Sirs: Your fine magazine has become one of the few I can't do without. If I miss getting it at my regular grocery store I start out and search 'til I find one. I have missed very few copies since you began publication and always pass them on—it's getting better all the time.

Whatever happened to Galen Drake? I miss his morning and afternoon broadcasts. I used to hear him in San Francisco before he came to the southern network.

I am very fond of Burritt Wheeler and never missed him on his old program. He has somewhat tamed down that morning salute gang. They are a grand crowd and put on a good show.

Galen Drake is now in New York representing Fletcher Wiley's Productions and broadcasting over Blue station KJZ. He can't be heard locally at present, we're sorry to say.

Sirs: Listening to the Philharmonic the other noon I was really thrilled to hear Quincy Howe say that Burrell Ives would sing. I used to listen to him nearly two years ago while sojourning in Albuquerque, New Mexico, and was so interested and delighted with his unusual voice and style that I awoke every Sunday at the ungodly hour of 6:00 a.m. just to listen to him. I supposed he was overseas but evidently he is in the United States. I certainly would like to hear him on the air regularly.

Pat Osmond, 444 S. Westmoreland, Los Angeles 5, Calif.

Sirs: Ted Tessey's question about the practice of saying "this station" instead of giving call letters should be the pleasure of the stations to answer, but knowing their tendency to ignore inquiries (my pet peeve) it's doubtful if any of them will—so may I?

Mr. Tessey says he sometimes has to wait five or ten minutes to identify a station. He's playing in luck; legally I believe a station can sound out for thirty-five minutes running without disclosing its identity. They really are not trying to be coy or confusing when they say "write to the station to which you are listening," nor mysterious, no matter how much they crave your continued attention. It's merely a practical way of getting around a mechanical hurdle.

The announcement may come from some far place you never heard of—Schen Smith, for instance—and go simultaneously to a network of stations with a hundred or more different call letters; the agency handling the account most likely is in New York; the sponsor could be in New Orleans; and he in turn is apt to have distributors near each of the stations releasing the program. You could write to any of them and expect results, but Uncle Sam's postoffice likes you better for writing the station nearest you—the "station to which you are listening"—as probably your letter would have to gravitate back to your local distributor before you get your results. Or the program or announcement you hear might be a recording—one of dozens and dozens of replicas being played around the country at the convenience of the stations. In either case it is possible to break in at the psychological instant, have the local announcer give the local call letters, then switch back to the network announcer or the record, and sometimes it is done, but it is a much more expensive and diddly process than it sounds, takes a mass of paper work, causes no end of jitters behind the scenes, and, what's important to you, limits the program's smoothness and flexibility, since the local announcer must know at just what fraction of a second he is to expect his cue and how many seconds and fractions he may and must use. For instance, KWKW takes longer to say than KFI. Not much, of course, but a dead heartbeat of time or an overlapping can help to ouch things up like a stumble in marching cadence.

Most people who do much listening either know definitely or have an instinctive feeling for a station's identity, and Radio Life's program finder is a great help in finding where you are at on "the station to which you are listening."

Mrs. Dorothy Herman, 2000 North New Hampshire, Hollywood 27, Calif.

Sirs: I would like to know who plays the part of Tony Bronson on "One Mah's Family."

John Lake plays the part of Tony—he's tall, he's handsome, married, and an actor of long standing.

Miss Carol Linden, Anaheim, Calif.

Sirs: In my opinion Don McNeill's Breakfast Club is the best program of its kind on the air. Don is the perfect master of ceremonies—and that Jack Owens! He certainly must

We did a story on the Breakfast Club a little over a year ago. If other readers express the desire for another one, though, we'll be happy to oblige.

Mrs. George Grider, Oxnard, Calif.

Sirs: You ask in this week's copy of Radio Life what singer 'your readers think' rates with Crosby and Sinatra. My vote goes for Dave Lane.

Who else do you fans think rates a vote?

Mrs. S. J. Webber, 312 Woodland Avenue, Banning, Calif.

Sirs: I would like to know if Rodriguez and Sutherland were thrown off the radio; if so, why; are they to be heard anywhere now; and if so, where?

We talked to Mr. Rodriguez who told us that both he and Sutherland, formerly heard transcontinentally over the Blue Network, are both off the air indefinitely. Rodriguez is now writing for Disney and doing some newspaper writing on the side, and Sutherland is writing for motion pictures. He very much appreciated you readers' interest.

MIDNIGHT OIL

That Woman in Bergen's Life

By Corine Lamon

*Radio Life Reveals Story Behind
Charlie McCarthy's Bachelor Girl
Aunt—Wooden-Head Effie Klinker*

CHARLIE has an aunt . . . There's a new addition to Bergen's family of hickory-heads and a woman in his life . . . And her name is Effie Klinker.

With the fall return of the Charlie McCarthy-Edgar Bergen show to NBC'S airplanes a colorful new personality was introduced to radio listeners.

Effie Klinker in her gaily colored gaiters, striped stockings, yellow shoes, old-fashioned dress with mutton leg sleeves and an incongruously giddy new hat, is really more than a personality, though—she's a production.

Compared to the paltry $35 Bergen paid a Chicago woodcarver to make his sketch of Charley McCarthy—to be three dimensional, the wood and paint and clay that Effie's classy chassis is made up of runs into quite a pretty figure—four figures, to be exact—$4,000. She's a "bachelor girl" with an expensive background, if you please.

For such a youngster she has quite a past. Already her portrait was painted by Dario—rather, Dario, the portrait painter, applied the paint to her face, which evolved from clay to plaster to wood. Makeup color suggestions and wig were furnished by Max Factor, hats by John Fredericks, and gowns by Western Costume.

How She Evolved

Her face was evolved with more forethought than many a map. First a recording was made of the voice she was to have. Then, from this, and a description of her personality traits and a brief history, twenty top-notch artists from Disney's, Schlesinger's and other cartooning studios each painted their idea of how the new character should look. From these drawings the resultant picture of the present Effie emerged and was transformed to the state of a dummy.

She's full of the devil and in on the gang, but her Upper Brackets, Vermont, background and the financial freedom that comes of having an income of her own set her apart from the rest of Bergen's little family—namely, Charlie and Mortimer. She likes men, but she likes her independence better. Despite the fact that she has had three proposals she has preferred to remain a "bachelor girl." "I've never found

Newscaster Sam Hayes' Listeners Send Him Pancakes, Tell Him About Their Pets, Suggest Hair Restorer

Monday-Saturday 7-45 a.m.
KFI-NBC

NEWSCASTER Sam Hayes rolls out of bed at 5:30 every morning in order to get to the NBC studio in time to broadcast the breakfast news. For lesser mortals who cock one sleepy ear in the direction of his headline hearing, his life is interesting—there's a lot behind this well-established name and voice.

