how long is a short memory?

WHAT DID YOU LISTEN to on your radio last night at 7:00? What did you do six hours ago? Can you remember quickly and accurately? Probably not, for memory's a deceptive thing.

Good radio research people like Crossley, Inc. know that the greater the gap between the time a person hears your show and the time a Crossley interviewer speaks to him, the greater the chances that the person doesn't remember exactly what he heard.

That's why Crossley, Inc., which compiles and prepares "A Continuing Study of Radio Listening in Greater-New York" exclusively for WOR, uses the shortest recall possible. That's what makes WOR's "Continuing Study" so uncannily accurate and dependable.

For instance, morning listeners are asked what they listened to only two hours after your program leaves the air. Evening listeners have to think back only 1½ hours, not twelve. It's the next best thing to sitting with the listener while he dials your show. And it's exclusive with WOR.

Call WOR for an accurate checkup on your show today. Let our file of exclusive audience facts bring you a greater per-penny profit on every penny you invest.

Folks in Midwest America

... whether from city or country, they think and react alike

THERE'S a certain kind of folks who live in Midwest America. Whether they are in Chicago skyscrapers, on the Main Streets of our cities, or on farms, you'll find they have somewhat the same likes and dislikes. It's probably because we're all tied, in some way, to the great agricultural empire out here.

Here's a typical story of two families—relatives. The Leslie Brechler family farm 485 acres near Stitzer, Wisconsin. Mrs. Brechler's sister and family, the William Ginkes, run a food mart in Oshkosh, Wisconsin (pop. 39,089). They're all regular WLS listeners ... and regularly buy WLS-advertised products!

Checking last year's purchases in classes of goods advertised on the station, we found that 43% of the Brechlers' selections were brands advertised on WLS. In the city, 50% of the Ginkes' selections were WLS-advertised brands. Here's definite evidence that WLS Gets Results!

FROM sunrise to Vespers and on through the night great sounds are filling the air.

Grave and portentous sounds—exciting and joyous sounds.

The sound of news from distant lands that even Axis propaganda cannot distort for long.

From dawn to dusk and around the clock.

The sound of marching feet and the roar of battle and the whir of propeller to remind us that there is greater strength in free-thinking individuals than in slave-whipped hordes.

As each second passes around the clock this sound becomes clearer—clearer.

And as the hours march in parade there is music and fun—gaiety and laughter—great ringing speech and the whisper of lullaby.

There is stirring drama for the asking, the throbbing evidence of man's will for progress—and the hush of prayer.

The minds of our allies to listen to—the thoughts of alien lands to hear and understand—and by understanding accept or reject as they may accept or reject the principles we hold with.

HERE is Advertisement No. 2 in The Blue Network Year-round National Campaign. Like the first, this ad will run nationally—in newspapers and magazines. It will also go out on the air over BLUE stations to millions of homes.

In this advertisement we carry our theme one step further—by telling the story of radio in terms of the world's drama—by relating the whole movement of history to radio—and by relating the listener to history through radio.

It is our belief that by assigning to our audiences a specific place in the whole “world of radio,” we will be building more listening to radio—to The Blue Network and to all of our programs.

From the advertiser's viewpoint the purpose of these advertisements may be summed up: more listening, better ratings, more sales, more value for every dollar invested in The BLUE.

NBC Affiliate Policy to Apply to Television

Trammell Predicts Regional Nets Will Lead

RETENTION of its present policy of affiliate-network relationship in eventual establishment of a nationwide television network to get under way with the war's end was announced last week as the basic policy of NBC by President Niles Trammell in a statement to the network's affiliates. The 16-page document is a companion piece to the statement of NBC policy on FM issued by Mr. Trammell in January [BROADCASTING, Jan. 15].

Mr. Trammell said that a nationwide television network "will not spring up overnight, but must proceed as an orderly, logical development." He predicted an eastern network, running from Boston to Washington, as the first segment; a mid-west network, then a Pacific Coast network. These regional operations will gradually expand with an ultimate complete nationwide service.

Coaxial or Relay?

Whether the networking will be effected by coaxial cable, now used experimentally between New York and Philadelphia, or radio relays, remains to be determined, Mr. Trammell inferred. He disclosed that AT&T has made tentative plans to install between 6,000 and 7,000 miles of coaxial cable within the next five or six years for networking of television systems, with New York and Washington to be linked by 1945; New York, Boston, Chicago and Los Angeles by 1946; the South by 1947, and transcontinentally by 1948.

Pointing out that the history of radio to date has "always been a history of addition, never subtraction," Mr. Trammell continued: "Because of its extensive coverage and accepted type of highly developed program service there is no foreseeable period when sound broadcasting will become unnecessary. Therefore, NBC will continue to maintain its sound broadcasting services at the highest peak of technical entertainment and educational excellence. Radio now is virtually an around-the-clock service. Even when television becomes universally available, there will be times when the radio audience will be predominately listeners rather than viewers."

In a program summarizing the basis of NBC's television activities, Mr. Trammell stated that NBC will (1) cooperate with Government and industry in "an effort to secure the best possible standard for a commercial television broadcasting system;" (2) cooperate with its affiliates in developing the basis for an eventual television network; (3) immediately expand its existing service with new program material, talent and techniques, transmit field programs at least once a month, resume studio broadcasts and continue research and development; (4) build a video station in Washington as soon after the war as materials become available.

NBC has applied for video stations in Chicago, Cleveland, Denver, San Francisco and Los Angeles "where NBC already maintains a programming organization and studio facilities," Mr. Trammell reported, adding: "It is hoped that the FCC will act favorably on these applications." [BROADCASTING, Feb. 28].

Plans for Networks

Mr. Trammell said that if the nucleus of a nationwide television broadcasting service similar to sound network service is to be established, it is evident that competitive network organizations must own and operate outlets in strategic cities. The FCC rule limiting ownership by any one interest to three television stations is "a severe deterrent to the organization and sound economic growth of national network television," he added. "It is to be hoped that in giving consideration to the requirements of post-war television, the FCC will grant the petition recently filed by the NBC requesting a modification of this rule."

He foresees video development as follows:

"1. An Eastern Network that will extend from Boston to Washington, with stations located at such intervening points as Worcester, Providence, Hartford, Schenectady, New York, Philadelphia, Wilmington and Baltimore, with perhaps an extension to Syracuse, Rochester and Buffalo.

"2. A Midwest Network that will develop with Chicago as its hub, spreading out to Milwaukee, Minneapolis, St. Paul, Des Moines, St. Louis, Indianapolis, Detroit and Cleveland.

"3. A Pacific Coast Network between the great talent center of Hollywood, connecting with San Francisco and gradually extending to other important points.

"These regional networks will gradually stretch out over wider areas, and will themselves become linked together. Thus, city after city, across the continent will be brought into network operation, until finally complete nationwide networks will become a reality."

Pointing out that such networks can be effected either by coaxial cable lines or radio relays, Mr. Trammell did not pledge NBC's support to the latter system, despite its development by RCA, NBC's parent company, but merely said that "the ultimate determination of which is to be used will be governed by the relative efficiency of service they render and their comparative costs," adding that both methods will probably be used in providing the facilities for a nationwide service.

Coaxial Cable Program

Appended to the report is an exchange of letters between Mr. Trammell and K. S. McHugh, vice-president, AT&T Co. Outlining NBC's plans for establishing a Washington-to-Boston video network in the immediate post-war period which will expand into a nationwide service within a decade,

First of NBC Meetings Outlines Network Plans For the Future; Departments Report Activity

AN ENTHUSIASTIC reception was accorded the statement of Niles Trammell, NBC president, on the network's television policy [see story on this page], when it was presented to the more than 100 executives of NBC stations attending the network's third annual War Clinic, held at the Waldorf-Astoria, New York, Feb. 28-March 1.

Video Future Bright

Three-day session, conducted by William S. Hedges, NBC vice-president in charge of stations, was the first of a series of five such meetings, scheduled for the Henry Grady Hotel, Atlanta, March 5-7; Baker Hotel, Dallas, March 9-11; Drake Hotel, Chicago, March 13-15, and Biltmore Hotel, Los Angeles, March 20-22.

John F. Royal, vice-president in charge of new developments, said NBC has taken a step towards leadership in the video field by securing first and exclusive use of outstanding war films for presentation on WNBT, network's video station in New York.

O. B. Hanson, vice-president and chief engineer, announced that NBC has arranged with the RCA institute for a concentrated technical television course, probably of six weeks duration, for technical staff members of NBC's affiliate stations who can thus receive preliminary training in the engineering requirements of television. Mr. Hedges said he would investigate the possibility of having the course given in other cities in addition to New York.

C. L. Menser, vice-president in charge of programs, revealed plans to build an experienced staff and Charles P. Hammond, promotion director, reported that his department is already studying promotion projects.

Chicago Network Stations, AFM Agree

More Musicians to Be Hired Under New Contract

AGREEMENT on the terms of a new contract between the network stations in Chicago and Local 10 of the American Federation of Musicians in that city, to succeed the former contract expiring Jan. 31, was reached last Wednesday.

Officials of the stations and union will meet early this week to work out details, with expectation that contracts will be ready for signing by the end of the week. Wednesday meeting was held under the shadow of a strike threat by the AFM, which had set a deadline of midnight Wednesday after a last-minute 24-hour postponement of its original Tuesday midnight deadline.

Staff Increases

Major item in the new pact, which is to run for three years, is an agreement that each station will employ five additional staff musicians immediately and five more at the end of a year, so that at WMAQ (NBC), WENR (Blue) and WBBM (CBS) the present staffs of 35 musicians will be increased to 40 for the coming year and to 45 for the remainder of the contract. WGN (MBS) now employs 32 staff musicians, so it will hire 37 the first year and 42 thereafter.

This represents a compromise from the AFM demand that the networks increase their employment of musicians in Chicago to a parity with that in New York, where CBS, Blue and NBC now employ 65 men and WOR, Mutual key station, 40, and from the network counter-proposal that no change be made in the number of men employed.

A further compromise was made on the question of vacations and overtime pay, the union foregoing its original demand for two-week vacations with pay for all staff musicians but winning its proposal that time-and-a-half be paid for all overtime work.

Union also won increases for music librarians, with head librarians going from $75 to $90 a week and their assistants from $60 to $75 weekly. However, the networks are making it clear that the former contracts are not merely to be revised in these regards, but that the whole documents are to be reexamined in the light of the settlement of national problems as agreed to by James C. Petrillo, AFM national president, and top network executives in a series of conferences that preceded the opening of negotiations between the network stations and AFM locals in New York, Chicago and Hollywood.

One of these national problems, which the networks have insisted must be settled on a uniform basis, is that of delayed broadcasts. At present this is a constantly recurring problem, with varying rules established by different AFM locals which result in constant confusion. It is understood an agreement was informally reached that will permit any network program, either sustaining or commercial, to be given a delayed broadcast by either a single station or a regional group at any time within seven days of the original network broadcast, regardless of the reason for the delay.

Another problem is that of the handling of recordings, which the AFM declares to be a proper function of musicians, despite the fact that it is now a duty of technical employes as a part of their handling of all mechanical and electrical apparatus, including turntables. Mr. Petrillo is said to have proposed, and the networks to have accepted, that this work of platter-turning be turned over to musicians at all owned and operated stations, as now done in St. Louis and Chicago.

Official stand on this matter at CBS, where the technicians are members of the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers, like the AFM, an affiliate of the American Federation of Labor, is that the question is one for the two unions to fight out, with the network abiding by the decision.

As Mr. Petrillo is said to have made his demands to become effective only after the expiration of current contracts and as the CBS-IBEW pact still has some time to run, there is believed to be no immediate problems here. Eventual settlement will award platter-turning to AFM, it is believed, on the basis of a decision made some years ago by William Green, AFL president, which gave this jurisdiction to the AFM.

NBC and Blue technicians, however, are members of National Assn. of Broadcast Engineers & Technicians, an independent union, which has issued a demand to NBC that only NABET members perform the work of plate-turning in NBC's Chicago studio. When the NABET contract was drawn, control over all mechanical equipment was given to NABET, and the union claims that an exception made for Chicago at that time expired Jan. 31 with the termination of the NBC and Blue contracts with the AFM Chicago local. National NABET contracts with these networks terminates May 31.

N. Y. Negotiations

WOR New York also has a contract with NABET, but its problem is not immediate as this contract still has more than a year to run. No confirmation could be secured on reports that the NABET-AFM jurisdictional dispute might be solved by the absorption of NABET into IBEW.

Negotiations between the networks and AFM Local 802 in New York are progressing amicably, it is reported, with the two groups meeting each Wednesday to discuss terms of a new contract. In Los Angeles negotiations are reported to have reached the final stage, with a contract expected soon.

THREE BROADCASTERS who attended the meeting of the NAB Sixth District in Memphis were (l to r): Gene Tibbett, newly appointed station manager of WELO Tupelo, Miss.; Charles Godwin, Southern station relations manager for Mutual, New York; Bob McRaney, general manager of both WCB I Columbus, Miss., and WELO. The Tupelo station, under construction, is the tentative new outlet for Mutual, and is expected to open about May 1.

DOZEN FM OUTLETS REQUESTED OF FCC

FCC ROLE of applicants for new FM stations was increased by a dozen last week, one of which, Broadcasting Corporation of America (KPRO), Riverside, Cal., also applied for a Channel 3 commercial television station.

Following are listed last week's FM applicants and their standard broadcast affiliation, if any. (Facilities requested may be found in FCC Actions on page 60.)

Valley Broadcasting Co., Steubenville, O. (WSTV); Liberty Broadcasting Co., Pittsburgh (Valley and Liberty) management are affiliated, with interests in WSTV WJPA WKNY; WFBM Inc., Indianapolis (WFBM); Westchester Broadcasting Corp., White Plains, N. Y. (WFAS); Monumental Radio Co., Baltimore (WCAO); Capital Broadcasting Co., Washington, D. C. (KPRO); Gazette Co., Cedar Rapids, Ia.; WDEL Inc., Wilmington, Del. (WDEL); Associated Broadcasters Inc., Bethlehem, Pa. (WEST).

WAVE Response

FIRST indication of the response to the North Carolina WAVE recruiting campaign, in which radio has been the spearhead [BROADCASTING, Feb. 21], was revealed last week by Lt. Armand S. Deutsch, USNR, of the public relations office's branch radio section. Requests for the promotion booklet "The Story of You in Navy Blue" at the Raleigh recruiting center, had increased 700% above normal a week after the start of the drive Feb. 21.

New Local Requested

FINGER Lakes Broadcasting System late last week filed with the FCC an application for a new local standard station to serve the Sampson Naval Training Station, New York. Gordon P. Brown, owner and general manager of WSAY Rochester, N. Y., is owner of Finger Lakes Broadcasting. Facilities requested are 1240 kc, 250 w. It was reported that the station will use idle equipment which will be released by WSAY in the new near future when it shifts to 1 kw on 1370 kc.

U. S. Rail Board Arranges For Purchase of Radio Time

ARRANGEMENTS for Government purchase of radio time to recruit railroad workers have been worked out between the Railroad Retirement Board and the OWI Domestic Radio Bureau, it was disclosed last week.

John D. Hymes, deputy chief of the Bureau, in a memorandum to regional station relations chiefs, advised that OWI had registered "strenuous objection" to RRB's former practice of using paid newspaper space and requesting free radio time. The Board has just informed the Bureau, he said, that it has changed its budget so it may legally spend advertising funds for radio.

Atlanta Test

"They have agreed," he continued, "to use paid time on the radio wherever possible in their future promotions, either exclusively or in a proportionate share with the other media." The new procedure, he stated, will be given its first test in Atlanta.

Mr. Hymes instructed the OWI station relations offices to advise RRB regional representatives on use of radio, to assist them in dealing with stations, to work out financial arrangements and help them in planning their radio campaigns. "In some cases where RRB buys time," he suggested, "I am sure that you will be able to get stations to give them additional support where an emergency exists."

RRB campaigns have been somewhat of a "sore spot" in OWI's relations with stations, Mr. Hymes explained, many of the broadcasters having objected strongly to carrying free time for the agency while space was being purchased in newspapers. When OWI relayed these objections to RRB, it was advised that the agency had no appropriation for

Clean Out the Funny Money Programs

Paying Cash for People to Listen Criticized by Survey Expert

By C. E. HOOPER

C. E. HOOPER in 1934 left Daniel Starch to establish his own firm, bringing competition to the field of radio audience measurement. He is credited with having developed single-handedly the now generally accepted coincidental method of measuring radio audiences. Hooper operates a "radio audience measuring pool" shared in by major commercial interests in radio as follows: Stations 44.6%; agencies 37.4%; networks 9.7%; advertisers 5.8%; miscellaneous 2.5%. Here are his views.

plans can come true? Again I say, this will be wonderful, for whom? The listener?

Current set use totals are developed under economic conditions in which production budgets ranging from $10,000 to $25,000 per week are poured into programs which are so good that upwards of 1/5 of the homes in America listen to them every week. Think of it, some 26,000,000 or more people actually exposed to an advertisement all at the same time. What happens? The entertainment is so good it's the talk of the country on the following morning. The advertising is so effective that merchandise melts from the shelves the next morning. If those production budgets or their equivalents on radio's headliners are not maintained in post-war radio, Sets-in-Use will shrink.

So, if radio is going to improve itself technically, let's do it maturely. Let's correlate the economic with the engineering factors. If FM represents a technological improvement, let today's stations supply it with the same programs being transmitted AM. Let the extra service be given as a bonus coverage until such time as more listeners tune FM than AM. When that day arrives, AM can be the bonus service until it is no longer demanded by listeners.

