construction was frozen by World War II, more than 40 prewar fm stations continued to serve some 400,000 receivers.

Because of skywave interference experienced on the then fm band of 42-50 megacycles, the Commission in 1945, after public hearing, moved fm to its present higher and less vulnerable position in the radio spectrum—88 to 108 megacycles—and at the same time increased the number of channels to 100. This provided 80 channels for commercial fm and 20 channels for nonprofit educational broadcast (see "Educational Broadcast").

Fm commercial stations are of two classes: Class A for community service and Class B for metropolitan or rural coverage.

Commercial fm stations are licensed for unlimited time operation and are required to program a minimum of 36 hours a week.

Fm stations associated with am stations may use the same programs. In other words, am programs can be duplicated over fm stations, or vice versa. Some fm stations rebroadcast the programs of other fm stations and thereby form regional networks apart from those using wire relay facilities. Likewise, a number of am stations pick up fm programs for rebroadcast, as well as am programs of other stations.

To aid fm broadcasters, the Commission in 1955 enabled them to apply for subsidiary authorizations to engage in certain types of nonbroadcast activities typified by "functional (background) music" operations. This service is tailored to business and other subscribers. Multiplex operation permits the transmission of a different program at the same time as the regular program. The former is received on special sets in stores, factories, etc. of subscribers.

The first subsidiary grants were made simultaneously on Oct. 12, 1955, to WPEN-FM Philadelphia and WWDC-FM Washington, D. C.

Stereophonic broadcast: In 1961 the Commission adopted standards for fm stereophonic broadcast. Fm stations are permitted to transmit "stereo" programs on a multiplex basis without further FCC authorization. Similar standards for am and tv will be considered later. "Stereo" involves dual transmission and reception to enable music and other sound to be heard with more realistic effect.

HOW TV WORKS

Television broadcasting involves transmission of visual and aural programs so synchronized that at the receiving set they are seen and heard in a manner resembling talking motion pictures.

The picture phase is accomplished by sending a rapid succession of electrical impulses which the receiver transforms into scenes and images. The method is complex, but the following is a brief explanation of monochrome (black-and-white) video operation.

The scene to be televised is focused on a special tube in the television camera which has a small "screen" covered with approximately 367,000 microscopic dots of a special substance. This screen can be likened to a tiny motion picture screen and is called a "mosaic." The varying light from each part of the scene being televised falls upon these dots and charges them with an electrical charge the strength of which depends upon the amount of light falling upon the individual dots. Thus each dot becomes a tiny storage battery and the scene is formed in a pattern of electrical charges on the mosaic.

The mosaic is "scanned" by a tiny beam of electrons, no larger than the head of a pin, moving from left to right and progressing downward (just as the printed page is read by the human eye). This complete process is repeated 60 times per second, and the horizontal lines of alternate complete scanning are interlaced so that 30 complete pictures or "frames" composed of 525 horizontal lines are produced each second. As the electron beam strikes each dot on the mosaic, the dot is discharged through the electron beam and the electrical impulses produced are used to modulate the signals of the tv transmitter. Each time the dots are discharged by the electron beam they are recharged by the light produced by the succeeding scene falling upon them. The succession of individual "still" scenes creates the illusion of motion just as in the case of motion pictures made on film.

The reproduction by the tv receiver of the pictures transmitted is just the reverse of the transmission. The incoming succession of electrical impulses are separated from the "carrier" and, after amplification, impressed on the picture tube grid. The picture tube also has an electron "gun" which shoots out a tiny beam of electrons which moves from left to right and progresses downward on the face of the picture tube.

The face of the tube is coated with a material which fluoresces or gives off light at the point where it is struck by the electron beam. In the absence of a television signal the whole face of the picture tube is illuminated equally by a series of closely spaced horizontal lines. When a television signal is placed on the grid of the picture tube it controls the strength of the electron beam and hence the amount of light on the face of the tube. If the scanning of the electron beam in the picture tube is kept in perfect step with the scanning of the electron beam in the television camera, the picture tube will reproduce the lights and shadows of the subject scene and the succession of such scenes produces the illusion of motion.

