Mrs. Taylor Lucas, 737 1/4 Maltman Avenue,
Los Angeles, Calif.

Sirs: My first acquaintance with Radio Life came with the issue dated "December 29—January 4 . . . Vol. 2, No. 16," with a cover picture of Arthur Q. Bryan and "Kitzel" Auerbach doing a Father Time and Infant gag. I still have it. Each succeeding issue I've read, but never wrote my opinions on anything about radio until now. It goes without saying that I like the magazine . . . including the beautiful Fourth Anniversary number which was packed with many of the things we want to know about our favorite radio personalities.

I especially enjoyed your Distinguished Achievement Awards and thought the selections excellent. In vain, however, I searched the kudoes for one of the most important phases of current radio: "Most Enjoyable Commercials." Ah me! The things these have had to listen to along with some wanted program. It seems strange to me that more importance is not attached to the "listenability" of commercials, particularly as to the announcers delivering them.

Being a real radio fan, I listen to many of the smaller stations, as well as the networks—news of which predominates your otherwise splendid magazine. Back to our "commercial-interesters." I like Tom Hanlon's easy delivery on KNX; Galen Drake almost does the job, but my vote is for Mike Stuart whom I've heard on several stations, including KMTR.

I hear him now on the Lamplighter program, too, and he still packs more sincerity and interest into a commercial than any other announcer for my money. Mike Stuart says that he hopes to bring his program on dogs back on the air in the not too distant future. You're right, Mrs. Lucas. We did miss the boat on the best commercial award and we're planning right now to include it in next year's achievement list.

has become so silly and far-fetched that it isn't worth listening to any more. Ditto for "A Date with Judy" which used to be tops with us.

Also, we would like to know why, when one program has been coming through at a normal tone, the next one sometimes comes in with such a din that one has to drop everything and rush to tune it down. Fred Allen always comes in like that, so it gets off to a bad start. Otherwise it is a swell show.

It is the engineer who controls the amount of volume with which a program comes on the air. As you will surmise from a feature story we are planning to bring you in a forthcoming issue of Radio Life, an engineer can make or break an air show. Ratings for radio programs are reached through surveys conducted via telephone. Percentage of sets in use and what shows they are tuned to is basis for a rating. We've never been called, but we know people who have. Under the present system, fans who have no telephones don't contribute to a rating.

Mary Hall, 1524 North Fuller Avenue, Hollywood, Calif.

Sirs: Did you know that Radio Life gets blue-penciled every week? It does, and here's how: I go over the daily programs with a pencil and check those I wish to hear. At the proper time I turn on the radio. I want to say that I appreciate the program-finder. When a friend tells me of an interesting program, and is not sure about the time it comes on, I then consult the log and find out.

I love to hear "Guiding Light," "Fibber and Molly," "Dr. I.Q.," "Information, Please," "Quiz Kids," "Gildersleeve," "Amos and Andy" and many others. I love the musical programs that include Nelson Eddy, Frank Munn and Richard Crooks. I don't care for Frank Sinatra for the reason I do not like crooners. I dearly love to hear the old church hymns and it breaks my heart that we do not have the Gospel Singer any more. Although I am a woman, I care very little for a woman's voice. I like men's voices.

It disappoints me to get ready for a favorite program, and it doesn't come on, with no explanation whatever given. Why does not the radio world have votes on what people like and don't like? It would solve many problems, I'm sure.

We're not so sure about solving many problems. Many a poll has been taken, only to prove that you can please some of the people some of the time, but not all of the people ever. But we agree that what the people want should determine content of programs unless an uplifting crusade to improve tastes is the determining factor.

Mrs. A. Russell, 631 1/2 South Comstock Avenue, Whittier, Calif.

Sirs: As I believe we are all entitled to our own opinions, I would like to express mine, although not in the nature of a "peeve." Reading over the letters you print, with some of the (to me) most unreasonable peeves, I can't help wondering what kind of people these writers would be to live with.

With so many stations and so many different programs, I can't see where there is room for so much criticism. True, we all have our favorite programs but is that any reason to want others taken off the air? I find my Radio Life a great help at all times. I enjoy every word of it and don't see what could be subtracted or added to make it better. What a busy bunch you would all be if you made all the suggested alterations.

I too, would rather hear "PROGRAM" than "PROGRUM" but so many make the same mistakes, I just can't afford another wrinkle or gray hair worrying about it. If I were to presume to advise, I would say "If you don't like the program, turn it off—some one else may like it." No, I am not a Pollyanna, but just believe in the old saying, "live and let live."

Barbara Cole, 112 North Gale Drive, Beverly Hills, Calif.

Sirs: In a recent issue of Radio Life, you had an article on the Nils-son Twins. They are great favorites of mine.

I enjoy Frank Sinatra's program much better since the yelling and screaming has stopped.

Your little magazine is well worth the five cents which you charge. I enjoy it very much and would not miss it for anything.

I missed Dick Haymes a great deal when he was taken off the "Here's to Romance" program, and was very glad to hear he has a new show. Would you please print an article on Dick Haymes for us fans.

You bet. We'll be bringing you another revealing story about your favorite, Dick Haymes, before very long.

Mrs. V. Palmer, 1521 North Vista, Hollywood, Calif.

Sirs: You stated in a recent Radio Life filler, titled Mexican Motif, that Mercedes McCambridge is on "I Love a Mystery." In a newspaper clipping the same week, I read that Barbara Jean Wong is on "I Love a Mystery." Which is right?

