HOW TO SING FOR MONEY

Secrets that Make Singers Popular Revealed by Vocal Coach of Stars

Your voice may be far better than that of many who sing for radio and movies, yet they make big money. Why? Because they know what to sing and how to sing it to win fans and get contracts. They know how to get auditions; what the "mike" will do to and for the voice; they know the practical side of the singing business. Now this immensely valuable knowledge is yours. Charlie Henderson, famed Hollywood vocal coach, tells you everything it takes to make a successful singer, all in a fascinating, fast-moving, easy-to-read book of 379 pages. It's the first book to tell you how to make a hit in putting over popular songs; the first book that gives you the real "inside" on singing for radio, movies, dance orchestras, night clubs and recordings—first book that tells you clearly and completely what to do to turn a singing voice into big time money. Helps you whether you have a voice teacher or not.

Endorsed by Stars & Critics

BING CROSBY: "Greatest revelation I ever had in my life." KENNY BAKER: "Magical, wonderful... learned in brief success." HUGH JACKMAN: "Worth its weight in gold." FRANK TAYLOR: "Extremely illuminating." ACCOMPLISHED SINGERS: "Packed an incredible amount of information." FRANCIS LAMOND: "Glad to see many others praise this book you need."

Amazing Reviews

TIME Magazine: "A study journal of the ins and outs of singing... will give you the inside story on how to succeed." STRENGTH: "Hardly anything of practical value it has not touched. We recommend it highly."

UNMASKING W. J. CAMERON, SPOKESMAN FOR FORD

EVERYONE knows his voice. His short, meaty talks each Sunday night on the "Ford Sunday Evening Hour" have become more or less an American institution and, reprinted, are requested and saved by millions of Americans as the shrewdest and deepest commentary on present-day America. And yet a good description of William J. Cameron would be: The Man Nobody Knows. He has walked quietly through life, and even in his own city of Detroit Cameron, as an individual, is but little known. Once he was a clergyman, later a newspaperman. Today he is the one person closest to Henry Ford, motor magnate, for whom he speaks. His voice, his words of wisdom are known to and eagerly awaited by millions of radio fans each Sunday night, and yet William Cameron, as a man, is unknown. RADIO GUIDE takes unusual pride in next week's story, "The True Story of W. J. Cameron," because, for the first time, the private life of one of radio's most important personalities is laid bare. Here is the graphic, detailed story of the man behind the voice everybody knows. What does he look like? Where was he born? When? What of his family? His home life? How does he work? Just what is his position with the Ford organization? All these and a hundred other questions are answered in next week's RADIO GUIDE when the private and public life of William J. Cameron is revealed in "The True Story of W. J. Cameron." You won't want to miss it! Another feature of next week's issue will give listeners a glimpse at the personality behind a sensationally beautiful voice—the voice of Arlene Francis. That this radio "omph" girl who is heard on more and more network shows, including "Betty and Bob," "Mr. District Attorney," and "What's My Name?" doesn't have "omph" only in her voice will be proved pictorially in "Radio's 'Omph' Girl Lives up to Her Voice."

Recently Ted Malone, CBS literateur, began a series of visits to homes of famous American poets—broadcasting on-the-spot descriptions of the rooms in which they lived and worked. Next week RADIO GUIDE previews Malone's "Pilgrimage of Poetry" with interesting pictures of homes which he will visit in coming weeks. For these and other features, read the next RADIO GUIDE.

MR. FAIRFAX REPLIES

Mr. Fairfax will give personal answers to all readers who send self-addressed stamped envelopes. Remember that he must confine himself exclusively to network personalities and programs.

Miss Helen Markham, San Francisco, Calif.—"Guiding Light" has been on the air since January 25, 1937.

Misses Miriam Tribbley and Isabel Martimer, East Brady, Pa.—Raymond Johnson portrays Paul Morrison in "Valiant Lady."

Miss Patricia Sheridan, Baltimore, Md.—Portland Hoffa, Fred Allen's wife and favorite stooge, was named for the city of her birth, Portland, Oregon. She was born January 25, 1910. She attended Jamaica High School in Jamaica, N. Y., and in her early teens joined George White's "Scandals," and pronto, was on Broadway, just like that! Engagements in the first "Little Show" and "Three's a Crowd" followed. In the meantime she had met and married the comedian, Fred Allen, and when he took to the air in 1932, Miss Hoffa was with him. Portland loves to cook, play backgammon, read, knit, dance, sew and swim. Her greatest extravagance is clothes. Portland is five feet four inches tall, weighs 115 pounds, has brown hair and blue eyes (her favorite color).

LETTER

Father Barbour's Advice to Jack

One of those unforgettable broadcasts which radio occasionally produces was that presenting a letter from Father Barbour of "One Man's Family" (NBC, Thurs., 8 p.m. EST; 7 CST; 6 MST; 5 PST; Sun., 10:30 p.m. MST; 9:30 PST) to his son Jack three years ago. So sage was his advice—and so applicable to all American sons today—that RADIO GUIDE reproduces Father Barbour's letter for its readers on the third anniversary of its presentation.—Ed.

MY DEAR son: I hope this letter will reach you on the first day of your college experience, for that day marks your step upon the threshold of your manhood. I am more proud of you than it is possible for me to convey; proud of your splendid record to date; proud that by your own accomplishments you are able to enroll in the college which has been your choice since you were seven years old.

I wish every father might have the same feeling of confidence in his son that I hold for you at this minute; the confidence that your record so far is but an indication of nobler and more honorable accomplishments to follow.

There are a number of things of which I wish to write at this time. I do not do this with any thought of admonishing you, but rather as a counselor of older and more mature judgment.

Respect and revere those line men and women who compose the faculty. Extend to them the same splendid cooperation you have given each of your teachers in the past. Learn to distinguish between the fundamentals of their subjects and the teacher's personal opinions about them. College experience should develop your analytical ability. Therefore, accept and reject, but avoid becoming opinionated and argumentative. Above all things do not develop the attitude that college training marks the end of learning.

Be democratic. Avoid snobs—rich or poor ones—and do not be snobbish yourself. The classification of a man is not his possessions or lack of them but his character. Leadership is never possible truly to a man who has no sympathetic understanding of his fellows.

Be generous but not foolish. Remember there is an adage that the best charity is to help one to be free from the need of charity.

Do not be a prude or a prig.

Avoid excesses in all things. Enter freely into the social life that is offered you but prove your mental strength by refusing any temptation of overindulgence. As you are well aware, I leave to your own judgment whether you use tobacco or liquor. I would prefer in any event that you indulge in neither during your formative years.

I hope your social life will give you contact with many of the fine men and women in the student body. Your own natural friendliness and modesty will bring you the right companionship. Treat every woman with the utmost respect and courtesy—that is the hallmark of a gentleman. Accord to each woman the same respect you would ask for your sisters.

And remember this: Do not be swallowed by the stream or become influenced by mass or mob psychology. When you do, you surrender your capacity for clear thinking. Stand on the side-lines and study the stream. Keep your perspective. Think for yourself.

I hope you will preserve this letter and occasionally read it. It is written only after careful consideration and thought. I write it because of the great love I have for you, and out of the great hope I have in you. May all that we do—each of us—tend to strengthen the tie that binds us together.

Your Father.

COMING EVENTS

A preview of some of this week's better broadcast features

Hear Marian Anderson sing on "Ford Sunday Evening Hour," CBS, Sunday, 9:00 p.m. EST

THIS WEEK

Saturday, November 25

BIG GAME of this week's football clashes, and one of the biggest of the year, is the tussle between two of the season's outstanding teams, Notre Dame and Southern California, played at South Bend, Ind. MBS—and probably NBC and CBS.

Eastern 4:15 p.m.	Central 3:15 p.m.	Mountain 3:15 p.m.	Pacific 1:15 p.m.
----------------------	----------------------	-----------------------	----------------------

BLOND TIGRESS, the cops called Eleanor Jarman because of her brutality with her hold-up victims. But the "Gang Busters" trimmed her claws. And you'll hear the final episode of how they did it this week, CBS.

Eastern 8:00 p.m.	Central 7:00 p.m.	Mountain 6:30 p.m.	Pacific 5:30 p.m.
----------------------	----------------------	-----------------------	----------------------

THANKSGIVING DAY will be celebrated with appropriate music in the turkey's own home atmosphere, the hayloft of the "National Barn Dance." NBC.

Eastern 9:00 p.m.	Central 8:00 p.m.	Mountain 8:00 p.m.	Pacific 8:00 p.m.
----------------------	----------------------	-----------------------	----------------------

RENO, NEVADA, is now known as the final battleground of domestic warfare. Could it be because the city's own name was the result of a Civil War incident? "Death Valley Days" will tell the story. NBC.

Eastern 9:30 p.m.	Central 8:30 p.m.	Mountain 8:30 p.m.	Pacific 8:30 p.m.
----------------------	----------------------	-----------------------	----------------------

Sunday, November 26

WILLIAM POWELL, who has made a "three bell" return to the screen in the "Thin Man" series—now with a fictitious child—plays "Speak of the Devil" on "Silver Theater." CBS.

Eastern 8:00 p.m.	Central 8:00 p.m.	Mountain 4:00 p.m.	Pacific 3:00 p.m.
----------------------	----------------------	-----------------------	----------------------

HELEN HAYES likes radio and the public likes her. In the midst of recent great successes with Orson Welles the queen actress will take time out from other dramatic activities to appear this week on "Screen Guild Theater" in a vehicle yet to be selected. CBS.

Eastern 7:30 p.m.	Central 6:30 p.m.	Mountain 5:30 p.m.	Pacific 4:30 p.m.
----------------------	----------------------	-----------------------	----------------------

DOUBLE FEATURE

For two hours of solid enjoyment try: Tuesday, 8:30 to 10:30 p.m. EST—"Tuesday Night Party," "We, the People," "Bob Crosby's Orch.," "Bob Hope Program"

VERA VAGUE, with her rough-shod, rattle-brained clubwoman burlesque, is rapidly becoming the comedy sensation of the air. Vera, played by Barbara Jo Allen, is on "Chase and Sanborn Hour" each alternate week. You can hear her caricatures this week. NBC.

Eastern 8:00 p.m.	Central 7:00 p.m.	Mountain 6:00 p.m.	Pacific 5:00 p.m.
----------------------	----------------------	-----------------------	----------------------

HUCK FINN with a beard and Orson Welles barefooted—can you imagine it? It would be interesting if Welles himself should play the part of the immortal scapegrace when he produces "Huckleberry Finn" this week. CBS.

Eastern 8:00 p.m.	Central 8:00 p.m.	Mountain 8:00 p.m.	Pacific 7:00 p.m.
----------------------	----------------------	-----------------------	----------------------

THOSE SMOOTHIES of the "Hour of Charm," who have been charming the eyes of the public on tour, will this week charm your ears with such favorites as "Melancholy Baby," "Over the Rainbow," "Home on the Range." NBC.

Eastern 10:00 p.m.	Central 9:00 p.m.	Mountain 9:00 p.m.	Pacific 7:00 p.m.
-----------------------	----------------------	-----------------------	----------------------

Monday, November 27

WHAT SOUND do you hear when a stitch is dropped? Tune in to the battle of right hooks and thumb jabs—the National Crochet Championships. And watch the male dark-horse. MBS.

Eastern 4:30 p.m.	Central 3:30 p.m.	Mountain 3:30 p.m.	Pacific 1:30 p.m.
----------------------	----------------------	-----------------------	----------------------

COLE PORTER'S many famous tunes, including the favorite, "Begin the Beguine," will be featured on "Tune-Up Time." CBS.

Eastern 8:00 p.m.	Central 7:00 p.m.	Mountain 10:00 p.m.	Pacific 9:00 p.m.
----------------------	----------------------	------------------------	----------------------

"PYGMALION," Shaw's drama that was one of the greatest recent hits in the movie version, will probably be enacted by Jean Arthur—whom you might have heard tantalizing Mortimer Snerd recently—with Brian Aherne on "Lux Radio Theater." CBS.

Eastern 9:00 p.m.	Central 8:00 p.m.	Mountain 7:00 p.m.	Pacific 6:00 p.m.
----------------------	----------------------	-----------------------	----------------------

BLONDIE and Dagwood will draw from their own many Bumstead homestead problems to give advice to love-love neighbor youngsters. CBS.

Eastern 7:30 p.m.	Central 6:30 p.m.	Mountain 5:30 p.m.	Pacific 4:30 p.m.
----------------------	----------------------	-----------------------	----------------------

SNAP-SHOT

Contraalto Virginia Hoys is so good NBC gave her the last fifteen minutes of "Form and Home Hour." Hear her Monday through Friday at 1:15 p.m. EST

HOAGY CARMICHAEL, the former bank clerk who became one of America's favorite song-writers and whose "Stardust" was selected in a recent poll as one of our all-time favorite songs, will be guest of musical giant Alec on "Alec Templeton Time." NBC.