Sam Hayes has been delivering accurate accounts of the news in a rapid-fire, friendly way since 1931 when he won an audition, became the first Richfield reporter, and was heard nightly in that capacity for six years. "Yes, I was the original Richfield reporter," he told us. "Before that I got my start in radio in San Francisco as a member of a National Players group."

When he was very young Sam discovered he had the gift of gab which has since made him famous throughout the land. His father was a Presbyterian minister noted for his oratory, and at the age of nine the youngest member of the Hayes family used to preach sermons in the family parlor on Sunday evenings.

He followed his bent for public address at Stanford University, where he majored in dramatics, then joined the theatrical company which led to his radio renown and subsequent motion picture fame. He has been in over 100 motion pictures, mostly enacting the role of a newscaster or sports announcer. He has another claim to fame in his record of sorts, of only having two sponsors in thirteen years of radio—Richfield and his present sponsor, the Sperry Flour Company.

Look Out, Cary Grant! Here Comes Bill Goodwin, Radio's Gift to the Flickers!

WHO WOULD have thought we'd see the day! Here is Bill Goodwin, that big carefree chap with the happy-go-lucky grin, worrying about his hairline! Photo of handsome Cary Grant is no comfort.

Goodwin's GONE HOLLYWOOD

By Shirley Gordon

Tuesday, 6:00 p.m.
CBS-KNX

BILL GOODWIN looked at the menu, smacked his lips, shook his head and reluctantly ordered a light lunch. "I'm on a diet," he explained resignedly.

"That's the movies for you," he said with a wistful sigh. "In radio, you can weigh two hundred pounds, and still be a leading man." Bill is tall and husky—six feet, one, and one hundred and ninety-odd pounds.

"And the camera adds to your weight!" lamented Goodwin further. "But it doesn't to your hair!"

Who would have thought we'd see the day? Goodwin, that big, carefree guy with the happy-go-lucky grin, watching his waistline and worrying over his hairline! Goodwin, gone Hollywood!

The movies have plucked him from the airplanes as a budding new screen personality. You can see him currently in the MGM Technicolor hit, "Bathing Beauty," and soon, as Betty Hutton's husband, in the story of fabulous Texas Guinan, "Incendiary Blonde." But this doesn't mean that radio dialers are to lose one of their favorite air personalities. Bill's exclusive contract with the sponsor of CBS' Burns and Allen airshow is assurance that he will remain active at the mike.

"I wouldn't be content without radio," Bill told us. He started his career on Sacramento and San Francisco radio stations, then came to KHJ in Hollywood, where he did everything from acting, staff announcing and writing copy to handling sound effects and manning the instrument board in the engineer's booth.

"Radio is a wonderful training ground," he said with real enthusiasm. Now, in addition to his work on the screen, he hopes to branch into other realms of broadcasting. His great ambition is to have his own comedy show on the air.

Likes Frothy Comedy

He considers the field of light comedy his special forte, and has no desire to do straight drama. His recent roles on such shows as "Screen Guild" in light romantic comedies have been typical of the kind that he likes best to do.

"Radio has spoiled me, though," Goodwin continued. "My memory has become pretty poor! When I've got a movie script to memorize, I have to study and study and study, then rehearse and rehearse and rehearse! One system I use is to write my scene from memory on the typewriter. It helps to make it stick in my mind." He told us that his wife cues him when he rehearses aloud at home.

But in spite of all his study, moaned Goodwin, on the first day of a film's shooting, "I'm deathly sick to my stomach, my eyes feel like they're burning holes in my head, I'm swimming in sweat and I can't remember a thing!"

"Whereas, before a broadcast," he smiled, "I merely get butterflies in my stomach!"

His most recent movie role is in "The House of Dr. Edwards" in which he plays a scene with Ingrid Bergman. "Every time she looked at me," Bill gulped, "I'd go blank!" He names Bergman as his Number One actress.

"And my Number Two woman in the 'professional world,'" he said then, "is Gracie Allen. She is one of the sweetest, most charming people I know."

One of Bill's closest friends is Frank Sinatra, and the singer is one of his favorite subjects of conversation. "Frank has great charm and humility," he declared.

Delightful Family

In addition to telling us of his work and his friends, Goodwin waxed enthusiastic about his home and his family. His wife is a non-professional, and they have three children—Jill, four; Bill, two; and Lynn, eight months.

Goodwin is an enthusiastic rancher. "I love the country," he beamed.

➤ HIS HOME IN THE VALLEY, furnished with rare antiques, and the two ranches he has recently purchased are Bill Goodwin's favorite spots for rest and relaxation. "There is nothing to beat living in the country," he insists. But his exclusive air contract and fast-increasing screen assignments leave him limited time to enjoy country life.

"There's nothing to beat sitting around in your shirtsleeves on a warm summer night in the country." Recently he purchased a second ranch, of 677 acres, on which he plans to raise alfalfa.

Besides farming, he finds pleasure in flying and golfing. He has always liked night life and enjoys listening to good dance music, but he and his wife have curbed their night-clubbing since the children came.

His screen career further necessitates his following the "early to bed, early to rise" policy, particularly when the film is in technicolor and he has to report to the studio in the early morning hours to have his makeup applied. Having to don makeup is the thing he likes least about movie-making, and he hopes to continue doing without it for black and white photography.

But for any such annoyances that screen acting involves, it also has its compensations—love scenes, for instance! "Mmmmm," beamed Bill, his eyes twinkling, "I like 'em!"

Asked what he thought when he

➤ HIS PRETTY MISSUS looks amused when Bill insists that he's on a diet. "I have to watch my waistline," he maintains. On the screen, his assignments have included love scenes with Betty Hutton and a flirtation with Ingrid Bergman, who is his favorite actress. "Every time she looked at me," Goodwin gulped, recounting his scene with Bergman, "I'd go blank."

➤ A FAMILY MAN, Goodwin smiles with pride at his happy brood—daughters Jill and Lynn, ages four years and eight months; wife, Philippo; and son, Bill, two years old. The Goodwins have always enjoyed nightclubbing, but have curbed it since the children came. "Then, too," adds Bill, "there's my CAREER. I have to look good for the cameras!"

first saw himself on the screen, Goodwin frowned and admitted, "It made me very unhappy.

"But," he added quickly, "I was secretly pleased, too. I think everybody is. You look at yourself awhile, and then you begin to think, 'Well, not bad, not bad.'

"But then, when I take a look at Cary Grant—ouch!" grinned Bill. "I look at him and I think, 'Oh, you so-and-so!'"

