RAY NOBLE: A 'DUMB' ENGLISHMAN ---OR A GOOD ACTOR?

The Ear Inspires the Pen

Lois Bottema, 223 North Niagara Street, Burbank, Calif.

Sirs: I have heard many different reports about the age of Dix Davis. Some say he is 12, others 13. A friend of Dix's told me he was 14. Just how old is he?

Radio Life has it on authority of Dix's mother. (and she really should know), that Dix is 14.

Diane Winters, 1943 West Vernon Avenue, Los Angeles, Calif.

Sirs: You know I think it's about time someone came to Dinah Shore's rescue. Personally she's 1A in my listening pleasure and A1 as a swell gal.

This Hartwick complaint gets my fur on edge because he insists Dinah is stealing her stuff from Ginny Simms (another swell vocalist). Maybe Mr. Hartwick has a fine ear for musical comparisons and then again maybe he hasn't, because if Dinah's copying Ginny, she's certainly doing it in a different way.

Dinah's voice to me, and I'm sure to many other radio listeners who enjoy singing, is a pleasant relief from most of the "coon shouters" with the different bands. There's such a confidential and intimate feeling that makes it pleasant listening for me anytime.

Don't misunderstand, I think Ginny is A1 too, but certainly her style is different than Dinah's.

Florence Eule, 917-B Loma Vista Drive, Long Beach, Calif.

Sirs: I've just bought Radio Life, September 6 to 12, and sure was glad to see that a pet peeve of mine was described perfectly by A. Hartwick about Dinah Shore. I feel like shaking her and telling her to give out. Sure glad Ginny Simms is coming on the air.

I'm sick of "One Man's Family" and now is a good time to change the whole setup. It's so mushy, it's boring. A family and all their wives just couldn't be that good. It's not human.

ON OUR COVER

The elegant gentleman on Radio Life's cover is "Archie" of "Duffy's Tavern" (the spot "where the elite meet to eat"). He was photographed as he telephoned his boss, "Duffy," informing him that the Tavern had moved to the Blue Network, where its doings will be aired every Tuesday night at 9 o'clock over KECA.

"Archie" is a character as salty as they are made. As self-styled maitre 'd of the "poor man's stork club" he confronts situations which he details to his radio audience in choice Brooklynese.

"Archie," in real life, is Ed Gardner, veteran entertainment writer and producer. He fell into his "Duffy's Tavern" stint while trying, as producer of the show, to tell others how to act the part. Exasperated with would-be actors, he strode from the control room, snatched a script, and did the "Archie" part with such exquisite "Greenpernt" accent, that he's been "Archie" ever since.

John Evans, Wildwood Sanitarium, Newhall, Calif.

Sirs: Thank you for printing my letter to you in regards to a plug for Ginny Simms' return to the air. I also want to thank you for fulfillment of my request for Ginny Simms' picture to appear on the cover of your magazine.

(In regard to this discussion, Radio Life would like point out that both these girls hold each other in high professional esteem. The other night at a party, Dinah was talking quite unawares to one of Ginny's friends. She said, "I think that Ginny has sung me under the table tonight." Ginny thinks highly of Dinah's vocal accomplishments, buys and enjoys listening to her records.)

Dr. Louis G. Reynolds, 451 North Sycamore Avenue, Los Angeles, Calif.

Sirs: I must say, that I have no taste for the kind of music used by either Miss Shore or Miss Simms or any of the singers belonging to the same category. However, all my friends and acquaintances, who like that class of music, speak very highly and enthusiastically of both the young ladies.

Miss Shore could not possibly "ape" Miss Simms, because Miss Shore was already a recognized singer before Miss Simms appeared on the scene. As to Mr. Berle, I do not see how he fits in, in Mr. Hartwick's screed. I have seen Mr. Berle on the screen and heard him on the radio, and there cannot be any doubt that he is a comedian of the first order. He has no need to steal anything from anybody, considering that his script, like that of the other comedians, is prepared beforehand for him by a professional writer.

Mrs. A. C. Aigro, 1551 North Serrano, Los Angeles, Calif.

The mention in Bernie Smith's column about voices during political campaign time urges me to give vent to my listening observations. There is no magic in President Roosevelt's voice, it is his inward sincerity. He is a truly honest, deeply religious, and I might say a firm believer in real Democracy.

J. Farrell, 1545 Redondo Beach Blvd., Gardena, Calif.

Sirs: What's the cause of the sudden outburst of these idiotic transcribed commercials? It seems they make them as silly as possible so they will attract attention with the added hope that they will click like the "Modern Design" thing did, and be picked up and used by some of the comedy programs, thus getting some advertising "for free."

The "Taurus Throwus" bull throwing club was in session the other day in the Locker Room at Lakeside Country Club. Present were Meredith "Lucky" Willson; Chet "Lum" Lauck; Cecil Underwood, ace producer of Fibber McGee and Gildersleeve; Mike Raffetto, star of "One Man's Family;" Bernie Milligan, top radio press agent, and your obedient servant, as Orson Welles says.

Bernie Smith

Now all of those present are radio veterans and each is full of colorful yarns of "the good old days" when radio was young and things happened. We all got to gassing and first thing we knew it was getting dark and I still hadn't paid Willson the $1.20 I had lost to him on the links, so at my suggestion we decided to go home.

I started to recount here some of the yarns the boys were spinning, but I suddenly discovered I was using up 27 pages and had only got my first wind. So the yarns will have to wait until another day. In the meantime, if you see Willson, get him to tell you about the time he auditioned programs every week for the same sponsor, big, costly programs. These auditions continued for months and ended when the sponsor, (the big louse!) bought time on another station. Meredith is still sore!

And if you see Lauck, get him to tell you about the time he and his partner, Tuffy Goff, ("Abner") had their first big audition. They were only kids, yet their air characterizations were those of old men. They were afraid the sponsors would be prejudiced against their youth, so they insisted every member of the board of directors of this nationally famous company turn their faces to the wall, so they couldn't see "Lum" and "Abner" do their act!

And if you should be fortunate enough to bump into Mike Raffetto, ask him about his experience the other day at the draft board when the draftees were undergoing their physical examinations. Some odd things took place, like the adventure of the kid who was wearing big, thick glasses. He asked for exemption on that account, only to be informed by the Doc: "We don't test your eyes, son. We count 'em! One! Two! Good luck!"

Cecil Underwood has a million laughs up his sleeve. He'll recall the time, if you ask him, when he was running the Pacific Coast end of an international, super-doooper program of music. Idea of the show was to have Ben Grauer introduce orchestras playing in Madrid, London, Paris, Vienna, and Berlin. In between these bands, he would switch to Underwood, in San Francisco; who was supposed to introduce bands from Honolulu, Tokio, Manila, Calcutta and Singapore. It was going to be a dilly. Only Underwood had troubles! The only Pacific point he could pick up was Honolulu, so the thing sounded like this: Grauer: "And now let's hear from San Francisco." Underwood: "We will now hear some music from Honolulu." (Music) Grauer: "Now let's hear that orchestra in London." (Music) Underwood: "We will now hear some more music from Honolulu." And so it went. All they ever got from this end was music, and still more music, from Honolulu!

You shouldn't have much trouble running into Bernie Milligan. He's the gadding-est guy in Hollywood. So when you do meet him, get him to tell you about the time he did a newscast from the late Vic Dalton's bathroom! Or the story about the magnificent radio editors' convention at Agua Caliente, when radio editors from the entire Pacific Coast were guests of Baron Long. Among other things, the editors pinned a badge on a Tijuana cop and for three days thereafter made his life miserable by addressing him as "Mr. Mayor!" That was some convention, by the way. I'll have to tell you about it sometime. One of the radio editors who attended it later was wanted in 17 different states for passing bogus checks. That's just a sample!

William L. Shirer recalls that his German acquaintances during the early days of the war on the Western front were betting him cases of champagne—stolen from the French—that the Swastika would be flying over Trafalgar Square in London within six weeks. P. S.—Bill took the bets.

Eloise Kummer, whose husband, Capt. W. F. Cameron, is stationed with the army medical forces in Ireland, shows how to make the boys' Christmas merry. Herewith she outlines the procedure for Yule gifts going out of the country:

1. Send books, playing cards, tobacco, pipe cleaners, a manicure kit, or cribbage board. No perishables or foods.
2. Pack gifts in a box no larger than a shoe box. Wad them securely into place. Use individual, Christmassy wrappings. Try to keep weight at six pounds.
3. Wrap in heavy corrugated paperboard protector and stout kraft paper.
4. Tie with tape at all cross points. Affix mailing label, which also bears the designation, "Christmas Parcel."
5. Mail between October 1 and November 1.

Just a Dumb Englishman

By CHARLES EMGE

THE FIRST time I met Ray Noble was eight years ago in a cell-like "studio office" on a Hollywood motion picture lot where Ray had bobbed up suddenly after attaining a goodly share of international fame as an orchestra leader and songwriter.

He had become famous in America as London's most popular dance-band leader, but he had never had an "organized band" except for a brief period in Holland. The orchestra with which he became famous was selected, man by man, from various London orchestras and functioned only as a phonograph recording group. Of that group and still with him today is Bill Harty, drummer and personal manager. But "Ray Noble and His Orchestra" had become one of the most popular orchestras in the United States—where his records outsold those of most American band leaders of the period.