Eastern 9:30 p.m.	Central 8:30 p.m.	Mountain 7:30 p.m.	Pacific 6:30 p.m.
----------------------	----------------------	-----------------------	----------------------

Tuesday, November 28

HENRY ALDRICH, Peck's Bad Boy of the radio "Aldrich Family," is cavorting in Hollywood, now that the young dramatic star, Ezra Stone, who portrays Henry, was recently called to Hollywood to make the movie, "At Good Old Siwash." NBC.

Eastern 8:00 p.m.	Central 7:00 p.m.	Mountain 9:00 p.m.	Pacific 8:00 p.m.
----------------------	----------------------	-----------------------	----------------------

"JOHNNY PRESENTS" a new dramatic series on the Tuesday night show. The sketches will be called "Undercover Squad" and will deal with activities of the Secret Service men against smuggling. NBC.

IN THE PULPIT

Radio parson Bill Stidger, writer, inventor, crusader,
"plays vaudeville for God"

BY GEORGE KENT

THE highest-paid radio performer per minute of time spent on the air is a Methodist preacher named William L. Stidger. The Reverend Doctor Stidger to you. "Bill" Stidger to policemen, taxi-drivers, presidents, beach-combers and kings. There's nobody he doesn't know.

Each morning, Monday through Friday, he broadcasts on many of America's greatest stations his strangely appealing answer to the question, Are You Getting the Most Out of Life? For this, Fleischmann's Yeast pays him well over $50,000. The exact figure is a secret. It makes him the most highly paid, most widely listened-to preacher in the world.

There is a great deal of "the mostest and the bestest" about Bill Stidger. Built like a prize-fighter, tall and weighing well over two hundred pounds, he fills every room he enters with the warmth and power of his personality. During the war he enlisted with the Y. M. C. A., but instead of sitting around selling chocolate bars to soldiers, he drove a truck and got up to the front where the shells were bursting.

The first series of sermons ever to be delivered over the air came from the mouth of Bill Stidger back in 1922 over a Detroit station. Radio was young in those days and a speaker had a great deal more leeway than he has today, and one night Bill was invited to a banquet and could not meet his wife as arranged. So, at the conclusion of his broadcast he said over the air to his wife, who was listening, "Awfully sorry, dear, but I won't be able to meet you. Would you mind going home alone?" For weeks afterward friends teased him about it, inquiring if his wife ever got home okay.

In Detroit he was not satisfied with his pulpit and radio preaching; he wrote a newspaper column and began to turn out books. One of these was the first biography of Henry Ford ever to be written. He has written an average of two books a year ever since, in addition to hundreds of magazine and newspaper articles, his sermons and his radio talks.

The acquaintance with Ford, begun almost twenty years ago, has continued. Periodically the manufacturer will telephone to Stidger to come out for a visit, and Bill will get on a train and spend a few days in Dearborn. He tells many stories about Henry. One of the best concerns a ride Ford was taking one day when he espied one of the factory guards leading a boy to the gate firmly if not tenderly by the ear.

The guard explained that the boy had slept all night in the barn, which was against the rules.

FORD turned to the boy and asked him his version of the story. The boy replied: "Well, I walked from Detroit to Dearborn looking for work and I couldn't find any. I had to sleep some place and the barn door was open and I went in. What would you have done, air?"

"Have you had any breakfast?" the manufacturer inquired.

"No—nor have I had any supper yet," the boy grinned.

"All right, hop in the car with me and I'll get you something to eat."

Ford fed the boy, got him a job in a drug store and then lent him a dollar. All this time the boy did not even suspect who his benefactor was.

A week later the boy got his first pay. Immediately he walked out to the barn near Dearborn, hunted up the guard and said to him, "Do you know that guy who picked me up here last week and took me to Dearborn?"

The guard cagily admitted he knew the man by sight and that he frequently passed that way.

"Well," continued the boy, "he loaned me a dollar that morning and I want to pay it back."

"Give it to me, I'll see that he gets it," said the guard.

To this day, Ford carries that dollar in his watch pocket as a pocket-piece. And the boy today is one of the chief executives of the Ford enterprises.

From Detroit, Stidger went to Kansas City, where a wealthy oil man paid his church $1,000 a week for two years to enable Stidger to broadcast his Wednesday evening meetings. A West Virginian by birth, he arrived at his present home, Boston, by way of California and the aforementioned stops in Detroit and Kansas City. By the time he arrived, his writings and radio preaching had made of him a national figure.

His gift for making friends had made him a pal of such diverse personalities as Herbert Hoover and Jack Dempsey. He was on good terms with both the W. C. T. U. and the I. W. W. He called Ed Wynn, Fred Stone and Jack Benny by their first names. He gave Will Rogers some of his best jokes. To Sinclair Lewis he gave the idea for his book, "Elmer Gantry," although the central character hasn't the remotest resemblance to the expansive radio preacher.

No sooner arrived in Boston than Stidger was preaching Sunday mornings to capacity audiences. In the evenings he did the same at the Church of All Nations. To sedate Boston, Stidger's free-hand delivery was accepted with delight by congregations, with uplifted hands by rival ministers. He called them "mama dolls" and described his rivals as "the milk-fed, hand-led preacher of Woodward Avenue." The Daughters of the American Revolution he labeled the "Daughters of Reaction." Long before Billy Sunday showed over the horizon, Stidger was describing a real man as one who "was able to spit over a box car."

NOT a week passed but Stidger made page one in one or another of the Boston newspapers. In one a wag wrote the following rhyme about him:

Here's to old Boston,

*The land of the bean and the cod,
Where the Cabots and Lowells are silent*

And Bill Stidger plays vaudeville for God.

The theological division of Boston University, however, thought enough of the Stidger style to appoint him professor of preaching, a job which he still holds in leave of absence.

His present program began some five years ago as a broadcast of fifteen minutes, a four-minute talk with four hymns, on the Yankee network. It was designed for older people. It spread to the entire nation. At this writing some seventy-odd stations are relaying the broadcast. His audience is one of the largest and most steadfast in radio.

Incidentally, he has discovered that the old hymns like "Rock of Ages" are

"Are You Getting the Most Out of Life?" Dr. William L. Stidger, most widely listened-to preacher in the world, gives listeners a four-minute answer to that question over NBC on Mondays through Fridays Built like a prize-fighter, this unorthodox cleric pals with Jack Benny and Henry Ford less popular. Listeners prefer songs with greater social significance. They are also tired of hymns that plod along musically te-dum, te-dum; they want real melody. Curious about this change, he questioned some ten thousand ministers of all faiths on the most popular hymns in their churches, and these were the seven most popular:

- Dear Lord and Father.
- O Master, Let Me Walk.
- Oh Love That Wilt Not.
- Where Cross the Ways.
- Spirit of God Descend.
- O God, Our Help.
- A Mighty Fortress.

Stidger himself has written some twenty hymns in collaboration with Frank R. White, organist on his program. He writes copiously, both prose and poetry, and finds time for a dozen hobbies and side-lines. In Kansas City he tinkered in the basement of his home until he had invented a revolving electric cross to be placed atop the church. Wherever you happen to see one of these today, Bill Stidger has collected a royalty.

LOOKING naught like a preacher, he sallies forth in a hattered car each summer to visit the men and women who listen to his program. One of these was a seventy-year-old farmer who used to walk back to the house each day to listen to the Stidger broadcast. To the preacher the farmer said, "We're glad to live on this hilltop of ours because we're high enough to see things in their proper perspective. We are able to see things as they are."

Stidger used this remark as the theme of one of his broadcasts. "Somebody must give people a hilltop or a place of peace where they can go to think and pray," he said. "There must be quiet places for the souls of men and women after the turbulent life in which we are forced to live these days. I want this broadcast to be that hilltop."

A vital, dynamic personality, he has not hesitated to wade into politics. During the last presidential election he took charge of radio for the national Democratic Party, his special job being to interview on the air prominent ex-Republicans, those who had abandoned the G. O. P. for the New Deal.

"I have tried everything else on earth," he said to me, "but preaching is the most satisfying thing I do. To stand up before an audience, large or small, and deliver the Gospel of Good News, to feel you are changing men's thoughts and viewpoints—that is the greatest thrill that life has brought me.

"To be friends with people; to know and love babies, to baptize them; to marry people; to live with them in their troubles and help them solve their problems . . . to have influence in your city; to be inside looking out rather than outside looking in—that is the big 'kick' of the ministry to me."

One friendly critic of Bill Stidger said one day he felt about him the way Senator Jim Reed said he felt about Senator J. Ham Lewis.

"When I meet him," he said, "I don't know whether to kiss him or kick him."

But whatever your feeling, you cannot help respecting, admiring and loving this man. No other alive today, his friends say, has done quite as much good or inspired as many as this radio preacher Bill Stidger, who five mornings a week brings a message to millions.

Rev. William L. Stidger may be heard Mondays through Fridays on "Getting the Most Out of Life" program over an NBC network at:
 EST 11:45 a.m. — CST 10:45 a.m.
 MST 9:45 a.m. — PST 8:45 a.m.

CHICAGO.—Calling all "Breakfast Clubbers"! It's whoopee time around the breakfast table, for we have a surprise dish of very savory news. I have such a strong hunch that I'm crossing only two fingers—a hunch that finally the NBC "Breakfast Club" is going to be sponsored around the turn of the year. Much more about this later. But before you begin sighing for the good old carefree sustaining days, be it known that the best part of the news hunch is that, if it materializes, you won't have to worry about the program being changed any or about Don McNeill having to do commercials. Now what do you think of that?

The Cost Turnover

Catching up with new voices in the serials: Gail Henshaw as Princess Letitia in "Backstage Wife"; Lester Damon as Jim Nichols, Nancy Douglass as Barbara Hughey, William Amsdel as Boss Hughey, Donald Gallagher as P. Wallace Carver and Carl Kroenke as Alec Ferguson in "Houseboat Hannah"; Kathryn Card as Aunt Katy and Wright Esser as Arthur Cook in "Giri Alone"; Karl Wober as Neil Brooks and Alice Hill as Amy Gordon in "Midstream"; Sid Ellstrom as Bill Walker, Constance Crowder as Doris Cameron and Hope Summers as Mrs. Evans in "Right to Happiness"; Nan McFarland as Cynthia Allen and Henry Saxe as Gov. Allen in "Ma Perkins"; Art McConnell as Pete in "Jack Armstrong"; Bloyce Wright in "Stepmother"; Betty Winkler as a Chinese woman and Eugene Eubanks as a Chinese general in "Story of Mary Marlin."

Oh Mytens

Extraw'd'n'ry, what? Soon after Garry Morfit, "Club Matinee" emcee, kidded baritone Johnny Johnston on the air about his middle name, Clifford, the singer received a letter from a listener in Herts, England, who said his name is Johnny Clifford Johnston. The two Johnnies jumped up in their family trees and started looking for a common branch . . . "No, suh," said Sam. So the gentleman rowed the boat to the opposite shore six miles away. When they landed, Sam said, "Whyn't you let me do that? I's pretty good at oarin'." "You told me you couldn't row!" panted the boss. "But," countered Sam, "I didn't know you meant that kind o' rowin'. I thought you meant ro' like a lion!"

And speaking of Roen, announcer Louis is really thrilled about his learning to pilot a plane. He almost sells you the idea with rhapsodic allusions to birds and Icarus and Pegasus . . . And speaking of flying, the other week-end Margaret Hillias ("Manhattan Mother") flew to Kansas City for a surprise visit with her daughter Carol. The same week-end Carol flew to Chicago for a surprise visit with her mother!

HOLLYWOOD SHOWDOWN

Vallee still prefers brunettes; a Jerry Colonna fan proves handlebars are real

By Evans Plummer

In Hollywood to steer the Sunday night coffee hour for Don Ameche, Rudy Vallee is passing up no exotic dates. Left, with socialite Strelsa Brown die" adventures, eloped to Las Vegas, Nev., November 7 with Mary Eastman, local junior-leaguer and model.

Meet Amy of "Those We Love"

Ann Mayfield, screen and radio name Ann Todd, is seven years old and plays the part of Amy Foster, seven-year-old daughter of Dr. Foster in "Those We Love." She's a right to the Todd name, too, since she's a fourth cousin of Lincoln's wife, Bright as a lack, Ann is a brunet, brown-eyed edition, of Shirley Temple—with whom, incidentally, she plays in Shirley's new film, "The Blue Bird." That will be Ann's tenth picture! We met Ann one day at rehearsal. She told us how a blue parakeet had flown into her yard at home one day and the next she was given the role of Miss Temple's little sister in "The Blue Bird." Shirley, she said, is her favorite movie star—and like Shirley, "The Lone Ranger" is her diaf hero. "He's always on the law's side," Ann explained, "and he does good for people." She also listens to Buck Rogers, Orphan Annie, Jimmy Aitken, "some new pirate thing," the Green Hornet and Jack Armstrong. The 148-l. Q. rating Miss Todd likes to play at "Lone Ranger" and cherishes an ambition to be a detective. "I can hardly wait until I get to high school," she sighed, "so I can study chemistry." In closing, be it noted that as a career girl she prefers movie work—because in radio, "I get kinda scared; I have to be right the first time!"

