The Ear Inspires the Pen

Miss H. K. Bowens, 10411 Margate Street, North Hollywood, Calif.

Sirs: Could you please print a picture of Ken Christy? I have heard his name mentioned on quite a few shows. Our family appreciates "Firestone Favorites" very much. It is a nice restful program around dinner time and is quite an appreciated half-hour after and before the shoot-'em-ups.

Ken Christy

Mrs. Mildred Wooten, Long Beach 5, Calif.

Sirs: The letter from James K. Carmody of Veterans Hospital, San Fernando, California, "inspired this pen," because I wholeheartedly agree with him.

In your answer you mention, "Let's Talk Hollywood" NBC outlet stations made at-random surveys in their vicinities. Seems a fair system to us. How about you?" How could that be fair? Maybe somebody in "Let's Talk Hollywood" selected "Aunt Betsy," "Uncle Jake" or "Cousin Minnie." Just who do they visit or call to make at-random surveys?

After the program got going, I happen to know some people who sent in very apt and interesting questions that were ignored.

"At-random" people are visited or called in an "at-random" survey. To strengthen this clarification, have you ever noticed the clause in all contest specifications: "Employees and relatives of sponsor or network will not be allowed to participate."?

Bill Anson, Station KFWB, Hollywood, Calif.

Sirs: Just wanted you to know how much I enjoyed the "Horshoo" article by Bill Anson. It was wonderfully written, and photos of Anson are always a treat. Let's have more stories about Bill Anson and Bill Anson pictures in Radio Life.

Mrs. J. E. Tucker, 357 Temple Avenue, Long Beach 14, Calif.

Sirs: My husband and I are constant listeners of "The Cisco Kid," and after we went to the wonderful Los Angeles County Fair, where they were guests, we are even more pleased with them. He and Pancho didn't run away, but stayed right there greeting and giving autographs until I know their hands were really tired. They are two that really have wonderful personalities and are just grand. I wonder if the stars know how much it means to their public to be like "Cisco Kid" and "Pancho." Hope they will never leave the air.

Tommy and Marlaire Whipp, 4539 Wortzer Avenue, North Hollywood, Calif.

Jeff Chandler

Lurilla Hamilton, 5919 Troost Avenue, North Hollywood, Calif.

Sirs: I have been watching Radio Life to see when and where Red Rowe was returning to the air. Much to my elation, I found it to be over KMPC, the greatest little station in the West. We all know about KMPC, but how many know about Red Rowe? I would like to pass on to "Ear Inspires" what little I learned when we were both Mid-Westerners.

Red has a friendly radio voice, which becomes, as one listens, most convincing. He has a way of singing the Western songs that is very pleasing to the ear. He doesn't sound like a hog-calling contestant or a lovesick cowboy.

Attention should also be paid to Andy Parker and his Band, who have done a great job in bringing good Western music to CBS listeners in the past. We all know and love Hal Berger, who has brought us the major league baseball games over KMPC for several years now.

In conclusion, I say "Good luck" to the "Westcapades of '48" and thanks to KMPC for bringing good Western music to the air.

Mrs. Isabelle Ross, 1546 South Shenandoah Avenue, Los Angeles 35, Calif.

Sirs: I want to thank you so much for bringing to my attention a certain radio program.

My husband and I are owners of a radio that has frequency modulation. We had heard that most of the programs on FM weren't very good and so we seldom listened. That is, until we read your column, "FM Flashes," suggesting that we hear Gloria Grant's Hollywood gossip column of the air on Monday, Wednesday and Friday mornings over station KKLA. I have always been a motion-picture fan, and so it is no wonder that I decided to listen to Miss Grant's program, "Peeping Into Hollywood." I was really amazed. I always follow the various motion-picture columns in the newspapers; therefore, I was quite surprised when I realized that I was hearing many news stories about the stars on Miss Grant's program way before I read the same stories in the columns. You mentioned that Miss Grant is only seventeen years old. Are you sure? Her delivery seems so mature for her age, and so much better than many other Hollywood commentators of the air. Also, her interviews are very interesting. If you have any further information on Miss Grant, both my husband and I would be glad to hear about it.

Gloria Grant

Gloria is a personable little deb who recently graduated from Beverly Hills High School and briefly attended U.C.L.A. before becoming interested in her new career. She is the daughter of well-known movie director Lew Landers, but she is making her reporting venture entirely without her father's help. Gloria's something of an amazement as a career girl, in fact. When she was ten, Universal Studios accepted one of her story synopses and made a picture from it! When she was sixteen, she was social editor for the Beverly Hills Bulletin. She is one of the founders of Hollywood's Circle Theatre, and appears frequently in its productions. She also plays "Gertrude Bower" on "The Guiding Light." We think you'd probably like to have a picture, so we're printing one.

Lorraine Brown, 7889 Croydon Avenue, Los Angeles 45, Calif.

Sirs: One of your readers who wrote that Henry Morgan copied Jack Paar is certainly misinformed. I've been a Morgan fan for years. He was broadcasting that same type of comedy and New York disc jockey program ten years ago when Paar was in grammar school.

The Musical Mr. Willson Reveals How He Cajoles and Traps the Radio Listeners By Applying His "Two Hysterical Ideas"

By Joan Buchanan

Wednesday, 6:30 p.m.
ABC-KECA

WAIT till Dennis Day finds out about Meredith Willson! The boy with two shows oughta hear about the guy with three networks. Meredith and his "dear little Talking People" are on the air this season doing their enchanting commercials on the Meredith Willson show on ABC, "Henry Aldrich" on NBC and "Mr. Ace and Jane" on CBS. (There's a chance that he'll make it four networks by the time this is in print!)