Television? Must this be a competitor to radio? Have you tried to get any tickets to a radio production in New York or Hollywood lately? Don't tell me you've got to put on a production like "Ben Hur" or "The Birth of a Nation" to give radio "eye appeal" If FM is to convey sound for television, why not let that happen as the next step in the conversion of radio's service to listeners, orderly like, without killing the goose that is laying such bright, shiny, golden eggs for listener, advertiser, and broadcaster alike.

Or maybe the figures on evening listening patterns given above did not convince you. Want to look at daytime?

Month	Year	No. Sponsored Net. Hours	Average Rating
Feb.	1943	56½	6.1
"	1944	78¼	5.3

Let's turn that into an equation:

$$\frac{56\frac{1}{2}}{78\frac{1}{4}} = \frac{6.1}{5.3}$$

Again it's not perfect because that's not the whole story, but you get the idea.

You note that reference is not made in the above table to "Sets-in-Use". It calls for some special comment. Some unhealthy things are going on daytime in radio which don't happen so much in the evening. Admittedly, daytime network programming currently represents a more varied pattern than a year ago. Sets-in-Use is, therefore, bound to be up. Why "bound to"? Because so many people were previously "home and awake" but not previously listening daytimes, it was easy to lure them with a pattern of programming more broadly appealing. Furthermore, good programming can lure still more of them if radio will but provide it.

But while daytime sponsored network programming has been improving in quality, a back wash has set in during hours when those same network affiliates (some of them) and other independent operators are providing their own program content. Think of it. In these lush days, in this seller's market, stations are paying money to listeners to reward them for listening! I came out of the publishing field into radio. We had free circulation books hanging on fringe of the business.

Some of them have actually acquired quite an air of respectability at least in the business paper field. But the rest of the publishers charged for their papers. They never paid people to take them. In other fields of merchandising, we find the fellow who operates on a price appeal. Sometimes the Cut-Rate Drug Store prices are low, but they always get something for what they offer for sale and they never hand out money with the merchandise.

The title of this article is Post-War Radio. Daytime Radio is kidding itself now into thinking it is healthier than ever before. True Sets-in-Use are up:

Month	Year	Average Daytime Sets-in-Use
Feb.	1943	15.8
"	1944	16.9

But when we said "To what program are you listening?" to a woman tuned to a network affiliate during President Roosevelt's dedication of the Destroyer Senegalais, she wasn't uttering an anti-administration wise-crack when she said, "To that Funny Money-Man". She was uttering the death sentence to that kind of programming. The execution is scheduled for the Post-War era. By the end of the war, buyers who are now throwing tax dollars to anyone who can lay claim to an audience on any grounds will not only be possessed of the techniques for determining the kind of attention they are buying but will be using them to locate a value-conscious listening public in a highly competitive world. Buyers for whom advertising dollars will then have to work and to deliver will be as scornful of a "something for nothing" audience as when competition is keen.

The marginal operator, who is maintaining his position artificially during these lush days, will disappear from radio just as he will disappear in all other lines of commercial activity.

There is one way and one time for radio's marginal operator to clean house: Build a sound program structure and prepare to be a permanent part of Post-War Radio. It is now, when every commercial operator is growing sleek and fat on the calamities the war has visited upon media.

IT HAPPENS about once a year. I have a cold. I stay in bed. I wade through an accumulation of magazines. You know, a couple of Reader's Digest, a Harper's with something in it I've been saving for this occasion for months, L. L. Bean's Spring Catalogue, Field & Stream. You know the experience. You read leisurely. You don't miss anything.

I try to get caught up on radio that week too. But it doesn't work the same. I miss three-quarters of it in the daytime and seven-eighths of it at night, when powerful New York independent stations can be heard in South Norwalk in addition to the New York Network outlets. Why? Well, that's the problem of radio's future I want to talk about. With radio, the listener can hear but one program at a time, and the opportunity to pick it up later, at your leisure, is not provided. I hear some great plans for the future. We are going to have FM! We are going to have television! That is going to be wonderful, for whom?

Dividing the Audience

It can be, for everybody, only if radio learns some lessons from experiences it is having right now. Only if the basic phenomenon of radio is never forgotten, namely, beyond a certain point the number, almost the nature, of the programs put on the air, fail to increase further the number of listeners. Rather, the newcomers serve only further to divide the already existing audience.

What is going on now? A year ago between the hours of 6:00 p.m. and 10:30 p.m. (EWT), 70* hours of sponsored network programs were carried on the four major networks. The average rating was 12.4*. Do you know the situation now? 81½* hours are currently carried. The average rating? 11.0.

Let's reduce it to simple arithmetic:

$$\frac{70}{81\frac{1}{2}} = \frac{11.0}{12.4}$$

The equation is not perfect, but isn't it an impressive relationship? To approach the point from another way, let us compare the increase in number of hours of sponsored network programming with radio's basic measurement, Sets-in-Use. While radio's volume of sponsored network entertainment and information changed level from 1942 to date, the following changes occurred in average Sets-in-Use:

Month	Year	No. Sponsored Net. Hours	Sets- in-Use
Feb.	1942	71½	34.7
Feb.	1943	70	33.9
Feb.	1944	81½	32.1

If the current level of Sets-in-Use represents a ceiling, do you want to divide that total two more ways? Or a dozen more times if we can believe that some of the

Fly's Whitewash Probe Plan Accepted by Lea Committee

Minority Members Protest Procedure; Counsel Not Named; Hearings Resume March 6

ACQUIESCING to demands of FCC Chairman James Lawrence Fly that the Commission be heard immediately, even without Committee general counsel, majority members of the House Select Committee to Investigate the Commission agreed late Friday to resume hearings today (March 6), it was learned.

Reports were that the minority members, Reps. Wigglesworth (R-Mass.) and Miller (R-Mo.) vigorously protested resumption without counsel but were voted down by Chairman Lea (D-Cal.) and Reps. Hart (D-N.J.) and Magnuson (D-Wash.). Following the meeting Chairman Lea issued a statement in which he said "after some discussion the Committee voted to authorize the chairman to make appointments of all employees subject to approval by the Committee."

"So far no selection of a chief counsel for the Committee has been made," the announcement continued. Harry S. Barger, chief investigator and himself an attorney, will serve as "acting attorney".

Fly Requests Resumption

"The date for beginning hearings was not set, but probably will be announced soon. The hearings of the Commission (sic) at this time will be confined to charges preferred against the Commission in the hearings heretofore held," the statement concluded. Rep. Miller branded as a "lie" the statement that no hearing date had been set.

"Over the protests of Mr. Wigglesworth and I the majority agreed to resume the hearings Monday (March 6)," declared Rep. Miller. Rep. Wigglesworth also asserted that the majority agreed to resume hearings today with the FCC on the stand.

In a letter last Wednesday to Chairman Lea, Mr. Fly said: "I am impelled once again to request that the Commission be given a prompt hearing before the Select Committee."

Chairman Fly, pointing to the fact that the Committee's legal staff "is somewhat depleted", suggested that "in view of the competence of Committee members and of the documents and information in their possession and in view of the further fact that the Commission's staff will carefully organize material to be presented, I think it clear that the Committee can proceed with a thorough-going hearing."

Following the resignations on Feb. 25 of Mr. Garey and three assistants, two investigator-attorneys, James C. Dunn and Thomas Kavanaugh, resigned last Wednesday. As BROADCASTING went to press the Committee's staff consisted of Mr. Barger and Harvey Walker, investigator-attorney; Mildred Cox, secretary, and Lillian Curry, clerk.

Last Friday's reported action came on the heels of an explosive two-hour session on the House floor Tuesday afternoon when Rep. Wigglesworth demanded that Chairman Lea resume hearings in the WMCA sale or resign. Chairman Lea took the floor to defend his action. So did Rep. Hart. He bitterly denounced Eugene L. Garey, who resigned the previous week in a letter charging the chairman and majority members with whitewashing the Commission investigation.

Before the House adjourned, all five members of the Committee and other Congressmen had spoken. Rep. Miller commended Mr. Wigglesworth and himself asked for 30 minutes to address the House Tuesday (March 7). Rep. Magnuson also asked for time Tuesday, indicating that the fight on the floor between the majority and minority members over the Committee's procedure would be continued.

Rep. Francis Case (R-S.D.) tossed a bombshell into the House after Rep. Wigglesworth spoke, when he said he had been advised by a broadcaster-constituent that Mr. Fly sought the constituent's influence in restoring a 1½-million-dollar cut to the FCC appropriation (see page 53). Reps. Dies (D-Tex.), chairman of the House Committee Investigating Un-American Activities, and Hoffman (R-Mich.) also spoke.

Charges Coercion

Denouncing the White House, Dept. of Justice, FCC "and other New Deal officials and advisors, past and present, for obstruction, intimidation and underhand tactics in a continuous attempt to sabotage the work of the Committee," Rep. Wigglesworth told his colleagues "I rise to report charges of political coercion or blackmail . . . to condemn the action of the majority members of the Committee in the absence of the minority members."

For years, he said, he has advocated an investigation of the FCC believing that "investigation was imperative with a view to remedial legislation in the national interest". Mr. Wigglesworth cited instances wherein through Presidential order certain witnesses were forbidden to testify before the Committee and certain documents requested were withheld from the probes.

"Generally speaking," he asserted, "the full force of the Administration has been thrown

Field Pays $700,000 for WJJD Including CP For FM Station

ACQUISITION of WJJD Chicago by Marshall Field, department store owner and publisher, for approximately $700,000, was announced last Thursday by the station. All of the common stock of WJJD Inc. and 360 of 900 outstanding shares of preferred stock were purchased by Mr. Field personally from Ralph L. Atlass, Leslie Atlass, P. K. Wrigley and A. M. Linick. Horace L. Lohnes, Washington attorney, represented Mr. Field, and W. Theodore Pierson the stockholders in WJJD.

The transaction, stemming from the FCC's so-called "duopoly" order, was completed subject to customary FCC approval. The same stockholders are principal owners of WIND Gary-Chicago, which overlaps WJJD coverage. The FCC's recent dismissal of the newspaper divorcement orders (79 and 79-A) likewise opened the way for Mr. Field's acquisition of the station. Mr. Field is publisher of the Chicago Sun and of PM, New York.

Acquired in addition to WJJD is an outstanding construction permit for an FM station to serve Chicago's metropolitan area. Frozen under the WPB-FCC war regulations, Mr. Lohnes announced in Mr. Field's behalf that reinstatement of CP would be promptly sought, following FCC approval, and construction completed as soon as possible.

WJJD operates on 1160 kc with 20,000 w limited time. The station has been outstanding as an independent operation.

Mr. Wrigley, chewing gum manufacturer, real estate operator and owner of the Chicago Cubs, is principal owner of WJJD, holding approximately 35% of the common stock, of which 15,000 shares were outstanding. Ralph Atlass holds approximately 25%; his brother, Leslie, CBS vice-president in Chicago, approximately 20%; and Mr. Linick, identified with the station management, approximately 10%.

The 15,000 shares of common stock are being acquired for $660,000, at the rate of $44 per share. The price per share of the preferred stock was $100, or $36,000 for the 360 shares acquired, leaving 540 shares at $100 per share outstanding. Acquisition of the remaining preferred shares would bring the overall price to $750,000.

According to the sales contract, the sellers guarantee the balance sheet as of Jan. 31, 1944. The balance sheet shows current assets of approximately $225,000 and a net worth of about $320,000. Replacement value of technical equipment and studios was estimated at $200,000. The station has current contracted business of between $400,000 and $500,000.

Function Separately

Mr. Field said that it was his intention to continue the same type of operation and that it will function apart from the Sun. "In all respects WJJD will retain its identity as a separate, individual enterprise, rendering the best possible radio service to the people of this community," Mr. Field stated.

Mr. Field was identified with the ownership of WJWC Hammond-Chicago, which surrendered its license in January 1943. The station had operated at a loss during the preceding year. John W. Clarke, now a lieutenant colonel in the Army serving in the Mediterranean theatre, had acquired controlling interest in the station before surrender of its license. At the time the station ceased operation, it is understood Mr. Field held approximately $150,000 of outstanding shares.

THOUGHT THEY WERE RADIO ORPHANS!

We're talking about those Baltimore wartime workers who play while others sleep. They wanted good radio entertainment. And they wanted it all night long. W-I-T-H found the answer. Not with just a "recorded music" show . . . or a lot of smart-time talk. But solid entertainment . . . music, news and live, brisk fun. They're joining "The Night Owl Club" in droves. Religious Policy Tightened by Mutual

SUCCESS VIA AIR HALTS NAVY DRIVE

Sunday PM No Longer Available; Ban on Fund Appeals

A NEW POLICY curtailing commercial religious programs, with major impact of the restrictions falling on its top sponsor, Gospel Broadcasting Assn., was announced last week by Mutual Network, through its sales manager, Edward W. Wood.

New policy, which goes into effect Sept. 15, 1944, will eliminate all commercial religious programs from the afternoon and evening periods on Sunday, and will limit air time to a half-hour.

Most drastic measure is that prohibiting appeals for money, raising the question as to whether some of the religious institutions can and will continue on the air without the opportunity to obtain revenue from radio listeners.

Action Taken by Board

As it looked last week, however, the sponsors will accept the new regulations and continue on the network, which is in the unique position of being the only one of the four major networks to accept any sponsored religious time at all.

Action was taken by the board of directors, meeting with Mutual shareholders in New York, Feb. 2, but no official word was received until last Monday when Mr. Wood made his announcement.

Rumors had been circulating that Mutual might discard all commercial programs. Formation of Associated Broadcasting Corp. [BROADCASTING, Feb. 21] to operate as a "per-occasion" network, confining its activities to religious programs for the present, gave further indications of changes in the religious broadcasting picture. According to C. W. Kuning, general manager, ABC was organized to handle "the radio broadcasting facilities of a large number of radio stations for the benefit of certain clients, some of whom have been using the facilities of other networks for many years."

Mr. Wood announced "all commercial religious programs will be aired on Sundays before 1 p.m." The change in policy, he stated briefly, prohibits solicitation of funds and limits air time to one-half-hour.

The new ruling affects the Gospel Broadcast Assn. on all three counts. Heading the list of Mutual clients with a total of $1,566,103.83 in billings for 1943 [BROADCASTING Yearbook, 1944] Gospel sponsors the Pilgrim Hour on 160 stations 2-3 p.m. and Old-Fashioned Revival from 7-8 p.m. on 203 outlets. Both would have to be reduced to half-hours and moved into a morning period, with money pleas stricken out. Contract for Pilgrim Hour was recently extended to Oct. 1, 1944. Other programs affected by the edict, most of them soliciting funds in one way or another, include Young People's Church of the Air, sponsored on 160 stations 9-9:30 a.m., which signed a 52-week renewal last August through Ivey & Elington, Philadelphia, and Voice of Prophecy, sponsored on 167 stations by a group of the same name. It originates from KHJ Los Angeles and is heard at 9:30-10 a.m. and again at 11:30-12 noon. Agency for the latter is George C. Hoskin Associates, Chicago and Glendale, Cal.

Lutherans to Continue

Other commercial programs are Rev. John E. Zoller's Wesley Radio League, sponsored on 136 stations by the WRL, 11-11:30 a.m., and Radio Bible Class, heard on 172 stations 10-10:30 a.m. under sponsorship of Radio Bible Class. Both programs are handled by Aircasters Inc., Detroit. The latter program originates at WLAV Grand Rapids, Mich., station owned by Leonard A. Versluis, founder and president of the ABC network.

Lutheran Layman's League, sponsor of the Lutheran Hour, actually only a half-hour program on Mutual, has every intention of continuing on Mutual under the new policy, according to Gotham Adv., New York, agency. Program will have to move from its present 1:30 p.m. spot to an earlier time. Agency stated that the only reference to money needs occurs in a brief sentence at the close of the program. Originating from KFUO, Lutheran-owned station in St. Louis, the program is sponsored on a total of 450 stations, including the full Mutual network of 218-220 stations plus 20 non-Mutual stations in this country. Program is revised, transcribed and broadcast over 210 stations in 24 countries, including Canada, Brazil and Mozambique in Africa.

Speaking as general manager of Mutual's New York affiliate. Theodore C. Streibert, who is also executive vice-president of Mutual, stated there would be no change in WOR's policy not to carry any commercial religious programs. New York outlets for these programs are WHN and WMCA. The same general policy has held for WGN, Mutual's Chicago outlet, although a few months ago it was relaxed to carry the Lutheran Hour.

New policy will have the effect of tightening the Sunday program structure, leaving the afternoon period open for various types of entertainment programs for the benefit of listeners not interested in the religious type of broadcasts, according to a Mutual spokesman.

NBC Late Dramas

IN A RADICAL departure from the usual late evening programming, NBC on April 12 will start a series of full-hour dramatic programs to be broadcast from 11:30 p.m. to 12:30 a.m. each Wednesday-Thursday. Titled Arthur Hopkins Presents, the series will present radio versions of some of the Hopkins stage successes, produced personally by Mr. Hopkins and adapted by Wyllis Cooper, in charge of program development for NBC. Dramas already scheduled for broadcast are: "The Philadelphia Story", "Burlesque", "Anna Christie", "Liliom" and "Our Town".

Authority of FCC to Require Recording Of All Networks Challenged by MBS

MUTUAL Broadcasting System last week challenged jurisdiction of the FCC in its proposed rule to require networks to record all programs. The challenge was laid down in a short brief filed on behalf of MBS by its Washington counsel, Louis G. Caldwell.

Briefs were filed by CBS and Michigan Radio Network. NBC and the Blue posted letters, NBC suggesting amended wording. Mark Woods, Blue president, advised that his network could abide by the rule "without undue hardship" except where split network programs, originating at affiliates, are not cleared through master control. NAB was granted additional time to assemble facts.

