No one loves a good "whodunit" better than I do and I like "Tales of Fatima" very much. But I am absolutely through with "Philip Morris Playhouse." Some of the "Suspense" shows were too much for me also. I think it is very bad psychology and we shall soon end up as a nation of neurotics. When sorrow and tragedy are romanticized as "entertainment" I think we are going entirely too far. Why doesn't someone dramatize Mary Lasswell's "Suds in Your Eye"? "Ma Feeley" and her trials and triumphs would make delightful listening. "George and Liz Cooper" are out of this world and "Favorite Story" was magnificent. The University Theater's dramatizations of great books are superb.

Mrs. John A. Yocum, 4272 Tejuaga Avenue, North Hollywood, Calif.

What happened to "The Private Lives of Ethel and Albert"? In my opinion, they are the funniest and only decent daytime program besides Art Baker's "Notebook." There should be more programs like these instead of the unending flood of snail-paced, unconvincing soap operas. I think the fact that none of the good programs come on until evening when the men are home is an insult to the intelligence of women.

"Easy Aces" replaced "Ethel and Albert," who are not currently heard on the Coast. While daytime programs ARE getting better, your observation still seems valid.

Jennie Duarte, 254 South Figueroa Street, Los Angeles, Calif.

I think your program is swell and I would like to hear it more often. I'm sorry to hear of the lady who wrote you and said your show "stinks." Personally, it is tops with me and my sister. Will you do us a favor and dedicate a couple of numbers to us? We are faithful listeners.

In your enthusiasm, Jennie, you forgot to give the name of the artist you so admire. Who is it?

I read in your magazine that someone refers to Spike Jones as a disgrace to music. Being a Jones fan, I naturally was alarmed at such a statement. Nearly anyone plays well if they try, but it really takes a good musician to play the way Spike does. I sincerely hope there are others who feel the way I do. He is great and should be praised.

Like they say—a good musician can play worse on purpose better than a bad musician can play bad!

Please let me pay tribute to the bravest people in the world, those who try to "Name That Song" and sing it. It takes real courage. I think listeners would like it if folks were invited to send in titles of really old-timers, vintage of 1900 or thereabouts. I'll bet lots of old youngsters would like to get up there and sing one of their courtship days songs.

That's not a bad idea. Let's start off with "Oceana Roll"!

Rita Schrank, 10411 Corfu Lane, Los Angeles 24, Calif.

What a blow! We just heard that both of our favorite programs were leaving the air. What will home be like without "Quiet Please" and "Pat Novak"? ABC is sure missing a good bet by losing those two. Surely there are two sponsors in need of some high-class advertising or a network in need of a couple of sustainers.

It is a blow, and will lose loyal listeners.

Mrs. G. E. Schrank, 10411 Corfu Lane, Los Angeles, Calif.

We were quite alarmed when we heard that the excellent program "Quiet Please" was leaving the air. Isn't there anything we listeners can do to prevent the loss of such high-quality programs?

"Quiet Please" was on the network as a sustaining show. We assume that it was dropped because of lack of sponsorship. Letters to the network in New York might be of some aid in bringing such a good drama back on the air.

C. Kent, address withheld, Beverly Hills, Calif.

Why do those silly announcers rave how wonderful the performance has been no matter how rotten it was? Why thank the actors for their marvelous work? Why not stop all this business of every one telling the other how wonderful they have been?

Well, it's better than having them all fight, we imagine!

M. Vaughn, 1600 North Kings Road, Los Angeles, Calif.

The "Junior Miss" show is very cute, especially the fine acting by father, "Junior Miss," the girl friend and the maid. But the older sister is terrible. Wish they would cut her out by marrying her off.

Gee, that's just what "Lois" (in the script) is after!

Name and address withheld, North Hollywood, Calif.

Thank you so much for the write-ups of my two favorite broadcasters, Carveth Wells and Manchester Boddy. My favorite article is your "Radio in Review." It gets better every issue.

Thank you.

Jack Kruschen, 645 Las Casas Avenue, Pacific Palisades, Calif.

Thank you for your kind words in reference to my work on the new CBS show, "The Green Lama." Also thanks to you for keeping the radio public and those of us in radio abreast of what's cookin'!

And we thought you were swell in "Red Hot and Blue," the Betty Hutton picture, too, Jack!

Mrs. Elsie Niemie, 1107 Silva Street, Long Beach 7, Calif.

In our family we all admire Verna Felton. She can play so many parts. We have been wondering why they don't give her a program of her own.

She certainly deserves one. Incidentally, Verna headed her own stock company when she was a child, so having a radio show of her own would be rather like child's play.

About Your Letters

All letters to the Ear Inspires the Pen Department should include name and full address of the sender. Name and/or address will be withheld on writer's request. Opinions expressed in the letters printed are those of the senders and do not necessarily reflect the opinion of Radio and Television Life.

Mrs. G. Parkas, 2722 Eagle Street, Los Angeles 33, Calif.

Can you tell me the name of the song that Dick Powell whistles on his "Richard Diamond, Detective" program? He is wonderful both in singing and acting. Why doesn't his radio girl friend "Helen" let him finish the song that he starts? Is "Johnny Fletcher" returning to the air? I sure enjoyed it when Bill Goodwin and Sheldon Leonard were on.

The whistle ditty is an original by Henry Russell. No rumors as to "Johnny Fletcher's" return at present.

Mrs. Ethel A. Curless, 221 West Second Street, Corona, Calif.

The letter of C. Phillips sure riled me. Four out of five of his neighbors have television—so right away you should give ninety-five per cent of your magazine to it. I believe in a fair deal for everyone and if I were driven to the radio logs in the daily papers, I would miss seeing the pictures and articles about all the artists.

Eleanor Armour, 1051 Woodbury Road, Pasadena, Calif.

Have found your page on "Your Early Morning Listening Schedule" of great help to me, but have not been able to find it listed since last year. Are you going to run it again or has it been discontinued?

"Early Morning Listening" column will be scheduled again.

Agnes T. Hine, 151 North Hoover Street, Los Angeles 4, Calif.

The Friday evening "My Good Wife" is one of the best "Mr. and Mrs." shows ever given on radio. It is clever and clean and gives the listeners the unusual feeling that brains have gone into it. Also the players credit the audience with that rare attribute.

Inez Becker, 601 South Rampart Boulevard, Los Angeles 5, Calif.

I miss Bill Bryan and his piano "Agatha" and his songs, which composed a most enjoyable fifteen-minute program over KFMV.

Harry Elders

Delores Sweeney, 311 North Central, La Habra, Calif.

I would like to see a picture of Harry Elders of "Curtain Time."

Mrs. Lulu F. Larry, 1642 Ocean Avenue, Santa Monica, Calif.

I feel that aside from the television programs for children there is but little on the sets. The Westerns are all shooting and it is never interesting to hear married people "wisecrack" and try to be funny. I like the British pictures but they are shown too little. The only good thing about television is that occasionally you might see a parade or a rodeo. Also on the sports shows, every little bit of the play is plastered with a beer ad or a cigarette ad. It would seem that the programs are planned to cater to the tavern audience. It seems that liquor and tobacco have the money to get in on the ground floor.

You're in agreement with our famous Mr. No-Name, who wrote the provocative letter to our Video in Review department! In the matter of ads, however, practically every advertising medium has good ones, bad ones, innocuous ones and the so-called objectionable ones.

Laura Chase, 1957 Rodney Drive, Hollywood 27, Calif.

When we read the strong objection to Mercedes McCambridge we were shocked. Ever since our first remembrance of her on "I Love a Mystery" we have been delighted to hear her. We consider her a great actress and find her voice so individual. It would be interesting to see her in pictures, too.

You'll be seeing Mercedes in the Columbia picture "All the King's Men."

Mrs. Floyd Bailey, Route 3, Box 78, Corvallis, Ore.

Could you tell me if Hawthorne is on the air? We always liked his show and Bob Burns's program. Now we can't get either one. The only ones we seem to hear are the give-aways or classical music. On both of these, I pass.

Loyal Hoganites will gladden at the news of Jim Hawthorne's return, this time via television every Saturday at 8:00 p.m. on KTTV, Channel 11. In your case, Mrs. Bailey, you'll have to wait until the show is possibly kinescoped, which would delight many a far-away fan.

