RADIOGUIDE

Dear RG:

Now just why on earth would a guy from New York City want to subscribe to RADIO GUIDE? His radio can't pick up stations outside the NYC area....I'm curious and interested!! That's why! Good luck.

Dan Singer

New York, New York

Dear RG:

While in Japan, the only thing I could communicate with was my radio. I soon realized how much more I could get over the radio waves. So when I got home, I bought a radio with only two buttons— one marked up, one marked down. It was for elevator music. A friend told me he had mono...I said, "You ought to get stereo!" He nicknamed me "FI" so now whenever he sees me, he calls out, "HI, FI!" Anyway, if you could send me RADIO GUIDE, I'd be happier than an aardvark in an ant farm.

Timothy Simpson

Los Angeles

Sure, Tim. As long as you promise to stay away from amateur nights at comedy clubs.

Dear RG:

Just wanted to let you know once again how much we enjoyed your "Sexiest Voice" breakfast at Gorky's! You guys are a class operation. Also wanted to remind you that the Real Don Steele's voice can be heard in the Michael Jackson "Moonwalker" movie. You mentioned you liked to know everything, no matter how small!

Shaune McNamara

Assistant Program Director/
Music Director— KRLA-AM

Speaking of voices heard: Jim Ladd's sultry sound was heard in "Say Anything" and KCRW's Tom Schnabel in "Tequila Sunrise." If you readers catch any more local DJs' voices on the big screen, write and let us know!

CLUB LIFE

You want roots music? The Bobs have roots stretching back to the earliest Cro-Magnons gathered in front of the hunting fresco where the guy from the next cave used to come over and sing. Forget about electric guitars or synthesizers. No drums either for this crew. The Bobs (whose Gunnar Madsen has been heard musically spoofing news and public affairs issues on National Public Radio's "Morning Edition") don't use anything they weren't born with to perform their a capella compositions. Just a couple of finger snaps, thigh slaps and hand claps combined with their four superbly trained voices to create a sparsely lush litany of little observations from everybody's lives. Those voices range from Richard Greene's bassoonery through Janie Scott's clear soul-influenced swoonery as the band tackle every musical style from Vegas glitz (in a sleazy cover of the Talking Head's "Psycho Killer") to reggae (in "Dictator in a Polo Shirt").

This San Francisco ensemble will create some of the freshest, funniest and most accessible sounds this side of the laundromat when they headline the Vocal Music Show at Glendale High School Auditorium, 1440 E. Broadway, Glendale, June 23, with song titles that include "Where Does Wayward Footwear Go?" and "I Hate the Beach Boys." New Traditional, an all-male quartet, and the Masters of Harmony chorus are also on the bill. (818) 240-4868. —Andrea 'Enthal

OVER THE EDGE:

turns Manilow

The alternative album rock format heard on KEDG "The Edge" is now a distant memory. At midnight, May 12, the station went from Melissa (as in Etheridge) to Manilow when they turned adult contemporary and became K-LITE. The station's official call letters, however, will remain KEDG. The Golden West Broadcasting station was initially known as KMPC-FM when it debuted October 4, 1987, replacing the "quiet storm" KUTE. The demise of the Edge was like a flashback to the end of KMET, especially since several former MET jocks Jim Ladd, Cynthia Fox, Rick Scarry and others were on the Edge. The Edge's control room hotline even included the legendary KMET call letters.

Yet unlike those at KMET, the personalities on the Edge got to say good-bye on the air. Instead of going out like the MET with tested classics, departing program director J.J. Jackson continued to play new music right until the end with the not-yet-released Call's "Let the Day Begin." Jackson hinted that the Edge will rise from the ashes.

HOLLYWOOD VIA SATELLITE:

KIIS' Hollywood Hamilton has rejected a $250,000 offer to host an afternoon drive at New York's Z-100. Instead, Hamilton will stay in Hollywood at KIIS and prepare for the launch of "Hangin' With Hollywood," a five-hour Transtar Radio Network syndicated show with guests including Sam Kinison, Jon Bon Jovi and Debbie Gibson.

NAME GAME:

Only weeks after Golden West Broadcasting settled out of court with consultant Fred Jacobs over use of the name "the Edge," Golden West is caught in another name battle. KGIL-FM has been using the name K-LITE since March and has filed suit against Golden West for trademark infringement. KEDG general manager Bill Ward claims that Golden West purchased the term "K-LITE" from Westwood One, which assumed ownership of the name when it took over KIQQ. A preliminary hearing is set for June 5.

