is heard Mondays through Fridays at 2:45 p. m. from KXX. "Beyond These Valleys" and "Kitty Kelly" are off the air, having been replaced by other "strip shows."

Mrs. Joyce Harwood, 5802 Ethel, Van Nuys, Calif.

THE EAR INSPIRES THE PEN—

M. A. Armstrong, 8955 May court, South Gate, Calif.

Sirs: May I, like thousands of others, pay tribute to a grand publication—Radio Life! The "Ear Inspires the Pen" department is one of my favorite pages. In issue of Sept. 29 I noticed an Editorial Note to Mrs. B. M. McCoy of San Diego, that Art Baker and Art Shank were two and different persons. May I make a correction? Art Shank is the "ghost" of our popular Art Baker. It would be interesting to know how many letters you got on this correction. Here is hoping you will keep printing such swell news.

such law breaking. I am glad the west coast is not like the Old South and hope we will continue to uphold American democratic traditions.

Ed. Note: Radio Life editors, reluctant to engage in controversy, merely point out that justice springs from the consciences of the social body. The life of a superior human being was threatened by one inferior, as all must realize who saw the newsreel pictures of Mrs. de Tristan and her son, who heard Radio's description of the reunion between mother and son. Far from encouraging lynching, Radio Life poses: Some human beings are degenerate animals in human form. One invokes no law save preservation when attacked by rattlesnakes.

Mrs. D. Kowal, 761 North El Molino, Pasadena, Calif.

Sirs: I have been getting Radio Life from the first copy and I like it more and more in every way. Could you please tell me what has happened to the following programs:

- "Kitty Kelly."
"Beyond These Valleys."
"Scattergood Baines."
"The Heart of Julia Blake."

These are not listed and are not on their old times.

Ed. Note: "Heart of Julia Blake" is heard at 9:30 a. m. Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday, KFI. "Scattergood"

Winifred Churchill, 1582 West Forty-sixth street, Los Angeles.

Sirs: Radio Life is the most concise and up-to-the-minute guide to good listening. I formerly paid 10 cents each week for a guide which did not come up to Radio Life in any respect, save, perhaps, on stock on which printed, but that's nothing to worry over.

What spoils a program in my opinion is shuffling of players in the everlasting chain of meller—drama. Drammers strung like a chain of cobble stones along the hours of daylight. Many a serial has been crossed off my list because shifts in personnel have made the story unreal and unconvincing.

"One Man's Family" remains as fresh and convincing as ever, because week after week, year after year, the same cast appears in roles they created.

Acting Time

"Career of Alice Blair" and "Meet Miss Julia" programs on the west coast are luring well known actors from the camera to the mike. Wally Maher seen in "Edison the Man" and Verna Felton of "Northwest Passage" are among those who lead this double screen-radio life. Verna Felton is known to millions of listeners as Dennis Day's mother on the Jack Benny program.

Program Changes This Week

Editor's Note: As rapidly as they are furnished by Log Editors of principal broadcasting networks and major western independents, complete program and time changes will be noted, week to week, in this section. Readers are informed, however, that even noted changes may not hold true, because of broadcasting problems, and nearly overwhelming pressure of world affairs, to which the Radio industry, in interests of public service, sacrifices time, money and, in some cases, programs, that ideals of public service shall be maintained. "NT" means "New Time."

Table with columns: Change, Program, Station, Time, Day. Lists various programs like 'I'm An American', 'American Pilgrimage', 'Mobilization for Human Needs', etc., with their respective stations and broadcast times.

Radio Romances

Romance moves about its business in radio as it does in other walks and activities of life. This week a Radio Life reporter sauntered on production sets in various broadcast studios, came home with following "romantical" tales:

A song sung by a soprano was responsible for one of radio's longest-lived romances. The song: "Throw Out the Lifeline," from a choir in Peoria, Ill. The soprano was Marian Driscoll, whose high, clear notes love-pounded on heart of James Jordan. After the service, he met her. Years later they were married. You know them as Fibber McGee and Molly.

A show girl and a juggler bumped into each other backstage. He introduced himself as John F. Sullivan. She told him she was named after an American town. They got married. You know them as Fred Allen and Portland Hoffa, the "Mr. and Missus" stars of Texaco Star Theater.

A CBS receptionist got a phone call for one of the CBS newscasters. She couldn't locate him in the CBS building but took a message to deliver to him. They liked each other on sight. You know them as Kit and Bob Trout.

A saxophone player was introduced to a movie star. He was just starting what was to turn out to be a radio career. She was at the height of her own fame. The attraction was immediate. Ceremony followed. She, Dorothy Janis; he, Wayne King. They're Mr. and Mrs.

A busy Manhattan actress wanted to make a phone call. The phone booth was occupied by a harassed young man who talked too long to suit her. She knocked impatiently on the door.

"I don't want to wait all day," she told him. When he came out of the phone booth, she found she didn't have to. They're radio's most famous husband and wife team on dozens of network shows including the Court of Missing Heirs and the Original Good Will Hour. Last week they had a baby. They're Mr. and Mrs. Carl Frank personally. Professionally they're Carl Frank and Barbara Weeks.

Feeding Europe

One inescapable consequence of mass murder is problem of feeding human beings who remain alive but find eating a besetting puzzle in lands food-shortaged by war.

To lumbering, good natured United States, sprawling giant of the western world, for weeks now international sob sisters have directed pleas for aid to starving peoples across seas. Abetting these are many a hypermetropic American whose eyes, horizon- and sea-scanning, find no concern of theirs in millions of

The Maestro

The NBC Music Appreciation hour, conducted by the famed Dr. Walter Damrosch, again will be released over stations on the Pacific coast beginning Friday, Oct. 18, when it will be heard from 11 a. m. to 12 noon, PST, over the coast-to-coast NBC-Blue network.

American unemployed, filthy tenement districts, grim poverty in land's corners.

In stores and shops, homes and offices, factories and streets, Americans for weeks have pondered sympathetically plight of overseas millions, sought to learn, out of war's confusions and complications, just where and in what degree was the responsibility theirs for feeding peoples in an emergency, which Americans had no part in creating.

For all such, "People's Platform," Saturday, Oct. 19 at 4 to 4:30 p. m. (unless football schedules interfere) over CBS-KNX will bring four average, as yet unnamed, Americans, in attempt to determine America's desires on an issue expected to appear with increasing frequency on front pages and airplanes of the nation.

Saving America

Engrossed are thoughtful Americans in these times of international stress and strain. Puzzled are they also as on one day a Dies goes Fifth Columnist witch-hunting and, on another, daily papers announce Administration aid to Red Russia's army, posing question: Is it now fashionable and patriotic to be a Communist and Fifth Columnist, or must all good citizens still proscribe these Dies-dyed pursuits?

Coming to grips with facts for America is "Wake Up, America," Monday night, KIJ program at 9:30 originating from Mutual's Cleveland station WHK.

On Oct. 21 at 9:30 p. m. the program sired by American Economic Foundation, will have present the first woman to appear on airing. She is Dr. Ruth Alexander, writer-economist. With Dr. Alfred

P. Haake, Chicago, Dr. Alexander will try to answer question "What Will Save America?" Listeners, tuning in, may learn what America has to be saved from (if program develops logically). A woman of surpassing beauty, Dr. Alexander is confounding to her sex, combining weighty sociological cerebrations with outward charm and manner. She gained Doctorate for thesis: "The Value and Distributional Theory in the U. S. S. R."

Real Life

Agreed are most radio writers and producers that the closer to real life are radio dramas, the more appeal such programs have for listening millions.

For example: The nation is stunned by repertorial disclosures of Murder, Inc. wonders what is behind sensational stories of murder for profits and at a price. How did it organize and where and why?

Behind the headlines is a creamy crop of plots and counter-plots, as does many a writer well know. One such writer, Eddie Byron, producer of "Mr. District Attorney," makes his air thrillers do double duty in entertainment and exposure of rackets.

Readers of PM, New York's original venture in daily journalism, a non-advertisement-taking 5-cent magazine format newspaper, became "chicken allergic" in recent months. This newspaper unfolded hideous details of sick chickens sold by racket-minded butchers, caused ire to rise in political bosoms, the bosom owners doing little, if anything, to stem march of racket into pocketbooks of public, and to prevent intestinal maladies from innocent eating of bad chicken meat.

Writer Byron was on top of this scandal, expects to be on top of other scandals, to air them dramatically, to make his program one of facts as well as fancies.

Shirley Temple

Wondering last week if Shirley Temple needed special coaching as a radio dramatic actress, Lux Theater producer Cecil B. DeMille telephoned film directors on past Shirley Temple pictures before starting rehearsals of the Lux Radio Theater play, "The Littlest Rebel."

After talks DeMille concluded Shirley is capable actress, knows how to read a line as well as a grown-up actress, requires no special concessions or handling. Lux Radio Theater's musical director, Louis Silvers, who conducted the music for most of the Temple movies, told DeMille to look forward to smooth rehearsals. On picture lots Shirley is known as "One-take Shirley." She rarely blows a line, is talented dramatically and musically, isn't self-conscious. Biggest test came when she faced a 60-piece orchestra. Shirley was not bothered.