Oral argument is scheduled before the Commission en banc at 10:30 a.m. March 15. Final date for filing briefs and requests for oral argument was last Wednesday.

"Mutual does not waive, but expressly reserves, its right to question the Commission's power to adopt such a rule... which would be outside the jurisdiction of the Commission (having to do with the rights and duties of parties involved in claims based on defamation)," said the brief. Although Mr. Caldwell declined comment, the challenge was believed based on the Commission's public notice, announcing Order 119, which said in part:

"The Communications Act—basic statute under which the FCC operates—prohibits the broadcast of any information on lotteries (Sec. 316) and the use of obscene, indecent or profane language on the air (Sec. 326). In carrying out its obligations under these sections of the Act, it frequently becomes important for the Commission to know what was said on a particular program."

Specifically MBS filed two objections to the rule at this time: (1) the cost; (2) shortages of manpower, critical materials and equipment. Oral argument was waived. Mutual recommended that the rule not be adopted, but that if it is the effective date be postponed until the end of the war or "such time as there ceases to be a critical material shortage".

Based on recording from one station only, Mutual estimated the rule would entail an expenditure of $15,950 the first year and

Atlantic Refining to Maintain Last Year's Baseball Budget

Jamboree Program Planned for Days When No Game Is Played; Split Set-up in New England

ATLANTIC REFINING Co., Philadelphia, has completed plans to sponsor major league baseball games in Philadelphia, Pittsburgh and Boston, with negotiations still under way for the broadcast of the Baltimore Orioles games, International League team in Baltimore. No other games are contemplated with the major league schedule including the games of the Athletics and Phillies in Philadelphia, Pittsburgh Pirates in that city and the Boston Braves and Red Sox in the New England area.

The Atlantic schedule provides a split sponsorship of the Boston games on the Yankee Network in New England, originating with WNAC Boston; a regional network in the Eastern Pennsylvania area of 11 stations with WBIG Philadelphia, picking up the games; and WWSW Pittsburgh, originating the games in that city for a regional Western Pennsylvania network of nine stations.

Equals Last Year

Continued as a good-will gesture, radio budget for the baseball broadcasts is equal to that of last year, according to Wallace Orr, account executive of N. W. Ayer & Son, Philadelphia, handling the account. The radio budget last year was approximately $500,000.

For the first time, provisions have been made for days that the play-by-play descriptions are not carried by any of the stations, either because the game has been called off due to the weather or it being a night game which a station is unable to carry because of previous time commitments. In that event, Atlantic Refining has arranged to sponsor a 50-minute Sports Jamboree, 3:10 to 4 p.m. The program will consist of sports news and recordings.

Stations picking up the Philadelphia games from WIBG include: WGAL Lancaster; WEST Easton, WAJL Hazelton, WRAW Reading, WKLK Sunbury, WORK York, WKBO Harrisburg, WSAW Allentown, WILM Wilmington, Del.; WFPG Atlantic City. In Western Pennsylvania, originating with WWSW Pittsburgh, the station list includes WISR Butler, WKST New Castle, WERC Erie, WJPA Washington, WCED DuBois, WJAC Johnstown. In addition, the games will be carried by WWSW-FM, FM adjunct of the originating station in Pittsburgh.

Announcers assigned to handle the broadcasts include Rosey Rowswell and Jack Craddock in Pittsburgh, Byrum Saam and Claude Haring in Philadelphia, and Tom Hussey in Boston.

Outlook for the 1944 baseball season is good, according to Mr. Orr. Last year, he pointed out, the club owners did not think they would be able to complete the season, particularly because of the threat of air raids, test black-outs being staged and the exodus of ball players into war industries and armed forces. For the coming season, Mr. Orr said, the club owners have all assured Atlantic Refining they will see the season through, even if they have to put nine old men out in the field.

In charge of Atlantic Refining advertising is Joseph R. Rollins, advertising manager.

Insurer May Extend

MUTUAL LIFE INSURANCE Co., New York, is considering extension of its radio advertising upon completion of a 13-week test campaign. A series of 39 five-minute transcriptions, titled The Wounded Don't Die, dramatizing the work of the Army and Navy Medical Corps, started Dec. 17 on WJDX Jackson, Miss.; KFH Wichita, Kan.; WGBI Scranton, Pa.; KGO San Francisco. Agency is Doremus & Co., New York.

Networks Plan Coverage of Invasion

Extreme Caution Urged In CBS Coverage By White

FIRST DETAILS of network plans to cover the invasion of Europe were disclosed last week in a memorandum distributed by Paul White, CBS director of public affairs and news broadcasts, to the network's news staff.

NBC Makes Plans

Warning news writers and broadcasters to exercise extreme care in presenting news accurately and unemotionally, without misleading verbiage or emphasis, Mr. White outlined the expanded duties of the shortwave listening post, engineering, announcing, program, traffic, press information and other network departments when the first news flash that the invasion has begun throws the network into immediate 24-hour daily operation.

Similar arrangements have been made at NBC it was learned, where a general policy has been adopted

Borden's Policy

BORDEN FARM PRODUCTS, New York, will use its new weekly half-hour program featuring Louis Sobol on WOR New York [BROADCASTING, Feb. 21] to build consumer goodwill, and on occasion to interpret to the public and to dealers new Government regulations on milk products. It has been titled Bright Lights of New York. Agency is Young & Rubicam, New York.

Old Golds and Gillette Sponsor Big League Ball

P. LORILLARD Co., New York (Old Golds) will sponsor broadcasts of the Washington Senators' 1944 games, while Gillette Safety Razor Corp., Boston, will air all the home games of the New York Giants and Brooklyn Dodgers. The Washington Senators' games on WOL Washington will be announced by Russ Hodges and Arch MacDonald. Under the contract, 89 day and 47 night games will be broadcast, with WWDC carrying night games due to previous WOL commitments. The cigarette concern will also sponsor the pre-season schedule of the Brooklyn Dodgers on WHN New York, as well as the regular summer series.

Agency for P. Lorillard is J. Walter Thompson Co., New York. Maxon Inc., New York is the agency for Gillette Safety Razor Corp., Boston, which has radio rights to all home baseball games of the N. Y. Giants and Yankees to be broadcast on WINS. Home games of the Dodgers at Ebbett's field will be covered by direct broadcast, while coverage of the out-of-town games will be based on wire reports. Negotiations are in progress between the Giants and the Dodgers to allow WHN to cover meetings of the two teams at the polo grounds by direct broadcast, and reciprocally for WINS New York to pick up the Giants-Dodgers games at Ebbett's Field.

DEADLOCK BROKEN IN CROSLLEY CASE

A DEADLOCK between technicians and the management of WLW-WSAI Cincinnati on terms of a new contract was broken last week by a last-minute agreement calling for a wage scale believed to be one of the highest in the country for an independent station. The agreement sets a minimum wage of $50 with rates ranging to $85. Contract is for two years, effective March 1, subject to the approval of the National War Labor Board.

According to officers of local 1224, International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers (AFL), the deadlock was settled when the Crosley management accepted the union's wage proposal and the union in turn adopted two minor provisions. Leo J. Byrne, U. S. Conciliation Commissioner, aided in the final negotiations.

Reports that the technicians were planning to strike was discounted by Lawson Wimberley, international representative of IBEW, who declared the union's discussions with the management have been on friendly terms, with both sides eager to negotiate a new contract before expiration of the previous agreement. At a meeting Feb. 29, the last day of its contract the local had voted to insist on its wage demands, Mr. Wimberley explained, and this action may have been interpreted as a strike threat. The wage scale provided in the agreement with WLW-WSAI is the same as the IBEW contract with CBS, Mr. Wimberley said. He regards the rates as satisfactory.

DAD'S SPOTS

DAD'S ROOT BEER Co., Chicago, began sponsorship Feb. 14 of a series of station breaks on WBBM Chicago, Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays. Contract is for 52 weeks, placed by Malcolm-Howard Adv. Agency, Chicago.

that at the time of the invasion the newsroom will become the core of NBC operations, maintaining control of the network as long as conditions warrant it, interrupting and cancelling other programs whenever necessary.

Mutual, since the beginning of the war, has maintained "a continual state of news alert," John D. Whitmore, manager of the MBS news division, told BROADCASTING. The network's system of news coverage has worked so well in the past, he said, that no special re-vamping of men and facilities is necessary in advance of the invasion, when "our forces will be mobilized as for any other major news event."

At the first announcement of the invasion, Mr. White's memo states, CBS Network Operations will assign production men, engineers and announcers to Studio 9 on a 24-hour basis, to be maintained until the men are released by the News Department. It may be necessary for Traffic to have a man on duty throughout the day and night, the memo says, both for ordering foreign pick-ups and arranging overtime network operation. The Program Department may also be called on to supply programs throughout the night.

Prompt Coverage

The CBS Listening Post, the memo continues, will operate on a considerably augmented schedule, with additional monitors and technicians and extra teletype operators so that the news "processed" by the listening station will be made available rapidly and comprehensively to the CBS staff, the press associations and the New York daily papers.

Members of the Press Information staff will be assigned to the News Department from the beginning of the invasion, "so that a record of broadcasts may be kept continuously up-to-date and the press serviced with cabled and Consent to the relinquishment of control by the Allentown Call Publishing Co. of Lehigh Valley Broadcasting Co., licensee of WCBA and WSAN Allentown, Pa., was authorized and involves stock sales of approximately $44,900. WSAN was granted modification of license to change hours of operation from sharing with WCBA to unlimited time, the call letters of WCBA being deleted.

In the Springfield, Mo., duopoly dissolution, Springfield Newspapers Inc., which owns all but 4 of 250 shares class B stock in KGBX, acquires 99.2% interest in KGBX through the purchase of all (250) shares of the class A stock from Lester E. Cox (118 shares), Ralph D. Foster (84.5 shares), C. Arthur Johnson (40.5 shares), and L. M. Magruder (7 shares) for total sum of $25,000. The relinquishing parties in the KGBX transaction acquire 500 shares of class B stock in KWTO for a consideration of $100,000 from Springfield Newspapers (496 shares), and H. S. Jewell, T. M. Duvall, Tams Bixby Jr., Jeanne Bixby (each one share).

Interest holdings in the two stations now are as follows: KGBX—Springfield Newspapers, 496 shares (99.2%) Messrs. Jewell, Duvall, Bixby and Jeanne Bixby, each one share; KWTO—Mr. Cox, 472 shares (47.2%); Mr. Foster, 388 shares; Mr. Johnson, 162 shares; Mr. Magruder, 28 shares.

In the Lehigh Valley Broadcasting transfer 495 shares (77.14%) at $90.72 per share are sold by Allentown Call to Royal W. Weiler (50), J. Calvin Shumberger Sr. (165), David A. Miller (15), Fred W. Weiler (115), Samuel W. Miller (50), Donald P. Miller (50) and Miller Associates (50). These acquisitions are prorated according to the interests held by each of this group in Allentown Call. B. Bryan Musselman, a clergyman, retains 177 shares (22.86%) and Allentown Call retains one share.

Mr. Shumberger is vice-president and controller of Allentown Call, which publishes the Allentown Morning Call and the Chronicle & News. Royal Weiler is president and general manager and David Miller is vice-president and managing editor. All three are officers and directors of Lehigh Broadcasting.

KGEZ to Talbot

Authority for the sale of KSLM Salem, Ore. by H. B. Read, sole owner, to Paul V. McElwain and Glenn E. McCormick for $69,000 was granted. Mr. Read is retiring from the broadcasting business. Mr. McElwain, who gets 130 of the total 150 shares, and Mr. McCormick, who receives the remaining 20 shares, have sold their respective holdings in KBKR Baker, Ore. to Marshall E. Cornett and Lee W. Jacobs, both of Klamath Falls, Ore.

The KBKR transfer application is included among those granted early last week. Mr. McElwain's 130 shares (76.47%) in KBKR, Mr. McCormick's 39 shares (22.94%) and his wife's one share are sold for $20,000. Mr. Cornett, former Oregon State Senator, receives 150 shares and Mr. Jacobs, new KBKR manager and a former program manager of KFJI Klamath Falls, receives 20 shares.

KGEZ Kalispell, Mont. was granted consent to voluntary assignment of license from Donald C. Treloar, sole owner, and the lease of all property used in the operation of the station to A. W. Talbot for $15,000, which covers the first three years of the 20 year lease. Rate of the lease is $5,000 per year. Mr. Talbot also acquires an option to buy KGEZ for $16,000 after 156 months from the effective date of the contract. Mr. Treloar will assume parttime management of the station for two years. Mr. Talbot owns KEVR Seattle and KEVE Everett, Wash. He has pending applications for a new station for Missoula, Mont. and one for Billings, Mont.

WIAC Transfer

Voluntary assignment of license of WIAC San Juan, Puerto Rico was granted from Enrique Abarca Sanfeliz, station owner, to Radio Station WIAC Inc., a new corporation formed to take over the operation of the WIAC, Senor Sanfeliz receives 1440 shares in WIAC Inc., of which he is president.

Yankee Network Inc. was granted assignment of licenses to the Winter Street Corporation, parent company. No monetary consideration is involved.

FCC Grants WFTL Acquisition By Ft. Industry for $275,000

AFTER a 10-month pendency, the FCC last Tuesday approved the sale of WFTL Fort Lauderdale, Fla. 10,000-watt outlet, to Fort Industry Co., for $275,000. Simultaneously, it approved transfer of the main studios to Miami.

The seller is Ralph A. Horton, retired investment banker, who entered the agreement last May. President and principal owner of Fort Industry Co. is Lt. Com. George B. Storer, USNR, now on duty as materiel procurement officer in the 9th Naval District, Chicago.

The Commission approved the transaction after an intensive investigation which included a hearing last fall in Miami. The station is on 710 kc., on which it began operating last year with 10,000 w. Prior to that it was a 250-watt local.

Coverage Condition

In granting WFTL modification of license to move its main studio from Fort Lauderdale to Miami, the Commission said it was subject to the condition that in the event the field intensity in the Miami business district proves to be inadequate, the station will operate with a directional antenna both day and night instead of nighttime only.

Comdr. Storer announced from Chicago that Stephen A. Vetter will continue as managing director of the station under the new ownership. He will report to George W. Smith, executive vice-president of Fort Industry and directing head of WWVA Wheeling, and L. A. Pixley, Fort Industry general manager in Detroit. Mr. Pixley also heads the Standard Tube Co., Storer enterprise engaged in Government contract work. The Fort Industry Co. stations, in addition to WFTL and WWVA, are WMMN Fairmount, WLOK Lima, WHIZ Zanesville, WAGA Atlanta, WSPD Toledo.

The application for transfer, filed by Andrew W. Bennett, Washington attorney, covered acquisition of equipment and property valued at $181,000, plus several mortgages, which brought the figure to $275,000. A claim against the sale entered by Mr. Vetter, based on a previous contract with Mr. Horton, was settled.

The WFTL transaction had been inquired into by the House select committee investigating the FCC, but was not covered in the formal hearings.

N. Y. Times Files Petition for WQXR

Price of Station $1,100,000; FM Outlet Is Included

ACQUISITION of WQXR New York, and its FM adjunct, WQXQ, by the New York Times, for approximately $1,100,000, is sought in a formal application filed last week with the FCC by the newspaper and Interstate Broadcasting Co., present licensee. Announcement previously had been made of an agreement covering the sale [BROADCASTING, Feb. 7].

Applications both for the transferor and transferee were filed by Philip G. Loucks, Washington attorney. John V. L. Hogan, president and principal owner, and Elliott M. Sanger, executive vice-president and part owner of the station, remain as directing heads under a five-year contract.

First for Times

The transaction marks the first venture of the New York Times into the broadcasting field, though it has been identified with radio communications for many years. It pioneered in point-to-point radio transmission of news and is identified with the operation of Press Wireless Inc., cooperative radio news organization.

The Times is an applicant for an FM station in New York. If the Commission approves the transfer of Interstate, which includes FM station WQXQ, it will withdraw its pending application, the papers state.

The balance sheet of Interstate for the year ended Dec. 1, 1943 showed total income of $468,590 and expenses of $446,225, with a net operating profit of $22,365. A paid-in surplus as of the year's end was approximately $200,000.

Mr. Hogan, one of the country's foremost consulting radio engineers and eminent inventor, established WQXR in 1936 with Mr. Sanger. The station always has emphasized high fidelity operation, and has specialized in classical music. It operates on 1560 kc. with 10,000 w power. Sale of time on the station increased from approximately $37,000 in 1937—its first full year of operation—to $411,800 in 1943.

In announcing the transaction last month, Arthur Hays Sulzberger, president and publisher of the Times, stated that there would be no change in executive direction or in program policies of WQXR. All of the stock of Interstate was acquired, including the 1,000 shares of preferred held by Time Inc. Times news bulletins, currently on WMCA for three minutes at the beginning of each hour, will be continued for the present.

Mr. Sulzberger also announced the appointment of Nicholas Roosevelt, former deputy director of OWI, as "liaison executive between the newspaper and the stations." Mr. Roosevelt is a former editorial writer for the Times.

" HERE'S A BILLION DOLLAR BUSINESS
-part of the KFAB area's wealth"

These days, the farmer who has hogs, has dollars...cash on the hoof. And that is why we're doing so well here in Nebraska where most farmers DO have hogs.

If you've never thought of hog-raising as being important to YOUR business, consider this: The Omaha stockyard pays out more than a million dollars a day to farmers of this territory. One day's business recently reached the world record of four million dollars. That's big business.

And it's a lot of cash for Nebraska farmers ...cash they can spend with you. But hog-raising isn't their only source of money—not by a long shot. Nebraska is a leader in many lines of farming and we farmers grow diversified, sure-income crops.

We keep track of the hog-market and the world at large through our good neighbor, KFAB, in case you ever want to get in touch with us. It's been that way for 20 years or more.

