THE YEAR IN REVIEW

BY TRACY STEVENS

As far as consumers were concerned, it was business as usual. Primetime lineups were advertised relentlessly as the networks made their bids for primacy, news—good and bad—was delivered with great zeal, and advertisers and program delivery providers fought to gain market share. Meanwhile, behind the scenes, the industry was in turmoil. ABC continued its downward trend, hemorrhaging cash and viewers; all the broadcast networks employed questionable tactics in advertising their programming, leading to new standards imposed by Nielsen; a new cable giant was born with Comcast's acquisition of AT&T Broadband raising questions about the company's influence over content and television's digital destiny; the development of standards and equipment for digital television remained in gridlock despite the efforts of Congress and the FCC; accounting and accountability scandals rocked the cable industry, resulting in a freefall in stock prices and company valuations; and last, but not least, the long awaited EchoStar-DirecTV merger was nixed by the FCC.

BROADCAST

The season that ended with the May sweeps marked the first time that the four-network household share of the primetime audience fell below 50%, an unspoken benchmark in the industry. Largely attributed to huge drop-offs in viewership at ABC (down 25%), basic cable garnered a record 49 primetime share, up 8%, while the big four's combined ratings were a miserable 47. NBC won both the season and the May sweeps by solid margins, and was the only major network to show growth across households, total viewers, and the key demographics for the season.

As the fall 2002-2003 season began, it looked like ABC might be able to save itself. Although ratings were off by 7% among 18 to 49 year olds at ABC, the story was the same at both Fox and NBC. And for the first time in years, ABC actually had a couple of hits with "8 Simple Rules for Dating My Teenage Daughter" and the revamped "Monday Night Football" with the venerable John Madden. Newly appointed ABC Entertainment President, Susan Lyne, was quick to cancel two failing shows, "Push, Nevada" and "That Was Then," shuffling the schedule to maximize the network's viewership. Michael Eisner set a low target this year, telling analysts that it will take more than a single season to put ABC back into contention as a ratings winner, and has pressed every part of Disney's far-flung empire into service to boost ratings. With its viewership so far down, ABC didn't have enough people watching the network to promote its new offerings. So, Eisner sent ABC stars such as Drew Carey and John Ritter to Disney's California Adventure Theme Park to win the hearts and minds of potential viewers.

ESPN was running ads for "Alias" around the clock, and spots promoting the fall lineup showed up in movie theatres, before Disney-produced movies. Disney also merged the management of ABC with Disney-owned cable networks, daypart by daypart. For example, the executives who run The Disney Channel, Toon Disney and Playhouse Disney will also run ABC broadcast Saturday morning. This will ultimately lead to more repurposing of content, however under its new agreement with ABC affiliates that runs through 2004, Disney may repurpose only 25% of its programming. Whether the new programming, scheduling, and marketing efforts will pay off is anyone's guess. But it's clear that the fate of Eisner and his executives is closely tied to that of the network which can no longer afford to lose $250 million per year, as it did in 2001.

With the new season underway, ABC wasn't the only network scrambling for the all-important top spot. For just a few hours on Oct 1, NBC was touting its new Thursday night show "Good Morning Miami" as the top-rated new comedy. However, according to Nielsen Media Research, NBC's comedy fell somewhat short of the number one spot. NBC, relying on overnight ratings from the Sept. 26th episode of "Good Morning Miami" cut a promo about the show's success and scheduled it to run on Tuesday, October 1st. Unfortunately, on Sept. 30th, Nielsen's final numbers were released, showing CBS's "Still Standing" as the season's top-rated new comedy. CBS complained about NBC's ad to Nielsen and NBC pulled the promo, but only after getting a good night's worth of airtime, advertising their "success." Similarly, at the end of last season, CBS claimed it was the top-rated network, which it was, if you excluded NBC's airing of the Winter Olympics. This all seems pointless, given that media buyers use their own numbers to determine audience share, but in a world of fragmented TV audiences and network executives plagued job insecurity, manipulating the numbers is grist for the networks' publicity mills. Finally, Nielsen stepped in to set some standards, and the networks are now required to clearly identify the numbers they are using in their promotional claims. However, there is likely to be little enforcement of the new standards as Nielsen is paid by the networks themselves to provide the ratings.

Audience share and demographics aside, the 2002-2003 season enjoyed the most lucrative broadcast upfront sales in history. Between May 30 and June 4, the networks brought in $8.32 billion in advance sales of advertising time, a 21% increase over 2001. This year's turnaround was a surprise, given the bearish state of the wider economy. The syndication market also showed impressive 10-12% gains in upfront spending, with cable showing only a marginal increase in sales growth. NBC was the big winner in the broadcast upfronts, with $2.74 billion in sales, a new single-network record, surpassing ABC's $2.4 billion in 2000. CBS came in second, with $1.95 billion, and both the WB and UPN were up dramatically, even with their rate-hikes of 15%.

The new season also marked a dramatic increase in repurposing of content. What began as a trend in the fall of 1999 with the airing of new episodes of "Law & Order: Special Victims Unit" on NBC and cable's USA in the same week, has grown into a money-saving and programming strategy that's here to stay. Fox announced in September that it will be repurposing its new Warner Bros. produced "Fastlane" on Viacom's MTV. The repurposing was built into the production and programming agreement from the beginning: Warner Bros. knew Fox wouldn't pay the full price for producing the youth-oriented action hour, so Warner Bros. got cash, advertising time and promotion time for Fox in exchange for MTV's right to air the program. Disney is repurposing several of its ABC sitcoms on ABC Family in an attempt to shore up its cable network. NBC shows two of the three "Law and Order" franchises' first-run episodes on USA, and The WB is re-airing in-season episodes of "Charmed" on TNT. While the synergies make sense for the media companies that own the broadcasters and their companion cable networks, the affiliates feel that repurposing robs them of their exclusivity and syndicators fear that it devalues programming. In spite of concerns about brand equity and syndication value, the networks are using repurposing as part of a new business model to minimize programming expenditures and maximize value.

And with value in mind, NBC—unwilling to take losses on the Big Three Leagues (NBA, MLB and NFL)—is instead betting on Arena Football. The Arena pro-season will begin in February after the NFL Super Bowl. While Fox, CBS and ABC (along with ESPN) are paying a combined $18.3 billion over eight years for the broadcasting rights to the NFL, NBC Sports is paying nothing to broadcast Arena Football, a high-scoring alternative league that's becoming increasingly popular in middle-market cities. In fact, Arena Football is paying NBC Sports for the right to be on national TV. And, while it may not draw millions of viewers, it will guarantee NBC a small profit. Having severed ties to MLB, the NBA and the NFL, NBC Sports insists that they remain a player in the lucrative sports market with events that include the PGA Tour, Notre Dame football, the Olympics, Wimbledon, and NASCAR. And Arena Football, which may or may not go the way of the failed XFL.

CABLE

In cable, the big news of the year was white-collar crime Adelpia-style. Joining WorldCom and Enron, Adelpia Communications' accounting scandal resulted in the arrest of three members of the Rigas family on fraud charges, alleging that the family used the company as a "personal piggy bank." As the company entered Chapter 11 bankruptcy protection, the fall of one of the nation's largest cable companies had widespread effects as investor anxiety grew and financial markets began to question the very underpinnings of the industry.