Nice People Department

Nominated for nice "Nice People" badges: Una Merkel, because when she appeared recently on Walter White's praiseworthy "Nobody's Children" (MBS, Sundays) program, she not only was an unpaid, voluntary guest, but she ALSO donated a sizable three-figure check to aid White and the work of the children's home . . . Bill Morrow and Ed Beloin, who wrote a pari into Jack Benny's next picture for his secretary, Harry Baldwin, without whose help some years ago Bill and Ed would have grown discouraged and never contacted Jack for the coveted gag-writing contract they now enjoy.

HOLLYWOOD.—Rudy Vallee still likes 'em tall, dark and exotic. One of his first West Coast dates was socialite Strelsa Brown, whom he squired to the Victor Hugo cafe to dance to Skinny Ennis' music. Rudy may play there later in the season . . . It was a very happy Fibber McGee who went to the microphone to do his weekly NBC broadcast November 14, for Fibber, in real life Jim Jordan, had learned something to be more than ordinarily thankful for on Thanksgiving Day. The glad news was word from his sister, Mrs. Charles Hugo, and her husband that they had been saved when the ship on which they had been traveling to Java from Australia hit a mine on Monday, November 13, near Singapore. Fibber's sister and her spouse have been living for many years in the Orient, where Mr. Hugo is in the show business.

And speaking of Thanksgiving, the "which-to-celebrate" issue has given producers of nationally broadcast programs severe headaches. Carlton Morse finally decided to seat his "One Man's Family" at the turkey board with the President, but the "Voice of Experience" has ducked the issue. Ordinarily, the Voice gives a Thanksgiving talk on or the day before the holiday. He's done it for nine years. Now, until the confusion has been settled in 1940, he has elected to skip the celebration and straddle the fence . . . However, Dennis Day's real mother, here to visit her newly famous tenor-singing son for Thanksgiving, has solved the problem. She'll stay for BOTH Thursdays!

Off Live Mikes

The reason Bing Crosby was wearing that four-day beard stubble on his November 9 Kraft show was a touch of impetigo, a skin infection, which has since cleared . . . While on whiskers, a skeptical woman fan who didn't believe the mustache of Jerry Colonna could be real, found out otherwise the other night as he was leaving the studio after his Bob Hope show airing. She nervily stepped up to Jerry, grabbed one of his proud handlebars and yanked. Jerry shrieked and the "lady" ran for safety! . . . No publicity sailors are Frances Langford and Jon Hall, owners of the schooner Moonglow. To prove it, they've entered their boat in the 1940 race to Honolulu.

Remember Bert Parks, Eddie Cantor's singing-announcing protege of 1938-39? Well, Parks hopes Eddie—to whom he is bound by contract—hasn't! The price of not working in Hollywood is high . . . Bergen discovered one thing by his feud with Charlie—and that is, the fans think more of McCarthy than Edgar! You should see the mail . . . it was something to see, at "Screen Guild Theater," when Charles Laughton appeared as a fashion-plate and gradually, within live minutes, had his hair matted, assumed a stoop, and looked every inch "The Beachcomber" . . . Jerry Lester, aided by Walter Tetley and Rosemary DeCamp, has auditioned a new type of comedy program to Lucky Strike.

If plans go through, Don Wilson, who recently added the "Aldrich Family" to his Benny show-announcing chore, will take the Fatty Arbuckle role in a remake of Arbuckle's film comedy classic, "The Roundup" . . . The locomotive engineer with hay fever who made a mirthquake of his train impersonation on a recent Burns & Allen program was none other than Benny Rubin, who also speaks an excellent Irish dialect for no bloodline reason. Rubin is hammering hard at the door of radio fame; he recently tried to sell a show idea to Wrigley's Gum . . . Tak! Tak! Never expect a baby giant panda to have parlor manners. One certainly didn't last Sunday when he visited the NBC studios here!

And Now, We Have—

Ned Sparks, NBC Grouch Club professional. Ned was born some sixty-or-so years ago in Ontario, Canada, with a smile—a fact he now refuses to admit . . . Irene Noblette, CBS "Texaco Theater" stooge. Rene, a Texas colleen, played stock a year in Topeka successfully, a feat something like winning a Victoria Cross . . . Al Pearce, of the CBS pineapple Doie, may be charged as one of the first importers of the Hawaiian ukulele, an evil not quite as bad as playing the cornet . . . Arlene Harris, the Pearce Gang chatterbox. Arlene didn't talk till she was three—but has since made up for the delay.

Andy Devine, Jell-O's broken voice, when a child also broke his right arm thrice and his left wing twice . . . Orson Welles, CBS "Campbell Playhouse" impresario. Orson, favorite butt of Hollywood's barbs, doesn't care, because he knows he's good . . . Hedda Hopper, the CBS Sunkist glamorland authority. Hedda once was married to DeWolf Hopper, once made money selling real estate, and acted once in Louis B. Mayer's first movie—all of which she proudly confesses . . . Pepsodent's producer, Jack White, took time off November 23 to wed—in Washington, D. C.—his college sweetheart, Virginia Clopton . . . And Joe Donahue, who produces Camel's "Dagwood and Bion-

The Strange Story of MARIAN ANDERSON

A voice like hers is heard once in a hundred years, said
Toscanini of this Negro girl

WHEN she had finished singing for Jan Sibelius, probably the greatest living composer, minutes passed before he could find words with which to express himself. At last he said, "My roof is too low for you."

At Salzburg, Arturo Toscanini, the most meticulous and exacting of living musicians, said to her, "A voice like yours is heard only once in a hundred years."

She sang her first concert when she was eight years old, for a fee of fifty cents.

Today, it is absolutely impossible to obtain her services before January, 1941. She is booked solidly until then.

She scrubbed porches for a nickel apiece to get the money for her first musical instrument, a four-dollar violin. Today she cheerfully spends fifty dollars to send a five-hundred-word cable from France to her mother.

That is the picture of Marian Anderson—tall, impassive Negro girl who is one of the greatest singers this old world has ever heard. Famous in concert circles for half a decade, Marian Anderson came to radio and nationwide prominence only a few months ago, and in an odd-enough way.

Radio listeners owe a great debt of gratitude to the Daughters of the American Revolution, for if it had not been for the D. A. R., millions of U. S. music-lovers might never have heard the voice of Marian Anderson in that heroic radio appearance.

What sort of person is Marian Anderson? Until the Daughters of the American Revolution tossed her onto the nation's front pages, very few people know anything about her. Her private life, in startling contrast to the noisy hullabaloo featured by so many concert and operatic stars, was and is utterly modest.

Her father was a barber and her mother a school-teacher who was forced to become a washerwoman because of the destruction of her teacher's certificate in a fire. The Anderson family—the parents and three daughters—lived in a single room in a house on South Martin Street in Philadelphia's Negro quarter. They could afford nothing beyond the bare essentials and provided their own sole entertainment—singing. Someone was always singing, and in this atmosphere Marian Anderson grew up, the very marrow of her bones a mixture of hard work and music.

She made her first public appearance when she was six, singing a duet with another little girl at a concert in the Union Baptist Church. This church, still standing at Seventh and Fitzwater Streets in Philadelphia, was to be a vital factor in Marian Anderson's future.

At eight, Marian earned her first fee. It was fifty cents. By this time her voice had found its pitch, and she was being introduced as the "baby contralto." As a matter of course, she joined the junior choir of the Union Baptist Church and soon graduated to the "grown-up" group.

By the time Marian Anderson was sixteen, she had inherited all of the responsibility for the support of her family. Her father had died, and the infrequent singing-engagements Marian was able to find had become doubly important.

Meanwhile she was studying voice with local teachers. But by her eighteenth birthday she had exceeded all that local tutoring could supply. The teachers that were available to her could teach her nothing; the teachers who could bring her genius to flower were beyond her means. It seemed a horrible, utterly hopeless dilemma—until the good parishioners of the Union Baptist Church came to the rescue. They banded together to collect a "Marian Anderson Fund." The response from those who had so often enjoyed Marian's singing was instantaneous. Nickels, dimes, quarters, half-dollars poured in, until finally there was enough to pay for instruction by Giuseppe Boghetti, famous New York and Philadelphia voice teacher. She had not been long under his aegis before she was able to present herself on the concert platform of Philadelphia's Witherspoon Hall. The first shot in the battle for recognition had been fired.

New York's Town Hall, mecca of all musical artists, came next. Her recital there was a mild success, and Sr. Boghetti was sufficiently encouraged to groom her for a competition which Miss Anderson considers, to this day, as the keystone of her career. The prize was the privilege of singing at the Lewisohn Stadium with the New York Philharmonic Society. She sang "O Mio Fernando," from Donizetti's opera "La Favorita," and the critics who were lucky enough to hear her have never forgotten it. That was in 1925.

She studied, worked, practised endlessly for the next seven years, traveling back and forth between Europe and America, across western and central Europe.

Then came 1933.

Miss Anderson had planned a three-month European tour. From her first concert in London she traveled on the wings of acclaim. And in August, 1935, she capped the incredible procession of triumphs with a program at the far-famed Salzburg Festival, which at that time had not yet been destroyed by the Nazis. It was on that occasion that Arturo Toscanini told her: "A voice like yours, Miss Anderson, is heard only once in a hundred years."

By this time, cabled reports of Marian Anderson's triumphs had sizzled into the American press, and a triumphal homecoming was planned. At the last moment, however, that triumph was almost lost. A few hours before the Il de France docked in New York, Miss Anderson fell down a steel staircase, fractured a bone in her left foot. Even after the bone had been set and encased in plaster, she could not bear to touch it to the floor.

But she was determined that nothing should stop her, now that final acceptance by her own countrymen was just within reach. When the curtain rose on the platform of Town Hall in New York at 8:45 on December 30, 1935, Marian Anderson was standing in the curve of the grand piano, the cast hidden beneath her dress. The end of the concert was the signal for a frenzied ovation.

Her 1937 tour of the United States covered 26,000 miles, was the longest tour in concert history. For the first time, she went into the South, and the critic of the Houston (Tex.) Post observed, "Perhaps there was a dry cheek in the house. Perhaps they sold a seat to a stone man."

Whenever she is in the United States, Marian Anderson goes back to the little house on South Martin Street in Philadelphia, where her mother and her two sisters still live. Mrs. Anderson has changed very little. She is proud of her daughter with a quiet pride. When she attended one of Marian's concerts a few years ago she sat next to a bejeweled dowager who was bustly making quite sure that everyone within hearing range knew how thoroughly she appreciated Marian Anderson. Her applause was vociferous and prolonged. Mrs. Anderson, on the other hand, sat quietly throughout the concert. Finally the noisy patron turned to Mrs. Anderson. "What in the world is the matter with you, woman?" she asked. "You sit there like a bump on a log. Can't you recognize an artist when you hear one?"

"Madame," said Mrs. Anderson quietly. "I recognized my daughter as an artist when she was six years of age."

—Kenneth W. Purdy.

Marian Anderson may be heard Sunday night on "The Ford Sunday Evening Hour" over a CBS network at: EST 9:00 p.m. — CST 8:00 p.m. MST 7:00 p.m. — PST 6:00 p.m.

D. A. R. refusal to permit Marian Anderson use of their Washington hall last spring resulted in a nation-wide broadcast from Lincoln Memorial, where Secretary of Interior Harold L. Ickes greeted the great contralto

The Eighth symphony tells its own story, bright, cheerful, lightly lyrical and humorous. It represents a breathing-space before Beethoven plunged into the task of penning his gigantic Ninth.

The F Major Quartet, Opus 135, played by all the NBC strings, although composed for only four instruments, is the last of Beethoven's sixteen quartets, and was finished a year before the composer's death in 1827. As the work is not overly familiar to all of us, one hopes that Toscanini may really play the scheduled movements. Probably he will, for he made the orchestral arrangement himself.

Marian Anderson's rise to popularity started in Europe, where she went because of lack of recognition in her own country. Returned here several years ago, she has since won America's regard as one of the ranking artists of our time, both in regard to voice and interpretation.

The colored contralto can easily be credited with understanding the characteristic music of her race, but to have penetrated the lofty spirit of Schubert and mastered the colorful brilliances of Verdi is quite another and altogether astonishing matter. Those three phases of her art show in the present program.

"O Don Fatale" (Oh, Fatal Oiff) is the aria sung by Princess Eboli in "Don Carlos" after she is given her choice between death and exile for betraying him to the king. Miss Anderson finds the required vocal breadth and sweeping delivery for the vivid music.

