Television Marketplace

The ADI Market Atlas

The Area of Dominant Influence is a geographic market design that defines each television market exclusive of the others, based on measurable viewing patterns. Each market's ADI consists of all counties in which the home market stations receive a preponderance of viewing, and every county in the continental U.S. is allocated exclusively to one ADI—there is no overlap. The total of all ADI's represents the total television households in the U.S.

The ADI is a standard market definition. As a television buying tool it is a geographic and demographic means for maximum efficiency. As a station tool it has applications for sales, programing and promotion planning.

Following, in alphabetical order, are Arbitron Televisions' 212 ADI markets for 1989-1990 with coverage maps for each; and county by county breakouts of TV households. Other data include the markets' stations, their cities of license, channel numbers and network affiliations.

Coverage maps show total survey areas in light shading, the ADI's themselves outlined in black, and Arbitron Metro Rating Areas in white. The survey areas consist of all counties in which the home market stations are viewed to any significant extent, including via cable. The Metro Areas usually conform to U.S. Census Standard Metropolitan statistical Areas.

Non-ADI markets do not meet Arbitron's criteria for having an ADI of their own; they are listed with the ADI of which they are a part.

A complete listing of the non-ADI markets and a cross reference list of cities in multi-city ADI's appear on page C-131.

Non-ADI Markets

The following single-county markets did not achieve ADI status because the preponderance of viewing is not to the home-market station. Neither did they meet the criteria of the 10% Rule to become an ADI. The home counties in non-ADI markets are assigned to the ADIs that do receive the preponderance of viewing

TV Markets by Nielsen Marketing Research Territory

Nielsen Marketing Research territory groups are another standard way of reporting sales data. The following table ranks TV markets within each Nielsen Territory. This provides a yardstick for determining the number of spot markets needed to achieve a given coverage of territory. For example, if the national media are not delivering sufficient advertising weight in New England, the planner will find that 3 TV markets (Boston, Hartford and Providence) contain almost 80% of New England territory households. Or the planner can use the table to get a better idea of what TV markets are needed to cover all of New England. Data is from a Nielsen Station Index tabulation based on a January 1990 estimate.

How Network Delivery Varies by Market

National advertisers use spot television to increase network advertising weight in specific markets to achieve a predetermined level. These market goals are derived from the advertising budget and the market's share of the brand's projected sales. Thus, a spot schedule is usually indicated where a market has an unusually high brand-sales potential, or where the network weight delivered for the brand is below the national average used in planning, or both.

The first factor, market brand potential, varies by product and is difficult to generalize. The second factor, local-market network audiences, must be generalized because planning is based upon next season's anticipated network performance. The prevalence of network package buys, which tend to deliver average audience levels, supports the use of average data.

The following tabulation, chosen especially for THE BROADCASTING YEARBOOK, shows Arbitron Television's Areas of Dominant Influence (ADI) in terms of percent of the total number of U.S. TV households. Also given, in like percentage terms, are the network audiences in each ADI market during prime-time hours. It is this market audience figure, when compared to the market's share of the population, that indicate whether the network commitment will perform above or below the national plan average in that market.

The figures are based on Arbitron Television's May 1989 Network Program Group Analysis.

Hughes' New Ku-Band Fleet Has Businesses Everywhere Looking Up

Hughes Communications is expanding into Ku-band satellite services, and that's good news for your business.

Hughes' acquisition* of IBM's Satellite Transponder Leasing Corporation gives us a powerful and immediate Ku-band presence to complement our existing C-band services. With two Ku-band satellites operational, and one more to be launched next June, we can now meet any satellite communication requirement you have.

Our new Ku-band service has applications for network-quality broadcasting and business video, VSAT networks and SCPC services, and newsgathering and backhaul transmissions. This entry into Ku-band services shows once again that Hughes responds to our customers' business and technical requirements with unmatched imagination. And Hughes will launch more Ku-band birds in the future, insuring unparalleled flexibility, as well as back-up and in-orbit protection.