He had been brought to Hollywood as a songwriter, which is not surprising since he had to his credit at that time three international song hits—"Goodnight Sweetheart"; "Love Is the Sweetest Thing," and "The Very Thought of You."

They put him in the little cell equipped with a desk, a chair and a toy piano, and told him to write six songs like "Goodnight Sweetheart"—and have them ready by next Wednesday at 9:00 a. m."

"The mistake I made," says Ray, in recalling his introduction to Hollywood, "was in taking people seriously."

The studio did not use any of his songs and Ray left the "lot." Later he managed to "buy back" one of the songs they didn't like. You know it—everybody knows it now—as "The Touch of Your Lips."

A few days ago I met Ray at the stage at NBC studios after his first broadcast in the fall series of the Bergen-McCarthy show.

We talked of his work—not as a songwriter, but as an actor, on the screen as well as on the air. He appeared with his orchestra in "Pride of the Yankees" and had quite a part in the RKO film, "Here We Go Again," which features a host of radio personalities including Edgar Bergen, McCarthy, Fibber McGee and Molly, Ginny Simms, and Gildersleeve. In this he plays a daffy English hotel clerk. I asked him if he recalled our first meeting.

"Oh, quite well," he replied. "I hope you remember what I told you would happen as the result of the efforts to stabilize the ratio between the American dollar and the British pound."

I didn't remember what he said would happen, and I don't know that it did, but I did remember that when I tried to "interview" him on his musical ideas at that time, he had insisted on swinging the discussion into the economics of international finance. I wouldn't know whether he knew what he was talking about, or not—he certainly sounded like it. And now I know he was having some fun, in a gentle way, at the expense of the "interviewer."

If someone asked me to write an article on my "Most Unforgettable Character" I'd pick Noble. Here is a guy who, in public, actually enjoys—and contributes to—having himself portrayed as the "dumb Englishman" type. And all the time he is sitting back watching us fall for his "act" and getting no end of amusement out of it.

Ray has done a lot of thinking—as usual—on the war songs of today and their notable failure as significant expressions of mass emotion. He says:

"The big song of this war will come from the fighting front, not from a cubby hole in Tin Pan Alley. It will not be a marching song, because marching doesn't mean anything in this war. The boys go off to the front in tanks and trucks.

"It will not be a song of hate or bombastic threats to the enemy. It will be a song of tenderness—of thoughts for the folks at home, or maybe just some gay, incomprehensible nonsense that will give the boys pleasure and happiness to sing and whistle. It will not be written—it will just 'grow.' One of these days we'll find everybody singing it and playing it—and we won't know where it came from."

Ray and his orchestra are now entering a second season with the Bergen-McCarthy air show. At first he had only an occasional line. These were increased as time went on, until he became a personality.

Outwardly, Ray still pretends to be flabbergasted and befuddled by America and Americans. But it is just part of his "act." Actually he is sitting back, having a swell time watching our reactions to this "Ray Noble Character" he has amused himself by creating for our amusement—and Charlie McCarthy.

An Unpoised Hostess

Says Gracie Allen, Who Herewith Demonstrates the Art of Having a Good Time Though Entertaining

IS DUCKIEST

Those "nitwits of the networks," George Burns and Gracie Allen, are at it again! Every Tuesday night at 6 o'clock, beginning Oct. 6 they will greet you with their pert salutation: "Well, we're here! Are you there?" Only difference this season will be the network. Remember to tune

CBS-KNX, 1030 kilocycles on your dial.

Burns and Allen have been convulsing audiences for more years

1 "Nothing is more unpoising to a hostess than to have guests feel at home", avers Gracie. "So I put Bill Goodwin and Jimmy Cash right to work before dinner. See how they loved it?"

2 "It's smart to do dishes before you eat, because then there aren't so many", explains Gracie. "George was so proud of his dishpan hands he showed them off by juggling my china."

5 "Well, I swan", exclaims Bill Goodwin as George passes out "cold". Gracie decides to remain the unpoised hostess, so does a near-collapse.

6 Host and hostess revived, the evening picks up with some "Shuffle off to Buffalo." Still no dinner has appeared. "The butler's suffering from amnesia, and will serve as soon as he remembers who I am", says Gracie. Of course Gracie will probably have forgotten by then who the butler is. It looks like a vicious circle.

than we can remember. George used to be the dumb one and Gracie fed him the questions until a reverse situation one night proved that Gracie made a better zany than her husband. That's the way it's been ever since.

Last season's show was one of the most intriguing the pair has ever aired. In addition to introducing "Herman," the duck, as a member of the family, Burns and Allen plotted a piano sequence that had everyone glued to the dial. Gracie determined to master the ivories, and over George's vehement protests, engaged a professor to teach her. When she eventually appeared in recital, a symphony orchestra was used to carry out the gag's finale on the radio program. All in all, it cost about $2500 to pull the concerto stunt, but George claimed it was worth it.

Popular Bill Goodwin, who signed a Paramount contract last year, chose to remain with George and Gracie as announcer and is back again this season. So are Paul Whiteman and his orchestra, whose arrangements contributed much zest to the show.

Mellow tenor Jimmy Cash, another new addition to the Burns and Allen set-up last fall, has been signed for the return series. Dream of his life came true when Gracie heard him singing over his vegetable stand in a valley market, and persuaded George to give him an audition.

4 Gracie's kibitzing promotes a wrangle. "I applied First Aid", she reports, "and with a tourniquet made of a dish cloth and golf club, cut off the supply of oxygen to the cigar and saved George's life."

3 "Another good way to become an unpoised hostess is to cheat on the cheaters", claims Gracie, as she double-crosses hubby George with a mirror. "Don't you think I'm a card? Or maybe a cute trick!"

'How To Win Friends,' Allen Style. She Says 'If They Ever Return, Brother, They're Friends'

7 The noise awakens Herman, the duck, who waddles downstairs only to have George pounce on him gleefully. "I'll show you some roast duck just like father used to make", says George as Herman goes in the pan.

8 To work up appetites, the quartet hovers around the oven. "My! Those wienies smell good", smacks Gracie, forgetting that Herman was chucked in the pan. "Be sure to make mine medium rare!"

FIFTEEN YEARS

AT THE GRID MIKE

By FRANK BULL

THE MOST dramatic and most thrilling experience I ever had as football announcer was during the game between Oregon State College and Carnegie Tech.

That season, Carnegie Tech had beat Notre Dame for one of the greatest upsets in football history. It was regarded as the toughest team in the East, and betting odds were strong against Oregon State.

Coach Paul Schissler of Oregon State, now a captain at March Field, placed the bulk of his hope on half-back George Scott, but the day before the game, Scott collapsed on the practice field. At the hospital they found he had double pneumonia and that he was dangerously ill.

Scott put up a fight. He wanted to play in that game. Schissler told him he had to take it easy and promised that the team would win for his sake. The doctors told Schissler that if the team lost, it might mean Scott's life, that he was just holding together on the hope of that win.

The hospital permitted Scott to listen to my broadcast of the game. Miraculously, Oregon State scored a touchdown and a point, and held down Carnegie Tech. The score was 13-7 in favor of Carnegie Tech with eight minutes left of the game when Schissler pulled a stunt that made our eyes blink.

There was a fellow named Luby who had been on the team three years. He had never played in a game. On a sudden inspiration, Schissler forced Luby into Scott's sweater, No. 22, and whipped him out on the field.

Luby knew that Scott was listening and that the winning of this game was a matter of life and death for him.

We saw Luby go in as No. 22—as Scott—with 80 yards to go for a touchdown. He played like a demon, and in seven tries brought that ball 80 yards down the field for a touchdown—scoring the extra point to win for Oregon State 14 to 13.

This story has never been published. Nor did Carnegie Tech know the balance of that win. Scott slept peacefully after the game, and pulled through his peril.

This fall begins my 15th year as a football announcer. It's my tenth football season for Associated. I broadcast my first game at the old Loyola Stadium on 16th Street, now Venice Boulevard, in the fall of 1927. In those days, the announcer and technician carried their own equipment—some 400 pounds of it, including microphones, amplifiers, cables and wet and dry batteries.

Nowadays, a truck brings out the equipment and sets it up several days in advance. In 1927, we didn't have the enclosed booths that we have today. We broadcast right from the sidelines, in any kind of weather.

It was before the days of the balanced telephone line, and frequently telephone conversations would get inducted right into our broadcast line. I remember one time, right in the thick of a thrilling play, a conversation between a fellow and his girl friend came on and completely broke up the dramatic effect of my verbal description.

The toughest game I ever handled was one between Oregon and USC, a few years ago. Oregon came to town with heavy green jerseys, which they wore during the workout before the game. The coach, however, decided these outfits were too hot for his players, so he borrowed some lighter jerseys from Loyola.

When the team came out on the field for the game, we didn't know one man from another. The numbers were scrambled. It was so bad that even an injured Oregon man, who was sitting in the booth with us, failed to recognize his own teammates. What a sweating time of it I had trying to make my broadcast coherent!

Finally, we got it all straightened out, but then, after the half intermission, the Oregon boys came out in their green jerseys and completely threw us off again!

Sportscasting puts an announcer smack up against all sorts of problems. A few weeks ago, when I was en route to Denver to broadcast the Army All-Stars versus Chicago Cardi-

Petrillo Situation

Just to keep our readers up to date on the Petrillo transcription ban situation, we present a brief summary of last week's events in the AFM's fight to keep transcriptions off the air.