In "Death and the Maiden" the Dread Spirit bids the Maiden follow him. She resists and pleads her youth and love of life. Death conquers, but in gentle mood, with the promise that extinction is only sleep. Note how eloquently Miss Anderson differentiates between the appealing tones of the Maiden and the hollow, awesome utterances of Death.

"Die Alimacht" (The Omnipotence) is Schubert at his dramatic tops as a song-writer. The text apostrophizes and hymns God as revealed through nature, its rivers, fields, firmament, flowers, sunshine and storms. The music calls for great tonal volume and the most fervid feeling. I have not heard Miss Anderson do the composition and shall be interested to see whether she can project tremendous power of voice without loss of fine quality.

Indianapolis Symphony Orchestra, CBS. Fabien Sevitzyk, conductor. Overture to "Einem Ritterlich Spiel" (Weinberger), In the Night (Bloch), Finlandia (Sibelius).

Conductor Sevitzyk has set himself the laudable purpose of producing one American work at each of his concerts. This time it is by Ernest Bloch, born Swiss but a citizen here through naturalization. Good news, too, is the reminder that Weinberger, a Czech, purposes to become one of us legally as soon as possible. If war continues long enough on the Continent, we doubtless shall have all its composers in our land ultimately. Bombs, Big Berthas and shifting nationalities do not seem to appeal much to the creative fraternity over there.

Weinberger's animated overture is not a prelude to an opera but merely describes "A Knightly Game."

Bloch's contribution, a tonal poem for string quartet, exhibits his rich fancy and adept craftsmanship.

"Finlandia," with its intense patriotic basis, sounds a timely note just now when Sibelius' country is threatened by the shadow of Russia.

Rubinstein the Romanticist

By Leonard Liebling

UNTIL this month, whenever Rubinstein had mention the historically uninformed music-lover of today assumed that the reference was to Arthur, the Polish pianist now touring America. However, while the subject of this essay indeed shone as a pianist, his parents baptized him in November, 1829, as Anton and added the middle name of Gregorovich. Ten years later, in 1839, the Russian lad made his debut in Moscow and, until his death in 1894, enchanted the world with his performances on the keyboard and with his outstanding gifts as a composer.

Therefore this November brings the 110th birthday of the illustrious Anton; the one hundredth anniversary of his first playing in public; and the forty-fifth of his death. The triple events are having suitable commemoration through the efforts of a sympathetically and sentimentally understanding committee, including two pupils of Rubinstein, the pianists Josef Hofmann and Josef Lhevinne. The festivities, aside from concert performances of the celebrant's music, offered also a party given in New York by the house of Steinway and Sons, whose instrument Rubinstein played on his American tour in 1872-73; and the issuance by Random House of a new story of his life. It is called "Free Artist," authored by Catherine Drinker Bowen, collaborator of the Tchaikowsky biography "Beloved Friend." By "Free Artist" is meant one who no longer was dependent on the condescending patronage of rich individuals, as in the eighteenth century, but made his appeal to the public at large.

Rubinstein's playing enthused audiences with its artistic authority, its poetry, and flaming sweep of temperament. His tone, in volume, variety and emotional warmth, still is a tradition in the world of pianism. Rubinstein's achievements are the more remarkable when it is remembered that he flourished as a contemporary of the phenomenal, all-conquering Franz Liszt.

Strangely enough, despite his triumphs as a virtuoso, conductor, teacher and founder of the St. Petersburg Conservatory, Rubinstein's one insatiable ambition was to be recognized as a great composer. He wrote innumerable piano pieces, of course, including the D Minor Concerto, which still lives actively; but he also created operas, oratorios, symphonies, suites, choral opuses, chamber-works and songs. Nearly all of that romantic output now is forgotten music, though undeservedly so, for it is rich in melody and masterful in construction. Posterity honors him chiefly as a pianist, a premonition that came home to him before his death and saddened him tragically.

As a man, Rubinstein was glorious to look upon. Stocky, broad-shouldered, with leonine head, rugged features and great shock of tumbled hair, he bore a striking resemblance to Beethoven. He had a great, ardent, generous soul, never better proved than when he was given a banquet in Leipzig after one of his recitals there. Liszt was present and offered a toast to "Rubinstein, king of pianists." The guest of honor roared his glee on high, and responded a bit angrily with, "Why pay homage to the king when we are in the presence of Liszt, the emperor?" Where are such giants now?

Speaking Up

By V. Vidal

NBC reports the purchase of Weinberger's new opera, "The Outcasts of Poker Flat," based on the famous Bret Harte story. It will be premiered on the air in the near future. Recalling "Schwanda" and the recent "Variations on Under the Spreading Chestnut Tree," one can be sure that the composer will infuse the theme with all the lustiness and warmth that the subject demands, although the music may be more reminiscent of "The Outcasts of Czechoslovakia" than those of Poker Flat.

The rediscovery of music by a great master is always news. On Friday CBS broadcasts a Sonata for Piano and Clarinet by Felix Mendelssohn, which has been in obscurity for half a century. The two artists who will perform it, Eric Simon, Viennese clarinetist, and Dr. Felix Gunther, head of the music department of Queens College, are also responsible for its forthcoming publication.

A broadcast that gave this reporter a thrill was the "Pursuit of Happiness" on November 5, featuring Paul Robeson, magnificent Negro baritone in an oratorio by a young American, Earle Robinson. The work, called "Ballad for Americans," was vital and stimulating, with a thoroughly American feeling.

These rumors that Toscanini may become an American citizen seem strengthened by the fact that for the first time in his many American visits he has rented a house for the winter instead of a hotel suite. It is in Riverdale, New York.

A charming Toscanini story is told by Samuel Chotzinoff. Last year he took the maestro to the International Casino, at that time the gaudiest, giddiest and most popular night-club in New York. The maestro, enchanted, stayed until three in the morning. When they left, Toscanini sighed with delight. "What a wonderful place," he said, turning to Chotzinoff in wide-eyed awe. "How did you ever find it?"

Men Behind the Music

This Week: Deems Taylor—Samuel Chotzinoff

OVER at NBC and CBS there are two men who rejoice in high-sounding, if slightly nebulous titles. At NBC Samuel Chotzinoff atones under the burden of "Director of Serious Music" and at CBS Deems Taylor tries to escape the medical implications of "Music Consultant." Both are slightly puzzled as to what their titles mean exactly, but neither of them is in any doubt about their work. However, although both have definite jobs with their respective companies, they are best known to the radio public through their music commentation, Chotzinoff with the NBC Symphony and Taylor piano; that he was supporting his entire family at thirteen. Today, in addition to his critical work and his NBC job, he directs the Chatham Square Music School in New York and teaches music criticism at the Curtis Institute. Only occasionally does he get time for his favorite relaxation of playing chamber-music.

Taylor has been in radio considerably longer than Chotzinoff. He made his first air bow the day Columbia made its debut as a network in 1929. He has spoken on any number of programs since, and for the last four seasons has won wide attention as Philharmonic

—Rudolf N. Hoffman

—Ray Lee Jackson

Famous commentator of the Sunday Philharmonic broadcasts, Deems Taylor (l.) has been CBS music adviser-critic since 1929. Samuel Chotzinoff (r.) came to NBC later, was first engaged to lure Toscanini to America and NBC with the New York Philharmonic.

Both Chotzinoff and Taylor function chiefly as advisers to their networks. Taylor is consulted on any complex musical point which might come up, gives his opinions on programs, artists and general musical policy. Chotzinoff, rather more definitely, engages the conductors who replace Toscanini during his vacations, confers with them on their programs, and also passes on most questions relating to serious music.

Chotzinoff first entered the radio scene when he was sent by David Sarnoff on a diplomatic mission extraordinary, the luring of Toscanini back to America and, more particularly, into the NBC fold. Chotzinoff, called "Chotzi" by most of his intimates, was already a well-known musical figure in New York, first as accompanist for Zimbalist and then for Heifetz (whose sister he married); later as music critic for the old New York World (strangely enough, as Deems Taylor's successor); and finally as critic for the New York Post, where he still is.

His career is all the more remarkable when one considers that he arrived here as an immigrant from Russia at the age of six; that he taught himself commentary. The career that led up to that included architecture, reporting, composing and music criticism. Born in New York, he attended New York University, and his first job after leaving college was in an encyclopedia publishing office. His two operas, "The King's Henchman" and "Peter Ibbetson," were both performed at the Metropolitan, and his book "Of Men and Music" was one of last year's best sellers.

The most outstanding feature of both Taylor and Chotzinoff is a robust and completely hard-boiled sense of humor. Music having been their profession for most of their lives, it holds no illusions for them. Both men have been extraordinarily successful in debunking the old "touch me not" idea of music. In fact, in the preface of his book, "Of Men and Music," Taylor says: "Many a potential music-lover is frightened away by the solemnity of music's devotees. They would make more converts if they would rise from their knees."

With two such aids and adjudicators to guide them, CBS and NBC are not likely to go wrong in good music, or to swing too strongly toward swing.

Young Man With a Band

By Harold D. Desfor

A DANCE-BAND leader is a "property." He and similar other properties are the backbone of an industry that grossed ninety million dollars last year. That's the amount of money the American people paid out in one year for the privilege of listening and dancing to "Three Little Fishies," "Hold Tight" (Want some sea food, Momma?), "Ti Pi Tin," "Ain't What You Do," and similar tunes of the hour.

Ninety million dollars is "big business." And it rests squarely on the well-tailored shoulders of the fellow with a nervous baton in his hand, a great big smile on his face, and an instrument slung over his shoulder or under his arm. He is the fountainhead of the golden stream, which has more tributaries than the Mississippi river. From him flows the music for which manufacturers of soap, cigarettes, shoe-polish and other sundries pay in five- and six-figure checks; music which brings thousands to dance-floors; which is impressed on platters and sold in the millions; and which brings long queues to box-office windows.

The average popular dance-band leader has an earning capacity of from $125,000 to a quarter of a million dollars annually. Headline attractions, who draw checks from sponsors of radio programs and film companies in addition to the usual income from recordings and personal-appearance engagements, may easily gross from half a million to a million dollars yearly.

Looking at the average upper-bracket baton-waver—the fellow who is definitely "box-office"—he receives about $2,500 a week for a hotel engagement; $5,000 for a week's stand at a theater; from $1,000 to $2,000 for a one-night date; and royalties from sales of recordings. Still another, but less regular, source of income is from film-musical shorts.

The select top-notchers, stickmen like Kay Kyser, Benny Goodman, Rudy Vallee, Paul Whiteman, and Tommy Dorsey, will ask for—and get—$3,500 for a week's hotel engagement; $10,000 for a week of vaudeville; from $5,000 to $10,000 weekly for a commercial radio program; and a guarantee of something like $100,000 annually from recordings.

These, to be sure, are amazing figures. The point to be remembered, however, is that a goodly chunk of this money, certainly more than half, merely passes through the hands of the bandleader or his agent. There is a tremendous pay-off involved, with at least two ten-percents going to booking agency and manager and a fairly large portion to the musicians and vocalists in the band, not to mention another slice to sundry other members of his large entourage—arrangers, orchestra-tors, press-agent, secretary, and plain stooges.

Unmasking the secret deals which are a part of the fascinating name-band business

Cut a melon so many ways, and there won't be much left. At the end of the year, the average bandleader can count on a net profit of $50,000 or more. Which, in the parlance of the trade, is not tin.

Since he is no great shakes as a businessman (a condition which, incidentally, was virtually forced on him), the bandleader is handled as any other valuable "property"—a baseball player, a prize-fighter, or a hotel. He is practically (and in some cases literally) a corporation with participating stockholders. He may even be "owned" outright by one or more persons. These people have a "piece" in the maestro.

SEVERAL years ago, when the mobsters were running things to suit themselves in the night-club business, a couple of Dutch Schultz's boys, their right hands apparently gripping revolvers in their jacket pockets, dropped into the office of the manager of a Negro bandleader. Having nursed this musician along through several lean years, and having finally succeeded in pushing him into the big money, this man stood prepared to cash in handsomely on his investment by virtue of his iron-bound contract.

"We want ———'s contract," said the gangsters. "Here's $500. Let's see you tear it up."

The beleaguered manager was helpless. He tore up his contract and the Negro bandleader became one of Schultz's money-making enterprises. He was turned over to a booking agency for managing purposes and the Dutchman received his cut every week.

While the colored bandleader, with one or two exceptions, can little more than call his name his own (and manager-owners will tell you this is for his own good), the average white baton-waver is only to a slightly greater degree master of his own destiny. His professional life is in the hands of one of four powerful booking corporations which, together, negotiate about ninety-eight percent of the ninety million dollars spent on popular music.

He came into big-time existence only through the ministrations of the agency which, because of its potent connections in radio, theater, and hotel circles, was able to pluck him from obscurity and nurse him into prominence. Of course the fellow had to have something which made him a fairly safe risk; he was merely an investment. In promoting its investment, the agency groomed the bandleader as carefully as a thoroughbred is prepared for the Derby. He was taken in hand and given expert advice; his band was built up around him; he was placed in the proper locations, good hotel or night-club spots, invariably at a financial loss; and then he was fed to the listening and dancing public through the advantageous half-hour spots on the networks bought and controlled by the agency. All that was required of him was to play his particular brand of music at the appointed time and place.