This commercial tour de force only goes to prove one of Willson's "two hysterical ideas" about radio. Seems the man got it into his head a while back that radio commercials should be entertaining. This revolutionary idea has been eagerly pounced upon by Jell-o, Willson's sponsor, with the result that you'll hear it on the aforementioned programs.

Hysterical idea number two in the Willson scheme of things is that "successful radio must be absorbing." Nobody has any quarrel with that — but how many people have tried to do it? Meredith's idea of cajoling the cagey radio listener who would just as soon be listening to "The Purple Phantom" is to draw him to the program like a man sinking into quicksand.

➡ JUST TO PROVE THAT THOSE FABULOUS Talking People are products of Meredith's imagination, the photographer caught this interesting shot of Meredith thinking them up! This group represents the only talent heard intact on three separate networks.

Trapped!

Meredith is haunted by a mental picture of this radio listener (and he's the one who adds up to Hoopers) jauntily striding across the room to turn on the good old "Purple Phantom." "His hand is on the dial," says Willson darkly. "He's just about to turn it when I say, 'Ever hear a five-hundred-dollar chord?'" This is the moment of indecision when the insidious Willson strikes! He pictures his listener pausing to wonder about this. In his leisurely Mason City fashion, Willson goes on with the story of his five-hundred-dollar chord. Seems that a movie studio exec had once heard Meredith's orchestra play "Ta-ra-ra-Boom-De-Ay," using an unusual chord. The exec wanted that chord and sent a man with five hundred dollars to buy it from the maestro at two o'clock in the morning. Willson figures that by the time he's reached this point in his story, his listener would rather die than not hear that expensive chord—and anyway, you can always catch "The Purple Phantom" at the halfway point and keep up with the story. . . .

So Meredith plays "Ta-ra-ra-Boom-De-Ay" and points out his golden chord. By this time, the reluctant listener has gone back to the sofa to relax and listen. In order to catch "The Purple Phantom" he would have to get up, go over to the radio and dial to another station. Willson figures that his listener won't do that twice in the same half hour, so there you are! Let Mr. Hooper call his head off—everybody's listening to Meredith Willson. They can't help themselves.

The All-Music Flop

The Willson technique came about because of a magnificent flop. When Meredith got out of the Army, he came back into radio with the idea for an all-musical show, a show on which he was prepared to expend all the time, talent and experience he owned. The announcements, the commercials, the introductions—everything was musical, nothing was talk. The audition record was cut. "It was all I ever wanted and dreamed and believed about an all-musical show," he says wistfully, "and it was a flop." The word "flop" requires qualifying, however. People in the profession loved the show. Many made treks out to the Willsons' to hear it, every Willson gathering included a playing of the wonderful audition record. But at the necessary asking price, no sponsor was interested.

"So I decided to make the music incidental to the talk," he sighs. In reality, however, it's the "talk" that traps the lackadaisical listener into paying attention to the not-so-incidental music on Meredith's present show. This listener will find himself delighted with the quartet from "Rigoletto," explained the Willson way. He'll learn that Tschai-kowsky was the father of be-bop—and incidentally hear part of the lovely Tschai-kowsky Sixth.

Willson vs. Radio Music

Willson points to stacks of scores of symphonies, operas and operettas when you wonder if he'll ever run out of material to propound his delightful musical hoaxes. "A tremendous source that's never been tapped," he smiles affectionately in the direction of his shelves of scores.

The lack of ideas in most musical programs, he attributes to two attitudes—those of people with no urge to create and those of the "nothing

(Please Turn to Page 32)

HARD-WORKING WILLSON goes over the script at rehearsals with producer Mike Dutton, both checking to make sure that Meredith's "two hysterical ideas" are well grounded.

AT HOME WITH THE WILLSONS MEANS MUSIC, as this shot shows. Mrs. Willson, a singer, is tagged "Rini" by her husband—short for Ralina. Their home has a practical music room, fitted with piano, stacks of scores and transcriptions—and so does their living room!

JOSEF MARAIS (LEFT) AND MIRANDA are two Willson favorites heard again on this ABC series. Popular through their many guest appearances and record albums of songs of the South African veldt, the two folk singers will gain even greater audiences through Willson's guidance. (Moulin studios.)

▲ HATTIE COLBERT HAS PAID MORE THAN $40,000 to "Take It or Leave It" contestants, and has distributed about 1200 pen and pencil sets, since beginning her job a year and a half ago.

▲ WHEN THE PROSPECTIVE CONTESTANTS come onstage they're usually so nervous they can't remember their names or where they live, and often have to yank out a driver's license to give Hattie the facts!

"The Woman Who Pays"

Somebody Has to Be in Charge of All That "Take It or Leave It" Money, and It's an Efficient "Girl Friday" Named Hattie Colbert

Sunday, 8:00 p.m.
NBC-KFI, KFSI

SHE comes from Harvey, Illinois, right outside of Chicago, and five years ago attractive Hattie Colbert saw her first radio broadcast with all the naivete and thrill of a typical tourist.

Now, officiating onstage each week at NBC's "Take It or Leave It" show, Hattie dispenses money, efficiency and poise like the reliable assistant producer she is.

In 1943, Hattie accepted an invitation to visit a girl friend in Hollywood whose husband is a radio executive for Paramount Studios. Shortly after Hattie arrived, her friends had to accompany movie-star client Chester Morris to Nevada, for his guest appearance on the Ginny Simms show. Hattie went along, just to see what a radio program was like. She had a good time, but certainly paid no attention to any technical details like production, timing and script.