Peggy Mead, 1452 Rowland Avenue, El Monte, Calif.

I think that the Spade Cooley time is the best Western program on the air. They are all so courteous and will play any numbers requested. Anyone knows that they have to have the commercials in order to be on the air.

Mrs. Westerfield, 929 Norvita Place, Venice, Calif.

I couldn't believe the letter from a reader who panned "Spade Cooley Time" or that you would publish such a letter. That is just one critical comment on such a progressive and capable disc-jockey like George Sanders. He has a lot of commercials to read and most people do not understand. I have heard him read them and have failed to find anything wrong as he plays a lot of records between commercials. I like all of Spade's music and hope George will continue playing them always.

When we publish letters of criticism, one of our purposes is to draw letters of defense like yours.

A. A. W., Hollydale, Calif.

Why do news commentators use such words as delegat, candidut, gradu-ut and others? I'm expecting at any time to hear them burst forth with congregut, segregut and even investigut. Wish they would consult their dictionaries and spare listeners further disgust.

A distinction should be made between verbs and nouns ending in -ate. Orthoepists specify the long-a sound for verb endings and the half-long-a sound for most -ate adjectives and nouns (not including candidate, which calls for the long a). But neither form, we agree, should sound like -ai. By the way, we know one of the better newscasters who impartially uses the unstressed half-long a for both verbs and nouns. We hope he is listening.

Mrs. Mavis Fields, 1816 West Thirty-eighth Place, Los Angeles, Calif.

The writer who stated there was a time people could tune in Spade Cooley Time and not hear so many commercials makes me want to turn around and add that there was also a time when people could buy butter for thirty-eight cents, too. It would be pretty boring just to hear music without a break, a friendly word and a little fun, instead of the drab commercials heard on other programs. Why pick on George Sanders? He has a job to do and he does it in a friendly manner.

Mrs. B. A. Hall, 9257 Cedros Avenue, Van Nuys, Calif.

Can you tell me if there is any exercise program on the air now? There must be lots of folks who'd like a few toning-up exercises in the morning.

There is no exercise program on the air presently that we know of, but we think it would be a good, inexpensive program for a morning sponsor to offer. How about some of you local stations?

Mellie Miles, 3032 Locust Street, Riverside, Calif.

I am shocked and grieved that the week-day-morning Fred Waring show has been taken off the air. It made a beautiful beginning for every day and I do miss it.

Our mornings, too, just aren't the same except on Saturday, KFI, 8:00 a.m., when we can still catch Waring.

The Story Behind "HOLLYWOOD CALLING"

*Plans, Work, Talent and Lots of Excitement
Went to Make Up NBC's Great Giveaway Show*

By Joan Buchanan

down, we'd like to reprise the beginning and try to reveal why "Hollywood Calling" is different.

Everyone can't win the prizes, but maybe everyone can have the entertainment, was the revolutionary theory behind the formatting of the program. Henry Russell and his orchestra, a choral group, George Murphy for emcee, guest movie stars and actors were lined up to keep the show moving while the telephone quiz was made. Particular attention was paid to pacing the program, to keep it moving while the mechanics of the quiz were going on. To keep the questions from bogging down into a rut, the clues were given in a variety of guises, musical parody, impersonations, sound effects and scenes.

Disgruntled listeners (and even winners) have proven that there are "bugs" in many giveaway and quiz programs. The NBC staff of "Hollywood Calling" decided early in the stages of formatting to rid their program of the "bugs." First was the discarding of any recording tricks. What profits a listener who stays glued to the dial listening to a phone quiz that took place hours or even days before and was recorded to be played later? Or one on which the phone calls to contestants were made before the program went on the air? For that reason, "Hollywood Calling" is cleared coast-to-coast for a live broadcast and the phone calls are made while the show is actually on the air.

Contestants and listeners have been jaded with lists of gigantic prizes given away over the past few years. How to perk up an audience that is bored with refrigerators? "Gifts that money can't buy," a new category of prizes, was added to the list. If a contestant fails, he still

THE TENSION and excitement at NBC before the premiere broadcast of "Hollywood Calling" were as great as that backstage at a Broadway opening. So many preparations had been made, so much coordination had to click, so many people were waiting for the outcome. Everyone at the network was touched by the excitement. People who said they hadn't been interested in giveaway shows were assuring each other: "This is different."

Now that the program has been established and the staff has calmed ▲ CREDIT FOR A DIFFICULT JOB beautifully done should go to Vick Knight (right) director of the program, and producer Max Hutto. Hutto acted as the Radio and TV Life guide, took time out from the big job of putting "Hollywood Calling" on the air to explain the background of the show to us.

▲ DICK POWELL AND JIMMY DURANTE VISITED the program as guest stars during a trial broadcast during which calls were made to station owners across the country in an effort to time the program with the exactness needed to reach the air.

wins an interesting item; it may be one of little intrinsic value, but its appeal is enormous. It may be the scarf worn by Jennifer Jones in "Portrait of Jenny," a cigarette case from a Humphrey Bogart picture, any movie prop that would have a particular interest for the contestant on the other end of the line.

Movie studios have been particularly cooperative with the program. They realize that the publicity they receive is logically included on the program, not hammered home. The weekly stars are charged with the task of matching up the contestant and the prize. In the few moments the star is on the phone, he endeavors to learn a bit of the contestant's background. Backstage, a writer matches up what the star has learned with a list of fascinating movie props available. In a matter of seconds, the star has the information and is relaying it to the excited person on the other end of the wire.

Calls are made three or four ahead to keep the show moving. Ten operators from the phone company and a supervisor are stationed in the corridor of NBC, contacting numbers. Every phone directory in the nation is available. The set-up of drawing numbers is a story in itself. Governors of the states draw numbers that designate states, cities, pages and numbers of the names on the pages. There is a number for every two thousand listed phones in the country, rather than one for each phone directory. In the latter case, the twelve residents of Broken Arm, Wyoming, would have the same chance of their directory being drawn as the several million in the Manhattan New York directory. The residents of Broken Arm would have their chances multiplied by many million in winning a chance to guess on the program.

Vick Knight, director of the program, is generally regarded with awe for the job he has done and is doing on "Hollywood Calling." His job virtually calls for a superman. He wears a headphone—on one ear he gets the contestant's end of the phone conversation, on the other he gets the supervisor of the telephone operators and can also switch on the musical conductor and emcee Murphy. Out of the wall of the control booth, he can hear the whole show!

There are ninety-five people directly concerned with the program. Sixty of them are on stage while the

Not present are the script girls; research workers who must dig out the information needed on stars and movies; writers who put together the clues that add up to entertainment; members of the singing group. Staff members estimate that more than ninety people a week are directly concerned with putting "Hollywood Calling" on the air.

"Kukla, Fran and Ollie"

ALMOST every adult who has had occasion to see NBC-TV's "Kukla, Fran and Ollie," video puppet show, has employed the same choice of words in recounting to others just what he or she saw the night before. "Isn't the show charming!"

The popularity of this presentation among all members of a family could well set up a new issue in "family relations." Children don't dream they won't be allowed to gather around a set each night and watch the wistful, amusing dragon "Ollie," with his sad eyes and fringe of hair. And any adult who has once fallen under the spell of "Beulah Witch," "Fletcher Rabbit" or other cast members who have become so real, certainly isn't going to relinquish his place at the set

FRAN ALLISON as she appears in her "Aunt Fanny" role on Don McNeill's "Breakfast Club." (NBC photos.)

"COLONEL CRACKEY" AND "MME. OPHELIA OGLEPUSS" are two more of the characters whose actions and voices keep Burr Tillstrom hopping backstage.

BURR TILLSTROM, WHOSE YEARS as a successful puppeteer belie his youthful appearance. Burr has to his credit some of the most popular show-time figures of all time, in his "Kukla," "Fran" and pals.

LATE THIS MONTH these two lovable brainchildren of creator Burr Tillstrom will again join singing mistress of ceremonies Fran Allison in the "Kukla, Fran and Ollie" program to be seen or KNBH, NBC's Hollywood video.

side, pack of eager moppets or not!

Ad-Lib Artistry

The only "live talent" appearing on the show is the telegenic stage, radio and video star, Fran Allison, long known to listeners as "Aunt Fanny" of Don McNeill's "Breakfast Club." Fran expertly ad-libs with the little Kuklapolitans while Burr Tillstrom, creator of the amusing oddly sad group, puppeteers them. For each performance, Burr merely gives Fran a rough idea of what will happen, and she just meanders into the act to take things as they come.