Three trends in types of bandleaders can be distinctly traced—the personalist man, the college graduate, and the instrumental virtuoso, who is in vogue today.

A decade or more ago, the stock in trade of a popular bandleader was his personality. He waved a baton before his band but he knew no more about music than a first-year student—even less. If he knew enough to give the downbeat which started the boys off together, that was sufficient.

For many years he had toured the country's variety houses. He was an old-line comedian who changed his gag routine perhaps every five years. He delivered a slightly risqué song with a bellow and a sock finish. His banter with the "Professor" in the pit brought him laughs, so he kept that routine in. In time, he learned to scrape a fiddle or toot a saxophone to punctuate his gags. That made him a musician.

In the course of years he exhausted his routines and booking agents intimated that the paying public was growing weary of him as a solo act. A veteran trouper, he was smart enough to realize that he needed something new, he had to give the customers more for their money than moth-eaten gags. His name was potentially good at the box-office. The booking agency went to work and in a short time organized an orchestra, complete to a good-looking vocalist as "dressing." The comedian was now in the band business, and in place of his instrument substituted a baton. To his manager went the task of hiring a substitute leader who actually did all the work of whipping the band into shape and developing its style. The personality bandleader was strictly "front."

The collegiate bandleader started in his high-school band. He was born in a small town of middle-class parents who believed each of their children should play some instrument.

His parents were none too wealthy, and so he entered the state university to prepare for a practical career. His education was to reap him a "money crop." Vaguely, he thought of one of the professions.

At the beginning of his second year, his parents explained they couldn't afford to keep him in school and that if he wished to continue he would have to find part-time work. In looking about for a job, he found he could wait on tables or tend furnaces. Disinclined to do either, he bethought himself of his instrument, with which he had been entertaining his fraternity brothers and on which he was now passably adept. Two of his fraternity brothers also played instruments, and he knew others. One evening he called five of these boys together and proposed that they form a dance-band, with himself as leader.

ONCE launched, he managed to wangle a fair share of the campus business, which brought him about $15 a week. In his third year, he entered the school of music. Having played together for a year, his band had improved considerably and even boasted a "style." His brass section blew low, throaty notes and his clarinets started each number with a drawn-out wail. This supplied him with a musical signature and a name for his music: "Moan-in' Low Rhythm."

Graduation found him with a bachelor-of-arts degree in music and no plans for the future. He returned to his home town, where several jobs were available. But any of these meant work, which did not jibe with his previous experiences at money-making. He had tasted the pleasures of mob attention, in a small way, and he had found it good. It was far easier and pleasanter to lead a band. He looked up his fellow bandsmen and found them similarly disposed.

That fall the ambitious maestro brought his "Moanin' Low" music back to the college town, where they played fraternity dances, proms and dance dates. He averaged perhaps $35 a week, his boys even less. He went after other college dates. In the summer he toured the amusement parks. A smart proprietor of a ballroom, hoping to attract the college trade, installed the bandleader in his walk-up establishment.

Meanwhile he had acquired a manager. The struggle for engagements was by no means an easy one. So far as comparatively unknown bandleaders are concerned, the dancing public can take them or leave them. It's only when they get to the top that the public decides they are indispensable. The big break for the young maestro came when a scout for one of the national booking agencies "caught" the lad at work and reported on his possibilities.

Several weeks later the maestro opened at a fairly good hotel, whose band-booking contract was held by an agency. In those weeks, a transformation had taken place. The band had been increased to twelve men, all attired in spanking new dress suits, a vocalist had been added, and a lad had been brought in to write special arrangements. Behind the transformation was the agency, working its miracles with a lavish hand against the time it would make its newest acquisition a dividend-paying proposition. Because the band was unknown, the agency could demand only a small price from the hotel, and its commission was negligible. Week after week, the agency was content to lose money on the bandleader. Meanwhile, he was being popularized through devious publicity channels. A powerful factor was the radio. Several times a week he went on the air, the wire charges for which were paid by the agency. Newspapers and trade magazines carried his name at frequent intervals.

In time, such pump-priming tactics produced the desired results. As the bandleader grew in popularity, he was booked into better spots at higher prices. Not that he had become a better musician but simply because he was affluent enough to hire top-ranking instrumentalists in the business. Moreover, he had added entertainment features—a girl trio, a "blues" singer, and a male who specialized in novelty numbers.

The bandleader who rose to prominence from the campus is not, in the strictest sense, a thorough musician. Completely wrapped up in his own band, and believing that his music is the best thing this side of heaven, he is inclined to bother not at all with any other brand of music.

The latest trend in bandleaders, however, finds a thorough and competent musician on the stand. He is an instrumental virtuoso and he sprang into prominence with the popularity of swing music—the crux of which is inspired solo work. When the jitterbugs demanded to see and hear these instrumentalists, the booking agencies realized it was the beginning of a new trend in bandleaders. The trend, incidentally, was the first which was not manufactured by the agencies but which they were forced to adopt, willingly enough, to be sure.

OF THE three types of bandleaders, the instrumentalist alone possesses a rich musical talent. He took to his instrument because he loved to play it and because he was crazy about music. He was born into a household crowded with brothers and sisters.

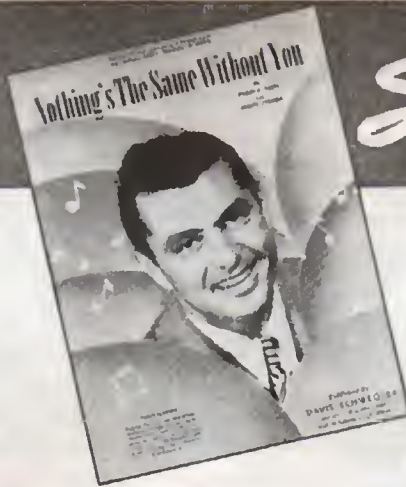

Somehow, at the age of ten, he had managed to lay his hands on an instrument. It was battered and worn and the valves worked none too smoothly. But he was fascinated by its sounds and spent many hours fooling around with it. Note by note, he mastered the simpler tunes he knew.

At night he took to hanging out at a near-by dance-hall, absorbing the music and making friends with the boys in the band. Afternoons, while the other kids were out playing ball, he stayed at home, blowing into the instrument and fingering the valves in an effort to re-create the music still ringing in his ears. When he had absorbed all that his neighborhood instructor was able to teach him, he went looking for a job and finally landed one in a small dance-band. The band played at weddings in neighborhood banquet halls, usually over the week-ends, but it brought him ten dollars. Most of this went to his mother.

When he wasn't playing or practicing, he was listening to music. He

Maestro Billy Mills (left) of "Fibber McGee and Molly" (NBC, Tues.), and Donald Novis, formerly Fibber's vocalist, are honorary judges of Pop-Song Contest No. 10. The third winner (see reproduction) is now in sheet-music form

—Maurice Beymer

MR. LA VERNE PETERSON, a gentleman from Wausau, Wis., submitted a song in the first contest of the National Song Search. It was rejected. This week he's the $200-prize-winner of Popular-Song Contest No. 5! It took courage and self-confidence to try again, but don't you think it was worth while? With Pop-Song Contest No. 10 starting this week, you have just four more chances to win. Follow LaVerne Peterson's example; don't give up until the last contest is over.

Extra Special Tips . . .

Have you ever wondered how the big ASCAP song-writers do their stuff? This week RADIO GUIDE presents, especially for its song-writing readers, a story by Jimmy McHugh, famous composer of such hit-tunes as "I Can't Give You Anything But Love, Baby," "You're a Sweetheart," "The South American Way." Read McHugh's experiences as a song-writer and use some of his extra special tips in preparing your Song Search entry.

Del Courtney Again

For the Coast-to-Coast radio premiere of the fifth Song Search winner, tune in Del Courtney's broadcast again this Saturday afternoon (NBC, 5:30 p.m. EST; 4:30 p.m. CST; 3:30 p.m. MST; 2:30 p.m. PST). Please note also that all contestants whose names had not been published in the weekly list of entries up to last week, as well as all new contestants, will be notified by mail as their entries are received.

ANNOUNCING

THE $200.00 PRIZE WINNER OF POPULAR-SONG CONTEST NO. 5

"Whenever I'm With You"

by

LaVerne Peterson, 422 N. Third Avenue
Wausau, Wisconsin

Five Consolation Prize winners and six Honorable Mentions for Contest No. 5 will not be published until next week

Read These Rules Carefully

1. Contestants must live in the United States or Canada. Anyone may enter the National Song Search with the exception of employes or members of the families of employes of Radio Guide or the Davis-Schwegler Company.
2. Entries must be addressed as follows: National Song Search Headquarters, Radio Guide, 731 Plymouth Court, Chicago, Ill. No manuscripts will be returned unless accompanied by self-addressed stamped envelopes.
3. An entry must be written in ink (not pencil) on regularly ruled music copying paper. It may be a full piano arrangement or a simple melody. Words will not be considered in judging.

4. No correspondence can be entered into by either Radio Guide or Davis-Schwegler Company regarding individual contributions.

5. Contestants may enter any or all contests. Winning any contest prize does not disqualify for other contest prizes. Contestants wishing to enter the same composition in different weekly popular song contests may do so but must make separate submissions in each case.

6. The name and address of contestant must be written in ink or typed in the top margin of page one of each entry submitted. The name of the contest and the number (if entry is in Popular-Song Contest) must also be written in ink or typed on page one.

7. A contestant may submit as many entries for any single contest as he may wish—and may win more than one prize provided his entries merit such consideration.

8. Each entry shall be judged solely on its musical merit. Judges will be the editorial boards of Radio Guide and Davis-Schwegler Company. Contestants, by entering the contest, agree decisions of judges shall be final.

9. The prizes awarded winners of each contest are identical, namely, the song-writer whose song is selected by the judges as best in each contest will receive: (a) $200 in cash; (b) The standard song-writers' contract with Davis-Schwegler Company, music publishers, providing for standard royalties on sheet music and other sales; (c) His song will be published and distributed through Davis-Schwegler Company outlets; (d) His song will be recorded and phonograph records offered for sale through regular D-S outlets; (e) His song will be electrically transcribed and placed in the regular Davis-Schwegler Company library service to more than 200 radio stations. One dozen pieces of sheet music, two records, and one electrical transcription will be given free to the song-writer. The next five songs selected by the judges as being most worthy will win for their writers the sum of $10.00 each. The next six songs selected will be given Honorable Mention Certificates.

10. Hymn or sacred music contest entries must be mailed before midnight of Saturday, December 30.

Semi-classical number contest entries must be mailed before midnight of Saturday, January 6, 1940.

Popular-Song Contest No. 10 (this is the tenth of a series of 13 weekly contests) entries must be mailed before midnight of Saturday, December 2, 1939. Winners will be announced as soon as possible. In case of ties, duplicate prizes will be awarded.

THREE BIG CONTESTS

A Hymn Contest

To find a great, new American hymn or sacred number. Example: "Rock of Ages," "The Old Rugged Cross." All entries must be mailed before midnight of December 30.

A Semi-Classical Number Contest

To discover a fine, new American semi-classical number for voice. Example: "Trees," "Indian Love Call," "Sylvia." All entries must be mailed before midnight of January 6.

A Pop-Song Contest, No. 10

To find a new, popular, singable, danceable song. All entries must be mailed before midnight, Dec. 2.

A New Contest Every Week

For the next three weeks, we plan to find and have published three other new American popular songs. Each week will offer a brand-new pop-song contest and a brand-new chance to win fame and fortune.

PRIZES

The greatest first prize ever offered an unknown song-writer.

The winner of each contest will receive . . .

1. $200.00 in cash.
2. The regular song-writers' contract with the great Los Angeles music-publishing firm, Davis-Schwegler Company, providing for royalties on all sheet music and other sales.
3. Immediate publication and distribution as sheet music.

4. Immediate recording and distribution as phonograph record.

5. Inclusion of the winning song in regular Davis-Schwegler Company Library Service to Radio Stations from Coast to Coast.

Consolation Prizes

The next five song-writers selected will receive $10.00 each in cash.

Honorable Mentions

The next six song-writers will be given Honorable Mention Certificates.

I WAS A PLUMBER'S HELPER

Do you want to write a song-hit? Here are the do's and don't's of song-writing as listed by a famous popular composer

BY JIMMY McHUGH

Jimmy McHugh, composer of such hits as "I Love to Whistle," "The Cuban Love Song," "The South American Way"

SO YOU'RE thinking about writing that song that's been in the back of your head for weeks and months?

Well, come on. Let's have it. Procrastination is the thief of time, you know. You can't start sooner than right now.

Perhaps I'm a chump to urge you on. After all, I make my living writing songs. And you don't see any doctors, lawyers or businessmen going out and inviting competition for themselves.