Radio Planning Big Convention Coverage

31 Stations, 6 Nets Will Broadcast GOP Meeting

THE BIGGEST story on the domestic political scene—the Republican and Democratic national conventions—will be covered en masse by radio this year, with 31 independent stations, and two regional networks supplementing the regular spot reporting of the four major networks and the radio news association services. These radio registrations for reporters and commentators are for the Republican National Convention in Chicago June 26.

It is the first time in broadcasting that stations have gone out in such numbers to do a first-hand news job. The GOP Convention coverage will be duplicated at the Democratic National Convention, also scheduled for Chicago. The political conventions coverage is seen as a forerunner of more intensive news coverage generally.

D. Harold McGrath, superintendent of the Senate Radio Correspondents' Gallery, who will supervise the radio galleries at both the GOP and Democratic National Conventions, disclosed last week that applications of the six networks, the radio news services and 31 stations are for a total of 148 seats, indicating that these stations plan to supplement network and wire service coverage with "local" angles.

Regionals Plan Coverage

Regional networks which have filed applications are Yankee and West Virginia. Both regionals plan to do special broadcasts of interest to their respective territories, as well as general coverage. Howard L. Chernoff, managing director of the West Virginia Network, said his organization plans to interview West Virginia delegates at both Conventions, in addition to general broadcasts covering the meetings.

Yankee's coverage will be handled by the newly-established Yankee News Bureau, under the direction of Jack R. Reed. It will include direct pickups and probably some recordings, in addition to special wire news, Mr. Reed said.

In addition to the American radio newsmen, representatives of the British Broadcasting Corp., which also covered the 1940 conventions, will be at both political meetings this year to write copy for shortwave broadcast to Britain. Press Assn., radio subsidiary of Associated Press, and Trans-Radio Press, each serving broadcasters, will cover strictly from a radio news viewpoint, UP will cover through its general news wires, as will INS.

Although Feb. 15 was fixed as a deadline for filing applications with Mr. McGrath for seats in the radio gallery at the GOP Convention, the superintendent said several stations had filed tentative requests, contingent upon definite decisions and completion of plans. He estimated that at least another half-dozen stations may seek permission.

Only four stations and the then three major networks covered the 1940 conventions [BROADCASTING, June 15, July 1, July 15, 1940]. They were WLW-WSAI Cincinnati, WPEN and WIP Philadelphia. All except WPEN have made application to cover the 1944 Conventions, with WLW the only station filing request so far for direct pickups.

During the 1940 Republican Convention WLW scored a world beat by interviewing Wendell L. Willkie, the nominee, a few minutes after his nomination. Although Mr. Willkie's party had banned all personal broadcasts, the Crosley station had made a previous arrangement with the candidate before his nomination, to do a broadcast in which he was interviewed by Peter Grant, then chief announcer and newscaster.

Recordings Planned

That many of the stations covering the GOP Convention this year plan to record interviews and commentaries was indicated by the large number of requests for transcription facilities. Accordingly Wells (Ted) Church, radio director of the GOP National Committee, has arranged with the U. S. Recording Co. to install studios and handle such transcriptions.

"We decided to have one company do the job at a low price rather than have several setting up studios," said Mr. Church. "Stations will pay for their own recordings but the arrangement with U. S. is that nobody will be overcharged."

Again, the major networks will do a fulltime coverage job, although to conserve manpower and equipment they will pool their facilities [BROADCASTING, Feb. 7]. In addition to serving affiliates in this country the networks plan to beam Convention coverage overseas to troops in war theatres and to Allied nations.

MBS Plans

Mutual's plans have not been completed but Tom Slater, director of special features, will supervise the conventions, coverage, assisted by Adolph Opfinger, MBS program director; John Whitmore, manager of the network's news division, and Lester Gottlieb, public relations chief.

Frank Schreiber, general manager of WGN Chicago, will be in charge of Mutual's arrangements at the conventions. Royal Arch Gunnison, formerly of Manila, P.I., and now attached to New York headquarters, will present the overseas angle. Arthur Evans, political reporter of the Chicago Tribune, will present his analyses. From Washington Fulton Lewis jr., Walter Compton, Theodore Granik and Arthur Sears Henning, the latter chief of the Tribune's Washington bureau, will represent MBS. George Lang and Dale O'Brien, WGN announcers, have been assigned to the conventions' broadcasts.

William F. Brooks, NBC director of news and special events, has assigned all the network's top commentators and news reporters, as well as a staff of editors and writers to cover both conventions. He will be assisted by Francis C. McCall, manager of operations of the news and special events department.

NBC to Televis

NBC also plans to use its television facilities, as it did in the 1940 Conventions. Sound motion pictures of the proceedings will be flown to New York for telecasting over WNBT. Among the NBC commentators and reporters assigned to the Conventions are: H. V. Kaltenborn, Lowell Thomas, Carey Longmire, Robert St. John, Morgan Beatty, Robert McCormick, Richard Harkness, Alex Drier, Don Hollenbeck, John W. Vandercook, Louis P. Lochner, W. W. Chaplin and Leif Eid.

The NBC conventions staff will include two special announcers, two traffic operators, and a large crew of stenographers, stenotypists and messengers. Technical equipment will be under the supervision of George McElrath, NBC operations engineer. The press department will be represented by John McKay, manager; Sydney Eiges, assistant; Everett Bragdon, trade news editor; Richard Connelly, staff writer, and Sydney Desfor, chief photographer, all of the New York office, as well as Jack Ryan, head of the Chicago press department.

White in Charge

CBS operations, to be supervised by Paul White, director of news broadcasts, will be set up in the Stevens Hotel, with Bob Trout, commentator, in charge. Commentators and reporters representing CBS will include Elizabeth Bemis, Quincy Howe, Everett Holles, Ned Calmer, Douglas Edwards, Bill Henry, Joseph C. Harsch, Robert Lewis, Don Pryor, and Bill Costello. In charge of color highlights will be Bill Slocum Jr., director of CBS special events and sports.

Following is a list of registrants for the GOP Convention, as announced by Mr. McGrath:

Networks—BBC, Blue, CBS, MBS, NBC, West Virginia Network, Yankee Network.
Radio Wire Services—Press Assn., Trans-Radio Press.

NEW HOME!

With our complete facilities in St. Paul, KSTP now has the outstanding production center in each of the rich Twin Cities. As a matter of fact, our Minneapolis-St. Paul studios and offices are greater than those of all other Twin City stations combined.

The Minneapolis half of KSTP is now located in the most stunning entertainment center in the Midwest . . . the Northwest's own dazzling Radio City.

Radio City in Minneapolis brings together in one impressive building the Northwest's largest and finest theatre, seating 4400 people, and KSTP's ahead-of-the-minute new studios (including provision for future television developments). It's the Twin Cities' major center of interest, visited every day by throngs of Twin Citians and folks from all over Minnesota.

Naturally, this new development is making Minnesota people more KSTP-conscious than ever. Locally, we're telling listeners about Radio City by means of newspaper ads, 24-sheet posters, triple-size car cards and rural magazine and screen advertising . . . And all this spotlighting of KSTP is going to mean more listeners—urban and rural—for KSTP advertisers!

And remember . . . our complete facilities in each of the Twin Cities enable us to give detailed attention and comprehensive service in both cities to all our accounts. With this new capacity for greater service—plus the audience that comes from being the exclusive NBC outlet for the Twin Cities—plus a continuous, statewide promotional campaign to keep our audience steadily growing—KSTP is now more than ever before the Northwest's leading radio station.

Capital News Office Started by Yankee

WJW Also to Get Service From Washington Bureau

ESTABLISHMENT in Washington of the Yankee News Bureau, to provide news coverage from the Nation's Capital for the 21 stations comprising the Yankee Network and WJW Cleveland, was announced last week. Operations were to begin today (March 6) under direction of Jack R. Reed, who serves William O'Neill, president of General Tire & Rubber Co. and of Yankee Network, as assistant in the radio division.

Following a week of tests, in which five-minute newscasts were telegraphed to the Yankee stations and WJW, the News Bureau today was to begin a daily five-minute Washington feature, to be broadcast over the Yankee stations at 6:25 p.m., Mr. Reed said. Although he has not yet completed his Washington staff, he said tentative plans call for direct pickups and special transcriptions within a short time.

Special Material

Plans for the news bureau anticipate special interviews with Congressmen serving states and districts in which Yankee stations are located on questions of local and national interest. If a station served by the bureau queries for special interviews or stories, the bureau will provide them, Mr. Reed added.

"We believe our listeners are vitally interested in Washington," said Mr. Reed, who has been in the Nation's Capital the last month laying the groundwork for the bureau. "For the time being we will telegraph our daily five-minute roundup but we plan to do a complete job of coverage. We have felt that radio stations, as newspapers can provide distinctive and exclusive coverage for their listeners by maintaining Washington correspondents."

Office of the Yankee News Bureau have been established at 1026 17th St. NW, where General Tire has offices. Before becoming assistant to Mr. O'Neill, Mr. Reed was news director of WJW when that station was located in Akron. He created and wrote the Philip Keyne-Gordon news commentary, a feature of MBS.

Shipbuilder Renews

SUN SHIPBUILDING & Drydock Co., Chester, Pa., has renewed its entire radio schedule for 13 weeks, covering eight programs a week for the war plant's help-wanted messages on WFIL Philadelphia, commencing Feb. 28. Three series are sponsored, including a half-hour weekly patriotic-dramatic show, Sweet Land of Liberty; Tom Moorehead Sports, thrice-weekly 10-minute show, and To Whom It May Concern, a five-minute open letter series four times weekly. Placed direct.

FUN FOR WOUNDED SERVICEMEN

WMAL, Rotary Club and Entertainers Provide

Weekly Program at Hospitals

CONVALESCENTS in Army and Navy hospitals near Washington each Friday hear the WMAL Washington Rotary Club Entertainment Unit put on its weekly show. Featuring professional entertainers who volunteer their time, the 2½-hour program includes two broadcasts which originate direct from the hospitals, Walter Reed, Forest Glen, and the Navy Medical Center, in rotation.

Patients gather in the recreation hall of the hospital and bed-ridden have earphones. At 2 o'clock the program begins with the Curtis Bay Coast Guard Band, every player a former member of a big name swing band.

A quarter-hour of horseplay is a warm-up for a broadcast quiz show. Volunteer teams are chosen, one of boys from the Pacific Campaign, the other from the Atlantic. From 2:30-3 p.m., the quiz goes on the air over WMAL Washington. Each week $50 in prizes is awarded.

From 3-3:45 the talent, many appearing at Loew's Capitol Theatre, puts on a show just for the servicemen. Red Skelton, Jose Iturbi, Nan Blackstone, Little Jack Little are among those who have taken part. Often, the unit includes a personality in the news, such as Lord Halifax or Baukhage. Little Jack Little, a weekly feature, originates his Blue Network Treasury broadcast 3:45-4 from the hospital.

Each week the entertainment reaches from 600 to 700 men in the auditorium and an additional 1,200 by earphones installed by the American Amplifier & Television System. That company donates the public address setup.

According to Jack Edmunds, WMAL program director, active in planning the programs, servicemen, doctors, nurses, Red Cross and all those familiar with the hospital show are enthusiastic about the plan, which could be duplicated throughout the nation.

The Rotary Club furnishes transportation for the acts and pays all incidental expenses. Serving on the planning committee are: Kenneth Berkeley, general manager of WMAL; Jackson Weaver, WMAL m.c.; Carter Barron, Loew's Inc. executive; Al Cox, chairman, Leo May, Washington business men; Dan Holland, manager of the Coca Cola Co. in Washington.

WCPO Acquires Space; News Policy Is Revised

WITH removal of offices and studios of WCPO to the Carew Tower, Cincinnati's tallest building, Mortimer C. Watters, vice-president and general manager of Scripps-Howard Radio, announced a new news policy for the station, which he described as an innovation.

Jack La Rue, former managing editor of the Cincinnati Enquirer, will appear on each of the station's 15-minute newscasts, utilizing the last five minutes for an analytic commentary of the straight news broadcast during the first 10 minutes. He will appear on every WCPO news broadcast daily from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. with the commentaries.

WCPO, pioneer of the "news and music" formula in metropolitan radio, has occupied 4,000 feet of space in the Carew Tower, Mr. Watters announced. For the last seven years it has been located in the Keith Bldg. The newsroom studio of the station remains in the Cincinnati Post building, newspaper affiliate of WCPO, which is owned by Scripps-Howard Radio.

Local Shoe Discs

COMMONWEALTH SHOE & Leather Co., Whitman, Mass., has started its fourth annual spring campaign for Bostonian and Foot-saver Men's shoes. A series of 12 half-minute transcribed spot announcements have been made available to Commonwealth dealers for local placement. Agency is Fuller & Smith & Ross, New York.

Galleries to Elect

ANNUAL meeting, at which officers for the coming year will be elected, is scheduled by the Radio Correspondents' Galleries of Congress for 2 p.m. (Wednesday, March 8) at the NBC Washington studios. Present officers are: Eric Sevareid, CBS, president, on leave; Earl Godwin, Blue, vice-president and acting president; Richard Harkness, NBC, secretary; Rex Goad, Transradio Press Washington manager, treasurer; Fred W. Morrison, editor-in-chief for Fulton Lewis jr., MBS, immediate past president and ex officio. D. Harold McGrath is superintendent of the Senate gallery and William Vaughan is acting superintendent of the House gallery, during the absence of Capt. Robert M. Menaugh, now on duty with the War Dept. in Washington.

Maj. Byron Appointed

MAJ. EDWARD BYRON, now returned from the South Pacific where he established the shortwave news station, Radio Guinea, has been named head of the radio unit, Army Services Forces, Public Relations Group, Bureau of Public Relations, War Dept. In his new post, he will be in charge of production of several programs including, The Army Service Forces Present on Blue, and Your Army Service Forces, the Mutual series designed to explain the functions of the branch to women listeners. Maj. Byron was previously with WLW Cincinnati, and was owner and producer of Mr. District Attorney.

LATIN CAMPAIGNS TO BE EXPANDED

EXPORT ADV. AGENCY, Chicago, is expanding radio coverage in Latin America for several old accounts and beginning new campaigns in the foreign market. Campaign starting dates may be prolonged for 30 days, depending upon censorship. All contracts vary from 13 to 52 weeks.

Frederick Stearns & Co., Detroit (pharmaceuticals), with an established Latin American trade, has contracted three radio stations in Columbia, five Cuba stations, and one station in each of the following: Mexico, Panama, Peru, Puerto Rico, Venezuela.

Wintersmith Chemical Co., Louisville (tonic), is enlarging its radio schedule to include nine Columbia radio stations, two stations in Cuba, and one station in Costa Rica, Mexico, Dominican Republic, Panama, Puerto Rico.

Citrus Products Co., Chicago (Kist soft drinks) is expanding a newspaper campaign to radio coverage in the following countries: Honduras, Guatemala, Dominican Republic, Chile, Hawaii, Puerto Rico, Nicaragua, Panama, Alaska.

Mentholatium Co., Wilmington, Del. (Mentholatium), a Latin American radio advertiser for over 25 years, plans expansion in several Latin American countries.

Bauer & Black, Chicago (Dr. West tooth brushes) will use dramatized one-minute spot announcements in Mexico, Columbia, Venezuela and Cuba.

NRDGA Clinic

SALES PROMOTION division of the National Retail Dry Goods Assn. will hold a sales promotion clinic at the Netherland Plaza Hotel, Cincinnati, April 4-6. First day's session will be devoted to problems in newspaper advertising, with window and interior display problems dealt with the second day and those of radio advertising the final day of the meeting.

PREPARING for post-war period, when visitors will again be permitted to tour radio stations, WCAU Philadelphia has set up a new newsroom, complete with neon sign. The new studio, in line with the station's expansion in news coverage, will be officially dedicated on I-Day, the station preparing to remain on the air for 24 hours on the eventful day of invasion. Bud Reinhard, WCAU news editor, discusses a story on the wire with one of the newsroom staff writers (back to camera).

PORTAL to PRECISION for War and Peace

Shown here is the proposed new doorway to Detrola's offices and laboratories. It will soon be a part of the building—to serve not only as a practical and functionally beautiful entrance-way, but to stand as an outward symbol of the many changes that have brought the NEW DETROLA into being. Today this great radio-electronic plant is streamlined throughout—with new research and engineering talent, new production facilities and hundreds of highly trained workers. All of these are dedicated, now, to the manufacture of highest quality war equipment. After Victory, in combination with the experience gained in war, they will be dedicated to the production of highest quality electronic products for civilian use. Help Secure Victory and Make Victory Secure—Buy War Bonds.

- 6. FM Receiver. Full fidelity FM with noise levels as low as the circuits themselves and less than 2% distortion.
- 7. Transmitter Tubes. Developed from a long list of G-E basic electronic-tube "firsts," G-E transmitter tubes carry the definite assurance of maximum economy, efficiency and service life.

for FM

WHEN you start planning your post-war FM station, make full use of General Electric's broad FM experience and "know how."

You can have the full benefit of the background and knowledge of the only manufacturer with experience in building the complete FM system . . . from transmitter right through to home receiver. You can have the full benefit of exclusive G-E developments such as the FM circular antenna, and the studio-to-transmitter relay system which enables you to establish your studio for maximum convenience and your transmitter for maximum coverage. And, when you install your G-E equipment, we will put on an aggressive FM receiver sales campaign in your area to help you establish your station and to broaden your listening audience.

General Electric's own FM broadcasting experience, which includes more than 3 years of programming through its own proving-ground station WGFM, will give you valuable programming information.