Like many others, I am a shut-in radio fan, and the radio is my only companion during the day. The stories are becoming very bad. Why so many quarrels, killings, and alienation of affections? Many programs give the young people a very bad outlook on life, and even ideas on how to commit crimes cleverly.

In radio, motion pictures and the daily comics could be traced much of the juvenile delinquency of today.

Both Mercedes MacCambridge and Barbara Jean Wong are heard on "I Love a Mystery" regularly in a variety of roles. Also heard in recent episodes in Isabel Jewell, versatile film player.

Mrs. Edward H. Scott, 1131-B East California, Glendale, Calif.

Sirs: I'd like to make a suggestion about commercials. Instead of all the griping about commercials which your readers seem to do, I'd like to suggest a weekly feature, entitled "Praiseworthy Plugs" or some such name. This could merely list the programs and announcers who gave the most clever commercials of the week. You know, some commercials actually receive applause, and I believe giving some recognition to these would do more to improve conditions generally, than all the complaining done now.

Right you are, Mrs. Scott. How about it, Radio Lifers? So many of your letters to our Ear Inspires the Pen department have complained of radio commercials. How about devoting your next missives to telling us about the enjoyable commercials you've heard. Let's give the poor announcers credit where credit is due. By the way, do any of you listeners remember KFJ's radio program, "Nothing But Praise?" It was grooved much in Mrs. Scott's train of thought.

VYOLA AND HANLEY STAFFORD in the living room of their beautiful home, high atop a Hollywood hill, look out over the entire city. From their vantage point they can see San Gorgonio on the east and the ocean to the west.

ONE DAY ABOUT five and a half years ago, Joe E. Brown opened his cavernous mouth and didn't put his foot into it. Instead, he introduced Hanley Stafford to the beautiful radio actress, Vyola Vonn. That was all Joe needed to do, because Cupid took over from there on, and four years ago, Vyola and Hanley were married.

As they form one of radio's most interesting Mr. and Mrs. twosomes, Radio Life recently took a CBS camera man out to the Stafford estate high up on a hilltop overlooking Sunset boulevard's strip. The resulting pictures tell, far better than words, the story of Hanley's and Vyola's home life. In them we see Baby Snook's tormented daddy (and the beleaguered Mr. Dithers of "Blondie" fame) as a devoted spouse, and the lovely Vyola, who has helped sing the Rinso commercial for four years, who is always "the other woman" on "Maxwell House" and who introduces sex interest on "Blondie" as a domesticated house wife.

For several months past, Vyola has been doing all the work in the pair's ten room house. "I adore cooking", she enthused, "and right now I'm in the throes of Chinese dishes. I'm trying something special out on twelve of the family next Sunday. Yes, I've learned about cooking since I was married. Mother never let me putter around because I messed the kitchen up too much. When Hanley married me, all I could make was a marble cake—the pink, brown, and white kind."

Was Career Girl

Vyola, whose mother was a specialty dancer and whose father's father was an Austrian baron, started in show business when she was five, did parts on Uncle John's "Children's Hour", worked in vaudeville singing, dancing, and playing the ukelele. She attended John Marshall high school, studied French and is able to sing in that language. Later on, she sang with Larry Lee's band at the Beverly Wilshire, at the Paradise in New York with Paul Whiteman, and with Vincent Lopez' and Gus Arnheim's orchestras. During 1937 and 1938 she played Mademoiselle Fifi on the Eddie Cantor radio program, later enacted romantic parts on "Big Town". She is usually cast in a Carmen Miranda type of role, but sighs, "Golly, I'd love to get away from accents and into straight dramatic parts!"

Vyola provides Hubble Hanley with an extremely photogenic home-movie model. The Staffords are energetic 16 mm. fans and love to shoot scenes in their beautifully landscaped garden. Hanley takes the pictures

Can Sing Louder Than Anybody

ART BAKER, WHO HAS BEEN A SUCCESSFUL COMMUNITY SING LEADER since World War I, warms up "A Song Is Born" audience at NBC. In the accompanying article, Baker describes the four types of audience which a song leader confronts.

Or How to Unzip Your Lip

By Art Baker
As Told to Marcia Sinclair

A "AMERICANS," averred Art Baker, "are noted through all countries as singing good and loud. Sometimes it's not so good, but it's a wful loud. We've been hearing a lot of talk lately about 'zipping the lip,' but what I'm advocating now is unzipping it—with community singing."

The boyish-faced, white-locked song leader of NBC's "A Song Is Born" threw us a twinkle and said, "The secret of good community singing consists of creating a bathtub atmosphere in public."

Art Baker ought to know because every Monday night he coaxes 350 assorted individuals, packed into NBC's Studio B, to warble "good and loud." What magic does he employ to elicit lusty tones and spontaneous melody?

Baker flashed his engaging smile

◀ A BAKER IDIOSYNCRACY. According to Orchestra Leader Dick Aurandt, left, Art beats one time with his feet and another with his arms. As the true tempo is performed with Art's feet, Aurandt here watches the rhythm of Baker's stamping so that audience and orchestra will coordinate.

BAKER DEALS WITH TYPE I AUDIENCE. This kind thinks it's beneath its dignity to warble. Baker prescribes a ridiculous song like "Old McDonald Had a Farm." He says he can sense, the minute he steps on the stage, what kind of group he's working with, has antidotes for every type of audience. —NBC Trazel Photos and responded: "People like to sing. But people have been taught to act like little ladies and gentlemen and when they come to a broadcast and are asked to join in a community sing, they're coated in a veneer. When you meet up with that veneer, you are up against something."