Afra Agreement

Actors, singers and announcers on radio network sustaining programs are to receive pay increases under the terms of a tentative agreement reached Wednesday by representatives of the American Federation of Radio Artists and the three major broadcasting chains. The agreement, which is subject to ratification by the union's 10,500 members in all parts of the country, was negotiated through the intervention of the New York State Mediation board after the radio artists had threatened a strike. Jules S. Freund, executive secretary of the state board, said the accord covered all points of difference between the union and the National, Columbia and Mutual Broadcasting systems, but he declined to make public the terms pending their submission to the union membership. From other sources, it was learned that the agreement provides higher pay for all classifications of radio artists on sustaining programs. The negotiations did not affect sponsored broadcasts, which are covered by a separate contract.

Chef's Celebration

Success of many a product sold to and consumed by west coast millions is name and methods back of products. Coupled with name and methods must be personalities whose words are accepted on basis of reputation and ability.

Particularly is this true of food products, among whose various manufacturers and processors competition is a perennial warfare of improved quality, advertising competition and scramble for public favor.

Smart then, fortnight ago, were Arden Dairies and Signet (Fruits in Salad) makers. These two companies became sponsors of Joseph Milani (Chef Milani) internationally known culinary expert. Proudest boast of Chef Milani is:

"I will approve no product I cannot believe in, use for myself and learn the truth about. I have a reputation among women for honest kitchen and food advice. I cannot risk this."

Thus, last week from KMPC, Chef Milani, happy with sponsorship of two great firms at close of first year's airings, did what his good conscience told him was right to do, after turning away less worthy sponsors in course of year: Plugged Arden and Signet, brought, with Italian dialect, products of these companies sharply into buying consciousness of hundreds of thousands of his followers.

Communist Airing

Earl Browder is the Communist candidate for the presidency of the United States. For Communist Browder, going has been tough as state after state has begun pincher process to squeeze from ballot listings those whose political and social philosophies are considered inimical to democratic government.

Last week, however, Communist chief Browder had cause for some satisfaction. Despite growing state-by-state opposition to his beliefs there were (of last week's record) two radio stations in the land which refused Browder and his party broadcast facilities. These were station WCAU in Philadelphia and WCKY in Cincinnati, which, to FCC authorities by implication said, "Go lump it," thus by implication defying land's law which states: "If any licensee shall permit any person who is a legally qualified candidate for public office to use a broadcasting station, he shall afford equal opportunities to all other such candidates for that office in the use of such broadcasting station . . ."

Radio is compelled to give equal time to all, Communist or otherwise. Forty-seven stations abide by the law. Browder may talk over CBS, NBC and Mutual and regional networks. CBS disliked legal necessity, gave Browder time while holding nose. Thus does democracy still function, but with a question posed: Need airtime be given anybody whose beliefs are such as to inhibit or proscribe ultimate continuance of free speech?

Hayes Lightning

Fortnight ago Sunday to Pacific coast listeners the airing of Helen Hayes' theater offering went along without a hitch. In mid-western United States, however, thousands of listeners wondered what happened in last two minutes of broadcast. Helen Hayes went off air abruptly as show reached its climax. This happened:

A bolt of lightning zig-zagged from stormy midwestern heavens, traced a wicked arcing course to earth, found an entry point on tip of Detroit's station WJR of Columbia's system, smashed into that station's transmitter in celestial disrespect to Helen Hayes. For two minutes remaining of broadcast, engineers vainly sought to repair damage, at length gave up.

Not to be beaten by lightning, WJR wired CBS New York headquarters, asked for resume of play's closing minutes, included these in news broadcast later that night.

In play Helen Hayes was impending fourth victim of homicidal maniac. She tells him coffee he has just drunk is poisoned. It was not, but her story is so convincing he dies of heart attack. . . . At that point came lightning to add note of sinister realism by shorting out station, to give Miss Hayes a case of jitters she could not have essayed in the role she was playing.

Home Wrecker

Amusing to most radio audiences is soundman. This worthy whose job calls for more finesse and skill than is required in many another exacting trade, is often a show to himself, adding to any broadcast a sideshow flavor.

Fortnight ago an audience watching and hearing a "Blondie" broadcast went home certain it had its money's worth. Script called for Dagwood to wreck another's house. To do this and at the same time carry on his lines, Dagwood (Arthur Lake) had need of CBS Soundman Cliff Thorsness. Soundman Thorsness had time of his life as did audience. For several minutes Thorsness tore about on stage hammer-pounding, demolishing cracker and strawberry boxes, sheets of glass, dishes.

At scene's end studio looked as if a small gale had come and gone. On floors were strewn 34 crushed crates, shattered bits of 75 panes of glass, crumpled-up carcasses of 175 strawberry boxes and here and there jagged pieces of five dozen dishes. In one corner at end of this one-man berserking sat Soundman Cliff Thorsness, panting and wet with sound perspiration.

Stars and Mike

Besides voices, the air has been full of radio stars themselves. Gene Autry made his horse, Champ, a rival of Pegasus when he bundled it into a plane and hopped for New York City and a rodeo directly, after his Sunday CBS show.

Charles Correll, who plays Andy in "Amos 'n' Andy," won the Aviation Country Clubs' navigation contest from Hollywood to Del Monte last week, piloting his own plane.

Al Pearce flew to St. Louis to ringmaster a Variety club's benefit, and Nan Grey soared to New York to visit her husband, Jockey Jack Westrope, as soon as she had broadcast "Those We Love" Monday.

And it all was climaxed by the Army air corps at Riverside, recently, when Brig. Gen. Rush B. Lincoln made a master sergeant of Edgar Bergen's dummy, Charlie McCarthy. That was voluntary. You can hear about conscription on one of the networks any evening at 7:15 p. m. PST, when draft board orders are read from Washington headquarters for the benefit of local directors.

Marriage Gamble

If you get married you're a gambler. John J. Anthony, director of the Original Good Will hour, says it's true.

According to a survey made by Anthony, you have a 100 to 65 chance of remaining married more than a year. Out of 100 couples who get married each year, 35 end in divorce or separation.

Other interesting statistics:

More than 17 per cent of all marriages end in divorce, and more than 35 per cent in separation.

Couple who have been spliced for more than 30 years account for 3 per cent of the annual output of divorce mills.

More than 1,800,000 men, during the past ten years, have had to hand out alimony awards of $15 per week in the United States alone.

Housewife's Note

A program for housewives was inaugurated over KECA this week when Mildred Van began a series of daily programs, each a half-hour in length, devoted to unusual facts about the daily bread. She'll tell how certain foods received their name, why we eat the type of things we do and other interesting facts about the kitchen.

Assisting Miss Van, who has been a regular feature over other Los Angeles stations for the past several years, will be Bob Mitchell at the KECA organ, and Marvin Dale, baritone.

The program will be heard at 9 a. m. Monday through Friday over KECA.

Royal Post

To assure advance planning and coordination in new radio broadcasting services to facilitate their commercial introduction or development, a new executive post was created last week by National Broadcasting company. New activity will combine under one direction necessary development work in programming and general public service in the fields of television, frequency modulation, facsimile and short wave broadcasting.

The new executive post will be filled by John F. Royal, heretofore in charge of programs for NBC.

Free Plane

"Wings of Destiny," KFI's new, weekly half-hour aviation mystery drama starring Carlton Kadell in the leading role, will be heard each Friday at 7 p. m.

Kadell, formerly a leading Hollywood announcer, is supported by Betty Arnold in the leading feminine role.

As a highlight of each week's program, a new airplane will be given away to some member of the listening audience. The ships are to be Piper Cub cabin monoplanes, and each winner will be additionally awarded a complete course of flying instructions.

"Wings of Destiny" presents each episode as a complete story, with the same cast of characters continuing throughout the series.

Trivia

Penny "Blondie" Singleton wants to see a team of referees play football because they never seem to miss the passes tossed them between plays of the college games.

Sparks: Laurence Olivier and Clark Gable have deals with their wives to keep away from their radio studios and to listen at home whenever either of the couples broadcast. So Vivien Leigh and Carole Lombard heard the "Silver Theater" and "Screen Guild Theater" programs at home that Sunday, to the great dismay of stagehands. . . . Jack Benny and Mary Livingstone as well as Burns and Allen, have joined the cast of Charlot's Revue on the El Capitan stage in Hollywood for the benefit of British relief. Fanny Brice was already there. . . . The famous poem, "Casey at the Bat," has been inherited from DeWolf Hopper by Junior, who did it on his mother's radio show, "Hedda Hopper's Hollywood" while the world series was on. . . . Rosemary DeCamp of "Dr. Christian" and Waymond Wadcliffe of the Al Pearce show are to help Ramona turkey growers celebrate the oncoming of Thanksgiving at a Nov. 2 festival there. . . . On the eve of his trip to the Chicago premiere of "Northwest Mounted," Cecil B. DeMille announced plans for making a series of films for those dime-in-slot machines. . . . Bob Burns has a new son, 8 pounds, 13 ounces. Stephen Foster Burns has a sister, a brother and a half-brother.

Radio to Films: Blondie's Bill Goodwin will act as radio announcer in RKO's "Let's Find a Song." . . . Benny Rubin is added to Bob Crosby's cast at same studio. . . . Cliff Nazarro will double-talk a sequence with Hopalong Cassidy. . . . Orson Welles has hired Everett Sloane, George Coulouris and Agnes Moorehead in addition to his other colleagues of radio days for "Citizen Kane."

Films to Radio: Shirley Temple. She's doing her first commercial broadcast for Cecil B. DeMille's "Lux Radio Theater" in "The Little Rebel." The only hold-outs left are Greta Garbo and the Duchess of Windsor—and the microphones are closing in on them.