General Electric equipment is installed in more than a third of all the commercial FM broadcast stations now in operation; and six exclusive G-E S-T relays, with thousands of hours of continuous broadcast operation, are now serving their stations. These provide examples where practical operating and maintenance costs are a matter of record.

Thus does widespread proof of performance supplement the years of development and engineering that have made G. E. unquestionably the leader in FM radio equipment.

Marine Battle Discs

LATEST battle recordings arrived at Marine Corps Headquarters in Washington last week, in a matter of days after they were made in the war theatre. Speed-up in the air service make possible the release to the networks of an interview made Feb. 12 with members of a Corsair Fighter Squadron, which had just shot down 134 planes. S/Sgt. James L. Hardin Jr., formerly of WATL Atlanta, conducted the interview in the Bougainville area.

Red Cross Drive and Victory Gardens Stressed on OWI War Packet for Week

CONCLUDING its 1944 campaign to raise $200,000,000, the Red Cross drive again heads the list of war messages scheduled by the OWI Domestic Radio Bureau for the week beginning March 27. Appeals will be carried through the Network and Station Announcement Allocation plans to the end of the month.

Three other subjects, scheduled on Station Announcement, are continued from the previous week. Especially important at this time is the campaign to encourage more Victory Gardens, the need for which is emphasized by announcement of the War Food Administration that civilians will have 19% less canned vegetables this year.

Garden Project

The value of Victory Gardens in contributing to the nation's food supply can be appreciated when it is realized that the gardens last year provided nearly half of America's total production of fresh vegetables. This enormous contribution—approximately 8,000,000 tons—was brought about by 20,000,000 gardeners, one-third of which were amateurs.

Radio stations can perform a highly patriotic service by urging listeners to plant gardens if space is available or join in community gardens in metropolitan centers and to enlist children in school gardens. Programs wishing to devote extra time to this campaign over and above allocations may do so through the OWI Special Assignment Plan. Stations interested should communicate with any of the following OWI Radio Bureau offices: New York, George Ludlam, 280 Madison Ave.; Chicago, Mrs. L. S. Schwartz, 75 East Wacker Drive; Hollywood, Cornwell Jackson, 1680 North Vine St.

Fight Waste messages continue reminders to listeners that critical resources must be conserved if military demands are to be met. Save Paper follows a similar theme, with emphasis on seeing to it that accumulations are sold or donated to salvaging organizations.

Messages informing listeners that declarations of estimated income and victory tax for 1944 must be filed by April 1 to bring everyone on a "pay-as-you-go" basis and appeals to continue strict conservation of rubber are scheduled on Network allocation. Recruitment of women for war plants or other essential activity is assigned through the National Spot plan.

Blue Revision

GEORGE OLENSLAGER has resigned as head of the Blue Network's information department to join the armed services. The information branch has now been consolidated with the program research division to form a program information division, under the supervision of Edward F. Evans, research manager. Functions of the new division are to record and disseminate information on all programs, and to maintain files on all talent appearing on the Blue, as well as to answer listeners' questions.

COL. STOOPNAGLE, who heads his own CBS weekly show, The Colonel, is the author of a new book, You Wouldn't Know Me From Adam, to be released in April [Whittlesey House, New York, $3]. Preface is by Fred Allen.

FM Night School

CHICAGO Board of Education FM station, WBEZ, operated three hours of early evening time Feb. 29, as a part of the Radio Section meeting of American Assn. of School Administrators in Chicago. Acting director of the station, George Jennings, stated: "This night-time operation is definitely an experiment. Adult students in night school sessions at Jones Commercial High School are tuning in to the program designed for listening in English, speech and foreign language classes. The responsibility of the educational broadcaster need not necessarily end with the high school. While there has been much 'general' adult education by radio, very little has been done with radio in formal adult classes."

Pre-War Television Standards Urged to Speed Development

Dr. Goldsmith Says Gradual Transition Could Take Care of Improvements in Visual Art

Put your Confidence in WSIX-- Nashville

Here's a market that won't fold up when the war ends—for the simple reason that it is built on the diversified industry and agriculture of the Tennessee Valley.

When peace comes, these same plants will be found making the same essential products and these same farms growing the same hogs, corn and tobacco as now.

Let us give you the complete picture of this unusual market, covered by WSIX. Contact this station.

A SOLUTION to a major television post-war problem—how to permit the immediate use of this new means of communication without blocking the way for further development—was outlined last Tuesday by Dr. Alfred N. Goldsmith, consulting engineer and vice-chairman of the Radio Technical Planning Board, at the February meeting of the Television Press Club in New York.

Pointing out that to withhold the green light from television at the war's end would mean denying jobs to returning servicemen, Dr. Goldsmith expressed the determination of the RTPB to do everything possible to start television moving as soon as possible after V-Day. But, he added, the board is equally determined that standards shall not be frozen nor anything be done to prevent full opportunities for experimentation with telecasting on as yet untested frequencies, color television, three-dimensional television or any other type any inventor can conceive.

Pre-War Standards

His suggestion is that the FCC license commercial telecasting on pre-war standards, or with such improvements as may be immediately utilized, for a period of six or eight or ten years. During this time all commercial television operation would continue with no changes that would render any receiving set obsolete, thus protecting the public's investment in television receivers as well as allowing for the immediate commercialization of television.

Meanwhile, television experimentation would continue on other experimental frequencies and if these experiments have developed a better system during the first period, a transition period would be established, for three years or so, during which television broadcasters would be required to continue to operate on the old standards but would have the right, if they wished, to telecast on the new standards as well. At the end of this transition stage, each telecaster could choose the standards, old or new, on which he would continue operation.

Dr. Goldsmith pointed out that this plan, which he said had met with approval from a number of television engineers, would require both non-political regulation and the closest intra-industry cooperation. Any playing of politics by the regulating body or any "gun-jumping" within the industry would blow the whole plan sky high, he declared.

Stating that the limited range of a television signal as compared with sound broadcasting would prevent television from ousting sound broadcasting completely (as the talking movies killed the silent pictures) for many decades to come, Dr. Goldsmith expressed the conviction that the first decade after the war will see the introduction of sight-and-sound broadcasting into every large city in the country. There is no basic conflict between FM and television, he declared, but both services can exist side by side, each serving the public in its own way.

The RTPB is carefully studying the requests of both FM and television spokesmen for more frequencies for their services, as well as similar arguments for expanded space in the spectrum from other services, Dr. Goldsmith said, and is endeavoring in good faith to judge the present and future needs of all services and to recommend what seems most fair. He added that if the RTPB does a good job in its recommendations, and the FCC in its allocations, all services will be displeased with the outcome as they will all be restricted to some extent.

Questioned about the post-war price of television receivers, Dr. Goldsmith said that after mass production has been achieved, which he warned might take from five to ten years, a table video set might retail for $98.50, a console with a picture 7 x 10 inches for $179.50, one with an 11 x 14 picture for $284.50 and with a 16 x 24 picture for $369.50. He added that these prices are based on 1942 dollars. There has already been a reduction of 60% to 80% in the cost of manufacturing cathode tubes, he said.

Otterman Promoted

HARVEY B. OTTERMAN, assistant to Francis C. de Wolf, chief of the State Department's newly reorganized Telecommunications Division, has been made assistant chief of the division, effective Feb. 18. He is a "career man", having joined the Foreign Service Division in 1912. Mr. Otterman holds the post of liaison official between all subcommittees of the State Department's Communications Postwar Planning Committee. In the past, he has participated in a number of international radio meetings, including the Havana Conference.

FREDERIC E. LAKE and C. Otis Rawalt joined the Walker Co., station representatives, Mar. 1 as general partners in the New York office, it was announced last week. Mr. Rawalt has been sales manager of the New York office of Burn-Smith Co., while Mr. Lake was with the same firm in various executive and promotional advertising capacities.

We keep the chairs nailed down!

WE'VE done it out of necessity, you understand, not choice. And all because of radio's most entertaining and erudite program, Author Meets the Critics.

Every week* we invite the author of one of America's newest and most controversial books to the WHN studios at the Hotel Great Northern. We also invite three critics . . . not literary critics necessarily, but three people well versed in the topic of the tome. First the critics voice their opinions. After that the author has his say. And then the four of them set to it hot and heavy. That's why we had to nail down those chairs!

We could say it's all in fun, but it isn't. Author Meets the Critics is really a serious literary program . . . designed to perform a real service to WHN listeners by bringing them current opinion of current books . . . but one on which anything is liable to happen.

That's what makes Author Meets the Critics another of WHN's "programs with ideas".

Fetzer for Ryan

AN IMPORTANT event for radio transpired in Washington the other day. It was the appointment of John E. Fetzer, owner of WKZO, Kalamazoo, as assistant director of censorship for radio, succeeding J. Harold Ryan, incoming president of the NAB.

Broadcasters perhaps are inclined to view censorship lightly. That's because it has worked so well under the magnificent policy direction of Byron Price, director, and Mr. Ryan as radio censor. Mr. Price graciously gives Mr. Ryan credit for making voluntary radio censorship a success.

Broadcasters might take pause on what could have happened (and still can) if radio had slipped. Censors might have been placed in every station to check news and commercial copy. Many kinds of programs might have been outlawed. Conceivably radio could have been plagued with the most rigid kind of direct control of its entire schedule.

That didn't happen and probably won't, thanks to the wise methods of Mr. Price, who has made one of war's most thankless tasks look easy. He selected Harold Ryan because he wanted a practical broadcaster—a broadcaster's broadcaster—on the job.

For the same reason radio welcomes Mr. Price's selection of John Fetzer. He is a practical independent broadcaster. He knows radio and knows audiences. He takes over a smoothly working organization built by Mr. Ryan—such capable men as Bob Richards, formerly of WSPD; Lester Halpin, who came from KOIN; Edward H. Bronson, formerly of WCOL; Charter Heslep, formerly with NBC.

The shift at censorship will come without a hitch. It is reassuring to all in radio to have a broadcaster of John Fetzer's stature and experience in Harold Ryan's niche as the latter moves over to the more arduous and even less thankful task of directing radio's destinies as president of the NAB.

Ladies Next

MAKE WAY for the ladies! Loyal supporters of broadcast programs, the sweeter segment of the American populace is starting to take an active interest in what happens to radio as an art and enterprise as well as what happens to favorite stars.

A threefold program by which women's organizations can support the war effort through the air medium was outlined before the New York City Federation of Women's Clubs by William G. Werner, of Procter & Gamble. He offered his views at a meeting that turned into a discussion of the benefits of private operation of broadcasting as against evils of the state operation that has characterized European radio [BROADCASTING, Feb. 21].

But the rise and progress of women in radio assumes important national proportions with the campaign being conducted by the NAB Association of Women Directors, under Dorothy Lewis. Some 650 AWD members are working through hundreds of stations, many department stores and 21 major national organizations to appeal to millions of listeners everywhere during the spring months in the interests of the American Home.

When the feminine folk start after something, they very frequently get it. They now have a chance to promote radio, the war effort, and the entire national welfare.

The House Fiasco

VIEWED from all angles, the House Select Committee investigation of the FCC is a dud. Taxpayers' money has been frittered away in what, at this writing, is a whitewash by the Democratic majority and a political football of the Republican minority. The public and radio suffer.

The investigation was authorized by practically unanimous vote of the House more than a year ago. Under the Chairmanship of Rep. Cox (D-Ga.), the committee was unable to make real headway because its chairman had an axe to grind, and whether justified or not, he was vulnerable. He resigned last October.

Under the chairmanship of Rep. Lea (D-Cal.) almost the reverse has been true, with the FCC itself charged with having called the plays—to the point where Committee Counsel Eugene L. Garey and his staff gave up. That was the goal sought by those at the FCC and in the Administration.

There isn't any question about Administration interplay, or even pressure. Some day the story will be told of the efforts to scuttle the inquiry even before it got under way, and the extent to which political trading figured.

This is a campaign year. The Democratic majority of the House obviously wants no muckraking. Congressional investigations usually develop into free-for-alls. The Republican minority wants to keep the issue alive and crack another New Deal agency. Neither effort is what the House intended in January 1943, when it adopted the Cox Resolution.

The FCC itself stands beclouded. The Committee is discredited and publicly condemned by its counsel. Its two Republican members allege "obstruction, intimidation and sabotage" by the Administration.

The whole affair is smelly and shameful. The purpose was to conduct a fair, full and impartial inquiry to devise legislative safeguards against irresponsible or unlawful administration. The suggestion of Chairman Fly that the Commission be given a hearing now, even though the Committee is without counsel, is another example of the farcical aspects.

In fairness to all concerned the Committee promptly should be reorganized. New counsel should be selected without regard to political considerations. There should be none of the "collaboration" with the FCC staff charged under the Lea chairmanship, nor of the "Star chamber" methods charged against the Cox direction.

The public is entitled to a fair and unbiased investigation, unhampered by pressures from outside Congress. The Commission should have the right to tell its story, but not run the show.

To us it seems the House should start from scratch. The entire committee should resign and a new one should be named by Speaker Rayburn.

PAUL ALDEMONT PORTER

ASK any wise Washington observer whose political shoes would be hardest to fill. The answer, in many cases, would be the shoes of Charles Michelson, publicity director of the last three Roosevelt campaigns.

Charlie has now chosen to act in an advisory capacity. To take his place the Democratic National Committee has picked one of radio's sons—Paul Porter, former CBS Washington counsel.

The job of organizing and directing the 1944 Presidential campaign offers an array of new problems that would make the most daring promoter blanch. Paul Porter blanched when the job was first offered to him. He thought it over and replied with a convincing No.

It wasn't sufficiently convincing, though, and after the heat had been turned on he accepted.

Those who have watched Paul's 11-year Washington career can understand why he was so earnestly sought by Democratic leaders. In that period he has done more pioneering and organizing than most officials, public or private, are called upon to handle in a lifetime.

The Porter Washington career reads like this: Took three-month post in Agricultural Adjustment Administration back in 1933; became chief of press section, Department of Agriculture, in 1934; joined CBS as Washington counsel and aid to Vice-President Harry Butcher in 1937; resigned from CBS in 1942 to transfer to National Defense Council as aide to Chester Davis; member of board of directors, Commodity Credit Corp.; Deputy Administrator, Office of Price Administration, in charge of rent control; Associate War Food Administrator under Marvin Jones; Assistant Director of Economic Stabilization under Judge Vinson.

In that array of important Washington assignments are found some of the neatest tactical problems and organizational projects that could be imagined. Yet Paul Porter, smiling and unruffled, has taken each assignment in his stride. There's the rent control post, for example. Next to Leon Henderson's over-all OPA honey, Paul had one of the capital's hottest spots. If he pleased the landlords, he angered the tenants. And vice versa. Yet his OPA regime was astoundingly free of difficulty. In fact, Paul actually made the thing look easy, a knack that helps him out of many impossible situations.

During the next nine months he will have ample opportunity to draw on his administrative reserves. The 1944 political campaign will

EXTENDING A HAND to those who deserve

Network and local commercial programs are the backbone of a radio station, yet WTMJ has always felt it owes even more to the people of Wisconsin.

Every Sunday, for example, WTMJ in co-operation with the Wisconsin Federation of Music Clubs brings talented young people from all over the state to Milwaukee to appear on "Starring Young Wisconsin Artists."

The musicians and singers that broadcast each week, from the spacious auditorium in Milwaukee's Radio City, are selected through a series of state-wide auditions. They do not compete for prizes, but are paid for their appearance out of a fund provided by WTMJ.

All that these young folks seek is a chance to be heard, to be given the recognition they deserve. WTMJ is proud to give them that opportunity.

Similar community service programs are regularly enjoyed by the WTMJ family of listeners. Such programs shall always be an integral part of the WTMJ schedule.

be like no other political campaign in history. It will be a wartime campaign, and the oldtime red torch, train tours and flag waving will be out of place.

But the public must be contacted—and emphatically. That's where radio comes in. Paul isn't going to spill any plans he has been devising, but it's obvious that he expects to rely heavily on the air medium. By no other method can so many people be contacted so potently and so frequently. He knows radio, and knows it intimately. For several years he was on the inside of most of Washington's liveliest radio regulatory controversies.

The man on whom all this responsibility rests is a shade under 40. Most radio folk are familiar with the quiet smile of the CBS attorney who sat through the months of network monopoly hearings without fluttering an eyelash. They know him as a yarn spinner de luxe. They like to repeat his famous Judge Culpepper stories. They recall his delight in telling good ones on himself.

Among the good ones is the 1928 political campaign in Clark County, Kentucky. Fresh out of law school, Paul joined the law firm headed by his future father-in-law, Judge J. M. Banton. Promptly he was named to run the Al Smith presidential campaign in Clark County.

That year Clark County went Republican for the first time since the Civil War. In self-defense, however, he explains that the GOP plurality was only four votes.

Paul Aldemont (don't let on you know that middle name) Porter was born Oct. 6, 1904 in Joplin, Mo., the son of a Baptist minister. At the age of three months the family moved to Winchester, in Kentucky, and occupied the house next to Judge Banton.

At the age of 4 he had his first date. Recipient of his attention was Bessie Edgar Banton. The idea caught on, and the childhood romance became a permanent affair. Through their school years Paul and Bessie Edgar strolled home from school together, holding hands as Paul obligingly carried books for both.

Paul stayed right in Winchester to attend Kentucky Wesleyan college. After three years he went to nearby Lexington to attend law school at the U. of Kentucky, graduating in 1928. At Lexington he doubled in journalism as city editor of the Lexington Herald.

After his initiation into politics in 1928 he left Winchester to join General Newspapers Inc., of which Gene Pulliam (now WIRE Indianapolis) was president. His assignment was newspaper purchasing in Southwest Oklahoma. The company later sent him to Georgia, where he worked a year before accepting his Washington assignment at the AAA.