So, a week later, when the Simms show producer called to ask if Hattie would like a job with the Biow agency, working on the program, it was some surprise. Hattie is still also impressed with one of the first windfalls which came with that new job—six weeks, expenses paid, at the swank Waldorf Astoria, while Ginny Simms was broadcasting from New York!

Way With Money

Hattie was assigned by Biow to the "Take It or Leave It" program a year and a half ago. Since that time, she has paid out more than $40,000 to contestants and distributed about 1200 pen-and-pencil sets. She has handled fan mail amounting to nearly 100 letters a day, and answered all ticket requests. ("Take It or Leave It" is just starting to fill requests which came in last May.) She has helped the show's two succeeding emcees, Phil Baker and Garry Moore, keep their question categories and quizzees straight during the pressuring thirty minutes of each broadcast; and in spite of the noise and confusion she has authentically maintained her own list of names and addresses and winnings with nary if 'ary a miss.

During the show, Hattie has a desk right by the microphones. Before the broadcast, fifteen folks are selected from the audience and Hattie collects their case histories as they file onstage. "The hardest thing to get out of them is who they are," she chuckles. "They start to shiver and shake and forget their names and where they live. Some of them even have to pull out their driver's licenses to tell me."

Hattie has a practiced eye for spotting "regulars," and is quite famed for her memory in this respect. She recently recognized a woman who had been on "Take It or Leave It" when Phil Baker was still emcee, but it developed that the contestant had only come onstage at that time and had not actually appeared on the program.

Producer Ed Feldman and emcee Garry pick four out of the fifteen as show participants. The remaining hopefuls receive consolation Ever-sharp Pens. The show then starts out with nothing but Garry's few preliminary words with his contestants and Hattie's record for efficiency. Her biggest responsibility, of course, is paying each quizzee proper due for questions up to and including the sixty-four-dollar one.

Hattie carries about $300 in cash with her to each show, and a blank check for the jackpot winnings. Every week the jackpot is at least $640, with this amount doubled, tripled, quadrupled, etc., as the shows go by.

When she's asked how she feels about handling all that money, Hattie reflects: "About like a bank teller, I guess. None of it's mine until the end of the week when I get my own pay check. The rest is just like so many pieces of paper."

▲ JAY PREPARES to smack Candy Vrooman's croquet ball into the far corners of the lawn, while Candy vows never, never again, in her capacity of stage assistant to Stewart, to be a bit of help! (ABC photo.)

LITTLE JAMIE STEWART makes sure things are on the up-and-up as Jay and radio producer Evan Sax argue a point. "It IS through the arch!" says Jay . . . "It is NOT," says Evan. ▶

"The Ol' Lawn Game"

Radio Man Jay Stewart Offers Tips to Mallet-and-Ballers Interested in Hollywood's Latest Lawn Game — Croquet

JT REALLY makes me laugh when people talk about the 'comeback' croquet is making," remarked radio emcee Jay Stewart. "The game is one of the oldest of all modern forms of entertainment, and hasn't needed a 'comeback' since King Louis the Fourteenth burned up the lawns of Paris with his sizzling smashes."

Jay's historical reminiscing took place on his own croquet court at the beautiful new Cheviot Hills home the Stewarts enjoy. Wife Beverly and daughter Jamie had staked out the court, and were patiently waiting for Daddy to get with it.

Daddy's audience was Helen Wald, Candy Vrooman and Evan Sax, all of whom he knows through his radio work on ABC's "Surprise Package." Other assignments are CBS's "Everybody Wins" and "It's Fun to Be Young," and NBC's "Take It or Leave It."

A few minutes after the game had started, Candy's ball struck another, to commit a "roquet." That meant she had a choice of taking two strokes of her own ball, or slamming the opponent's ball (which she had hit) away with a "croquet" stroke. This last is done by placing your ball in contact with that of the opponent, placing your foot (or hand, but Jay says the foot is much, much better, and less painful) on your own. A healthy smack with the mallet on your ball then drives your opponent's away.

(Please Turn to Page 32)

▼ AFTER HAVING CHECKED FOR WIND VELOCITY, cautious Jay surveys the ground-level course that the croquet ball will follow once he has smashed it through the middle arch. Kibitzers make sure Jay doesn't have a good shot when he finally connects. (ABC photo.)

Your Cue (Shows You May Like)

Big Shows Return

"Kraft Music Hall," KFI, 7:00 p.m. Thursday, in line with the rest of the big returnees, offered a top program as its first show of the season. Star Al Jolson, with his "comeback" behind him, is permanently established (again) as a top air personality. On the initial broadcast he sang a group of old songs of the "Red Red Robin" type and proved that he can still out-deliver the present crop of star talent (in this case Judy Garland). Oscar Levant again supplies acid comments and sweet keyboarding as Jolson's chief support. Lou Bring's band continues to be one of the best of the radio groups. And Ken Carpenter repeats his success with the sponsor's product.

Edgar Bergen and "Charlie McCarthy," KFI, 6:00 p.m. Sunday, has several changes in its present line-up. Anita Gordon, last season's singing star, is missing, and has no replacement in that department. "Mortimer Snerd" has more to do on the show—"Charlie" has less. Don Ameche and Marsha Hunt have been added to the series in a continuance of the "Bickerson" sketches, the how-to-be-unhappy-though-married type. Ray Noble and his orchestra, Pat Patrick as "Ercil Twing" and product salesman Ken Carpenter are back in their usual places. The changes on the program may or may not please you—at any rate "Charlie" remains his impudent self, Edgar his patient companion. Isn't that enough?