Tillstrom has been a professional puppeteer for more than fifteen years, making his debut in a Chicago department store. Not only does he manage to be the puppeteer, he simultaneously watches the daily show's progress on a screen, switches voices and characters with unbelievable dexterity and agility, and manages the dozens and dozens of props necessary to the whimsical adventure series of his puppets.

While legions of new fans are a nightly occurrence, "Kukla" and "Ollie" are almost old-timers. During the war, "Kukla" did some fast work in bond drives with the Red Cross and in entertainment centers for service men. Tillstrom still gives voice and action to his lovable crew when they perform between TV shows at hospitals and orphans' homes.

Accolade of Them All

An example of the hold which the round-headed "Kukla" and "Ollie," his sorrowful, one-toothed dragon, have on the hearts of their fans lies in the story about a New York radio executive. In this case, the executive was a woman, quite a worldly soul, to whom celebrities of any sort (but especially those of radio or video) came a dime a dozen. Too many of her "best friends" fell into the celeb category for her to be much impressed by mere "fame."

An absolute and nightly fan of the Kuklapolitans, this young woman about Manhattan wouldn't miss an evening of their antics. One night, to her joy, she heard "Kukla" mention having seen her, the mere viewer, in a crowd some place! Off to the phone she rushed to call her friends and tell these folk, at whose word radio and television shows are built or bought, of her greatest of thrills! "Kukla" had actually said her name!

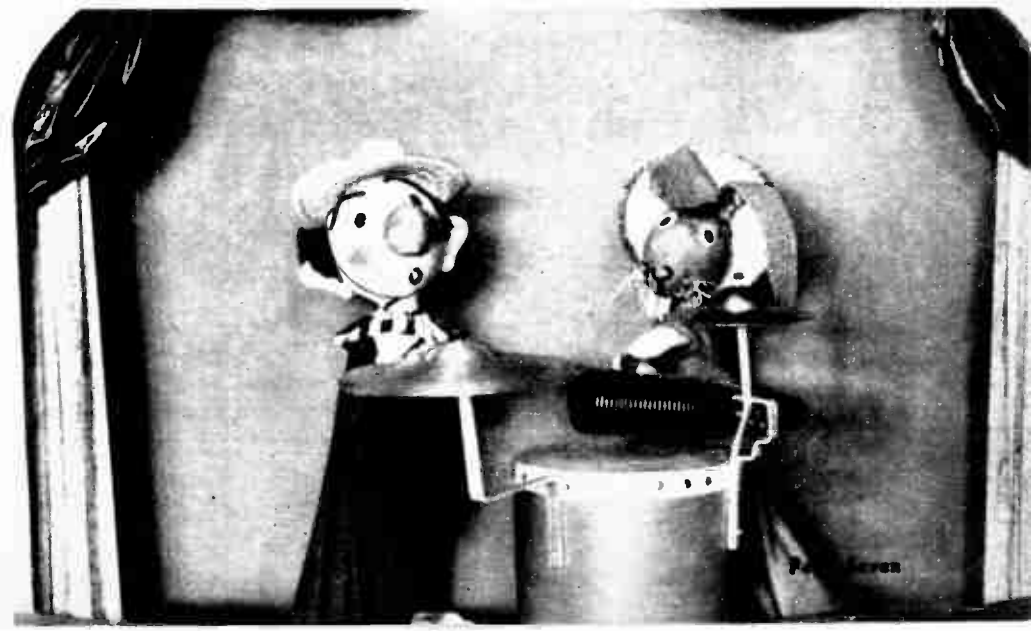

"KUKLA" AND "FLETCHER RABBIT" work up a rare bit of tympanic entertainment. The fact that this sort of whimsical stuff comes off well five nights a week is tribute to facile-minded Tillstrom and his right hand, Fran Allison.

Your Cue (Shows You May Like)

Ethel Merman Show

If you like Ethel Merman you shouldn't be missing her series on KFI, 6:30 p.m. Sunday. If you don't enjoy her, you'll probably stick with the strong opposition she has on the other nets at that time.

The Merman show is our Ethel all over again. It's terrific when she's singing "No Business Like you-know-what" or "You're the Top" or any one of the many Cole Porter and Irving Berlin hits that were written for her and then drained off by smaller voices singing closer to the mike.

She plays herself—as if she could be anyone else—in a backstage musical built around her famous songs. She's got the sort of brassy personality and musical stage projection that swamp the rest of her pretty good radio cast.

It's interesting to note that some of the songs she sings have had their lyrics changed since the last time you listened to a Merman record or saw a Merman show. That great crashing song, "Heat Wave," is a notable example.

"Rocky Jordan"

Jack Moyles as the intrepid "Rocky Jordan" of "Cafe Tambourine" is surely one of the most attractive air heroes engaged in melodrama. Heard at 5:00 p. m. Sunday on KNX, he's still battling international intrigue in Cairo with an assortment of native characters and a beautiful girl in the new series.

The longevity of this program is based on the same appeal that the old Peter Lorre-Sidney Greenstreet movies had. Radio cast supplying the typical characters lurking around the "Cafe" is excellent. Betty Lou Gerson, Byron Kane, Jay Novello, David Ellis and John Dehner, all equipped with beautiful speaking voices, gave the first broadcast an all-star send-off.

Musical conductor Dick Aurandt obviously enjoyed his chores in atmosphere the exotic setting and contributed a completely apropos score.

Playbacks (Critical Comment)

We Point With Pride

. . . . To a young actress of great charm and talent, Susan Douglas, currently heard (among other things) as "Sally" on "Wendy Warren." Her interesting voice is combined with a disarming sincerity.

. . . . To Henry Morgan, who continues to be a very funny man throughout most of his broadcast. His recent burlesquing of real-life situations as they would be done on the air was tops in the Morgan manner. A man buying a package of cigarettes was reenacted a la Lucky Strike commercials; an ordinary domestic situation was turned into a breathless soap opera.

. . . . To the very real flavor given the stories on NBC's "The Big Story." Often real-life happenings can be made to sound extremely phony; "Big Story" manages to be exciting without hurting its factual basis.

. . . . To crooner Johnny Desmond's singing as newest member of the Don McNeill "Breakfast Club" gang. Young Desmond had a large job cut out for him in following the extremely popular Jack Owens. By being himself and singing better than ever, Johnny "arrived."

We View With Alarm

. . . . Still another speech mannerism we could do without in radio interviews is "you know" repeated so many times that the subject sounds as if he's interjecting "y'kn" after every other word. "You know, it's as if, y'know, I went to, y'know, New York instead of Hollywood, y'know." Now doesn't that sound interesting?

. . . . The word "happiness" as used on most soap operas. People talk so incessantly of "my happiness" and "your happiness" that the word is coming to mean the normal feeling of merely being alive. Webster de-

The young baritone, who has replaced Jack Owens, reached international fame during the war when, as a member of the official AAF band, he became a favorite of the Princesses Elizabeth and Margaret Rose. At 12:15 p.m. Norwood Smith takes your mind off the mid-day sun with old and new ballads rich in melody and romance. Then, to wind things up, melodically speaking, catch Casa Cugat at 10:15 p.m. and, of course, the hotel orchestras come breezing in at 11:15. That's nightly, Mon. thru Fri. on KECA.

KECA-TV Channel 7, starts Sept. 16!

Another thought about music this time, of a serious nature... have you heard the excellent interpretation of sacred church songs by choir and quartet on the Old Fashioned Revival Hour, 8:00 a.m. Sundays? On Voice of Prophecy, which follows at 9:30 a.m., you'll notice an unusually fine presentation of devotional hymns, also. Then, every Tuesday at 11:15 a.m. bass-baritone George Beverly Shea and the Club Time singers include among their inspirational selections, favorites of famous persons.

KECA-TV Channel 7, starts Sept. 16!

You know, a lot of world news is confusing. Even when you get a concise edition from a newsman as thorough and reliable as the Richfield Reporter (nightly at ten, except Sat.) it still helps to have somebody sift it down for you. That's where men like James Roosevelt, Henry J. Taylor, Arthur Gaeth and Martin Agronsky come in. For better understanding of current events, hear them all—on KECA!

finest it as "Good luck; prosperity."