In brief, the picture seen by the viewer is actually produced by a flickering spot of light moving rapidly across and down the face of the picture tube. The viewer sees the "whole picture" because the screen continues to glow for a tiny fraction of a second after the electron beam has passed, which coupled with the retentive ability of the eye creates the illusion that the picture is there all the time. The high rate of repetition minimizes flicker and lends smoothness to motion.

The tv transmitter is, in effect, two separate units. One sends out the picture and the other the sound. Visual transmission is by amplitude modulation (am). The sound portion employs frequency modulation (fm) and operates much like the regular fm broadcast described elsewhere in this primer.

In addition to live studio presentations, television uses films. The latter include "kinescope" recordings, a rapid filming process which makes it possible to show scenes of events soon after they tape, which would carry both picture and sound, are now being used as a means of tv programming.

HOW TV BEGAN

Many persons in many lands contributed to the development of television. Like radio, tv was made possible by electronic discoveries in the late 19th century and early 20th century. In 1884 Nipkow, a German, patented a scanning disk for transmitting pictures by wireless. In our own country, Jenkins began his study of the subject about 1890. Rignoux and Fournier conducted "television" experiments in France in the 1900's. In 1915 Marconi predicted "visible telephone." In 1923 Zworykin applied for a patent on the iconoscope (tv camera tube). Two years later Jenkins demonstrated mechanical tv apparatus. There were experiments by Alexanderson, Farnsworth and Baird in 1926-1927. An experimental tv program was sent by wire between New York and Washington by the Bell Telephone Labs in 1927, in which Herbert Hoover, then Secretary of Commerce, participated. The next year the same laboratories experimentally televised outdoor programs.

The Federal Radio Commission (predecessor of the FCC) reported that "a few" broadcast stations were experimenting with video in 1928. In that year, WGY Schenectady experimentally broadcast the first drama by tv. Large-screen tv was demonstrated by RCA at a New York theater in 1930, and RCA tested outdoor tv pickup at Camden, N. J., in 1936.

Seventeen experimental tv stations were operating in 1937. An experimental mobile tv station was placed in operation that year. The first President seen on tv was Franklin D. Roosevelt, when he opened the New York World's Fair in 1939. That year also saw the first telecast major league baseball game, college football game and professional boxing match. In 1940 the Republican and Democratic conventions were televised, that of the former making pioneer use of coaxial cable for long distance tv relay purposes. Previously, in the same year, WNBT New York and WRGB Schenectady were joined by radio relay for a rebroadcast test.

Meanwhile, in 1939, the Milwaukee Journal filed the first application to broadcast tv programs on a commercial basis. At a hearing in 1940, the FCC found the industry divided on the question of whether tv was ready for commercial use and at odds on engineering standards. At that time various tv systems required different receivers. A National Television System Committee considered standardization and reported in 1941. Subsequent Commission hearings showed the industry to be in substantial agreement on commercialization and standards. The latter fixed the present line and frame frequencies at 525 and 30 respectively. On April 30, 1941, the Commission authorized commercial tv operation to start July 1 of that year.

Previously, a number of tv stations which had been operating experimentally applied for commercial authorization. The first grant looking to regular tv operation was issued to WNBT (TV) New York on June 17, 1941, effective July 1 of that year. On June 24, 1941, WCBW (now WCBS-TV) New York was authorized to commence program tests July 1 thereafter. By May of 1942, 10 commercial tv stations were on the air. Six of these continued to provide service during the war.