SIDNEY N. STROTZ, NBC Western division vice-president, is radio division chairman of the annual Los Angeles Red Cross drive.

Paul has one hobby—actually an ex-hobby. It's golf. The last time he played was one Sunday morning, Dec. 7, 1941. His companions were Harry Butcher, CBS vice-president; Jesse Willard, manager of WJSV (now manager of WBT), and Ed Murrow, on leave from London.

That afternoon the shooting started at Pearl Harbor and Paul has been too busy ever since to take time off for a round of golf.

But chances are he'll be even busier between now and Nov. 7.

Join Blue Sales

PHILIP F. WHITTEN, account executive in the sales office of the Blue, is joining the New York sales office of Mutual in a similar capacity. He headed his own agency from 1937 to 1942, and previously served as sales manager of WHN. He was at one time in the Mutual sales department. Marjorie Dolge has been transferred from sales service to the research division of the sales promotion and research department. Network has also announced the appointment of Alma Graef of sales service, as assistant Eastern sales service supervisor, in charge of contracts and estimates.

Brophy on Mission

MURRAY BROPHY, former communications chief of the OWI and a deputy of the Overseas Branch, returned to San Francisco on Feb. 24 after a ten-day special mission for theatre commanders throughout the Central Pacific area during which he witnessed action in some of the islands. After resting in San Francisco he will go to Washington to report. Mr. Brophy resigned from the OWI last August because of ill health and recently took over his special assignment.

Hardy Promotion

LARRY F. HARDY has been named vice-president in charge of the home radio division of Philco Corp., according to John Ballantyne, president. With the Philco organization since 1932 Mr. Hardy has served in the capacity of manager of the Chicago branch, division manager for the northwest division, vice-president and general manager of the Simplex Radio Co. (Philco subsidiary), and in 1941 was named manager of the home radio set division.

WCOL Changes

KENNETH B. JOHNSTON, president, has taken direct charge of all operations at WCOL Columbus, and is now acting as both president and general manager. Frank N. Jones, with WCOL as a local salesman for many years, is elevated to the position of national sales representative. Increased volume of business has required remodeling and expansion of studio facilities.

LE GEAR SHOW ON KMA WINS AGENCY AWARD

In the first month of its first year on KMA, the LeGear Medicine Company (livestock and poultry) program outpulled those on every other station on the list.

"Therefore, someone at your station has a Stetson hat coming," says Lee Hammett of Simmonds & Simmonds, Chicago advertising agency.

"You are doing a consistently good job and certainly confirming your confidence in the kind of results KMA can bring," Mr. Hammett continued.

If you, too, have a client interested in sales returns or mail response—and what radio director doesn't?—get your KMA schedule set up NOW. KMA availabilities, like all other good things, are limited.

To learn the latest trends in mail response, get your copy of "The Complete Mail Study" right away. It took a full year to compile this book of solid facts—and only a few copies are left.

EDITOR BROADCASTING:

The caption under the photograph on page 62 of your Feb. 28 issue contains four errors of fact which are as follows:

The NAB studio control training course is 12 weeks in length, not 9 as stated.

The present course will terminate on March 2, and did not terminate on Feb. 23 as indicated. After March 2, these women are available for employment by interested stations anywhere in the United States.

Your caption fails to mention that this was a cooperative effort; agencies involved were NAB and the four major networks. The four networks contributed the use of their studios (WABC-WEAF-WJZ-WOR), control room facilities and staff engineers, all of which will accrue to the benefit of the entire broadcast industry. All shared equally in this activity, classes being held alternately in the various studios. RCA Institutes Inc. of New York City, conducted the course which was approved by the New York State Dept. of Education. Each of the 12 students paid a tuition of $75.

The engineer mentioned in the caption conducted only those classes held in the studio where he is employed, and not the classes conducted elsewhere. The various network engineers, who have contributed so much to the success of this course, acted as lecturers supplementing the RCA instructor who was present at all times.

Broadcasters interested in employing of these women should communicate with NAB.

Under pressure of war's demands for immense quantities of radio equipment for use on land, at sea and in the air, crystal grinding techniques have been revolutionized.

More than 9,000,000 crystals have been produced for war by Western Electric to date. One of our shops now makes as many crystals in a day as the whole industry used to turn out in a year! And four such Western Electric shops are now working.

In other phases of Western Electric's war work, much the same thing has been happening. Radio receivers and transmitters of many types have been produced by the tens of thousands—mikes of all types totaling more than 600,000—over half a million headsets—vacuum tubes by the millions.

As a natural result of Western Electric's years of leadership in telephone and radio work, this Company is today the nation's largest producer of electronic and communications equipment for war.

Let's Get On with the War

We enter 1944 with a big war job to do. Throughout the country there have been boards and committees and associations set up to make plans for the post-war period—to reconvert to peacetime industry.

Undoubtedly this is important. Industry must be ready to absorb the men who will come back from the military services. Industry must be ready to supply the great demand for consumer goods.

But industry must first do its part in winning the war. We must not look so far ahead that we don't see clearly before us the all important task of turning out every possible piece of military equipment today. We must not forget that the peak demand has not yet been reached. We must not overlook the fact that it has taken us months to advance a few miles in Italy . . . that a very minute portion of our army has yet seen action . . . that Berlin is a long way from Rome.

We are becoming altogether too confident of victory. We all know that it will come. But we can not afford to spend the early months of 1944 in talking and planning conversion to peacetime products. We must first complete the job at hand because every day that peace is speeded hundreds of our boys are saved from death or disfigurement.

No industrialist will deny that we must plan for the future. America has been built on just such planning. But the plans can be made while production is going on. That production should not be slowed for a minute to experiment with some system of making peacetime products.

Labor, too, seems over confident. Eighty per cent of the men at our plant are working harder than ever before, doing everything they can to turn out tires. The other twenty per cent—a small minority but a serious bottleneck—has so reduced production that we are making no more tires in an eight hour shift today than we did in a six hour shift before the war.

For every hour's delay in the production of war goods, we must answer to our boys when they come home. And everytime some new committee is organized to promote post-war planning, the public gets new assurance that industry, at least, thinks the war is all over and we will be back to business as usual within a short time.

Encouraging this attitude are opinions from so-called experts who predict that Germany will be out of the war by April, that the Japs will be defeated by the end of the year.

Those same optimistic predictions have been made since wars began. When the Revolution started, it was to be over within a year. It lasted seven. During the War between the States both sides freely predicted it couldn't last a year. It lasted four.

We have been making progress. We have taken the offensive. We have begun to push back our enemies in Europe and in the Far East. But we have a long way to go.

Let's concentrate on winning the war. Let's get out every truck and plane and gun and tire we can today. Let's do our planning after the day's work is done. Let's do it after working hours and keep those hours for producing more and more war goods. Only in that way can we face our returning sons with confidence that we have done our best to help to wind up this war in a hurry.

radio in its budget and therefore could not spend money on this media. OWI accordingly informed stations that although RRB's requests for time were legitimate Government requests, the stations were at liberty to refuse to carry the messages if they felt that the subject was commercial.

Mr. Hymes said the RRB budget change places funds at the disposal of the regional offices of the Board, with the proviso that radio can be used to recruit help in local situations. In the past, these offices have called upon OWI station relations chiefs for assistance in recruiting freight handlers, conductors, engineers, ticket sellers, trackmen and other railroad labor.

The RRB action does not affect the situation concerning "Don't Travel" messages, Mr. Hymes said. In the case of the travel announcements, stations had protested the donation of time requested by the Office of Defense Transportation while railroad companies have been buying space in other media for similar messages. When OWI discussed this matter with the Assn. of American Railroads it was advised that the request of stations that radio be considered along with other media in railroad advertising was for each railroad to decide [BROADCASTING, Dec. 29, 1943].

'Time' Underwrites Free Press Study

U. of Chicago to Take Charge Of Two-Year Inquiry

RADIO figures prominently in the two-year study into the freedom of the press in the U. S., which will be conducted under the auspices of the U. of Chicago with a grant of funds from Time Inc., according to Robert K. Hutchins, president of Chicago.

The Commission will conduct an inclusive inquiry, the announcement said, into the nature, function, duties and responsibilities of the press (using the word in its broadest sense) including radio. News, editorial expression, commentators, departments, and advertising will be studied. Time magazine, which in no way enters into the work of the commission of inquiry, pointed out editorially that, "When CBS recently tried to ban its newscasters from expressing their own opinions on the air it only emphasized the whole great problem of the interpenetration of 'news' and 'opinion'."

Dr. Hutchins said the commission planned to "examine areas and circumstances under which the press in the United States is succeeding or failing; to discover where free expression is or is not limited, whether by governmental censorship, pressures of readers, or advertisers, the unwisdom of its own proprietors or the timidity of its managers."

Members of the commission, which will have its headquarters and a permanent research staff in New York, are:

Zechariah Chafee Jr., professor of law at Harvard University; John M. Clark, professor of economics at Columbia University; John Dickinson, general counsel of the Pennsylvania Railroad; William E. Hocking, professor of philosophy at Harvard University; Dr. Hutchins; Harold D. Lasswell, Library of Congress; Robert D. Leigh, director of Foreign Broadcast Intelligence Service of the FCC and

Air News 'College' Is Urged by Lewis

MBS Commentator Honored At Sigma Delta Chi Lunch

FORMATION of an "American College of Radio Reporters" to establish a code of ethical standards for its membership of radio analysts, commentators and newscasters, was proposed last week by Fulton Lewis, jr., Mutual commentator. The suggestion was made at a luncheon last Tuesday in Washington of Sigma Delta Chi, professional journalistic fraternity, which awarded to Mr. Lewis a plaque and certificate for his outstanding work in radio reporting.

Also receiving awards were Drew Pearson and Robert S. Allen, newspaper columnists, for excellence in Washington correspondence, and Alexander Kendrick, editorial writer of the Philadelphia Inquirer. Lt. Col. Allen is on active army duty. Mr. Pearson, vacationing in Florida, did not accept the award personally. The Pearson-Allen award was for their newspaper column, rather than the Pearson broadcasts.

Full Disclosure

Mr. Lewis emphasized the need for a voluntary self-regulatory code for radio reporters. Describing radio as "public domain", he declared the newscaster must serve the public interest. Members of the proposed college would be obliged to publicly disclose "every penny they earn." A credit line mention of membership in the organization was suggested, such as: "John Doe is a fellow of the American College of Radio Reporters." Biographies and former connections of all members would be public.

Mr. Lewis was the first president of the Radio Correspondents Assn. and was active in gaining Congressional recognition for radio reporters through the establishment of the Congressional radio galleries.

Among the stores signed are Gimbel Bros., New York, Philadelphia and Milwaukee; Hecht Co., Washington; Wm. Filene's Sons Co., Boston; John Shillito's Co., Cincinnati; Crowley Milner Co., Detroit. The programs are produced by Frederic W. Ziv Inc., Cincinnati and New York, recorded by Muzak, New York and directed by the Calling All Girls magazine.

$12,910 thereafter. The brief pointed out, however, that the figures were contingent on recording all programs from a single point, and on availability of equipment. If either assumption is incorrect "the cost must be very substantially increased", it added.

On its split networks Mutual pointed out that recording all programs under present wartime conditions would be "difficult if not impossible". Inasmuch as many stations feed programs to both the full and split networks, if the rule is adopted in its present form the cost to MBS would be many times the $15,950 estimate, the brief added.

CBS, through its general counsel, Julian F. Brauner, listed five major objections to the recording regulation: (1) The rule would serve no useful purpose; (2) it is discriminatory; (3) compliance will require the use of essential personnel and critical materials; (4) the rule should be clarified; (5) adoption should be postponed until after the war and until such time as a non-discriminating rule can be adopted.

Columbia said network broadcasts total less than 30% of the aggregate daily hours of operation of standard broadcast stations. Besides, the major networks already retain copies of "as broadcast" scripts of network programs and those not keeping such records could do it with little difficulty, CBS explained. In addition, material for network programs is "carefully examined prior to broadcast to insure compliance with the Communications Act" and voluntary Code of Wartime Practices.

CBS said the rule would work a hardship on affiliate stations and that if any portion of the broadcasting profession be required to record all programs, then all stations should be included. On the manpower question CBS told the Commission it has lost 59 technicians to the armed services and Government from New York alone and that 19 more are scheduled to be inducted by Sept. 1. Therefore sufficient manpower to carry out the manual labor in connection with the rule would not be possible. Also materials are not available.

The rule places an "undue burden on stations affiliated with networks" since each is potentially the station at which programs originate, said the CBS brief. "The rule would require each station to make the recordings and not permit any such station to have the recordings made," it added. CBS offered an amendment, should the rule be adopted, to make it possible for any station or the network itself to do the recording, regardless of the origination point.

NBC's brief letter, signed by Henry Ladner, assistant general counsel, suggested the following wording for the rule: "Any program broadcast over a regional or national network shall be simultaneously electrically recorded and the recording retained for one year." The suggested wording would make it the "obligation of each station broadcasting a network program to arrange that at least one station on the network or the network organization itself make and retain such a recording."

Segal, Smith & Hennessey, filing on behalf of WXYZ Detroit and the Michigan Radio Network, objected to the proposed rule because to comply the network would need two instantaneous recorders, three extra fulltime operators, 225 16-inch discs per month and filing cabinets for 2,700 discs. Philip J. Hennessey Jr., and George S. Smith, who filed the brief, also asked to appear for oral argument.

NAB will protest the rule on the grounds that there is not sufficient manpower to carry out the regulation and necessary equipment is not available.

It is understood that the Commission is not so much concerned with what is said on the air as how certain commentators say it. In recent months several members of both Houses of Congress, whose names have been used by network commentators, have demanded that the Commission produce recordings of what was said.

One Congressman, who asked that he not be quoted pending possible libel action, complained to the FCC that the commentator who allegedly libeled him did not follow script but inserted derogatory wording on the air, a transcript of his newscast disclosed.

That the FCC is concerned with voice inflection is indicated in the Feb. 1 notice which stated:

"The Commission points out that in the case of newspapers, the printed word remains as an irrefutable and permanent record, whereas unless some recording is made, what was actually said, or the manner of saying it, on a radio program cannot be definitely established after it has gone out on the air."

Nets Plan Invasion Coverage

broadcast reports by CBS correspondents." Extra Ediphone operators will be engaged "so that transcripts of all invasion broadcasts will be available as soon as possible after they have been completed."

Since much of the invasion news may be released or officially commented on in Washington, the memo reports that "arrangements will be made for 24-hour coverage of the WTOP new room and important Government departments."

A "beep" system will be set up for "notifying stations of prospective break-ins at the beginning of the next scheduled program," the memo states, continuing: "Regarding break-ins generally, it will be our policy—except for bulletins of transcendent importance—not to interrupt a program but to give the news at the end of that program or the beginning of the next program. Thus listeners will know that they are not missing any extremely important news development but will not have their attention frequently diverted by intrusions of news of lesser importance."

Mr. White emphasizes the need for caution and accuracy in monitoring, transcribing, writing and broadcasting news of the invasion.

Monitors are warned: "If any words are missing because of atmospheric and it should appear even remotely possible that these missing words might affect the content of the dispatch, don't take chances. Discard the story."

General Instructions

Five "simple general instructions" are laid down for news writers and broadcasters:

(1) No matter what the general tenor of the news, keep an informative, unexcited demeanor at the microphone.

(2) Give sources. Be sure to label every report that is not officially released. . . . As a rule of thumb, let us in every case lead with the latest Allied communicate or report from one of our own correspondents, and then, if there are contrary reports from enemy or friendly sources, label them and subordinate them. It cannot be emphasized too strongly that accuracy should never be risked for the sake of a prospective 'beat.'

(3) Be careful even in the choice of words. For instance: 'Allied forces today rolled toward X'; 'Allied air armadas today continued their round-the-clock bombings'; 'The German defenses of Z today were pulverized.' The italicized words are apt to be exaggerated and breed a dangerous optimism. If the facts call for more moderate language, then sacrifice colorful writing and say: 'Allied forces today moved toward X'; 'Allied air forces today continued their repeated bombings.' 'The German defenses of Z today were hard hit.'

(4) When we don't know, let's say so. If the last official word on an invasion force came 20 hours ago and was to the effect that 'satisfactory progress' was being made in an attack on Y, then let's not lead a news broadcast with some locution as this: 'Allied troops were believed today to be progressing toward Y.' . . . Far better to do it this way: 'Nothing has been released for the past 20 hours concerning the Allied attack on Y. The last official word was, etc.'

(5) In short, always aim for the listener's confidence, and remember that winning the war is a lot more important than reporting it.

News Heads Meet

William Brooks, director of news and special events, has perfected NBC's plans for invasion coverage. News department heads from the network's offices in Chicago and Washington met with the New York staff for an intensive discussion of these plans on Feb. 10, and a similar meeting will soon take place on the West Coast.

If the news should break late at night, after the network operations have shut down, arrangements have been made to notify immediately all news staff personnel and all major executives of NBC, as well as the managers, chief engineers and newsmen of all NBC affiliate stations. An extensive series of special program, including interviews with prominent military and Government officials, news analyses by the network's commentators, and other similar feature material, has been prepared for broadcasting at almost a moment's notice, so that extended lulls between news bulletins will be filled with interesting, important program material, Mr. Brooks stated.

NBC has also arranged to pick up any statement that President Roosevelt may make and to record and rebroadcast it without delay.

Mutual press department on Thursday issued a special "pre-invasion" news sheet of stories and pictures of the network's leading news reporters and commentators, which was sent to radio editors together with photos and mats for use when the invasion occurs. In addition to the network's own staff men, the special issue also features the 850 newsmen of the Christian Science Monitor who cover the world newsfront for The World's Front Page, broadcast on MBS.