➤ AT HIS DESK, Goodwin is shown plotting imaginary airplane flights. Flying is his chief hobby, and he is anxious to resume the sport after the war. Meanwhile, he keeps in trim by studying airline maps and charting air currents and weather conditions.

▲ SOPHISTICATED LADY is Ona Munson, CBS' Hollywood commentator, in her black short-sleeved dinner dress, an original from Saks Fifth Avenue, contrasted with matching leaf-green sequin evening bag, hat and satin gloves from John Fredricks.

- FIRST EDITION of autumn accessories headlines w-tie dinner blouses like thenaissance model worn by Kaynton, singing star of CBS' "Friday on Broadway." Bands of rich old embroidery on white crepe rim the Ariene Mireau original.

▼ NEWCOMER in fashion fabrics is Petal suede which CBS actress, Cathy Lewis, chose for a short, misty-blue dinner dress. Capelet sleeves, graceful body-molding lines and suave inset midriff point to a designing skill of Hollywood's Demoselle, and the matching drape hat was created by Leslie James. Cathy punctuates her moonstone ensemble with fuchsia gloves.

▼ FORMAL DINNER SCENES this fall season will be brightened with beaded, pastel overblouses requiring no jewelry but effectively set off with contrasting flower accompaniments, as pretty Dale Evans, songbird of CBS' Jack Carson show, illustrates. Worn with long or short skirts, the simple molded line is flattering invitation to more dressy occasions.

Monday Not Blue

Interesting development on CBS' schedule is a proposed shift, due the third week in October, of "The Voice's" Vimm's airshow from Wednesday at 6 p. m. to Monday at 5:30, just preceding Lux.

Such a switch would further strengthen KNX's Monday night stretch, with "Screen Guild" following Lux, and what's more, it will take the pressure off the Wednesday night spot, in which Sinatra was opposing veteran Eddie Cantor (who, incidentally, did all right holding up under bobby sock competition last season).

Levant Off

Yes, fans, your worst fears are confirmed. You've been writing Radio Life and calling on the phone because you were concerned over Oscar Levant returning to "Info. Please." He won't right now, because Dan Golenpaul, owner of the show, has not renewed Mr. Levant's contract.

Yes, we think it's too bad, too. Sometimes Levant's remarks on the show were on the smarty-pants side, but he contributed so much brilliance and such spontaneous wit to the program that he compensated for his cracks.

Shirley Signed

Shirley Ross, who guested several times on Bob Burns' NBC show last season, has been signed as regular songbird for the Arkansas Traveler's new Fall series. Also signed for the program is young Doug Gourlay, the deep-voiced announcer we spotlighted in a recent issue of Radio Life with a story entitled "On His Way Up."

Benny's Back

"Daddy, daddy! How are you?" shrieked ten-year-old Joan, adopted daughter of Mary Livingstone and Jack Benny, when the NBC comedian and his overseas troupe zoomed out of the sky from their ten-week, 30,000-mile tour of the Pacific war areas.

Benny declared, "It was the roughest, toughest barnstorming experience I've ever had, but I wouldn't have missed it for the world."

When asked how the story originated from Honolulu that Mrs. Benny was going to have a baby, he explained that it was just a gag. "When the boys would ask me why I didn't bring Mary along," Jack related, "I'd say that someone had to stay home and have the baby. Then I'd tell them I was only kidding. But maybe I forgot to tell them that a couple of times—I don't know."

New Program

New addition to KFVB's program line-up is "Palestine Speaks," which was introduced September 17 at 6:15 p. m. by the Los Angeles Zionist District. The series is a weekly dramatic offering.

Working in cooperation with the national headquarters of the Zionist Organization of America in Washington, which has called into service the outstanding radio writers of the country, the program committee of the Los Angeles District, headed by Louis M. Fisch, has effected arrangements for station KFVB to broadcast these tremendously interesting radio portrayals for a period of 39 weeks.

NEXT WEEK

What an array of personalities flashing through the pages of next week's Radio Life! On the cover are NBC's Great Gildersleeve with Marjorie and Leroy in typical pose; inside there's a story titled "Ho-Ho! What a Character!" You've guessed already! It's about Leroy. On Pages 6-7 we outline the birth of a mystery, in this instance, CBS' fascinating "Bill Lance," which makes a unique story with appropriate art to accompany it. John Conte's lovely blonde bride, Marilyn Maxwell, is profiled on Page 8, and you'll find a yarn about the Blue's Bill Bendix on Page 32. The story is called "He's Just Like Riley." Mutual's Norma Young provides us with a clever cooking layout: "A Working Woman Gives a Party," in which all you career gals will find helpful hints on easy entertaining. Miriam Lane, KMPC's penny-stretcher, is sketched in another article. Then, to top off the issue, there's a double spread on beloved Bob Burns. You'll love the pictures of Bob and you'll like, we hope, Corine's story—"Arkansas Traveler Settles Down."

Among the prominent artists of stage, screen and radio, who will enact leading roles in the "Palestine Speaks" series are such well-known personalities as Edward G. Robinson, Eddie Cantor, Victor Jory, Gene Kelly, Joseph Cotten, Joseph Schildkraut, Laird Cregar, Spencer Tracy, John Boles, Louis Calhern, Eva LeGallienne, Sam Jaffe, Walter Abel, Judith Evelyn, Ann Seymour, Peter Donald and many others. The announcer for the series is Ben Grauer.

America's Choice

In case you didn't happen to tune in on NBC's "Hour of Charm" broadcast of Sunday, September 24, these were the songs selected as those America loves best, by the nationwide poll conducted by Phil Spitalny and his all-girl orchestra among the country's magazine editors and readers:

Welcome Home! To KFI The Big Week In Radio!

Jack Benny

On Tuesday night (Oct. 3) at 6:30, and Fibber McGee and Molly are back home at 79 Wistful Vista all rested and rarin' to go!

Starting off the "Welcome Home" week is Jack Benny who with his gang launch the fall season on Sunday (Oct. 1) at 4 p.m.

Fibber & Molly

Skip to Thursday night (Oct. 5) and three big shows return. Abbott and Costello, those ambassadors of mirth, frisk and frolic at 7:00 p.m.

Abbott and Costello

The same night, a half-hour earlier (6:30 p. m.), and Bob Burns returns with a brand new show which is guaranteed to entertain you.

Bob Burns

Still on Thursday night, but at 9:00 p. m., and there's the new Dinah Shore program which comes to NBC-KFI and rounds out a week of really great radio shows.