"Aldrich Family," KFI, 9:30 p.m. Thursday, is pretty much the same as it's been since the days when originator Clifford Goldsmith stopped writing it. Ezra Stone and Jackie Kelk as "Henry" and "Homer" have not aged one jot, while House Jamison and Katherine Raht repeat their characterizations as the "Aldrich" parents. Predictable, but still entertaining, we'd call it. Most original part of the show is Meredith Willson and his Talking People doing the Jell-o commercials.

Jimmy Durante, KFI, 9:30 p.m. Friday, returns with a new sponsor, new time and new partner. Top entertainment on the program, however, is laid right in Durante's lap—as usual. Alan Young makes a cute contrast to "Gentleman Jimmy," though not as perfect as Garry Moore. Practice might turn the trick, however. Florence Halop is back as "Hotbreath Hoolihan," a name that gives us the creeps. Other regulars are Roy Bargy and Candy Candido.

"Screen Guild Players," KFI, 8:00 p.m. Thursday, included a time change and a network switch in its fall return. Continuing its policy of top movie adaptations with current film names in the lead, the opening show was a clever version of "Call Northside 777" with Jimmy Stewart repeating his role. To us, the big news on this show, however, has always been scripter Harry Kronman's magic in reducing an eighty-minute movie script to a twenty-five-minute radio show and keeping it pretty much intact.

Playbacks (Critical Comment)

... To the performance of George Coulouris as "Waldo Lydecker" on the "Theater Guild's" production of "Laura," proving again that radio is his medium—more so than stage or screen.

... To Fletcher Markle's guiding hand on the revamped "Ford Theater." He's made it the show it should have been all along.

... To radio actor Ed Max, who is doing such a fine character role these nights in the local play "All You Need Is One Good Break."

... To the healthy trend in popular songs—last week we heard two tunes we liked, "Slow Boat to China" and "What Did I Do"—that's two more than usual.

We View With Alarm

... The slotting of "Superman" on KHJ at 3:45 p.m.—and most kids don't get home from school till after 4:00. How do you account for that?

13 is a charm for one of your top Western entertainers. It is also a charm for his thousands of listeners on three Southern California radio stations. Cliffie Stone has been giving Western fans his special brand of music and friendly talk for 13 short years. Real salt-of-the-earth stuff.

BIG is the word for Western music. Cliffie Stone is happy to be a part of the greatest show in America. He is happy to be a part of your family circle. He gets a big kick out of meeting you at one of his dances. Step right up and shake his hand.

Yes, 13 is a charm all this year. Listen to Cliffie Stone and the swell fellas and gals who entertain with him — breakfast, lunch and dinner — on KFVD, KXLA, KRKD and on CAPITOL records.

WHAT'S SPECIAL

Public Interest

SATURDAY, OCTOBER 30 — Address by George Meany, KHJ, 11:30 a.m. (15 min.)

Contests and Offers

QUEEN FOR A DAY, KHJ, Monday through Friday, 11:30 a.m.—During the entire month of November, "Queen for a Day" is asking its listeners to submit the names of their mothers so that one of these mothers can be chosen, through a drawing, each broadcast day, as a special "Out of Town Queen." All the postcards bearing these mothers' names will be held until the Tuesday, November 30, broadcast, when one grand-prize winner will be gifted with a $5,000 mink coat and a Christmas trip to anywhere she wishes to travel in the United States. Note: Only postcards, not letters, will be considered eligible. Each card must be signed by the name of the sender-inner, and while you can nominate your own mother, or any other mother, you cannot submit your own name!

THE ROY ROGERS SHOW, KHJ, Sunday, 4:00 p.m. Roy's famous horse, Trigger, has sired a beautiful golden-color palomino colt, and in honor of the event the show is staging a nation-wide hunt to name the little fellow. Details are given on the show. The first-prize award is a one-week all-expense visit with the King of the Cowboys, with more grand prizes to runner-uppers.

The Secretary-Treasurer of the A.F.L. will speak in behalf of Labor's League for Political Education, urging the voters of America to exercise their franchise.

TUESDAY, NOVEMBER 2 — ELECTION RETURNS, KHJ, 5:00 p.m. (to concl.) Analyses and reports on West Coast voting by Rex Miller, noted commentator. Miller will be joined by a score of noted newsmen, analysts, radio reporters and commentators reporting general nationwide returns until full determination of election results.

KECA, 6:00 p.m. (to concl.) Walter Winchell and Drew Pearson lead off the night's coverage, with Dr. George Gallup, internationally known analyst of public opinion, Erwin D. Canham, editor of the Christian Science Monitor, Elmer Davis, Earl Godwin, Martin Agronsky, Walter Kiernan, Ted Malone, Taylor Grant, Don Gardiner and Pauline Frederick sharing the mike at intervals.

KNX, 6:00 p.m. (until outcome). Edward R. Murrow, Lowell Thomas, John Daly, Ned Calmer, Eric Sevareid and other top-flight CBS commentators and analysts will be on hand to keep tab for the listener.

KFI, 6:00 p.m. (to concl.) H. V. Kaltenborn and Richard Harkness announce and analyze for NBC; Morgan Beatty, Ray Henle and Ned Brooks cover the senatorial, house and gubernatorial contests, respectively, while the other well-known NBC newsmen give hourly counts.

Drama—Documentary

WEDNESDAY, NOVEMBER 3 — "The Hollywood Story," KNX, 9:30 p.m. (1 hr.) Myron McCormick will narrate this behind-scenes view of the film industry, with Eric Dressler enacting Mackinlay Kantor, one of the real-life notables who figures in this dramatized account of Hollywood at work. Script by Peter Lyon, direction by John Dietz, original music scored and conducted by Merle Kendrick. Werner Michel will be producer.