In 1945 the Commission allocated 13 vhf (very high frequency) channels between 44 and 216 megacycles for commercial television. In doing so, it pointed out that there was insufficient spectrum space below 300 megacycles for an adequate nationwide and competitive tv broadcasting system. Twelve of these channels were to be shared with certain nonbroadcast (fixed and mobile) services. At the same time, that portion of the uhf (ultra high frequency) spectrum between 480 and 920 megacycles was made available for experimental tv operation looking to future television expansion, and between 1245 and 1325 megacycles for tv relay.

In 1948, because of interference to commercial tv operation, the Commission stopped the sharing of television vhf channels with other services, and deleted tv channel No. 1 (44-50 mc) by assigning it to the nonbroadcast services affected.

THE TV FREEZE

As predicted by the Commission in 1945, it became increasingly evident that the few available vhf channels were inadequate to provide a truly nationwide competitive tv service. Also, operating stations developed interference which had not been anticipated when tv broadcasting began. As a result, the Commission on Sept. 30, 1948, stopped granting new tv stations pending a study of the situation. This was the so-called television "freeze" order.

The resultant study showed that, before additional stations could be authorized, it was necessary to determine various engineering and other questions which would govern future tv operation. Consequently, on July 11, 1949, the Commission proposed comprehensive changes looking to the improvement and extension of tv service. These included new engineering standards; opening uhf channels for tv broadcasting; consideration of color systems; reservation of channels for noncommercial educational use, and a national assignment plan incorporating vhf and uhf channels.

The color question was the first subject considered because up to the actual hearing it had not been determined if color could operate in the same channel width (six megacycles) used for black-and-white tv transmission.

Color Tv

In color television a brightness component is transmitted in much the same manner as the black-and-white picture signal is sent in monochrome and, in addition, a color component is transmitted at the same time on a "sub-carrier" frequency which is located between the visual and aural carrier frequencies.

Color tv had been the subject of study and experimentation for a quarter of a century. In 1928 Baird, in England, demonstrated an early system. The next year color pictures were sent over wire in a test at the Bell Telephone Labs in New York. RCA gave an experimental color tv demonstration in February 1940, and CBS tested color tv broadcast the following August.

The question of color tv was considered initially by the FCC in 1941 when it proposed alternative standards for monochrome and color. In 1945 it allocated certain uhf frequencies for experimentation in developing color and high definition black-and-white tv. It was not until 1946 that it received a formal proposal for the adoption of color. In denying that CBS petition in 1947, the Commission urged further experimentation with particular reference to making color transmission possible in the 6-megacycle band width used by monochrome tv.

Three competitive color systems were offered for Commission consideration in the general tv proceedings which started in 1949. They were the CBS "field sequential" system, the RCA "dot sequential" system and the Color Television Inc. "line sequential" system. Each of these systems would require special or converted sets to receive color. The CBS system could not be received in black-and-white on existing receivers without adapters; the two others claimed they could.

On the basis of testimony and demonstrations, the Commission on Sept. 1, 1950, found that the field sequential system was the only system then presented which met its criteria for color operation. However, in view of the fact that this system could not be received in monochrome on existing receivers, and the possibility of improvements in tv color systems generally, the Commission proposed postponing a color decision and adopting monochrome "bracket standards" which would enable future black-and-white tv sets incorporating those standards to receive color transmissions in black-and-white. This proposal was conditioned upon receiver manufacturers agreeing to equip new tv sets with a switch and an appropriate circuit for that purpose.

But the response from manufacturers was insufficient and, in accordance with its September announcement, the Commission on Oct. 11 1950, adopted the field sequential system for color tv broadcasting to become effective Nov. 20 thereafter. In so doing, it held the door open for consideration of development of a better system on the basis of practical tests and actual demonstrations.

Start of commercial color broadcasting was delayed when RCA obtained a preliminary injunction in the U. S. District Court at Chicago. On May 28, 1951, the Supreme Court of the United States upheld the validity of the Commission's action and CBS began limited color broadcasts on June 25 of that year. Because of the materials shortage, the National Production Authority on the following Nov. 20 prohibited the manufacture of color tv sets or attachments for general public use, and interest in the field sequential system lagged.