According to Baker, it takes only a split second after a song leader steps in front of an audience to classify the potential canaries as predominantly one of four types.

Type No. 1: "It's beneath my dignity to sing." This is most frequently encountered among swank women's clubs.

Baker's antidote: Some ridiculous song like "Old McDonald Had a Farm." At first they'll look down their noses. Then Baker says: "Gals, you can't kid me. When you were a young, blushing bride and scrubbed your own floors, you used to give with the harmony. Now you can afford to hire a maid but the soap's still there. Come on—dig it out!"

A few timid souls break down and follow Baker's song leading directions. By the time they come to the "chick chick here and a chick chick there," three-quarters of the ladies are singing and looking in amazement at one another as if they expected to fall apart performing such unbecoming antics. The remaining one-quarter, the hide-bound hold-outs, also gaze in utter astonishment and titter before breaking down and joining the hoi poloi. It all ends up in a crescendo of ee-eye-ee-eye o's.

Type No. II: "Dare me to sing!"

Baker's antidote: Some nostalgic number like "Let Me Call You Sweetheart."

Of this type of audience, Art observes: "Meet it by giving them confidence. Don't get up and wave a lily white hand and say, 'Everybody will sing like this' and then the leader gives with a beautiful covered tone like he learned in Ipswich Conservatory of Music and the guy in the seventh row says: 'Nuts! I didn't come here to learn how to sing. I came to enjoy myself.'"

"If the leader," continues Baker, "assumes a hog caller's voice and sings with a so-called white tone (that's with no color) the guy in the seventh row will exclaim: 'Heck! I can sing better than that, and furthermore they'll never hear me what with him bellowing!' So, the leader gets less loud, the audience sings so hard it gets red in the face, and you're off to the races."

High 'n' Mighty Type

Type No. III. "Are we not endowed with greater gray matter and does not that gray matter say it's corny to sing?"

Baker's antidote: "God Bless America," plus a serious talk on the tremendous power of music.

The song leader bumped into this attitude when he guested-conducted a sing for a well-known advertising club. He reminded the men that music is used as an anaesthesia; that tobacco plants hire a fellow—not to strip the leaves,—but to sing while others strip, and how production is thus increased as much as ten per cent. He reminds them, too, of the physical power of music and of the diapason stop in New York's largest theater—a stop which has been locked because its use was cracking the ceiling. Recalls Baker, too, that a scientist has claimed that if a certain note were to be played continuously, that note could cause the Chrysler tower to vibrate.

After a talk like this, Type No. III audience realizes that it is definitely not corny to sing, but that it is human and great.

Gets All Types

"Of course," Baker points out, "although an audience may be predominantly one of the types mentioned, we usually find all three combined in one assembly. There have been very few times when I've not been able to break 'em down. If a song leader can't get 'em mellowed up

▲ HE LOOKS THE PART HE PLAYS— Griff Barnett, veteran actor heard as "Judd Adams," editor of the "Midland Gazette" and leading character in the serial "Midland, USA." Barnett, heard also on KHJ'S "The Main Line," has played half a dozen newspaper men in his acting career and thinks "Judd" the most typical (and most likeable) of them all.

▲ HERE'S THE MENACE IN "MIDLAND, USA"—Noreen Gammill, who plays the role of "Clarissa Pinney." Making trouble for her neighbors is strictly a "radio act" though, for Noreen is an accomplished thespian noted for her ability to go along with the cast, and get along with its members, too.

"Midland, U.S.A."

Mutual's New Daytime Show Tells Story of American Small Town

THE STORY of "Midland, USA" could be the story of almost any small town in the United States—the leading character of the series, played by Griff Barnett, is "Judd Adams," and he, too, could be found in almost any hamlet in the country.

A newspaper editor, he's the kind of a fellow who everyday is busy with a hundred things that have nothing to do with the editing of "The Midland Daily Gazette." He's a detective without badge of office, seeking the source of trouble besetting one of his friends; he's a minister without pulpit, helping a wayward soul return to the path of grace; he's a teacher without diploma who gives instruction to the slow of wit (and sometimes to those too sharp for Midland's welfare).

And above all, "Judd," who is never "Mr. Adams" to a "Midlander," is a philosopher capable of seeing two sides to every argument, and quite capable of finding a common meeting ground for those who argue.

For all that, "Judd Adams" is a very human fellow—in fact, according to Jack Holmes, writer of the series, "Judd Adams" is a composite of a dozen newspaper editors whom he himself has met in his career as a newspaper writer and columnist.

Typical Wife

Likewise, "Judd's" wife, "Martha," played by Charlotte Knight, is a typical small town housewife who helps her husband in his business affairs, keeping one eye on the "Gazette's" cash drawer, and the other on the comfort and appearance of her beloved "Judd."

Another important character in "Midland, USA," is one Clarissa Pinney, trouble-maker par excellence. It's really Clarissa who directly or indirectly causes most of "Midland's"—and "Judd's"—trouble, and though "Judd" may try to defend her, even he has to admit that most generally "Clarissa" is a hazard to neighborhood peace and quiet.

Other "Typicals"

Other "Midlanders" you meet are "Bill Hackett," owner and operator of the "Midland Hotel and Truckin' Company," played by Joe Forte; Jimmy Harris, a 17-year old with a past; "Henry White" who counts it among his misfortunes that he lives next door to "Clarissa"; and "Dot," a newcomer to "Midland" whose arrival whets the interest of the whole vicinity, especially Clarissa's.

Perhaps the accompanying pictures will help you visualize the characters and add to your listening pleasure.