Facts in hand before last week's magazine met the deadline were not entirely correct. It now appears that Petrillo first demanded $36 a half hour for the musicians doing a transcription of the Benny show, (in addition to the $17 a half hour for their "live" performance). Last year, the musicians received $17 "live" and $12 for the transcription.

Late Saturday before the first Benny ailer of the season, the agency told Petrillo it would yield to the money demand. Petrillo then withdrew his proposition altogether and said that the only way the show could go on was "live." Benny stated that this was impossible, as his entire schedule for the next three months emanates from the east in army camps.

Subsequently, Petrillo banned the Vallee rebroadcast on Friday night, Oct. 9. "Information Please" rebroadcast Tuesday nights by transcription was threatened, but studio officials revised the show's format to eliminate music and it will be heard as usual.

The blade of Petrillo's fight is being slashed at shows which are re-broadcast by transcription over a different network than the one on which the program originates. Benny and "Info Please", originate as NBC shows and are released later by the Blue (locally, KECA). Vallee is a Blue show here and NBC in the East. Temporarily Vallee's producers have evaded the Petrillo edict by releasing the show locally over KFI (NBC) Friday nights at 9:30.

Christmas Preparations

We almost expected Lieutenant Colonel Ed Kirby to be wearing a red suit, a long white beard, and carrying a pack on his back when he arrived in Hollywood the other day. The Department of Public Relations Chief came direct from Washington to lay plans for the biggest gift of entertainment ever presented on one program.

A two-hour Christmas eve greeting from the United States is slated, with everybody's radio and film favorite participating for good old St. Nick. And with Mr. President himself right on hand to deliver Uncle Sam's personal greeting to the fighting men. The program will be shortwaved to every place on the globe where our troops are based. It is tentatively scheduled for from eight to 10 o'clock Christmas eve, but with every network and station carrying the program, there isn't much likelihood of your missing it.

Party for Show Opening

Abbott and Costello hosted a skating party last Tuesday night at the Hollywood Roller Bowl to celebrate the opening of their new radio show over NBC for Camel Cigarettes. The guests of honor were Army, Navy, and Red Cross nurses, with about 500 other guests from radio and film world to make the occasion a gala affair.

Bud and Lou started the fun rolling by a presentation of one of their own inimitable skits—their baseball routine, a verbal mixup which kept the guests howling with laughter. The Camel Caravan put on the show which it has been presenting to army camps all over the United States and outlying posts.

Mrs. Cooper, Gary's mother, commanding officer of the Army Red Cross nurses present, gave a little talk in their behalf. The Navy nurses, represented by two lieutenants uniformed in white, expressed their gratitude to Abbott and Costello for the party.

If you think it's fun to hear Fibber and Molly on the radio, you should see them on skates! Jane Russell and

NEXT WEEK

We have in store quite a treat for our Radio Life circle next week. There will be a story about the girls in the "Hour of Charm," written by Evelyn of the magic violin herself. You have undoubtedly wondered how 28 girls can live together as one big happy family . . . well, all the inside slants are in the story. There will be a story about Zero Mostel, the new wacky, zany comedian, showing a very different side of his character, plus a two-page spread on Fred Allen and his new ad-libbing foil . . . with pictures galore. There are many other features too, but we'll save those for the surprise.

John Payne were a grand looking twosome. And even on wheels Linda Darnell was still the glamour girl . . . until she took a spill. Lana Turner looked as though skating was in order . . . the little gal's putting on weight lately. We thought "Dagwood" was out stepping with another woman when we saw him come in with Patricia Van Cleve. Then we remembered that after all, she is Arthur Lake's lawfully wedded wife. KFI, 7 p.m.
Thurs.

Banana Cream Cake

Tuesday night, Oct. 6, the "Johnny Presents Ginny Simms" show hit a new high in emotional pull which, in Radio Life's estimation, makes this recently initiated series one of the comers on the airlines.

As you doubtless know, each week Miss Simms has as her guests a soldier, a sailor, and a marine, each of whom is allowed to make a long distance call to the person of his choice.

For the show on Oct. 6. Private Phillip Miller of Chicago was chosen to be the soldier on Ginny's broadcast. As soon as family and friends in Chicago heard of Private Miller's impending air appearance, a close friend of the Miller family wrote Miss Simms that Oct. 6 was Phil's birthday anniversary, that he had been away from home for 14 months, and that a telephone call to his mother would be, next to his seeing his mother, the perfect gift.

About this time, Producer Vick Knight put in his own telephone call to Chicago.

"What do you think your boy would like for a birthday gift?", he asked the mother.

"Well," said Mrs. Miller from Chicago, "I guess that next to seeing his mom, Phil would like a banana cream cake."

"He can have both," answered Vick Knight, as he arranged transportation to Hollywood for Mrs. Miller.

Early Tuesday morning, the day of the broadcast, the Chief pulled into the Union Station and Mr. Knight met Mrs. Miller. He whisked her off secretly to the Knight household, where all the ingredients were ready for Mrs. Miller to stir up a banana cream cake.

In the meantime, Private Miller, oblivious to all that was transpiring, was in Studio B at NBC's Radio City, rehearsing a phoney script. The writers, you see, couldn't tip him off by really writing what was scheduled to happen.

Came air time and time to put through Private Miller's call to Mrs. F. M. Miller of Chicago, Illinois. Ginny sang "My Devotion" while the operator was "trying" to get the party. At the end of her song, Johnny, the Call Boy, announced that the party didn't answer.

"They all probably went to a movie to celebrate MY birthday," grimaced Private Miller.

"Perhaps we can reach your mother later in the evening," soothed Ginny. "Meanwhile, we have a surprise for you . . . a little present we've cooked up. It's a home-made birthday cake.

Civilian Air Watchers of the Pacific coast are honored every Monday, on the "Eyes Aloft" broadcast over NBC-KFI at 6 p. m. Captain Russell Z. Smith holds the cup as author-director Robert L. Redd admires it. Gayne Whitman, narrator on the show, stands by. See story in Radio West.

Private Phillip Miller, (left) Miss Ginny Simms, and Mrs. F. W. Miller of Chicago with the much-talked-about banana cream cake. See story in Radio West.

It's being brought in right now, and it's banana cream cake!"

"Banana cream?" queried Private Miller. "Why, that's the kind mother used to bake for me!"

"Take a good look at the lady who's bringing in the cake," advised Songstress Simms. "Private Miller, Johnny Presents, in person, YOUR MOTHER!"

Private Miller took one good look. He forgot all about scripts and any radio decorum he had mustered.

In one word—an astonished, breathless "Mom!", he expressed all the pent-up yearnings of the 14 months away from home, all the joy of reunion.

As for the cake, it found itself in precarious circumstances, held by hands which shook noticeably. As other, steadier hands took the confection gently away from Mrs. Miller, and as mother and son embraced lovingly, there was hardly a dry eye in the audience, on the stage, or in the wings. Ginny managed to keep her control by biting her lip very hard.

Down in the second row in the audience sat a big, tough looking sergeant—just the kind of fellow always pointed out as the typical hard-boiled guy. He fumbled in his pocket, pulled out a handkerchief, and unabashedly wiped his eyes.

"Now we've seen everything," sighed the boys backstage as they blew their noses hard.

Doing a Great Job

Guarding the Pacific Coast area of the United States from surprise attack is a volunteer army of 150,000 patriotic observers and workers which maintains a 24-hour-a-day vigil in thousands of isolated posts up and down the coast.

Their story, the true adventures of housewives and businessmen, farmers and laborers who make up the Ground Observation Corps, is dramatically told in "Eyes Aloft," heard over NBC-KFI every Monday at 6 p. m.

Co-operating with the fourth fighter command, Robert L. Redd, author of the dramatic series, spent two months visiting hundreds of posts scattered between the Mexican border and the Canadian boundary.

Redd traveled by plane, command car, jeep, peep, horseback, and shank's mare to cover the 10,000-mile inspection tour, and returned to Hollywood with a brief case bulging with dramatic human interest episodes of the civilian army which helps to guard the coastline cities against enemy attack from the air.

One of the high spots on the program is the announcement of the winner of the gold trophy which NBC presents every week to an observation post or filter center for the performance of some outstanding service. As soon as the award is announced in Hollywood, the trophy is rushed by special messenger and plane to the post, where it is proudly displayed.

"Eyes Aloft" is a dramatic program that not only entertains but fills every listener with appreciation of the gallant souls who sacrifice their own personal pleasures and comfort to spend long, weary hours at their posts of duty, and should inspire every man, woman, and child to pitch in and do his part for home and country.

KFI, 6 p.m. Mon.

That Man Again

Orson Welles returns to the air the early part of November in a new quarter-hour program "Salute to Aviation" sponsored by the Lockheed Aircraft Company, the first plane manufacturer to sponsor a commercial program.

The new series originating from CBS Hollywood, will dramatize United Press stories with Orson Welles as commentator-narrator. The program is scheduled for an 8:15 spot on Monday evening immediately following "Amos 'n' Andy." Knowing the "Wonder Boy's" aptitude in handling dramatic situations, and making the most of them, we are all looking forward to something beyond the average. But we're going to keep our smelling salts handy in case he produces more "men from Mars."

Wanted! Ideas

Have you any ideas which would help sell more war bonds? Stimulate greater contribution of salvage? Increase enlistments in various technical branches of the armed service? Or aid the war effort in any way?