The bad taste of the quotes attributed to the current Miss America now touring Europe as reported by most of the radio newsmen. Distasteful enough in the press to hear her expression on "falsies." French bathing suits and the fact that French girls of her age are "too thin" (now, we wonder why?) it's even worse to hear it coming over the air.

All the television jokes! 1949 should certainly go down in history as the year of the TV gag. "I tried to get into television but I was too fat to get on that little screen." "They've invented a new thing where you can hear television without looking at those little pictures. Radio, it's called." And on, and on.

"Martin Kane, Private Eye"

Gumshoeing his way through thirty minutes of slow-paced, poorly worded dialogue, William Gargan debuted a new Mutual-Don Lee mystery series, Sunday, KHJ, 1:30 p.m.

As "Martin Kane, Private Eye," Gargan sleuths in a Manhattan locale, mixing with crooked bums and parched-voiced femmes fatale. Script amounts to a parlay on the wiles of women, tough man talk, and crime investigation accompanied by melodramatic music which tries to set the mood for mayhem but booms into too many irritating crescendos and shivers down to a poorly chosen tempo.

Making the show tolerable was Gargan's punch-packed delivery, which almost lost its appeal when it dipped into trite expressions and more than obvious innuendoes. Detectiving is no strange business to Bill Gargan, who has become an ace sleuth in many movies. Given stronger aid by the scripters, "Martin Kane" should turn into good listening fare after it settles down.

On Mike (About Studio Happenings)

Jack Pot Cracked

When Miss Anne Notre was called by NBC's "Hollywood Calling" and asked for the name of the "Film of Fortune," she cracked the five-week-old mystery by answering "Jealousy." The twenty-year-old dental assistant in Union City, New Jersey, had known the correct answer for the past two weeks and was the tenth person called as the program aired that Sunday.

Miss Notre will receive $31,000 in prizes, much of which she plans to share with her family. Prizes included a trip to Paris for two, a $1,000 wardrobe from a French couturier, a new car, a pair of French poodles, a $2,000 wardrobe for a man, imported perfumes, an ermine jacket and many other items. She revealed that the trip to Paris will be given to her father and mother and that a married sister, a brother, another sister and a nephew will share in the other prizes.

The new "Film of Fortune" started on August 14, with the jack pot pegged at $27,000 and increased each week. New clues are: "A man and girl for a ride—but it's the man who walks back!" "Two women flare into a furious fight over a man!" "A rock crashes through a window."

A forty-five-day Mediterranean cruise for two is only one of the prizes—so be on your toes!

Contests and Offers

"LADIES DAY," KFI, 9:05 a.m. Monday through Friday—Contestants send in selection of four songs based on the wedding superstition, "Something old, something new, something borrowed, something blue." New sweepstakes jack-pot offer monthly. Postcard choice of four songs to "Ladies Day," KFI, Los Angeles 64.

"LADIES FIRST," KHJ, 11:00 a.m. Monday through Friday—Listeners at home write in a four-line poem dealing with the show or personalities on it. Add name, address and telephone number. The postcard will entitle listeners to guess the "Famous Lady Quiz." More details given on show. Send postcards to "Ladies First," KHJ, 1313 North Vine Street, Hollywood.

★ ★ RELIC

Harry Salter, musical director of ABC's "Stop the Music," traced the singing commercial to a nineteenth-century hymn book. It was found that a clergyman who wanted to provide hymnals for his congregation accepted the offer of inserting advertisements into the songs. Hymnals in hand, the people would burst forth with:

"Hark! The herald angels sing
Beecham's Pills are just the thing;
Peace on earth and mercy mild,
Two for man and one for child."

★ ★ CAREER FOR KIRKWOOD

Jack Kirkwood of the Bob Hope show on NBC has just landed a movie-acting plum. He will be a featured comedian in the new Hope film, "Where Men Are Men." Kirkwood, who missed out on being featured in a Bing Crosby picture because of a recent illness, got the part in the Hope picture when Barry Fitzgerald had to undergo an emergency operation.

★ ★ DREAM VOCALIST

Sammy Kaye, MBS maestro, is seeking a songstress so telegenic she will be the Miss Television of the future. Requirements are that she must have the eyes of Rita Hayworth; the nose of Lana Turner; the smile of Maureen O'Hara; the hair of Marilyn Maxwell and the figure of Betty Grable. Oh yes, it wouldn't be so bad, if she could sing a little, too!

VIDEO In Review

In & Out of Focus (General Comment)

Looks Like

Looks like the title "Rumpus Room" will be changed to "The Ben Gage Show." Ben, incidentally, is working toward adding a night-club routine to his radio-television schedule, and is expected to open his new act in Las Vegas this fall. He is also being paged for the "Steve Canyon" comic-strip title role. . . . Greek Theater producer Gene Mann is next to take the video plunge and is now organizing his own production unit to turn out live and film TV shows this winter. . . . Video has finally arrived. A dealer on Santa Monica Boulevard, down near the beach, has a full theater marquee announcing what is playing inside (inside the window) each night of the week. . . . The two bills recently offered the California State Legislature in Sacramento, two almost similar bills providing for a five per cent tax on certain television income, were defeated. Either, if passed, would have provided one more definite obstacle in the way of video-set sales, and would otherwise have directly affected the entire television industry. . . . Arthur Schwartz, producer of next season's "Inside U. S. A.," Chevrolet TV show, set up all his plans for the NBC presentation, reputedly snagged the twenty G's a week necessary as budget, then had to come to Hollywood for talent. The lead will probably come from here, as will guest stars. Show will be a revue, with liberal use of film and live stuff. . . . Twenty-six audience shows per week are available for those who want to look behind scenes before they leap to the retailers to purchase. . . . Among them are KNBH's "Country Store"; KTSL's "What's the Name of That Song?"; "Piano Portraits and Eddie Le Roy's show; KLAC-TV's Dick Haynes Variety Show and "Hail the Champ"; KTLA's Spade Cooley show and KTTV's "Pantomime Quiz," "Bozo's Circus" and the Ben Gage show.

Rumors Are Flying

Now that the possibility of Warner Brothers buying KLAC-TV is no longer brewing, KFAC, Los Angeles, has renewed its efforts to obtain Mrs. Thacker's frequency on KLAC-TV. Three other bidders flatly said "no!" to the lady's million-dollar price tag on the station. . . . Bob Crosby has moved east for television work. His determination includes even selling his West Coast home. . . . MCA is supposedly packaging a show for television around "Parkyakarkus." Jack Barnett and Frank Cooper are the latest to dream up a video show. The revue used "under-twelve" kids, and is being routined by Rubens Workshop, written by the two creators. . . . Jane Pickens may be starred in a video show for NBC next season. . . . On the strength of his eleven guest shots, all video, in the East, Buddy Rogers has received seven bids for his own New York show. He is expected to sign for one. . . . "Fibber and Molly" will do experimental video auditioning for video next fall, but say a definite move into the new medium would kill their AM show. Too much work to do both, they say.

Stop, Listen, Look (Shows You May Like)

"Hollywood Mystery House"

There seems to be something about five, ten or twenty-five minutes past the hour when announced as the time of a show, that immediately categorizes it as more or less a filler, not of strictly A-1 caliber.

We know that the 8:05 p.m. announced for KLAC-TV's Sunday night "Hollywood Mystery House" kept us, until recently, from catching it. First presentation we saw was "Mystery in the Mojave," a comedy-mystery with a plot as frail as the title suggests. What kept us around was not the script but the highly professional, excellent performances on the part of all actors and actresses (with the exception of one poor soul not quite sure of his lines) and the beautiful set construction by Jerry Tamblin.

Spot is a live show, emanating from the confines, and we use the term literally, of KLAC-TV's studios. Yet somehow the illusion of a ranch house, the wide-open space of a back forty acres, and the long rides through the night came across as well as any motion picture we have seen outside of "Treasure of the Sierra Madre," carefully shot to picture as much of the outdoors as possible.

Jack Kelly, Chris Fortune, Cathy Qualen (daughter of movie actor John Qualen) and Mel Marshall carried off the principal roles. Their craft in avoiding a single glance at the television cameras added to their natural performances in a story that found a merry group of dudes plunged into solving the murder of the ranch owner. The denouement hinged on a secret magnesium deposit or some such credible factor. The comedy touch and fast action redeemed completely any boredom of plot.