The name game continues to be a hot topic elsewhere. Jacor Communications Inc. has complied with Westwood One's request and has ceased using the term "Pirate" at WEBN Cincinnati, WYHY Nashville and WFLZ Tampa. Also, WHTQ Orlando has agreed to stop using the term "Rock and Roll Pirates." Westwood One maintains that the term "Pirate Radio" was created by program director and on-air personality Michael Scott Shannon. PD Mark Driscoll of WIQQ Philadelphia, however, has not acknowledged Westwood One's request to stop using the "Pirate Radio" name. Driscoll says that no one station owns the term.

Talk leader KABC won a preliminary injunction in May prohibiting competitor KFI from using the slogan "talk radio" in conjunction with its call letters, but days later KFI filed for a motion of clarification on that ruling.

Just in case you need the capsulized version: KABC, not KFI, is "talk radio." KEDG is still officially KEDG but now goes by K-LITE which KGIL says they are. And Scott Shannon is the only pirate. Got it?

Garrison Keillor:
American Pie

American Radio Company of the Air." The show will be performed live in various cities.

SIGN OF THE TIMES:

In San Francisco, Power 106's sister station KXXX "X-100" got a surprise recently when it found two of its 14 x 48-foot billboards altered by a group called the Billboard Liberation Front. The billboard, which read "Hits Happen-New X-100" was changed to "Shit Happens-New Exxon." In a press release sent to the station, the Billboard Liberation Front said "in a show of solidarity with our beleaguered and unjustly maligned corporate comrades at Exxon Corporation the group had decided to re-enter the vital field of outdoor advertising improvement." The billboards were restored before the station could get a picture.

KANDY MAN:

John Candy's "Radio Kandy" is once again back on the Los Angeles airwaves. The comedy show syndicated by Transtar had been missing in action since KNX-FM flipped to KODJ. You can catch the Candyman at 8 a.m. Sundays on KLSX.

Candy's Back in L.A.!

WANTED:

A recent Hollywood Reporter classified ad offering a "DJ position" requested an "energetic, thorough, conscientious entry level person needed for various duties." Unfortunately, "DJ" in this case stood for "driver/janitor."

RADIO TV:

"Midnight Caller," the drama about an ex-cop turned radio talk show host,

Midnight Caller:
Gary Cole

was renewed for a second season by NBC. Yet another radio TV series, "FM," a comedy loosely based on Santa Monica's KCRW, wasn't picked up by the network.

SOUND OF SILENCE:

Close to 10,000 radio stations across the country went silent for 30 seconds in an attempt to draw attention to the importance of radio. The 90-second spot, hosted by James Earl Jones, is part of a $100-million advertising campaign launched by the National Association of Broadcasters and the Radio Advertising Bureau, based on the theme "Radio: What Would Life Be Without It?"

well. Our namesakes provide a central theme in these radio features presented for Father's Day:

BBC IN THE 90'S:

Less Starch, More Substance

By Mike Rose in England

For many years, the world's number one international radio network, the British Broadcasting Corporation (BBC) World Service, had a reputation for reliability and stuffiness. The reliability is still there, but the stuffiness has gone. Former BBC current affairs anchorman John Tusa took over the World Service three years ago. He brought with him an appropriate balance of gravitas and humor which made his TV style authoritative yet digestible. The results of the changes Tusa's arrival heralded have recently emerged in a series of changes to World Service programs, both in format and style. Most of its 120 million listeners (Voice of America has an estimated 55 million worldwide) seem to approve.

Gone are many of those "starchy," plum-in-their-mouth voices which were easily identifiable as British. Their rather smug and self-satisfied air has increasingly given way to soft Welsh lilts or broad Scottish brogues reading the news. The Irish, long the darlings of British TV and radio audiences, feature extensively as presenters and interviewers. The "British" in the "BBC" has at last come to be representative of the diverse nationalities in the island monarchy, eschewing the old tendency to equate it with the English to the exclusion of all others.

Changes in style meant changes in substance, with new program formats, especially notable in the news and current affairs output. Some of the daily news bulletins now last a full hour, allowing news headlines, on-the-spot reports from correspondents and in-depth analysis of the most important stories. Not only is the World Service a showplace for Britain, it also offers the world insight into little known cultures, exemplified by recent features on Senegalese rock music and Laotian painting.

But one thing hasn't changed: the theme music before every news bulletin. Without the orchestral version of the old English folk song "Lily Bolero," the World Service just wouldn't be itself, says John Tusa. All change has its limits.

WEST COAST BRIT WAVES

Both KUSC (91.5-FM) and KCRW (89.9-FM) air BBC-produced programs:

The 10-minute broadcast of "BBC World Service News" is on KUSC every Monday through Friday at 6, 7 and 8 a.m. and on KCRW-- every midnight except Tuesday.