If you have, don't keep them a secret. The Office of War Information would like to hear about them. In fact, in cooperation with the Radio Writers Guild and the Radio Section of the Hollywood Advertising Council, the office of War Information has just opened an office in Hollywood to house the newly created war committee called "Radio Idea Exchange."

One of the functions of this committee is to solicit ideas from the radio listeners which could be used on radio programs to stimulate a greater and more uniform effort on the home front.

If you have a worthwhile suggestion to offer, mail it to the Radio Idea Exchange, 710 Taft Building, Hollywood. Send only ideas which pertain to the war effort.

The committee promises to read all submissions and guarantees that all worthy ideas will be used on the air. Since the committee functions with limited volunteer help, submissions cannot be returned, and will be acknowledged only when used.

Keep Up Good Work

Last week we announced that Fiber and Molly had adopted a flying cadet school near Hanford and intended doing everything possible to assist in the boys' entertainment. This week comes the announcement that NBC's "Road of Life" has adopted a Navy hospital ward, with members of the cast eager to find some new way to help, supplying the boys with magazines, books and other gifts approved by naval authorities.

In thanking the "Road of Life" players, Lieutenant Roger Q. White, public relations officer, wrote "for the blue-jackets of the United States Naval hospital who will benefit by your kind generosity, I wish to express gratitude and thanks. It is indeed a fine patriotic gesture."

Thus we see our radio friends opening a new phase of civilian contributions to morale building in the armed forces and setting a precedent which it is hoped other radio show companies will follow. KFI, 6:30 p. m. Tues.

Entertainment for Lads

A couple of weeks ago we mentioned in these columns that broadcasts were being transcribed onto miniature discs which our boys overseas might take with them right into battle.

Several of our more practical-minded readers have inquired what the boys were going to play these discs on, and when they were going to play them.

We know it will be a joy to every one of you who has a loved one across the seas in some far corner of the globe to know that the War Department has arranged for recreational activities which will include transcriptions of popular radio shows and the exhibition of motion picture reels.

In each mobile unit there will be a special entertainment group which will assist in the organization and direction of theatrical presentations by the soldiers, and will supervise informal musical programs.

Their equipment will include a theatrical kit, a combination radio-phonograph kit which will operate on its own power. The kit will carry several volumes of phonograph records, and record transcriptions of popular radio shows.

Thrill of Lifetime

Actor Joseph Forte, heard on many of the CBS network shows originating in Hollywood, tells of a thrill that comes only once in a lifetime. Joe has a son in foreign service stationed where he and his fellow workers can do the most good. He received a letter from him in which he told his father of having heard him on one of the "Command Performance" shows short-waved by the War Department to service men all over the world.

The boy wrote that it was like sitting in the living room at home to hear his father's voice again. "That," says Joe, "was really a thrill."

Radio Slanguage

If you were free to drift around the NBC studios you might come to the conclusion that some of the natives of Hollywood Radio City spoke a strange language when you heard something like this: "give him more gain before the fade and them segue fast to the bridge. And remember to rush the hitch-hike."

No, it's not Esperanto. It's just a director giving instructions to his engineer and announcer. And what's more, it makes sense.

If you overheard a conversation concerning the merits of various microphones, the talk might go like this: "Don't care what you say about a Salt Shaker, give me an Eight-Ball every time for clambakes. Of course, if you're on the street you need a pressure." And that's not technical language. Almost any Radio Citizen, from page boy to vice-president, would understand it.

Sound effects men too, have their language. Such a question as "Do you want this rain live?" would mean "Do you want the effect of rain created by some physical means such as a shower hose, or a pan of bird

TO THE COLORS

This is a new feature for our Radio Life family, and it will keep you posted, week by week, on personalities in the radio field who have gone into their country's service.

Hank McCune, Emcee on "It Happened in the Service." Enlisted October 8 for service in the Air Transport Command.

Dave Davis, with Earle Ferris Publicity Agency. Enlisted October 9 in the Merchant Marine as a radio operator.

Bob Moon, Announcer on CBS. Enlisted October 1 as yeoman third class in the Navy.

seed, or would you rather have a recording?"

Even script writers speak radio "slanguage." Almost any script will include such elementary instructions as "off mike" and "on mike" . . . which refer to an actor's position before the microphone.

However, there are some general terms that the average listener might recognize. For instance a "chain break" is station identification. A "33 show" or an "E. T." is a program of electrical transcriptions. And a "spot" is a one-minute announcement.

And should you ever hear the phrase "The show's Hooper took a jump," it's just radio's quaint way of saying the public is listening to a particular program more than it used to, and they're talking about you—Mr. Average Listener!

Key to the Situation?

By the way, do you happen to have an old key lying around your house? Fulton Lewis jr., Mutual commentator, would like to have you send it to him. He's collecting 'em . . . not as a new kind of hobby, but because he believes a lot of scrap metal is going to waste in the form of unused keys and he has publicly announced over the Mutual Network that he is waiting for your key or keys to arrive. Just address them to Fulton Lewis jr., Washington, D. C., and you'll know that in another small way you've done your bit.

Last week a frantic woman called the KHJ switchboard operator, stating she had lost her keys and would they please have Mr. Lewis look through keys that come from Los Angeles; that she was sure he could recognize it easily . . . but she didn't state how. We're a little worried lest Mr. Lewis be kept so busy restoring keys to lost owners he will have little time to comment on the news. DLBS, 4 p. m. Mon.-Fri.

Diplomacy

Unintentional diplomacy won a reward at the new Beverly Hills home of Robert L. Redd, NBC writer-director, this week.

When contracting for a plumbing

WANTED: Stories!

Radio Life magazine is interested in publishing short stories with a radio angle and is herewith soliciting such fiction for future inclusion in the magazine. Articles should concern radio, and should be fiction running about 675 words. For any story accepted for publication, a year's subscription to Radio Life magazine will be given. Stories should be typed on one side of the paper only and will not be returned to the author unless a stamped, self-addressed envelope is enclosed.

job for the house, Redd talked to a plumber who in the course of conversation referred to one of Redd's radio shows, "Point Sublime." The writer immediately started to pump him as to his ideas about the program. Did he like it?

"Well," drawled the plumber, "my kids have three heroes . . . Douglas MacArthur, Ben Willet (Point Sublime's main character) and Santa Claus."

P. S.—He got the job. KFI, 8 p.m. Wed.

Marry Me?

WANTED: Name and address of the young man who proposed to his sweetheart in an NBC television studio, was accepted, and gave her the ring. NBC wants to give him and his fiancée an engagement present.

During a tour of NBC, Guide Robert Hull conducted one of the groups to a television studio. There the party was split up, half going before the television cameras and the other half watching on the screen. Hull picked out a young man and asked him if the young woman with him was his wife. Told that she wasn't, but that her escort hoped she would be soon, Hull asked, "Why not propose to her now?"

The young man not only proposed and was accepted—amid the cheers of the rest of the group—but produced the ring. "I'd intended to ask her later in the evening, anyhow," he told Hull. It was the first actual engagement ever televised.

First Hand News

Robert St. John, NBC's war reporter in London is back in this country to continue his popular news show, "People," on KFI, Sunday morning at 10 o'clock.

St. John's series is devoted to stories which illustrate what the war means to big and little people—homely incidents of heroism, courage, and fortitude.

St. John says, "All England fears that the approaching long winter nights will bring renewed German blitz raids far more terrible than anything they have yet endured. There are reports," adds St. John, "that the Nazis have developed a stratosphere bomber that drops its deadly cargoes from heights far beyond the effectiveness of present British detection and anti-aircraft equipment." St. John expressed confidence, however, that the British would develop a defense for this newest of Nazi war weapons.

Upon his arrival in England last December, St. John went to work in a British war factory in the guise of an ordinary laborer. He rose not long after dawn, put in a full day at his work-bench, sped back to his office, changed into business clothes, and, by 7 o'clock each night, was scanning the late news for his regular broadcast to the United States two hours later. All his spare time was taken up with magazine writing, talking to the people in pubs and on street corners and traveling the British Isles far and wide to study the "little people" of England.

With all that background, St. John's talks will be more than interesting, and packed full of facts.

How Jolly!

"The Shadow," the phantom sleuth who, for the past five years, has been waging his crusade against crime by killing his victims outright, started off his sixth consecutive year on the air by going "softie" and merely driving his enemies to suicide or unequivocal surrender.

If you want to learn how it's done, listen in to KHJ any quiet Tuesday evening around 8:30 o'clock.

The title role introduced to the air by that past-master of shudder-producing, Orson Welles, is portrayed by Bill Johnson, ex-newspaper man who, since he turned to acting, is one of radio's busiest performers.

KHJ, 8:30 p.m. Tues.

Radio Talent Quest

Bryant Washburn, who did such an outstanding job searching for talent on the Jesse Lasky "Gateway to Hollywood" program, is hunting for talent again. He is now director of Radio Television Productions Company, an organization devoted to filling radio's constantly increasing need for new talent. The company selects its candidates by audition, and then gives them an intensive training course in mike work in the field in which they show ability.

Staff roster includes many names already familiar to radio listeners. Josephine Dillon (Gable), internationally celebrated Hollywood coach, author, and lecturer, is head coach. Herb Allen and Pat Bishop, newscasters, direct the commentator staff. Others are Robert Barene, director of music, who has performed with Leon Leonardi, Robert Armbruster, Meredith Willson, and others; Bernard Katz, instrumental auditions, who has appeared on the Texaco Star Theater and Chase and Sanborn shows; and Charles LeVere, voice auditions, who has coached such stars as Joan Marsh and Connee Boswell.