Thereafter, new tv color standards were developed and advocated by the industry through its National Television System Committee. They were adopted by the Commission on Dec. 17, 1953.

These present standards are based on the "simultaneous" system, which transmits three primary colors (red, green and blue) at one and the same time. They are "compatible" in that they enable existing tv sets to receive color broadcasts in black and white. Color sets are necessary to receive colorcasts in color. Color sets can also receive monochrome transmissions.

On April 14, 1952, the Commission (in its Sixth Report and Order) announced the lifting of the tv "freeze," the addition of 70 uhf channels (between 470-890 megacycles) to the 12 vhf channels (between 54-216 megacycles) then in use, and the adoption of a table making more than 2,000 channel assignments (over 1,400 uhf and over 500 vhf) to nearly 1,300 communities throughout the United States and its territories, including 242 assignments for non-commercial educational use.

The minimum effective radiated visual power of tv stations is fixed at 100 watts. No minimum antenna height above average terrain is specified. Tv stations operate in accordance with tables of maximum power which varies with antenna height. Maximum effective radiated power on vhf channels 2-6 is fixed at 100 kilowatts, on vhf channels 7-13 at 316 kilowatts and on uhf channels 14-83 at 5,000 kilowatts. With very high antennas these powers are reduced.

Station separations are determined by three geographic zones. Minimum co-channel separations are 170 miles for vhf channels and 155 miles for uhf channels in Zone I, which encompasses the entire states of Massachusetts, Rhode Island, Connecticut, New Jersey, Maryland, Pennsylvania, Delaware, District of Columbia, Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, and parts of Maine, New Hampshire, Vermont, New York, Virginia, West Virginia, Michigan and Wisconsin.

Minimum co-channel separations are 190 miles for vhf and 175 miles for uhf in Zone II, which includes the territories and possessions and the entire states of Kentucky, Tennessee, North Carolina, South Carolina, Missouri, Iowa, Minnesota, Arkansas, Kansas, Nebraska, Oklahoma, North Dakota, South Dakota, Utah, Idaho, Arizona, New Mexico, Montana, Wyoming, Nevada, Colorado, Oregon, Washington and California, and parts of Maine, New Hampshire, Vermont, New York, Virginia, West Virginia, Georgia, Alabama, Mississippi, Louisiana Michigan, Wisconsin and Texas.

Minimum co-channel separations are 220 miles for vhf and 205 miles for uhf in Zone III, which includes Florida and parts of Georgia, Alabama, Louisiana, Mississippi and Texas.

The first commercial tv grants following the lifting of the freeze were made July 11, 1952, simultaneously, to three Denver stations—KFEL-TV, KDEN (TV) and KBTU (TV). KFEL-TV began program operation on July 19 thereafter. The first uhf commercial tv station to go on the air was KPTV (TV) Portland, Ore., on Sept. 20, 1952.

The initial commercial grant to the territories and possessions was made on July 23, 1952, to WKAQ-TV San Juan, Puerto Rico.

Being in a higher part of the spectrum, uhf television broadcasts cannot be received on vhf sets without changes in the set or the addition of an adapter. Sets are available, however, which will receive both vhf and uhf stations. In many cases, uhf reception requires some slight changes in home antennas which were installed for vhf use, or may require a new antenna and a more efficient type of antenna lead in.

Tv stations engaged in commercial operation are required normally to broadcast a minimum of 28 hours a week except in their initial stages when there is a graduated scale starting with 12 hours.

Steps taken by the Commission to bring tv service to additional areas include authorizing "satellite" stations on vhf and uhf channels to rebroadcast the programs of mother stations; "boosters" for uhf stations to fill in shadows in their service areas, and "translators" (low power on vhf channels and higher power on the top 14 uhf channels) to pick up and rebroadcast the programs of outside stations. Unauthorized "repeater" stations are enabled to convert to translator operation. Any rebroadcasting requires the consent of the stations whose programs are picked up.