On average, MSO stocks have fallen about 73% this year, on concerns over accounting practices and heavy debt. This slump comes at a time when MSOs posted 10-15% revenue growth and 12-27% operating cash flow growth, the best showing in years. Investors are valuing MSOs at $2,500-$3,000 per basic subscriber, down from around $4,500 early last year. The stock slide makes it difficult to raise money, either equity or debt, and nearly impossible to make acquisitions or capital expenditures. As a result, cable operators are discussing development of uniform standards for reporting some basic operating statistics to investors, an initiative being led by Insight and NCTA chief Mike Willner, and the CEOs of Cox, Comcast, and Time Warner.

Industry woes aside, Comcast Corp. is expected to close its $54 billion acquisition of AT&T Broadband by the end of 2002. The new company, AT&T Comcast Corp. will be unprecedented in size and influence, with 21 million customers in 17 of the top 20 markets. That's nearly twice as many as the next biggest operator, Time Warner Cable. AT&T Comcast will be so big and wield so much power that it is certain to shift the dynamic of the media business as the nation's top entertainment portal. No company will have more control over which TV channels, Internet services and movies are brought into U.S. homes, and no company will have more market power or the ability to hold out for better terms from content providers.

AT&T Comcast will be shouldering almost $30 billion in debt after the merger, and is expected to bring in gross revenue of approximately $24 billion in 2003. AT&T's average revenue per subscriber is $175 while Comcast's is a much beefier $300. Accordingly, much of the company's success will depend upon its ability to make use of broadband. With 21 million potential customers, AT&T Comcast will have the scale to make money selling all the services that come with broadband, from streaming video to music to video games. Analysts predict that about 30% of AT&T Comcast's subscribers, about 7 million homes, will be paying for high-speed data by the end of 2006. This will help to boost average revenue per subscriber and offset the company's debt as well as expected expenditures upgrading AT&T's subpar systems.

SATELLITE

After a year of hearings and negotiations, Charlie Ergen's $30 billion bid to take over DirecTV parent Hughes Electronics was rejected by the FCC. EchoStar Communications argument that a single, strengthened DBS provider would compete more vigorously with cable operators and provide more services to customers than EchoStar and DirecTV could separately, was dismissed. FCC officials and anti-trust lawyers were concerned about the multichannel video business moving from three players in most markets (one local cable system, DirecTV and EchoStar) to two; and in rural areas not served by cable, the number of players would go from two to one. FCC Chairman Michael Powell stated that "the combination of EchoStar and DirecTV would have us replace a vibrant competitive market with a regulated monopoly."

With the proposed merger effectively dead, the only questions remaining regarding that deal are how long EchoStar CEO Charlie Ergen plans to spend in court attempting to disentangle himself from a $600 million breakup fee and an agreement to buy Hughes' stake in ParAmSat for $2.7 billion and how desperately GM (Hughes' owner) needs cash.

Waiting in the wings as Ergen makes his exit, are Rupert Murdoch, Liberty Media's John Malone and Microsoft. All three have expressed interest in entering the DBS market, and have specifically entertained an acquisition of Hughes and DirecTV.

DIGITAL TELEVISION

In 1997, Congress ordered most broadcasters to convert from analog to digital signals by 2006 and granted them about $70 billion worth of spectrum to do so. The idea was that with digital TV, consumers would receive clearer pictures, better sound, more channels and interactive programming. As the years have passed, digital TV's picture is anything but clear as standards, equipment, and legislation mire attempts at conversion and squabbling among the key players makes progress a tall order.

Hollywood studios and other broadcasters refuse to provide content until manufacturers of high-definition television include foolproof mechanisms to prevent piracy. TV makers argue that broadcasters refuse to work with them to solve the problem. All the while, local television providers and cable companies say that transmitting digital and interactive signals makes no sense until more programming is available. To date, fewer than 1% of U.S. homes are watching high-definition content with the 2006 deadline looming ever closer.

The House Energy and Commerce Committee is trying to find a way to speed the transition without condemning hundreds of millions of analog sets to town dumps or ignoring movie studios' demands for anti-piracy safeguards. To prevent unlawful copying of digital programs, one provision of newly proposed legislation under discussion would forbid the manufacture of sets and accessories with analog outputs after July, 2005. Without that measure, content providers say that they won't permit broadcasts of the most desirable digital programs. However, this clause is estimated to cost consumers (and voters) billions. Each household could spend upwards of $1000 if forced to replace or upgrade all the sets, VCRs, and DVDs in their homes.

The obsolescence of nearly 300 million appliances, the cost of new digital equipment, and diminished rights for home recording will likely keep lawmakers busy hammering out broad DTV legislation for some time. And while the stalemate is in effect, there is no incentive for either side to develop new technologies or equipment that may ultimately prove to be worthless when standards are finally agreed upon.

YOUR PARTNERS IN HEALTH

Since 1936, the Memorial Fund has been caring for employees, and their immediate families, of the entertainment industry by providing them with health services.

Our representative can put you in touch with expert medical care, and your first consultation with one of our nationwide pulmonary specialists is absolutely free.

TELEVISION STATIONS

Stations are presented alphabetically by state, city and call letters. Stations are listed in the state and city in which they are licensed to broadcast. While most broadcasters maintain offices in the market they service, many stations are operated by corporations headquartered in other locales. In such cases, broadcast markets are indicated within the parentheses. Satellite stations' listings will refer the reader to the parent station's listing. Where applicable, station managers' names can be found at the end of each entry.

ABC, INC. (AMERICAN BROADCASTING SYSTEM, INC.)

ABC's predecessor, the Radio Corporation of America (RCA) owned two radio networks, the Blue and the Red. In 1941, the FCC decreed that the same company could not own two networks, so RCA incorporated the Blue under the name of American Broadcasting System and established it as an independent subsidiary. RCA then sold this network to Edward J. Noble, and in 1944, the name was changed to the American Broadcasting Company. ABC's first television broadcast was on April 19, 1948 with "On the Corner." Later in the year, ABC scored two "firsts": the live broadcast of an opera (Verdi's "Otello") from the Metropolitan Opera House in New York and a TV documentary, "The Marshall Plan." ABC merged with United Paramount Theatres in 1952. This merger was engineered by Leonard H. Goldenson, then the president of UPT. The new company was called American Broadcasting-Paramount Theatres, Inc. During the 1950s, ABC began to operate at a profit although it had to struggle fiercely to acquire new affiliates. In 1954, ABC made a deal with Walt Disney to acquire a 35% interest in Disneyland and all TV programs produced by Disney. The following year, ABC signed an exclusive rights contract with Warner Bros. for TV programming.

In the Fall of 1962, ABC introduced color programming for the fall season which was expanded in 1966 to include full color broadcasting. In 1965, AB-PT's name was changed to American Broadcasting Companies, Inc. The 1960s also introduced blockbuster theatrical movies to TV with spectacular ratings results when "The Bridge on the River Kwai" was viewed (in 1966) by 60 million Americans. In 1967, the ABC evening news was expanded from 15 minutes to a half-hour, and Joey Bishop inaugurated ABC's late-night talk show programming.