Burns' Fourth

As the hour approached last week for the birth of his fourth child, Bob Burns kept in constant touch with his home from the Kraft Music hall. The National Broadcasting company kept a line open from Burns' dressing room to his home in the San Fernando valley. Through a complicated "conference call" arrangement with the telephone company, the office of Burns' family physician was also on the wire.

Draft Benefit

All employees of the Radio Corporation of America and its subsidiaries, of six months or more standing, who may be called or who may volunteer for service in the armed forces of the United States, will be paid the difference between what they earn in their last month of employment and what they receive for their first month's service.

This announcement was made this week by David Sarnoff, president of RCA, following the regular meeting of the corporation's board of directors.

'Woman in White'

"She came from Alabama . . ." but not, like Stephen Foster's immortal song character, with a banjo on her knee. Instead, it's probable that Miss Betty Lou Gerson clutched a radio script in her hand that day in 1931 when she came from Birmingham, Ala., to Chicago to study dramatics at the Goodman theater and eventually enter the radio broadcasting field. A capable actress, in both character and ingenue parts, it wasn't long before Betty Lou found herself busier than even she had dreamed, holding down the top spot in many important dramatic programs. Currently, Miss Betty Lou Gerson brings the title role of Karen Adams to life in "The Woman in White," popular radio drama heard Mondays through Fridays on station KNX at 10:15 a. m.

The directors also decided, Mr. Sarnoff said, that, in addition to all other rights and privileges to be provided by the corporation under the selective service act, the corporation will continue in force for one year the group life insurance of those who may be called or who may volunteer for service.

Farmers' Life

Never easy even with best of conditions is life of the average farmer anywhere. Old world soil tillers, caught between millstones of military devastation of labor scenes and conscription of products by dictatorial governments find little to be cheerful about.

Had an Old World farmer followed

Charley Stookey, CBS director of agricultural activities, on a recent 28-state trip, he would have been astounded at what he saw.

Such a farmer would have seen:

Great dams impounding waters of a score of rivers. Beneath the dams, hydroelectric power-houses. From power-houses, like a spider web, lines stringing out over farm lands carrying power (or being made ready for power transmission); efficiently conducted Farm Bureaus and government agencies lending non-dictatorial help to solution of crop problems; tractors with radios; electric appliances in farm homes, electric lights and automobiles, a growing development of mechanized equipment.

He would have learned:

That America girding for possible war seeks farm protection by price stabilizations to insure reasonable reward for farming efforts. He would contrast these typically American superiorities over the old world, conclude that the American farmer may work hard, but that there is a point to his working.

During his tour farmer-directing Stookey learned that with possible exception of apple and prune markets (hit by war) American farm outlook is optimistic. He spoke with hundreds, all agreed they would rather work out their lives where they were than seek other fields. Of interest to Stookey and news to many was discovery that New England farmers still employ oxen for plowing. In California he failed to find a single horse or mule on ranches he visited—their work superseded by tractors and automobiles.

Martha Tests

Close on the heels of the successful "The Howards of Virginia," Martha Scott of "Career of Alice Blair" is making tests for the role originally assigned to Barbara Stanwyck in "Three Cheers for Miss Bishop," the Richard Roland production based on Bess Streeter Aldrich's book.

Script Collector

There isn't a radio drama or serial in which Joan Blaine has starred for which Joan doesn't have the original script. It's a hangover from an incident which happened a long time ago, when Joan mislaid a script which contained an important passage.

Elmer Blurt

Celebrating his 12th year on the air, funnyman Al Pearce (CBS, Fridays) received this lovely gift from his colleagues—an Elmer Blurt chaparral, specially suited to his role.

The Man of Big Town

To Edward G. Robinson Tolerance Is Something to Live and Breathe

The editor of "Big Town" goes to work. Here is Edward G. Robinson, star of CBS (Cashmere Bonquet) "Big Town" really getting first hand knowledge of editing a big town paper. Left is Robinson, center is Radio Editor Ben Gross and, right, City Editor Robert Shand of the New York Daily News. Robinson and his leading lady, Ona Munson, KXN, 6:30 p. m., Wednesday.

THE 6:30 to 7 o'clock airing of "Big Town" was over. In KXN's auditorium the departing audience made a rustling stir on its way out. Backstage Leith Stevens, orchestra leader, still stood and looked down on the score of the last musical bridge that had introduced the last "Big Town" scene of the evening. This was Edward G. Robinson thanking his audience and telling listeners what was to be expected of "Big Town" during the fourth season. This was Ona Munson, summery-blue-sky-eyed, smiling appreciatively. This was the cast standing respectfully and attentively as a master showman brought Rinso a little closer to the kitchen of non-users. This was man drawing a vast listening audience deeper into a magical spell. This was the spell of a man who ceases to be Edward G. Robinson, actor, when he steps before the microphone—but becomes Steven Wilson, racket-busting newspaper man and intolerance-fighting crusader of Big Town.

And, now, the premiere of "Big Town" was over. Edward G. Robinson, the constantly hand-washing editor of Five Star Final, the patient and tolerant Dr. Pasteur, came vigorously into the wings.

"Hi! Eddie. Wan' an apple?" A cast member slotted a nickel into the backstage apple vendor. He tossed the apple across stage. Robinson caught it deftly.

"Here," He tossed it to me. "You take it. I'll get another."

We perched ourselves on the flat top of a turntable and made noises for a minute. Robinson smacked his lips gustily.

"Honey." A beautiful woman turned from a group. "Honey, take a bite of this. Now—here is an apple."

Mrs. Robinson nibbled a taste with becoming daintiness.

"They are good. I'll get some on the way home. Manny would like them."

"Mr. Robinson," I said, "this is an interview."

Robinson looked sad. "I guessed as much."

"It'll be an easy one. What would you care most to say to Radio Life-ians?" "Gosh, I don't know. What should I say?"

"Let me give you a start. Tell me and I'll tell them. To start: Is it mere coincidence that you are at this stage of your career playing parts that seem to point a moral?"

Robinson grinned widely. "You mean being Steve Wilson and always putting the skids under some thug with larceny in his heart?"

"That's fair enough, I guess."

"To tell you the truth I like Steven Wilson. I think he's the greatest guy a man could come across in a thousand years of Sundays."

"Why, Mr. Robinson?"

"Why? Because he stands for something. What he stands for is straightforward dealing, fair play, tolerance . . ." His voice went up a note (just like you remember it does when the dramatic going is exciting) . . . "That's it! Tolerance!"

"And what does tolerance mean to you, Mr. Robinson?"

Robinson's answer to the question must be taken as a measure of the man and the artist he is. His face sagged under an instant recollection of world madness. He looked at me with a strange shine of fervor in his eyes.

"Mean to me?" He came down from the turntable and stood up straight. "It's something that's got deep down into the marrow of me. It's something I've tried to put into every picture and every radio and stage play I've been in for the last few years. It's something . . ."

He seemed to choke up with emotion. "Something you feel you ought to tell folks about . . ."

He was grateful for the prompting, but said wistfully:

"I wish I could. I guess I could act it out better than say it. But, what I mean is this . . . Tolerance is a quality of good humanity. It's the respecting of laws, principles of right, the respecting of persons who respect themselves and others, who are sharing this world with all others in it. It's something of living for each other, giving to the process of being a human being, those attributes of understanding, kindness and helpfulness that distinguish human beings from lesser beings." He stopped, apparently astonished at his own vehemence. He smiled a wry smile of apology. "I guess I sure carried on," he said. "But, honestly that's the way I feel. Right now the way I feel about everything I can only say we've got to keep tolerant in our country, and keep in mind that come hades or high water the nearest and dearest thing we have is our country. If we lose tolerance here it is lost everywhere."

Mrs. Robinson came over. "Don't get excited, Eddie. Eat your apple." He looked at the apple in his hand as though, somehow, it had just arrived there out of nowhere at all.

"When I last saw you, Mr. Robinson, Manny was just a baby. How old is he now?"

His eyes kindled. "Manny's seven and a half now."

"What are your plans for him?"

"That'll be up to him. All I want now is that Edward G. Robinson, Junior, grow up into a self respecting manhood. I want him to be fair and above board with everybody. That's all a father can expect, I guess. Kids usually grow up and find out for themselves what they want to do. A dad can only point a good way for them to live . . ."

"You really put yourself into your parts, don't you?"

He chuckled reprovingly.

"On the contrary," he said, "I put the part into me. I mean I forget Edward Robinson and become whatever the part is. It's true, though, the part of Steve Wilson is real to me. In these times I don't think it will hurt any one of us to be like Steven Wilson. His only intolerance is for intolerance. And that's forgivable."

I let him go then, thinking as he went out with Mrs. Robinson that I certainly didn't get the interview I had in mind when I went backstage. Rather hazily I recalled that I had tabulated a list of harmless questions, routine ones about careers, parts he liked best, what he liked best to do besides acting which, certainly, he does like and does well. At least I shouldn't have forgotten to ask him what his hobby was. An usher came up.

"Mr. Robinson asked that you get this." He handed me a note.

"If you ever want to see some swell paintings, come out to the house some afternoon. Mrs. G. still makes coffee that sets you up like a million. Eddie."

Well, there it was, almost everything. Big Town is Edward G. Robinson and Edward G. Robinson is a man with a vision for his time and role in his time. He's for tolerance and a democracy alive to itself, its blessings and its threats. "Big Town" scripts this season will reflect this. The shows will be sound and non-preaching drama fare. They will be entertaining and helpful to Americans who have grown a bit stultified with talk of tolerance. And, for a reason: "Big Town" shows will be husky chunks out of the history of the democracy, a nation that grew big because its founders fought, like Edward G. Robinson, against the one thing that can break any people, intolerance.