TITLE of the Westinghouse program starting on the Blue March 13 [BROADCASTING, Feb. 28], will be Top of the Evening.

Sustaining of House Appropriation Cut For FCC Intelligence Activity Is Seen

ABOLITION of FCC wartime intelligence activities which duplicate similar duties of the armed forces, appeared certain on the basis of Capitol Hill talk last week.

Reliable reports in the Senate were that the Appropriations subcommittee on Independent Offices, headed by Sen. McKellar (D-Tenn.), not only will sustain a $1,654,857 cut from the Commission's 1945 budget made by the House, but will go the House one better. Unconfirmed rumors were that the Senate subcommittee will recommend another $300,000 slash from the 1945 fiscal year request.

FCC Chairman James Lawrence Fly has made several recent efforts to present the Commission's side of radio intelligence activities before the House Select Committee before final Congressional action on the Independent Offices Bill. His latest was a letter last Wednesday to Committee Chairman Lea (D-Cal.).

Letter Incident

Rep. Francis Case (R-S.D.), in the House last Tuesday said Harvey Jewett, president of KABR Aberdeen, S. D., advised him by long-distance that he had received a letter from "the head of a broadcasting association of which his station is a member" asking that Mr. Jewett, Republican National Committeeman, use his influence with Rep. Case to have the FCC appropriation restored.

"The letter, as nearly as I can recall," Rep. Case told his colleagues, "said that the writer had been in telephonic communication that morning, the morning of the writing of the letter, with Mr. James L. Fly, chairman of the FCC, in which Mr. Fly told him that Francis Case, a Republican from South Dakota, was a member of the committee that was trying to deny the FCC a proper appropriation. The writer of the letter suggested that Mr. Jewett kindly do what he could in the matter and further suggested that a copy of any communications showing what he did in the matter be sent to Mr. Fly in Washington."

Rep. Case made it plain that Mr. Jewett didn't ask him to act one way or the other, but called "to ask me what it was all about". The South Dakota Congressman said later Mr. Jewett told him the letter was from the head of the North Central Broadcasting System.

FCC's Engineering Functions Shifted

TAKING advantage of the experience and special talents of its top-ranking engineers, the FCC engineering department, under George P. Adair, named last month as chief engineer, has effected a redistribution of certain functions, it was learned last week. Commissioner E. K. Jett, who left his post as chief engineer to accept Presidential appointment to the Commission, will retain chairmanship of the coordinating committee of the Board of War Communications, top committee of the wartime policy agency. He has held the post since creation of the Defense Communications Board, predecessor of BWC, in 1940.

Philip F. Siling, new assistant chief engineer in charge of broadcasting, remains in direct charge of spectrum allocation work, which he handled as chief of the international division, under Mr. Adair. Mr. Siling also will continue as FCC alternate on the Interdepartment Radio Advisory Committee and as secretary of that organization, which functions on radio allocations for the Government directly under the President. Marion H. Woodward, who succeeded Mr. Siling as international division chief, will handle all other division activities.

BERG RULING UPHELD

U. S. CIRCUIT Court of Appeals last week upheld the decision of the Federal District Court in dismissing the libel suit of Dr. Louis Berg for $250,000 against Printers' Ink. Action was based on an article by Max Wylie of N. W. Ayer & Sons, Dusting Off Dr. Berg, which the New York psychiatrist thought libelous, but the courts held to come within the bounds of fair criticism. Dr. Berg last week had made no decision about a further appeal.

Mr. Adair, in addition to supervising all technical activities of the Commission, including Radio Intelligence Division, becomes the FCC observer on the Radio Technical Planning Board, cooperative group recently created by representatives of various industries identified with radio communications.

NBC Television

Mr. Trammell wrote that his company "looks to the Bell System to provide and make available to NBC the necessary interconnecting facilities for such a television network system.

Mr. McHugh replied: "The Bell System is planning to construct within the next few years a large amount of coaxial cable. The extent of this construction, when and where it will be undertaken, will depend upon the requirements of the armed forces, general business conditions, the volume and distribution of long distance telephone messages, the availability of the necessary manufactured cable and equipment, and other factors. Tentatively, however, our plans call for between 6,000 and 7,000 route miles of coaxial cable in the next five or six years."

This tentative program of coaxial cable routes is outlined by Mr. McHugh as follows: 1945—New York-Washington; 1946—New York-Boston, Washington-Charlotte, Chicago-Terre Haute-St. Louis, Los Angeles-Phoenix; 1947—Chicago-Toledo-Cleveland-Buffalo, Southern Transcontinental Route (a large part) including Charlotte - Columbia - Atlanta - Birmingham - Jackson - Dallas - El Paso-Tucson-Phoenix; 1948-1950—Southern Transcontinental (complete), Washington - Pittsburgh-Cleveland, St. Louis-Memphis-New Orleans, Kansas City-Omaha, Des Moines-Minneapolis, Atlanta - Jacksonville - Miami, Los Angeles-San Francisco.

Problem of Frequencies

Before nationwide television becomes a reality, Mr. Trammell pointed out in his statement to NBC affiliate stations, there are a number of problems to be solved. First is the question of standards and frequency allocations, now being studied by the Radio Technical Planning Board, with final action by the FCC to "determine the technical and service bases on which we as broadcasters can proceed with television."

Pointing out that the 18 channels presently allocated to television are sufficient for its initial development but may prove inadequate for its ultimate requirements, Mr. Trammell continued: "If television allocation now in existence were to be changed substantially and a new start in the higher frequencies were required, it would retard the establishment of television as a practical service for a period of years that cannot now be definitely forecast. It is to be hoped, therefore, that post-war television will be permitted to continue on the present frequency allocations."

If video networks comparable to those of sound broadcasting are to be established, Mr. Trammell stated, "it is evident that competitive network organizations must own and operate outlets in strategic cities. . . . The present FCC rule which limits ownership, operation or control by any one interest to three television broadcast stations in the United States is a severe deterrent to the organization and sound economic growth of national network television. It is to be hoped that . . . the FCC will grant the petition recently filed by NBC requesting a modification of this rule."

"Natural" for Advertising

On the economics of television, Mr. Trammell declared: "As in sound broadcasting, it is obvious that advertising revenues must furnish the financial support of the service." Costs will be greater, he said, and there will be a period of initial investment with no immediate return. "Receiving sets must be in the hands of the public before we will have circulation to sell, and yet many receivers cannot be sold unless there are available programs to attract an audience."

Fortunately, he went on, experience so far indicates "tremendous interest and enthusiasm on the part of audience and advertisers alike." Some 125 advertisers have already made their television debuts on WNBT, NBC station in New York, he said, calling television a "natural" for local advertisers and predicting that national advertisers will be in the market for local time before national networks have been established.

"Television," Mr. Trammell declared, "as a self-supporting national service, will need sympathetic consideration on the part of Government and vision, courage and cooperation on the part of all members of the radio broadcasting and manufacturing industries. . . . We of the radio industry must lead, not lag, in the establishment of this great new service of sound and sight."

Store's First Venture

GUS BLASS Co., Arkansas' largest department store, on March 1 began its initial venture into radio on KARK Little Rock with the transcribed Betty & Bob series, 9:15-9:30 a.m. Monday through Friday. The program, which will run for a year, was given a ten day teaser campaign before it opened. Before sponsoring this program, Blass Co. was the only department store in Little Rock which did not use radio.

Lea Calls for Law Stating FCC Power Claims Adoption of Authority Not Intended by Congress

ASSERTING that he believed the FCC has been inclined to "reach out and exercise powers that Congress did not intend to give it," Rep. Clarence F. Lea (D-Cal.), chairman of the House Interstate & Foreign Commerce Committee and the Select Committee to Investigate the Commission, last week called for radio legislation defining the "powers of the Commission".

He was addressing the House Tuesday in defense of his administration as chairman of the Select Committee, following charges of whitewash by Rep. Richard B. Wigglesworth (R-Mass.), when he digressed long enough to express his views on the need for remedial laws, particularly in view of the so-called Frankfurter decision handed down last May 10 by the Supreme Court (see page 12).

Need of Stability

"I think the Supreme Court decision has made it more desirable than ever that we should have legislation which would more clearly define the powers of the Commission, more definitely limit and restrain its activities, and that would also give a greater degree of stability to the broadcasting industry

WSAI Wins

WSAI Cincinnati has been awarded first prize, a $250 War Bond, in the Blue network interstation promotion for Breakfast at Sardi's. Brett Howard, WSAI promotion director, was in charge of the winning project. Two second prizes were awarded to WRNL Richmond and KMA Shenandoah, Ia., while third prize went to KMMJ Grand Island, Neb. Procter & Gamble, Kellogg Co., and Alaska Pacific Salmon Co. donated the prizes.

instead of leaving it so largely in the discretionary control of the Commission," said Rep. Lea.

"The recent Supreme Court decision gave the Commission wider authority than I think was in contemplation when the Act creating the Commission was passed," he told his colleagues. "I am one of those who believe the Commission in its administration had been inclined to reach out and exercise powers that Congress did not intend to give it."

Mr. Lea outlined the functions of the Committee which included, he said, inquiry into the FCC or-

Du Mont Video Station Opening Second Studio

COMPLETION of the second studio of W2XWV, Du Mont video station New York, sometime in the spring, will make this the first television station using more than one studio, according to Sam Cuff, manager of commercial programs for the station. This will enable W2XWV to operate under what will eventually become normal television conditions, as well as eliminating the use of movies in the intermittent period of set changing, Mr. Cuff explained.

The station's offer of studios to advertisers and agencies to experiment with sound-and-sight broadcasting has created a lively interest and the studio now has a waiting list of 16 agencies. William Morris Agency will begin a weekly half-hour series this month.

Will Baltin, former program director W2XWV, has resigned to become secretary-treasurer of Television Broadcasters Assn., but will not be immediately replaced. Companies using the station facilities provide their own programs and need only assistance of a technical nature in handling lights and cameras. This is supplied by the station's technical staff under supervision of Walter Swenson, technical director.

ganization. "The question as to the organization of the Commission is one primarily of legislation," he added. "I am of the opinion that legislation is needed to improve the legal procedure in conducting meetings before the Commission."

Rep. Warren G. Magnuson (D-Wash.), who defended the chairman against the minority charges, pledged his support to legislation. "If there is any legislation to be proposed, any just criticism of the FCC that this Congress can correct by legislation, you are going to have my vote, for one," he asserted, "and I know the vote of the majority members of this Committee, as well as the vote of the two minority members."

Shortly after his appointment as chairman Mr. Lea expressed a need for legislation and predicted the investigation would provide sufficient information to guide the House in formulating a law that would define the powers of the FCC and give broadcasters a degree of security.

Adam Easter Plans

ADAM HAT STORES, New York, starts an extensive Easter campaign for men's hats next week. Adam Hats will be promoted on some 140 stations throughout the country for four weeks starting March 13. Commercial will be a 30-second transcription of the same jingles heard on Adam Hat network programs. Firm has had two successive series on the Blue—That's A Good One, a joke program was replaced last December by an amateur show, Star For A Night, Wednesday, 10:30-11 p.m., which goes off the air after the March 8 broadcast. 'Voice' on Discs

THE Voice of Experience, which starts on WHN New York March 6 as a live show for Sunway Vitamins, is coming back also as a transcription. An unnamed consulting psychologist "with 20 years of experience" takes the role played by the originator of the program, Dr. Sayre L. Taylor, until his death several years ago. Some 15 stations have signed for the series, with a number of retailers, particularly in the women's apparel field, as sponsors.

Michael Schulhoff & Co., New York, is handling sale of the program. WOR Recording Studios cut the discs.

Two Companies Promote

NEW Eversharp series scheduled to start on the Blue network Tuesday, March 7, 7-7:30 p.m. was still in the audition stage last week. Decision was being reached last Friday on a program playing up the wishes and ambitions of the average person, titled Let Yourself Go. Dreams will be highlighted in a dramatic program on CBS Friday, 7:15-7:30 p.m. sponsored by Englander Bed Co., Brooklyn, starting March 17. It will represent the first major consumer advertising for the firm. Biow Co., New York, is agency for both.

Du Pont Awards March 11

THE Alfred I. Du Pont Radio Awards for 1943, presented annually by Mrs. Du Pont in memory of her husband, will be presented March 11 at a dinner at the St. Regis Hotel, New York. Ceremonies will be broadcast 7-7:30 p.m. on the Blue. Three awards of $1,000 each will be made. One will go to the outstanding news commentator of the year, one to a radio station with power of less than 5 kw, and the third to a station of 5 kw or greater power.

Zenith to Object

VIGOROUS opposition will meet the NBC application requesting the Channel 1 commercial television facilities of W9XZV Chicago, Zenith video outlet, it was stated last week by a Zenith Radio Corp. spokesman. The Chicago station has broadcast regularly scheduled programs continuously since March 30, 1939. Hugh Robertson, executive vice-president and treasurer of Zenith, said "NBC action in asking for Zenith's frequency is presumptuous and unfair, and will be vigorously contested."

UP Names Pinkley

VIRGIL PINKLEY, general European manager of the United Press, has been named a vice-president, according to Hugh Baillie, president of the United Press. He takes the post held by the late Ed L. Keen, the first European general manager and vice-president of the U.P. He has now returned to his London office after conferring on plans to cover the invasion.

SCRIPT AWARD

WRITERS' WAR BOARD has selected The Candle and the Gun, heard on CBS as a special broadcast Feb. 23, as the outstanding radio script for February, it was announced last week by Robert J. Landry, CBS director of program writing. Script writer was Marie Yanofsky, freelancer, until recently with WHP Harrisburg. Marks Loeb was the producer; Bernard Hermann composed and conducted the music.

Hager Is Renewed

2d District Praises Miller, Votes Confidence in Ryan

KOLIN HAGER, general manager of WGY Schenectady, was reelected NAB director from the Second District, covering New York and New Jersey, at the conclusion of a meeting of the district held Thursday and Friday at the Roosevelt Hotel, with 28 of the District's 38 stations represented.

Group adopted resolutions extending to Neville Miller a vote of appreciation and to NAB President-Elect J. Harold Ryan a pledge of cooperation and expression of confidence; condemning the Cannon-Mills Bill for the Government purchase of paid advertising to aid the war effort; pledging greater support to BMI; condemning the "unjust, unreasonable and un-American" demands of AFM President James C. Petrillo on the transcription industry and urging NWLB to reject the principle; commending the NAB legislative committee.

Final afternoon session included reports on public relations by Michael R. Hanna, WHCU Ithaca, district publicity chairman, and Willard Egolf, assistant to the president of NAB, and on engineering problems by Earle Godfrey, WBAB Atlantic City, district engineering chairman.

Opening session was conducted by C. E. Arney, acting general manager of the NAB, who reported on the current legislative situation and the status of the Wheeler-White bill to amend the Communications Act, the labor situation in view of current policies of Selective Service and War Manpower Commission, the activity of various NAB committees, touching also on post-war problems of the industry. Mr. Arney's report was interlarded with discussion from the floor of the various topics dealt with.

First afternoon session was devoted mainly to music and recording problems, with representatives of the various music licensing and recording companies addressing the broadcasters. Edgar

WMCA Policy Reaction

NAB last week notified WMCA New York that the industry association "feels some concern over the announcement of the WMCA policy to sell time for the discussion of controversial issues" [BROADCASTING, Feb. 28], and that the requirement that both sides participate is "not an adequate solution".

H. Twamley, WBEN Buffalo, led a discussion of practical operating and accounting procedures for stations in connection with their music licenses.

Second morning session, with John A. Bacon, WGR Buffalo, presiding, covered sales problems, with Lew Avery, NAB director of broadcast advertising, leading a general discussion, and Walter Neff of Neff-Rogow, Inc., New York, speaking on radio for retailers. Dorothy Lewis, NAB coordinator of listener activities, reported on progress in that field and also on the current "American Home" campaign of the Assn. of Women Directors. Harry Levin, regional director, OWI, thanked the broadcasters for their cooperation, reporting that stations in New York and northern New Jersey in 1943 had broadcast 84,236 war messages on regional problems that did not fall within the OWI national radio allocation plan.

Order 118 Taken Under Advisement

Would Eliminate Competition In Industry, FCC Is Told

ACTION on a proposed rule under Order 118, making certain business records of broadcast stations public, was taken under advisement by the FCC last week following brief oral argument.

James D. Wise, appearing for NBC and Radiomarine Corp., and Philip J. Hennessey Jr., for King-Trendle Broadcasting Corp. and Scripps-Howard Radio, opposed adoption on the rule on the grounds that it was unfair, would eliminate free competition and would tend to place broadcasting in the category of common carriers. When Mr. Wise argued that the rule would make public contracts that had been reached through negotiation, Chairman James Lawrence Fly inquired if "that wouldn't lead to competition", adding, that the rule would lead to "greater bidding".

"The people who are engaged in that bidding don't think so," said Mr. Wise. "They think there will be a tendency toward uniformity of price. It is interesting to note that the Dept. of Justice doesn't favor making public negotiated matters.

Mr. Wise requested that the rule, if adopted, be modified to provide that portions of network contracts relating to compensation be excepted from the public inspection mandate. "We'll make other provisions public but we ask that compensation not be made public," he added.

He explained that both NBC and Radiomarine Corp., although the latter is a common carrier and also a manufacturer of equipment, have "competitors not subject to the rules of the FCC" and therefore the proposed rule would be discriminatory. He said his company didn't object to the Commission knowing of financial affairs but did object to the Commission making them public.

Mr. Hennessey said his clients did not object to the Commission's right to see financial figures but they did oppose making public contractual relations. "We regard our activities as a competitor in a competitive field," he said. "Making contracts public is a misnomer. The public-at-large is not concerned about our contractual relations. Only our competitors are." Mr. Hennessey suggested that if the rule is to be adopted, any information heretofore filed with the Commission as confidential be excepted.