INSPIRATION

Filmstar Janet Leigh had a fine case of "opening night jitters" when she appeared recently on NBC's "Lassie Show." With minutes left before airtime, Janet was becoming visibly upset at last-minute script cuts and changes, when she glanced at dog-star "Lassie," calmly facing the mike like a true trouper. "That was enough for me," Janet said later. "The least I could do was relax . . . like my fellow star."

BUTTON-BUTTON

It was dinner by candlelight for Dorothy Lamour and her family recently, when a short circuit blew out all the fuses in her house. Dottie's husband, Bill Howard, searched vainly for the fuse box and finally gave up until the next day. By sunlight, it was revealed that during some remodeling work done recently on the back porch, the box had inadvertently been boarded and plastered over!

FAITHFUL SKATER
 Percy Faith, conductor of the Sunday "Pause That Refreshes" program, for years has harbored a sports ambition to go ice-skating without a fall. He has yet to fulfill this hope. What makes it more exasperating is that Faith was born in Toronto,
 Canada—where most people learn to skate before they walk!

Radio in Review

month vacation with test matches, meets and playoffs.
Mr. Hay, president of the National Lawn Bowlers Association for the third year, says that every village of the Isles has its own municipal greens, and everyone who can afford it has a private family green. Most of their counties harbor as many experts as does our entire United States. He added wryly, "We didn't come back champions!"
Another side of Mr. Hay's interesting account is less happy. He told of Scotland, his own former home, and the privation her people are suffering. Some of them haven't seen cream for nine years. The children are rationed an insufficient amount of milk, the adults receive none. Steak is a thing merely dreamed about. Most of the American team suffered heavy colds as a result of their curtailed diets. Mr. Hay shed fifteen pounds.

When we asked Mr. Hay his plans, he explained firmly that first on the agenda was a pile of mail that would bear cleaning up. So, until you've finished that mail and made a return appearance at your favorite haunt, the Beverly Hills Lawn Bowling Club, we'll just say "Welcome home, Bill Hay, we'll be looking for you on the air."

WORLDLY GOODS

When Mutual's Bill Cunningham left Philadelphia last summer, following his coverage of three political conventions, he discovered he had left his shaving brush in his hotel room. Since the brush has traveled with Bill since he bought it in France during World War I, he phoned long-distance to have it returned. Last week, the package arrived. It also included four-dozen unused rolls of teletype printer paper, nine bottles of mountain springs water, and approximately twenty-five pounds of discarded wire-service news copy. A note explained: "We sent everything we could find in the room that might have belonged to you."

CORNUCOPIA
 Summer hiatus of CBS's "First Nighter" meant nothing to leading lady Barbara Luddy, who devoted the three months to stocking the family larder via the home-canning route. Barbara put up well over 500 cans of vegetables and fruit.

RAH! RAH!
 Vaughn Monroe, currently on his annual football season tour of campuses of leading universities where CBS broadcasts are originating, is acquiring a large collection of college pins and pennants for his two young daughters.

WALKING PAPERS

Katherine Thompson, veteran harpist with Carmen Dragon's orchestra, was notified of her dismissal on the eve of the musical group's debut with ABC's new "Railroad Hour."

Dragon gave Miss Thompson notice, in order to make room for his daughter, Carmen Eloise Dragon. There was one condition, however; termination of Miss Thompson's services is effective eighteen years from now, since Carmen Eloise is only six months old.

CARSON TEMPTED

Jack Carson, comedy star of his own CBS Friday night show, was tempted this week with an offer to do a second series, but as dramatic star in the type of role he did so well in "Mildred Pierce." Jack is now reading scripts before giving his answer.

Al Jolson, who has no set warm-up on his "Kraft Music Hall" show, used a unique one recently. Al took pictures of his baby down into the audience for their approval.

KXLA Presents
ALEX
 Pickupacupplebucks
COOPER
 12:00 - 5:00 A.M.
 MONDAY THRU SATURDAY

TEN YEARS AGO

Cary Grant was dickering with a breakfast food sponsor for a prospective show. . . . Joe Penner returned to CBS in a Thursday night slot. . . . Joe E. Brown started his first radio series. . . . Kay Thompson replaced Martha Raye as vocalist on Al Jolson's show for several weeks. . . . The "Aldrich Family" and Abbott and Costello were regular weekly features on Kate Smith's variety show.

Jimmy Durante, the NBC clown, who makes no boast about his educational background, recently met an overbearing actor at a Hollywood party.

"I don't suppose you ever attended college and got your sheepskin," said the actor.

"No," said Durante, "I didn't want a sheepskin. . . . not enough meat on it!"

Jackie Kelk, "Homer" of NBC's "The Aldrich Family," has turned author. With Max Showalter penning the tunes and Albert Miller the lyrics, Jackie is writing the book for a Broadway show having to do with Jackie's radio experiences. The title will be "Little Boy Blue."

Meredith at the Mike succeeds like success" school. The latter, according to Meredith, reasons that the hypothetical listener liked Jerome Kern's "Make Believe" the last time he heard it—he'll like it the next time. The maestro waxes violent over those programs that stick by the "And now the orchestra asks the musical question—Who?" type of format. Another hate is the introduction that goes: "And now, Poppy, what're you going to sing?" "After You've Gone." "Aw, gee, wish I could stick around and hear it." "Silly, that's the name of the song—'After You've Gone.'" And that is where Mr. Willson gives up.

Willson's Book

In Meredith's newly published book, "And There I Stood with My Piccolo," he does some amusing gnashing on this subject—and on many others. The morning we interviewed the man he proclaimed "I've only read it once this morning," indicating that he had exercised admirable restraint. We stole a look at the book jacket—"A blend of nostalgic reminiscences, hilarious anecdote and sound musical comment," it read.