We remembered there was much to say about Leith Stevens and his splendid musical scoring of Big Town. We left the studio, making a note that we would do better by Leith in a later article.—D. S.

Mrs. Niles Announces

Ruthrauff & Ryan has assigned Ken Niles as announcer for its Rinso program, "Big Town," starring Edward G. Robinson, which started its fourth CBS year Oct. 9. Mrs. Niles (Nadia) will work with her husband in handling the Rinso commercials. This is the first time that a plan of this kind has been used in connection with commercials and should lend a flavor of domestic authority.

Bernie's Cigar

Ben Bernie's ever-present cigar is neither a mike mannerism nor a superstition . . . he just can't work unless a cigar is tucked someplace between his teeth.

No matter what Emily Post says, these boys will keep their elbows on the table during Chicago Roundtable discussions. The general idea is to keep the speakers in microphone position. Left to right are: Walter H. C. Laves, associate professor in political science, University of Chicago; Harold Deutsch, history professor, University of Minnesota; and Hugh M. Cole, military expert, U.C.

WORLD ON YOUR DIAL

By Earl G. De Haven

ALTHOUGH the Netherlands is now German occupied territory and the far-famed PCJ at Eindhoven is no longer in operation, stations of the Dutch Colonial empire continue to serve their audiences in the same way that a store which is remodeling still advises—"business as usual." Stations of the Nironi Broadcasting system with headquarters in Batavia may still be heard DAILY through their principal short wave outlets PLP on 11 mc. and PMN on 10.26 mc. with identical programs. Both of these Java stations may be heard quite consistently practically every month of the year here on the Pacific coast. Regular transmissions of PLP and PMN begin at 2 a. m. with a variety program continuing until sign-off time which is 7:30 a. m. Sometimes they take the air 30 minutes earlier, or 1:30 a. m. Many of our own popular dance tunes (but with vocal chorus in Dutch) are heard on these programs, but quite often the stations devote an hour or more to recordings with "English vocals."

A new Dutch Colonial voice is now being heard quite regularly—the "Voice of Paramaribo" in Dutch Guiana. This station is on an afternoon schedule, 3:30 to 5:30 p. m. DAILY and operates on a frequency of 11.38 mc. The greeting at the beginning of each program is "to the Dutch listeners in North America" although the station follows with an invitation to all (whether Dutch or not) to listen. I suggest that reader-listeners try for this station and then you may add still another name to your list of "countries heard."

With the advent of cooler weather, stations in the 6 m. c. or 49-meter band are "recovering their voices." There are still many South Americans that operate in this section of the short wave spectrum, and those of you who like the spirited tunes so typical of Colombia and Venezuela will welcome "open season" in this band. Remember too that some of the best of the stations in America del Sur, such as YV5RN in Caracas, Venezuela, now operate even lower on the dial—between 4.5 and 5 mc.

Already, signals from a station that is still tremendously popular with those who like their vocal and instrumental music in a classic or semi-classic vein are coming in good again. I refer now to Far East Radio Station RV-15 at Khabarovsk, Siberia, in the USSR. The frequency of this station is 4.27 mc. and on nights when conditions are "EXCELLENT" you may tune in before 11 p. m. and hear some of the famed Russian Chorus-Choirs or the equally fine Balaika Orchestras. Ordinarily, however, best reception from RV-15 is from 1 to 5 a. m.

See you here next week . . . until then, good listenin'.

Poet Laborer

Born 40 years ago in Winchester in the Kentucky blue grass, Allen Tate, one of the three "regulars" heard on CBS's "Invitation to Learning," has given all but three months of his life to literature since his graduation from Vanderbilt university in 1922.

These three months he worked for an elder brother in the coal business. Because he had his mind on poetry instead of coal, young Allen shipped some anthracite to the remote west that should have gone a hundred miles north instead.

COMING OUT OF THE ETHER by Bernie Smith

A MOST curious situation has come about during the past couple of weeks, with Eddie Cantor and Fred Allen in the leading roles.

Allen, you know, is now on CBS for Texaco on Wednesday nights at 9. He is heard at exactly the same time he formerly was heard for Sal Hepatica, which now sponsors Cantor, who used to be on for Texaco! In addition to this mixup, Allen's singer is Kenny Baker, who used to be heard in the same capacity with Jack Benny, Allen's arch foe!

Add to this the fact that Harry von Zell, who used to be Allen's announcer now does the same thing for Cantor, and Jimmy Wallington, who used to be Cantor's announcer, is now doing the same thing for Allen!

Radio is a funny business.

Radio is a funny business.

A week or so ago a well known but particularly corny artist had a fist fight in the studio just before going on the air. During the course of the battle, epithets were hurled as much as fists, both with telling effects. Then the announcer stepped in with word that the program was about ready to be broadcast.

Whereupon our erstwhile villain began to drool into the microphone. Immediately he became the prophet of light and sunshine and was everybody's pal.

Radio is a funny business.

A well known news announcer was speeding through a small suburb of Los Angeles. A cop tagged him for "flying too low." The fine was to be 15 bucks.

The newscaster next day wrote a letter to the judge, informing him of the fact that he was in a hurry to make a broadcast and was not intentionally breaking the law.

The judge replied via letter that he would forget the whole thing if the newscaster would get him a couple of tickets to Charlie McCarthy!

A few years ago a certain sportscaster, now quite successful, was making his bid for fame. On a Saturday he announced a football game between U. S. C. and a northern team. A few days later postcards began to arrive, hundreds of them, all extolling the merits of the said sportscaster and each demanding that he be heard regularly.

The manager of the station smelled a mouse. He looked at the postmarks on the cards, then he looked at a map. By sheer coincidence, 50 cards were mailed from Glendale, 50 more from Bakersfield, 50 more from Fresno and so on up the coast clear to Washington, where, by the most peculiar coincidence, the U. S. C. team had played the previous Saturday. Queerly enough, the cards were mailed at points where a train would stop, had the train been heading for the north.

But most amazing of all was the fact that all of the cards were written in the same handwriting!

The sportscaster became a success, though, because . . .

Symphony Writer

Garwood Van, known coast to coast for his dance orchestra, is working on two symphonies: "Conflict," based on war emotions, and one untitled, based, with variations forming a fugue on a five-note musical call used by musicians to signify the end of a rest period.

WALTZ KING

Life Was no Swing-Me-Around for America's Slow Dance Tune Maker

WAYNE KING (Saturdays, 5:30 p. m., KNX) features waltzes on his Columbia Broadcasting system program for a very simple reason. He likes waltzes.

Wayne King

Playing waltzes is a style he decided on for himself many years ago, when he taught himself to play the saxophone, with the idea of eventually forming a band of his own and building it around a lovely, smooth saxophone tone, and an individual waltz style.

But the story of Wayne King's life and hard knocks gives no clue as to why his musical taste should have run to the sweet, pleasant, and sentimentally nostalgic rhythms of the waltz. His own early life was anything but pleasant.

Wayne's mother died when he was only 5 years old, and the child was moved from his home in Savanna, Ill., to the Iowa Soldiers' Home in Davenport, Ia.

This was just the first step in his wanderings about the country.

After a few years in the Home, Wayne went to live with an aunt and uncle back in Illinois. He played clarinet in the town band—having already discovered a musical talent while at the Home. He ran errands for the local doctor to earn spending money.

In a short time, his father married again, and moved to Texas, taking Wayne with him. The boy, however, didn't like El Paso, and wanted to go back to Savanna and the town band.

Nobody offered to send him back, because nobody could afford it, and Wayne went to work in a Texas garage. He earned enough to buy a broken-down car, put it in shape again, and drove back north.

Back in Savanna he went through high school, graduating with high honors, and captaining the football team.

Then he went on to Valparaiso, Ind., paying his way through Valparaiso university by playing in a three-piece band. It was his own band, which he organized to start himself on the way to building a real band.

About this time, Wayne decided that he wanted a band with a distinctly individual waltz style. He was living in a Chicago Y. M. C. A. then, having finished school and having decided to stick to his music.

His neighbors, of course, complained to the "Y" secretary about the noise on the sixth floor (these were the middle twenties when the mere mention of the word "saxophone" was good for a laugh). The secretary told Wayne to get a quieter instrument, or move.

King kept right on practicing, but stuffed a pillow into the bell of the instrument.

Six months of steady sax work made him proficient enough to get jobs with local orchestras. Soon he started playing with bigger and better bands. Finally he found himself playing lead sax at the popular Trianon Ballroom in Chicago.

He was still playing his saxophone in the individual pillow-in-mouth muted style he had worked out in his room at the "Y". He was rewarded for his courtesy to his neighbors, when the Trianon's manager decided he had a real gift, and offered to help build a brand new band around Wayne's sax: a band designed to play waltzes and featuring Wayne's soft tone.

This was just what Wayne had dreamed of.

He started organizing immediately, and soon Wayne King and his Orchestra were playing the relief spot at the Aragon ballroom.

This didn't last long. They moved up to the regular spot. Then their radio performances began. They were featured continuously over CBS for five years, and after a year spent barnstorming and playing theater appearances, they returned in the fall of 1939.

The musical style of Wayne King's orchestra is simple. The three violins are muted. The drummer uses no crash cymbals, highhats, cowbells, or tom toms. Instead he uses the metal fly-swatter, brushed lightly across a muffled drum-head. The woodwind section is dominated by the quiet restful style of King's own saxophone.