In many fringe areas, community antenna tv systems pick tv program from the air and feed them to the homes of local subscribers. The Commission does not license these or other closed-circuit tv operations. They do not broadcast over the air but depend upon cable to reach their customers. The Commission can, however, require such wired-tv systems to remedy any interference they may cause to licensed radio communication services. It has proposed legislation which would enable it to regulate catv operation for the orderly development of tv service in general.

Because so-called "subliminal" advertising is not used by tv stations, and is frowned upon by that industry, the Commission has not found it necessary to adopt any covering rules or regulations.

Unlike am networking, which is possible over ordinary telephone wires, tv requires special relay facilities. Network tv operation is made possible in large measure by the development of coaxial cable and microwave relay facilities. As early as 1937 motion pictures were televised and sent over the coaxial cable link between New York and Philadelphia. Network operation was begun by WNBT New York; WRGB Schenectady, and WPTZ Philadelphia, in 1944. Regular coaxial cable tv relay service was inaugurated between Washington and New York in 1946. The following year, microwave relay extended this service to Boston. A midwestern relay system, opened in 1948, was joined with the eastern system in 1949. The first link in the transcontinental relay system was opened between New York and Chicago in 1950. It was extended to San Francisco the following year and, on September 4, 1951, carried telecasts of the Japanese peace treaty conference. Most tv network relay is over the coaxial cable and microwave facilities of the telephone system. There is some private microwave tv relay.

Uhf Problems

Economic and technical problems have impeded further utilization of the uhf channels. In addition to the normal tv cost factor, they are caused, chiefly, by the large number of vhf-only receivers in use and which continue to be manufactured; certain performance deficiencies of uhf, and the consequent preference of program and revenue sources for vhf outlets.

In 1950 the Commission outlined a long-range and interim plan to promote comparable tv facilities as a means of extending tv service throughout the nation. It invited comments on the possibility of ultimately shifting all or a major portion of tv operation to the uhf band and, at the same time, enlisted the cooperation of industry in a research and development study to increase the range and coverage of uhf stations. Meanwhile, it increased the maximum power of uhf stations, has made certain areas all-uhf and increased tv competition in others, and has taken other steps to put uhf and vhf operation on a more competitive basis.

On two occasions the Commission sought the release of Government vhf space to augment the present tv broadcast channels but each time a determination was made that national defense considerations do not make this possible. At the Commission's request, Congress appropriated funds to conduct a uhf test in New York city to determine the ability of uhf to provide service to a large metropolitan area. In 1960 the Commission recommended to Congress that tv sets transported in interstate commerce for sale to the public be required to receive uhf as well as vhf channels.

Subscription Tv

Subscription tv involves furnishing special video programs to viewers who pay a charge for this service. Such transmission over the air is subject to FCC jurisdiction; closed-circuit (cable) toll-tv operation does not require Commission licensing.

The Commission authorized pay-tv experimentation as early as 1950. Five years later it proposed trial of such service and, in 1957, invited comments on various proposed systems. They differ mainly in how the transmissions are sent in scrambled form and then decoded by special apparatus attached to a subscriber's set, and whether coin boxes, punch cards or tape record is used for billing purposes. Later in 1957 the Commission looked toward considering applications by tv stations to test this service under certain conditions. But in view of resolutions by two Congressional committees, it deferred further action until 1959 when it invited applications by commercial tv stations to test pay-tv under revised requirements.

The latter specify three-year trial authorizations limited to markets in which there are least four existing commercial tv services, to the trial of any one system in only one market, to one system per market, and to subscription programs being broadcast over only one local station at a time. Also, until the Commission has decided whether toll-tv service should be authorized on a regular basis, it decided that the public should not be called upon to buy any special equipment.