Radio Lifelines

By EVELYN BIGSBY

BACK TO SALT MINES: Well, here we are, slaving over the hot typewriter after some thoroughly delightful days of relaxation. Didn't get away from radio all the way, however, because . . . Saw Effie Klinker make her network debut on the Bergen show, and thought, as many others did, there was a decided trace of Charlie McCarthy in her . . . Witnessed the preview of Frank Morgan's show, lush with talents of the Cass Daley, Eric Blore, Robert Young, and Carlos Ramirez. Too much stardust for one show! We challenge anybody to produce two better turned out gentlemen-at-the-mike than Morgan and Young.

LOOKED AT: Herbert Marshall playing "Man Called X" when it moved to its new time on the Blue, Saturday night. Marshall appeared very ill at ease during the broadcast—mopped his brow continuously and hitched his belt. Thought he must be sick, but later, at the party held in the show's honor at the Derby, learned that he was tired out from making overseas transcriptions since eight o'clock that morning. The sick one was Ge Ge Pearson, who plays opposite Marshall on the show. Hadn't been able to eat anything for three days, but you'd never know it from the fine performance she gave.

ALSO SAW: Ed Gardner's first "Duffy's" show on NBC. Liked his new Miss Duffy (third in a year) but there has never been one to equal Shirley Booth, the ex-Mrs. Gardner. Incidentally, Ed's blonde wife, Simone, is never to be found in the client's booth like other wives. Look for her in the middle of the front row, right down with the audience . . . On same show, Charlie Cantor, who plays the stupid Finnegan, sported a new brown toupe combed straight down over one eye to give him a not-all-there look.

AT SUMMERFIELD: Before show time Sunday night, cast of "Great Gildersleeve" was tuned to Fanny Brice's new show on another network to see what competition they were up against during afternoon, when both programs are simultaneously beamed eastward at 3:30. Got the idea they thought her program cute, but no serious threat to Gildy's popularity . . . Shirley Mitchell, who plays Widow Ransom, has lost so much weight she is pencil slim, but her face begins to look thin and we'd hate to see her pare down any more.

HERE 'N THERE: Miss young Tommy Cook as Little Beaver on the "Red Ryder" show . . . Janet Logan, recently written up in Radio Life, got Mercedes McCambridge's spot on "I Love a Mystery" . . . One of our favorite announcers, John Kennedy, sounds better than ever since that little work was done on his throat . . . noticed how big Conrad Binyon is getting—he was taking a breather during a break in the Lionel Barrymore rehearsal. Nice thing Conrad did, buying that little ranch in Canoga Park for his father and mother . . . Folks tell us they like to hear Jo Stafford sing over the air, but don't like to see her on the show because she is so unanimated . . . Jimmy Scribner, in town this week, will be interviewed by Radio Life in response to readers' requests. . . Haven't found anybody yet who likes the Rudy Vallee show . . . But lots who think Patrice Munsel is doing better on the "Family Hour" than Gladys Swarthout.

CALLED SHOT: Last spring, Lifelines wrote a little squib about a young chap with a hot trumpet, Leonard Sue's. We'd seen him perform at the Valley Lodge and were so impressed by his talent AND his slick showmanship that we predicted: "You'll be hearing a lot more of this young man and ON THE AIR!"

Didn't think it would happen so fast, but that makes it all the more exciting that Leonard has been "discovered" by NBCComic, Eddie Cantor, who has signed the 22-year-old musician to direct his air orchestra every Wednesday night.

Diggin' Discs

With JACK LAWSON

THE LISTENER WRITES:

Dear Sir: Your contest is very suitable. I think the disc turners should get more credit than they have. This contest should give all of them some praise that they surely do deserve. I think that Carl Bailey is about the best of them all. It is for Carl Bailey that I cast my vote. Thank you. A Drummer, Yours, Curgon Lager.

Dear Mr. Lawson: Have read your column many times during the past year. Your timely comments on records are very good. Especially enjoy your contests. You were sure right about Bing and Sinatra. Bing is my favorite, too. Sinatra is just a flash in the pan. For announcer—Harry Schooler is my current selection. He is famous and yet very friendly. Best wishes, Terry de Ray.

Dear "Diggin' Discs": I have a name to suggest for your contest. Guess it's silly because this person won't have a chance, but she has something none of the other people who play records have. Yes, it's a she. And her name is Floretta. She's now on KFAC at eleven in the morning. She seems to pick the kind of music most everybody would like and what she has to say about them is something different. Anyway, I want to offer her name. Yours truly, Eleanor Allen.

Dear Sir: I am writing you a very violent protest—in fact a critical protest in regard to your "Platter Spinners" contest. So far I have failed to see mentioned in any issue any word of the splendid job being done by Bill Kelso of KNX from 1:15 a.m. until 5:30 a.m. every morning except Sunday. It is beyond my ken how anyone, more especially you, could have overlooked so prominent a program. To be perfectly frank, it is my personal opinion that he has the best record program on the air today. He has a wide selection of records which seem to have been denied other broadcasting stations. Then, too, his program is so varied as to give pleasure to every type of listener. Mr. Kelso's program is as near perfect as any it has been my pleasure to hear. His interesting side comments, all strictly ad lib, make listening so easy, and it goes without saying that he has that soothing quality to his voice that all announcers strive for, and, unfortunately so very few achieve. After hearing Mr. Kelso for quite some time I cannot help but wonder why some of the network programs haven't grabbed him. Believe me, Mr. Lawson, when I say you've truly missed a grand program by a master if you've overlooked Bill Kelso. This is the first time I've had occasion to criticize your publication. In the main it is radio's most comprehensive vehicle. However, when you failed to mention Mr. Kelso's marvelous work you evoked my wrath, and now that you have the facts I trust you understand. Sincerely, Lee Barnes.

Magnet for Fantastic Fan Mail

weighs 205 pounds—he has genial, intelligent features, brown hair and grey-blue eyes. He has the build of an ex-football player, but admits he only gets around to a little golf now and then.

The responsiveness of the radio public to the friendly personality he projects over the ether when he delivers the news is shown by the voluminous fan mail he receives. Much of it contains stories of tragedy and human life and much of it is highly amusing. One morning he announced that a 12 year old boy named Ray Clancy had sold the record high of $5,300 worth of war bonds in a drive that was going on. His brother Jim, on a destroyer in the South Pacific, heard the broadcast. "You'll never know who's listening," remarked Sam. "That's why it's so important to make all the names clear."

Perhaps the most unique letter he has received was from a little girl six years old in Clarkston, Washington. She informed him the number of her years and that she tried to make Sam Hayes Pancakes for her grandmother, then said she was sending him one and wanted his opinion—"do you think they are O.K.?" When he opened the letter out fell a half-dollar-sized pancake, very stiff, but unmistakably a pancake!