King himself leads a very quiet life, far from the glare of night life usually associated with band leaders. He is married to the former film star, Dorothy Janis, and has two children. His haven is his big estate in northern Wisconsin where he lives continually. He commutes by plane for his Chicago broadcasts.

Coincidentally, his radio tenor, Buddy Clark, commutes by plane between Chicago and New York to appear on Wayne's Saturday night CBS program, and Ben Bernie's Sunday show, also over the same network.

Many hours of his day are spent arranging music, practicing and working out details for his CBS programs.

He is an inveterate pipe smoker, and his close friends know that the best present to bring him after a trip is a new kind of pipe. He smokes a special brand of tobacco, personally blended, which he gives to his friends in large quantities; but he refuses to reveal the formula.

In perfect keeping with the soothing type of music which Wayne prefers and on which he has built his fame and his CBS broadcasts, is the placid tempo of his personal life. He dislikes all personal publicity and will avoid a camera whenever possible. There are few pictures of him in existence and he doesn't care if there are never any more.

"SPELLING Names with Beer Glasses"
—Hudibras gives this name to an old Roman custom. It consisted of toasting your best girl by drinking a bumperful for every letter in her name. Some of the instruction reads,

"Three cups to Amy, four to kate be given, To Susan five, six Rachel, Bridget seven."

I wonder how far one of those swains would have gotten if the light of his life had been named after the giantess in "Crockettine?"

Her name was Alcomiroziropoulou-pilousitounitapignac!

Rabelais, by the way, is more modest with names. In "Pantagruel," which strangely enough means "all-thirsty," he calls the author of a piece entitled "After Beef Mustard" by the simple designation of M. N. Rostocostojainbedanesse.

What Time Is Dinner?—Now it's between 5 and 8 in the evening, but a couple of hundred years ago in some places it was between 2 and 3 in the afternoon. Three hundred years before that it was at 11 in the morning, and six hundred years ago, dinner was served at 9, about the time that many of us now have breakfast.

Tempora mutantur, etc.! Times change and we change with them! Breakfast in those days was served at 5 in the morning and along about 4 in the afternoon they had a meal called supper!

Words! Words! Words!—The words "lord" and "lady" were once very proletarian and simply meant "keepers of the loaf," as noble a title as any which they may mean today! Eating junk was once a very common practice among sailors, because junk was the name of salt meat stored aboard vessels, because it was hard and tough as a piece of rope, because ropes were once made of bulrushes, because the Latin for bulrush is juncus! You may not give a fig about the sycophantical aspects of the word sycophant and yet figs are what started it. In Athens they had a law forbidding the exportation of figs, but some people didn't pay any attention to it, and others went around squealing on them. These squealers were called sycophants, which means "fig-babblers," and the word has meant an informer ever since!

The Snake-Oyster-Goat's-Beard Plant—It belongs to the dandelion and chicory family. Sometimes it's called salsify which mean's goat's beard, the name probably given because of its shape. Then again it's called oyster-plant because it tastes like oysters. Finally, one variety is alluded to as scorzonera, from scurzo, a snake, because the Moors and the Spaniards believed it was good for snake-bite!

The Goddess of Gluttons—Her name was Adephegia and anybody whose limit was just a second helping was a piker. She only smiled on those who were ready to burst and who prayed for room for more. Her temple was in Sicily and the doors were pretty wide, but I imagine the most devout still had to get in sideways.

I don't know if the Roman, Apicius, paid tribute to this goddess or not, but the fact remains that he felt himself starving to death on an income of four hundred thousand dollars. He felt so bad about it that he committed suicide. He couldn't live on the plain fare allowed by four hundred thousand, he said; not after what he had been accustomed to!

But getting back to food divinities, you may be interested in knowing that among the saints, Saint Dorothy has a basket of fruit as her symbol, while Saint David has an onion.

I think we should all be as happy as kings."

GOD HEARS OUR PRAYER

If radio's slim fingers can reach out
In the air,
And pluck the sweet melodies found
Lingering there,
And send them at once to both you and me
Direct to our homes or wherever we be.
If the "Old Refrain" on the violin
Can reach us so clearly above earth's din
If the voice that is singing, "Sweet and Low"
Is not torn asunder by storm clouds
of woe,
If "Whispering Hope" from the strings of the harp,
Can travel for miles and speak to our heart,
If the strains of the organ we can hear through the night,
As it pleads in the darkness, "Lead
Kindly Light,"
If all of these things we can hear in the air,
Then why should we doubt that God hears our prayer.

TODAY I LIVE

This is my birth month and altho'
I came into this world now many years ago
And tho' I breathed and walked
Day after day laughed and talked,
There was no life in me.
A cloud stifled smotheringly,
A thousand deaths have my heart torn,
But truly I have been reborn,
Today I live—
The one who has the power to heed
And give unto our crying need
Has seen my plight, has opened wide the way
For me to walk into a glorious day,
Today I live.

"I Want a Divorce"

But, Do You? Are Your Reasons as Good or Bad as These Given in This Moving Article?

THE soup tasted funny. It was the socks." The heavy faced, dumpy figured woman kept repeating stupidly. The judge leaned over his desk.

"Yes, we understand that," he said patiently, sending a reproving glance at the tittering spectators. "But make it clearer. What about the soup and socks?"

"He said, 'We'll eat the soup anyway,' he said."

"Yes."

"Well, the socks was in the soup. They fell off the line above the stove."

The woman's attorney came forward.

"I contend, your Honor, this constitutes cruelty."

The woman got a divorce.

So you want a divorce?

It must be confusing at times to decide, especially if you are a radio fan. As, for instance, the other evening when a network announcer with rare candor said:

"And this concludes the umpteenth edition of the Marriage club, whose guiding slogan is: There is no divorce! Stay tuned to Abracadabra for the next air thriller . . . I Want a Divorce . . . This is Station Abraca . . ."

The divorce mills of the nation are continually turning. They grind romances to the fine powder of arid disillusionment. Eternal loves go skidding down legally greased ways, and the one-time forever-swearing faith, hope and constancy go their ways prepared at opportunity's offering to swear all over again.

This business of divorce is appalling and tragic, comical and humorous. Marriage and divorce is fast becoming America's principal diversion apart from the realistic necessity of paying for one's fun through nose or pocketbook.

And now, after years of silence and aloofness radio is about to throw the air spotlight on an ancient and "honorable" custom, the playing at marriage and the getting of divorces. In spots it is going to be fun. In spots it is going to be tear-jerking and, perhaps, in spots it will be morally educational.

Last Friday (and for succeeding Fridays until further notice) at 8:30 p. m. over KIIJ of the Mutual-Don Lee system (including KFXM, KHJ, KVOE, and KGB in the southland) Joan Blondell, motion picture and radio star did and will continue to do her level best as a competent actress in revealing the pathos and comedy behind the often raised plaint: "I want a divorce."

"He came home one night with a burro. He insisted on putting the burro in bed with him. The burro wrecked my lovely furniture I had spent years gathering together."

The woman who made this startling statement sobbed bitterly. The courtroom audience howled. Funny to them, but acidly scoring drama to the woman who peered tearfully up at the judge.

"Remarkable conduct," the judge murmured. "Has your husband been examined by a psychiatrist, madam?"

"No, but I told our doctor what he had done. The doctor just laughed and said it was a perfectly natural reaction."

"I don't understand."

"Well, George, that's my husband, said he brought the burro home because . . . because . . . because . . ."

"Yes, because . . . why?"

"Because, he said he missed my mother not being around."

"Divorce granted!" The judge ducked behind his bench, sides shaking.

So you want a divorce?

"Yes, I do," said the little fellow firmly in another courtroom. "I can't stand it a day longer." He glared across the room at the tall, full bodied beauty who stared back at him contemptuously.

"Give the little squirt his divorce," she said loudly. "I can't stand it either."

"Just what can't either of you stand?" The judge was stern.

The woman bridled.

"I can't stand him sitting on the roof half the night, studying the stars. He's neglecting his home. It is driving me mad."

"So!" the judge smiled. "An astronomer?"

The little fellow puffed proudly.

"I am a member of the Amateur Astronomical Society," he said. "Recently I charted deviations in the course of Betelgeuse . . . for this . . ."

"Yes, yes. But why do you want a divorce?"

"She's always pulling me down off the roof. Two weeks ago she pushed me off, and if it wasn't for some fertilizer I had dumped below I would have been seriously hurt. She's always doing that."

"Yes, and he's always sitting up half the night talking about astronomy. There are other things besides astronomy for a man . . . I'm frantic . . ."

"Judgment withheld. You two meet me in my chambers after adjournment."

And, so it goes, with not all divorces postulated on such funny grounds as these. There are others, stories of human drama at its colorful peak. Last week, for example, under auspices of True Story Magazine, sponsor of her current Mutual program "I Want a Divorce," Joan Blondell capably interpreted the heart-touching part of a woman who struggled valiantly against odds to save her husband from his greatest enemy and weakness—himself. In future airings of "I Want a Divorce," now currently screening throughout the country (with Miss Blondell as the lead) as a Paramount light comedy with Dick Powell. Joan will present the downright funny side as well as the tragic of this business that is summed up in the defiant:

"I Want a Divorce."

Could you tie this one with anything you've ever heard or dreamed of?

In an American court a typical American woman, poised, intelligent and attractive, sat white-faced and tense in a divorce court witness box. She nervously recited the following stunning complaint.