◀ A MICROPHONE DELIVERY puts Producer Don Fitzgerald into a momentary acting-role as he points out to writer Jack Holmes how a certain scene from a "Midland, USA" script should be delivered.

We Expand

We're bursting with news this week and want our Radio Life family to be the first to hear about Radio Fanfare. Perhaps some of you who have lived in San Francisco's Bay area remember a mighty fine little magazine up there called Fanfare, which you picked up twice a month at your grocer's.

Well, last week Fanfare became RADIO Fanfare. In other words, it blossomed as a radio magazine, edited from Hollywood by the editors of Radio Life and chockfull of the same behind-scenes stories and clever pictures distinguishing Radio Life from all other magazines for more than four years.

The northern publication, backed by United Grocers Buying Group, gives Radio Life stories an additional circulation of 100,000 in San Francisco and Oakland and as far north as Eureka, and enlarges our sphere to practically the entire state of California.

Arrangements have already been made whereby advertising may be purchased at combination rates in both Radio Fanfare and Radio Life. This affords advertisers the only statewide circulation in a market magazine circulated through independent grocers.

We here at Radio Life know how many times our readers have written asking us when a magazine like Radio Life was going to be printed for northern California. We're sure that we can count on all Radio Life's loyal family to tip off their friends in the Bay area and tell them what they're missing if they don't pick up Radio Fanfare right away!

Clete Back

Clete Roberts, handsome, dark-haired war correspondent for the Blue, says he'll never forget last Christmas. He was on a "troop carrying destroyer" prepared to strike at Cape Gloucester, New Britain. "That night as we sat on the ship lying off the coast waiting to move, we could hear other Marines singing Christmas carols. On our ship some of the lads were cleaning machine guns, sharpening their machetes, or going over their flame throwers, but as the familiar melodies came wafting over, some of our boys softly joined in."

It's the little things like the carols, or the soldiers trying to find a lost dog, or the sergeant having to stop his weather-map making to wipe the sheet of bugs off his paper that one remembers, observed Clete. Or he remembers the Marine, a veteran of Guadalcanal, who accidentally shot himself in the foot and who lay on the deck and cried like a baby because "they'll think I did it on purpose so I wouldn't have to land."

Last week, Clete was back for a brief stay in Hollywood after nine months as a war correspondent for the Blue Network in the Southwest Pacific. He scarcely had time to become re-acquainted with his wife, Mary, and their five-year-old daughter, Penny, so insistent were his radio friends. Everyone wanted to hear about Clete's experiences, so Radio Life considered itself more than favored when the popular radio man took time to pay us a lengthy visit. Seems Clete's the kind of chap who hadn't forgotten the first story we did on him some three years ago out at KMPC.

We recalled that he had joined the Blue news staff shortly afterward, had served in the Army for a year before receiving his discharge, then had been heard on the "Blue Newsroom Review" before being assigned by the Blue's New York News and Special Events department to the Southwest Pacific. "I was finding it very difficult to be a civilian," he observed.

After taking shots that "frightened me to death but didn't make me sick," Clete left the U. S. in October, 1943. "En route to our destination we never saw another ship, never saw a bit of land," he remarked.

Reporting to an Australian officer to arrange transportation to General MacArthur's headquarters, the correspondent received a grim introduction to his work. The plane which was to pick him up crashed and never got in. Two fellow correspondents were killed.

"My biggest problem," he said, "was getting acquainted with a strange country and its method of broadcasting. Some of their methods are very different from ours. For one thing, they have no sense of our split-second timing and would try to put me on the air at 5:31 or 5:33 if they couldn't make it by 5:30."

"I had a free rein in deciding what and when to visit. I covered some 45,000 miles and went on four or five combat missions. My responsibility was to get in the line-up, participate in the landing and then get out and back to the nearest point of broadcast as soon as possible. Getting back, of course, was the problem." He recalls one time when he and two other correspondents were put ashore off the north New Guinea coast in the drenching rain, waded through surf to a jungle, sloshed around in the mud for most of the night, but eventually arranged to get to the point of broadcast—thirty hours after the start of the raid and six hours before release time.

He skipped lightly over several other exciting stories to say: "What I enjoyed most was getting acquainted with the G. I.'s—the 'dog faces.' I think they're heroes—every one—as much as any air hero or dashing naval commander!"

CLETE ROBERTS HOME AGAIN. Blue Network War Correspondent Roberts, back from nine months of Southwest Pacific reporting, traces some of his travels on globe for Mrs. Roberts and the couple's daughter, Penny. He plans to return overseas after he has covered Democratic Convention and conferred with New York network executives. See story in Radio West.

Asked about the boys, Clete replied: "Every American boy overseas is one consuming ache to get home. Many of them said to me 'I think if I could have a good cold chocolate malted milk in the corner drug store, I'd never ask for anything more.' At night, they don't discuss global strategy. They talk about getting home and what kind of a job they'll have."

Roberts was in Australia when the WACs first arrived. "They were a most welcome sight to the American boys," he stated. "Their hair and nails were nicely done and they were well turned out in their uniforms. Believe me, they were models of deportment."

Clete interviewed General MacArthur just before he came home and observed of him. "He looks remarkably young and healthy for his years. His office was like that of a successful businessman. I was impressed by the efficiency. No nonsense, no unnecessary movements. He's running his end of the war as efficiently as he possibly can."