The wits behind camera direction at KLAC-TV belong to a miss. Betty Turbiville can be credited for shuttering that abetted nicely (save for some rather long fades) the performers' work.

"Pal Headliners"

The title "Pal Headliners" seemed to us suggestive of small animal friends who had somehow distinguished themselves sufficiently to appear in the local seventy-two-point banners. That happy thought lured us into sticking around for the five-minute spot on KTTV, Sunday night at 7:25. It was thus we uncovered one of the best small commercial video shows we have seen.

"Pal" refers to Pal Hollow Ground Razor Blades. A pitch for these precedes the news show, and what a pitch! During the time Pal's different kinds of blades are flashed on the screen, a narrator tells you about them. With a timing old vaudevillians would envy, the commercial shoots catch lines at the viewer, each time getting him back just before attention strays. . . . e.g. "you can change shave to save in one second" or "takes the H out of shave for you men."

The four remaining minutes of recently seen film dealt with tiny Bonnie Prince Charlie, son of Elizabeth and the Duke of Edinburgh. The exclusive Movietone shots of the baby and his adoring parents were of the most intimate type, showing small Charles and mother rolling about on the grass. Old film of other eras brought Edward VII, George V and the present ruling couple onto the television screen, while commentator Ed Thorgersen posed the question as to whom the baby resembled.

Happy little Charles resembled nothing so much as any other happy, beloved baby who was blissfully unaware of the camera, but it made a good gimmick to tie together all the film secured for one of these regrettable brief presentations.

"Headliners" is part of the "Crusade in Europe" package ABC sold to CBS-TV until such time as ABC is rolling here on the Coast.

Money and obviously some thought have been spent on this show. Too bad the various panels around town which spend their lunch hours in wordy, valueless and vaguely general discussions of what is good and what is not so good with video don't study small films like this.

Frank Veloz Show

The new Frank Veloz video show (KNBH, Channel 4, Sundays at 8:30 p.m.) is an entertaining half hour that instructs at-homers and audience members in dance steps, then pits the audience couples against one another as they trip the light or heavy fantastic. Frank Veloz has long been acclaimed as America's greatest ballroom dancer. After a few more shows he is likely as not to be acclaimed video's most gracious emcee and able host. Probably biggest tribute to his social and entertainment-wise abilities were the noticeable ease and happy, unself-conscious manner with which audience members glided or clumped through routines before both

One of America's leading composers of semi-classical and operetta scores has been strangely inactive for about a decade. Recently a rumor reached us that a partial solution had been discovered. Seems that the composer was called to a movie studio to do the score for an important musical spectacle. He agreed and the contract was about to be signed when he suddenly called a halt. He returned home, consulted his ouija board and then refused to sign the contract—ouija once again had said "No!"

Just in passing, it's interesting to note that though the Hollywood Bowl insisted it had to book cowboy acts and ice skaters in order to make up the deficit caused by concert and symphony attractions, the Horowitz concert attracted a near-capacity crowd, traffic was blocked to Franklin Avenue and the parking lots were charging a dollar, a sure sign of a profitable concert.

Did you know that it's not musical gifts alone that attract an audience? According to an interesting breakdown in one of the Billboard Encyclopedias of Music, concert and opera artists depend on several other attributes to draw crowds. Here's how it goes: Musical gifts combined with an attractive on- and off-stage personality—Lily Pons, Artur Schnabel, Eugene List and Ezio Pinza.

Musical gifts combined with a provocative personality that gets into print—Beecham, Levant, Stokowski. The late Grace Moore was also in this category. Attractive and peppery personalities in addition to great musical talent—Maggie Teyte and Toscanini. Extraordinary musical talent that draws crowds removed from any off-stage attraction—Horowitz, Helfetz, Menuhin, Kapell, Casadesu, Serkin and Stern.

Personalities who have improved their appeal through movies and radio—Lauritz Melchior and Jose Iturbi.

Jean Holloway, the talented young lady who writes four shows a week, including "Railroad Hour" and "Mr. President," got to thinking about radio comedy. "Wouldn't it be wonderful," she mused, "if I could team Helen Traubel and Lauritz Melchior as a couple of married opera stars! Ah well, it wouldn't work—but if it did . . ." Jean enlarged on the idea, flew to New York and contacted the Metropolitan stars. They both thought it was a wonderful idea—and the audition record is going to be cut any day.

"They both have a great sense of comedy," revealed the writer, when we asked for details on the show. "I've even used incidents that have happened to them in opera and some of the gags they've played on each other." Seems that Melchior took a diabolical delight in holding Traubel

Radio Lifelines

"QUEEN FOR A DAY" is a misnomer. Those lucky ladies whom Jack Bailey has crowned over the past four years have banded themselves into an "ex" club in which all the members are still queens. I know, because they invited me to one of their monthly parties. It was held in the garden behind Wanda's Bakery on North Western Avenue (she is the one who makes all those mouth-watering cakes given to all the Queens).

There isn't the remotest chance that a one of them will ever forget that for twenty-four hours she was Queen, but just in case, a large motto was hung near the head of the table: "Queen for a Day—Forever Queenly." The gals certainly spread a royal luncheon feast and their noblesse oblige could be matched any day with Elizabeth's or Juliana's. But when they squeezed into the garage to view some motion pictures taken at one of their recent picnics, they screamed like youngsters at a back yard circus. Cries of "Where's Nora?" "Where am I? Where am I? There I am!" "Oh, there's Mary. Doesn't she look cute, the dear!" blended into a joyous cacophony decidedly undignified and decidedly delightful.

TRAVEL-IS-BROADENING DEPARTMENT: Reader Pearl Sanborn has called me down: "So you don't know about the four flags always flying. Two Capitol, one Congressional Library, one Francis Key's grave." Okay, Pearl. Now I know and thank you.

PIERRE, MASTER OF THE CREPES SUZETTE, writes from Paris: "Ouh! la! la! All the Frenchmen holler when you go to exchange dollars for francs. The crepe-suzette industry is dead here. Only multi-millionaires eat them once every three years."

ONE OF THE FIRST RADIO LIFE stories I ever did was about a couple to whom I listened every morning—Andy and Virginia Mansfield on KMPC. Meeting them was one of the liveliest and happiest encounters, even yet, of my radio career. Besides being such fundamentally nice people, they have a zest for life that makes so tight during love scenes in the operas they did together that Helen had to struggle out of his grasp to hit her high notes.

Once he dressed up in a long gown, put a wreath of flowers on his head and danced out with the village maidens just as Traubel was in the midst of an aria!

The Holloway show, "Mr. and Mrs. Opera," will include a song each for the two stars and a duet to close the show. In between will be situation comedy, a commodity which neither Traubel nor Melchior should have any difficulty in supplying.

them wonderful company. Between Virginia's hooked rugs, iris garden, professionally homemade hats, Andy's model railroad, stamps, record collection (15,000) and their dogs and pool there is always an excellent springboard for stimulating conversation. My visit to their Bar Nothing Ranch last weekend was up to par, despite the fact that Virginia's chocolate cake didn't come out as tall as she had expected and that Pat (ninety-four dog years old) was in a snappy mood. You probably know people like the Mansfields (maybe you know the Mansfields) but if you don't, perhaps you'll be glad to be reassured that there are still some like them left in this distressed and sometimes ugly world.

RETURNING TO OUR STARTING POINT. "Queen for a Day" tickets are in heavy demand and those who have any connection with the show are always badgered with requests. Nothing stops the pressing demands. For instance, last week, Jim Parsons of the Mutual publicity department was in the hospital for a nose operation. He had just come out of surgery and was lying, doped and in pain, in a room with two beds, the other one occupied by a loquacious chap who had undergone leg surgery. Striving to be pleasant, he asked Jim where he worked.

"Oh, out in Hollywood at a place called Mutual Broadcasting," mumbled Jim.

"Say," pounced the other patient, "can you get me two tickets for 'Queen for a Day'?"

Nearly dying by this time, so he thought, Jim sighed. "Yeah, mebbe for you, but if anybody else asks you what I do, tell 'em I work for the L.A. Transit Lines and that I'll get 'em a transfer!"