Unique Suggestion

The text of another choice note was! "This morning on your radio broadcast you told about a Dutch cheese being fired at a warship and busting the mainmast. It gave my husband a very bright idea for he suggested that I send my biscuits to Admiral Nimitz with the request that he try 'em on the Jap navy." This one was from a housewife in Morrow Bay.

Hayes has received much favorable comment for his airline editorializing about kidnapping, especially on his broadcast about the Lindbergh kidnapping. It's almost a crusade with him. "I'd be the first to editorialize if it happened again," he said, "despite the usual practice of not editorializing in news broadcasts."

Has Fine Son

Sam has a 15-year-old son named Ron, who may or may not be following his father's footsteps. He has broadcast two commercials on the airlines in place of his dad, both times brought in more requests for the model airplanes Sperry was giving away than Sam tallied up. Ron's bent is more toward aeronautical engineering, his father told us. He's an excellent draftsman and cartoonist and knows all the current airplane models.

In his spare time Sam plays golf and picks football winners with amazing accuracy. With Major Lyle Chapman he has devised a system of forecasting winning teams that is eighty-five per cent right. They achieve this amazingly high degree of accuracy by a system of mathematical formulas—every strength and weakness of every player is given a mathematical value. Hayes and Chapman have tabbed ninety-five per cent of the Rose Bowl games correctly. They started the system in 1929, commercialized it in 1938. Chapman is the ideal teammate for team-picking, Hayes claims. He played football for Purdue and used to announce the football games for the West.

Biggest Thrill

Hayes claims the biggest thrill in the course of his radio career was doing on-the-spot broadcasting of the disastrous Long Beach earthquake in 1933. NBC wanted to correct the fantastic wild reports of casualties which were flooding the nation immediately after the catastrophe occurred. So Hayes was assigned to a 15-minute broadcast from the still unsettled ruins over the double network and all Canadian stations—next to the president's speeches the most widely broadcast program to that date.

Non-professionally speaking, Sam says his biggest thrill was a ride in a P-38. It seems the radio is removed from the cockpit, which is only built for one person, and the hardy soul who wishes to go along for the ride sits behind the pilot in sort of a piggy-back position. "Roaring through space at a speed of 500 or 600 miles an hour is some thrill," he recalls.

Back to his mail, one listener had evidently seen his picture, and acted upon his own initiative. He received a circular advertising the Richard Hair Restoring System, together with a note from the originator of the system: "I saw your picture and as your case is the type that can be restored I would advise you to take advantage of our two months offer for which we take the risk!"

A lady wrote about her pet rooster named Sam Hayes and a man told about a neighbor's Persian cat who daily plumped himself down in front of the radio as soon as his broadcast started, left as soon as it was over. Other people have written about using the sponsor's product, little rhymes and personal experiences.

Another listener wrote: "I heard you broadcast about a group of engineers that wouldn't work on anything that was known to be workable. I would like to have their addresses, as I have an idea that is plum crazy!"

A Mr. Anthony Problem

There was a woman who had four little dogs who lined up before the radio and listened to his broadcast every day. The time of the broadcast was changed and the lady begged him please to go back to the old time—she couldn't do a thing with her animals, for they were all mixed up and had completely lost their sense of timing!

▲ UNDER THE CHIC CHAPEAU, Hedda Hopper is conferring with "This Is My Story" producer, Bob Halter. Miss Hopper is one of a trio of judges who select the best script submitted to the show in each twelve-weeks period. First prize-winner receives a $1000 war bond.

Speaking, were radio actors enacting dramas on CBS' "This Is My Story" broadcasts, but the words on their scripts were written from true stories submitted by listeners—dramas that can be found in the lives of everyone.

The listening audience is asked on the program to submit their stories for consideration. For the three best stories submitted in each twelve-weeks period, the show's sponsor awards three war bonds—first prize, one thousand dollars; second prize, two hundred and fifty dollars; third prize, one hundred dollars.

The stories should be summarized with the simple facts stated in five hundred words or less, and professional radio writers will transmit the selected ones into script form. Sinatra of the Roaring Twenties

NBC-KFI

IN 1928, when Rudy Vallee was a young bandleader, broadcasting from a small independent radio station in New York, NBC's program board was called upon to decide whether he would be added to the network's list of featured entertainers. Most members of the board were anti-crooner. There was, however, one woman on the board—Bertha Brainard, then eastern program head of NBC. It was she who swung the votes to Vallee.

"Being men," Miss Brainard said

▲ AFTER PEARL HARBOR, Vallee enlisted in the Coast Guard. At the same time, his huge Dobberman Pincher, "King," was sent to the Army for war service. Dog was recently given honorable discharge, and Rudy too, is now on inactive service list, enabling him to resume his spectacular career.

to her fellow board members, "you don't understand what that boy has in his voice. Being a woman, I do!"

Rudy Vallee was the Frank Sinatra of the twenties. He fascinated the females. The night club at which he appeared was always crowded with women. They didn't dance. They merely sat and gazed at their idol, too hypnotized by his charm to speak—or squeal.

Theater managers reported that school girls arrived at the theaters where Vallee was singing, with their lunches under their arms, prepared to sit through three or more performances just to look at and listen to Rudy. When he appeared on the stage of the Palace in New York, women sitting in boxes and in the front rows, tossed orchids and corsages at him. They weren't called bobby-sockers in that era. They were "flappers."

Some said it was Vallee's "sex appeal" that attracted them. Others, including the late Heywood Brown,

▲ THE CROONER started his climb to success playing his saxophone and singing at college dances, then journeyed to London where he captured the attention of Edward, then Prince of Wales. Later, in New York, he made his American radio debut at the Meigh-Ho Club, singing with a megaphone because he lacked confidence in his voice.

▲ THROUGH THE YEARS, Vallee has saved innumerable mementoes of his fabulous fame. He still has his old megaphone and his first saxophone. In spite of his success, he was never sure of its stability in the early years. Almost two decades ago, he declared, "I'm just a lad." Large portrait on the wall is Rudy as a child.

came to the same conclusion that has been formed regarding Frank Sinatra's hypnotic effect upon women.

"Vallee," opined Broun, "appeals to the maternal instinct of all women."

The crooner himself, accepted this wholesale adulation with calm and quiet courtesy. "I'm not kidding myself," Vallee said to one interviewer almost two decades ago. "I'm just a fad and this won't last. In a few years, I'll be just a memory."

Sidney Skolsky, writing of Vallee in 1929, reported that the Rudy of that day was ambitious to make a million and that his big fear was that he would be fat and bald at forty.

Still Going Strong

Today, at forty-three, Vallee retains his luxuriant head of curly brown hair, is a slim figure just recently out of uniform, and has returned to the airlines with a show that he himself has heralded as something bigger and better than anything he has ever done.