In 1972, ABC was able to operate at a profit for the first time in ten years. In the 1976-77 season, ABC had its first win in the ratings race. In 1976, Barbara Walters joined ABC, becoming the first anchorwoman in television history. The mini-series "Roots" appeared on ABC in 1977 and became the highest-rated program of all time. This helped immensely in the ratings race, and credit must go in large part to Fred Silverman who, two years before, had joined the company as president of ABC International. He left in 1978 to go to NBC.

The decade of the Eighties was a turbulent one for the networks as cable and home video began whittling away their audiences. In 1985, ABC agreed to be purchased by Capital Cities Communications. The merged company's name was changed to Capital Cities/ABC, Inc. ABC held second place in the ratings from 1979 to 1983, when it dropped to third position. It was unable to rise from third until 1987-88 when it displaced CBS in second place, primarily because of the World Series and the Superbowl. It remained second in 1988-89 and 1989-90. In the latter season, ABC had the distinction of broadcasting the most talked-about new series of the period, "Twin Peaks," and the highest-rated new series, "America's Funniest Home Videos."

Daniel B. Burke replaced Frederick J. Pierce as president and chief operating officer. There were also sweeping reductions in personnel in the interests of economy and streamlining. Budget cuts notwithstanding, Capital Cities/ABC chairman Thomas Murphy pledged ABC would not scrimp on programming.

Profits at the end of 1990 rose about $70 million. Of the three networks, ABC won the ratings battle in news coverage of the war in the Persian Gulf. For two seasons in a row the network could boast having the only new series in the top ten: "America's Funniest People" (1990-91) and "Home Improvement" (1991-92). Capital Cities/ABC is a partner in ESPN, the highly successful cable TV sports channel, and two other cable TV services—Arts & Entertainment and Lifetime. ABC was the only network in the 1992-93 season to gain ground, moving into second place behind CBS, from its previous third place standing. During the season, Robert A. Iger became the new network president. The network was the first to sign a deal with a cable operator (in this case Continental Cablevision) allowing its stations to be carried on cable without paying a fee. In 1994, the company signed an affiliation deal with E.W. Scripps Company to switch several of their stations over to ABC.

The big event of 1995 was the $19 billion acquisition of Capital Cities/ABC by the Walt Disney Company, said to be the second largest corporate takeover in history. In 1997, Ted Harbert resigned as entertainment chairman of ABC after 20 years with the network. At the end of the 1996-97 season, "Roseanne," one of ABC's sitcom staples, was discontinued after nine years on the air. The producers of ABC's "Home Improvement" sued the program's distributor, Walt Disney, alleging that a $3 million-per-episode renewal was in essence a sweetheart deal benefiting Disney. A lawsuit against the ABC news program Prime Time Live by the supermarket chain Food Lion for trespass, fraud and breach of fiduciary duty was decided in favor of the supermarket by a North Carolina jury. Producers for the evening news magazine got themselves hired undercover as clerks by the chain in order to expose the sales of spoiled food and unsanitary food handling practices by Food Lion, which did not dispute the findings of the investigative report, but instead claimed that the practice of sending in undercover reporters constituted fraud.

ABC's ratings soared when it broke the news in January 1998 that sex allegations were made by intern Monica Lewinsky against President Clinton. Apparently continuing a trend started by the O.J. Simpson trial and elevated by the death of Princess Diana in September 1997, news proved very successful in attracting viewers. Despite its brief victory in the ratings war, the network was scheduled to go through a complete transformation for the 1998-99 season, after losing its number two slot among 18-49 year olds to Fox. For the new season, the network was to introduce remakes of old shows such as "The Mary Tyler Moore Show" and "Fantasy Island," have "Sports Night" for male viewers, and air about 20 made-for-TV movies and mini-series.

ABC finished third in the 1998-1999 ratings war, despite their relentless self-promotion and critical acclaim for new shows like "Sports Night." With the 1999 departure of the embattled Jamie Tarses, it remained to be seen whether ABC's next programmer would be able to resurrect the network's ratings.

ABC's only blue-chip program was Monday Night Football, for which Disney paid the NFL $9.2 billion through the year 2005. In July, 1999, in an effort to reduce programming expenses, Disney combined ABC with Disney's television-production studio in order to slot more shows made by Disney onto ABC's prime-time schedule.

In the 1999-2000 season, ABC hit the jackpot with its American spin-off of the British "Who Wants to Be a Millionaire." For the season ending May 24, "Millionaire" took the top three spots in the ratings with its Tuesday, Thursday and Sunday programs, garnering a 29-, 26- and 25-share respectively.

In the 2000-2001 season, "Millionaire's" popularity waned somewhat. Through November 5th, 2000, the show was averaging a 20 share, a significant drop. ABC depended on the show to anchor its programming and generate revenue. With spring upfront ad sales estimated at $1.2 billion, about half of ABC's revenue, ABC executives and advertisers had their fingers crossed.

After surging to number 1 in the 1999-2000 season with "Who Wants To Be A Millionaire," ABC has seen its audience drop off, causing the network to fall to number 4 (behind NBC, CBS, and FOX) in overall ratings for the 2001-02 season.

Adding to the network's woes in 2001, ABC was reeling from the worst ad market in years. Buffeted by the Sept. 11 attacks, ABC, CBS and NBC collectively suffered a record loss of $880 million in advertising revenues for the third quarter, a slide of 28.6% from the same period in 2000.

ABC was stung by a number of high-profile disappointments in the fall 2001 season, including "Bob Patterson" and "What About Joan" which were cancelled. ABC is reallocating budget resources in order to develop about a dozen comedies, some of which may help the network recover its viewership in the spring of 2002. Also cancelled after only two weeks on the air was "America.01," the ABC News magazine devoted to covering the changes in the country after Sept. 11. The newsmagazine, which premiered on Nov. 2, was created in order to fill the gap left by reality show "The Mole," which was put on hiatus because of low ratings.

ABC Television Network ranked behind NBC and CBS for the 2001-02 season, and almost lost its third place spot in a ratings battle with FOX. In 2002-03, ABC expects to woo younger audiences with its new season of "The Bachelor" and has high hopes for its slate of new programming.

CBS (COLUMBIA BROADCASTING SYSTEM, INC.)

CBS began in 1927 as a radio network with 16 stations, United Independent Broadcasters, Inc., founded by Arthur Judson, a concert tour manager and backed by Louis Sterling, president of the Columbia Phonograph Company. Later other investors were invited in, the most prominent of whom was William S. Paley. On September 26, 1928, at the age of 27, Paley became president of the firm whose name was changed to the Columbia Broadcasting System. Paley introduced many innovations to radio broadcasting, the most significant of which was the signing of an agreement in 1931 with Paramount Pictures whereby film stars were heard on radio for the first time. This laid the groundwork for the CBS policy in television from the outset to feature shows built around stars (Ed Sullivan, Lucille Ball, Arthur Godfrey, Jack Benny, Burns & Allen, Garry Moore, etc.).