KCRW's "Playhouse" in June includes several BBC dramatic features: "Raffles" and "The Spy Who Came in From The Cold" on Mondays, "My Cousin Rachel" and "Jamaica Inn" on Tuesdays. # SMART PATROL

Contrary to popular belief, a career in spinning discs is not necessarily for the braindead. While some do fall in the cow's I.Q. status, we found many of L.A.'s on-air talent to be well-educated, articulate and funny. Here's a random sampling from our "Smart Patrol":

PERSONALITY	EDUCATIONAL BACKGROUND	MAGAZINES/ NEWSPAPERS READ REGULARLY	LAST BOOK READ	PLAYS CHESS OR CHECKERS	SMARTEST FRIEND	HOURS SPENT WATCHING TV	CAREER GOALS
Jay Thomas, KPWR	Masters Degree in Psychology, University of Florida at Jacksonville. "I graduated Magna Cum Lucky."	People, Us, Life, Time, Newsweek, Vogue, Forbes, Seventeen, American Heritage, Butt Masters and other assorted bathroom magazines.	"Ishtar"—the novel—which spelled backwards is Howard the Duck; and "The One Hour Orgasm."		An imaginary friend Peppy the hand puppet who "has been with me for as long as I've been with myself. He seems to know everything about me. It was Peppy who recommended I read "The One Hour Orgasm."	Not many. "I only watch TV when I'm on it."	"To get out of here and get paid, even though I don't have to work. I have no career goal. I work constantly and am one of the most talented people I've ever slept with..."
Scott Shannon, KQLZ	High school drop out at age 17. "I'm not proud of it." He left school because "I wanted to get away from it all. I thought I was James Dean."	Most major daily newspapers and weekly magazines: Herald Examiner, L.A. Times, U.S.A. Today, Daily News, New York Post, Orange County Register, Newsweek, People, Lampon, Rip, Us...	"Thriving on Chaos" by Tom Peters.	He plays tennis and basketball but no other games. "I was playing on somebody's chest last night-- this stripper I graduated with. She knew she was going to be a topless dancer because her graduation cap had two tassles."	His boss and Westwood One head honcho-Norm Pattiz. "That's P-A-T-T-I-Z."	12 hours per week: mainly the news, sports and MTV.	"I'm going to be a DJ until my ear-phones fall off."
Peter Tilden, KLSX	Post Graduate Studies, Physiology, Temple University.	"I read everything...even 'Lear.' Can you believe it?"	"Confederacy of Dunces" by John Kennedy Toole.	"I abhor checkers and will only play chess when Bobby Fisher's in town."	"All of my friends are smart, especially Dave Delgado who showed me how to buy real-estate with no money down. Thanks, Dave."	"I only watch 'Power Lifters for Jesus' and 'Hermias from Hell.' I do have to watch the occasional Oprah interview 'Transsexuals who love too much' or the Geraldo 'Satanic Cult-Worshipping Delicatessen Employees.'"	"To fool some of the people most of the time; most of the people a lot of the time; and to be compensated extremely well for the aforementioned foolery."
Tawn Mastery, KNAC	Ron Bailey's School of Broadcasting.	Rip-- "the very best one on the market right now," Mademoiselle and Playboy, which she says she reads for the articles. Has no time to read daily papers.	"Murder Mysteries" by Alfred Hitchcock, a compilation of short stories by about 30 different authors. "I read them out loud to my boyfriend; I like to read out loud, and he likes to listen."	Loves chess and just learned how to play Yahtzee on her vacation.	Her musician boyfriend.	"About 30 minutes a week--max." Each week she tries to catch "60 Minutes" and "Married with Children."	She wants to break into television and always believed she would through radio. "I'd love Diane Sawyer's job, but a more hip version. Investigative reporting (but not hard news)."
Poorman, KROQ	B.A. in political science from the University of Puget Sound and graduated from Loyola Law School in L.A. He never passed the bar exam although he took it three times.	The L.A. Times for its sports section. "Since I went to law school, I hate reading."	He doesn't read, but he's written a few: "The Poorman's Guide to Gourmet Dining in Pasadena for under $6" and "The Poorman's Guide to Gourmet Dining on the West Side of Town for under $6."	Doesn't play games, he likes to watch.	Dr. Drew Pinski, a medical doctor on KROQ's "Loveline," and his dad, "an investment guy selling stuff to the Chinese government, who doesn't speak Chinese. He's always putting together deals."	Five to ten hours a week, mostly sports and movies.	To be "a new wave TV talk show host. I love the live aspect of people calling, like talking to a regular radio show, but taking that to TV."
Hollywood Hamilton, KIIS	Dropped out of high school two months before graduation.	Has little to no interest in newspapers and magazines. "I basically don't know how to read."	"Communion" by Whitley Strieber --but can he read?	"I know how to play chess, but Nintendo's my game."	Rick Dees. "And I don't have to say this. I don't care if I gain points with him."	98 hours a week-- "I have a television in every room."	To do a television variety show.