Cooperation between networks overseas is wonderful, Clete stated. "The various networks present a solid front and get things done. We drew straws to see which one of us correspondents went on the air for a combined broadcast. I did the first combined broadcast from Hollandia. In front of a mike, out there, we broadcast only in a pair of shoes and shorts, with the perspiration rolling down in rivulets."

Overseas Clete saw several Hollywood lads, among them Lieut. Bob de la Torre, Bud Hiestand of the O.W.I., Capt. Hal Berger (since returned) and Capt. Ed Tidwell, formerly of KHJ and now of the Armed Forces Radio Service. "When I first saw Tidwell he was cutting jungle growth with his machete and piling it up so his transcriptions wouldn't sink in the mud. 'I'm going to put on a show for the boys,' he said."

Roberts thinks the radio picture is definitely picking up in the Pacific and that the radio men are doing a swell job of entertaining and informing the fighting men.

He himself made constant use of the new wire recorder equipment, by means of which an hour and ten minute program can be recorded on a small spool containing 11,000 feet of wire.

Clete left last week-end for Chicago to cover the Democratic convention, then on to New York to lecture and to confer with his chief, Johnny Johnstone, Blue news head. He plans to return to the Pacific.

"I made thirty-two broadcasts a month, aired nation-wide, but only three of them were heard in Los Angeles. I'm the forgotten man of California radio," he concluded rather sadly.

Leonardi East

In this week's issue of Radio Life, you'll find a story about Leon Leonardi, KFVB's capable orchestra leader. But when you prepare to follow our suggestion and tune in to his program, you'll find the maestro is not on it. That's why we're dashing off this note.

Seems Leonardi, between the time our story went to the printer's and sprung into print, decided to take a three months' leave of absence to direct the musical comedy, "Bloomer Girl" in New York. We're assured he'll return October 1, and that the program will continue with a substitute maestro in his absence.

Nelson Eddy Show

Once again despite howls from fans, two shows have landed on the airplanes at the same time, in this case causing frustration of those listeners who happen to like the best of more than one type of music. A new CBS show starring Nelson Eddy and a 50-piece orchestra conducted by Robert Armbruster will compete for listener interest with Kay Kyser's "College of Musical Knowledge," heard over NBC, on Wednesday evenings, beginning Sept. 27. On the new program, Eddy will be backed up by a chorus of 30 voices. He's slated to replace "Report to the Nation."

FOR THE UNACUSTOMED.

Frank Hobart Nelson, director of the Bureau of Institutional Broadcasting, Pasadena, is currently conducting a coaching conference for public speakers, politicians and radio preachers, at the Don Martin School of Radio, 1584 Crossroads-of-the-World, Hollywood, on Wednesday nights beginning July 19. Mr. Nelson points out that the purpose of this conference is to develop radio speaking talent particularly in the institutional field.

Diggin' Discs

With JACK LAWSON

WHO IS YOUR favorite disc jockey? Most everybody listens to recorded music shows at one time or another. Some of them are darned good. And some of the disc jockeys have large and loyal followings. Just for the heck of it, we'd like to find out who is the most popular disc jockey in Southern California. Now you can help. All you have to do is write the name of your favorite on a penny postcard and mail it to Jack Lawson, Diggin' Discs, RADIO LIFE, 1558 North Vine Street, Hollywood, 28. We'll leave you know the results in the near future.

TWO OF THE most-requested songs of the Harlem Hit Parade are "Hurry, Hurry" and "Can't See For Lookin'." Now Decca comes up with a new release of these tunes by Lucky Millinder's band, featuring the new blues-shouting find, Wynonie "Mr. Blues" Harris. Millinder, incidentally, plans to give a concert soon at the Apollo Theater in Harlem, musically tracing the history of jazz from Gershwin to Waller.

LES BROWN, who has made quite a name for himself hereabouts, has a new wazing for Columbia in "Out of Nowhere" and "Sunday," with vocals by Butch Stone. Les now is featured on the Sunday Fitch Bandwagon show over NBC, while playing an engagement at the Hotel Pennsylvania in New York.

BACK IN TOWN again are the ever-popular Merry Macs, currently appearing in person at Slapsy Maxie's theater restaurant. The Macs have a potential Decca hit in two "A" sides—to wit, "Sing Me a Song of Texas" and "Pretty Kitty Blue Eyes." Former is of the "bounce rhythm" style which the Macs made famous. Latter is a fast waltz, somewhat of the order of their great "Rose O'Day." Both look like natural jukebox nickel coaxers.

NEW RELEASES: Cab Calloway's "A Smooth One" and "Let's Go, Joe," with vocals by Cab and the Cabaliers. Typical Calloway stuff... Governor Jimmie Davis of Louisiana gives with "Is It Too Late Now" and "There's a Chill On the Hill Tonight." Plenty of strong hill billy appeal... Dick Haymes' "How Blue the Night" and "How Many Times Do I Have to Tell You?" Dick not only asks questions, he answers 'em!

STRICTLY A NOVELTY number, the Andrews Sisters "Straighten Up and Fly Right" derives from Negro folklore, telling the story of a hungry buzzard who thought he'd make himself a dinner of a monkey, but the monkey turns reformer and tips buzz off. The lyrics might make you wonder, but the rhythm is solid. Its plattermate is lilting "Tico-Tico" from the Walt Disney picture, "Saludos Amigos." Good stuff from America's highest paid girl trio.