Inquiries about the company may be addressed to 6022 Wilshire Boulevard, or anyone interested may phone YOrk 4616 or WYoming 0162.

Radio Lifelines

By EVELYN BIGSBY

PAR FOR BENNY: Jack and all his crew were cynosure of your Lifeliner on Sunday when they came back to the air. The first part of the show got off to a brisk start, but the end portion dissolved in silly confusion. Some of the brightest moments were attributable to players like Jerry Hausner who cried as Phil Harris' baby (it's fascinating to see a grown man manipulate a handkerchief over his mouth to produce wa-a-s and gurgles); Verna Felton, who impersonated Dennis ("Yes, please"? ) Day's mother; Percy Kilbride ("government regulations, y'know"); and producer Bob Welch, who revealed histrionic ability by tossing off those wild laughs. Zero Mostel was lurking around the stage after the show, probably glean- ing some tips on how to handle a violin.

Percy Kilbride was as funny as his funniest last season and we're happy that he's still sticking around. Percy, who had a bit part in Benny's picture "George Washington Slept Here," came to the Benny show because he amused Jack on the movie set. His twangy remarks are refreshing and we hope we hear him often.

FOLLOW THROUGH: Ginny Simms set a new high with her "Ave Maria" the other night on her "Johnny Presents" show. Except at the end, when she disappointed a little with her climax, the song was beautifully done and a distinctive departure for the songstress, who, incidentally, is developing decisive showmanship of the Kate Smith order. After her rendition, she received the following wire from Father Flannagan of "Boys' Town": "Your Ave Maria was as beautiful as I've ever heard." Pay-off was the wire from Milton Biow, head of the agency handling the Philip Morris account: "Ginny darling," it read, "when you sang 'Ave Maria' last night you made a Catholic out of me."

CUPID SCORES: First romance to develop from Ginny's show is between Corp. Ben Effras, guest on the first broadcast, who received many invitations to dinner after his appearance and who accepted one to the home of Pearl Oblas only to fall in love with his hostess. They announced their engagement last week and Ginny has promised to sing at the wedding.

FRIGID CORRESPONDENT: Glenn Hardy, Mutual newscaster, can probably claim the most unique correspondent along radio row. For the past eight years, Hardy has received letters from Hugh B. Burch, Yukon Telegraph Line, via Whitehorse, Lower LeBarge, Yukon Territory, B. C., Canada. Burch, a line inspector, can send out mail only twice a year. He writes Hardy in the fall, gets his answer in the spring, answers in the fall. Burch tells about his lonely life, his cats and dog, how he wraps his radio up in blankets at night so the water won't freeze in the batteries. From Hardy, he gets "inside Hollywood" news and enough juicy bits to speculate on for six months.

HAVE YOU TRIED: Dialing Betty Martin, a cozy, unassuming little singer Sunday nights on KFI at 10:15? The "Little Show" Sunday mornings at 10:30 on KHJ—three minutes each of drama, humor, "remember when," news, and music that are different; Sammy Kaye's "Serenade" Sunday at 11 a. m. on KFI?—sweet, subdued melody that we hear too little of nowadays.

MISSING BETS: Would-be sponsors who are passing up CBS' "Hollywood Showcase" and "I Was There" are missing good bets. These established shows which have been relinquished by their respective sponsors, Mobiloil and Hudnut, already have definite audiences. Understand they may remain on as sustaining awhile. Incidentally, Mary Astor was one grand gal at the Hollywood Canteen opening. While others remained inside, she mingled with the boys on the dance floor and proved herself thoroughly unsnobbish.

SEQUEL TO THE TURKEY: Fair Taylor of Mutual, who viewed the lively turkey Abbott and Costello sent to Radio Life's editorial office, sent over a box, too. Enclosed was a huge turkey wishbone (picked clean) and this notation: "Some people may give you the bird, but we make your wishin' easy picking."

"Kosty" Says

Conductor Andre Kostelanetz points out that most writers improvise at the piano because the piano and the organ are the only practical instruments for that purpose. To improvise practically, only instruments with keyboards can be used.

What Fun!

The housing problem doesn't bother Joan Davis' young daughter, Beverly. The little girl has all the comforts in her own little playhouse—kitchen, modern plumbing and all. And the beauty of her house is that it is small enough to be moved whenever the family moves, and set down in the grounds of any new residence they select.

When Edwin C. Hill, the CBS newscaster, was a reporter covering top assignments for the New York Sun, he was considered one of the best dressed newsmen of his day, although he never attained the Lucius Beebe class.

Dramatic Tip

Hal Peary's "Great Gildersleeve" radio laugh isn't only a symbol of rollicking good humor. It's a medium of dramatic expression. For Peary has the laugh down to such a fine point that he can express anger, sorrow, dismay, disgust or boredom with a twist of his larynx.

How to Succeed

Marjorie Anderson, who plays Margot Lane in "The Shadow" series, was doing social work when someone casually remarked back in 1932 that she had a lovely voice for radio, so she auditioned for a part. Since then she has devoted all her time to radio.

GAGS OF THE WEEK

For the best Gags of the Week, heard over radio and sent Radio Life, tickets will be sent winners for admission to radio broadcasts. Send your best gag selection to 1029 West Washington Boulevard, Los Angeles.

Miss Hunt, 1324½ Fourth Avenue, Los Angeles.

Sirs: Heard on the Mischa Auer program.

Mischa: Girls? I should say I haven't one; do you know they are so scarce you can't even get a date without a ration card!

Mrs. Ernest Benson, 3808 West Pico Boulevard, Los Angeles.

Heard on Kraft Music Hall. Mary Martin and Ken Carpenter were discussing Christmas gifts for service men.

Mary: A shaving set is nice. Ken: Yes, it is because it doesn't have to be complete.

Mary: Why not? Ken: Well, every man has his own mug.

D. W. Johnson, 1049 West 59th Street, Los Angeles.

Sirs: Heard on "Take it or Leave It". Phil Baker: The saying used to be "To be or not to be, that is the question." . . . Today it goes, "Two B or one A, that is the question."

Keep Smiling

With HAL STYLES

(Hal Styles is heard daily Monday through Friday over KFWB at 2 p.m.—The Editor.)

Continuing with the log of the SS Robin Moor, George Newton, her wireless operator, records:

" . . . As the sun rose bright in a clear sky, we 'un-lucky 13' faced the fact that we had insufficient clothing and very little food. Moreover, we had no way to signal for help! On all sides there floated the charred wreckage of the sunken ship's food stores, but all we could salvage was a can of Maxwell House coffee, which due to the terrific explosion, had been pressed into 8 folds so that it resembled a concertina. (My knife, the only one available, was later used to chip off chunks of this coffee which, when mixed with fresh water, made a fairly palatable drink.)

Hal Styles

"On the Captain's orders, all life boats gathered together, and when the 'Old Man' checked his hastily taken charts, he decided we should head for St. Paul's Rocks, some 380 miles southeast of our last position, roughly 500 miles west of Brazil.

"Since no one had a watch, in order to mark the passing of time, it was decided we should cut a daily notch in the mast.

"On the morning of the second day, our boat began falling behind, and to aggravate matters, I discovered that a male passenger had been stealing from our meager supply of water, so I ordered that each be limited to a half glass daily, and half a slice of 'hard tack' which the German sub captain had left us.

"Sleeping, the second night, was a difficult problem and though the sky was clear, the air was biting cold. On the third day the sun shone so brightly that the man whom we had caught stealing water was overcome with the heat. Our water supply was reduced to four gallons and that night dark clouds appeared and the rain came down in 'buckets.' A fierce gale whipped the seas angrily and to cap it all, of a sudden, out of the darkness, the air was rent with a piercing scream. For the first time our little 2½-year-old passenger, Robin McCullough, thoroughly amused, began to laugh!"

Who uttered that scream and why did Robin laugh? Read next week's installment of this spine-tingler, right here.

Until then, keep listening . . . buy bonds . . . and

KEEP SMILING!

No. 10 of Radio
Life's Hobby Series
Dagwood

IN A "DITHER"

*Inventing, Soda-Jerking, and Jiving
Keep Mr. Bumstead on the Qui Vive*

IF YOU think Dagwood likes food, you should see Arthur Lake eat! Like his counter-type, "Dagwood Bumstead," of the "Blondie" series, Arthur loves sandwiches, and indulges in the most amazing creations, which often include such delectable but inharmonious combinations as strawberry jam, dill pickle, and cold potato pancake.

In addition to food, Arthur just dotes on jitterbugging and cuts the rug with the best of the hep-cats. Fact of the matter is, he has never been quite able to make up his mind whether he'd rather dance or eat, and anyone knowing his penchant for food gets a pretty good idea how much he likes dancing.

Again like Dagwood, Arthur is always whipping up a new invention. Recently he invented a home-made doo-dad which makes it easier for him to get the lid off the pickle jar when he's making a sandwich.

He also invented a special safety-catch for his fishing-rod, to prevent the line from tangling. It worked fine until one day he bagged a large shark, which ripped away the entire rod. So now he's working on a bigger and better safety catch.

He's a surf-board enthusiast too, and is working on a surf board which won't "throw him" when he hits those big waves. He visioned a surf board with sideboards, but decided it wasn't practical.