But I'm feeling in an expansive mood. I'm very pleasantly ensconced (I hope that word means what I think it does) on the top of the world. In my desk there is a letter from Harry Kaufman, general producing manager for the Shuberts, in which he says "Streets of Paris," for which I wrote the music and Al Dubin the words, is a cinch to run throughout the winter.

In addition, "The South American Way," the hit tune of the musical, is a great success. The radio and the name bands are giving it a grand play. Now Darryl Zanuck has signed Carmen Miranda, the sensational Brazilian singer, to make a picture called "The South American Way," which will mean still more popularity for the song. And, not too incidentally from my standpoint, more royalties for me.

So here's to competition. For a person with a talent for music there's no finer career than song-writing. I sincerely hope that your efforts lead you ultimately to a double-A rating in ASCAP. Here are a few tips that may help you on your way.

Just as a matter of course, once you get into song-writing you'll find yourself working twenty-four hours a day. You'll study people, newspapers, magazines, every phase of life, for an idea that can be turned into a song. You may be out with the most interesting group of people imaginable, brilliant conversationalists and gay, but right in the middle of the party you're apt to find your thoughts wandering, thinking about a song. Every song-writer I know is that way. So if your mind starts taking that turn, encourage it. It's the mental process from which hit songs are born.

But, though your mind works around the clock, the body mustn't. The old saying that hard work never killed anybody wasn't meant for artists. And, don't forget, a song-writer is an artist. Songs that catch on have to be inspired. They are written with your mind and your heart, not with your hands.

So don't try to plug your way to success with long hours at the piano. It won't work. It will merely make your music dull and routine, the opposite of inspired. The only place for hard physical effort is in working out your song once you have gotten the melody.

Just as many hits have been created away from the piano as at it; perhaps more. When a song comes to you away from the keyboard, it's more apt to have a natural melody that the man in the street can sing. And when he starts singing and whistling your tune, royalties start pouring in.

IN WRITING songs, put more reliance on inspiration than on perspiration. School your mind to be on a constant lookout for ideas. Then, after you have gotten the idea, sit down to the piano and work it out.

Sometimes songs pop out without rhyme or reason. "The South American Way" was like that. It came to me when, of all things, I was singing in the shower-bath.

Harry Kaufman, Al Dubin and I had been in my suite at the Warwick Hotel in New York all morning, going over the numbers for "Streets of Paris." Everything was complete except a number for Carmen Miranda, whom Kaufman was bringing up from Brazil. We were having a little trouble with that one.

When we went out to lunch Mr. Kaufman gave us a bit of a pep talk. He went to considerable length to get us enthusiastic about the Brazilian singer. "She's sensational," he declared, "and I want you fellows to give me a good zomba rhythm for her. I must have it." When you consider that she had not been heard in the United States up to this time, you realize what a keen judge of talent and public taste he is.

Back at the hotel I decided to take a cold shower to overcome the effects of a heavy lunch. I got under the stream of water and began singing at random, nothing in particular, when—wham!—it came to me. I jumped out of the shower, wrapped a towel around myself and ran over to the piano in the living-room.

"Listen to this," I said. "See how you like it for Miranda."

"That's thrilling! That's Miranda! You've got it!" Kaufman declared when I had finished. Turning to Dubin, he said, "Now, Al, let's have some bang-up lyrics to match the music." A few minutes later he departed, leaving Dubin and me to complete the number.

"I Can't Give You Anything But Love, Baby" was born as a cross between inspiration and getting ideas from watching people. I was standing in front of Tiffany's on Fifth Avenue with Dorothy Fields, with whom I collaborated for eight years, when a young fellow and his girl came up and began looking in the show window not far from us. They gazed longingly at the costly jewelry on display. I don't know just what the girl said. Undoubtedly it was some remark about wishing he had enough money to buy her some jewelry like that. But both Dorothy and I heard the important thing—his reply. Wistfully he said, "I wish I did, too, Baby, but I can't give you anything but love." It hit us at the same time. We both realized that we had an idea for a new tune.

Song-writing has been good to me. I have a fine home in Beverly Hills. I drive a nice car. I have money in the bank—a little. I have perhaps more than an average number of friends, charming people in all walks of life. Among them are Jack Robbins, the music-publisher; Dr. A. H. Giannini, the banker; Father Remi Schuivier, of St. John's Prep School, Danvers, Mass., and Johnny Royal, now in charge of production and vice-president of NBC, but whom I knew as a young newspaperman on the Boston Post.

It has been a privilege to write "The Cuban Love Song" for Lawrence Tibbett, "Hitting a New High" for Lily Pons, "My Dancing Lady" for Joan Crawford, "I Love to Whistle" and "My Own" for Deanna Durbin, and "You're a Sweetheart" for Alice Faye.

ENTIRELY aside from the monetary rewards, there has been a great personal satisfaction in having authored such tunes as "I'm in the Mood for Love," "On the Sunny Side of the Street," "Exactly Like You," "Digga Digga Doo," "Hinky Dinky Parley Vous" and "Dinner at Eight."

I am telling you this not to be boasting but to urge, "Go thou and do likewise."

I started out as a plumber's helper, working in one of my father's crews (he was a plumbing engineer) in Boston. Luckily I dropped a four-inch pipe on my foot and gave it up. Later, for three years, I had a small office job at the Boston Grand Opera House. It paid hardly more than cigarette money.

I'm a perfect example of a fellow to point to and say, "If he can do it, so can I."

And I still suspect that perhaps I'm a little tetchy to be urging you on.

On Short Waves

Programs from foreign countries subject to change without notice

OVERSEAS BROADCASTS FROM JAPAN

THE five daily overseas broadcasts of the Broadcasting Corporation of Japan, which originate in the new four-million-yen Broadcasting House at Tokyo, are radiated as follows:

From 12 midnight to 1:30 a.m. EST over JZJ (9.535), directed to the Pacific Coast of North America and Hawaii; from 7 to 9:30 a.m. EST over JZJ (9.535) and JZJ (11.80) directed to China and the South Seas; from 2:00 to 4:00 p.m. EST over JWV (7.257) and JZJ (11.80), directed to Europe; from 4:30 to 5:30 p.m. EST over JZJ (11.80) and JZK (15.16), directed to South America, and from 8:00 to 9:00 p.m. EST over JZK (15.16), directed to North America.

All broadcasts open and close with the playing of "Kimigayo," the national anthem of Japan, followed by a series of soft chimes representing the notes in the first four bars of the same song. Newscasts in English are read at 8:15 p.m. and 12:03 a.m. EST. These bulletins consist almost entirely of latest war news from the Sino-Japanese conflict, as furnished by the Domei News Agency. Japanese victories are of course greatly overemphasized, while Chinese victories are never mentioned.

Reception from Japan ranges from fair to good, depending upon the listener's location, direction in which the receiving aerial runs, season of the year, and frequency in use. Listeners in the central and eastern states should tune for Tokyo at 8:00 p.m. EST. JZK (15.16) is located near the low-frequency side (nearest 15 megacycles) of the 19-meter band (the 19-meter band will probably be a short, thick line or dot marked as 19 M on your dial), and will be just above GSF (15.14), London, which, at that period broadcasting to Latin America, will probably be weaker than JZK. Listeners in the western states should tune for Tokyo at 12 midnight EST. JZJ (9.535) will be found in the 31-meter band just a hair above KGEI (9.530) of San Francisco, California. Some nights KGEI will blanket JZJ, but if reception conditions are right JZJ should top the U. S. station in volume.

FROM THE EUROPEAN ARENA: Those who understand German will get an ear-opener by tuning in the broadcast from London intended for those brave listeners in Germany who, flirting with the firing-squad, hover over forbidden short-wave sets hidden away in the attic or cellar. Best reception may be had at 2:30 p.m. EST, over G5I (15.26) or G5P (15.31), or at 4:15 p.m. EST, over G5P (15.31) or GRX (9.69). To tempt the Germans to thus take their lives in their hands, news notes giving the names of German prisoners of war held in British camps are sandwiched in between general news items favorable to the Allies' cause. The twenty names of prisoners read daily consume only half a minute of the news period. Desmond Callan of Readville, Mass., reports the German short-wave station has a new interval signal, consisting of five piano notes of the same pitch repeated over and over, which is used occasionally. CSW7 (9.74), "Emissora Nacional" of Lisbon, Portugal, is coming through with tremendous signal strength these nights. From 6:15 p.m. EST on, a deep-toned clock booms out the hours. Just before the clock strikes, chimes, similar to those ushering in Big Ben, are sounded.

THE NEWS IN GENERAL: VONG (9.475), St. Johns, Newfoundland, operates from 4:30 to 10 p.m. EST. British short-wave stations VK3ME, Melbourne; VK2ME, Sydney, Australia, and VP02, Suva, Fiji's, are all off the air for the duration of the war. "Radio Martinique" (9.70), Fort-de-France, Martinique, B. W. I., radiates a news bulletin in English nightly at 6:15 p.m. EST. VP6YB in Barbados, British West Indies, formerly an amateur station, has been taken over by the Government for broadcasting purposes and operates nightly from about 6:15 p.m. EST, on frequencies of 4.2 or 3.7 mcs. The first organization to sponsor a program over a United States international station as a distinctly short-wave feature is the United Fruit Company, which has signed on the dotted line for a daily quarter-hour evening spot over NBC stations WRCA and WNBI. According to Ama-Touring, many undercover amateur stations are now being heard as a result of the withdrawal of licenses in so many countries. Among these is LX1IUU (28.16), believed to be a British station; ES3CA (28.12), using a French accent, so probably in France; Z222 (14.12), claiming to be in Iceland, and ZX4M (14.115), believed to be operating from Cuba. Hal Clein of Los Angeles, California, writes that MTCV (11.775), which operates for North America nightly from 1:30 to 2:30 a.m. EST, with a power of 20,000 watts, has since its inauguration on July 20 received 436 reports, including almost every country of the world. The Hsinking (Manchoukuo) station is well heard in the United States. "Radio Saigon," French Indo-China, power of 12,000 watts, is now operating on 11.78 mcs, from 8:30 to 10:45 a.m. EST and on 11:15 p.m. to 12:45 a.m. EST and on 6:116 mcs, from 6 to 8:30 a.m. EST and from 6:45 to 7:45 p.m. EST. English broadcasts are radiated daily on 6.116 mcs, from 6 to 6:45 a.m. EST and on 11.78 mcs, from 11:45 p.m. to 12:15 a.m. EST and from 10:30 to 10:45 a.m. EST.

LISTENING TO LEARN

"If radio can stimulate a person to look further into things, or if it can provoke a man to think—then it's on education, and you have a college in your living-room."

Background for Listening

Here are some interesting facts about the subjects to be treated in a few of the outstanding educational programs on the air this week:

Sunday, November 26

Great Plays, NBC.

The seventh play will be Shakespeare's "Macbeth," last of a cycle of three by the English bard to be presented in this series. "Macbeth" is the tragic story of an ambitious Scottish nobleman who murdered the gracious King Duncan and caused his two sons to flee the country. Macbeth, crowned king, is so plagued with his misdeeds that he creates suspicion of his guilt in court. In the fifth and final act MacDuff, powerful Scottish lord, kills Macbeth and lays his head at the feet of dead King Duncan's son, making him the first to hail the young monarch as King of Scotland.

Democracy in Action, CBS.

"Case History," title of today's program, is a dramatization of the assembling and dissemination of essential facts upon which health-promotion policies are based. This is the third broadcast in a unit of six designed to provide a better understanding of the service of the Government in advancing nation-wide efforts to protect and promote health.

Monday, November 27

Adventure in Reading, NBC.†

The subject of Helen Walpole's discussion on this date will be Henry Seidel Canby, author of a new best-selling biography of Thoreau. Professor Canby is lecturer in English at Yale, author of three books on short story and a number of critical and literary works. In American naturalist Thoreau, unknowingly an exceptional writer, biographer Canby finds a rich subject for study. Thoreau exhibited remarkable qualities of observation and insight in his nature writings, presented in a simple and pure literary style; yet he never regarded himself as a literary figure and was as indifferent to fame as to money.

Adventures in Science, CBS.

Dr. Watson's guest this date will be Dr. Fritz Zwicky, of the California Institute of Technology. Dr. Zwicky will speak from Los Angeles on "The Greatest Explosions in the Universe"—about the explosions of stars millions of light-years from the earth.

Eastern 4:30 p.m. Central 3:30 p.m. Mountain 2:30 p.m. Pacific 1:30 p.m.

Youth in Crisis, NBC.

Subject of the second program in this series of three will be "The Young and the Strong," presenting figures to show that youth and health do not always go together and a plan for a greater development of physical fitness in American youth.