CBS was in TV as early as 1931 when it began regularly scheduled TV programming over experimental station W2XAB in New York City. In 1941, CBS began weekly broadcasts of black-and-white TV programming over WCBS-TV in New York. By 1948, it had 30 affiliated stations.

In 1951, CBS broadcast the first live coast-to-coast TV transmission between New York and San Francisco. 1951 was also the year that Bill Gordon designed the CBS Eye which was destined to become one of the most famous logos in the world.

In 1952 CBS opened Television City in Hollywood—the industry's first self-contained TV production facility. "Playhouse 90" made its debut in 1956, but the big event of the decade was the 1951 debut of "I Love Lucy", a series regarded as the progenitor of the situation comedy. In the field of soap operas, CBS was both leader and winner, virtually monopolizing that market from 1951 to 1956. In 1951, it introduced "Search for Tomorrow," which was to become the longest-running show in that genre. This was followed by "Love of Life" (1951) and "The Guiding Light" (1952), both overnight hits.

In the late '50s and through the '60s and '70s, CBS reigned as king of prime-time ratings, maintaining its long-running lead with such successes as "Gunsmoke" (1957), "The Defenders" (1961), "The Beverly Hillbillies" (1962), "All in the Family" (1972) and "Dallas" (1978). Also helping was "60 Minutes" the news-oriented show which, by 1995, had remained in the Top Ten prime time shows for 18 consecutive seasons.

CBS began the turbulent 80s with a new president, Thomas Wyman (replacing John D. Backe).

In 1985, Ted Turner made an unfriendly bid for CBS, forcing the network to buy up 21% of its own stock to thwart the takeover. Laurence A. Tisch, a former theatre chain executive, had become the major stockholder in CBS when, in 1986, he instigated sweeping changes in the interests of cost-cutting and efficiency. 700 jobs were eliminated at the CBS Broadcast Group. Tisch also removed Wyman as president, named himself chief executive officer and induced founder William Paley to return to active duty as acting chairman of the board. It was quite a jolt to the company when, in 1985-86, it slipped to second place and stayed there through the following season.

In 1987-88, CBS came in third for the first time in TV history. In 1988, Tisch shuffled executive ranks again, naming Howard Stringer, previously president of CBS News, president of the Broadcasting Group. The networks new management team sought to devise a strategy to pull the network out of its decline in the prime-time ratings. Jeff Sagansky, former head of Tri-Star Pictures, was brought in as president of the entertainment division in 1990.

Starting in 1991-92, CBS became the number one network for three years in a row based on the success of such shows as "60 Minutes" (the number one show for both '91-'92 and '92-'93), "Murphy Brown," "Murder She Wrote," and "Northern Exposure." CBS was hit hard by Fox's 1994 purchase of twelve stations from New World Communications, losing eight affiliates.

However, the following summer, Westinghouse Electric Corp. acquired the final independent network for $5.4 billion creating the largest collection of TV and radio stations in America. The 1994-95 season was a low point for the network as it plunged from number one to number three. By season's end, CBS had the dubious distinction of being the first of the three majors to fall into 4th place, coming in below Fox for the last week before the debut of the 1995-96 season. In late 1995, the venerable news program "60 Minutes" and CBS came under fire for refusing to air a controversial segment on the tobacco industry. Critics of CBS alleged that the network capitulated to the threat of legal action, rather than actual litigation. During this season the network placed third again. In 1997 CBS station group president Peter Lund was replaced by CBS radio president, Mel Karmazin.

Continuing the unpleasant trend of the previous several years, CBS continued to lose viewers in all age group except the 60+. In the middle of 1998, Mel Karmazin made public the restructuring of CBS. Because of the network's failure to turn a profit the radio and billboard companies which account for 60% of CBS' profits, were to be transferred to Infinity, thereby making the TV operations easier to sell, if need be. Infinity Broadcasting was sold by Karmazin to CBS in 1996 after trying to buy the Eye's radio stations himself.

Two years later, the company was several times its former size, and had the cash to grow even more as a result of the CBS deal. Although the CBS president denied considering a TV sale, others have admitted that the sale has not been ruled out. Because of the network's questionable future, president & CEO of CBS TV, Leslie Moonves, was pressured to deliver successful prime-time programming for the 1998-99 season. With the end of expensive shows such as "Cybill" and "Murphy Brown," Karmazin announced that the fall's lineup was considerably less costly than the previous year's. And, with shows such as "King of Queens" and "L.A. Docs" scheduled for the fall, analysts foresaw the possible resurrection of CBS.

In 1999, CBS merged with Viacom. Viacom paid $37 billion in stock for the network, making the combined company the third largest media group in the U.S. Mel Karmazin became the President & COO of Viacom under Chairman, Sumner Redstone.

CBS came in first in the 1998-99 ratings war, but still had a viewing demographic older than the 18-49-year-old group prized by advertisers. Many of its new shows, however, did attract a younger audience.

CBS renewed its contract for men's NCAA basketball, securing the lucrative franchise through 2013.

In the 1999-2000 season, CBS edged out NBC for second place in the ratings war.

CBS was number one in overall ratings for the 2000-2001 season and was ahead in November sweeps for 2001-2002. However, like the rest of the networks, CBS was affected by the September 11th attacks. Without placing an exact number on advertising losses, Viacom President and Chief Operating Officer Mel Karmazin said that the attacks resulted in a "considerable increase in costs at CBS News." He also said that the network would lose additional revenue from the cancellation of NFL games, rescheduling the Emmy Awards twice, and the delay of the fall season.

CBS continues to have the oldest demographic of the networks but has attracted younger viewers and the all important advertising dollars that come with them by way of "Survivor," its very popular reality show.

CBS placed second behind NBC in the 2001-02 TV ratings race after winning the rank of top-rated network for the 2000-01 season (barely edging the previous year's winner ABC).

FOX BROADCASTING COMPANY

Fox Broadcasting, a subsidiary of Rupert Murdoch's News Company and owner of Twentieth Century Fox, began broadcasting with the late night "Late Show with Joan Rivers" on October 9, 1986. The next year, on April 5, 1987, the fledgling network began prime-time broadcasts on Sunday nights only. The initial line-up consisted of "Married With Children" and "The Tracey Ullman Show," which featured animated interludes of a dysfunctional cartoon family named the Simpsons. Three new shows were added in the following weeks, including "21 Jump Street," which helped launch the career of actor Johnny Depp. In July of that year, Fox launched a Saturday night prime-time line-up. From 1989 to 1993, the network steadily added programming and expanded its prime time coverage to a full seven nights a week.

Originally the network aimed its programming at a young urban demographic. Particular attention was given to African-American-oriented programming, with comedy series such as "Roc," "Martin," "Living Single" and "In Living Color" (a weekly comedy-variety show which showcased not only the talents of Keenan Ivory Wayans and his brother Damon Wayans, but also comedian Jim Carrey). The youth market got its first soap opera with "Beverly Hills 90210", and its successful spin-off "Melrose Place." Fox consistently programmed "risky" shows, even in the face of boycotts, most notably aimed at "Married With Children" and "Beverly Hills 90210." The network, feeling strong about its programming, slotted "The Simpsons" against NBC's top-rated sitcom "The Cosby Show" in 1991.