"My husband had been married twice before," she began. "One day he got a letter from wife number one. She was in the city in which we had our home. He brought her out one night to dinner. I did the friendly and decent thing—made her comfortable and at ease. Then, later, I learned from friends they were seen together in different places. I talked to him about this. I said I didn't think this was right. He protested that he loved me, but that he also loved her. I was horrified. I told him he couldn't love two people at one time. Then, one day I received a telephone call. It was anonymous, but what was told me I found to be true. My husband had engaged a detective agency to search for—and it had found—wife number two. To my horror I learned he was seeing both his other wives."

The woman twisted her hands nervously and fell silent.

"Go on," the judge said kindly.

She gulped. "He came home one night and asked if I would be agreeable to all of us living together. That is why I am here. That is why I want a divorce."

The courtroom gasped. Hard hoiled reporters wondered what manner of man was this. They found out. The next witness was the erring husband. He did not want his wife to get a divorce, and he made an impassioned but novel plea.

"I have become religious, your honor," he started off astonishingly. "The marriage ceremony says that what God hath joined together let no man put asunder. My conscience bothers me. I think we should all be together again." Strangely enough wives one and two were agreeable to the arrangement he had proposed to number three. The court took another view in granting number three her divorce.

"You are unfortunate in your place of birth," the court said. "You should have been born in some Sultanate."

You can be sure that "I Want a Divorce" is going to be of increasing interest. Joan Blondell, the star, was born in New York City. She joined her show-trouping family on the stage when she was about to walk out there under her own power. She had good training from the start, her father being a widely known actor, Eddie Blondell. His entire family worked in his act.

Until she was 22 years old, Joan spent herself supervised the installation of every fixture and stick of furniture in her long-awaited home.

"I WANT A DIVORCE"

Joan was discovered by Hollywood when she played in the New York production, "Penny Arcade." Warner Brothers purchased the play and signed two players in the cast, Joan and Jimmy Cagney, and took the two to Hollywood to play in the film version of the piece, which they called "Sinner's Holiday." The film made a hit.

Comedy roles followed, and it was not until Joan played the lead opposite Douglas Fairbanks Jr., in "Union Depot" that critics and public alike decided that the blonde dynamo had dramatic ability.

Joan is married to Dick Powell, popular screen and radio star. They have two children, Norman Scott Powell and Ellen, the former a 5-year-old son by Joan's former marriage, the latter 20 months old. Joan and Dick have been married three and one-half years.

It is Friday evening at 8:30 o'clock. The "On the Air" sign flashes on.

"It was this way, your honor. I got tack poisoning because of her."

"Tack poisoning?"

"Yeah. I used to eat sandwiches and drink a little beer in bed. She complained of the crumbs. One night she had a bed fixed up for me alone. I thought she had a mad on and went to bed by myself. The bed was full of tacks. A lot of them stuck me and I got poisoned."

The judge grinned widely.

"This marriage is certainly off on the wrong tack," he chuckled. "Divorce granted."

Crusader

A number of nationally-important newspaper publishers were guests of Edward G. Robinson at the 1940-41 premiere of "Big Town," Wednesday on KNX of the CBS system. Their interest in the series was intensified by fact that "Big Town" presents Robinson in the role of "Steve Wilson," crusading managing editor of the mythical Illustrated Press.

No Stick Script

Betty Winkler, star of "Girl Alone," removes her hat before going on the air, but insists on wearing her gloves to keep the script from sticking to her fingers.

Stars on Blue

With her nose to the grindstone as a star of Fred Waring's five NBC shows per week, tiny Donna Dae stays in trim by keeping her lovely eyes on the ball.

Carroll Kiss

Bob Hope ran the Lux Radio theater play, "Love Is News," ten seconds over-time, but for what he considers justifiable reasons. He planted two five-second kisses on the beautiful Madeleine Carroll's left cheek in the third act of the play.

"But on the broadcast," Hope said, "I would under no circumstances mislead the audience, especially when playing opposite Madeleine Carroll. The public has a right to expect the genuine—not sound effects. I'm convinced I made a mistake in not making those kisses in the third act authentic from the very first rehearsal."

Miss Carroll blushed, grew redder when Hope added, "Now, wait until I uncurl my toes."

Academy Award

Critics claim Meredith Willson is in line for the Academy award this year for his scoring on the new Chaplin picture. Although Meredith whipped it together in record time, it is said to be truly outstanding.

Scarab

Carl Frank wouldn't think of doing a "Court of Missing Heirs" or "Good Will Hour" broadcast without his Scarab ring. It was a new ring the day he landed his first radio job.

Bible Red

Basil Loughrane, producer of "Light of the World" will use nothing but a red pencil for script corrections. If he happens to be without one, a short recess is taken until a new one has been purchased.

Dorothy Ann Crowe

Throughout the winter listeners coast to coast on Sundays at 2 p. m. PST will hear a thrilling and familiar blast—the mill whistle of "The Musical Steelmakers," in which Dorothy Ann Crowe sings a leading role. Wheeling Steel corporation sponsors the original employee-family radio show and this autumn enters its fourth year. Dorothy Ann is a mezzo soprano and has never lived anywhere but in the city of Wheeling, West Virginia. Locally the show is broadcast over KHLJ.

Claudette Colbert will have Jack Benny, Basil Rathbone and Edward Arnold as company on the Oct. 20 "Screen Guild Theater" over CBS.

RADIO LIFE LINES * Buck Hathaway

CHARLIE McCARTHY aftermath: Charlie McCarthy, Edgar Bergen's little scantling, is an Army Air Corps Master Sergeant now. It was Radio Lified last week. Here's an interesting sidelight: Efficient NBC publicist Joe Alvin did tremendous job in virtually taking over March field, its four thousand officers and men, to bring Gale Page, Sam Hayes, news-reel men and other luminaries to witness ceremonies Rub was—only newspaper columnist present was friendly Matt Weinstock of Daily News. . . . Here's payoff and no fault of Joe Alvin, who did a good job: It was not because newspapers still have it in for Radio. It was because March Field cold-shouldered request of certain bigwig newspapermen who recently requested March Field to provide a bombing escort over Los Angeles when Willkie came to town!

When March Field boys wanted representation for Alvin's publicity stunt, the bigwigs, having say-so in reportorial assignment, said, "March Field!", held their noses and stayed away.

But despite newspaper mad, NBC-Edgar Bergen-Charlie McCarthy public stock won't suffer, nor will Army Air Corps plan to call attention to air branch of service.

The March Field McCarthy ceremonies were interesting. Edgar Bergen (as you will soon see in news reels) is no corner thumb sucker when it comes to doing his bit for God, Country and the Air Corps.

Posy Plucked on Way Home: Gale Page: you are a lovely person. Matt Weinstock gave the posy I give you: "Now, there's a regular woman. Imagine, bringing her kid Fritz along. That's being a mother and a lady."

Mobilgas Betting Note: You'd be hopping, Sam Hayes, after learning this, but that swell dope sheet you and Major L. B. Chapman are getting out for Mobiloil-Gas Company is being used as an odds sheet for football betting commissioners in more than one city cigar store and pool-room.

To Fans of Corrine Miller: I don't know why Miss Miller is no longer with Lux Radio Theatre. Her absence is one of the mysteries of Radio. I agree—she's one of the best bets in Radio. . . . Something on her soon. . . . She's from Texas.

Happy Birthdays and Anniversaries: To Al Pearce for being consistent for 12 years on Radio; Charley Webster starting his 15th year in broadcasting (he's "Potiphar" in "Light of the World"); Kay Kyser and singer-saxophonist Sully Mason, who have been together for 14 years (they started teaming in Rocky Mount, Nawth Cawlina); Eddie Cantor, tenth radio anniversary.

Pieces of String and Bits of Glass: It's Kenny Baker Day at World's Fair October 24. . . . Good-Will Director John J. Anthony will syndicate marital advice in dailies soon. . . . Red Grange (the Galloping Ghost) is football predicting over MBS. He predicts Fridays. . . . alibis the next day if he has to. . . . Mischa Auer, screen comic, and Ken Niles, "Big Town" announcer, are blotting up an air program. . . . Suds and Lather: "Portia Blake Faces Life" is a new CBS soap opera; was skidded (not skidded) October 17. . . . The Palladium people had eyes bigger than concrete mixers. Their dance spot won't open until October 31. . . . Leonard Levinson is Hollywoodwarding to help Don Quinn script Fibber and Molly. . . . Mailman's Answer: "I Love You in My Dreams" is "Treasure Chest" and "Pot o' Gold" closing theme. . . . Bandleaders are trying to get out from the middle of ASCAP-BMI embroglio. They are talking about a union of their own to compel arbitration. . . . Sympathy Note and Let Him Know, Folks: Knox Manning's mother is desperately ill in Worcester, Mass. He's doing his news-reporting with a little knife jiggling in his throat. . . . The Plehal Brothers will be heard again on Al Pearce's spot, October 25. . . . Speaking of ASCAP: Eddie Dunstedter, the Novachordian, is set for ASCAP absence with a library of 200 standards and original tunes costing $8,000.

Note to Draftees: It's probably true, so get your bids in—Burns and Allen are providing a Draftee Reserved Section (50-seat section) in their broadcast studio.

Fanfare to KFAC: That station is now recording two hours of music that is creamed from the world's best in symphony, ballet, opera, concertos, vocal and instrumental recitals. You can't be satisfied by anything in music if something doesn't click with you in these two hours (nightly, save Sunday, from 8 to 10). Sponsor is Southern California Gas Company and Southern Counties Gas Company. Advertising Managers of both please note.