Probably his most astounding invention is his "bawler-outer," which he installed on the top of his car, and uses in place of a horn. The gadget has a hand microphone into which he bawls out road-hogs, signal jumpers, rubber wasters, and one-armed drivers . . . all in a good-natured tone of voice.

Golf has always been quite a hobby with Arthur, but he has tossed his clubs into the scrap metal drive and given up the game for the duration. "After we whip the Axis, I'll get a new set and start all over again," says Arthur. He not only turned in his sixty-foot yacht for service in the Coast Guard, but became a member of the Coast Guard Reserve himself.

Arthur is indulging in a sandwich of his own creation. Recipe: One layer of bread, cut the length of the loaf; spread on peanut butter and strawberry jam, thin slices of avocado, slice of ham, one dill pickle, a slice of cheese, potato pancake, applesauce, olive spread, sardines and lettuce.

Arthur Lake and his pretty blond wife, Patricia Van Cleve, who by the way, is the niece of Marion Davies, are happiest when executing the latest jive steps. Here in motion are the rug-cutting jitterbug experts as they do the jumping jive to the newest and hottest swing tune.

Arthur is always whipping up a new invention. Here is his "bawler-outer" which he uses instead of a horn on his car. Dagwood has a hand microphone into which he sallies "Look where you're going," "Keep on your own side of the road," and "Be careful, don't jump the signal."

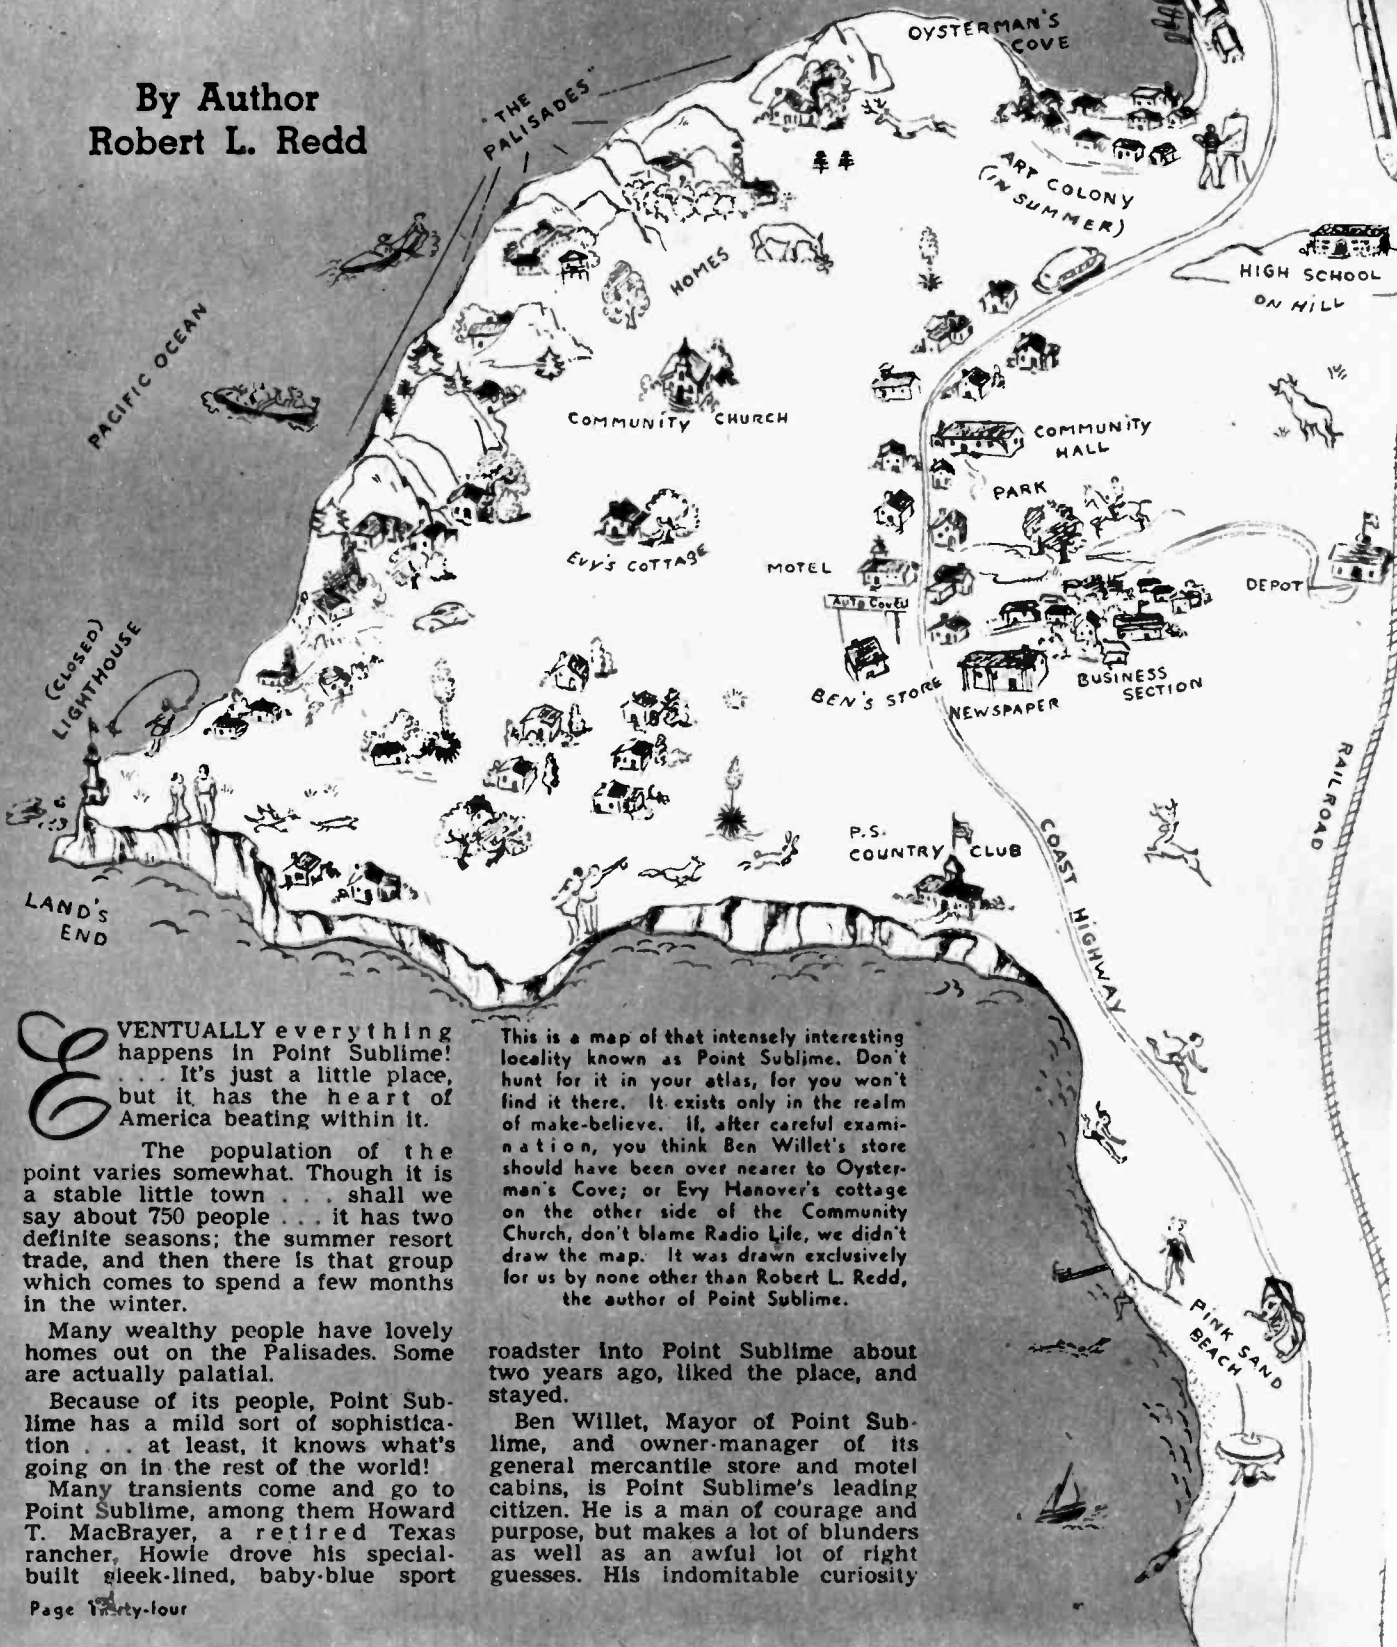

Childhood ambition fulfilled. Dagwood, behind his home soda fountain, serves as soda-jerker for his niece, Joyce, and the Lakes' dogs, Medy Lamarr and Charlie Chan. Arthur is busy nowadays working out some syrup recipes that will save on sugar. Arthur recommends honey or canned peach juice as good basic soda syrups.

A PERFECTLY CONDUCTED TOUR TO Point Sublime

By Author
Robert L. Redd

EVENTUALLY everything happens in Point Sublime! . . . It's just a little place, but it has the heart of America beating within it.

The population of the point varies somewhat. Though it is a stable little town . . . shall we say about 750 people . . . it has two definite seasons; the summer resort trade, and then there is that group which comes to spend a few months in the winter.