The network was also actively pursuing sports programming. In 1993, Fox won the rights to NFL football for four years, including the rights to 1997's Super Bowl XXXI. In 1994, Fox acquired the rights to broadcast NHL hockey and in 1995, Fox signed an agreement with Major League Baseball to broadcast weekly games, the 1996, 1998 and 2000 World Series, and 1997 and 1999 All Star Games.

1994 saw the creation of FX Networks. In June, FX, a general entertainment basic cable network was launched, featuring marquee sports events, series and films. In October, fXM (Movies From Fox) was initiated to show Twentieth Century Fox films unedited and commercial free.

Also in 1994, Fox premiered "The X-Files," a fiction series dedicated to exploring the bizarre, the unusual and the paranormal, all with a slant aimed at conspiracy buffs. It took a season to achieve ratings success, but "The X-Files" has become one of the most popular series on Fox and is fast becoming the most imitated series on television. All of these programming decisions and experiments have paid off. In the 1994-95 broadcast season Nielsen ratings, Fox finished ahead of pioneer network CBS. Fox beat CBS yet again in November, 1995. On October 7, 1996, Fox launched the new Fox News Channel on cable.

With the appointment of Richard Cronin as president and CEO of the Fox Kids Broadcast network and Fox Family Channel, Fox will be targeting young viewers with "quirky" programs. In its effort to increase its viewership by attracting young people, Fox hopes to also increase the number of older adults watching along with the children. For the 1998-99 season, Fox moved up its prime-time slot on the Fox Family channel to begin at 6:00 p.m. instead of 8:00 p.m., and introduced four new dramas and two comedies, catering to the age group Fox is relying on to push up its ratings.

Fox continued to be the only network showing any real growth. Youth-oriented programming—the recipe for its past success—made up most of the 1999-2000 season.

In 2000, Doug Herzog resigned as Fox entertainment president and his duties were assumed by Sandy Grushnow. Fox cancelled the aging show "Beverly Hills 90210" for the 2000-2001 season, relying on David E. Kelley's "Boston Public" and a slate of new shows aimed at the key 18-35 demographic as well as a lock on Major League baseball for $2.5 billion, starting with the 2001 season.

News Corp. agreed to buy the Chris-Craft station group squeezing out UPN, and Rupert Murdoch has said that a Fox 2 network is under consideration. Whether or not a Fox 2 Network is unveiled, it is certain that there will be no more "Who Wants to Marry A Millionaire" specials after the Darva Conger-Rick Rockwell debacle that left the network shame-faced and reeling.

In the 2001 season, Fox placed in the top three, edging out ABC for the first time. Fox TV Chairman, Brian Mulligan, resigned unexpectedly in November. For 2001-2002, Fox continued to cater to its young demographic with returning shows and new programs aimed at hooking the teen and twenty-something audience. Fox also chose to pick up the controversial "Temptation Island" for a second season, drawing unfavorable reviews from media watchdogs and critics alike.

NBC, INC.

(NATIONAL BROADCASTING COMPANY, INC.)

NBC was an outgrowth of Radio Corp. of America, General Electric and Westinghouse. These three companies jointly launched a network in 1926 with 31 stations, 25 in a network called Red and 6 in a network called Blue. A year later, it was forced to sell the Blue network to ABC, keeping for itself the one known as Red. Television began for NBC in 1928, when on April 4, it acquired from the FCC a permit to operate an experimental station, W2XBS. Actual transmission from the Empire State Building did not begin until October 30, 1931. Eight years later, the network began broadcasting on a regular basis, beginning with the opening of the New York World's Fair on April 30, 1939.

NBC became a TV network on January 12, 1940, when two stations, WNBC-TV, New York, and WRGB-TV, Schenectady, New York, carried the first network programming. In June, 1941, the FCC granted NBC the first commercial TV license and a month later it had four advertisers signed up. After World War II, NBC scored two big "firsts." On June 19, 1946, Gillette became the first advertiser to sponsor a TV network show, the Joe Louis-Billy Conn boxing match. That same year, Bristol-Myers became the first sponsor of a network TV series, "Geographically Speaking." NBC can also claim to be the first to introduce coast-to-coast network TV coverage. On September 4, 1951, when the U.S.-Japanese peace treaty was signed in San Francisco, NBC cameras were on hand. In 1952, NBC pioneered early-morning programming when it introduced "The Today Show." NBC can also claim the first regularly scheduled network color series "The Marriage," launched in 1954. That same year it achieved the first west-to-east TV transmission with the telecast of the Tournament of Roses Parade in color.

At the start of the 1965-66 season, NBC declared it was the "only all-color network." In 1968, NBC introduced new forms of TV programming with "The Name of the Game," a series that incorporated feature-film elements into a 90-minute show. This then spawned the "NBC Mystery Movie."

In 1972, NBC broke new ground again when it introduced "The Tomorrow Show" shown from 1:00 a.m. to 2:00 a.m. This was a talk program and it demonstrated that in the early hours of the morning something more than re-runs and old movies could be shown. In 1974, another late-night show called "Weekend" was begun. The 1976 NBC telecast of "Gone with the Wind" drew the largest audience to that date for an entertainment program. In 1978, "Holocaust" attracted 107 million viewers and won 21 major awards. Such programs helped NBC in the ratings, but in 1976-77 it fell to third place, where it stayed until 1983-84.

Along with the other networks, NBC moved into a period of turmoil during the decade of the 80s, fighting off rising costs and competition from cable TV and home video. In 1986, General Electric Corporation purchased RCA (NBC's parent) for $6.28 billion; GE, it will be remembered, helped launch the radio network in 1926 which led to the development of NBC-TV.

This brought personnel changes led by the replacement of Grant A. Tinker as NBC chief executive officer by Robert Wright, although Wright was not given Tinker's chairman title; that being taken by John F. Welch of GE. Instead, Wright was named president as well as chief executive officer. Along with its competition, NBC started cutting staff and budgets in 1986. In 1984-85, NBC edged up to second place, and the following year it was ranked number one in prime-time viewing for the first time in the three decades of Nielsen ratings.

NBC held on to its first place standing for the following five seasons, through 1990-91. Long-time hit series in the five-year period included "The Golden Girls," "Cheers," and "The Cosby Show." Despite the network's number one standing, figures showed a steady decline in viewers. In May of 1991, Brandon Tartikoff, credited with pulling the network up from third place 11 years earlier, departed from NBC to become head of Paramount Pictures. When "The Cosby Show" ran its final first run episode on April 30, 1992, it became NBC's highest-rated series finale episode ever. The 1992 Summer Olympics also gave the network its widest ratings margin of all time. The 1994-95 season found NBC on top with its popular sitcom "Seinfeld" and the two most highly rated new series, "ER" and "Friends," both placing in the top ten. During the 1995-96 season, NBC was again ranked the number one network, with four of its Thursday night shows ranking in the overall top five. In the summer of 1996, NBC, in association with software giant Microsoft, launched a 24-hour cable and Internet news channel, MSNBC.