Note to All Alert Producers: Beatrice Maude, the Broadway lovely we've been on the rave about, is to do a neat bit of characterization in "Mr. and Mrs. Smith," brilliantized by Robert Montgomery and Carole Lombard. . . . And I've another fit to make air audiences swear by Rinso, Sudso, Creamo or Ili-de-ho! I sudso? Yes, it's so. Her name? Wyn Ritchie. . . . Let me know. They're both feathers in your money-dusters.

Danger at Night

A Few Startling Examples That Prove Radio Does Have Its Thrill Moments

FEW persons listening to radio, attending audience shows and watching the smooth precision with which the show is handled, suspect that radio has its own little dramas. These are dramas not written by highly paid writers, not acted out by air stars, nor produced by efficient unit managers. No, these dramas are always unrehearsed, no publicity attends their showing, and all are keyed to one thrill—danger. Some of them involve nations and peoples, others an individual or two, and some none but the obscure principal of a life tragedy.

Let us look into a few.

A few years after Hitler came to Germanic power many an American shortwave enthusiast heard one night a singularly strange thing. A voice was leaping oceans and continents from Germany to say desperately that there was opposition to Hitler growing in Germany. Other voices came in at intervals. Some of these voices were English, some German, some French, some Italian and Spanish. All were making a plea for what the speakers believed was a Germany threatened from within. The voices were making an appeal for universal understanding of what had happened. The shortwave fan was hearing one of the many programs broadcast from mobile shortwave units operated by the Hitler opposition. They are not heard from nowadays. Yet a tiny news dispatch is significant.

"The crew and speaker of an illegal mobile broadcasting unit were arrested today by Elite Guards. For many weeks the unit has been broadcasting subversive programs to other nations. After a brief hearing they were ordered shot by Police Chief Himmler."

SOMEONE had left the catch open on the door to a big station monitoring booth. A transcontinental air show was in progress. Engineers and producers were in the booth following the action and sound with alert minds, their eyes on the studio clock, timing the performance to its usual split second accuracy.

"Stop this show!"

An engineer turned in his chair. It was a gag, he thought. But the revolver in the hands of the pale faced, middle aged man, was no gag. Nor was the hoarseness of the voice, the strained features of the gun wielder. The others turned momentarily from their tasks. A pistol is a pistol, and while no one in the booth knew the man, all realized he meant business, whatever it was, with that pistol. The quick witted engineer called out.

"Okay, boys, stop the show!"

Of course the show was not stopped. But, in that instant the engineer was able to distract the attention of the gun-toter by apparently reaching up to flick a switch. As his hand went up, the fingers fisted and the engineer's hard knuckles crashed against the jaw of the man. It was done so quickly that probably not half a dozen persons in the audience, intent on watching the performance and not the booth, saw what happened.

It turned out that the man was mad. Once successful, he had worried himself mentally ill with fancied grievances against big business. He had figured to end his life after tying up a national airshow as a protest against "injustice."

On the night watch of a little Texas station an employee was spinning records for the edification of the men and women on the lone prairie. He felt a hard something against his back, heard a voice, and saw a piece of paper thrust in front of him by a grimy hand.

"Broadcast that and no foolin', mister. I got a pal listening outside. So when this record's through, broadcast."

Not daring to look around, the announcer read the paper.

"Warning to all peace officers. Converge on main highway leading to Dallas. Stop green coupe. Be careful. It contains three men who late this afternoon held up the Blank bank at Blank."

The message which the announcer later called out to startled record listeners was a ruse by a desperate bandit. It was a ruse that did not work, however. The resourceful announcer before making the announcement bent his head close to the open microphone. His lips brushed the steel grating. Modulating the record music, he began whispering sibilantly:

"Police! Police! Police. Help! Help!" The bandit, who had retreated to the rear of the studio, could not hear. Others did. The announcer set another record going as he stalled for time, cut this record in unknown to the desperado.

The second record spun to its end. The announcement was made. The announcer prayed fervently as he saw the man run out that some one had heard him. Some one had—two husky Texas radio officers. They had been seated in a coffee stand listening to the program, relieving note during their after-midnight lunch time. They arrived just as the radio stickup man ran toward a black sedan parked near the entrance to the station.

No one heard the broadcast that followed. It was given over a "dead" mike, but what led up to it proves you can never tell about anything. Tucked away in a small booth in the large building of a transcontinental network station a prominent news commentator was broadcasting late developments in the European war. The booth door behind him opened. He paid no attention, thinking it was one of the station staff. The time was shortly before 10 p. m.

"I am going to kill you, you propagandist!"

The tones were deadly with suppressed fury. The startled commentator, still talking on, turned his head. Towering above him he saw a rage-contorted face. His eyes went past the face to the clock. It lacked ten seconds to the end of his broadcast. He saw a knife in the right hand of the man. He was helpless where he was. He did not want to break the program off, even though self preservation dictated it was right to do so. He thought quickly. Instead of using a familiar, "And now until tomorrow night at this time," he said in a matter-of-fact tone, "This is speaking." Then he cut the microphone off and pretended to be still talking to his air audience.

"Ladies and gentlemen, we have an unusual visitor in the studio this evening. One who has a matter of great importance to discuss with you." He turned to the knife-holding man. "By the way, what is your name?"

"Brown," said the now somewhat perplexed madman.

"Ah yes, Mr. Brown. Mr. Brown believes I am a propagandist. To show Mr. Brown I am not, I am bringing him to the microphone to have his say. Mr. Brown."

The now thoroughly flabbergasted Brown hunched his shoulders, drew a deep breath, put away his knife and sat down. For five minutes he poured out a stream of vituperation against fancied oppressors of the people. In meantime the commentator stole out, securely locked the door and went in search of police.

When the police arrived they found the man, later proved to be as mad a hatter, still going strong. He had disposed of the Bolshevik revolution of 1917 and was just then attacking the character of Marie Antoinette.

Florence Lake

Florence Lake, talented comedienne of the screen, brings a note of comedy to daytime radio in the popular drama, "Career of Alice Blair" and "Meet Miss Julia."

FOOTBALL FOLLIES:

*Audiences Are Going for Them;
Here Are Pictures and Story*

IT'S more fun . . . !

They call it "Football Follies" and the title is as good as any. It all began as these things usually do, with a KHJ-Mutual-Don Lee producer trying to figure out a new wrinkle for audience participation shows from the stage of Mutual's Filmarte theater.

It has wound up with a laugh and fun session each Wednesday evening at 8:15 o'clock with two teams of five members each, chosen from as mixed a quiz-loving audience as one is apt to come upon anywhere.

Socialites from Beverly Hills, collegiennes and collegians, truck drivers and politicians, housewives and husbandmen foregather these winter Wednesdays in the Filmarte auditorium.

The questions are not purposely difficult. They may include simple ones about false teeth, shoe laces, football or easy ways to make dandelion wine.

Like all quiz shows it has a format. If you're planning to attend some Wednesday night you might as well know what is expected. Ten audience members are selected and divided into two teams of five persons each. The connection between football and the airing of a quiz show begins here. Questions are asked and if answered correctly are noted on a scoreboard, the right answerer getting 50 cents for each question during first half of the game, $1 during the second half.

Right answers may result in a "forward pass," a "first down," or a long yardage-gathering run. For some reason or another all this contributes to audience excitement and makes for interesting listening. It's the spirit of competition, we guess.

Kick in the eye for loveliness is Betty Jane Rhodes, KHJ's much publicized Little Lady of Television. The blue-eyed youngster is the "Betty Co-ed" of the Follies.

Radio being what it is—an elastic medium, able to work psychological magic—creates something closely akin to football excitement as the show goes on the air. Master of ceremonies is Art (The Shank) Baker. Baker signals soundman Jimmie Eakins. Eakins blows a whistle. A drummer throws a decibel fit over drums and winds up with a series of thumps (this is the ball rolling across the field). The game is on. Teams are Green and the Gold with yell leaders Hugh Brundage for the Greens and Jimmie Burton for the Golds.

Interspersed between the noise of team competition is Dave Rose's orchestra with modern symphonic music in contrast to stage excitement. Rose's orchestra is one of the few built around strings. Of 17 pieces six are first violins, two are violas, one is a cello and one is a bass. The other instruments are three reeds, two trumpets and piano and drums.

We think there is no prettier picture that that of Miss Rhodes singing "Sunday," and "The You and Me That Used to Be."

If the quiet and peace of big city life becomes boring at times and you feel that you want to get away from it all, you might arrange with KHJ for broadcast tickets and attend. The worst that can happen to you is the collapse of the building under the torrent of partisan enthusiasm with which the show is received. But, we live through earthquakes—so what the dickens!

Phyllis Keenan, left, Pasadena Junior college, bravely tries to figure out an answer to coach Art "Happy" Baker's question so she can play on the "Football Follies" quiz team which takes part in the weekly Wednesday radio show over KHJ and the Mutual-Don Lee network. If telepathy does any good, you can readily see that Shirley Mann, right, of Los Angeles city college is "giving out" with a purpose.

The Cover Man Is an Ambassador

WHEN Rollie Thomas steps up to the KHJ microphones on Monday, Wednesday and Friday nights at 7:30, he speaks to one of the largest children's audiences in the world. For as Goodwill Ambassador for the Lone Ranger, he represents one of the greatest harbingers of safety on the radio today. The Lone Ranger program has received the National Safety Award the last five years in a row, and is consistently awarded the vote as the outstanding children's program on the air. Rollie's voice is not only one of the best known on the Pacific Coast—eastern audiences are also quick to recognize him—but he is a member of the original Lone Ranger cast, having worked with the show in its Detroit studios as announcer-narrator. He is also well known to the East and West Coast as that "other voice," on the nation's outstanding sports program, "The Inside of Sports," featuring Sam Balter. The program is heard in the middle west at 6:45, east at 7:45, every day of the week except Sundays. The west coast hears the broadcast Tuesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays at 7:15 p. m.