WORDS OF WISDOM

Winning words of wisdom read by Jack McElroy on ABC's "Breakfast in Hollywood" included these gems: some people should do less public speaking and more private thinking; worry is the interest paid by those who borrow trouble; the person who goes around with a chip on his shoulder should check to see if it came from his own head!

Video in Review

an audience and the television cameras.

Everyone in there pitching turned a simple format into lively entertainment. Four girls and four men were chosen from the attendance. The distaff side danced with a young man from one of the Veloz schools; the sword side with a pretty instructress from the same school. Couples started with the samba, dancing by turn and being eliminated through audience applause, or lack thereof, as registered on a control-booth meter. Each week a different type of dance will be taught, to and tried by the evening's participants.

Excellent camera work expedited the performances. No disembodied feet twinkled around on viewers' screens. And no footless, grinning bodies gyrated up and down. The men behind the four-lensers combined hefty camera arrangement with the knowledge that it still takes both a body and a pair of feet to do any dancing. Good camera work was doubly welcome during the spectacular dance by Veloz himself and a professional partner—a feature of each show.

Halfway in the show, before the finalists were chosen and suitably rewarded with a long series of free lessons from Veloz studios, the guest star of the evening appeared. First show guest was Bill Anson, who took the opportunity to tout his own hoped-for video "Joe Penner" show. Bill went through an interminable routine as Penner, then asked if folks could write in and tell him how they would like such a show. The time could well have been spent in either another exhibition dance by Veloz or further instruction in the dance.

Frank Veloz's partner, Yolanda, will soon join the show to dance with her husband and serve as hostess. Mrs. Veloz is currently foregoing the lure of the television lights to mother the newest, fourth Veloz baby.

Show's interesting audience shots and stage effects were possible through NBC's use of their new Image Orthicon. Entire half hour went on at room illumination, or about one-fifth of the light ordinarily necessary. This not only kept the participants from dropping off like flies as they capered about, but allowed the audience members (all without benefit of make-up, having been picked on the spot) to televise well.

Second Glances (Critical Comment)

"Dark Brown"

The recent Pasadena Playhouse-KTTV production of Phillip Johnson's mystery melodrama, "Dark Brown," proved almost conclusively that video requires a technique all its own.

The actual story was engrossing enough. The central character was a nineteenth century English wife whose vivid imagination, insinuating mother, and harassed, secretive husband combined to drive the girl nearly mad. Of course her husband's absences from home (falsely explained, for obvious reasons, by an ailing aunt) turned out to have been spent doing odd jobs as local executioner, as unfortunate a way of bringing home extra bacon to wifey as an author could have devised.

The hour-long adaptation of Johnson's original play was done by Samuel Herrick. Mr. Herrick at one time studied with Madame Maria Ouspenskaya for three years in New York, and later became production manager for the Southern California Tour of the Ouspenskaya Company.

The play's "Arthur Brown" was portrayed by Frederick Berest, an instructor at Pasadena Playhouse and director in charge of California state-wide One-Act-Play Tournaments. Mother-in-law "Mrs. Collins" was Margaret Brewster, former trainee at the Royal Academy of Dramatic Art in London. The rest of the cast were actresses who double in voice and ballet, are nice-looking girls and have enviable dramatic abilities and records. The stage sets were excellent in both interest and authenticity.

What more can you ask? Nothing but a treatment suitable to video.

Sunday's participants stuck by stage technique, with the half-laughable, half-annoying result that the most covert glance on the part of a player seemed like a prolonged, baleful glare; the slightest pause made the actor seem as though he had been momentarily smitten by catalepsy; the slightest idiotic coyness of the housemaid role turned her into a frightening lunatic; and the husband's tortured reluctance to tell his wife about his "side-line" work turned him, too, into a malevolent maniac. That's the way the stage emphasis came over television. Yet it seems impossible to believe that director Herrick didn't watch the rehearsal through the eye of a video camera and realize the spectators, too, would be right on top of the actors, rather than seated rows back in a theater.

If what was wanted was a well-acted stage presentation, "Dark Brown" was it. If what was wanted was a video presentation that kept pace with the Sunday night movie show, news coverage and special studio variety bills of this weekend day, it would have been well to speed up the action, dialogue and bits of stage business about an even fifty per cent. That way attention and channel indicators wouldn't have strayed.

Off Lens (Personalities)

Much Ado About Milty

The other day we were reading an English movie magazine, just for kicks, and we came across an intriguing item on Milton Berle. The British correspondent, evidently never having seen nor heard of Berle before, identified him to readers as the biggest thing in U.S. television, and as someone who "does imitations."

This puzzled us, too, until we realized that the writer of the column had probably heard from an American friend or a U.S. publication that Berle was renowned for doing other people's acts. We feel the British movie magazine writer should be informed that there is a difference. To our way of thinking, someone who takes another's act and gives name credit to the originator is called an "imitator" or "impersonator." Someone who takes an act without giving credit is called (among other things) a "comedian." See?

DON'T BELIEVE SIGNS

NBComedian Henry Morgan claims you can't believe in signs. During a recent heat wave he saw a sign on a theater marquee which read: "Comfortably Cool." Once inside, he found the theater unbearably hot and discovered that "Comfortably Cool" was the name of the picture.

The Story Behind "Hollywood Calling"

show is on the air. Every operation must be shaved down to split-second quickness. Quickness is also the keynote of over-anxious radio listeners. Weeks before the first program went on the air, the staff of "Hollywood Calling" began to receive plaintive post cards that went, "This is my phone number. Please call it on your program." Max Hutto, producer of the program, sighs, "I have no idea how they got wind of it."

One of the many problems facing the gigantic show was that of giving it an accurate timing before the first actual broadcast. The whole show was assembled and the cast went through the hour's entertainment with emcee Murphy and his guest stars speaking to radio station managers all over the country in lieu of actual contestants. In addition to beating the already mentioned "bugs" of production, producer Hutto points out that "Hollywood Calling" will endeavor to lick still another. Many a giant jack-pot "winner" has waited for months and months for his widely heralded parade of gifts. "Hollywood Calling" is determined that all contestants, including the big "Film of Fortune" winner, will receive their prizes within thirty days of the lucky broadcast. Most prizes will be delivered before that.

DON'T LET IT FOOL YOU

During the audience warm-up on CBS's "Spin to Win," emcee Warren Huil bows toward the record engineers and introduces them as "the orchestra." The latter then flip a switch and play a recording of an orchestra tuning up.

The Ear Inspires

Mrs. Fanny Hummel, Three Vincents Terrace, Santa Monica, Calif.

Although I am not particularly a Western fan, "Hopalong Cassidy" is different than most Westerns and has a story twist that makes it interesting for adults as well as the children. "Hoppy's" voice and laugh are just grand. I'd like to know who played the marshal on July 28's show? He sounds just like a real sheriff I used to know in Arizona. I'm a real "Hopalong Cassidy" fan now.

Since the program originates in different locales, the actors are not always the same. The sheriff you mentioned was portrayed by Joe DuVol.

Miss Jonnie Moore, 15807 Leadwell, Van Nuys, Calif.

Could you tell me who played "Pat Temple" on the July 24 broadcast of "True Detective Mysteries"? Please add my name to the list of "we want Hawthorne backers."

Robert Radtck was in the role you mentioned. Have you missed Hawthorne's television show on KTTV Tuesday night at 7:30? He's back again with the "Hogantwanger!"

Robert Cochran, 430 West Walnut Avenue, El Segundo, Calif.

Will you let me know who played the part of "Jim," the father, on the July 23 presentation of "Stars Over Hollywood"? I think he used to be on "I Love a Mystery" . . . sure enjoyed that program.

It was Barton Yarborough.

GREEN BEANS With Sour Cream

1 c. sliced mushrooms	1 c. sour cream
2 T. fat	1/4 t. salt
4 c. cooked green beans	1/8 t. pepper

Brown mushrooms in fat, add beans, cream, salt and pepper and heat thoroughly. Serves 6.
Slivered almonds are delicious with this.

Note: If Radio-Television Life readers have any cooking or household problems, telephone Norma Young, between 9 a.m. and 4 p.m., HU. 2-2133.

Joseph Sheldon, Brea, Calif.

Heard on "Noah Webster Says":
Haven MacQuarrie: If your feet ached would you consult a podiatrist or a pediatricist?
Contestant: Neither! I'd stay home and soak them in hot water!