With our growing capabilities in both C-band and Ku-band, Hughes is the company of choice for satellite services. So if you're searching for that special combination of reliable technology and innovative solutions to your communications needs, call us at 1-800-232-8728. Your business will start looking up.

<sup>1</sup> C-band and Ku-band columns indicate numbers of transponders on each satellite. End-of-life estimates are based on launch date plus 10 years
<sup>2</sup> Although Comstar II has passed its design end of life and gone into north-south drift, Comsat uses tracking antennas to maintain use of that bird.
<sup>3</sup> Imbalanced loading of fuel caused GStar III not to reach 125 degrees on schedule following September 1988 launch. Expending station-keeping fuel to move it there by next fall will reduce bird's design life by five to eight years.
<sup>4</sup> Hughes finalized purchase of Western Union Weststar birds Jan. 20 and, by September 1988 agreement with IBM, markets capacity on SBS IV and V.
<sup>5</sup> Announced July 7, Hughes purchase of IBM holding company. Satellite Transponder Leasing Corp., and SBS IV, V and VI birds (SBS VI is scheduled to launch in June 1990) awaits FCC approval.

You can't get to first place reading second-hand news

If you regularly read someone else's copy of Broadcasting, you're at a disadvantage.

You know Broadcasting contains the news and information that give industry leaders the competitive edge. They read Broadcasting when it's news, not history.

So if you're ready to get on top of what's going on in this business, get the news first hand. Get your own subscription to Broadcasting.

Then you, too, can read the news before it's history. Read it when and where you want. At home. At the office. Read it while travelling or commuting. Clip it. Mark it. Save certain articles. Save the whole issue every week. That's what subscribers do. You will too.

And you'll know the value of your own subscription with your first copy.

Of course, a subscription to Broadcasting doesn't guarantee a place at the top in this business. But when you keep yourself informed with your own subscription to Broadcasting, you're on the fast track.

Hitachi makes it easy.

NOW, THE RIGHT CHOICE
IN ADVANCED CCD CAMERAS
IS CLEARER THAN EVER.
THE NEW SK-F3 AND SK-F700.

Hitachi presents two new 3-chip CCD broadcast cameras that give you higher resolution and better image quality than you have ever seen before in a broadcast camera.

The SK-F3 dockable and the SK-F700 studio cameras include the newest Frame Interline Transfer (FIT) CCD technology. Smear is virtually eliminated. Sensitivity is dramatically improved.

A 6-speed electronic shutter and contrast function are both built-in. And as for high resolution, the SK-F3 and SK-F700 hit a crystal clear 700 lines.

Your choice for a high performance camera system has never been easier. Learn more about the new SK-F3 and SK-F700. In the studio or in the field, they are clearly superior. Contact the Hitachi regional office nearest you.

Dolby SR improves the medium for your message.

TAPE RECORDERS

Dolby SR provides the performance attributed to digital systems while maintaining such analog virtues as economy, editing ease, and tape interchange.

CARTS

Along with their familiar ruggedness and all-around utility, carts with Dolby SR capture the full dynamics of all your source material, digital or analog.

1-INCH VTR'S

With Dolby SR, video can sound as good as it looks. Signal purity is maintained through the multiple tape generations necessary in today's post-production techniques.

DISCRETE STL'S AND RPU'S

Dolby SR improves headroom and lowers noise, while suppressing the effects of interference and fade.

TV STL AUDIO SUB-CARRIERS

With Dolby SR, there's no need to re-allocate subcarrier frequencies or replace existing equipment in order to deliver high quality audio to the transmitter.

SATELLITE AUDIO

Dolby SR improves analog channels without audible side effects yielding performance rivaling digital systems.

Listeners today expect better sound wherever they go — at home, at the movies, in the car. To keep up with their expectations, you need Dolby SR. Two channels, with the compact, easy-to-operate Dolby Model 363 (shown). Or up to 24 channels, with Dolby Laboratories' multitrack products.

Dolby SR dramatically reduces noise, increases headroom, and lowers distortion from initial production to final transmission. That means you can deliver your message today with the clarity you've been expecting from the technology of tomorrow.