An interesting sidelight on the Lone Ranger program is the fact that it is strictly an idea show, based not upon the personality of any one individual star, but upon the idea of a fictional character for the plot. The Lone Ranger, the Masked Rider of the Plains, is an outstanding example.

Here are sentence highlights of his career:

Staff KHJ (announcer—night supervisor).

Thirty-three years of age. In 13th year of Radio.

Early years on farm (12). High school education. Played football, basketball and track in school. Professional football after high school, although weighing only 135 lbs. Considered excellent field general.

Had his share of soda-jerking and paper-selling. Later in life as testman for telephone company; machinist; clerk; purchasing for Edw. G. Budd Wheel and Mfg. Co.; credit manager, selling automobiles.

First radio work in 1928 as singer in old Seth Parker group. Worked at this for couple of years while engaged at other steady work. Joined staff of WJR, Detroit, in 1930 and soon worked to program director. Later put in full charge of programs and production. Resigned in 1936 and joined WXYZ, Detroit, as announcer-program director.

Came west in 1938 and joined staff of KHJ as announcer - writer - producer; was soon burdened with night-supervisory duties.

Just recently joined the ranks of home owners in San Fernando with purchase of hillside home in Sherman Oaks. Wife, Rusty the dog, and Herman the cat, serve as constant reminder of domestic affiliation.

Has handled just about all types of programs since starting in radio, from nearly all angles. Very much interested in television and serves as M. C. on various occasions.

Hobby and favorite pastime—golf.

Present ambition—to continue in radio until too feeble to carry on—then retire.

Personality Bracelets

Bracelets to "interpret" your personality have become a new fad in costume jewelry after being introduced by Betty Winkler, member of the "Girl Alone" radio show. Betty sold the idea to June Travis and Joan Winters and now they dangle jade from their wrists when they want to "interpret" excitement or irritation and moonstones to "suggest" their sympathetic moods.

Photograph of gridsters in the classic tradition snapped on Fillmore theater stage one night after the "Football Follies" show. Left to right front row, Announcer Jim "Killer" Burton, Coach Art "Happy" Baker (master of ceremonies) and Announcer Hugh "Jerk" Brundage while the Joe College (campus big shot standing in rear is J. C. Lewis Jr., producer of KHJ-Mutual Don Lee's new laugh show).

Gag of the Week

For the best Gags of the Week heard over Radio and sent Radio Life, tickets will be sent winners for admission to radio broadcasts and tours of NBC and CBS Hollywood studios. Listen to your favorite programs and then send your best Gag to 1029 West Washington Boulevard, Los Angeles.

THE SOUTHLAND went Art Bakerish this week, to judge from letters from Radio Life reader-listeners. First below is printed the Art Baker gag that attracted the most reader reaction. And, at department's end is printed the list of additional winners whose witty letters had to be considered as winners, but whose letters, for lack of space, could not be printed. Apparently you folks like the Gag department. As soon as the advertising increases (now anticipated because of increasing response to the magazine on the part of Californians—and sometimes as far north as Washington and south to Arizona) justify, we hope, if you want it that way, to have a full page of gags each week. And now:

Mrs. Joe Sanderson, 1517 East 87th place, Los Angeles.

Sirs: On "Pull Over, Neighbor," Art Baker asked a man the name of a water gusher, which has a name to remind him of his wife, and which name began with "Old."

The man answered: "Old Ironsides." He meant, of course, "Old Faithful." I should appreciate tickets to "Pull Over, Neighbor."

Richard O'Brien, 1199 South Ivar, Rosemead, Calif.

Sirs: The contestant was telling Major Bowes about going to hotels to collect autographs of celebrities.

The Major: "Well, son, how do you get them in hotels?"

Contestant: "I wait until I see them go to the wash-room and then I follow them in."

N. N. Julian, 1008 East Third, Long Beach, Calif.

Sirs: On the Signal Carnival showing of "When Knighthood Was in Flower," a stranger came into the castle. Vera Vague stared in astonishment: "How did you get in here across the castle moat?"

The Stranger: "I caught one of the guards with his bridges down."

Mrs. Joyce Matheson, 728 Marine street, Santa Monica, Calif.

Sirs: I enjoy Radio Life very much. Thanks for a grand little magazine. My choice for a Best Gag was heard on Club Matinee.

Gary Moore was telling of a young married couple with a new baby son. The son was named "Weather Strip," because he was "keeping daddy out of the draft."

Donna McAvoy, 8425 San Gabriel avenue, South, Los Angeles.

Sirs: I like your gags so much. Here is mine from Stu Wilson's "Rise and Shine."

Mother: "What are you children playing out there?"

Bobby: "We're just playing Indian and I am scalping Mary."

Mother: "Scalping Mary!"

Bobby: "Oh, not really, I'm just cutting her hair off with the scissors."

Catherine Miquoff, 1383 Lincoln avenue, Pasadena, Calif.

Sirs: Radio Life is a swell magazine. My best gag is:

Bob Hope: "Skinny, this moving will put some hair on your chest."

Skinny: "I don't want hair. I want a chest."

Mrs. Lawrence Pope, 6628 Orchard avenue, Bell, Calif.

Sirs: Listening to "Showboat" I enjoyed this one:

Beulah was changing clothes behind a screen and the screen fell. Marlin Hart told Beulah to say something, not to stand there shivering in her red flannels.

Beulah: "The only thing I can say, I'm the first woman caught in the draft."

Added List of Winners

Mrs. Harriet Eshelman, 1657 Locust, Pasadena.

Mrs. J. Frost, 8615 South Normandie, Los Angeles.

Mr. and Mrs. G. H. Carpenter, 964 East Fifth, Long Beach.

Leona Taylor, 413 South Palm, Ventura, Calif.

Walter C. King, 10409 McKinley avenue, Los Angeles.

L. Donald Davis, 531 Sierra way, San Bernardino.

Mrs. C. E. Jones, 6616 South Figueroa, Los Angeles.

Alice Weston, 1947-C 19th street, Santa Monica.

Mrs. Doris Krebs, 470 Hondo street, Downey, Calif.

Pearce Picture

Al Pearce is proud of an unusual picture which now hangs in his playroom. It's one of the most candid of the candid, for it shows a mountain lion with teeth sunk in the neck of a deer, taken just after the spring of the lion. Pearce, quite a cameraman himself, thinks it's one of the finest action pictures he has ever seen. It was taken by a friend of his, a San Joaquin valley sportsman, on a hunting trip in Montana. The sportsman was photographing the deer drinking at a spring when the mountain lion sprang from an overhanging rock ledge.

Carol Bruce

Carol Bruce, the gawjuss vocalist with Ben Bernie's new Tuesday night program, is all they say of her in the publicity notices. We saw her in "Louisiana Purchase" in Noo Yawk. We winked several times in true Hollywood fashion but to no avail.

Darn it!

The Editor and the Readers

THE world, we think, is reeling toward a final phantasm of butchered masses, shattered economy and a tottering rickety post-world-war II "civilization."

Radio's voices are professional and reportorially calm, but behind them screams the chimera of cataclysm.

We wonder what Radio Life's 150,000 readers think of what is happening. It has startled us to find so little expression of opinion on the draft, on the impending question of whether to fight in Europe . . . to fight in Asia . . . to fight anywhere . . . to fight nowhere and for nobody save Americans and then in defense of our country. . . . What do you think?

In any event there are sober voices raised by air and in press. These sound hell-clear to us in the clangor of propaganda and behind-the-scenes movements which we, as simple citizens, are not permitted to glimpse. For instance—Karl von Wiegand's and General Hugh Johnson's articles in the Los Angeles Examiner of Oct. 9. Giving credit where credit is due, we think they have done Americans a fine service in writing those pieces for us to read.

Our conscience seems lighter since the above. Now, we look forward to next week when, clumping back from San Fernando valley, we bring with us a piece about Bob (Bazooka) Burns and his ranching proclivities . . . And, for all of you who have been chiding us about Art Shank and Art Baker . . . well . . . Shh! We've been getting acquainted with him ourselves. As a result next week there will be a fine yarn about him by Bernie Smith who, you will recall, did a splendid article on Harrison Holliday a few weeks ago.

Are you following Chef Milani and his "Food Filosofy?" It's a new slant on food with an occasional epicurean dish recipe for you ladies who take pride in setting a good table. On his air programs Chef Milani gives architectural details of a dinner for four at $1—no more.

Things are so upset right now that it is hard to predict what will be featured from week to week. But, certainly, we shall keep on striving to merit the encouraging letters we get from you. As an editor we are proud of responses we get. We admonish you, however: you need not always praise us. We want to be perfectly fair. If we deserve a panning—please let us have it. If the panning is especially deserved we will even supply the pan, with a stout handle so you all can swing it better.

We do hope you like the current issue piece on Edward G. Robinson. Ed is a real human being and what he said in the interview comes straight from his heart.

Please—remember that this is your magazine. We know that all of you won't express yourself about it, but those who feel inclined to, write in and chat with us. . . . It'll help us strike the better average that comes by getting close to people.

And, parting thought, even if the world is half wrecked by war—there'll always be Radio Life for a penny.

And, so—with our sincerest best for you and the family—
Until next week—

H. H. H.