Indirectly, the book grew out of Meredith's "two hysterical ideas." After writing his own show in order to put across his entertaining commercials and absorbing ideas, he got into the habit of writing. After his show season was over, he just went on writing—about Mason City, Hollywood, music, musicians, radio, his mother's hired girl, composing, careering. . . . From Meredith and his book you can expect anything—and everything.

Candy decided she would "croquet," and got ready to slam her opponent's ball as far from the arches as possible. Here, however, she committed a very natural error. She got ready to drive the wooden sphere back . . . a logical direction for anyone trying to handicap someone else.

"Look," interrupted Jay. "Slam the ball ahead of you, and then the opponent will have to come all the way back to go through the wickets missed, and will be set back double the distance over which he has been driven."

While Jay was explaining, little Jamie slipped her ball through the number three wicket. Jay shot her a look, took another stroke, then leaned on his mallet to expound further on the game.

"People always seem to pass up a big possibility in croquet as they near the starting pole for their own finish," Jay declared. (In croquet, you see, you wind up the game by driving your ball against the starting pole, after having gone through the wickets to the halfway pole and back.)

Helping Partners

"When you've passed through your last arch," the radio emcee kept on while Jamie slapped the sphere through the number six position, "the thing to do is prevent your ball from hitting the pole and putting you out of action. You can then go back to help out your partner, if you're playing partners, by driving away the opponents. Then, in good time, you can come back and hit the pole without having to go through all the arches again."

Jamie hit the halfway pole and started back. Jay was still enthusiastic over the game. "Why, the avenue fronting Buckingham Palace is called Pall Mall simply because 'Mall' is the old French name for croquet," he went on. Jamie, who doesn't speak French yet, came through the middle wicket on her way back . . . turns in their order of the game don't matter much to her.

"Once you've got a croquet set, you find a lot of other uses for it," the emcee-at-home went on. "For instance, you can lay out a miniature golf course, with hazards being thrown up between arches."

"Am I a hazard, Daddy?" asked Jamie as she lined up on the starting stake for at least the second time. But Jay had missed the question.

"You don't have to follow a regular croquet course, either," Daddy Stewart went on. "You can bend your game around an 'L' shaped lawn . . . or a curve, I suppose, and if your lawn is small you can use fewer wickets. I guess for a house with a small lawn, the course could be run all the way around the house."

Jamie had knocked one of the stakes over a few degrees, so picked up her ball.

"Daddy," she called, as she marched off the course, "when you are all finished, don't forget to pick up the wickets."

"Oh, yes," Jay added, completely unabashed, "you've got to take care of your equipment if you want to keep your croquet set in order and enjoy a game. A warped mallet can do a lot to help you lose."

We left Jay and went over to try interviewing Jamie, but she was busy dressing her doll:

ANNIVERSARY REMARRIAGE

Jeff Chandler, who plays "Philip Boynton" on CBS's "Our Miss Brooks," celebrated the second anniversary of his marriage to starlet Marjorie Hoshelle with a repeat wedding ceremony last week. Highlight of the ceremony was Jeff's getting the wedding rings tangled in his pocket and spending a full three minutes fumbling for the nuptial bands.

RECORD NOTES TO YOU

BY ANDY MANSFIELD

THE NATIONAL SYMPHONY ORCHESTRA conducted by Enrique Jorda again rates the best in its four twelve-inch sides comprising "The Russian Easter Festival Overture." . . . Here all the brilliance and fire, combined with the religious solemnity of the occasion as envisioned by Rimsky-Korsakov, is masterfully interpreted with resounding brass passages that are transformed into minor melodies for strings. . . . It's tops in performance and tops in Decca full-frequency-range recording for a Chord in G! . . . AL GOODMAN conducting his orchestra and chorus also does a fine job with hits from Romberg's "The New Moon"—an eight-sided album featuring Earl Wrightson, Donald Dame, Frances Greer and Earl Oxford as soloists. . . . Romberg's lovely melodies "Softly as in a Morning Sunrise," "Lover, Come Back to Me," and "One Kiss" have always been good listening, but here's an album that should not be missing from any music lover's library—it's an RCA-Victor three-noter. . . . THE MODERNAIRES, vocal group but good, have a pair on Columbia in the novelty field—"La Cucaracha," given a pleasant modern touch in vocal presentation, and "Dummy Song," replete with sound effects and able to ride on its own, even though the melody smacks of a popular college ditty. . . . Easily a double-noter. . . . PERRY COMO's "By the Way" and "For You" are strictly on the soft mellow side—slow in tempo with very schmaltzy Russ Case-and-his-muted-strings orchestra to do the backing. . . . It's nice and easy-on-the-ears music—and when accompanied by soft lights, who knows? Otherwise, a pleasing RCA-Victor two-noter. . . . WARING'S PENNSYLVANIANS, with the lovely voice of Joan Wheatley as soloist, have gone back a few years to present "All of a Sudden My Heart Sings"—the melody built on the notes of the scale—and the charming "Winter Wonderland," a seasonal perennial which always makes this adopted Californian homesick for eastern Pennsylvania. . . . Here is easily two notes of Waring on Decca. . . . BENNY GOODMAN and his band of a decade ago made their reappearance on RCA-Victor's "Jam Session" and "Somebody Loves Me" to the tune of a pair of notes. . . . Music is obviously dated, but it's a swell filler for that Goodman collection. . . . STAN KENTON has another top original instrumental in the up-tempoed "Harlem Holiday" with a strong and steady dance beat throughout—reverse side of this Capitol three-noter is mostly June Christy's vocal with Kenton backing on the blues-flavored ballad "Don't Want That Man Around" and the weaker side, but don't miss "Harlem"—it's terrific!