In October, 1997 the networks adopted an updated "voluntary" ratings system that uses the letters S, V, D, L, SV, which stand for sex, violence, suggestive dialogue, strong language and non-comedic fantasy violence in addition to the age rating. Only NBC and Black Entertainment Television refused to use the new system. Despite pressure from the White House, Congress and advocacy groups, the network had said that the ratings tread on its First Amendment right, and that there was no public outcry for the new system.

With its star show "Seinfeld" going off the air, NBC was faced in 1999 with the seemingly impossible task of finding a replacement. The network did manage to keep "ER," its other highly successful show, albeit at a draining cost of $13 million per episode. Keeping in line with the demand for news television, NBC's Dateline showed 6½ hrs. of programming about Princess Diana and her fatal accident.

In mid-1999, NBC had to ante up again to keep a hit show. The contract for "Friends" was renewed through 2002 at a cost of approximately $5 million per episode. In spite of NBC's attempts to rally after the loss of "Seinfeld," the network slipped to second place behind CBS in 1999. Ratings for the new prime-time shows do not look promising and it may take another hit of the magnitude of "Seinfeld" to bring "Must See TV" back into American homes.

NBC had a tough year in 1999-2000, coming in third for the season. Perhaps worse than the ratings tumble were the embarrassing numbers during the Sydney Olympics. Various reasons for the poor viewership were cited, including the tape-delay that made it possible to get real-time Olympic results everywhere but NBC. In an effort to boost ratings, NBC executives demanded that Nielsen exclude the first half-hour of the Olympics' prime-time broadcast (7:00-7:30) from its calculations. That gambit did bring up numbers somewhat, but it's unlikely that the same tack will work during the primetime season which, with a few exceptions, looked dry.

In 2001-02, NBC faced the prospect of the Winter Olympics and the effect they would have on ratings. Elsewhere, NBC expanded the successful "Law and Order" franchise to include a third program, "Law and Order: Criminal Intent." Even with longtime hits like the original "Law and Order," "Friends," and "ER," NBC placed third in the 2000-01 ratings war. 2001 also saw the failure of NBC's attempt to become a force on the Internet with its NBC Internet (NBCi) venture. The company bought the 61% of NBCi it didn't already own and folded its operations. NBC now plans to court Hispanic viewers through its agreement to purchase Telemundo for $1.98 billion.

NBC took the top spot over CBS in the 2001-02 season ratings. The network improved its ratings in the 2001-02 season, after placing third in the 2000-01 season.

PAX TV

August 31st, 1998 marked the debut of PAX TV, the nation's seventh and newest broadcast network committed to airing family-friendly programming that includes original live-action series, daily entertainment and information shows, children's programming, as well as popular movies and off-network shows with proven audience appeal. PAX TV is a wholly-owned service of Paxson Communications Corp., a broadcasting company whose principal business is the ownership and operation of the largest broadcast television station group in the United States.

Paxson Communications Corp. was an outgrowth of Paxson Broadcasting founded in 1991 by Lowell W. "Bud" Paxson, the co-founder and past president of the Home Shopping Network, Inc., who had been involved in the radio and electronic retailing business for nearly 40 years. Paxson Broadcasting, a Florida-based radio group, initially purchased four radio stations in the fourth quarter of 1991 which were AM/FM combos in Jacksonville and Tampa. Over the course of several years, the Company assembled a substantial statewide radio broadcasting group, and as a result of agreements it had in place on radio stations prior to the 1993 FCC rule change permitting radio duopolies, the Company was among the first to exercise its options and expand its duopoly holdings.

By 1994, the company sought to replicate in television its success in radio. Paxson looked to acquire two types of television properties: underperforming, undermanaged network affiliates and independent stations in major markets which broadcast long-form paid programming. In April, 1994, the company purchased the equipment and acquired an option to buy its first television property, an independent TV station in Miami. Paxson took his company public in November, 1994, through a reverse merger with the American Network Group, Inc., and subsequently moved the new company, Paxson Communications Corp., to the American Stock Exchange. By December of that same year, Paxson had owned or operated four stations, airing a variety of infomercial and long-form programming which by January, 1995, became known as the Infomall TV Network ("IN TV"). By purchasing independent television stations, entering into time-brokerage agreements, affiliating with stations and extending its broadcast reach on cable via "must carry" requirements, Paxson created a national television broadcasting distribution infrastructure providing long-form programming.

In March, 1997, the Supreme Court upheld the "must carry" legislation, and as a result, all of the company's broadcast stations were suddenly viable as a network and would remain accessible to cable television audiences. In June 1997, the company sold its entire radio interest to Clear Channel Communications in a tax-advantaged transaction. Also in June, the company acquired The Travel Channel an interest in which was in turn sold to Discovery Communications, Inc. later that year.

The company announced in November, 1997 that it would launch the seventh broadcast television network, at that time branded as PAX NET, on August 31st the following year. The network would feature off-network runs of popular shows including the CBS hit series, "Touched By An Angel," "Dr. Quinn, Medicine Woman," and "Diagnosis Murder," in addition to a number of original programs and theatrical and made-for-television movies.

Between the November announcement of PAX NET and the August 31st launch of PAX TV, the company acquired additional television stations and expanded its distribution through cable agreements. The company also added popular off-network and original shows, and hired a number of executives and hundreds of new employees. In May, 1998, the company announced the appointment of former CBS president, Jeff Sagansky, to the post of president and CEO and the election of William E. Simon, Jr. to the position of vice chairman for Paxson Communications Corp. Paxson also announced that the Simon family would make an equity investment in the company, and one month later, announced the completion of its offering of $275 million of Preferred Stock.

With PAX TV maintaining positive ratings, Paxson Communications Corp. will continue to focus on enhancing the distribution of its network and the quality of PAX TV's programming.

In 1999, NBC bought a 32% stake in Paxson's stations, with an option to acquire control in 2002 for an additional $1.2 billion. Paxson stations, currently without any news programming, will likely carry NBC news as well as NBC programming in secondary timeslots.

In 2000, Paxson continued to do well with its off-network programming, including "Touched By An Angel," "Dr. Quinn, Medicine Woman" and other family-friendly fare. Paxson reported a 25% increase in viewership in the first three weeks of the 2000-2001 season, and plans to continue with its current slate of programming augmented with made-for-tv movies.

Pax continued to enjoy growth in 2001, with its 2001-02 season off to a good start, showing a 57% increase in viewership over the previous year.

2002 was not so lucky, however. After NBC completed its acquisition of Telemundo, Paxson sued the network that holds a 32% stake of its company and then lost the subsequent arbitration action. Paxson's viewers are also slipping with only one program, "Sue Thomas F.B. Eye" showing growth and broadcast operations, as a whole, continuing to post losses every quarter.

In late 2002, Pax decided to close its Hollywood production and promotion offices, but with its significant station holdings, is likely to remain on-air, in spite of its financial problems.