He is recognized by all as a master showman. In the past decade, he has brought before the public such top-flight entertainers as Bergen & McCarthy, Bob Burns, Alice Faye, Frances Langford and Larry Adler, to name but a few. He brought his well-remembered Thursday evening radio revue to the ether waves for ten consecutive years under the

CLIPPING FROM HIS SCRAPBOOK, reproduced at right, reveals Vallee's hypnotic effect on women. Dated April 27, 1929, it reads: "Maybe it's sex appeal, or maybe it's 'sax' appeal, but when Rudy Vallee, phantom lover of the radio, steps in front of the microphone, feminine hearts beat faster and faster..."

'I Love You,' Sings Rudy and 100,000 Girlie THRILL

By Marjorie E. Smith

THINGS are coming to a pretty pass in Manhattan these days and something has got to be done about it. Six-nagraphers gather in office corners and talk in hushed tones, respectable matrons let their husbands go out to play poker at night without making a single wise crack, girl friends ditch their boy friends and radio stationmen are called hot foot into homes that have heretofore scorned the magic music box.

"I love you. I love you. I love you," he croons over the air, and soon his warm male voice becomes full-hot mamma. Youthful souls turn dejectedly to the "why not be lovable" sales talk of mail order saxophone lessons, and anxiously seek to develop the street corner tenues they once used to the distress of their respective neighborhood girls as they beat girls at snortered before the lead dancer. "There's all there is about it. It isn't Rudy's fault entirely, it's the boys' fault entirely."

AROUND 1924, a new leader brought the Yale band on the field, playing the popular Yale marching songs. The following year, the band was disbanded and the members were forgotten.

THEY were the boys of the Yale band, and the boys of the Yale band were the boys of the Yale band. They were the boys of the Yale band, and the boys of the Yale band were the boys of the Yale band.

Roger Sherman grill because the smart place to go in New Haven. Not since the days when House Pennington was House Pennington of Metropolitan Opera House, was he in New Haven. But Vallee was merely using his sax as a medium. Let hissing females flood the Yale station with fan mail, he had no time for such nonsense. He was cramming for exams and you know how it is to major in languages.

When the dawn of Commerce-ment Day and Rudy was turned out into the cruel world with nothing but a sheepskin to carry his knickerbocker and a raccoon skin to cover his back. Armed with a saxophone in one hand, and a clarinet in the other, he went forth to conquer long words.

This was a blow to the folks back in Westbrook, Conn., where the family drug store was waiting for a new soda jerk. Father Vallee, it seems, was the town's leading doctor and owned the Main Street drug emporium. He also felt that his son would make a first-rate drummer. So Westbrook was

There goes Rudy Vallee, hailed by many girls as the greatest lover since Valentine. Each flapper loved him because her mamma had just come to Rudy Vallee every time he sings over the radio. And now that he's signed for the fall, there's no telling what will happen!

Turning a deaf ear to the look of glory in a dim, dimly lit room, Rudy Vallee was... (The rest of the text is too small to transcribe accurately.)

WHAT GOES ON

Off the Air!

By Delle Hunter

▼ FRIENDLINESS AND INFORMALITY prevail during the period preceding broadcasts when the program's performers and their studio audience get acquainted. Here, the Blue's "Scramby Amby" warmup culminated in a surprise treat for Perry Ward, when one of the show's contestants, Mrs. Rose Firth, presented him with a beautiful homemade cake. For the amusement of the folks out front, Ward gobbled it up greedily, went on the air with his face covered with crumbs.

THE warmup is as important as the show," Art Linkletter has declared of NBC's "People Are Funny" broadcast which he emcees. That isn't always the case, perhaps, but to any program that is being presented before a live audience, the warmup is of considerable importance.

It serves in exactly the capacity the word implies. It "warms up" the audience. It is a period of informal entertainment presented just before broadcast time for the purpose of easing the audience into a relaxed and responsive mood.

Impromptu as they appear to be, warmups are set routines repeated at every broadcast of the programs, but because of the informality of the goings-on and the freedom of being off the air, almost anything can happen—and often does!

Recently, when Perry Ward was "warming up" the audience preparatory to presenting the Blue Network's "Scramby Amby" show, a woman who had been chosen to be one of the program's contestants stepped up to the stage carrying a big bundle.

"It's for you, Mr. Ward!" she beamed.

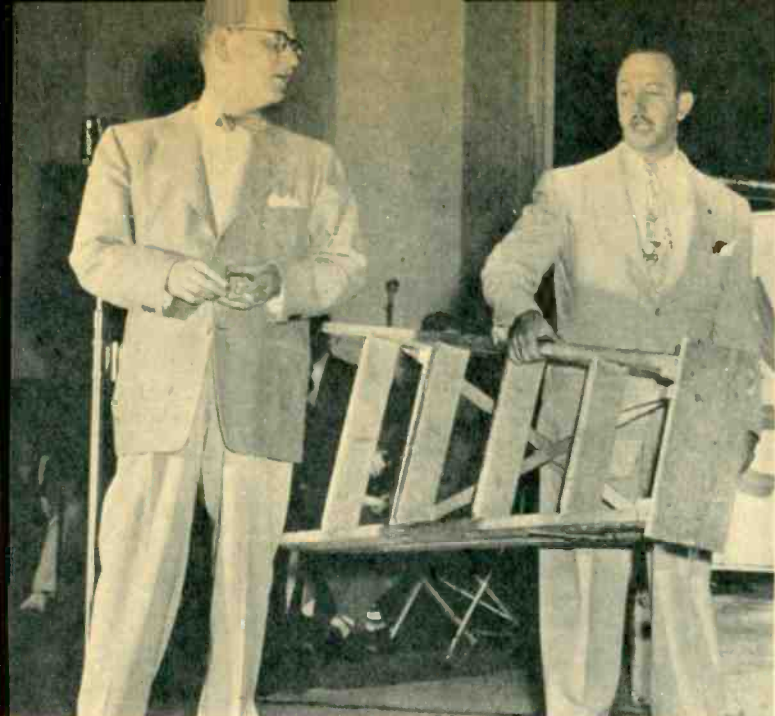

Perry tore the wrappings from it and, to his complete surprise, found a beautiful homemade cake! To the amusement of the folks out front, he stuffed his mouth full of it, and came to the microphone at air time with crumbs all over his face.