On Feb. 24, 1961, the Commission, after a hearing, granted the only conforming toll-tv application then pending (WHCT [TV] Hartford, Conn.)

EDUCATIONAL BROADCASTING

Educational institutions were among the pioneers in experimental broadcasting, and held a considerable proportion of the early am licenses.

By 1925, educational groups had 171 such licenses. For various reasons, notably the increased competition from commercial broadcasting, most of these stations were off the air when the Federal Communications Commission was created. However, about 35 educational stations still operate in the am broadcast band, a score of them on a voluntary noncommercial basis.

As directed by Sec 307(c) of the Communications Act, the Commission made a study of the proposal that Congress should allocate fixed percentages of radio facilities for particular types of nonprofit radio programs and activities, including education. On Jan. 22, 1935, the Commission recommended that no such statutory allocation be made at that time. It held that there was "no need for a change in the existing law to accomplish the helpful purposes of the proposal," but recognized the need for extending broadcasting to education and expressed its intention "actively to assist the determination of the rightful place of broadcasting in education and to see that it is used in that place."

To further the development of non-commercial educational broadcasting, the Commission in 1938 set aside certain am channels between 41 and 42 megacycles for the exclusive use of educational institutions. Due, however, to the inability of the normal radio set to receive broadcasts on these frequencies, only a few educational institutions secured licenses for such operation. Those which did later changed to frequency modulation operation when provision was made for fm educational broadcasting.

When regular fm broadcasting was authorized to start in 1941, five channels between 42 and 43 megacycles were allocated for noncommercial educational use, in lieu of the educational fm facilities previously provided.

In 1945, as part of an extensive revision of frequency allocations, the Commission reserved 20 fm channels between 88 and 92 megacycles for noncommercial educational fm stations. This educational portion of the fm band is contiguous to that containing the commercial fm stations and present fm receivers are capable of tuning in both noncommercial and commercial stations within range. The number of these noncommercial educational fm stations has grown slowly but steadily.

In 1948 the Commission authorized low power (10 watt) operation on these educational fm channels. With such low power equipment easily installed and operated, schools may begin broadcasting to a limited area of from two to five miles in radius for an outlay of a few thousand dollars. Higher power equipment may be added when desired. In 1951, as a further aid, the Commission authorized remote control operation of low-power educational fm stations.

Stations in the educational fm broadcast service are licensed principally to school systems, colleges and universities for furnishing educational programs to teachers and students, as well as for public educational and informational purposes.

The Commission, for the first time, allocated tv facilities for exclusive noncommercial educational use as a result of its lengthy study of this question in the general television proceedings (discussed under "Tv Broadcast"). The Commission determined therein that "the need for noncommercial educational stations has been amply demonstrated"; that "the record shows the desire and ability of education to make a substantial contribution to the use of television"; that "the actual process of formulating plans and of enacting necessary legislation or of making adequate financing available is one which will generally require more time for educational organizations than for commercial interests . . . and that to insure an extensive rather than a sparse and haphazard development of educational television, channels must be reserved by the Commission at this time." Consequently, in its Sixth Report and Order of April 14, 1952, the Commission made channel assignments to 242 communities exclusively for noncommercial educational purposes. Forty-six of these were made to "primarily educational centers." Of the total of 242 channels then assigned, 80 were vhf and 162 were uhf. There have since been additional assignments.

The Commission expects educational tv licensees to make their station facilities available to other local educational institutions, since such assignments are made to serve the educational and cultural needs of the community. Except in particular cases, tv educational eligibility is not extended to municipal authorities in places where an independent educational authority—such as a board of education—is established. Although there is no requirement that noncommercial educational stations of hours, commercial and educational broadcast a specified minimum number television stations are both subject to the same tv service requirements, such as station separation, antenna height and power, etc.