Radio Roundup

Lee Sweetland, brilliant west coast baritone, replaces John Charles Thomas on his Sunday morning program for four weeks. You'll be hearing him at 11:30 on KFI. John Nesbitt, smooth storyteller, remains on the air during

Lee Sweetland

Thomas' vacation, as do Victor Young's orchestra and the Ken Darby Chorus with Gayne Whitman as announcer. And how will Thomas spend his vacation? Touring service hospitals up and down the coast. Show business people give more generously of their time and energies than is generally recognized. Few in other walks of life can equal their record.

When a business man suddenly finds himself doing, thinking and saying irrelevant things which have nothing to do with business, the little fellow with the bow and arrow has something to do with it. And it happens without regard to the season, as Hubert discovers in "Tang of Autumn," the Skippy Hollywood Theater drama on KFI Sunday night at 9:30. Ellen Drew stars as the model, Sally, who knocks Hubert for a loop in the cute comedy.

Getting kicked upstairs is a repetitive history of many a big-time radio personality. Alan Young, summer replacement for Eddie Cantor, is another who's worked his way up in this fashion. English born, the young Canadian comic got his first job as a radio funnyman when he was 15. It paid the munificent stipend of $2.50 a week. When he made good on the air, he demanded a raise—to $5. So he was out of a job. Still only 24, he's packed a lot of vaudeville and radio experience into his short lifetime and is destined to be one of our bigger guffaw guys. Try tuning him in Wednesday nights at 6 on KFI.

Andy Devine, his many fans will be delighted to learn, has made good in the first lap of the Melody Roundup show these Saturday mornings at 8:30, KFI, and the program has been renewed. The gravel-voiced comic heads a good company which includes the Sons of the Pioneers, Song Spinners, Frank Graham and Perry Botkin's orchestra.

Debonairest of the detective horde is Ellery Queen who solves them at the same old stand Thursday nights at 9:30. This famous sleuth has some competition from that suave Oriental gumshoe, Charlie Chan, who's on KFI three hours earlier. Ed Begley plays the role of Chan and Leon Janney his son in the new series. they chorused, "and has a cuckoo clock eve.ybody forgets to wind."

Pets around the place are two Cairns—a female, Wendy, 16 months old, and a male, Cameron, or "Cammy" for short, six months old. "Cammy" is named after the Cameron Highlanders, Hanley's regiment in World War I.

"Both dogs are a couple of Ferdinands", the Staffords sigh. "The other day we caught them eating up our yellow violas."

For Hanley and Vyola their dogs, photography, cooking, and their home connote a contented existence quite in contrast to their radio roles of siren or harassed daddy. Oh, yes. And there are the lovely flower hats, themselves a venture in home gardening and millinery.

Vyola may wear the devastating hibiscus and the soft blue plumbago, but as for Hanley, he likes to do his gardening in a ragged piece of straw headgear.

"I call it his Jeeter Lester-hat", rippled Vyola.

A 3½ hour program for one sponsor for 14 months must mean good entertainment, points out Thelma Kirchner, KGFJ manager. The program is "Say It With Music." The sponsor, Vaughn's Automobile Co. Home Is Not Really Like That

Billy Rose's aquacade at the San Francisco fair. Vyola, who kept insisting, "Don't waste your film. You'll never get anything in this dark place!" had to admit later that her hubble's lensing was definitely good.

On trips taken since then, the cameras, both still and movie, have always accompanied the couple. "We're typical tourists", remarked Vyola. "When we visited Mexico, we piled out of bed at six in the morning, we were so anxious to see the sights."

When the Staffords are at home, their garden supplies background for pictures.

It embraces not only effective planting close to the house, but an idyllic formal plot which terminates in a grape arbor 150 yards from the residence. The grounds, comprising two and a half acres, run two-thirds of the way down into the canyon, but the house and picturesque arbor section are on level ground. "We brought in 97 loads of top soil and I shovelled it all myself", Hanley says pridefully.

The Staffords' flowers do more than afford luscious bloom and color about their home. They also furnish Vyola with her hats! Strolling outside before she is scheduled to appear for a broadcast, she picks a few chosen blossoms that will blend with her costume and fashions them into a devastating chapeau. So famous has she become for her creations that her studio appearance is always anticipated with the question, "Wonder what she'll whip up today?"

Hats Galore

To date, Vyola has concocted more than 250 hats from flowers out of Hanley's garden. "Annuals are too perishable to use", she explained. "Perennials like hibiscus and pelargonium are better. None of my hats is ever made over a frame. Before real half-hats came in vogue, I used to make my own out of flowers. Then, I created a pill box type to go with an upswept hair-do, a Chinese effect, and a beanie completely made of passion flowers."

Inside, the Stafford home reflects uniqueness with taste. Fanny Brice, who plays Hanley's irascible Baby Snooks on CBS, who, in personal life, is a noted decorator and collector of antiques, helped Hanley and Vyola furnish their place. Full advantage is taken of the magnificent view, large windows opening vistas of scenic grandeur from practically every room. "Yet we're only twelve minutes from Sunset and Vine", Hanley pointed out. "We don't have to have a week-end kit to go into town, but usually slip back home between rehearsals to freshen up." Most charming corner of the house is the den which the Staffords designed. "It's the room we live in".

Andy & Virginia

Make a Pie

Mon., Wed., Fri., 4:30 p.m.
Blue-KECA

2. VIRGINIA DOES HER PART by plucking plump, juicy lemons from one of her own trees. The Blue network songstress and Andy recently built a grape arbor (in background) and put in their customary garden. Last year their table was amply supplied with home-grown produce.

3. VIRGINIA MARCHES INTO kitchen to start her pie, but finds Andy occupying the rolling board as he tinkers with one of his model trains. Assembling such miniatures is one of Andy's hobbies. So far he has built fifteen.