Many wealthy people have lovely homes out on the Palisades. Some are actually palatial.

Because of its people, Point Sublime has a mild sort of sophistication . . . at least, it knows what's going on in the rest of the world!

Many transients come and go to Point Sublime, among them Howard T. MacBrayer, a retired Texas rancher, Howie drove his special-built sleek-lined, baby-blue sport

This is a map of that intensely interesting locality known as Point Sublime. Don't hunt for it in your atlas, for you won't find it there. It exists only in the realm of make-believe. If, after careful examination, you think Ben Willet's store should have been over nearer to Oysterman's Cove; or Evy Hanover's cottage on the other side of the Community Church, don't blame Radio Life, we didn't draw the map. It was drawn exclusively for us by none other than Robert L. Redd, the author of Point Sublime.

roadster into Point Sublime about two years ago, liked the place, and stayed.

Ben Willet, Mayor of Point Sublime, and owner-manager of its general mercantile store and motel cabins, is Point Sublime's leading citizen. He is a man of courage and purpose, but makes a lot of blunders as well as an awful lot of right guesses. His indomitable curiosity (Point Sublime, that homey saga of a big little town somewhere on the California coast, completes its second year on the air in December. When Robert L. Redd first launched his Point Sublime story, many shook their heads in doubt about its success. But the recent Pacific Coast Hooper rating of 8 shows that Point Sublime has a substantial following. Knowing that Radio Life readers are among those admiring this air story, we asked Mr. Redd, the author, to outline his characters. Particularly interesting is the map which Author Redd drew and which is hitherto unpublished.—The Editor).

Ben Willet (Cliff Arquette, right) with Aaron Saul (Lou Merrill), the jeweler. Aaron and his wife Sadie, are the only Jewish people in Point Sublime. Their son was inducted into the army at the first draft. Sadie has had trouble with her side for seven years. A good man, Aaron's passion is peace, but he can understand fighting for it.

leads him into all manner of projects, including a romantic weakness for Evelyn Hanover. Evy came to Point Sublime two years ago as housekeeper for Professor Fellows, paleontologist. When the Professor left, Evy stayed and became the apple of Ben Willet's eye.

Whenever Ben gets too sure of himself, Evy flaunts the attentions of Howie MacBrayer who would like to be a playboy, but has worked so hard all his life, he can't quite let himself go. All of which makes interesting conversation for the unlimited imagination of gossip-wacky Hattie Hirsch, birth place and cradle of 102% of the gossip in Point Sublime.

Whatever the nation's for, so is Point Sublime. Ben Willet and Evy Hanover will go on living their lives happily, and keeping up with the times!

After all, does anybody do much more?

Evelyn Hanover (Jane Morgan) is the apple of Ben Willet's (Cliff Arquette's) eye. Often Ben and Evy talk very seriously about the future . . . their future as friends, or more than that. Though they have grown to love each other, as friends, that is evidently as far as it can ever go . . . they both realize their weaknesses . . . as they put it "their selfish desire to carry on as individuals."

Howard T. MacBrayer (Earle Ross) came to Point Sublime about two years ago, liked the place and has stayed. Howie bought the old Point Sublime Golf and Surf Club, remodeled it and put it into operation on a sound and democratic basis. Howie owns a fast 42-foot cabin cruiser, moored at the marina.

This is Monk, played by Fred MacKaye. Two years ago the Point Sublime "Herald" was failing, due to competition from the unscrupulous Vernon "Sun." John Rice, editor, was waiting for his son, Monk, to graduate from college. Monk finally pitched in and is doing well with the "New Herald".

August Moon (Mel Blanc), a young man who has a job at the railway depot, and fills in his time between trains, doing odd jobs for Ben at the store. Unquestionably, someday, "Moony" will drive Ben stark raving mad. Moony is what might be termed a "smart dope." In fact, he's much smarter than he is dopey.

Murdo the "MONITOR MAN"

Can an Engineer Make or Break a Radio Program?

By EVELYN BIGSBY

MURDO MacKENZIE is one of the top engineers at Radio City. Jack Benny refuses to have anyone else do the "mixing" for his show. Bing Crosby wants "Mac" for Kraft Music Hall. So do many of the famous stars who have guested on big-time programs and have discovered "Mac's" skill.

What makes "Mac" or any other outstanding engineer good? What part does he perform in putting a program on the air? Is more than mechanical skill necessary for a top notch job of monitoring?

Perhaps the engineer's importance may be gauged by knowing that from 50 to 80 per cent of the show's actual production, after the script is written, rests in his hands. He tells everyone, from orchestra leader and sound effects man to the $3,000-a-night guest star, exactly what he or she must do to come over the air most effectively.

There used to be an axiom around radio stations that an engineer could make or break a person's voice. Truthfully, he doesn't do a great deal to regulate the microphone. It is up to him to choose the number and types of microphones best suited to the particular show he is doing and to place them where they will bring in the desired effects.

What a "mixer" may do is change the microphone adjustment over from "music" to "voice" to produce a higher, thinner result. Or he may switch from "voice" to "music" if he wants a deeper, fuller sound.

After the microphones are in place and adjusted, the engineer must watch the technique of those using the instrument. Performers must not stand too close, or they will sound gassy. Too far away, they will lose punch for their lines or song. Best distance under normal delivery conditions is from eight inches to a foot from the mike.

But suppose a grand opera star is scheduled for a guest appearance. The diva is accustomed to singing at full voice, before thousands of people, from a huge stage. If she delivers her aria similarly before a microphone, she will blast her presentation to ruins. So it is, that often the engineer draws chalk lines to insure correct airing of a million dollar voice, which might sound like

1 Murdo takes the microphones out of the closet, preparatory to "setting up" a show. For a program like Kraft Music Hall, he uses nine, choosing types best fitted for each need, placed where they will serve most advantageously.

2 Next, he tests the studio equipment and by means of push buttons, sees that the amplifiers are working. Last year the Chase and Sanborn show was off the air two minutes because someone inadvertently hung his coat on a switch.

50 cents if it weren't broadcast appropriately.

In setting up the microphones for the orchestra, the "mixer" must make a conscientious study of the orchestra—its arrangements, personnel, and artistic objectives.

Suppose a "Kostelanetz" effect is desired with the stringed instruments. A skillful placement of microphones brings out the fiddles. Does an orchestra like Ozzie Nelson's impress the listener with its rich, solid sound? That is largely due to the location of a mike over the bass saxophonist. Sometimes it takes weeks and months of experimentation for an engineer to know, to an inch, where to place every chair, microphone, platform, or instrument.

After the mikes are in place and the performers are in correct position, the engineer tackles the job of putting and keeping the show on the air. He must "mix" the volume from the various microphones, so that the orchestra doesn't drown out the vocalists or the bass doesn't rumble the violins into oblivion.

This is where "Mac's" artistic skill comes into play. What he does, actually, is to work emotionally as well as mechanically at his job.

"I feel a song with Bing," says Murdo simply. "I try to see what's coming before it happens, like coming down on the volume when Bing hits a breath." In spots like these, "Mac's" study of music stands him in excellent stead.

The engineer experiences great tension on a big-time show. He watches the script; he observes the

3 The monitor man sets up the microphone for Bob Crosby, who "subbed" this summer for brother Bing. Murdo checks the mike for height, and correct direction with respect to orchestra and audience. He's changing switch in the bottom from "music" to "voice."

4 He sets up microphones for the orchestra. This technique takes months of experimentation and experience. NBC keeps a "morgue" of detailed diagrams showing the most advantageous plan worked out for each orchestra. Distances have been measured to the inch.

performers; he eyes his volume indicator; he is a bundle of pent-up nervous energy. After concluding a half-hour show, it is not unusual for him to emerge, wringing wet, from the booth.

"If the show's good, the engineer seldom gets the credit," "Mac" comments resignedly, "but if it's bad, it's always his fault."

5 Murdo "grabs a sandwich" after a hectic rehearsal. There isn't time for a steak dinner, because the show goes on in half an hour. Highly-paid artists who can't be left idle, have rehearsed and gone. But the engineer is usually found in the booth, for there is always some performer who needs a little more rehearsal.

6 John Scott Trotter joins the engineer in the booth. Trotter and MacKenzie are one of the best teams on the air today. Trotter is rated one of radio's outstanding orchestra directors because he arranges especially for radio and microphones, has selected very fine musicians who know radio technique, and spends infinite time rehearsing.

Johnny ON THE SPOT

Evelyn Bigsby
Associate Editor Radio Life Magazine
Dear Evelyn:

Ever since your invitation arrived at San Diego, asking me to continue my column in Radio Life, I've been wondering where would I begin? That is if my commanding officer did allow me a few minutes at the typewriter each week. Well, as things have worked out during the past few weeks, my duty at the moment is concerned with public relations for the U. S. Marine Corps in the Southern California sector—so here am I—late but raring to go with my small contribution.

I'd like to begin with you, Evelyn. I'll never forget that week in early July when the Marine Corps decided that my tottering framework wasn't in too bad a condition to withstand a seven-week session called "boot camp" at the San Diego Marine Base. And how we rushed through pages and pages of stories and pictures in a frantic attempt to take advantage of the new rotogravure process which Messrs. Bigsby and Vaughan have made available to the thousands of Radio Life fans all over the country. And how I left you "in a spot" with many stories incomplete and with barely enough information to get out the next issue. But what a next issue you put out! It had everything, Evelyn! Color, human interest, action, and—well, it was a great issue. The boys in Platoon 576 with me got a genuine "boot" out of every page.