Tales from Far and Near, CBS.*

All boys at some time wish to lead the kind of life Will James has lived. Author-Artist James, left an orphan, was adopted by a fur-trapper, who taught him to write. At the age of thirteen he was working with cow and horse outfits; and a great part of his life was spent in the United States to eradicate unsafe and unsanitary living-quarters and to provide adequate homes and tenements within the means of the poorer families, in an effort to blot out crime and disease and reduce unemployment. The problem of housing is a complex one that brings up many questions. For instance, is the provision of low-cost housing a proper activity for the Government? Can a community solve the housing problem better than individual effort? Can we afford to have slums? What is the best method of financing a slum-clearance project?

Log-rolling, a dangerous pastime, is just business to the skilful lumberjack. What these hardy men have contributed to music will be revealed on "Folk-Music of America," Tuesday, CBS on western and Canadian ranges, where he engaged in the capture of wild horses and took part in rodeos. He has written a great number of popular books for children, his "Smoky," published in 1927, winning the Newberry award. "Look-See with Uncle Bill," which will be dramatized in this program, is the latest of his Uncle Bill stories, others being "Uncle Bill" (1934) and "In the Saddle with Uncle Bill" (1935).

This Living World, CBS.*

Dramatization, commentary and discussion focus on the problem of where we live in today's broadcast. In 1934 a nation-wide movement was undertaken

The Torch of Progress, NBC.

Dr. Edward Howard Griggs' story of human progress turns to the people who lived in Phenicia, a narrow strip of coast about 200 miles long at the east end of the Mediterranean. At the dawn of history, the Phenicians were the greatest navigators and traders in the world. They built ships and sailed them on the Mediterranean as early as 2,000 B. C. They traded on the Mediterranean, sailed to Britain, circumnavigated Africa and visited the East Indies. Their wares included jewels, glassware, metal objects and dyes. It is believed that the basis for the alphabet used by Europeans was learned by the Greeks from the Phenicians.

● In one of the several demonstrations presented at the KSTP Conference on Educational Broadcasting in Minneapolis, a cartoonist instructed a class in drawing via television. This probably is the first public demonstration of a possible educational use of this new medium. Judging from the reports of those who attended, the conference program was extremely interesting and informative. Especially the radio workshop demonstrations.

● Though 'tis said there's nothing new in radio, short-wave station WRUL in Boston is presenting a program which is new and the only one of its kind on the airwaves. The subject in question is aviation, and this is the second practical course on the "Elements of Aviation" to be presented over WRUL by Captain Hilding N. Carlson, president of the New England Aircraft School and instructor in civil aeronautics at Boston University. The series is following through the increased interest in aviation that has been created by U. S. Government sponsorship of aviation courses in leading schools and colleges. Students interested in flying, mechanics, or ground-school phases of aviation are given helpful and useful instruction in this course. Illustrated booklets have been prepared to supplement the radio lectures so that the student misses none of the classroom teaching or blackboard illustrations. For further information write the World Wide Broadcasting Foundation, University Club, Boston, Massachusetts. Broadcasts may be heard Tuesdays at 10 p.m. EST (9 CST, 8 MST, 7 PST) on 11.73 or 15.13 megacycles; and is repeated on Thursdays at 4:30 p.m. EST (3:30 CST, 2:30 MST, 1:30 PST) on 11.79 or 15.13 megacycles.

● The listener aids for "The World Is Yours" broadcast, published by the Columbia University Press (New York, New York), are truly a work of art and a valuable contribution to any library whether you listen to the program or not. Prepared by Clarence Barker and Wallace Patterson, of the Office of Education, in collaboration with Leonard P. Schultz, technical adviser for the Smithsonian Institution, these printed pamphlets give you a thorough, up-to-date background of facts about the subject treated in each broadcast; important excerpts from the script; one bibliography for the casual listener, another for the scientifically minded.

● Announcement has been made that a Texas School of the Air will be launched over the Texas State Network shortly under the auspices of the Texas State Department of Education. According to present plans, it will begin the second semester with three programs a week: One in elementary science, one in upper intermediate grade social studies, and one in junior and senior high-school reading.

● Word comes from A. L. Chapman that the Bureau of Research in Education by Radio of the University of Texas is planning to launch a number of research studies, one of which will be a study of the listening habits of 50,000 Texas children. Mr. Chapman is director of the Bureau.

Listen Carefully

Dear V. O. L.:

Let's listen attentively or not at all. Many times I have tried to listen to music that brings all the grandeur of the universe in a flood through my heart, only to have that beauty shattered by someone talking loud to drown out the music so that their often trivial chatter can be heard.

To the radio audience I would say: Listen carefully, not only to the programs in which you are interested, but listen just as carefully and courteously to the announcer. He has a message to give you that has been edited with grave consideration, so you can depend on it being authentic. Be tolerant, and be very sure you are not wrong before you criticize, and even then count one hundred.

Mrs. Florence G. Stout,
Parkersburg, W. Va.

● Found! The perfect listener—from the standpoint of the listener, the performer and even the sponsor, We're pleased to meet her.—V. O. L.

Four Reasons

Dear V. O. L.:

I was greatly impressed by reading the article about Vincent Astor's liking for the "Amos 'n' Andy" program. It led me to believe that there are many, great and small, besides myself that enjoy their skit.

Here are four reasons why their programs are so good: Their stuff is clean; they are true to life; they bring out morals; their sketches are full of "Plutonic humor" as Andy calls it.

Claud Johns, Willow, Okla.

Not Heroes to Her

Dear V. O. L.:

Why can't the leading men in daytime radio dramas be likeable? After a day of listening to all the dramas we women are so disgusted with men we almost hate our husbands. We are tired of listening to martyred wives being misunderstood by intolerant husbands, of greedy offsprings, of self-sacrificing mothers, but most of all we're tired of the sitty, selfish, unfaithful nincompoops that are the radio heroes.

If men listened to the radio in the daytime as much as we women do, they would resent the unflattering light in which they are represented. Well, we women who like our husbands feel that way too.

Mrs. C. A. Hansen, Oakland, Neb.

Sell Me Your Ears

Dear V. O. L.:

I have no fault to find with the "Pot O' Gold" idea. Who wouldn't like to fall heir to a thousand bucks? But I do object to spotting a fine band like Horace Heidt's as a "musical wait" between apins of a wheel. Several times lately I have listened to this program in the company of friends, and I noticed that not one person in these groups paid the slightest attention to the music. Everyone was waiting for the "give away," and the music was something to be tolerated rather than enjoyed.

Paul S. McCoy, Hamilton, Mo.

● Radio is going through a "get the listener with a money slant" cycle. Have patience. Remember the rise and fall of movie bank night.—V. O. L.

Dividing the Spoils

Dear V. O. L.:

I think that within the past year that you could count the quiz program awards to the Southern states on your two hands. Just why this is I cannot figure out. I am of the opinion that the South is entitled to more awards than it has been getting.

H. M. Graham, Little Rock, Ark.

Dear V. O. L.:

In the majority of the programs giving prizes, they openly favor the Southern or Western states, and we New Englanders seem to be ignored. It seems that once in a while we should be given a chance in the contests which advertise products bought a lot by Eastern people.

Mrs. Henri Gagnon, Manchester, N. H.

Shut-In Corner

Dear V. O. L.:

I'm past fifty-one and I've been very ill part of the time for the past ten years, but I have many things to be thankful for. I have a good husband and a family of five sons and one daughter—better than Bing Crosby and Eddie Cantor! I'm one of those who knows all that a radio means to people who can't leave their houses. For pastime I make scrapbooks of radio pictures and news, for I like to know what the people look like whose voices bring me such pleasure and comfort.

Mrs. Bessie Wagner, 530 Taylor St.,
Dayton, Ohio

Dear V. O. L.:

I was much interested in the letter from Evelyn Carrott several weeks ago. She showed such a brave spirit after twenty months in bed. Since she too is fond of the radio, I copied and sent her a favorite poem entitled "What a Wonderful Friend is My Radio." Since I've had to lie quiet most of the past two years, my friends have brought poems and I've put them in a scrap-book. I've memorized many of them and they have given me great inspiration and satisfaction.

Mrs. Florence M. Klidder,
812 San Fernando Rd.,
San Fernando, Calif.

● So many shut-ins are writing us—and we are glad of it—that we wish to take this opportunity to give assurance that we'll publish their letters as rapidly as space permits.—V. O. L.

INTRODUCTION to BURNS & ALLEN

THE neophyte radio fan is hereby cautioned against promiscuous Wednesday night listening. But should he unwittingly happen that night on a scramble of voices bubbling over in hare-brained conversation, he had better expect the worst. He has tuned in Burns and Allen—who are the craziest, the silliest and, in the opinion of many listeners, the funniest comedians on the air. Gathered about them are a Britisher, a girl-crazy tenor and the funniest fat woman in radio. These plus an announcer who succumbs to Gracie's vagaries completely. For those fans who have yet to be initiated to Burns and Allen humor, the following introduction should ease the shock and increase the fun of listening.

THE CAST

GRACIE ALLEN—a sub-subnormal darling whose intelligence is almost zero but whose glee is as catching as measles. Plight of a jailbird father is her favorite theme

GEORGE BURNS—who, after long but unsuccessful efforts to improve Gracie, admits defeat and now only tries to clarify his wife's stories when they get too balled up

RAY NOBLE—a typical Wodehouse Britisher who has attached himself to George and Gracie. Besides conducting the orchestra, Noble also turns in his bit of humor—British humor

FRANK PARKER—who is more interested in the attentions of a beautiful woman than in the songs to which he applies his remarkable tenor voice on George and Gracie's show

"BUBBLES" KELLY—who throws her very considerable weight on girl-friend Gracie's side in the struggle to keep the predominantly male contingent of this ménage under control

TRUMAN BRADLEY—who is paid to sell Hind's Honey and Almond Cream but spends more time cutting capers with Gracie, completes the cast of Burns and Allen and company

What You May Hear

This:

Frank: Did you notice how big my chest is? I'm going to keep on developing it, too.

George: Swell, Frank. What's all this chest development for—to help your singing?

Frank: No, I've got to have more room to tattoo my girls' pictures.

George: Well, that's getting women off your mind.

Frank: And getting them on my chest.

George: That was some comeback.

Or This:

George: Why don't you go to the desert, you'd probably be the life of Death Valley.

Gracie: My brother went to the desert.

George: I don't want to hear about your brother.

Gracie: He's the one that had that forest named after him.

George: What forest?

Gracie: The Petrified Forest.

Or This:

Gracie: George, isn't it funny the way everybody thinks you're Bob Burns?

George: Bob Burns?

Gracie: Yeah, when we came into the studio tonight I heard somebody say, "Here comes Burns and his Palooka."

George: Good night, all!

And now . . . "Burns and Allen" at 7:30 p.m. EST (6:30 p.m. CST; 8:30 p.m. MST; 7:30 p.m. PST) on Wednesday night over a CBS network. Proceed from here at your own risk!

Effervescent "Bubbles" Kelly is an old friend of Gracie's from vaudeville days, joined the show this season as Gracie's girl friend. Boy-crazy and romantic; Bubbles' supreme joy is a hug from Frank Parker

"Good Evening

MR. and MRS.
AMERICA"

GOOD EVENING, MR. AND MRS. NORTH AMERICA, AND ALL THE SHIPS AT SEA, LET'S GO TO PRESS!

FLASH!--NEW YORK--The funeral of Alice Brady, the stage and screen actress, who died last midnight, will be private, tomorrow..Miss Brady would have been 47 Thursday.

BELGRADE!--Despite recent reports--the threatened demobilization in the Balkans has not taken place... Instead, Greece is reported to have called out more reserves from the ranks of general conscription.

NEW YORK!--Norma Shearer, the star, was again operated on last night, because of another wisdom tooth infection..Miss Shearer returns to H'wood Wednesday.

AS WALTER WINCHELL bids you good evening, this is how he looks. With no studio audience, he works with collar unbuttoned, hat set jauntily on the side of his head, operates "bug" or telegraph key himself to synchronize with breaks in the script (see script reproduction at left)

THERE are radio commentators and there are columnists, but in all of radio and newspaperdom there is only one Walter Winchell. Listeners have long known him for the exclusive gossip scoops he reels off on Sunday nights. More recently they have learned to know him for startling predictions and exposes in the fields of politics and foreign affairs. His column is read by over seven million persons but his broadcast—began in 1932 and today sky-high in audience rating—is heard by many more millions. Unlike most radio contracts, Winchell's on "Jergens Journal" is on a year-to-year basis, calls for a weekly salary of $5,000. Interesting as are these facts, however, there is one question many listeners would like answered: "How does Winchell do his broadcast?" On these pages Radio Guide answers that question by taking listeners on a photo-tour of "Jergens Journal" (NBC, Sunday, 9 p.m. EST; 8 p.m. CST; 10 p.m. MST; 9 p.m. PST). Here is how "Jergens Journal" ticks.