↑ WHILE RADIE WAS IN HOLLYWOOD THIS SUMMER, she did her broadcasts from the Lanai Room of the Beverly Wilshire Hotel, with such visitors as the here-smiling Mr. Gregory Peck. In New York, Radie's show is direct from Columbia's studios, and her interviews are with "the stars who come to town." (CBS photos.)

↑ MURT LANCASTER'S appreciation is one of the hundreds scrawled inside the guest book under Radie's arm. Radie was chairman of the entertainment committee for the "Stage Door Canteen," and acted as talent coordinator of the picture. In London, she introduced visiting American stars in a program called "The Hollywood Party," which the London Press called "one of BBC's most original broadcasts."

BREAKFAST date with a studio personage. Dictating letters or on the phone until noon. Stop to hear repeat of yesterday's broadcast with Diana Lynn. Meet Lloyd Nolan in Lanai Room (Beverly Wilshire Hotel) for today's air interview. Lunch date with Edmund Gwenn, to do interview for tomorrow. Back from lunch at 2:45 to write script. June Lockhart's housewarming at 5:00 p.m. The Cobina Wright party for William Randolph Hearst and his new bride. See Richard Greenes off for England. Dinner at LaRue. To Melville Cooper's, to honor Valerie White, star of "The Winslow Boy." Ciro's, to see Abe Burrows. Time for a nightcap and bed.

Sound like somebody's fabulous pipe-dream? It's also an average day from the memo calendar of Radie Harris, Columbia's "Broadway and Vine" reporter, who spends her summers in Hollywood, her winters in New York, covering the celebrities.

Radie has a suite at the Beverly Wilshire while she's in California; she's now returned to the East and her comfortable Parkwest apartment.

There are two good reasons for her yearly jaunts to the Coast. She hates the New York summer heat. She gets a changed outlook on her job.

"When I come out here I'm a fresh face," she says. "I get a new slant on the stars and really accomplish more. When Hollywood comes to New York, I'm a familiar face. We're old friends, talking over old times."

"At Ease"

People have never disconcerted Radie. When she graduated, with journalistic honors, from New York's Calhoun School for Girls, her folks treated her to a trip to Europe. Radie came back planning to attend Columbia, but during the summer her father had met the editor of the Morning Telegraph. Radie wheedled an introductory note and went down to apply for "a spot writing obituary notices or something." She arrived as the motion-picture department was being organized, and was hired on a week's trial, with the warning, "If you're no good, I'll have to fire you, even if your father is a friend."

Her first assignment was to see the movie at the Strand and review it. Radie went home instead and practiced typing. "But I must have seen the picture," she clarifies, "because six months later I became Motion Picture Editor." She was all of seventeen at the time.

What's on the Books

Radie frankly picks her radio interviews for name value, but she keeps in active touch with folks behind the scenes. She does a Variety column, "Broadway Runaround," and in New York she covers all the nightclub, film and play openings, in addition to her air and social life. She writes all her own material, and has never had a kickback on a script.

"It's much harder to do a five-minute script than a fifteen-minute one," she adds, "because you're always aware of what you're throwing away." Radie thinks the best reassurance she can receive from her audience is the one that her show is too short.

Her most treasured tribute from a celebrity was from Noel Coward, whom she met in London for an interview. "I was terribly edgy about the scene in his play, 'Point Valaine,' where the interviewer comes to see the actor and is treated most acidly. When I left, he said, 'The greatest compliment I can pay you is that this hasn't seemed like an interview at all!'"

A for 'Appiness

Probably Radie's most electric quality is her own enthusiasm for her job. She considers it a terrific challenge to capture the real personality of a star and put it across in a script. When she has repeat visitors on her show, she gathers entirely new material each time. "I never find anyone exactly alike," she smiles.

She attests that the bigger people

"The Lutheran Hour"

I'M A METHODIST, but I love your service. It's so uplifting." "We enjoy your broadcast every Sunday while we are eating dinner. You could hear a pin drop."

In the more than 13,000 letters they write every week to Mutual's "Lutheran Hour," people around the globe admit a common emotion. They are spellbound by the preaching force of Dr. Walter A. Maier, whether they advocate or not his unswerving tirades against divorce, birth control, liquor and sin.

"The Lutheran Hour" has begun its sixteenth radio year and is now heard on more than 1100 stations of the world. Dr. Maier went on the air in 1927, in the attic of an old building near the St. Louis Concordia Seminary, at which he was a professor of ancient languages. He broadcast fifteen times a week with sermons, book reviews and discussions of family problems, and answered letters as they came to him. Soon this correspondence was voluminous; (and today, although Dr. Maier still answers personally 100 to 200 letters a week, there is a staff of 100 persons to handle the bulk of the mail).

From his attic, Dr. Maier expanded to a two-station hookup in Detroit and Cincinnati. In 1935 his program moved to Mutual. "He started from scratch," say his associates, "with something which was against the opinions, or at least not with the blessings, of a lot of people. But he has proven over the years that he has a real idea. The program has never seen a season when it did not go forward in number of stations, listeners and letters received."

Text Is Testament

Dr. Maier holds, dynamically, to the Absoluteness of the Scriptures. "Book-of-the-month discussions must not crowd the Book of Eternity from the pulpit," he declares. He keeps a file of newspaper stories on today's human bewilderments; and if divorce or juvenile delinquency or immorality is most in the headlines, that is the subject of his sermon.