The first non-commercial educational tv grant was made July 23, 1952, to the Kansas State College of Agriculture and Applied Science (KSAC-TV) at Manhattan, Kan. The first such station to go on the air was KUHT Houston, Texas, May 25, 1953; and the first one licensed was WCET Cincinnati, Ohio, March 11, 1955.

Several colleges and universities hold commercial tv authorizations and operate on a profit or non-profit basis. Many schools have closed-circuit tv systems linking classrooms for instructional purposes.

INTERNATIONAL

Under international agreement, certain high frequency bands are allocated for broadcasts directed between nations.

Authorizations for non-Government international broadcast stations located in the United States are issued by the Federal Communications Commission. A single grant usually authorizes use of a number of frequencies between 5,950 and 26,100 kilocycles as well as several transmitters. This is because of seasonal and other considerations in broadcasting different programs to different parts of the world at the same time. The minimum power for international broadcast stations under Commission jurisdiction is 50 kilowatts.

During World War II, international broadcast stations in the United States were taken over by the Office of War Information and the Office of Inter-American Affairs of the Dept. of State which operated and programmed them in the interest of the war effort.

"The Voice of America" is the title given to the programs now sent out daily, in many languages, to various parts of the world by shortwave transmitters under the auspices of the United States Information Agency. Transmission is by amplitude modulation.

AUXILIARY BROADCAST SERVICES

The Commission authorizes several classes of auxiliary broadcast stations for live "pick up" and speeding programs of outside origin to studios, or from studios to transmitters. A brief description of these adjuncts follows:

Remotes: Remote pickup stations are employed by aural and video stations for "on-the-spot" coverage of news and other events.

STLs: Studio-transmitter links are used to transmit aural and tv programs from studios to remote transmitters.

Because a tv station's coverage depends to a large extent upon the height of its antenna, the latter is often located on a mountain some distance from the studio.

Relays: Intercity relay stations are utilized by some tv stations, usually remote from common carrier facilities, to carry programs between stations by microwave.

Also, cueing transmitters are used in broadcast studios to direct performers who wear hidden miniature receivers.

EXPERIMENTAL BROADCAST SERVICES

Experimental broadcast stations test new techniques and develop broadcast equipment. Information obtained from this experimentation and research helps the industry to evolve and improve equipment and methods and also provides the Commission with useful information about new developments. Because of their temporary nature, the number of these authorizations fluctuates.

MAJOR TRENDS, EVENTS — 1960-61

Here are brief references, grouped by subject, to some of the major news stories appearing in BROADCASTING—The Business-weekly of Television and Radio, during the period July 1960 through June 1961. Dates refer to issues of BROADCASTING in which the stories appeared.

Advertiser-Broadcaster Relations

Truth and good taste in advertising, how to define them and whose responsibility they are, continued to plague advertisers, agencies and broadcasters. Advertising Federation of America endorses Better Business Bureau stand—8/22/60; Federal Trade Commission holds Cincinnati conference, urges businessmen to report deceptive advertising—9/19/60; Assn. of National Advertisers joins American Assn. of Advertising Agencies in its "interchange" program for advertising improvement 10/10/60; fantastic claims are causing loss of public confidence in advertising, Dodge's advertising manager declares—11/7/60; but AFA survey shows advertising's image with public is "fairly good"—12/12/60; KKIS Pittsburgh, Calif., asks advertisers for affidavits that their copy is truthful—1/23/61; advertising gimmicks offend taste and credulity of public, president of Chrysler Corp. of Canada states—3/13/61; FTC chairman tells ANA false advertising will not be tolerated—4/24/61; says broadcasters may be held accountable too—5/8/61; FTC and FCC to keep broadcasters informed of deceptive advertising—6/19/61; FTC blasts bait ads—6/19/61