And the amazing part about it, Evelyn, is that you've continued to add more zest and sparkle to the publication with each succeeding week. Even the drill instructors and rifle coaches were trying to reserve the copies as you sent them through the mail. Naturally I was pleased and thrilled to read those letters which were addressed to me by Jimmie Fidler, Rube Samuelsen, Hank McCune, Tommy Cook, Bob Garred and that 1942-derful Connie Haines.

Speaking of drill instructors, let me add a line in this note about the men who sent Platoon 576 through the "boot camp" routine. From left to right our headmen were Corp. E. K. Stone, Platoon Leader; Corp. Charles Q. Williams and Corp. W. D. Mangan. I can't imagine a tougher assignment than that which confronts these drill instructors when they're handed a group of 60-odd fresh, green recruits and told to whip them into shape in seven or eight weeks for a place on Uncle Sam's All-American team. I've never seen men work harder and with more enthusiasm and understanding than Corp. Stone and his two aides. The parents of every fellow in our Platoon can be proud of the treatment and training their sons received in "boot camp."

"Boot camp" was no child's play, to be sure. But, despite the rugged routine, it was a thrilling experience that I'm certain few who completed the 8-week basic training period will soon forget. Every member of Platoon 576 (just one of hundreds of platoons being sent through the Marine Base every few weeks) was sharper mentally and physically when the last day of "boot camp" came and Corp. Stone read off the orders for each man.

Going into uniform after 28 years as a civilian has given me a new outlook on life, and during the next few weeks when my new duties as public relations aide to Major James P. Schwerin, U.S.M.C., at Los Angeles permits me to do so, I should like very much to write about some of the thoughts I have rushing through my mind about the Marine Corps; about the proper attitude we must all have in order to contribute a maximum effort to the drive for Victory and the peace that is to follow; and about the vital role that music and the entertainment industry is playing and can play in the war effort.

I'm very flattered that you have seen fit to keep my name on your mast-head as editor-in-the-service, and I only hope I can contribute something once in awhile that will fit into the successful format of Radio Life.

Thanks, Evelyn, for the space; and if here and there a line is up in the air, don't hesitate to erase.

Semper Fidelis, (Always Faithful)

Johnny Whitehead, Sgt., U.S.M.C.

Food for Thought

Occasionally the Quiz Kids put food for thought above food for the stomach. After spending a long morning taking the Air Corps intelligence tests recently, the six mental mighties who were present, should by all rights, have headed out in search of something to eat.

Instead they got into a heated discussion about the moon's eclipse which many of them had lost sleep to observe the night before.

Heaven Sent?

It appears that the very heavens are sending their excess scrap metal to help Uncle Sammy win the war.

A letter written by C. A. Bisby of Escalon, California, to Clete Roberts of the Blue Network, stated that he had found what he thought might be a meteor in the hills near his home. It is a solid mass of metal that appears to be nickel-silver and weighs about 1800 pounds. Mr. Bisby moved it to his home and would like to have some metallurgist examine it to see if it could be of any service to the government.

Our Neighbors

An amusing local program for listeners who like typical family-situation humor is the new "Our Neighbors" being heard Saturday nights over KPAS. With Archie Allen, age 16, in love with 15-year-old Sybil, who also has a Little Sister, there are all the elements of a continuous calamity in the house next door. The program is directed by Lucille Lang, who also shares the writing honors with Thomas Caldwell.

FRED WARING leads "half a hundred" musicians on NBC-KFI's "Pleasure Time" series. For more than a decade, Waring's Pennsylvanians have comprised one of radio's most popular musical aggregations.

nals game for Gillette, I encountered one that was a pip.

At about 10 o'clock on the Sunday morning of the game, sportswriter Eraven Dyer of the Los Angeles Times pounded on my stateroom door.

"Do you know where we are?" he said.

"According to my timetable," I replied, "we're at La Junta, Colo. The California Limited goes on to Chicago from here, while another train picks us up and takes us on to Denver."

"Yes?" said Braven. "Well, come out and have a look."

Our car stood alone on a side-track. The California Limited had gone on, so had the train to Denver. We were 180 miles from Denver, with less than four and a half hours before game time. The next train through wouldn't get us in until 4 o'clock in the afternoon.

There was no chance to get a plane ride. After a mad scramble around town, we picked up a cab driver who agreed to drive us the 180 mountainous miles, but he refused to go over 40 miles an hour.

We reached the stadium 10 minutes before the kick-off, just barely time for me to get together the necessary facts and figures.

But that's just one adventure in a sportscaster's life.

Twelve years ago a heated contest between Long Beach Polytechnic and Long Beach Hoover High was set. So heated was the scheduled game that I was hired as an impartial outsider to do the broadcast. It was a foggy night, and in order to see the plays, I walked out onto the field with my 200 feet of cable.

A Hoover man got the ball on an end play and was galloping down the field for a touchdown when he got tangled in my wire. Down he went and on top of him piled half the Poly team.

Hoover jumped on me for that mishap, accused me of being the twelfth man on the Poly team, and I was lucky to escape with my life.

Yes, sir, sportscasting runs the gamut of experiences, from thrills, drama and tragedy to humor. I love it, and I've rolled up my sleeves for a big season.

"Blue Eyed Tornado"

FRANKLY FORTY, and as charmingly feminine as they come, Dorothy Thompson, the blue-eyed, two-fisted tornado of the journalistic world is back on the air in a new series of weekly broadcasts called "Dorothy Thompson Comments."

Sixty-one stations sizzle as the dynamic Dorothy probes the headlines, with listeners from Podunk to Manhattan lending an eager ear to catch every inflection of her keen-edged, scalpel-like wit.

In the early days of Dorothy's career, she went to New York to get into the teaching profession. She flunked in English grammar, so tried writing stories instead. Finally she landed a job addressing envelopes in a Woman's Suffrage headquarters in Buffalo. Becoming passionately devoted to the cause, she stumped all over upper New York for the next three years. In those days Dorothy got up at five or six in the morning to catch the milk train. Today, she breakfasts in bed around 10 a.m., after which she reads furiously for two or three hours, absorbing the overnight news. But from the five o'clock alarm of those early days, to the present 10 o'clock breakfast in bed was no overnight jump.

One day Dorothy waved farewell to the early morning milk train, and hopped a boat sailing for Europe. By the time it dropped anchor at London, she had landed a job covering a Zionist conference, which a group of shipmates was attending.

For all her two-fisted tactics for gathering the news, Dorothy is always smartly garbed, and never forgets to take a peek in the mirror, powder her nose, and delicately rouge her lips.

How she covered the Polish revolution in evening dress and satin slippers has practically become a legend in newspaper circles.

Asked if the learning or characteristics of her parents had any bearing on her outstanding success as a journalist and news commentator, the famous woman answered: "Father, Peter Thompson, Methodist preacher. Dull at preaching. Lovely tenor voice, eloquent at prayer."

SALT OF THE EARTH:

The common table salt has quite a history. It goes back as far as (and probably farther than) the days of the Greeks, who considered it divine. Legend says that they were taught how to use it by a couple of sailors from an unknown shore!

Then along came the Romans, who, being a practical people, used it to pay off their soldiers. "Salarium," or salt-money was the usual military pay check. One of the Caesars doubled the pay check. The result was disconcerting. The soldiers were now exceptionally well fed and they fought worse than ever. They weren't "worth their salt." However, the Romans weren't daunted by this. To prove their high esteem for salt, they called one of the most traveled roads

the Salarian Way.

Mexican rulers had a different idea. Every time a province rebelled the government punished it by forbidding it to use salt. It was discovered that this was a very severe punishment, because salt not only gives a better flavor to food, but aids digestion, and used in moderate amounts is considered to be a necessary ingredient to healthful living.

Anyhow, just try eating food without salt. You'll see what the rulers of Mexico had in mind.

HOT TIPS:

How well do you know your oven temperatures? Can you rate a hundred percent on the following oven temperatures for baking? Cover the answers with a slip of paper and see how near you come to them.

Degrees Fahrenheit

Slow oven .....	250-350
Moderate oven .....	350-400
Quick or hot oven .....	400-450
Very hot oven .....	450-550

So you made the hundred percent. Fine. Go to the head of the class.

CABBAGES AND VICTORY:

Who ever thought eating a cabbage would help victory along? But it does. You see, there are lots of foods that are needed by our fighting men and Allies. As a rule these foods are the kinds that can be made into a concentrated form so that small quantities will go far. They are easier to ship, too.

Well, our Government asks us to eat more of the foods that are raised here in America and aren't so suitable for shipping abroad. That way nothing goes to waste. We make the most of all of our crops.

That's where the cabbages come in. There is a bigger than average crop this year. Since it's a nutritious vegetable and also one of the more inexpensive ones, we can make the most of it.

Why not put up some sauerkraut this year? Several large heads will make a good sized supply. It is just the thing to serve with frankfurters, or pot roasts, or spareribs.

It's a good idea from this standpoint, too. There isn't going to be so much tin for the regular canning of sauerkraut. But if you put up your own there is nothing for you to worry about.

When those chilly winter months roll around, you'll have plenty of kraut to serve your family. And you've done Uncle Sammy a good turn, too!