Wesley Atkinson, address withheld, Los Angeles 15, Calif.

Heard on "Noah Webster Says":
Haven MacQuarrie: What is sinology?
Contestant: The study of sin!

Nannette Buckner, 9957-B Robbins Drive, Beverly Hills, Calif.

Heard on "Ozzie and Harriet":
Ricky: Look, I got a picture of the Mad Ghoul. He kills people on the radio.

Ozzie: Let's see what the inscription says: "To Ricky my pal, and happy hunting, the Mad Ghoul." What do you do to get it? Send in the tops of two friends?

Charles F. Schoener, 1001 South Hawthorne Boulevard, Hawthorne, Calif.

Heard on "Surprise Package":
Contestant: What's the matter, honey, don't you like our new French-type phone?
Little Girl: Yes, mommy, but I can't speak French!

Fanny Schulein, Box 3415, Los Angeles 53, Calif.

Heard on the Abe Burrows show:
Abe (explaining the plot of Hamlet): Hamlet did not like the second husband of his mother. Kind of a Danish Margaret O'Brien!

J. A. Johnson, 934 Poplar Street, Compton, Calif.

Heard on "Noah Webster Says":
MacQuarrie: What is a parvenu?
Contestant: May I have a hint?
MacQuarrie: Did you hear about the parvenu who bragged: "One Bendix isn't adequate for us, we require two Bendices!"

John Carey, address withheld, Long Beach, Calif.

Heard on "Our Miss Brooks":
Dexter: Gee, did I stop the car too fast, Miss Brooks?
Miss Brooks: Oh, no, I always like to kiss the windshield goodbye.

Mrs. Violet Stinnett, 4177 McConnell Boulevard, Venice, Calif.

Heard on "Kay Kyser's College of Fun and Knowledge":
A couple were called upon to answer the questions and the husband, a Scotchman, answered three questions, whereupon Kay asked the wife: "Why don't you answer?"
"My husband won't let me for fear I'd wear out my teeth!"

RECORD NOTES TO YOU

BY ANDY MANSFIELD

KLAC, Sunday, 11:30 a.m.

ALBUM OF THE WEEK (Decca): Fred Waring and the Pennsylvanians with their great array of talent are a natural in presenting eight sides from the Irving Berlin musicale, "Miss Liberty," most of the numbers already on their way to being hits.

Outstanding sides feature Jane Wilson ("Paris Wakes Up and Smiles"), Joanne Wheatley ("You Can Have Him"), Joe Marine ("I Love You"), and the very impressive choral work on "Give Me Your Tired, Your Poor."

RECORD OF THE WEEK (Columbia): Frank Sinatra goes to work on the oldie "It All Depends on You" to fine up tempo'd backing by Hugo Winterhalter, and what comes out rates with the best in a long time. . . . Reverse is in direct ballad contrast with a fine assist from the Ken Lane Singers on "I Only Have Eyes for You."

LP-MICROGROOVE (Discovery): Here's a top-flight concert in the jazz idiom featuring Phil Moore's Orchestra in "Concerto for Piano" and some very fine 88ing by Calvin Jackson, "Trombone Concerto" with Murray McEachern as soloist, and four shorter compositions, "Misty Moon Blues," "Day Dream," "125th St. Prophet," and "Cornucopia" to round out thirty-six minutes as neat and entertaining as you'd want to hear. . . . DANCE BAND (RCA-Victor): Vaughn Monroe should have another biggie in the rejuvenated "Some Day," with its catchy melody enhanced by the usual full Monroe arrangement and vocal assist by the Moon Men. Flip-over is "And It Still Goes," a pleasing enough tune that doesn't add anything to "Some Day," the side to watch. . . . GIRL VOCAL (MGM): Tops in this department go to Helen Forrest, whose straightforward singing rather than vocal tricks on "Give Me a Song With a Beautiful Melody" and the torchy "Just Got to Have Him Around" was a pleasant relief from over-exaggerated song-stylings. . . . MALE VOCAL (Mercury): Really burning the grooves these days is this Laine chap, whose latest waxing of the modern spiritual "Lucky Old Sun" is certainly one of his best with its equally fine backing of Jud Conlon's Rhythmaires and Harry Geller's Orchestra. Reverse "I Get Sentimental Over Nothing" is in Frankie's newly acquired intimate styling and nearly as good as its companion. . . . VOCAL GROUP (Coral): This week's nod goes to the Ames Brothers for their rousing deep-south spiritual "Noah's Ark" and the hand-clapping, sage-flavored "Tears of Happiness." Here's a group that refuses to be typed, and their success seems to be based not on what they do, but on how they do it. . . . A.M.

ONE OF the most familiar sights around radio row is an orchestra leader bouncing blithely into a studio before show time, apparently without a care in the world. He has time to shout jolly greetings at friends and to linger chatting with other artists.

The show's comic, dramatic actor or whatever the leading role may be, usually arrives with furrowed brow and a contingent of helpfuls who have either suggestions or service to offer.

Unlike him, the orchestra leader hasn't any real cast or script worries to age him early. Outside of seeing that the men seated before him actually blow, beat or strum successfully, he has only his own performance to worry about. That's because the union (in the case of Los Angeles it is Local 47), that giant organization that so well takes care of its own, has provided an "orchestra manager" for every band on a TC show. On smaller shows, employing fewer men and not going transcontinental, the leader himself in many cases assumes this responsibility.

Manager's Duties

What is there to do outside of

UP ON NBC'S THIRD FLOOR is a small, heavily barred window. Through this window come the artists' and employees' checks each payday. Harris turns up on these occasions to collect the boys' checks and to see that all those who put in time get their recompense. (NBC-Ball photo.)

"LET'S SEE . . . THURSDAY rehearsal was three hours; Sunday was three, and then the show . . . h-m-m-m." Harry Harris has to keep track of all the time put in by each musician in the band for which Harris acts as "orchestra manager." (NBC-Ball photo.)

right man. In short, the manager does all the "bird-dogging" for the leader.

This orchestra manager has to know music as well. Realizing the difference between "Tippy-Tin" and an aria from Bizet's "Carmen" isn't enough. The manager has to know who blows best in the brass and reed section group of musicians around; he has to know what drummer will best fit the specifications of solid-beat background drumming or of razzle-dazzle break tympany and what piano styles belong to what eighty-eighters on the local scene.

Not all the seventy-some managers for Local 47 are as versed in these knowledges as is Harry Harris, long-time manager of the band on Jack Benny's show and of Phil Harris's show band. Harry has an edge on most in years and experience.

The Sunday of the last Harris-Faye show at NBC this past season we corralled the jolly, blue-eyed man who calls the Harris bandmen "thirty of the very best," to try and find out what makes a manager.

In Mr. Harris's case (Harry's, that is), he couldn't help knowing music for the life of him. Since the time he was in his teens, Harry has been associated with it. He was bandmaster for the old Barnum show, was with Wallace's circus even before that showman imported the German animal trainer, Hagenbeck, and called one of the greatest big tops of all time the Hagenbeck-Wallace Circus.

Harry was clarinetist with L. G. Field's minstrels when that joyous outfit of entertainers was called a trouping show. As the years progressed and trouping shows and tent "rep" shows turned into theater en-actually drawing music from the orchestra members for the leader to relegate to his manager? There are the hiring and replacing of band members to be done. Arranging and copying are taken care of by the manager, who was once upon a time referred to as a music "contractor." The copied arrangements must be returned by the copyist to the manager, who in turn sees that the band members have them at rehearsal and show time.

The musical aggregation must be paid, taxes extracted, and records of their wages, taxes and hours sent not only to Uncle Sam but to the agency representing the sponsor, to the union itself and to the men. The manager has to see to it that the "boys in the band" are on hand at show time, in case of an unscheduled rehearsal and for regular rehearsals. If the drummer oversleeps or breaks a leg shortly before show time, he has to be replaced fast and by the Tougher Than Midnight For Cinderella!

By Bob Turnbull

(Robert B. Turnbull was born in Prescott, Arizona, and has been with KIJ's sound-effects department since December, 1942. Formerly a high-school art and drama teacher, he also spent three years in the Army Engineer Corps, where he rose to corporal. Some of the shows he has worked on are "Sherlock Holmes," "Cisco Kid," "Gregory Hood," "Red Ryder," and the Roy Rogers program. He has just completed a book on radio sound effects, now at the publishers.)

brought forth after considerable labor by yours truly.