Quality programs or mass audience shows—which is the better buy? is debated at RTES meeting—11/28/60; Sunday afternoon is prime time at half costs of evening, TvAr states—11/28/60; network advertisers find good response to public service programming—12/19/60; Fairfax M. Cone of Foote, Cone & Belding asks for lower price for public service time than for entertainment periods—1/16/61; advertisers buy public service programs to improve company image, not to appease government, ANA survey reveals—4/24/61; more advertisers are putting more money into information programming, networks report—5/22/61; one solution would be rates to bring cost-per-1000 of quality shows into line with entertainment programming—6/5/61

Traditional protection of advertisers against nearby competitive ads can't withstand hard realities of tv—7/11/60, appears on way out—3/20/61

Television costs are high, will be higher, says TvB, with a 38% higher cost-per-thousand by 1970—10/17/60; new talent contracts seen as adding $7.5 million a year to spot tv costs—12/12/60; small advertisers may be forced out of spot tv—12/26/60; but Petry analysis holds talent costs not controlling factor—1/30/61

Commercials don't have to entertain to sell, survey shows—12/5/60; "company spokesman" commercials lose popularity—12/13/61; National Safety Council finds tv able to alter consumer attitudes—2/27/61; Battle starts as longer station breaks sought by network affiliates—7/25/60; criticized by Young & Rubicam—10/31/60; ABC-TV agrees to add 10 seconds to breaks—3/13/61, and gets blasted by ANA—4/17/61, as other networks plan to go along with 40-second breaks—4/24/61; Y & R asks FCC to help in stopping move—5/1/61, and AAAA voices concern—5/1/61; FCC Chairman warns against triple-spotting—5/8/61; so do Gulf Oil and Y&R—5/22/61, as Station Representatives Assn. calls criticism unwarranted—5/22/61; all tv networks to have 40-second breaks by fall—6/12/61; Y&R asks reps to spell out details—6/19/61; Maxwell House Instant Coffee leaves spot tv as NAB TV Code Review Board recommends ban on triple-spotting—6/19/61, and industry ponders pricing policy—6/26/61 Long before expanded station breaks were instituted, Gillette drops plan for back-to-back spots for fear of triple spotting—8/15/60

Move to single rate rather than national and retail rates accelerated during the year. Tall Corn Radio Sales Group (Iowa) adopts single rate—7/11/60; so does WAME Miami—7/11/60; SRA urges all stations to go to single rate—8/15/60; stations vote for it six to one in SRA poll, but others cite problems it creates—8/29/60; KYA San Francisco makes single rate one of its 16 points of ethical policy—9/5/60; SRA campaign makes progress but still needs support—12/26/60; 155 tv stations have only one rate—1/2/61 Problem of deciphering rate cards discussed at Ohio Broadcasters meeting—11/14/60

Young Tv pegs time charge to period's popularity in rate card escalator—1/2/61

Lever Bros. asks pointed questions after 3-year Nielsen study shows fall-off of prime time tune in—4/17/61

BASIC MEDIUM MINNEAPOLIS • SAINT PAUL

WCCO *

This totals more visual and audible impact than is possible with any "single sense" medium.

WEBSTER:

*basic (bās'ik), adj. 1. of or pertaining to the base or essence; fundamental; as a basic fact.

MORE than the dominant television station in the Minneapolis-Saint Paul Market: Actually the medium to buy FIRST OF ALL! For complete proof write WCCO-Television or national representatives, Peters, Griffin, Woodward, Inc.

THE BUSY RED PHONE AT TTC!

All TTC stations base their operations on deep, penetrating news coverage . . . especially on the local level. Now 54 men and women in the 7 TTC newsrooms are united into a team by this new TTC red-phone hookup. With stations on each coast and in Mid-America, TTC newsrooms will get first hand reports -- first -- from any area.

- The point of all this is not just to trumpet about what big operators we are in news. The point is that a large part of the selling force of TTC stations is generated by this news policy . . . and we can prove it. • TTC stations will continue to concentrate on substance in programming, because we believe real substance is the only quality that will continue to support broadcast sales long after the fads have faded out.