Uses Cake

(Please turn to Page 34)

▼ "PLANTS IN THE AUDIENCE" are often a part of warmup gags. Someone known to the performers but unknown to the onlookers, sits among those present, then acts as a stooge for a stunt on-stage. Before Mutual's "What's the Name of That Song" takes the air, emcee Dud Williamson stands on the stage explaining the rules of the program to the studio audience. Behind him is a blackboard with an unfinished game of Tit-Tat-Toe marked on it, the one "X" needed to win not drawn. Finally, as Dud finishes talking, a man rises from his seat and races down the aisle and up on the stage, screaming, "I can't stand it! I can't stand it!" With those words, the man (Art Fulton, the show's sound man) grabs the chalk and frantically fills in the final "X" while the audience howls.

▲ TOP RADIO COMICS, Ransom Sherman and Mel Blanc, join forces for laughs during the Blue Network "Nitwit Court" warmup, along with the other leading members of the cast, Arthur Q. Bryan and Sara Berner. While Sherman chats with the audience, Blanc strolls across the stage with a ladder under his arm. "What's the idea?" asks Ransom. "I'm an O. P. A. man, looking for a ceiling!" answers Mel. Later, Blanc returns with the ladder, offering another explanation, "I'm going to help my brother. He's down in the dumps!"

▲ CLEVER DIALECTICIAN, Sara Berner, trudges across stage, heaving a large heavy box. "Where are you going?" Sherman asks her. "I got a job of Lockheed," she replies. "Well, what's in the box" puzzles Ransom. "My lunch!" answers Sara. Sometimes, she stops at the mike to recite a Greek poem, introducing herself as "Miss Swishyakarkas." Rotund Arthur Q. Bryan appears on-stage holding a mirror in front of his portly midriff. "What are YOU doing?" queries Sherman. "The doctor told me to watch my stomach," exclaims Bryan.

Here Are the Riotous Warmup Acts Which Forerun Your Favorite Radio Broadcasts

▼ "HAPPY BIRTHDAY TO YOU!" carol announcer Tommy Dixon and emcee Stu Wilson of Mutual's "Quiz of Two Cities" to some bewildered young miss in the front row, who has become the surprised recipient of Wilson's cooked-up "birthday" gag during the show's warmup. Before the stunt is over, the chosen young lady finds herself being kissed by Wilson, Dixon and every serviceman in the studio!

▼ A GOOD GAG is that one pulled by Art Linkletter, during the warmup of NBC's "People Are Funny" show. Writer Johnny Murray, garbed in a janitor's coveralls, appears on-stage with a mop and bucket and proceeds to slosh water on the floor while Linkletter is talking to his audience. Art gets provoked and Murray runs off-stage toward the audience when the bucket's contents are tossed in his direction. The folks out front shriek and cringe for fear of being drenched, but paper flutters harmlessly from the pail. Mop bucket actually contained water, but without the audience's knowledge, Linkletter has switched pails.

same sponsorship, then emerged as an actor-comedian on the NBC Seal-test show with Joan Davis and the late John Barrymore, both of whom he brought back into prominence. A few months after Pearl Harbor, he enlisted in the United States Coast Guard, serving as a chief petty officer, then commissioned as a lieutenant. He is now on the inactive service list, enabling him to resume his spectacular career that started during his period of service in World War I.

In 1917, although only fifteen years old, Vallee was husky enough to fool the recruiting officers and he joined the Navy. It was while in the Navy that he first got his hands on a saxophone.

After three months of service in the first World War, Rudy's true age was discovered and he was discharged. Returning to high school, he played the drums in the school band, and during vacations, rode his bike to Portland, Maine, fifteen miles away from his home, to hang around the big theaters. He finally got a job there and was soon able to purchase his own saxophone.

He still has it, in addition to an inexhaustible collection of souvenirs saved through the years of his spectacular success—mementoes of the college dances at which he played his saxophone and sang; of his trip to London in 1924, when he attracted the attention of Edward, then Prince of Wales; of his first job in New York, a one-night engagement with Vincent Lopez at a benefit for the Hebrew Orphan Asylum on December 4, 1927; of Don Dickerman's Heigh-Ho Club, where he got his first big chance and where he made his American radio debut, giving birth to his famous, familiar greeting of "Heigh ho, everybody!" It was there that he started singing with a megaphone because he didn't consider himself any great shakes as a vocalist. It was there that NBC—and Bertha Brainerd, speaking for her sex—started him on his way to fame, fortune, and swooning female fans!

Girls Fainted

Once, two school girls, representing themselves as reporters, managed to get into Vallee's dressing room at the Brooklyn Paramount. One fainted dead away when Rudy smiled at her. The other girl, after shaking the crooner's hand, declared with an ecstatic gasp, "I'll never wash this hand as long as I live!"

On another occasion, Vallee was stopped for speeding over the Queensborough Bridge. A cop presented him with a ticket, but had reason to regret his hasty act for long afterwards. Because, he had given the irresistible Rudy a ticket, the policeman's fiancée terminated their engagement!

Vallee's fan mail zoomed to thousands of letters a day, accompanied by many gifts. In one day, he received over fifty boxes of fudge!

Labelled as "The Vagabond Lover," from the song and movie of the same name, Vallee found his name being linked romantically with almost every glamor girl on Broadway, including Lenore Ulric and Peggy Joyce. He was married for a short time to Mrs. Leonie McCoy, but the union was annulled. Later, he met and married Fay Webb, daughter of the Santa Monica, California police chief. This marriage ended in divorce, but when Fay Webb was dying, Vallee dropped his work and flew to the coast to be with her. In 1943, Rudy married young Bettejane Greer. This romance also culminated in the divorce courts in July of this year, but as we go to press, Rudy and Bettejane have again announced their reconciliation.

Frequently during his crooning career, Vallee has been reported smitten with the charms of women not even known to him. His feminine admirers cherished the thought that he was searching desperately for the perfect woman.

One of his habits when singing was to close his eyes.

"He's visualizing his ideal sweetheart," the girls used to whisper.

Vallee's explanation was illusion-shattering.

"The spotlight hurts my eyes," he said.

tual's "Quiz of Two Cities," uses a cake as a regular part of his routine warmup. He and announcer Tommy Dixon come on-stage before broadcast time bearing a birthday cake ablaze with some seventeen or eighteen candles. Picking out some likely-looking girl in the front row, they announce that it is the young lady's birthday and that they will honor it by singing "Happy Birthday" to her, which they promptly begin to do. Then Stu gets a further idea.

Before he's through, the innocent, bewildered young lady in the front row has been the blushing recipient of a kiss from Wilson, Dixon, and every serviceman in the entire studio audience!

Another gag of Stu's is to have Dixon seated in the audience to be used as a stooge for his "magic" act. He calls Dixon, anonymously, to the stage, and asks for the beautiful silk tie he is wearing. Looking dubious, Dixon eventually parts with it and Wilson proceeds to perform his "trick." To Dixon's horror, he takes a pair of scissors and cuts the tie into little pieces. Then he places them carefully into a folded handkerchief.