RECENT PAX TV PROGRAMS

- 1998-99: Little Men, Flipper: The New Adventures, Neon Rider, It's a Miracle.
- 1999-00: Chicken Soup for the Soul, Little Men.
- 2000-01: Touched By An Angel, Dr. Quinn, Medicine Woman.
- 2001-02: The Weakest Link, The Ponderosa.
- 2002-03: Body and Soul, Doc, Just Cause, Sue Thomas F.B. Eye.

PUBLIC BROADCASTING SERVICE

In 1948, the FCC stopped issuing new television station licenses. American educators, fearful of the impact of unrestricted commercial broadcasting, pushed for the Commission to hold open channel slots for non-commercial, educational television broadcasts. In 1952, when the FCC freeze was lifted, 242 channels were reserved for educational television. America's first non-commercial educational television station was KUHT in Houston, started in 1953.

By 1962, 75 educational stations were broadcasting around the country. As these stations shared roughly the same programming interests, a loose distribution network evolved, allowing locally-produced programs like "Children's Corner" to be circulated among these stations. Most of the programming was produced on a shoestring budget. In 1962, the federal government authorized $32 million in matching funds for the construction of new educational television broadcasting facilities. In 1967, a blue ribbon panel urged local and state governments to increase their financial support of "public television" and recommended that the federal government participate in the production of programming. To this end, the first Public Broadcasting Act was passed. This law also created the Corporation for Public Broadcasting, a non-profit "steward" of the public funds committed to public broadcasting, and, not incidentally, a barrier against government interference in programming decisions.

In 1969, the Public Broadcasting Service's charter was signed, with its main intent the establishment of a nationwide program distribution service. 1969 saw the premiere of an hour-long, daily children's variety show, called "Sesame Street," which targeted pre-schoolers with fast-paced educational programming and featured live performers, cartoons and Muppets developed exclusively for the show by Jim Henson.

In 1970, PBS' first year as a "network," its programming included series as widely varied as "Washington Week in Review," "Civilisation," "The French Chef" and "Soul!" By 1973, PBS had more than 1 million individual subscribers. PBS and its member stations were responsible for bringing to U.S. audiences critically acclaimed BBC programming under the flag of "Masterpiece Theatre," which included such classics of television as "Upstairs Downstairs" and "I, Claudius." In 1976, PBS began broadcasting closed-captioned programming for the hearing impaired. In 1978, PBS became the first American network to distribute its programs by satellite.

Although some portion of PBS and its member stations' budgets are provided by federal and state government funding and corporate gifts, PBS and its member stations have continued to rely upon the contributions of individual viewers to stay afloat. In the late 1980s and early 1990s, PBS and the CPB suffered an enormous amount of criticism by government officials for an alleged "liberal" bias, and later in the 90s, for not being "self-sufficient." Although a notable few PBS series have achieved some financial success in other areas (primarily children's programming in the home video and product licensing fields), it is important to note that the production of most of the all-important local educational and public affairs programming never breaks even. In the face of continuing cuts in government funding, PBS programmers have accepted what may have been inevitable, the inclusion of commercial sponsorship (and actual commercials) in programming.

In the wake of the government threat of fund cuts, PBS increased its effort to achieve financial independence. In 1997, PBS president Ervin Duggan announced that the network would use its recognizable brand to market products and services, such as educational videos and distance-learning programs. With this approach as well as using the internet to sell its products and investing in new programming, PBS had a total revenue for the 1997 fiscal year of $239 million, $15 million more than its target.

PBS got caught in a scandal in 1999 involving the sharing of its donor lists with partisan political groups. The GOP complained about the practice, which primarily involved list-sharing with the Democratic Party. PBS admitted that it called into question the independence and impartiality of the public network.

In 1999, Frank Cruz was appointed Chairman of the Corporation for Public Broadcasting.

PBS continues to be a target of Republicans who are opposed to government funding of educational, informational, and cultural programming. Nonetheless, CPB's funding has been approved at $340 million for 2001, $350 million for 2002, and $365 million for 2003.

UPN (UNITED PARAMOUNT NETWORK)

UPN began broadcasting on January 16, 1995 as a joint venture between United Television/Chris-Craft Industries, Inc. and Paramount Television/ Viacom Inc. The fledgling network's first official hit was the newest entry in the long-lived Star Trek franchise, "Star Trek: Voyager." Paramount TV executive Lucy Salhany was named president of the network. UPN currently broadcasts two nights of prime-time programming weekly, a Saturday afternoon movie, and plans to add an afternoon children's programming block. In the 1995-96 season, UPN debuted 8 new prime-time series. Lucy Salhany, president and CEO of the fledgling UPN network, announced that she would not renew her contract when it expired in September of 1997.

Led by the newly appointed CEO, Dean Valentine, UPN's management team had the difficult task of giving the sagging network a face-lift. Not unlike the other networks, UPN had to struggle to keep its viewers in 1998. The network's audience, consisting largely of black viewers, was angered when in an effort to attract a broad Middle American audience, UPN cancelled most of the shows that appealed to black viewers. And, in what seemed like a second slap, the network premiered the sitcom "The Secret Diary of Desmond Pfeiffer," despite protests from black activists claiming that the show trivialized slavery. As explained by Mr. Valentine, it appeared that UPN's problem was with its specific programming, which does not attract the female or suburban viewer.

The 1999-2000 line-up features several sitcoms designed to appeal to black viewers, balanced by the WWF and a couple of one-hour action shows. The Network still has not found its programming niche and is struggling to identify and expand its core audience.

The 2000-2001 lineup seems of less significance this year as UPN owner Viacom is required to sell the UPN stations as part of its merger with CBS. Rupert Murdoch's News Corp. is buying Chris-Craft whose UPN affiliates will likely be turned into either a second Fox network or absorbed into the existing Fox family. In the meantime, UPN has changed its name to The Paramount Network to reflect its new, sole ownership.

In 2001, Tom Noonan, head of programming, left UPN. In a strange twist, the embattled head of UPN, Dean Valentine, will assume his duties. This decision comes at a time when Valentine is suing the network for $22 million over contract incentives.

UPN came in fifth, behind FOX and just ahead of the WB in the November sweeps.

Betting on Buffy and sci-fi fans is paying off in ratings for United Paramount Network (UPN). The network, considered the fifth wheel of television networks, is posting strong ratings with its Buffy the Vampire Slayer program (wrested from The WB in a bidding war) and Enterprise, the newest Star Trek series. The network supplies programming each week to affiliates across the US, including WWE Smackdown!

RECENT UPN SERIES

- 1999-00: Shasta McNasty, Secret Agent Man.
- 2000-01: Gilfriends, Level 9, The Parkers.
- 2001-02: Enterprise, Special Unit 2.
- 2002-03: Half and Half, Haunted, One on One.

WARNER BROTHERS TELEVISION

In the 1950s when other studios were setting their eyes on television, Jack Warner was not interested in doing the same. But in 1955, ABC managed to make a deal with Warner and create the studio's first pact. The agreement entailed a Tuesday-night one-hour drama program on ABC, called "Warner Brothers Presents." Three rotating series were featured: "King's Row," "Casablanca," and the TV Western that lasted for eight seasons, "Cheyenne." "Maverick," starring James Garner, was introduced in 1957. The western proved popular with both viewers and critics, finishing sixth in the 1958-59 season ratings and being awarded the Best Western Series for the 1958-59 season, giving Warner Bros. TV its first Emmy award.