4. DOUGH ROLLED LIGHTLY.
Virginia fits it into the pan and trims the edges. Next, she puts a fancy crimp around the edge of the shell.

Virginia's Recipe for Lemon Pie

Crust: (For two single crust pies)

- 1 1/2 c. flour
- 1/2 tsp. salt
- 1/2 c. shortening
- About 1/4 c. ice cold water

Sift together flour and salt, work in shortening, either by cutting it with a knife or rubbing in with the fingers. Mix to light dough with water, handling as little as possible. Divide into two portions, work slightly with fingers to insure a smooth surface, and roll out once only to fill pie plate. Bake ten to fifteen minutes in oven at 475 degrees. If only one shell is needed, wrap the other half of the dough in wax paper and keep in the refrigerator.

Filling:

- 1 c. sugar
- 3 tbsp. corn starch
- 1 pt. boiling water
- 3 egg yolks
- 1 tsp. butter
- 2 large Meyer lemons (grated rind and juice)

Mix the sugar with the corn starch and add the boiling water. Boil one minute, stirring constantly. Place over hot water and add the beaten egg yolks and butter. Cook until thickened. Add the lemon juice and rind and pour into the pie shell. Cover with meringue.

7. WHILE THE DOG, PAT, looks on intently, the Blue's clever Andy sits himself down to a wedge of hot-out-of-the-oven pie while even the cookie jar mammy seems to beam approval.

5. THE PASTRY SHELL comes out of the oven (10-15 minutes, 475 degrees) and Virginia pours the lemon filling. Andy beats the egg whites for the meringue, whistling while envisioning the final product.

6. "YUM!" EXCLAIMS ANDY, as he licks the spoon which stirred the luscious lemon filling, Meringue whipped stiff, but not dry, the pie goes into the oven for browning.

"Out With Boogie Woogie And Barrelhouse Music," Says Maestro Leonardi, "And On With Quiet Tunes"

Monday-Friday, 8:15 p.m.
KFWB

W AR-JANGLED NERVES have created a tremendous increase in listener demand for good music, according to Leon Leonard, director of the KFWB-Warner Brothers Orchestra heard nightly at 8:15 on Utter-McKinley's "Music for You."

Pointing to his steadily-mounting fan mail for substantiation, the maestro holds that most people want relaxation after a hard day's work under war-created pressure, and seek melodies of the "quiet" type, rather than the more blatant boogie-woogie, swing and barrelhouse kind of music.

"Don't misunderstand me," says Leonard. "I am not condemning modern jive. I think it fills an important place in music. Dancing is good pastime, and these types of music are good for dancing. As a matter of fact, I can and do play swing if the occasion warrants it."

"But for listening pleasure, which is what the average radio listener wants, the 'better' kind of music is far superior and far more popular."

Music Schedule

Five evenings a week, Leonard and his orchestra broadcast on KFWB their "Music for You," alternating their programs. On Monday and Thursday nights, they feature

SINGING'S

Not for Sissies

By Shirley Gordon

The Angelic-Voiced Youths of the Robert Mitchell Boychoir Are No Angels, But Real and Lovable Boys

THE RADIO-DIALER who tunes in to KMTR's Sunday noon Mass to hear the clear youthful voices of the Robert Mitchell Boychoir blended in the sacred songs of the church, may easily fancy himself listening to a choir of Angels. There comes to his mind the awe-inspiring picture of small, black-robed figures assembled together within the stately, stain-windowed walls of St. Brendan's, their golden voices rising softly on the wings of age-old hymns, their eager young faces intent upon the guiding gestures of their singing instructor, David Street.

"But sometimes," smiles Mr. Street, "they get pretty scrappy." Gifted as they may be, the boys of the famed Mitchell choir are real rough-and-ready youngsters. They are not above a bout of mischief and like all adolescents, admits their leader, they have sometimes displayed smart-aleck antics. "Only then," he declares, "do I have to become stern with them."

The boys' director, David Street, is the tall, dark, youthful lad in his late twenties who sings each Friday evening on NBC's "Village Store" comedy show. Since Robert Mitchell entered into service with the Navy, Street (who himself has an honorable discharge from the Army) spends some forty-eight hours a week working with the choir, and his golden-voiced charges have enveloped him with hero-worship. As often as possible, they attend his network broadcasts.

Small Boy's Tribute

At every airing of the program, the one little colored boy in the choir is to be found in a front seat holding tightly to a battered bag of candy, and after the show, he hurries up to his singing instructor to offer him a piece.

Several nationalities are represented in the Mitchell choral group. One of the boys is Chinese. Each boy's tuition amounts to three dollars monthly, in addition to the cost of the books. Thirty per cent of the money the organization earns for professional appearances is put into the choir fund, to cover the expenses of the organization and the maintenance costs of the choir house. In addition to its KMTR broadcasts, the choir regularly makes appearances at weddings and benefits, and has been seen and heard on the screen in a much-lauded musical short, as well as in such recent feature-length productions as "Rosie O'Grady" and Bing Crosby's "Going My Way".

"The film that was the most fun for the boys, though," Street related, in ten minutes, he might as well go home."

Baker speaks from years of experience leading the public in tonsil stretching. In World War One, when he was just a plain buck private, he was wont to sing in a loud voice. Two or three other privates became accustomed to joining him and eventually they formed a quartet which attracted a tent full of other soldiers. When occasion arose for a huge community sing among 15,000 Americans stationed at Grantham, England, the commanding officer ordered: "Go get that buck private with the loud voice and have him lead the crowd." That was Art Baker's debut as a big time tune elicitor.