With a smile, he says to the distressed Dixon, "You saw me cut it up, didn't you? Now, watch! I'll shake the handkerchief three times, and your tie will come out whole!"

Whereupon, Wilson lets loose of one corner of the handkerchief, and of course the tie flutters to the floor—in a dozen pieces! It's an old gag, but the audience loves it!

The warmup gags often employ a "plant" in the audience—someone known to the performers, unknown to the onlookers. "Ukie," popular comic on NBC's "Kraft Music Hall," got his first break being the "plant" in the audience for Bing Crosby's warm-up patter.

The other afternoon, during Ransom Sherman's warm-up monologue preceding the Blue's early broadcast of "Nitwit Court," a young boy sauntered down the aisle and mounted the steps to the stage, nonchalantly walking past Sherman.

"What's the idea?" asked Sherman.

"I'm going up to Hollywood and Vine," replied the youth.

"What's the idea of tramping through here," scowled Sherman.

"Shortcut," answered the boy, blandly.

"How are things up at Hollywood and Vine?" queried Sherman then, accepting the youth's reasoning.

"Bad!" exclaimed the youngster.

"Well," smiled Sherman, "if things are bad up there, why not stay right here and see our show." *

"Brother," sneered the youth, "they're not that bad!"

With that, the boy turned his heels on Sherman and walked off the stage. The audience didn't know it, but in this instance, the "plant" was Ransom Sherman's youthful son, George.

The top radio comics, including Abbott and Costello, Benny, Hope, Cantor and Bergen, precede their broadcasts by their own identifying routines of gags and patter. The dramatic programs, such as CBS' "Screen Guild" and "Lux Radio Theater," use their warmup time to introduce the starring players of the evening.

Gag Commercials

Sometimes the programs' commercials are clowned. Before CBS' "Burns and Allen" show takes the air, Bill Goodwin comes out on the stage and begins his Swan Soap sales talk. Orchestra conductor, Felix Mills, gives his men the downbeat and strikes up the band with some loud circus music. Bill mugs and mouths his words over the music, making motions of scrubbing his back and washing under his arms. The music stops just as Goodwin ends his routine with the words, "You can buy it at your grocery store."

On the quiz shows and audience participation programs much of the warmup time is utilized to explain the program's procedure to the audience. NBC's "Amos 'n' Andy" found that they, too, had some preliminary explaining to do. Charles Correll and Freeman Gosden do so many different voices on the famous comedy show that the comments of the amazed audience were drowning out their lines. Now they use their warmup time introducing all their various voices to the folks out front!

ga Hopper, director Leo McCarey, and actress Barbara Stanwyck.

Our Prize Story

Second prize-winner on the first twelve-weeks' period of the "This Is My Story" series told of a woman who could have no children of her own. When she proposed to adopt a child, her husband protested and the situation led to the couple's separation. The story reached a climax when the adopted child was injured, and the woman's husband, a doctor, was called upon to perform an operation. With the child's recovery, all worked out well and the story had the happy ending listeners like to hear.

Third prize-winning story was submitted by a grandmother. It told of the difficult task of keeping a young and pretty girl with very modern ideas, on the right track in the hectic, topsy-turvy atmosphere of a wartime world.

The story which emerged as the thousand dollar bond-winner in the first twelve-weeks' period was that of a Navy nurse in love with her sister's fiance. The man in the triangle, a Navy flier named Kenneth, went on active duty in the Pacific, and his young and headstrong fiancee restlessly turned to a new love. Eventually, she sent back her engagement ring, and married the wealthy man who had become her steady escort. Meanwhile, the Navy flier had proved himself a hero, crashing his plane in a courageous act during combat. As Fate would have it, Kenneth, blinded and suffering from loss of memory, was sent to the hospital where Joan (his fiancee's sister) could care for him. He had not received his returned engagement ring and knew nothing of his girl's marriage to another man.

His recovery was slowly and delicately achieved. He regained his memory, but his sight had not been restored. When he was well enough, he dictated to Joan love letters to her sister. Joan did not reveal her sister's betrayal. Instead, she forged sympathetic replies to the letters he sent, but knew he would someday have to be told the truth.

Happy Ending

Things came to light when Kenneth's eyes were operated upon and his sight restored. Learning of his complete recovery, his former fiancee 'Lila' returned. Kenneth, although he had learned that Joan had been answering his letters, was still unaware of the extent of Lila's unfaithfulness. But his love for her had stopped and he told her so. He expressed his love for her sister, Joan, and in the hysterical scene that followed, Lila revealed her own faithless acts, leaving Kenneth and Joan free to find their happiness together with no shred of guilt in their minds or hearts.

This story of the eternal triangle laid against a background of this wartime world, won for the letter-writer who submitted it, the grand prize of $1000.

That Woman In Bergen's Life

the perfect man, but I've had a lot of fun looking," says she.

No Younger, But Smarter!

About those proposals, Bergen has warned her that she's not getting any younger. "Not getting any younger, maybe," she quipped, "but a lot smarter." She's a busy-body, knows a lot of people, and is a little eccentric—she whispers, gossips and repeats herself. And in addition to the weird costumes she sports, there is a skeleton in her closet to which Bergen often surreptitiously alludes: one incident on Lake Kittyhaha involving a MAN!

Aunt Effie, as she is known to Charlie, enters the picture as Bergen's house guest. She came to stay a few days, he originally thought, but they're having trouble getting rid of her after weeks and weeks and weeks. Because of vague allusions to a will with which she slyly teases them, her welcome is still warm even if her stay is turbulent. Charlie thinks she's funny looking, but also thinks that by looking thru green-back-colored glasses he could overlook this deficiency plus the vast difference in their ages and fall in love with her. Then he discovers she is what he calls a "penny aunty." Mortimer gets along with her all right—as he does with practically everyone. He's highly flattered if anyone even bothers to talk to him.

Effie isn't the only one of Bergen's merry little troupe who faces the world with a fresh face this fall. Charlie and Mortimer both received their bi-annual renovations, consisting of fresh makeup (paint), linen, and having their hair dry shampooed.

Effie is the latest and most expensive and also the most likely to last of a long line of other women in Bergen's life. Dolls named Laura, Peggy, and Ophelia preceded Effie—but they have long since gone the way of all little girls, he claims.

POET, TOO

Although Kirby Grant's present vocations are singing and acting, the balladeer of CBS' "Hollywood Barn Dance" is also a writer. At the age of twenty, two of his books of poetry were published.

MULTIPLE-VOICED

Mel Blanc, one of the comic "jurors" of the Blue-KECA "Nit Wit Court," has made a series of nearly one hundred recordings for the Army in the past year with himself as the only actor.