Although WB produced and created its share of shows in the 1960s such as "Room for One More" (the first situation comedy produced by the studio), "The Bugs Bunny Show" (TV's first animated series), and "The F.B.I." (WB's most popular primetime show of the late 1960s), TV production began drying up. With the appointment in 1969 of Gerald Leider as president of WB TV, the studio went through a revival with such shows as "Alice," "Kung Fu," and "The Dukes of Hazzard." The studio also acquired the rights to "Chico and the Man" and "Welcome Back, Kotter" already successful sitcoms, and the dramatic mini-series depicting the lives of African slaves, "Roots."

In 1988 WB acquired Lorimar Television, absorbing the series "Dallas," "Knots Landing," "Falcon Crest," "Full House," "I'll Fly Away" and others. By 1989, Lorimar Television & Warner Bros. TV represented the biggest supplier of prime-time TV programming to the networks. With the start of a new decade, the Warner Bros. studio appeared to be in good shape. But, the end of the Financial Interest rules, which limited the broadcast networks' ownership in programming and their ability to also produce, put WB in a less-than-perfect position as supplier. With the fear of falling victim to the networks, newly empowered by the FCC decision, WB began considering a network of its own. The first effort resulted in PTEN, which presented series as a syndicated block offered to stations. In January, 1995 and in partnership with Tribune Broadcasting, the WB network took off.

The budding network will be reaching 90% of the country in the 1998-99 season, with five nights of prime-time programming. While CBS and ABC have lost audience members in the 18-49 demographic group, and Fox and NBC have experienced only slight growth, WB has continued on its upward swing and increased its viewership by this (most desirable) demographic group by 60%. 2000-2001 is looking brighter for WB with the likely demise of UPN. While WB doesn't cater to a black audience, it does fill the "youth" programming niche and its new programs are well-suited to continue the WB's stronghold among teen viewers.

The WB was still struggling along ahead of PAX TV and behind UPN for the 2001-02 season. With some new programs on air and more in the pipeline, the net is still trying to get its footing in the highly competitive teen and young adult demographic.

CANADIAN YEAR IN REVIEW

BY DEBORAH TIFFIN

Promising early numbers were seen as subscribers signed up for the new digital channels launched in the fall of 2001. A Decima Publishing study released late in June indicated that the number of digital subscribers rose by 6% to approximately 3 million, or 29% of the estimated 10.5 million television subscribers. By the end of this year, the study predicts the number to rise to 3.7 million. Long term predictions indicate those numbers could increase to 5 million within the next five years, with the gap between analog and digital services narrowing to a 60:40 ratio in five to seven years. While trailing U.S. subscription numbers, Canadian digital subscribers are actually increasing at a faster rate, while analogue subscription numbers continued to decline. An earlier report from Decima in March indicated that the digital subscriber base had increased by 16%, compared to 11% in the U.S. A PricewaterhouseCoopers' report, released in May, predicted that digital cable subscriptions would increase to 4.5 million households by 2006, compared with 15% in 2001. In the same report, Canada was predicted to be the fastest growing country in entertainment and media spending, attributed in part to the new digital television services.

Specialty television services also showed growth according to numbers released by Statistics Canada. Revenues rose to $1.2 billion for the 12-month period ending August 31, 2001, up 13.9% from 2000. Specialty television's share accounted for 26.6% of total industry revenues of $4.5 billion for the period, compared with only 19% three years ago.

Pay television returns reached $286 million in 2001, representing a 33.8% gain from 2000. Profit margins for specialty services rose to 17.4%, while pay television increased to 21.7%. The greatest increase in airtime sales occurred in the specialty television sector, rising to 15.1% to $438 million (17% of the industry total). Private conventional broadcasters airtime sales accounted for $1.8 billion, showing an increase of 1.5% from 2000. Approximately 58% of conventional television services reported profits in 2001, down slightly from 67% in 2000, however the number of specialty services reporting profit remained unchanged at approximately 75%.

The possibility of increased foreign ownership of Canadian broadcasters was broached at the outset of an eighteen-month review of the Broadcasting Act by the Standing Committee on Canadian Heritage, late in 2001. Currently broadcasters must be owned and controlled by Canadians. The Canadian Film and Television Producer's Association (CFTPA) responded at the time in a statement indicating that it was satisfied with current legislation and that foreign ownership restrictions were essential to the protection of Canadian content in programming. Further submissions to the hearings in February 2002 from industry representatives included a submission from the Canadian Cable Television Association (CCTA) suggesting that majority foreign ownership of Canadian broadcasters would not mean the end of Canadian content or regulatory requirements, as they would still be subject to CRTC regulation. The CCTA's submission proposed "a strong separation between the carriage business and the content business", but concluded that broadcasters should remain Canadian controlled. On May 9 the Canadian Film and Television Producer's Association made their presentation to the Standing Committee, stating "bottom-line interests must be tempered by public policy goals". The association said that the current CRTC powers are "adequate and appropriate" and that the current legislation was not in need of change. It was noted that as the Canadian broadcasting landscape was "dominated, to a large extent, by foreign programming", the CFTPA was recommending that present limits for foreign ownership be maintained.

Another significant regulatory issue to be addressed in the past year was first raised at the annual meeting of the Canadian Association of Broadcasters in October 2001 - that of the loophole in the Copyright Act that allowed for the emergence two years ago of fledgling Web retransmitters iCraveTV and JumpTV. As the Act did not anticipate the use of the Internet as a broadcast medium, the opportunity for avoidance of royalty payments, and potential profit from added advertising sparked a costly legal battle. One of the retransmitters, iCraveTV.biz was set to re-launch on June 1, 2002, however an amendment to the Copyright Act was passed unanimously by Parliament on June 18 that would set the stage for the CRTC to establish rules and conditions for the Internet. The CRTC will examine the issue in a public process and issue recommendations by mid-January 2003. Possible options available to the agency include enforcement of mandatory carriage orders, financial contributions to Canadian programming and an obligation not to alter signals with banner advertising. Concerns regarding the restriction of the retransmitted signal to Canada have also been raised. The C.E.O. of JumpTV, Farrel Miller, speaking to the industry publication Playback, said that regulatory measures by the CRTC were welcome. "We're trying to give Canadians the option of watching TV through their PC if they choose to. At the end of the day, that's what all this is about". Miller confirmed that technology existed to limit the signal to Canada, but compared his service to that of satellite DTH services, which are not faced with a similar requirement.

INDEPENDENT TELEVISION COMMISSION (ITC)

(Founded in 1991, the ITC was created by Parliament under the terms of the Broadcasting Act 1990 to license and regulate all commercially-funded television in the United Kingdom, whether delivered terrestrially [i.e. ITV, Channel 4 and Channel 5] or by cable or satellite, public teletext and certain other text and data services. The ITC regulates these services through license conditions and through its various codes on program content, advertising, sponsorship and technical standards.)