One day Mr. Franklin (I always call him Mr. Franklin behind his back) nabbed me while we were getting ready for a "Red Ryder" rehearsal.

"Bob," he said, "in next Thursday's script there's a somewhat unusual sound effect. I thought I'd tell you now what I want, so you'd have time to work on it."

"Well thanks, Paul, that's mighty thoughtful of you," I said with a sickly grin. You see, compared to Paul Franklin, H. G. Wells has the

THIS IS the story of a sound effect . . . a sound effect conceived by Paul Franklin, writer-director of Don Lee's "Red Ryder," and imagination of a mud turtle. Paul's just full of gee-whiz stuff!

"Here's what I want. In the script the villain has developed a deadly bacteria culture that's capable of wiping out all the range cattle!"

"Why 'Ryder' will never stand for such villainy!" I stoutly and loyally protested.

Paul favored me with the well-known Franklin Frozen Eye and continued. "Now, along about page nine 'Red' visits this crackpot scientist, who shows 'Ryder' the bacteria. It's in a small beaker, and when he takes the lid off, I want to hear the stuff. I want to get the feeling of a menacing new and unknown culture that spells instant disaster just by its very sound!"

"Ulp!" I brightly responded. I could sense disaster already.

"Only a Show!"

"I see you get the idea," Paul chuckled as he observed my confusion. Then he gently continued. "Take it easy, boy, after all it's only a radio show."

"I know that," I managed to quaver, "but I'm the guy that has to dream this up."

"No," he corrected, "I dream it up, you just do it! But there's nothing to it. All I want when that lid's removed is a sound that gives the feel of a fomenting, bubbling, terrifyingly menacing, dreadful, hideous, iniquitous, plaguing witch's brew embodying all the villainous, horrible attributes of an instantly deadly bacteria culture!"

SELTZER WATER has a nice, active sound, but it always seems to call automatically for the tinkle of ice cubes! ➡

"For cows, that is," I daringly amended.

Ignoring my irreverence, Paul continued. "In a word, I want to scare the pants off the listeners!"

"Yes sir," I replied, resigning myself to the devilry afoot.

"Okay, now get to it," snapped Paul over his shoulder as he walked away. Then he stopped, took a beat pause, turned around and made a beautiful fade-to on mike, where he delivered the 'snapper.' "Oh, I almost forgot. There's one more little item. I also want the sound of a diamond rapidly dissolving in a solvent so potent that it will dissolve anything!" And with that he left, spreading light and good cheer.

I sought out Norm Smith and Bill James, the other soundmen on the show. But they had their own headaches. So I struggled along as shown in the accompanying photos and finally came up with what Paul wanted.

On Thursday I was rewarded with Mr. Franklin's three-teeth-too-many smile as he casually said, "You see, lad, there's nothing to it!"

Yes, the life of a soundman may sometimes become tiresome, but it's never dull. Now and then a writer will dream up a sound cue that's tougher than midnight for Cinderella.

➡ SOAP SUDS WHIPPED with an egg beater is just the thing when held close to the mike. It has a very active low-volume sound, and by script build-up has the association of an insidious menace.

THE DIAMOND dissolving was an easy one—just drop an Alka-Seltzer tablet into a glass of water. ➡ ⬆ COMPRESSED OXYGEN bubbling in a tank of water is much too big a sound for that supposedly originating in a small beaker.

WHO WILL EVER FORGET THE GREATEST "SHERLOCK HOLMES" and "Dr. Watson" of all? Basil Rathbone as "Holmes" and Nigel Bruce as "Watson" delighted a whole generation of movie-goers and radio listeners before they went their separate ways several years ago.

"When the station went television, they told all of us we'd better get together a video show," was the amazingly simple explanation Otis gave for the accomplishment that represents 1949's biggest white hope for everyone in radio.

True enough, KLAC wouldn't have urged just anyone to "get together a TV show," but they were familiar with the popular record-spinner's first-hand knowledge of honest-to-goodness, well-executed entertainment.

Otis has not only heard and enjoyed—he has personally known—most of the recording artists of the last decade. In his series of record shows and one brief stint (one that he relinquished gladly to return to his beloved music purveyor's post) as a young businessman-type program manager, Otis has had 'em all on the air with him.

Hollywood Background

Secure in his knowledge, Otis was able to get up an hour's entertainment (currently seen as a half hour but soon to return to its former length) of which the keynote is easy-going informality. Performing guests ostensibly visit Mr. Otis in his own home. Against a backdrop that pictures the lights of Hollywood twinkling below a big window, the guests gather to take turns at singing, instrumental performance or specialty acts.

Visitors to the Otis "home" have included Victor Borge, Duke Ellington, Clark Dennis, Jack Fina, Dizzy Gillespie, Woody Herman, Earl Hines, Gene Krupa, Liberace, Nellie Lutcher, the Mills Brothers and Wingy Manone, Kay Starr, the popular Trenier Twins and many, many more.

One reason the show comes off so well is that a good deal of rehearsal time is put in. Three hours of honest work are done before show time each week. Don doesn't assume that because a man is a big hit on the bandstand he'll somehow magically know how to conduct himself on video.

"No matter who the guests, they go through the same rehearsal I have to. If they object to rehearsing, I simply use some star big enough not to object."

Don's contributions to the show, aside from his easy, pleasant personality and obvious gift for showmanship, include the writing, picking guests, choosing songs, keeping tabs on props, lighting and just about anything else that comes under his eagle eye. He works hard and thrives on every second of it.

Like most folk who find themselves in the enviable position of starring on a television show, Don has nothing but good to say of the new medium.

Public performance is not a new thing to Otis. Most radio addicts, who know Don primarily as the man who stayed behind the scenes to play their favorite records, don't realize he got his start, as a seventeen-year-old, singing in theater lobbies where the management, in the old days, sold sheet music of the feature songs from the film inside. Later he sang in a night club and for thirteen years announced in radio.

Today, in the new medium he didn't dream about when he first warbled a note or announced a record, Don finds himself working both harder and more happily.

The inexhaustible fellow whose youthful appearance makes it hard to believe the quite true fact that he was a contemporary and good friend of the late Russ Columbo, not tainment, Harry had a theater band in Nashville, Tennessee.

Old Days

At one point in his orchestra-leading life, Harry Harris had a couple of sidemen named Matty Matlock and Francis Craig playing for him. Matty earned fame as an original "Bob Crosby Bob Cats" member and a crack arranger; Francis Craig will long be lovingly remembered for "Near You."

About 1929, when people were only stars in his own show, he holds twice-weekly auditions and scouts the local clubs and entertainment citadels for new talent.

Some time ago, when Radio Life interviewed Mr. Otis, he was concerned with playing records by good artists for his listeners. At that time he expressed a thankfulness that he was doing work he enjoyed. "Think how many fellows are stuck with jobs they hate. I'm very lucky to be doing this!"

Recently when Radio and Television Life interviewed him again, he was concerned with providing visual entertainment and good artists for his viewers. He expressed a thankfulness that he was still doing work he enjoyed. "I'm really lucky now."

spending money for food rather than for entertainment, band business took a slump and Harry retired to San Francisco to be with his son. Both later moved to Hollywood.

It's impossible to talk to Harry Harris without enjoying his seasoning of anecdotes, principally about the son he is so proud of. Harry's boy is today also a musician, better known as a comedy star of radio and screen. But Harris tells of having given the boy his first band job.

"We used to play in a theater, doing mood music for the old silents and playing the prologue. This kid of mine, a big, lanky fellow, always used to come in late and stumble around in the dark, knocking over cymbals and chairs. I could always count on his arrival during a pathetic scene just when Gloria Swanson or Mary Pickford lay dying. In he'd clatter!"

Father Harris was responsible for his son's entertaining way with a song, too. Being only seventeen years older than his boy, Harry found the parental hand was a little difficult to wield.

"I used to want the boy to get up and sing numbers with the band, and how he hated that! He would rather have stayed there with his drums, and I'd have to threaten to fire him. But after he got a taste of performing, he started enjoying it."

Today Harry Harris has good reason to smile proudly over his "youngster's" abilities. Phil still enjoys his drums, still sings great songs, and numbers high among today's leading performers.