"I came back home," reminisces Art, "and drifted into leading a church choir of 40 voices in Mishawaka, Indiana. Then I joined the Rotary Club and led the singing. In 1939, out of 4700 International Rotary song leaders, I was chosen leader for the San Francisco convention. Which probably shows I had a louder voice than any other leader!"

Sandwiched in between his return from England and his entry into radio about seven years ago, Baker traveled for ten years as song leader with Evangelist George Wood Anderson. Anderson saw Baker in action when Art was directing a choir comprised of choir leaders during a Billy Sunday gathering. Baker, who was making $27.50 a week in a Mishawaka factory, confesses to "controlling myself admirably" when Anderson offered "not more than $150 a week and all expenses" to tour the country as Anderson's song leader.

Art's answer was: "Well, I guess that will do." Continues Baker, "I also made ten cents on each song book we sold, and if you don't think I sold song books like mad, you're nuts!"

In action before a community sing audience, Art doesn't spare himself a whit. He waves his arms energetically, bends double, stamps his foot in time to the music, tosses his head around until his silver mane shakes, and disregards mussing his customary immaculate, sartorially perfect attire. He probably takes off a couple of pounds in the process of getting his audience to give all the way. He still remembers some audiences that, once warmed, refused to quit singing. At a Kiwanis Club convention in Atlantic City, the men roared "Far Away" for twenty minutes.

"I couldn't stop 'em," shrugs Art. Again, in Ithica, New York, a high school assembly waxed enthusiastic on "Ham 'n' Eggs" and carolled it so persistently that the speaker didn't get a chance to speak.

"Once a year," Baker claims with a happy chuckle, "I get Type No. IV—a self-starting audience. They love to sing and I don't have to use any psychological tricks to lead them into it. When I see that kind of a group, all I have to do is say, 'Gosh! I feel like singing. Don't you?' And the greatest chorus on earth can't compare with such people."

"Me, a singer?," Baker became quizzical in answer to a nudge. "Don't be crazy. I just sing loud, not good. I've only had fourteen music lessons in my life!"

Singing's Not for Sissies!

"was a Hopalong Cassidy western. Put twenty-three happy, husky young boys on horses, and turn them loose in wide open spaces, and you can imagine how wild they went."

Enjoy Outings

Street plans carefree Sunday afternoon outings for the singing group, after their period of broadcasting, and often accompanies them on camping trips and sporting activities. During the week, they devote each morning to their vocal instruction, then attend regular school classes at St. Brendan's during the remainder of the day.

Asked where they have found the outstanding young voices that he and Mitchell have assembled, Street declared, "I don't know where they come from; they simply show up for auditions. To be eligible, a boy must have a high, clear voice and the ability to take musical instruction."

Street himself did not sing in a choir during his childhood. "I wish I had, however," he maintains. "It would have saved me three years of later work."

He considers his present work with the choir of invaluable advantage to him. In 1937, he sang with the St. Brendan's men's choir, and before that, had gained preliminary experience with his singing and acting appearances in high school plays.

Professionally, he played and sang with dance bands, was one of the "Six Hits and a Miss" and in 1940, won the Mary Astor award on her "Hollywood Showcase". In the same year, he appeared in the musical revue, "They Can't Get You Down", and later enacted roles in the movies, "Reveler With Beverly" and "We've Never Been Licked". Recently, he directed a chorus of sixteen men in making an album of hymns for servicemen overseas, at the request of the war department.

Are Diversified

Although the boys of the Mitchell Choir are most noted for their thrilling renditions of sacred and classical melodies, outstanding too, are their interpretations of such all-time favorites as "Shortnin' Bread".

"By the way," declared Mr. Street with a smile, at the mention of this song, "whenever we do that number, I must always remind the little colored youngster to say 'sho'tnin' without the 'r'."

"He's our boogie-woogie expert,"

continued David. "And no matter what melody the choir is singing, be it a hymn or a classic, according to him, it's 'plenty sharp!'"

"Music in Three-Quarter Time," including world famous waltzes. For their Tuesday evening programs, they present "Music of All Faiths," with local church choirs as guest artists and featuring religious music.

Their Wednesday and Friday programs, called "Little Concerts," feature light classics.

Most of the orchestra has remained intact since the group was organized by Leonardi seven and a half years ago, although a few of the original members have gone into the nation's armed forces.

The maestro himself is a pioneer radio musical director, with twenty-one years' background in that field. Holder of the Grand Prize of Honor of the Paris Conservatory, he was for two years associate musical director of the world-famous Radio City Music Hall in New York.

War Programs

With the Warner Brothers orchestra, he has been active in many causes supporting the war effort. One of his major contributions was the organization, at the request of the United States Navy, one week after Pearl Harbor, of a transcontinental radio program, "Anchors Aweigh," which he continued for 85 consecutive weeks. At the same time, Leonardi served as musical director and musical producer of "Halls of Montezuma" for the United States Marine Corps, a program broadcast from the Marine Corps base at San Diego.

Thus, for almost two years, he gave three days of each week as a volunteer to the two branches of the nation's military forces that constitute the first line of attack.

One of Leonardi's favorite undertakings is the introduction of works of new and little-known composers whose compositions he believes merit attention.

"Music," he explains, "should be judged solely on its merit, rather than on the fame of the composer or the age of the composition. If I can be instrumental in bringing good music to the public, I feel that I am doing more than helping the public composer; I am giving the public something beautiful and worthwhile."