Contrary to popular belief, a career in spinning discs is not a cow's I.Q. status, we found many of L.A.'s on-air talent to be sampling from our "Smart Patrol":

PERSONALITY	EDUCATIONAL BACKGROUND	MAGAZINES/ NEWSPAPERS READ REGULARLY	LAST BOOK READ
Jay Thomas, KPWR	Masters Degree in Psychology, University of Florida at Jacksonville. "I graduated Magna Cum Lucky."	People, Us, Life, Time, Newsweek, Vogue, Forbes, Seventeen, American Heritage, Butt Masters and other assorted bathroom magazines.	"Ishlar"—the novel—which spelled backwards is Howard the Duck; and "The One Hour Orgasm."
Scott Shannon, KQLZ	High school drop out at age 17. "I'm not proud of it." He left school because "I wanted to get away from it all. I thought I was James Dean."	Most major daily newspapers and weekly magazines: Herald Examiner, L.A. Times, U.S.A. Today, Daily News, New York Post, Orange County Register, Newsweek, People, Lampoon, Rip, Us...	"Thriving on Chaos" by Tom Peters
Peter Tilden, KLSX	Post Graduate Studies, Physiology, Temple University.	"I read everything...even 'Lear' Can you believe it?"	"Confederacy of Dunces" by John Kennedy Toole.
Tawn Mastery, KNAC	Ron Bailey's School of Broadcasting.	Rip- "the very best one on the market right now," Mademoiselle and Playboy, which she says she reads for the articles. Has no time to read daily papers.	"Murder Mysteries" by Alfred Hitchcock, a compilation of short stories by about 30 different authors. "I read them out loud to my boyfriend, I like to read out loud, and he likes to listen."
Poorman, KROQ	B.A. in political science from the University of Puget Sound and graduated from Loyola Law School in L.A. He never passed the bar exam although he took it three times.	The L.A. Times for its sports section. "Since I went to law school, I hate reading."	He doesn't read, but he's written a few: "The Poorman's Guide to Gourmet Dining in Pasadena for under $6" and "The Poorman's Guide to Gourmet Dining on the West Side of Town for under $6."
Hollywood Hamilton, KIIS	Dropped out of high school two months before graduation.	Has little to no interest in newspapers and magazines. "I basically don't know how to read."	"Communion" by Whitley Strieber --but can he read?

SMART PATROL

...necessarily for the braindead. While some do fall in the well-educated, articulate and funny. Here's a random

LAYS CHESS OR HECKERS	SMARTEST FRIEND	HOURS SPENT WATCHING TV	CAREER GOALS
	An imaginary friend Peppy the hand puppet who "has been with me for as long as I've been with myself. He seems to know everything about me. It was Peppy who recommended I read 'The One Hour Orgasm.'"	Not many. "I only watch TV when I'm on it."	"To get out of here and get paid, even though I don't have to work. I have no career goal. I work constantly and am one of the most talented people I've ever slept with..."
He plays tennis and basketball but no other games. I was playing on somebody's chest last night-- this stripper I graduated with. She knew she was going to be a topless dancer because her graduation cap had two tassles."	His boss and Westwood One head honcho-- Norm Pattiz. "That's P-A-T-T-I-Z."	12 hours per week; mainly the news, sports and MTV.	"I'm going to be a DJ until my ear-phones fall off."
I abhor checkers and will only play chess when Bobby Fisher's in town."	"All of my friends are smart, especially Dave Deigado who showed me how to buy real estate with no money down. Thanks, Dave."	"I only watch 'Power Lifters for Jesus' and 'Hermias from Hell.' I do have to watch the occasional Oprah interview, 'Transsexuals who love too much' or the Geraldo 'Satanic Cult-Worshipping Delicatessen Employees.'"	"To fool some of the people most of the time; most of the people a lot of the time; and to be compensated extremely well for the aforementioned foolery."
Loves chess and just learned how to play Yahtzee on her vacation.	Her musician boyfriend.	"About 30 minutes a week--max." Each week she tries to catch "60 Minutes" and "Married with Children."	She wants to break into television and always believed she would through radio. "I'd love Diane Sawyer's job, but a more hip version. Investigative reporting (but not hard news)."
Doesn't play games; he likes to watch.	Dr. Drew Pinski, a medical doctor on KROQ's "Loveline," and his dad, "an investment guy selling stuff to the Chinese government, who doesn't speak Chinese. He's always putting together deals."	Five to ten hours a week, mostly sports and movies.	To be "a new wave TV talk show host. I love the live aspect of people calling, like talking to a regular radio show, but taking that to TV."
"I know how to play chess, but Nintendo's my game."	Rick Dees. "And I don't have to say this. I don't care if I gain points with him."	98 hours a week-- "I have a television in every room."	To do a television variety show.