Photographs by Gustave W. Gale

SPECIAL PROBLEM is created by erratic changes in Winchell's voice. Claude Clayton in control-room listens, moves volume knob to keep voice even

THIS IS THE NATIONAL BROADCASTING COMPANY—last words of "Jergens Journal"—come from the station-break announcer, "Leon Lee (above)"

BEFORE BROADCAST TIME: Winchell must get an O. K. on script. This usually results in a friendly fight, as above, with agency and network chiefs, who go over his high-powered news scoops in fine-tooth-comb search for libelous statements, openings for FCC meddling, errors

AND NOW MR. BEN GRAUER FOR JERGENS LOTION: To lady listeners Grauer's suave, friendly voice, which has sold them lotion since 1932, is as important as Walter himself. At left, he introduces "interesting experience" read by famous radio actress Anne Elstner

BACKFIRE: A post-broadcast call from Amarillo, Tex., questioning Winchell facts, is typical of klooks and cheers received. He hung up on this one

BACK TO WALTER WINCHELL, who has spent the seconds during Grauer's and Miss Elstner's commercial snatching a drink of water and a few puffs on a cigarette. In the small studio where the broadcast originates, he sits across the desk from them, is now ready to proceed. As he speaks, another vital factor (the control-room) operates

DEAR RADIO GUIDE: Has the stage given any stars to radio?—J. K., Austin, Tex.

Best example of such a gift is Helen Menken (above) of "Second Husband" (CBS, Tues.). Famous for many Shakespearian roles, she turned to radio in '37.—ED.

DEAR RADIO GUIDE: What is this new film role of Eddie Robinson's which they say will be the talk of the country?—B. I., Troy, Ohio

Here is the tough guy (l.) of "Big Town" (CBS, Tues.) in elaborate make-up of that role in "Dr. Ehrlich." Change takes 2 hours.—ED.

DEAR RADIO GUIDE: Why isn't Helen Hayes heard in more radio dramas?—James H., Peoria, Ill.

The "first lady of the theater" (r.), now starring in the Broadway play, "Ladies and Gentlemen," has made only one radio appearance—with Orson Welles—this season. She will presently make five more with Welles.—ED.

DEAR RADIO GUIDE: Will you give us a picture of Bess Johnson?—Mrs. Harold Cross, San Francisco, Calif.

Here is lovely Bess Johnson (r.), star of "Hilltop House," popular CBS serial drama. No overnight sensation, this radio actress reached the top the hard way.—ED.

THE "VOX POP" ALBUM

ALMOST anything can—and does—happen to Parks Johnson and Wally Butterworth, who ask the questions on "Vox Pop," a completely unrehearsed man-on-the-street program heard each Thursday night over CBS at 7:30 EST; 6:30 CST; not broadcast by stations in Mountain or Pacific Time zones. From close contact with the varied types of men—and women—they encounter in the various New York hotel lobbies from which they broadcast, these veteran question-askers have a mental album of man-on-the-street types, are able to recognize them at a glance. That this is no mean achievement is amply evidenced in a glance at a few of those interviewed on this program in the past. Professor Louis T. Masson, of Buffalo, N. Y., decided that the program would be much better if he did the question-asking, and Johnson and Butterworth had a bad few minutes trying to answer the professor's "stumpers." The audience liked it so well, however, that the professor has been asked back for a return engagement. A husband, in the doghouse at home with a wife who refused to listen to his explanations, wanted to broadcast. He'd prepared his own questions which, when answered, would tell his wife—a "Vox Pop" fan—what he'd been trying to tell her for three days. The "Vox Pop" boys fixed him right up! On this page Radio Guide gives listeners Parks Johnson and Wally Butterworth's album of various man-in-the-street types they've encountered, as posed by famous radio stars.

MAKING LOVE!

MAKING MUSIC!

"MAKING" HOLLYWOOD!

MAKING FUN!

Known to sports lovers everywhere is the crisp, sparkling voice of Bill Stern, veteran NBC sports announcer and author of this piece, whose snappy radio reporting brings the biggest sporting events into living-rooms of American homes

SO! YOU WANT TO STICK YOUR NECK OUT?

Then, would-be sportscaster, get the inside dope from radio's best

BY BILL STERN

EACH year hundreds of listeners—regardless of their present positions—write in to ask how they should go about becoming sports announcers. We try to answer these letters as ably as we can, but our time is limited and our answers are never as detailed as writers want. So, for their benefit, RADIO GUME is permitting us to answer—for the first time to our knowledge, completely, thoroughly and with no reservations—exactly what the qualifications of a sports announcer really are, based upon my six years of sportscasting for NBC.

I would say that the first requirement of a good sports announcer is a good background in sports. This is common sense. I don't mean that he should be an expert in any particular game or that he will necessarily have had to play in many games, but he must know sports, appreciate the effort which goes into them and be possessed of a natural love for anything competitive. From his schooling he should have a good vocabulary, be able to speak correctly, write intelligently and read with the greatest proficiency. These, of course, are the obvious requirements. Let's go behind the scenes, where the audience never penetrates. That's where the sportscaster's job actually begins. There hours, sometimes months, of preparation are necessary to make the broadcast interesting, full of facts and figures to set off the actual description.

I average approximately four hours of broadcasting a week, but nearly seventy hours are used in preparation and correcting available records for future reference. To cite a specific case, we'll take the recent A. A. U. Track and Field Meet at Memorial Stadium in Lincoln, Nebr.

Three hundred and fifty athletes from every section of the country were entered in the meet. Many of them were comparative unknowns, competing in a major event for the first time. There was little information about them available. So we wrote to 412 coaches over the country asking for past records and achievements of men they were likely to send to the games. This was five months before the actual games, mind you. From the mountain of mail we made a file card for each athlete. With this file at my side, I was able to discuss his career with authority and accuracy. Later, A. A. U. officials requested and received a duplicate of my files for their own reference.

You must be a stickler for details, for small details which might easily be overlooked may mean the difference between a clear picture for the listener and just another radio broadcast. In the mile race at Princeton last June when Sidney Wooderson raced America's best milers I noticed that, as the runners came into the final turn, Wooderson faltered in his stride momentarily. I reported this to my listeners. It looked like a tiny detail, but it turned out to be the highlight of the race—unique among all other mile races of the season.

ENUNCIATION is important, too, and something which must be learned. It cannot be picked up in any other way, for certain syllables are notoriously bad for radio. The letter "s," for example, is difficult because you almost whistle it. And remember never to get so excited that you become incoherent.

Don't over-dramatize. Take the sensational first round of the Louis-Galento fight. Here the entire sporting world was caught unawares by the vicious left-handed attack of Tony Galento. No announcer in the world needed to inject any dramatics into that situation, for here was a heavyweight champion of the world on the verge of being dethroned—one blow away from it. You can imagine the crowd's reaction; after describing it briefly, we kept as quiet as possible and let the audience hear the crowd tear its lungs out.

Another important consideration is your own willingness to take chances. You must consider yourself last and the show first. If you're afraid of flying, if you don't like fast automobile rides, you have no place in radio. I can cite numerous cases where it was a matter of risking my neck or missing the broadcast.

At the Yale-Harvard crew races this spring, for example, I did most of the broadcast from the top of our mobile unit, which in turn was atop a flat-car on a train doing a nice clip. And me with nothing to hold onto but words.

Much has been said and written about the accuracy of the sports broadcaster. Personally, I believe that sportscasters are no better or worse than the average reporter. I remember the time I was doing an auto race several years ago at the newly opened Roosevelt Raceway at Mineola, Long Island. Material had been gathered for weeks in advance, and the favorite in the race was the late Floyd Roberts, killed in the Memorial Day races at Indianapolis this year.

A bright-red car seemed to be trying to defy the law of gravity in circling the track; by referring to my charts I knew it belonged to Roberts. So I told my listeners what a daring ride Roberts was giving. "I'm doing all right, ain't I?" It was Roberts, there at my elbow. He had turned the car over to his mechanic after one of his trips to the pit for fuel and was relaxing for a moment. He always kidded me about it at later meetings.

In broadcasting sports you must be absolutely impartial, letting none of your own preference creep into your work, for you are reaching a partisan audience. And don't be flippant. Audiences resent it. At a recent Harvard-Yale football game I commented on the water wagon the Harvard team possessed and said it was nothing like the old oaken bucket they used down South. Letters from southerners who felt it was a reflection on their economic straits flooded me.

Most important is the ability to ad-lib. I mean the ability to extemporize on the air as though you were reading from a script. This ability is the real difference between a fair announcer and a good one. Its importance will become more evident with the advance of television. In sports, where delays may occur at any time—times-out, injuries, etc.—you've got to ad lib.

THE final requisite is the ability to think clearly, quickly, intelligently, no matter what the circumstances. Decisions must be made on the spur of the moment—seconds count—while you're broadcasting. At Lincoln, Nebr., we were describing the quarter-mile championship event for the National A. A. U. title. We had fifty-one seconds before we had to be off the air. The race took 48 3/10 seconds. As the runners hit the finish line we called first, second, third and gave the unofficial time, then said, "This has come to you from the National Broadcasting Company." No race ever finished more on schedule than that one did. Had it been a close finish, we would have had to hang onto the air until we had made certain of the winners, for NBC has an unwritten rule—never start something you can't finish.

And that's as good a place to end up as any—never start something you can't finish.

Bill Stern may be heard Sunday over an NBC network at:
EST 9:45 p.m. — CST 8:45 p.m.
MST 7:45 p.m. — PST 6:45 p.m.

WOB-Confidentially Yours

Star Sparkles . . .

Harry Salter, maestro of "Hobby Lobby" and
"Mr. District Attorney," has a full day on Sunday. With both these shows, their repeat broadcasts and rehearsals he puts in a fourteen-hour day.

Chuck Grant, eleven-year-old "Scattergood Baines" actor, handles roles from ages of five to fourteen. He is studying under Forrest Lewis, network star, who has helped him master three roles already.

Theater-goers of a generation ago who saw
"Way Down East," one of the most popular melodramas of its type then, will remember Josephine Hull, star of "Meet Miss Julia." She played the part of Sweet Anna Moore, the wronged heroine, for one whole season. At that time Mrs. Hull's name was Josephine Sherwood and she got the role because she was a good mimic and could impersonate the original star, Phoebe Davis.

Ed Prentiss, Ned Holden in "Guiding Light," is qualifying for membership in the Polar Bears, national organization of year-round swimmers. He swims daily in Lake Michigan.

Frank Luther will probably bob up as another of radio's triple-threat entertainers. He's now heard with the Luther-Layman singers, announces "Dr. Susan" and is being set for a feature role in a new drama series.

Hirsch, Miss Dickenson and the choir, Where the River Shannon Flows. The choir will sing The
We Meet Again, the ensemble will play You Are My Song, and the duet, Some Day I'll Find You, will be offered. The orchestra will play Song Without Words and Canerbrake.

Much of the music heard on the "Screen Guld Theater" is being written each week by its music director, Oscar Bradley. He's been associated with symphony, opera, musical stage, pictures and radio during his career.

All who go on the Dave Elman "Hobby Lobby" office pay-roll must possess an active hobby.

Martha Scott, pretty star of "The Career of Alice Blair," is currently appearing on stage, screen and radio.

Wynn Murray, singing star of the new Fred
Allen Show, has an unusually large repertoire.
She knew sixteen complete opera scores before she reached her sixteenth birthday.

Elsie Hitz, star of "Ellen Randolph," was getting forty dollars a week from a Cleveland stock company at the age of fourteen.

Although Dave Elman's "Hobby Lobby" has been on the air for more than two years, Elman says that his waiting-list of available and unusual hobbyists numbers more than 200,000.

DISCARD YOUR OLD AERIAL
It is Most Likely Corroded and Has Poor or Loose Nuts Connections
MA MORE BUZZES, CLICKS and shorts from summer rains and winter snow and sleet when using an F & H Capacity Aerial Eliminator. Anyone can connect it to a moment's time to the radio set - occupies only 1 1/2 inch by 4 inch space behind the set, yet enables your radio to operate without an aerial and tune in stations over the entire broadcast band (frequencies and short wave channels).
ELIMINATE THE AERIAL FOE GOOD
Attach this unit to your radio - make your set complete in itself - forget aerial wires and troubles - move your set anywhere - no more tedious climbing, untwisting lead-in or aerial wires.
NOT NEW - VALUE ALREADY PROVED
On the market five years, 100,000 customers to 118, and foreign countries in use from the Arctic region of Norway to the Tropics of Africa. Each factory tested on actual long distance reception. Cannot hear test - Easily connected to any radio, including radio having no ground or radio line double aerial. Note: It will not operate on battery or automobile radio.
5 DAYS TRIAL
Mail coupon at once. Pay postman $1.00 plus a few pennies postage on delivery. If not entirely satisfied, return within five days and your dollar will be refunded without question.
F & H Radio Laboratories, Dept. 111, Fargo, N. Dak.
Send F & H Capacity Aerial Eliminator with postman $1 plus law return postage. If not pleased will return within 5 days for a refund. Check 5.