Others filing letters or briefs protesting the proposed regulation were: NAB, CBS, Don Lee Network, All-American Cables & Radio, Commercial Cables, Commercial Pacific Cables, Mackay Radio & Telegraph Co.

against the work of the Committee." He charged that under Chairman Lea the Committee had experienced "continuous difficulty" in obtaining for its perusal documents from the FCC. He alleged that the majority action in postponing the WMCA investigation "can only be interpreted as a determination to yield to Administration pressure and to suppress indefinitely unsavory facts said to involve high Administration officials and advisors, past and present."

Deploing the resignations of Mr. Garey and three of his staff and the resignation last October of Rep. Cox as Committee chairman, Rep. Wigglesworth said the "methods used" to bring about the resignations "were both brutal and shameful."

"What is the President afraid of, Mr. Speaker?" he demanded. "What is his Administration afraid of? What is it that they fear to expose to the light of day? What can there be that is so wrongful or damaging as to lend to this obstruction, intimidation and political coercion or blackmail?"

Makes Demands

Rep. Wigglesworth closed his speech with these demands: "An end of these tactics; cooperation with the Congress and with all its duly appointed committees; that the New Deal permit the people to have the truth; the majority members resume hearings on WMCA at the earliest practical moment; that they take immediate steps to insure the production by the FCC of essential documents and data; that they permit the orderly conduct of this investigation without fear or favor; that they comply with the mandate of this House regardless of pressure from the Administration or any other source."

"If the present chairman is unwilling to comply with these demands, he should immediately resign from his position and permit the appointment of a fearless successor who will not bow to executive domination," he declared. The Republicans and several Democrats stood and applauded loudly.

Rep. Hart, after explaining that he made the motion to postpone investigation of the WMCA sale pending litigation in New York, declared he had opposed from the first the presentation before the Committee of the case because of the court action. Mr. Hart denounced Mr. Garey's letter of resignation in scathing terms.

"In narrating the facts which led up to the action of the Select Committee which Mr. Garey so vehemently deprecates, I hope I shall succeed in avoiding the intemperateness of language which Mr. Garey has employed," said the New Jersey Congressman who for many months stood by the general counsel when Chairman Lea and Rep. Magnuson demanded Mr. Garey's resignation.

Mr. Garey employed "an intemperateness which reflects his personal pique and a high degree of that puerility which he has imputed to the Committee," said Mr. Hart. He declared that he had discussed the WMCA case with no one but newspaper reporters except "one person. That person was Mr. Garey."

"I apologize for nothing," he continued. "I defend nothing. I have merely taken this time out of a decent respect for the opinion of the House to explain the facts which induced the Committee action which has led Mr. Garey to such violent breast beating and to such a blatant show of simulated indignation."

'Legal Locution'

Rep. Hart traced the history of hearings, asserted that many phases of the inquiry had been closed but that the FCC had not "actually been heard down to this very day and hour". After detailing events that led to postponement of the WMCA hearing and Mr. Garey's resignation, Rep. Hart asserted:

"That is the sum and substance of the situation which has drawn from Mr. Garey a diatribe utterly unworthy of his talents. For his eminent ability as a lawyer I have a high regard. For his undoubted character I have a deep respect. But for the balderdash which is contained in his letter of resignation, I have nothing but complete disdain.

"He charges us with having subordinated the paramount public interest. I repel that charge. I deny that the paramount public interest is involved. The use of that high-sounding phrase by Mr. Garey is simply a legal locution wherein he seeks in this instance to advance the doctrine that the end justifies the means. It is a gross misapplication of the principle of public interest. ***

"Mr. Garey has also charged us with having perpetrated a fraud upon the Congress and the public. Mr. Speaker, I scorn to reply to that charge, to that monstrous misrepresentation." Mr. Hart placed in the Congressional Record copies of correspondence between himself and Franklin S. Wood, attorney for Mr. Noble.

Rep. Hoffman urged that Congress appropriate no further funds for the executive branch "unless they come up and tell the House what they were doing and answer, without any reservation, except as to war activities, the questions on which the various committees of the House sought information."

Dies Tells of Subpenas

Rep. Dies declared "the most pertinent issue raised and the one that should be answered here, is whether or not the FCC or other agencies can refuse to make available to the Committee vital information necessary to an intelligent investigation of this subject matter." Mr. Dies told the House that his Committee Investigating Un-American Activities had issued subpoenas but that "in all probability those subpoenas will be refused."

Chairman Lea was interrupted several times during his talk by Reps. Miller and Cox but after yielding at the beginning he declined to yield further and continued.

"This investigation started about one year ago," he said. "Criticism soon developed about the way the investigation was conducted. As time went on the principal charge against the investigation was that it was conducting unfair, compulsory, star-chamber examinations of witnesses by the Committee staff without the presence of a Committee member. This became the primary basis for the outcry against the investigation."

Rep. Miller demanded that the chairman cite "one single star-chamber session". Mr. Lea said he referred to "private, not public hearings". Rep. Cox was on his feet defending the Committee during his chairmanship. "Let us be frank," he declared. "Let us be courageous about it. Can the gentleman (Rep. Lea) point to a single item in the entire record which he, as an honest man, condemned as having been unfair?"

"I have not read the whole record," replied Chairman Lea, "but I would not say that in the published record itself I found that fault. I do not say that for what may have occurred in private records. I have not seen these records."

Mr. Lea defended his procedure, which provides that all hearings will be public. He told of having a telephone conversation with Chairman Fly the day of his appointment as chairman, that Mr. Fly had called him and offered the cooperation of the Commission.

Rep. Miller demanded: "Will you state whether or not you have, behind closed doors, talked with Mr. Charles Denny, counsel for the FCC?"

Chairman Lea said he had talked to Mr. Denny several times but that as chairman of the Committee he deemed it within his province to talk to "any respectable man". He asserted that he made it clear to Mr. Denny at the outset of his chairmanship that the investigation would be conducted "without fear or favor". He termed Mr. Garey's letter of resignation as "ridiculous" and said: "If my 27 years of service have not answered the charges of that letter, then nothing I can say here today will answer them."

He was applauded by the Democrats and a scattering of Republicans. (Mr. Lea for 12 terms has been the nominee of both Republican and Democratic parties from his district). Speaking of Mr. Garey, he said:

Criticizes Garey

"I would not be candid with you if I did not confess that I have been unable to find a basis of confidence and respect under which as chairman I could cooperate with him as chief counsel." He charged that rumors began reaching him "within three days of my appointment" that the general counsel had "initiated or started to create distrust and undermine me as chairman of this Committee".

"In repeated contacts he treated me with an insolence that I had never before seen displayed by an employe of any Member of this House," said Chairman Lea. "My experience has convinced me that he is vindictive to an extreme degree. As an investigating attorney he has the fault of being an inveterate hunter of headlines and too frequently by the smear route to that end. I know I have a bias that might unduly prejudice my viewpoint, but I trust I am giving you as nearly as I can a correct appraisal."

Rep. Lea denied he was whitewashing the investigation. He declared that he had received no orders from the White House and that "you can be dead certain that Franklin Roosevelt knows enough about me to know that if he sent such a message that it would be the thing that would most deeply cause my resentment."

Indicating that the investigation by the present Committee might be near an end or that he may resign, the chairman said: "Now the problem of this investigation will rest in the hands of those who may have the responsibility for its completion. . . . For my part if those who carry this burden for the future do it even fairly well they will have my support."

Rep. Magnuson said he had opposed Mr. Garey as general counsel from the start but that Chairman Lea had "retained him in spite of my objections". He admitted having breakfast, on his return to Washington from Alaska "by way of my own district in Seattle", with Thomas G. Corcoran, who was under subpoena in the WMCA hearing, but said: "I have had many breakfasts with Tommy Corcoran during the years I have known him". He denied he rushed to Washington from Attu to attend the majority meeting the middle of February.

Cox Lauds Garey

Rep. Cox, who the week before had lauded Mr. Garey, again went on the floor to pay tribute to him as a "great lawyer and great American". He said that the general counsel had been on the job but a week when the campaign to "force him out of the Committee as its counsel" began.

"It is my feeling that the work of this Committee is at an end, but that the FCC will be thoroughly investigated there is no doubt," said Rep. Cox. "When Garey left this Committee the Committee's effectiveness as an agency of this House, inquiring into the bad behavior of this creature of the Congress, came to an end. He is the man that the FCC is afraid of. He is the man that these bureaucrats downtown dreaded, and it is unfortunate for the Committee and the country that he was compelled to leave."

"I want to say to you, and through you to the country that powerful influences have been brought to the aid of the FCC. . . . There has never been an agency of the Government that has treated with greater contempt the Congress of the United States than has this Commission and its chairman, but it is now on the defensive."

WJR Off 24-Hour Day

WJR Detroit will discontinue all-night operation March 7, according to Leo Fitzpatrick, vice-president and manager. The move was necessitated because of the need for maintenance time and the manpower shortage. Sign-off will be at 1 a.m. operations starting at 5 a.m. daily except Sunday at 8.

Mortimer Watters Is Given New Post

Scripps-Howard Radio Names Him V-P and General Manager
APPOINTMENT of Mortimer C. Watters to the newly-created post of vice-president and general manager of Scripps-Howard Radio was announced last week by the board of directors of the corporation. Scripps-Howard stations are WCPO Cincinnati, WNOX Knoxville, and WMP5 Memphis, with WMC Memphis affiliated through the Memphis Commercial Appeal.

Mr. Watters

Simultaneously, Mr. Watters announced the appointment of Harry A. Le Brun, assistant manager of WNOX, as manager. He succeeds Richard B. Westergaard, Scripps-Howard v-p and general manager of WNOX, who was inducted into the Army March 1. [BROADCASTING, Jan. 17] Mr. Le Brun for 11 years was with WHEC Rochester, as announcer, newscaster and program director and became assistant manager of WNOX last July.

Mr. Watters' appointment, approved in February by the Scripps-Howard board, makes permanent a post occupied by the young executive since the entry into the armed forces of Lt. (j.g.) Jack R. Howard, president, and Maj. James C. Hanrahan, executive vice-president, of Scripps-Howard Radio. Mr. Watters has been acting general manager since last May. He will retain his headquarters in Cincinnati, where he also manages WCPO. He has been with Scripps-Howard for the last six years. Both Lt. Howard and Maj. Hanrahan are overseas.

Tibbett Named

GENE TIBBETT of Birmingham, Ala., has been appointed station manager of WELO, new outlet granted for Tupelo, Mont., it was announced last week by Bob McRaney, WELO general manager and manager of the radio interests of Capt. Birney Imes Jr., station owner. Mr. Tibbett has had extensive experience in the radio and entertainment fields and will assume his new post within the next few weeks. Mr. and Mrs. Tibbett are the parents of a girl born Feb. 29.

WFAA-KGKO Changes

RALPH NIMMONS, program director of WFAA-KGKO Dallas, has been advanced to program director in charge of regional and local sales and Ralph Maddox, assistant program director, will assume active charge of the program department, according to Martin Campbell, managing director of the stations. Action was taken following resignation of Alex Keese, former WFAA-KGKO station manager, who joined the Taylor-Howe-Snowden group of stations with headquarters in Amarillo, Texas.

Gob's Luck

WWNC Asheville, N. C. held an impromptu interview the other day on the Western North Carolina Farm Hour. A troubled sailor entered the studio to report the loss of $180 and to his surprise Charlie Newcomb, m.c. of the show, brought him before the mike and introduced him to a Mr. Carter who had come to the studio for the express purpose of reporting a find — $180.

NBC Women's Series

WRITTEN, produced, directed and acted by women, a series of four half-hour programs dramatizing the life of girls in military service will be heard on NBC starting Saturday, March 25. It will be the first entirely feminine series for the Network. Where women can't take over, as in the engineering department, a woman will serve as contact. First-hand material will be gathered by Priscilla Kent from camp centers in the New York vicinity. Ernesta Barlow, who conducts NBC's Commando Mary, will be narrator. Titled Now Is the Time, the series will be in effect a "salute to the girls in service from the women at home."

Candy Co. Plans

MASON, AU & MAGENHEIMER Confectionery Mfg. Co., Brooklyn, N. Y., will shortly introduce Vita-Snak, vitamin and mineral food candy bar. Radio is being planned for the introductory campaign. Candy firm is currently using a spot radio schedule for Mason Mints and other candy products. Agency is John H. Owen, New York.

NAB Group, Wheeler Discuss Proposed New Radio Statute

Elias Succeeds Miller as Legislative Committee Chairman; Ryan to Take Office on April 1

FURTHER informal and exploratory conversations on the White-Wheeler Bill (S-814) were held last week by Chairman Wheeler (D-Mont.) with the NAB Legislative Committee, but no date yet has been set for full Interstate Commerce Committee consideration of the measure.

Absence from Washington of acting minority leader White (R-Me.), co-author of the measure, as well as other Committee members, resulted in postponement of planned executive consideration of the re-draft. Senator White headed a delegation to Oregon for the funeral last week of Sen. Charles L. McNary.

The Legislative Committee, along with NAB president-elect J. Harold Ryan, met with Senator Wheeler last Tuesday and Wednesday. It is understood the Committee will meet again in Washington within a week and probably will confer with Chairman Wheeler again March 13.

Elias New Chairman

Don S. Elias, WWNC Asheville, was named Committee chairman, succeeding Neville Miller, who last week formally retired as NAB president. Mr. Ryan plans to take office in early April, leaving his post as assistant director of censorship.

J. Leonard Reinsch, managing director of the Cox-owned stations, WSB Atlanta, WIOD Miami, and WHIO Dayton, was added to the Legislative Committee and participated in the meetings. He had testified before the Senate Committee at the recent hearings.

following the session Wednesday, but was to return early this week. Mr. Reinsch likewise planned to be in Washington. Robert T. Bartley, war activities director of NAB, and Karl A. Smith, legislative counsel, along with C. E. Arney Jr., temporary managing director, participated in the legislative activities and will work with Messrs. Elias and Reinsch.

The Committee made no announcement following the sessions, aside from Mr. Elias' observation that the meetings were "very satisfactory." He emphasized that the discussions were informal and exploratory.

E. B. Craney, general manager of Z-Bar Network, who has been in Washington since last November as unofficial adviser to Chairman Wheeler on the new legislation, left for Montana last week. He plans to return, however, by mid-March.

All members of the Legislative Committee were present except James D. Shouse, WLW-WSAI Cincinnati, who was detained in Cincinnati because of labor negotiations. Other members of the Committee, aside from those mentioned, are Clair R. McCollough, WGA L Lancaster; Joseph H. Ream, CBS New York; Frank M. Russell, NBC Washington; James W. Woodruff Jr., WRBL Columbus, Ga.; G. Richard Shafto, WIS Columbia, S. C.; Nathan Lord, WAVE Louisville; and Ed Yocum, KGHL Billings, Mont.

Miller's Farewell

Mr. Miller, who left Washington Feb. 29 for a two-week vacation in South Carolina, has not announced his future plans. In a farewell to his wide acquaintanceship in radio, Mr. Miller dispatched this card:

"My connection with the NAB during the past six years has been a very happy one, and I wish it were possible for me personally to express my appreciation to all those both within and without the broadcasting industry who have extended to me so many courtesies, and cooperated with the NAB in all its activities.

"Since it is not possible to write each one individually, I am taking this inadequate, but nevertheless sincere way, of saying how much I have appreciated your many kindnesses, that I have enjoyed working with you, and that I hope I shall have the pleasure of seeing you many times in the future.

"Thanks again, and with best wishes."

"I Always Deaden the Mike Before I Cough"

PRESIDENT of Kansas City's Chamber of Commerce says of radio: "Radio's contribution to the home front cannot be emphasized too greatly. I particularly recognize radio for its realistic approach to community problems brought on by war times. Yes, indeed, radio has earned its inherent right to play an important role in the moulding of a better post-war world."

Looking to Tomorrow..

Radio's responsibility, as vital as it may seem today, has touched only lightly upon the potentialities ahead. KMBC looks to the future with great optimism. Not satisfied to drift along on accomplishments of the past, KMBC is laying the foundation today for broadened responsibilities tomorrow. KMBC's new Service Farms... its "Big Brother Club"... both are steps in that direction—already taken. Only in this way KMBC feels that its leadership... the leadership of radio... can step forward into the "New Horizons" of tomorrow.

Denver Delivers
MEAT

THE Denver livestock market—fifth largest in the nation—broke its all-time volume record in 1943. The year proved to be the biggest both in number of head of stock handled and prices paid to shippers marketing their cattle, sheep, and hogs here.

Value of livestock received at Denver during 1943 totaled $139,661,373. This was an increase of more than 25 million dollars over 1942.

Even before wartime demands encouraged livestock raising to the utmost, the Denver region was an important source of the nation's meat. It was and is the most intensive lamb feeding area in the world.

Livestock raising is one of the permanent, well established industries of this region which, along with agriculture, mining and manufacturing have been and will continue to be the foundations of its economic soundness.

DENVER STOCKYARDS where 4,428,000 head of livestock were handled in 1943 valued at $139,661,373. In this number were 2,700,000 sheep, 778,000 cattle and calves, and 950,000 hogs. It is the fifth largest livestock market in the United States.

DENVER DELIVERS VITAL MINERALS

The mountains of Colorado, once better known as a playground for vacationing tourists, are actually a limitless storehouse of war-vital minerals. Mines, old and new, are working around the clock to pour their life-giving ores into the industrial heart of America.

DENVER DELIVERS SALES OPPORTUNITIES

The stepped-up production and employment on every hand in the Denver region has naturally increased population and income. Continued above-average sales gains by retail establishments in this area give proof that the time is opportune for selling effort.