International Beats

Compiled by Diane Moca

INDIANA JONES AND THE LAST CRUSADE Fraze...

Think I could be a little further back in the magazine? I guess not: I'm already on the last page. Is this some kind of hint? I mean, we have Scott Shannon on a recent cover, and I'm on page 49! I asked the "powers that be," and they told me, "It's prime position—people like to read back to front." Oh yeah, right! If I buy that one, I've got some land on Jupiter I'd like to sell myself.

...at the Flicks

OK, this issue we're reviewing Indiana Jones and the Last Crusade. After the last sequel, I think the last crusade was trying to find a good script! Well, they seem to have done it. In this one, Indy has to find the Holy Grail...and it's not easy getting that one away from Monty Python. There are five of them, and only one of him. And he also has to find his Dad, played by Sean Connery. Boy, when your Dad is James Bond, it's gotta be tough. But "Junior" (as Connery calls him) seems up to the task.

Once again Harrison Ford is great in the role, but if he was a carpenter and I was a lady, I still don't think I'd marry him. And he pulls off some great stunts in this movie. We can almost forgive him for spawning a show like McGyver. Let's face it, he was the prototype! And he's the only other guy besides McGyver who could make a nuclear weapon out of a pack of milk duds.

So I think you'll like Indiana Jones and the Last Crusade. There are chases, Nazis, beautiful women and thugs. Sounds like my place on a Saturday night!

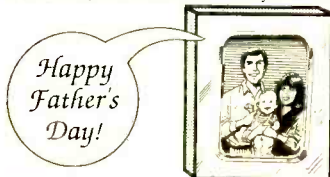

Love ya, babe! Gotta go! Ciao!!
Frazer Smith is on 97.1 KLSX 10 p.m. to 2 a.m. Saturdays. Fraze at the Flicks, produced by Premiere Radio Network can be heard M-F at 5:20 p.m. You can also see Frazer live at the Ice House every Tuesday and Wednesday nights and the Laugh Factory every Friday night.

MID-EASTERN MAESTRO: THE DARK BOB

I've known Dark Bob from his polyester-suited performance artist era to his sphinx-look-alike club musician period. But this year he's found his groove. The Arabic in Dark Bob has surfaced, and his music gives us a glimpse into the heart and soul of the Middle East far more human and accessible than our twisted TV images of a dissonant place.

"I think ethnic music crosses all boundaries and helps people love the differences between themselves. But I'm not making music that has an ethnic quality to it to make peace work; I'm doing it to make good music. The reason I use Middle Eastern music in my work is that I grew up with it.

My parents are fairly Americanized. But they did play a lot of Mohammed ElBakkar. He came to America in the '50s and dressed up like our stereotype of an Arab genie with curly shoes and a turban. But his music was sincere: songs about having a heart with a thousand crying eyes. That stuff was just as important to me as "Lucy in the Sky with Diamonds."

Ever since I started creating music, it had Middle Eastern qualities, like droning on one chord for a long time. Of course I can't make authentic Middle Eastern music because I'm still a guy from California, and I'm just as intrigued by the harmony of the Beach Boys as I am the disharmonies of Moammed El Bakkar. Somehow merging the two together gives me an honest musical sound.

Middle Eastern musicians make music for different reasons than we do. America is a capitalist consumer society, so we make songs in that mentality. But the folk and ethnic music over there is done like painting or poetry, out of love and human need. A need in their soul. As a performance artist, I work that way, without the pressure of making a commercial product, so my songs are like paintings; personal expressions others relate to only on the most personal level. It's not weird to me that I've had a seven-year music career in the art world. My audience demands non-conformity.

I was thinking that someday everybody would have a hit record for three minutes and 12 seconds. And there'd be these little instant recording studios in parking lots like the Foto-mat. They'd be called the Warner Corner or Capital Quick Stop. You'd go in, record a song, and they'd play it that day for the whole world to hear. It would cut through political borders, social traditions and religious beliefs. We'd be hearing stuff on the radio by everybody, everywhere, all the time. This is the vibratory reality of music."