Before he goes on the air he whips off his coat, vest, shirt, tie and belt, and in his undershirt he advances to the microphone. He limbers up his arms and shoulders. Then he preaches, his fists flailing and his eloquence taxed to the full.

When he was a student at Harvard, Dr. Maier won the Billings prize in oratory. In the rallies he conducts during the summers, to raise funds for his broadcast, he has pulled 75,000 persons into Soldier's Field, Chicago, and four times filled the Chicago Stadium. In Cleveland, he was called upon to preach five times in one afternoon, to the crowds which so overflowed capacity. At the Hollywood Bowl rally this October 3, requests for seating were on file six months in advance.

"The Lutheran Hour" chorus, comprised of second and third year ministry students (and highly commended by Fred Waring as a musical group), also travels the country in the summer. In thirty-four days this year, the boys, under their own supervision, covered 5000 miles, gave forty concerts and made four radio appearances.

Doctor and Hulda Maier have two sons of their own, Walter Arthur, twenty-three, who just joined the ministry, and Paul Luther, seventeen, who is still studying. The Maiers have their home on campus at the Seminary, and in spite of the tremendous funds involved in maintaining the "Lutheran Hour" project, family income is $240 a month, Dr. Maier's salary as a professor.

Still a Dynamo

In addition to his sermons and management of the radio series, Dr. Maier makes speeches during the week and as many public appearances as he can arrange. He is assistant pastor of St. Stephen's Lutheran Church in St. Louis. He is developing a plan to pioneer religion in television. He is a motion-picture censor. He has written seventeen books (one of which, "For Better, Not for Worse," is a popular text for prospective matrimonials); and for ten years he has been working on an Old Testament study. Dr. Maier's personal collection of religious manuscripts is considered one of the foremost in America, and includes first editions of most of Martin Luther's published works.

THE CAST of the big radio show moved away from the mikes, dropped their accents, and began good-naturedly ribbing or congratulating one another on the job performed.

One of the studio pages, whose job it was to keep the audience members from filing on stage, stepped through the curtain that separates spectators and members, and told actor Paul Frees that an elderly man in the audience wanted to see him. Curious, Paul followed her. A white-haired old gentleman nearly embraced Paul, and started volleying conversation at him in some completely foreign tongue. Paul, correctly assuming it to be there's always been a burning yen to perform, and he let nothing stand in the way. Not even school.

When he was fourteen years old, Paul left the home-town high school in Chicago, resigned from his after-school job understudying the basso-profundo of the Chicago Light Opera Company, and, operating on his pet theory that one hour of experience

Austrian, replied in English that he didn't know the other language. The old man was amazed, then went on to explain to Paul, in English, that he thought surely the actor must speak the Austrian language, otherwise how could the accent Paul's evening show role called for have been executed so perfectly?

The gentleman from Vienna would have been even more amazed had he known the whole story on young Mr. Frees, actor and dialectician.

Self-Taught

Paul has had only a few months of formal dramatic training. His family is not of the theater. Paul has never studied the languages. The answer to his dramatic facility lies in the fact that in his make-up is worth ten thousand hours of study, lit out as singing-emcee of a group of entertainers. The youngster did anything the occasion called for . . . singing, comedy patter, tap dancing, even stooging. Today Paul laughs at some of the harrowing experiences a bunch of teen-agers were bound to suffer, but the tough going wasn't funny then. Like most hard lessons, their teachings stuck, however.

After a year of this, Paul returned to the Chicago fold and spent the years until his enlistment in World War II making personal appearances in night clubs, singing, emceeing and doing impersonations.

This background, in addition to an injury that resulted in months of hospitalized reflection on life, helped Paul decide on radio. His approach was as naive as his decision. He went to the stations and agencies, stated that he wanted to do radio, and auditioned. Talent buyers sat up in their chairs and listened to the audition records twice. The curly-haired, brown-eyed young man who made those records had seemed like a good fellow, and a nice one, but his appearance had given no indication of his dramatic ability or the almost magical ear that enabled Paul to pick up fine shadings in a dozen or more dialects, then reproduce them. Listening talent-hunters didn't take into account the years of experience in front of one of the toughest audiences in the world to please—night-club attendances. Paul Frees suffers no more self-consciousness or nervousness during performance than most people do at walking down the street.

In the year and a half since Paul "decided" he would enjoy working in radio, he's run the gamut of portrayals on both local and coast-to-coast shows, he's established himself soundly on half a dozen regular programs, and he's experienced complete amazement at the size of the checks good work in radio can bring.

Familiar Voice

Paul is heard on "Today's Children," he is the West Coast announcer for Arthur Godfrey's hour, he does impersonations for Spike Jones, works "Sam Spade," "Amazing Mr. Malone" and "The Casebook of Gregory Hood" regularly. Paul has done not only the role of the pediculous "Abdul" on "A Man Named Jordan" regularly, he also plays half the other roles called for by the story line. Surest identification of the Frees tones is mention of the narrator who weekly introduces "S-u-s-pen-se!"

The Frees home is in San Fernando Valley, where Paul shares with wife June the anxious care of Belle Frees McPherson, a Blue Doberman pup, whom they, in the very best dog-owner tradition, term "the smartest pooch in the world."

Success in radio has left time for the actor to follow an old urge for the allied arts. He sketches constantly, drawing all the characterizations suggested by his radio scripts, caricaturing fellow actors, and doing sketches of his dog. Paul has recently taken to both oils and water colors as mediums, but explains that his only real results to date are scratched hands. He's not content with buying his canvases . . . instead stretches his own.

Paradoxically, Paul gave up singing as a career in favor of radio. Now firmly established as an actor, he recently registered for new courses of instruction—in voice.
